PREFACE

For those who knew him, John A. Meggison was not only a dearly beloved brother in Christ, but an excellent scholar of the Bible as well.

Over the years of his life and ministry he methodically kept notes of his studies in his Bible. After his death these notes were typed and distributed in mimeographed form. They proved so popular, a second printing was produced. Now these notes have been type-set and are available herewith in bound book format.

While the great majority of these comments are extracted from the writings of Pastor Charles Taze Russell, they also include additional research notes from other sources and many of the thoughts of Bro. Meggison himself, particularly in the minor prophets. The definitions of many of the Greek and Hebrew words, unreferenced, refer to Strong's or Young's Concordance. The abbreviations in these cases are from the same sources.

This work represents the labors of a number of brethren in both typing and proof-reading. Since these comments were originally intended as personal notes and not meant for production as a commentary, the rules of grammar are not always strictly followed.

It is with the hope that this book will prove as profitable to the readers as it has to those who have prepared it that these notes are being sent forth.

GENESIS

The creative week is divided into four periods: (1) Two days or epochs (2 x 7,000 years = 14,000 years) were devoted to the ordering of the earth preparatory for animal life. (2) The next two days were devoted to the bringing forward of vegetation and the lowest forms of life—shell fish—and laying limestone, coal and other materials. (3) The next two epoch days (14,000 years) brought forward living creatures that lived in the sea and on the land—vegetation still progressing, and all preparatory for the introduction of man, the earthly image of his Creator, “crowned with glory and honor” to be king of the earth. (4) Man’s creation, the final work, came in the close of the sixth day and the beginning of the seventh, as it is written, “And on the seventh day God ended his work which he had made and rested.” (F29)

1:1 — IN THE BEGINNING — This beginning relates not to the universe, but merely to our planet (here the morning stars sang together when the cornerstone was laid—Job 38:6, 7, 9—the foundations of the earth.) For other beginnings see John 1:1-3; Rev. 3:14. Other beginnings came in turn as the angels were created. These beginnings were now in the past so all the host could shout for joy when the foundations of the earth were laid. (F17, 18)

GOD CREATED THE HEAVEN AND THE EARTH — When our account begins these were already created. It is the development of these and the creation of vegetable and animal life that the six epoch days have to work out. There may have been a long space of time before verse 3 began. The Bible does not state how long this was. There are here two beginnings: (a) in verse 1, and (b) in verse 3, the beginning of the creative week.

1:2 — THE EARTH WAS WITHOUT FORM AND VOID — The earth was (existed), but was without form (order) and void (empty) and dark.

THE SPIRIT OF GOD MOVED — “Brooded.” The nature of divine energy represented by “brooding” seems to be “vitalizing.” Possibly electrical energies.

1:3 — LET THERE BE LIGHT, AND THERE WAS LIGHT — Possibly the energy brought down some of the heavy rings of mineral and aqueous matter and then the light and darkness became distinguishable, though neither sun, moon or stars were in the slightest degree visible through the heavy rings still about the earth.

1:5 — EVENING AND MORNING WERE THE FIRST DAY — These days are nowhere stated to be 24 hour days. For samples of day equaling a period of time see Psa. 95:8-10; Num. 14:33, 34; Ezek. 4:1-8; 2 Pet. 3:8. These are epoch days and cannot be solar days for the record (vss. 14-19) states that the sun was not visible until the fourth day. Similarly the Hebrew solar day; the evening came first, then gradually as the divine purpose progressed the light came on, completing toward evening the work of that day. Then another 7,000 year day would begin darkly and progress toward perfection.

1:6 — FIRMAMENT— Expansion. (Leeser)

1:6-8 — FIRMAMENT—This second epoch day of 7,000 years was wholly devoted to the production of an atmosphere. It was probably developed in a perfectly natural way, as are most of God's wonderful works, though none the less of his ordering, devising, creating. The fall of the ring of water and minerals which enabled light to penetrate through to the earth during the first epoch day reaching the still heated earth; and its boiling and steaming surface waters would produce various gases which, rising, would constitute a cushion, or firmament, or atmosphere, all around the earth and tend to hold up the remaining waters of the "rings" off from the earth. This day, so far as Scriptures show, would also belong to the Azoic, or lifeless, age. But Geology objects to this, claiming that the rocks appropriate to this time show worm trails and immense quantities of shell fish, the remains of which are evidenced in the great beds of limestone. They call this the Paleozoic age of first life, or Silurian period. This is not at variance with the Biblical account, which merely ignores these lowest forms of life. Day two ended with the full accomplishment of the divine purpose respecting it: the separation of the clouds and vapors, etc., from the surface waters by an atmosphere. (F29)

1:9 — LET THE WATERS UNDER THE HEAVEN BE GATHERED TOGETHER UNTO ONE PLACE, AND LET THE DRY LAND APPEAR — We need not suppose that all these changes took place even in the 7,000 years of this third epoch day, but rather that it witnessed the beginning of the work necessary as preparatory for vegetation. For some great changes of this nature are of comparatively recent date. See note on Genesis 1:9-13.

1:9-13 — WATERS . . . DRY LAND . . . GRASS . . . HERB . . . TREE — As the earth's crust cooled, the weight of the waters would tend to make it kink and buckle—some parts being depressed became the depths of the seas, other portions forced up constituted mountain ranges—not suddenly, but gradually, one range following another. As the waters drained off into the seas, vegetation sprang forth—each after its own class or kind, with seed in itself to produce its own kind only. In this period vegetation was extremely rank; mosses and ferns and vines grew immensely larger and more rapidly than now, because the atmosphere was extremely full of carbonic and nitrogenous gases; so full of them that breathing animals could not then have flourished. Plants, which now grow only a few inches or a few feet high even at the equator, then attained a growth of forty to eighty feet, and sometimes two or three feet in diameter, as is demonstrated by fossil remains. Under the conditions known then to have obtained, their growth would not only be immense, but must also have been very rapid.

At this period our coal beds were formed; plants and mosses, having a great affinity for carbonic acid gas, stored up within themselves the carbon, forming coal, preparing thus for our present coal deposits while purifying the atmosphere for the animal life of the later epoch days. These vast peat-bogs and moss-beds, in turn, were covered over by sand, clay, etc., washed over them by further upheavals and depressions of the earth's surface, by tidal waves and by other descending "rings" of the waters above the firmament. Practically the same procedure must have been oft repeated, too; for we find coal-beds one above another with various strata of clay, sand, limestone, etc., between. This period, the third day, is called by Geologists, the Carboniferous period, because of the coal and oil deposits. (F32, 33)

1:12 — AFTER HIS KIND — Each was able to produce only its own kind. This matter is so fixed by God's laws, that although horticulture can do and does much to give variety in perfection, yet it cannot change the kind. The different families of vegetables will no more unite and blend, than will the different families of animals. This shows design and, not only a Creator, but an intelligent One.

1:14-19 — LIGHTS — We are not to suppose that the development of plant life ceased during the fourth day, but rather that it progressed; the increased influence of sun and moon serving to bring forward still other varieties of grasses, shrubs, trees. Geology shows advances, too, at this period—insects, snails, crabs, etc. Fishbones and scales are found in coal seams, too; but this does not disturb the order; for the formation of coal beds evidently continued after the third day—thus running into the Reptilian Period. This "day" corresponds very closely with what geology calls the Devonian Period. (F34)

1:16 — GOD MADE TWO GREAT LIGHTS — Made, literally "caused to shine." A different word is used here from the one used hitherto and which does not mean "created."

TO RULE THE DAY — That is, to indicate the time of day or night. There may also be a deeper sense.

1:19 — EVENING AND MORNING WERE THE FOURTH DAY — The work of one epoch day was carried over into the next, and we are justified in supposing that the light of the first day became more distinct during the next two as ring after ring came down from the waters above the firmament to those below it, until by the fourth day the sun, moon and stars also could be seen, not so clearly as now on a bright day, until after Noah's flood—but clearly discernible nevertheless through the translucent veil or waters, just as now on a misty day or night. Sun, moon and stars had long been shining on the outer veil of the earth, but with a dull, greyish light as on some rainy or foggy mornings when sun, moon or stars are invisible because of clouds or fog. But now the time came to let these be seen so that they might mark the time of day or night for man and beast when created and meanwhile oxygenize the air and thus prepare it for breathing animals. Later on in the day the moon and stars appeared. (F34)

1:20 — MOVING CREATURE — Swarm of minute animals. Heb. sherets, from shawrats, to wriggle.

1:20-23 — LET THE WATERS BRING FORTH ABUNDANTLY . . . AFTER THEIR KIND — The Bible does not assert that God created separately and individually the myriad kinds of fish and reptiles; but merely that divine influence, or spirit, brooded, and by divine purpose the sea brought forth its creatures of various kinds. One species may, under different conditions, have developed into another; or from the same original protoplasm different orders of creatures may have developed under different conditions—the process is not stated. No man knows and it is unwise to be dogmatic. It is not for us to dispute that even the protoplasm of the Paleozoic slime may not have come into existence through chemical action of the highly mineralized waters of those seas. What we do claim is, that all came about as results of divine intention and arrangement and, hence, were divine creations, whatever were the channels and agencies. And we claim that this is shown by the facts of nature no less than the words of Genesis; that however the creatures of the sea were produced, they were brought to the condition in which each is of its own kind—where the lines of species cannot be overridden. This is God's work, by whatever means brought about. (See Z. '07-13; R. 3921; F35, 36)

1:22 — GOD BLESSED THEM — Yes, even so lowly an existence and for so short a time is a favor and a blessing.

1:23 — THE FIFTH DAY — By this time matters on this earth were becoming more settled; the crust was thicker by hundreds of feet of sand and clays and shells and coal, and various other minerals gathered, some from crumbling rocks thrown up by earthquakes, some from the "rings" once surrounding the earth, and some from animal and vegetable deposits; besides, the earth itself must have cooled considerably during those 35,000 years. A sufficiency of earth's surface was now above the sea, and well drained by mountain ranges and valleys to be ready for the lower animals. The air also by this time would be purified of elements unsuited to breathing animals, absorbed from it by the rank vegetation of the carboniferous period, as the excessive hydro-carbons had been absorbed from the ocean by the minute shellfish, preparatory to the swarming of sea creatures which breathe. (F36)

1:25 — AFTER HIS KIND — These are here divided into three kinds: (a) earth reptiles, cold-blooded breathing creatures—lizards, snakes, etc.; (b) beasts of the earth, or wild beasts as distinguished from domestic animals specially suited to be the companions for man and which are here referred to as (c) cattle.

GOD SAW THAT IT WAS GOOD — Here we need not quarrel needlessly with Evolutionists. God, if he chose, could have brought all the different species of animal life by a development of one from the other, or developed each species separately from the protozoan slime. We do not know what method he used, for it is revealed neither in the Bible nor in the rocks. It is however clearly revealed that whatever method he used, God has fixed species, each after its own kind in such a manner that they do not change and that the ingenuity of man's mind has not assisted them to change.

1:26 — IN OUR IMAGE — This image is not one of physical shape (John 5:37) but rather a moral and intellectual image of the Great Spirit, fashioned appropriately to his earthly conditions and nature. He had similar mental powers of reason, memory, judgment and will and the moral qualities of justice, benevolence, love, etc. "Of the earth, earthy." (1 Cor. 15:47) He was an earthly image of a spiritual being, possessing qualities of the same kind, though differing widely in degree, range and scope. (A174)

LET THEM HAVE DOMINION — The universe doubtless relates to man's dominion. As Jehovah is over all things, so man was made ruler over all earthly things, king of the earth and its teeming creatures. (Gen. 1:26) It matters not whether the image of Jehovah or of the "elohim" be understood, for were not the "elohim" sons of God (Job 38) and in his likeness as respects reasoning power and moral intelligence. (F39; A174)

1:26, 27 — GOD CREATED MAN IN HIS OWN IMAGE — Prof. Rice points out that the highest man-ape known has a brain capacity of only 34 cubic inches, while the lowest of man has 68 cubic inches of brain capacity. In other words, the very lowest form of man has twice the brain capacity of the highest ape. He says: "No specimen of the stone age that has yet been discovered is inferior to the lowest of existing man." A reasonable inference from this statement would be that we have today lower specimens or forms of humanity than any of those discovered by science and supposed to belong to the remote past. Be it noted that we have not only the original proposition of God to create man in his own image thus (vs. 26) but the after-declaration: "So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him, male and female created he them." (vs. 27) This statement that God's work was fully accomplished in Adam thoroughly contradicts the suggestion of some that God merely began a creation which he purposes should ultimately attain to perfection in his image. (Z. '07-14; R.3921, 3922)

1:27 — GOD CREATED MAN — It would be well for us to note here the difference in the language used when referring to man's creation from that used in referring to the other creations. The former is a specific declaration of the direct use of divine power creative while the others are not, but imply development:- And the earth brought forth grass" (vss. 11, 12); "Let the waters bring forth the creeping creature" (vss. 20, 21); "Let the earth bring forth the living creature after his kind." (vss. 24, 25)

1:28 — BE FRUITFUL, AND MULTIPLY, AND REPLENISH THE EARTH, AND SUBDUE IT — According to this declaration: "Be fruitful and multiply and fill the earth and subdue it, etc.," it evidently would have been possible for our first parents to have had their home in Eden and to gradually have carried on the work of subjugation and rectification of the as yet unfinished earth, had they continued under divine favor. It was their disobedience that led to their expulsion from the Garden of Eden and compelled them to rely upon the sweat of face for their daily bread, struggling therefor amongst the thorns and thistles, and hindered from approaching the life-sustaining fruits of the trees of Eden by the cherubim with the flaming sword which barred the way.

Thus, had disobedience, sin, not entered the world, the intimation is that there would have been no death in the human family, but that a perfect race would have been developed, all of them in the image and likeness of God. We have here then strong condemnation of the thought of some that it is sinful to marry and to bring forth children. On the contrary the Lord expresses this as a part of the blessing upon the first pair, "Be fruitful and multiply and fill the earth." Had our first parents remained loyal to God and hence free from the curse and more and more the possessors of the spirit of a sound mind, we may be sure that, under the Lord's blessing, their development of a family would have been profitable not only to the family but also to themselves. Even under present fallen conditions, where the spirit of a sound mind rules, children may to a large extent become precious blessings instead of being nuisances to themselves, their parents and their neighborhood. (Z. '07-14, 15; R.3922)

REPLENISH — Not “replenish” but “fill,” as in Leeser.

1:30 — WHEREIN — “Asher,” a prim. relative pronoun of every gender and number, indeclinable = who, which, what, that, also (as adv. & conj.), when, where, how, because, in order that, etc. Often accompanied by the personal pronoun as an expletive used to show the connection.

THERE IS — “Hawyaw,” (a prim. root) = to exist, be, become, come to pass (always emphatic and not a mere copulative or auxiliary.)

LIFE — “Khahee,” (adj.) = alive (also as noun, especially in feminine singular and masculine plural) = life (a living thing) whether literal or figurative. From “Kawyaw,” a prim. root, to live.

SOUL — (Margin) “Nephesh.” According to the Scriptures every dog is a soul, every horse, cow, bird, fish, are souls. That is, these are all sentient creatures (breathing creatures), possessed of power of sense perception. True, some are on a higher and some on a lower plane. But the word “soul” properly applies to creatures on the lower plane as well as man, the highest and noblest—to fish, reptiles, birds, beasts, man. All are souls. Mark, we do not say, they “have” souls in the ordinary and mistaken sense of that term, yet they all do “have” souls in the sense of having living being, existence. They “are” living souls. (E323)

I HAVE GIVEN EVERY GREEN HERB FOR MEAT — This shows that there was no meat eaten, in devouring of one another among the animals, etc. This condition is to be restored in the Millennium. (Isa. 11:7-9; 65:25; Hos. 2:18; Acts 3:21)

1:31 — EVERYTHING THAT HE HAD MADE — Not merely commenced to make, but completed. (A174) For be it noted that we have not only the original proposition of God to create man in his own image thus (vs. 26), but the after-declaration: “So God created man in his own image, male and female created he them.” (vs. 27) The statement that God’s work was fully completed in Adam thoroughly contradicts the suggestion of some that God merely began a creation which he purposed should ultimately attain to perfection in his image. (Z. ’07-14; R.3922)

VERY GOOD — The Scriptures do not claim that Adam had perfection of knowledge, but merely perfection of capacity, that it was the Creator’s design that he should gain the knowledge by experience and that, while gaining it, he should trust to the wisdom, love, justice and power of his Creator and be guided and instructed thereby. It was his failure to thus rely on the Creator that got him into difficulty and disobedience and the penalty therefore, death. (Z. ’0714; R.3922)

2:3 — RESTED FROM ALL HIS WORK — It is now a little more than 6,000 years since Jehovah ceased or rested from His creative work. His rest will continue throughout the Millennium. 6,000 years past plus 1,000 future = 7,000 years of Jehovah's rest, carrying to the time when the Son's Millennial reign shall cease because of having accomplished its design and then "the Son shall deliver up the kingdom to the Father"; by delivering it to mankind for whom it was originally designed, all corrupters of the earth having been destroyed. (F50) (See 1 Cor. 15:25-28; John 10:16; 5:17)

2:4 — THESE ARE THE GENERATIONS — There are two accounts of the creation, the one in Gen. 1 and the other in Gen. 2:4-25. The first treats the matter briefly and in its epochal order. The division of the chapters was at a wrong place, the two accounts should each form a chapter. The second is a commentary on the first, explanatory of details.

GENERATIONS — Or developments.

IN THE DAY — The whole creative week is here called a day.

THE LORD GOD — The first and principle account used the word God, "Elohim," when speaking of the Creator. Elohim is a common Hebrew word which could equally be translated "Gods" and means "mighty ones." The "Only Begotten" of the Father was surely his creative agent in this creative work and he may have had with him in the execution of its details hosts of angels who might also be called "Elohim" as they are elsewhere. It is appropriate therefore that the commentary account should call our attention to the fact that Jehovah the Father of all was the Creator, whoever may have been used as his honored representatives and instruments. (F39)

2:4, 5 — GENERATIONS — These are the generations of the heavens and earth—from a time before there was any plant or herb. (F38) And the generation of every plant of the field (from) before it was in the earth.

2:7 — THE LORD GOD FORMED MAN — The Lord formed man out of the dust of the ground (elements of earth) and breathed (Heb. "blew") into his nostrils the breath (Heb. Neshamah, wind) of life. (Heb. Cay khahee), lives, plural, i.e., such as was common to all living animals) and man became a living soul (i.e., a sentient being). Living soul, from nephesh (lit., a breathing creature) and khahee (from kawyaw, to live), hence, a living breathing creature, or a breathing creature that hath life (for we read of dead breathing creatures, dead nephesh, in Lev. 21:11; Num. 19:11; 13; Hag. 2:13; where nephesh is translated body and the Hebrew expression is as in Gen. 1:20, 30. In Gen. 7:21, 22, we have man classed with some of the animals as being one of those "in whose nostrils was the breath of life"

(“neshamah”—vs. 30—“kahee”). This is shown also in Eccl. 3:18-21 very clearly, also Psa. 49:12. To show the wide variety of meanings and translations given to nephesh notice the following, nephesh is translated appetite (Prov. 23:2; Eccl. 6:7); beast (Lev. 24:18); body (Lev. 21:11; Num. 19:11, 13; Hag. 2:13); breath (Job 41:21); creature (Gen. 1:20,21, 24; 2:19; Lev. 11:46); desire (Eccl. 6:9; Jer. 22:27; Hab. 2:5); contented; fish (Isa. 19:10); ghost; he; heart; life (Gen. 9:4, 5; Lev. 17:14; 2 Kings 7:7); lust, man; me; mortally; one; own; person; pleasure; self; soul; they; thing. Ezek. 18:4 is nephesh. It is the only word in the Old Testament which is translated by the English word soul, with two exceptions: Job 30:15, nedeebaw, nobility, reputation, and Isa. 57:16, neshamah, or puff of wind, angry or vital breath, divine inspiration, evil spirit, intellect. In the New Testament soul is always the translation of the Greek psuche, to breathe. The corresponding Hebrew and Greek words are:

psuche	soul	(lit. breathing
nephesh	5315	creature)
pneuma	breath	(ruach, also
ruach	wind	courage, mind), spirit
		(F30)
zoe	life,
khahee	2416,

(See tract, What is the Soul? also Strong's Concordance.)

From the account in Gen. 2:7 it is seen that the body was formed first when it was not a man, soul or being, not animated. It had eyes, but saw nothing; ears, but heard nothing; a mouth, but spoke nothing; a tongue, but no taste; nostrils, but no sense of smell; a heart, but it pulsated not; blood, but it was cold, lifeless; lungs, but they moved not. It was not a man but a corpse, an inanimate body.

The second step was to give vitality to the properly “formed” and, in every way, prepared body. This is described by the words, “blew into his nostrils the breath of life, as in the resuscitation of a person who has been drowned and in whom animation has been wholly suspended. This, of course, required no labored effort on the part of the Creator in Adam’s case. As the vitalizing breath entered, the lungs expanded, the blood corpuscles were oxygenized and passed to the heart, which organ, in turn, propelled them to every part of the body, awakening all the prepared, but hitherto dormant nerves to sensation and energy. In an instant the energy reached the brain, and thought, perception, reasoning, looking, tasting, feeling, smelling commenced. That which was a lifeless human organism became a man, a sentient being, a living soul.

2:8 — EASTWARD — Eastward (“gedem,” before or in front, either in position or time.) When viewed as to position, east, and so rendered 25 times in the Old Testament. When used of time it means what is past, or first, or ancient. So here, the ancient Eden. Eden (Sumerian word Idinu, the plain, the low, flat country at the head of the Persian Gulf.) The garden had been located in a part of Eden, or the plain, which no longer exists. Since the days of Adam and Eve it has been submerged by the waters of the gulf. (Strong’s and Young’s Conc. give Eden as pleasure and delight.)

At present the Tigris and Euphrates join 100 miles from the sea and complete their course as a united stream, the Shatt-el-Arab. Half way down this united stream, the waters of the Kherkhah and Karun come down from the Persian mountains and discharge their wide marshes into the Shatt-el-Arab. On the west side the Wady-el-Batin, a deep gorge which once brought a mighty river from central Arabia, now has only a minor flow. The land is flat and marshy, built up by sediment carried down by these rivers, is constantly encroaching on the sea and pushing the shore line further South, now at the rate of one mile in 70 years. Ur of the Chaldees is today more than 100 miles from the sea. In Abraham’s day it was on the coast and the four rivers entered the gulf through separate channels. These same four rivers the ancient chronicler describes.

2:10-14 — RIVER — The rivers of Eden. The one river which was in Eden and watered the garden and which, after passing through the garden (“thence”) was divided into four great streams would seem to represent the original pair, Adam and Eve, who alone of the human race were in Eden and from whom the whole race sprang. The four great rivers would seem to represent the four great divisions into which the human race will finally come. Pishon (from “puwsh,” a prim. root, to spread), would represent the Little Flock, because it surrounds the whole land of gold (the divine nature) as the church will surround and be the outer border of the divine nature, being God's instrument and chief agent through all eternity to come, (Eph. 2:7) Jehovah, himself, being the divine nature. Havilah is probably near Arabia or Egypt. Gihon (a stream, as swiftly running), would picture the Great Company, servants of the Church (throughout the Universe). "Compasses the whole land of Ethiopia," these two rivers may have been swallowed up in the sea at the time of the flood, the land elevation changing. Hiddekel, the modern Tigris, would be the Ancient Worthies. Euphrates ("Phrat") (rushing, from the root meaning to break forth), the restored race of mankind. These same four divisions are also shown by the four classes of Levites pitched around the Tabernacle. Also in Psalms 45—the bride, her companions, the Ancient Worthies (princes), and the enemies.

2:15 — GARDEN OF EDEN — Eden is from "adan," a primitive root, to be soft or pleasant; hence, pleasure. (Edna or Adna is same.) (Strong's Conc.)

TO DRESS IT AND KEEP IT — Adam was not idle, he had work to do, pleasurable work, not labor. He plucked the fruits and pruned the waste foliage to his pleasure (N-9-5-'09) Adam had to learn the use of his faculties, eyes, get knowledge of distance, but, being perfect, could learn very quickly.

2:17 — THOU SHALT NOT EAT OF IT — This restriction need not necessarily have been perpetual. In due time, after the test of obedience had demonstrated the loyalty of our first parents, no doubt they would have been granted full liberty in the use of the tree of knowledge; but partaking of it before the due time would mean not only their disobedience, but their injury as well and would bring upon them the divine sentence, "Dying thou shalt die." (Z.'07-22; R.3925)

2:20 — BEAST — Beast from "Chay" (Khahee) = living; from "chayah," to live, same in Gen. 3:1, 14. In Gen. 6:7; 7:2; 8:20; etc. beast is from "behemah," a dumb beast.

2:21 — AND HE SLEPT — This was a type of the death of Christ, by the blood from the wound in whose side, the Church, the Bride, came into being, into life. As Adam went into a deep sleep, so Christ went into the sleep of death.

RIBS — Rib, from "tsela," a side.

3:1 — NOW THE SERPENT — Now, from Genesis to Revelation, the serpent is set before us as the symbol or synonym of Satan. The introduction of sin is charged to the great adversary of God who followed his ambition to secure our first parents and their posterity as his subjects under the new empire he hoped to establish, that he might be like the Most High. (Isa. 14)

(Z. '07-22; R.3925)

SERPENT WAS MORE SUBTIL — Serpent, from “nachash,” a snake (from its hiss), from “achash,” to hiss, whisper a spell; gen. to prognosticate.

AND HE SAID — Whether the serpent spoke with audible voice, or by its actions, we cannot know—it was quite probably the latter, Satan merely used the serpent as the instrument of his temptation.

3:4 — YE SHALL NOT SURELY DIE — This was the first lie and the beginning of the doctrine of the immortality of the soul.

3:5 — YE SHALL BE AS GODS — Satan’s desire was to alienate the affections, love and respect of our first parents from God to himself. He tried to do this by passing as their friend and giving the insinuations that God, though their Creator, was the transgressor, who tried to hinder their best and truest advancement and prosperity. Satan was aware of that trait of nature which leads everyone to be interested in anything that is forbidden and to have more or less desire for it—to wonder why it is forbidden, etc. Such thoughts had doubtless passed through their minds and had been put aside as improper because surely their Creator, who had done so much for their blessing and joy, would not withhold from them anything really to their advantage. (Z. '07-22; R.3925)

3:6 — WHEN THE WOMAN SAW — The three channels of Eve’s temptation are the same as those of our Lord and the same as ours—the lust of the flesh (good to eat), lust of the eyes and pride of life. (1 John 2:16) See Matt. 4:1-11; Psa. 19:10, 11. These cravings are proper but should be satisfied only in harmony with God’s laws and only so can they really be satisfied. Eve wanted it before God’s time.

AND HE DID EAT — Coming from Eve, the temptation to Adam was a hundredfold what it would otherwise have been, for Adam was not deceived. (1 Tim. 2:14) He was fully convinced that death would follow his partaking of the forbidden fruit, irrespective of its effect upon the serpent. Adam had been alone long enough to realize that none of the beasts under him were fitted to be his companions. (Gen. 2:20) And when the Lord gave him a wife of his own nature, his own flesh and bones, he evidently found in her that compliment to himself for which he so greatly longed. And now when he perceived that Eve had eaten of the forbidden fruit and must die, the poor man felt that, without her, life would lose its charms and determined that whatever the cost, he would share it with his bride and so he ate at her insistence, knowing that it would mean his death—he suicided. (Z. '07-23; R.3925)

3:7 — FIG LEAVES — Fig leaves represent man's own efforts to cover his sin, to lift himself out of sin and justify himself. See Gen. 3:21. Flimsy self-righteousness, rags. See Zech. 3:3, 4.

3:9 — WHERE ART THOU? — The sinners hid themselves in the garden. Previously they had enjoyed fellowship and communion with God, but as soon as they sinned, they realized their unworthiness of divine favor and fellowship. Sin turned them away from God. Instead of the happiness of his fellowship, they had discontent and evil forebodings of estrangement. They had lost their God and, by virtue of their very nature, they would, in consequence, be unhappy. One of the principle elements of their nature thenceforth was hunger and thirst for God, which was not gratified. Hence all mankind has inherited an estrangement from birth.

Our first parents hid themselves from God and all our race have had the same disposition because of fear. God, nevertheless, has not hidden from his creatures. As he called after Adam, "Where art thou?" and brought Adam forth from his hiding place, so in due time all of Adam's children will be pursued by his grace and mercy until all shall come to know of the love of God which passeth all human understanding. All are sinners and all feel themselves unworthy of the fellowship of their Creator. The fear which drove our first parents to hide has, since then, driven many still further from God, as they have delved yet more deeply into sin, not only by heredity, but themselves taking a perverse course. The fear has increased and today one of the most terrible maladies on earth is fear. (St. John, N-8-20-11)

3:10 — I WAS AFRAID — Perfect love casteth out fear. Adam did not know fear before he sinned, but he fell and the fallen condition was manifested even before the curse was pronounced.

3:12 — I DID EAT — Adam was not laying the blame on Eve, but merely telling the truth, as he had been in the habit of doing.

3:13 — THE SERPENT BEGUILED ME — Though perfect in capacity, created in the image of God, they were not perfect in knowledge. They should have been wise enough to have realized their limitations of ignorance and to have trusted in the Lord. Lack of faith was Eve's difficulty and had Adam possessed sufficient faith and maintained his obedience, no doubt God would have arranged some way for the recovery of his companion. But, for their undeveloped condition, the trial was too strong. They had lacked faith. God overruled their disobedience for a higher and wider development of his own gracious purpose. (Z.'07-23; R.3926)

3:14 — DUST SHALT THOU EAT — The serpent, under divine reprobation, experienced some kind of a change of form and locomotion and became to mankind a symbol, a representation, of everything evil, loathsome, vile, a symbol of sin and Satan. (Z. '07-23; R.3926) The words of sentence symbolize debasement—"eat dust.")

3:15 — HER SEED — This seed is Christ Jesus and his Church, the seed of Abraham. (Gen. 22:18; Gal. 3:16, 29, 8) (Z. '07-24; R.3926)

IT SHALL BRUISE THY HEAD, AND THOU SHALT BRUISE HIS HEEL — The head and heel are referred to symbolically as representing vital and non-vital portions of the body. Thus, the Christ have all suffered something from Satan, but under God's providence the sufferings are not serious, not deadly—they are wounded "in the heel" so to speak, and all this shall work together for their good. This seed is spirit begotten and nothing coming to them in their earthly, human experiences can prove injurious to their spiritual welfare. But, as for the serpent, Satan, his head shall be crushed, all evil shall be utterly destroyed in God's due time. (Z. '07-24; R.3926) (Rom. 16:20)

3:16-20 — MULTIPLY THY . . . CONCEPTION . . . CURSED IS THE GROUND . . . IN THE SWEAT OF THY FACE — God foreknew Adam's transgression and what conditions would be most favorable to him under his death sentence. For Adam's good, that he might receive the highest degree of knowledge and of experience in the most helpful manner under the curse. God could have brought the earth's full perfection before man's creation. Instead, he left the greater part of Eden in a condition unfit (or accursed) for human use or habitation even while man was in harmony with God. God already prepared a garden Eastward in Eden for the trial and testing of our first parents because he knew what would be the result of that trial. Toil has been a blessing for the fallen race, keeping them out of mischief. Where the rich have been able to evade toil, it has been injurious to them, for the fallen condition of man, mental, moral and physical inclines away from God and righteousness. True, it has developed meanness and selfishness in the race, but even this God has overruled for a blessing. Were it not for selfish ambition and pride, what would become of the race under the reign of Satan. If everyone, on obtaining his competence, would sit down and be satisfied, where would be the world's progress, public utilities, charities and great enterprises. Some motive was needed to keep our civilization going. Had the birth-rate of humanity been as low as in the case of Adam's immediate children (probably one per century) it would have taken a long time to fill the earth. But as a result of the fall, sorrows and conceptions of motherhood have been greatly multiplied (vs. 16) and so, in 7,000 years the earth will probably be filled. The developing of the earth has been accomplished under convict labor. This battle with unfavorable conditions prevailing in the earth has served to quicken man's mental faculties, even though along selfish lines. It has served to test the loyalty of men, Satan, and the angels, and to show God's character. (See Psa. 76.) The fact that man has helped to bring the earth to perfection by his own labor will cause him to more properly appreciate and value it as a home.

3:17 — BECAUSE THOU . . . HAST EATEN OF THE TREE — There are two ways the lesson of life may be learned—by experience, stumbling and rising again, and by induction and instruction. God stood ready to use the latter method, but the self-will, independence and disobedience of Adam and Eve made the painful method necessary. (N-9-5-09)

3:18 — THORNS ALSO AND THISTLES — God foresaw that if the earth were all perfected the death struggle would be longer and the degradation of man greater. (Z.'12-214; R.5058)

3:21 — GOD MADE COATS OF SKINS — The fig leaf coverings were worthless. God said, "I will clothe you." To get the skin the slaying of the animal was necessary, shedding blood. This God desired to be a type, to call their attention to the need of a Redeemer who should die for the race, a life for a life. The clothes thus made, typify the merit of Christ as applicable to all mankind to cover and take away, atone for sin.

4:1 — CAIN — So near to perfection, Adam's firstborn, Cain, probably inherited a fine organism nearly perfect in all its parts, comparatively well balanced; also Abel.

4:2 — TILLER OF THE GROUND — Notice here that these were not now children, but full-grown men. Nothing, either good or bad, is recorded of these up to this time.

4:3 — CAIN BROUGHT OF THE FRUIT OF THE GROUND — It was but natural, and we might say proper, that each should present to the Lord an offering representing his own industries.

4:4 — LORD HAD RESPECT UNTO ABEL AND HIS OFFERING — The Lord's acceptance of Abel's offering and failure to accept Cain's should not be considered as any slight upon the latter, but rather as a lesson of instruction, a leading of divine providence, indicating the character of offering most acceptable to the Lord. God desired that all offerings from his creatures should recognize original sin and the necessity for a great sin-offering, the sacrifice of the Redeemer's life. Thus early did God begin the lesson of instruction, emphasized by the Apostle, that without shedding of blood there is no remission of sins. (Heb. 9:22)

4:5 — HIS COUNTENANCE FELL — As Adam, who was perfect, allowed love for his wife to misguide him into disobedience to his Creator; so Cain allowed the wrong view of matters to have control of his mind and bring forth evil fruit. We can sympathize with him in his grief that his sacrifice was not accepted and appreciate his surprise that Abel's bloody sacrifice should be more acceptable. We can see that he took the wrong course in allowing envious, angry feelings against his brother, whereas he should have gone to the Lord in supplication to know why his sacrifice was not accepted. Had he done so the Lord would doubtless have told him that his desire to worship and serve was appreciated, but that it must be a divine regulation amongst men that all sacrifices to be acceptable to the Lord must be those that would typify the death of a ransom and atoner for sin.

4:6 — WHY IS THY COUNTENANCE FALLEN — Cain was not rightly exercised by his experience. He went about sullenly for a time, brooding over the fact that God had not accepted or recognized his offering and had recognized Abel's. He was angry—it seemed to him an injustice on God's part. He had been as faithful in his department as Abel had been in his.

4:7 — SIN LIETH AT THE DOOR — God did not leave him to himself, but considering his inexperience and that there were none others to give him proper counsel, he admonished him with the above query. This suggestion should have been sufficient. Cain should have at once appealed to the Lord and, having learned God's will, should have prepared a proper, acceptable sacrifice. The inference that he was not now doing well was a reprimand, and the suggestion that sin was crouching at the door (R. V.), should have warned him of the danger of a mis-step. Nothing of wrong is intimated previous to this; the sacrifice itself was not evil—it was merely that Cain was ignorant. The wrong began when he allowed the spirit of evil, malice, of Satan, to enter his mind and became partaker of Satan's disposition, thus becoming of the Evil One (1 John 3:12), who was a murderer from the beginning. (John 8:44)

THOU SHALT RULE OVER HIM — Satan desired to have Cain, but the latter's proper course would be to resist the devil, to rule over him by keeping his heart in tune with the Lord and the recognized spirit of righteousness, justice, love. So the Adversary desired Peter.

4:8 — AND SLEW HIM — Lust (desire), when it is conceived, bringeth forth sin, and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death. (James 1:15)

4:9 — WHERE IS ABEL THY BROTHER? — As the question implied ignorance on the Lord's part, Cain may have wondered to what extent the Lord was omniscient, all-seeing, and his answer was in line with this.

AM I MY BROTHER'S KEEPER?— With the Church, we all have a mutual responsibility for each other's welfare; we are our brother's keepers. The world also are our brethren, according to the flesh, our "neighbors" and we should look for their interests as well as our own, doing good unto all men as we have opportunity, especially to the household of faith. (Gal. 6:10)

- 4:10 — THE VOICE OF THY BROTHER'S BLOOD — Another way of telling Cain that God was omniscient, knew all that had happened. In this figurative sense, all sin cries for the punishment of the wrong doer. It is the voice of justice.
- 4:13 — GREATER THAN I CAN BEAR — The curse of God was upon him, he was cut off from communion with God, previously enjoyed, and he felt his outcast condition severely. (Z. '07-30; R.3930)
- 4:16 — LAND OF NOD — Nod, from Node, wandering exile, from “nuwd,” to wander, flee (a principle root, to nod or waver).
- 5:4 — BEGAT SONS AND DAUGHTERS — Josephus says the number of Adam's children, as says the old tradition, 33 sons and 23 daughters, 56 children.
- 5:24 — ENOCH — The object served in the translation of Enoch was probably to show by and by that it was quite possible for God to have maintained our race in life perpetual—that only because of sin was it necessary for Adam and his family to die; that when sin and death shall be abolished through Messiah and his Kingdom, and the willing and obedient brought to perfection again, they will never need to be destroyed. The preservation of Enoch, an imperfect man, for 5,000 years by divine power will be an evidence to mankind and an assistance to their faith while the work of restitution is progressing. (Z. '11-41; R.4757)
- 5:27 — NINE HUNDRED SIXTY AND NINE YEARS — It is solemnly affirmed by infidel scientists that the only rational understanding of these long lives is that at that ancient date they reckoned time differently, calling a lunar month a year. But if this were true, then of course Adam, for example, lived 930 months, or about 78 years, an age that agrees with modern experience. This seems rational enough. But continuing we would find that the antediluvians had children at an unbelievably tender age. Thus Adam's third son (at 130 years of Adam's age), Seth, was born, according to this lunar month theory, when Adam was at the tender age of eleven. Some of the other patriarchs were even more precocious; i.e., Seth 9; Enos 7; Cainaan 6; Mahalaleel 5; Jared 13; Enoch 5; Lamech 15; Methuselah 15; Noah 42; Shem 8; Arphaxad 3; Salah 2-1/2; Eber 3; Peleg 2-1/2; Terah 6; Abraham 7; Isaac 5. (Z. '10-61; R.4561, 62)
- 6:2 — THE SONS OF GOD — Before men had the Bible as a revelation of the divine will, God often used the holy angels as messengers of communication between himself and man. On such occasions they did not open human eyes to perceive their spirit glory, but assumed human bodies of flesh and bones, wore clothing and appeared as men. (See Gen. 18.)

These “sons of God” are therefore the angels (Job 38:7), for man had lost the relationship of sonship because of the fall.

TOOK THEM WIVES — These privileged to materialize as human beings preferred that condition to their own estate as spirit beings because they desired to riot in sensuality. They were seduced by sin. (Sermon) The Scriptural intimation is that during the period of 1654 years which began with the fall and which ended with the flood, God permitted all the holy angels to have unrestricted such an intercourse with humanity, the purpose evidently being twofold: (1) God would permit the angels to see to what extent their influence would help to preserve humanity from degradation, or to uplift them out of sinful ways, that thus it might be never in the future claimed that the work of Christ in redeeming the world could have been done other than by him and by his Kingdom and its work. Thus the angels would never say that the work of Christ was unnecessary and that they (the angels) could have accomplished the work had they been given the opportunity. They were given the earliest opportunity, under the most favorable conditions, before depravity had so seriously undone the race. They failed. (2) Furthermore it was the divine purpose that all of the angels should experience a test as respects their loyalty to the divine will, that thus the loyal ones might be manifested, and also the disloyal at heart. The test had its effect.

6:3 — MY SPIRIT SHALL NOT ALWAYS STRIVE WITH MAN — “Die Menschen wollen sich meinen Geist nicht mehr strafen lassen, den sie sind fleisch.” (Luther’s German) “Men no longer want my spirit to rebuke them, for they are flesh.”

HIS DAYS SHALL BE AN HUNDRED AND TWENTY YEARS — That is, his day of grace (Leeser) before being cut off in death by the flood would be 120 years. This would imply that the harvest of that age would be 120 years and the ark 120 years in building, for Noah was here a preacher of righteousness. (1 Peter 3:2; 2 Peter 2:5)

6:3-5 — MY SPIRIT — GIANTS — WICKEDNESS — Whatever portion of the spirit of truth has entered into an evilly disposed human mind, evil conditions on a gigantic scale have often resulted. Where else in the world will we find more intellectual power than in those who have come in contact with the spirit of the Lord, the Spirit of Truth. But when this knowledge enters an evil heart, evil will result. This has produced men of renown, men of mental acumen who are able to do wonderful things.

The remarkable achievements of our time would not have been possible except for the fact that the Spirit of the Lord, of the truth, is abroad in the earth. But the general tendency of the combination—knowledge from God in an evil heart—has been to produce giants who walk “up and down” the land and are known as sugar trust, coal trust, etc.; and, as the giants were in control in the days of Noah, so the giants are now getting more and more the control of men. As then, so today, these giants seem likely to capture the world. As the flood destroyed those giants, so at this time, the great cataclysm of trouble will destroy these giants and they shall never rise again, be utterly destroyed, no hope of resuscitation. (Z. '11-109; R.4797)

6:4 — GIANTS IN THE EARTH — The intimation is that these were of illegitimate birth—contrary to divine arrangement and order—and were far superior to the race of Adam, which by this time, centuries after the fall, were considerably degraded. The race of Adam were not matches at all for these giants and renowned ones who both intellectually and physically were their superiors and ruled them ruthlessly, filling the earth with violence. (Z. '07-39; R.3934)

THEY BARE CHILDREN TO THEM — It was the improper blending of spiritual and natural matters that brought to pass the giants of olden times, through whom came the violence in the earth preceding the deluge. Have we not giants today—of renown, of almost illimitable power among men? Are not these what are termed the “Trusts,” the financial princes of the earth, financially strong beyond any dream of the past? Is it not through the operation of these that the great time of trouble and violence is coming upon the world? Do not these giants really manage the wars and rule the kingdoms of earth? These are the offspring of a misdirected spiritual energy.

The Spirit of the Lord operating in his consecrated children has exercised an enlightening influence all around them, amounting to what is termed present day civilization. The majority of those thus civilized are far from being truly Christianized, nevertheless the enlightenment they have comes from Christianity. It is this enlightenment, improperly received and improperly exercised in the world, that has begotten the spirit of selfishness, which has reached its development and maturity in these giants. The whole earth will shortly be in their power, unless the Lord shall permit some great calamity to overthrow existing institutions.

6:5 — ONLY EVIL CONTINUALLY — These angels became groveling and sensual, manifesting clearly in their own course, the downward tendency of all transgressions of divine law. (N-5-22-10)

6:6 — REPENTED THE LORD — Repent, to change the mind or course of action through regret or dissatisfaction with something that has occurred. (Encyclopedic Dictionary) The word does not mean that the Lord felt that he had made a mistake in creating man, nor that he felt sorry for it. The Lord was grieved at heart for the corruption and sin of man (and angels) and he repented from the course started by the making of man; i.e., to fill and populate the earth, because man had become too corrupt to proceed further, so the Lord repented, turned back or again, changed his dealings with man, started a new dispensation, began over again to populate the earth.

6:7 — I WILL DESTROY MAN — God’s determination was that the entire population of the world should be blotted out in the flood of waters. Those of pure Adamic stock will be recovered in the Resurrection, because redeemed by Christ, and through him have full opportunity of returning into harmony with God and recovering all that was lost through the fall. But for the progeny of the angels, unauthorized by God, no provision has been made. Their death in the flood was exactly as that of the brute beast that perished there. (Sermon 1-17-09) This accounts to us for the utter destruction of the race. It was no longer of purely Adamic stock, as God had designed, it was unfit, not proper for his further use in connection with the divine plan, except Noah and his family. Nor could Noah’s preaching on the subject (2 Pet. 2:5) influence relatives and friends and neighbors. They were so thoroughly ensnared and under the influence of the Nephilim (giants), “mighty men,” that they scoffed at Noah and his preaching righteousness, and repenting. The Lord’s ransom sacrifice in no sense affects these giants, for they were illegitimate, their life came not through Father Adam and hence was not redeemed by Christ. They were an unlawful end, in every way, illegitimate race, and are hopelessly extinct. (Z. '07-39; R.3934)

6:9 — PERFECT IN HIS GENERATIONS — Notice God’s particularity that Noah and his family, who should be saved in the ark and begin the human race afresh, should have no admixture with the angelic stock—must be purely Adamic. He was “perfect in his generation,” neither himself nor his parents were generated by the angels, but were purely Adamic stock, likewise all his family. The intimation seems to be that there were remarkably few families like Noah’s, perfect in their generations. The contamination was widespread. (Sermon 1-17-09)

6:15 — THE FASHION WHICH THOU SHALT MAKE IT OF — In the beginning of the seventeenth century, says J. D. Michaelis, a ship was built with a round hull, after the proportions here given and it was found to the astonishment of all, that these proportions given in the oldest book in the world, were precisely the ones most advantageous for storage and safety. Peter Jansen, a Mennonite who lived in Hoorn, in North Holland, was its builder and his ark differed from Noah’s only in size. When launched it proved to be able to bear one-third more freight than other ships of the same measurement. The Dutch at once began to build others like it, calling them “Noah’s Arks,” and they ceased to be used only because they could not carry cannon. (Geike.) (Z. '07-38)

THREE HUNDRED CUBITS — 450 feet.

FIFTY CUBITS — 75 feet.

THIRTY CUBITS — 45 feet.

- 6:16 — A WINDOW — This was an opening for light and ventilation, close to the roof for safety, one cubic high running around the four sides of the ark and interrupted by beams or poles supporting the roof. (Z. '07-38; R.3934)
- 6:17 — EVERYTHING THAT IS IN THE EARTH SHALL DIE — See note on Job 38:22, 23 for recent developments.
- 7:22 — BREATH OF LIFE — Literally, as in the margin (the breath of the spirit of life) “ruach neshamah kayah.” This is not shown in Strong’s and Young’s Concordance, but all three Hebrew words are used. (E314, 319)
- 9:13 — I DO SET MY BOW IN THE CLOUD — As there was a rainbow at the end of the first world so there is one at the end of the second world. The first evidenced a promise from God that the world would never again be destroyed by water, the second that there is a world to come that will never be destroyed. This bow is “The Divine Plan of the Ages.” The first was not seen until the end of the first world, the second not seen until now, the end of the second world.

No rain before the flood so bow was impossible, so now no earthly rain of restitution truth till now to make bow of “Divine Plan” seen clearly. The sunshine of righteousness, now beginning to rise, causes the rainbow to appear. None of the wicked saw the first rainbow, only Noah and his sons, so now none of the wicked may understand, only the righteous (Church) may see the plan. Noah and his family entered the ark and were safely carried over into the second world, so now all who enter the antitypical ark (Christ) will be carried over into the new world. After the storm of flood was over then all the living could see the bow, so after the time of trouble is over, all men will be permitted to see the plan.

The rainbow has two sets of colors, primary and secondary. The strongest color is red and illustrates the most prominent feature of God’s plan—the ransom. Blue is faithfulness, if we would be a joint-heir with Christ we must be faithful unto death. Yellow, gold, is the divine nature. The primary colors represent the Church, the secondary the earthly phase. The secondary are green, purple and copper. Green, restitution, springtime, color most restful for human eye. Purple, royalty, kings of earth as was Adam at first. Copper, perfect humanity.

Painters, in mixing colors on a disk revolving 5,000 r.p.m. takes three parts red, five parts blue and eight parts yellow to make a perfect white. As we look at a rainbow we see it as a semi-circle, or as the arc of a circle, but if one would go up in a balloon, it would then appear a complete circle. So from the human viewpoint the divine plan seems incomplete, unfinished, but from the divine point the Lord and we can see its completeness.

(National Labor Tribune, J. H Cole, Oct. 30, 1913)

The rainbow, or the light from it, forms the shell of a cone whose apex is the eye and diameter the whole base. M. Chevreul has prepared a chromatic table by which the complementary colors of any of the 13,480 colors which he has distinctly classed, can be ascertained. This table is of great importance to artists, house decorators and dealers in colored goods for knowing the exact color shade and tint which will produce the greatest effect when placed beside another color. (American Standard Encyclopedia.)

10:6 — CUSH — Cush means black.

10:8 — NIMROD — From “nimr,” leopard, and “rada” or “rad,” to subdue. See Strong’s Concordance 5245, 5246, 7287. Hence, the subduer of the leopard. The name seems to imply that Nimrod’s fame as a hunter rested mainly on the fact that he had found out the art of making the leopard aid him in hunting the other wild beasts. A particular kind of leopard, the cheetah, is used for hunting in India even at this day. (Bro. M. Edgar on “Mythology and the Bible.”)

10:9 — A MIGHTY HUNTER BEFORE THE LORD — Nimrod was probably an influence for evil in his day. His grandfather Ham had an evil disposition. (Gen. 9:18, 22-25) In the same connection Shem is shown to be righteous. It would appear that shortly after the flood, the human race was divided into two camps, one for the Lord and righteousness and the other for evil. Shem led the righteous and Ham was principal among the evil.

So “a mighty hunter before the Lord” would seem to imply that Nimrod did not seek to honor the Lord by his prowess, but seeing the menaced condition of the race from the wild animals, Nimrod, trusting in his own prowess, came forward as the bold savior of the people, and becoming a mighty one in the earth attracted men’s attention to himself rather than to the Lord. Josephus says, “The multitude were very ready to follow the determination of Nimrod and esteem it a piece of cowardice to submit to God.”

EVEN AS NIMROD — The account of the death of Osiris, as given in the Egyptian “Book of the Dead” is as follows:- While Osiris was away on a certain occasion his enemy who was named Sem, entered into a conspiracy with 72 of the leading men of Egypt to put Osiris to death. The plot succeeded and Osiris was put to death, and the body torn into 14 pieces, which were scattered all over the country. Isis greatly lamented her husband’s death and searched about for the pieces of his body. Whenever she discovered a piece she buried it and erected a shrine over it. Wilkinson shows (Vol. v., p.17) that Sem was one of the names of the primitive Egyptian Hercules, who was said to have, by the power of God, fought against the giants who rebelled against heaven and overcame them. This means that Hercules Sem (or Shem) (Luke 3:36), the great opponent of idolatry was enabled by the power and spirit of God to convince the 72 supreme judges of Egypt as to persuade them to put that mighty one, or giant, to death and to send parts of his dismembered body to the various cities as a solemn declaration in their name, that “whosoever would do as Nimrod (Osiris) had done, so should it be done to him, so should he also be cut in pieces.” (See Judges 19:29; 1 Sam. 11:7)

Afterward the upholders of the idolatrous system set up by Osiris or Nimrod stigmatized the leader of the conspiracy as “Typho” or the “Evil One.” One of the most noted names of Typho was Seth (Ephiphanius Adv. Hoeres Lib. III.) The names Seth and Shem are synonymous, meaning “the appointed one.” (See Ezek. 28:14.)

10:11 — WENT FORTH ASSHUR — Margin, “he went out into Assyria.”

NINEVEH — Nineveh, habitation of Ninus. Ninus was the son, and at the same time, the husband of Semiramis. Appolodorus states that Ninus is Nimrod (Appolodori, Frag. 68, in Miller, Vol. 1, p. 440) and in one of the most celebrated sculptures in ancient Babylon Ninus and his wife Semiramis are represented as actively engaged in the chase.

10:20 — THESE ARE THE SONS OF HAM — Sons and grandsons of Ham and their location:

11:4 — LEST WE BE SCATTERED ABROAD — Similarly, following the days of the Apostles and of the persecution of the early Church an attempt was made to erect a great religious system for the protection of the church, not waiting for the fulfilment of the divine promise that in due time Messiah would come and establish his Kingdom for blessing the world. The religious Tower of Babel was primarily Papacy. So far as it went it was a wonderful structure, but it never accomplished the design of its founders. It never mastered, and established the church far above the power and influence of the civil governments and earthly monarchs. (N-7-6-14)

11:8 — LEFT OFF TO BUILD THE CITY — Disconcerted, the people left off building the tower and each set up for himself. This corresponds well with the Protestant Reformation movement and the various denominations into which those once Catholic were divided.

12:2 — I WILL MAKE OF THEE A GREAT NATION — God may have intended thus to picture the fact that he would enter entirely new features of a plan and would beget a great nation and glorify himself and make his name great before all and through him all the world would get a blessing.

(J. Edgar)

12:4 — WHEN HE DEPARTED OUT OF HARAN — Abraham's life history may have been largely allegorical. (Gal. 4) He enacted his life in a natural way and apparently without restriction, yet in God's providence many events and incidents of his life were adapted to mean some feature of the plan of God. Each journey of Abraham from place to place may represent God developing some new feature of his plan. Abraham always represents God. (J. Edgar)

12:5 — HARAN — Mountainous.

INTO THE LAND OF CANAAN THEY CAME — So God came down from an abode of light (Ur = light), the seclusion of heaven, to reveal himself to his creatures through a plan.

12:6 — SICHEM — Shoulder.

MORESH — Teacher.

CANAANITE — Descendants of Ham.

12:7 — BUILDED AN ALTAR — God's earthly image, Adam, in communion and fellowship with God.

12:10 — A FAMINE IN THE LAND — A famine implies lack of bread with consequent starvation followed by death. The famine may represent the fall of man and his loss of Eden and God's fellowship. (J. Edgar)

WENT DOWN INTO EGYPT — Abraham's journey from the mountainous country of Canaan to the sea-level land of Egypt represents the course of God's purpose in permitting the sin and the fall of his earthly kingdom.

12:12 — THEY WILL SAVE THEE ALIVE — God concealed his plan from men and angels that it might be successful and that men and angels might take the course of their own choosing without hindrance.

12:15 — THE WOMAN WAS TAKEN INTO PHAROAH'S HOUSE — Showing how man and angels would attempt to take God's plan of blessing all the earth upon themselves and how they would thus bring difficulties and troubles upon themselves. The angels particularly tried it before the flood and the result was the increased degradation of man and then the deluge. God hid his plan and permitted men and angels thus to tamper with it so that it might never thereafter be claimed by the angels that they could have saved and blessed mankind if they had been given the chance; and also to test and try the angels. (J. Edgar) The events up to this time may represent the first dispensation.

13:1 — LOT — Lot, in these events, may represent natural Israel.

13:3 — WHERE HIS TENT HAD BEEN AT THE BEGINNING — The return of Abraham to Canaan from Egypt, may represent the regeneration after the flood.

THERE WAS A STRIFE — Mankind, when they knew God, did not glorify him as God, but went into enmity against him, (Rom. 1:21-32) and God gave them over to a mind void of judgment. At no period in earth's history did men know God more fully than during the years immediately following the flood. One would have expected that the lesson of the great flood, which taught God's righteous judgment against sin, would have been a lasting one. With such a demonstration of God's power, it would only be reasonable to suppose that man would no longer strive against him. (J. Edgar)

THE CANAANITE — Canaan, low.

THE PERIZZITE — Perizzite, villager, the original village dwellers in Canaan.

13:10 — THAT IT WAS WELL WATERED EVERYWHERE — Seeing man would not dwell in peace with God, God let them separate themselves from him, and, like Lot, man took the course toward sin, ease and abundance of idleness. God's purpose is to show man, through bitter experience, the folly of his course. They chose the companionship of evil.

13:14 — LIFT UP NOW THINE EYES — Here God again emphasizes his purpose to bless the families of the earth and populate it thickly with his own children, even though man did go astray, showing that man's course would not alter God's purpose. These events seem to picture the second dispensation. (J. Edgar)

14:1 — AMRAPHEL KING OF SHINAR — Canaan had for a long time been subject to the city states of the Euphrates valley—Ur, Babylon, Larsa, whichever one happened to be in the ascendancy. At the time supreme power was wielded by Babylon, which held in subjection most of the cities of Sumer and Akkad. Amraphel, king of Shinar (Heb. form of Sumer) has been identified with both the famous Hammurabi and his predecessor Sinuballit (the latter perhaps more likely).

ARIOCH KING OF ELLASAR — Arioch is Eri-Aku of Larsa, better known as Rim-Sin.

CHEDORLAOMER — Khudur-Lagamar.

14:2 — THESE MADE WAR — These kings joined a punitive expedition which invaded Canaan and routed the rebels around the Dead Sea region (vs. 3) and southward almost to the frontiers of Egypt. (vs. 14) Sumerian accounts of intercity warfare of the period of Abraham show that a force of a few hundred men was considered a big army in those days. (vs. 18) Salem afterwards became Uru-Salim, city of peace. The antiquity of Salem is unknown. It was already the capital of Canaan when Abraham entered the land. It was centered, perhaps, on Mt. Zion, as Mt. Moriah was then open country, as is shown in the account of Abraham's offering Isaac.

14:9 — FOUR KINGS — The narrative here may allegorically represent the outline of the last portion of the second dispensation—the seven times of the Gentiles. Lot here seems to represent Jewish people with whom God had particular dealings. The four kings who overthrew Sodom and captured foolish Lot with all his goods represent the four Gentile empires which overthrew Israel and carried them captive and all their goods. Since then the Israelites have been in captivity to Gentile nations and waiting for God to deliver them. (J. Edgar)

14:14 — THREE HUNDRED AND EIGHTEEN — It is remarkable that the name of only one of Abraham's servants is recorded—Eliezer. But more remarkable yet, if we add together the numerical value of each Hebrew letter in the name Eliezer we find the total just 318. (Hastings Bible Dictionary, under word "number"—"the number 318 is the equivalent of Eliezer, if the numerical value of the different letters of the name are added:
 $1 + 30 + 10 + 70 + 7 + 200 = 318$)

It would be a strange coincidence if the number of Abraham's trained servants stood in such a relationship to Eliezer—the only name known to us of a trained servant of Abraham. Hence Rashi said long ago—"Our fathers said, Eliezer it was alone and this (318) is the geometrical number of his name.")" Apparently only one name out of all of Abraham's servants needed to be recorded, as this name represents the whole number. The reason is evident, for Eliezer represents the Holy Spirit, which permeates and unites all the specially trained servants of God, who in company with God, will overthrow the Gentile nations on the completion of their lease of power, the end of their seven times, 1914 A.D. (J. Edgar)

14:16 — HE BROUGHT BACK ALL THE GOODS — This account may open an allegory of the third dispensation. Here is pictured how God and his anointed company, the Spirit Begotten Church, every member which is born in God's own house and instructed by him, will smite "Babylon" in the dark night of trouble which ends the second dispensation and ushers in the third. As Abraham and his servants rescued Lot and his goods, so God and his specially trained and anointed company will restore Israel with all their possessions and all mankind in general. (J. Edgar)

14:17 — THE KINGS DALE — After the overthrow of the Gentile systems even the world, though formerly selfish at heart (represented by the king of Sodom) will recognize God as the mighty avenger and conqueror, who has liberated them from bondage. It will be in the King's Dale that restored mankind will meet God to do him honor. King's Dale is the Valley of Jehosaphat, or Valley of the Kidron, which runs along the east side of Jerusalem (Salem in Abraham's day). This valley is recognized as a type of the Adamic death, from which a resurrection is assured because of the sacrifice of Christ. The blood of the great brazen altar in Solomon's temple drained into this valley (see note, Gen. 22:3). The valley of Jehosaphat is a great cemetery and every Jew, as well as the Mohammedans, desired to be buried in that valley, as they firmly believe that it is here that the resurrection of the dead will take place and where they will meet God (Joel 3:12). This is the Valley of Dry Bones. (Ezek. 37) Absalom's pillar can still be seen in this valley.

14:18 — MELCHISEDEK, KING OF SALEM — Also the Christ, head and body, the great high priest after the order of Melchisedek, will meet God and offer him "the flesh and blood of his atoning sacrifice," represented by the bread and wine. According to God's own arrangement, the successful sacrificial work of Christ gives him the right to kingly and priestly authority. Even as Abraham gave him tithes, so God will recognize the kingly and priestly office of Christ and hand over to him the reign of earth's government for his exclusive keeping until the Millennial work will be accomplished, the dead raised to life and the curse rolled away. In all this Christ will bless God, because he will bring honor to his name. (J. Edgar)

14:24 — LET THEM TAKE THEIR PORTION — Those who have allied themselves with God will get their portion of the spoil (Isa. 53:12), but God himself will take nothing, for is he not the possessor of heaven and earth. God gives but takes nothing, nor will he be debtor to any man. Who can make him rich? And the children of God must also give and not take, nor be debtor to any, except to love others. (J. Edgar)

15:4 — THIS SHALL NOT BE THINE HEIR — Till Abraham's day, God's Holy Spirit had striven with man to convict them of their evil ways and raise them out of their degradation, but without much effect. God's law, though largely effaced through the fall, was still written in man's nature and it was to this remnant of the image of God that God appealed. This Spirit could not always strive with man, but must become so effaced as to ultimately prevent them no longer from going headlong to destruction.

Clearly then the Holy Spirit could not be heir of the promise to inherit all things. (J. Edgar)

OUT OF THINE OWN BOWELS — God may here show that it is not by the Holy Spirit, but by His beloved Son whom He himself would beget that all the blessings of restitution shall be accomplished; and this was to be, not an earthly seed, but a spiritual seed. (J. Edgar)

15:7-9 — WHEREIN SHALL I KNOW? . . . MAKE ME — In verse 8, Abraham asked for some proof that he should inherit the land promised him in verse 7. In verse 9—a pigeon is young up to one year old; birds generally are. Figuring three years each for the heifer, goat and ram (9), and one year each for the birds, (11 in all), and these being a prophetic 11 years, 11×360 days = 3,960 days, and a day for a year, 3,960 years.

Perhaps these should be reckoned from the marriage of Isaac and Rebecca, a type of the marriage of Jesus and the Church, for Abraham could not inherit the land until the completion of the Church and the marriage of the Lamb. (Psa. 45:16) 2,045 B.C. (date of the Covenant) less 25 (Gen. 21:5; 25:20), less 40 equals 1,980 B.C. 3,960 years from 1,980 B.C. equals 1980 A.D. Isaac was supposed to be 5 years old when Ishmael mocked him. 2,020 B.C. less 5 equals 2,015 B.C. 2,015 B.C. less 400 years (Gen. 15:13) equals 1,615 B.C., date of the exodus. But exodus was 430 years from the Covenant with Abraham. 1,980 A.D. is 4,000 years from the birth of Isaac, 4,000 less 2,020 B.C. equals 1,980 A.D. Abraham and Ishmael were circumcised one year before Isaac was born. (Gen. 17:24, 25; 16:16) Sarah died 127 years old (Gen. 23:1, 2) in 1,983 B.C. Abraham died 175 years old. (Gen. 25:7) Isaac was 60 years old when Jacob was born (Gen. 25:26) and 180 years old when he died. (Gen. 35:28) Jacob lived in Egypt 17 years and was 147 years old when he died. (Gen. 47:28, 29) So the children of Israel were in Egypt 198 years. 2,020 B.C. less 60 equals 1,960 B.C.; less 147 years equals 1,813 B.C.; less 1,615 B.C. equals 198 years. Bar Cochba's revolt and his death were in 135 A.D.

15:8 — WHEREBY — Not when?, but “by what sign or event shall I know?” The sign is the great world war and the destruction of the powers that be. Also, as spiritual Israel sees the overthrow begun, they will know the inheritance is passing to the new rulers. (J. Edgar)

15:10 — DIVIDED THEM IN THE MIDST — Prof. Dodd has ably pointed out that dividing animals into two parts and passing between them was an ancient form of solemn obligation or contract—an oath. Thus God adopted the strongest possible symbolism for assuring Abraham and all his posterity that His Covenant to bless Abraham and his seed will never be broken. (Z.'13-43, 44; R.5178)

15:13 — FOUR HUNDRED YEARS — This verse does not contradict the chronology. Bondage and affliction are not the same thing. Bondage is slavery, servitude, while affliction here is the mockery and abuse which the natural seed of Abraham endured from the Egyptians. This period must have ended with the Exodus (vss. 14, 16); so reckoning back 400 years we reach the 30th year after the Covenant, when Isaac was five years old, old enough to appreciate and feel the mockery of Ishmael, who was an Egyptian (Gen. 16:1, 11, 12) and at this time 19 years old. (Gen. 16:16; 21:5) The actual time the Israelites were in Egypt is as follows: Jacob was 130 years old when he went down to Egypt (Gen. 47:9, 29), and was there 17 years before his death. The time from Jacob's death to the Exodus is 198 years by chronology, hence the total time in Egypt, 198 + 17 years = 215 years. The bondage began when the king arose "who knew not Joseph." (See note, Ex. 12:40) (Bro. Hay of Liverpool) (Z. '99-143; R.2482)

So the antitypical seed sojourned during the Gospel Age, in a strange land (this present evil world) and the 400 years (360 days each) seems to have a relation also. (400 times 360 equals 144,000)—till the 144,000 members, outside Christ Jesus, are selected.

15:16 — INIQUITY OF THE AMORITES IS NOT YET FULL — Although God foreknew when and how the iniquity of the Amorites would increase, he allowed them to have the full benefit of time to prove the downwardness of their course.

15:17 — PASSED BETWEEN THOSE PIECES — Jer. 34:8, 19.

15:18 — HAVE I GIVEN THIS LAND — The remarkable catalog of ten nations is a hidden reference to the ten toes of the great image which is to be destroyed by the stone kingdom. For before God's spiritual seed can possess, it must dispossess the present Gentile occupants, the ten divisions of the Holy Roman Empire. (J. Edgar)

16:1 — SARAI ABRAM'S WIFE BARE HIM NO CHILDREN — At first God did not indicate to Abraham that the promised seed would be by Sarah. (So from Adam to Abraham God did not tell man that the deliverer promised in Eden would come by a special covenant.) As it seemed the heir would not come through her, Abraham took Hagar.

16:4 — HE WENT IN UNTO HAGAR, AND SHE CONCEIVED — The Abrahamic covenant was barren for a long time, but the Law Covenant, to which God bound himself, at once conceived and brought forth, in due time, the nation of Israel (but brought nothing to perfection).

HER MISTRESS WAS DESPISED IN HER EYES — So the leaders of the Jews, when they were prosperous and had an outward form and appearance of holiness, gained self-confidence and self-righteousness and forgot the promises of the seed and trusted in themselves that they were righteous. (Luke 18:9)

16:5 — THE LORD JUDGE BETWEEN ME AND THEE — The Lord judge between the self-righteous results of the Law Covenant and the promise through Abraham. This time of judgment was at Jesus' first advent.

16:6 — SARAI DEALT HARDLY WITH HER — The judgment of Israel, who claimed to be up to the requirements of God's law and fit to be the spiritual seed, but they were tested and proved unworthy.

16:12 — EVERY MAN'S HAND AGAINST HIM — So have the Jews been peculiarly marked among the nations of the earth. Chapters 16 through 19 seem to represent the events of the Jewish Age.

17:5 — THE NAME SHALL BE ABRAHAM — God thus pictured how he would become a "great father," not only father of the Jewish nation, but of many nations. (J. Edgar) God foretold this also by the prophets of the Jewish Age.

17:12 — HE THAT IS EIGHT DAYS OLD — Circumcision on the eighth day pointed to the eighth 1000-year day, the Millennium when all the children of God will be circumcised in heart and blest with everlasting life and communion with God. (J. Edgar)

17:15 — SARAH SHALL HER NAME BE — God thus foreshadowed how his oath bound covenant (represented by Sarah) would no longer be a source of contention (meaning of Sarai), but would become a source of happiness, a princess or queen (meaning of Sarah); that his covenant, like Sarah would bring forth a son indeed, a great deliverer who would bring blessings to all. (J. Edgar) This was also foretold by the prophets of the Jewish Age.

18:1 — THE LORD APPEARED UNTO HIM — This text is used to show that Jesus is called Jehovah. The one who actually appeared to Abraham we believe was Jesus in his prehuman state. But the text shows only that if the name were applied to another it would mean that such a servant was highly esteemed of Jehovah and really treated for the occasion as a steward or representative, commissioned to exercise divine power as well. (See Ex. 3:3-15) (E79)

THE HEAT OF THE DAY — The heat of the day, as regards the Jewish Age would be the time when the Sun is high in the heavens and represent Solomon's reign where the typical people of God, the children of the Law Covenant, reached the zenith of their glory. Toward the latter part of his reign, Solomon fell into idolatry and at his death the kingdom was largely wrested from his heir. This decline is similar to the decline and final fall of the whole Jewish nation. (J. Edgar)

18:6 — MAKE READY QUICKLY — This haste would seem to mean they ate unleavened bread.

18:8 — THEY DID EAT — Thus they had a substantial dinner of veal stew, although they were angels with assumed human bodies, so it was not from hunger. (See Luke 24:43)

18:10 — THY WIFE SHALL HAVE A SON — Two important things were foretold by these angels: (a) that Sarah would have a son, (b) the destruction of Sodom. The three angels may represent three means by which God foretold to the Jewish nation in their age: (a) the great Messiah should come at the due time, (b) the apostate kingdom of Israel would be destroyed. These three means were: (a) Solomon's reign, (b) the Law, (c) the prophets. (J. Edgar)

19:18 — OH, NOT SO, MY LORD — The account shows a good but weak man who tried to combine his belief in God with life in Godless surroundings and with Godless companions and in the outcome he lost everything.

19:22 — ZOAR — As Lot here represents the Church; Zoar, as a city, represents "a religious government, backed by power and influence" (D25), may represent the small organization of those in present truth. Lot afterwards went up to the mountains. (vs. 30) Mountain represents the kingdom of God.

19:25 — HE OVERTHREW THOSE CITIES — The destruction of Sodom represents, as regards the Jewish Age, the overthrow of Israel in 606 B.C., also in 70 A.D. But, as these two events were types of the events at the close of the Gospel Age, so the overthrow of Sodom represents the overthrow of Christendom. (See Luke 17:28-32; Rev. 11:8) In Gen. 14 we are told that the Vale of Siddim was full of petroleum pits (not slime pits). The Hebrew for slime pit could also have been rendered "bitumen," which is petroleum hardened by evaporation and oxidation. The material, also known as asphalt and pitch, which is very inflammable, burning like coal, is cast up to the surface of the Dead Sea in great masses by earthquakes (as noted in the quakes of 1834 and 1837). In the opinion of many competent authorities, Sodom was situated at the southern end of the Dead Sea, at a place now covered by water. The slime pits, being now covered by water, would account for the masses of bitumen cast up by the earthquakes. One writer says that these floating lumps of bitumen sometimes burst into flames. This phenomenon may have been the origin of the prophet Isaiah's statement of the destruction of Idumea when he says its streams shall become pitch.

19:30 — TWO DAUGHTERS — Verse 14, shows with verse 8, that the daughters were betrothed, but the marriage not yet consummated. The prospective husbands refused to join Lot.

19:31 — NO MAN IN THE EARTH TO COME IN UNTO US — It seems that the daughters must have thought that all mankind was destroyed. Possibly they knew nothing of the world outside the ill fated cities. All the world they knew now lay in smoking ruin. So far as they could discern the only man left alive was their father. They took steps to insure the preservation of the human race. The twin nations of Moab and Ammon occupied the region east of the Dead Sea until submerged and absorbed into the various Arab peoples of later centuries. All their contacts with Israel were antagonistic to Israel. Though God allotted them a country, he would not let them mix with Israel. (Deut. 23:34; 2:9, 18-21; Jer. 48:47; 49:1-6)

20:2 — SHE IS MY SISTER — As Abraham did not divulge the true relationship of Sarah to himself, so God in His wisdom has hid the full truth that He alone is bound to His covenant and He alone has the right and power to bring into existence the great seed which will bless all the families of the earth. Abraham did not lie, he withheld the full truth. So God cannot lie, but yet withheld the full truth (vs. 12).

AND TOOK SARAH — As this event in Egypt represents the angels trying to carry out God's scheme of blessing all the families of the earth in their own wisdom (see note on Gen. 12:15), so this experience seems to picture the same attempt by the Gentiles in the seven times of the Gentiles. After the overthrow of the typical kingdom, the Gentile nations sought to govern the world and bring the blessings upon all the families of the earth. They sought to do all that God's oath bound covenant, as typified by Sarah, is destined to do. (J. Edgar)

20:5 — IN THE INNOCENCY OF MY HANDS HAVE I DONE THIS — So the world will not fully comprehend their inability to rule and bless until the time of shaking will wake them up and make them rub their eyes and see their former madness. And God will forgive the Gentiles individually for their misrule, knowing that they really thought they could bless the world. They did not know the covenant of blessing belonged to God alone. (J. Edgar)

20:6 — THEREFORE SUFFERED I THEE NOT TO TOUCH HER — After he has allowed angels and men to learn by bitter experience that they are unable to bless the world, God will then disclose fully before all that he is the husband of the anti-typical Sarah covenant of blessing. Neither angels nor men will hereafter be able to claim that the sacrifice of Christ was unnecessary and they could have done the blessing. All will then have had the opportunity to bring forth this seed and only have brought disaster upon themselves. In hiding the truth God demonstrates his wisdom and proves that his thoughts and ways are as far above those of angels and men as are the heavens above the earth. (J. Edgar)

20:11 — THEY WILL SLAY ME FOR MY WIFE’S SAKE — Possibly the imperfections of Abraham shown were partially the result of his endeavor to hold to the divine promise and do everything in his power to bring them to fruition. He knew that the promise was that his child, who should be the channel of God’s blessings to the world, would be the son of Sarah, hence he felt that he must not jeopardize either her life or his own. This very desire to do nothing to interfere with the divine promise may have had something to do with his apparent weaknesses. (Z’09-136; R.4387)

20:15 — DWELL WHERE IT PLEASETH THEE — So this would represent God resuming his right to his own covenant typically in 536 B.C. when the Jews returned to their land with gifts from the Gentiles, preparatory to the birth of Jesus Christ as the promised seed of the covenant. In the antitypical picture this is represented as God resumes his right to the covenant, brings forth Jesus and the Church into the spiritual realm. Then the blessing of all the families of the earth will commence with the restoration of Israel to their own land laden with gifts from the Gentiles. (J. Edgar)

21:2 — AT THE SET TIME — Showing how at the set time in his plan the Lord Jesus came forth and at the set time the Church will be brought to the spiritual plane.

21:3 — ISAAC — Isaac means laughter, the laugher. He represented a class who will make all the world to laugh, to displace sorrow with joy.

21:8 — THE SAME DAY THAT ISAAC WAS WEANED — See note on 1 Sam. 1:23.

21:9 — MOCKING — This mocking began in the antitype at the harvest of the Jewish Age. Ishmael represents natural Israel and Isaac represents spiritual Israel.

21:12 — HEARKEN UNTO HER VOICE — Prompted by the advice of his covenant, God cast off the Law Covenant and its children, even as the Israelites under bondage to the Law could not be fellow heirs with the children of the Grace Covenant.

21:14 — WANDERED IN THE WILDERNESS — Hagar did not die the moment she was cast off by Abraham. She lived some time to afford the best comfort she could to Ishmael. So the Law Covenant did not die 1900 years ago when God cast that covenant aside, but is still in existence, trying to give comfort and some measure of help to the Jews, its children.

BEER-SHEBA — See vs. 31, “The well of the oath.”

21:16 — A GOOD WAY OFF — Hagar separated herself from him. So lately the Jewish people more and more have been separated from the Law Covenant and the prophets are becoming weak and faint, as respects hope, and are about to die. (N-12-11-10, Omaha, NE)

21:19 — AND GAVE THE LAD DRINK — So in due time the Law Covenant will point the Jews to the truth and the well of living water (Christ and the Church) and the blessings to come through the wonderful oath bound covenant (as amplified in the New Covenant).

21:26 — ABIMELECH SAID, I WOT NOT — Just as Abimelech did not know his servants had violently taken away the well of water which belonged to Abraham, so the princes of this world did not know their servants had crucified the Lord of glory. But God will reprove them.

21:28 — SEVEN EWE LAMBS — The complete Church, the Lord’s sheep.

21:30 — THAT THEY MAY BE A WITNESS UNTO ME — The everlasting God, having established his oath-bound covenant prolonged his stay among them “many days” (the whole Gospel Age) to take out of the Gentiles a people for his name. The selection and setting apart of the Church is a witness to the world that God has digged this “well of the oath” and that he will not deal falsely with the Gentiles while he sojourns among them. (J. Edgar)

22:1 — GOD DID TEMPT ABRAHAM — It was not sufficient that Abraham had faith to begin with so that he was ready to follow the invitation of the Lord to leave his own country for another upon which as yet he had no claim except for the divine promise. It was because Abraham had such faith and was able to exercise it that God counted him worthy to receive promises at all. Then came the test as to how strongly he would hold to the promises—for instance, the test respecting his son whose birth was the very center of all the divine promises. Twenty-five years did God test the faith of Abraham on this point until he was growing old and Isaac was born when he was 100 years old. Notice again how God kept Abraham in the school of discipline testing his faith—not testing it with a view to break it and destroy it, but, on the contrary, applying the tests so as to increase the faith, to make it stronger and in every way better. Note that Isaac was allowed to grow up to be a young man and Abraham to pass the time of life when he might hope to have another son, when God commanded the slaying of Isaac as a sacrifice! How grand was the faith that never faltered, that still believed that in his seed all the families of the earth should be blessed! What evidence we have here that Abraham was well-taught and had learned well the various lessons under the divine instruction. He was able to offer up his son and count that God was able to raise him from the dead and thus to fulfil the promise—never doubting. O! what a grand summit of faith was there evidenced! How such a character must have pleased God! And it shines out the more because of the darkness and idolatry of his time. (Z. '07-169; R.4004) Tempt means test, try, prove.

22:2 — TAKE NOW THINE SON — Illustrating that in God's great plan, Divine Justice and Divine Wisdom spoke to Divine Love, "Take now thy son." Then they speak still louder, "Take thine only son, thy joyous one"; yet louder, "Take the Son whom thou lovest" and offer his life as a ransom price upon the altar of Justice to save the world from the curse.

ONE OF THE MOUNTAINS WHICH I WILL TELL THEE OF — This was Mt. Moriah, upon which later the temple was built. On this rock was built the altar of Solomon's temple and a drain (apparently a natural one) leads from this place of the killing of the sacrifice, underground, toward the valley of Jehosaphat, the valley of Dry Bones, which typically represents Adamic death, as the Valley of Hinnom represents the second death. (Thus the blood may have been conducted away.) We see in this the divine foreknowledge in respect to every feature of the plan of salvation. God not only foreknew he would use the land of Palestine in connection with the development of typical Israel, but he premeditated also the construction of the temple, centuries afterward, on the site he had selected for it. The temple, city, valleys of Jehosaphat and Hinnom are pictures of the divine plan. (Z. '01-358; R.2908)

22:3 — SADDLED HIS ASS . . . ABRAHAM ROSE UP — In Abraham's day, the patriarchal form of government prevailed and, under it, the father of a family held an autocratic power which seemingly was rarely questioned by the children. The patriarch Abraham was amenable to no earthly law or ruler, but to God only.

SADDLED HIS ASS — Including animals and food, representing God's earthly provision for Jesus' sustenance.

TWO OF HIS YOUNG MEN WITH HIM — The servants may represent those human beings who aided Jesus during those three years.

22:4 — ON THE THIRD DAY — The three days' journey represent the three years of Jesus' life from his baptism. Abraham, as the guide, is Jehovah. Some things God did not fully tell Jesus of until the last thing. As applied to the Church, the three days' journey may represent the three 1000-year days of the Gospel Age. Abraham's reception of Isaac from the altar was a figure of the resurrection of the whole Christ. (Heb. 11:19)

22:6 — THE WOOD — The service of Jesus toward God and man.

THE FIRE — Troubles and burning trials.

THEY WENT BOTH OF THEM TOGETHER — Climbing the fountain, the last half-year of Jesus' earthly life, the hardest and bitterest.

22:9 — WHICH GOD HAD TOLD HIM OF — The point foretold in the prophecies concerning Jesus' death. (Isa. 53; Zech. 13:7; Matt. 26:31, 54; 27:9, 35, etc.)

LAI D HIM ON THE ALTAR — Even Isaac, now 25, seems not to have offered the slightest resistance to the divinely arranged program as set before him by his father, for in the vigor of youth, he certainly need not to have been bound to the altar contrary to his own will. (Z. '01-357) Isaac was young and full of the dreams of youth, dreams of future greatness and power, as he was heir to the largest estate of those times. Yet he was called upon to give up all these to be killed by his own father and burnt after death. What must have been his feelings as he saw all these fond hopes about to vanish! Yet there was no complaint. Illustrates the perfect submission of Jesus. Sore trial. John 12:27; Matt. 26:38.

22:10 — TOOK THE KNIFE TO SLAY HIS SON — Here Isaac typically died to his earthly inheritance. He thus here represented how Jesus and the Church die to their earthly inheritance when they consecrate and are begotten of the Spirit.

22:13 — TOOK THE RAM AND OFFERED HIM UP — Isaac represents Jesus Christ, the New Creature; the lamb, the humanity of Jesus.

22:16 — NOT WITHHELD THY SON — This faith was not a sudden growth, but required years for its development. Abraham had not this degree of faith when first he entered Canaan. It was the lack of this perfect trust in God which made him fearful to acknowledge Sarah as his wife when he went to the borders of Egypt. It was a faith that had grown with his continued intimacy with his almighty friend. His previous trials and testings had already contributed to the development of this, his finished faith. The long waiting and frequent disappointments with respect to Isaac had been beneficial. The attempt to assist the Lord in the fulfilment of his promise in the begetting of Ishmael, and the later rejection of Ishmael as not being of the Lord's arrangements, had no doubt helped to establish Abraham in his confidence that God's purposes are immutable and his power unlimited. Our faith development also is a work of time and patient endurance of trials and testings which, rightly received, work out for us an increase of knowledge, faith and fellowship with God, until later on we reach such a development of faith in Him as sometimes surprises ourselves and assures us that we have made some progress since the beginning of our way. So, in many respects, even our faith is a gift of God—that, while we exercise some faith in the beginning of our experiences, yet the development of it to such a degree as would be acceptable to God is of God's grace through his providential dealings, leadings. To him, therefore, we must render the praise, not only for the glorious results, but also for the faith and works of this present time which fit and prepare us for the coming glory and blessings. (Z. '01-356) A severer test on Abraham could hardly have been imagined. He not only had natural parental love, but this was the child of promise for whom he had waited, longed and prayed for 25 years and in whom centered all the promises.

22:17 — GATE OF HIS ENEMIES — Gate means entrance. The one who possessed the gate shall be able to control the city. It is the vital part in all walled cities.

23:2 — SARAH DIED — The death of Sarah represents the death or the completion of the “seed” provision of the Abrahamic Covenant and will be antitypically accomplished when “the seed” is fully complete and born. According to chronology, this was three years before Isaac's marriage to Rebecca. (See Gen. 17:17, 21, 24, 25; 25:20.) So Isaac would be 37 years old (Gen. 17:17)

24:1 — WELL STRICKEN IN AGE — Abraham lived to see his grand-children by Isaac and Rebecca. Isaac was 40 at his marriage (Gen. 25:20) and 60 when Jacob and Esau were born (Gen. 25:26).

24:2 — ELDEST SERVANT — Eliezer (help of God). See note on Gen. 14:14.

24:15 — MILCAH — Milcah means queen; Nahor, snoring; typifying those asleep, not awake to the Lord's work and spirit.

24:58 — I WILL GO — Rebecca betrothed herself to the unseen bridegroom. (N-12-11-10)

24:65 — COVERED HERSELF — So the Church in the first resurrection will no longer need the guidance of the Holy Spirit (1 Chron. 13:10, 12) (N-12-11-10) through the Scriptures.

24:67 — SHE BECAME HIS WIFE — Here is beautifully pictured the thought that when the bride of Messiah shall be complete on the plane of glory, the Sarah Covenant shall be at an end and her place, as a channel of blessing, shall be taken by the glorified Church. (N-12-11-10) Rebecca had journeyed 800 miles to marry a man she had never seen.

25:1 — KETURAH — Keturah means incense. Under the New Covenant (Keturah), praise and universal honor will ascend to the Heavenly Father. (Mal. 1:11)

25:6 — GAVE GIFTS AND SENT THEM AWAY — Just as Abraham gave all that he had to Isaac, so God gives all things to Christ. Abraham's other sons had no part or lot with Isaac, though the gifts were blessings from Isaac's goods. So fleshly Israel and the other restored nations will have no part nor lot with Spiritual Israel, but will receive earthly gifts with eternal life. Josephus states (Ant. 1:15-1) that the descendants of Keturah took possession of Troglodities—the country of cave dwellers. They appear to have inhabited caves and holes in the earth, contrasting them with the descendants of Isaac, who were tent dwellers. (J. Edgar)

25:7 — AN HUNDRED THREESCORE AND FIFTEEN YEARS — So during the long span of 100 years he had lived and worked in the land which God had promised should be his, but the promise was not fulfilled in his lifetime. (Acts 7:5)

25:20 — ISAAC WAS FORTY YEARS OLD WHEN HE TOOK REBECCA TO WIFE — From this time many events effect the picture that Isaac takes Abraham's place and represents God. Rebecca takes Sarah's place and represents the Oath-bound Covenant. The firstborn Esau takes the place of Ishmael and Jacob takes Isaac's place as a picture of Spiritual Israel. Esau had the birthright and should have inherited the promises, but being a profane or worldly person he sold his birthright to his brother Jacob. So the Jewish nation had the first opportunity of becoming heir of God, but being earthly they could not appreciate spiritual things, they sold their birthright to the spiritual class. Just as there were two nations from Esau and Jacob—Edomites and Israelites who dwelt in adjoining territory. So during the Gospel Age there have been two antitypical nations—an Edomite class who had the spiritual birthright because of superior advantages of birth and training but who sold it for earthly; and the true Israelites indeed who have supplanted the other class and thus by their faith become heirs of all things. (Rom. 9:9, 13) (J. Edgar)

27:1 — HIS EYES WERE DIM — In this chapter, looked at as an allegory, God is represented in his attribute of justice, demanding a sacrifice. Blind, so justice is personified by a human figure blindfolded, having a sword in one hand and balances in the other. Justice is impartial, must not judge by outward appearance and, so long as things are rectified and balanced, does not respect the person of the one who makes things equal. The Esau class had the opportunity of having a share of the work of applying the price, as represented by Isaac desiring his son Esau to bring him savory meat. But the account shows how Jacob, who had previously bought the birthright from Esau, presented to his father savory meat prepared by his mother, Rebecca, and how Isaac, not seeing who presented the meat, ate and was satisfied. The Jacob class who have respect to the birthright and desire to receive God's blessings have recognized that God demands a sacrifice (savory meat) before he bestows his blessing and, seeing the opportunity to be associated with Christ, present their bodies a living sacrifice through Christ, holy and acceptable unto God, and God, through Christ, has accepted them and blessed them as the firstborn. The Esau class have not been willing to sacrifice themselves, having preferred the things of the earth and despised the promises of God and so lost the blessing. (J. Edgar)

30:38 — THAT THEY SHOULD CONCEIVE WHEN THEY CAME TO DRINK — This shows the effect of suggestion on the creature being formed. It is influence, according to the picture. Thus New Creatures should always have good, pure, holy pictures before their minds “Whatsoever things are pure, holy, just, honest, of good report—think on these things.” (Phil. 4:8) Satan is always trying to put evil things before our minds so as to deform and cripple the New Creature and make us fail of our calling and election, for everyone of that elect class must be copies of God's dear son. (Rom. 8:29)

35:18 — BENJAMIN — (Z. '09-219, 247; R.4436, 4437, 4454) As Abraham's wives typified covenants, so Rachel (ewe) the mother of Joseph and Benjamin, typified a special covenant—the covenant of sacrifice, operating during the Gospel Age, which brings forth two distinct classes of saints, typified by Joseph and Benjamin. The highest class, the specially faithful of God's people during the Gospel Age, Jesus and all his footstep followers, is represented in Joseph. This class will eventually come to the throne of empire, becoming the king or ruler of the universe, next to the almighty Creator, typified by Pharaoh, who took Joseph out of the prison-house of death and highly exalted him to be next to himself in power and great glory. The second class, an inferior one, is represented by Benjamin, the great company. His mother named him, “Son of my pain” and his father called him “Son of my right hand.” This secondary class are called tribulation saints, they come up out of great tribulation. (Rev. 7) This special covenant, typified by Rachel, will give birth to these two classes and then expire, cease, giving birth to no more. (Z. '13-136; R.5231)

35:19 — EPHRATH — Ephrath means fruitfulness, from “parah” (pawraw) to bear fruit.

37:1 — JOSEPH, BEING SEVENTEEN YEARS OLD — Rachel was now dead. (Gen. 35:16-20; 48:7) She died when Benjamin was born.

37:2 — JOSEPH — Joseph here was the first-born of Rachel, Jacob's chosen wife, and the birthright was his (1 Chron. 5:1) because of Reuben's misdeeds. Evidently he partook in large measure of her gentleness as well as of his father's courage and faith. His elder brothers were of coarser type. (Z. '07-106; R.3971)

BROUGHT UNTO HIS FATHER THEIR EVIL REPORT — Joseph reported their misconduct. Righteousness, justice, seems to have been an integral part of Joseph's natural character. His report of his brethren was not slander but what he considered proper, that his father should know the manner in which his business was being conducted. (Z. '07-106; R.3971)

37:3 — LOVED JOSEPH MORE — It was probably to Joseph's advantage for the Lord to take him away from home. He might have been spoiled by too great a favor. (Z. '01-299)

A COAT OF MANY COLORS — From Young's Translation and the note in the R.V., this coat seems to have been a long coat with long sleeves, thus differing from the ordinary coats worn by the working people, and like those worn by the aristocratic. But on some ancient monuments such coats are pictured as made of materials of bright colors joined together in a kind of patch work. Possibly both views are correct. (Z. '07-106; R.3971)

37:4 — THEY HATED HIM — Whether or not Jacob was unwise in showing his preference for Joseph, "it is a general truth that it is unwise for parents to show favoritism to a child and thus make the other children envious." (Z. '13-107; R.5214)

37:5 — HE TOLD IT HIS BRETHERN — Probably done artlessly by Joseph, yet doubtless of God's arrangement. Illustrates the wisdom of not casting pearls before swine, keeping to ourselves truths not necessary for others to know and which could only awaken opposition. Very deep truths connected with the divine plan and with Christian hopes had better not be told to others than those for whom they are intended—the meek. (Z. '13-107; R.5214)

37:8 — HIS DREAMS — We need to guard ourselves lest dreams be given undue importance. There was an appropriate necessity for dreams in olden times which does not exist now. The Lord's word is to be put far above all dreams of our own and others. If therefore a dream corroborates some plain statement of the Lord's word, it may be used and appreciated in the same sense that we use and appreciate types, not to teach a doctrine or duty, but to call attention to the statements. (Z. '07-107; R.3971) See note on Gen. 40:8. We have a more sure word of prophecy. 1 Pet. 1:19; see Jer. 23:28.

AND FOR HIS WORDS — Words, the reports of their misconduct referred to in verse 2. (Z. '07-106; R.3971)

37:11 — OBSERVED THE SAYING — Pondered them in his heart and perhaps wondered how great his boy would become. These dreams were fulfilled when first his brethren and later his father went down to Egypt.

37:14 — BRING ME WORD AGAIN — Sent him, thus, as an overseer.

HE CAME TO SECHEM — This was a long distance, about fifty miles perhaps.

37:18 — THEY SAW HIM AFAR — The brethren, as shepherds, were accustomed to keep a sharp lookout for wild beasts likely to injure the flock and discerned their brother at a distance. (Z. '07-107; R.3972)

THEY CONSPIRED AGAINST HIM — The perversity of the natural heart which one moment would fight for justice (these same ones had a short time previous destroyed a whole village because their sister Dinah had been defiled [chap. 34:25]), were now planning their brother's murder. (See Isa. 60:14)

37:25 — THEY SAT DOWN TO EAT BREAD — They paid no attention to Joseph's cries and entreaties. (Gen. 42:21)

37:28 — TWENTY PIECES OF SILVER — Typifying the thirty pieces of silver for which Christ was sold, thirty pieces being the price of a slave, or twenty pieces if the slave was under twenty years of age, as Joseph was. (Z. '94-125; R.1645)

THEY BROUGHT JOSEPH INTO EGYPT — Joseph, in this chapter, was a type of Christ Jesus in that:

- a) Both were especially favored by their father.
- b) Both were sent to their brethren by their father.
- c) Came in the interests of the brethren
- d) Own received him not.
- e) Hated without a cause.
- f) Put to death—Joseph figuratively, Jesus actually.
- g) Were highly exalted and obtained control of the “Bread of Life” and thus became the life-giver to the Egyptians (the world of men) and also to their brethren (the Jews). (Z. '01-300; R.2881)

37:36 — THE MIDIANITES SOLD HIM INTO EGYPT — Passing not many miles from his father's home, the dejection of the boy of 17 can better be imagined than described. In all these experiences—arriving in the metropolis of Egypt, the center of civilization then, and beholding there the wonderful things entirely new to him as a shepherd's son, his heart must have been full of suspense and wonder as to who would buy him and what would be his future lot. In all this he has plenty of room to lose faith in God—to wonder why he should be left to the mercy of his pitiless brethren, allowed to become a slave, separated from his father's home. Yet we have no intimation that his faith forsook him. (Z. '07-108; R.3972)

39:2 — THE LORD WAS WITH JOSEPH — Joseph's manliness, faithfulness to duty and quick intelligence was a good inheritance from his father, who had earnestly desired his birth, which was indeed in answer to prayer. He evidently inherited considerable of his father's faith, benevolence and executive ability and, as a result, rose rapidly in Potiphar's house to a position of great responsibility. We cannot doubt that the boy's mind must have reverted to his father and brethren, to his dreams, and to the Abrahamic Covenant. His faith in God and trust in the promises served to separate him from the evil influences connected with that sudden transition of his life from the pasture fields of life in Canaan to the busy scenes, luxuries, pleasures and sins of one of the greatest cities of the world of that time. So it is with every life—there is need of an ideal, a good hope, good ambition, to act as a ballast and keep life steady in the midst of the divers winds and currents of the present evil world. (Z. '01-313; R.2886)

HE WAS A PROSPEROUS MAN — “Not slothful in business, but fervent in spirit, serving the Lord.” (Rom. 12:11)

39:3 — ALL THAT HE DID TO PROSPER — His conscientiousness led him to be careful, economical and wise. Young men of Joseph's type are highly valued everywhere today, yes, in every period of the world's history, trustworthy men, economical men, faithful men, wise men, and all these qualities go with gentleness and a realization of responsibility to him. (Z. '13-109; R.5216) There is always room in this world for efficient men and women, and the most efficient are those in whom is the spirit of the Lord, the wisdom from above. (Z. '01-314; R.2886)

39:6 — A GOODLY PERSON AND WELL-FAVORED — If Joseph thought he had learned all the necessary experiences and lessons and that his course henceforth would be one of prosperity, he was mistaken. The Lord had marked out for him a higher station than that of overseer of the household and business of General Potiphar, and if his station was to be a higher one, so also he must receive further lessons in a still severer school in order to be prepared for the still greater exaltation in due time. (Z. '01-314; R.2886) So the Lord leads us from step to step. Sometimes when we have endured hard trials we feel that now we shall enjoy rest for awhile from such. But the Lord opens up new vistas before us and through paths of pain to the old nature he prepares us for still greater usefulness. If we are submissive and do not lose, but gain in faith, he will exalt us in due time to his own right hand.

39:10 — TO BE WITH HER — We may believe that it was no ordinary temptation, when day after day the mistress of the house, an expert in amorous arts, came to spread her nets with every allurements which her skill and passion could devise. We may conceive how even Joseph might be moved by the thought that, slave as he was, he had attracted the admiration of a woman of such rank; and how the vision might flit before him that through her influence he might recover his liberty and, in a bright career, realize his dreams after all. (Dr. Blaikie; Z. '07-108; R.3972)

39:12 — AND FLED — “In contending with certain sins there remains no mode of victory but by flight. The ancient naturalists wrote much about basilisks whose eyes fascinated their victims and rendered them easy prey, so the moral gaze of wickedness, puts us in solemn danger.” (Spurgeon) “Flee youthful lusts.” (2 Tim. 2:22)

39:14 — SHE CALLED UNTO THE MEN OF HER HOUSE — His steadfastness to principle angered his mistress.

39:18 — HE LEFT HIS GARMENT WITH ME — The adversity had made circumstantial evidence to appear so strong that Joseph's guilt was not questioned. “Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned.” (Shakespeare)

39:19 — WHEN HIS MASTER HEARD THE WORDS OF HIS WIFE — Joseph contented himself with merely denying the charge without attempting to demean Potiphar's wife by telling the facts. What a noble example is here given us of avoiding evil speaking even when it would be the truth. Joseph's noble heart probably reasoned that while it would have been no more than justice to have revealed the wickedness of the women, such a course would not only have damaged the wife but would have dealt an irreparable blow to the affections of her husband toward her and thus destroyed the master's confidence and broke up his master's home. Willingness to endure under such hard conditions is a marvellous illustration of high and noble integrity—character. Such a man was indeed fit for a throne—but not yet. God had other experiences for him before he would be ready for the exaltation intended. (Z. '07-109; R.3973)

HIS WRATH WAS KINDLED — Adversity is still the school in which the chief lessons in character building are to be learned—in which the correct ideals of life are to be formed and ultimately to be crystallized into fixed character. (Z. '01-315; R.2887)

39:20 — HE WAS THERE IN THE PRISON — So it is with the spiritual heirs of the Abrahamic promise—sometimes while in the discharge of duty to the best of our ability and when apparently we have the Lord's blessing and favor upon our affairs in a most marked degree, suddenly trouble may arise, adversity come, the powers of darkness seem to triumph and, for a moment, we may be apparently culprits in the judgment of our fellowmen and apparently forsaken of God. The only consolation is that we have suffered wrongfully—as deceivers yet true." Such experiences doubtless are needful to us, for though we might sing, "I would rather walk in the dark with God than go alone in the light," yet that would be but an empty boast unless we were put through the trying experiences which would develop such a trust and faith as would hold to the Lord's hand and trust his providence in the darkest hour. (Z. '01-314; R.2886)

39:21 — GAVE HIM FAVOR IN THE SIGHT OF THE KEEPER OF THE PRISON — Was Joseph discouraged, cast down, embittered in soul? Did he say to himself or to others, "If this be the reward of virtue, give me vice?" Did he repine against the Lord's providences in permitting this experience or was he patiently submissive, trustful? Joseph was in all these experiences a most wonderful model and example of the proper course of a true Christian or Saint. If he could be faithful with as little light as he enjoyed concerning the Lord's permission of evil, what might not the Lord reasonably expect of us who have been blessed with so much greater light and instruction and examples? For very shame we should strive at least to come up to the example of Joseph. Can we not readily see how Joseph's trials and difficulties developed character in him? And how, as he overcame in one instance after another, he was becoming stronger—his character was crystallizing. Most evidently the Lord knows how, not only to select the wonderful characters for his service, but also to develop these characters and prove and test them and make them strong for his service and their blessing. (Z. '07-109; R.3973) Joseph did not permit himself to question the wisdom of God's course which took him to prison in Egypt, any more than he allowed himself to question the wisdom of God in permitting him to be sold as a slave into Egypt. (Z. '13-109; R.5216)

39:23 — THE LORD MADE IT TO PROSPER — Even in prison his faithfulness and general goodness were recognized. Such a character, no matter how much traduced and slandered, eventually will commend itself to those with whom it comes in close contact. (Z. '13-109; R.5216)

40:7 — WHEREFORE LOOK YE SO SADLY TODAY? — Joseph's own experiences made him tenderhearted toward the other prisoners whose degradation and sorrows he could enter into by reason of his own experiences. (Z. '07-110; R.3973)

40:8 — WE HAVE DREAMED A DREAM — The majority of dreams are mental fictions, the result frequently of disordered stomachs and of the brain being partly asleep and partly awake producing often unreasonable and absurd images, without special meaning except as a warning for better care in respect to our eating. We feel sure that there are dreams of a third kind, inspired neither by the Lord nor by indigestion, but by evil spirits. To make sure that our dreams are not the inspiration of the Evil One, we must make sure we are not his children, but having renounced sin, we have, through the redemption by Christ, obtained adoption into the family of God. This should not hinder us from recognizing a dream as from the Lord provided it would stand the tests of the written word, was not in any sense in conflict with God's revelation in the Scriptures. If the dream be in conflict with the Scriptures, we are to reject the dream. (Z.'01-315; R.2886, 2887) See note on Gen. 37:8.

INTERPRETATIONS BELONG TO GOD — Had Joseph doubted the Lord's providence in his own case, as foreshadowed in his own dreams, he would have been inclined to say to the two princely prisoners that they should have no confidence in dreams, for he had proven their unreliableness to his own bitter chagrin, having dreamed of power and influence and received instead degradation, slavery and prison. Evidently he still believed in his dreams, still expected release in some manner. Such a confidence is still more appropriate to us who are heirs of the spiritual promises. (Z.'01-316; R.2887) Joseph tendered them his sympathy. What a noble example! Instead of moping about, bemoaning his lot, Joseph was cheerful, trusting in God and waiting for some circumstance by which God would eventually open up the way before him. Such a noble character can always find time to speak a word of consolation to those in trouble. (Z.'13-110; R.5216)

40:14 — BRING ME OUT OF THIS HOUSE — Joseph's confidence in his ultimate deliverance and the fulfilment of God's promises did not hinder him from doing all he could in a proper manner to effect his own deliverance. (Z.'01-316; R.2887) So while it is proper for us to make use of every and any reasonable means to secure what we consider to be our best interests, yet we are not to rely on these but on the Lord and to wait patiently for his time and way for our deliverance from every evil condition. (Z.'07-120; R.3978)

40:15 — HAVE I DONE NOTHING THAT THEY SHOULD PUT ME INTO THE DUNGEON — In explaining this matter, Joseph neither incriminated his brethren nor Potiphar's wife. It was not necessary that he should speak evil of any to plead his own cause—an evidence that our race 3,000 years ago were neither monkeys or savages. This natural man, not begotten of the spirit, had such a marvellous development of generosity, love, that he seems not even to have been severely tempted along the lines of evil speaking. Without the hopes set before him in the Abrahamic promise, Joseph might have been as dispirited and characterless as the majority of men. (Z.'13-110; R.5216)

41:1 — AT THE END OF TWO FULL YEARS — So our Lord Jesus was tested and, in spite of his faithfulness, went into the prison house of death, on the third day was delivered and was raised up to power and great glory, to be next to Jehovah in the throne of the universe. The divine signet was given him and the proclamation was that all men should—honor the son even as they honor the Father” (Heb. 1:6) and that nothing should be done except at his command—that all power in heaven and earth was given unto him. (Matt. 28:18; John 5:23) The faithful members of the elect body of Christ, the Church, the Overcomers, must also be tried in various ways and for righteousness sake, must suffer in the present time, be misunderstood, misrepresented. These also must go into the prison house of death and be therein parts of three days (1000 year days), a part of the fifth, all of the sixth, and early in the seventh their resurrection is due, that they may become joint-heirs with Christ their Lord and head in the glories of the Kingdom. All of this was well marked by the parts of three years Joseph was in prison. (Z. '01-317; R.2888)

PHARAOH DREAMED — The Lord in those ancient times gave important dreams, not only to his own people, as to Joseph, Daniel and others, but also to heathens—to Nebuchadnezzar, a dream of the golden image and one of the great tree, and here to Pharaoh, and to Abimelech. (Gen. 20:3)

TWO FULL YEARS — During those two years Joseph doubtless hoped much and waited longingly for some adjustment of this; but evidently, instead of growing faint in respect to his faith in God, he all the more earnestly laid hold of the Lord and recognized that his experiences must be for good. (So the Church waits longingly for the fulfilment of their hopes all during the Gospel Age, while she is in prison.) Nor should we infer any lack of divine favor in Joseph’s hard experiences, but feel sure that the lessons of his adversity were merely preparations for his service as Pharaoh’s Logos or mouthpiece throughout the Kingdom. (Z. '13-110; R.5216, 5217)

41:5 — SEVEN EARS OF CORN — A stalk of Egyptian wheat, known as compound wheat; its top was exceedingly large, dividing into seven distinct branches or spikes, indicating a most prolific yield. (Z. '07-120; R.3978)

41:9 — I DO REMEMBER MY FAULTS THIS DAY — He apologized for his neglect to do something for the interpreter of his dreams, but perhaps he was not entirely to blame. He could be useful to Joseph only when God’s time for favoring the latter had come. (Z. '07-120; R.3978)

Thus Joseph’s release came about through the mediation of the butler, but to the latter’s shame, it was not because of his appreciation and thoughtfulness. (Z. '07-120; R.3978)

41:16 — IT IS NOT IN ME, GOD SHALL GIVE PHARAOH AN ANSWER

— Here is a further test of Joseph's character. Notice carefully how he demeaned himself in the King's presence. Was he haughty, boastful, self-assertive? Did he throw around himself a mystery and seem to call from the recesses of his mind some deep wisdom? Not so! He was the very personification of modesty. This is one of the secrets of his greatness. He honored God, and is therefore of the kind God is pleased to honor and exalt eventually. (Luke 14:11; 1 Pet. 5:6, Prov. 3:6) While such acknowledgement of the Lord is proper in the affairs of life, it is specially so in the study of the divine word and any attempt to give an interpretation thereof. Let none of us speak as of ourselves, nor appropriate wisdom to ourselves, but rather with hearts full of gratitude for blessings received, let us acknowledge Him, His Word and His arrangements in connection with the truth. To whatever extent self-seeking is indulged, or the honor of men craved, or the Lord as the fountain of wisdom and the channels he uses in dispensing the truth are ignored or belittled by any of us, to that extent we may be sure we are in a dangerous situation and not likely to make real progress in the good way.

We are sure the world is not inclined to give proper credit for wisdom to the great revealer of secrets and even the majority of Christian people are not enough inclined to honor God for these. Could the world but realize what we see from the Scriptures—that the present activity of thought along the lines of invention are of divine pre-arrangement as elements of the "Day of God's Preparation" for the Millennial Kingdom—how it would prick its bubble of pride in our present day wisdom. How it would show us most effectually that all wisdom cometh from above, and that we might be groping about as blindly as our ancestors were, if the Lord's due time had not come for lifting the veil and helping us to develop the forces of nature, as a preparation, not only for the Millennium, but for the Time of Trouble. (Z. '07-120; R.3978)

41:29 — SEVEN YEARS OF GREAT PLENTY — Typifying the present Gospel Age, when the world is allowed to feast on the fruits of its own efforts to salvation and blessing and when the Lord Jehovah (Pharaoh) and the Christ (Joseph) is gathering the precious fruit of the earth (Jas. 5:7) and laying it up as the bread for the world by and by. (1 Cor. 10:16, 17; Josh. 1:11) (Z. '96-290; R.2075)

41:30 — SEVEN YEARS OF FAMINE — Typifying the Millennium, the time when the world will find that their own efforts and plans for gaining life and happiness have all proven a failure and they have nothing and nowhere to go for life, so they come to the Lord Jesus and the Church (Joseph) and buy the real food of him and sell all they have, consecrating all to God, and thus gain eternal life. (Z. '96-290; R.2075)

41:33 — LOOK OUT A MAN DISCREET AND WISE — A lighter headed man than Joseph, a man who felt that by interpreting the dream he had confounded the wise men and had done a wonderful thing, would have been so overwhelmed with a sense of his own importance that he would doubtless have stood there and have received the king's thanks and have passed out a free man, to be noted by the people as a wise man. The humility of Joseph was not assumed, it was the true sentiment of his heart, so that he did not feel thus elated, but with coolness and self-possession he suggested to the king what might be the proper steps to be taken so that the dream might indeed prove a blessing. We cannot suppose that Joseph had the slightest suspicion that he would be appointed for this work. Such would be a most unnatural expectation, that Pharaoh would take a man from prison and of foreign birth and set him over Egypt. (Z. '07-121; R.3979)

41:38 — CAN WE FIND SUCH A ONE AS THIS — Pharaoh wisely concluded that none could be more safe to trust than the one whom the Almighty trusted and made his friend. So for us, although the Lord's people are not perfect, yet in an emergency it is safer to trust those whom the Lord trusts. (Z. '01-316; R.2887, 2888)

41:39 — WISE AS THOU ART — So Christ is the wisdom of God. (1 Cor. 1:24, 30; Prov. 8; Isa. 53:11)

41:40 — UNTO THY WORD SHALL ALL MY PEOPLE BE RULED — So Christ was raised from the prison house of death and set high above all principalities and powers and every name that is named (Phil. 2:9-11), angels and all beings made subject unto him (Eph. 1:20-22), with all power in heaven and earth, at the Father's own right hand. And the Church will share the Lord's throne. The lessons of the past were a preparation for this great work.

ONLY IN THE THRONE WILL I BE GREATER — Jehovah is excepted in this declaration of Christ's universal power. (1 Cor. 15:27)

41:42 — TOOK OFF HIS RING — The kings of old sealed their commands usually from a signet ring, and this seal was the symbol of authority conferred. The power of the king was behind it. So Jehovah gave Jesus all authority and power to carry out His plan. (Rev. 5)

VESTURES OF FINE LINEN — The clothing of the highest. So Jesus and the Church will be clothed with the divine nature. This would cover Joseph's body and represent perfect righteousness. So the Body of Christ will be granted to walk with him in white, (Rev. 3:5; 19:8; Zech 3:3-5), in the glory of the divine nature.

A GOLD CHAIN ABOUT HIS NECK — A high servant of the king.

41:43 — BOW THE KNEE — So the proclamation will be made before Jesus, “Let all the angels of God worship him.” (Heb. 1:6; Acts 3:23; Rev. 5:13)

41:45 — ZAPHNATH-PAANEAH — Canon Cooke claims this means the “Bread of Life,” others—“Deliverer from death by the bread of life.” Jesus called himself the “Bread of Life.” And it is through a work which he accomplished that the living bread is provided for the whole world of mankind, typified by the Egyptians, and that through him also the bread also comes to his brethren, the Jews, typified by Joseph’s brethren and Jacob. As there was no life for all the people there except through Joseph and his work, and as Joseph did his work as the agent and representative of Pharaoh, so there is no life for any of the world except in and through Christ Jesus our Lord, and his work is accomplished in the name of Jehovah, the supreme ruler of the universe. (Z. ’01-317; R.2888)

ASENATH, THE DAUGHTER OF POTIPHERAH — Asenath means favor. She became Joseph’s associate in honor and dignity, and co-laborer and helpmate with him in his work of blessing Egypt. So Jehovah is selecting a bride for Christ, and she also will be a favorite. (“On,” by its sacred name, the abode on the sun, Ha-Ra.) (See Ezek. 30:17) Potiphara, belonging to the sun. (Smith’s Bible Dictionary)

41:46 — JOSEPH WAS THIRTY YEARS OLD — When he had just reached manhood under the old time law. (Jesus’ age when he offered himself as a perfect man.) (Z. ’13-110; R.5216)

41:48 — LAID UP THE FOOD IN THE CITIES — Probably also selecting sites for granaries and contracting for building these. Probably bought all the surplus grain, besides the usual tax for the king. His course is not condemned in the Scriptures. There is no intimation that advantage was taken of the people. So Jesus has laid up a supply of the Bread of Life, sufficient for all the race. The Little Flock are now being fed and, with Jesus, they give up this life and so are, with him, the Bread for the world in the next age. (Z. ’07-122; R.3979, 3980) (See Gen. 47:13)

41:49 — IT WAS WITHOUT NUMBER — The abundance shows God’s abundant provision for all mankind. (Z. ’07-122; R.3980)

41:55 — GO UNTO JOSEPH — So the Father has arranged for all the race to go to Christ for their food and blessing and life.

42:1 — WHY DO YE LOOK ONE UPON ANOTHER — Their remembrance of their cruelty toward their brother, Joseph, inspired by envy, continued to harass the evil doers many long years after. (Z. ’13-125; R.5225) Their guilty conscience must often have troubled them as they saw the sadness of their father, and they must have feared retribution. The famine may have been taken by them as a retribution.

42:6 — JOSEPH'S BRETHREN CAME AND BOWED DOWN

THEMSELVES — If we are inclined to wonder how, in all these 22 years [17 years old when sold into Egypt (Gen. 37:2) from 30 years old when made governor of Egypt (Gen. 41:46), leaves 13 years, plus the 7 years of plenty and 2 years famine (Gen. 45:6), equals 22 years] Joseph had not communicated with his aged father, remembering specially that he had plenty of opportunity to do so after he became governor of Egypt, let us remember the difficulty of long distance communication, but more, how particularly his affairs were guided by the Lord, and that possibly here he was acting under divine direction. He evidently was expecting his brethren, knowing that the drought and consequent famine extended to Palestine and over a wide range of the country.

Through trusted servants, a watch was evidently kept for the Hebrews, anticipating that the famine would drive them to Egypt for supplies. Thus, on arrival of the ten sons of Jacob, Joseph was evidently apprised of the fact. (Z'07-123; R.3980) Then Joseph, being the chief salesman, would be likely to know of their presence. There may also have been a law prohibiting the sale of grain to foreigners except by permission of the chief ruler. (Z.'01-327; R.2893)

42:7 — MADE HIMSELF STRANGE UNTO THEM — Joseph was not hard-hearted, but wise in his treatment of his brethren. Most evidently not a solitary act was inspired by vindictiveness. He evidently took God's view of matters and realized that it is proper that a certain amount of retribution shall come upon evil-doers, so to impress upon them the more thoroughly the sinfulness of sin. Thus parents and guardians should not permit their love and sympathy to hinder a reasonable punishment for wrong doing, yet pity and love should be back of it all, merely planning for the better opportunity and the larger blessing in due time. (Z.'01-327; R.2893)

SPAKE ROUGHLY TO THEM — So the antitypical Joseph, in a time of trouble, will speak roughly to the people and cause them great vexation and worry as to what the outcome will be. But all the poor groaning creation, for whom he already had died, will see that the Lord's heart will be full of love and sympathy for them all the while. The time of trouble will evidently be for the very purpose of preparing the hearts of men for the blessing God is so willing to bestow. (Z.'07-125; R.3981, 3982)

42:9 — YE ARE SPIES — As though they were agents of a foreign power which saw the wealth of Egypt in food and planned an attack upon the country. This gave Joseph the opportunity to inquire minutely about his father and brethren. (Z.'01-327; R.2893)

42:22 — HIS BLOOD IS REQUIRED — The brethren properly associated their experiences in the dungeon with those of Joseph and evidently took to heart the lesson of their wrong course. Although previously we saw these men, with one exception, were murderers at heart, we now see a marked change in their character. This was brought about, partly by their father's grief over the loss of Joseph and partly, no doubt, by their own remorse for their wrong doing.

Thus, an evil deed is not always a precursor of further evil, but sometimes becomes a pivotal point for turning of character. So our points of failure, showing our weakness along some particular line of character, should be valuable lessons making us stronger in that particular, better able to stand future trials from that same quarter.

So Joseph saw they were now in a different attitude of heart. How evidently they had learned sympathy from their father during those 22 years. We are to remember that these men were the heads of the tribes of Israel, some of whose children were the most notable men in history. It was evidently a part of the divine purpose to give these men a great lesson in connection with their father, the famine, etc.—a lesson that would not only be beneficial to themselves, but have an influence on all future time. (Z. '07-123; R.3980)

42:23 — HE SPAKE UNTO THEM BY AN INTERPRETER — Joseph spoke by an interpreter that he might the more thereby conceal himself and that they might be more frank in their utterance before him. Were his brethren still hard-hearted and envious? He would see. (Z. '07-123; R.3980)

42:28 — WHAT IS THIS THAT GOD HATH DONE UNTO US? — Their fear was, lest it should be claimed that the money was stolen, the penalty for theft being slavery in Egypt. (Z. '07-123; R.3980) They accepted this as part of their just retribution.

42:30 — SPAKE ROUGHLY TO US — See note on Gen. 42:7.

42:37 — I WILL BRING HIM TO THEE AGAIN — How their father's grief had taught them more sympathy, more brotherly-kindness, more love.

43:32 — EGYPTIANS MIGHT NOT EAT BREAD WITH THE HEBREWS — This probably originated right after the building of the Pyramid, by a shepherd king, who probably used the Egyptians as servants to build them.

43:34 — BENJAMIN'S MESS WAS FIVE TIMES — As Joseph here represented the Lord Jesus and the Little Flock with him, so Benjamin represented the Great Company, the son of the same mother. (See note on Gen. 35:16-19.) The blessings to the brethren of Joseph represents favors which Messiah will bestow upon natural Israel, his brethren according to the flesh, in addition to the general blessings which his Messianic reign will give to the whole world, represented in the Egyptians. The portion of Benjamin, the Son of Pain, would represent the portion of the Great Company who will come up out of great tribulation to a higher plane, a higher portion, a higher blessing than the remainder of the world. They, begotten like the church, will also be spirit beings. (Z. '13-137; R.5232)

WERE MERRY WITH HIM — These five portions indicated Joseph's special favor toward Benjamin. The men did not know Joseph was able to understand them and was listening to know whether or not they still were envious, or how they would receive this manifestation of special favor to their younger brother. They stood the test, they showed that their envy was dead, that they rejoiced in their younger brother's favor. (Z. '07-123; R.3981)

44:2 — THE SILVER CUP, IN THE SACK'S MOUTH OF THE YOUNGEST — Joseph desired to test his brethren as to their sympathy with their father and their loving interest in their younger brother. (Z. '13-138; R.5233)

44:15 — WHAT DEED IS THIS THAT YE HAVE DONE? — Joseph again was austere and reproved them, so to give them an opportunity to show their selfishness and abandon Benjamin. (Z. '13-138; R.5233) Perhaps the men, having gotten over their previous fears and having been so well treated by Joseph, they may have thought:—"We thought our hardships of the previous time were retributions, that God's hand was in it, but after all it seems only natural we should be taken for spies. Now behold, we are prospered." But they needed further lessons. (Z. '01-327; R.2893)

44:17 — GET YOU UP IN PEACE UNTO YOUR FATHER — Joseph knew this would test them. Would they be glad to escape personal servitude, get back to their own families, and leave Benjamin a slave? Had they the same cold heartlessness they had shown in his own case when they sold him into slavery? Would they similarly disregard their poor old father's interest and happiness? (Z. '13-138; R.5233)

44:18 — THEN JUDAH CAME NEAR — Then Judah, once hard-hearted toward his brother, Joseph, and his father, Jacob, addressed to the governor a most pathetic plea which, for its simplicity, directness and pathos, stands out preeminently among all the records of history. (Z. '07-124; R.3981) The ruse was successful. It showed that the brethren had formed characters which made them now more sympathetic one for another and for their father. Their wrong course in Joseph's case had not been persisted in, but repented of. (Z. '01-328; R.2893) It was shown that they were changed men, that instead of coldness, indifference and gross brutality, they were tender-hearted, sympathetic, willing to suffer for the other. The time had come, therefore, for the clouds and shadows that had been over them for some time, to break away. (Z. '07-124; R.3981)

45:1 — JOSEPH COULD NOT REFRAIN HIMSELF — So vividly did Judah picture Jacob's love for Benjamin and his sorrow at the proposed death of Joseph, and the interest of the whole family in their father, that Joseph could no longer restrain his emotions. (Z. '01-328; R.2893)

CAUSE EVERY MAN TO GO OUT FROM ME — The matter was too sacred for the eyes of others.

45:3 — THEY WERE TROUBLED AT HIS PRESENCE — What wonder that the guilty men trembled now more than ever. What resentment might their brother feel against them? How might he now requite them evil for evil and send them to the house of bondage or the dungeon? (Z. '07-124; R.3981)

45:5 — BE NOT GRIEVED — The full forgiveness of Joseph's brethren and his assurance given them that they merely carried out the divine program, corresponds well with the message which shall ultimately come to the Jews—that their crucifixion of Messiah was merely a carrying out of God's purpose, through which the blessing of God will be made available to all the families of the earth. (See Acts 3:17; 1 Cor. 2:8.) (Z. '13-140; R.5234)

45:7 — TO SAVE YOUR LIVES — The spiritual Israelite should be even more merciful than Joseph. If he could see that the persecutions he receives from his brethren and others are merely incidents of divine providence to prepare him for coming exaltations and blessings, should not the spiritual Israelite take his disappointments as God's appointments. Should he not, with a clearer eye of faith, be able to see that many of his spiritual advancements have come as a result of persecution from the world and from false brethren? And should he not, like Joseph, look with great complacency upon all these various agencies which God has been pleased to use in uplifting him to perfect him as a new creature.

And the only thing that would hinder us from seeing that our advancement was from the Lord would be a lack of humility and of trust in God. The only thing that would hinder us from feeling patient forbearance and kindly sympathy and love for those who have spitefully used us would be a lack of the Lord's Spirit, the spirit of mercy, and failure to see properly that whatever agencies God may use in our spiritual upbuilding are to be appreciated and sympathized with, whether they be brethren or of the world—Egyptians. (Z. '01-329; R.2894)

45:8 — NOT YOU THAT SENT ME HITHER, BUT GOD — Joseph preached a great sermon to his brethren here. He gave his brethren credit for ability to understand such things. That the Lord overruled their course for good did not prove that their course was a proper one, but rather that the divine power, divine wisdom, divine providence that was over Joseph and over all the house of Jacob causing all things, even the evil things, to work out for good, according to the divine plan.

There is a great lesson here for us, all of God's people today, along the lines of mercy toward those who deliberately sin against us, and also along the line of noting, discerning and referring to divine providence in connection with our affairs. We are not only to notice divine providences but we are to give credit for them, as it is written: "In all thy ways acknowledge him." (Prov. 3:6)

We are not to give credit to the evil agencies through which we have received blessings, otherwise we might soon be disposed to call evil good; but we are to give full credit to God, because that which was intended to be evil, and which was evil in itself, divine wisdom, so far above the earthly plane, is able to overrule for our good. It is as we learn the lesson of God's inherent goodness, as we learn to respect his wisdom, love, justice and power, that our faith grows stronger and stronger until we are able to trust the Lord, not only in things we see are working for our good, but in the things which seem entirely dark and out of which apparently no good can come. Faith is a gift of God in that it is cultivated to acceptable development by the Lord's gracious promises rightly received, appreciated and acted upon. (Z.'01-329; R.2894)

HE HATH MADE ME A FATHER — Joseph could have permitted his experiences to develop a great deal of personal pride. He might have reasoned to himself that he was naturally bright, smart and attractive and that this was the secret of his success. But had he been thus heady, high-minded and conceited, we may be sure it would have led to a fall, that God would not have continued to bless, prosper and advance him. His treatment of his brethren also would have been different. He would have crowded over them and maltreated them to convince them of his power, and thus shown himself to be a very much smaller man than he really was. He was a great man and this was manifested not merely in his financial management of the kingdom of Egypt, but especially in his reliance upon God and the Abrahamic promise. (Z.'01-329; R.2894)

45:9 — GOD HATH MADE ME LORD OF ALL EGYPT — This was not by way of boasting or pride, but to assure them of his authority and power to care for them, and that they might fully assure their father Jacob that his caution might not hinder him from taking advantage of the goodly land of Goshen now at their disposal. (Z.'01-329; R.2894)

45:11 — THERE WILL I NOURISH THEE — His brethren and father were not invited to come and share in his throne and regal power, but were invited to come and partake of all the blessings flowing therefrom. So during the Millennial Age, after the Christ, head and body, shall be in the throne of glory and power—in the Father's throne—when the kingdom of God shall be established in the earth, all who feel a famine, a hunger for the true bread of heaven, for eternal life, will be invited to come and receive abundantly of it. But none of the earthly class will be invited to share in the kingdom (heavenly) honors, for the kingdom class will be complete. (Z. '01-329; R.2894)

45:15 — HE KISSED ALL HIS BRETHREN — After Benjamin, came the turn of the other ten brothers. How would he deal with them? Surely he would not show the affection of kissing them after the custom of Eastern lands, for surely he could not feel toward them a perfect love and good will! But he did kiss every one of them, and since it was neither for constraint nor for effect, it evidenced the fact that his heart was full of loving generosity and kindness. (Z. '07-125; R.3981)

There is power in affection, in love, but it is necessary that the loving affection be manifested ere that power can be felt. A difficulty with many parents, husbands, wives, children, is that they do not manifest all the affection they feel. Pride or fear or some other thing hinders them from being as frank with each other as they should be.

We may be sure that the brethren appreciated it, that such a manifestation by the highly exalted brother touched a tender spot in their hearts and doubtless worked good for them to the rest of their lives. So we may find it with our friends and relatives, that a manifestation of our love and kind feeling toward them will not only be reciprocated, but will do them good; and that our affection, restrained of expressions, will leave an icy coldness which nothing can remove, and that such coldness will affect, not only them, but ourselves, unfavorably, sapping all of life's joy springs. (Z. '01-330; R.2894)

45:18 — COME UNTO ME, I WILL GIVE YOU THE GOOD OF THE LAND — If the story of Joseph, his sufferings and exaltation to power as the governor of all Egypt next to the king represents the story of Jesus and all his footstep followers in the narrow way of self-sacrifice and suffering incidental to their exaltation to power in the kingdom of God under the whole heavens; and if the preparation and afterward the distribution of the wheat, the bread of Egypt, for the saving of the lives of the whole people, represents well the blessings and opportunities that are to come to the world of mankind in the Millennium through the glorified Redeemer, then it does not seem amiss to suppose that Jacob's other sons, Joseph's ten brethren, were typical also.

In the Lord's providence that nation has passed through severe experiences and ordeals since. We may hope these are proving beneficial, that ere long the famine for the word of the Lord will reach them also, and cause them to come to the great governor for the bread of life. The Scriptures indicate that this will be the time of Jacob's trouble (Jer. 30:7) but he will be delivered out of it. The Apostle assures us of the same and that God's gifts and callings he will not repent of nor alter, that ultimately the natural Israelite will obtain mercy through the favor of the Spiritual Israelite. (Rom. 11:30, 31)

The prophet (Zech. 12:10) takes up the theme and tells how they shall yet look on him they have pierced and how they shall mourn as these brethren mourned, and of how the Lord will pour on them the spirit of prayer and supplication, and upon their manifesting repentance, forgiveness; and how that ultimately their sins and iniquities will be remembered no more—that instead he will be very gracious to them and kiss them. (Z. '07-125; R.3982)

45:24 — SEE THAT YE FALL NOT OUT BY THE WAY — Evidently Joseph was a keen observer of human nature. Many would have thought it unnecessary to caution the brethren against disputes under all the circumstances. Under former conditions they would have felt jealous of Benjamin, because of the great attention he received from Joseph. They might have queries as to how much liberty they would have in Goshen, if they would be under Joseph's thumb and if Benjamin would be most favored. The warning was timely.

We have known matters to go similarly with the Lord's brethren. When in tribulation, their hearts were crying to the Lord, but in prosperity they were disposed to grudge one against another, and to be envious and jealous of each other's opportunities, blessings and privileges! What a great mistake! Each should remember that the Master's eye is noting his progress. Each should remember that brotherly love is one of the tests of character. (Z. '13-141; R.5235)

46:1 — CAME TO BEER-SHEBA AND OFFERED SACRIFICES — Possibly Jacob questioned in his own mind the wisdom of thus leaving the land of promise, and whether or not it might be interpreted of the Lord as an abandonment of his faith, of a relinquishing of the blessings which from earliest childhood had centered and directed his course in life. The Lord answered his prayer, probably by a dream. (Z. '01-331; R.2895) So the Spiritual Israelites must be on the lookout lest there be deceptions of the Adversary combined with earthly prosperity and the world's favor. Let us offer unto the Lord the true sacrifice, the full devotion of our hearts—renewing our Covenant. (Z. '01-331; R.2895)

46:3 — FEAR NOT — Fear not—wherever the Lord's work carries us let us have the courage to go. There is nothing to fear where he leads us. So we may sometimes fear in our contacts with the world, for there dwells treachery, cruelty and selfishness. God would not lead us into things that would ultimately hurt us. God had told Abraham (ch. 15) that the people would afflict his seed 400 years, but he would deliver them.

I WILL MAKE OF THEE A GREAT NATION — It is through working with God in the world that we become great through service. There we meet the trials that make us strong, there we find out how great a helper and comforter our God is, and we learn to know and trust him, because he is a tried God.

46:4 — I WILL GO DOWN WITH THEE — God goes with us! What a comfort! What strength it gives! What wonderful companionship! What lessons we can learn through walking and talking with him! Had we rather not be in Egypt with God, than in Canaan or elsewhere without him?

I WILL ALSO SURELY BRING THEE UP AGAIN — God promises to deliver us also in his due time. Can we trust him for that great deliverance?

JOSEPH SHALL PUT HIS HAND UPON THINE EYES — Meaning Jacob would have Joseph to watch over his dying moments and close his eyes. (Note the old custom of putting pennies on them)

46:34 — EVERY SHEPHERD IS AN ABOMINATION UNTO THE EGYPTIANS — Probably because of the destruction of their Gods and worship, and the building of the Pyramids by the Hyksos kings.

47:13 — THERE WAS NO BREAD IN ALL THE LAND — During the Millennium (the seven years of famine) the Christ as the great bread provider, and his associated bride, will dispense to the world through the Ancient Worthies, the bread of life as they will need it and be able to appreciate it. (Z. '07-122)

47:14 — JOSEPH GATHERED UP ALL THE MONEY — During all that time the world will be required to surrender one thing after another for the attainment of their life, until finally at the end of the Millennium, all who remain (not cut off in Second Death), shall have given their property, their all, including themselves, in exchange for the eternal life from the living bread which came down from heaven and of which, if a man eat, he shall never die. (Z. '07-122; R.3980)

47:16 — I WILL GIVE YOU FOR YOUR CATTLE, IF MONEY FAIL — Joseph bought all the gold, the cattle, the land and the people.

47:17 — FEED THEM — Hebrew, “led them as a shepherd.”

47:21 — HE REMOVED THEM TO CITIES — So the Lord has purposed to divide all mankind into the twelve tribes of Israel. (Deut. 32:8; Acts 17:26; Jer. 12:14-17)

50:15 — JOSEPH WILL PERADVENTURE HATE US — Joseph’s rendering so much good for so much evil seemed so unnatural to them they feared it was only temporary and for their father’s sake. This illustrates the condition of many who come to the Lord with an insufficiency of faith. They are convinced of his mercy toward them and yet are always fearful. The truth is they do not know God. They think of him as moved by like passions as themselves, more or less depraved, more or less controlled by animosity. Their lack of growth toward full assurance of faith is due to their failure to offer their sacrifices unto the Lord, to commit all their ways to him. (Z. ’01-331; R.2895)

50:19 — FEAR NOT, FOR AM I IN THE PLACE OF GOD? — Generous Joseph! Not an unkind word, not a complaint, only excuses for their villainy. Since the matter had worked out good, why should he think evil of the agents or agencies which God had permitted and used. Is it for me to judge you or to punish you in any way? Is it not God alone to whom you have responsibility in this matter? And if you make the matter right with him, it is already right with me, for vengeance belongs to the Lord and not to his creatures, all of whom are more or less imperfect.

Let us each apply this lesson to himself, not only with the brethren, but with our brethren in the flesh and with our neighbors. What matters it to us whether they meant us evil or good, have we not God’s assurance that all things are working together for good to them that love him, to the called ones according to his purpose. So why should we have the slightest anger or resentment against the persons or instruments used by the Lord in connection with our affairs? (Z. ’07-125; R.3981)

Whatever punishment would come to them for their sin would not be his to inflict, but God’s. And that punishment did come to them in the mental torture, fears and forebodings of many years—not a murmur, not a word of repining against the bitter lot which had been his! In every word, in every thing, he testified to God’s goodness, love, wisdom, power. He realized that to have made a single change or alteration in the experiences which had come to him would be to do injury to the plan as a whole and he would have failed to learn some lessons of life he needed.

Oh, how much all the followers of Christ need to look to the Lord in respect to all their trying experiences. (Z. ’13-141; R.5235)

50:20 — GOD MEANT IT UNTO GOOD — Joseph's conduct was not merely an outward profession, but the result of an established character. Such find no room for bitterness or railing either against Satan or against any of his servants. (2 Cor. 2:14; Jude 9) (Z. '01-331; R.2895, 2896)

EXODUS

1:7 — INCREASED ABUNDANTLY — See Gen. 48:16

THE LAND WAS FILLED — Land of Goshen. It is reasonable to infer that the females of the company not included in the account were about as many more. Also Abraham's household included many persons, also Isaac's and Jacob's, and these may have accompanied Israel into Egypt and been merged into the nation through circumcision. It is well to have these things in mind when we remember that from Jacob's death to the Exodus was only 215 years, and the increase was such that, at the time of the Exodus, the number of them was over 600,000, which, counting four to a family, would imply a total of 2,400,000. (Num. 2:32)

As affecting the reasonableness of the record, Prof. Curtis quotes a volume of family memoirs which shows that 5,564 persons are known to have descended from Lieut. John Hollister, who came to America in 1642. It is said that in the early settlements of North America the actual rate of increase for several successive periods was for the population to double itself every 15 years. Calculating at this rate and counting husbands and wives for the 70 persons in the text (140 in all), the increase would amount to 2,293,760 in 200 years. (Z. '01-343; R.2900)

Notice the five expressions used, implying that the writer recognized the multiplication as abnormal, miraculous. "Increased abundantly" in the Hebrew (one word for both) has the thought of wriggle, swarm and is the same word as used in Gen. 1:20, 21; 8:17; 9:7; 48:16 (Z. '07-126; R.3982)

1:8 — A NEW KING OVER EGYPT — Excavations in Egypt show that, about this time, the government of Egypt was revolutionized. In Joseph's time, and for quite a while before it, it was governed by the Hyksos or Shepherd Kings. The revolution brought a change of dynasty, supposed to commence with Rameses I. It is quite generally claimed that Rameses II was the king who so specially harried Israel and his son, Menephtah I, the Pharaoh of the Exodus. (Z. '07-126; R.3982)

Joseph ruled Egypt for eighty years. (Gen. 41:46; 50:22) The general peace and prosperity of Egypt under his rule possibly led to a general abandonment of the affairs of office by the royal family and thus paved the way for such a rebellion and change of dynasty—an ambitious family grasping the reigns of power after the death of Joseph and at a time, probably, when matters were not running so smoothly, by reason of the loss of the divinely-guided governor. (Z. '01-343; R.2900)

1:9 — THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL ARE MORE AND MIGHTIER

THAN WE — The Israelites held aloof from the Egyptians, not intermarrying or amalgamating otherwise. They were animated by certain hopes of their own future greatness and probably boasted a little of it. Dwelling largely with their flocks and herds in the open air, they were probably a stronger, more rugged race than the Egyptians. Even now the Jews, natural seed of Abraham, have the Lord's blessing on them physically in good degree. (Z. '07-126; R.3982)

Pharaoh was shrewd enough to realize that if he could use that people as his slaves, they would enrich the Egyptians much by furnishing labor at the mere nominal cost of their sustenance.

1:10 — GET THEM UP OUT OF THE LAND — Pharaoh did not wish to drive the Israelites away, nor destroy them, but merely to check their further marvelous increase, or that they might become the dominant race. He sought to discourage the ambitions of the people by overwork under discouraging conditions and rigorous treatment, hoping thus that they would lose their virility, or possibly make them feel that they did not want to bring forth children to such a burdensome life. The king realized that they had no ties to Egypt or its throne and their further growth would be inimical to the empire's welfare. The Israelites were valuable to the Egyptians in the way of trade. (Z. '01-343, 346; R.2900)

1:11 — AFFLICT THEM WITH THEIR BURDENS — This would not mean that the Israelites as a whole were compelled to leave their industries and labor thus, but that drafts were made from time to time on the people, like the conscriptions for the army in Germany, France, Russia, Italy—the Corvee system of enforced labor. Solomon introduced such a system in Israel, compelling each man to serve so many months on public works. The same system is used now in some countries where the farmer may pay such a proportion of his taxes in money and the rest in labor. The system, rightly operated, would be no more an injustice to the people than an ordinary tax. But evidently Rameses' object was to injure the people under the guise of public works and necessary taxation. (Z. '01-344; R.2900)

PITHOM — “Pi-tum,” or the house of Tum, the Egyptian god of the setting sun. Pithom was discovered in 1883-4 by M. Naville near the Suez Canal, about twelve miles east of Ismalia. The town is square, enclosed by a great wall 22’ high and 600’ along each side, containing about ten acres. Nearly the whole of its space is occupied by solidly built square chambers separated by walls 10’ or 8’ thick, unpierced by windows or doors or any openings. The entrance was from the top. The brick (some specimens are now in the British Museum and the Metropolitan Museum of New York) were usually 4" to 8" square and 1" to 2-1/2" thick, unbaked, but very hard. A confirmation of the Bible story and proof that it was one of the cities built by the Hebrews is that the lower courses of these walls and for some distance up are of well-made brick with chopped straw in them, but higher up the courses of brick are not so good, the straw is long and scanty, and the last courses have no straw at all, but sedges, rushes and water plants, baked in the mud. (Z. '07-127; R.3982)

1:12 — THE MORE THEY MULTIPLIED — Pharaoh did not take divine providence into account.

1:13 — TO SERVE WITH RIGOR — The Israelites were compelled to learn the trades and occupations of their masters. They had been, from Abraham’s time, a pastoral people and, by this very operation, they were forced, as it were, into an industrial school in the foremost civilization of that day. It was a severe training, but a very useful one, and undoubtedly a grand preparation for the necessities that lay before them. (Z. '13-191; R.5264)

1:14 — THEY MADE THEIR LIVES BITTER — These were not the ordinary changes of life to which all are subject. Divine providence was mingled with all of Israel’s experiences: (a) the natural seed was to furnish a type of Spiritual Israel (1 Cor. 10:11); (b) they served to make that people of much stronger character than they would otherwise have been. To be a subject race would develop humility, meekness, as in Moses. Their troubles would bind them together as one nation. Their harsh treatment like slaves would make them mindful of the Abrahamic promise.

These lessons were valuable to them for the Lord designed to develop from them some of his chosen servants and the Messiah and the Apostles, as well as the prophets. Behind a frowning providence God hides a smiling face. For a time God’s favor was hidden from them, he was merely waiting for the most favorable time to be gracious to them, in a time and manner that would be most favorable to them and most in accord with his own arrangement for blessing them and all mankind. Trouble is a great teacher. It appeals to the heart much more than does prosperity and points us to the Lord as the great caretaker. David said that it was good for him that he was afflicted, for before that he had gone astray. So Israel would have been far more astray without the tribulations which led them to call on the Lord and which brought to them Moses as their deliverer. Man's fallen nature is so weak that he needs trouble to keep him aright. (Z. '07-127; R.3982)

Lessons for us. How often does the Lord allow Egypt (the world) to oppress his people, financially, socially, religiously, at home or in the shop? The great oppressor, typified by Pharaoh, is Satan, the great taskmaster. To what an extent he uses our weaknesses. And his attacks are specially, not upon the world, or the wicked, but upon the Lord's peculiar people, his jewels, who have made a covenant with the Lord by sacrifice and whose deliverance at the hands of the antitypical Moses he has promised. The Master assures us that in all our temptations we can reckon on his assistance. As the effect of Israel's tribulations was to make them cry to the lord for assistance promised, so all of our trying experiences with the world, flesh and Satan, and the bondage of sin and death, leads us to look to the Lord from whom cometh our help, to wait for his Son from heaven and to expect our deliverance at his hand and also that of the whole groaning creation at his second advent. So all these trials work out for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory, if we are rightly exercised thereby. As true Israelites we have confidence in the Abrahamic Covenant, as an anchor to our souls. (Z. '07-127; R.3982)

So God is able to make all life's experiences work to our advantage and we may be sure his word will be fulfilled in due time. Had Pharaoh used a different policy in dealing with Israel they might have forgotten God's promises—they might have become interested in Egypt and its affairs and their land of Goshen and have intermingled with the people of Egypt and so forgotten the promise. So with us, our adversity draws us closer together and away, separate from the world, and causes us to look at the heavenly things. As the Israelites were more fruitful under persecution, so often with us—the zeal increases, and fruits of the spirit, and numbers. (Z. '01-344; R.2900)

1:22 — EVERY SON THAT IS BORN YE SHALL CAST INTO THE RIVER — Here Pharaoh displayed far more cruelty than the notorious Herod who slaughtered the babes of Bethlehem, for Rameses II commanded every male parent to slaughter his own male children and held responsible all who failed to do so. (Z. '07-126; R.3982)

Evidently there was no such restriction when Aaron was born. Moses was third in the family, Miriam second.

2:1 — A MAN OF THE HOUSE OF LEVI — Amram, noble or exalted people.

A DAUGHTER OF LEVI — Jochebed, Jehovah is glorious. See margin. These names imply that this family of Levi were persons of religious and moral sentiments, noble in the proper sense. See also Heb. 11:23.

2:2 — A GOODLY CHILD — Fine looking, giving promise of being the great man he afterwards became. His parents had faith —not faith in the child, but in God that he would bless and preserve the child. Doubtless even before the child was born the godly, faithful parents consecrated it to the Lord, to be trained for him and instructed to the best of their ability. Without some such hopes and prayers, the faith which Paul mentions would be inappropriate. Faith, prayers and consecrations go hand in hand. (Z. '01-346; R.2900)

2:3 — SHE PUT THE CHILD THEREIN — The parents did right in these arrangements and instructions to Miriam, to use all their ingenuity for the preservation of Moses. At the same time, they exercised faith in the Lord. So with us, our faith is not to be of the indolent kind which refuses to act and would thus fail to be ready to be used for the Lord, but is to be manifested by such works as we can. The Lord is pleased with such faith. (Z. '01-346; R.2900)

LAI D IT IN THE FLAGS BY THE RIVER'S BRINK — Moses here is very like Christ Jesus, Jesus was saved, when a child, from a similar edict about babes in Bethlehem. He was a fair and a beautiful child. (Acts 7:20; Heb. 11:23) So Jesus was a perfect human being. Moses was saved through Pharaoh's daughter, so Jesus fled into Egypt and was under its protection until Herod died. The ark of bulrushes (papyrus reeds) brings to mind reeds of papyrus, paper, books, vessels of bulrushes (Isa. 18) the message about the great Mediator soon to be, and about God's plan is now sent out in books from U.S. to all parts of the world.

2:4 — HIS SISTER — Miriam, perhaps now about nine years old.

2:5 — CAME DOWN TO WASH HERSELF — Evidently there were not then many alligators in the river.

BY THE RIVER'S SIDE — Probably near Memphis, then probably the capital of Egypt. The household of Amram dwelt under the shadow of the pyramids, those artificial mountains, the most impressive monuments ever raised by the hands of man. (Rawlinson) (Z. '07-138; R.3988)

2:7 — SHE MAY NURSE THE CHILD FOR THEE — Probably instructed so to do by her mother.

2:9 — I WILL GIVE THEE THY WAGES — Thus the family fortunes were helped and full protection assured.

2:10 — MOSES — Moses represents Christ.

- (1) Moses renounced riches and power to suffer with his people. So Jesus left the heavenly riches and glory and became poor to suffer for his people. (2 Cor. 8:9; Matt. 8:20; Phil. 2:8-10)
- (2) Moses saved from death while yet a child. Jesus saved from Herod. (Matt. 2:16)
- (3) Moses was a fair and beautiful child. So Jesus was perfect and increased in favor with God and man. (Luke 2:52)
- (4) Moses was preserved, kept in an ark of bulrushes. (See Isa. 18.) God's message sent later in messages of paper.
- (5) Moses offered his service and was rejected, but returned and was accepted as the deliverer after 40 years. So Jesus was rejected because of the Jew's evil heart, and he will come again and be accepted and be ruler.
- (6) Moses delivered Israel from Egypt. So Jesus will deliver the world from sin and Satan.
- (7) Moses was mediator of the Law Covenant. Jesus is the mediator of the New Covenant.
- (8) Moses built the typical tabernacle. Jesus built the true tabernacle (Heb. 8:2; 9:11) from God's directions.
- (9) Satan contended for the body of Moses. So he contends for the body of Christ. (Zech. 3) The Lord rebuke thee.
- (10) Song of the Moses—Song of the Lamb.
- (11) Wife of Moses an Ethiopian. Jesus' bride mostly called from the Gentiles and actually sinful.
- (12) Moses was great, wise, just, merciful, powerful, patient, meek. So Christ is the greater prophet (Heb. 3:3), all the treasure of wisdom and knowledge are hid in him. (Col. 2:3), the just one (Jas. 5:6; 1 Pet. 3:18), a merciful high priest in perfect love, all power is given unto him in heaven and earth, he was perfect in patience and meek and lowly. (Matt. 11:29)
- (13) Moses cut off all wilful opposers in death. So Christ will cut off all wilful opposers in the second death.

- (14) Moses summoned to Mt. Pisgah at 120 years of age in full vigor of manhood, unimpaired, to die—the land was not for him. So the Christ is given a beautiful vision of restitution, but the earthly inheritance is not for us, but for the world. We enter a larger service to lead men back to God.
- (15) Moses was unselfish and rejoiced to lay down his life for the people. So the Christ rejoices to lay down their lives for the world. (Ex. 32:31, 32)

BECAUSE I DREW HIM OUT OF THE WATER — Some translate the word (Moses) to mean “delivered from the water” in the sense of “born from the water,” supposing the princess meant that she had borne Moses as her son from the water. (Z. '07-139; *R.*3988)

2:11 — WHEN MOSES WAS GROWN — When he was full 40 years of age. He was learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians. His mother had doubtless taught him about the Abrahamic promises and his relationship to the Israelites and a patriotic feeling of devotion was inculcated, because these qualities shine out so grandly in his life as they could not have done unless they had been thoroughly taught and cherished. There was probably a high civilization in Moses' time. See “Zoan” (Isa. 19). (Z. '01-347; *R.*2900)

Josephus says that, as a man, he was so handsome that passers by would stop to gaze at him and even laborers would stop, forget their tasks in the spell of his rare beauty. Stephen says (Acts 7:20) he was exceeding fair (margin, fair to God), (Z. '07-138; *R.*3988) signifying refined, elegant.

These natural traits, with his godly training, and later instruction, must have made a very noble, refined and handsome man. Yet, with all this, he was the “meekest man in all the earth.” (Num. 12:3) This meekness was largely received from the poverty of his parents, their subjection to bondage, their humble faith and his godly training. It was remarkable that a man so truly great and so exalted should have overcome the haughty spirit of prince and been meek, with so slight an exception, to the end of his career. Yet even with him, his long leadership so far overcame his meekness that he took to himself some of the credit of bringing water out of the rock. (Num. 20:7-13) No other, but a meek character, could have stood such a strain as Moses stood so grandly and faithfully. He was here a fit type of Jesus and all who will be like him. The learning of the Egyptians included reading, arithmetic, writing, geometry, astronomy, medicine, music. Stanley's “Jewish Church” also says, “He invented boats, building engines, instruments of war and hydraulics, hieroglyphics, division of lands,” that he taught Orpheus and was called by the Greeks, Musaeus, and by the Egyptians, Hermes. (Z. '01-348; *R.*2902)

An eminent writer says, “According to Josephus, the Ethiopians made an incursion into Egypt and routed the army that was sent to resist them. Panic spread over the country and Pharaoh trembled at the approach of the swarthy savages. The oracles, well aware of his remarkable abilities, advised that the command be entrusted to Moses. He immediately took the field, surprised the enemy, defeated them with heavy slaughter, drove them back into their own territory and followed them up so hard, capturing one city after another, that they found no asylum until they reached the swamp-girdled city of Meroe. Moses is said to have returned from this campaign the most popular man in the kingdom, having also learned thoroughly the weakness and strength of the people and of Pharaoh. (Z. '07-139; R.3988)

As Moses was learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians and mighty in word and deed, so those whom God is now training as members of the great Mediator are in the school of Christ, learning by experiences and precept things needed to fit them for their exalted position by and by. These are required to manifest character—be mighty in word and deed for the Lord and the truth. He is reckoning these to us according to our heart, so that even the smallest word or act done through loyalty to him is counted as mighty through God to the pulling down of strongholds of error, and to the establishing ultimately of the kingdom of God under the whole heavens. (Z. '07-140; R.3989)

Egypt at this time had two great universities, at Heliopolis and Hermopolis. Moses was probably educated at the former, about twenty miles north of Memphis. He had at his disposal the library of the Rameseum at Thebes (built by Rameses II) containing 20,000 books (papyrus rolls) (Z. '07-139; R.3988)

HE WENT OUT— Typifying that when the time was fully ripe, Jesus came. (The first 40 years (Rom. 5:6) of Moses' life represent the Jewish Age) Moses here left Pharaoh's court and the riches of Egypt and preferred to be with his brethren who had the promises (Heb. 11:24-27), typifying how Christ left the heavenly courts with their glory and became poor (2 Cor. 8:9) that he might help this race.

UNTO — While with the Egyptians he was a sharer of the riches accruing to them through the oppression and bondage of the Israelites. Moses could no longer be a participator in the fruits of this wrong-doing, nor enjoy these pleasures of sin and injustice. We see here his moral rectitude, love of justice, he was naturally high-minded, noble, just. How many nowadays, living under the light of the Gospel and of the Holy Spirit at the present time would do thus nobly? How many would be willing to enjoy the fruits of sin and injustice, to continually receive and enjoy wealth and luxuries known to be wrung unjustly from poor unfortunates, inclined to console themselves with the thought that they were not directly responsible for the oppression, whose profits they would nevertheless enjoy? How noble was Moses' course! (Z. '01-359; R.2909)

HIS BRETHREN — His brethren, his own, the Jewish people.

LOOKED ON — His heart was always with them. He knew of the Abrahamic promise and, perhaps, reasoning from the wonderful way God had kept him and that the time foretold to Abraham in Gen. 15 when the deliverance was to come (Acts 7:17, 25; Ex. 12:40, 41, 51) was nearly up, he thought or believed that he was the one God intended to use. (Z. '01-360; R.2909)

THEIR BURDENS — Jesus had compassion on the poor, sin-sick world. Moses saw the injustice heaped upon them and their hard bondage and his heart went out to them.

2:12 — HE SLEW THE EGYPTIAN — Typifying the work of Christ at his first advent.

HID HIM IN THE SAND — Thinking perhaps that nothing further would be known of it and the Israelites would be helped some and would surely keep the secret of his defense of them.

2:14 — WHO MADE THEE A PRINCE AND A JUDGE OVER US — Typifying the Jew's rejection of Christ at his first advent.

THOU KILLEST THE EGYPTIAN — The one who was in the wrong probably flung this in his face. (Acts 7:27)

2:15 — HE SOUGHT TO SLAY MOSES — The Hebrew words indicate that he tried to slay Moses quietly, a difficult task because Moses was very popular.

MOSES FLED — Jesus went into a far country, heaven.

FROM THE FACE OF PHARAOH — He realized that it was not yet God's time to deliver them.

LAND OF MIDIAN — Midian, strife, typified the world and that Christ's body, the church, would be in the world, the land of strife, during the Gospel Age. Israel was in bondage in Egypt, so the world has been in bondage to sin and Satan, in spiritual Egypt. (Rev. 11:8) Moses alone was free, so Jesus alone was free from sin and death and Satan. Moses slew the Egyptians to save one of his own people, so Jesus sacrificed his humanity to save the race. At this time, Moses could save only one, so at the end of the Jewish Age the Law Covenant could give life to only one and He gave that to save the race. Moses was learned in all the wisdom of Egypt, Jesus was filled with wisdom and knew what was in man, and besides had the knowledge he gained in his long existence with the Father. (Isa. 53:11)

HE SAT DOWN — Moses knew well of his miraculous preservation and had the full assurance of God's promise that it signified that God had an important work for him to do. He was ready and anxious to begin that work. (Just as Jesus was at twelve years of age.) He knew not of his own unreadiness. Nothing was further from his thoughts than that he would require forty years more of special schooling. Supposing that the time had come to strike for liberty, he was on the alert. He would inspire his people with confidence in him. Moses was thoroughly discouraged. It looked as though all of his loyalty and all of his forty years of education and development had gone to waste. He had supposed that he was being prepared to be the Captain of the Lord's host and to lead it forth. In one hour all his hopes were dashed and he was a fugitive, fearing to show his face in the palace, among the Egyptians, or among those of his own race. "A wasted life" was undoubtedly his comment.

He who was learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians and who had been one of the generals of Egypt was now thoroughly crestfallen, meek, tractable, teachable. Moses was all those years learning an important lesson of full submission to the divine will. So the church now is learning humility and submission to the divine will. (Z. '13-171; R.5252)

WELL — The Holy Spirit of truth. Jesus has been sitting by this well to water his people.

2:16 — PRIEST OF MIDIAN — Jehovah, seven daughters. Jether = Jethro = Ithra = Excellence.

SEVEN DAUGHTERS — The nominal churches or sects are called seven women in Isa. 4:1. These would typify God's people in the various sects who come to the Holy Spirit through the Bible to get the water of life, the truth, and water God's flock among them.

TO WATER THEIR FATHER'S FLOCK — Their original intention was to draw water and water God's flock, but shepherds drove them away.

2:17 — AND DROVE THEM AWAY — So the hireling shepherds try to keep the full truth away from God's people and to serve and feed themselves rather than the flock. (Ezek. 34)

WATERED THEIR FLOCK — So Jesus has helped his true people to get the truth in spite of the false shepherds.

2:19 — AN EGYPTIAN DELIVERED US — Moses' natural nobility and training made him chivalrous.

2:21 — TO DWELL WITH THE MAN — Moses' wanderings for forty years over and through that wilderness made him thoroughly familiar with every road, hill and stream in it. Little did he know how valuable it would be to him by and by when he was to lead Israel through this very wilderness. Moses doubtless learned many lessons of patience and humility and obedience. So with us, many experiences that come to us through the rejection of our efforts to serve by others, their lack of appreciation, etc., while it is disheartening, nevertheless the Lord overrules it for our blessing, thereby teaching us lessons which we otherwise could not learn, to prepare and fit us for future service.

So the church now, in the wilderness condition, has been learning all the ways through the desert from sin, for by and by we, as part of the great Mediator and king, are to lead the world through like experiences to overcome sin and reach perfection. As Moses' service was rejected by the wrong-doing Israelite and yet gladly accepted by the heathen, so Jesus' services were rejected by the hypocritical Jews and later were gladly accepted by the Gentiles. (Acts 13:46)

HE GAVE MOSES ZIPPORAH — Typifying the bride of Christ called out of the Gentile world during the Gospel Age.

2:22 — SHE BARE HIM A SON — This was overruled by the Lord for the good of his people. The woman, being an African, a black, the children would be Mulattoes and so would have less respect among the Israelites than if children by an Israelite maid. For if they had been of pure Israelitish stock, after Moses' death the people might have established a ruling line in his family which was not the divine purpose. (Z. '01-360; R.2909) (See Ex. 18:1-6; 4:25; Num. 12:1; 1 Chron. 23:14-17; 26:24; Deut. 23:7, 8)

3:1 — MOSES KEPT THE FLOCK — And all this time Moses had received no word from the Lord, in forty years. Did he lose faith? We now have messages special from the Lord every few years, and often minor ones. How do we compare with Moses? Are we learning patience?

OF JETHRO, HIS FATHER-IN-LAW — Typifying Jesus taking care of His Father's flock, the Church.

TO THE BACKSIDE OF THE DESERT — Leeser—"far away into the desert," typifying how Jesus has led his flock through the desert, the world, to Mt. Zion. (Heb. 12)

EVEN TO HOREB — Typifying the close of the Gospel Age, when the church passes to the heavenly phase at death and much light is given.

3:2 — THE ANGEL OF THE LORD — The text shows that it was an angel, messenger of Jehovah, who appeared representing him and used Jehovah's name. But the highest and most honored messenger should not be confounded with the one he represents, in whose name he speaks, and whose power he exercised and bestowed upon Moses. (See Gen.19:1) (E46) (See also Acts 7:35)

APPEARED UNTO HIM — This pictures how Jehovah tells Jesus the mission of the second advent and the work. As in chapter 4:10, Jesus is not now a man and God provided him with a mouthpiece. (C. T. Russell) These words were therefore also to the mouthpiece.

THE BUSH BURNED WITH FIRE — This bush was supposedly of acacia wood, the kind used in the tabernacle, and hence would seem to refer to the great understanding of tabernacle types which came in 1881 to C. T. Russell, the mouthpiece.

THE BUSH WAS NOT CONSUMED — One of the most remarkable plants in the world is certainly the so-called Burning Bush, Dictamnus Fraxinella. This species is native to western Asia, though now to be found in gardens in temperate regions. A great many people who grow the plant are quite unaware of its strange habits. As a matter of fact the Dictamnus secretes a fragrant, essential oil in great abundance. This is produced in specially large quantities by the flower stems, in warm weather volatilizing so that the air surrounding the plant is impregnated. Further, this vapor is highly inflammable, and if a naked flame is brought near the plant the fumes at once take fire with a most singular result. The whole plant is surrounded with crackling, shooting flames, reddish in color and leaving a highly aromatic odor behind them.

The Burning Bush is not injured in any way by the fire, for the flames do not actually come in contact with the plant itself. Several conditions are needful if the experiment with the burning bush is to be a success. It is essential that the air should be very dry and warm and there should be practically no wind. The best effects are secured only just after the opening of the flowers. It will be realized that these conditions cannot always be relied upon. A plan has recently been devised by which the inflammable nature of the gases given out by the dictamnus may be shown with startling effect. A strong plant of the burning bush is raised in a pot. At the time when the flowers are just reaching perfection the plant is placed in a glass jar or a shade. This is closely covered for some hours before the time for the experiment. On removing the cover a light is held over the plant when there is at once a tremendous outburst of flame. So great is the rush of fire that it is wise to keep one's face away from the top of the jar, a nasty burn is not out of the question. After an interval of about an hour or so with the jar covered up, the experiment may be repeated with similar results. It is rather remarkable that the species is common where the incident of Moses and the Burning Bush is said to have occurred. (Z. '17-53; R.6044)

3:3 — I WILL NOW TURN ASIDE — How many are attracted by the antitype— God's preserving power in the Church?

WHY THE BUSH IS NOT BURNT — An illustration of the Church in tabernacle condition, surrounded by fiery trials, distresses, severe afflictions, and yet has not been consumed; they emerge from these unscathed, yea blessed, developed, strengthened, made meet for the inheritance of the saints in light. (Z. '07-141; R.3989)

3:4 — HE TURNED ASIDE TO SEE — Moses went out of his way to investigate and the Lord revealed a great truth to him. So we turned aside to investigate, so C. T. Russell, and the Lord gave him the great light on the tabernacle. Bush represents tabernacle and finally the church.

3:5 — DRAW NOT NIGH HITHER — A lesson of reverence. If even Moses needed from the Lord a lesson in humility as his first instruction from the Lord, how much more we? Let us see to it that reverence marks our words and conduct at every step of the way. (Z. '07-141; R.3989)

PUT OFF THY SHOES — Lay aside the ordinary conduct of life by which we are in contact with the world. (Z. '07-141; R.3989)

C. T. Russell, as the mouthpiece, has surely done this. He owned warehouses in Pittsburgh, and interests in oil wells, and sold most of it out so that he could devote whole time to the Lord's work, interest and strength.

HOLY GROUND — The Court of the Tabernacle was Holy Ground, consecrated to God's use. (Psa. 74:1-9)

3:6 — I AM THE GOD OF THY FATHER — By this means God brought to Moses a clear understanding of what this experience (the burning bush) signified. God reminded him of the special covenant with Abraham, renewed with Isaac and confirmed with Jacob for an everlasting covenant. God had not forgotten the good things he had promised. Thus Moses' faith and hope must have been re-established. If, during those forty years Moses had often wondered whether God really cared for the Israelites and why he permitted them to be oppressed by the Egyptians, he now had God's own assurance that He did know it, that He did care, and that for some good reason He had waited all these years and withheld help which He, at any time, had been able to give. (Z. '13-189; R.5261)

THE GOD OF ABRAHAM — Proving that these were not to remain dead to all eternity, but were sure of a resurrection. See marginal references.

AFRAID TO LOOK UPON GOD — He realized his own imperfections and that God was perfect and just and pure.

3:8 — I AM COME DOWN TO DELIVER — God expressly declares himself to be the deliverer and had Moses been disposed to boast of his own powers and doings we presume that the Lord would have found another to do the work. When the Lord sends us on any special mission we may be sure that he does not want us to undertake it as our own mission nor to claim the honor of the success attending it. He merely designs to use us as his instruments, whereas he could do the work much easier, we might say, without us. How wonderful it seems that God has been willing to use His consecrated people in His dealings, past and present. He tells them that they are unworthy, but he assures them on the other hand of his willingness to use their imperfections and to overrule and guide in respect to their services for him and his cause. (Z.'07-142; R.3990)

TO BRING THEM UP — Here the Lord tells Moses that he has not been negligent of the interest of Israel. By these words he allows him to understand that not until this time had the appropriate moment come for interference on behalf of Israel. And this thought of the divine knowledge, sympathy and care and waiting for a due time would give Moses all the more confidence in the Lord's ability to do according to his own good purposes when his time had come. So with us, if we look back over the past 1800 years and more of this Gospel Age and perceive how the Lord's cause has been permitted to be overwhelmed by the forces of evil during the "Dark Ages" (Matt. 11:12) and even yet we stand amazed and might be inclined to say: "Does not God know? Does not God care? that he allows his own name to be dishonored and his truth to be trampled under foot and his faithful people to suffer?" The Lord assures us that He knows all about these matters and is very sympathetic, far more so than we, and he is both able and willing to grant the deliverance at the proper time.

What confidence it gives us when we look back and see how spiritual Israel has been preserved through all these fiery trials and affliction and adversity through all these centuries, and in spite of all these that burned against them, they have not been consumed! How it comforts and cheers our hearts to hear the Lord's voice telling us of the deliverance that is just at hand and sending by us his messages of love and power to all those who have an ear to hear and are desirous of having liberty from the power of the world, the flesh and the adversary. O, Yes! we occupy holy ground! (Z.'07-142; R.3900)

UNTO THE PLACE OF — Six nations.

3:10 — ISRAEL OUT OF EGYPT — Picturing the second advent of Christ. As Moses returned with his bride and delivered the Israelites, so Jesus will return with his bride at the second advent to the world and will deliver the world from sin and death and Satan.

3:11 — MOSES SAID UNTO GOD — Not stopping even to tell the Lord of his appreciation of being chosen to undertake this great work, Moses was overwhelmed with the thought that the Lord would deign to use him as a messenger and promptly disclaimed any qualifications therefor, and felt as he said, that there were others much more capable of the work than himself. But was it not this very appreciation of his own unworthiness that helped to make him suitable for the Lord's business? So with us, when we are weak then are we strong—when we feel weak in our own strength, then are we best prepared to be strong in the Lord and in the power of His might and to be used of him as instruments. (Z. '07-142; R.3990)

WHO AM I — This meant, "Lord surely you know that I am a failure. With all the educational advantages that I had I am fit for nothing better than to be a sheep tender. Lord, surely there must be someone more competent than I for the leadership of Israel, else I fear that my people will never get out of Egypt." Moses was cautious and inquired and offered objections. Surely it must be that the Lord was merely trying him to see if he would be rash enough to undertake such a matter, but really intending to use someone else. But, no! "I will be with thy mouth, and teach thee what thou shalt say." (Ex. 4:10, 12) (Z. '13-189; R.5261)

THAT I SHOULD BRING FORTH — Moses here is humble. He recognized that the Lord was the deliverer.

THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL OUT OF EGYPT — The first forty years of Moses' life were an ordinary schooling, the next forty a special schooling in meekness. He was now ready for service at exactly the time God wanted to use him. So thoroughly discouraged had he become that he who was ready to lead the hosts of Israel without a special divine commission was now so distrustful of himself that even when called of the Lord, he apologized, pleading his unfitness. He did not realize that he had only then become fit. So now, many of God's people little realize the importance of meekness, submission, teachableness. "Humble yourselves therefor under the mighty hand of God that he may exalt you in due time." (Z. '13-189; R.5261)

3:12 — CERTAINLY I WILL BE WITH THEE — "Your weakness will be perfected in my strength." This being true, how could the mission be a failure? (Ex. 33:14, 15) So with us, if the Lord be for us and with us, how can the work fail? While feeling our unworthiness of so great an honor, let us remember that God is with us and, that since it is His work, it will go forward and accomplish the designs intended and gather out eventually all that are truly the Lord's, whether we be faithful or unfaithful. The Lord will do the work and the whole question is whether or not we will have a glorious share in it as members. (Z. '07-142: R.3990)

YE SHALL SERVE GOD UPON THIS MOUNTAIN — The Lord assures Moses that the work would be a success and its success would be a proof that God had sent him. So the success of the harvest work under Bro. Russell will be a proof that God sent him. (See Ezek. 33:30-33) The matter began to take tangible shape before Moses' mind. (Z. '07-142; R.3990)

3:13 — WHAT SHALL I SAY TO THEM? — Moses' mind probably went back to his former attempt forty years before. The Israelites, long in association with the Egyptians, had doubtless lost some of their faith in the God of their fathers. Their heathen neighbors and masters, the Egyptians, recognized various gods and seem to greatly prosper and it is altogether probable that the Israelites had by this time begun to wonder which God they would count as theirs. Their weakness seems to be shown thus by their making of the golden calf. (Z. '07-142; R.3990)

3:14 — I AM THAT I AM — Jehovah. (Ex. 6:3)

I AM — Eyeyeh, (Heb.) from the same root as Jehovah.

4:1 — THEY WILL NOT BELIEVE ME — Moses had in mind the doubt and ingratitude of the children of Israel on his former attempt. The assurance of God that he would be able to give these Israelites these demonstrations that God had sent him to them encouraged and strengthened Moses' confidence in God and made up for his lack of confidence in himself. So we are not to have confidence in ourselves, but going forth strong in the Lord and the power of His might, confident and rejoicing because he is with us, we are not only safe ourselves, but are in the proper condition for the Lord to more and more use us in his service. (Z. '07-143; R.3991)

4:2 — A ROD — The voice of the three signs: a rod symbolizes authority. Moses' rod was frequently used in connection with the plagues as a symbol of divine authority.

4:3 — CAST IT ON THE GROUND — The voice of the first sign. This sign has already been given. Zion's Watch Tower and Herald of Christ's Presence was founded in 1879 and its voice announced that the second advent of our Lord had already taken place, that he was present, but invisible, a spirit being not possible to be seen by any, not even by his Church until changed; that he is present for the purpose of establishing his kingdom and delivering his saints and the whole groaning creation from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the sons of God. It was remarkable that very shortly a special number of this journal was issued with the significant title, “Food for Thinking Christians, Why Evil was Permitted.” This voice or testimony was spread abroad among Spiritual Israelites in an extraordinary manner, over 1,500,000 copies being circulated through the mails and at church doors throughout the United States, Canada and Great Britain. (Z. '01-377; R.4058)

IT BECAME A SERPENT — A serpent symbolizes evil and its consequences, evil in general. The teaching here is that all the evil and sin in the world now is the result directly or indirectly of God's having let go the rod of his authority. When sin entered the world, God gave mankind over, (Rom. 1:21-26; Acts 14:17; 17:30), let them take their course, let the rod of divine authority drop, “rested from his own work,” permitting sin and evil to flourish, not, however intending that it should be so forever, but intending and foretelling that in due time he would set up a kingdom in the person of the Messiah who will “lay hold of that old serpent, the devil and Satan and restrain his power.” Thus we see that the evil in the world is the result of God's having let go his authority (rod), not the result of his inability to hold his authority, nor in any sense the outworking of the authority in his hand. (Z. '07-278; R.4058)

4:4 — IT BECAME A ROD IN HIS HAND — Thus it is God's intention, as he has promised, to take hold upon the present evil conditions which have lasted more than 6,000 years and bring order out of confusion, to re-establish his authority in his own hands. So God will ultimately bring all evil conditions back to subjection and harmony with divine law and authority—destroying the evil connected therewith. It shows also how complete will be the restraint of evil and its complete annihilation when the Lord shall take his great power and reign. 4:6 — PUT NOW THINE HAND INTO THINE BOSOM — A hand is a symbol of power, here divine power.

WHEN HE TOOK IT OUT — (Psa. 74:11.)

LEPROUS AS SNOW — Leprosy is a symbol of sin. The lesson here would seem to be that divine power was first manifested without sin or imperfection or blemish. Then that the same divine power was hidden for a time and after ward manifested in sin and imperfection; and third, that the same divine power, hidden again for a time, will subsequently be manifested without sin. How is this? The teaching does not apply to evil in general, but to sin in particular; not to the world in general, but to the people of God—to those whom God uses as his agents or representatives—his hand, his power in the world. God's power was originally manifested unblemished, but during the Gospel Age he is represented by his consecrated people, members of Christ's body, his ambassadors, but they are leprous, actually imperfect, though reckoned perfect in Christ. As the world sees them they are blemished, yet they have been the hand or power of God in the world for more than 1800 years.

4:7 — IT WAS TURNED AGAIN AS HIS OTHER FLESH — But by and by, they are to be received into his bosom and changed in the first resurrection, so that when manifest again in the future they will be without sin (Eph. 5:27) and will again be the Lord's agent for stretching forth his rod and bringing the plagues upon the world (Egypt) and delivering the rest of his people. (Z. '07-279; R.4059)

4:8 — THE LATTER SIGN — Voice of the second sign. The clear understanding of this subject is peculiar to our day. Never before was distinctly seen the relationship between justification, sanctification and deliverance; that justification is of divine grace, accepted through faith; that sanctification implies works and sacrifices based on justification; and that to these justified and consecrated ones who faithfully overcome by the grace of God in Christ shall be granted a share in the First Resurrection, into the divine nature. This special testimony came through a special channel—the Millennial Dawn series, the first of which was published in 1886. The united testimony of these relates to the church, showing original sin, the first step out of it into justification through faith in Christ; the second step of self-sacrifice; and the ultimate change in the First Resurrection to the divine nature, glory and joint-heirship. The ransom sacrifice of our Lord is everywhere prominently set forth and also the fact that no absolute security is to be expected till the Lord take us to himself in our change. (Z. '01-375; R.4059)

4:9 — IF THEY WILL NOT BELIEVE — The Lord thus clearly intimates that a third sign would be necessary, that not all of his true people would hear or heed the voice of the first two testimonies.

THOU SHALT TAKE OF THE WATER — Voice of the third sign. Is there anything corresponding to this sign now in progress in the world? One that could be esteemed a sign or testimony to the true Israelites, such as never before was given? A very remarkable movement has been in progress during the past ten years (prior to 1901) during which the Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society has supplied tracts free in any quantity to those who would promise to use them judiciously. Millions of pages have thus been circulated, the truth being thus poured upon the symbolic earth, society, liberally, in many lands and languages, but especially has this pouring out of the water, truth, progressed wonderfully during the last three years. Volunteer Work, in which hundreds of God's consecrated people have systematically, season after season, distributed to Christian people tracts and booklets which our Society has supplied free; the donations covering the expense come in without urging or even request. But what is the effect of this pouring out of the waters upon the most enlightened peoples of the world, professed truth seekers? Is it gladly received, joyfully absorbed? Only by the few. The vast majority seem to be angered, as were the Scribes, Pharisees and Doctors of Divinity at the first advent when they saw the Lord and the Apostles were teaching the people, and that without money and without price. Nothing can be more evident than that the professed teachers of Christendom do not want to be taught themselves, nor want their people to be taught the truth. (Z. '01-378; R.4059)

SHALL BECOME BLOOD UPON THE DRY LAND — Water is here, as elsewhere, a symbol of truth. Earth is here, as elsewhere, a symbol of society. The pouring of the water upon the dry earth (society) would ordinarily mean a blessing to society—but in the type the water turned to blood; repulsive, abhorrent, symbolizing death, and this in the antitype would signify that the effect of the truth upon society would be contrary to what would be usually expected. For the last century society has been claiming to be searching high and low for the truth, but the time has come when these professed truth-seekers will reject the truth, disdain it; and to them it would seem loathsome, bloody, instead of being absorbed as truth. They not only view the Law Sacrifices as bloody but they resent the thought that the antitypical sacrifice for sins was the death of Jesus, that divine justice required this sacrifice and without shedding of blood there is no remission of sins. (Heb. 9:22) (Z. '07-278; R.4059)

4:10 — I AM NOT ELOQUENT — Man of words. Jesus is not now a man at all, but a spirit, so Jehovah provides him a human mouthpiece.

HERETOFORE — Moses, Christ at Second Advent. See margin, “since yesterday, nor since the third day,” fifth, sixth, and seventh 1000-year days.

OF A SLOW TONGUE — “I never was an orator that I could reason out this matter with Pharaoh. I should feel so abashed in coming into his presence and so feel my insignificance that I fear that I would not be able to present your message in a proper manner.” Later the meekest man in all the earth went to meet the greatest king of all the earth at that time, Pharaoh Menephtah. (Z. '07-143; R.3991)

What a change forty years had wrought in Moses! At its beginning, with modest confidence in himself as a leader, commander and law-giver for that people, he was ready and anxious to lead the Israelites, no doubt realizing by faith that God had prepared and educated him that he might have the proper qualifications. But now, when the Lord's time has come, his courage and self-confidence is upset and he protests to the Lord that he is totally unqualified. Now God needs to encourage him and Moses receives more deeply than he could forty years before the thought that Israel's deliverance was not to be by man or through man, but by the Lord himself, and that the man would be merely the Lord's representative. What a valuable lesson he was learning!

So we must learn that it is not our work, but God's, not our power or wisdom or greatness or learning, but the divine power which is working in and through us, mighty to the pulling down of strongholds of error, to lift up the weak and bring in the great salvation for the world. "Without me ye can do nothing." (Z.'01-361; R.2909)

4:11 — WHO MAKETH THE DUMB, OR DEAF — (See Isa. 42:19-21.) Dumb concerning himself; deaf to anything selfish, hears only Jehovah's message; blind to his own greatness, seeing only Jehovah's will and pleasure. True of Christ, and also of his mouthpiece, C. T. Russell, yet others may see the Scriptures that refer to him and how.

4:12 — I WILL BE WITH THY MOUTH — It is all Jehovah's plan and message.

4:13 — WHOM THOU WILT SEND — See note on Ex. 3:11, "Who Am I?"

4:14 — AARON THE LEVITE THY BROTHER — The mouthpiece, C. T. Russell.

HE CAN SPEAK WELL — Has a talent for public speaking, etc.

HE WILL BE GLAD IN HIS HEART — Bro. Russell was exceedingly glad to know of the Lord's presence.

4:15 — WILL TEACH YOU WHAT YE SHALL DO — See verse 30. It is all Jehovah's plan and message.

4:16 — HE SHALL BE THY SPOKESMAN — At Moses' second presentation to Israel he did not address Israel personally, directly, but Aaron was his mouth piece. So the Lord Jesus does not now address Spiritual Israel personally, but through his agents, his mouthpiece. Here Aaron represented the Royal Priesthood, those of the consecrated who have not yet passed beyond the second vail into glory. So the testimonies, voices, above are from our present Lord, but by or through the living members of his body. (Z.'07-277; R.4058)

HE SHALL BE TO THEE INSTEAD OF A MOUTH — As Jesus was, and is not human, so C. T. Russell is a mouth to him, instead of his becoming human again, or assuming human form.

INSTEAD OF GOD — Christ is God's representative to C. T. Russell.

4:17 — ROD — Divine Plan.

4:18 — RETURN UNTO MY BRETHREN — Note that Moses told Jethro only so much as he needed to know. He did not make public the things God intended only for Israel then.

4:21 — I WILL HARDEN HIS HEART — The Lord raised up to the throne of Egypt a man of iron will and perverse spirit who would not readily yield and upon whom therefore repeated and severe judgments would be necessary which would show divine power on behalf of Israel. Secondly, these would incidentally constitute a retribution against the whole people of Egypt as participators in the unjust oppression exercised upon Israel. Divine power would be better shown and retributive justice better rendered and a lesson for all time better written by the raising up to the throne of this man than by the raising up of any of the others who might have been heirs. (Z. '07-362; R.2911)

Neither here nor elsewhere did God interfere with the freedom of the will of any individual, whether among those who profess obedience to him or others. It was because of Pharaoh's repenting that the Lord stayed one after another of the plagues. But this goodness of God which should have led him to repentance (Rom. 2:4) led him in an opposite direction to greater hardness of heart. So of the world now—when the judgments of the Lord fall severely upon them there is a tendency to contrition, humility, repentance; but when the Lord's blessings abound there is the greater likelihood of those who are rebellious at heart to become hardened and unappreciative. (Z. '01-363; R.2911; Z. '07-151; R.3994)

So it was with Pharaoh and so it will be with the "powers that be" in the end of this age.

4:23 — I WILL SLAY THY SON, EVEN THY FIRSTBORN — Pharaoh and his people received a severe retribution for every evil they had inflicted upon the Israelites. Their firstborn became retributive representatives of the Israelitish babes they had caused to be drowned in the Nile; their flocks and herds and the crops that were destroyed by the locusts, insects, etc., and all the troubles upon them were retributive punishments for the unjust exactions made upon the Israelites. So the great troubles and losses that will come upon the "powers that be" will in some sense or degree be a retributive requirement, an offset for a not sufficiently benevolent and just treatment of many under their control in the present time when the blessings and inventions of our day should be accruing more generally to the benefit of the masses. (Z. '01-363; R.2911)

So the Lord will permit the wrath of man to work out retributive justice upon all oppressors.

4:27 — GO INTO THE WILDERNESS TO MEET MOSES — Typifying how the church, or particularly C. T. Russell, went into the wilderness, outside the nominal church favor and worldly cares and pleasures, to meet Christ.

IN THE MOUNT OF GOD — In God's mount, the spiritual phase of the kingdom, now being developed, Mt. Zion. (Heb. 12)

KISSED HIM — Greeted him with joy and tokens of love and appreciation.

4:30 — AARON SPAKE ALL THE WORDS — Undoubtedly Aaron did all the talking before Pharaoh and to the people, and Moses said nothing. Moses here, as the deliverer of Israel, would represent Christ at his second advent come to deliver the world, and Aaron would represent C. T. Russell.

IN THE SIGHT OF THE PEOPLE — So these signs were to convince all the true Israelites, not the Egyptians, and make their weak faith stronger. These signs would convince all true Israelites of the presence of the Lord and his mighty power to deliver. His ultimate victory over sin and Satan and death will be of or from our present Lord, but by or through the living members of His body, His brethren represented by Aaron. (Z. '01-376; R.4058)

5:2 — THAT I SHOULD OBEY HIS VOICE — To Pharaoh it seemed preposterous that the Egyptians should let go from them a skilful people who had been serving now for a good while as bondsmen and helping along amazingly to their general prosperity and wealth. Pharaoh determined that he would not for a moment encourage such a thought by the slightest sign of timidity, but on the contrary he would discourage it and cause that the people should feel that Moses and Aaron had done them an injury by their agitation. (Z. '07-150; R.3994)

So the great financiers and money kings, etc., are getting rich wrongfully by selfishly keeping to themselves the wealth earned by the people, robbing the people right and left of their just share. Likewise, as the people demand their proper share, these threaten and increase the hardship of the people. Likewise God will overthrow them.

5:3 — THREE DAYS JOURNEY — Nothing was said of their intention not to return, nor was it necessary to do so. They were not in a just sense bondsmen, they had not forfeited their liberties, either through war or debt, they had the same right to depart that they had to come into Egypt, and if their request for a temporary absence were granted, they could later determine whether or not they would return to Goshen. The request in this form made the trial of Pharaoh less severe. (Z. '01-362; R.2911)

5:7 — GATHER STRAW FOR THEMSELVES — See note on Ex. 1:11 under heading “pithom.”

5:9 — MORE WORK BE LAID UPON THE MEN — The proper attitude would have been—We have not been treating these people right, not according to the golden rule, as we would have them deal with us. We have been taking advantage of their situation and our power over them as a dominant race and have been taking their labor by brow-beating and force. We will seek to make amends, not only by giving them liberty, to which they have a right, but by pressing upon them as their rightful due a certain proportion of the wealth we have secured through their energies. We will say to them—Now whether you go to another land or whether you stay here is a matter for yourselves to decide, but we will be glad to have you a neighbors and for friends and deal with you a fellow-members of one race, according to the Golden Rule in connection with his dealings with the Israelites by reason of a contrary spirit among his counsellors and others of influence in the nation. (Z.'07-151: R.3994)

5:21 — THE LORD LOOK UPON YOU AND JUDGE — So likely it will be with many of the groaning creation in the near future. Their first efforts and aspirations towards the deliverance which the Lord has promised them will be resented by the “powers that be” and for a time their efforts to gain coveted blessings will seem to work to disadvantage. But, the effect in the end will be to more deeply impress upon all the evils of the present reign of sin selfishness, and make all more appreciative of Millennial blessings and liberties of righteousness when they shall be attained, and the more determined to follow the leadings of the Lord and be obedient to him that they may attain and retain that liberty. (Z.'01-362; R.2911)

5:23 — NEITHER HAS THOU DELIVERED THY PEOPLE — Moses appeared to forget that God told him that Pharaoh would not let the people go. (Ex. 4:21) He may therefore have been surprised at the result. See also Ex. 6:12.

6:3 — GOD ALMIGHTY — “El Shaddai,” the mighty, mighty one. This name is much used in the book of Job.

JEHOVAH — Jehovah, the self-existent or eternal one; from hawyaw, a prim. root, to exist, be or become, come to pass (always emphatic). (Strong's Conc.)

6:7 — BRINGETH YOU OUT FROM UNDER THE BURDENS — Pharaoh on the throne and the powers of Egypt picture Satan, the prince of this world, and the powers of this world. The antitype of Israel would be all of God's people who desire to worship and serve him, but who are in bondage to sin and Satan. The deliverance of Israel from Egypt typifies the deliverance in the end of this age of all who desire to come into harmony with God. And, correspondingly, the plagues that came upon Egypt and forced the deliverance of the Israelites, typified the great time of trouble coming upon the world in the end of this age, by which ultimately the power of the oppressor will be broken and all who desire full liberty to worship and serve God will be granted full opportunity; and as Pharaoh and his hosts, in seeking to interfere with the divine program, were destroyed, so Satan and all sympathizers and collaborators with him, seeking to interfere with the labors of those who desire to serve the Lord, will ultimately be overwhelmed and destroyed in the second death. (Z. '07-151; R.3994)

6:12 — HOW THEN SHALL PHARAOH HEAR ME — Alas for the frailty of human nature. In spite of the many times God had told him that Pharaoh would not willingly let the people go, but would need many severe chastisements, yet Moses continually expected the matter to be accomplished all at once. So now many have become disappointed that their expectations were not realized as they hoped. What matters it if our view on certain points does not prove to be correct? Should that make us lose faith in God? Rather it should make us eager to stick closely to the Bible and pay less attention to our own personal guesses. God is carrying out His plan as he originally intended. He has not changed it. If there has been error, it certainly has been on our side. Yet God will not be behind in His promise, for on the selfsame day, at the end of 430 years, He brought out Israel from Egypt. (Ex. 12:41; Hab. 2:3)

6:30 — I AM OF UNCIRCUMCISED LIPS — Not eloquent, as in Ex. 4:10.

7:4 — BY GREAT JUDGMENTS — The first nine of these plagues seem to divide themselves into three groups of three each, and to have covered a period of nine months—not that they were continually in force in that time, but that considerable intervals occurred between them. In the first three, Aaron's rod was used as a symbol of divine power. (7:19; 8:5, 16) (8:24; 9:6; 9:8-10) (9:22, 23; 10:12, 13; 10:21, 22) In the second three no rod was used, and in the last three Moses' rod was used. In each of the three series the first was with full warning, the second with less warning, the last with no warning. The first plague is supposed to have occurred in June, the last in the following April. In Revelation ten plagues are mentioned as the consummation of the present "evil world." There the first three plagues are called the "woe" trumpets, and following them come the seven last plagues. The first three apparently affect all, the last seven are restricted to those who are in opposition to the Lord. So it was in the plagues of Egypt—the first three affected the Israelites as well as the Egyptians, but from the last seven the Israelites were exempted. (Z. '07-151; R.3994)

7:10 — WENT IN UNTO PHARAOH — The first of these signs was done in the presence of Pharaoh.

AARON CAST DOWN HIS ROD — It was Moses' rod (Ex. 4:17) and Aaron was merely his representative in every act.

7:11 — SORCERERS — Magicians representing the theologians of today, whose minds, not morals, have become corrupted and who are reprobates, not morally, but as respects the faith. (2 Tim. 3:8) (S79)

THEY ALSO DID IN LIKE MANNER — The first two plagues also were imitated on a small scale by these magicians. Paul, in 2 Tim. 3:8, tells us these were Jannes and Jambres and, as they resisted Moses, so certain ones today resist the message of God at the hand of His servants and seek to produce counterfeit effects by the power of Satan. (Z. '07-152; R.3994)

7:12 — THEY BECAME SERPENTS — This fact may typify that, so far as the world is concerned, the first sign, which convinced the Israelites, will be claimed to be nothing new, that theologians all along have declared and thought that God was blessing evil things so that they result in good.

AARON'S ROD SWALLOWED UP THEIR RODS — But the view of the subject not displayed to God's people is so much more complete that it quite swallows up all their suggestions and theories of the past. What the Lord is now showing proves that not only some accidents are overruled for good, but that all evil of every kind is the result of the absence of the divine control, and that when the Lord shall shortly put forth His hand and again take control of earth's affairs, its evil conditions will give place to conditions in accord with the divine character and authority. (Z. '07-280; R.4060)

7:19 — THAT THEY MAY BECOME BLOOD — This caused serious inconvenience to the Egyptians who are noted as the most cleanly of all the orientals. Of course the thought must be that the water became bloodlike. Geike offers a not unreasonable suggestion regarding the basis of this miracle, that it was "the presence and inconceivably rapid growth of microscopic animals (infusoria) and minute cryptogamous plants of a red color." Ehrenberg in 1823 saw the whole bay of the Red Sea at Sinai turned into the color of blood by the presence of such plants. In Silliman's Journal there is an account of a fountain of blood in a cave and dogs ate it greedily. The cause of these wonders is a minute algae which grows so rapidly that it actually flows and is so small that there are from 40,656,000,000 to 824,736,000,000 plants in a cubic inch. Another writer says, concerning the Nile as he saw it one morning, "The entire mass of the waters was opaque and of a dark red color, more like blood than anything else to which I could compare it." (Monumental History of Egypt, Vol.1 p.10) (Z. '07-152; R.3994)

7:20 — RIVER WERE TURNED TO BLOOD — This is the punishment for breaking the first commandment. The Truth becomes repulsive. (Rom. 1:21-23, 28) Rod represents authority. God's law and His justice bring this curse upon the disobedient, the dislike of the truth. Streams represent the channels of truth. The true message would become repulsive wherever it appeared. Why? Because the mind, having rejected God, replaced him by some selfish idol which would allow them to cater to the fallen appetites. (The recognition of the true God compels us to keep the old fallen appetites and earthly things in restraint, and the fallen nature doesn't like that.) The mind wishes to get rid of what reproves its course. All things in nature give testimony to God's greatness, and so the crooked mind tries to see other things in these and to thrust out the true thoughts. The water everywhere has become repulsive, a reminder that death is the end of the course they are pursuing. This is the punishment for setting up another god in our hearts; we cannot avoid it. The price is very heavy, too big to pay for the short and selfish pleasures of disobedience.

7:21 — FISH THAT WAS IN THE RIVER DIED — The fish dying represents that the things that depend on the purity of the truth would die and breed a putrid atmosphere. Principles would become twisted and morally putrid things would infest society, bringing corruption and rotteness. The religious atmosphere would become foul, death-dealing doctrines would prevail and lead away from God.

7:24 — THE EGYPTIANS DIGGER — Dig wells, men would make sources of religious teaching for themselves, man's doctrines. Adam made Eve his idol when he saw she sinned and obeyed her rather than God. This plague was shared by the Israelites, so God's people have had to contend with this influence, hatred of the truth, in all about them.

THEY COULD NOT DRINK OF THE WATER — Water here represents the truth and the thought is here that very soon all truth will become repulsive from the world's standpoint—every feature of the truth connected with the divine plan as represented in God's Word, will become abhorrent. The digging of wells would seem to imply that, rejecting God's Word, the world (Christendom, Churchianity) will seek for truth in various ways of its own. (Z. '07-280; R.4060)

7:25 — SEVEN DAYS WERE FULFILLED — Seven one thousand year days since the fall until this plague will be at end. Then men will recognize the true God.

8:2 — FROGS — Among the numerous Egyptian deities was the frog-head goddess, Heka. The supposition is that this plague was a special reproach to this goddess and her worshippers. Geike remarks that frogs in distressing numbers come from the Nile frequently. "In the height of inundation the abounding moisture quickens inconceivable myriads of frogs which swarm everywhere, even in ordinary years.” This was particularly severe because it was not lawful for the Egyptians to kill their tormentors. (Z. '07-152; R.3994)

8:3 — UPON THY BED — These evil doctrines would destroy the rest of faith and bring in weariness and trust in self.

KNEADING TROUGHS — Places where bread is made. The spiritual food would be poisoned and become disgusting from false doctrine doctoring the food of the people.

8:4 — FROGS SHALL COME UP — This is the punishment for disobeying the second commandment and worshipping the true God in a false way as Jeroboam did. Ahab broke the first and Jeroboam the second commandments. If we thus depart from the Lord and worship him in a false way that allows the old nature more latitude, the Adversary is sure to come in and suggest many seductive arguments and theories that would pander more to the old nature. (See notes on 1 Kings 12) (See Rev. 16:13, 14 Comments) Frogs, doctrines of devils, theories of Satan as to how to worship God, deceptions, guesses that lead one to oppose and fight the truth. Ones who depart from the Lord thus expose themselves to the plagues of presumptions, claims of bloated self-exaltations: “How wise we are!” This is the wisdom that cometh from beneath, earthly, sensual, devilish. (Jas. 3:14-16) All kinds of false doctrines are twisting the truth and mis-representing Scripture.

8:5 — STRETCH FORTH THINE HAND WITH THY ROD — Hand represents power, this will be a punishment of God. Rod represents authority. By God’s authority and law this result comes. We cannot escape it. A heavy cost for disobedience.

OVER THE STREAMS, OVER THE RIVERS AND OVER THE PONDS — Those places which have been receptacles for truth will now be filled with error, truth poisoned. Men of selfish spirit will get control of these and use the truth for selfish ends and preach their own or Satan’s wisdom. The rivers will be filled with frogs and become a curse to society.

8:7 — THE MAGICIANS DID SO — Satan’s agents claim that truth is only man’s idea and those sending it out are only serving selfish interests under no better authority than anyone else. They claim that God’s people are only teaching for gain in some way and have no better, and not so good authority, as they have, for are they not regularly constituted magicians, recognized by the nation as such and trained to juggle with the truth and pull the wool over the eyes of the people, till the people do not know what is truth? But this fellow, who is he? Where did he get his authority? He never has been to any of our schools of juggling and learned how to juggle, away with him, let us get together and jump on him.

8:14 — THEY GATHERED THEM TOGETHER UPON HEAPS AND THE LAND STANK — Society disgusted with all kinds of religious teachings as so many have been proved errors, and throw the whole overboard. Ashamed. (Zech. 13:4)

8:16 — LICE — Sand flies or fleas perhaps. Sir Samuel Baker says of Northern Africa: "In certain seasons it is as if the very dust of the land were turned into lice." The sandfly is "a sort of tick, not larger than a grain of sand, which, when filled with blood, expands to the size of a hazel nut." (Z. '07-152; R.3994)

8:17 — THE DUST OF THE LAND BECAME LICE — This illustrates the punishment for taking the Lord's name in vain. (Third Commandment)

8:19 — THE FINGER OF GOD — The first historical definition of a miracle. (Z. '07-152; R.3995)

8:21 — SWARMS OF FLIES — Margin, "a mixture of noisome beasts." Noisome, injurious to health, noxious, disgusting. This illustrates the punishment for breaking the Sabbath. We Christians have a Sabbath to keep. (Isa. 58; Heb. 4)

8:24 — FLIES — "Northern Egypt is sometimes visited with enormous swarms of beetles, which inflict very painful bites, gnaw and destroy clothes, household furniture and leather and consume or render unavailable all edibles." (Z. '07-152; R.3995)

This plague was particularly serious for the Egyptians, for the beetle was considered the incarnation of the Sun God, Kephna, and was forbidden to be killed.

9:3 — A VERY GRIEVOUS MURRAIN — Rawlinson declares—"There were several murrains, in the years 1842, 1863, 1866, in which last named year nearly the whole of the herds were destroyed." (Z. '07-152)

9:8 — HANDFULS OF ASHES OF THE FURNACE — Possibly in allusion to the furnace of affliction through which the Hebrews had been passing, or possibly in sarcastic imitation of the methods of the Egyptian priests who yearly offered sacrifices of human bodies, sometimes Hebrews, to Typhon, the god of evil, scattering the ashes through the air. (Z. '07-152; R.3995)

9:18 — A VERY GRIEVOUS HAIL — This was a very unusual experience for the Egyptians for in their country thunder and lightning, snow and hail, are very rare. All the more would it be to them a demonstration of divine power. It terribly impressed them, besides causing serious loss, not only to men and beasts, but to vegetation. (Z.'07-152; R.3995)

10:4 — LOCUSTS — A German writer says it often happens that immense swarms of locusts come to Egypt from Nubia. Whenever they appear they cover the ground for miles and sometimes to a considerable depth. It is in vain to attempt to drive them away. Only when the last bit of grain and grass is devoured will they depart, leaving behind those, which in the dense mass of insects, were hurt and could not go further. It takes weeks to kill these remnants. A newspaper remarks that in 1881, 250 tons of locusts were buried in Cyprus, each ton numbering over 90,000,000 of these pests. In 1873 the writer (Bro. C. T. Russell) witnessed a similar visitation of locusts or grasshoppers in the Western part of the United States. They came in great clouds, obscuring the light of the sun as would a snow storm and greatly resembling it. Wherever they alighted it meant destruction. They were so plentiful that they could have been shoveled if they were not continually in motion, and railway travel was greatly delayed in those parts by reason of the slipperiness of the tracks from the large numbers that were crushed. (Z.'07-152; R.3995)

10:21 — MOSES — Christ, head and body.

STRETCH OUT THINE HAND — Hand, instrumentality, or applied power.

TOWARD HEAVEN — Powers of spiritual control, clergy and churches of Christendom.

DARKNESS OVER THE LAND OF EGYPT — Darkness, lack of knowledge, understanding, love. Egypt, Christendom.

LAND OF EGYPT — Egypt symbolizes that condition of middle-course which the words “Christendom” represents. The other name, Sodom, represents carnal union of church and state in which the worldly compromising spirit and union or religious spirit with worldly self-seeking, our Lord was crucified, and in which the crucifixion of our Lord’s body members has progressed. (Z.'18-117; R.6237)

DARKNESS WHICH MAY BE FELT — “In Egypt there begins in April, about Easter, a period of fifty days called Chernsim, meaning fifty. During this time the south wind, at times, brings a storm of fine sand which sometimes is terrible. Wherever the storm passes a crackling sound is heard, as of electric sparks. A nervous depression seizes mankind and domestic animals. This is the Egyptian darkness.” Geike says, “Artificial light at such times is of little use. The streets are practically emptied and a deep silence reigns everywhere.” (Z. '07-153; R.3995)

10:22 — TOWARD HEAVEN — The churches who claim to represent heaven.

ALL THE LAND OF EGYPT — All in the condition of worldliness, including worldly-minded clergymen.

THREE DAYS — The Great World War among those nations that call themselves Christians has upset all theories of Christendom being Christian. During the first three years, from August 1914 to August 1917, there was no understanding by the world of the true, Scriptural significance of the war. (Z. '18-118; R.6237) 10:23 — THEY SAW NOT ONE ANOTHER — Comprehended not that they were in God's sight, really.

ROSE ANY FROM HIS PLACE — Neither worldly clergyman or layman “rose from his place” for three years, from the old somnolent condition of dumb dogs (D.D.'s) and blind guides (B.G.'s). (Isa. 56:10; Matt. 15:14) The utmost darkness, something keenly and anxiously felt, pervaded the houses, churches, of the worldly-minded. In proof of the antitypical correspondency we quote Rev. Joseph H. Odell, D.D., in The Atlantic Monthly, February, 1918. “The vastest of the world's tragedies came, and the Church was not its interpreter. The majority of the clergy have not even sensed the unique tragedy which the convulsed and confused world conditions have made possible. There are ministers everywhere who are still busy building their demoninational fences and feverishly staking their sectarian claims.” (Z. '18-118; R.6237)

While the darkness on the world and Christendom generally is settling down almost thick enough to feel, yet the light in the dwellings of the first born, God's faithful people, is growing brighter. This light is searching out the intents and purposes of each heart, and God purposes to show us that the motive behind every thought and word and action must be pure and holy if we would be copies of His dear Son.

10:24 — LET YOUR FLOCKS AND YOUR HERDS BE STAYED — In sacrificial rites the animals used typified the offerers, and the offering of an animal (burnt offering) by anyone represented that person's consecration. Ecclesiasticism (the product of Satan, antitype of Pharaoh) is willing enough for the Lord's people, old and young in Christ, to serve Jehovah, if only they will not offer themselves in complete consecration, such as consumes their very bodies at the altar of sacrifice. (Z. '18-118; R.6237)

10:26 — UNTIL WE COME THITHER — Those who start to serve the Lord cannot determine in advance just what or how much must be done, yet the sincere ones purpose to hold nothing back, but to make a complete consecration of themselves and all they have. (Z. '18-118; R.6237)

10:27 — HE WOULD NOT LET THEM GO — It was really not God's purpose that the children of Israel should go until He had instituted the Passover type. (Ex. 3:19, 20) Likewise in recent years it may be that Satan was willing to make away with the Lord's people, but divine providence intervened because the hour was not yet come. Whether this part of the account was intended to be pictorial or not we do not know. At all events, the people did not go. Several times during the harvest, during the progress of what seemed to be plagues to Christendom, the Lord has permitted His people to think they were about to go. Bro. C. T. Russell expected the church to go beyond the veil in 1878, 1881, 1910, and 1914, just as with Elijah who went with Elisha to four different places before he was actually taken. Those seeming disappointments were divine foreknown, His appointments. (Z. '18-118; R.6237)

10:28 — THOU SHALT DIE — Satan, speaking through Ecclesiasticism, is peeved at the claims of the Lord's people and, manifesting his displeasure, begins to utter threats. (Z. '18-118; R.6237)

The face is a sign of either favor or disfavor. The time is passed when the Lord will any longer favor Ecclesiasticism, or when it will favor or intentionally benefit the Lord's people. (Z. '18-118; R.6237)

11:1 — PHARAOH — Ecclesiasticism.

EGYPT — Christendom. It will be to them an unprecedented plague.

AFTERWARDS HE WILL LET YOU GO HENCE — This suggests that the Church, now expecting to go to her Lord, will not be disappointed this time. She shall surely be delivered after the divinely appointed last plague. (Z. '18-118; R.6237)

THRUST YOU OUT HENCE — The final visitation of God's displeasure, amounting to the utmost expression of His wrath against Christendom, will so disturb the antitypical Egyptians that they will not confine themselves to words of chastisement against the Lord's people, but may feel impelled to visit upon them tangible persecution culminating in imprisonment—through those civil powers which are deceived to the true nature and character of the persecutions, and in bloody persecution and death. Here again we must not let the type teach us something not plainly taught elsewhere. This is not time to think “panicky” thoughts and pose as martyrs unduly. But our Lord suffered such things, so did several of the Apostles, and so have many of the most noble and faithful of this age. We, as servants, are not better than our Lord and we have no just claim for better treatment. (Z. '18-118; R.6237)

11:2 — SPEAK NOW IN THE EARS OF THE PEOPLE — Proclaim the message of the Studies in the Scriptures to all Christendom.

EVERY WOMAN OF HER NEIGHBOR — Every truth ecclesia of the neighboring churches.

JEWELS OF SILVER AND JEWELS OF GOLD — The Lord’s people in the Little Flock and Great Company.

11:3 — FAVOR — Favor, in some respects, for their truly Christian character. The Lord’s people are thus appreciated by the peoples of the world. (Z. '18-118; R.6237)

MOSES — Christ, the head.

VERY GREAT — Highly esteemed theoretically.

LAND OF EGYPT — Throughout Christendom.

PHARAOH’S SERVANTS — Clergymen.

THE PEOPLE — The laity of Christendom.

11:4 — MOSES SAID — Christ, through the Studies in the Scriptures, said to Ecclesiasticism. (Z. '18-118; R.6238)

11:5 — FIRSTBORN IN THE LAND OF EGYPT — The firstborn in Egypt were set aside to the deity and typified the clergy-ministers of Christendom, set apart, in fact, to the social service of Christendom.

SHALL DIE — Cease to be firstborns, or be divine declared not to be what they think themselves to be.

FIRSTBORN — The leading Ecclesiastic, the Pope of Rome.

OF PHARAOH — Satan, the god of priestcraft, is prince or ruler of this evil world.

FIRSTBORN OF MAIDSERVANT — Sown to the lowliest minister of the smallest church.

MILL — Grinding out its religious provender. (Z. '18-118; R.6238)

FIRSTBORN OF BEAST — Leaders and great ones in earthly governments.

11:6 — A GREAT CRY — This suggests the final cry in Christendom. If this interpretation be correct, the next thing to look for would be an unprecedented outcry by Christendom's clergy and laity against the divine declaration of the end of Egypt's firstborn, the clergy, priestcraft, ecclesiasticism, churchianity. (Z. '18-118; R.6238)

11:7 — SHALL NOT A DOG MOVE HIS TONGUE — How manifestly is God's favor with his own people who are dwelling in peace of heart amid a world in arms, and how markedly is his disfavor upon the people of Christendom, torn with the sword and threatened with revolution, famine and pestilence. (Z. '18-118; R.6238)

11:8 — THY SERVANTS — The people of Christendom.

ME — Christ.

BOW DOWN — Beseech the Lord's people to let their evil practice alone and their evil institutions. In this day of the wrath of the Lamb, Christendom will want none of Christ or his members to trouble them any longer with their divinely authorized plagues.

THAT FOLLOW THEE — That is, "at thy feet."

AFTER THAT — Not until things have taken some such turn will the feet members of Christ pass over to be with the Lord.

GREAT ANGER — As the Church turns her back forever in divine disfavor upon Ecclesiasticism it is with a message containing all the wrath and fierceness of Almighty God. (Rev. 19:15)

11:9 — PHARAOH SHALL NOT HEARKEN — Ecclesiasticism will not heed the awful warnings of Ezekiel and Revelation. As a result of Christendom's failure to turn to God in a godly repentance, the words of God against her will be promptly and wonderfully fulfilled. (Z. '18-118; R.6238)

12: — PASSOVER AND ATONEMENT DAY — (Z. '09-132; R.4384) These two types were put at opposite ends of the year, the one at the beginning of the religious year (Ex. 12:1, 2, 3, 6) (14th Abib) and the other at the beginning of the secular year (tenth day of the seventh month of religious year equals about the beginning of the secular year.) The secular year began in the Fall and the religious year in the Spring. The Passover sacrifice in the beginning of the religious year symbolizes particularly the sacrifice of our Lord Jesus on behalf of the Church only (only for the firstborn); while the Atonement Day sacrifice at the beginning of the secular year symbolizes the sacrifice of Christ and also of the Church and the broader work thereby accomplished “for all the people.” The Passover lamb did not represent Jesus and the Church, but specifically Jesus, the Lamb of God. It was prophesied of our Lord that not a bone of him should be broken and the same was commanded of the Passover lamb (Ex. 12:46; Psa. 34:20; John 19:36; 1 Cor. 5:7-8). It was to be roasted whole and not a bone of it was to be broken in the eating. Furthermore the Passover lamb and its blood affected, preserved, passed over the first born ones only, representing the Church of the Firstborns. The deliverance of the others is no part of the Passover picture. In the Atonement Day there were two sacrifices, one for the High Priest’s body (family) and house and the other “for all the people.” Both sacrifices were offered by the same High Priest, the first representing our Lord’s death on behalf of the Church and the entire household of faith. The second represents him sacrificing the Church (by his own merit) for the sins of all the people. The bodies of both these animals were burnt without the camp. Burning signifies general destruction of the flesh. Outside the camp pictures ostracism, rejection of men, dishonor. (Z. ’08-133; R.4385)

12:3 — IN THE TENTH DAY — Typifying how Jesus, 1648 years afterward, presented himself to the Jewish nation as their King, the anointed of God, exactly on the tenth of Nisan. (Z. ’01-380; R.2918)

12:5 — WITHOUT BLEMISH — Showing how Jesus would be “holy, harmless, separate from sinners.” (Heb. 7:26)

A MALE — As the race is represented in the male (including the female.)

OF THE FIRST YEAR — A sheep is full grown at one year, hence represents a full grown man with his powers and capabilities full, hence Jesus at the age of thirty.

12:6 — FOURTEENTH DAY — Typifying how Jesus waited until the 14th of Nisan. The people had a chance to consider him as he preached daily in the temple.

KILL IT IN THE EVENING — Showing how the Jewish nation slew Jesus on the 14th of Nisan between the evenings.

12:7 — BLOOD AND STRIKE IT ON THE TWO SIDE POSTS — Showing that without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sins and he who thus realizes the importance of the death of our Savior is expected to publicly confess it, as symbolized by the sprinkling of the blood on the outside of the dwelling. And its being on the door posts meant that all who were within that door were trusting in the blood, were under its efficacious merit. (Z. '01-381; R.2918)

It is remarkable that, while this doctrine of redemption through the blood of Christ has been held with more or less clearness for centuries, yet it is now in the close of the age (when the antitypical tenth plague or seventh vial is about to be poured out) being called in question by some who still name the name of Christ, who profess to be advanced teachers. Such will be accounted Egyptians, not true Israelites. (Z. '01-381; R.2918) @THIRD PAR = The doctrine of substitution is taught here most emphatically. As the blood represents life while in the veins, so it represents death when shed. So as the sentence of death was against our race, it was needed that Christ should die for our sins. So the Lord has made it incumbent throughout this age that each one whom he would recognize must be one who would trust in and confess the atonement, the redemption which is in Christ Jesus. The blood was to be a token, for a witness, a sign, and evidence of the faith of those who were in the house on which it was sprinkled. A special test or trial comes upon the firstborn during the night (that of remaining under the blood, recognizing its power.)

UPPER DOOR POST — It is our part to see that the blood is on the lintel and door posts of our heart, even to go out frequently and make sure it is there (examine ourselves to see if we are still in full harmony with God's requirements, keeping our covenant), and God will see to His part.

12:8 — THEY SHALL EAT THE FLESH — Showing how the Church will feed upon His merit and be kept by the imputation of his perfection. We realize that "his flesh is meat indeed." (Z. '01-381; R.2918)

UNLEAVENED BREAD — This symbolizes the unadulterated precious promises, the truth, which comes to us from the Heavenly Father through Christ. (John 6:50). As the Hebrews ate their bread and lamb, so the Christian fully partakes of Christ's merit and grace freely.

WITH BITTER HERBS — Representing the bitterness of persecution, trials, difficulties, misrepresentation and suffering. (Z. '01-381; R.2918)

12:12 — THIS NIGHT — That night represents the Gospel Age, a dark time in which sin and evil still triumphs, in which the Church of the Firstborn are passed over. Others will be delivered as a result of the passing over of the firstborn in the Millennial morning, as represented by the deliverance of the children of Israel in the following morning from the power of Pharaoh and his bondage. But the only ones who will be in danger during this night, the only ones passed over or spared during this Gospel Age, will be the Church of the Firstborn.

I WILL EXECUTE JUDGMENT — Typifying how God will execute judgment against all the idols of the world in the end of this age, destroying them.

12:13 — I WILL PASS OVER YOU — On account of the blood without and the lamb within; so the Church, on account of the applied merit of Jesus and the appropriation of his flesh (the inward strengthening through study and copying his character) will be passed over. (Z. '10-283; R.4677)

WHEN I SMITE THE LAND OF EGYPT — On this night the Lord sanctified the firstborn unto himself (Num. 8:17) and here the firstborn died to their earthly inheritance typically, as shown by the Levites having no portion in the land. (See Num. 8)

12:15 — PUT AWAY LEAVEN OUT OF YOUR HOUSES — So we should put away all evil and malice and wickedness out of our houses (bodies).

12:22 — DOOR — Blood on the door post. The sprinkling of the blood is in the nature of a testimony. It was a testimony that the people believed what God had told them by the mouth of Moses. How do we make confession of our faith in the blood of the Lamb? By our mouths. “With the mouth confession is made unto salvation.” This Door is not the Heart. The heart would be represented in this picture, if at all, by the hearth inside the house on which burns the fires of love and around which are gathered the family of faith. The door pictures the means of egress from the heart. That means of egress is the mouth. It is the mouth that does the speaking. “Set a watch, O Lord, before my mouth; keep the door of my lips.” (Psa. 141:3) The individual confesses to God and to the world that he has faith in the power of the blood of the great Lamb of God. The door of the house was the place of testimony. See “Door of the Tabernacle,” “Door of Utterance.” (Col. 4:3, 4) (Z. '21-199)

12:29 — THE LORD — Through His word.

SMOTE — Declared plainly and explicitly that the clergy, who insist on being first and foremost in everything, are really in his estimation dead, incapable of doing what they claim to do because of iniquities which they committed in the dark ages and of which they are still unrepentant. (Z. '18-119; R.6238)

DUNGEON — Literally, “house of the pit,” church of eternal torment. (Z. '18-119; R.6238)

ALL THE FIRSTBORN — The smiting of the firstborn of Egypt contained two lessons. (1) It was the most severe blow because the firstborn would be the most prominent person in the family. (2) But the special object in confining the plague to the firstborn was to show that only the firstborn of the Hebrews were passed over. The other members of the Hebrew families were in no more danger of that plague than were the other members of the Egyptian families. Only the firstborn were marked, indicated as in danger, while the rest were saved. The Bible shows clearly that the Lord intended to indicate the passing over or sparing of the Church in the present age. The type has nothing whatever to do with the world. Only the household of faith, known in Scriptures as the Church of the Firstborn, have that degree of light and knowledge which would permit them to be on trial for eternal life with the danger of losing the same in Second Death. The world in general is not in this danger, they are still under the original condemnation and hence not subject to the second condemnation or Second Death. (Z. '07-153; R.3995)

12:30 — PHARAOH ROSE UP — If the suggestive interpretation set forth here be right, then we may consistently look forward to an uprising of all worldly Christians, because of and against the declarations of the wrath of God. (Z. '18-119; R.6238)

A CRY — Such a cry has begun to rise from the clergy who are seeking to enlist the civil power in a campaign of persecution against the Lord's people. (Z. '18-118; R.6238)

ONE DEAD — There was not a church where there was not a clergyman against whom this divine denunciation had not gone forth.

12:31 — HE — Ecclesiasticism.

RISE UP — Go to meet the Lord, to heights unknown.

12:32 — HERDS — The Lord's people are completely consecrated.

BE GONE — There is nothing the antitypical Egyptians will wish so heartily as to see gone forever those in whom is the present word of God. The wish may be father to the thought to hasten the going of the Spiritual Israelites.

BLESS ME — When an antitypical Egyptian is in fear or peril, he seeks a blessing from somewhere. (Z. '18-118; R.6238)

12:33 — URGENT — Aroused nominal churchianity may be inclined to find quick means to expedite the passage of the Lord's people beyond the veil.

DEAD MEN — It was the atrociously false alarm, "If we don't kill them they will kill us" that caused the weak king of France to sign the wicked order for the utter destruction of all the Protestants on St. Bartholomew's night. (Z. '18-118; R.6238)

12:34 — DOUGH BEFORE IT WAS LEAVENED — The Lord's people have the unadulterated truth, the divine word without any of the leaven, evil teachings, traditions and theories of the clergy.

KNEADING TROUGHS — Margin, dough.

BEING BOUND UP — The pure word of God is bound up with the robe of Christ's righteousness and with the promises with which the Lord's people are invested.

12:35 — THEY BORROWED — This is a very inaccurate translation and thus gives ground for the thought of a deception. The word in the original (shael = [a prim. root] to inquire, by impl. to request, by extension, to demand) means requested, or begged for, not borrowed. The R. V. has "asked for." The Hebrew word is the same as when Solomon asked wisdom, did not ask long life, neither asked he riches, neither asked he the life of his enemies. (1 Kings 3:11) As borrow would be inappropriate in Solomon's case, it is equally inappropriate in Israel's case.

12:36 — THEY LENT — Should be "gave." (Same Hebrew word as "asked" above). Young's has, "and they cause them to ask." The fact is that the Egyptians were thoroughly sore at heart under the repeated castigations given them by the Lord during the nine months of the plagues. They felt like hastening them out lest some further visitation should come upon them, or lest Pharaoh should again change his mind. They gave these things freely when asked, hoping to be rid of them the quicker. In all justice the Egyptians owed the Hebrews the value of these jewels and more, too, for the onerous services they had compelled them to render. Hence the Israelites were not asking alms for which they had given no equivalent, but were really asking for their back pay. (Z. '01-363; R.2911)

SUCH THINGS AS THEY REQUIRED — Spurious.

THEY SPOILED THE EGYPTIANS — When the Lord's people go forth to be for ever with the Lord, they will take with them every Christian having the Lord's spirit, not a single one of the Lord's jewels will be left in Christendom when the exodus is finished. (Z. '18-118; R.6238)

12:40 — FOUR HUNDRED AND THIRTY YEARS — The statement here is not that Israel sojourned in Egypt 430 years, but that the whole length of the sojourning of the people, who for some time dwelt in Egypt, lasted 430 years. The sojourning referred to began when Abraham first entered Canaan (Heb. 11:8, 9). Israel sojourned in Abraham, Isaac and Jacob even as Levi paid tithes to Melchisedec while still in the loins of his father. (Heb. 7:9,10) To show that the R.V. is incorrect in its translation here (“the sojourning . . . which they sojourned in Egypt”), we note the following genealogy of Moses—Moses’ mother Jochebed was the daughter of Levi (Ex. 6:16, 18, 20; Num. 26:59). As Joseph had entered on his 40th year when Jacob came into Egypt—(Gen. 41:46-54; 45:6-8) and as Levi was older than Joseph (Gen. 29:34; 30:22-24), then Levi was more than 40 years old. As Levi lived 137 years, this would leave 97 years for his time in Egypt. Moses was 80 years old when the Exodus occurred (Ex. 7:7; Acts 7:20-30). This would mean, if the R.V. were correct, then Jochebed must have been at the very least, 253 years old when Moses was born. Again—Moses’ father, Amram, was a son of Kohath (Ex. 6:18, 20) and Kohath was one of the 70 who entered Egypt (Gen. 46:11). Now Kohath lived 133 years, (Ex. 6:18) and Amram lived 137 years (Ex. 6:20). Hence if we were to imagine that Kohath was just a new born babe when he entered Egypt and Amram not born till a year after his father’s death, there would still remain, if the whole period was 430 years, a gap of 80 years between the death of Amram and the birth of Moses. In other words, it would mean that Moses was not born till 80 years after his father’s death. (Bro. John Edgar, Asbury Park, 1906)

12:41 — AT THE END OF THE FOUR HUNDRED AND THIRTY YEARS — Though the Lord had seemed to wait long, to delay, though it often made Moses inquire, and made him feel discouraged, yet the Lord was not in a hurry, nor yet care less or forgetful. True to His promise, He brought out the children of Israel exactly on time, in the fourth generation.

ON THE SELFSAME DAY — Stanley mentions a somewhat similar case: “In illustration of the event, a sudden retreat is recorded of a whole nomadic people—400,000 Tartars—under cover of a single night, from the confines of Russia to their own native deserts, as late as the close of the last century.” (Z. '07-155; R.3997)

Bishop Fowler offers a helpful comment as follows: “In our own times, in this very century, we have witnessed an exodus from near that very land of Goshen where the Israelites dwelt. Mohammed Ali wished to manufacture silk, so he planted Jerusalem with mulberry trees and attracted Syrians from Damascus and Bedouin Arabs from Arabia to whom he gave fertile pasture lands and freedom from taxation and military practice. They prospered and multiplied for many years. After the death of Mohammed Ali an attempt was made to tax and conscript them. Protestations were disregarded; therefore in one night the whole population, with their herds and flocks, moved away to their kinsfolk to the east of Egypt, leaving their homes empty and the valley a desolation, in which condition it was when DeLessops dug his fresh water canal." (Z. '07-155; R.3997)

13:17 — GOD LED THEM — Our deliverance from the world (Egypt) is a more wonderful one. As we, under the Lord's providence begin our escape from the world, flesh, and adversary, there are different ways of escape possible, some more, some less favorable. Left to ourselves we might choose the wrong way of the Philistines, where the battles would be too hard for us; or the way of the desert, where we would be discouraged and famished. It is to us to look to the Lord's providences in our affairs at this time and to find them guiding us, sheltering us from the heat of persecution and trial and, at other times enlightening us, refreshing us in the dark seasons. (Z. '07-155; R.3997)

NOT THROUGH THE WAY OF THE LAND OF THE PHILISTINES

— The people had been slaves for several centuries and knew not how to fight or use weapons. They had never acted together under a leader until Moses came to them. Had they gone against the Philistines they would have been hopelessly beaten unless God interposed. But he did not do that. This illustrates God's care and supervision over us when we first become Christians. God knows we are not able to battle as experienced warriors, that we are but babes in Christ, only a short time out of slavery to sin. So God does not often miraculously interpose to do away with the obstacle, but leads us around by another way, lest we be overwhelmed in more than we are able to bear. He provides a way of escape. (1 Cor. 10:13) It is not what happens to us, but the spirit in which we receive it that determines if we overcome.

13:18 — WENT UP HARNESSSED — Margin, by fives in a rank. Young, by 50's. Not in great disorder like a mob. The Israelites were, in a measure, organized, their tribal and family relations having been maintained. They went forth in order, five abreast, or in five companies. Evidently all were under the command of the heads of the tribes, the elders of the people. (Z. '01-382; R.2919) Moses himself was a great general and the people were artisans, not stupid.

13:20 — IN THE EDGE OF THE WILDERNESS — The great wall of Egypt, called Shur (somewhat similar to the great wall of China) is supposed to have hindered their making a more direct route. Besides, this wall was in the midst of a sandy desert where there would be no sustenance, either for selves or cattle, while the route taken, passing through the borders of Egypt to the Red Sea was evidently the most favorable one as respects pasturage. (Z. '01-382; R.2919)

14:3 — ENTANGLED IN THE LAND — As the Egyptians perceived the changed course of the Israelites, first Northeast and then South, they concluded they were lost, did not know where they were going. This would be the natural conclusion for, as we look at the map, we find they were marching to the Egyptian side of the Red Sea, whereas they wished really to go to the opposite side, to enter Palestine. We can imagine the Egyptians saying: “Poor, foolish people, they were far better with us, even at hard bondage, than free. They know not what to do. They will scatter by and by and the majority doubtless will come back to us anyway.” Selfishness may have even suggested it was their duty to hold them in restraint, to turn them back again, to be bond servants of the Egyptians. The Egyptians had not yet learned the lesson that it was the God of Israel they had to contend with. Neither had the Israelites sufficiently learned that it was God who was bringing them forth and not themselves, and not Moses. (Z. '07-156; R.3997)

14:8 — THE LORD HARDENED THE HEART OF PHARAOH — We may reasonably understand that the last or tenth plague upon Egypt symbolizes the bitter experiences of the world at the close of the present age, and that these experiences will be favorable to the Lord’s people and unfavorable to others, down to a certain point where the contest will be abandoned and those in authority in the world will agree to the full liberty of all who love righteousness and who desire to walk in the Lord’s way. Quite possibly the “powers that be” may concede for a time the demands of the weak and help less and subsequently repent and attempt their recapture under the slavery of selfishness and so, through a Red Sea of trouble, the Lord will then administer a final chastisement upon all those who oppose his deliverance of the poor and the needy and those who have no helper, who cry for righteousness and follow the leadings of his representative, Messiah. (Z. '01-383; R.2920)

14:11 — WHEREFORE HAST THOU DEALT THUS WITH US — Many Spiritual Israelites, having started to leave the world are of insufficient faith and, when beset by temptations and difficulties, they are inclined to wish they had never started in the better way and toward the freedoms wherewith Christ has made us free, and toward the Canaan rest and blessing which He has promised, but which, to them, seems so far off, so utterly impossible to be reached. But Moses was of better faith and courage, as well he might be because of his superior advantages every way. He represents our leader under whose directions and encouragement we have left the world behind. So our leader speaks to us: “Fear ye not, stand still and see the salvation of the Lord which He will accomplish for you this day. As for your enemies, the Egyptians whom you fear, ye shall see them no more again for ever.” (Z. '07-156; R.3997)

14:13 — STAND STILL — This did not mean for the Israelites to actually stay where they were, because they did not, but were commanded to go forward.

But it means “stand firm, hold your ground, do not fly and be thus overcome, but have faith in God, in His strength, be calm.” Put your trust, not in your own efforts or wisdom, hold your peace as to them, but do what God tells you and see what a great and complete victory over the world, the flesh and the Adversary you will win through His strength.

14:14 — THE LORD SHALL FIGHT FOR YOU — Evidently Moses was in very close touch with Jehovah when he could prophesy such an outcome in the face of such disastrous appearances. Similarly we may have confidence in the Lord Jesus when He assures us that the power of the Adversary is limited, that it shall not go beyond the limitations of this present evil world, that tomorrow, in the Millennial Age, we shall witness the overthrow of all the powers of evil. (Z. '07-156; R.3997)

14:15 — WHEREFORE CRIEST THOU UNTO ME? — There is a time to pray and also a time to act and thus co-operate with God who is answering our prayers. When the Lord's time has come for answering our prayers and we know it, it is for us to manifest our faith in him by going forward. Too many Spiritual Israelites, after hearing the Lord's message, instead of going forward in obedience, are disposed to tarry and pray to the Lord that He would give them some special message not common to others. (Z. '01-383; R.2919)

THAT THEY GO FORWARD — No explanation was made of how the path would be opened for them through the waters. Not only was the faith of Moses demonstrated in this command, but the faith of the Israelites was also tested in their obediently going forward in the direction of the water. Is it not so with Spiritual Israelites? Does not the Lord sometimes allow adversity, difficulties, opposition, to hem us in? Does He not sometimes lead us by a way from which there seems to be no escape from some impending evil? This is the time to hearken to His voice and in faith to go forward, nothing doubting, trusting that He who has begun the good work in us will complete it unto the day of Christ, in the Millennial morning. (Z. '07-156; R.3997)

14:21 — THE WATERS WERE DIVIDED — An East or Southeast wind arose and moved the upper water of the shallow bay toward the Northwest, while probably a strong ebb tide set in at the same time and drew the lower water southwards, so that the bed of the sea was for a considerable space laid bare. (Rawlinson) This was soon after the full moon of the Vernal Equinox, when there would be a very low ebb and a very high flood. The tide rises from 5 to 7 feet opposite Suez and from 8 to 9 feet when aided by strong winds, returning with unusual suddenness and power after the ebb. (Newhall) “M. DeLessops mentioned to me the extraordinary facts of this kind which he had witnessed in storms which occurred at intervals of 15 or 20 years. He had seen the northern end of the sea in places blown almost dry and again had seen the waters driven far over the land toward the Bitter Lakes.” (President Bartlett) (Z. '07-157; R.3998)

The great fulfillment of this passage of the Red Sea is at the end of the Millennium, when Satan and all on his side, enemies of righteousness, will be forever destroyed and, at the same time, all who love righteousness and hate iniquity and avail themselves of the Lord's favors, privileges, will then be saved to the powers of an eternal life under the leadership of the great antitypical Moses. (Z. '07-158; R.3999)

15:1 — THIS SONG UNTO THE LORD — This quite contradicts the evolution theory, the way the Israelites received the victory the Lord had given them. Did they hold a carnival of vice? Did they have a war dance with tom-toms? Nay! Overflowing with religious sentiment they gave thanks unto the Lord, recognizing Him as their deliverer. Hebrew scholars have remarked on the evidence of the antiquity of the Song of Moses in (Ex. 15:1-20) some even noting the fact that some of the words show an intermingling of the Egyptian language. Reference is made to it in Psa. 106:7-12, and our Lord, in His last message to the Church, corroborates it in Rev. 15:2, 3. (Z. '07-158; R.3998)

15:22 — AND FOUND NO WATER — All these experiences were evidently intended to prepare a nation for self-government which had been for two hundred years in bondage, nearly slavery. So with spiritual Israel, God is shaping our trials as to make us fit for self-government, self control, a sound mind, and then use us to govern others. The lesson to be learned is perfect trust, to look to the Lord to turn our bitter disappointments into profitable lessons. As did Moses, so our leader will make our bitter experiences sweet if we but trust in Him. Then to us also comes a season of rest and refreshment, an Elim condition. The Lord does not permit us to have bitter experiences and trials continually, lest we should become thoroughly discouraged. He leads us sometimes by still waters, restoring our soul, refreshing and resting us in His grace and these experiences, rightly received, and producing in us thankfulness and appreciation, tend to make us stronger for the further journey and lessons in the wilderness school of the present life. (Z. '02-200; R.3035)

If natural Israel needed heart development and faith as a preparation for the earthly Canaan, how much more does the Spiritual Israel need for the Heavenly Canaan toward which they journey from the time they leave Egypt (the world) and its bondage of sin. Can we wonder then that God permits many trying experiences, trials of faith and patience, bitter waters. Any saint may have tears in the trying experiences of the journey in the narrow way, but none are excusable for murmuring. Rather each should say with the Master, “The cup which my Father hath poured for me shall I not drink it?” To those who approach the springs of bitterness with the proper faith in God, as did Moses, the Lord makes known precious promises.

(Z. '13-217; R.5278)

The Israelites were not sufficiently advanced to take such a reasonable position, but were infantile in disposition, they merely gave a wail of disappointment and despair. But the Lord was gracious and patient and although He upbraided and instructed them respecting improprieties of their course, yet He answered their wail. (Z. '02-200; R.3036)

15:23 — THE WATERS OF MARAH FOR THEY WERE BITTER —

During the dark ages the water of life became very much polluted and undesirable. When we came to the waters of the Lord's word and found they were brackish and impure, nauseating, unwholesome, the Lord, in His providence, showed us more clearly than we have seen in the past the great doctrine of the Ransom, the reason of the cutting off of our Lord Jesus in death (he was a tree of righteousness). Here was the manifestation of divine love and mercy and since we have realized this truth, since the truth has come in contact with and purified the message of the Dark Ages, we can partake of it with refreshment and joy. As a result of the fall there was nothing permanently refreshing for God's people to partake of. Those who desired to be God's people found the Law unsatisfactory because it brought them only condemnation. In due time God caused the death of Jesus and through, or by means of, his death, through the message of the Ransom, those who drink of this fact, this water, will not find that brackish taste.

15:24 — THE PEOPLE MURMURED AGAINST MOSES — The song of reverence was forgotten, the mighty power of Jehovah in bringing them through the Red Sea was forgotten, even the taskmasters of Egypt were forgotten. (Z. '13-217; R.5278) How short of memory are selfish murmurers, how soon they forget the favors of God and how unmindful of the pit from which they have escaped. (Psa. 40:2; 77:11; 10:6, 7; Isa. 51:1, 2)

15:25 — THE WATERS WERE MADE SWEET — In a certain sense the Law Covenant made with Israel was a hope of everlasting life supplied by the truth, a fountain of water, of which the Israelites might drink and be refreshed and be enabled to gain eternal life. But while the Law was good it contained certain condemnatory qualities which hindered it from giving to the Israelites the refreshment and life everlasting which they hoped. The law made nothing perfect. The tree, the cross of Christ (ransom) the agency through which the waters of truth and divine law became waters of grace and blessing for the world of mankind when, in the Millennial Age, they will be delivered from bondage of sin (slavery in Egypt). As the Apostle says, it will not be possible for God to make a new law under which to bless man kind, for the Law given to Israel was good, perfect. The divine promises, represented by the water, have been poisoned by sin and hence

(the sin of Adam and the race) were unsuitable and could not give life. The cross of Christ, by cancelling Adamic sin, cancels the condemnation of divine law against mankind and eventually will permit the great antitypical Mediator to make the promises of God good and refreshing, applicable to all who seek to walk in the ways of the Lord. (Z. '07-185; R.4010)

15:27 — AND THEY CAME — Perhaps on the third day, as this was only a few hours from Marah.

TO ELIM — Oaks

TWELVE WELLS OF WATER — Typifying the twelve apostles who were sent out first by Jesus to preach (Matt. 10:1) and through whom have come special blessings to the church.

THREESCORE AND TEN PALM TREES — Typifying the seventy Jesus sent forth (Luke 10:1) subsequently to the twelve and whose ministries typify the public service of this Gospel Age down to the harvest or close. (Z. '07-184; R.4011)

Perhaps the twelve here may, in a larger scale, represent the Little Flock, and the seventy palm trees, the Great company. (See 1 Kings 19:10, 18; Rev. 11:13; 7:9. The world will reach this rest and refreshing time and condition on the Millennial Day.

THEY CAMPED THERE — Possibly for a couple of weeks. (See Ex. 16:1; 15:22)

16:1 — CAME INTO THE WILDERNESS OF SIN — Their journey through the wilderness would represent the journey of the Church in its wilderness condition toward the Heavenly Canaan. (A221) Sin means clay, “miry clay.” (Psa. 40:2)

16:3 — TO KILL THIS WHOLE ASSEMBLY WITH HUNGER — It appeared to them that their first hopes had died, that no preference of the Lord had been shown them and they should have continued in Egyptian bondage. We see their lack of faith and that the lessons of the plagues and the sea and the healing of the waters had not given them full assurance of faith. (Z. '07-184; R.4011)

16:4 — I WILL RAIN BREAD FROM HEAVEN FOR YOU — The Lord does not blame them for desiring the necessities of life. Rather, He was waiting for them to appreciate their need so that they might the better appreciate the bountiful provision which He had intended. The lesson of faith was to be so impressed before the sending of the manna that its coming was foretold and the people gathered to behold the Lord’s glory. How patient was the Lord in His dealings with His people—full of compassion and tender mercy. The people should have cried unto the Lord, “give us this day our daily bread” but should not have murmured and stipulated that they wanted something as good as the fleshpots of Egypt. So it is not for us to dictate to the Lord how He shall provide for us, but by faith to accept His provision according to His promises and, while waiting, to make our requests known unto the Lord. (Z. '07-185; R.4011)

16:8 — BUT AGAINST THE LORD — The Israelites may have feared that Moses was leading them on his own responsibility for they knew at the start that the Lord was leading. So we must know that men, at most, are only the honored representatives of God and we follow the Lord as the real director of the course of Spiritual Israel. (Z. '02-201; R.3036)

16:12 — I HAVE HEARD THE MURMURINGS — It was necessary for the Israelites to learn their complete dependance on the Lord, trust, hence the Lord did not prepare for them the bounties of quail and manna until they felt their need, else the Lord’s bounty might have been considered as part of His responsible duty; whereas, having learned their need, they could better appreciate the provision and realize its miraculous source. So with Spiritual Israelites, they are permitted to feel their needs and then to ask that they may receive spiritual nourishment freely. The lesson of trust was being impressed. They were to know the Lord as their leader and that all provisions for their necessities were from Him, although they were announced to them by the Lord’s servants. (Z. '02-201; R.3036)

16:13 — THE QUAILS — The Lord’s supply for our earthly needs is best represented by the quails. He overrules natural affairs to provide us the things needful, sometimes more, sometimes less abundantly. And as the Israelites ate the quails not only at the time of their gathering but doubtless preserved some of them for future use, so we are to use the things of this world as not abusing them. We are to use them wisely remembering that, while they came to us in the ordinary course of life, yet they are God’s provision and to be used with frugality and judgment to His praise. If the supply is abundant we are to be thankful, if deficient we are to trust. After we have done what we are able to do in the way of providing for our necessities, we can safely leave all else to Him with whom we have to do. (Z. '02-202; R.3036)

COVERED THE CAMP — See note on Num. 11:7.

THE DEW LAY ROUND — The manna was evidently deposited in or from the dew by some power of God working in harmony with the natural laws of chemistry not yet thoroughly understood. (Z. '02-202; R.3036)

16:15 — IT IS MANNA — There are indeed other mannas from the desert of Arabia. One kind is exuded in drops from the Tamarisk tree and is a sweet, semi-fluid substance. The manna of commerce is an exudation from the Flowering Ash. But none of the known mannas of Arabia correspond to this one described in Exodus, for:

- (1) The supply is very small and only at special seasons of the year
- (2) They are unsuitable for food
- (3) They can be kept indefinitely The manna of the Israelites spoiled after 24 hours, except that gathered on the sixth day, which corrupted not until after 48 hours, leaving a rest from the gathering on the seventh day. (Z. '07-185; R.4011)

The Septuagint, Vulgate, Josephus, and Syriac, all agree that the derivation of the word was from the question of the Israelites— “Man hu” What is this? (Man, the neuter interrogative pronoun, what.) The manna of Scripture seems to have been wholly miraculous. The manna from the Tamarisk shrub drops from the thorns on the sticks and leaves with which the ground is covered, and must be gathered early in the day or it will be melted by the sun. The Arabs cleanse and boil it, strain it through a cloth and put it in leather bottles, and in this way it can be kept for several days uninjured. They use it like honey or butter with their unleavened bread. The manna of commerce from a species of the Ash, drops from the tree because of the puncture of an insect resembling the locust, but distinguished from it by having a sting under its body. The substance is fluid at night and resembles the dew but in the morning it begins to harden. (S.B.D.) For the method of preparing it see Num. 11:7-9. See also Deut. 8:3, 16; Josh. 5:12; Psa. 78:23-25; The manna required gathering and preparation, and thus furnished labor without which the Israelites would not have been happy. There was a lesson of generosity that went with it, for he that gathered too much found that it rotted. It well typified the Bread from Heaven, Jesus, the truth he taught and represented. As the Israelites would have perished without food, so the Spiritual Israelites would not have sufficient strength for the journey without the Heavenly food, the truth, the Word of God. Only by partaking regularly, largely, daily of our Lord, his merit and his gracious arrangements for us can we become strong in Him and prosecute the journey faithfully and enter into spiritual Canaan. As every Israelite was required to gather manna for himself, so each Christian is required to gather and appropriate the truth. We must do our own part along spiritual lines as well as along earthly lines. The graces of the Holy Spirit cannot come to perfection without preparation, planting, priming, cultivating. Rooming at a college does not make a scholar, nor sitting in a pew at church a Christian. To grow strong in the Lord and the power of His might we must feed upon

The lesson from the manna seems more to illustrate our spiritual supplies which come wholly from above. Although given freely, it demands labor by those who would get from it spiritual sustenance. We cannot expect to come to Christ and receive in one instant and without effort on our part all the gracious mercy, blessing and truth that is in Him. The truth is God's gift, to be sure, but it is given to require energy on our part to demonstrate our need, our hunger, our appreciation of this "bread of life." Neither can we receive enough in one day, one month or one year to sustain us perpetually. We need to come to the Lord daily and receive from Him through His word and spirit the life-giving forces by which we may be sustained day by day in the trials of life and become strong in the Lord and power of His might.
(Z.'02-202; R.3036)

16:20 — SOME OF THEM LEFT OF IT UNTIL THE MORNING — Those who accumulate much of God's grace and truth must also be dispensers of it. It is not provided with a view to the creation of a spiritual aristocracy. Those who study the Word merely for themselves and who do not comingle with the brethren and share their blessings are not in the long run as much advantaged as we would have expected. Let us gather our daily portion of manna and daily seek to use it all and realize that it will be our portion until we reach the Heavenly Canaan. (Z.'07-186; R.4012)

16:34 — LAID IT UP BEFORE THE TESTIMONY — Representing our hope of immortality, inherent life, which we will have at our resurrection. See Rev. 2:17—"To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the hidden manna." (Z.'07-185; R.4011)

16:36 — AN OMER — Omer is used only in this chapter of the Bible (from omar, to heap [prop.]) and means a heap or a sheaf. In the sense of sheaf it is used in Lev. 10-12, 15; Deut. 24:19; Job 24:10. It is here given as the full need of one man for food. See Lev. 5:11 (trespass offering); 6:20 (priest's meat offering when anointed); Num. 5:15 (offering of jealousy); Num. 28:5 (part of the continual or daily offering); Ezek. 45:11, 14; Zech. 5:6-11. An omer is a half-gallon. Not to be confused with Homer or Chomer, (prop. a bubbling up, i.e., of water, a wave; of earth, mire or clay; also a heap; hence a homer or dry measure equals eight bushels or 32 pecks.)

17:6 — SMITE THE ROCK AND THERE SHALL COME WATER OUT OF IT — Paul says that this rock represented Christ (1 Cor. 10:4), that the smiting of the rock represented the putting of Christ to a shameful death, but that only by this means is the water of life provided for those who desire to be the people of God. As the waters of that rock followed the Israelites as a rivulet through much of their subsequent journey, so the stream of God's favor through the sacrifice of Christ refreshes Christ's disciples through their wilderness journey. (Z. '13-232; R.5285)

17:9 — THE ROD OF GOD IN MINE HAND — Moses' hands were evidently lifted up in prayer. Thus it was demonstrated that it was the Lord who fought for and conquered their enemies. In all our trials and difficulties we are to learn the lesson distinctly that all our trust is to be in the Lord our leader, the antitype of Moses, the Captain of our salvation; who is not in an earthly sense leading us in the conflict, but is in the mountain, in the kingdom (with the authority from God to lead and intercede for us.) His merit prevails for our blessing and succor and all of His faithful servants in turn recognize themselves as merely co-operating with Him. (Z. '02-202; R.3037)

17:11 — WHEN MOSES — This showed that Moses was the advocate or representative of Israel and without him they could do nothing. In the antitype spiritual Israelites have conflicts with enemies too mighty for them without the Lord's assistance. The word, flesh and devil make common cause against all who are seeking the Heavenly Canaan. We, the followers of Jesus, have success in our warfare only as we have him as our advocate. Through him we may come off more than conquerors, victors in the highest sense, "through him who loved us and bought us with his precious blood."

HELD UP HIS HAND — Exercise of the power and efficiency of his merit on our behalf. (Z. '13-232; R.5285)

17:12 — AARON AND HUR STAYED UP HIS HANDS — The humble conduct of Aaron and Hur became the groundwork of a great lesson of helpfulness in the Lord's service— showing how assistance in the service is recognized of the Lord and such co-operation acceptable. (Z. '02-202; R.3037)

17:15 — JEHOVAH - NISSI — "The banner of Jehovah" (E46)

18:18 — THIS THING IS TOO HEAVY FOR THEE — There were some 600,000 males over 20 years old (Num. 1:46) which would mean (counting four persons to a family) about 2,400,000 people, besides the Levites (8,000 between 30 and 50 years old), more than two and a half million people, a vast army. They were ready to rebel or murmur at the least occasion. It was a difficult task. Only by his great faith could Moses thus lead and guide them. This great army would represent all the families of the earth, just and unjust and their leader and Mediator. This shows that Moses was a great general.

18:24 — MOSES HEARKENED TO THE VOICE OF HIS FATHER-IN-LAW — Moses was humble enough to receive such instruction as of the Lord in spite of the fact that it came from an Ethiopian, one not of the seed of Abraham. This God even now sometimes uses outsiders to give suggestions and lessons to His covenant people, and wise is the man or woman humble enough to receive instruction from every quarter, when found to be in harmony with the divine will. Someone has said—“This (arrangement) became the basis (Kalisch) of Alfred the Great’s Saxon Constitution and thus the basis of the Constitution of modern England and America”—a government of the people, by the people, through their won representatives. (Z. ’02-203; R.3037)

19:1 — IN THE THIRD MONTH — That is, two full month. The experiences of this time were chiefly seven:

- (1) Passing the Red Sea;
- (2) Sweetening the waters of Mara;
- (3) Rest at Elim near wells and palm grove;
- (4) Beginning of supply of Manna;
- (5) Smiting of rock;
- (6) Battle with Amalek;
- (7) Appointment of judges under Moses.

These experiences were calculated to establish faith in the Lord and to ground and establish the hope of the Abrahamic Covenant, under which they assayed to leave Egypt to seek the promised land where the blessing would be granted. God proposed to enter into a covenant with them, adopt them as His people, with Moses as their Mediator. (Z. ’07-186; R.4012)

19:2 — ISRAEL CAMPED BEFORE THE MOUNT — Representing, in the Millennial Age, those of the world of mankind desirous of coming into harmony with God, all the willing and obedient. (Z. ’02-203; R.3037)

19:3 — THUS SHALT THOU SAY — Though the Lord impressed Israel with a sense of the importance of the covenant and of His dignity by the terrors of Sinai, yet His message to them introducing the commandments was very gracious and gentle, calling to their minds His loving care over them. This is always the Lord’s way. (Z. ’02-203; R.3037)

19:4 — WHAT I DID UNTO THE EGYPTIANS — Their overthrow typified the overthrow of Satan’s empire and the freeing of mankind from his power, the binding of Satan. The bondage of the race to sin was pictured in the Egyptian bondage.

EGYPTIANS — Egypt, the forces of evil, the kingdom of Satan in the time of trouble, the overthrow of his empire. God here calls the attention of Israel and of all who would seek Him to what He has proved himself able to do for those who trust Him, and to overcome and make powerless the forces of evil to those who would seek Him now and to the world in a larger sense.

ON EAGLE'S WINGS — (See marginal references) Type of the power of the air (spiritual power). To the Church these wings are the Old and New Testaments by which God bears up and encourages and strengthens His people, also His spiritual power around them. "Underneath and around us are the ever lasting arms." (Power of God)

BROUGHT YOU — Brought Israel to be His people. In antitype, by these means brings His people more and more closely to Him, to love Him more and more and be finally copies of His character. (Matt. 5:45, 48)

UNTO MYSELF — So the divine love and power will operate through Christ to bring the world of mankind unto Himself and make them His people.

19:5 — IF YE WILL OBEY — They thought they could and determined to try and the Lord arranged thus to teach them a lesson that imperfect men cannot keep God's perfect law, but need a Mediator and a Redeemer (advocate for the Church). Their failure did not mean God's failure for He had another way. See note on Rom. 7:11; 1 Pet. 2:9.

KEEP MY COVENANT — God knew that they could not keep this covenant, but He wanted them to try for many reasons.

A PECULIAR TREASURE UNTO ME — If they would try they would really become ultimately His people through Christ, as His members in due time or as His earthly kingdom, as will the Ancient Worthies who did try.

ABOVE ALL PEOPLE — Are you ready now to enter into a covenant of full consecration? You have seen how I dealt with the Egyptians in delivering you and how I bore you on eagle's wings ever since over all the trials and difficulties of the journey to this place. Have you faith? Have you loyalty? Do you wish to enter into a covenant? (Z. '13-233; R.5285)

It was proper, too, that Israel should know that they would be unsuitable for the Lord's use in blessing other nations unless they themselves were able to keep that law and show others how to keep it.

ALL THE EARTH IS MINE — Who would not want to be the special people of such a king? Implying also that God would use all these earthly blessings to shower blessings upon Israel. (Mal. 3:10; Lev. 26:3-13; Deut. 28:1-14)

19:6 — A KINGDOM OF PRIESTS — The larger part of Moses' work after the delivery from Egypt was to lift the people up out of ignorance and slave condition to freedom. In the Millennial Age, after the world is delivered from Satan, the work of Christ will be to uplift all the willing and obedient of the world to full liberty and perfection. (Rom. 8:19-22)

AN HOLY NATION — Typifying the Royal Priesthood and holy nation. (1 Pet. 2:9)

19:7 — MOSES — The Christ in antitype.

THE ELDERS OF THE PEOPLE — In antitype, the Ancient Worthies.

19:10 — TO DAY — The rest of the fifth 1000-year day in which the ransom was paid.

TO MORROW — The sixth 1000-year day. These two are preparation days. We are getting ready the blood to seal the New Covenant and the priests and the Levites and the Mediator and the people. (Jewish nation first, then the world, now being born so as to have the people.)

LET THEM WASH THEIR CLOTHES — For some time the Lord has been dealing with the world with a view to the New Covenant. The proclamation of purification has been made, the people are being commanded to cleanse themselves. (Acts 17:30,31) The instruction to purify and get ready has been more or less heeded throughout the world, and now shortly we may expect the marshalling of the people. (Z. '02-203; R.3037)

19:11 — THE THIRD DAY — The Millennial Day in which the covenant is made. (Chap. 24)

THE LORD WILL COME DOWN IN THE SIGHT OF ALL THE PEOPLE — The Lord will reveal himself plainly to all the world then.

19:12 — SET BOUNDS UNTO THE PEOPLE — Make plain the conditions upon which the mount may be approached and define the classes who may go up into the mount. So we now are making plain the terms of the high calling and defining the classes who may go up into the spiritual phase of the kingdom. Elders (Ancient Worthies) of Israel were in the camp (world, earthly phase.)

SHALL BE SURELY PUT TO DEATH — To make sure the type was observed.

19:13 — WHEN THE TRUMPET SOUNDETH LONG — The seventh trumpet will sound all down the Millennium.

THEY SHALL COME UP TO THE MOUNT — As they will in the Millennium. (Mic. 4:2)

19:16 — ON THE THIRD DAY — The third 1000-year day from the time when the ransom was paid or obtained.

IN THE MORNING — The Millennial morning (Joel 2:1, 2; Ezek. 7:5-7), beginning with the harvest time and spreading from the church to the world.

THERE WERE THUNDERS — “The seven thunders uttered their voices.” (Rev. 10:3, 4) The volumes of Millennial Dawn.

AND LIGHTNINGS — Diffusions of knowledge, referring to the rapid increase of knowledge among God’s people (knowledge of the truth, Joel 2:24-26) and also in the world.

A THICK CLOUD UPON THE MOUNT — God’s majesty and mystery understood only by those who were of his mind, calculated to cause fear and respect in their minds, for they were convicts.

THE VOICE OF THE TRUMPET — The seventh trumpet, the trump of God, truth on all subjects. (1 Thes. 4:16)

EXCEEDING LOUD — The voice of that trumpet, the truth, will gradually be heard by all, it will resound even to the remotest corner of the earth.

ALL THE PEOPLE — (Jer. 6:16, 17)

TREMbled — “Men’s hearts failing them for fear.”

19:17 — THE PEOPLE OUT OF THE CAMP — the world at the beginning of the Millennium, the earthly phase of the kingdom.

THE WHOLE MOUNT QUAKED — (Rev. 16:18).

GREATLY — Typifying the shaking of heavens and earth (religious and social world) and the removal of all evil systems and governments.

19:19 — WAXED LOUDER AND LOUDER — The truth will be proclaimed with an ever-increasing number of voices, grow louder, and reach into every nook and corner of the earth.

19:20 — MOSES WENT UP — Early in the third day (Millennial morning) the antitypical Moses (Christ and the Church) will ascend into the mountain or kingdom of the Lord. (Z. '02-203; R.3037)

20:1 — GOD SPAKE ALL THESE WORDS — The Decalogue is called the Law of Moses because “The Law came by Moses but grace and truth by Jesus Christ.” But both emanated from the Father. (Z. '07-188; R.4013)

20:3 — THOU SHALT HAVE NO OTHER GODS BEFORE ME — The thought is that they should have no other gods in his presence; so long as they recognized Jehovah as their God, none others were to be recognized in any sense or degree. (Z. '02-204; R.3038)

God properly put himself first, for he is first, chief, head over all beings and all things, and to him properly belongs their homage, reverence; and only as mankind begin to realize this do they approximate the spirit of a sound mind. The Israelites had been in contact with idolatry in Egypt and would again be in contact with it in Canaan. So the first lesson they were to learn was this. Yet many long centuries of chastisements were necessary to make them learn it, even to the Babylonian captivity. (Z. '07-189; R.4014)

Fathers or mothers, husbands or wives, or children might intrude upon our love and devotion and take the place of our Lord in our affections, and this must not be permitted by any who would be of the elect. We must love less than God all other beings, so that the first strength of our love and devotion may be given to our Creator. The great majority of those who profess devotion to the Lord are bowing themselves down to idols of wealth, social or personal ambition and serving these with all the strength and time and means and knowledge which they have consecrated to the Lord. (Z. '02-204; R.3038) Compare with the first Egyptian plague and first Woe Trumpet for results of disobeying this command.

20:4 — THOU SHALT NOT MAKE UNTO THEE ANY GRAVEN IMAGE — Some use images, beads, pictures as reminders and helps to the mind and faith, but the effect is injurious and the tendency downward rather than upward. Those races using images, etc., are inferior to those not using them, but who practice the higher and purer worship of God which recognizes no intermediary, but communes directly with the Lord. (Z. '02-204; R.3038)

This commandment was beware of worshipping the true God in a false way. Jeroboam committed this sin when he built alters and two golden calves, one at Dan and the other at Bethel, (1 Kings 12). Ahab and Jezebel broke the first commandment in worshipping Baal. The Lord prohibited men from making an image to represent Him, for a true representation of Him could not be made. Jehovah has furnished us in his own due time and way an image of himself, the only one, namely, the Lord Jesus. In worshipping Him we honor Jehovah, we worship Jehovah through Him. We must not look to Jesus to the exclusion of Jehovah. This is a character image (1 Tim. 3:16) and any other character is a false image, a false way. See worship of the beast and his image in Revelation. For results of disobeying this commandment, see the second plague of Egypt and the second Woe Trumpet.

20:5 — A JEALOUS GOD — When we have other gods we must consider Him Jealous; He wants all of our affections (Matt. 22:37), all our confidence, our entire trust; that we be so fully in accord with Him that His will shall be supreme in all the affairs of life. This is not selfishness on God's part, because this, under his overruling providence, means to His creatures the largest amount of happiness, success in the duties and affairs of the present life and the fullest preparation for the blessings which God has prepared for and promised to those who love Him. If man could keep his hatred and jealousies along the same line as God it would be all right. We, as God does, should hate sin. The impropriety of jealousy is when it leads to bitterness and other like qualities to which the fallen human mind is subject and liable. (Z. '11-93; R.4789)

VISITING THE INIQUITY OF THE FATHERS — This does not show anger, bitterness, selfishness on God's part, rather these words express the law of nature under which, in humanity, God has placed humanity. Every one uses his mind and his talents in accord with the Lord's will brings a blessing, not only upon himself, but extends the blessing in a natural way to his descendants. Those who live contrary to the Lord, who mind earthly things and become more and more earthly, sensual, devilish, surely transmit these groveling tendencies to their children, injuring and influencing them to the third and fourth generation in a perfectly, natural manner. This is the secret of the extreme degradation that we see about us in various parts of the world today. There was a start to all this degradation. (Rom. 1:21-31) (Z. '02-204; R.3038)

20:7 — THOU SHALT NOT TAKE THE NAME OF THE LORD THY GOD IN VAIN — As a people, Israel had taken God's name, professed themselves to be God's people under his guidance and leadership. It was their duty to see to it that this should not be in vain, empty or meaningless covenant, but that it should be carried out to the full. Likewise we have entered into a covenant with the Lord, we have named the name of the Lord upon us, calling ourselves His people, claiming Him as our Father and Jesus as our Redeemer. It is proper for us to remember that this is not a vain, frivolous matter, that it should be entered into with solemnity and full appreciation of its importance and of our responsibility under it. The Lord will not hold us guiltless if, after having taken his name upon us and receiving His benediction as His children, we then either sin wilfully or in any degree reflect dishonor on Him whose name we bear. (Z. '02-205; R.3038)

This did not mean that the Israelites should not name the name Jehovah; yet, going to an extreme in the matter, the Jews now and Israelites avoid the covenant name, Jehovah. In vain—lightly, frivolously, or in any other than a reverential manner. (Z. '02-205; R.3038)

Nothing in this commandment would, even among the Jews, have hindered them from taking a legal oath before the court of law. Such oaths are not profane, or taking the Lord's name in vain. They are merely public affirmations that the thing said is the truth as God knows it to be the truth. (Z. '02-189; R.4014)

If we receive this relationship in vain, sin lieth at the door and we will be excluded from the family in glory, whatever may be our position in the Great Company or elsewhere. (Z. '07-189; R.4014) For the result of the disobedience to this commandment, see the fourth Egyptian plague and the last Woe Trumpet.

IN VAIN — Falsely, to no purpose. To profane God's name is to use it with disrespect and irreverence; to blaspheme His name is to revile, calumniate, abuse it.

20:8 —REMEMBER — This does not imply that the Sabbath had been previously instituted and this was merely a reminder of it. There was no mention of the keeping of a Sabbath previous to Israel's arrival at Sinai. It was instituted in connection with the sending of the Manna. It means that Israel should be careful continually to remember the commandment regarding the seventh day and that thenceforth it should be kept holy, sacred, free from work, as unto the Lord. (Z. '02-205; R.3039)

REMEMBER THE SABBATH DAY TO KEEP IT HOLY — By general consent the nation seemed to recognize the propriety of devoting the Sabbath day to a consideration of the Divine Law and precious promises, even prophecies. The appointment of the day was in the interest of all—to the poor it would mean protection from the greed of capital; and to the enterprising and prosperous it would mean a brake upon their selfish propensities, the acknowledgement of the Lord and the interests of their fellow creatures. (Z. '07-189; R.4015)

As Israel's passover typified the death of Christ, so their fiftieth day pointed out the full, complete rest or Sabbath of the present time, into which the Spiritual Israelites entered at Pentecost, when they received from the Father through Jesus the Holy Spirit which indicated that their sins were covered and they were accepted of the Father as New Creatures begotten of the Holy Spirit. So all followers of Jesus, from then till now, when begotten of the Holy Spirit, are accepted into the rest of faith and, ceasing from all hope of self-justification, accept Jesus as the end (fulfillment) of the Law for righteousness, and the imputation of his merit as full satisfaction for their sins, and full reconciliation with the Father. Only those who have this experience have ever kept the real antitypical Sabbath. As long as they maintain this faith and trust they are fulfilling the antitypical Sabbath. This excludes works and the Jewish Law as basis for justification by faith and accepts instead the blood of Christ. But works as a manifestation of our love and devotion and thankfulness to God are required. Thus God has bound together our faith and obedience to the extent of our ability and the rest or Sabbath which we may enjoy. The measure of our rest in the Lord and his finished work will depend largely upon the measure of our thankfulness and appreciation and the latter will manifest itself in loving devotion to Him and the righteousness which He represents. He who lacks this rest lacks the evidence that he is an Israelite indeed and in covenant relationship with God through Christ. He who has this rest of heart has in it a foretaste, an assurance of the perfect rest of the future. For, of now we can rest by faith, notwithstanding the besetments of the flesh and the Adversary under present adverse conditions, how gloriously we will rest by and by when that which is perfect shall have come, not only in our own change into the Lord's character-likeness, but in the change of all the outward environments. On the other hand, the hope and faith regarding a future rest and Sabbath is without foundation if we do not enjoy the present rest of faith, if the peace of God which passeth all understanding is not ours. (Z. '07-190; R.4015)

As the Jew commanded that all his children and servants were similarly to rest, so all who come under our influence as children or employees should be influenced by our rest and be partakers of our trust and confidence in God, through or knowledge of Him which they could only appreciate. (Z. '07-190; R.4015)

The Lord has left us in this liberty because our entire law is a law of liberty designed to test, by its liberty, those to whom it is given. It leaves one unfettered that he may the more abundantly show the kind and extent of his devotion to the Lord. (Z. '02-205; R.3038)

20:10 — THE SEVENTH DAY IS THE SABBATH — The fourth commandment is a kind of connecting link between the two parts of the commandments. (Z. '07-199; R.4019)

The ten commandments were written on two tables of stone, one bore the first four and the other the last six. The first four mark man's obligation toward and responsibility toward his Creator and the remaining six his responsibilities (duties) toward his fellow men. (Z.'02-217; R.3044; Z.'13-235; R.5287)

The essence of the first four is stated by Jesus, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, mind, soul, strength" (being), and the last six, "Love thy neighbor as thyself." (Luke 10:27; Deut. 6:5; Lev. 19:18) The "Thou shalt nots" might be multiplied indefinitely to fit the thousand of cases in daily life, but the one "Thou shalt" covers the entire situation. Those who so love the Lord will bend every energy to please him, and any division of the heart or mind or soul or strength violates the commandment and jeopardizes their own safety besides, and those so loving their fellow-men will not intentionally injure them in act or word or thought, so that love expresses the full measure of the Law's requirements. Love may go beyond, but cannot do less. (Z.'13-235; R.5287)

20:12 — HONOR THY FATHER AND THY MOTHER — No matter how ignorant or stupid or vicious parents may be they deserve consideration from their children. Yet, of course, the kind or degree of respect must depend upon the character of the parent to some extent. With disobedience to parents rank and rampant everywhere it may seem a hard saying, but we believe it is true, that the disobedience is due to the parent or guardian of the child. The child may have been illborn, discontent and anger and rebellion in the mind of the mother during the period of gestation may have marked the child before its birth so that no amount of training may ever fully recover it. The parents may well be patient and longsuffering with such unhappy disobedient dispositions in their children. Perhaps the parents were only partly to blame. Perhaps the minister preached not the laws of God, their human operation and the penalties of their violation, but instead gave flowery essays and anecdotes giving neither food for the spiritual nature nor assistance in understanding and combatting the weaknesses of the human nature. Perhaps the fault was not wholly the mother's. Perhaps the father may have forgotten that he too had a duty toward his offspring, chiefly served by assisting his wife at this critical period to thoughts of kindness, gentleness, nobility, etc. The conscientious parent has a wonderful task to train the perverted child in the nurture and admonitions of the Lord. Those who strive faithfully in this direction cannot be too much appreciated and encouraged; and more and more we should esteem the parents of every noble man and woman of our acquaintance and, if strangers, should appreciate the parents, much more the child. The Sunday School also may have unintentionally done harm by weakening the respect of the children for their parents and by releasing the parents from realizing their responsibilities toward their children. The parents are, in the Divine arrangement, the priests of God, particularly in respect to their children. To whatever extent they shirk this responsibility or ignore the honor of this station their influence over the child is lost and one hour's time a week in a Sunday School class can never take the place of continual parental supervision. All benevolent people should be on the alert for the right training of the rising generation, urging and encouraging parental authority and respect. (Z. '13-235; R.5287)

Whoever learns to respect his father and mother will, in ratio, have consideration for others. Those disobedient to parents and without natural affection are prepared to be covenant breakers and anarchists when conditions shall favor such action. Growth of disrespect to parents is one of the notable features of our day. (2 Tim. 3:2, 3) These condemned qualities are being taught and fostered by the higher teachings of the worldly-wise. (Z. '07-200; R.4019)

This commandment taught the Jew the sacredness of the family relationship. It implies not only that children should honor their parents and parents so teach their children, but that they should strive to live before them such lives as would reasonably call forth such respect, obedience and honor. The words "That thy days may be long in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee" would seem to connect this promise with Israel's possession of the land of Canaan. As obedience to parents would lead to obedience to God, so Israel's disobedience to God which resulted in their various captivities and finally in their complete banishment from that land would imply that this lesson of obedience to parents was not well learned and the reward of continuing in their own land was taken from them. (Z. '02-218; R.3044)

To spiritual Israelites—we have a father and mother as New Creatures—God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ. (Matt. 8:9; John 20:21; 1 Pet. 1:3) The spirit of loyalty to our Heavenly Father, of obedience to Him, should be continually with us and prevent any spirit of self-seeking, or boastfulness. The proper spirit of reverence for the Father is expressed by our Lord—"I delight to do thy will, O my God, thy law is written in my heart." The spirit of God is the Law of love and with that in our hearts and abounding more and more we will delight to honor one from whom has come every good and perfect gift. Likewise the Abrahamic Covenant, the heavenly promises to us of the heavenly Jerusalem, typified by Sarah as the mother of us all. We are begotten and nourished of a good hope, a living faith. We must respect this faith, promise, hope, through which we are begotten as well as respect the Heavenly Father by whose gracious provision we are begotten. If we thus honor the Father, the God of all grace, and thus honor His covenant and the faith which has been begotten in us, it will make us loyal in thought and, so far as possible, in word and deed. And, as there was a special promise of long life to the obedient Jew, so to the Spiritual Israelite there is a blessing of a promise of eternal life, immortality. (Z. '07-201; R.4019)

The life of the lower animals was given to man, according to his necessities (Gen. 9:3); but we deprecate that which is misnamed sport, the destruction of birds, beasts, fish, want only, merely to gratify a savage desire to take life. (Z. '02-218; R.3044)

This commandment did not mean that the Jews should not kill animals for sacrifice to God or food, nor that they should kill beasts destructive to man's interests, nor to put to death those judicially sentenced to death as injurious to the interests, of their fellow-man. But all these things the Jews did under and in harmony with that law. To them it meant that no one had a right to take human life, that only a legal process of divine sanction could do this. (Z. '07-200; R.4019)

Life is to be prized, not jeopardized. (Z. '13-234; R.5287)

To the New Creature, "Thou shalt love" has a much more deep and searching meaning than could be understood from "thou shalt not murder." Any wicked thought or sentiment in his heart against his brother, any malice, hatred, anger, is of the murder spirit, which is contrary to the new standard and must be thoroughly eradicated. Such—"He that hateth his brother is a murder"—is a spirit or disposition which, under aggravation or excitement or removal of restraint, would do injury to his brother, and the desire to injure at all, to wound or main. is the desire to that extent to murder him, to take away his blessings, to destroy his interests. (Z. '07-200; R.4019)

He who angrily wishes that his brother or another were dead has committed murder in his heart. (Z. '02-218; R.3044)

The spirit of this commandment would lead the followers of Christ to be careful of the lives and limbs of their employees or whoever might be under their charge or care. (Z. '07-200; R.4019)

The spirit of love wishes well to the neighbor, yea, even though he be an enemy, desires that he may come into harmony with God and ultimately attain life everlasting and so desires these things as to assist him by word or act if possible. (Z. '02-218; R.3044)

What sympathy, what love for the brethren we must feel, how careful not to kill them. As the Apostle says:—"Should I permit my meat to destroy one for whom Christ died?" Should I exercise my liberties to that extent and be careless of the welfare of a brother? How can I, if actuated by the Father's spirit, the spirit of Christ, love. Hence, no one should be recognized as a leader in the church of Christ, whatever his qualifications if he be a striker, a wounder of the brethren. Let us learn to appreciate the spirit of the Lord as we find it among his brethren and be more and more zealous for its cultivation, that so far from injuring or wounding any of them, it should be our joy to minister to them, serve them, bind up their wounds and assist them in every manner within our power. Some very well meaning, very self-sacrificing to the Lord's cause, are forgetful of the spirit of the Lord toward the brethren and open to this rebuke of being wounders. Yet, on the other hand, all who are the Lord's should seek not to be easily wounded or hurt, but to be strong in the Lord, covered with his armor, that harsh words or deeds either from the world or from the brethren would take no effect because of the covering of grace and truth in the armor. (Z. '07-201; R.4020) See sixth plague for disobedience.

20:14 — THOU SHALT NOT COMMIT ADULTERY — This seventh commandment was designed to be the protection of the home and of the family. We may be sure that, to the Jew, it included fornication. Whoever disregards this Law most assuredly brings upon himself injurious consequences in the present life and a degradation of mind and character bearing more or less influence upon his future welfare. (1 Cor. 6:18) To the New Creature this commandment emphasized the importance of the new mind, which has devoted the old body to death. (Rom. 8:13) He who loves his neighbor as himself would not wish to destroy that neighbor's home and its sacredness. The Golden Rule applies here. Our Lord showed the great magnitude of this Law, (Matt. 5:28), when he declared that evil desires, though not accomplished for lack of opportunity, were as really violations of this commandment as if the act had been committed. (Z. '07-201; R.4020)

How the magnifying glass of the law of love enlarges and intensifies the words, actions and thoughts of life! There is, in this, a lesson of purity of thought which should be profitable to all the Lord's people. It is valuable for us to know how the Lord esteems such matters that we may put the greater guard upon our very thoughts and heart intentions. We may be sure it was not of accident that Apostle wrote of the wisdom from above as first pure. Our own purity, in the sense of justification by faith, comes before we can have any standing or relationship to the Lord or be begotten into his family. And this same purity, which is made the foundation of the new life and reckoned to us, must be appreciated by us and lived up to as close as possible. (Z. '02-218; R.3044)

We have been betrothed to our Lord, to Him as our bridegroom we owe full allegiance, whether we look from the standpoint of the Church as a whole, or from the standpoint of each individual united with the Lord. From this standpoint we are to be uncontaminated, unadulterated, separate from the world. (John 17:15; 15:19) (Z. '02-218; R.3044)

20:15 — THOU SHALT NOT STEAL — It does not say—"Do not steal if there is the slightest risk of being caught, exposed, punished" or "do not steal a small amount because it would not be worth while and the risk of being caught would be to great,” or “steal only if you can do so in a semi-legal manner which could not easily be detected or which, if detected, would be shielded by some appearance of legality.” This command covers every form of theft, public and private, for the most serious of all thefts are the public ones by which, under pretence of legality and its form, public properties are seized, without giving a reasonable equivalent. This plainly and simply meant to the Jews that each should recognize the rights of every other Jew, his property, his interests, , and not misappropriate them. The parent may steal from his child by failing to recognize the rights of the child and his own obligation as a parent—to deprive the child of a common education and reasonable equipment for the duties of life. Children should also recognize an obligation toward their parents and toward each other. Mine and thine should be recognized in every home as the basis of order, of justice. We know of nothing so productive of wranglings and disputes in families as the ignoring of one another’s rights. (Z. ’07-202; R.4020)

The worst form of theft is stealing a neighbor’s good name and starting slander. Who can excuse, either in himself or in another, the robbery of another’s good name? Sometimes the character of another is traduced to imply a higher sense of honor or truth or righteousness on the part of the traducer. But he who rightly judges the matter will draw an opposite inference and feel rightly indignant that the one who thus robs another of his good name should expect the hearer to sympathize with the act and be a receiver of stolen goods. In no other particular could we discredit our Lord than by evil speaking, slandering and slander-mongering. (Z. ’07-202; R.4021) For disobedience of this commandment see the eighth plague of Egypt.

20:16 —THOU SHALT NOT BEAR FALSE WITNESS — Though this command does not directly prohibit false statements, it does necessarily prohibit any statement which would mislead a neighbor to his injury and herein we see a superior wisdom in the light of this command. False witness applies to the telling of lies, but it goes deeper than this and applies to any misrepresentation, whether it be direct statement or indirectly by such a statement that would permit a wrong inference to be drawn. Indeed among (so-called) refined people this subterfuge, by which they palliate their conscience and at the some time gratify their spiteful hearts, is very common. One may even bear false witness by a nod of the head, by shrugging the shoulder, or by silence if a misstatement might be made in such a connection that silence might be taken as consent. There is no point or feature of the Law of Love, as it bears on our relationship with fellow men that needs more of our attention than this one. It seems difficult for Christians to learn thoroughly the Master’s lessons. that if thy have anything unpleasant to say about a bother or sister, any criticism of their private affairs to offer, it should be offered to him or her alone and not to others. (Matt. 18) Perhaps on no other score does the adversary succeed so well in doing mischief to the Lord's people, in planting roots of bitterness, producing misunderstandings, anger, malice, hatred, strife and other works of the devil. Let us permit love to do its perfect work in this relationship to us fellows. (Z. '02-219; R.3045)

With many the flesh is weak and the temptation is strong to favor personal interests in violation of the truth, of righteousness. The New Creature must have that love to his neighbor which would prefer to tell no evil about him, however true it might be; which would prefer to shield him, to guard his interests and to lovingly think no evil, or as little evil as possible, respecting any conduct of his that might seem to us irregular. Love suffereth long and is kind; it imagines not evil, but rather imagines good. (Z. '07 203; R.4021) For disobedience of this command, see the ninth plague on Egypt.

Covetousness is not the desire for more blessings for ourselves, but an enviousness of the possessions of others and a desire to appropriate them for ourselves. It is akin to envy, but worse because it goes further. Standing, as it does, as the last of a series of commandments, this one, as it were, casts a reflection upon all which precede it. It is the climax of all the commandments respecting our relationship to our fellow man. It takes hold of the thoughts, whereas the others take hold upon the words and deeds. Of it Canon Ferrer has said: "This is an unique commandment. Search all the laws of the world and you will not find one which resembles it. The sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth commandments you will find in all codes, though only as prohibitions of crimes amenable to judicial punishment. The tenth commandment is the complement of all the rest. It shows that God requires of us not only outward obedience, but inward holiness, that he demands in us the sacrifice of the will in which wicked actions spring, that sinful imaginings are a crime against him, as well as wicked acts." (Z. '07-203; R.4021)

The organ or mental quality which leads worldly minds to covet the things of others is differently directed in the New Creation and guides them to seek for things that love Him. And these must be sought lawfully, in harmony with the Law of Love which God has given us. He who seeks for glory, honor and immortality seeks a good thing and may rejoice respecting it and the desire to obtain it, but he must ever keep in mind that it can be attained only by sacrifice of earthly interests, going to the Master without the camp, bearing his reproach. Let us, to whom the Lord has given the royal law of love, remember well that it is much more searching, much more strict than the law of the ten commandments given to the Jew, because ours relates to us according to the mind and heart as New Creatures and not merely according to the flesh and its appetites and desires. (Z. '07-203; R.4021)

As the last commandment it stands in an important place and, when fully appreciated, is seen to have a bearing on all the others, Covetousness implies discontent. It therefore generally is at the bottom of false witness, slander, theft, adultery, murder and disobedience to parents. Indeed, in some respects, we may suspect that it lies at the bottom of any disloyalty to God. Was it not covetousness on the part of Satan which first led him to disloyalty and sin? In becoming New Creatures we are supposed to eradicate from our hearts everything that would, in any sense of the word, develop into covetousness, by the consecration of our wills and hearts to God, accepting His will instead of our own. Indeed, the New Creature has nothing to covet because, in becoming the Lord's we have become joint-heirs with Jesus Christ and all things are ours—"and ye are Christ's and Christ is God's." But let us, as New Creatures, remember that covetousness can come into a heart otherwise pure and defile the whole, as we see illustrated in the case of Satan, so that of all things which we need to guard against most carefully this is one of the chief. All of the graces of the spirit are opposed to covetousness—meekness, gentleness, brotherly kindness, love, forbid that we should covet the things of our brethren or of the world. Rather, thankfulness should so fill our hearts—gratitude for the manifold blessings received and mercies that there will be no room for covetous thoughts. (Z. '02-219; R.3046) See tenth plague for disobedience.

20:19 — SPEAK THOU WITH US — They knew Moses, but did not know God. Moses here acted as Mediator.

20:25 — IF THOU LIFT UP THY TOOL UPON IT — Typifying that justification before God and life's blessings will not come through man's devices, ordering or making. ("Not made with hands". . . Heb. 9) Jesus Christ, our altar, and by and by the Christ as the world's altar are of God's making and not man's. The heathen altars were made of hewn stone or brick and their offerings were really to demons. (Lev. 17:7; Deut. 32:17; 2 Chron. 11:17; Psa. 106:37; 1 Cor. 10:20; Rev. 9:20) These typified man's efforts which are always twisted by Satan and are his devices to keep men away from God, satisfying man's religious instincts by fraud and lies and blinding them (2 Cor. 4:4), and these are an abomination in God's sight. See Isa. 65:3 and notes.

21:14 — THOU SHALT TAKE HIM FROM MINE ALTAR — This refers to the horns of the brazen altar. The sin is wilful, therefore take him away. The ransom does not cover wilful sin. (See 1 Kings 1:50-53; 2:29)

24:1 — NADAB AND ABIHU — Nadab and Abihu were very highly favored but later they became heady and died for offering strange fire.

SEVENTY OF THE ELDERS OF ISRAEL — Probably the original Sanhedrin. (See Num. 11:16.) (Z. '07-233; R.4037)

24:3 — WILL WE DO — Here the Israelites accepted the covenant and set it to their seal (John 3:33), typifying those of the world who come gladly to God and, having a better Mediator, will be enabled to become perfect and keep it. These are the antitypical camp in the Millennium. (Z. '10-150; R.4607)

24:4 — AND MOSES WROTE — As Jesus will write them in the hearts of the people. (Ex. 36:26; Jer. 31:33) These were written on parchment and to them (ten commandments) were added about seventy enactments or explanations in accordance with them, based upon them, and these all (in Ex. 20-23) constituted the book of the covenant. (vs. 7) (Z. '02-220; R.3046)

EARLY IN THE MORNING — The Millennial morning.

UNDER THE HILL — The earthly phase, calling attention to the ransom.

ACCORDING TO THE TWELVE TRIBES OF ISRAEL — See Deut. 32:8; Acts 17:26; Zech. 9:1

24:5 — OFFERED BURNT OFFERINGS — Notice that it was the blood of burnt offerings and peace offerings that sealed the Law covenant. (The sin-offering feature had to do with the satisfaction, but the burnt offerings and peace offerings imply that the believers and sacrificers voluntarily lay down their earthly rights in the interests of those who will be blessed under the New Covenant-entirely aside from the atonement for Adamic sin, accomplished by the same sacrifices, viewed from the standpoint of the sin offering.) The sin offering, burnt offering and peace offering picture the same sacrifices, but from different standpoints. In every case we would understand the bullock to represent Jesus and the goats, the Church. (The sin offerings were not offered before the Law came, all were burnt offerings. "Sin is not imputed where there is no law." (Rom. 7:7-11; 5:13) All the sin offerings were for transgression against the Law Covenant, not for sins before it, which were probably answered for by the blood of Moses.) See comment on Heb. 9:18.

OF OXEN — Of calves and goats. (See Heb. 9:19.) these animals represented Moses, the Mediator of the Covenant, and their blood as his life, the blood of the covenant. (vs. 8) (Z. '02-220; R.3046)

24:6 — IN BASINS — Refers to a smaller vessel than our basins, more like a cup. In Cant. 7:2 it is translated "goblet." These "cups," the members of the Church, and the blood of the New Covenant passes through them to the people. So in 1 Pet. 1:2. The blood came from the bullock. The cups are merely the channel.

HE SPRINKLED ON THE ALTER — Representing a satisfaction of justice. He also sprinkled blood on the book—that the Law was bound and he would faithfully carry out his part of the covenant. (Heb. 9:19)

24:8 — SPRINKLED — This was done was done on all the people (Heb. 9:19), so the antitypical Moses will sprinkle the world of mankind and this will mean the bringing of them into harmony with the divine law. It will require the “thousand years” to “sprinkle” mankind. the sprinkling with the blood represents justification (Z. '14-85; R.5421)—i.e., bringing all mankind to a knowledge of the truth and to an appreciation of their privileges of returning to full harmony with God and his divine laws and regulations. (Z. '09-104; R.4366)

ON THE PEOPLE — Probably not on all the 2,000,000 present, but upon representatives of the whole, the heads or chiefs of the tribes. (Z. '02-220; R.3046)

Perhaps the seventy elders. This typifies the sprinkling of the blood of the New Covenant upon Israel and all mankind. (See Isa. 52:13; Heb. 9:13, 14; Ezek. 36:25) This with the promise of the people, bound them to the Law Covenant. (Heb. 9:19)

CONCERNING ALL THESE WORDS — “Enjoined”—Heb. 9:20—by which you and God are joined in covenant. Thus, in type or symbol, Moses stood to pledge to God on behalf of the people and to the people on behalf of God, that the provisions on both sides should be carried out. (Z. '02-220; R.3046)

25:2 — OF EVERY MAN THAT GIVETH IT WILLINGLY WITH HIS HEART — See notes on Ex. 35

25:8 — LET THEM MAKE ME A SANCTUARY — Tabernacle symbols: Enclosures represent our conditions in the house of God. Fixtures represent positions as humans or as New Creatures. Furniture represents activities (spheres of usefulness). Priests represent ourselves as agents and intelligent worshippers. Sacrifices represent experiences. Camp represents our environment. The Tabernacle itself, set up, represents the house of God.

25:9 — EVEN SO SHALL YE MAKE IT — As we note the necessity for this exactness it gives us confidence that every jot and tittle of the type will be fulfilled (Matt. 5:18; Luke 16:17) and should make us eager to examine carefully every feature of the type and search diligently in the word for its meaning.

25:10 — AN ARK OF SHITTIM WOOD — Its name “Ark of the Covenant” or “Testimony” seems to imply that it illustrates the embodiment of Jehovah’s plan, which he had purposed in himself before the beginning of the creation of God—before the minutest development of his plan had taken place. It represented the eternal purpose of God—his foreordained arrangement of riches of grace for mankind in Christ (head and body)—the “Hidden Mystery.” It therefore represents Christ Jesus and His Bride, the “Little Flock,” to be partakers of the divine nature and to be imbued with power and great glory—the prize of our high calling, the joy set before our Lord and all the members of his body. (T121) The condition of spiritual perfection of the glorified Christ. (T122) In Ex. 26:33, the Ark was placed in the Most Holy to signify that the glories which it typified would not be realized by the Christ until the second vail of actual death was passed and we were glorified. The order of approach events:

- (1) actual death of human body (second vail);
- (2) Resurrection to divine nature;
- (3) a waiting time (typified by space between Ark and vail);
- (4) satisfaction of justice;
- (5) presentation to Jehovah;
- (6) glorification, entering into Ark condition. The same order is pictured in Jesus’ resurrection.

TWO CUBITS AND A HALF — 3-3/4 feet (equals 45 inches).

A CUBIT AND A HALF — 2-1/4 feet (equals 27 inches).

25:11 — OVERLAY IT WITH PURE GOLD — Representing the actual possession of the divine nature when we shall enter into the Most Holy. It could have been made of solid gold, but it then would have been too heavy to carry, for it was borne on the shoulders of the Kohathites. (Num. 3:27-31; 7:6-9) The stone sarcophagus of the King’s Chamber in the Pyramid was of the same capacity.

25:15 — THEY SHALL NOT BE TAKEN FROM IT — This would seem to represent a pilgrimage, a sojourning, that the Ark had not reached its final resting place while the tabernacle was in use. When the Ark was brought into Solomon’s Temple (which represented the Christ in the glory of the Kingdom) these staves were drawn out in some manner, (1 Kings 8:8) which would seem to represent that the Ark had reached its final resting place. So now, while the Body of Christ, the Church, is in her tabernacle condition, she is not entered into the final rest, but when the temple or glorified condition is reached, we shall have entered the rest that remaineth, our final, perfect rest. Also God’s plan of salvation waits tentatively while the Christ is being gathered out, then when the Church is fully glorified the plan will be put in their hands as it now is in the hands of the Head, and God will turn over the world to the Christ to bless, the plan will be vested in them.

25:16 — THE TESTIMONY WHICH I SHALL GIVE THEE — The two tables of stone containing the ten commandments, typifying God's eternal law and that its power and authority were vested in Christ as its executor. Also, that he would fulfill every obligation of God's perfect Law. (T121) (See 1 Kings 8:9)

25:17 — A MERCY SEAT OF PURE GOLD — Representing justice, the foundation of God's throne. (Psa. 89:14, margin)

TWO CUBITS AND A HALF SHALL BE THE LENGTH THEREOF — Circuit is eight cubits.

A CUBIT AND A HALF THE BREADTH THEREOF — Same size as the Ark, showing that God's absolute justice and his whole attributes will be in full force on the eighth 1000-year day, that not until absolute perfection is actually reached will man be able to stand before the Father's justice.

25:18 — TWO CHERUBIMS OF GOLD — God's love and power.

25:20 — TOWARD THE MERCY SEAT SHALL THE FACES OF THE CHERUBIMS BE — Here the posture of the Cherubims was that of waiting for Justice to be satisfied—their wings spread on high overshadowing the Mercy Seat and their faces looking toward the Mercy Seat, waiting till Justice is satisfied before they can go out to bless the world. In Solomon's temple the posture of the Cherubim was different. (See 1 Kings 6:23-28; 8:6-8; 2 Chron.3:10-13 and note.)

25:21 — THE MERCY SEAT — The Propitiatory, or place where satisfaction is made to Justice. (Rom. 3:25; 1 John 2:2)

IN THE ARK THOU SHALT PUT THE TESTIMONY — Called the "Ark of the Testimony" on this account (Ex. 26:34); also "Ark of the Covenant" because God's Law Covenant was ever kept in the mind of the Jews by the presence of the Ark among them, representing Jehovah's presence (Num. 10:33) because the Law of the Covenant was in it.

25:22 — ALL THINGS WHICH I WILL GIVE THEE — See Ex. 29:42, 43; 30:6, 36; Lev. 16:2; Num. 17:4; 7:8, 9; 1 Sam. 4:4; 2 Sam. 6:2; 2 Kings 19:15; Psa. 80:1; 90:1; Isa. 37:16.

25:23 — MAKE A TABLE —this table was placed opposite the candlestick and on the North side, to the right as you enter the Holy; thus being the second thing seen, showing that the illumination of our mind enables us to understand the deep things of God. The light of the candlestick fell most brilliantly on the table, showing that the first thing the light of the Spirit points us to is to study the Word. So Jesus, on his anointing, “the Spirit driveth him into the wilderness.” (Mark 1:12) Solomon’s temple had ten tables, five on the right and five on the left (2 Chron. 4:8), perhaps meaning a greater abundance of truth and food in the kingdom.

OF SHITTIM WOOD — Representing Christ and the Church holding forth the Word of life. We partake of it ourselves and hold it forth for others, thus upbuilding one another in the most holy faith and compacted (knit together) by that which every joint supplieth. (Eph. 4:16)

TWO CUBITS SHALL BE THE LENGTH THEREOF — These dimensions would make the table 9 feet around (without the border) and 27 inches, or 2 feet, 3 inches high.

25:24 — OVERLAY IT WITH PURE GOLD — Showing that the Christ is completely surrounded by divine power and protection and that they are called to the divine nature.

CROWN OF GOLD — “Crown” would imply a vertical ornament about the table. Food for kings.

25:25 — A BORDER OF AN HANDBREADTH — If this handbreadth be 4-1/2 inches, then the distance around the top of the table is 144 inches.

A GOLDEN CROWN TO THE BORDER THEREOF — The same to the border’s “crown,” it also would seem to be a vertical ornament. An honor to proclaim the truth.

25:27 — OVER AGAINST THE BORDER — Leeser: “Close under the rim (or border) shall the rings be.” The table would not be top-heavy this way. The table was borne on the shoulders of the Kohathites. (Num. 7:9; 4:7, 8) See notes on Lev. 24

THE STAVES TO BEAR THE TABLE — There were no staves mentioned for the table in Solomon’s Temple, they were not to be moved thence, its final resting place.

25:28 — MAKE THE STAVES OF SHITTIM WOOD — The staves were not kept in the rings of the table (Num. 4:8) as this seemed no figure, a new lot of tables being made for the Temple.

25:30 — SHEWBREAD — See Lev. 24.

25:31 — A CANDLESTICK — Representing Jesus and the Church (candlestick as a whole) letting the light of the Holy Spirit from God's Word shine forth in their lives. These are as a candle now, but by and by will shine forth as the sun in the Kingdom. (Matt. 13:43; 5:14-16; John 1:9)

PURE GOLD — The Christ is called to the divine nature, they are divinely instructed and arranged and divinely protected and taught and the light is God's Holy Spirit. This was the first thing noticed on entering the Holy and so the first effect of the begetting of the Spirit is an illumination of our mind (Heb. 10:32; Eph. 1:18; 5:8) enabling us to discern spiritual things. (1 Cor. 2:12-16) (T-116)

OF BEATEN WORK — All hammered out of one piece of pure gold, showing how Christ is perfected through suffering and made one in full beauty and harmony, fit for the divine nature.

HIS SHAFT — The central shaft which went straight up and bore all the branches, and had more fruit and flowers than the branches, represents Jesus as the "seed," the "true light." His course was straight upward from the start, his obedience and life were perfect and hence bore richer fruit than any of the Church. He also is the main stock and bears all the members of the Church up.

HIS BRANCHES — The branches, however, run parallel to earth for awhile and gradually come into line with the head more and more, until they are copies of his likeness in character. Our course is not very different at the first from what it was before, but gradually we bring our thoughts and words and actions more completely under the control of the head, transformed by the renewing of the mind. (Rom. 12:2; 2 Cor. 3:18) The whole candlestick thus represents the Christ in the militant state, in its seven (complete) phases. (Rev. 1:11)

25:33 — ALMONDS — The fruits representing that the church is fruitful and beautiful from first to last. These almonds also show that the Christ is an elect company, chosen and predestinated as a Royal Priesthood.

KNOP — A calyx.

A FLOWER — Almond flowers. A very beautiful design, the beauty of the New Creature.

25:37 — THE SEVEN LAMPS THEREOF — These were probably almond-shaped. (T116) These lamps, represent the Word of God, containing the oil (Holy Spirit), it has been the chosen channel of God to dispense the light of the Holy Spirit. (T116)

GIVE LIGHT OVER AGAINST IT — These lamps were placed so as to point the wick end toward the central stick, showing how the Christian is always to point his hearers toward the Master, to exalt him and the Father and to keep ourselves out of sight. See Ex. 30:7, 8; 37:17-24; Lev. 24 for further notes and Rev. 1:12, 13, 20; 2:1, 5; Ex. 27:20, 21.

25:40 — AFTER THE PATTERN — Every jot and tittle had to be exactly performed in the type because it illustrated something better and more important to come afterward. (T12) See Ex. 37 and Lev. 24.

26:1 — THOU SHALT MAKE THE TABERNACLE — Notice that the linen curtain alone is called the tabernacle. (vs. 7)

WITH CHERUBIMS OF CUNNING WORK — This would make a most beautiful covering, keeping the Christian in the Holy always reminded of God's four attributes (the cherubim) and of his faithfulness, of his majesty and worthiness of honor and adoration, and love of self-sacrifice that he has shown toward us in offering his only Son to be our Redeemer.

26:3 — COUPLED ONE TO ANOTHER — So this curtain was composed of two parts, each made up of five curtains, each of these five curtains being 28 cubits long and four cubits wide. These five curtains in each part were sewed together at their long edges, thus making each part of the curtain 28 cubits long and 20 cubits wide. On the outer edge of the last curtain in each part were made 50 loops of blue yarn (26:4, 5), then the two parts of the main curtain connected by 50 golden clasps or hooks (vs. 6). The curtain was probably hung or put up with the front edge even with the front of the tabernacle. This would make the union, or joint, between the two parts, where the golden clasps were, come just 20 cubits from the front of the tabernacle (30 feet) and 10 cubits (15 feet) from the rear end (see vs. 33). It is uncertain whether the curtain hung inside or outside the boards. From the fact that the curtain itself is called the Tabernacle (vs. 6) some think the curtain hung down inside the boards. If so, then the sides of the curtain would be one cubit from the ground. (The curtain was 28 cubits wide, the Tabernacle was 10 cubits wide, leaving 18 cubits of curtain for the side, nine cubits for each side, and the boards were 10 cubits high. (vs. 16) If hung outside the boards they would reach to one cubit plus the thickness of the boards from the ground at the sides, and to the thickness of the boards from the ground at the rear. The first method would leave one cubit of the gold-covered boards with their sockets visible on the sides of the tabernacle.

26:9 — THOU SHALT COUPLE FIVE CURTAINS BY THEMSELVES AND SIX CURTAINS — So this large curtain of goat's hair was made of two parts containing 11 curtains, each 30 cubits long by 4 cubits wide. One part was made of six of these curtains coupled together at their long edges, thus making this part 30 cubits long and 24 cubits wide. The sixth curtain of this part was doubled over the front of the tabernacle, perhaps as a set of eaves (vs. 9). The other part was of five curtains similarly sewn together, making this part 30 cubits long and 20 cubits wide. The two parts had each 50 loops on the long edge of the outermost curtain and were joined by 50 clasps of copper put into the loops. This would bring the joint of the curtain just over the joint in the white curtain.

26:12 — SHALL HANG OVER THE BACKSIDE OF THE TABERNACLE

— The half large curtain, or the half of the rear part of the big curtain, which was made of the two curtains. So the half of the rear part of the big tent hung over the back part of the Tabernacle to cover it and reached to the ground, or the thickness of the boards from the ground.

26:13 — IT SHALL HANG OVER THE SIDES OF THE TABERNACLE

— Note, this does not say that the excess of the curtains of the tent shall hang down one cubit over the sides of the Tabernacle, but that the one cubit on each side by which the goat's hair curtain exceeds the white curtain (called the Tent or Tabernacle in vs. 8) shall hang over the sides of the Tabernacle to cover it. The white curtain was 28 cubits and the goat's hair 30 cubits in length. So the Tabernacle and boards were completely covered.

26:16 — TEN CUBITS SHALL BE THE LENGTH OF A BOARD — 10 cubits equals 15 feet; 1 cubit equals 1-1/2 feet; 1-1/2 cubits equals 27 inches.

26:18 — TWENTY BOARDS — Twenty boards, 20 x 1-1/2 cubits equals 45 feet, the length of the Tabernacle.

26:22 — SIX BOARDS — Six boards, 6 x 1-1/2 cubits equals 9 cubits, plus two corner boards each 9 inches, or 18 inches; equals 13-1/2 feet plus 1-1/2 feet or 15 feet as the width of the Tabernacle.

26:27 — TWO SIDES WESTWARD — Leeser: "Back wall." The tabernacle was open at the east end.

26:33 — UNDER THE TACHES — i.e., Under the gold clasps at the joining of the two parts of the white curtain. This curtain divided the Holy from the Most Holy, and thus the Holy would be 20 cubits or 30 feet long and the Most Holy, 10 cubits or 15 feet long.

27:1 — FIVE CUBITS LONG AND FIVE CUBITS BROAD — 4 x 5 cubits equals 20 cubits, 30 feet, or 360 inches. Thirty was the age of Jesus when he gave himself a ransom for all at Jordan. Thirty pieces of silver was the price at which he was sold. Ten is the basic number and five is the division of ten. See posts of court.

FOURSQUARE — The Brazen Altar represented primarily the perfection of the man Christ Jesus upon which his offering was accepted by God as our sin atonement, sanctifying in turn (Matt. 23:19) any offering of others which might be placed upon it. See Ex. 29:36, 37; 30:29. (Z. '02-235; R.3053) See also Ex. 29:16; Lev. 9:15 notes. The perfection of Jesus is shown by the alter being square on top.

27:3 — HORNS — Representing the power of the altar, its efficacy for sin atonement as represented in the continual sacrifice. (Ex. 29:38, 39)

FOUR CORNERS THEREOF — Its full sufficiency to reach and bless all the camp was represented by the four horns being on all four corners. So it suffices for all humanity (represented by the camp) atoning for all the sins consequent upon Adam's sin. (See 1 Cor. 15:22; Rom. 5:18; Heb. 2:14; 1 Tim. 2:5, 6)

HORNS SHALL BE OF THE SAME — The power of the alter was inseparably connected with the sacrifice upon it. Those who claim it is the example of Jesus which saves us and not his death, are separating the horns from the alter. And only as we come and recognize him as our Redeemer are we justified and, further, as we partake of his spirit of self-sacrifice and become dead with him, then only do we get the full benefit of that merit. See 1 John 1:7. See also Ex. 21:14; 1 Kings 1:50-53; 2:28. The brazen altar was first sanctified and made holy by the sprinkling with the anointing oil. (Ex. 30:26-29; 29:36, 37; 40:9-11) This anointing was done at the beginning when the Tabernacle was set up (Lev. 8:10, 11) and was probably, or possibly repeated at the inauguration of a new high priest. (Ex. 29:36, 37) This made holy whatever touched the alter (came under the influence of the anointing). So the anointing of Jesus and the Church influences everything they come in contact with, it is used to God's glory. But its power was to make the offerings acceptable (Matt. 23:19). It seems that this power was derived from the blood sprinkled upon it. This was done in the beginning at the consecration (Ex. 29:12, 16, 20, 21, 36, 37; Lev. 8:15, 19, 24, 30; 9:9, 12, 18); was repeated on the Atonement Day (Lev. 16:18, 19) and was done with each sacrifice: sin offering (Lev. 4:7, 18, 25, 30, 34); burnt offering (Lev. 1:5, 11, 15); peace offering (Lev. 3:2, 8, 13); trespass offering (Lev. 5:9; 7:2). (It seems from these texts that the blood of the sin offering only was sprinkled on the horns, that of the other offerings was sprinkled "round about upon the altar," or poured out at the base (sometimes the blood of the sin offering was poured out at the base of the altar, besides sprinkled on either the horns of the Golden Altar or Brazen Altar) (Lev. 4) So Jesus gave up his life rights as a sin offering for us and through this merit he can justify us by his work in the Most Holy and make us acceptable to God by him. He imputes his life rights to us. Rom. 12:1, the living sacrifices, the justified life; those not justified are dead. (1 Pet. 2:1-5; Eph. 1:16; Rom. 3:26) The other offerings always kept in memory the blood of the original sin offering.

So, whenever we sacrifice unto the Lord, we are to do it through him, in his merit, and thus keep in memory the blood of sprinkling. (Heb. 12:24) See Ex. 38:1-7; 40:29.

OVERLAY IT WITH BRASS — Copper picturing perfect human nature. An altar pictures sacrifice. Thus, a perfect human life sacrifice for sin the Ransom.

27:5 — UNDER THE COMPASS OF THE ALTAR — The Hebrew word for compass is karkobe, a rim or top margin, hence the grating of copper was put beneath the rim of the altar and reached even to the midst of it.

27:16 — THEIR PILLARS SHALL BE FOUR — The common version and other translations say four posts. However, the design of the court shows that this should be five. On the north side there were 20 pillars (counting only one corner, for the other corner would be counted on the next side) and 20 spaces, each five cubits square; on the west 10 pillars and 10 spaces (court 100 cubits long and 50 cubits wide.) So on the east side there would be needed, to keep the symmetry, 10 posts and 10 spaces, each five cubits square. As verses 13 to 15 show, there were three pillars and three spaces of five cubits each, 15 cubits, on each side of the gate; and in the gate 20 cubits, where therefore five pillars would be needed, so there might be four spaces of five cubits each. This would make 10 pillars and 10 spaces on the east, five of these pillars being of special design. The mistake is probably the error of a copyist, somewhat as in 1 Kings 6:1, which should be 580 instead of 480 years. The Hebrew character for four and five (letters) are very similar (see Psa. 119) and one was mistaken for the other. (B53)

28:1 — AARON'S SONS — The Aaronic priesthood typified those of the household of faith who consecrate themselves to so God's will the Little Flock who, with their Head, will be a Royal Priesthood. (1 Pet. 2:5-9; Heb. 8:2-5; 1 Pet. 1:2) These are one body united under one head, the great High Priest, Jesus. (1 Cor. 10:16, 17; 12:25-27; Eph. 4:15, 16; Heb. 3:1, 2) They will be a Royal Priesthood, because called to be jointheirs with Christ, kings and priests under God. (Rev. 5:9, 10; 20:6) The Royal Priesthood is not of the Aaronic order, but of the Melchizedek. (Heb. 7:11-14) The Aaronic priesthood chiefly typified the humiliation and sufferings of Christ, in that the High Priest bore the sins of the people, endured the brunt of their reproaches and charges in the typical sacrifices of the Atonement, in the passing under the second vail. (Heb. 9:27) (Z.'01-182; R.2822)

We now are actually prospective members of the Royal Priesthood (1 Pet. 2:9) in the embryotic or begotten stage, not yet born. God deals with us as if we were all going to be successful. But we must first suffer with Jesus, share in the sacrifice. (1 Pet. 2:5; 2 Tim. 2:12; 2 Cor. 1:7; Rom. 8:17) There is no sacrificing, except the world's, typified in Melchizedek. Jesus is the head over all things to the Church, both in the sacrificing and the ruling condition. (Eph. 1:22) Jesus began to fulfil the Aaronic types at his baptism and the Melchizedek type at the second advent, when the kingdom is set up.

28:2 — HOLY GARMENTS FOR AARON — These garments of glory and beauty belonged to Aaron and not to the sons (Ex. 28:3; 29:29; 39:1, 41; 40:13-15; Lev. 8:7-9, 13) The sons obtained them only when they succeeded him in office. (Ex. 29:29, 30; 28:39, 40; Num. 20:28) Now we are embroidering these garments after the pattern shown us, and by and by, if they are acceptably done, they will be our own to wear.

28:3 — THE PRIEST'S OFFICE — The High Priest was always first in all these ceremonies to picture Jesus as the Head or Captain or forerunner, leader. (Heb. 6:20; Eph. 1:22, 23; John 10:3; Heb. 2:10; Rom. 8:29) This shows that none preceded him, so none of the Ancient Worthies, though as faithful as we, could be of the Royal Priesthood. (Matt. 11:11; Heb. 11:40; 9:8) The way was not opened up till Pentecost. (2 Tim. 1:10; Heb. 2:3; 10:20) The sign of the opening up of that way, the rending of the second veil, occurred at Jesus' death, but none entered in then, because the merit was not yet imputed, or available. (Heb. 9:24) (Vail rent, Matt. 27:51) These faithful ones will have all their hearts can hold, but not so great as the Church. (Heb. 11:13-16, 35, 39, 40; Psa. 45:16) (T28)

28:4 — THESE ARE THE GARMENTS — Six parts, or with the crown, seven. Aaron wore these in after-Atonement day work. (vs. 43) He did not wear them during the Atonement day, he wore only the holy linen garments then (Lev. 16:4, 22, 32; T55; T37); he put on the garments of glory and beauty at the end of the Atonement day, before blessing the people. (F235) (vs. 24) On the Atonement day the High Priest appeared like the other priests, nearly. So we will not have our garments of glory and beauty during the Gospel Age, but at its end, when Christ appears the second time, we will wear them. (Heb. 9:28; Rev. 19:7, 8; 20:6; Psa. 45:13, 14)

28:11 — LIKE THE ENGRAVINGS OF A SIGNET — See Ex. 39:30. Set with the seal of divine ownership and property, God's own. So the High Priest would call to God's memory that these tribes were his own property, consecrated to Him and needing His care.

28:12 — SHOULDERS — The shoulders are to bear burdens, and the High Priest bore the interests and supported the cause of the children of Israel before the Lord. The great High Priests for the world will likewise bear the interests of the world while they are imperfect.

STONE OF MEMORIAL — To keep in memory before God his covenants and promises to his people. (Isa. 62:6, 7) Jesus is now the Church's Advocate. (Heb. 7:25; John 2:1-3)

28:13 — OUCHES OF GOLD — Golden clasps, set in divine care and protection about them, as a jewel to Him. These held the chains which supported the breast plate, q.v., vs. 22.

28:15 — BREASTPLATE — This evidently referred to the cloth portion. (See vs. 30)

OF JUDGMENT — Called “breastplate of judgment” because the weightier matters were judged by it. (Num. 27:21; 1 Sam. 28:6; 23:9-12; 30:7, 8)

OF GOLD — Of the divine nature and quality and richness.

OF BLUE — Faithfulness to both God and man.

OF PURPLE — Royalty, kings.

OF SCARLET — Self-sacrifice.

OF FINE-TWINE LINEN — Its background of pure white showed that the background or basis of the High Priest’s character was righteousness and purity, justice.

28:16 — FOURSQUARE — When doubled it was a span square, showing perfection of God’s law (Rom. 7:12) and that it required a perfect creature to keep it perfectly.

BEING DOUBLED — Showing the two parts of the Law, its letter and spirit, intended to cover the same ground. (2 Cor. 3:6; Rom. 7:6; also Matt. 23:23; 9:13; 12:7; Hos. 6:6) The front part is the spirit of the law because (a) it was given first (Jer. 7:22, 23; Rom. 5:13, 14); (b) the spirit is the part which God wishes every man chiefly to see. The letter is only an expression of the spirit, and the real law is the spirit and not its expression, hence the back fitly represents the letter of the law; (c) The first part only bore the jewels, and the spirit of the law only is able to give life, as shown in that the front part bore the jewels (see 2 Cor. 3:6). The back part represents the letter, less important but necessary at present. “The latter killeth.” This was not the fault of the law, for that was good (Rom. 7:5-12, q.v.) The fault lay in fallen humanity unable to fulfill the law no matter how hard they try. (Lev. 18:5; Ezek. 20:11, 13, 21; Rom. 10:5; Gal. 3:12; also Psa. 49:7-9; 53:1-3; Rom. 3:10-12, 23; Gal. 3:21; Rom. 8:3; 7:14-21)

A SPAN — A span is the full stretch of the human hand from the tip of the thumb to the tip of the little finger, nine inches. (A fathom is eight spans, 72 inches or six feet.) Showing that the letter and spirit of the law are the full measure of a perfect man’s ability (span, full measure; hand, power, ability).

28:17 — A SARDIUS — (Heb. odem, from adam, ruddy, man) Sard or Carnelian, most used stone for carving. Color of raw flesh (pink), supposed to heal hemorrhage when laid on a fresh wound. Represents God's love, memory of his creatures, provision for all, sympathy, loyalty to Christ.

A TOPAZ — ("Pitdah") (Modern Chrysolite?), the peridot, Noble Olivine, from Island of St. John in Red Sea. Color is golden yellow, dark and decidedly greenish. (Job 28:19) Crystals 26-sided (when Great Company in heaven is included and the tribe of Levi on the earth, thirteen tribes in each case). Represents benevolence.

A CARBUNCLE — ("Bareket," red, flashing) (In sun looks like burning charcoal). Color, fiery red, picturing self-sacrifice.

28:18 — AN EMERALD — ("Nophek," glisten) Color, brilliant green and shining. Our Smaragdus, picturing everlastingness.

A SAPPHIRE — ("Cappiyr," scratch, mark, inscribe) (Ex. 24:10; Job 28:6, 16) Our lapis Lazuli; (azure stone). Color is sky blue spotted with gold dust (Job 28:6, 16—stars). Crystals of twelve sides. Pictures faithfulness. Faithful toward God (gold); toward heavenly beings (stars); and toward man (twelve sides).

28:19 — A FIGURE — The opal ("leshem," ?) Ligure, unlucky stone, changeable, pale and variegated in color. Represents forgetting.

AN AGATE — (Chalcedony) (Shebew, to flame) (Turquoise) Green quartz, 12-sided crystals and 24-sided (12-sided with each surface a regular pentagon.) Pictures obedience and submission (12-sided—toward God-5); (24-sided—toward both phases of the kingdom). (Turquoise, a beautiful blue or greenish gem found in Persia, color due to presence of copper. In contact with fatty substance, loses color and turns greenish.)

AN AMETHYST — ("Achlamah," dream stone) (From A, not; and methusketu, to intoxicate. An old belief that the stone protected its owner from strong drink). Color is violet, near purple, strong blue and deep red. Crystals in double pyramid, base to base; three sides on each pyramid, pictures six volumes of Scripture Studies. Bro. Russell's birth stone. Pictures royalty.

28:20 — A BERYL — Chrysolite (or beryl) ("Tarshiysh") Gold, tinted by green, golden stone, very transparent. (Jas. 3:17) Pictures heavenly wisdom.

AN ONYX — (“Shaham,” to blanch) (Job 28:16) Sardonyx. If perfect has three strata; black base picturing humility, white center picturing purity, red top layer picturing modesty, martyrdom. Used for seals and cameos.

JASPER — (“Yashepheh,” to polish) Green-tinted diamond. Crystals bounded by eight equilateral triangles. 24 angles in all, perfect double pyramid set base to base. Hardness, pictures God’s glory and perfection, prescience or likeness to God.

NOTES ON OTHER STONES:

BERYL — (Means jewel) Bluish-green pellucid gem. Crystals in hexagonal system, 66 sides. Six principle sides with diamond-shaped marks, alternately five and eight marks and four at end. Pictures 66 books of the Bible. Two ends, Old and New Testament. Diamond marks, The Heavenly Father. Three groups of eight each, the 24 elders. Five is the symbol of divinity. Four pictures the four attributes of God.

CHRYSOPRASUS — (“Chrysoberyl”) (Apple-green, variety of chalcedony) Next to diamond and jacinth in hardness. Yellow or green gem. Sometimes cloudy due to microscopic cavities. Pictures constancy, cheerful endurance, enduring hardness. Clouds picture difficulties and troubles to be overcome.

JACINTH — (Hyacinth) (Modern Sapphire) Next to diamond in hardness. Crystallizes in six-sided pyramid at either end, separated by three different sets of surfaces of six sides each and two sets of surfaces of three sides each. Unchangeableness (Heb. 6:17, 18). Two ends picture the 12 Apostles; the 24 surfaces between, the 24 elders. Beautiful blue color, blue being in patches in colorless stone. By skillful cutting, the deep-colored portions may impart color to entire gem.

28:21 —ACCORDING TO THE TWELVE TRIBES —

REUBEN — Behold a son or the pity of God. Five-talented ones, ability gladly given to the Lord, have a taint of love for the world. (See Gen. 49:3, 4)

SIMEON — Hearing. (Gen. 49:33) A patient heart developed under hatred in home and from friends.

LEVI — A joining. Those who have sacrificed all their possessions to be joined to the Lord. No inheritance in the land.

JUDAH — Praise. Our Lord's own tribe. Justice and noble-mindedness, wholly without self-love.

ISSACHAR — Hired, or There is a Reward. Zealous. Those who joyfully undertake to work hard, the satisfaction of a home at last where changes never come.

ZEBULON — Dwelling, habitation. Those who, like Jesus, had no place to lay their head, the satisfaction of a home at last where changes never come.

DAN — Judged. (Gen. 49:7) Lost his place.

MANASSEH — Forgetting. (Gen. 41:51) Forgot their strong human ties for their love of the Lord.

NAPHTALI — Great wrestlings. (Gen. 35:25; 49:17) A class who have overcome largely because of their appreciation and use of the privilege of prayer, seeking the Father's face.

GAD — A troop of children cometh. (Gen. 46:16; Num. 26:15-18) Those blessed of God in bringing many on their children into the divine family.

ASHER — Happy. (Gen. 30:13) Happy Christians.

JOSEPH — Whom may God increase. (Gen. 37:58) Nothing uncomplimentary is said of Joseph. So many characteristics, none predominate. Represents a class who express the divine will as best they can.

BENJAMIN — Son of the right hand. Companions of those who occupy higher positions in the body.

28:22 — CHAINS — A chain is a symbol of strength, power, and hence here the power of Jehovah upholding his law and the Jewel class. This chain is plainly visible, and so God's power to uphold his people and government is visible to us. (Rom. 1:20) the links of the chain are the promises of God, fulfilled in the past, present and future, by which we have knowledge of his power to uphold his people. So we have the picture or symbol of the promises of God's power to uphold his people who keep the Spirit of His Law, connecting them with the shoulders of the High Priest, and the Divine Power back of the Old and New Covenants.

28:28 — BIND THE BREASTPLATE — Showing thus that the Law Covenant (breastplate) was not a part of the original Abrahamic Covenant, but was added to it. (Gal. 3:19-24) Paul shows that the law was added because of transgressions to prepare a people to receive and become the Seed. The people of Israel would be prepared for the Seed by realizing their inability, as imperfect men, to keep the letter or spirit of the Law (for if they failed in one part they were guilty of the whole—Jas. 2:10) They would be taught faith in the promised Seed who would be their Redeemer.

WITH A LACE OF BLUE — Blue lacing connected the breastplate by its rings of gold to the seam of the Ephod above the girdle, and just beneath the shoulder or arm, and was thus partly hidden. Showing how the Jews thought that, as the natural seed (see John 8:39, 40; Rom. 4:8-11), they alone had the right to the promised blessings of the Abrahamic Covenant and that this would be obtained by keeping the letter of the Law. They seemed not to notice the hidden connection of faith (blue lacer) because pride blinded their eyes. This connection showed the seed would be a faith seed, as was Isaac. (Rom. 4)

28:30 — THE URIM AND THE THUMMIM — Urim, lights (from “ore,” a prim. root to be or make luminous; then from “owr,” flame, and hence in the plural (urim), the East as being the region of light. Thummim, perfections, complete truth. (Tome, completeness, prosperity, usually innocence, integrity.) The cloth part being called the breastplate, the Urim and Thummim (light and perfections) (colors and stone, or jewel qualities) may be the Jewels themselves. (Ex. 28:15) It is well known that when the cathode rays fall on jewels in a vacuum tube, they cause the jewels to fluoresce, to shine very brilliantly. The Shekinah may have been an electrical radiation and thus cause the jewels to lighten. It seems an affirmative answer was indicated by the lighting of the jewels, and a negative answer by no lighting effect; but all knowledge of how it was done is lost. Urim and Thummim. The symbolisms of the colors of light, symbolizing the beauties of character produced by the enlightenment of God’s Word and Spirit in the minds of the Little Flock; and the crystallized perfection in the characters and lives of God’s people, symbolized by the jewels—perfect minds and perfect lives ultimately. The light of God’s Word and Spirit in us lead on to perfection. (Psa. 119:129, 130; Matt. 4:16) See Deut. 33:8; 1 Sam. 28:6 (Saul lost his fellowship with God); Ezek. 28:6; Ezra 2:63. Truth is light and its outcome is perfection. If we receive and live up to the light, we will be brought to perfection. Christ is our Urim and Thummim. (Ezra 2:63) Our perfection now is in Him. (Neh. 7:65) See 1 Sam. 23:9-11. David was a type of the Little Flock. He needed the Urim and Thummim. This shows that the David class will not need a Mediator. (1 Sam. 30:7, 8)

UPON AARON’S HEART — Jesus bears our interests on his heart (affections) before Jehovah, and so the great High Priest will for the world. The Law of God is His and our delight. (Acts 17:26; Deut. 32:8; Matt. 19:28; Psa. 40:6-8)

28:38 — THAT AARON MAY BEAR THE INIQUITY OF THE HOLY THINGS — Why was this crown upon Aaron’s forehead? The Holy Things were defiled by imperfections (of the Priesthood), by contact from Israelites, as in 1 Kings 1:50, 51; 2:28-34, Joab and Adonijah. The iniquity seems to be that of the people, their imperfections and imperfect sacrifices, to be borne by the High Priest. The furniture was sprinkled with the blood and anointed each year. (Ex. 30:25-29; Lev. 16:16, 20, 18, 19; 33) So Christ now bears the iniquity of the Church, and the Christ, as the World’s High

Priest, will bear the iniquities of the people and their imperfections in the next age. (Isa. 53:4-6, 8, 10, 11, 12; Psa. 84:4-10; 132:9-11, 16-18) “By His knowledge shall my righteous servant justify many for he shall bear their iniquities.” By the knowledge of our Head we, as the Christ, are able to be so faithful to God’s service now, that in the next age the gifts and sacrifices of the people may be acceptable, through Christ. (Mal. 3:4; 1:17; Isa. 56:7)

UPON HIS FOREHEAD — Jehovah’s seal is put upon the forehead, the New Mind, the mind of Christ (1 Cor. 2:16), God’s Holy Spirit, His will or disposition, is enthroned there. (Cant. 7:5; Rom. 12:3) (See Eph. 1:13; 2 Cor. 1:22; 2 Tim. 2:19; Rev. 7:2, 3; Ezek. 9:4; Eph. 4:30; Cant. 8:6; Hag. 2:23; Rev. 9:4; John 6:27; Rev. 14:1)

28:43 — THAT THEY BEAR NOT INIQUITY AND DIE — In order that these shadows might all be exactly performed and that the people might not become careless, the usual penalty for any violation was death. (See Num. 4:15, 20; 17:13; 2 Sam. 6:6, 7; Lev. 10:1, 2) (T12)

29:1 — THOU — Moses. (Lev. 8) These priests did not glorify themselves, to be made priests, but were called of God. (Heb. 5:4, 5)

TO HALLOW THEM — Consecrate, set apart, made holy (whole, perfect). This, then is the picture of the development and perfecting of Jesus and the Church (Heb. 7:28; 2:10; 5:9; Eph. 4:12, 13), their completion. (Ex. 28:3, 29)

TO MINISTER UNTO ME — To do God’s service, do His will (ministers of the New Covenant.)

IN THE PRIEST’S OFFICE — The work of a priest is to offer the people’s sacrifices (receive them), to instruct and teach and bless the people, intercede for them; but first to sacrifice for the sins of the people (as do Jesus and the Church now; in the Millennial Age they will receive the sacrifices of the people, as did the priests during the rest of the year.) (See note on Isa. 61:6)

ONE YOUNG BULLOCK — Typifying the humanity of Jesus and the Church (as shown in verse 10). There were no goats in this sin offering, because the offering was not for the people here, but only for the priests. (Z.’09-133; R.4384)

The Church is here represented in the sacrifice as part of Christ. The whole Christ is together, for these offerings were alike for Aaron and his sons.

TWO RAMS — See verses 15 and 19.

29:2 — UNLEAVENED BREAD — Typifying the actual purity of Jesus and the imputed purity of the Church, the purity of both as one loaf broken for the world. (1 Cor. 10:16, 17; Josh. 1:11)

TEMPERED WITH OIL — With the oil mixed in with the dough and then baked, a picture of the indwelling spirit of God. (1 John 2:27)

ANOINTED — Oil poured over it and soaked into it, a picture of the Holy Spirit, increasingly coming to us from the outside, through study and growth in knowledge, by appropriating truth and its spirit as God gives us the meat in due season, and by fellowship with His people. Thus we appropriate the spirit (soak it up) from the outside sources and from sweet and precious promises.

WITH OIL — As both these cakes were mingled with oil, they together would represent the complete working of the Holy Spirit in our lives. (See more on verse 23)

OF WHEATEN FLOUR — Same as Lev. 24:5.

29:3 — PUT THEM INTO ONE BASKET — Representing the unity of Jesus and His Church as New Creatures. They are in one basket, class, flock and all have the same hopes and one calling in the one body, by the one spirit of the same Father. They pass through similar testings, walk the same narrow way, all perfected through suffering, and share in the same work and have the same Divine nature. They are “copies of the likeness of God’s dear Son.” (Rom. 8:29)

29:4 — AARON — Aaron here represents Jesus the head, our High Priest. (Heb. 3:1)

AND HIS SONS — The body, the under-priests, individually.

UNTO THE DOOR — The place of consecration, the place of slaughter, the place of sacrificing human rights and privileges. The door represents the death of the human will (the door of the Holy).

WASH THEM WITH WATER — Aaron and his sons were fallen sinful men, and as they were to represent the Christ, who is perfect, it was necessary to wash them, for here sinful man could not properly represent Christ. Jesus did not need such cleansing, so it represented the cleansing of the Church, “the washing of water by the word.” (Eph. 5:26; Tit. 3:5, 6; Heb. 9:9-14) This washing was done at the door of the Tabernacle, at the laver. Water represents truth. This done at the laver would typify that it is only the truth of God's Word that will cleanse us before God. "Sanctify them through thy truth." (John 17:17) Science and study of mathematics, etc., will not cleanse us, neither the Koran, or Vedas, or Rock of the Dead, or Hirmah theology; only the truth in God's Word. Notice that this washing was done before putting on the priest's garments, showing that we must be cleansed and purified and justified from Adamic defilements through Christ and the Word before God can accept our consecration. (Rom. 12:1) Also that the whole cleansing of the Christ must be accomplished before they enter on their glorious state (Aaron putting on his garments of glory and beauty.) (T29) Moses did this washing because none of the fallen race can, as such, stand before Jehovah, neither can they cleanse themselves.

29:7 — ANOINT HIM — (Ex. 40:13-15) See notes on Lev. 8.

29:15 — ONE RAM — The ram of burnt offering. (See Lev. 1:3, 4) Man's duty to God, representing how God views and accepts the sacrifice of Jesus and the Church. This ram represents the same sacrifice as the bullock, but shows how Jesus and the Church fulfill their duty to God (burnt offering) and his approval.

PUT THEIR HANDS UPON THE HEAD OF THE RAM — Showing that it represented them, their humanity and will consecrated to God. Both Aaron and his sons, but not Moses, laid their hands thus.

29:16 — THOU — Moses.

SHALL SLAY THE RAM — Thus representing how God's perfect Law testified that this sacrifice of Jesus and the Church was in full harmony with God's justice, wisdom, love and power.

SPRINKLE IT ROUND ABOUT UPON THE ALTAR — To consecrate (not to cleanse) the altar and sanctify it, testifying that this gift was acceptable because of the shed blood, showing that sacrifice of Jesus and His Church was acceptable because of Jesus' blood (life) given. The altar derived its power of consecrating the gift placed upon it from the shed blood (representing Jesus' ransom sacrifice, His life given). No other offering could have been made on Jesus', as ours or the world's altar (1 Cor. 9:13; 10:18) until He had given His life. See Lev. 8:15 and note.

29:17 — CUT THE RAM IN PIECES — Showing how the Christ, while one body, is yet of many members. (1 Cor. 10:16, 17; 11:3)

WASH THE INWARDS — The head was not washed, showing that the church, the Body of Christ, is cleansed by the washing of water by the word. Jesus, the head, needeth no cleansing.

UNTO HIS HEAD — The head was first put on the altar (Heb. 6:20; Eph. 1:22, 23; 1 Pet. 2:21; Col. 1:18) and then the pieces with it, after being washed, showing that the members of the Church are offered individually, one member after another, on the altar, first the head and then various members all down through the Gospel Age.

29:18 — BURN THE WHOLE RAM — Showing that the whole Christ, every member, are all offered on the same altar as the head (T45) and that these are wholly consecrated, nothing held back, all freely and willingly given. (Lev. 1:3)

A SWEET SAVOUR — Showing God's acceptance and approval and pleasure in the offering.

29:19 — THE OTHER RAM — The ram of consecration (vs. 22) representing the effect of our consecration upon us.

PUT THEIR HANDS UPON THE HEAD OF THE RAM — Showing it represented them. All that happened to this ram represented how we would be affected by our consecration.

29:20 — KILL THE RAM — Moses' testifying that this offering was in full accord with God's just and perfect Law.

UPON THE TIP OF THE RIGHT EAR — Showing that by our consecration, we have the hearing ear of faith, that our hearing is thereafter God's and we will listen to only those things he would have us listen to. (2 Tim. 4:13; Deut. 15:5; 13:6-11; Psa. 50:17-21) The right ear shows that it is our best efforts and chief attention in hearing that shall be the Lord's.

THUMB OF THEIR RIGHT HAND — Our service and work are consecrated, to "do all as unto the Lord." (Col. 3:17; Isa. 58:13, 14; Mal. 2:15, 16; Psa. 24:3-6) The thumb of the right hand shows that it is our best service with delight (Psa. 40:7, 8), not the fag end of our time and energy, when we are all tired out.

THE GREAT TOE OF THEIR RIGHT FOOT — Our feet are consecrated to Him, that we should walk in His ways, our conduct should represent God before men. (John 8:12; Rom. 6:4; 8:1; 2 Cor. 5:7; Gal. 5:16; 6:16; Eph. 4:17; 5:8; Col. 1:10; 4:5; 1 Thess. 1:3; 1 John 2:6; Isa. 58:13; Psa. 15) The right foot shows that it is our best endeavors, all the time.

SPRINKLE THE BLOOD UPON THE ALTAR ROUND ABOUT — To sanctify it for the offering and call attention to the altar, to the life that Jesus gave and to the fact that our consecration and acceptance is on the basis of the merit of his life given.

29:21 — TAKE OF THE BLOOD THAT IS UPON THE ALTAR AND OF THE ANOINTING OIL — Oil, the Holy Spirit of adoption; blood, life given, showing that our begetting by the Holy Spirit is only because we have been reckoned perfect through his imputed merit, his life given.

UPON HIS GARMENTS — Fruits of the spirit developed through the anointing and the imputed merit. Both Aaron and his sons were thus sprinkled showing that even Jesus could receive the spirit-begetting only by the giving of his life at his baptism, and so we, only by being buried in the likeness of his death. Then they were hallowed, sacred, made holy. These garments were washed in the Court. (Lev. 6:27)

29:22 — A RAM OF CONSECRATION — Representing the effect of our consecration upon us (note vss. 1, 2, 19). These choice portions represent our best powers and heart sentiments, love (fat).

29:23 — ONE LOAF OF BREAD — Plain unleavened bread. No leaven nor any honey was allowed to be offered upon the altar (Lev. 2:11; Ex. 34:25; 23:18) for it was a type of sin as a corrupting influence, anything imperfect has been corrupted, for God created all things perfect. This cake, having no oil, would represent the actual purity of Jesus, the imputed purity of the Church as men—hence justification. As this is a ram of consecration, all three cakes would typify conditions in the course of the consecrating believer. As Moses put this cake upon the offering, that represented that God's perfect Law testified that this condition of the Church was fully in harmony with the Law.

ONE CAKE OF OILED BREAD — This cake was mingled with oil, still unleavened. It showed the indwelling Spirit of God in us by the begetting—sanctification. We first received the spirit within, no outward manifestation. This condition is also in full harmony with God's perfect Law.

ONE WAFER — The wafer, anointed with oil, soaked in, pictures our increase in the Holy Spirit by faith in and assimilation of the sweet and precious promises of God, sweet fellowship and communion, the advanced stage of the Christian, perhaps the "mark of perfect love." These cakes all were unleavened, showing how Jesus' merit is imputed unto the Church all down her course till death; thus a beautiful picture of the course of the Church—justified, sanctified and enriched with the exceeding great and precious promises of God and by fellowship with God, Jesus and the saints. As Moses placed each of these on the wave-offering, it represents that the course of the Church is in full harmony with the divine law, that His Law is not set aside nor violated. And as all these are necessary for the Church, and without them we would not reach the reward, so these three cakes are a necessary part of the wave-offering.

29:24 — PUT ALL IN THE HANDS OF AARON — It would not so for Moses to wave these, as the Law was not being consecrated, but Jesus and the Church, Aaron and his sons.

WAVE THEM — A continuous presentation, showing that our consecration is not for a moment or a day or a year till we please to change it, but is for all time. (Matt. 24:13; 10:22; Rev. 2:10, 26; Rom. 2:7) Neither is it by fits and starts, but with a long steady pull.

29:25 — THOU SHALT RECEIVE THEM OF THEIR HANDS — Showing that the Royal Priesthood may not lay aside their consecration, but must sacrifice till death, till God relieves us of it, saying, “It is enough come up higher.”

AN OFFERING MADE BY FIRE — Showing God’s acceptance and pleasure with our faithfulness unto death. This also is a burnt offering. God is pleased when we show that our love and faithfulness will stand severe test and trial, for such is the class he is seeking for His Son’s Bride. The more love and zeal (fat) we have, the quicker will our course be finished. (Psa. 69:9; John 2:17; Psa. 119:139; Jer. 20:9)

29:28 — IT IS AN HEAVE OFFERING — Heave has the thought of devoting it to the Lord, presenting it, shown by heaving (lifting up).

29:38 — TWO LAMBS OF THE FIRST YEAR DAY BY DAY

CONTINUALLY — The continual or daily sacrifice representing the continual efficacy of Christ’s atoning ransom-sacrifice. This was a burnt offering (man’s duty to God). Jesus fulfills that for us. The lamb represents the perfect humanity of Jesus, in harmony with God. This continual sacrifice was taken away and the Abomination of Desolation set up in 539 A.D. with the setting up of the Mass. (Dan. 11:31; Matt. 24:15) It was found again at the Reformation in Luther’s time—“the just shall live by faith.” The fire was not allowed to go out. (Lev. 6:12, 13)

30:1 — AN ALTAR — Representing Jesus and the Church in the attitude of prayer, praise and thanksgiving, joyful willing obedience. Rev. 8:3.

TO BURN INCENSE UPON — Incense—the proper heart condition causes us to praise God and thank Him for all his loving-kindnesses. “Much incense with the prayers of the saints.” When thus offering incense the worshipper is nearest the Most Holy, where God dwells. Jesus kept the incense continually burning, and could say, “I know that thou hearest me always.” (John 11:42) So of us—ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will and it shall be done unto you.” (John 15:7) May His word abide in us that we do not “ask amiss.” The offering of incense here would be of one who was at the mark, who had been properly affected by the enlightening of the candlestick and the eating of the deep things of God, rightly exercised thereby. These delight to get as near to the Lord as possible, and the earthly things (in the Court) are left far behind. The Great Company do not offer incense here. They keep as near as possible to the earthly things which they refuse to let go of, and so are not quickened until too late. The hearts of the Little Flock are “perfect toward Him.” (1 Chron. 16:9)

SHITTIM WOOD — Acacia wood.

30:2 — FOURSQUARE — A cubit (1-1/2 foot) square, hence the sum of the measures about top and bottom equals 8 cubits, 12 feet, 144 inches, thus indicating the 144,000 of the elect. The square top and base also indicates the perfection of Jesus as a New Creature in character, and his perfect service.

TWO CUBITS SHALL BE THE HEIGHT THEREOF — Hence the sum of the four edges equals eight cubits, 12 feet, 144 inches. The Altar would thus be two perfect cubes.

30:3 — OVERLAY IT WITH PURE GOLD — Showing the class here represented are called to inherit the divine nature and are divinely protected and guided.

THE HORNS THEREOF — Horns represent power, hence the power of Jesus’ intercession for us as our advocate. He is the Golden Altar (Rom. 8:34), and our incense (vss. 26, 27). (Heb. 7:25; 1 John 2:1; Rom. 8:33-39) See Rev. 9:13, 14; 8:1-5; 5:8.

A CROWN OF GOLD ROUND ABOUT — (Ex. 37:25-28)

30:6 — PUT IT BEFORE THE VAIL — Thus it was as close as possible to the Most Holy. Thence the smoke of the incense penetrated, even unto the Mercy Seat (Lev. 16:13) making us have sweeter fellowship with God. This condition is the cream of the Christian’s experience. (see note Eph. 1:13, 14; 2 Cor. 1:22) He is here at the mark, and here begins to follow most fully in Jesus’ footsteps. (F190) (Phil. 3:11-16) Here Jesus intercedes for all of a contrite heart. (Isa. 57:15; 2 Chron. 16:9) This is the quickened condition. (2 Pet. 1:8)

BY THE ARK — See note on Ex. 40:26, 27.

OF THE TESTIMONY — The testimony is the tables of the Law put there by Moses. This Law has been differently expressed, but to the Christian is given its highest form— the Law of Love and Liberty. (Jas. 1:25; Rom. 13:8-10; Jas. 2:8, 12) those at the incense altar, then, are ever mindful of the Law of Love. They do things for love's sake (Eph. 4:15), not boastingly or for vainglory. The Golden Altar keeps in mind the efficiency of the Brazen Altar for the coals of Incense Altar were obtained from the Brazen Altar. (Z. 10-137; R.4062)

BEFORE THE MERCY SEAT — (Heb. 4:16; 1 John 2:1, 2; 1:9; Psa. 77:13.)

WHERE I WILL MEET WITH THEE — A trysting place, fellowship.

30:7 — WHEN HE DRESSETH THE LAMPS HE SHALL BURN

INCENSE — The trimming of lamps represents Bible Study and cleansing ourselves by cutting away the dross of the old nature. At these times we must offer incense, praise and thanksgiving and communion, otherwise we will get no blessing out of our Bible study. This is a sweet savor offering unto God. (Psa. 141:1, 2)

30:8 — WHEN AARON LIGHTETH THE LAMPS AT EVEN HE SHALL BURN INCENSE

— Also at even we should thank the Lord for His blessing and care, and praise Him. This is to be done continually, every day. If we get tired of prayer and communion it is a sign of danger and we should quickly come to the throne of grace to ascertain the cause, and remove it.

30:9 — NO STRANGE INCENSE

— See verse 34. Incense compounded differently, hence a heart condition not in harmony with God. Strange fire would be fire from any other source than the Brazen Altar. (Lev. 10) Strange incense is a spirit not in harmony with God's Holy Spirit, of its exact proportions. The incense could not be offered on any other altar (channel of approach to God) (Isa. 65) and nothing but incense could be offered here. Earthly things should not fill our mind when we are at the throne of grace, they should have no place there. This altar had no fire of its own, but all the fire was taken off the Brazen Altar. (See note on Lev. 16:12) Strange incense also represents our natural emotion, not to be confounded with true heart worship. (John 4:23, 24) Man's heart is very deceitful. We may deceive ourselves and others, but we cannot deceive God. Strange fire represents man's own efforts towards righteousness, his own ways of justifying himself before God, self-sacrifice in other than God's ways. We are not to think that we can do anything of ourselves to atone for any sin of ours (except partly willful sins). The idea that we can is prevalent in Nominal Christendom (Isa. 65:1, 3, 7), as by paying in money to the Lord's treasury to atone for some sin committed which was seen to be wrong at the time, or as do businessmen in the churches. Jesus' merit only can atone for sin. There were three dangers:

- (1) wrong incense. Prayer with selfish motive, Jas. 4:1-3, 5; or with doubts, Jas. 1:5-7; not a heart condition like the Lord's, which is the true incense, Ex. 30:34-38.
- (2) Strange fire. See Lev. 10:1; 16:12 (note), that we do our sacrificing in some other than the Lord's way. See Rom. 10:2, 3; Matt. 23:15; Isa. 65:11-15; Matt. 11:21-23; Isa. 55:3, 4. Labor for church fairs, etc.
- (3) On the wrong altar. (Isa. 65:3, 4) See Ex. 20:25 For further notes see Rom. 8:26, 27, 34; Heb. 7:25; 1 John 2:1; 1:9; Rev. 8:3, 4; 9:13, 14.

30:10 — IT IS MOST HOLY UNTO THE LORD — The altar became contaminated from the imperfections and sins of those serving there and had to be cleansed once a year to keep it pure. So we should keep our hearts pure, and our minds also, that we may have perfect communion with God and the full benefit of our Advocate. (Lev. 16:16)

30:18 — LAVER — Representing God's Word. The water in it pictures the truth of God's Word. (See note on Ex. 29:4) This need of cleansing is impressed on the justified because they see therein the statement of what a perfect man should be and they see that to retain God's fellowship and grow in it, they must cleanse themselves. God's Word is called a mirror (2 Cor. 3:18; Jas. 1:22-25) and this is typified in the laver which was made of the looking-glasses of the women. (See Ex. 38:8)

PUT IT BETWEEN THE TABERNACLE OF THE CONGREGATION AND THE ALTAR — The Laver, being placed between the Brazen Altar and the Door, indicated that it represented a further growth in justification and peace with God, a deeper effect. As the passing of the Altar represented the recognition and appreciation of Jesus' death as the ransom for man, for all (see Brazen Altar); so the coming to the Laver represents the effect of our study of Jesus' character and His sacrifice, and of God's justice and love manifested therein. This is a desire to cleanse our lives of sin and defilement by the truth in God's Word as we there see revealed His will. So the justified cleanse themselves and daily approach sanctification.

PUT WATER THEREIN — Typifying the truth of God's Word, which alone sanctifies. (John 17:3) Here were washed Aaron and his sons (Lev. 8; Ex. 29), and here were some of the animals washed.

30:19 — FOR AARON AND HIS SONS — The priests, in particular, used this, typifying the cleansing of ourselves daily from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit (2 Cor. 7:1); the washing of water by the Word (Eph. 5:26, 27); bodies washed with pure water (Heb. 10:22); washing of regeneration (Titus 3:5). See Ex. 40:31, 32. We should wash with determination and use warm water (zeal and energy) and not as one that beats the air. See Psa. 119:11; 46:4; 119:9. All our work for the Lord should have a cleansing effect upon us.

WASH THEIR HANDS — Cleanse our powers, bring them all under the control of our head. “Cast down imaginations and bring every thought in control to Christ” (2 Cor. 10:5); our abilities. Make our sanctification more complete.

AND THEIR FEET — Cleanse our conduct, our walk in life, and bring it more into full harmony with God’s will. If we do not do this we will go into second death. After we reach the mark we will take delight in these washings and rejoice to see our imperfections depart. Our one idea will be to have God’s will done in us. See Ex. 40:30.

30:20 — THAT THEY DIE NOT — If we do not thus cleanse ourselves we will miss the crown and possibly may, if we refuse to gain character, go into second death. There was probably a pitcher for carrying water to and from the Laver, and this may represent concordances and other helps to get the truth from the Word.

30:23 — THREE PRINCIPAL SPICES — These were of the first rank and called “principal” spices in contrast with the “sweet” spices of verse 34. Principal things which go to make up the Holy Spirit of adoption to be kings and priests with Christ.

OF PURE MYRRH FIVE HUNDRED SHEKELS — Myrrh, representing wisdom, is given to us equal to our knowledge and understanding combined. Wisdom is knowing what to do. Knowledge tells us God loves His only begotten Son; understanding tells us it was on account of His cheerful obedience that God loved Him. Wisdom then draws the inference that if we would be pleasing to God we must do as Jesus did, follow in his steps, get our minds into the same frame as His, for if the same mind is not in us we will not be pleasing to God. Again, the knowledge that Jesus died for our sins brings responsibility, and our total responsibility is equal to what we see we ought to do—or our wisdom.

OF SWEET CINNAMON HALF SO MUCH — Cinnamon pictures understanding. Knowledge from God is accompanied by its equal of understanding. This is how we have become established in the faith. We know that Jesus became a perfect man, an exact counterpart of Adam, and gave His life for us and how he is a covering for our sins. If God gives us knowledge, he also gives us a test on that knowledge and fortifies it with the understanding thereof.

OF SWEET CALAMUS TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY SHEKELS —
Picturing knowledge.

30:24 — OF CASSIA FIVE HUNDRED SHEKELS — Cassia pictures workmanship, deputyship. It has two ideas in it as expressed in Isa. 11:2—counsel and might. Counsel here means advice, or how to do a thing; might, the ability to perform it. Cassia has the same amount as myrrh. So God, after showing us our responsibility, or what we ought to do (wisdom, myrrh), accompanies it with an equal amount of advice, or information how to do it, and also enough ability to perform it (counsel and might).

30:25 — COMPOUND AFTER THE ART OF THE APOTHECARY — The oil and spices were well ground together so that each drop of oil contained the spices in the same proportion as the whole mass. The oil was the means of distributing the spices over the body. Each drop of anointing oil we receive from the head has all these four constituents in it in this proportion. God gives us no knowledge except for a purpose and establishes our faith by the understanding thereof; then shows us what the knowledge and understanding are for by showing us what we ought to do and gives us the advice and the ability for the accomplishment thereof. We must make and complete active consecration to complete the Lord's will.

30:30 — THOU SHALT ANOINT AARON AND HIS SONS — This anointing cast a sweet odor about the priest and this represents the sweet, holy influence about a consecrated Christian. But the false anointings are a stench in God's nostrils. (Isa. 65:5) (Z. '07-349; R.4093)

30:32 — AFTER THE COMPOSITION OF IT — It was particularly the proportions of this oil that were forbidden to be duplicated. We might expect to find counterfeit anointings, using like ingredients, but their proportions could not be the same, for only God's Holy Spirit possesses these ingredients in this exact proportion. (Knowledge and understanding balanced with an equal amount of wisdom and of workmanship; so all the others could be detected by their lack of the proper amount of one or the other ingredient. Samples of counterfeit anointings are the Papal ordinations, Episcopal ordination, Apostolic Succession, ordaining of ministers. See Eccl. 9:10; Ex. 31:3.

30:33 — WHOSOEVER PUTTEH ANY OF IT UPON A STRANGER — Only the Royal Priesthood are sealed with this Holy Spirit of adoption, or will ever be. That the Holy Spirit thus represented by the oil is different from any and everything else in the world and its anointing is different from and superior to any other from the divine standpoint. (N-5-26-07) This oil was used to anoint the prophets (1 Kings 19:16); priests, as above; and kings (Psa. 89:20; 1 Kings 1:39; 2 Kings 9:1-3, 6; 11:12; 1 Sam. 10:1) So the Royal Priesthood are anointed to be prophets, priests and kings.

30:34 — STACTE — Heb. nataph (from a verb meaning to drop, ooze). See Amos 9:13; Joel 3:18; Proverbs 3:20. Represents Wisdom.

ONYCHA —Heb. shecheleth, from schachal, a lion (from his roar). Represents Power.

GALBANUM — Heb. rhebbenah, from rheheb, fattest, richest. Represents Love.

PURE FRANKINCENSE — Heb. Lenownah, from its whiteness. Represents Justice.

OF EACH THERE SHALL BE A LIKE WEIGHT— One as strong as the other, perfectly balanced. Notice that the frankincense is mentioned apart from the others showing that justice is the foundation (Psa. 89:14; 97:2), and the rest can operate only in harmony with it, as in the cherubim and Mercy Seat. Our possession of this character is imperfect now.

30:35 — A PERFUME— This incense represents the heart conditions of joy and thankfulness and praise to God for His goodness. The copper censer in which the coals were carried pictures the bearing of the trials and troubles. The coals of fire represent the trials and testings sent of God for our development, not every trial or trouble, but those provided by God because of our loyalty to truth and righteousness. (See note on Lev. 16:12.) These were carried into the Holy, the censer put on the Golden Altar and the incense sprinkled upon it, representing our coming to the throne of grace with all our trials and troubles in a spirit of thankfulness and trust. (1 Thess. 5:18; Eph. 5:18-21; Col. 4:2; 3:16, 17; 1 Pet. 1:7; 4:12, 13; Heb. 12:11) The priest could not enter the Most Holy without previously offering incense (Lev. 16:12, 13); so we cannot approach God without incense (thankfulness, praise, faith, trust) and only through Jesus' merit (on the Golden Altar). The sprinkling of the incense represents the contact of the divinely instructed new mind with out trials (the bringing of our trust, faith, etc., to bear upon our trials.) Incense was sprinkled gradually, not all at once. So we overcome our troubles gradually. The damping of the fire by the incense pictures our overcoming our trials. Smoke represents the memory of the lessons learned from our troubles, hope in Jesus' merit as sufficient for our sins (1 John 1:9); lessons of faith and obedience unto God. This carried the sweet odor beyond the second veil to the Mercy Seat. The sweet savour shows how Jesus adds his merit to ours and thus it is a sweet odor, acceptable and pleasing, precious to God. (Rev. 8) This incense could not be used at any other altar and no other incense on this altar.

TEMPERED — Salted (margin). Salt, a symbol here of incorruption, was used with all the offerings except the wine of the drink offering (Lev. 2:13).

So this character is a preserving one and, if one were perfect, it would continue then in everlasting life.

30:37 — YE SHALL NOT MAKE TO YOURSELVES — This character cannot be found anywhere, but with those close to God. The result to us of offering incense is an increased joy, peace and rest of heart and a stronger character.

31:2— BEZALEEL — In the shadow of God.

URI — Light.

HUR — Noble.

31:3 — I HAVE FILLED HIM WITH THE SPIRIT OF GOD — As there were no artisans capable of doing this work as Jehovah wanted it done, the Lord put his spirit upon them to the extent necessary to accomplish the work. He energized or quickened their natural faculties without affecting them in any moral sense. (E191)

31:6 — AHOLIAB — Tent of the father.

AHISAMACH — Brother of help.

DAN — Judged.

31:16 — FOR A PERPETUAL COVENANT — This same identical language (in Hebrew) the Lord uses here of the Sabbath, he uses elsewhere of the Harvest offering (Lev. 23:14); the Pentecostal sacrifice (Lev. 23:21); the Day of Atonement (Lev. 23:31, 32); and the Feast of Tabernacles (Lev. 23:41). The same Hebrew word olam used here and translated “perpetual” is the word translated “forever” in the other passages. (See Young’s Analytical Concordance) So, if the Advent view is correct, we should still be keeping the Feast of Tabernacles as well as the Sabbath. But, as some of their own brethren have shown, when dealing with the punishment of the wicked, the word olam, like the Greek aion, really means “age-lasting” or “lasting to a consummation.” It is sometimes used in the sense of eternal, but not necessarily. Thus, in Exod. 29:9 we read of the priestly office being given to Aaron and his descendants for a perpetual (olam) statute, but that it does not properly mean “perpetual” is evident, for Aaron’s family lost the priesthood 1800 years ago. (Heb. 7:11-24)

31:18 — WRITTEN WITH THE FINGER OF GOD — See Exod. 32:15, 16

32:1 — WHEN THE PEOPLE SAW THAT MOSES DELAYED — The Israelites felt themselves very much like children in the hands of Moses. To them he was God's representative in a very special sense. His prolonged absence gave room for the exercise of faith. (Z. '13-253; R.5297)

The absence of their leader in whom they reposed great confidence might have resulted in great blessing to Israel had they been in a proper condition of heart. It could have impressed upon the people that after all, not Moses, but God, was their leader, that he had merely used Moses thus far as his servant and, if anything had befallen him, the Lord, who had begun the good work in them of their deliverance in fulfillment to the promises made to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, was abundantly able to provide another leader, and that nothing could have happened to Moses aside from the divine foreknowledge and the ability to prevent. This would have been a great lesson of faith and patience, beneficial to them for the rest of their lives. But they had an "evil heart of unbelief" which quickly forgot the Lord's deliverance of them from the Egyptians, his leading through the Red Sea, the covenant promise which he had just made and the manna they gathered daily. (Z. '02-221; R.3046)

WE WOT NOT WHAT IS BECOME OF HIM — Disrespectful language. Their unthankfulness and ingratitude toward God became the basis of their fall into sin and idolatry in gross violation of the covenant just made. Ingratitude toward God meant the same toward the servant he had used for their deliverance. This man Moses, who was to lead us to the land of promise, but has now lost himself in the mountain. (Z. '02-221; R.3046)

The wide difference between the disposition of Moses and that of the people is shown by the light way the people spoke of him and yet how he pleaded for them with the Lord in the mountain. (Z. '02-221; R.3046)

32:4 — A MOLTEN CALF — Violating the second commandment and the spirit of the first. (Z. '07-203; R.4022) The calf probably merely represented divine characteristics and was a nondescript thing—a calf's body with human head and wings, symbolical of strength, intelligence, omniscience. So, many Christians, similarly without a wish to infract divine law are disposed to take too great liberties and to introduce too large a degree of their own conceptions in divine worship—without sufficient care to hold to the instructions exact of the word. This is always a mistake by whosoever committed. The only wise and proper course for any is to take heed particularly to the Lord's Word and to allow themselves little, if any liberty, beyond the very letter of that Word. The lesson to Spiritual Israelites here is—"See thou make all things after the pattern I show thee in the Holy Mount." If we need divine instruction at all on the subject we need to follow these instructions carefully. We cannot improve on them. Any alteration means injury to us. (Z. '07-204; R.4022)

THESE BE THY GODS — We are not to suppose that the Israelites recognized the golden calf as their God—Jehovah, but used it merely as a symbol or representation, just as the heathen used idols as the representatives of their Gods and just as some Christians use the Crucifix as a representation of Christ—not to worship, but merely to assist the faith and hold the attention. (Z. '13-253; R.5298)

This shows that the idolatry here practised was not much different from the kind practised by Christian churches today where images, pictures, crucifixes, statues, etc., are worshipped. Those who use these assure us they do not worship the crucifixes, etc., but merely use them as representatives or emblems of the Lord, and that their worship is to Him. So evidently the Israelites were not worshipping the golden calf as being their God, but merely to represent God, for it is distinctly stated in the program which drew together, that it was a feast unto Jehovah. (vs. 5) (Z. '02-221; R.3046)

32:5 — WHEN AARON SAW IT HE BUILT AN ALTAR — The weakness of Aaron in contrast with the strength of his brother, Moses, is very markedly shown in verses 21-24 and clearly shows the wisdom of God in the choice of Moses to be a leader of the people, even though at the outset the latter, in weakness, ignored his own abilities and suggested to the Lord his brother Aaron for the leader. (Z. '02:-221; R.3046)

32:6 — ROSE UP TO PLAY — This shows the weakness of the fallen human nature. The Israelites wanted to worship and desired to gratify the natural inclination in connection with fallen tendencies. They would worship God, but they would have an outward emblem or sign representing Him. Additionally, no doubt, they craved some gratification of lewdness and licentiousness which were marked elements of the idolatrous worship of Egypt with which for a long time they had been in contact. (Z. '02-221; R.3046)

It illustrates the general tendency of fallen man to substitute something of his own creation, either instead of the Lord or in addition to the Lord. (Z. '02-222; R.3047)

32:10 — I WILL MAKE OF THEE A GREAT NATION — This offer was evidently to test Moses' fidelity as the appointed Mediator of the people. Moses stood the test and showed how well he had developed under the Lord's instructions, and showed himself a worthy type of the great Mediator of the New Covenant, who made mediation for the sins of the people—reconciliation through his blood. (See notes on Num. 14:19)

32:16 — THE WRITING OF GOD - See note on Ex. 34:1.

32:19 — AND BRAKE THEM — Illustrating the failure of Israel to keep the Law Covenant and ultimately the complete failure of the Law Covenant, as we know it did fail in respect to Israel at our Lord's first advent. (Z. '02-221; R.3047)

32:20 — THE CALF — While Israel should have been humbly awaiting instructions regarding a bullock to be slain and its blood to be applied to atone for their sins, the people prepared a substitute closely resembling a real bullock but having no blood. So today the whole world is groaning and travailing in pain, waiting for the manifestation of the antitypical Moses, Sons of God, who, as the divinely appointed Mediator, will administer a new law to all the world. The chief feature of that new law will be a recognition of the blood of Jesus, the antitypical bullock. Like Israel of old, instead of eagerly awaiting this the Christian world is demanding of the modern Aarons, the so-called religious leaders, a bullock of their own. So the whole world brings its splendor, wealth, influence and, from these, have erected a modern golden calf, the mammon of unrighteousness. It calls itself Christianity, but denies the blood of the bullock; but to the world it glitters resplendently with its gold, influence and power and earthly honor. So closely does it resemble a real bullock that poor humanity, deceived, is bowing in adoration. (Bro. W. Bundy at Springfield Convention, Mass., July 14, 1913)

BURNT IT IN THE FIRE — So Christ will demolish the modern golden calf, ridding the world of its pernicious influence and doctrines and purifying the entire world with the fire of God's jealousy.

STRAWED IT UPON THE WATER — the river of God will wash away all memory of these offensive dogmas, the river flowing from Mt. Zion.

MADE THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL DRINK IT — But not until the world, in humiliation and sorrow, shall drink the dregs of its folly. (Bro. W. Bundy)

32:22 — AND AARON SAID — We cannot suppose that Aaron fully sympathized with the people in this matter. We must suppose that he knew better and meant better and that it was a mere expedient on his part to hold the people in check. (Z. '07-204; R.4022)

Perhaps his course in calling for their jewelry was first of all to dissuade the people from the course suggested by making it cost them some considerable sacrifice in the way of personal adornments. It may also be that he trusted that during the time necessary to the engraving of the moulds, melting the jewels, etc., Moses would appear and re-assume his leadership and command the people. But, whatever his motives, he displayed a weakness of character far from commendable, one which should teach all who providentially come into positions of power and influence among the Lord's people, that there is but one right way to do—not to participate in sin but meekly, yet firmly, to stand up for righteousness at any cost, leaving the results with the Lord, without fear, knowing that he is the real leader of the people, and attempts to compromise with wrong would be at the expense of divine approval, and too costly to be considered for a moment. (Z. '02-221; R.3047)

Spiritual Israel Should never say, “let us do evil the good may come,” “let us yield some principles for the sake of harmony and the good of the cause.” When great emergencies arise, God is superior to every one of them and they can never be understood as his voice commanding us to violate the principles of righteousness he set before us. (Z. '07-204; R.4022)

32:26 — MOSES STOOD IN THE GATE — The one man stood up against a nation of 2,000,000 people, denounced their sin and declared himself on the side of the Lord and thoroughly opposed to such infractions of His Law. Although overmastered and cowed in the presence of their God-appointed leader, the chief men of all the tribes but one seem to have resented Moses' reproofs. That one tribe was the tribe of Levi, typical of the household of faith from which the Royal Priesthood is now being selected. This tribe, although led astray to some extent with the others, and to some extent leader, through Aaron, in the wrong course, were at heart on the Lord's side and when the rebuke came and the Lord's will and way were clearly set before them through the mediator, they promptly came to the side of the Lord on the question. The leaders of the other tribes were not ready to admit that their course was a wrong one, not willing to submit themselves promptly, and the result was the destruction of 3,000 of the leaders in the wrong way, and the full return of the remainder into harmony with the Lord, acknowledging their transgression. (Z. '02-222; R.3047)

WHO IS ON THE LORD'S SIDE — This call went out at Pentecost. The battle which began against sin at Jesus' baptism continued, and the call went forth for volunteers to serve under Jesus as their captain.

LET HIM COME UNTO ME — Let him come to him who will be the antitypical Moses and become members of him, as his body. Come unto Jesus and he will give us directions, how to consecrate, and what to do.

ALL THE SONS OF LEVI — The sons of Levi antitypically represent the household of faith. All of these respond during the Gospel Age and consecrate to the Lord. At the end they will be the Little Flock and Great Company.

32:27 — HIS SWORD BY HIS SIDE — The word of God. Cling to it and use it.

SLAY EVERY MAN HIS BROTHER — Slay your share in them, your claims and rights in them — i.e., consecrate them to the Lord and sacrifice them to him, to be dead with Christ.

32:29 — THIS DAY — “Now is the day of salvation,” the day when the Lord will accept such sacrifices and reward them. The blessing is spirit-begetting and fellowship and harmony with the Lord, the spiritual food and opportunities now given, sitting in heavenly places in Christ Jesus.

32:30 — YE HAVE SINNED A GREAT SIN — At our Lord’s first advent, he found Israel nominally worshipping Jehovah, but really worshippers of mammon and of riches of honors of men, of dignities, titles, of places and position. The Pharisees, who were professedly the most religious class of Jews at the time, the holiness people, our Lord accused of covetousness, which is idolatry. (Luke 16:14—Diag.; Col. 3:5; John 5:44; Matt. 23:14) He denounced such religion as mammon worship. He explained that their difficulty consisted in worshipping the golden calf, mammon, dowing down to the creeds and traditions of men; their love of praise, titles, and honor of men, and love of wealth, had largely to do with their reprehensible course in the wight of the Lord and their inharmony with Christ when he appeared; and that, so far as the people were concerned, the tables of the Law and the covenant based upon them were broken—dashed to pieces. (Z. ’02-222; R.3047)

As in the type, so Christ called for all the Israelites indeed, the household of faith, the Royal priesthood, to come to him and, as in the type, there was a destruction of the leaders of the remainder, so there came a time of trouble upon the remainder of the house of Israel, resulting in the complete overthrow of their national polity, the destruction of their city. And as Moses went again into the mountain to make reconciliation for their sins, so Christ as High priest ascended to make atonement for the sins of the people.

A parallel to this is in our day. As Jesus came to his own professed Israelites and found them unready to receive him, so at his second coming professed Spiritual Israel, Christendom, will be equally unready to receive him. As he then found only a remnant out of the whole of natural Israel ready for the higher plane of the Gospel Age, so in the end of this age only a Little Flock in all will be ready for the higher plane of the kingdom—glory, honor and immortality and joint heirship with Him in the Kingdom work. As the natural Israelites stumbled because they and their leaders were outwardly loyal to God and his purposes, yet really were self-willed and selfish, and hence not ready to receive him and to fall in line with his reproofs and corrections in righteousness, so it will be with the leaders and the masses of Spiritual (nominal) Israel at the second advent. Now, as with Israel, only a remnant will be found, only the Levites, on the side of the Lord; and the “time of trouble, as was not since there was a nation,” is about to come upon nominal Christendom for its complete overthrow as a social, financial, political and religious institution.

It is nearly 1900 years since Jesus left his people and ascended up on high, going into the mountain, into the presence of God. His absence was longer protracted than had been expected and, meantime, many of those who had trusted in him and waited for him and expected his coming again to lead his people into the land of promise, have ceased to expect him and are claiming that he will not come again to lead and deliver them, are claiming that other leaders should take charge and deliver the people. The heads of the various parties in conference have decided now that Mammon shall be the representative of God to convert and civilize the world, that man shall bring in for the groaning creation, in a natural way, the various blessing craved to cause earth to blossom as the rose. Meanwhile the leader whom God has appointed to bring the deliverance returns and is justly wroth at present conditions. he has set up his standard of truth and righteousness, and is even now standing at the gate of the camp, and is calling, "Who is on the Lord's side? Let him come unto me. And all the tribe of Levi gathered unto him." Let all who are to be the Lord's, however much they may have been entangled with the fallacies of the day, with its love of money, its titles, its selfishness, etc.—let all the true-hearted be prompt to take their places on the Lord's side. Shortly the great time of trouble is to begin, which will mean the complete overthrow of all who worship Mammon, however much they may claim it is really the worship of Jehovah. (Z. '02-22, 223; R.3048)

32:32 — IF THOU WILT FORGIVE THEIR SIN — How pathetic is Moses' plea! "If thou wilt forgive their sin." He left the sentence incomplete as though it were beyond thinking that God would permit such an infraction of the covenant he had just made. So, in the antitype, Jesus, realizing that it was impossible for God to forgive sin, to blot out sin, gave His life as the redemption price for sinners. He actually did what Moses proffered to do and meant, for he gave nor merely a prospect of life and temporary existence, but he gave his all, with his life rights to eternal life as a man, on our behalf. (Z. '02-223; R.3048)

OUT OF THY BOOK — Moses here typified, or was like, Christ, in his willingness to give himself for the people. But Moses was an imperfect fallen man and hence was not acceptable to God for a ransom; he had no life rights to give. It would be like bringing to God for sacrifice that which had died of itself in the field. Such a sacrifice would not be acceptable to God, for the animal must be perfect and must be slain in the Court.

32:34 — LEAD THE PEOPLE — So God has appointed that the great Mediator should be the leader and commander of the people and bring whosoever will back into harmony and full accord with God, back to Edenic conditions, the land of promise. But as here (vs. 34) the people will receive chastisements in proportion as they knowingly and wilfully participated in a course of sin. Although the Lord will forgive the original sin and remit its penalty, death, yet to whatever extent man have sinned wilfully, on their own account against light, knowledge and opportunity, so they are personally responsible and will be obliged to suffer chastisements, even while being brought back by the Redeemer from the plane of death to the plane of perfection, harmony with God and everlasting life. (Z. '02-222; R.3047) Also on the scapegoat, Lev. 16:7-10, 20-26; and note to Rev. 18:24.)

32:35 — THE LORD PLAGUED THE PEOPLE — Moses mourned and prayed and fasted 40 days between the time when he came down and when he went up the second time (see Deut. 9:9, 18; 10:10) because of the people's sins. (See note on Lev. 9 and 16:21)

33:14 — MY PRESENCE SHALL GO WITH THEE, AND I WILL GIVE THEE REST — What a world of rest and comfort and assurance is given in this promise.

34:1 — I WILL WRITE UPON THESE TABLES — The first tables of the Law were prepared by the Lord himself as well as written by Him. (Ex. 32:16) This pictures how man in his creation was a perfect image of God, his Creator, formed, created in full accord with the Divine will and fully expressive of the Divine Law. Adam needed no further preparation and no other law than that which was in and of himself as a perfect human being. But by reason of sin this law was broken. Poor humanity no longer has a proper judgment respecting sin and righteousness; the original tables are shattered and illegible. Man needs the great Mediator to make reconciliation for his iniquity and then to rewrite the Law of God in his flesh. (Jer. 31:31-34; Exod. 36:25-27; 2 Cor. 3:3)

The Christ of glory is fully commissioned to prepare the hearts of mankind for the rewriting of the divine law. To prepare man to obey God's law will require that they experience restitution—lifting up out of sin and degradation. This work, committed to Moses in the type, is in the antitype committed to Christ. (Z. '13-254; R.5298) See verses 27 and 28. These would seem to say that Moses did this later writing, but see Deut. 10:1-5.

34:6 — THE LORD GOD, MERCIFUL AND GRACIOUS — Neh. 9:17.

34:22 — THE FIRSTFRUITS OF WHEAT HARVEST — The best and the choicest, those which bring the highest price in the market. One would not use dried, measly, crabbed fruit to exhibit to anyone the quality of his orchard, to induce him to buy. He would take the best. So God is now gathering the Church, ripening them as beautiful fruits, as an example of what he will do for the world, of the power of his love to save. The Church will be exhibits of the power of God's love, how he took the mean and contemptible things of earth and made of them characters of the highest quality, copies of Jesus. This was a free will offering. (Deut. 16:10)

34:24 — APPEAR BEFORE THE LORD THEY GOD THRICE IN THE YEAR — This was a test of faith to the Israelites, that God would protect them if they were obedient. They were surrounded by enemies but the Lord promised to protect them at these times. Especially was this a test at Passover when the Jews had to leave their ripening grain standing for a whole week to go up to keep the Passover. "The path of duty is the path of safety."

34:26 — THE FIRST OF THE FIRSTFRUITS — The handful of grain, sheaf, waved of the 16th of Nisan, represented Jesus, the first-born from the dead, that in all things he might have the preeminence.

34:28 — HE WROTE UPON THE TABLES — This would seem to say that Moses wrote these tablets. But see verse 1, Deut. 10:1-5.

34:33 — HE PUT A VEIL ON HIS FACE — So Christ's work at his second advent will be accompanied by a veiling of His glory, so that the world will not see Jesus (the world represented by Israel the people). He will veil His glory from mankind and speak to them through the veil and not directly from the spirit plane. While mankind will see Jesus no more (John 14:19) it will be to their advantage. Instead they will see him represented by the Ancient Worthies—"Ye shall see Abraham, Isaac, Jacob and all the prophets." (Luke 13:28) (Z. '13-254; R.5299)

34:35 — SAW THE FACE OF MOSES, THAT THE SKIN OF MOSES' FACE SHONE — See marginal references.

35:4 — THIS IS THE THING WHICH THE LORD COMMANDED — We see that Moses, in being selected to build the typical tabernacle, was a type of Christ. (Deut. 18:15-19; Acts 3:22, 23; 7:37) So Jesus was selected to build the tabernacle (representing the Church in the flesh.) As Moses received his instructions as to how to build the typical tabernacle while he was forty days and nights in the mount with God (Ex. 25:40, 9; 24:18; 34:28; Deut. 9:9) where he neither ate nor drank water, so Jesus received his instructions as to how to build the true tabernacle (Jesus and the Church in the flesh with the better sacrifices) when he was with the Lord 40 days in the wilderness where he neither ate nor drank water. (Matt. 4:1, 2; Mark 1:12, 13; Luke 4:1, 2)

35:5 — AN OFFERING UNTO THE LORD — The ornaments and jewelry were from the Egyptians (Ex. 12:35, 36). The acacia wood was obtained from those Israelites who had it. (Ex. 35:24)

35:24 — SHITTIM WOOD — Acacia wood. This is mentioned as a tree once (in Isa. 41:19). The Shittah tree is a species of acacia, (A. Seyal), growing to a height of 15 or 20 feet, with angular, twisted branches, elegant feathery leaves and clusters of small flowers, followed by many curved and tapering pods. The wood is very hard, close-grained and orange-red in color. It grows in the valleys about the Dead Sea, and in the Desert Southwards. It is supposed that the burning bush was an acacia bush. (Leeser has thorn bush.) (Z. '07-141; R.3989)

36:3 — FREE OFFERINGS — This material was all supplied by the Israelites as a free-will offering from the heart. Each one brought according to what he had as the Spirit stirred him up. (Ex. 25:1-8; 35:1-29) So in the building of the antitype, those whose hearts are stirred by the Lord's message respond and bring themselves and all they have to the Lord as free-will offerings (Rom. 12:1) to build the antitypical tabernacle.

36:7 — TOO MUCH — As there was a surplus of offerings here so there will be more coming than is needed in the antitype (as in 2 Chron. 7:7) in the end of the age.

37:6 — THE MERCY SEAT — (John 17:9, 21) The Mercy Seat, Cherubim and Shekinah light represented Jehovah. (The head of Christ is God, 1 Cor. 11:3.) He is represented by things illustrative of attributes of His character. The Shekinah glory pictures Jehovah himself as the Light of the World. (Psa. 80:1; 1 Sam. 4:4; 2 Sam. 6:2; Isa. 37:16) (T124) The Shekinah Glory was probably an electrical manifestation (see also the glow or fluorescence of the jewels of the breastplate.) The Mercy Seat represents the propitiatory or place where justice is satisfied, where the blood of the sacrifice was sprinkled in the form of a cross. It pictures Jehovah's justice as the foundation of God's throne. His throne is based, or established upon, justice.

TWO CUBITS AND A HALF WAS THE LENGTH THEREOF — The same size as the Ark. (Psa. 89:14; Job 36:17; 37:23; Rev. 15:3; Deut. 32:4; Jer. 9:24; Isa. 56:1) In Rom. 3:25, 26 we read that Christ is set forth as a "propitiatory." It pleased God that in Jesus should all fullness dwell, and be represented to mankind, though they be God's own (justice.)

37:7 — BEATEN — Tried and tested in all points by those who know him.

OUT OF ONE PIECE — One piece with each other and the Mercy Seat, showing they were thoroughly one. Neither love nor power can be exercised until justice is fully satisfied. (T125) The Cherubim represent Divine Love and Power. In the Tabernacle these were put together in a way representing that Love and Power were waiting till justice was satisfied. (See 2 Chron. 3:10-13 and note.) The last Bible record of the Ark is in 2 Chron. 35:3. Manasseh had put an image in the Temple and the Ark seems to have been taken out. Josiah restored it. It disappeared about the beginning of the 70 years desolation and was probably taken care of by Jeremiah. The Urim and Thummim disappeared about the same time. Ezra 2:63 shows that it had been lost. See Ezra 3:10-13; Hag. 3:9; Jer. 3:14-16; 2 Maccabees 2:4-10.

37:23 — SEVEN LAMPS — These seven lamps represent every stage of the Church as holding forth the true light, the Gospel. These were filled with olive oil. As each lamp represents the Word of God, so the oil in it represents the Holy Spirit in the Word which causes the light. The wick represents our humanity, this earthly organism which receives the Holy Spirit in our minds. The putting of the wick into the oil represents our desire to study and its carrying out, while justified to sonship with God, justified to life at the moment of our consecration. We then drink in for a while the Holy Spirit from the Word until we are impelled by it to give out light and this time of quickening may correspond to the lighting of the wick. Then the oil begins to flow through us and we let our light shine to encourage others in the way and lead others to the Lord.

The trimming of the wick represents the trimming off of the dross of the earthen vessel as it is consumed by the light. This should be done daily, as the High priest daily trimmed the lamps, and done with praise and thankfulness (incense offered). Thus, as we take our place in the body and do our part in sending out the truth, our old nature is gradually consumed. Our great High priest superintends and guides us in all these ways and has an oversight over us, although the Father is the husbandman.

37:26 — THE HORNS OF IT — “Horns shall be of the same.” (Ex. 30:2) A.R.V.—“be of one piece with it,” cannot be separated from it. Horns represent power, here the power and efficiency of Jesus’ merit (incense) added to our own efforts toward obedience to make them acceptable before God—power of his intercession to keep us perfect before God. It represents justification by faith (as in 1 John 2:1; 1:9). There is no justification by any other means, not by works or penances, but through an earnest heart and reliance upon the merit of Jesus to cleanse us.

A CROWN OF GOLD — Shows that this Altar was to be used for those who were to be kings as well as priests. So also the Table.

37:27 — PLACES FOR THE STAVES — Showing that this arrangement was for the church in the temporary condition—strangers in the land and sojourners. There is no mention of any staves for the Golden Altar in the Temple. “Thy way is in the sanctuary.” (Psa. 77:13) Whoever would understand the love of God and spiritual things must enter the sanctuary condition. (Psa. 73:17)

38:3 — THE POTS — For boiling the flesh. As this is the same word used in Ex. 27:3, “pans to receive the ashes,” it may refer to them, but pots to boil in were used also. (Lev. 8:31; Ex. 29:31-33; 1 Sam. 2:13, 14)

THE SHOVELS — For taking up the ashes (?).

THE FLESH HOOKS — For handling the meat or flesh. (1 Sam. 2:13, 14)

THE FIRE PANS — Censers in which to carry coals to the Golden Altar. (Lev. 16:12; 10:1, 2) These were of copper in the Tabernacle representing the minds or brains, now earthly, by which means we bear our burning trials.

38:6 — THE STAVES — The staves of the Altar seem to testify that the present sacrificial condition of the Church is only a temporary one, until the atonement is accomplished. The Brazen Altar in the Temple had no staves. (2 Chron. 4:1) The final condition of the Church will not be a sacrificial one, but a glorious one. The position of the Altar in the Court (see Ex. 40:29), outside the sanctuary, pictures how Jesus’ and our sacrifice must be accomplished while we are in the earthly state. Continual burnt offering (Ex. 29:39-42):

The lamb pictures the perfect humanity of Jesus in harmony with God. This continual sacrifice was taken away and the Abomination of Desolation set up in 539 A.D. with the setting up of the Mass. (Dan. 11:31; 12:31; Matt. 24:15) It was found again at the Reformation in Luther’s time—“The just shall live by faith.” The fire was not allowed to go out. (Lev. 6:12, 13)

38:8 — THE WOMEN ASSEMBLING — Probably the women of Levi. (1 Sam. 2:22) Hence these would represent women (congregations) who were justified. The Jews were called to be a holy people and were typically justified and were being prepared to receive Christ, and if they had been faithful they would have been the Bride class.

Here, then, was one of the women. To the Jews was given the Old Testament as their mirror, reflecting God’s perfect Law and character. The Gospel Church was also given a new mirror with the old one to copy from it the proper likeness. It was a more highly polished mirror. From these two mirrors the Word of God is made, reflecting and revealing his character for them to fashion themselves by. See Ex. 30:18, note; Ex. 40:30. The Word of God is a mirror. (2 Cor. 3:18; James 1:23-25)

39:30 — HOLY CROWN — Pointing to the Royalty of the future Antitypical High priesthood—a priest upon his throne. (See Zech. 6:13; Psa. 110:4; Heb. 7:17) So the picture is that the crown was righteously his (white mitre)

(his in righteousness) (Isa. 32:1) because of his faithfulness (blue lacer) in sacrificing (work of a priest) even unto death (white band around the head.)

Crown is from the Hebrew nayzer, something set apart, consecrated here to Jehovah. It is elsewhere translated separation and consecration. (Num. 6:7, 9, 12, see notes on same; see Zech. 9:16)

THE ENGRAVINGS OF A SIGNET — The signet is a seal, as in the ancient seals on rings. God has set his seal of exclusive ownership of service, time, talent, etc.; of personal property on the Church and Christ. They give themselves wholly to him, with all their hopes and all they possess. Hence this engraving proclaimed that they are Jehovah's property, that the High priest was wholly devoted to the accomplishment of Jehovah's purposes. (T30) See Gal. 6:17; Hag. 2:23.

HOLINESS TO THE LORD — The general principle which the crown and its motto symbolize and which must be observed in all service for God is Holiness (wholeness for Him), perfection, devotion to Him, sanctification. Jehovah will have a clean sanctuary and everyone who will not be clean the Lord will put out of that class. He will be glorified in us or he will put us out, have nothing to do with us. Lev. 10:1-3—Jehovah will lay bare our lives, every hidden thing will be brought to light in this judgment. Aaron held his peace, and so must we. (Zech. 14:20, 21)

39:31 — ON HIGH — Showing that this was not to be a hidden, secret thing, but prominent in our lives where all can see it—a proclamation that we are gladly and wholly his. This is God's command to us—to be light-bearers in the midst of a crooked and perverse generation.

THE MITRE — The mitre was a strip of white linen worn around the forehead. (Ex. 28:37-39; Zech. 3:5) Its whiteness represented righteousness, purity. Its being worn around the forehead pictured perhaps death to all interests but the Lord's, for the ancients used thus to bandage their dead. (See custom of nuns now.)

40:1 — FIRST DAY OF THE FIRST MONTH — New Year's day.

40:13 — ANOINT HIM — Only Aaron was anointed with this oil. It was used on the sons only as they succeeded him in office. (F131) (Ex. 28:41; 29:7; 30:25, 20; Lev. 8:12; 10:7; 21:10; Num. 35:25; Lev. 6:22; Ex. 40:13, 15) The under-priests were included in this anointing as his body members through him as their head. (Psa. 133) The antitype of this is that the Holy Spirit was given directly only to Jesus, the head of the antitypical priesthood and we, as members of His body, all receive our anointing through Him. (Titus 3:5, 6; Eph. 1:13, 14; 4:16; 1 Cor. 12:13; Psa. 45:7; Acts 2:33;

2 Cor. 1:20, 22) (F131, 132) Only those who are in Him are partakers of this anointing.

40:26 — BEFORE THE VEIL — Compare Ex. 30:6. By the Ark (representing to Israel the presence of God in their midst). So those who continue at the Incense Altar are in the presence of God, by His Spirit. (Psa. 91:1, 9; John 14:23; 15:5-7; Jude 21) At the beginning of our course we had a sense of his present at times, but at other times felt as though God had left us. But after we knew God better, we felt less of a bubbling over, but a deeper joy in him, and sorrow and trouble did not affect us so much. Our spiritual life became more even and harder to disturb. So now we can realize the Lord's presence with us always, in every duty. (Col. 3:22-24)

40:29 — BY THE DOOR OF THE TABERNACLE — This position of the Altar made it the most conspicuous thing in the Court and would be the first thing seen when the Court was entered, showing that all who approach unto God must not only recognize Jesus' righteous character (the Gate), but must recognize his death as the basis of their justified condition, their hopes and their peace with God—their life, through His ransom sacrifice. Verse 6 and verse 29 show that all things in the Court were so placed as to call attention to the Holy and its Door—in the antitype, to consecration as the thing necessary to complete our peace and justification and blessing in Him. The one object of God's drawing and justification now is to lead to consecration. (Z.'07-315; R.4078)

40:30 — BETWEEN THE TENT OF THE CONGREGATION AND THE ALTAR — This position implied that it was for the use of both priests and Levites, consecrated and justified (near to the Door of the Tabernacle and not to the Gate). The fact that it was in the Court shows that it is our human nature, earthly which is sinful and needs cleansing. The New Creature is not sinful, because it is the mind of God in us. (1 Cor. 2:16; see 1 John 3:9 and notes) If it were the New Creature that needed cleansing, the Laver would be in the Holy. The New Creature is developed and perfected, not cleansed. See Ex. 30:18 and note.

40:32 — WHEN THEY CAME NEAR UNTO THE ALTAR THEY WASHED — Teaching a reverence for God, that they who would serve Him must be clean. "I will be sanctified in them that come nigh me." (Lev. 10:3) "Be ye clean that bear the vessels (truths) of the Lord." (Isa. 52:11) "Without are the abominable." (Rev. 21:8; 22:15)

40:34 — THE GLORY OF THE LORD FILLED THE TABERNACLE — When the Tabernacle was set up the first important event was God's recognition of it. So to the convert, there is not only the ordering of our minds in accord with the Lord, placing spirituality and veneration first, in the center; but God begat us of His spirit to a newness of mind. God recognized us, he took up his abode with us, and our meeting place with Him, spiritual, was blessed and enlightened. (Eph. 1:18; Heb. 10:32) The glory of the Lord filled us. We realized to some extent that we were accepted of the Lord and the enlightenment of the Holy Spirit has ever since been with us, an ever-present help and guide; a pillar of cloud, it has blessed us by day in shielding us from things that would be too trying for us; a pillar of fire by night, it has given us enlightenment in darkness (2 Pet. 1:19) and the keeping, protecting power of Him who has promised (Rom. 8:28) because we are his and have loved him and placed him first in our hearts. (Z. '07-218; R.4029)

It would seem that the antitypical tabernacle was set up at Pentecost (after Jesus had taken all the steps and complete the outline of the antitype) the glory of the Lord filled it. Since then the Church has followed Jesus' steps.

40:38 — IN THE SIGHT OF ALL THE HOUSE OF ISRAEL — Thus Israel had continually before them a manifestation of God and his protecting care over them as his people. They had craved and idol to go before them and serve as an outward manifestation of God and had been punished for their idolatry. They had learned the lesson and repented, and God had given them what he had planned, something far superior as a manifestation of Him. The lesson of the arrangement of the Tabernacle to that people must have been God first, religion the center of all ambition and activity. All the tribes were related to the Tabernacle because it represented God and all were related to each other because they were each and all surrounding and in direct contact with the Tabernacle of God. (Z. '07-216; R.4028)

THROUGHOUT ALL THEIR JOURNEYS — The Tabernacle was at Shiloh (Josh. 9:27; 18:1); (also Josh. 19:51; 22:19, 29; 1 Sam. 1:3, 9; Psa. 78:60); at Nob (1 Sam. 21:1-6); at Gibeon (1 Chron. 16:39; 2 Chron. 1:3-6; 1 Chron. 29:29; 6:31, 32; 9:19, 23; 1 Kings 3:4); brought into the Temple (1 Kings 8:1-4; 2 Chron. 5:5; 2 Maccabees 2:5-8),

LEVITICUS

1:2 — AN OFFERING — Order of the offerings:

- (1) Sin offering (Lev. 5:8; 4);
- (2) Burnt offering (Lev. 6:9; 4:11, 12; 1);
- (3) Meat offering (Lev. 2:7-16);
- (4) Peace offering (Lev. 3; 7:11-34);
- (5) Drink offering (Lev. 23:13, 18, 37; Num. 6:28, 29);
- (6) Trespass offering (Lev. 5; 6:1-6)

1:3 — A BURNT SACRIFICE — The burnt offering was an offering of acceptance, a sweet savor offering by fire, a free-will offering. This chapter tells the general law of the burnt offering, affecting the offerings after the Day of Atonement. It is called the burnt offering because of its being wholly burnt, and by its burning all night until the morning (this refers to the continual evening burnt offering.) (Lev. 6:9)

OF THE HERD — A bullock.

A MALE — Representing Jesus as the man, for both the sexes were united originally in the male. See the Passover Lamb. Females of the animals were used for sacrifice on occasions only.

WITHOUT BLEMISH — Perfect and complete (as was Jesus actually. Heb. 7:26) And the church by His imputed merit. (Rom. 8:1-4; 1 Cor. 6:11)

OF HIS OWN VOLUNTARY WILL — Showing that one's consecration of himself to God, to be acceptable, must be of his own heart's desire.

AT THE DOOR OF THE TABERNACLE — The place of presentation, of acceptance.

1:4 — PUT HIS HAND UPON — To indicate that the animal represented him, that what was done to it represented what he should and, by resolve, would do.

THE HEAD — The being is directed from and by the head.

1:5 — HE — The offerer slew the bullock. This was fitting as it tested his earnestness. We have to do our own dying to the world and prove it by our not heeding its offers or threats.

SHALL KILL THE BULLOCK — Representing death to all and everything but God.

SPRINKLE THE BLOOD ROUND ABOUT UPON THE ALTAR — Jesus is our altar and this calls attention to the fact that our acceptability is through his merit. The Christ will be the world's altar and their basis of acceptability is the sacrifice of Christ.

1:6 — FLAY THE BURNT OFFERING — Skin it. The skin belonged to the priest who did the sacrificing. (Lev. 7:8)

CUT IT INTO HIS PIECES — Referring to the fact that Christ is a unity of many members.

1:7 — PUT FIRE UPON THE ALTAR — While the fire was not allowed to go out upon the altar (Lev. 6:12, 13) yet it was put out when Israel struck camp and moved. (Num. 4:13, 14)

1:8 — LAY THE PARTS, THE HEAD, AND THE FAT IN ORDER — The head was first and then the parts laid to it in order. (Ex. 29:17) Jesus was first offered then the members of his body. (Also, perhaps, to the offerer, first the mind or will is holy to God and then the whole body bit by bit is sanctified.)

1:9 — WASH IN WATER — A cleansing of all the body.

BURN ALL ON THE ALTAR — A consecration vow must be wholly carried out to the letter and, in the case of the Christian, until all is consumed.

AN OFFERING MADE BY FIRE — Accomplished through tribulation and trial, a sweet savor because it proves the loyalty and trustworthiness of the offerer.

1:10 — IF HIS OFFERING BE OF THE FLOCKS — A sacrifice of lower value than a bullock had less fat. The bullock represented a perfect human being; a sheep or goat, in comparison, one less perfect. To be treated as the bullock. During the millennium, if anyone desired to offer himself to God in consecration he may do so and will be accepted for what he has, if he offers his all. Some, like the Ancient Worthies, can offer bullocks, others less of value, but each according to his ability, and God will accept him (that is, the Christ will accept him.) (2 Cor. 8:12)

1:13 — WASH THE INWARDS — Emphasizing the inward cleansing which all followers of Jesus must undergo.

WITH WATER — With truth. (Eph. 5:27; Psa. 119:9)

A SWEET SAVOR UNTO THE LORD — The Lord will be most pleased with a loving appreciative heart, that is so full of love it willingly consecrates itself to him joyfully.

1:14 — BE OF FOWLS — The offering of the poor, antitypically the offering of the more degraded and fallen of humanity, but it will be all that they have and will show appreciation and love for the Lord.

2:1 — A MEAT OFFERING — The meat or meal offering was of the fruits of the ground. (See offerings of Cain and Abel).

FINE FLOUR — The best and finest of their wheat. The flour was ground by a hand mill.

POUR OIL UPON IT — An anointing oil representing the Holy Spirit, an intaking of the Spirit from without.

2:11 — NO LEAVEN NOR ANY HONEY — Leaven was a type of sin as a corrupting influence and hence anything contaminated with it is rendered imperfect and hence not acceptable. Honey is sweet, a natural sweetness, but when brought into contact with fire it is spoiled and does not give off a pleasant odor (fire representing fiery trials.) The sweetness acceptable to God is that which stands the test and becomes even sweeter by trial and suffering, and this is typified by frankincense, which was offered on the altar and which gives off rich perfume when burnt. (vs. 16) Leaven—(1 Cor. 5:8, 7) Search ourselves to cleanse out the old leaven. (Ex. 12:15, 19; Deut. 16:4; Ex. 13:7; Amos 5:5) Honey—(Psa. 81:16; Rev. 10:9, 10; 1 Sam. 14:24-32, 6, 27) represents the truth and we are not to sacrifice the truth.

2:13 — SALT — The covenant of salt, seasoned with salt. (Col. 4:6; Ezra 6:9; Ezek. 43:24; Mark 9:49) (Have salt in yourselves) (Num. 18:19; 2 Chron. 13:5) Incorruptibility. Filled with grace, but seasoned with salt.

3:17 — BLOOD — See Lev. 17:10-14.

4:2 — SIN THROUGH IGNORANCE — Notice that the sins mentioned in this chapter are all sins of ignorance, i.e., committed unwittingly, without the knowledge of the doer that he was sinning; hence not in any sense wilful, but more the results of heredity or of imperfect judgment.

4:3 — PRIEST THAT IS ANOINTED — The high priest, for only he was anointed. (Lev. 8:12) But as we are members of his body and as he (Jesus, our head and high priest, Heb. 3:1) never sinned at all (Heb. 7:26), hence the sin must be that of the members of his body. This was a sacrifice after the day of Atonement, but did not refer to the Millennial Age, for the priests then will not sin, for they will be of the divine nature; hence it represents unwitting sins committed by members of the Royal Priesthood while in the flesh, in the Gospel Age.

ACCORDING TO THE SIN OF THE PEOPLE — Not a sin against his priestly office, but common to humanity.

A YOUNG BULLOCK — The picture seems to be that of 1 John 2:1, 2—the work of Jesus as our Advocate, particularly our part in it. “If any man sin.” The bullock points to the sacrifice of Jesus on our behalf and our faith in it. The Lord will not let these sins go unheeded when they come to our notice, but will require acknowledgement on our part, and we will need to ask his forgiveness and clear or wash away the stain.

4:4 — UNTO THE DOOR — Pointing to our consecration wholly to God.

LAY HIS HAND UPON THE BULLOCK'S HEAD — Calling attention to the full offering of all powers and talents of Jesus unto God, his ransom sacrifice and our faith in it.

THE BULLOCK — The offering of a perfect human nature to God.

4:5 — TO THE TABERNACLE OF THE CONGREGATION — The Holy.

4:6 — BEFORE THE VEIL OF THE SANCTUARY — Showing that our hope of forgiveness depends upon the merit of our Lord sprinkled on the Mercy Seat, as the satisfaction of justice for us. But it shows also that our sacrifice on such occasions will not be a satisfaction to justice.

4:7 — UPON THE HORNS OF THE ALTAR — Showing our faith and acknowledgement of the power of Jesus' imputed merit (Rev. 8:2) to make us clean and acceptable before God.

POUR ALL THE BLOOD OF THE BULLOCK AT THE BOTTOM OF THE ALTAR — Showing that all our life rights and share in earthly blessings are sacrificed unto the Lord, are consecrated to be consumed with Christ Jesus' humanity in God's service.

4:9 — THE CAUL ABOVE THE LIVER WITH THE KIDNEYS — Also showing that the best of our abilities are offered up with Jesus' as part of his body. Also picturing our renewed zeal to be completely used up in God's service in love; and zealous of the brethren.

4:12 — WITHOUT THE CAMP — Showing a public offering of shame or persecution or ostracism as punishment for our sins and a renewed zeal and desire to suffer with Christ, the ignominy of his death, dead to the world with him.

8:1 — THE LORD SPAKE UNTO MOSES — The children of Israel left Egypt on the 15th day of the month Abib. (Ex. 12:3-6, 42) In the third month they came to Mt. Sinai (Ex. 19:1), probably just about a month. On the third day the covenant was made and sealed. Then Moses went into the mount and stayed 40 days and 40 nights. (Ex. 24:18) When he came down he broke the tables of the covenant and then fasted 40 days and 40 nights. (Deut. 9:18) Then he spent another 40 days in the mount. This meant then three months and four months (three times 40 day periods equal 120 days) or seven months, when the Tabernacle was started. It was finished in the first day of the first month of the second year, in the spring. (Ex. 40:17)

Then came chapter 8 for seven days, then the 9th, in the spring of the year, on the 8th day of the 1st month. This was just six months before the next atonement day. So it may be that though the covenant was made in the first month, it may have not gone into effect until the seventh month of that first year.

8:7 — HIM — Aaron, for sons, see verse 13.

THE COAT — Of embroidered white linen, representing the purity and righteousness of the High Priest (Jesus, in the antitype) and the interwoven fruits of the Spirit. (Gal. 5:22, 23)

THE GIRDLE — The girdle of the linen robe (Ex. 28:39), representing that he was a servant of righteousness. (Isa. 53:11) Representing a quickening for service.

THE ROBE — Robe of the ephod, all of blue, representing his faithfulness. (Heb. 3:2; 2:17)

THE EPHOD — Representing the Law and the Covenants.

BOUND — He was thus bound with the girdle of the covenants, indicating a binding agreement, consecration, a covenant of sacrifice in the past.

THEREWITH — Signifying the “messenger,” servant, of the covenants.^{34S}

8:8 — BREASTPLATE — Representing the perfect Law of God, letter and spirit, bound over the High Priest’s heart, precious and dear to him. (Psa. 119:97, 77) (The “breastplate” here is probably the vari-colored woven cloth.

THE URIM AND THE THUMMIN — Probably the jewels, representing perfection and enlightenment. (Psa. 119:96, 130, 98-100)

8:9 — MITRE UPON HIS HEAD — Righteousness (also consecration to death.)

THE HOLY CROWN — Holiness unto the Lord, perfect and complete consecration.

8:11 — TO SANCTIFY THEM — Thus sanctifying them, consecrating them, setting them apart for the Lord’s exclusive use. (Ex. 30:25-29) Consecration in this chapter and in chapter seven and Ex. 29 is the Hebrew word millu, meaning a fulfilling (only in plural); i.e. (lit.) a setting (of gems) or (tech.)

consecration (from male or mala, a prim. root, to fill or (intrans.) to be filled with or full of, in a wide application.) (Strong's Concordance) So the purpose of our sanctification is our filling with the Spirit of God, with all the fullness of God.

8:12 — THE ANOINTING OIL — Typifying the Holy Spirit poured forth upon our High Priest, our head, without measure, manifesting the Lord's acceptance of Him as the High Priest, etc.

UPON AARON'S HEAD — See Ex. 40:13-15.

ANOINTED HIM — After this he could no longer be as the rest of the Levites of Israelites, he thereby was accepted of God as His property, this was God's seal upon him. (See Lev. 9:7) So with us and our head, this anointing separates us from the remainder of the race and thenceforth we are no longer a part of it, nor have any share in its hopes and ambitions, but have higher ones. This anointing signified (in type) the setting apart of Aaron for God's service (and of his family,) his installation as a priest. It typified the anointing of the Royal Priesthood to be set apart for God's service. (See Ex. 29:1, 44; 1 John 2:20, 27; 2 Cor. 1:21, 22; Acts 4:27; Luke 4:18; Acts 10:38) This oil was used to anoint the High Priest into office; to anoint the vessels of the Tabernacle (Ex. 40:9-11; Lev. 8:10, 11); to anoint the kings of Israel (1 Sam. 10:1; Psa. 89:20; 1 Kings 1:39; 19:16; 2 Kings 9:1-3, 6; 11:12); also the prophets (1 Kings 19:15, 16) It could not be used for any other purpose. (Ex. 30:32, 33) The antitype of this is the Holy Spirit of sonship with which the Christ is anointed. They are also anointed to be prophets, priests and kings. The priest entered upon his official work after seven days after the anointing (practically immediately), but the kings not until some time (as David and Solomon) after the anointing. So the Christ and his body are to begin their work as priests immediately on their anointing, but the same anointing as respects their kingly office has a future fulfillment—the kingly and authoritative work is reserved until the second coming of our Lord. (Sermon '07)

8:13 — PUT COATS UPON THEM — Representing the imputed righteousness of the High Priest, covering them as members of His body.

GIRDLED THEM WITH GIRDLES — Servants of righteousness, quickening to service.

PUT BONNETS UPON THEM — Indicating that they were not the head, but underpriests. Aaron had no bonnet, even on the Day of Atonement, but he had a mitre and crown. Symbolized also in proper relations of husband and wife, as symbolizing the relationship of Church to Christ. (Eph. 5:22-25; 1 Cor. 11:3-16)

AS THE LORD COMMANDED MOSES — Moses here shows that these were not his arrangements, but the Lord's.

8:14 — HE BROUGHT — See Ex. 29:10. So Leeser in verse 15 reads; and one slew it. But, as it was not Aaron and his sons, and by Moses' direction, the type would be the same.

AARON AND HIS SONS LAID THEIR HAND — Indicating that this bullock represented their humanity. Notice that both Aaron and his sons put their hands on the head of the bullock, showing that it represented the humanity of the head and body collectively, the one great sin offering. Thus it was counted that the sins of Aaron and his sons passed to the bullock as their substitute, and henceforth the bullock was charged with sin, unclean. In this, Jesus is our substitute, he needed no sin offering, but became a sin offering for others, for the church and the world. (See Lev. 1:4) Henceforth all that happened to the bullock represented what would happen to Jesus and his Church.

8:15 — HE — Moses. Here the bullock was delivered over to him, who represented here God's perfect Law, to meet its demands against Israel, typifying that the flesh of Jesus and his church was delivered over to satisfy the demands of God's just Law against the race of mankind.

SLEW IT — It had to be slain to meet the demands of the Law, typifying that God's just law required the death of a perfect human being to redeem Adam and his race. (Moses slew it.) The Bullock was slain in the Court (Ex. 29:11; Lev. 1:3; 17:3-7), typifying that all our sacrificing must be done while we are in this mortal body, there will be no opportunity after death to make our calling and election sure. The Court was the place of sacrifice and cleansing.

UPON THE HORNS — The power (horns) of the altar of earthly sacrifices (its power was the ability to sanctify the gift placed upon it, (Matt. 23:18, 19; Ex. 29:37) was derived from the shed blood and, for this same reason, this altar was acceptable as a place for other offerings.

WITH HIS FINGER — Symbolizing that the finger of the Law points us to the fact noted just above.

AT THE BOTTOM OF THE ALTAR — Symbolizing that the earth itself was also redeemed from the curse by the blood (life given.) (Eph. 1:14; Micah 4:8; E455; Dan. 7:14, 27) Ex. 29:12 shows that all the blood was thus used, either upon or at the base of the altar, symbolizing that the blood (life) of Jesus was an exact corresponding price for Adam, that it was fully sufficient to bring back all from death and remove all the effects, direct and indirect, of the entrance of sin into the world. It was just sufficient, no more, nothing wasted or unnecessary, the work of restoration requires it all.

TO MAKE RECONCILIATION UPON IT — Moses thus needed to put the blood upon the altar in order that reconciliation (satisfaction) might be made upon it. The first anointing by the holy oil (vss. 10, 11) sanctified it for the Lord's use, but did not alone give it power to sanctify any gift placed upon it. The blood was needed to make the altar acceptable for sacrifices, for blood represented that the life had been given for another (Adam's), that the ransom had been given. This typified that there could be no reconciliation without the death of Christ, (Heb. 9:22, 23) It is only through his death that our sacrifices become acceptable; so that before one realizes the power of the altar, one must first realize the blood (life given) which sanctified it. Also, it is only through the death of Jesus and his Church (Col. 1:24) that the world's offerings in the Millennial Age will be acceptable. This was the usual procedure with the offerings. (Lev. 1:5, 11; 3:2, 8, 13; 4:25 (ruler sinned), 30 (common people); 5:9;—birds not so (except in Lev. 5:9) exactly, see Lev. 1:15;—also different in sin offering for priest or congregation, blood then sprinkled on horns of Incense Altar and before second veil and poured out at base of Brazen Altar. See Leviticus 4:6, 7, 17, 18.

8:16 — THE INWARDS — These special parts would typify our heart devotion which prompts our sacrifice, represents the acceptability of our sacrifice to God, who looks at the heart only. (T42)

8:17 — WITHOUT THE CAMP — The only offerings thus treated are sin offerings: of the Day of Atonement (Lev. 16:27; 9:11, 15); for the priest (Lev. 4:12, 13) and congregation; (see Heb. 13:11); same for the priests in Ex. 29:14; Lev. 8:17. See also Lev. 6:23, 30. This burning typified the destruction of the humanity of Jesus and the Church as a sin offering for the world of mankind (Israel in the type.) The burning of the hide, hoofs and horns and flesh outside the Camp gave a very bad, disagreeable odor which typified how those out of harmony with God (outside the camp) view the sacrifice of Jesus and the Church as the filth and offscourings of the earth. (1 Cor. 4:13; Heb. 13:12, 13) (T42, 57, 58, 62; Z.'10-137; R.4602) The fat burned on the Altar gave almost no odor, because fat is almost pure carbon.

8:31 — AARON AND HIS SONS SHALL EAT IT — This was done in the court, showing it is not part of the sacrifice, but the nourishment for their mortal bodies and so was not done in the Holy, which related to the New Creature. The boiling was merely to prepare the meat. Strangers could not eat of this. (Lev. 22:4, 8-13; Ex. 29:33) No stranger can have any part in the consecration of the Royal Priesthood.

8:32 — SHALL YE BURN WITH FIRE — None of our time or power should be wasted, we should be all consumed. None of this was allowed to be eaten the next day. So there will be no opportunity to enter the Royal Priesthood and sacrifice with Christ after this age.

8:33 — SEVEN DAYS SHALL HE CONSECRATE YOU — Our consecration is for all our time, seven sevenths not one seventh, but every day. We must abide in the consecrated condition forever. Also, the seven days represent the Gospel Age when the Royal Priesthood is being consecrated and prepared, fitted for office.

8:35 — THAT YE DIE NOT — Abide in the consecrated condition. If we leave this and go back to the world (camp) we die the second death.

9: — Compare with chapter 16. (Z. '14-30; R.5931)

9:1 — ON THE EIGHTH DAY — Eighth day, after the seventh of chapter 8. For eighth day see Lev. 22:27, 30 (young of animals); Lev. 14:10, 23 (leprosy); Lev. 15:13, 14 (issue), 28, 29; Lev. 12:3 (circumcision); Gen. 17:12; Luke 1:59; 2:21. On the eighth thousand year day the universe will be perfect. Lev. 23:36, 39; John 7:37; Num. 29:12-35; Neh. 8:16-18.

9:2 — AARON — Type of Jesus.

TAKE THEE A YOUNG CALF — Showing that the bullock (young calf) was furnished by Aaron, the priest, not by Israel. So Jesus' humanity was not furnished by the world, but by Jesus. It was the body prepared for him by Jehovah. (Heb. 10:5, 6)

9:3 — UNTO THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL — Showing how the church (goat) is furnished by the world, taken out of the world. (John 15:19; 8:23; Eph. 2:12, 13)

FOR A SIN OFFERING — The sin offerings represent the sufferings of Christ and of all who walk in his footsteps as respects their relationship to the Lord, "outside the camp," and their course as New Creatures in the Holy and ultimately beyond the second veil in the Most Holy. And it shows the merit of the sacrifice eventually applied on the Mercy Seat and for whom applied—the blood of the bullock first for the Church and the blood of the goat afterward for all the people. (Z. '09-139; R.4389)

FOR A BURNT OFFERING — The burnt offering shows the same sacrifice from a different standpoint—that of divine acceptance. It shows that the offering was made to God and accepted by God as a whole; even though, as shown in the sin offering, the sufferings were inflicted by men and the services rendered unto men. (Z. '09-139; R.4389)

9:4 — FOR PEACE OFFERINGS — Peace offerings are another picture of the same sacrifices, representing the willingness of the individual who sacrificed—that nothing was of compulsion so far as God was concerned, and that there was peace between God and the sacrificer, so that the offering was not made for his own sins.

9:6 — MOSES SAID — Or, in the antitype the Law, God's just and perfect Law, said to Jesus at the time of his consecration and baptism (perhaps when he was considering it in the wilderness): "This is the thing which Jehovah commanded that ye should do." (Jesus had said, "Lo, I come to do thy will O God.")

THE GLORY OF THE LORD SHALL APPEAR — God's glorious character, His wonderful love and wisdom and power will be made manifest to you more clearly and brighter than ever before; and not only to you but to all people (to the children of Israel.)

9:7 — GO UNTO THE ALTAR — The Law said to Jesus—go into the place (or condition) of self-sacrifice, and offer thyself as a sin-offering for thyself (thy household) and for the people (the world) and make an atonement for them. Thus it showed the only possible way the world could be saved and the way which would make manifest God's glorious character.

AND FOR THE PEOPLE — This shows antitypically that our Lord's sacrifice was sufficient to redeem not only the Church but also the whole world. (1 John 2:2) (T79) This was offering his own sacrifice once for all. (T80)

OFFER THE OFFERING OF THE PEOPLE — Showing a further detail of the offering, that it was to be in two parts. Showing that the sacrifice of the Church, while not necessary to redeem the world, was yet a part of our Father's original plan, that Jesus should have a Bride composed of those who had willingly passed through similar experiences as himself, that these should be perfected as spiritual beings through sufferings in the flesh as sin offerings. (Heb. 2:10; Col. 1:24) (T80)

9:8 — WHICH WAS FOR HIMSELF — Instead of, or as a substitute for himself. (T80)

9:9 — POURED OUT THE BLOOD — This blood was not carried into the Most Holy because this offering was a part of the consecration of the priest and not a picture of the atonement work for the world as viewed in Lev. 16. This shows how the bullock must die and the goat must die. But this consecration was closely identified with the atonement work, even as the consecration of Jesus and the Church is very closely identified with the atonement work for the world. (1910 Convention Report, Question 4, Page 156)

10:1 — AND — About a year had passed since the Israelites had left Egypt—a year of training under the direction of the Lord through his servant Moses—a year of special evidence of divine mercy and favor and blessing. (Z. '07-219; R.4030)

In the midst of this rejoicing an incident occurred which caused awe and reverence for the holy things, a disobedience to the minute instructions to the priests brought upon the two eldest sons of Aaron punishment—instant death.

NADAB AND ABIHU — Nadab and Abihu typify classes who lose their standing in the antitypical priesthood, fail to make their calling and election sure, who were originally anointed and accepted as members of the body of the great High Priest, but who lose that glorious position because of failure to follow divine directions. (Z. '07-220; R.4030)

These two priests may possibly represent two different classes in the Church, among those who have made a consecration to the Royal Priesthood and have been accepted, both of which classes fall from the priesthood. One may represent the class who fall into the Second Death (Heb. 6:4-6; 10:26, 27) and the other may represent the class who lose their membership in the Royal Priesthood because of insufficiency of zeal to make their calling and election sure, but who yet are heart loyal to God and will be saved “so as by fire,” through great tribulation. Both men lost their standing by reason of failure to rightly appreciate their privileges. The names of these two sons may be construed in harmony with these suggestions. Nadab means spontaneous (from nadab, to compel, hence to volunteer), self acting. Suggests the class who will go into Second Death because of their self-will, their failure to hold the head. Abihu means He (i.e. God) my father (from ab, Father, and huw, person pronoun he), hence a son of God, the Great Company. Like the Little Flock they are begotten of the Holy Spirit and will be born of the Spirit, sons of God on a spirit plane, though not the divine plane. Both classes fail to sufficiently respect the stipulations of the divine arrangements, both fail to offer the kind of incense the Lord directed—self-sacrifice and praise to Him. The difference is that one class (second death) ignore Christ and his merit on their behalf, counting the blood a common thing and doing despite to the favor brought to them thereby. The other class become the Great Company and escape second death, not because they offered proper incense unto God, but because they do not reject, but maintain their hold on the foundation of their faith—the Ransom sacrifice of Christ on their behalf. (Z. '02-238; R.3054; Z. '07-221; R.4031)

STRANGE FIRE — The expression “strange fire” does not clearly indicate to us whether their wrong doing consisted in their using an incense other than the kind prescribed by the Lord, or whether they used it at a wrong time, or in the wrong place, or whether the fire which enkindled the incense was taken from some other place than the altar, as the Lord had prescribed, or whether their incense was repulsive to the Lord because the offerers were in a state of intoxication, possessed of a wrong spirit. The last seems to be implied in verse 10. (Z. '02-238; R.3054)

10:2 — THERE WENT OUT FIRE — Probably a stroke of lightning.

10:3 — I WILL BE GLORIFIED — It is God’s good determination that His name shall be glorified by those who serve Him and that they themselves shall be thoroughly sanctified. If we fall in line and heartily cooperate, we share the glory and the blessing; but if we go back to sin He will thrust us from the Priesthood. He will have a clean sanctuary class and anyone who will not be clean He will put out of that class. He will be glorified in us, or He will have nothing to do with us. Jehovah will lay bare our lives. Everything hidden shall be revealed in the judgment day (the harvest of the Church.)

AARON HELD HIS PEACE — Aaron was submissive and so we must be; not snarl or kick or growl or complain, but to look from His viewpoint and realize that He is wisest, loving and working for our best interest, and just toward all.

10:6 — BEWAIL THE BURNING WHICH THE LORD HATH KINDLED — Awe stricken and fearful, Aaron and his other sons would have gladly relinquished all further service of the Tabernacle lest they also should similarly suffer death through some transgression of the divine commands. But Moses, the Mediator, the direct representative of God, commanded that they must not do this. He pointed out to them that the holy anointing oil was upon them and that their entire danger lay in deserting, and they were entirely safe so long as they heeded carefully the divine commands. Their death was a divine judgment, and to have bewailed them would have implied a rebellion against their great King who had undoubtedly dealt justly with them. A similar lesson was taught at the beginning of this Gospel Age in Ananias and Sapphira. (Z. '07-220; R.4030)

By disobedience Nadab and Abihu merited the loss of the present life. But in the resurrection morning they will come forth among the great world of mankind, unto a resurrection by judgments. God made use of the circumstances to give a lesson to the people of that time that would hinder them from being careless in the handling of holy things, to the intent that the types and shadows of their dispensation might be handed down to us in their purity. (Z. '07-220; R.4030)

10:10 — THAT YE MAY PUT DIFFERENCE BETWEEN HOLY AND

UNHOLY — The lesson for the Royal Priesthood is in respect to a wrong spirit and unclean condition of mind and heart in approach to the Lord. (1) When we approach the Lord we are not to come to Him under the influence of an evil spirit, intoxicated with the spirit of the world or of Babylon, by whose wine all nations have been made drunken. (Rev. 14:8; 18:3) (2) When we would approach the Lord even in a right spirit we must make sure that we have the proper incense which He has stipulated will be acceptable to Him and whose ingredients represent the perfection of our Lord Jesus reckonedly appropriated to us. (3) Additionally, we must be sure that we do not get fire for our incense from any other quarter than from the altar—consecrated fire or zeal, sanctified by the merit of our Lord's sacrifice. (Z'02-238; R.3054)

13:2 — LEPROSY — In many respects leprosy corresponds to sin: (1) it is incurable; (2) it is loathsome; (3) contagious; (4) destructive; (5) painless, except in last stages. (Z'11-60; R.4769)

OR UNTO ONE OF HIS SONS THE PRIESTS — The work of the Royal Priesthood in the Millennial Age—judgment. Leprosy is here a type of sin.

13:3 — THE PRIEST SHALL LOOK — We now are learning the principles of righteousness. We must be able to detect the slightest error in mankind. The Lord shall determine whether we shall be fit to be of the class who will judge the world. We will teach the world then what we learn now; God's power to cleanse from sin; the cleansing effect of His Holy Spirit of love. No person can read character like Christians, because they study the perfect character of Christ and themselves become imbued with His Spirit, whose very purity instinctively searches out the heart and recognizes quickly the spirit of others.

IN THE SKIN OF THE FLESH — Judge concerning the sin. He shall not judge by the sight of his eyes, nor reprove after the hearing of his ears, but shall judge righteous (perfect) judgment and reprove with equity for the meek of the earth. (Isa. 11:34) "The saints shall judge the world." (1 Cor. 6:2) The judge will have the divine nature and perfect ability to read the heart, not be guided merely by the outward appearance.

DEEPER THAN THE SKIN OF THE FLESH — Having all the signs of leprosy symbolizes that it is of the heart and needs severe treatment, isolation from among the people, cannot enjoy their fellowship and communion, so all sinners.

PRONOUNCE HIM UNCLEAN — We should examine ourselves now to see if there is the smallest sign of leprosy. We must not trust in our own judgment, but put ourselves under examination. We should go to the Lord. “Lord search my heart and see if there be any wicked thing in me.” (Psa. 139:23, 24) Show me where I am wrong and I will remove it with thy help. We must take every means to see if the spot of leprosy is on our heart and not be afraid of knowing the worst. Thus we will win a blessing.

13:4 — NOT DEEPER THAN THE SKIN — Not deeper than the skin would symbolize that it was not of the heart but probably merely due to his inherited Adamic weakness.

14:3 — BE HEALED IN THE LEPER — Leprosy was never cured but cleansed. No cure for leprosy (sin) but they are cleansed representing the sinner’s heart cleansed.

14:4 — CLEAN — Perfect, to be acceptable for sacrifice.

CEDAR WOOD — Representing perfect everlasting human life.

SCARLET — Pointing to the merit of the ransom.

HYSSOP — A purging, cleansing agent for sprinkling.

14:5 — ONE OF THE BIRDS BE KILLED — Representing the ransom and going into death of a perfect being.

IN AN EARTHEN VESSEL — In a human body.

OVER RUNNING WATER — Living water of truth.

14:6 — THE LIVING BIRD IN THE BLOOD OF THE BIRD THAT WAS KILLED — Showing how the human life of the sinner, plunged in the blood (merit of the life sacrificed) of Christ would be cleansed, restored.

14:7 — SEVEN TIMES — Sprinkling of the merit of the ransom for cleansing. Seven signifies completely, until thoroughly clean.

LET THE LIVING BIRD LOOSE — The restored man entering into the glorious liberty of the children of God. The bird is the freest of all creatures.

14:9 — ON THE SEVENTH DAY — He got clean on the seventh day. He was clean, as in verse 7, after the sacrifices were offered (clean through consecration to Christ.) But he was not absolutely clean until the seventh day. He could come into the camp (into the assembly of God’s people), but was not fully reinstated (did not receive his dominion) until the eighth day. This is similar to the course of the world of mankind. Seven days represent a time of preparation.

14:10 — ON THE EIGHTH DAY — On the eighth thousand year day the world will be perfected and clean. The eight symbolized a perfect condition after seven days of purifying. The complete cleansing of the highway of holiness.

14:11 — PRESENT THE MAN — The presenting of the cleansed sinner to God.

AT THE DOOR OF THE TABERNACLE — For consecration, during the Millennial Age.

14:12 — THE LOG OF OIL — Through the operation of the Spirit that the sinner was led to acknowledge his sin and, becoming repentant, overcome.

WAVE THEM — Continual consecration, not to relapse back into old habits.

14:13 — IN THE HOLY PLACE — In the Court, according to the laws of the Millennial Age.

14:14 — TIP OF THE RIGHT EAR — The cleansing of his hearing. He will no longer delight to hear evil, but only to hear good.

THUMB OF HIS RIGHT HAND — The cleansing of his service, that he hereafter will serve righteousness with all his powers.

GREAT TOE OF HIS RIGHT FOOT — Cleansed walk (conduct). He will hereafter walk in the Law of the Lord, in the light of his countenance.

14:16 — HIS RIGHT FINGER — Index finger, pointing out that the spirit of the cleansed sinner, desirous of consecration, is now in full, complete harmony with the Lord's spirit.

14:17 — TIP OF THE RIGHT EAR — The consecration, sanctification of his hearing, that it be under the control of the Holy Spirit.

THUMB OF HIS RIGHT HAND — His service, talents, etc., sanctified to the Lord's use.

GREAT TOE OF HIS RIGHT FOOT — His conduct sanctified.

14:19 — THE SIN OFFERING — The trespass offering of verse 12, as in chapter 5:6, 7.

14:20 — MEAT OFFERING — The meat offering upon the burnt offering and after it — burnt offering (man's duty to God); meal offering (man's duty to man.)

HE SHALL BE CLEAN — Perfect before the Lord.

14:21 — IF HE BE POOR — Too far injured by the fall to offer so good an offering.

16:1 — DAY OF ATONEMENT OFFERING — See Z. '06-22; R.3706; Z. '07-10, 12, 27; R.3917; Z. '09-203; R.4427.

16:2 — INTO THE HOLY PLACE — Most Holy, "within the veil." (T72)

16:6 — AN ATONEMENT FOR HIMSELF AND FOR HIS HOUSE — This signified that the merit of the death of Christ was by God's order and arrangement applied for himself (for the Church, His body—the the Head himself being holy, harmless, undefiled and separate from sinners, had no sin to atone for) and for his house, the household of faith (typified by the Levites, of which house or tribe Aaron was. Ex. 16;16, 18, 20) (Z. '07-11; R.3917)

16:7 — AT THE DOOR OF THE TABERNACLE — The presentation of the two goats before the door of the tabernacle typified the consecration of two classes of Christians. Both make a full consecration—the Little Flock and the Great Company.

16:8 — AARON SHALL CAST LOTS — Showing that God does not arbitrarily determine which of the consecrated shall become partakers of the divine nature and which shall not. That is left for us to determine by our zeal and faithfulness. (Rom. 8:17) (T61) Every justified believer presenting himself is acceptable.

THE SCAPEGOAT — "For Azazel." The significance of the word Azazel is not very clear, but according to the majority of modern scholars it stood for the prince of darkness, and in Milton's "Paradise Lost" Azazel is represented as the standard bearer of the infernal hosts, the prince of devils. We agree with this interpretation because it corresponds well with the expression of the Apostle—who, when referring to one class of the consecrated members of the body of Christ who had not been living up to their privileges declares: (See 1 Cor. 5:3, 5). We understand the Great Company who have consecrated but failed to sacrifice voluntarily will be delivered over to Satan for his buffetings and pass through a great tribulation to effect in them a proper penitence for sin and a proper appreciation for the standard of truth and righteousness. (Z. '07-231; R.4035)

16:12 — BURNING COALS OF FIRE — The fire used in all three of these different places (Golden Altar, vs. 13; brazen altar, vs. 6; camp outside, vs. 27) represented our Lord's dying or death process. The fire was of the same kind in all three pictures—wood fire that burned the animals outside, wood fire that burned the fat in the court, and wood fire, or coals of fire, that burned the incense upon the Golden Altar. The fire outside the camp represented the destructive influences which came upon our Lord and caused his death, as viewed with the world's standpoint, with an odor; the court fire, the same destructive influences as viewed by believers. (Fat does not have a bad odor as it is almost all pure carbon.) (The fat pictures zeal and love which would prompt the sacrifice, more zeal augments flame and burns faster.) These are not the destructive influences which might come against mankind in general—disease, war, etc.—but rather a sacrificial fire or influence, something connected with what was being offered; hence such adverse influences as would be of the Father's appointment and for the very purpose of accomplishing this test or sacrifice—the cup which the Father hath poured. The Jews did not pour that cup, nor the Pharisees, nor Romans, nor people, nor scribes, but the Father. Hence these coals of fire represent those classes of circumstances and conditions which the Father provides for the very purpose of proving the character and loyalty and genuineness of our devotion. The carrying of the coals into the Holy would identify the two altars as expressing to us in type that the spirit of devotion which believers see consuming the sacrifice and which, while in line with righteousness, is not commanded by the divine Law, is the sacrificing principle so acceptable in God's sight. Our Lord thus offered up himself, crumbling the incense on the coals. Thus daily he laid down his life, allowed himself to come in contact with these experiences, which served to destroy his earthly nature and sent forth a sweet fragrance to God. It was not any and every tribulation, but simply those which the Father had provided and were connected with his sacrificial experience. (Z.'10-137; R.4602)

HIS HANDS FULL OF SWEET INCENSE — Picturing Jesus' full capacity and ability of righteousness (God's image in him) required and yielded. Jesus, when he had consecrated himself, immediately as the New Creature, begotten of the Holy Spirit, took the sacrificed human life (blood of the bullock) to present it before God (that is the direction he went) as the ransom price for Adam and his race. He was now no longer in the court condition, but in the first Holy where he must tarry and offer his incense upon the fire of trial. He must demonstrate his loyalty to God and righteousness by the things suffered as a begotten son before entering the Most Holy. (Heb. 5:8) The High Priest took along with him (along with the blood) fire from off the altar and his two hands full of sweet incense to cause the perfume. So Jesus' fulfillment of his consecration vow during the 3-1/2 years of his ministry, was a sweet and acceptable perfume to the Father, attesting at once the completeness of the consecration and the perfection of the sacrifice. Sweet incense beaten small (finely divided and mingled) pictured the perfection of the man Jesus. Fire from off the brazen altar represented the trials to which he was subject. Priest carrying the fire pictured that our Lord must, by his course of faithfulness, bring his persecutions upon himself. And when the perfumings of his being (incense) came in contact with the trials of life (fire) he yielded perfect obedience to the divine will—a sweet perfume. Thus is shown his temptation in all points, yet without sin. As the incense must be all consumed in the fire, so he yielded his all in obedience. Two hands full pictured our Lord's full capacity and ability of righteousness—required and yielded. (T56) The incense from the Golden Altar preceded the priest and was satisfactory. (T58) So we must give full heart obedience, all we can render, which will manifest itself in using our powers (hands) in the Lord's service in harmony with our perfect heart condition, thus allowing ourselves to come in contact with persecutions and trials and thus be developed and consumed.

16:13 — PUT THE INCENSE UPON THE FIRE — Our hands (ability of work) extend over the fire of trial and proof, testing, letting our justified rights and privileges as human beings slip through our fingers.

16:14 — THE BLOOD OF THE BULLOCK — The basis of all this reconciliation was the sacrifice represented by the blood. A certain typical merit was attached to this typical sacrifice. (Z. '10-247; R.4655) For antitype see Rom. 8:1.

16:15 — THAT IS FOR THE PEOPLE — On what account will this blood, this merit represented in the church, be applied? The type shows that, whereas the blood of the bullock was applied only for the tribe of Levi (representing the household of faith), the blood of the goat was applied for all the other 11 tribes of Israel—which typified all mankind who will ever desire to come into harmony with God, all the Israel of God as they shall ultimately be numbered at the close of the Millennial Age. While in the type the sacrifices were offered for one tribe first and then for the other 11, in the antitype we see that this is much larger—that the one tribe represents the believers of the Gospel Age and the 11 others represent the world of mankind in general, at the head of which will be natural Israel, the first to share in the benefits of the New Covenant. (Z. '07-12; R.3918)

AS HE DID WITH THE BLOOD OF THE BULLOCK — The fact that the High Priest slew the goat as he slew the bullock shows that it is not alone our consecration to the Lord that is necessary; that was represented in the fact that the goat stood (was tethered at the door of the tabernacle). The fact that the High Priest killed the goat illustrates that it is the power of the Lord operating in us as members of his body, working in us to will and do of his good pleasure that enables us to accomplish our sacrifice. He, by his spirit in us, assists us to perform the great transaction we have undertaken. (Z. '07-12; R.3918)

16:17 — NO MAN — No natural men, only New Creatures in Christ. (T75)

This, for the bullock, was fulfilled, when Jesus, at the first advent, trod this way alone. “Of the people there were none with me.” There was no one, not even of his body members in the Holy when Jesus went into the Most Holy (heaven). And, at the second advent, for the goat, when Jesus presents the blood of the goat, there will be no man in the Holy for the church will be all with Jesus in heaven and the Great Company will be in the court.

IN THE TABERNACLE OF THE CONGREGATION — Holy.

16:20 — WHEN HE HATH MADE AN END — Typifying that when the “better sacrifices” are finished and the church “made ready,” then the Great Company will be sent into the great tribulation. See T68.

OF RECONCILING — Covering, Hebrew kophar.

THE HOLY PLACE — Most Holy. (T13)

TABERNACLE OF THE CONGREGATION — Holy.

THE ALTAR — The brazen altar in the court.

THE LIVE GOAT — This represents a consecrated class because it, as well as the Lord’s goat, was tethered at the door of the Holy (devoted to sacrifice.) It represents a class, however, that does not go to sacrifice (is not slain); that does not go without the camp to bear the reproach of Christ (is not burned without the camp as was the bullock—Heb. 13:11-13); whose fat does not go upon the altar (who are not partakers of his sufferings and not consumed by zeal in God’s service.) (Z. ’05-234; R.3606)

It was not part of the “sin-offerings” for its blood was not taken into the “Most Holy,” but was after the sin offerings. The special work with the scape goat will not occur till the Little Flock has passed beyond the veil. This class, though consecrated to sacrifice, failed to carry it out (to follow the example of the bullock), to keep their covenant. But it does not represent those who draw back unto perdition, return as a sow to her wallowing in the mire of sin. (Heb. 10:39; 2 Pet. 2:22) They seek to avoid sin, to live morally, to honor the Lord, yet also seek to have the honor and favor of the world and are thus held back from performing their sacrifice of earthly rights in the service of the Lord and his cause. (T68, 69) Some may think that because the Scape Goat never went into the Holy that it cannot represent the Great Company class. But the bullock and the Lord’s goat did not go into the Holy, it was only their blood that did and the blood of the scape goat did not. All three were alike brought to the door of the tabernacle. The point to be noticed is that the Lord's goat followed the bullock to sacrifice while the scape goat did not, and so its blood was not brought within the Most Holy. (Z.'05-234; R.3606)

The Little Flock (Lord's goat) manifest more zeal, more of the spirit of the head in their faithfulness to lay down their lives in the service of the Lord, the truth and the brethren. (Z'10-230; R.4648)

16:21 — AARON SHALL LAY BOTH HIS HANDS — The laying on of both hands indicated that this goat was to be the substitute of the children of Israel, to bear the penalty of certain sins in their stead—a scape-goat.

ALL THEIR TRANSGRESSIONS IN ALL THEIR SINS — These are certainly not the sins atoned for by the bullock and the goat (Lord's). But these are other sins for which atonement is not made, which are not to be forgiven, but on account of which divine wrath has been more or less manifest throughout the past 6,000 years and will especially manifest in the great time of trouble such as was not since there was a nation, nor ever shall be again. It is spoken of as the pouring out of the vials of wrath upon the world because men have not lived up to their knowledge and opportunities and privileges. It will come as a natural effect from natural causes and yet will be retributive punishment upon the world. In this we understand the Great Company will be given a share (special.) (Z.'05-234; R.3606)

There is a measure of sin which could not properly be considered as a result from Adamic weakness (for which the bullock and goat atone) and for which there is a measure of responsibility. (Z.'10-235; R.4652) Wilful sin, specially the sins of murdering the Lord's prophets and saints. (Psa. 116:15; Jer. 51:49; Rev. 18:24; 6:9, 10; Matt. 23:35)

FIT MAN — Any convenient instrumentality, unfavorable circumstances. (T68, 70)

16:22 — A LAND NOT INHABITED — Margin, a land of separation. These are sent into the wilderness of separation from the world, forced thither by the "man of opportunity" (unfavorable circumstances), there to be buffeted by adversity until they learn the vanity, deceitfulness and utter worthlessness of the world's approval, and until all human hopes and ambitions die and they are ready to say, "God's will, not mine, be done." The world is ever ready to cast out and scorn the chastened and afflicted, even though its deceiving smile and empty honors be earnestly coveted by them. The body of the scape-goat was not burned in the wilderness (only the sin-offerings were thus burned, see note on Lev. 8:17). The burning of the sin offering represents the steady continuous submission of Jesus and the Church to the fiery ordeal of suffering—faithful (willing sacrifices) unto death. Both classes suffer until the death of the human will and body, but those of the first class die willingly, consumed by the continual crucifying of the flesh (the fire burned continually until there was nothing more to consume.) The Great Company are sent into the wilderness and left there to die unwillingly. Their love of the world's approval perishes with the world's neglect and scorn and reproach, and their new spiritual nature meantime ripens into life. The "Lord's goat" class lays down the human nature willingly, by the Lord's spirit and help, sacrificially, voluntarily. The scape-goat class has its flesh destroyed under divine providence, that the spirit may be saved. (1 Cor. 5:5; 1 Tim. 1:20) There has always been a class who yield self-will to death only by compulsion and instead of willingly sacrificing suffer a destruction of the flesh. (T71) But since this laying down of life will be compulsory, in a sense, it is not reckoned as being a sacrifice, but a "destruction of the flesh." (Z. '04-127; R.3356)

This will be the delivering over of the unworthy members of the church to the power and control of the Adversary, that their flesh might be destroyed that their spirit (or lives) may be saved (New Creature) in the day of the Lord Jesus. (Z. '05-234; R.3606; Z. '10-244; R.4654)

The Great Company must die, because it was their covenant that they do so and on this condition they received the begetting of the Holy Spirit. Hence if God will complete this work of grace in them by giving them a spirit nature, the death of the flesh must take place. There is no alternative, no escape from it, and since they have failed to carry out the sacrifice in the full sense, failed to go forward with the zeal and alacrity that is required of such as would be footstep followers of Jesus, they are dissociated from the Little Flock class. But instead of being cast into the second death, they are allowed to complete their death. And since their death is not applied, as is the death of the members of the body of Christ (in a sacrificial sense, as originally proposed) the arrangement seems to be that these will go into death in a kind of substitutionary way, as an offset to some of the trespasses of those who did violence to some of the members of the body of Christ. And thus the accounts of justice will be in part squared by these, and to a certain extent, therefore, there will be a corresponding release granted, we may say, to those who have committed murder in the past. (Z. '10-235; R.4652)

16:23 — THE TABERNACLE OF THE CONGREGATION — Holy.

HOLY PLACE — Most Holy. (See vss. 2, 3) (T72)

LEAVE THEM THERE — This may typify that the "change" of the Royal Priesthood will be made unseen and unknown by the world. The last they will see will be the going in of the priests after the sacrificial work of the present time, Gospel Age; and the first they will see in the new dispensation will be the appearance of the great priest in glory and beauty, “glorious garments,” although not with the natural eye. Now, though our head has passed beyond the veil, yet he is still doing a sacrificial work, sacrificing the goat, his body, his flesh, so he is still, so to speak, in the linen garments of sacrifice. (Z. '10-136; R.4602)

16:24 — WASH HIS FLESH WITH WATER — Though the white garments (imputed righteousness of the body) are now removed, it does not signify the reimputation of sin, but the completion of the cleansing, making the body perfect in resurrection completeness. Further, that the sins of the people for which atonement has been made do not attach to, or contaminate, the purity of the priest. (T74)

16:26 — HE THAT LET GO THE GOAT — (T75)

16:29 — YE SHALL AFFLICT YOUR SOULS — They were thus symbolically represented as being in great distress through sin and divine condemnation until the close of this day. (Z. '10-247; R.4655)

16:30 — MAKE AN ATONEMENT FOR YOU — This atonement day work of the priests was the yearly repetition of the institution of the Law Covenant and was necessary to maintain their cleansing and covenant relationship with God. (Z. '10-247; R.4655)

THAT YE MAY BE CLEAN FROM ALL YOUR SINS — This repetition of the institution of the Law Covenant year by year by the Priests produced a cleansing effect in the sense that, as a nation, they were reckoned clean, as being justified for that year which began with the Day of Atonement and would last 360 days, or until the following Day of Atonement. (vs. 34) (Z. '10-247; R.4655)

BEFORE THE LORD — This was not a faith cleansing, but an actual condition of things. God treated them as a people from that standpoint and they had favors which they would not have had they been Gentiles. All these blessings they had by virtue of their covenant relationship to God. (Z. '10-248; R.4656)

16:33 — THE HOLY SANCTUARY — Most Holy.

THE TABERNACLE OF THE CONGREGATION — Holy.

THE ALTAR — The brazen altar in the court. (T13)

16:34 — ONCE A YEAR — But all the while this was observed the people realized that they were not actually cleansed from sin, that there was merely a covering of their sins for the year and that this was the reason why, when the year was passed, it was necessary for them to recognize again their defilement individually and collectively and to make use afresh of the provisions for cleansing for sin. (See Heb. 9:9, 13; 10:1-4) This repetition was necessary to maintain the cleansing and their covenant relationship with God. (Z.'10-247; R.4655)

17:4 — BRINGETH IT NOT UNTO THE DOOR OF THE TABERNACLE

— See Isa. 65:3 and notes. The brazen altar in the court was the only place where sacrifice would be acceptable to God. Bringing them to any other place would be despising God's arrangements and preferring their own devices which would bring them only death. Such a one would be held guilty of taking a life. This would keep the Israelites pure from contamination with the heathen practices around them, and thus be led away from Jehovah. These heathens (people of the land) sacrificed in gardens which they built for their gods. (1 Kings 14:23; 2 Kings 12:3; 23:6, 14; 2 Chron. 33:1-3; 34:3. See also Lev. 18:24-28; Deut. 18:9-14; 12:29-31; 9:4-6) God's church is the true garden. Her condition is represented in the tabernacle, and the condition of the heathen is represented by these outside gardens. The brazen altar represents Christ's ransom sacrifice. The Church's offerings are acceptable when offered upon him as our altar. (Heb. 13:10) This is in accord with God's one arrangement of justification through Christ. To despise that and prefer man's denominational sacrifices is an insult to God, and if a Christian should thus trample under foot knowingly God's arrangements through Christ, it would mean for him the second death. (Heb. 10:28, 29) See Deut. 7:2, 5, 6, 11, 13-15. See also Ex. 20:24, 25. There is no other way to approach God save through Christ. Any who sacrifice on a basis of works will be disappointed. (Matt. 7:21-23)

18:4 — I AM THE LORD — In these texts (vss. 4 and 5) "am" is supplied by the translators, it is not in the Hebrew text. So it is simply a signature. When we see anything signed thus, we may be very sure it is important and means exactly what it says. This is the statement of the covenant.

18:5 — HE SHALL LIVE IN THEM — The promise of life through the Law. See Job 33 and marginal texts— Ezek. 20:11, 13, 21; Luke 10:23, Rom. 10:5; Gal. 3:12.

18:24 — IN ALL THESE THE NATIONS ARE DEFILED — Israel was raised up and sent into the land to cleanse a plague spot, which was blasting the whole world by its influence. Jehovah is a man of war against every thing that blasts and blights humanity. When humanity will not listen to the gentle wooing of his love, then with the skill of the surgeon, he cuts out the cancer. He sent Israel into Canaan to cut out the cancer and free the region from the degraded, depraved people whose abominations are revealed in the clay tablets we are finding today. (Morgan)

21:20 — A BLEMISH IN HIS EYE — See Berean Comments. Lacking clearness of vision respecting spiritual things. Cannot see to rightly divide the word of truth. The priest must be able to do so.

21:21 — A BLEMISH — Typifying moral and physical disabilities, or intellectual ones, amongst the antitypical which would hinder them from serving publicly.

21:22 — HE SHALL EAT OF THE BREAD OF HIS GOD — In the antitype, those deformities which would hinder from public service need not hinder from spiritual growth and his recognition as possessing full rights with all others at the Lord's table. (F243)

21:23 — UNTO THE ALTAR — Golden Altar, the brazen altar is mentioned in verse 21. The sanctuary class serve at both altars. Also one who does not render perfect heart obedience cannot offer acceptable service. Such are the Great Company. (Ezek. 44:7-16)

PROFANE MY SANCTUARIES — As in verse 21, cannot do public service.

DO SANCTIFY THEM — The sanctuaries.

22:3 — HAVING HIS UNCLEANNESS UPON HIM — Not having been cleansed according to the Law. Antitypically, those not cleansed by Jesus' blood (or merit) in God's way, cannot see spiritual things. One of the priest class who attempt to serve in the holy things having taken off the wedding garment and not recognizing Jesus' merit.

SHALL BE CUT OFF FROM MY PRESENCE — Shall be utterly destroyed—second death. (Heb. 10:28-31)

23:2 — CONCERNING THE FEASTS — See Ex. 34:18-26; Deut. 16:1-18; Ex. 23:14-17.

CONVOCATIONS — Conventions.

23:4 — THESE ARE THE FEASTS — These were "feasts of the Lord," of his arrangement and to recognize his blessing and thank him.

23:6 — ON THE FIFTEENTH DAY — Just before the Feast of the Tabernacles. (Six months before.)

FEAST OF UNLEAVENED BREAD — Representing the liberty and rejoicing that came to all the Lord's people (the firstborns) passed over now through faith in Jesus' blood. (1 Cor. 5:7, 8)

23:10 — A SHEAF OF THE FIRSTFRUITS — This was the time of the year when the first of the barley was ripening and it was a test of faith and obedience to the Jew, with his avaricious nature, to leave his ripening grain all standing for a week and come to Jerusalem or wherever the Tabernacle was, when they would like to stay at home. As they went to the meeting place they gathered, plucked, an ear or two of the first ripe grain (“first of the firstfruits” Ex. 34:26) and these were given to the priest, and out of these the priest waved a handful.

OF YOUR HARVEST — The wheat and barley harvest. Jesus was the “corn” of wheat that died.

23:11 — WAVE THE SHEAF BEFORE THE LORD — Acknowledging that the Lord had the rights of the harvest and that it came from him.

ON THE MORROW AFTER THE SABBATH — On the third day, typifying our Lord’s resurrection as the first fruit, the “first of the first fruits,” to God from the dead, of his creatures. (Ex. 34:26; 1 Cor. 15:20) Jesus was resurrected on this very day. This was the 16th of Nisan, as the Lamb was slain on the 14th. The Sabbath was the only day in which Jesus was the full twenty-four hours in the tomb.

23:12 — AN HE LAMB WITHOUT BLEMISH OF THE FIRST YEAR — As the Passover lamb was. (Ex. 12:5)

A BURNT OFFERING — A burnt offering was offered here, an offering of acceptance, showing that Jesus fulfilled man’s duty to God and shows that the offering was in harmony with God, acceptable.

23:13 — THE MEAT OFFERING — Jesus fulfilled man’s duty to man.

MINGLED WITH OIL — Representing the indwelling of the Holy Spirit.

DRINK OFFERING — Jesus is the giver of the water of life. (Z. ’99-55; R.2438)

23:14 — UNTIL THE SELFSAME DAY — The first pluckings (the first of the first fruits) were for the Lord. He wished his people ever to be mindful of the fact that all their harvest and blessings were from him; and also it would indicate that the first fruit of the human race was to be God’s own.

23:15 — SEVEN SABBATHS SHALL BE COMPLETE — During this time the Jews hastened home and reaped and stored their wheat and barley harvest and ground some of it. So they had to be busy.

23:16 — FIFTY DAYS — The Jubilee day, Pentecost.

A NEW MEAT OFFERING — Different from any of their previous meat offerings, new, special. Typifying the new Creation, differing totally from anything hitherto attempted.

23:17 — TWO WAVE LOAVES — These two loaves represented the two classes gathered out during the Gospel Age, the Little Flock and the Great Company, because they are the first-fruits unto the Lord.

TWO TENTH DEALS — As an ephah is 3.2 pecks, or 25.6 quarts; two tenth deals (two omers) is 5.12 quarts, a good sized cake.

OF FINE FLOUR — Flour represents God's word, the nourishment of the household of faith.

BAKEN — Baked by fire, tribulation, distress. In common bread leaven is an impurity and when it begins to work it will continue until the dough sours and is putrid unless the process is stopped. This is done by baking it in an oven and thus destroying the ferment, impurity and bringing it to a stop. So the Lord, in the antitype, is purging these two classes by fiery trials, one being eager and willing and so is more easily changed, the other being unwilling and so has to go through great tribulation. (Rev. 7; Mal. 4:1)

WITH LEAVEN — A type of sin, error, false doctrine (Matt. 16:6), showing that this class will not be absolutely perfect, but will have more or less sin in them, imperfection, blemish.

THEY ARE THE FIRSTFRUITS — We (the Church) are a kind of firstfruits unto God of his creatures. (Jas. 1:18) This was an acknowledgment to Jehovah for the harvest.

23:19 — ONE KID OF THE GOATS FOR A SIN OFFERING — A goat of the sin offering offered before the burnt offerings. There was no sin offering at the waving of the sheaf, because that typified Jesus, and as these wave loaves represented the church, they needed a sin offering, for they are sinful while Jesus was not, just as the leaven shows. As both of these feasts (Passover and Pentecost) were firstfruits feasts, they represent Jesus and the Church, while the third feast represented the world's blessing.

23:20 — THE PRIEST SHALL WAVE THEM — The two lambs of the peace offering, representing the continual communion between God and the High Priest and the church. All are pleasing to God, the priest and the offerer. The waving of the loaves represented the service of the church and their attitude must be one of continual readiness for service, until death. Their consecration is not for an hour or day or year, but for eternity. They are God's forever. The peace offering has the thought of prayer, praise, and thanksgiving.

A WAVE OFFERING BEFORE THE LORD — Jesus waved the church before the Lord (presented it as the he goat (heaved it) and thus waved it.) There was actually leaven, sin, in the church.

23:27 — SEVENTH MONTH — The seventh month and the first month were very important.

23:34 — ON THE FIFTEENTH DAY OF THIS SEVENTH MONTH —

Edersheim says: “In Jerusalem booths were erected everywhere, in courts and on housetops, in the street and on the square. These were made of branches of trees: palms, sycamores, olives, pines, willows, etc. Nobody was living at home, everybody in these booths, all the people from the city and crowds from the country. All distinctions of rank, all separation between rich and poor, were for a while forgotten, as each one dwelt in as good a dwelling as his neighbor.

Each morning (in Jesus’ Day) a joyous procession went down to the pool of Siloam and drew water in a golden pitcher, from which it was poured out upon the altar amid Hallelujahs. At night four golden candelabra, each with four golden bowls for light, were in the center of the court. Around these lights pious men danced before the people with lighted flambeaux in their hands, singing hymns and songs of praise, while the Levites who were stationed on the fifteen steps of the Temple, which led into the woman’s court of the Temple, and which corresponded to the fifteen songs of degrees, i.e., steps (Psa. 120-134), accompanied the songs with instrumental music.

The Temple illumination was symbolic of the light which was to shine out from the temple into the dark night of heathendom. Then, at the first dawn of the morn, the blasts of the priest’s silver trumpets, of the army of God, as it advanced with festive trumpet sound and call, to awaken the sleepers to utter solemn protests against heathendom.” (Z. ’05-55; R.3509)

It is supposed that on the last evening of the festival, when the splendid light of this grand illumination was to cease, Christ called attention to himself. (John 8:12) “I am the light of the world” (see John 7:37-39) which is to shine forever and illuminate not only the Temple and the Holy City, but all the world—the “sun of righteousness.” (Z. ’05-55; R.3509)

FEAST OF TABERNACLES — As the feast of Passover (with its first of firstfruits offered as a handful (sheaf) was for the firstborn, the firstfruits; and also the feast of weeks (the ripened and ground firstfruits) were for the firstborn, thus representing that the first blessing from Christ’s merit, the first application of his blood, will be upon the church. So the last feast, the feast of tabernacles and ingathering (Ex. 33:16; 34::22) will be like the final application of the blood for the world of mankind. God will send out the church to gather in all the world. (Isa.66:19-21)

23:39 — GATHERED IN THE FRUIT OF THE LAND — Representing the final gathering in of the after-fruits, the world of mankind, and the great rejoicing of this week typifies the boundless rejoicing when all the earth is freed from sin.

23:40 — YE SHALL REJOICE BEFORE THE LORD YOUR GOD SEVEN DAYS — So the Lord will tabernacle with men. (Rev. 21:3) His dwelling place, the church (Psa. 132:13, 14) will be with men to bless and uplift them. See verse 43.

24:2 — PURE OIL OLIVE — Typical of the Holy Spirit. This Spirit or disposition of God is the enlightenment of the world through Christ. “God is light.”

BEATEN — Purified and made clean, showing how God’s spirit in us is perfected through trial and suffering, not because His Spirit is faulty, but because it is being brought more and more into control of our lives, and the old nature resists and has to be killed that the spiritual creature may be developed. The suffering is caused by the presence of sin in us and the world. With Jesus it was sin in the world, for he had none.

BURN CONTINUALLY — That is, every night without fail. They were trimmed every morning and lighted every evening.

24:3 — THE VAIL OF TESTIMONY — The second vail.

THE TABERNACLE OF THE CONGREGATION — The Holy.

SHALL AARON ORDER IT — Keep them in order. See notes on Ex. 25; 30; 37. (Ex. 30: 7, 8; Lev. 24:3; 2 Chron. 13:11)

24:5 — FINE FLOUR — Well ground, small, carefully, not carelessly, the best. The Lord’s word is “the finest of the wheat,” the fat of it. (Psa. 147:14)

TWELVE CAKES — The shew bread had various names. Bread (in Hebrew) is from lechem:

- (1) “Lechem marketh,” bread set in array. (1 Chron. 9:32; 23:29; 2 Chron. 2:4; 13:11; 29:18; Neh. 10:33)
- (2) “Lechem Panim,” bread of the faces (or presence). (Ex. 25:30; 35:13; 39:36; 1 Sam 21:6; 1 Kings 7:48; 2 Chron 4:19)

(3) “Panim,” faces (presence.) (Num. 4:7)

@OUTDENT = (4) (In Greek) “arotoites protheseos,” bread (loaves) of presence. (Matt. 12:4; Mark 2:26; Luke 6:4)

(5) “Prothesis ton arton,” setting forth of loaves. (Heb. 9:2)

TWO TENTH DEALS — Two omers (Ex. 16:36), two-tenths of a ephah, a good meal. (Lev. 5:11; 6:20; Num. 5:15)

24:6 — IN TWO ROWS — Representing the Old and New Testaments, the spiritual food of the New Creatures.

SIX ON A ROW — May possibly represent the truth concerning each of the six thousand year days. The seventh day truths (concerning the Millennium) are not so noticeable and were long lost sight of. But the influence of the hopes centered there has had a sweetening effect on all the other truths and brought us joy and peace and caused us to thank our Father and praise Him. The events of that seventh thousand year day will cause praise to spring up before all nations unto Jehovah and Christ. Hence the truths of that day are like frankincense.

24:7 — PURE FRANKINCENSE — The frankincense layer represented the truth pertaining to the seventh thousand year period, the kingdom. The world will not use the Bible then as we do, for food; they will have the specially prepared food for that age. (Notes on Josh. 1:11; 5:12) The grand crowning truth, the glory of the divine nature for the church and restitution for the world.

AN OFFERING MADE BY FIRE — The frankincense was burnt on the Golden Altar (?) when the bread was taken off. This was for a memorial. When the frankincense burnt it went up in smoke (memory, Rev. 8:3, 4).

This would typify the sweet perfumed cleansing (for it was a disinfectant) effect upon us of the proper digesting of the word of life, its deep things, impelling us to praise and thankfulness. Our spiritual food is seasoned with prayer and praise. And this effect, the emission of perfume, is accomplished through fire—our trials. When we are thus strengthened by God’s word, they produce in us the fragrant fruits of the spirit, a sweet savor unto God.

24:8 — SET IT IN ORDER BEFORE THE LORD CONTINUALLY — Seems to represent that the food would be supplied in fresh abundance at the beginning and end of the ages. (1 Cor. 10:11) We, during the Gospel Age, feed on the bread supplied at its beginning, this the Lord’s table. (Phil. 2:16)

The Lord is now in process of getting ready the food for the next setting, and we are now eating that which is being taken off in the harvest. (Luke 22:30; 12:36, 37; Joel 2:23-27; Rev. 3:20; Isa. 65:13, 14)

24:9 — THEY SHALL EAT IT — See note on Lev. 21:21, 22. John. 6:32, 35.

IN THE HOLY PLACE — The court. Only the priests could eat of this. (Matt. 12:4)

25:39 — BE SOLD UNTO THEE — This might seem to be like slavery, but note the difference. (vss. 39, 40) Such an indebtedness, as God's dealings with Israel were typical, would represent how the whole world was sold under sin and obliged to pay the wages of sin—death. The law of redemption (vss. 48, 49) and the Day of Atonement and the Jubilee, together typifying how, through Jesus' ransom price and the work of Atonement, the race will be set free in the year of Jubilee from all debt and will come back to their former inheritance. (Z. '04-282; R.3430)

NUMBERS

2:2 — SHALL PITCH ABOUT HIS OWN STANDARD — The camp typified partly what is now a fact and partly a condition that will obtain during the Millennial Age. At that time many of the world of mankind will desire to be in accord with God—that is, in their hearts they will prefer to be right rather than wrong; in accord rather than out of accord.

This picture of the camp, we understand, represents all who will ultimately come into accord, all who will ultimately wish for righteousness and desire to do God's will. The "camp" condition of the present time, however, we could not think would represent the world in the broad sense, but rather the worldly church. It would represent those who, with more or less desire, wish to be in accord with God and profess His name, but who through ignorance or superstition or love of the world are not in the proper attitude of heart to receive the deep things of God, the spiritual things, at the time when this spiritual work, the work of atonement, is carried on. We do not understand that these were begotten of the Spirit. They are merely moral or outward Christians—the Christian world—Christendom. These, we understand, are now represented in the camp condition. In our Lord's day the camp condition did not represent Christendom, but the Jewish nation. It did not include the Gentiles at all (the world in that sense of the word) but merely the Jewish nation which typically represented all those who will desire to come into accord with God.

In his day, our Lord did not go outside to the Gentile, and in speaking of the world, he did not mean the heathen. When he said, "Marvel not if the world hate you, it hated me before it hated you," he was speaking of the world from the standpoint of Natural Israel. The heathen were not taken into account, not having sufficient knowledge to determine whether they would or would not be God's people. (See note on Heb. 13:13) (Z. '10-150; R. 4607)

FAR OFF ABOUT THE TABERNACLE — In aftertimes the precept of Exodus 16:29 was undoubtedly viewed as a permanent Law. But as some departure from a man's own place was unavoidable, it was thought necessary to determine the allowable amount, which was fixed at 2,000 paces, or about six furlongs from the wall of the city. The permitted distance seems to have been grounded on the space to be kept between the ark and the people (Josh. 3:4) in the wilderness, which tradition says was the same as the ark and the tents. We find the same distance given as the circumference outside the walls of the Levitical cities to be counted as their suburbs. (S.B.D.) (Num. 35:5—here given as cubits)

3:13 — ALL THE FIRSTBORN ARE MINE — Hence the firstborn typically died to their earthly inheritance then. Their portion is in the Lord. They typically died in the Passover Lamb.

3:17 — THESE WERE THE SONS OF LEVI —

Verse	Name	Number
22	Gershon	7,500
28	Kohath	8,600
34	Merari	6,200
	Total	22,300
38		22,000
43	Israel	22,273
46		273
50	273 x 5	1,365 shekels
30 to 50 Years Old
36	Kohath	2,750
40	Gershon	2,630
44	Merari	3,200
48	Total	8,580

Kohath's company of men who burned incense equalled 250. (Num. 16:17, 36)

3:23 — SHALL PITCH BEHIND THE TABERNACLE — The perfect human brain is similarly ordered. If we imagine the human skull as spread out flat, we would find that the central part would correspond to the Tabernacle and its Court, for in the very center of the head, on top, lies spirituality, and directly in front of it lies veneration. The latter would correspond to the court and the former to the Holy. As to enter the Holy it was necessary to pass through the Court, so to enter into a proper heart appreciation of spiritual things it is necessary that we enter in through veneration, reverence for God which will lead us to worship Him and see to know and do His will.

Surrounding these two central organs are others which correspond well to the different divisions of the tribe of Levi—the sacred tribe devoted to God in the service of God in the Court and Tabernacle. These organs represent faith, hope, benevolence, conscientiousness, firmness, etc. Then, outside these again, come the various organs of the mind which have to do more particularly with earthly things. These are useful and valuable in themselves, but needed to be controlled and guided from the center even, as in the camp of Israel, the center, the Tabernacle, was not controlled by the tribe, but they were controlled and guided by it. Thus all talents and qualities of mind and body which we possess, and all of which are represented in our brain, are all to be subject to and guided by our reverence for God and our spiritual perception of His will for us, which is to be expressed primarily through the intermediary organs of faith, love, conscience, etc.

Thus is shown the philosophy of conversion. The natural man, without God and without hope in the world, is like the Israelites as a Jewish horde in Egypt, disordered, slaves to sin, laboring under taskmasters and knowing not how to escape. The first step toward order is the hearing the word of the Lord directing our course to the promised land, out of bondage. This implies the recognition of Moses, the leader whom God had appointed and obedience to him in fleeing away from sin.

A time must elapse, whether a moment or a year, in which the enslaved one realized his liberty accomplished by God through the hands of the great antitypical Moses and thus be brought finally to a hearing of the Law, to a realization that, even though his past were all forgiven, he would be unable to keep the divine Law because of the weaknesses of his own flesh. To this point the divine arrangement is indicated, that to all those who consecrate themselves to the Lord a begetting of the Spirit will be granted and they will be led into favors and blessings of the Lord hitherto unknown. This is conversion—the acceptance of the Lord and His will in all of life's affairs, the full consecration of heart and life, time and talents, to the Lord, and the recognition of Christ as our head or High Priest, our advocate or assistant in all these matters.

The transformation which thus takes place corresponds to the setting in order of the tribes in relationship to the Tabernacle. It was recognized as the center of the camp and each tribe had its own place in relationship to it. There was no longer any confusion as to one tribe choosing this or that location. Henceforth, each tribe had its own position, its own responsibility and relationship to the Tabernacle.

So with the converted heart and head. Previously, sometimes selfishness would act as the center and be in control, sometimes conscience, or acquisitiveness, or hope, or fear, would occupy the center, around which the various organs would group themselves. But now, as soon as the heart is given to the Lord, his organization and arrangement is recognized, and the various powers of mind and body are fixed in relationship to the central ones, which henceforth become the dominant ones and hold the authority. To the truly converted, consecrated Christian, the center from which will proceed all the arrangements of life, must be spirituality, which corresponds to the holies of the Tabernacle.

This implies veneration for God. Henceforth the various organs must all look to this common center for direction. Acquisitiveness might say how wealth might be acquired, but has not authority to move until first the message is received from spirituality and veneration. And this authority must be passed on through the first circle, represented by the Levites. Benevolence will have a word to say, and so will conscience and faith and hope, as to whether or not acquisitiveness may take possession. And love, faith, hope, conscience, will all surely inquire of the Lord, through veneration and spirituality, as to what is the will of the Lord on the subject before giving permission to acquisitiveness to act as proposed. Combativeness used to be a central organ commanding the others, but is now relegated to its proper place on the outside. It cannot act until authority is granted, and that can come only through faith, love, hope, conscience, and these must inquire of veneration and spirituality as to whether or not for combativeness to take the field and what and how much it may do in any event. If the cause be good, permission will be granted, and if evil, permission will be refused, and the organ of firmness will see to it that the orders of the central court are carried out by all the outlying members. If combativeness is aroused and wishes to cooperate with selfishness or acquisitiveness, the answer from the central court will be No! Combativeness must never be exercised selfishly. But if combativeness be aroused in cooperation with conscience for a defense of the faith once delivered to the saints, the answer will be Yes! Contend earnestly for the faith once delivered to the saints. Nevertheless, love cooperating with caution will be detailed to see to it that combativeness shall not, even in defense of the faith, take a harsh and aggressive form of action, but shall be supervised by love.

No wonder worldly people will be astonished to find so radical a change of character and life on the part of some of the consecrated, through a full consecration of their hearts to Him—some whose minds have been transformed by a renewing of their wills—the placing of all the qualities of heart and mind in the control of the Lord. We sometimes speak of conversion as though it worked a miracle, because its operations worked so wonderful a change in our hearts and lives by bringing them under the new management, the control of the Lord's Spirit, the spirit of a sound mind. See notes on Prov. 25:28; 1 John 3:6-9. (Z. '07-216; R.4028)

Thus the new will, ordained of God, and instructed of Him from His Word, may, as the priest in each of us, have intercourse with the Father in the merit of the great atonement sacrifice. And this new will, consecrated, set apart, anointed, may bring out the wise decision of God in respect to all the other organs of the body and may or may not cooperate with the others, and which should be restrained and when, and which should be cultivated and how, that the whole body may be full of light, full of order, full of blessings, and that, as God's people, we may go onward from grace to grace, knowledge to knowledge, strength to strength, and be prepared for the everlasting conditions beyond Jordan, in the heavenly city. (Z. '07-218; R.4030)

During the Millennial Age, all who desire to become true Israelites will find a place in the divine plan. (Deut. 32:8; Acts 17:26) The Royal Priesthood first, yea, at the very gate of God's favor, even as the priests encamped in the very front of the gateway into the Tabernacle Courts, and next to these will come the Great Company, as represented by the Levites in general; and, in due course, all the families of the earth will come into harmonious order, all looking to God, all seeking God's favor, to walk in His light, and ultimately there will be no sighing or crying or dying, because all lovers of sin will be destroyed in the second death, and all others will be in full harmony with God through the ministrations of the priesthood. (Z. '07-219; R.4030)

6:2 — SEPARATE — “Separation” in this chapter is the Hebrew word “nezer” (from nazar, a prim. root meaning to hold aloof, i.e. (intrans.) abstain (from food, drink, or impurity and even from divine worship (i.e. apostasize); spec. to set apart (to sacred purpose), i.e., devote. Translated “consecrate” in Num. 6:12 only; separate) prop. something set apart, i.e., dedication, hence, unshorn locks; also, (by impl.) a chaplet. Translated “consecration” in Num. 6:7,9; and separation.) (Strong's Conc.) Translated “crown” in Ex. 29:6; 39:30; Lev. 8:9; 21:12; 2 Sam. 1:10; 2 Kings 11:12; 2 Chron. 23:11; Psa. 89:39; 132:18; Prov. 27:24; Zech. 9:16. See Hos. 9:10; Lev. 15:31; 22:2; Ezek. 14:7; Zech. 7:3 where it is translated “separation” and “separate.”

8:6 — TAKE THE LEVITES — The Levites were chosen because of their faithfulness to the Lord. (Mal. 2:4-6; Ex. 32:26)

8:10 — BRING THE LEVITES BEFORE THE LORD — As the Levites were chosen instead of all the firstborn of Israel, and were given no inheritance in the land, this shows that the firstborn died to their earthly inheritance on the Passover night. They died in the Passover lamb, typifying how all the firstborn die to all their earthly rights when they come into Christ through consecration and begetting of the Spirit. Likewise, Isaac died to his earthly rights typically when he was offered on the altar. God did not take these rights away from the Church. They were freely offered and God gives them a better inheritance. “I am thine inheritance.” (Num. 18:20; Deut. 18:9) See Num. 18 and 3:44-51.

PUT THEIR HANDS UPON THE LEVITES — Showing that the Levites represented the firstborn of Israel, as in vs. 11, and took the place of the firstborn.

8:11 — OFFER THE LEVITES — Note the margin, “wave,” a continuous presentation. The Levites were to continually take the place of the firstborn of Israel.

8:12 — LAY THEIR HANDS UPON THE HEAD OF THE BULLOCK — Showing these bullocks represented the consecrated humanity of the Levites, to be consumed in the Lord’s service.

ONE FOR A SIN OFFERING — Recognizing their sinful condition and pointing back to the Day of Atonement bullock as their hope of justification and forgiveness.

THE OTHER FOR A BURNT OFFERING — A perfect humanity offered to God, after it was cleansed from sin.

8:16 — INSTEAD OF SUCH AS OPEN EVERY WOMB — This exchange included, not only all the firstborns of the Levites, but all of the tribe from a month old and upward, all of the males, so all of the Levites (Little Flock and Great Company) are passed over. (Z.’10-243; R.4654)

The Levites became the “firstborns,” see Heb. 12:23 and note. There really were thirteen tribes which came out of Egypt, for Joseph’s two sons were taken instead of him. Joseph had a double portion, as the birthright was his (and he himself was not counted.) (Gen. 48:5, 22; Josh. 14:4; Ezek. 47:13; 1 Chron. 5:1, 2) But the Lord took Levi, one tribe, leaving the 12. This typified how the Church and the Great Company will be taken out of the world and still leave twelve tribes, to complete. (Deut. 32:8; Acts 17:26)

8:19 — TO DO THE SERVICE OF THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL — So in the finished antitype, the antitypical Levites of the Temple condition (Z.’10-93; R.4579), the Great Company on the spirit plane will be the servants of the priests in their ministry, the servant class on the spirit plane. (Z.’10-245; R.4654) (Rev. 7:15; Ezek. 44:10-14)

10:2 — TWO TRUMPETS — Ram’s Horn and Jubilee Trumpets. (See Num. 10:1-10 (2 silver); 29:1; 31:6; Ex. 20:18; 19:13, 16, 19; 1 Chron. 15:12, 24, 28 (priests); 13:8; 2 Chron. 5:11, 13 (120); 7:6, 42 (priests); 15:14; 23:13; 20:8; 29:26, 27 (priests); Josh. 6:4-6 (7), 8-13, 16-20; Judges 3:27; 6:34; 7:8, 16, 18-22; Ezra 3:10 (priests) Neh. 12:35, 41 (priests); Isa. 27:13 (in that day); Jer. 51:27 (nation); Zeph. 1:16 (day of trouble); Zech. 9:14)

10:11 — ON THE TWENTIETH DAY OF THE SECOND MONTH —

(Eleven months.) The Israelites spent nearly a year at Mt. Sinai (see notes on Lev. 10) (Ex. 19:1; 40:17; Num. 9:1; 10:11) before they were ready to begin the march for the land of promise. During that period quite a construction work was accomplished among them, which transformed them from a horde of comparatively unorganized emigrants, into a powerful nation with covenant relationship with God. (Z. '07-233; R.4037)

It was about a year and 35 days after their departure from Egypt that they departed Sinai for Paran. Doubtless their first impressions were that the Lord, through Moses, would lead them directly into the land of promise and they no doubt wondered at the delay. But we can see that a nation reduced almost to the condition of slavery would need many lessons to prepare the people for the glorious heritage the Lord had promised them. Previously we saw how the Lord had taught lessons of trust, duty, temperance and subsequent events will prove that the people were not ready even yet to trust and obey the Lord, so as to be properly fit for their inheritance. (Z. '02-248; R.3060)

10:12 — THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL TOOK THEIR JOURNEY —

As the Israelites learned great lessons of order while in Sinai, so God's people need to learn the Tabernacle lessons—how and under what conditions we may have fellowship with God—that we may enter into the Court and further into the Holy and ultimately, as members of the High Priest's body, into the Most Holy. We need to learn order in respect to natural as well as spiritual things and, that while the liberties of the Lord's people are to be conserved and bondage to evil avoided, nevertheless, in all of the Lord's arrangements there is order. We are to learn, first of all, to be subject to the Lord, secondly, to every ordinance of God, to consider the truly consecrated a unit and are to seek to cooperate with one another. "Remember them which have the rule over you." (Heb. 13:7) "Yea, all of you, be subject one to another." (1 Pet. 5:5) (Z. '02-249; R.3060)

11:1 — WHEN THE PEOPLE COMPLAINED —

The wilderness of Sinai possessed rich, though small, valleys. While there the people and their flocks and herds prospered evidently. Census showed 603,550 men of twenty years old and upward, besides 22,273 Levites. This would imply a total of about 2,000,000 people. In Deut. 1:19 this desert of Paran is referred to as "a great and terrible wilderness." Remembering that the Israelites were only natural men, we cannot wonder at their murmurings against Moses, and thus against the Lord in many of their experiences. From our knowledge of human nature today, we would be inclined to say that the murmuring disposition would be much greater now than it was then, for it is our opinion that no such host could be led for such a time under such conditions without the interposition of divine power. To have avoided murmurings and taken patiently all the difficulties would imply a faith on the part of the people greater than the natural man manifests anywhere today. (Z. '07-234; R.4037)

So with spiritual Israel. After the Lord has given us certain experiences, some of which came to us under quiet and restful conditions, the order of procedure may be changed and His providences may lead to some breaking up of conditions which had been both favorable and unfavorable in some respects—leading into new circumstances and conditions. It is not for the true spiritual Israelite to murmur nor complain, or even to express a choice, but to look to the Lord for guidance. If we can learn the lessons of divine providence, even though it be in a wilderness condition more arid and undesirable than the first, he is to follow the Lord's leadings unquestioningly and with songs of faith and confidence. We are marching toward Canaan and know that other experiences are due us and must be endured before we can inherit the promise. The lesson for us is prompt and thorough obedience to the Lord's leadings without murmurings, with joyfulness—and this can be expected only on the part of those who have learned the lessons previously given them, and above all—the lesson of faith—confidence in the Lord's power and goodness and faithfulness. (Z. '02-249; R.3060)

13:1 — THE LORD SPAKE UNTO MOSES — Here the accounts read that the lord directed Moses to do this. He did, but the details of the matter are as shown in Deut. 1:22. The people themselves, lacking faith, urged this upon Moses and, as later when the people clamored for a King (1 Sam. 8:4-9), God hearkened to them. It was proposed that they go up immediately to possess the land (Deut. 1:20, 21) but caution and fear suggested that first spies be sent out that they might have better knowledge of the difficulties to be encountered in getting possession of the land that God had given them. With them, as with Christians today, opportunity was afforded of doubting the beneficence of the divine arrangements, doubting the wisdom and love of God, and conjecturing the impossibility of taking possession of the land, and the probability that even then they would find it far less attractive than the Lord, at the mouth of Moses, had reported. (Z. '07-250; R.4045)

They had the strange thought that some of their own number, fellow men, would be better able to judge of the land and report on its goodness and the possibility of taking it, than God could. This was the first mistake of the Israelites in this matter, that they should desire the spies. It was the result of doubting God's Word. Truth is often smothered by doubt. And while they awaited the return of the spies, doubt and fear had opportunity to weaken their faith. Alas, that after all these months of eager waiting with the one hope of entering Canaan before them these people, when on the verge of entering, and Canaan almost within their grasp, should show so little faith. So many Christians approaching consecration, seeking for God's favor and blessing and the promises of the High Calling, desiring righteousness; cannot take God at His Word. They hang back and desire to send spies. They go to certain leaders among nominal Christians and ask—“Are the fruits of the land good? Do you really have God’s blessing? Are patience and meekness really worth the effort? Are there many difficulties to overcome? Can we really overcome them?” They doubt God’s promises somewhat and want the testimony of fellow men. But God is merciful and lets them do so. The result rests on what report will they accept.

13:21 — SO THEY WENT UP — Apparently the spies went forth in two companies. One, under Joshua made a tour of the country entire, from the southern part of Jericho at the north, some three hundred miles. The other band, under Caleb, made a shorter journey, going only so far as the brook Eshcol, near Hebron. Caleb, accordingly, was the first to report (Num. 13:30; 14:24), while Joshua’s report came in later. (Num. 14:6, 7) (Z.’07-250; R.4045)

13:27 — THIS IS THE FRUIT OF IT — All the spies agreed that the land was good. They admitted that God’s statement of the land was correct, but when it came to taking possession! They fear. So many men agree that God’s part in his promises is all right, that his favor is a land flowing with milk and honey, that the fruits of the Spirit and righteousness are desirable, and especially the offer of the High Calling; but when it comes to putting forth the effort to obtain these blessings, doing their part in consecrating (passing Jordan) and fighting the good fight until the end—they have not the faith or courage.

13:28 — NEVERTHELESS THE PEOPLE BE STRONG — We cannot wonder that the people were greatly disheartened from the very beginning. They were not a warlike, but a pastoral people. Indeed, excepting the battle which Abraham waged for the recovery of Lot and his family, and the battle a year before in the wilderness with the Amalekites, the Israelites had no experience in war, and quite evidently were unprepared for such a contest as lay before them if they entered Canaan and tried to take possession. We must admit, then, that the report of the spies, that Israel was not capable of taking possession, was in many respects, a wise and just one, and the people apparently were justified in accepting it. The thing lacking was faith. They should have believed God and followed explicitly his leading. They should have said, “Greater is He on our part than all they that be against us, and while we are under His direction, we are able to do all things through his strengthening power.” But we should not be surprised that the people, under all the circumstances, were not able to exercise such a faith in God. Rather, antitypical Israel alone might be expected to have such a triumphant faith. Indeed, the failure of natural Israel and the divine dealings in consequence were more in the sense of typical illustrations for spiritual Israel than as real condemnation on natural Israel. We cannot think that God expected much more of those people than was manifested in their course. Of spiritual Israel much more may be expected.

13:30 — LET US GO UP — Others, who have faith in God, admit the difficulties, that there are giants and walled cities and great battles, but they called attention to God's promises that He will be our strength, our shield and buckler, (2 Sam. 22:31; Psa. 18:2; 91:4; Prov. 2:7)—that he will subdue all the enemies under our feet. (Rom. 16:20) And if the enemy has walled cities and giants and high towers, yet the Word and Spirit of God is mighty to bring them down. (2 Cor. 10:4, 5) What report shall we take? Through him that loved us, we shall be more than conquerors.

WE ARE WELL ABLE TO OVERCOME IT — Spiritual Israel has lessons to learn from this. (1) Their own insufficiency (2 Cor. 2:16, 17), inability to meet the trials and difficulties, hindrances in their way. We cannot do the things that we would. But our extremity is God's opportunity. "My grace is sufficient for thee, my strength is made perfect in your weakness." (2 Cor 12:9) The Lord could have armed the hosts of Israel in some miraculous way, making them invulnerable to the attacks of their enemies and giving them courage for their ordeal, but this was not His plan. He wished to develop in them the necessary faith, trust, obedience. Thus, in natural Israel, was illustrated the divine proceeding with spiritual Israel. God could miraculously give powers of mind and body which would make us superior to every outward circumstance, but instead he merely justified us by faith, and tells us to reckon ourselves perfect, complete, because of the imputation of Christ's merit. From this standpoint of faith all the battles of spiritual Israel are won or lost. Those, therefore, who can and will exercise full faith, full confidence in all the divine promises may go from victory to victory, joy to joy, blessing to blessing and, in the end, have a glorious victory over the world, the flesh and the adversary, through the merit and continued assistance of Him who bought us. (Z. '07-252; R.4046)

13:31 — THE MEN THAT WENT UP WITH HIM — The twelve spies may represent the whole number of people, the Lord's people, who in the present life enter into covenant relationship with God and experience a measure of His rest. All agree that the rest of faith is a glorious one, that the fruitage is grand, and samples are presented to the people. A small minority, however, give a proper report of the possibility of Christian living, the possibility of being overcomers of the world, of fighting a good fight in the name and strength of the Lord, the possibility of entering into all the glorious things which God has provided for them that love Him. The majority, the great company, hold back, fail to appropriate the promises, fail to trust the Lord, and their influence is proportionately an evil one upon others with whom they have influence. Thus, at the present time, few enter by faith into the blessings and privileges that belong to the spiritual Israelites, and these few are the only ones who will enter into the Heavenly Canaan to take actual possession by and by. The others fail in the blessing of the future, whatever portion they may obtain under the Lord's grace. (Z. '07-251; R.4046)

So those who inquire the way of consecration now, find reports from two standpoints. Some answer, that while the land is good, the effort is too much, that it is not worthwhile having the scorn of fellow men who will call them fanatics, gone crazy on religion, that the fight against the entrenched weakness of the old nature, the giants of pride, selfishness, etc. (Eccl. 7:16)

13:33 — GIANTS — Nephilim, the name given to the progeny of the angels before the flood, who so oppressed humanity that they were a terror to humanity, and the very suggestion that these sons of Anak were "nephilim" struck terror to the hearts of the Israelites.

14:1 — THE PEOPLE WEPT THAT NIGHT — Here was the second great mistake for the Israelites, accepting the discouraging report of the ten spies. One wrong step leads to another. Already their faith was weakened, deciding to send the spies, deciding to base their course on the fallible testimony of fellow men, forgetting God's Word. Were Caleb and Joshua discouraged? No, because before they went they had already decided to take God's Word and not depend on man's testimony. Therefore what they saw only encouraged them more. The walled cities and giants did not frighten them because their faith was strong. "Unbelief never gets beyond the difficulties, the cities, the walls, the giants. It is always preferring them, dwelling on them, putting them against its own resources. Faith, on the other hand, never minimizes the difficulties, looks them steadily in the face, turns from them and looks into the face of God and counts on Him. This they (the people) failed to do and for this they lost Canaan." F. B. Meyer. (Z. '07-252; R.4046) In unbelief they were determined to accept the evil report. Doubt always looks into the wrong end of the telescope. God is afar off to them.

14:4 — THEY SAID ONE TO ANOTHER — What a picture! The children of Israel clamoring all night long, denouncing Moses and desiring a new leader—Moses and Aaron crying in the dust. This was Israel's third mistake, clamoring against Moses and desiring a new leader to lead them back. Moses' face was turned the wrong way for them, they wanted their own way. They forgot God's power, they forgot that their own existence depended on Moses and how much he had done for them. None are so short of memory as those who murmur and complain. But faith does not forget. Let us pray that we do not forget.

14:7 — IT IS AN EXCEEDING GOOD LAND — As these victories of faith progress, the fruits of victory become ours. The grapes of Eshcol but feebly picture the riches of grace and fruitage of the Spirit which belong to those who, in the name of the Lord, gain the victories of faith over the world, flesh and adversary. (Z. '07-252; R.4047)

14:8 — IF THE LORD DELIGHT IN US — Our best efforts cannot express the wonder and riches of fellowship with God that comes to the consecrated. (1 John 1:3)

GIVE IT US — To the faith class of god's people now, the giants of opposition and despair lose their power, even as Goliath did before David. The pebble from the brook (the divine word's message) vanquishes the enemy's power to those who have the sling of faith. To these the fortresses of sin are not so strong as to be invulnerable, entrenched depravity is recognized as being subject to divine power and, when attacked in the name and strength of the Lord and repeatedly encompassed with prayer, finally its strong walls fall down as did those of Jericho. So, may depraved appetites and sinful desires be thoroughly conquered, though the traces whereof may continue to some extent in our mortal flesh, reminders not only of the weaknesses of the fallen nature, but also of the triumphs of the new mind under the leadership of Jesus. (Z. '07-252; R.4046)

14:12 — WILL MAKE THEE A GREATER NATION — Here was a test of Moses' caliber. Moses could reason from the standpoint of justice, "Why tarry longer for this people? A stiff-necked, disobedient, unthankful class—they wanted a new leader, why not let them have their own way and leave them to their fate"? He had done his best, it was not his fault that they were so lacking, his conscience was clear. Why not go on to Canaan himself and leave them? If only a token would come from God to that effect. Then a marvellous thing occurred. If Moses had any such thought, God gave him the token, the opportunity to go ahead. Did Moses say, "It must be best if God offers it. I'm sorry for the people, but they will have their own way." Ah, No! He had a different character. He forgot himself and pleaded for the people.

14:19 — PARDON, I BESEECH THEE — What a marvellous prayer! God had only been testing Moses, and how beautiful a character was revealed. Moses loved his people, even willing to himself being blotted out, if they could thereby be saved. Not a murmur, not a complaint, only forgiveness and earnest pleading. And what did Moses plead on? He pleaded God's character.

14:20 — I HAVE PARDONED — Jehovah did as Moses desired because Moses' desire was God's will. God had only tested Moses to prove him. His intention toward the people had not changed.

14:22 — HAVE TEMPTED ME NOW THESE TEN TIMES

Ex. 5:21 (accounted double labor in Egypt);
Ex. 14:11 (Pharaoh at Red Sea);
Ex. 15:24 (waters at Marah);
Ex. 16:2 (manna sent);
Ex. 17:2, 3 (waters from rock, Meribah);
Ex. 32:1 (golden calf);
Num. 11:1, 4 (at time of quails—twice);
Num. 12:1 (Miriam's rebellion);
Num. 14:2 (spies)..

Ten, a complete number, and hence the limit.

14:25 — TOMORROW TURN YOU — What a disappointment! Moses had felt sure that soon the wilderness journey would be over, the murmurings of the people over, they would leave behind the manna which the people loathed and eat the rich fruit of Canaan, they would drink water out of the fresh wells, and not out of the hot sand. There was no rebellion in Moses' heart. He was willing to go back with the loved ones who lacked in faith, to endure and suffer for their sakes with them, God's people, who were not ready. The conditions did not matter, that it all was their fault, not his; that they hindered him from enjoying the fruits of his hard-earned victories and faithfulness, because they were not ready. So with us. The conditions do not matter, but shall we receive them from God's standpoint or that of self? The secret is not with the things, but in our hearts, how do we receive the things? The mind fixed on God will not be turned aside by any circumstances. Not the grin and bear it attitude, but a heart full of trust in God and loving sympathy for others. Let us be glad to serve God as he wants us to, whether on this side of the veil or on the other side. God was with him. Ah! he had the fellowship with God and communion with him. Moses found there was something better than Canaan after all. He found a solace in communion with God which even the springs and rest of Canaan could not bring! Let us count nothing dear but God's approval and benediction.

14:39 — THE PEOPLE MOURNED GREATLY — But, like Esau's, these were tears of vexation.

14:40 — WE BE HERE AND WILL GO UP — But they showed no repentance, for whatever God said they should do, they were ready to do the contrary. As the people had no faith in God, and as he did not fight for them, they fled before their enemies as if chased by bees (Deut. 1:44) back into the waste, howling wilderness. They quickly proved they could not take the land without God's aid. This decisive and calamitous rebel action could not have happened apart from predisposing causes. They had never been grateful to God for their deliverance from Egypt, and in God's forbearance with them in their murmurings, they had not expressed sorrow nor repentance. It was their constant readiness to find fault which paved the way for their rebellion. An ungrateful heart ever makes a highroad for the enemy. In the days after Sinai, Israel was really deciding its way. After the manifestations there, they ought to have been ready to trust God under all circumstances, but they acted as if they thought they were doing God service by being ready for the manifestations of his power and his favors. They did not realize that God was proving them to try their hearts. (Z. '24-28)

FOR WE HAVE SINNED — The old selfish nature can be very humble when it is in a corner. But the door was shut against them. So sometimes with us, if we have been unfaithful, the gate of opportunity to enter certain blessings is closed against us, and we have to turn back and go over the weary road we thought we had covered. But let us not attempt to force the gate, but be obedient and learn the bitter lesson. Or, if we are faithful, and are kept back by the unreadiness and weakness of others, let us not complain but be submissive, for God had some rich and sweet favors for those who suffer with His Son. Days of waiting upon God in faith develop character, but days of waiting through lack of faith increase doubt and develop fear. (Z. '24-26)

14:41 — YE TRANSGRESS THE COMMANDMENT — Israel was like some in these days who, when the Lord has so clearly shown his purpose, wish to “examine the matter” to see if things are in accordance with their ideas of what ought to be. These are also an example of those who, doubting the Lord’s way, set up leaders for themselves. In figure, these people rejected the land of promise. (Z. '24-28)

15:4 — A TENTH DEAL — One-tenth ephah, or omer, equals .32 peck. One ephah equals 3.23 pecks or eight bushels

HIN — 4.2 quarts. One-quarter hin, about one quart.

15:38 — FRINGES IN THE BORDERS OF THEIR GARMENTS — Hebrew: “tsitsith,” a tassel. The Jews still follow this command. They wear a holy cloth a few inches long over their chests and backs with a hole in the center for their head, much resembling a garment worn by the priests. Upon the corners of the holy cloth they fasten tassels with blue ribbon. The symbolism is “Holiness to the Lord.” (Z. '13-199; R.5268)

15:40 — AND BE HOLY UNTO YOUR GOD — This was a new command or counsel given by Moses as the Lord’s mouthpiece, and it was this which led to the rebellion of Korah and Dathan and Abiram and On and 250 of the princes of Israel. Ostensibly their rebellion was not against God, but against Moses, but it really was against God because Moses was only God’s mouthpiece. The “Vow Unto the Lord,” suggested in the columns of the

Watch Tower as an aid to greater holiness and in remembering the Lord's commands, was presented to the Lord's people in 1908. True, the Vow was not presented as a command of God, but merely as a suggestion of something to help the spiritual Israelites in their endeavor to grow in knowledge, love, holiness and sympathetic fellowship, remembering each other and all the interests of the work daily at the throne of heavenly grace. (Z. '13-199; R.5268)

This suggestion of something for their spiritual advantage in this evil day when it is a question of "who shall be able to stand" was expected to bring a hearty response from all the "Israelites indeed." (Z. '13-199; R.5268)

This "fringe" tied with a blue ribbon represents the Vow. We look upon it as a means of grace and assistance toward remembering all the commandments of the Lord to do them and that "ye speak not after your own heart and minds."

16:3 — THEY GATHERED THEMSELVES TOGETHER AGAINST

MOSES — After Moses had given the instructions from the Lord respecting the fringes, to the surprise of many, there followed immediately an uprising among the Levites (the consecrated) under the leadership of Korah. (Z. '13-199; R.5268)

YE TAKE TOO MUCH UPON YOU — This typified the opposition engendered against the Lord's harvest work, now being carried on through the Watch Tower Journal and Society, which took for its text, in opposition to the Vow, suggested: "Ye take too much upon you, seeing all the congregation are holy, every one of them." This opposition claimed that all the consecrated were "that servant" and not merely Bro. Russell. (Z. '13-199; R.5268)

THE LORD IS AMONG THEM — The uproar was seemingly on the question of holiness.

WHEREFORE THEN LIFT YE UP YOURSELVES — Wherefore lift ye up so high a standard of the Lord? Why lift so high a standard of righteous endeavor and thought and word and deed (as the Vow?)

16:11 — WHAT IS AARON — What is Bro. Russell, but the mouthpiece of the Lord?

16:14 — WILT THOU PUT OUT THE EYES OF THESE MEN — What a shameless misrepresentation of Moses' lovable character and his self-sacrifice for their sakes! Such words show a very evil, envious heart.

16:17 — TAKE EVERY MAN HIS CENSER — This taking of censers and offering of incense by these men pictures the bringing forth of many tracts and pamphlets as offering of incense to God by them who oppose us. (Z. '13-200; R.5268)

The spirit of rebellion against all laws, rules and regulations, human and divine, seems to be in the very air we breathe. It is a time, therefore, for the child of God to seek peace and pursue it increasingly as far as possible with all men, acting as peace-makers and not as strife-breeders. It is a time when many seem prompted to offer incense which the Lord had not commissioned them to offer. The spirit of ambition, rivalry and desire to be greatest among the Lord's people is one of the most dangerous foes of the church. The lesson to all is: "Humble yourselves under the mighty hand of God, that He may exalt you in due time." Loyalty to the Lord means that we shall remember that He has undertaken the supervision of His church's affairs, and that He is competent for all that he has undertaken. Consequently, the loyal and obedient must be very careful how they undertake to be or to do, to make or to break anything connected with the work of the Lord. They are more and more to expect and look for divine leadings in all their affairs and equally in the affairs of the church. (Z. '13-200; R.5268)

16:32 — THE EARTH OPENED HER MOUTH — The opposers in the antitype are thus pictured to lose their spiritual life, possibly by being swallowed up, consumed, by worldliness, business, etc. (Z. '13-199; R.5268)

16:41 — YE HAVE KILLED THE PEOPLE OF THE LORD — Instead of recognizing the justice of the Lord, in dealing with those rebellions against his divine arrangements, they condemned Aaron and Moses for the death of these and ignored the relationship of the Lord to the matter entirely.

17:2 — A ROD — Symbol of authority.

17:8 — BROUGHT FORTH BUDS — Budded, blossomed and brought fruit of almonds. Showing that God would not merely begin the work of selecting Jesus and the Church to be the priests for the world of mankind, but he would bring them all to perfection, as pictured here.

YIELDED ALMONDS — Why almonds? See, Eccl. 12:5 and Ex. 25:33. To show the election of selection of Aaron. The word for almond is shaw-kade showing the tree or fruit as being the earliest to bloom. Derived from shaw-kad, prim. root, to be alert, sleepless, hence to be on the lookout. Translated, hasten, remain, wake, watch for. Hence represents an alert watchfulness.

17:10 — TO BE KEPT FOR A TOKEN — This disappeared out of the ark. It was put into the ark here. See 1 Kings 8:9.

18:1 — THY FATHER'S HOUSE WITH THEE — Moses and Aaron were of Levi. Hence, as they represented the firstborn, and as there were two classes of them, Priests and Levite helpers; so the Lord is taking from the antitypical firstborn a class of priests (Little Flock) and a class of Levite helpers (Great Company.) But all must die to all their earthly rights who would be at all of the firstborn, must die on behalf of the brethren, as the Levites died to their earthly inheritance to bless their brethren. Israel was God's people and Levi the firstborn, so the whole world will be God's ransomed people and the Church the firstborn. (See Z. '10-283; R.4677)

18:10 — IN THE MOST HOLY PLACE SHALT THOU EAT IT — An incorrect rendering. The A.R.V. has "As the most holy things shalt thou eat thereof." The R.V. makes the passage perfectly clear. The Lord had already specified where these things were to be eaten, not in the Most Holy, but in the Court. "In the holy place shall it be eaten, in the court of the tent of meeting." (Z. '21-199) Lev. 6:26, 16 (sin offering and meat offering) 7:6 (trespass offering); 10:12-15 (meat offering, wave offering, heave offering.)

19:2 — THAT THEY BRING — The red heifer was not one of the sin offerings of the Day of Atonement, nor one of those afterwards offered by the people. Indeed it was no "offering" at all for no part of it was offered on the Lord's altar or eaten by the priests. It was sacrificed, but not in the same sense or place as those offerings (in the Court.) It was not even killed by the priests, not its blood taken into the Most Holy. It was taken outside the Camp of Israel and there killed and burned to ashes, flesh, hide, fat, blood, except a little of the blood sprinkled seven times toward the Tabernacle. (Leeser and R.V.) The ashes were not brought into the Holy or Court, but were left outside gathered in a heap in a clean place and apparently accessible to any of the people who had use for them. (T105) The heifer was in no sense related to the Day of Atonement sacrifices. All of these were made by the priests and in the court, and so did not typify any of the sacrifices of the present time. So likewise it is different from any of the after Atonement Day sacrifices which signified the people's repentance and sorrow for sins during the Millennium, and the full consecration of themselves to God. (T106) What class are represented as having suffered outside the camp (and outside the Tabernacle)? and in what sense would their sufferings have to do with the cleansing or purification of the people of God, including those of the Millennial Age? The Ancient Worthies of Hebrews 11 are such a class (vss. 32-38). These, coming before the antitypical Tabernacle was set up, could not be of the body of Christ (Matt. 11:11), nor any part of the sin offering, yet they were connected with the cleansing from sin. (T108)

A RED HEIFER — This was not a bullock, but a cow, distinguishing it from the Day of Atonement sacrifices which could be only a bullock. Red signifies that the class represented were not sinless, “but sinners even as others,” and hence not accepted by God before the Day of Atonement because they were perfect, but in spite of their imperfection. (T111)

WHEREIN IS NO BLEMISH — Reckoned perfect, yet actually sinful (red).

UPON WHICH NEVER CAME YOKE — Representing that the Ancient Worthies were justified, free from the Law Covenant. Although most of them were born under it and hence, legally subject to its conditions and its condemnation because of the imperfection of the flesh, yet God justified them through their faith, not in their ability to keep the Law, but in the delivery promised in the Abrahamic Covenant. (That their faith was in the Abrahamic Covenant, see Luke 1:54, 55, 67-75; Psa. 105:8-11; Lev. 26:40-46; Ex. 2:24; 6:5) Heb. 11:39, 35. (T110)

19:3 — BRING HER FORTH WITHOUT THE CAMP — These suffered without the camp.

ONE SHALL SLAY HER — Eleazer did not slay it, but witnessed to it; any suitable person could be used.

19:4 — SPRINKLE OF HER BLOOD — This underpriest who saw, recognized and approved the burning of the red heifer, who took of the blood and sprinkled it in the direction of (R.V. and Leeser) the Holy would seem well antityped in the great under priest, the Apostle Paul who, by the help of God (Eleazer means “helped by God”) has not only identified for us the sin offerings of the Atonement Day, but also in Heb. 11 points out to us that which enables us to identify the red heifer sacrifice of the Ancient Worthies. And thus he sprinkles their blood toward the Tabernacle, showing that their lives were in full, complete harmony with the Tabernacle condition, although not living in the time of the High Calling, it was not their privilege to become members of the body of the great High Priest. (T110)

DIRECTLY BEFORE THE TABERNACLE — Their faith looked forward to (toward) the sacrifice of Christ.

19:6 — CEDAR WOOD — Representing everlasting life. (Heb. 11:35)

HYSSOP — Purging or cleansing. (Psa. 51:7)

SCARLET — Scarlet string, the blood of Christ, the ransom.

CAST IT INTO THE MIDST — Showing that the ignominy heaped on the Ancient Worthies permitted the merit of the cleansing blood, the cleansing of the truth (water) and the gift of everlasting life to be accounted to them through faith; and that subsequent to their death they would be (these thrown in after the heifer was slain) recognized as cleansed, justified, accepted. (T109, 110)

19:8 — HE THAT BURNETH HER — The Jewish nation (?) will need to be cleansed from all their responsibility for their share in the death of the Ancient Worthies and will not be clean until the even of the Gospel Age (Ezek. 36:25-29), for all this is done before the Millennial Age commences.

19:9 — A MAN THAT IS CLEAN — Bro. C. T. Russell.

A CLEAN PLACE — The Millennial Age.

SEPARATION — Niddah (from a prim. root, prop. to wave to and fro (rarely to flap up and down); fig. to rove, flee, or (caus.) to drive away); prop. rejection; by impl. impurity, espec. personal (menstruation) or moral (idolatry, incest). So in Lev. 12 and 15, whole book of Leviticus, the word “separation” is the same. Different in Num. 6.

19:11 — HE THAT TOUCHETH THE DEAD BODY — The cleansings for which these red cow ashes were prescribed were a peculiar kind, specially for those who came in contact with death. This would seem that these ashes were not designed to remove the individual’s guilt, no, the moral guilt could only be cleansed away through the merit of the Day of Atonement sacrifices. This cleansing of defilement through contact with the dead, affected by and through the experiences of the Ancient Worthies, will apply specifically to the world during the Millennial Age, while they are seeking to get rid of all the defilements of Adamic Death, seeking to obtain human perfection. All of the blemishes of the fallen nature are so much of contact with death, and from all these the ashes of the red heifer are to be used for the cleansing of all who will become the people of God. (T111)

20:1 — IN KADESH — During most of the period of their wanderings after their northward march from Mt. Sinai, their central camp seems to have remained at the oasis of Kadesh.

20:10 — AND AARON — Saints are in danger of reading into God’s Word what is not there, or otherwise to amend God’s Word. Many hold ideas of what they are justified in doing which they could not find in God’s Word. He puts two and two, and adds one of his own, to make five. The cure is to rely completely on God’s Word and not trust our own wisdom. (Sunday) School Lessons) Aaron's sin seems to be that of an affable and pliant person who, instead of asserting himself, follows the trend. He was too much of a "Yes-man." He might have pleaded with his brother and cautioned him.

HE SAID UNTO THEM — There seems to have been a holier-than-thou attitude, a subtle type of self-righteousness that thinks of others as unworthy, rather than of self as holy.

YE REBELS — When the people were assembled Moses exceed his authority, as men in power are so prone to do. He had not been authorized to speak to the people, much less to speak angrily and contemptuously to them. Rebels they had been at various times, both against their human leaders and against God. Yet it was unseemly for Moses to address them as rebels at a time when, in his forgiving mercy, God was about to give them a signal proof of his love and care. It was a proud and overbearing speech in which he insulted a people tortured by fear, if not by actual thirst, and talked as if it were unreasonable to expect such worthy and exalted persons as himself and Aaron to do anything for them. Having worked himself up into this angry mood, Moses failed, and perhaps forgot to speak to the rock. The fact that he struck it twice suggests that he was acting in an angry and vindictive mood. (Sunday School Lessons)

MUST WE — Moses gave not God the glory as he should have done, as stated in vs. 12. This is why God punished him by not allowing him to enter the promised land.

THIS ROCK — The people had not witnessed the first miracle at the rock, only the Elders (Ex. 17:1-7) in Rephidim.

20:11 — HE SMOTE THE ROCK TWICE — There is a type here. The rock represents Christ who is the fountain of the water of life. The first smiting of the rock typified the smiting of Christ once for all for sin. (Zech.13:7; Matt. 26:31) By bowing beneath the rod and yielding himself to be broken, he became the source of life-giving water to all who believe in him. But the second smiting, not authorized by Jehovah, changes the type, and here Moses becomes a type of those who, after having tasted of the power of God and of the world to come, fall away and count the blood of Christ a common thing. Thus they would, if repentance were possible, crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh and put him to an open shame. For such there remaineth nothing but second death. (Heb. 6:4-8; 10:26-29; Matt. 12:31, 32; Mark 3:28, 29; Luke 12:10) This is shown in the type by the fact that Moses was denied entrance into the promised land (the heavenly promises and reward in the Millennial Age.) (See Num. 27:14; Deut. 1:37; 3:26; 32:51) The fact that none know of his burial place, even to this day (Deut. 34:5, 6), typifies that those who go into the second death shall never be found again, and their memory shall forever be forgotten.

20:12 — BECAUSE YE BELIEVED ME NOT TO SANCTIFY ME —

Moses was the meekest man in all the earth (Num. 12:3), yet the forty years care over the children of Israel and the circumstances of his position seems to have overcome him and, at its end, he had lost so much of his meekness as to give not God the glory and was therefore not allowed to enter Canaan. Yet he repented. (Deut. 3:23-27) (Z.'06-311; R.3866)

God is no respecter of persons. Those ordained to do special work for him should not expect special immunity. Their special position of trust makes any sin of greater consequence than if they were not set apart as leaders. Saints are in danger of being unsympathetic toward those of weaker faith or less heroic mold. Moses was measuring the people, perhaps, by himself. The Christian's answer is that those who are strong should bear the infirmities of the weak.

21:9 — A SERPENT OF BRASS — The brazen serpent was kept by the Israelites until the reign of Hezekiah. (2 Kings 18:4) And the Israelites burned incense to it frequently.

21:21 — ISRAEL SENT MESSENGERS — (Deut. 2:24-27; Judges 11:19)

22:3 — MOAB WAS SORE AFRAID — Moab had no reason to fear that Israel would do them harm for the Israelites had gone considerably out of their way because the king of Moab had refused to let them pass through their border when requested, (Judges 11:16-18; Deut. 2:4-37, 9; Num. 20:14-21), as the Lord commanded them. But they were afraid, even as the Lord had said. (Deut. 2:4, 25)

22:4 — THE ELDERS OF MIDIAN — Midian was a son of Abraham and Keturah, the progenitors of the Midianites or Arabians, dwelling principally in the desert north of the peninsula of Arabia. (See Ex. 2:15; Gen. 36:35) They extended northward to the east of Palestine. They lived mostly in tents, not towns (Hab. 3:7), but there seems to have been kind of a pastoral settlement. (See also Num. 25:16-18; 31) The influence of Midian over Israel was mostly evil. They could claim a descent from Abraham and hence could more readily seduce Israel than the Canaanites, who were hated. (See Gen. 25:2; Jud. 6:7; Psa. 83:9)

THIS COMPANY LICK UP ALL THAT ARE ROUND ABOUT US —
They excited the Midianites by appealing to their fears, lest the Israelites should lay waste all their green meadow lands. (Even as the Communists do now.)

ZIPPOR WAS KING — The words seems to indicate that he was not the hereditary king.

22:5 — HE SENT MESSENGERS THEREFORE UNTO BALAAM — (Mic. 6:5; Josh. 24:9, 10; Jud. 11:25) After the Israelites had entered Canaan and were fully recognized as God's holy nation, it would appear that all dealings between God and the Gentiles were discontinued. Before that, men of faith in God, were apparently more or less recognized of Him—for instance, Abraham, Job, Melchisedec, Balaam. Balaam lived on the Euphrates river (vs. 5) in Mesopotamia (Deut. 23:4; Num. 23:7)—the country which Abraham left when he went to Canaan. He was known far and near as one whose messages for good or for evil were sure to come to pass. He was considered an oracle. (Z. '13-296; R.5322)

THE SON OF BEOR — He had derived from his father Beor (meaning consumer, destroyer) methods and ways that brought him fame all around on account of the destructive powers attributed to his curses. His own name, Balaam, means subverter, destroyer of the people. He is never called "nabi," prophet; but "hosem," soothsayer. (Lang)

22:8 — LODGE HERE THIS NIGHT — Balaam evidently mistrusted, that there was something wrong.

22:13 — THE LORD REFUSETH TO GIVE ME LEAVE TO GO WITH YOU — He did not say, "I will not go," but put it thus, seeming to show that his will was not the Lord's will. He did not delight in doing God's pleasure, but rather felt sorry that the Lord would not let him go. He feared to disobey, though he would like to.

22:17 — I WILL PROMISE THEE — Balak saw clearly through Balaam's answer and knew how to approach him—a more stately embassy, flattering his love of distinction, a confidential, alluring prayer of the king, the prospect of high honor or rich rewards suited to his strong desire would prevail. Balaam's answer betrayed his real nature. However much he seeks honor, he seeks wealth still more. Now indeed, the consequences of his character and conduct begin to gather round him, so that he becomes more involved in inconsistencies until his final disruption and ruin take place. It had been easier to refuse Balak positively than to make use of the permission to go, coupled with a condition (vs. 20), which must entirely defeat his object. The deceitful heart allowed him to hope that Jehovah would at last grant him his wish. (Lang) That which he sought to do in the service of his own sinful lusts, he must now do in the service of God. God would now use him publicly to bless His people and glorify His name among the heathen nations, as well as in Israel. (Lang)

22:21 — WENT WITH THE PRINCES OF MOAB — Balaam knew the mind of the Lord on this subject, but he was a money-lover and hoped for a chance somehow to get some of the rewards of unrighteousness. (Z. '13-296; R.5322)

22:22 — GOD'S ANGER WAS KINDLED — Here it was clearly shown that Balaam was a disobedient prophet. God here, and in vs. 32, shows that Balaam knew better. Yet the Lord dealt very mercifully with him. So God deals with all his erring children, especially of the church. He gives us freely of His counsel when we ask, and wise are we if we heed his counsel, though it may mean an agony of sacrifice or suffering on our part. But if any longing desire weakens and overrules the will, God often permits such to have his own way for a while, that they might see how foolish is their way and to what a wrong end it will lead, away from God into misery and sin and death. But he will always give full warning of such a course and will endeavor to turn such back, even by hard experiences, all except forcing the will.

BECAUSE HE WENT — God was angry because he was going with a blind persistence and adherence to his own plan, under the control of his own lusts, and in the hope that, in some way, he could secure his own distinction and wealth. He blew his own horn as much as he could.

FOR AN ADVERSARY AGAINST HIM — The messenger represented, in the case of the Lord's people, any agency God may choose to reprove his people.

22:30 — WAS I EVER WONT TO DO SO UNTO THEE — Even an ass knew better than to attempt to go contrary to the higher power. Evidently the greater reasoning power and courage of humanity, above that of the brute, may be used to great disadvantage. Those who set their affections chiefly upon earthly things can, with difficulty, avoid the snares that go with them. Balaam's only safe course was in heart loyalty to God. Knowing the mind of the Lord on the subject, he should have delighted himself therein and should, to the fullest, have rejected every overture looking in an opposite direction. The nobles who took Balak's second proposition, should have been kindly but firmly told that the Divine Will was the law of Balaam, the prophet; that he would not, for a moment, consider anything contrary to the divine will—that money, wealth and honors as an inducement to a course of opposition to God's will would be an insult. Let us each apply this lesson to life's affairs. Let God be first in our hearts, as well as in our words and acts. But, if overtaken in a fault, Balaam had gone so far as to start on the journey with the hope of somehow gaining the reward of evil, he should have been thoroughly aroused by the incident of the ass. (Z. '13-297; R.5323)

22:32 — THY WAY IS PERVERSE BEFORE ME — The double-mindedness of Balaam is abundantly manifested by his course. He wished to be a prophet of the Lord and to speak His word in His name, but he wished also riches and the honor which would accompany them. He wished for what God's providence had not seen best to give them. Right and wrong, God's way, the way of riches, both were before him. Which would he choose with all his heart? He chose neither one, he sought to have both—to be a servant and mouthpiece of God and to gain the rewards of an opposite course. (2 Pet. 2:15, 16) How many have found true the Master's words, "Ye cannot serve God and mammon"—true! How many have found that the Lord would reject from his counsels and his fellowship those who regard iniquity in their hearts and who, if they would not love to serve it, at least would love its rewards. (Z. '13-298; R.5322)

We have here the living, vivid image of a remarkable character, thoroughly unstable and vacillating in obedience to predominant influences, two-sided. The two-sidedness does not show itself in distinct stereotyped qualities, but is brought out in a progress of a mental conflict in which avarice and ambition gradually work out his ruin. Behind the outward zeal and inspiration, his avarice began the hidden process of his ruin. In the New Testament he is held up as the prototype of a subtle tempter and destroyer, through teaching a false religious freedom. (Rev. 2:14; 2 Pet. 2:14-16; Jude 11) (Lang) We note the contradiction between an ostentation and vaunted faith in Jehovah and the ever reappearing and strong lusting after the rewards of unrighteousness. The seeming piety, the frequent use of the name of Jehovah, the constant parade of his dependance upon Jehovah's directions, the multiplication of the offerings in which he compels Balak to take part, as if he might thereby control Jehovah (take providence by storm, as modern hypocrites would say). Modern orthodox extravagances of today are like this. (Lang)

22:34 — IF IT DISPLEASE THEE, I WILL GET ME BACK AGAIN — His obedience springs only from fear, not from hearty cooperation. The angel appeared to make a sharp and deep impression upon Balaam's mind, to rouse his slumbering conscience and to make him quick to hear and attentive to what Jehovah would speak. So the love of God will not let us go far wrong, but will send repeated reproofs to turn us in the right way.

22:38 — THE WORD THAT GOD PUTTETH IN MY MOUTH THAT SHALL I SPEAK — He does not tell Balak that Jehovah had forbidden him to come. He is here simply as a man struggling against his conscience.

22:39 — KIRJATH-HUZOTH — Or, streets of the city, in which markets were held and trade carried on. Kirjath-huzoth lay not far from the Arnon River near Bamoth Baal. Its situation is now known as the ruins of Shihan, which lies on a slight eminence about four miles west by south of the sight assigned to Ar. (Lang) It lay upon the Arnon, formerly in a central position, now upon the borders of Moab, since the Amorites had formed the kingdom of Heshbon of the other half, within which the Israelites were now encamped.

22:41 — UNTO THE HIGH PLACES OF BAAL — (Micah. 6:5), “from Shittim unto Gilgal.” On this first occasion, the whole encampment was visible.

23:1 — SEVEN OXEN AND SEVEN RAMS — He would have a form of godliness, even while desiring to do contrary to the Lord’s will. (Z. ’13-297; R.5322)

23:9 — SHALL NOT BE RECKONED AMONG THE NATIONS — Israel had indeed not been reckoned among the nations, but has been separate from all other nations. What other nation of that day has remained a people preserved of identity? (Z. ’13-297; R.5323)

23:10 — THE DUST OF JACOB — Picturing the ultimate number of his descendants in the kingdom. The blessing includes three things:
(1) the isolation of Israel from the nations;
(2) their countless number;
(3) and the righteous in it.

But it represents much more than Balaam could see—the election of the church; its blessed and universal extension, as the church’s children will be all mankind; and the glorious salvation of the righteous of both phases of the kingdom.

THE FOURTH PART OF ISRAEL — Refers to the four-part arrangement around the Tabernacle.

LET ME DIE THE DEATH OF THE RIGHTEOUS — The wish refers, not so much to the dying (as that is mentioned in “the death of the righteous”) but to the state which follows death beyond the grave.

23:13 — THOU SHALT SEE BUT THE UTMOST PART OF THEM — Balak seems to reason that Balaam’s mind had been overawed by the sight of a people so numerous and powerful, so he leads Balaam to a point where only a part can be seen.

AND SHALT NOT SEE THEM ALL — How often the Adversary or our own fallen nature urges us to do only a little sin, not very great, to obtain a reward! But this is only a ruse to blind our vision to the facts. Sin is sin, big or little, and it is the little foxes that spoil the vines.

23:14 — FIELD OF ZOPHIM — Field of the watchers, clearly an elevated plateau upon Pisgah (the hill), whence watchers made their observations. The three places chosen by Balak—Baal, Zophim, Pisgah—may represent the three influences—Baal, the physical or material; Zophim the intellectual; Peor the moral—through one of which channels Balak hoped to secure a curse upon Israel. (Lang)

BUILT SEVEN ALTARS — Each time he offers the largest and most costly sacrifice and in the double seven. Even then the number seven was a symbol of perfection, an holy number. In groves of Baal, but offered to Jehovah.

23:15 — WHILE I MEET THE LORD — It is suggested that the phrase “go and meet” is a technical term for going for auguries, or a divine revelation.

23:19 — GOD IS NOT A MAN, THAT HE SHOULD LIE — God’s will cannot be opposed successfully.

23:21 — NEITHER HATH HE SEEN PERVERSENESS IN ISRAEL — They were typically justified. This Atonement gave them a standing before God as his typical people. Hence there are no points to which a curse could attach itself.

THE SHOUT — A cry of triumph.

OF A KING — The promised king over all the earth is to come to Israel.

23:22 — GOD BROUGHT THEM — God was their deliverer, and he had brought them out from under the power of the greatest nation of the world at that time.

UNICORN — The Reem or Wild Ox, of great fierceness and indomitable strength. It is notable that one of the chief gods of Egypt was the bull, Apis, representing Osiris, and Israel’s God was mightier than Egypt’s god. (Deut. 32:17; Psa. 29:6; 102:10, evidently a two-horned animal. The translation is poor.)

IS THERE ANY DIVINATION AGAINST ISRAEL — No works of Satan can triumph against those whom God protects.

23:23 — ACCORDING TO THIS TIME — The due time, kingdom time.

WHAT HATH GOD WROUGHT? — First words spoken on telephone.

23:24 — THE PEOPLE SHALL RISE UP AS A GREAT LION — Referring in prophecy to the ultimate triumph of Israel under the Messiah. Like Jacob's blessing. (Gen. 49:9)

23:28 — THE TOP OF PEOR — Mount Peor lay nearest the camp of Israel, one of the peaks of the Abarim range, and overlooks the whole plain. Probably not far from the city of Beth-Peor, north from Pisgah, nearly opposite Jericho. Behind him lay the vast expanse of desert extending to the shores of his native Assyrian river. On his left were the red mountains of Edom and Seir; opposite were the dwelling places of the Kenite in the rocky fortresses of Engedi; further still the dim outline of the Arabian wilderness, where ruled the then-powerful tribe of Amalek. Immediately below him lay the vast encampment of Israel, among the acacia groves of Abel-shittim-like the water courses of the mountains—like the hanging gardens of his own river Euphrates, with their aromatic shrubs and wide-spreading cedars. Beyond them, on the western side of Jordan, rose the hills of Palestine with glimpses through their valleys of ancient cities towering in their crested heights. And, beyond all, though he could not see it with bodily vision, he well knew lay the Great Sea and the Isle of Chittim. (Lang)

24:1 — TO SEEK FOR ENCHANTMENTS — Enchantments, from "nachash" (a prim. root) meaning to hiss, i.e., whisper, a (magic) spell; gen. to prognosticate. Translated "diligently observe" in 1 Kings 20:23. (Same word used in 2 Kings 17:17; 21:6; 2 Chron. 33:6; Deut. 18:10) Balaam had not used what we call enchantments on the other two occasions, but the word probably refers to the secret meeting with the Lord. He had offered bullocks and rams on each of seven altars on each occasion. We see that Balaam's heart was wrong. He still continued to be a prophet, but was ceasing to be a holy prophet every minute that he toyed with the tempting wealth, the reward of unrighteousness. Alas, how his mind was debased, debauched by the love of money. While outwardly he still remained loyal to God in that he would not utter a false message, yet inwardly his harmony with God was gone. The infection, from being mere wish for the money, spread rapidly until it swallowed up everything noble and true in the man. The rot or blight which started in his heart, like the blight of the core of a beautiful apple, spread until nothing remained but its outward form. (Z. '13-298; R.5323)

How strange that a prophet of God should, after seeing the Lord's will clearly, at last try to get away from the Lord and turn his back so as not to see the Lord's people, not to have their fellowship before his mind! So any spiritual child of God, if he sets his affections on any earthly thing and allows it to grow in his mind, holds the picture of it continually before his mind's eye, will find it gradually crowd out the spiritual sense and fellowship with God until it actually leads him into sin and second death. Balaam did not enjoy the rewards of his lust, (Num. 31:8; Josh. 13:22), neither will the spiritual Israelite enjoy the earthly blessings he craves, if he sells the Lord's favor and fellowship for a mess of pottage of anything earthly. (Jas. 1:14, 15)

24:2 — THE SPIRIT OF GOD CAME UPON HIM — Note the expression in the first trial—23:5—“the Lord put a word in Balaam's mouth” and 23:16, the same; but this third time is different—a fuller impression of the Spirit—no longer put into his mouth and uttered under restraint and legal fear. He no longer attempted by magic art to control the purpose of God, but became the organ God used to communicate His will. He now speaks in the spirit of prophecy, though we cannot say they came from the heart. (Lang)

24:3 — THE MAN WHOSE EYES ARE OPEN — He was now convinced that Israel was the blessed people of God.

24:4 — WHICH HEARD THE WORDS OF GOD, WHICH SAW THE VISION — Hearing usually precedes vision in divine revelation. He first had heard the words of God (“Elohim”) and then saw a vision of the Almighty, but was so overpowered that he fell down (as Saul—1 Sam. 19:24 and Dan. 10:9) But with the fall, his mental eyes were unveiled—so he can now make known the divine sayings. (Lang)

24:5 — HOW GOODLY ARE THY TENTS — The goodly and splendid appearance of the tent city. Its well-arranged order and symmetry with the sanctuary in the midst (a picture of the kingdom.)

24:6 — AS THE TREES OF LIGN ALOES — From the dwellings to the land. Well-watered valleys spread out in beautiful pictures, and to these the still more beautiful gardens by the riverside. Aloe groves breathing out their fragrance.

WHICH THE LORD HATH PLANTED — This makes this a picture of the kingdom. The vision looked forward to Israel's glory in the kingdom.

CEDAR TREES BESIDE THE WATERS — (Isa. 61:3; Psa. 104:16) The aloe, imported from China and the far distant East, furnished to the ancient one of the most fragrant and precious of spices. (Psa. 45:8)

POUR THE WATER — He shall not only prosper, have abundance of water, but he shall distribute to others out of his fullness of blessings. (Isa. 27:6; 19:23-25; 11:10-16; Hos. 2:14-18; Mic. 5:4-9) In thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed. (Lang)

24:7 — BUCKETS — The people are presented as a water-carrier whose two buckets (dual form) are overflowing with water.

HIS SEED — Not grain, but his children.

BE IN MANY WATERS — Spread itself abroad with great and varied blessing.

HIS KING — Christ and his Church, to come of Israel.

HIGHER THAN AGAG — Exalted above all the kings of the earth. (Psa. 89:27) The kings of Israel's ancient enemies were called Agag (the fiery). This seems to have been the common title of the kings of the Amalekites, as Pharaoh was of the kings of Egypt. (1 Sam. 15:9, 32, 33)

HIS KINGDOM SHALL BE EXALTED — Above all other kingdoms. (Dan. 2:44)

24:8 — EGYPT — Showing God's power against the mightiest nation then known.

UNICORN — In Deut. 33:17, "his (Joseph's) horns are like the horns of a unicorn" (so, margin, rightly, not plural—the 10,000 of Ephraim and the 1,000 of Manasseh—two tribes sprung from the one head, are the two horns). Hebrew reem, a species of wild ox. the rhinoceros does not skip, as in Psa. 29:6. Then the reem was spread over the north temperate zones, described by Caesar as almost the size of an elephant, fierce, sparing neither man nor beast. Mentioned in Num. 23:22; Psa. 22:21; Job 39:9-11; Deut. 33:17. Hence Israel was irresistible.

BREAK THEIR BONES — He will crush (not eat nor gnaw) the bones of his enemies and destroy them and break their arrows, destroy all the weapons of war. (Isa. 9:5)

24:9 — AS A LION — The likeness here differs from 22:24 where the lion goes in search of his prey. Here the lion is triumphant, has lain down in his majesty and will injure no more. But see Mic. 5:8. This also refers to the kingdom blessings.

24:10 — HE SMOTE HIS HANDS TOGETHER — Balak changes his courtly conduct toward Balaam. He does not indeed go further than a threatening movement with his hands. The clapping of his hands was not to terrify Balaam, but an expression of the disappointment and passion of the king. Still he describes the calling of Balaam as a royal command which he had thrice disregarded. But now he commands him to flee. He drives him away with scorn.

24:11 — THE LORD HATH KEPT THEE BACK FROM HONOR — Balaam's belief in Jehovah, or his submission to him, had withdrawn him from this honor. the king's angry remarks seems to have kindled the anger of the proud seer and Balaam reminds the king of what he had told him in the beginning. The breach and mutual anger between is shown by Balaam's next declaration. (Lang)

24:14 — LATTERDAYS — Or the end of days; the horizon of the prophecy. It begins when the prophecy enters into fulfillment. It had partial fulfillment in Joshua's time, still more in David's time, but completely only in the kingdom. See Jer. 48. Evidently Balaam tells the rest of what he had seen in the vision, for no new message from the Lord is mentioned.

24:15 — BALAAM THE SON OF BEORHATH SAID — The big "I" is evident here as before. He even claims to be revealing the knowledge of the Most High, expressions as in the third trial.

24:17 — SEE HIM — If this is a statement about the King, Jesus, the Christ, then Balaam will see him in the kingdom as the world will see him.

NOT NOW — Not now, but in the resurrection morning.

NOT HIGH — Not in the flesh, but as a great spirit King. Even as Job in 19:25-27.

THERE SHALL COME A STAR — Balaam saw the nation of Israel encamped according to its tribes, in the face of its foes, the nations of the world. The heathen seer out of Mesopotamia, the center of national development of the ancient world, proclaims first to the existing nations hostile to Israel, and through them to all hostile powers, as they should rise in succession, that in their enmity to Israel they were struggling against the power of the Almighty and must perish, since life and salvation were found only through Israel whom God had blessed. (Lang)

The star which the wise men from the East saw and which led them to the newborn king of the Jews, clearly refers to the prophecy of Balaam. It was not the star which foretold, which he saw, but not nigh. That star was Christ. The Star which appeared to them announced that the star which Balaam foretold had now risen out of Jacob in the birth of the king of the Jews. These Magi, like Balaam, were from the East. They were engaged in similar pursuits, devoting their lives to the study of science, men whose disposition would lead them to study eagerly the revelation made to the people of God scattered widely throughout the known world. They would naturally be drawn to the predictions of Balaam, one of their own class from their own country. God unfolded to their minds, which were already filled with a longing for the star out of Jacob foretold by Balaam, the meaning of the star which proclaimed the fulfillment of Balaam's prophecy. (Lang)

A SCEPTRE — A king who shall conquer all.

OUT OF ISRAEL — Notice the two terms, Jacob and Israel. The one, a supplanter, and the other, a prince with God.

MOAB — Moab may be used here as a term for certain of the enemies of God. “The pride of Moab.”

SHETH — Not Seth, nor of “the drinker” (Lot), but of those rising up against the chosen people of God, the Jews.

24:18 — EDOM — The land of Esau, first the people, then the land. All those who have sold their birthright and become enemies of God’s people. (Jer. 49:7-22)

24:19 — SHALL COME HE THAT SHALL HAVE DOMINION — The Messiah, the star of verse 17. The Messianic view is so obvious that it was universally held by the Jews from the most ancient times. They held it received its partial fulfillment in David, but always regarded it as pointing to the Messiah. So wide-spread was this idea that the renounced pretender or pseudo-Messiah in the reign of Hadrian styled himself Bar-Cocheba (son of the star).

24:20 — AMALEK — A great and powerful people after the Exodus, but conquered and destroyed by Saul, king of Israel. (1 Sam. 15) He was the first of the nations that warred against Israel. (See margin and Lang.)

24:21 — KENITES — Probably the Midianites, at least extracted from them, as Moses’ father-in-law was a priest of Midian (see 1 Sam. 15:6) and a Kenite. (Jud. 1:16; 4:11) (Perhaps so called as worshippers of the god, Kain). But Lang calls them sons of the blacksmith. See Strong’s Conc., derived from 7013, Quayin, the name of Cain, whose sons became artisans and mechanics. The Kenites were associated with Israel, but never entered into their covenant. So Kain or the Kenite should be wasted or destroyed until Assyria shall carry thee captive (about 740 B.C.—2 Kings 15:29)

24:23 — HE TOOK UP HIS PARABLE — Balaam seems to have seen more than he may tell Balak. From Mesopotamia, Balaam might well know of Asshur’s strength and lust of conquest.

WHO SHALL LIVE — It is a long time in the future.

24:24 — SHIPS SHALL COME FROM THE COAST OF CHITTIM — Hostile ships come from Chittim—Cyprus, with its capital city, Citium. (Gen. 10:4) This was a chief station for the commerce of Phoenicia, so that all fleets passing from west to east necessarily took Cyprus in their way.

(Keil, Land)

SHALL AFFLICT ASSHUR AND SHALL AFFLICT EBER — These ships afflict Assur and Eber (cast them to the ground). A mere vague glimpse of a great, western empire, which overthrows the oriental power, limits his prophetic horizon and his vision of judgment closes with this, that he sees even the shadowy, unknown one, the prince of the ships of Chittim going down to destruction.

HE ALSO SHALL PERISH FOREVER — These words cannot refer to Asshur and Eber, for their fate is already announced in the word afflict or press, but only to the new western power which is come over the sea. Eber refers not merely to the Israelites as Hebrews, but to all the posterity of Abraham. He combines Asshur and Eber. They shall be bowed or humbled. Of the unknown one, he also shall perish forever. The shadowy nature of these last visions of judgment is a strong proof of the great antiquity of this prophecy. The look into the far distant future stretches beyond the Babylonian and Persian empires and rests upon a faint vision of the Grecian Empire, behind which lay hidden the Roman Empire. Primitive judgments form the last words of the heathen prophet, a picture unrelieved by any light background, more terrible even than the Scandinavian “twilight of the gods.”

24:25 — AND BALAAM ROSE UP — Balaam’s history shows the blinding power of disobedience when persisted in. His love of gold blinds him to the light of the knowledge of God which he possessed before Balak’s call, even to the message of the angel who met him in the way and to the message which God sent through him.

The person so blinded passes into deeper darkness by the very process through which he has passed. It brings out the providence of God in the development and growth of bad men. The conditions and outward circumstances are part of the divine plan. Balaam’s place in history is not accidental, nor are the circumstances the result of chance, or shaped merely by human agencies.

All through his history divine providence works, then permitting the man to have his own way, until the final test is applied, when he must choose between conscience and selfish lusts, between God and self. The combination of great capacities and low aims and passions occurs more often than we are apt to think. Balaam parleys with the temptation. He tampers with his own conscience and tempts God to change his mind, whom he knew and declared to be immutable. As God sometimes denies the prayers of his people in love, so sometimes he grants the desires of the wicked in wrath. It is a fearful thing when God leaves a man to follow his own will. (Jer. 2:19; Isa. 66:4; 17:10, 11; Hos. 9:12)

25:1 — COMMIT WHOREDOM WITH THE DAUGHTERS OF MOAB —

In Num. 31:16 and Rev. 2:14 it is stated that Balaam counseled Balak and the prince of Moab and Midian to do this. The professed man of God grovelled in the mire of sin in his desire to obtain Balak's proffered wealth. He said to the king, "The reason I am not permitted to curse Israel is that they are blessed of the Lord; but I will explain to you that the Lord's blessing is with them because they are his consecrated people, in covenant relationship with him, seeking to obey his law. The only way you could bring a curse on Israel would be by tempting them to disobey God." Guided by Balaam, Balak communicated with the leading people of the Midianites and urged that their wives and daughters would apparently fall in love with the Israelites and introduce them to the sensuous religious rites practiced by Midian. In proportion as they would succeed in ensnaring the Israelites into sin and idolatry, in that proportion the curse of Israel's law would fall upon Israel. How sad it is and yet how true that knowledge is a dangerous thing to those who misuse it! How true it is today that none can make so successful tools of Satan, as those who have some knowledge of God. (Z. '13-297; R.5323)

25:9 — THOSE THAT DIED IN THE PLAGUE WERE TWENTY AND FOUR THOUSAND —

The death of thousands of Israelites on such occasions was the whole penalty for their sin. God's covenant was that if they would obey him they should be His people and He would bless their every temporal interest, but if they would neglect his statutes and engage in idolatry He would bring upon them various plagues. (Deut. 7:15) This course would not only punish them for their wrong-doing, but would serve as a lesson, warning, to restrain them from excesses such as were common among the heathen.

They did not drop into a hell of torture, but merely fell asleep to await the better day of Messiah, the antitype of Moses, when they will be awakened from the sleep of death and be brought to a full, clear knowledge of those things which, at the very most, they enjoyed only in a typical way. (Z. '13-297; R.5323) (See Deut. 4:3; Lev. 18:24-28)

25:17 — VEX THE MIDIANITES — Possibly as Balaam passed the Israelites camp on his way home he may have made offers to the Israelite leaders, and because he did not find the expected reception, he returned secretly and, by the aid of a Midianite chief who was camping on the outskirts of Moab, he made the offer to Balak as to how he could procure a curse on Israel, to secure from him the coveted rewards of iniquity. He sought all the time to hide from himself the baseness of his conduct under the pretense of a desire to lay upon the broadest basis a sure alliance between Moab and Israel.

(Lang)

35:2 — THAT THEY GIVE UNTO THE LEVITES — Because the Levites had no inheritance in the land.

35:6 — AMONG THE CITIES WHICH YE SHALL GIVE UNTO THE LEVITES, THERE SHALL BE SIX CITIES FOR REFUGE — The six cities chosen as cities of refuge were all of them cities of the Levites, which would all the more insure their being free from tribal prejudice. The tribe of Levi stood separate and distinct from all the other tribes and was especially instructed in all. As the religious representatives of the nation, it was fitting therefore that these refugees from justice should be of the Levite wards—under their protection. (Z. '02-311; R.3092)

35:11 — THAT THE SLAYER MAY FLEE THITHER — These cities were not shelter for the wilful murderer; but the authorities, after a fair trial, delivered such up to the just penalty of their crime which was death. He was received into the city and protected until the trial could take place.
(Z. '02-312; R.3092)

WHICH KILLETH ANY PERSON AT UNAWARES — We are now abiding in the hallowed precincts of this salvation, deliverance, refuge, which God has provided for us. And yet, as in the type, it is a place of refuge, not from wilful and intentional violation of divine law, but a refuge to cover our weaknesses and ignorance—the results of the fall. As a thorough investigation of motives, intention, etc., will be made. This refuge in Christ was specially intended for those who are “New Creatures in Christ Jesus” whose sinful course prior to coming to a knowledge of the Lord is accounted, not as intentional or wilful, but ignorance. Our responsibilities for wilful sin may be said to begin with and keep pace with our knowledge of divine law.

35:14 — THREE CITIES ON THIS SIDE JORDAN AND THREE CITIES SHALL YE GIVE IN THE LAND OF CANAAN — These were so scattered throughout the length and breadth of Palestine as to be convenient for the whole people.

35:15 — SHALL BE A REFUGE — “God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in the time of trouble.” (Psa. 46:1) We realize that a death sentence has been issued which involves each of us. We realize too, that justice has a full right to pursue us unto death, because we “all have sinned and come short of the glory of God.” (Rom. 3:23; 5:12) From the moment we realize we are sinners—that we could not stand approved in the divine presence—from that moment we realize that the avenger, Justice, is upon our trail and that it is only a question of a few years before we will be overtaken and destroyed unless we reach some place of refuge. As we flee we see finger posts which God has set for our instruction, pointing us to Christ as the only place of refuge and to him we have to flee. (Heb. 6:18)

MAY FLEE THITHER — It was a further regulation that the routes leading to these cities of refuge should be built and kept in thorough order, free from stumbling stones, with bridges over water courses, etc., so as to afford the guilty one full opportunity for rapid flight to safety. Moreover, at frequent intervals, sign boards were erected pointing in the direction of the city of refuge, and bearing the word, “Refuge.”

It was also a custom among Jews that two scribes accompany the refugee with the special object of persuading the avenger, should he overtake the culprit, to permit him to reach the city of refuge and there have a proper trial of his cause to hear what could be said on his behalf. This was a recognition of the justice of vengeance, but also an inculcation of mercy. Apparently the whole people felt a sympathy for every person fleeing from an avenger to a city of refuge, as each one realized his own liability at sometime to commit a similar offense and thus likewise need to seek refuge and mercy. (Z. '02-312; R.3092) (Deut. 19:3)

35:19 — WHEN HE MEETETH HIM HE SHALL SLAY HIM — The fact that so many particulars were enumerated shows that the trial contemplated was to be a careful one; it was not, therefore, the intention of these cities to defeat the ends of justice, but while serving the ends of justice, but mercy might be extended to those who were proper subjects for it. If the man was found guilty of deliberate murder, intentional, premeditated, the city of refuge did not save him from the death penalty. (Z. '02-312; R.3092)

35:25 — HE SHALL ABIDE IN IT UNTIL THE DEATH OF THE HIGH PRIEST — If he were acquitted of any malice, he nevertheless was obliged to remain in the city of refuge, or within its suburbs of 1,000 cubits around the walls (Num. 35: 26, 28, 4) for the remainder of his life, or until the death of the High Priest. This was putting a heavy penalty upon carelessness, passion, etc., a penalty of separation from family, a restriction of liberty which, undoubtedly, would be beneficial, not only to the individual under restriction, but in its influence, beneficial upon the whole people. The careless man is culpable and when his carelessness results in serious injury to another, it is but right that the matter should result in his own inconvenience—that it should cost him something. (Z. '02-312; R.3092)

35:27 — WITHOUT THE BORDERS OF THE CITY OF HIS REFUGE — Although acquitted as respects wilful sin whose penalty would be the second death, we must continue to “abide in him”—that we do not put off the robe of Christ’s righteousness. If we leave the city of refuge—if we abandon our trust in the precious blood which cleanseth us from all sin, we become liable again to the demands of justice and that without mercy. Divine justice is represented by the avenger, as divine mercy is represented in the city of refuge, and he who would leave the city of refuge would necessarily fall into the hands of justice, “so it is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God” (Heb. 10:31), to depart from Christ, to abandon the mercy and forgiveness which the Father has extended towards us as culprits—through the beloved one.

35:28 — UNTIL THE DEATH OF THE HIGH PRIEST — How long must we abide thus in the mercy of God and have no standing or liberty outside of Christ’s robe of righteousness, no safety outside of his provision or refuge? “Until the death of the High Priest.” For the church this means until the entire membership of the great High Priest of the world has died and been resurrected to perfection beyond the veil in the first resurrection. Our head, Jesus, has already finished the work the Father gave him to do and the members of his body are filling up that which is behind of the afflictions of Christ, and soon the entire priest, its every member, will have died. Then, made perfect in the first resurrection, we will no longer need to own our own imperfections and the need of a covering before justice, but will be presented before the Father, unreprouvable, without spot or wrinkle, or any such thing, without any vengeance against us on the part of divine justice. (Z. ’02-313; R.3093)

For the world this means: as long as the Christ continues in the priestly office (over the world in the Millennium), until He is able to present all the redeemed who abide in him under the New Covenant conditions, faultless before the throne of God at the end of the Millennial reign as King and Priest. Then, being made actually perfect, by the great Redeemer, Physician, they will be able to stand, not in the imputed or reckoned righteousness of another, but in their own glorious perfection, yet never forgetful of the great atoning sacrifice and the patient work of restitution which made possible such a glorious consummation. (Z. ’07-317; R.4080)

AFTER THE DEATH OF THE HIGH PRIEST — The High Priest was, in some respects, the most prominent individual in the nation, and his death would be known to all the tribes, being such a notable event, and on that occasion all refugees in all cities of refuge would be at liberty to return to their homes, free from danger from the avenger, the latter’s opportunity expiring with the death of the High Priest. Were he to avenge after that he would be the murderer and be obliged to flee to a city of refuge. This arrangement is the reverse of our present day arrangement of jails, penitentiaries, etc., and in some respects, at least, it presents advantages. The culprit himself was the one who sought the prison and who desired to stay therein for his own protection during the appointed time. This avoided the necessity of building massive, walled, iron-barred jails from which prisoners continually seek to escape; and instead of inciting the people to the pursuit of the offender, presuming his guilt even before his trial, it rather led to the supposition of the culprit's innocence and the desire and sympathy on the part of the people to assist him to safety and protection and mercy. (Z. '02-312; R.3092)

DEUTERONOMY

5:5 — I STOOD BETWEEN THE LORD AND YOU — So the antitypical Moses, the Christ, head and body, will stand between God and the world and will for 1,000 years shield the people from the requirements of absolute justice. (Z. '10-227; R.4646)

One object of such a plan is the placing of the fallen race beyond the reach of divine justice and under the special supervision of Jesus who, as the Father's representative, proposes, not only to satisfy justice, but to instruct, correct and restore as many of the fallen race as shall show their desire for harmony with justice. Such he will ultimately turn over to the justice of the Law, but then so perfected as to be able to endure its perfect requirements. (E18)

5:22 — AND HE ADDED NO MORE — Adventists divide the law into two parts, calling the decalogue "the Law of God" and the remainder the "Law of Moses," and then claim that Christ did away with the Law of Moses but not the Law of God. But this is an awful mistake. It was all the Law of God because it came from Him, and it was all the Law of Moses because it came through him. (Lev. 26:46; Deut. 5:5) Thus Jesus in Mark 7:10 quotes one of the ten commandments (Ex. 20:12; Deut. 5:16) and then, in the same verse, a law which was not in the decalogue (Ex. 21:17; Lev. 20:9) and yet attributes them both to Moses. He was not the author of either, but he was the agent through whom God delivered both commands. (Peoples Pulpit, Vol. 2:1) See Rom. 7:6, 7.

6:7 — THOU SHALT TEACH THEM DILIGENTLY UNTO THY CHILDREN — What a wonderful conception of the truth of God, handed down from one generation to another, preserving alive the healthful influence of a strong religious faith within the nation. So each generation would rise higher than the former, as in commandment two, and how great a condemnation upon our own times, when this Divine injunction has been all but universally ignored, with the dire results already manifested among the young.

7:1 — HATH CAST OUT MANY NATIONS BEFORE THEE — Some have been inclined to question the justice of God's giving Israel the land of Canaan already inhabited by others and commanding them to destroy the inhabitants, man, woman, child, etc., and take possession of Canaan as their own. This transaction is held up as an illustration of the "land-grabbing" disposition of the natural man. "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof." He had a right to give Canaan to the descendants of Abraham without giving a reason why to any creature. He had a right to give it when and how and to whom he pleased. He does, however, condescend to inform us why: that in blotting out these many little nations of Palestine, descendants of Noah's grandson, Canaan (Gen. 9:22-27; 1 Chron. 1:13-16; Deut. 20:15, 16), he did so, not along arbitrary lines, but in exact justice. These Canaanites (known by various tribal names) were not ignorant savages, but quite civilized peoples who, after the manner of the Sodomites, had gone into a great excess of licentious idolatry. (Deut. 18:9-14; 12:31) In Abraham's time, God foresaw where their course would lead them, but he delayed to bring the promised seed into their land for a time because "the iniquity of the Amorites was not yet come to the full." (Gen. 15:16) These people were to be destroyed for two reasons: first, to have permitted them to live and become incorporated with the Israelites in the land, by intermarriage, etc., would have been injurious to the seed of Abraham which God intended to develop and of which he designed to make types for Spiritual Israel. Second, in the type which the Lord was making on a large scale, these Canaanites or Amorites represented the weaknesses and imperfections of the fallen nature. They symbolized sin, and their destruction by the Israelites prefigured the destruction of sin, the blotting out of the blemishes of sin and the gradual uplifting (vss. 22, 23) of God's people in the antitype of Canaan—the Millennial Kingdom.

The chief difficulty in most minds, in connection with this slaughtering of the inhabitants of Canaan lies in the unscriptural thought, brought into the church from the dark ages, that the death of one is really the entrance into a more abundant life, under either pleasure or torment, and that these Canaanites, being wicked, were, without further opportunity, thrown at one into an eternity of flaming torture under the control of demons. But this is not anything like the thought in the Bible. According to the Scriptures, death is really death, and these Canaanites, when slain, became unconscious, non-existent, and will remain so until the resurrection time. They shall come forth in the Millennium, as our Lord's words indicate (John 5:28, 29), come forth to the judgment resurrection; to the gradual raising up that will be instituted in the Millennium, a raising up of all who will be obedient to the judgments, disciplines, corrections in righteousness, which will then be brought to bear upon the whole world of mankind by the great Judge, our Lord Jesus. Thus we can readily see that no injustice was done to the Canaanites by our Lord's decree and, as far as they were concerned, they suffered no more than, if as much as, if some pestilence or common disaster or famine had come upon them. They suffered the death penalty, as all mankind must suffer it. God so loved all the world that He gave his only begotten Son to redeem the race from the curse of death, which came upon all through Adam's disobedience—and he who redeemed the world is soon to bless all the families of the earth with a gracious opportunity to come back into harmony with God, back to human perfection. (Ezek. 16:53-55) (Z.'02-297; R.3084)

7:2 — UTTERLY DESTROY THEM — We may notice here that these seven nations were to be utterly destroyed (Josh. 6:21) and no mercy shown them. But the other nations beyond these were not to be so destroyed (vs. 22), but the Lord was to drive them out little by little, “lest the beasts of the field increase upon thee.” (See Ex. 23:29, 30; Josh. 10:40; 23:4, 5)

7:11 — THOU SHALT THEREFORE KEEP THE COMMANDMENTS — While Israel was thus called or invited, it was a conditional call which the nation as a whole never complied with. (Z.'11-83; R.4781)

7:19 — SO SHALL THE LORD THY GOD DO UNTO ALL THE PEOPLE OF WHOM THOU ART AFRAID — This is great encouragement to the Spiritual Israelite, that God will give us strength to overcome all the evil tendencies of our old nature, only let our faith be strong and constant and very courageous. Whenever we feel a bit discouraged or faint-hearted, let us look back upon all the great things which the Lord hath done for us.

13:3 — THE LORD YOUR GOD PROVETH YOU — The Lord will not accept us merely because we are consecrated. He requires that our consecration be proven. To begin with he accepts our consecration, then he tests us to demonstrate to what extent we really love him. (Z.'11-409; R.4910)

16:9 — SEVEN WEEKS SHALT THOU NUMBER UNTO THEE — The wheat and barley harvest were gathered during these seven weeks.

18:1 — ALL THE TRIBE OF LEVI SHALL HAVE NO PART NOR INHERITANCE WITH ISRAEL — In the finished antitype the priests picture the Little Flock and the Levites the Great Company. This type shows that the Great Company, like the Little Flock, will have no inheritance in the earthly promises, in restitution. Their inheritance will be on the spirit plane, separate and distinct from all the remainder of the world, which will then come into blessing under the Royal Priesthood and this company of Levites as instructors. (Z.'10-245; R.4655)

27:12, 13 — UPON MOUNT GERIZIM . . . UPON MOUNT EBAL — “Dr. Faunce said that he stood on Mt. Gerizim and his travelling companion on Mt. Ebal (G.W. Gardner, now of Iowa) and alternately read these blessings and curses while others stood in the valley and responded, Amen, and that all could hear distinctly every word, although the readers were a mile apart.” These mountains or peaks are 800 feet high and are separated by a valley, green and well-watered, 500 yards wide. What a grand auditorium this valley was and how admirably arranged by nature’s great architect, that “blessings” and “curses” could be heard from cliff to cliff and from the valley below. How impressive the scene must have been! (Z. ’83-5-3; R.479)

30:15 — I HAVE SET BEFORE THEE THIS DAY LIFE AND GOOD AND DEATH AND EVIL — Thus, in a certain sense, the Jewish nation was typically justified and typically on trial for life or death, but this was not an actuality as far as life and death eternal were concerned, because God knew in advance that they could not keep the Law and that they never could have eternal life under it. He had arranged in advance that they should be redeemed from the curse of the Law irrespective of anything they themselves might do in the matter. Hence it was only in the typical sense, or figurative, that they were on trial for life or death. (Z. ’10-132; R.4598)

32:2 — AS THE SHOWERS UPON THE GRASS — Of all the beautiful new things that grow in the spring days of the year, there is none more necessary to man, both for utility and beauty, than the grass. The new blade, the small and tender stalk with new blossom bud encased in delicately-veined sheaths are such commonplace sights that we pass them by, giving our attention to the more showy things—fragrant bough of blossoming apple at eye-level, or higher up to the pyramids of fringed flowers of the freshly unclenched palms of the horse-chestnut leaves. The grass mantles with its tender green the fields and road sides and even the vacant lots of the city and furnishes a setting for so many other things. After a period of rainlessness, the frail blades do not dry up so quickly as plants of greater growth, for grass makes the most of the nightly dew. It thrives on the early morning mists and light showers that make no measurable quantity, but are new life to the myriads of slender grasses. The name of the Lord—the good news of Christ on your tongues—shall be to the weary and discouraged hearts as strengthening as the gentle shower to the thirsty, young grass. Refreshment and new vigor are in the words that are yours to give. Never disappoint the expectant ears with a lesser message, but declare always the name of the Lord, which shall revive the drooping spirit as the small rain upon the tender grass.

32:11 — BEARETH THEM ON HER WINGS —Texts on eagles: Matt. 24:28; Luke 17:37; Rev. 12:14; Psa. 103:5; Isa. 40:31; Ex. 19:4; Job 39:26-30; Prov. 30:19; Psa. 91:3; Isa. 33:17; 63:9.

32:50 — DIE IN THE MOUNT — Moses was the meekest man in all the earth. (Num. 12:3) Doubtless this had to do with the Lord's choice of Moses as the leader of his people. For 40 years the nation of Israel looked to him in every emergency and it should not be surprising that at the close of the 40 years, the meekest man in all the earth had lost so much of his meekness that he was not allowed to enter Canaan. He was deprived of that privilege because he was not sufficiently meek—because, having lost so considerably of his original meekness, he smote the rock in the wilderness saying, “Ye rebels, must we bring you water out of this rock?” (Num. 20) If the meekest man in all the earth, and one of the greatest men in the world's history, was thus overcome by the circumstances of his position among the people, it should not surprise us if we find some in Spiritual Israel who start out meek and humble, become more or less arrogant, too, and talk about what they do or must do and assume that the others are dependent upon them for the water of life. (Z. '06-311; R.3866)

34:5 — THE WORD OF THE LORD — Word, from “peh,” the mouth (as a means of blowing), from “pawaw,” a primitive root, to puff, or blow away. (Strong's Conc.)

34:9 — JOSHUA — See note on Josh. 1:1.

THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL HEARKENED UNTO HIM — Israel unquestioningly accepted the Lord's choice of a leader. As a people they were evidently learning some thing by their experience in the wilderness training school. At the beginning of their sojourn they were scarcely willing to recognize even Moses; but now they had come along so far as to be able to see that the Lord was their real leader, and that even though Moses had died without bringing them into the promised land, God, who had made the promise of Canaan to Abraham, Isaac, Jacob and themselves, was abundantly able to accomplish the promise and hence they were willing to accept whatever leadership the Lord would indicate. Spiritual Israel is to learn the same lesson. Human leaders are important in their way—insofar as they are the divine choice—so far as we can see in them the Lord's promised guidance of his people. But we are never to think of human leaders as indispensable; and God may do the like again, namely, remove a trusted leader and appoint another in his stead, to the intent that his people may learn that he is their real leader, that with him as their guide they will surely have success, and that without him all earthly leadership would be vain. (Z. '02-285; R.3079)

Moses prefigured the Law, the schoolmaster which was to bring God's people to the promised land, to the promised blessing, restitution, etc. As Israel was unready to enter in and possess the land because of lack of faith in the beginning and therefore had its wilderness journey extended to forty years—so on account of lack of faith at our Lord's first advent that were prevented from joining with him in the restitution work and were made to wander to gain further experiences and leadings during the past nineteen centuries and now, at the close of these experiences, they, as well as Spiritual Israel, are again at the borders of the land of promise, the Millennial Kingdom. This time Joshua will take command, the Jordan will be crossed and the gracious promises begin to have their fulfillment. Meantime the Joshua class, the Church, has been in process of development and after the great time of trouble which is near at hand, the world in general will be ready to follow the leadership of Jesus, as it is written. (Mic. 4:2) (Z.'02-'285; R.3079)

34:10 — FACE TO FACE — See Ex. 33:20, “Thou canst not see my face, for no man shall see my face and live” (John 1:18) “No man hath seen God at any time.” (John 5:37) “We have neither heard his voice at any time, nor seen his shape.” (1 Tim. 6:16) “Who dwelleth in the light no man can approach unto, whom no man hath seen nor can see.” (Gen. 48:3) “And Jacob said unto Joseph, God almighty appeared unto me at Luz.” (Gen. 32:30) “For I have seen God face to face and my life is preserved.” (Hos. 12:4) “He had power with God, yea he had power over the angel, and prevailed.” (Ex. 3:6) “He said, I am the God of thy Father, the God of Abraham...and Moses hid his face for he was afraid to look upon God.” (Ex. 3:2) “The angel of Jehovah appeared unto him in a flame of fire out of the midst of the bush.” (Acts 7:35) “This Moses did God send by the hand of the angel which appeared unto him in the bush.” (Ex. 19:3) “Moses went up unto God.” (Ex. 24:10) “And saw the God of Israel and there was, under his feet, as it were a paved work of a sapphire, and as it were the body of heaven in clearness.” (Deut. 5:4) “Jehovah talked with you (Israelites, 70 elders) face to face in the mount, out of the midst of the fire.” (Deut. 5:24) “And ye said, Behold Jehovah our God hath showed us his glory and his greatness and we have heard his voice out of the midst of the fire and we have seen this day that God doth talk with man and he liveth.” (Num. 12:7, 8) “My servant Moses is not so, who is faithful in all mine house. With him will I speak mouth to mouth, even apparently and not in dark speeches; and the similitude of the Lord shall he behold.” (Acts 7:38) “This (Moses) is he who was in the congregation in the desert, with that angel who spoke to him on Mt. Sinai; and with our fathers who received the living oracles.” (Gal. 3:19) “It (the Law) was ordained by angels in the hands of a mediator.” (Acts 7:53) “Who receiveth the Law by the disposition of angels and have not kept it.” (Heb. 1:14) “Are they (the angels) (vs. 13) not all ministering spirits, sent forth to minister for them who shall be heirs of salvation?” (Created for that very purpose—vs. 7) (Judges 13:22) “Manoah said, we shall surely die, because we have seen God.” (Jud. 13:12) “For Manoah knew not that he was an angel of the Lord.” From the above it is clearly seen that whenever Jehovah is spoken of as having appeared, or manifested himself to man, he did so only in a mediatorial or representative sense, never in person; but in order that the message should be regarded as emanating directly from Him, the speaker always personified God.

JOSHUA

1:1 — JOSHUA THE SON OF NUN — Joshua is calculated to have been about eighty-three years old at the time. He must have been either the oldest man in all the nation, or next to the oldest, for only himself and Caleb of all the nation that were above the age of twenty at the Exodus remained alive. (Z. '07-281; R.4060)

His name originally was Hoshea, the same as the prophet. (Num. 13:8; Deut. 32:44) The name signifies “salvation” or help. Subsequently the name was changed to Jehoshua (Num. 13:16)—“Jehovah is Salvation.” This was later shortened to Joshua, and the latter modified to Jeshua. (Neh. 8:17) This latter name, in its Greek form in the Septuagint, is Jesus, Jesus, the significant name given to our Lord at His birth. (Z. '07-281; R.4060)

He was of the tribe of Ephraim (Num.13:8; 1 Chron 7:22-27), of one of the leading families. His grandfather, Elishama was captain of the Ephraimites, 40,500 in number at the organization soon after the exodus. (Num. 1:10; 2:18, 19) We find him with Moses as his special companion at Mt. Sinai. We find him again as the representative of Moses, the General of all Israel in the battle fought with the Amalekites. We find him again one of the leading men of all the tribes sent to spy out the land of promise and, on this occasion, he and Caleb were the only two whose faith in the Lord enabled them to return a favorable report and, as we have seen, in the giving of this report, they hazarded their lives—so great was the disappointment of the Israelites and so fully were they in sympathy with the report of the Israelites and so fully were they in sympathy with the report of the majority. (Z. '02-284; R.3079)

This training with Moses was evidently most valuable to him as a preparation for his future work. It made him familiar with the divine plans and methods as understood and practiced by Moses, whose confidence he seems to have had in a remarkable degree. (Z. '07-281; R.4060)

Notwithstanding his high position as Moses' chosen minister, he seems to have been entirely void of that ambition which led to the overthrow of Korah, Dathan and Abiram and many of the princes of Israel and which previously had affected Miriam and Aaron. All these events seem to indicate that Joshua was a man of large faith and large courage. Although he is not mentioned as being so meek as Moses, we may from these considerations judge that the man whom the Lord chose for Moses' successor was indeed a meek man, and that his courage, exemplified in every feature of his history, was the result of his faith in the Lord. In every way, therefore, Joshua was peculiarly fitted to be the Lord's servant in leading the Israelites into Canaan, and in every way he must have had the confidence of the people for such a position and service more than any other man in the world. (Z. '02-284; R.3079; Z. '07-281; R.4061) (See Deut. 34:9)

MOSES' MINISTER — Prime Minister.

1:2 — NOW THEREFORE ARISE — It was not sufficient that Moses had given Joshua a course of training preparing him for this service. It was necessary that the Lord, who proclaimed himself the real leader of Israel, should specially authorize Joshua to take command and lead the people into Canaan. The intimation is that Joshua, like Moses, was a meek man, humble-minded, and that instead of attempting to grasp authority, he needed rather that the Lord encourage him to undertake the responsibility of the position of a leader. Happy would it be for all the Lord's people if they were similarly meek and backward. All should criticize their own hearts and motives along these lines and such as find in themselves an ambitious spirit should remember its dangers to themselves and others, for the Lord resists the proud but giveth grace to the humble. (Z. '07-281; R.4061)

1:3 — THAT HAVE I GIVEN UNTO YOU — The nation of Israel needed encouragement because, although they had been forty years in preparation for this very event, still they realized that great difficulties stood before them. The river Jordan was to be crossed and, at this particular time, it was swollen and large; the enemy, ready to refuse their advances, was keen and on the alert and better used to warfare than they. If they should succeed in crossing the river in the face of their enemies it would appear to mean a great expenditure of energy and a great loss of life. They had no bridges, nor pontoons on which to construct temporary bridges, and, on the other side, if they ever reached it, they knew that the cities were strongwalled, with a view to withstanding attacks and sieges and they were comparatively unprepared as respects military equipment, battering rams, etc. The Lord began that work of encouragement by encouraging Joshua their leader, by reminding him that God had promised him the land. But the promise of verse 3 implied that nothing was theirs except as the soles of their feet claimed possession. It was theirs by faith in that promise—a faith that would lead to works. And so of spiritual Israel. He gives to us better promises, exceeding great and precious promises, but they are ours only in proportion as we take them and appropriate them and act upon them, and through such exercise of faith and obedience gain the desired strength and blessing. (Z. '07-282; R.4061)

1:4 — ALL THE LAND OF THE HITTITES — Higher critics were once inclined to think this reference to the Hittites an egregious error because they could find no record of such a people and because the Bible, from their standpoint, is to be considered as on a lower plane than the secular histories of the world. However, all of this has been changed in the last few years, because excavations made in Assyria have disclosed ancient tablets whose testimony fully corroborates the statement that the Hittites were at this time a mighty people. Those who discount the Bible statements are at a disadvantage, while those who accept them are sure to be on the right side and sooner or later to have their confidence and faith justified by evidences. (Z. '02-285; R.3079)

SHALL BE YOUR COAST — The Lord here outlines the boundaries of the promised land, the very boundaries which marked, practically, the possession of Israel at the close of the reign of David and throughout the reign of Solomon. This definiteness on stating the boundaries would strengthen their faith and indicate to them clearly when they had obtained possession of all that the Lord had given them. We may reasonably suppose that had their faith and courage been equal to the task they would have been capable of taking possession of that land promptly, but as it was they took possession of only a portion and the Amalekites and Canaanites still dwelt with them in the land and afterwards gave them trouble. This may be an illustration of how the Christian's full consecration means the surrender of everything to the Lord, that his spirit and his will may have full control of our bodies and spirits, which are his. In proportion as we have faith and avail ourselves of the Lord's assistance, we may equally take possession of our mortal bodies and transfer our talents to the service of the Lord and his cause. But if, through fear or sympathy with sin we permit the will of the flesh to dominate us here or there in this or that or the other affairs of life, we will always have trouble in proportion. The sins and weaknesses which we fail to fight against will be sure eventually to fight against us and to injure us as New Creatures. Hence our consecration and our faith should be so strong and full that we will fight a good fight against meanness in every avenue of our natures and in our sentiments, at last bringing every power of our natures into captivity to God. In proportion as the new mind fails to take possession of the mortal body and to rule it, in that proportion we will be weak when we should be strong, troubled when we should have peace, overcharged and ensnared when we should have the smile of God's favor. Not that we can attain actual perfection of the flesh but that we can and should have perfection of heart, will, intention and that quite early in our course. (Z. '07-282; R.4061)

1:5 — AS I WAS WITH MOSES, SO WILL I BE WITH THEE — God's encouragement of Joshua was not along the lines common among men. He did not say, "Remember your age and long experience and previous successes as a General," but gave him the better counsel, the assurance that as he had stood by Moses, so he would be with him and not forsake him and would not fail him in any test or trouble. He was assured that, because of the Lord's assistance, no one would be able to withstand him all the days of his life, nor would any Israelite be permitted to occupy his place as the captain of the hosts during his lifetime. So is the Lord's message to his church. In this let us rejoice, while realizing that of ourselves we can do nothing. (Z. '07-282; R.4061)

But as Paul says, "I can do all things through Christ who strengtheneth me." (Phil. 4:13) And so it is with all the true followers of the Lord: we do not know how much we can accomplish, we do not know if there would be any limitations to our powers within the limits of the Lord's commands and while upheld by his promise. We must remember, however, the limitation "without me ye can do nothing" and again that what we are to do is clearly indicated in the divine word and we are not to look for nor expect divine aid beyond those limitations. Just as with Joshua and Israel. Had they gone outside the boundaries of Canaan as specified in the Lord's word, they could not have expected the divine assistance. So Jesus' words, "If ye abide in me and my words abide in you"—under these limitations we can do and be and pray anything and everything, but outside these limitations we must expect nothing. (Z. '07-283; R.4061)

I WILL NOT FAIL THEE NOR FORSAKE THEE — This same power of God in still larger measure is to be with the antitype of Moses and Joshua, the new leader of the world, Christ, the head, and the church, his body, in the restitution work. As it was God with Moses and God with Joshua that brought the victories, so it will be the power of God with the church that will bring the coming victories. (Psa. 110:5; 2:8; 1 Cor. 15:27) As none were able to stand before Joshua as the Lord's representative, so none of the great forces of evil and the obstructions now in the pathway of the fulfillment of God's promises shall stand. All must fall before the antitypical Joshua. (Rom. 14:11) Satan himself shall be amongst those great enemies to be overthrown and utterly destroyed, and all of his evil works, death itself being finally completely blotted out as an opponent of those in harmony with God and approved by him—all others being destroyed in the second death, which is not an enemy, either to God nor to those in accord with him, or to any principle of righteousness or truth. (Z. '02-285; R.3079)

1:6 — BE STRONG AND OF A GOOD COURAGE — The Hebrew word here rendered "strong" is one which rather implies strength of the arms and shoulders and thus gives the thought of aggressive warfare, while the word rendered "courage" has an association with the lower limbs and thus implies defensive or resistive power, steadfastness. So then, the Lord exhorted Joshua to be strong and to have confidence, to lay hold on the blessings he and the Israelites were commissioned to take and possess, and he urged him to be of good courage, to be firm in resisting opposition and very steadfast in the face of difficulties. The Lord's people today need to apply to themselves this same encouragement, for we contend, not only against the world and the flesh, but even with wicked spirits in influential positions. How much courage we must have if we should come off more than conquerors through him who loved us. (Z. '07-283; R.4061)

1:7 — THAT THOU MAYEST OBSERVE TO DO ACCORDING TO ALL THE LAW — This evidently refers to moral courage, strong and very courageous in obedience to divine commands. This injunction implied that Joshua would find obstacles and difficulties before him and discouragements in respect to observing holy things. Perhaps the greatest battles any of us have to fight are those which none may know except ourselves—mental battles. Our first battle is to gain the consent and full co-operation of our wills with the divine word. Then let us go on to victory after victory, battling against the world, flesh and Adversary. Once our hearts are fully surrendered to his law it should never again be necessary to have another battle there, the victory should be so far reaching. (Z. '07-284; R.4062)

TURN NOT FROM IT TO THE RIGHT HAND OR TO THE LEFT — This does not signify a turning aside completely, but rather, according to the original "Require neither more nor less than the divine standard, seek to keep as nearly as possible in absolute alignment with the divine word." (Z. '02-285; R.3080)

1:8 — THEN THOU SHALT MAKE THY WAY PROSPEROUS — No clearer expression of the divine will could be made to the antitypical Joshua and his body members than is here given. Its teaching is that there is no safety, no real success, except in obedience to the divine will, as recorded in the divine word. (See Psa. 40:8; 119:97; as Jesus said in John 8:29) This is not, of course (meditation day and night) to be taken too literally, that we should do nothing else day and night than think upon Scripture. But that we should ever have in mind, in connection with all of life's affairs, the thought that we are his, that he is our guide and director in all things, and that the slightest matter pertaining to our lives and interests, day and night, should be undertaken with due consideration of the Lord's will respecting the same. This implies, not merely a haphazard wish to do His will, but a studying of the divine word that we may know what that will is. As Joshua was told that his good success would be in proportion to his attention to divine law, so Spiritual Israel are informed that their success in making their calling and election sure will be proportionate to their loving obedience to the divine message. (Z. '07-284; R.4062)

So the Royal Priesthood must be copies, each, of the son of God, they must all have the divine law written in their hearts and wills, intentions, and as far as possible, each must see to it that this divine law is obeyed in all the affairs of life. As Jesus' success was in proportion to his obedience to the divine law, so we will make our calling and election sure in proportion as we come into harmony with the divine law of love—not success as respects earthly prosperity, perhaps, but as respects our real object in life, the prize of our high calling. (Z. '02-286; R.3080)

1:9 — HAVE NOT I COMMANDED THEE? — This question is asked by way of stimulating Joshua's thought—that he might realize that he had not commissioned himself or been commissioned by man to undertake this great work. Similarly, Jesus took not the honor on himself to be the High Priest of our profession, but that God called him to this position. So we, who seek to walk in Jesus' footsteps, are to consider that we have not chosen him, but he has chosen us, commissioned and authorized us to go forth in his name as ambassadors for him and the kingdom which he represents.

BE STRONG AND OF A GOOD COURAGE — There are different kinds of courage. One sort is begotten of egotism and self reliance, another kind is begotten of a recklessness which fails to take into account the difficulties of the situation. But the courage which the Lord inculcates and which all Spiritual Israelites are to seek to possess is one which, while coolly and calmly discerning the difficulties and trials of the way, and while humbly realizing its insufficiency for the occasion, is supported by a faith in the Lord, a trust in the divine promises, which enables them to be strong in the Lord and in the power of his might. (Z '02-285; R.3080)

1:10 — THEN JOSHUA COMMANDED — The promptness and zeal here displayed are worthy of emulation. As he loveth a cheerful giver, so he loveth those who are prompt and energetic in everything they undertake to be and to do for him and his cause. Let us, who are of the greater Joshua, the antitype, be very courageous also, very prompt, very zealous, that we may be used and useful more and more in the Master's service. (Z. '07-284; R.4062)

1:11 — PREPARE YOU VICTUALS — Jesus declared that his flesh, given for the life of the world, is the bread which came down from heaven, and when we remember that the preparation of this bread meant the death of our Lord Jesus, and also his resurrection as a spirit being, and that he was in this state of death or preparation for parts of three days, and that he arose on the third day, it may be that the Lord meant a lesson for spiritual Israelites about these three days of preparing victuals.

WITHIN THREE DAYS YE SHALL PASS OVER THIS JORDAN — Jesus referred to three larger days—"I do cures today and tomorrow, and the third day I shall be perfected." Here he includes himself and his church and speaks of large 1,000 year days. He was living in the beginning of the fifth

1,000 year day, then followed the sixth 1,000 year day, the second, and the third days would be the seventh 1,000 years. During the first two of these days the Lord and his church have done cures, cures of sin, binding up the broken-hearted and assisting whoever was willing to a measure of newness of life, doing good to all men as opportunity afforded, and the third day (the seventh 1,000 years) or the Millennium, in the Millennial morning, he shall be perfected, the entire body of Christ complete, and then the great restitution work shall begin. Again the same three days are referred to, and the temple used as an illustration. (See John 2:19-21) It is in harmony with this we regard the church, with her Lord, as being a part of the bread which God is now preparing. Our Lord Jesus was the bread which came down from heaven, and we have partaken of him, of his merit, and have been thereby transformed; and we, as the Apostle declares, have become part of the one loaf, the one bread, and we also, as part of the one bread, are being broken with the Lord. Thus, indirectly, this preparation of the Lord and the church with him, are represented in the three days victualling which is provided for the world of mankind and necessary for them before they can pass over Jordan and enter into the Millennial Canaan. (Z. '02-287; R.3080; See Z. '12-266; R.5087)

2:1 — TWO MEN TO SPY SECRETLY — Our Lord Jesus, the antitypical Joshua (head of it) sent two spies over into the antitypical Canaan, the Millennium, the third heaven. (1) Paul, “caught away into the third heaven,” and he brought back an encouraging report as to the ultimate overthrow of evil and the destruction of Satan. (2) The Apostle John, the Revelator, also saw visions of the world to come. He tells of the destruction of Satan and all the evil and the triumph of righteousness and of God’s people over sin and death. (Bro. C. E. Fowler, Wash., 6-10-08)

RAHAB — Rahab showed that she had faith in Jehovah. (vs. 11) Her house was on the town wall (vs. 15), probably near the town gate, so as to be convenient for persons coming in and going out of the city, therefore she was well-informed regarding events of the Exodus. (She evidently kept a lodging house and seems also to have been engaged in the manufacture of linen and the art of dyeing, for which the Phoenicians were early famous, since we find the flat roof of her house covered with stalks of flax put there to dry and a stock of scarlet line in her house.) She had heard of the passage of the Red Sea, of the utter destruction of Sihon and Og and of the irresistible progress of the Israelites. These led her to a firm faith in Jehovah as the true God and to the conviction that he purposed giving Canaan to the Israelites. She afterward married Salmon and became our Lord’s ancestor (on Joseph’s side.) (S.B.D.)

2:4 — I WIST NOT WHENCE THEY WERE — Strict truth in either Jew or heathen was but a little known virtue before the Gospel Age. The standards were not so high. (S.B.D.) As to her taking part against her country—fidelity to her country, in her case, would have been infidelity to her Maker in whom she had come to believe, and the higher duty to the true God eclipsed the duty to her native land. Thus, her life of shame may have been connected with the idolatry of her country and this would give a further stimulus, now that her heart was purified by faith, to the desire for the overthrow of her nation. (See Matt. 1:5; Heb. 11:31; Jas. 2:25) (S.B.D.)

2:18 — SCARLET THREAD — The scarlet thread typified faith in the ransom. Rahab may here represent the Ancient Worthy class, one of whom she was. (Heb. 11:31) As she had to await the crossing of Jordan and deliverance by Joshua, so the Ancient Worthies must await the lifting of the condemnation or death sentence at the hands of the Christ. Both the classes she represented and she herself were saved through faith in Joshua and in God.

3:1 — LODGED THERE BEFORE THEY PASSED OVER — The time selected for the entrance was the tenth day of the first month, Nisan or Abib (April). It was just forty years before that the Israelites had set out from Egypt for Palestine under Moses. Viewed from the human standpoint, it was a most unfavorable time of the year, because, although it was harvest time and favorable as respects the crop of the land into which they were entering, nevertheless it was flood time in the Jordan (vs. 15) when the melting snows in the Lebanon mountains caused the river, usually about 100 feet wide at this point, to overflow its banks, sometimes for several hundred feet, and, of course, its current was dangerous. However the Israelites had evidently learned something in the forty years of God's dealings with them and they were prepared for Joshua's announcement that a great miracle was to be wrought (vs. 5) which would demonstrate to them that God was for them and would drive away all fear from their hearts and impress the fear of them on their enemies. (Z. '07-285; R.4063)

We may presume that Canaanites should feel so much the more secure and less vigilant in any attempt to repel an invasion, supposing the river to be specially impassable at this particular season. Had the crossing been undertaken when the river was low, the Canaanites would undoubtedly have disputed the way and Israel would have had a severer battle with poor weapons against a probably well-equipped enemy. Besides the miracle God intended to work would have seemed much less forcible at any other season of the year. (Z. '02-298; R.3085) They needed the additional courage this miracle would give them.

3:10 — DRIVE OUT FROM BEFORE YOU THE CANAANITES — The Israelites needed to be encouraged for so great an undertaking, and so the various tribes of the Canaanites were mentioned by Joshua that the Israelites might know that they were all included in the Lord's bequest and that he had taken cognizance of the whole situation. It was much to Israel's advantage that these tribes were separate and did not co-operate to any particular degree.

3:13 — THE SOLES OF THE FEET OF THE PRIESTS — These typify the last living members of the body of Christ—“the soles of the feet of the priests.” At this moment the effect of the great earthquake or landslide in the Jordan began to have its effect. See note on verse 16.

THEY SHALL STAND UPON AN HEAP — God’s miracles are merely the operation of his power in material ways not understood at the time. The matter is none the less a miracle, because what overruling power caused the landslide to take place at the particular time when it would begin to affect the current of the river at just the time or moment when the feet of the priests touched the water. (Z. '07-286; R.4063)

3:14 — THE PEOPLE REMOVED FROM THEIR TENTS — The children of Israel encamped before Jordan represent the condition of the world at the beginning of the Gospel Age, awaiting entrance into the glorious conditions of the kingdom of Christ—“awaiting the manifestation of the sons of God.” (Bro. Fowler)

THE PRIESTS BEARING THE ARK OF THE COVENANT — About three-fourths of a mile intervened between the ark and the people, it going to the north of them. At the proper place it stood and its bearers, the priests, walked down to the river till their feet touched the water. The Israelites were intently watching what would be the program and, to the astonishment of all, when the priest’s feet touched the water the river began to shrink. Step by step they went onward into the channel, while the river grew smaller and smaller, until it was entirely dried up, and then the Ark rested in the middle of the river bed, while, according to the instructions of Joshua, the people on the bank crossed over quickly into the land of promise. Thus, so large a body of people crossed the river quickly, to the surprise and terror of their enemies, who supposed themselves surely safe from an attack behind such a barrier as the swollen Jordan.

BEFORE THE PEOPLE — This is significant in that it represented how our great High Priest and the Royal Priesthood, his Church, must first pass into Jordan before any of the people can pass over. (Z. '02-299; R.3086)

The last living members of the body (the soles of the feet) must complete their sacrifice in death before the condemnation can be lifted from the world, or the kingdom established.

3:15 — WERE DIPPED IN THE BRIM OF THE WATER — At this time the effect of the earthquake or landslide was visible. So, when the last members of the body have passed into Jordan (consecrated unto death and been begotten) then the four winds of Rev. 7 will be loosed and a great social upheaval may then take place. (Bro. C. E. Fowler)

3:16 — ROSE UP UPON AN HEAP VERY FAR FROM THE CITY ADAM

— If we were to suppose that the river rose up like a wall at the right hand of the priests, as though it had been cut by a knife, it would seem unreasonable, and the down-flowing waters would rise higher until they would overflow the banks on either side more and more, and the water of even a small river at this time of flood would amount to a considerable quantity and flood a large space. It is preferable that we understand the words of the record as implied in the R. V., to mean that the banking up of the waters was “a great way off, at Adam, the city that is beside Zaretan.” In other words, not close by the priests, but about twenty miles further up the river, near the town of Adam, where the river passes through a comparatively narrow gorge. It may have been that an earthquake temporarily elevated the channel at this narrow place, and thus gorged the waters for a time. Or a slip in the hillside may have carried a large body of soil into the valley and thus have choked the stream, which normally, even down at Jericho, is only 90 feet wide and 13 feet deep. As to how this may have occurred—“M. Gauneau has drawn attention to the fact mentioned in the history of Sultan Buybars, that in 1267 A.D., whilst the bridge at Gier Damich (or Adam) was being repaired, a landslide some miles above, dammed up the Jordan for several hours and the bed of the river below was dry, the water being drained off to the Dead Sea. What occurred 650 years ago by what we call natural causes, may well have occurred 3,000 years ago, timed by divine interposition.” (Z. '02-298; R.3085; Z. '07-286; R.4063)

THE PEOPLE PASSED OVER — The crossing of the Jordan is often associated with the crossing of the Red Sea. They are similar miracles, but with a difference. The passage of the Red Sea was a going into a wilderness, crossing Jordan was coming out of it. The first was a prelude to humiliation and suffering, the second to a time of a conquest and triumph. The first has been used to picture the Christian’s deliverance from the bondage of sin and his entrance upon the Christian life, a life of humiliation and suffering while in the flesh. The second picture his final victory and entrance into the heavenly inheritance. The passing into the glory of the Divine Nature is often spoken of as the crossing of Jordan, never as the crossing of the Red Sea. (B.S.M. Jan. 1959)

Obedient to the command of Joshua, the priests were carrying the Ark of the Covenant, covered with its blue cloth (representing the faithfulness of God) and at a respectable distance of 2,000 cubits (3,000 feet), the leaders of the people followed. (See Num. 10:11-28) How they were to cross the river no one but Joshua knew. But confident in their God and in Joshua, the priests went forward slowly and steadily down to the water’s edge. With perhaps only a moment’s hesitation, they stepped boldly into the water. As they did so, the wet mud appeared under their feet. Forward again, and again the water receded and the mud appeared. So they went on, more confidently now, and the water's edge retreated before them as fast as they stepped into it. Always the priests were advancing and the waters shrinking. The watching hosts on the hillside, kept back 2,000 cubits from the ark, would be shouting to each other in awe and wonder at this great thing the Lord was doing. There was but a brook now in the midst of Jordan. Farther up the valley, the watchers could see the river's bed was dry, no more water to come down, the last of the flow would soon pass on its way to the Dead Sea. The gateway into Canaan was now open before them. The priests had stopped and turned aside a little, with the Ark in their midst clearly visible, as they held it on their shoulders. They stood thus. There was a moving and jostling of men, and as though animated by one impulse, the whole host surged forward, down the slopes to the bare, hard mud, swarming on the level terraces, dropping by successive steps to the river bed. All the people with their tents, wagons and cattle, up to the terraces on the Canaanite side, and assembled in the wide meadows, beyond which could be seen the walls of the garrison town of Jericho. Not until the last stragglers had brought up the rear and made their way up the slopes to the Canaanite side, that the priests reformed their little party and, with the Ark, moved up out of the bed of the Jordan into the promised land. Behind them came the water. The channel was filling up again, water coming down from the upper reaches. And, as the people looked, the river began to flow in strength, lapping behind the feet of the slow-moving priests, until by the time they had reached the topmost level with their burden, the swirling flood stretched once more from bank to bank. Moab and Canaan were separated again, and no man might come or go. But the host of Israel was in Canaan. (B.S.M.)

Proving it was a miracle—at some time during the previous day Joshua said to the people—Sanctify yourselves for tomorrow the Lord will do wonders among you. (3:5) That night the Lord spoke to Joshua (vs. 7), “This day will I begin to magnify thee in the sight of all Israel.” In the morning Joshua told the people, “the waters of Jordan shall be cut off from the waters that come down from above and they shall stand upon a heap.” This speech must have been given not later than 9:00 a.m. for the people were all ready for the crossing, but would need to form in order and the priests to begin their march. If the drying up of the river bed was effected toward noon, the disaster at El Damich must have occurred not more than four hours before, for the velocity of water in the Jordan would drain the channel in that time. It must be concluded that the landslide occurred not earlier than 8:00 a.m., and yet Joshua knew precisely what was going to happen when he arose that morning. “The waters stood and rose up upon a heap.” Where was the heaping of the waters? The city “Adam” is the modern El Damich on the eastern bank of the river. At this point the Jordan traverses the narrowest part of its valley. It flows between clay banks ranging between 40 and 150 feet high. The clay is soft and landslides occur occasionally. A heavy landslide can dam the river completely until the weight of the mounting waters is enough to wash away the obstruction and permit the river to flow again. Such a thing happened three times in recorded history. On Dec. 8, 1267 A.D., the west bank at El Damich collapsed and dammed the river for 16 hours. (Arab historian, Nowairi) It meant that the bed of Jordan from El Damich to the Dead Sea was dry for all that time and any one could cross on foot. In 1906 the same thing happened in consequence of an earthquake, and again in 1927, according to Prof. Garstang, the earthquake shook all Palastine, and cracked the mount of Olives, causing the west bank at El Damich to collapse. The flow of water at this time was interrupted for 21 hours, and a number of people did actually cross on foot. (B.S.M. January 1959)

4:1 — WHEN ALL THE PEOPLE WERE PASSED CLEAN OVER

JORDAN — What does Jordan typify? It would seem to stand for, represent, the divine condemnation, the curse, the death sentence. (Its source was in the Lebanon mountains and its end was in the Dead Sea, representing Eden, perfection, to the state of death) against our race for the past 6,000 years which has hindered man from entering into the blessed kingdom conditions and opportunities and blessings which shall ultimately prevail for all. In this sense of the word death—Jordan would stand for it well—the death sentence. This seems to be implied in the name of the river, which is derived from the names of the two main springs from which it is formed—Jor, down; Dan, judged; judged down, condemned, and would stand for the divine condemnation which would hinder even those who desired to be the servants of God from entering into peace and rest and blessing and favor with God. (Z.'02-298; R.3086)

4:9 — JOSHUA SET UP TWELVE STONES IN THE MIDST OF JORDAN

— It was not necessary that the priests should remain in Jordan and die there on behalf of the delivered Israelites in order to complete the type. Instead, by the Lord's direction, twelve stones were placed where they stood, representing the twelve tribes of Israel—representing the 144,000 out of all the twelve tribes (Rev. 7:1-8) who constitute the Royal Priesthood and who become dead with Christ, according to the flesh, that they may live with him as New Creatures, partakers of the divine nature, and participators with him in the great work of blessing all the families of the earth. (Z.'02-299; R.3086)

4:10 — THE PRIESTS WHICH BARE THE ARK STOOD IN THE MIDST OF JORDAN

— Thus the Ark of God's Covenant, representing the Lord Himself, His grace, His goodness, His promises, should stand in the midst of Jordan, effecting a cancellation of the death sentence, in order that the Millennial blessings might be attained by all under the lead of Joshua's antitype. The fact that the High Priest and underpriests stood in the midst of Jordan while the people all crossed over, illustrates how the passing over, free from divine condemnation, will be effected by the work of the Great Priest and His associated brethren. He gave himself for our sins; he became a curse for us; he, as the man Christ Jesus, stopped in the midst of Jordan that the world might pass over; the Royal Priesthood are following Him in this sacrifice, and they, too, are stopping in the midst of Jordan; they also, as joint-heirs with their Lord, lay down their lives on behalf of the brethren—to the intent that the whole world of mankind, or as many as will, may enter into the glorious privileges of the Kingdom, according to the divine arrangement. (Z.'02-299; R.3086)

4:11 — WHEN ALL THE PEOPLE WERE CLEAN PASSED OVER —

Here the entrance into Canaan under the divine leadership of Joshua represents the entrance of all who love the Lord into the blessings and privileges of the Millennial kingdom. Joshua represents the Lord; the priests bearing the ark represents the Little Flock. The passing over the river of the Israelites represents the passing of mankind into the new dispensation where indeed there will be enemies to be conquered, weaknesses of the flesh to be overcome; and full possession is to be granted only at the close of the Millennium. Jordan represents death, Adamic death, the curse. Its being dried up pictures the cessation of the Adamic curse to all those desiring to be the Lord's people and to enter into his favor. The return of the waters of the Jordan behind the Israelites, shutting them in the land of promise, pictures the second death, which would be the portion of any who should renounce the goodly heritage which the Lord has provided for the redeemed world. (Z.'07-285; R.4063)

But as the Church has now (at justification) imputed to it the perfection which the world will have at the end of the Millennium (1 Pet. 1:9) and as we now taste of the powers of regeneration, powers of the world to come. (Heb. 6:5); so this crossing of Jordan would have a spiritual fulfillment upon the Church. Israel, who accepted Joshua, represents the justified believers in Jesus, who have accepted Him as the Pattern and Leader, and who propose to follow where He leads, a consecration unto death (because we are buried in the likeness of Jesus' death, who became a curse for the world) required of all who will become New Creatures in Christ Jesus and heirs with Him. To us, consecration means so much and seems so formidable, but under the Lord's guidance and leading all the faithful may quickly cross over and begin by faith a new experience as New Creatures in Christ. From one point of view the consecrated, the sanctified, after having passed from death to life, from earthly ambitions and joys to heavenly ambitions and pleasures, still find enemies that must be conquered, indeed that their fightings have just begun. Now they must war a good warfare to exterminate the enemies of the New Creation, weaknesses, imperfections, evil attitudes and desires of the Old Nature, which are yet in conflict with the divine will and Law, and which, as the Apostle says, war against the soul, the New Creature. The first command for preparation is “sanctify yourselves.” (Z '07-285; R.4063)

There was a limited time in which those who had faith and a desire to cross over could do so, after which the passage would be impossible. So with us, there is an acceptable time, the Gospel Age, in which we may present our bodies living sacrifices, holy and acceptable, our reasonable service. We know not how long the Lord will allow this favorable opportunity in any measure to stand open—we know not how soon the number of the elect will be complete. But as many as are of a courageous heart should proceed at once to a full consecration and to an entrance by faith upon the new life as New Creatures. Let us not be deterred by fear of the giants which we will be obliged to contend in fighting against the weaknesses and sin habits of the old nature. Let us not be discouraged with the thoughts of the high walls and fortifications of entrenched sin. (2 Cor. 10:4, 5) If God be for us he is more than all that could be against us. As the Lord promised Israel that He would be with them to drive out before them the Canaanites, etc., the proper course for the Israelites would have been to have waged a war of extermination against these people of the land, for this was the divine command. Those people typified the sins with which we must earnestly contend and over which we must have a victory of extermination. For various reasons the Israelites compromised with their enemies and, as a result, suffered from them in future years, sometimes being dominated by them. Similarly, Spiritual Israelites who compromise with sins in their own flesh are sure to have difficulty therefrom and to find the battle between the flesh and the Spirit sometimes won by the flesh. (Z. '07-286, 287; R.4064)

5:3 — CIRCUMCISED THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL — The renewal of circumcision on entering the land would thus signify that one of the first institutions of the Millennial Age will be a consecration to the Lord, to put away sin, to live separate from sin as the Lord's assisting grace may enable. (Isa. 65:15) To the Spiritual Israelite circumcision represents circumcision of the heart, the putting away of sin from the wills. (Z. '02-300; R.3086)

5:9 — HAVE I ROLLED AWAY THE REPROACH OF EGYPT — This typifies the putting away, the cutting off (Matt. 5:29, 30) of the love of sin from the hearts of the true Israelites. (Z. '07-300; R.3087) The reproach of Egypt represents the love of sin and its false pleasures. (Rom. 2:28, 29)

5:10 — KEPT THE PASSOVER — The renewal of the Passover may symbolize that in the Millennium the important work of redemption by the precious blood will again be brought prominently to the attention of all who desire to become God's people, and that they can become his people only by full recognition of the Lamb that was slain and by an eating of his flesh—partaking of the merits and blessings flowing from his sacrifice. To the Church the Passover signifies, not only the acceptance of the merit of Christ's atonement on our part, but also a participation with Him in His sacrifice. (Z. '02-300; R.3086) The Church however, is no part of the Passover sacrifice. (See 1 Cor. 5:7, 8)

5:11 — THEY DID EAT OF THE OLD CORN OF THE LAND — The ceasing of the manna and the eating instead of the fruits and grains of Canaan may signify that the New Dispensation will have spiritual food and sustenance of its own, and that in great variety and abundance, and that mankind will no longer be dependent upon the divine revelation given in the Scriptures—upon the Word of God through the ancient apostles and prophets. Good and necessary as these are under present conditions, they cannot be to the world all that the more direct teaching and blessings and instructions and guidance of the Millennium will be, and will not be needed under the new conditions. Now the Word of God is a lamp for the feet of his saints, and some of its light shines beyond his saints to others in this night time; but by and by when the Sun of Righteousness shall arise and the whole earth be flooded with the glorious light of truth and knowledge, the lamp which at present we cannot prize too highly will cease to occupy its present exalted and indispensable position, although it will always be appreciated and revered. (Z. '02-301; R.3087)

When applied to Spiritual Israel; we, as justified persons, having been fed with the manna from heaven, have been strengthened and brought across Jordan, and now, as New Creatures, they live “by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God”—they live upon the divine promises—“Thy words were found and I did eat them.” (Jer. 15:16) (Z. '02-301; R.3087)

5:13 — WHEN JOSHUA WAS BY JERICHO — Joshua evidently had in mind the necessity for prompt action against Jericho, and was no doubt considering the fact that his army had no implements suitable for attacking such a walled city defended by well-armed men, even though the latter were comparatively few in number. It was while on this reconnoitering expedition that he met an angel of the Lord. (Z. '02-300; R.3086)

6:1 — JERICHO — The Lord would here illustrate by the slaughter of the Jerichoites how our “old man” of our fallen natures is to be utterly destroyed by us, as New Creatures, under the lead and instruction of the real Joshua, Jesus.

6:2 — I HAVE GIVEN INTO THINE HAND JERICHO — Another lesson typified here is that our power over our natural desires (represented by the Jerichoites) must come from God. The natural desires and appetites are protected by strong walls, the will of the flesh, which must first be broken down before we, as New Creatures, can conquer our natural selves, our depraved appetites or desires. (2 Cor. 10:4, 5) This power of God in the type was shown by the fall of Jericho's wall. (Z. '07-300; R.4070)

6:3 — THUS SHALT THOU DO SIX DAYS — But before it fell the faith of the circumcised ones was made active as shown in the seven days marching around the city, and seven times on the seventh day to represent completeness (of faith). The slaughter of the Jerichoites represented the victory of true Israelites over self-will, self-love, self-indulgence, and over every enemy of the New Creature, for the two are contrary one to the other, and one or the other must die. (Gal. 5:16, 17) (Z. '07-300; R.4070) But nothing could be done—none could overcome Jericho until they had been circumcised. (See note on Josh. 5:9)

6:4 — THE PRIESTS SHALL BLOW WITH THE TRUMPETS — The blowing of the trumpets by the priests may well be understood to signify the proclamation of God's Word against sin and his assurance to his people that He is able and willing to give the circumcised New Creatures victory over their carnal propensities. (Z. '07-301; R.4071)

(The trumpet blowing for six days may represent the proclamation of God's Word through his representatives against sin for the six 1,000 year days of the permission of evil since the fall. This blowing has had no visible effect as far as the world can see, but the long blast on the ram's horn on the seventh day which brought the fall of Jericho's wall of defense may represent the long sounding of the seventh trumpet (all down the Millennium, the seventh day) under which the strong bulwarks of evil will fall in the time of trouble, and then evil be utterly destroyed during the Millennium.)

6:5 — ALL THE PEOPLE SHALL SHOUT WITH A GREAT SHOUT — Not until we understand the assurance of God's Word and have faith therein are we able to blend the shout of victory with the shout of trumpets and see the obstacles to self-mortification fall about us. (Z. '07-301; R.4071)

This shout may typify also the shout of encouragement of the masses of mankind, increase of education and awakening of men to a realization of real and fancied rights and privileges. (1 Thess. 4:16; Isa. 13:4) (B147)

ASCEND UP EVERY MAN STRAIGHT BEFORE HIM — Without turning to one side or the other, unwavering, with confidence in the Lord's power and promises; applicable to the Church now and to the world in the Millennium.

6:7 — HE SAID UNTO THE PEOPLE, PASS ON — It required faith on the part of Joshua to issue such instructions, for they would certainly appear foolish. It required faith on the part of the armed men of Israel and of the priests to carry out their part of the program which seemed so senseless, so little likely to affect anything against the city to be captured; it required faith on the part of all the people to expect that when all these procedures had been accomplished and the final long blast of the trumpets had come (vs. 5) that the walls of Jericho would fall down flat. No doubt it was part of the divine program to thus develop and test and strengthen the faith of Israel and to teach them that the victories they were about to gain would not be in their own strength and might, but by the Lord's power. So in the Millennium, in some manner the lesson will be given to all who may desire to come into harmony with God, that the powers of sin, its fortresses and entrenchments in the fallen race cannot be overcome without divine assistance, and that reliance upon God and obedience to the great captain of the Lord's hosts will be essential to every victory. The Royal Priesthood, who have already entered by faith into the favors and privileges of the Millennial Kingdom (forgiveness of sins and harmony with the Father and blessings), already realize that lesson, that sin is so thoroughly entrenched in their fallen human natures, that it can be overcome only by divine power. (Z. '02-300; R.3087)

But to the world, God's ways appear utterly foolish (1 Cor. 1:21, 25, 29; 2:14) and many of God's professed children fear that God's ways are not adequate enough for converting the world and saving men, and so they follow ways and plans of their own—church fairs and suppers and other schemes to get money to accomplish the work they think must be done and in their way; and so their schemes will fail (Isa. 19:10; 65:11, 12), and they themselves shall fall and be utterly broken.

6:17 — THE CITY SHALL BE ACCURSED — Everything in Jericho was accursed or devoted or condemned—and so everything in our carnal natures is condemned or devoted—very living creature must be put to death. This represents that every active influence and principle of the fallen nature must be destroyed. (Col. 3:5-10) (Z. '07-301; R.3087)

ONLY RAHAB THE HARLOT SHALL LIVE — Yet the deliverance of Rahab (who afterward married into the tribe of Judah and became an Israelite, and has the honor of being one of the ancestors of our Lord Jesus) shows, in the type, that some of our members, once enemies of the new nature, may be so transformed that, instead of becoming the servants of sin, they may become the servants of righteousness, through full consecration. For example, talents for speaking, writing, teaching, etc., once used in the service of sin and Satan, may be reckoned dead and quickened to newness of life and activity in God's service. But, as such a transference could only be through reckoned death and quickening through faith in the great sacrifice for sin, this too must be illustrated in the type; and it was illustrated in the act of faith which displayed the scarlet cord. (Z. '07-301; R.4070)

6:18 — KEEP YOURSELVES FROM THE ACCURSED THING — Any appropriation of these to their own selfish uses brings a curse to them as was illustrated by the sin of Achan, who appropriated of the spoils of Jericho some gold and silver and a fine Babylonish garment. (Chap. 7) The result of his covetousness was his own destruction, and for a time he troubled all Israel. (Z. '07-301; R.4071)

So among spiritual Israelites, covetousness of gold, silver and fine Babylonish garments is a fruitful source of spiritual weakness and, in many, leads to destruction. (See 1 Tim. 6:9-11) (Z. '07-301; R.4071)

Thus, during the Millennium, the general lesson will be that sin must be exterminated utterly, and whoever shall seek to hold on to any portion of it will thereby bring a corresponding curse upon himself, as did Achan, in this instance, for securing to himself a wedge of gold, etc. The lesson to the Royal Priesthood now, as well as to the world in the Millennium, is that the Lord requires not merely an outward conformity to his Word but a heart loyalty to him, that will enter fully into sympathy with righteousness and hatred of iniquity—otherwise the penalty will be second death, as symbolized in the destruction of Achan. (Z. '02-301; R.3087)

6:19 — THEY SHALL COME INTO THE TREASURY OF THE LORD — The inanimate valuables, gold, silver, copper, and iron vessels, etc., were all consecrated, too, but not to destruction, they were to be devoted to the Lord's service. So with the truly consecrated (circumcised) Israelites indeed; not only are all their carnal powers to be destroyed as servants of sin, but all that they possess is to be consecrated to the Lord's service—their treasures of gold, silver, and their ordinary possessions, represented in the vessels of brass and iron. All must now be considered as belonging to the Lord.

6:20 — THE WALL FELL DOWN FLAT — Probably the period of vibration of the wall was struck by the trumpet blast and the shout, till the sympathetic vibration reached the disrupting point. For instance the bridge at Colebrooke Dale (the first iron bridge in the world.) (See Z. '02-301; R.3087) @THIRD PAR = It is now known that the fall of the walls was caused by an earthquake occurring at the critical moment, as in 1927 when an earthquake dammed the Jordan at El Damich. (See notes on Josh. 3:16)

6:21 — THEY UTTERLY DESTROYED ALL THAT WAS IN THE CITY — See note on Deut. 7:1.

6:23 — LET THEM WITHOUT THE CAMP OF ISRAEL — Probably because they were uncircumcised. (Comp. Ex. 12:48 and 2 Chron. 8:11)

- 6:26 — IN HIS FIRSTBORN, AND IN HIS YOUNGEST SON — See note on 1 Kings 16:34. Two classes were interested in the fall of Jericho—one within the city walls, and the other fighting from the outside.
- 7:21 — I COVETED THEM AND TOOK THEM — See note on Joshua 6:18.
- 7:24 — THE VALLEY OF ACHOR — Achan means trouble. Achor, a change of a letter to make the name of the valley.
- 7:25 — ALL ISRAEL STONED HIM WITH STONES — Achan's course also represented the rule of the Millennium, when all who even secretly love evil will be made manifest and be destroyed from among the people. (Acts 3:23; Rev. 20:9) (Z. '02-309; R.3091)
- 7:26 — THEY RAISED OVER HIM A GREAT HEAP OF STONES — The trespass of Achan and the consequent defeat at Ai were undoubtedly permitted of the Lord so that Israel might not get heady, as they might if such signal success continued to be theirs, as they had at Jericho. It served to keep them humble and remind them that their successes were due to Jehovah's power and that, if they deserted him, defeat and trouble would surely follow. It was an instance of God's loving watchful care over Israel, because man's minds are so unbalanced and pride so rooted in their hearts that we need such lessons to warn us and keep us straight. This illustrates his dealings with his church.
- 10:3 — ADONI-ZEDEK — The Tel-el-Amarna Tablets. (B.S.M. April '61) In 1887 an old Egyptian peasant woman was working in the fields of Tel-el-Amarna, 200 miles south of Cairo, when she turned up some inscribed clay tablets that lay buried in the soil. The first ones were disposed of to local antique dealers for a few coins, but it was not long before the scholarly world became aware of the discovery, and systematic excavation began there. The old woman had unwittingly brought to light the official records of the Egyptian government of the time when Joshua was leading Israel into the promised land, and the tablets included letters from the kings and governors of the Canaanite cities appealing to Egypt for help against the invading Israelites. The discovery enabled the archaeologists to read the actual official government correspondence between the kings of Babylon, Assyria, Mesopotamia, and Syria on the one hand and Egypt on the other, during the reigns of two Pharaohs—Amenhetep III, who reigned while Israel was in the wilderness and for a few years after they entered Canaan; and Amenhetep IV (Akhnaten, the renounced pacifist Pharaoh) who reigned while Israel was subduing Canaan and dividing the land. The tablets give the story of Israel's entry into the promised land under Joshua from the standpoint of the Canaanites—Canaan was then an Egyptian province and had for a long time given allegiance to the Pharaohs. It stretched from Dan to Beersheba, and from the Dead Sea and Jordan to the Mediterranean.

Egyptian governors resided in many of its cities, and others paid regular tribute. When Jordan was driven back and Israel surrounded Jericho, it was an Egyptian garrison town that they stormed and destroyed. The tablets tell Pharaoh of the progress of the invading Israelites and implore his help for their defense, a help that never came. Egypt was beset with other enemies at that time and preferred to let Canaan slip out of Pharaoh's grasp rather than risk sending soldiers for their defense. The God of Israel had already shown that he was not a God to be trifled with. That may explain why so many letters now lie in so many museums; in London from Zimrida of Lachish, and Yapakki of Gaza, and Abdi-Khiba of Jerusalem, pleading for the help that was never to come. One letter reports the destruction of Hazor. (Josh. 11:10-14) In others the name of Joshua appears. The fall of Zela (18:28) is the burden of another; many times are there references to events recorded in Joshua—a wonderful, independent testimony to the truth of the Bible record. Abdi-Khiba, king of Jerusalem, many times in writing to Pharaoh, mentions the fact that he does not hold office by Pharaoh's permission, like the other kings around him, but by decree of the Most High. Neither by his father, nor his mother, nor by Pharaoh, but by the Most High, he is priest and king in Jerusalem—like Melchizedek, some six centuries previously. (Heb. 7:1-10) Discoveries in 1929 at Ras-Shamra, on the Syrian coast, show, that at the time of the Exodus, the worship of the "Most High" prevailed extensively in Canaan. It might well be that Abdi-Khiba was the last of a long line of priest-kings, of which Melchizedek may have been the first. Joshua 10 relates how Joshua captured and killed Adonai-Zedek, king of Jerusalem. Adonai-Zedek (Lord of Righteousness) is like Melchi-Zedek (King of Righteousness). If Adonai-Zedek of Joshua 10 and Abdi-Khiba of the Tel-el-Amarna tablets are not the same person, the latter must have succeeded upon the death of the former, and then in turn, been slain. The frantic appeals recorded in those little clay tablets came to an end abruptly when the armies of Israel overtook the five royal fugitives and put an end to the life of Jerusalem's last priest-king. A few extracts from the letters of Abdi-Khiba to Pharaoh: "To the King, my Lord, thus speaks Abdi-Khiba, thy servant. . . . The country of the king is being destroyed, all of it. Hostilities are being carried on against me as far as the mountains of Seir and the city of Gath-Carmel. (Josh.15:10, 55) The Hebrews are capturing the fortresses of the King. Not a single governor remains among them to the king, My Lord, all of them have perished. Behold Turbara has fallen in the great gate of the city of Zelah. (Josh. 18:28) If no troops come this year, all the countries of the King, my Lord, will be utterly destroyed. . . . No province remains unto the King. The Hebrews have wasted all the provinces of the King." The letters also show the origin of the name of Jerusalem. In the tablets it is referred to as the city of the god, Salim (the Babylonian God of Peace.) The city then had both a fortress and a temple. The scriptures say nothing of a temple. It would, of course, be a temple to the "Most High God," but the Israelites probably viewed it as an idolatrous building and made short work of it. It was held by the Jebusites until David's time. (2

Sam. 5:6-9) In Josh. 18:16, 28, it is called Jebusi. The saddest feature is how the worship of the “Most High God” in Abraham’s time had degenerated, in Joshua’s time, to an idolatrous faith which retained nothing of its former glory but the name. Abraham paid tithes to the first priest of the “Most High God.” Joshua slew the last. (B.S.M. April 1961)

10:13 — THE SUN STOOD STILL — The Hebrew, though a language of a very few words, has two words for “sun”—chamah and shemesh; this, in Joshua, is shemesh, the servant of the sun, that is, the sunshine, the sun’s rays. There are also two words for moon, levonah and yareach. This in Joshua is yareach, the “scent of the moon,” the moonlight. In Deut. 33:14 we read, “for the precious fruits brought forth by the sun (shemesh),” not the body of the sun, millions of miles distant, but the light and influence sent forth by that body; “and for the precious things put forth by the moon (yareach),” not the orb, but its shining (indeed, the word is plural here, “moons.”) Now what concerned Joshua, and what was spoken of, was not the two bodies called sun and moon. It was simply light, sunlight, and more properly, direct sunshine and moonlight. So we say, for example, “The moon is on the lake.” A dark moon would not have concerned Joshua in the least, therefore the moon was not then near its “change” in other words, that day was not when sun and moon were near conjunction, as astronomers call the new moon; so Prof. Totten cannot locate this miracle on a day when there would have been no moon. There seems to have been several “Gilgals.” The word means “circle,” and places were so called where circles of memorial stones were set up (Josh. 4:20); but there is no proof given that Joshua’s headquarters were not still at the Gilgal between Jordan and Jericho. Joshua and all the mighty men of valor, went up from Gilgal all night (vs. 8) to the relief of Gibeon, which was besieged by the five kings of the Amorites (hillside men); the Gibeonites having beguiled Israel into making a league with them. “And the Lord discomfited them.” “Jehovah doth crush them before Israel.”—(Young) “Jehovah rageth at them (or used violence upon them) before (literally, to the face of) Israel and slew them with a great slaughter.” Before the Israelite sword was drawn, while yet the two armies were apart, the Lord cast down great stones from heaven upon them, unto Azekah, and they died; and there were more who died with hailstones than they whom the Israelites slew with the sword. The words rendered “hailstones” signify stones of congelation, probably they were not meteoric stones, but great hail of frozen water. The artillery of heaven turned upon the Amorite host, probably while drawn up in order of battle to meet the attack of Joshua’s men, and certainly before the two armies had met and mingled in hand to hand conflict with swords, else the Israelites must have suffered from the great hail equally with the Amorites. The formation and discharge of such hail, implies a dense, dark cloud and much electrical disturbance. Thunder and lightning would not be absent. The Amorites, having known of the dividing of Jordan, and of the falling of the walls of Jericho, now perceived that the God of Israel was fighting against them and they fled in terror at the blackness of the heavens above them and from the slaughter of hail. What does Joshua now ask for? Is it that the darkness may pass away, the sun shine forth bright and clear, ending the terror of the panic-stricken fugitives, and perhaps giving them a chance to rally and make a stand and fight? No such thing! He desired that darkness and terror continue. “Then spoke Joshua to the Lord in the day wherein the Lord delivered up the Amorites before the children of Israel, and he said in the sight of Israel, Shemesh be-Gibeon dum.” That word “dum” is the identical word which we spell “dumb”; the margin informs us that the Hebrew means “be silent.” We apply it to not giving forth sound. The Hebrew, with its much fewer words, applies them to things analogous. Here it is used for not giving forth light. We use the same word with this application, but then we spell it “dim.” Observe, we are not speculating on what Joshua meant, we are giving his very words; and what he said was: “Sun (or sunlight) in Gibeon be dumb (or dim)!” He called, not for light, but for darkness; and the Amorite host was broken by Jehovah before Joshua called for a continuation of the gloom to continue their panic and enable him to annihilate their cowed and fleeing remnants. “Sun in Gibeon.” This preposition “be” is the first letter of the Bible—“In the beginning.” It has some latitude of meaning: in, at, to, by, etc., but it does not mean “over” or “on” the meridian of Gibeon. Another preposition would have to be used to express that. This prepositional prefix is just as our English prefix “be”—used in “before,” in the front; “behind,” in the rear; “below,” “beside,” etc. We can thus easily see what it means.

The position of the orb of the sun in distant space—although it is on the meridian of Gibeon at noon there every day in the year—is not and cannot be denoted by Joshua’s words; and the sun never was in the zenith at Gibeon or at any other place outside of the tropics, since the earth had its present position. “We yareach be-emeg, Ajalon”—“And the moon (or moonlight) in the valley of Ajalon.” Here is the “be”—“in”—again. The shining of the moon has been in that valley, but the moon itself never. “And the sun stood still”; literally, “and dumb was the sun.” Not a word of the orb pausing in its apparent course. “The sun stood still (that is, remained silent, dumb, dim) and the moon stayed (“amad,” stood, continued dim as it was) until the people had avenged themselves upon their enemies.” If we bear in mind that the Canaanites worshipped the sun and the moon we will see more force in this incident. Had Jehovah’s cloud passed away and the sun shone out bright and clear, they would be likely to think that their god Baal (who was associated with the sun) had vanquished Jehovah in the heavens and would assist them to vanquish Jehovah’s people, and their leaders would not have failed to attempt to rally them, by appealing to them to see how the sun-god had scattered Jehovah’s cloud and silenced his artillery. What Joshua asked for was not a bright day, nor a long day, but for a continuation of the gloom and darkness which had terrified the Amorites. “So the Sun stood still (“amad,” stayed as it was) in the midst of heaven and hastened not (literally, “pressed” not—the sunshine did not press through the pall of the cloud) to go down (“bo,” literally meaning, to go or to come, or to come in, to arrive—there is no word here for “down”) about (literally “as”) a whole day.” The sunshine, usually so bright in Syria, did not pierce through the clouds all that day. I see not a word here or elsewhere of the day being lengthened. The battle began at Gibeon and by the grapeshot of Jehovah’s hail, the Amorite army was soon routed; up to Beth-horon they fled, the hail continuing upon them and driving them over the crest of the land, down to the lower Beth-horon, and on in a distracted, huddled mass, down to the bottom of the descent in the Valley of Ajalon: that is, those of them who could get so far. This remnant of them were, as it were, in a trap; and if the darkness might last for the day and the coming night, and no sign of sun nor moon give heart to them to rally and fight their way out, Joshua thought he might finish his work and cut them to pieces to the last man. The commandment was: “Thou shalt save alive nothing that breatheth.” (Deut. 20:16) Suppose it was an influence from the sun which causes the earth’s daily rotation upon its axis, were that power withdrawn, the earth would spin on till it gradually slowed down, and such a slowing down would not at all meet the requirements of the case. And an instant and forcible stoppage would have given a tremendous jar to everything. What a jerk it gives when a car stops suddenly; everything is thrown forward. Suppose an express train, running fifty miles an hour, is suddenly checked by some obstacle, as in a collision; the passengers would be violently pitched to the forward end of the cars; but the earth’s rotation is twenty times the speed of an express train, and such a stoppage is not supposable or reconcilable with the narrative.—A. Armour. (Z. '04-102; R.3344)

14:8 — MY BRETHREN THAT WENT UP WITH ME MADE THE HEART OF THE PEOPLE MELT — Note the generous language of Caleb. Here would have been a fine opportunity for an ignoble man to have spoken evil of those associates and to have endeavored to glorify his own faithfulness and that of Joshua in contrast with the unfaithfulness of the ten. But no, He generously passes over their wrong conduct in as mild language as possible and, so far from denouncing them or reviling them, he calls them, my brethren. The spiritual Israelites must have this same disposition, only with us it should be still more pronounced than with Caleb because we, having been anointed with the Holy Spirit, and through this anointing, been taught many of the deep things of God, may well judge ourselves by a much higher standard than any with which Caleb was acquainted. Revilers shall have no part in God’s kingdom, it is one of the works of the flesh and the devil. Michael, the archangel, is held before us as a shining example of propriety, in that he did not bring a railing accusation against Satan, but merely said, “The Lord rebuke thee.” (1 Cor. 6:10; Jude 9) (Z. '02-311; R.3091)

I WHOLLY FOLLOWED THE LORD MY GOD — This testimony is of special force and weight in Caleb's case, because by nature he was not an Israelite, but only by adoption into the family of Judah. He was of the seed of Abraham, but through the rejected son, Esau. The lesson of his faithfulness and reward is of special force and weight to us who, by nature, were children of wrath even as others, members of the worldly class of humanity whose natural disposition was typified in Esau, whose little faith in the promises of God and greater appreciation of the things of the world led him to sell his birthright for a mess of pottage. (Esau is not a type of this class, but of the great company in nominal Christendom, and of fleshly Israel, both of whom have the same worldly spirit of lack of faith.) Many of us now rejoice that we are counted in as Israelites indeed, justified by faith, sanctified by the truth, sharers of the great inheritance. We realize that many of us once loved the things of this present life more than the things of the life to come, and were disposed to grasp the tangible things of the present rather than to sacrifice these for the future glories and blessings of divine promise. (Z. '02-309; R.3091)

14:9 — SHALL BE THINE INHERITANCE — This promise had fully entered into his heart.

14:11 — I AM AS STRONG THIS DAY AS I WAS — See Deut. 29:5, 6; 34:7.

14:12 — THE CITIES WERE GREAT AND FENCED — Among these enemies of spiritual Israelites living high up in the mountain fastnesses (our heads?), giant in form and thoroughly fortified, are traditions of men, religious custom, nominalism, sectarian pride, ambition and love of show. But the same grace of God which was sufficient to enable us to gain the victory over the common sins, in the valley, is able to still give us the victory over these enemies of the new mind, the new creature, and bring us off conquerors and more than conquerors through him that loved us and bought us with his precious blood. But, as faith was necessary at every step of the journey—to spy out the land, to enter in, to fight the battles, so the same faith, increasing as it has progressed, is necessary now for our final victory and our entrance into our full promised inheritance. (Z. '02-310; R.3091)

Doubtless the same condition, in some respects, will be true to the world during the Millennium. At first, the requirement of the kingdom will be obedience in outward form; but ultimately the requirement will be the full submission of the heart to the will of God ere the restitution class will reach full perfection and enter upon the inheritance of everlasting life at the close of the Millennium. (Z. '02-310; R.3091)

I SHALL BE ABLE TO DRIVE THEM OUT, AS THE LORD SAID

— He was not unmindful of the fact that Hebron was not yet conquered; that it was in the possession of the Anakim giants, and that there would be serious battles to be fought before he could take full possession. His confidence was, however, that the same God who made him the promise in the beginning (vs. 12; Deut. 1:36), who had kept him thus far and who had fulfilled his promise up to this time, would be with him still, and would give him the victory over the entrenched and fortified enemies in Hebron. How well this illustrates the progress of the Spiritual Israelites, who in the present time, by faith, are living in this land of promise, battling with the enemies and overcoming them in the name and by the power of the Lord. They look back to the beginning of their experience and rejoice that the Lord has kept them and blessed them in all spiritual things up to the present and, in proportion as they realize this, they have faith to look forward into the future and see the final outcome—see themselves victors in their contests, even with the strongest and most entrenched enemies of the flesh, its giant passions, customs, etc.

15:13 — UNTO CALEB — Caleb, as compared with Joshua, represents the Church (Caleb means dog), while Joshua represents Jesus. Caleb chose this location, which was the place his feet trod when he spied the land. (Josh. 14:7-10) His choice was a fine, rich country, but full of difficulties, giants, fenced cities, etc. By faith he drove out the giants. (Judges 1:10 says he slew the three children of the giant.) Othniel later became one of the judges. (Jud. 3:9) He may represent the Ancient Worthies in the kingdom, as receiving the spirit of the church. Achsah means anklet. Asked of the church a field (the world, as a place to labor and get fruitage), also springs of water (truth), the upper (religious, of God), and lower (earthly.) The land was the south slopes of the hills, so warm and sunny. These truths will be dispensed to those in the field, the world. The daughter of Caleb may represent the class of meek ones, mentioned also in Zeph. 3:10. She requested her husband to ask this of Caleb, showing how this meek class asks a blessing through the Ancient Worthies. The south land pictures the earthly things in the kingdom.

24:2 — THE OTHER SIDE OF THE FLOOD — The great river Euphrates.

THEY SERVED OTHER GODS — Their forefathers prior to Abraham were idolaters. The nations all about them were idolaters, and the idolatrous worship, unlike the worship of the true God, put no restraints upon the downward tendencies of the fallen nature, but, on the contrary, cultivated and pandered to its depravity. Nor did it require faith in the unseen, but presented to the senses tangible objects of worship with rites and ceremonies suited to the carnal nature. Hence the continual gravitation of the nation toward idolatry, despite the wonderful power and goodness of God manifested on their behalf. (Z. '07-318; R.1869)

24:14 — PUT AWAY THE GODS WHICH YOUR FATHERS SERVED —

It may have been that there was still a lurking of idolatry among the people, or it may have been that Joshua was merely guarding them against the idolatrous tendencies which more or less assail mankind, a tendency to forget more or less the invisible God and to set upon earthly objects—idols—the affections and reverence which properly belong to God. Joshua would incite the people to a good resolution. (Z. '02-314; R.3094)
See 24:23.

24:15 — IF IT SEEM EVIL UNTO YOU TO SERVE THE LORD — He inquired whether it seemed evil—undesirable—to be God's people, under the restraints of His laws in order to have his blessing. They, as a people, would now be tested along this line individually and nationally, and he desired to anticipate the coming tests and trials of their faith and obedience by fortifying their minds and leading them to make a decision one way or the other. Then, as a leader, he took his own position most positively on the side of the Lord. (Z. '02-314; R.3094)

CHOOSE YOU THIS DAY WHOM YE WILL SERVE — The Israelites had come into a land whose people practiced idolatry, accompanied by a lascivious form of worship, and there the laws of God upon them would necessarily mean restraint, against which their fallen natures would more or less rebel, and Joshua wished them to have these matters well before their minds and to decide the question of loyalty to God, in full view of the facts as they already realized them, or would afterwards appreciate them. On the one hand were the licence and attractions of the sensuous form of idolatry and pleasures of sin, such as they are, for a season, with divine disfavor. On the other hand were the restraints of the divine law, accompanied by divine favor, protection and care, relating not only to the present life, but also to the life to come. Many would be inclined to doubt the wisdom of setting before the people such a choice. They would be inclined, on the contrary, to leave no choice about it, but to insist and demand that the Lord be recognized and obeyed at all hazards. But really Joshua was merely emphasizing the choice which God puts before people continually. He leaves them open to choose good or evil—to serve Him or to serve sin, or wealth, or other idols. As a matter of fact, we have no right to attempt compulsion, because the Lord leaves the matter open for choice, as Joshua did. He is seeking those who desire to be his servants; those who do not so desire, he does not desire, and he is not calling them and drawing them now. Jesus emphasized this lesson in his preaching. "If any man will come after me (as a disciple) let him take up his cross and follow me." He exhorts them to count the cost of discipleship before making a choice, just as Joshua drew before the minds of his hearers both sides of the question. In the Jewish and Gospel Age this matter is left open to the people, but in the Millennium it will not be so. Men will not then be invited to choose whom they will serve and worship. On the contrary, when the kingdom is established, the Law will go forth and, without asking for preferences of any for good or for evil, obedience will be enforced and the evilly disposed will be forcibly restrained. Such a reign of law and order will be maintained, and those who will not conform thereto will be chastened as well as instructed and all who shall not come into accord with that kingdom and its righteous law outwardly, and ultimately conform to it heartily, will be destroyed in the second death. (Acts 3:23) (Z. '02-314; R.3094)

AS FOR ME AND MY HOUSE WE WILL SERVE THE LORD —

This was no light matter for himself, nor a meaningless phrase as regards his household. Every true Israelite should adopt such words, and it means that his children should be trained in the nurture and admonition of the Lord; that minor children be not allowed to rule the house or discredit parents outside the home, but that the paternal influence exercised in kindness, love and firmness, shall seek to bring the children, so far as possible into covenant relationship with the Lord, instructing them in the way of the Lord, by precept and example. (Z. '02-315; R.3094)

24:19 — YE CANNOT SERVE THE LORD — You cannot serve the Lord easily—you must not imagine that the promises you are making can be kept without considerable effort, neither must you imagine that a partial, perfunctory observance of the divine law will please the Lord or have his blessing—he is a jealous God. As a husband or wife, having entered into the marriage relationship, would properly be jealous of any coldness or indifference, so the Lord, having accepted Israel as his peculiar people, would watch over them with a jealous care, would not be indifferent if they divided their affections, as between him and others. And God is the same today and forever, and he wishes spiritual Israel to understand that to abide in his love means obedience to his regulations, all of which are reasonable services. While he has lifted our feet from the horrible pit and miry clay of sin and death, and set upon the rock, Christ Jesus, reckonedly justifying us, while he has adopted us as sons accepted in the Beloved One, yet having done all these favors for us, he would disown us and cast us off as unworthy of further favor, if we deliberately proved unfaithful to Him. (Z. '02-315; R.3094)

24:24 — THE LORD OUR GOD WILL WE SERVE AND HIS VOICE

WILL WE OBEY — This exhortation was given three times (vss. 1-15, 19, 20, 22, 23) to further and more deeply impress the lesson. So Spiritual Israelites should engrave deeply upon their hearts their consecration and frequently revive and renew it, that the cares of life do not obliterate it to any degree. (Z. '02-315; R.3094)

24:27 — IT SHALL THEREFORE BE A WITNESS UNTO YOU — There were three witnesses to this contract or covenant. (1) The people themselves, who would now remember this covenant thrice repeated. (2)

Joshua's declaration in connection, probably, with the tables of the law (vs. 26) that Israel's covenant was renewed by statute and ordinance—that the original covenant of Sinai had been ratified, reaffirmed (vs. 25). (3) The great stone "erected under an oak," or oak grove, that was about (near) the Sanctuary of the Lord. So Spiritual Israel should more than meekly make a covenant with the Lord. Our mental decision is important first, but it needs help—public confession, baptism. (Z. '02-315; R.3094)

2:3 — I WILL NOT DRIVE THEM OUT BEFORE YOU — So Spiritual Israelites who do not wage a valiant war against the natural desires of their own fallen flesh find shortly that the flesh prospers at the expense of the spiritual life and that truces with the flesh mean that their love for the Lord is gradually cooled until some form of idolatry creeps in—the love of money, or of praise of men, or of self, dividing with the Lord the love and reverence of their hearts. We are not to suppose that all the Israelites fell away into idolatry. Rather, repeatedly, a considerable number of them became alienated for a time from the love and worship of God, and thus repeatedly brought upon them the Lord’s displeasure. Applying this to Spiritual Israel, we are not to expect that the Lord’s displeasure with his people would delay until they had fully and completely gone into idolatry to self or wealth or fame; but rather when some of the affections of the heart begin to go out to other things, the Lord’s chastisements would be sent to reprove, rebuke and correct while there is still in our hearts something of obedience and love toward Him; before the world, the flesh and the Adversary capture us completely. These words of divine chastisements and Israel’s subsequent repentance and the Lord’s deliverance are all proofs of the divine love and care for that consecrated people. So far as we have information the divine power was not thus exercised upon the other nations for their reproof, correction, etc. They were left as strangers, foreigners. So now, the Lord’s corrections in righteousness are evidences of special care, protection and relationship to the house of sons. Because of our acceptance in Christ, he has given us trials, experiences and difficulties needful to our testing and character development. This is that we may realize the treachery and seductive influences of our own fallen nature, represented by the Amalekites, Canaanites, etc., and that we may utterly destroy these and eventually come to the condition where every thought is in obedience to the will of God in Christ. (2 Cor. 10:5) (Z. '15-75; R.5646)

2:16 — NEVERTHELESS THE LORD RAISED UP JUDGES — If the book of Judges be read as a fully complete history of Israel during those 450 years, it would be a discouraging picture and, to some extent, would give the inference that they were continually in idolatry and suffering punishment for it. But this would be an unfair view to take. The record passes over the happy period of Israel’s prosperity and specifically points out their deflections from God, and punishments for such transgressions, and the deliverances from their troubles, through the Judges, or deliverers, whom God raised up for them. That this was, in many respects, a favorable time for the Israelites is implied in the promise—“I will restore thy judges, as at the first.” (Isa. 1:26) (Z. '15-75; R.5645)

These judges were evidently not elected to their position, but raised to it providentially. But as these judges had no power or authority, collected no revenue and held no office which they could entail upon others; it follows that any power or influence they possessed was a personal one, and to give it weight or force, implied a proper acknowledgement of them as divinely appointed or “raised up.” (Z. '15-74; R.5645)

So in Spiritual Israel, God has raised up from time to time special counselors, deliverers, ministers. Similarly Spiritual Israelites are not to caucus, wire pull, and decide for themselves who shall be their spiritual leaders, but are to regard the Lord as the great Chief Captain, and to look to him to raise up from time to time spiritual chieftains as he may please. The acceptance of the leadings of these as God’s appointees does not necessarily mean their selection by ballot, but may be indicated merely by giving ear to their teachings in harmony with the Word of God. Israel needed no Congress or Legislature, for it had one Lawgiver—the Lord—and the Law given at Mt. Sinai was to be perpetually the guide of the nation. The priests and Levites, under the Law, were the appointed helpers of the people in things pertaining to God—to instruct them in the Law, and represent them in the typical sacrificing. In each tribe, also the elders, according to their capacity, had charge of the civil affairs of the tribe. As for soldiers and a war debt, they had none. The divine law was to separate them from the other nations and, if they would remain faithful to the Lord, he would remain their protector against all antagonists. (Z. '15-74; R.5645)

So Spiritual Israel, in every ecclesia, are to look out for themselves fit men for the services needed. God’s Law is to keep them separate from the schemes, warfares, entanglements of the world. They are to be his peculiar people, and his pledge to them is that all things shall work together for their good as long as they are faithful to him. Therefore they need no armies armed with carnal weapons, although they are all soldiers of the cross, pledged to fight against sin, especially each within himself, and to lay down their lives for each other. (Z. '15-74; R.5645)

2:18 — IT REPENTED THE LORD BECAUSE OF THEIR GROANINGS

— As natural Israel learned one lesson after another and, as each was learned, sent a cry of loyalty to God, his power was exercised for them and their deliverance effected. So when the Spiritual Israelite recognizes the true situation and with thorough repentance, turns to the Lord and cries for deliverance from his own weaknesses and imperfections, his prayer is heard and his deliverance is provided for with the assurance that the Lord’s grace is sufficient. Such a cry to the Lord implies that the sins and weaknesses of the flesh were contrary to the transgressor’s will. It implies that, in some manner, he was seduced, entangled by the world or flesh or Adversary, but that his heart is still loyal to the Lord and the truth. All such, who cry to the Lord in sincerity and faith shall be heard and delivered, for his grace is sufficient for us. (Z. '15-75; R.5646)

4:2 — THE LORD SOLD THEM INTO THE HAND OF JABIN — A difficulty today in this land—everywhere. The revulsion of Christian people from the monstrous creedal errors of the past has alienated many from the Bible under the belief that the Bible and the Creeds teach the same doctrines. This explains the empty pews and a distaste for religion. What the people need is correct information respecting the true God of love and his real plan, as outlined in the Bible. (Z. '15-8; R.5604)

4:3 — HE MIGHTILY OPPRESSED THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL — The Israelites, guilty of idolatry, had, according to God's covenant with them, been chastened, by permitting their enemies to vanquish them. They had come to great straits. Their enemies had become strong and high handed. (The conquest was permitted of God. It had its incipient state when the Israelites neglected the divine direction that they should live separate from all other people. Instead, they had begun to intermarry with the Canaanites. These, in turn, had enticed their husbands and their children to the worship of heathen gods. Apparently many of Israel, who had not gone over to idolatry, had nearly lost their knowledge and appreciation of the true God.) In the dark hour of Israel's oppression, the princes of the tribes seemed to lack patriotism, as well as faith in God. Each tribe was a separate state, and there was no cohesion between them—the divinely intended bond of union, the true religion, being relaxed. It was about this time that the Lord, seeking a channel through which to be gracious to his people, found that channel in a woman, Deborah. She realized the situation more keenly than others, probably, because more deeply consecrated to God and His service. She removed from her home in the northern part to a central place in the highlands of Ephraim. From there she sent encouraging and stimulating messages to the chief men of the various tribes. She was respected. Her counsel was appreciated, her advice sought. In this sense she judged Israel—admonished, guided, assisted. (Z. '15-8; R.5605)

4:4 — A PROPHETESS — Perhaps meaning a public teacher, or one through whom the Lord sent special messages. Something connected with the story indicates the latter. Surely the Lord used her and that because she was a willing and consecrated servant of His cause, His people. A lesson here—that in order to be used in the Lord's service and accomplish things for him and his, full devotion of the heart is essential. (Z. '15-8; R.5605)

SHE JUDGED ISRAEL AT THAT TIME — Although the Lord has been pleased usually to use men in connection with his work, not only as typical characters, but also as evangelists of the Gospel. Nevertheless the Scriptures give us pictures of noble women who, because of the delinquency of men, have been used and almost forced into public service by divine providence. Notable is the case of Mrs. Deborah. She perceived how neglect of the divine law had borne fruit in the subjugation of her people. She perceived this was spreading all through the land of Canaan.

- 4:6 — DRAW TOWARD MOUNT TABOR — This is the first of the great battles in the valley of Megiddo, noted for its many slaughters and hence made the basis of the prediction respecting the time of trouble. (Z. '15-8; R.5604)
- 4:8 — IF THOU WILT GO WITH ME, THEN I WILL GO — Barak, then was of Naphtali. Deborah admonished that now was the time to do something for the deliverance of God's people. (Barak seemed to lack faith and courage.) So, when he refused, she agreed to go, forewarning him that the honor of the matter would thus be divided with herself and that he would miss a part of his blessing because of his lack of courage. So, while the army was under General Barak's command, a woman was the real mouthpiece of God in directing the affairs of battle which brought such signal victory to Israel. (Z. '15-8; R.5605)
- 4:12 — MT. TABOR — Under divine guidance, Barak made Mt. Tabor his base for the army, the same, which in Jesus' day, became known to his followers as the Mount of Transfiguration where the coming kingdom of Messiah was represented in a vision. Thus we have another remarkable feature of the picture of the future—the association of the vision of the kingdom with the proximity of the Armageddon field of disaster, picturing the overthrow of present institutions. (Z. '15-8; R.5604)
- 4:15 — THE LORD DISCOMFITED SISERA — See chap. 5:19-21. A great storm and cloudburst swelled the river, making quagmires of the lower valleys, rendering useless the chariots of Sisera. His soldiers, fleeing for their lives, were cut down by the Israelites, while other thousands were swept down the river to the sea. This interference of God on behalf of His people (and the heaven-given directions) is styled "the fighting of the stars of heaven against Sisera's army." Similarly, in the Battle of Armageddon near at hand, it will not be human might that will prevail, but the disconcerted hosts will effect the complete disruption of the present order of things—every man's hand against him. (Ezek. 38:21; Zech. 8:10; 14:13) It is the cloudburst of truth and the rising waters of knowledge that are bringing to pass this great human catastrophe—which the Lord will overrule for the blessing of the world. (Z. '15-8; R.5604)
- 4:21 — A NAIL OF THE TENT — Tent pin. (Z. '15-8; R.5605)

Sisera and his army will come forth, like the rest of mankind, as a result of the redemptive work of Christ. They will come forth in order that the grace of God may be testified to them and that they may have an opportunity, by obedience to the laws of the Kingdom, to prepare themselves to enter into life everlasting on the plane of human perfection in an earthly Paradise. (Z. '15-8; R.5605)

SMOTE THE NAIL INTO HIS TEMPLE — This act has been denounced as a breach of hospitality by some, but defended by others on the grounds that the customs still of the Arabs of Palestine is that any man intruding into a woman's tent is worthy of death. Anyway Jael was not a Christian woman, not begotten of the Holy Spirit, nor taught in the school of Christ, and so whatever may be said of her would have no bearing whatever in respect to Christians, who are under the law of the Spirit of Christ—the Law of Love. (Z. '15-8; R.5605)

5:20 — THE STARS IN THEIR COURSES FOUGHT AGAINST SISERA
— See note on Judges 4:15.

5:21 — THE RIVER OF KISHON SWEEPED THEM AWAY — See note on Judges 4:15.

6:3 — WHEN ISRAEL HAD SOWN — Seeing Israel was fertile, they repeatedly invaded it, confiscating much of the product of the land. So that on this occasion Gideon was threshing out a few sheaves of wheat, fearing to have the customary threshing, lest the Midianites should rob them of all their possessions and increase their levy. (vs. 11) (Z. '15-9; R.5605)

6:11 — THAT PERTAINED UNTO JOASH THE ABI-EZRITE AND HIS SON GIDEON — The Scriptures tell us that not many great, rich, wise or strong are chosen for his work by the Lord. We may be sure that this is not because they would be unacceptable, but because their riches, wisdom, strength, courage usually make them too self-confident and not sufficiently humble to be taught of Him and be glad of opportunities for His service. (Z. '15-9; R.5605)

6:13 — IF THE LORD BE WITH US WHY THEN IS ALL THIS BEFALLEN US — It did not seem even to occur to him that the Lord's disfavor, as shown in the successes of the Midianites against Israel, was on account of Israel's disloyalty to the Lord, in idolatry. It is probable that this same sentiment pervaded the nation in general, and that in some sense of the word, they respected Jehovah at the same time that they worshipped Baal also. How few spiritual Israelites, when they get into spiritual difficulties, realize that, it must, in some sense of the word, be traceable to the Lord's providences. How few probably look to see to what extent their spiritual difficulties, weaknesses adversities, coldness to the Lord, alienation from Him, are due to the permission of some kind of idolatry in their hearts; not an idolatry that ignores the Lord, but one which, while thinking favorably of his spiritual blessings and victories of the past, simply wonders at his disfavors of the present, and fails to recognize that it is possible at the same time to worship both God and mammon—that God's favor and close communion and protection cannot be expected while we permit in our hearts a rival reverence for wealth or fame or human institutions or creeds or self or family to any degree. (Z. '07-327; R.4082)

WHERE BE ALL HIS MIRACLES WHICH OUR FATHERS TOLD US OF — This was good logic. When we remember the Lord's promise to Israel that he would defend them and protect their interests (and these were earthly interests) then we should remember also that this protection was dependent on Israel's maintenance of heart-loyalty and faithfulness to God. In the same covenant, the Lord assured the people in advance, if they would wander away into idolatry, he would bring upon them various adversities—that their enemies should reap their harvests, etc. Thus we know the answer to Gideon's questions of why the Lord allowed this distress in which they were. It was not that God was unfaithful to his covenant, but the Israelites had been unfaithful. (Z. '15-9; R.5605) See verse 25.

6:14 — HAVE NOT I SENT THEE — The angel was not there to discuss theology, but to inspire Gideon and to make him a messenger of the Lord in the deliverance of his people. (Z. '15-9; R.5605)

6:15 — WHEREWITH SHALL I SAVE ISRAEL? — God chose, as usual, a suitable man, fit for the purpose. Gideon seems to have been a man of about middle age, for he had a son at this time of probably 15. (Jud. 8:18-21) He was well born, as stated by the record that he was fine of form and stature. The face and form, unless marred by accident, indicate the character and training. The noble, the brave, the generous, the wise by nature and by birth show these traits in feature and form. Yet God is not able always to use the naturally noblest and finest of the human family. Too frequently, with such nobility goes a spirit of pride and self-conceit which make the individual unsuited to the Lord's purpose, in which humility and obedience to the Lord are the prime essentials. (1 Cor. 1:26) How gracious is this arrangement which opens the way to the highest favor to the humblest who hears the voice of the Lord and responds with humility and zeal. Let the ignoble by nature, who have tasted of the Lord's grace, be encouraged to trust that, even though by nature ignoble, yet the Lord is able to work in them such a transformation of character that, in heart at least, they may become copies of God's dear son. (Z. '07-327; R.4082)

I AM THE LEAST IN MY FATHER'S HOUSE — Gideon's humility shines out in the protest, that his family was one of the poorest of the tribe of Manasseh, and that he himself was inferior to his brethren in his father's house. Surely a mistake had been made in the selection and a more capable person could be found. (Z. '15-9; R.5605)

6:21 — THE ANGEL OF THE LORD DEPARTED OUT OF HIS SIGHT — Here we have another illustration that we are surrounded by spiritual beings

invisible to our natural eyes; and the fact also, that in God's providence in olden times he communicated to mankind through these angels. (Heb. 1:14; Psa. 34:7). Doubtless the angels of the Lord are as present with his people, indeed more so during this Gospel Age since Pentecost than ever before, because now God's people are the Spirit-begotten ones, precious in the Father's sight. (Matt. 18:10) It is a part of their business to look after the interests of the consecrated members of Christ's body and to deliver them from everything that would not be for their advantage. (Rom. 8:28) It is the interests of the New Creature and not the fleshly interests which are being considered. These messengers, no less powerful, are invisible during the Gospel Age because the Lord would have his people, members of the house of sons, walk by faith and not by sight. (2 Cor. 5:7) In olden times, in the times of the house of servants, the Lord's representatives assumed human bodies and ordinarily appeared in connection with their visits to humanity, so they might have the better opportunity of direct conversation and instruction when communicating their messages. (Z. '15-9; R.5605)

6:25 — THROW DOWN THE ALTAR OF BAAL — This proves the unfaithfulness of Israel. Gideon's father was the caretaker, or had charge of the groves of Baal and Ashteroth. Their images were near his home, apparently on his property.

CUT DOWN THE GROVE THAT IS BY IT — Groves, large posts, were significant of honor, erected near the idol. These were maintained by the people of Gideon's own time, his own father being one of the principal of them. Here was the secret of Israel's helplessness and subjection to the Midianites. (Z. '15-9; R.5605)

6:27 — DID AS THE LORD HAD SAID UNTO HIM — Gideon first received a test. Sure that he was following the Lord's guidance, he did not wait to gain the consent of his father, much less that of the people of the vicinity, who he knew would be angry at the work. (Z. '07-330; R.4082)

HE COULD NOT DO IT BY DAY — He knew it would be interrupted by the people if done in the day.

HE DID IT BY NIGHT — Gideon's courage was thus shown when once he knew he had been called of the Lord to do the work. Conviction that our work is of divine authority is a power of itself in the heart of any man or woman. This is a part of the lack of today, lack of faith in God and failure to recognize a mission that is of God. Much of the preaching is just formalistic, a form of godliness without the power. We are seeking to know God's servants and we surely want to know the divine word. Armed with it one may chase a thousand. Undoubtedly there is a sentiment in many of the young, particularly between the ages of twelve and twenty to seek a great and worthy object in life. Happy are the youth who, in God's providences, come under wise, helpful instruction, that they might realize that the grandest use of life possible is to render it to God in His service and the service of humanity. Gideon was one of this type, as is manifest all through the story. He had the courage and faith, and merely needed to have the knowledge of God and be commissioned to go forth in His name and do His will. (Z. '15-10: R.5606)

6:31 — WILL YE PLEAD FOR BAAL? — Joash wisely answered, as to whether or not a god of mighty power would need to be defended. If Baal could not defend himself, he could not defend Israel. The argument was potent. The people were prepared to look for a better god as their deliverer. (Z. '15-10; R.5606)

6:32 — JERUBBAAL — Thus God protected the one whom he has chosen as His servant and brought him, more markedly than ever, before the attention of the people, so that when he sent out invitations for volunteers, an army of 32,000 came. (Z. '07-330; R.4082)

6:36 — GIDEON SAID — Here a type of the Lord Jesus, as the appointed deliverer.

IF THOU WILT SAVE ISRAEL — From the human standpoint, the 32,000 of Israel had no show of conquering the 135,000 enemies (Judges 8:10); but from the standpoint of faith in God, who called them to this service, victory was certain, though none could foresee in what way it would come. (Z. '07-330; R.4082)

6:37 — A FLEECE OF WOOL — A picture of the Little Flock, who were to be with Jesus as the antitype of Gideon and his three hundred.

IF THE DEW — The dew represents God's Holy Spirit; be on the fleece only pictures on the Little Flock or Church only, thus separating and distinguishing them from all others as anointed of God to be associated with Jesus in delivering the world (Israel) from the power of evil (Midian). See Joel 2:29.

DRY UPON ALL THE EARTH BESIDE — All mankind, who would not have the Holy Spirit, but would be under the dominion of evil. This is the condition during the Gospel Age. The seven years of chap. 5:1 may represent the Gospel Age, or the night of sin.

THEN SHALL I KNOW THAT THOU WILT SAVE ISRAEL — If this separation and anointing and gathering out of my saints be accomplished, that will prove the deliverance of all others in due time. The deliverance of the Church and their separation and overcoming will prove that God will be with Jesus in his work for the world. All will then see and know.

6:38 — WRINGED THE DEW OUT OF THE FLEECE — The glorification of the Church and its completion (thrust fleece together).

A BOWL FULL OF WATER — Picturing abundance of truth and the Spirit to encourage and bless the world.

6:39 — LET ME PROVE, I PRAY THEE, BUT THIS ONCE — A picture of the Millennial Age.

UPON ALL THE GROUND LET THERE BE DEW — Representing the Holy Spirit poured upon all flesh. (Joel 2:28; Isa. 32:15-18) The church will no longer need such developing and guidance and protection and the world will get its rich blessing and deliverance. Thus the work of the antitypical Gideon will be completed.

7:1 — THE WELL OF HAROD — Harod means terror and cowardice; and it has been assumed that the name was given it because of the fear manifested by the 22,000 who went home. It was a spring or little lake which drains off eastward into the Jordan. (Z. '15-10; R.5606)

THE HOST OF THE MIDIANITES WERE ON THE NORTH SIDE OF THEM — They had a chance to see the hosts of the enemy and to consider that their enemies were used to warfare, while they, as a people, had for a long time been accustomed to the peaceable pursuits of agriculture. Accordingly the first test applied was permission for all the fearful to return home. (Z. '07-330; R.4083)

7:3 — WHOSOEVER IS FEARFUL — This was a test of faith. The 10,000 courageous men, fearless in the presence of an enemy many times their own strength, must have been men of faith in the Lord, men who, in some respects at least, resembled Gideon in their hearts, in courage, in trust in Jehovah. Yet many, if not all of those who first volunteered and were now rejected, probably had an opportunity later on of joining in the battle after the Midianites were beaten and in full retreat. (Z. '07-330; R.4083)

Just so, the Lord Jehovah contemplates the conquest of the world for Christ (Zech. 14:3) and Christ, like Gideon, is called to lead the Little Flock of called and chosen and faithful ones (Rev. 17:14) forth to the conquest of the hosts of sin. The selection of Gideon's army was a figure of the Lord's method in selecting a "peculiar people" who will share with him the honors of victory in the conquest of sin and all its defiling host. Of these, there is first a call to faith in the Lord, resulting in belief and acceptance of him as their leader. Secondly, there is a call to consecration in full view of the requirements, in full view of the enemy, and our captain requests of all those believers who come to him to sit down and count the cost, whether they are willing to sacrifice all under his leadership. The large majority, when they realize the battle must be waged with the forces of the world, flesh and devil, are inclined to say—“we prefer not to engage in battle, we are timid, fearful, have not sufficient confidence in Gideon or Gideon’s God.” The Lord’s will is that such should be considered separate from His army, though later given an opportunity to join in the battle. (Z. ’07-330; R.4083)

AND AFRAID LET HIM RETURN — But before they are fully accepted, the voice of Jesus calls to them, saying, sit down, and count the cost; it is better not to put your hand to the plow and become a servant of the Lord, than afterward to look back and wish you had not become one. The sight of the enemy, the “fear of death” (Heb.2:15) causes them to walk not with the Lord, because it is too much. When they first responded to the call, they thought of the glory and honor, but overlooked the fact that these could be obtained only at the cost of hardship and endurance. These cowards, who turn back and never really make the vow of consecration, are perhaps no worse than if they had never responded—but they will not share in the great victory, the laurels will not be theirs, the crown of life will not be their portion. (Z. ’15-11; R.5607)

7:4 — BRING THEM DOWN UNTO THE WATER — The next test was a test of zeal. When led to the river, all but three hundred halted very leisurely and knelt down to drink, which required the loosening of their armor and unfastening the sword. But three hundred hastily scooped up a little water and lapped it from their hands. This zeal, inspired by a living faith in God, was just the element of character for which the Lord was looking and these three hundred “peculiar” people were the only ones acceptable to God and privileged to share the honor of delivering Israel from a mighty host of oppressors. (Z. ’07-330; R.4083).

Further tests are made to finally select a very special class. It will be a test of water (truth). It becomes a very important question to every consecrated person as he is brought to a knowledge of the truth how he will receive it—appreciate it. The picture represents that those most acceptable to the Lord will use energy and discretion in partaking of the truth. They will not bow down in the mire of human servility, but will retain their own erectness of manhood and partake of the water of truth, lifting their heads upward and acknowledging its heavenly origin by whatever stream or channel it may come. (Z. ’07-330; R.4083)

7:5 — EVERY ONE THAT LAPPETH OF THE WATER WITH HIS TONGUE — They drank carefully and remembered what they came for, to fight the enemy, and were anxious to fight, overcome, and get him out of the way and be free. So while drinking they scanned the horizon, were watching. They used discrimination in drinking (not swallowing all that comes along, but seeking the truth and comparing all with God's Word. They studied and got more benefit.) They lapped from their hands as a dog laps with his tongue. The custom of lapping water with the hands is still common with the people of Palestine, shepherds, etc. They become very expert at it. Symbolically this act signified alertness and obedience. The dog, while lapping water with his tongue, is all alert, with his eyes watching in every direction, seeing every thing about him and ready to quit the water at any moment in pursuit of obedience to duty. If water here, as elsewhere in the Bible, represents the truth, these two companies of Gideon's army represent two classes who love and appreciate the truth. Both classes drink of the water of truth, but the one more for their own satisfaction. The other class, watchful, attentive, drink according to their needs and do not neglect alertness in the Master's service, keeping eyes and ears open for the guidance of divine providence at all times. This latter, wiser class are represented by the three hundred who were with Gideon. Gideon himself represents our Lord Jesus, the captain of our salvation. (Z.'15-10; R.5607)

EVERY ONE THAT BOWETH DOWN UPON HIS KNEES TO

DRINK — Evidently these thought only of drinking and forgot everything else. Also, they drank unwisely, with discrimination, swallowing it all. So some now read and eat mentally everything that comes along and make no discrimination between that in harmony with God's word and that not in harmony with it. They drank directly from the pool, kneeling down and putting their mouths in the water and sucking it up. An ox drinks by putting his mouth to the water and sucking it up, giving all attention to it, refusing any attention to his owner, and even resisting the use of the rod on his flanks. (Z.'15-10; R.5607)

7:6 — ALL THE REST OF THE PEOPLE BOWED DOWN UPON THEIR KNEES TO DRINK

— Then comes the second test—obedience and loyalty. One class of the Lord's people put obedience to the Lord's voice first, alert to do his will. Another portion heed less the Master's voice, and even the rod. Being less alert to the service of the Lord, they are less used of him. (Z.'15-11; R.5607)

7:7 — BY THE THREE HUNDRED MEN THAT LAPPED WILL I SAVE

YOU — Compared to the world, the most alert ones are very few. It is those of the Lord's people who are alert that he chooses and grants the greatest opportunities for service. These are the most willing to break their earthen vessels—to use their present earthly lives in the service of the truth and the Lord—that the light of truth may shine out and the cause of truth may have the victory. These zealous ones are most faithful in blowing upon the trumpet, representing God's Word. These have the blessed opportunity for letting their light shine. Their zeal entitles them to special privileges and opportunities. (Z. '15-11; R.5607)

7:14 — THIS IS NOTHING ELSE SAVE THE SWORD OF GIDEON —

This shows that the Midianites were fearful, apprehensive. Gideon was confident, his faith strengthened by this incident. (Z. '15-11; R.5607)

7:19 — THEY BLEW THE TRUMPETS AND BRAKED THE PITCHERS

— Each one shall follow the Captain of our salvation, his example. First, he shall blow upon the trumpet, representing the proclamation of the truth, and proclaim that the sword of the Spirit of the truth is the sword of Jehovah, and his anointed son. Secondly, they must break their pitchers and let their light shine out. The pitchers represent our earthen vessels, and their breaking to let the light shine out means, as in Rom. 12:1-3, to present and use up our bodies a living sacrifice. We see how Jesus broke his earthen vessel, and what a light streamed forth. Many others than the Little Flock will be associated with the overthrow of Satan's empire. (vss. 23-25)

7:20 — BLEW THE TRUMPETS — The trumpets represent the message of the kingdom, the present truth. The victory of the Lord is obtained by the antitypical Gideon and his little band of faithful followers not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord.

BRAKE THE PITCHERS — So the Lord's people present their bodies living sacrifices, holy and acceptable to God, in His service, in letting the light shine out, in fighting a good fight against the hosts of sin. (Z. '15-11; R.5607)

These pitchers will soon be all completely broken in the death of the last member of the Christ, and the light will shine out brilliantly in the glorified spiritual condition with full power. Now it is much obscured by these imperfect bodies. There we shall shine forth as the sun.

When this resurrection of the church is complete then the hosts of evil will begin destroying one another. The Jews began fighting one another after Jesus' death until the Roman army destroyed them.

7:22 — EVERY MAN'S SWORD AGAINST HIS FELLOW — We are doubtless near the time when the great victory, the antitype of Gideon's, will be accomplished and when the hosts of sin, the powers of evil, will fall upon one another for their mutual destruction. The present war in Europe is the beginning of this, but not its end. According to the Bible, the climax will be a temporary reign of anarchy, which will fully prepare the world for Messiah's glorious reign of righteousness. (Z. '15-11; R.5607)

7:24 — GIDEON — (From "gadar", to fell a tree, a feller, a warrior).

7:25 — OREB — (From "arab", to intermix) a mosquito (from its swarming).

ZEEB — A wolf.

8:5 — ZEBAH — A sacrifice or slaughter.

ZALMUNNA — Shade has been denied.

8:18 — EACH ONE RESEMBLED THE CHILDREN OF A KING — See notes on chap. 6:14. As Gideon's band of three hundred may be considered a figure of the overcomers of the Gospel Age, so Gideon would fitly represent the captain of our salvation, whose example we are to follow and whose character is to impress all his followers. Gideon looked like a king's son, that in appearance, form, etc., he had an ability which marked him above the ordinary rank and file. So our Lord Jesus is the King's Son, the chiefest among ten thousand, and all whom he accepts as his little band are to be conformed to his image by the power of God working in them to will and to do his good pleasure, working in them through a knowledge of the truth. Whatever they are by nature, it is God's design that eventually they should be like their Lord and Captain, see him as he is, and share his glory, honor and immortality. (Z. '07-330; R.4083)

8:23 — THE LORD SHALL RULE OVER YOU — The honor due to the human instruments who were privileged to share in it was not to be in their skill and strength in battle but in their faith in God and in their zeal in obeying orders, as an evidence of the strength of their confidence in God. (Z. '07-330; R.4083)

8:27 — WHICH THING BECAME A SNARE TO GIDEON — How subtle the temptation! Often, after one has been used of the Lord, the temptation suggests that the servant so used should accept a material reward because of the labor and toil of the service. The old nature craves earthly honors. But remember Gehazi the servant of Elisha. (2 Kings 5:20-27) This example led Gideon away and raised a bad example for the people who trusted him. After service, watch for deceptive suggestions of Satan, lest we fail to keep the blessing!

11:31 — I WILL OFFER IT UP FOR A BURNT OFFERING — More properly rendered, "and I will offer to Him (Jehovah) a burnt offering." God's law expressly prohibited human sacrifices. (Deut. 12:31; 14:1) His vow meant that his daughter should be devoted to the Lord's service and that Jephthah would offer to the Lord a burnt offering. This would mean that she should forever be a virgin. Every Jewish woman hoped to be the mother of the Messiah. For a virgin this would seem impossible.

13:1 — THE HAND OF THE PHILISTINES — The Philistines were a warrior people, evidently very intelligent as respects manufactures. See 1 Sam. 13:19-22.

13:5 — THE CHILD SHALL BE A NAZARITE UNTO GOD — All Jews who took a certain vow were called Nazarites. No one should confound these with the people of Nazareth. Jesus was a resident of Nazareth, a Nazarene, but he was not under the vow of the Nazarite. This vow was that he should avoid spirituous liquors of every form and that his hair should not be cut. Samson from his birth, was under this vow which, under the direction of the Lord, was adopted for him by his parents. In some sense the vow seems to have signified the full, complete consecration of the individual to God and his service. Twice before Samson's birth (vss. 4, 5, 14) an angel of the Lord communicated with his parents so that the mind of the mother especially should be impressed with the importance of abstemiousness, and thus her child be born under favorable endowment. Undoubtedly his parents realized to what extent parents may give mental and physical strength to their children, and they would be able to endow their offspring favorably. While the life or virility comes from the father, the mother has greatly to do with the stamping of the character. And in the mother's weakened condition prior to the birth of a child, the father could and should realize the situation and appreciate his privilege of surrounding the mother with fine intellectual and spiritual influences. Thus the father molds the thoughts of the mother—leads them in profitable directions—while the mother, in turn, stamps those high, noble aspirations upon her child, that he may be well-born, an honor to the family name, a blessing to the community, and above all, be qualified to be a servant of God. (Z. '15-21; R.5612) A vow, once taken, should be observed faithfully, if its blessings would be enjoyed.

13:18 — WHY ASKEST THUS THOU AFTER MY NAME — We see here the loyalty of God's true messengers—he would not take glory to himself which belonged to God, he did not want it. He was glad, counted it honor enough, to be privileged to do some work for the Lord. (Rev. 22:8, 9)

13:23 — IF THE LORD WERE PLEASED TO KILL US, HE WOULD NOT HAVE RECEIVED A BURNT OFFERING — The woman seems to have had the more sound mind, and it may be that was why the angel appeared unto her instead of her husband. It may also have been to impress her mind the more strongly. But she seemed a very loyal wife.

13:24 — THE CHILD GREW AND THE LORD BLESSED HIM — One lesson we may learn from Samson's experiences is the importance of having an object in life. No one can get the best out of life unless he has some definite purpose before him. Parents should encourage their children not to aspire to things for which they have no capacity, no qualifications, but to aspire to the best of which they are capable in life. In boys and girls between the ages of twelve and sixteen there is a surging of the forces which, rightly directed, tends to make of them noble men and women, but which, perverted into the wrong directions, may make them vicious; or which, discouraged entirely, may make them do less. Every parent and guardian should realize these facts and shape his dealings with the young under his care accordingly. There is, in youth, a striving for nobility, a realization that life is so much of value, that it can be used but once and that the direction of its start has much to do with the results. At such a time the faithful parent or guardian in setting forth before the opening mind the reasonable obligation which he has toward the Creator, and the blessed privilege of laying down life itself on the side of right against wrong, truth against error. With these matters thoroughly appreciated, the number of moral heroes in the world would be greatly multiplied. (Z. '15-22; R.5613)

13:25 — THE SPIRIT OF THE LORD BEGAN TO MOVE HIM — We are to bear in mind the distinction and the wide difference between the Spirit of the Lord coming on the prophets and the Ancient Worthies to move them to do this, that or the other thing, for the accomplishment of the divine purpose, and to write this or that in harmony with the divine will; and the Holy Spirit of adoption as New Creatures in Christ Jesus. Such a mechanical operation of the Holy Spirit is wholly different from that which applies to the Christian, begotten of the Holy Spirit. We are to receive the Spirit of adoption which, more and more permeating our lives, will make us more and more like our Father in Heaven. In all these spirit begotten ones will be exemplified growth in grace, knowledge, love, by their development and manifestation of the fruits and graces of the Holy Spirit—meekness, gentleness, patience, long-suffering, brotherly kindness, love. (Z. '15-22; R.5613)

15:8 — HE SMOTE THEM HIP AND THIGH WITH A GREAT SLAUGHTER — Samson's work for his people must not be measured by merely the amount of damage he did to the Philistines in various ways as a warrior and a strategist. Doubtless his chief work was one of reviving the spirit of his people, who had become thoroughly dejected, hopeless under the oppression of their enemies. The lesson of what one man could do when he devoted his life to serving his people and to delivering them from their enemies, must have been a great stimulus to patriotism and an encouragement to return to the Lord and to expect divine favor and prosperity as a result. We must not forget that the Jews were not Christians, nor that the rules laid down by Jesus and the Apostles were not applicable to the Jews. Moses and the nation of Israel were a house of servants. (Heb. 3:5, 6) They were promised divine blessings in ratio as they would serve faithfully, obediently the divine law, which did not call on them to be saints in the Christian sense of that word. Also the Jew was promised temporal blessings as a reward for faithfulness, while the Christian is promised spiritual blessings with temporal adversities and trials of faith, patience, love and loyalty. Unless this distinction between the two ages and the two laws be borne in mind, we shall be continually in difficulty. According to the law, Samson was rated as a very faithful servant of God. His faithfulness consisted of his loyalty to the divine arrangements and to the cause of God and Israel, the covenanted people of God. His faith was continually manifested in all that he did, and his whole life was used in serving his people. Hence he is rated among the Ancient Worthies by St. Paul in Heb. 11:32 while enumerating those who, through faith, gained victories and had the testimony that they won the divine approval. In a hundred ways Samson was neither a Christian nor an example to Christians. In many respects he lived after the flesh, notwithstanding his noble self-sacrifice in the service of the Lord. We should remember that he was never begotten of the Holy Spirit. Samson's faith in God and desire to do his will are continually manifested throughout his life when viewed from a proper angle. He obtained a good report through faith. (Z. '15-22; R.5613)

16:1 — THEN WENT SAMSON TO GAZA — Samson means “like the sun.” Sorek means “vine.” Delilah means “weak, tender or unhappy.” There would seem to be a picture here. Samson represents God's true people, like the sun. (Matt. 13:43; Dan. 12:3; Mal. 4:2) Delilah pictures the flesh, human nature of the church. The Philistines represent the worldly people in the church, strangers, not consecrated. The flesh, old fallen nature of the church, is in sympathy with the world and its desires, but the new will is not, and we have to keep a watch and vigilant guard over the flesh, else it will trap us. At this time the Philistines were rulers over the Israelites (the church is now subject to the powers that be, worldly rulers.) The world wants to entice the church away from her loyalty to God and make her help and serve them, so she will not hinder or expose their schemes.

AN HARLOT, AND WENT IN UNTO HER — The church, after the Apostles fell asleep, became careless (Rev. 2:4) and yielded to the importunities of the flesh (some did).

16:2 — THEY COMPASSED HIM IN — As a result the worldly spirit and worldly men entered and compassed her about.

WERE QUIET ALL THE NIGHT — The Dark Ages.

16:3 — CARRIED THEM UP TO THE TOP OF AN HILL THAT IS BEFORE HEBRON — Papacy thought to destroy the true church, but she escaped unexpectedly and in the Reformation she manifest and made plain the entrance to the kingdom (set it on a hill so it could not be hid), representing justification by faith. Hebron means union. The church should have learned a lesson from this experience, but many grew careless again. Nevertheless the church had been purged from a sordid, fleshly class.

16:4 — IT CAME TO PASS AFTERWARD THAT HE LOVED A WOMAN — A class in the church lusted again.

IN THE VALLEY OF SOREK — Valley of the vine. When the church became established again and men flocked to her, when ease began to come in as it did in England and Germany after a while. Many in the church gave way to the flesh again, and its worldly desires.

WHOSE NAME WAS DELILAH — A fitting symbol of our flesh which is weak, fallen, depraved.

16:5 — THE LORDS OF THE PHILISTINES — The great ones of the world in the church.

ELEVEN HUNDRED PIECES OF SILVER — To gain their point they offer very seductive things to the flesh to entrap the church.

16:6 — TELL ME, I PRAY THEE — The old nature pleads to be heard. Tell me, commune with me, take me into your confidence, consider your earthly rights awhile, see some of the comforts you are losing. Flattery is used—of the great power and influence we have as the Lord's servants—and asks us to yield these so that the flesh may have greater ease.

16:7 — IF THEY BIND ME — Some of the careless, fleshly-inclined ones of the church, listen and give a half-assent, not wholly giving in, but they do not realize the danger.

THEN SHALL I BE WEAK AND BE AS ANOTHER MAN — (Be weak as other men without special divine favor and blessing and protection.) The spirit of complaint enters, is listened to, and a kind of promise made, a giving way to the flesh by some.

16:8 — SEVEN GREEN WITHS — “Seven moist cords,” not yet dried.
(Leeser)

16:9 — THERE WERE MEN LYING IN WAIT — Satan's agents ever ready to aid the flesh.

THE PHILISTINES BE UPON THEE, SAMSON — After the flesh and its friends begin to gloat over their success and the enemies of the heart class think they really have captured her at last, the heart class takes warning and, exerting the new will, throws off the restraint and escapes. Here again she is rid of a fleshly, worldly class. This seems to correspond to the fleeing of the Pilgrim Fathers to our shores to have their liberty and to escape the oppression of their enemies and the fleshly-minded of her own numbers. The heart class refuses to be unfaithful to the Lord.

HIS STRENGTH WAS NOT KNOWN — The secret of her strength, her consecration, was not betrayed.

16:10 — NOW TELL ME, I PRAY THEE — Again some grow sleepy and careless and pander to the flesh and listen to its complaints.

16:11 — NEW ROPES — Binding influences never so presented before (never used for work.)

THEN SHALL I BE WEAK AND BE AS ANOTHER MAN — “Any other of mankind”—Leeser, without special favor and protection and strength from God.

16:12 — TOOK NEW ROPES AND BOUND HIM THEREWITH — Again some in the church yield and enter into bondage for gain, yield to their flesh.

THE PHILISTINES BE UPON THEE, SAMSON — The world class has you, the heart class, in their power, to serve them.

THERE WERE LIARS IN WAIT ABIDING IN THE CHAMBERS — Satan’s agents, always ready to take advantage of us, when in unguarded conditions.

HE BRAKE THEM FROM HIS ARMS LIKE A THREAD — Again the heart class asserted its loyalty and threw off the restraint and escaped to freedom, leaving behind those who had sold themselves for a mess of pottage—as the time of the Miller movement.

16:13 — TELL ME WHEREWITH THOU MIGHTIEST BE BOUND — Again some grow sleepy and careless and pander to the flesh, even stronger than before, for the allurements grow more fascinating with the increase of knowledge and invention.

IF THOU WEAVEST THE SEVEN LOCKS OF MY HEAD WITH THE WEB — The warp (masseketh) of a loom. If you weave in my tokens of consecration (seven) with the warp of the nominal system, and so entangle and weave me into it, that my consecrated talents, etc., are used for the strengthening of that system, then I will be bound and you will have my service.

16:14 — SHE FASTENED IT WITH THE PIN — Many yielded and were caught in the mesh.

THE PIN OF THE REAM — Pin of the shuttle (or loom—Leeser).

AND WITH THE WEB — The heart class again awakes and asserts its strength and escapes, damaging the weaving of the nominal system and spoiling it.

16:15 — THOU HAST MOCKED ME THESE THREE TIMES — The testings of the harvest time become stronger and the complaints of the old nature greater, to those who are inclined to listen to them.

16:16 — HIS SOUL WAS VEXED UNTO DEATH — Some grow faint and weary, because by listening to their flesh and yielding somewhat to its entreaties, its voice becomes louder and its claims for notice the more powerful. Until, to gain some rest of body, they are willing to grant its requests.

16:17 — HE TOLD HER ALL HIS HEART — Opened his heart to her entreaties and bared it, betrayed the confidence of the Lord to the enemy.

IF I BE SHAVEN, THEN WILL MY STRENGTH GO FROM ME — The secret of my strength is my entire consecration to the Lord. If you can induce me to break that I will be as other men without special strength from God. But I must not betray it.

16:19 — SHE MADE HIM SLEEP UPON HER KNEES — Yielding to the flesh, ceasing their watch, they are lulled to sleep unsuspectingly and induced to break their consecration to God.

16:20 — THE PHILISTINES BE UPON THEE, SAMSON — The warning is given to wake them up, but it is too late, they have cast off the Lord's protecting care, broken their consecration.

HE WIST NOT — His spiritual strength is gone. At first they do not realize they have lost their crown, and they hope to have the Lord's blessing and communion as before, but at last find they have lost it.

THAT THE LORD WAS DEPARTED FROM HIM — A vow once taken should be observed faithfully if its blessings would be fully enjoyed. Whoever takes a vow should remember that it were better not to take it at all than to violate it. For its violation serves to weaken the conscience, whereas its observance tends to strengthen the entire life and make the individual more fit, the more prepared for the Lord's service here and hereafter. The Lord seeks among his people strong characters for efficient service.

16:21 — PUT OUT HIS EYES — His spiritual sight is taken away, he is blinded. The course of Samson in this (vss. 15-30) is like that of the Great Company.

BOUND HIM WITH FETTERS OF BRASS — The gates of Babylon were brass (copper) (Psa. 107:16; Isa. 45:2); bound in with the tares.

HE DID GRIND IN THE PRISON HOUSE — Served the nominal church in getting the food they desired and in their work. Brought down to labor. (Psa. 107:12)

16:22 — THE HAIR OF HIS HEAD BEGAN TO GROW AGAIN — They begin to feel desire for their consecration again and to have the spirit of it again.

16:24 — OUR GOD HATH DELIVERED INTO OUR HANDS OUR ENEMY — The worldly minded rejoice for a short time in the liberty from restraint in their schemes, and have a grand time over the prospects of what they will do, and the nominal church will have its way.

16:27 — SAMSON MADE SPORT — The tribulation of the Great Company. The world sports at them.

16:28 — SAMSON CALLED UNTO THE LORD — They make their stand and reassert their consecration, but their crown is gone.

THAT I MAY BE AT ONCE AVENGED OF THE PHILISTINES FOR MY TWO EYES — For my spiritual blessings and understanding of the deep things of God. They are loyal to the Lord now and want to do all they can for him.

16:29 — SAMSON TOOK HOLD OF THE TWO MIDDLE PILLARS — The Great Company knock out the supports of the nominal systems, both Catholic and Protestant, and the nominal systems go down to destruction, and the Great Company pass under the veil.

RUTH

INTRODUCTION

WHILE THE BOOK OF RUTH is not prophetic, but merely historical, it is valuable to us in various ways, (1) It furnishes an important link in the chronological chain leading down to King David, and hence a part of the chronological line leading down to Jesus. (2) It gives a glimpse of the habits and customs of the Israelites in general as an agricultural people, thus in naked contrast with the books of Judges, Kings and Chronicles which deal more particularly with the rulers, generals and wars. (3) The story of Ruth points out a very beautiful lesson of fidelity, sympathy and love amongst the people of that time and inculcates a similar lesson of kindness among Spiritual Israelites, guaranteeing them, along this line, blessings both for the present and for the future. (Z. '02-349; R.3110)

@Z_SINGLE = Manifestly the chief object in this brief narrative was to preserve an authentic record of a link in the chain of our Lord's human ancestry. The story is interesting as an item in Jewish history. It has its lights and its shadows, for its characters were but samples of our fallen humanity, coming gradually under the influence of divine grace. All that was noble in them, therefore, calls forth our admiration and esteem, while the blemishes are to be deplored. (Z. '07-344; R.4089)

@Z_SINGLE = It is said that when Benjamin Franklin was American minister in Paris, he spent an evening with some of its literary people, during which he was called upon to contribute to the entertainment. Drawing from his pocket a manuscript he prepared for the occasion, he remarked, "Reading a very ancient book, I came across a very charming bit of literature which I believe will prove as interesting to many of you as to myself. I have copied it, and if you will permit, I will read it." It was the entire story of the book of Ruth. The narrative tells that the audience was delighted and desired to be informed where in ancient history so beautiful and idealistic a tale could be found. They were more than surprised when he told them that he had copied it from the Bible, for France at that time, in its official and literary circles, was agnostic, if not atheistic. (Z. '15-23; R.5613)

THE ROSE OF MOAB AND THE ROSE OF SHARON

DISCOURSE NOTES

ROM. 15:4 — The scriptures were written for our learning, that through patience and comfort we might have hope. The Sunday Bible lessons go into the Book of Ruth. Beautiful unfoldings of the mind of God. Dig and drink deeply. During the time of the Judges there was no ruler, no king, no policemen for 450 years. They were the freest that the world has ever known. It is not safe now, in our land, to remove the police.

There was a famine in the land of covenant promises (Deut. 28) that was very severe, even in Bethlehem, the house of bread.

The name of the region was Ephrata meaning bearing, fruitful. An Ephrathite was a native of the region. The root is Phrat, the ancient name of the Euphrates. Olives, pomegranates, figs, almonds, grapes and grain were in abundance.

“A certain man, Elimelech,” meaning “God is my King.” After ten years of oppression under Eglon, king of Moab, Israel learned again that God was their king by their deliverance through Ehud, son of Gera, a Benjamite. (Jud. 3:12-30)

Elimelech rebelled against the famine. He should have esteemed the covenant so highly as not to leave the land of promise and covenant people for a land of strangers and idolators. (Heb. 12:5; Isa. 63:9)

Mahlon is from a Hebrew word meaning a circle, dance, joy; or from khaw-law, a prim. root, meaning to be rubbed or worn, hence weak or sick. Chilion is from a Hebrew word for ornament or crown; or from kil-law-yone, meaning pining destruction, from kaw-law, a prim. root, to end, perish, be finished.

Naomi means pleasant, lovely, like her disposition; from No-am, meaning agreeableness, delight, grace, splendor. Elimelech died not long after his arrival in Moab and before his sons married. God did not bless his going. The father, who feared to live in Bethlehem, hardly reached Moab ere he died. Instead of crying to God and trusting Him in Bethlehem, they go to a land of idol worship. They sought to avoid one affliction and fell into a worse one. They escaped famine but death overtook them. They had not trusted in God's love at home, so his judgments smote them in a foreign land.

Even then Mahlon and Chilion would not go home. In violation of the covenant law they married heathen wives. (Deut. 7:3; 23:3) (The Law referred to men who founded houses.) It forbade the Moabite to enter Israel to the tenth generation. The sons founded houses in Moab, and Moab became their grave. They probably determined not to return until the famine ended, and when it was over they were no more.

They migrated to have greater abundance and security, now Naomi was a widow and had no husband, no sons, no property. She and her two daughters-in-law stood alone in a foreign land. What should she do now?

She heard God had visited his people and the famine was ended. Perhaps Naomi's heart never fully sympathized with their leaving Israel, and she now turned face and heart toward home, her native land.

She felt her daughters-in-law were young and life was before them, that they were sacrificing too much to go with her, to share her poverty in a strange land. She urged them to return to their land, people, mothers' houses. They wept and told her they loved her too much to desert her in her hour of need, they would go and share her poverty with her. She said, "Jehovah grant that ye may find rest, each in the home of a husband. Jehovah deal kindly with you, as ye dealt with the dead and me." A scene of unequalled tenderness and love took place. They said, "No, for we shall surely return with thee to thy people." What had produced such love and self-sacrifice as both women had?

It was an honor to the dead sons that they had chosen such girls as these, somewhat worthy of enduring love awakened. The sons and father had not become Moabites. They had kept the faith in a strange land. In ten years of married life, these two entered an Israelite family and breathed its good atmosphere. Marriage and family life are real mirrors of religion and worship. Israel had distinguished itself, not merely by the name of its God, but by the life at home, in the family, by the faithfulness to the wife and children, probably by the custom of morning and evening prayer. The level of morality was greater than among us now. Family separations, divorce, loose-living, have become so common in American life as to be thought no longer a disgrace. Purity and morality in marriage were natural and necessary results of faith in the only living God. They saw the contrast of such a home with the life of unchaste and sensual pleasure excesses that belonged with the abominations of idolatry in Moab.

These two women were attracted gratefully to the home life of Israel. They requited kindness and tender treatment with self-sacrificing love. They had not only heard the religion of Jehovah confessed in Moab, but seen it lived in the home. What they are and are ready to do is the result.

How gently and delicately she tells them they cannot hope to find a home and husband in Israel because what her sons had done in marrying foreign women was against the law and custom in Israel.

“Jehovah grant you to find a rest in the home of a husband in your own land.” There is great beauty in the Hebrew word rendered “rest” here. The position of a single woman in those days was an unhappy one. The youthful widow married again. There she found an asylum of protection, safety and honor. That is the idea of the word menuchah, resting place, which Naomi urged them to find in their own land, in the house of another husband which Jehovah would grant them. It is a beautiful expression. Deut 12:9, “Hitherto ye have not come into the rest and inheritance which Jehovah your God giveth you.”

Solomon was the first who could praise God for the complete Menuchah gift. (1 Kings 8:56) The Holy Land, when possessed in faith and obedience, was the earthly Menuchah to which earthly Israel had come, as the bride to the house of her husband. The promised land of rest and security was the covenant land, Israel’s home.

It is true that Israel’s highest Menuchah is their God, Jehovah, himself and his covenant. The world’s final rest and home is mentioned in Isa. 11:10, “In that day there shall be a root of Jesse, which shall stand for an ensign of the people. To it shall the Gentiles seek, and his rest (Menuchah) shall be glorious.”

Jesus called to men in the Gospel Age, (Matt. 11:29), “Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you and learn of me. and ye shall find rest (anapanois or Menuchah) for your souls”—a place of peace, rest, security, sympathetic understanding—a home for your souls. The Old Testament unfolds the New Testament, and the New Testament unfolds the Old Testament.

Orpah means a hind or deer.

Ruth, derived by some commentators from the Hebrew word for rose (Greek podor, Latin rosa, because of the redness of the flower), so we may think of her as the Rose of Moab. Tradition says that she was the daughter of Eglon, king of Moab. (Ruth, from reuwth (rehooth), a female associate, a friend, from raah (rawaw), a prim. root, to tend a flock, to pasture.)

Naomi, when she saw how self-sacrificing her daughters-in-law were, told them, “I am too old to have a husband, but even if I should this night and bear sons, would ye shut yourselves up and wait till they were grown?”

Here again is a gem of thought from the Almighty. The Hebrew word for “shut yourselves up” does not occur elsewhere in Scripture and its meaning is derived from use elsewhere in Hebrew. It is connected with the word for garden, in Greek, napadeisos, which was closed in, hedged in. Kallah is bride, as daughter-in-law, numphs (Matt. 10:36). The bride covered herself with a veil, withdrew from public view and shut herself up. (See Cant. 4:12, “a garden enclosed is my sister, my spouse; a spring shut up, a fountain sealed.”) The Hebrew word for bride derives from garland, used to cover both bridegroom and bride. (Bride, or son’s wife, kal-law, from kaw-lal, to complete. Stay-aw-gan, to debar from marriage.) It represents a shutting in, but by flowers, a shutting in unto (for purpose of) perfection and coronation.

Orpah, seeing no hope of husband or home in Israel, though she had a deep love for Naomi, natural desire for a resting place or home was stronger. Here Orpah and Ruth represent two classes of Gentiles who hear the gospel. Some count the cost and it is too much. Their love for truth and righteousness is not enough to suffer much. They turn back into the world, like Orpah to Moab. Note Naomi’s words—“back to your people and gods,” not enough faith. Naomi did not urge them to go back to their gods (vss. 8, 11). Did Orpah ever think with longing of Naomi?

Ruth’s love was deeper. Naomi’s loving, sunny, self-sacrificing disposition had inspired a similar self-sacrificing love and gratitude in Ruth (vss. 16, 17). Notice that Ruth uses the name of Jehovah. She made her decision. Naomi had made Israel and Israel’s God lovely in the eyes of Ruth. She wished to go to the people whose sole representatives were as amiable as this family. God and the people who could produce such as Naomi, must be a lovely God also. She is willing to give up prospects of home and family and the heart’s joys that might be hers also.

Ruth here is like those Gentiles who become Christians. They must sacrifice earthly things to become God’s people. Such is consecration. They enter thus poor in spirit. But God is even better to us than to Ruth, far greater than we can dream. There is a deep lesson for us here. Do we, as Christian ambassadors for Christ, so live that our lives tell so beautifully to others about our God? Do we let the love light of his Holy Spirit shine out in our words and actions, so these attract others to learn about our God?

Most of us are so forgetful, dulled by our fallen humanity, that we fail to let our light shine. (Phil. 2:14-16) “Among whom we shine as lights in the world.” “Be thou an example of believers.” (1 Tim. 4:12) “Ye are living epistles, known and read of all men.” (2 Cor. 3:2, 3) Resolve more carefully to represent our Heavenly Father in all our ways. How do we know but that our testimony may reach a hungry, teachable heart?

So these two went! It was a sad homecoming for Naomi—no home, no family, no friends, poverty, only one daughter-in-law (but she a jewel.) But God's lovingkindness was not exhausted. Already He had begun to order and arrange for her blessing, as she turns toward Israel.

The town was stirred at her return. Women said, "Is this Naomi," the pleasant, the lovely one who left us ten years ago, not willing to share our troubles? She knew they were contrasting her condition now with ten years ago. "Call me not Naomi, but Mara" (bitterness). (Though the name means bitterness, yet one who bore it later, had so lovely a character she was used by Jehovah to be our Lord's mother and has made that the loveliest name among women, Mary.) "For Jehovah witnessed against me. The Almighty (El Shaddai) hath dealt bitterly with me." Why the change of the name of God? El Shaddai is used in Genesis and Job much and context shows that of gracious, author of fertility and fruitfulness, blessing. God had refused to bless them in a foreign land, as they had refused his chastenings.

"I went out full and Jehovah hath brought me back empty." "In the loss of children and family Shaddai hath declared me guilty." Yes, God's faithfulness and love, unknown to them, reached out into Moab and overruled their affairs to bring them back. "There is a friend that clingeth closer than a brother." (Prov. 18:24) "O Love, that will not let me go," a hymn. "I drew them with the cords of a man, with bands of love." (Hos. 11:4) While they were in Moab, God's love was preparing help that would blossom out into joy when they should fully return. God's love used trouble and affliction to bring them back to Him.

The neighbors did not help them, but turned back to their own pursuits. So (2:2, 3) Ruth volunteered to glean in some of the nearby fields at harvest time. It was not easy, a miserable task for a once-prosperous widow. She was possibly treated as a beggar, harshly spoken to, if not maltreated by rude reapers; passed the day in heat and distress, to bring home a little barley, weary and hungry. But her love for Naomi gave courage and strength to make light of this.

Jehovah directed her steps, though she did not know it; literally, "her lot met her in the fields of Boaz."

While she was gleaning, Boaz comes from Bethlehem and looks over the harvest field. His greeting to workers shows a God-like character, "Jehovah be with you." And their answer, "Jehovah bless thee," was not mere formality as shown by later talk with the overseer, who has the same spirit as his master. He watches the workers and notices one who gleans industriously, not bold nor noisy, not given to play. Her very manner shows her not to be a common maid servant. He has not seen her before. She is serious, earnest, quiet, reserved. Ordinarily maids chatter and do many things they are not paid to do. She, who so long had her own mistress, has not the look nor manner of one grown bold in beggary.

He asks the overseer. Since morning she had not ceased to glean and had scarcely, but now, rested in the house. This praise led Boaz to call her to him or go to her. He asks her not to go to another field but to abide there. He told the reapers not to reproach her nor molest. The Law of Israel provided for the poor and stranger. (Deut. 24:19-22) He could not but support her in this right, though he might help her.

Note the manly behavior of Boaz. He does not take advantage of the situation to interfere nor to wound her self-respect by too much liberality. He is careful in his kindness to respect her, though she is a stranger. He even instructs his binders to drop a handful now and then, so her gleaning would be more fruitful and tells her to glean closer to the maidens binding sheaves. At the noon hour rest, he invites her to eat with the rest of the reapers, passes her bits of corn and sour wine to refresh the reapers.

Boaz told her that he had heard how she had left father and mother and native land to live among strange people. His beautiful expression—he did not say “I will help thee,” there was too much nobility and refinement in both to permit so light a statement; he was also an ambassador for Jehovah—“Jehovah recompense thee, and a full reward be given thee by Jehovah, the God of Israel, under whose wings thou art come to trust.” Jehovah can reward more deeply and the satisfaction is more complete.

The full reward should be realized in her life as she would seek shelter and trust under the protection of a covenant-keeping God, among covenant people.

These words were the first ray of sunshine breaking through the grief and tears of many weeks. She had lived with a sense of loss of family, home and people. This truly must be a great God and a great people, because she now is told about the God of Israel by another Israelite and hears the voice of blessing from another of God’s people. She said, “I have long been sad, but thou comfortest me. I have looked for no reward, but thou hast spoken to the heart of thy handmaid, though not like other maidens.”

Her answer raised her higher to Boaz. It showed a refined nature. Many in her place would say, in truth, that they were not used to such labor and would begin to complain. Ruth was unassuming and reserved, not looking for favors. The young and healthy delight in standing on their own two feet. She feels that there would be some way to a better condition. Boaz shows kindness, not as a relative, but in respect for excellence. Kind words to a loving heart are like morning dew on a thirsty field.

She returns to gleaning, does not slack her hand, nor assume airs, nor take things easy because her master favored her. She worked diligently till evening, even stayed over to thresh grain. She had an ephah of barley (3-1/2 pecks.)

She also carried home to Naomi some of the food saved from dinner. (vs. 18)

Now comes the part of the story that is difficult for many to understand. Naomi realized that the hand of Jehovah must be in all of this. He had guided Ruth to the field of Boaz. "Jehovah hath not left off his kindness to the living and the dead. His blessings be on the man who has befriended you." Kindness to the dead in that He looked after their loved ones. She advised Ruth to abide in that field through the harvest. Ruth reported Boaz' words. "Abide close to the young men through the harvest." Naomi, as a wise mother, gently corrected, "It is good to abide with the maidens, that men meet thee not in another field and fall upon thee." Here was safety sent by Jehovah.

When the harvest was over and the heaps of grain were on the threshing floor, Boaz himself came down to watch. Naomi said to Ruth, "Shall I not seek a Menuchah for thee?" (a hearth, home and shelter.)

What was done was in accord with the Law. (Deut. 25:5-10) It rests on a desire to preserve, not only the national spirit, but also a national body. A nation lives in its families, as a tree in its branches. If a man die without child it is as if a branch withered. The remedy is that a new branch is grafted in by the nearest male, the relative marrying the widow. Each family is to take care that a branch not die out. But no one could redeem anything for a family who was not a blood relative.

So this tells us why Jesus had to become, not only a human being, but a human baby, nourished by the body of Mary. It would not do to be created a full-grown man like Adam, he must have his body nourished by Adam's race, human flesh, before he could redeem mankind. Thus the study of the Old Testament increases the understanding of the New Testament—it is all from the Creator's Mind.

So Naomi called the attention of Boaz to a neglected duty. Divine grace pointed to Boaz rather than to the other relative.

Now look at what was done.

Ruth washed and donned her good raiment. She did not win Boaz by art and beauty. She went by night, so he did not see her and afterward he retired and slept. She gently cleared a place at his feet, drew a corner of his covering over her without waking him. But, turning in his sleep, his feet touched her and he awoke with a start. Boaz said, "Who art thou?" She answered, "Ruth, thine handmaid, spread thine skirt over thy handmaid, for thou art a near kinsman." What does it mean? The Masoretic text (standard Jewish text) understands by "thy skirt," "thy wings," i.e., protection, by covering being spread over. She is appealing to him to do what the Law demanded.

The innate nobility of Boaz shines out. He is a man of God, an Israelite indeed, not only before men, but before God, does not forget—"Thou God, seest me." He does not take advantage of the situation, there is no meanness nor impurity in his nature. He said, "Blest be thou of Jehovah, my daughter, for thou hast shown more kindness in the latter deed than at the beginning, as you have not sought young men, whether poor or rich!"

Now what did he mean? How was she showing more kindness in this action than at the beginning? This was a harder thing for Ruth to do than gleaning, for she was exposing herself to possible misunderstanding. But her deep love for Naomi and self-forgetfulness surrounds this action with a glow of purity. To procure honor in Israel, and love for Naomi, and to save the name of her dead husband from extinction in Israel, she does what only a chaste woman, inspired by the obedience of love, would dare to do, and what the polluted minds of impure souls can never understand. To a noble mind it is more of a martyrdom to face the possibility of appearing as a sinner than to suffer hardship for the sake of virtue. Naomi must have trusted God very deeply to have advised such a step.

(Verses 14-18) Boaz promised to call the matter to the attention of the nearest kinsman, as one nearer than himself, and if he would not do his part, then Boaz would take care of it. She lay till early morning and, while yet dark, went away. Boaz filled her vail with barley grain, six measures. Then Boaz went out early to meet the other kinsman as he came by the gate. Why six measures? Why not seven, or five? Ruth told Naomi she had six measures, it gave a hint to Naomi, in any event, that Ruth would obtain a resting place. Six is a symbol of labor and service, followed by seven, the time of rest. Whoever served six years was released on the seventh. (Ex. 21:2, 3) So Boaz sent the message—period of labor past, time of rest at hand.

Boaz gathered ten men, elders of the city, and had them sit in the gate by him. The gate was the place of judgment. (Gen. 19:1) When the nearest relative came by, Boaz stopped him and laid the case before him. At first the other relative, nameless, said he would redeem the land for Naomi. But when Boaz showed him the Law, that he must marry Ruth, he said he feared to mar his own inheritance. What did he mean? How mar his own inheritance? Evidently he feared to marry Ruth because she was a Moabitess. He knew what happened to Mahlon and Chilion, so he refused.

But Ruth had become an Israelite in faith and left behind Moab and its people, its gods and customs, and joined the covenant people. Boaz knew this and did not press the matter. So the other relative removed his shoe and gave it to Boaz.

What does this custom mean? The shoe or sandal was a type of motion and wandering, also of rest and possession. (Deut. 11:24) Ex. 12:11—"with shoes on your feet"—meant a journey ahead. Deut. 11:24 refers to possession, something actually had and you could tread on with your feet at will. So the relative, by this custom, symbolized he surrendered all rights and claims of possession. Had he done his part he would have set his shoe on Naomi's inheritance and claimed it as redeemed for Ruth's family. Ruth is the heiress of Mahlon and must go with his possession. So Boaz redeemed Naomi's and Ruth's and married Ruth. Deut. 25:5-10 gives this law and custom.

So we see how important this law of redemption was considered. Ruth did not have to carry out the severe part of the command as the first relative was not the only one available.

The story and procedure of redemption illustrates well the work Jesus did in redeeming Adam's race. As there was no other redeemer, Jehovah furnished him in his own Son. (Isa. 63:5) But Jesus had to be a flesh relative of Adam, as well as become a human being. So, as in Luke 1:35, the life spark of our Lord Jesus was transferred by divine power to the womb of Mary, and Jesus was born a perfect human baby. He did not inherit the death sentence from Adam, because Joseph was not his father, God was. When of full age, he gave his perfect human life a ransom for all mankind and carried out the contract to the full end on the cross. By this ransom price he redeems Adam and all his children, and Adam's inheritance, the earth. Also he marries a bride, one who is a daughter of Adam, the Church. This contract was witnessed by the elders, ancient fathers and prophets, in the place of judgment, before the throne of God. He also planted his shoe upon the inheritance for, as the Redeemer, he walked up and down over it for 3-1/2 years. Jesus and his bride, as spirit beings, do not need the inheritance, so it is returned to the children of Adam in their resurrection. (Psa. 60:8 and 108:9, "Over Edom will I cast my shoe," means that the Lord will claim Edom as his possession, redeemed, as of the other tribes in vss. 7, 8.

Ruth represents the Gentiles who come into the family of God by full consecration, leaving behind home, family, lands; and, as New Creatures, become Sons of God, the Bride of the Prince, redeemed by the blood of the Lamb, a ransom for all. Like Ruth, they will be the mother of kings. Ruth gave up home for the home of Boaz; her husband was a prince of Israel; her children were kings; her people were the covenant people; she received the land, Naomi's inheritance, and Boaz. So God deals with the Church.

COMMENTS ON RUTH

1:1 — IN THE DAYS WHEN THE JUDGES RULED — Perhaps somewhere about Gideon's time when scarcity, amounting almost to famine, prevailed in Palestine, as a judgment of the Lord upon his people for some measure of coldness toward him, or unfaithfulness. (Z.'02-349; R.3110)

There was no king, every man did that which was right in his own eyes. Part of the tribe of Dan forsook the land in a body, being no longer pleased with it and of no mind to overcome the remaining enemies. (Lang)

THERE WAS A FAMINE IN THE LAND — No rain, and crops failed, no crops reaped from those extensive grain-bearing plains, which in good years, produced abundant supplies. The very name, "House of bread" bespeaks a good, fertile, district. Its soil is fruitful in olives, pomegranates, almonds, figs and grapes. (Lang)

A CERTAIN MAN OF BETHLEHEM-JUDAH WENT TO SOJOURN — With his family, in time of famine, to sojourn in Moab on the East side of the Dead Sea, where fertile conditions were. He left his neighbors and relatives in distress to enjoy greater abundance in the land of the enemy. Famine was ordained as a chastening discipline, but this man went in his own strength, in selfish segregation from his fellows, to change the orderings of divine providence. (Lang)

IN THE COUNTRY OF MOAB — The Moabites were descendants of Lot (Gen. 19:37), but nevertheless the Lord marked out to Israel that they were not to be considered the children of Abraham and therefore not subject to special dealings, discipline, providences, etc., as were the Israelites. (Deut. 23:3-6; Neh. 13:1)

1:2 — ELIMELECH — "My God is king." Now it was in conflict with the king of Moab that Israel had experiences that God is king. (Lang)

NAOMI — "The lovely, gracious one," name was the mirror of her character. Whoever is loved as she was by her daughters-in-law is certainly most worthy of love. (Lang)

MAHLON — From "machol," a circle dance. (Lang)

CHILION — May be derived from the Hebrew for Crown. Hence these two sons would be their joy and ornament. (Lang)

EPHRATHITES — Natives of Bethlehem and vicinity. The ancient name of Bethlehem is Ephrath means, to bear, such as fruit, like the Phrat, the original name of the Euphrates. (Lang)

THEY CAME INTO THE COUNTRY OF MOAB AND CONTINUED

THERE — It was a mistake, however, as she afterwards realized, to attempt to regulate their own affairs when they were under the special protection and guidance of the Lord. As Israelites, they should have esteemed the divine promises so highly that they would not have left the land of promise and the people of promise to commingle with those who were strangers to these promises and more or less idolaters. To be on the Lord's side for the Lord's people should have been esteemed far more important than earthly prospects. (Z. '02-349; R.3110)

In leaving they were leaving the special privileges of association with the Lord's people and failing also to contribute their part toward their comfort and encouragement, and also exposing themselves and their children to the unholy influences of an idolatrous people. This was the part they chose merely for temporal advantage, rather than to share the hardships at home and trust in the Lord to supply their needs. The result of their course was only trouble. (Z. '07-344; R.4089)

1:3 — ELIMELECH, NAOMI'S HUSBAND, DIED —Probably not long after his arrival in Moab. The death of the father is the beginning of their troubles. Yet the sons are unwilling to return home, but proceed, in violation of the Law, to take Moabite wives. (Deut. 7:3) As the idolatry of Moab and Ammon (children of Lot) are as objectionable as of others, though not named in the list of seven nations. (Deut. 7:1; see Jud. 10:6; Deut. 23:3—Law) The Law of Deut. 23:3 which forbids entrance into the camp or nation of Israel even to the tenth generation is argued by the Jewish expositors as not applying to Ruth, as she was the woman and, as such, founded no house in Israel or elsewhere. The taking of wives would be making a covenant and so would involve the danger of idolatry. The story does not seek to hide the sin of the young men. The wrong which has been done is overcome and turned into a stepping stone to a great end. The Midrash makes Ruth a daughter of King Eglon.

1:4 — THEY TOOK THEM WIVES OF THE WOMEN OF MOAB —

These were heathen wives who knew not the God of Israel. But, as events show, though Naomi and Elimelech had erred in judgment and were faint-hearted, yet they were still loyal to Jehovah and let their light shine in Moab, and both their daughters-in-law were influenced thereby and Ruth was fully converted. (Z. '07-344; R.4089)

ORPAH — A hind or deer. (Lang)

RUTH — The Mishna and Talmud speak of the rose under its Greek name podon, rosa, derived from the redness of the flower, eputhpos, tutilus, Sanskrit rudh-ira, Gothic rauds, the Moabite Rose or Rose of Moab. The Father who feared, lest he should not be able to live at home, had scarcely reached the stranger's land and then died. The sons founded their houses in Moab and Moab became their grave. They were probably determined not to return home until the famine ended, and when it was over they themselves were no more. They had emigrated in order to have more, and secure the family, and now the widow had no husband, nor sons, nor property. "Joy" and "ornament" had given over to sorrow and mourning—Naomi stood alone in a foreign land. (Lang)

THEY DWELLED THERE ABOUT TEN YEARS —During these years these two women saw the difference between an Israelite family and a Moabite. The sons must have been worthy of the enduring love they awakened, even though there were no children. The attachment of the two women must be grounded in facts. The two Moabitish women had entered into an Israelitish house and breathed the good atmosphere of a family of Judah. Marriage and family life are the real mirror of religious life and worship. Israel had distinguished itself from the inhabitants of Canaan, not only by the name of its God, but its life at home, in the family, in faithfulness and love to wife and child. Purity and morality in marriage were the necessary results of faith in the only living God, as much as a life of unchaste and sensual pleasure belonged to the abominations of idolatry among the Ammonites and Moabites. Every profounder apprehension of the domestic relations brought about by man's consciousness of God affects the wife especially. Her happiness and love, indissolubly connected, depend upon the moral education of the man she follows. Ruth and Orpah felt the influence of the higher morality in contrast with the Moabite homes. Although the two sons may not have been specially pious, their national mode of home and family life contrasted with that of Moab, and more so because they lived in Moab. Both the young women, acquainted with the fate of Moabite marriages, felt gratefully attracted to the Israelitish house into which they entered. They requited the kind and tender treatment they had received with self-sacrificing love. What a picture of peace and happiness does it suggest! The women not only heard the religion of Jehovah confessed in Moab but they had seen the expression of it in the life. What they have done and are ready to do is the consequence. (Lang)

1:6 — THAT SHE MIGHT RETURN FROM THE COUNTRY OF MOAB
— Naomi was not to blame in connection with the matter, the responsibility rested with her husband and it is evident that her heart was not in sympathy with the move, for ten years later when her husband and two sons had died she promptly determined on a return to the Lord's people and to the land he had given them. (Z. '02-349; R.3110)

How many there are today who seek to map out their plans for the present life in disregard for their highest interests, in disregard of the Lord's promises and the relationship into which they have entered by covenant with him! How many there are who forget that the Lord's arrangement with all of his covenant people is that He will supervise their affairs and cause all things to work together for good to them. Instead of making temporal interests their chief concern, Naomi's husband should have been making the religious interests of himself and family the chief concern, so that, if he had been living in Moab under greater prosperity, he should rather have been willing to go to the land of promise amongst the Lord's people, though such a course would seem to have been a blighting of his earthly interests. The Lord's people of Spiritual Israel will do well to bear this thought continually in mind—that spiritual interests are to be given the preference always; that temporal affairs are to be managed and controlled from the standpoint of the everlasting welfare—from the standpoint of spiritual growth and development, from the standpoint of the best influences upon and interests of their children. They should not only hesitate to follow any suggestion that would take themselves and their families into unfavorable, godless surroundings, but they should determine that not, under any considerations, would they follow such suggestions; that, on the contrary, the Lord's people should be their people, even though this meant less of the comforts and luxuries of the present life. It would surely mean greater spiritual blessings and favor for the present time, and persevering would mean the gaining of the glorious reward which our Lord has promised to the faithful who love him more than they love houses and lands and kindred, etc. (Z. '02-350; R.3110)

THE LORD HAD VISITED HIS PEOPLE — Believing Israel sees the government of God in Israel in everything. In Deut. 28:47, 48 want and famine and servitude would come upon Israel if it should go after idols. But again God remembered his people. The same Hebrew word is used in Gen. 21:1 when God remembered Sarah and in Ex. 4:31 when God observed Israel. This family alone thought the distress of famine could not be borne. Instead of crying to God and trusting him in Bethlehem, they go to an enemy's land where idol worship is the custom. They sought to avoid one affliction and fell into a heavier; they escaped famine, but death overtook them. They had not trusted God's love at home, so his judgment smote them abroad. (Lang)

1:7 — HER TWO DAUGHTERS-IN-LAW WITH HER — Evidently Naomi's life and her example and faithfulness to the Lord had made an impression among those with whom she was specially in contact, her two daughters-in-law—both of whom resolved to go back with her to the land of Canaan.

1:8 — THE LORD DEAL KINDLY WITH YOU AS YE HAVE DEALT WITH THE DEAD AND WITH ME —

A scene of unequaled tenderness and amiableness. It is an honor to the dead sons that they made such a selection of wives, but they must also have been worthy of the enduring love they awakened, though no children came to strengthen the bonds of affection. Marriage and family life form the real mirror of religious belief and worship. Ancient Israel distinguished itself, not merely by the name of its God, but by its life at home and in the family, by faithfulness and love to wife and child! Purity and morality in marriage were the necessary results of faith in the only living God, as much as a life of unchaste and sensual pleasures belonged to the abominations of idolatry among the Ammonites and Moabites. Among the worst sins into which Israel fell in the desert were the whoredoms with the daughters of Moab. (Num. 25) The wife experiences most deeply the benefits of a life sanctified by the Law of God. Her happiness and her love depend upon the moral education of the man she follows. Ruth and Orpah felt the impression of the higher morality which pervaded the Israelitish home in contrast with the house of Moab. Mahlon and Chilion held fast to the family traditions in which the wife held a position of tenderness, protected by love and solicitude. They did not unite with the idolatry of Moab. Both the young women, acquainted with the conditions of Moabite marriage, felt greatly attracted to the Israelitish home they entered. Naomi's kind and genial soul evidently was like her beautiful name. (Lang)

1:9 — THE LORD GRANT THAT YE MAY FIND REST — The position of a single woman in antiquity was an unhappy one. It was customary for youthful widows to marry again. Only a husband's home is the true asylum for a woman. There she finds protection, safety and honor. That is the idea of the Menuchah, the rest, which Naomi wishes Jehovah may give each of them, in the house of another husband. It is a beautiful expression of the end of marriage to a woman. The possession of a Menuchah, an asylum of honor and freedom, is the highest happiness. Deut. 28:65 says that, if disobedient, Israel would have no Menuchah. The Holy Land, if possessed in faith, is the earthly house to which Israel has come, as a wife to the house of her husband. "Hitherto you have not yet come into the Menuchah which Jehovah your God gives you." (Deut. 12:9) Solomon was the first who could praise God for the complete gift of Menuchah. (1 Kings 8:56) Israel's highest Menuchah is their God Jehovah himself and his covenant. The world's final rest and house is mentioned by Isaiah (11:10), "To him shall the nations repair, and his Menuchah is glory." And Jesus said to men in his day (Matt. 11:29), "Come unto me and ye shall find rest (anapauois = Menuchah) for your souls"— a home. Such a Menuchah Ruth and Orpah had enjoyed in the homes of their husbands. "May Jehovah grant you rest (Menuchah) in the home of a new husband." Naomi, though her heart is torn by this new separation, shows them that all hopes of renewed married happiness are ended if they go with her, urges them to take new family connections in Moab. The surprising delicacy with which she says this indirectly shows truly how clearly a religious love educates and refines. She is too tender to tell them that Israel does not sanction connections with Moab.

1:13 — WOULD YE TARRY FOR THEM — The climax of grief in verse 12, “If I should belong to a husband tonight and should have sons, would you then shut yourselves up and stay for them?” The Hebrew word here used in the sense of shutting oneself in does not occur again in Scripture. The explanation is from its use in late Hebrew. It is connected with the word for garden—the paradeisos which was closed in, hedged in. Kallah means bride as the Greek numph (Matt. 10:35), explains itself from the Latin nubere, to cover, veil. The bride already covered herself, withdrew from the eyes of men, and was shut up. (See Cant. 4:12) The use of sunnumphos in the Septuagint in vs. 15 for sister-in-law is peculiar. The Hebrew bride derives her name from the garland used to crown both bridegroom and bride. It represents a shutting in, but by flowers, a shutting up unto perfection and coronation. (Lang)

IT GRIEVETH ME MUCH — Naomi has buried her happiness in a distant grave. For her there is no future, but she is soon to experience that His mercy is not yet exhausted. (Lang)

FOR YOUR SAKES — She reflected that these two young women would be sacrificing much—leaving kindreds, homes, acquaintances, customs and good prospects, to go with her to a land where they would be considered foreigners and probably be discriminated against. She urged them to return to their own people, to the religious worship, etc., to which they had been accustomed. She feared that their resolution to accompany her would result in disappointment later on. Her disinterested course in this matter reminds us very much of our Lord’s words to some who proposed to become his disciples. He advised them, first of all, to sit down and count the cost; this he did, not because he wished to stumble or turn back any who had inclinations to follow in his footsteps, but because it is best on general principles that people should not undertake that in which their hearts are not fully and deeply interested, because, otherwise, they are sure to make a failure. They who sit down and count the cost, and then rejoicingly follow in the Lord’s footsteps of suffering and trial, glad to be accounted worthy to suffer for his name’s sake and to walk in his footsteps—they alone are the kind who will gain the prize. Those who would follow without the spirit of sacrifice would be sure to miss the prize. And all the sacrificing they would do would be burdensome and measurably disappointing. (Z. ’02-350; R.3110)

1:14 — ORPAH KISSED HER MOTHER-IN-LAW — Orpah concluded, after all, that it would be too much of a sacrifice to part with her kindred.

BUT — Orpah was attached and well-disposed, but still with eyes of self-love, for though she was willing to leave all and go with Naomi to a strange land, she yet saw herself and counted the cost and thought it wise to go back. But Ruth saw only the beloved one. Few among women—or men—are as kind and good as Orpah, but Ruth’s love has scarcely entered the thoughts of poets. She goes to a foreign land and chooses poverty, not for a husband or a lover, but for the mother of him who long since has been torn away from her. She refuses to leave Naomi for the very reason that she is old and poor and childless. Rather than leave her to suffer alone, Ruth will starve with, or beg for her. Here is love for the living and dead surpassing anything found in legend or in poetry or mythology.

RUTH CLAVE UNTO HER — Ruth had come to love her mother-in-law so deeply and to respect her religion so thoroughly that although it cost a tear to part with home and kindred and to contemplate the trials of poverty in a foreign land, she nevertheless fully resolved that such a home amongst those who revered the true God and were heirs of his promises was more to be esteemed than anything she was leaving. Her impassioned words to her mother-in-law are noted throughout the world as being amongst the most beautiful expressions of sympathy, kindness, love and devotion. (Z.’02-350; R.3110)

1:15 — THY SISTER-IN-LAW IS GONE BACK UNTO HER PEOPLE — Orpah had gone, for strong as was her affection for Naomi, her natural desire for a resting-place, a home, was yet stronger. (Lang)

1:16 — WHITHER THOU GOEST I WILL GO — Naomi’s character and life, her pleasant, sunny, self-sacrificing disposition had won for her her daughters-in-law. For this love, Ruth gave up not only home and family, but all the heart’s joys that might be hers yet. Naomi has made Israel and Israel’s God lovely in the eyes of Ruth. Who would not wish to go to a people whose sole representatives were so amiable as Naomi and her family. In Moab the young women had not been made aware that one cannot be united to Israel without acknowledging Israel’s God. But now they learn that what Mahlon and Chilion had done was against the custom and laws of Israel. The discovery has different effects on Orpah and Ruth. Orpah is repelled because of the bridal and home she must lose. Ruth is attracted, for if the God of Israel develops such people as Naomi’s family, then she wants that God also. Do our Christian lives tell others about our God so beautifully? Do we let the love light shine out in our lives so as to attract others to our God? Paul says in Phil. 2:14-16, “Among whom ye shine as lights in the world.” “Be thou an example of the believers.” (1 Tim. 4:12) Ruth thus is like the Christian from among the Gentiles. They must give up all to become one of God’s people. Such is consecration. They enter thus, poor in spirit, but God is so good to us now, that what he did for Ruth he does for us now, grander and greater things than we could have dreamed of. Ruth gave up a home, she got a far richer one; she gave up a husband, and God gave her a Prince in Israel; she gave up children, and God made her the mother of kings, and even of the Redeemer, Jesus. She gave up an estate, and God gave her, not only her family estate, but the estate of a prince in Israel. "Ye are living epistles known and read of all men." (2 Cor. 3:2, 3) Just as serious as when the disciples of Jesus asked, "Shew us the Father?" "Have I been so long with you and you ask this?" (See also 1 Pet. 3:1, 2) (Lang)

1:17 — IF OUGHT BUT DEATH DOTH PART THEE AND ME — That this was not a mere impulse on Ruth's part is manifested from her subsequent course of faithfulness to her mother-in-law. Naomi's appreciation of it and devotion to her interests were just as manifest. (Z. '07-344; R.4089)

1:18 — THEN SHE LEFT SPEAKING TO HER — A good and faithful, God-serving, God-fearing, God-honoring, mother-in-law Naomi surely was to have so deeply interested Ruth in herself and in her God and in His promises to her people. There is a lesson here not only for mothers-in-law, but for all of the Lord's people. Not all are able to preach and to teach the Word of God publicly or privately, but all can teach through their daily lives and glorify their Father in Heaven in their bodies and spirits which are His, by living a godly life, by telling in the simplest manner, of the hopes and promises which control their hearts and inspire their own courage and devotion. (See 2 Cor. 3:3; Matt. 5:14-16) That Naomi had told her daughters-in-law respecting her God and His promises to His people is evident; but to have told them this and not to have acted in accord with this faith and hope would have been contradictory and undoubtedly never would have influenced Ruth to forsake her own people and her father's house, and to have cast in her lot with her mother-in-law and the Israelites. (Z. '02-351; R.3110)

One thing here is worthy of note, namely, the positiveness with which Ruth made her decision. It was not a proposal—to try for a time to see how it would go to live in Judea. It was a decision unto death. In this respect all true conversions are alike. The Christian, for instance, does not become a Christian, until he made just such a definite, positive consecration of himself to leave the world, its affairs, hopes, loves, ambitions, and to spend and be spent, even unto death, in the service of the Lord. The value of positive decision in respect to life we can hardly over-estimate. Thousands of lives are blighted because of lack of decision. Positiveness for God is the only condition in which we can hope to make our calling and election sure. We earnestly urge the importance of positive decision as essential to proper peace of mind and to proper Christian progress and to an inheritance with the saints. (Col. 1:12) When the decision is reached it means, "Thy God shall be my God." (Z. '15-23,24; R.5613)

1:19 — UNTIL THEY CAME TO BETHLEHEM — It was about ten years since they had left Bethlehem. (vs. 4)

1:20 — THE ALMIGHTY HATH DEALT VERY BITTERLY WITH ME — She explained to them that the Lord's providences in respect to her affairs had been severe afflictions—the Lord had testified against her course—had not prospered herself and family in the course that they had taken. No doubt later on she came to see that the Lord's afflictions upon her had really been for her good, bringing her back to the land of promise and to fellowship with her people, so that her last days were probably the best of her life. So, at times, it may be with some of the Lord's Spiritual Israelites. His chastisements and afflictions and disciplines may seem to indicate his displeasure, but really, from the standpoint of faith and knowledge, they may afterward be seen to be blessings in disguise. However, much depends upon the way in which the Lord's blessings are received. Had Naomi suffered herself to become sour and morose and rebellious against the Lord, no blessing would have followed her experiences. But the fact that she permitted these to draw her closer to the Lord and to his people, formed the channel of her blessings. And this lesson is easily applied to us all, as Spiritual Israelites, to our experiences. (Z. '02-351; R.3111)

1:21 — WHY THEN CALL YE ME NAOMI — When Naomi had, by sad experience, learned a needed lesson and determined to submit herself again to the Lord's leading, the favor of God began to return to her. She found a great blessing and comfort in the manifest devotion of Ruth (ch. 4:15) and in her conversion to the Jewish faith. Their kindly reception by the people of Bethlehem and the sympathy and kindness shown them were other great blessings.

2:2 — LET ME NOW GO TO THE FIELD AND GLEAN — Naomi was in need, no one seemed to help her. Her lot would have been a dismal one if God had not provided Ruth. She would ask for permission to glean. It was no easy offer. At best, what a miserable task for the once prosperous widow! Possibly to be treated as a beggar, harshly addressed, perhaps maltreated by rude reapers; pass the day in heat and distress in order, at evening, hungry and weary, to bring home a little barley. But her love for Naomi makes everything easy to her. It gives utterance to good works and puts them into practice. Ruth, who has given up everything, asks permission to give up more. It is not easy for Naomi to accept. The remarkable characters of both women come here into view. Literally, "her lot met her on the field of Boaz." But God is directing her steps.

2:3 — HER HAP WAS TO LIGHT ON A PART OF THE FIELD BELONGING TO BOAZ — The lesson shows how the Lord rewarded the noble character and faith of Ruth. That she did not come to Bethlehem with great expectations and selfish motives is evidenced by the fact that she set out to earn a living for herself and her mother-in-law. She was young and strong and could, after the manner of the times, go into the harvest fields and glean such stray handfuls of the grain as were missed by the men who did the reaping. This was permitted by the Jewish Law. The grain growing in the fence corners could be gleaned by any of the poor for their own use. Providentially Ruth was guided in her humble efforts to earn a living, to Boaz' field. (Z. '02-351; R.3111)

So we are to commit our way unto the Lord and sincerely and unselfishly determine to follow the path of righteousness. Then the Lord shall be our God and His people shall be our people. Testings will come as to whether or not we are willing to do our duty in respect to the common affairs of life, laboring with our hands, providing things honest in the sight of all men. As we go forward in the line of duty the Lord guides our steps and overrules in our affairs and brings us blessings; but if we fail to take the proper steps and to do with our might what our hands find to do, we miss the blessings. (Z. '02-351; R.3111)

2:4 — HE SAID UNTO THE REAPERS, THE LORD BE WITH YOU —

How few employers of labor today, as they visit their farms, would in any degree be inclined to salute their men as did Boaz; and how few farm laborers of today would respond as did Boaz. Evidently the employers and employees of our day could learn some profitable lessons from the past, notwithstanding the fact that evolutionists would endeavor to convince us that back in the days of Boaz men must have been much nearer to the monkey condition than today. (Z. '02-231; R.3111)

2:5 — WHOSE DAMSEL IS THIS? — The overseer knows the actual piety of his master. Boaz notices the strange maiden. The proprietor knows his own work people and the poor also. But Ruth he has never seen. She, who had so long been mistress herself, had not the look of one grown bold in beggary. The natural charm of her grace and presence. She could not fail to attract Boaz, as any master notices those who work diligently and behave themselves.

2:7 — HATH CONTINUED EVEN FROM MORNING UNTIL NOW —

The overseer was like his master. Since morning she had not ceased to glean, had scarcely rested a little in the house. This praise of her diligence included praise of the propriety and reserve of her demeanor. She was serious, in deep earnestness. Unlike the other gleaners. They were apt to chatter and do many other things than what they came for. Like any zealous student or worker. It is not a common maid servant. Boaz therefore went to her to speak to her personally.

2:8 — ABIDE HERE FAST BY MY MAIDENS — Nothing has been asked of him, so he has no right to wound the self-respect of others. The privilege of gleaning belongs of right to the widow and stranger. He can only support her in this right and enlarge it. Ruth has modestly gleaned at a distance from the men reapers and binders (maidens.) He calls her to him where he stands, near the reapers. Immediately behind the reapers came the maidens binding the sheaves. The gleaners nearest the binders had the best opportunities. Ruth had evidently held back, letting others take the best, as she was only a foreigner. Boaz bids her come close up to the binders and stay there, so her gleaning would be more productive.

2:9 — CHARGED THE YOUNG MEN THAT THEY SHALL NOT TOUCH THEE — He takes care to provide her an abundant gleaning and also to insure her safety.

2:10 — WHY HAVE I FOUND GRACE IN THINE EYES — Only such as can exercise love can understand it. Humility never shows itself more beautifully than when it receives. Ruth has made the greatest sacrifice and, withal, is so unassuming as not to look for anything from others. Most people in her place would have made the first favor the occasion for saying that, in truth, they were not used to such work, and begin complaining.

2:11 — IT HATH FULLY BEEN SHEWED ME ALL THAT THOU HAS DONE — It is not merely a landed proprietor speaking, but an Israelite in whom is no guile. He, too, is an ambassador of Jehovah. There is an expression of a pious national consciousness and deep appreciation of God's covenant favors. He speaks of her deep faith and love. She is astonished that Boaz specially regards her, and takes it as a great expression of kindness.

2:12 — THE LORD RECOMPENSE THY WORK — What a beautiful expression! Not, I will help you, but, Jehovah recompense thee, for He is able to do it so much better than any of us. Bro. Russell's question of new friends was, "Are you consecrated?"

2:13 — THOUGH I BE NOT LIKE UNTO ONE OF THINE HANDMAIDENS — For Naomi's sake she has truthfully connected herself with a people whose laws and customs she did not know except through Naomi, but whose character she has seen mirrored in Naomi and in her husband. Jehovah is known in Israel. Whoever accepts Him can build on Him. He covers with his wings those who put their trust in Him. (Psa. 91:1) These words of Boaz were the first sunbeams that broke through the grief and tears of many weeks. Loss of family, of her home, of her people, reduced to beggary—now she is told about the God of Israel and His grace by another Israelite than Naomi and her family, and hears the voice of blessing from one of God's people. Truly this must be a great God and a great people. She answers, "I have long been sad and thou comfortest me. I look for no rewards, but thou hast spoken to the heart of thy servant that was full of grief and anguish.” A word of love, coming to a loving heart like hers, is like morning dew on a thirsty field.

2:14 — AT MEALTIME COME THOU HITHER — Boaz showed her kindness, not as a relative, but because of her excellence. She was as one who had taken refuge under the wings of Israel’s God. Her answer raised her still higher in the esteem of Boaz. It showed a refined nature. He bids her join in the common meal and helps her to a portion of everything. He orders the binders to let fall extra ears for her.

2:15 — SHEAVES — The bound bundles.

2:16 — SOME OF THE HANDFULS — The unbound bundles.

REBUKE HER NOT — That is, do not speak harshly to her on account of the extra trouble this order caused.

2:17 — SHE GLEANED IN THE FIELD UNTO EVEN — She does not quit the sooner but works till even, takes pains to beat out the grain, probably about 55 pounds. (Lang) The surest sign of love is gentle and thankful patience.

AN EPHAH OF BARLEY — 3-1/2 pecks.

2:20 — HATH NOT LEFT OFF HIS KINDNESS TO THE LIVING AND TO THE DEAD — God had not completely condemned her nor left her alone. “To the dead,” that is, to the family of those who have died. It is a kindness to them to look after their loved ones.

2:22 — GO OUT WITH HIS MAIDENS — Note the difference (My young men in vs. 21), and hence the indirect advice.

2:23 — SHE KEPT FAST BY THE MAIDENS OF BOAZ — She did not assume airs, but was as modest and meek as ever. Her eyes were on the field, not on the young men, and her main care was to provide decently for Naomi and herself. Boaz noted her quiet and virtuous conduct.

3:2 — BOAZ — (Son of strength, of enduring vigor), the same name as one of the pillars in Solomon’s Temple. A mighty man of wealth (lit., a valiant hero.) The Jewish expositors’ conjecture that he was the son of Elimelech’s brother is unfounded. Gideon is so called. (Jud. 6:12) He was a strong, able man in Israel. Perhaps such as we would call a prince, that is, an able leader, hero, and a very sincere godly man in daily practice.

3:4 — MARK THE PLACE WHERE HE SHALL LIE AND THOU SHALT GO IN — This advice was not of unalloyed wisdom. Such a course today would brand any woman as loose, if not disreputable. That Boaz feared such reproach is shown by his request in vs. 14. In advising such a course Naomi showed again the weakness of her trust in God. But God, in kindness, had mercy on her weakness, and their hearts, being free from evil, God overruled all for good. (Z. '07-344; R.4090)

UNCOVER HIS FEET AND LAY THEE DOWN — What was done was in accord with the unimpeachable rights afforded by Israelitish Law and custom. (Deut. 25:5) She can demand it of him, and if he refuses, put him openly to shame. (See Gen. 38) It is found among other nations, though distorted and impure. It rests on the desire to preserve, not only the national spirit, but also the national body. The nation lives in its families. If a man dies without children, it is as if a branch withered. To remedy this a new branch is grafted on the tree by the nearest male relative marrying the widow. The letter of the Law did not go beyond the brother, but the spirit intent of it did. Each family must take care that no branch dies out. No one could redeem anything for a family who was not a blood relation. There could be no redeemer who was not a blood relation. Naomi, thus, was calling Boaz' attention to a neglected duty and Boaz promised to have it fulfilled, if not by the nearest relative, then by himself.

3:5 — ALL THAT THOU SAYEST UNTO ME I WILL DO — Ruth was justly confident that Naomi would order her to do nothing that would injure her. True love always includes perfect obedience. Naomi was seeking a resting place (vs. 1) a Menuchah. Ruth does not try to win Boaz by her beauty, for she is specially cautioned against allowing him to see her.

3:7 — HE WENT TO LIE DOWN AT THE END OF THE HEAP OF CORN — This shows the simplicity of the times. Boaz himself keeps watch on his threshing floor. It is clear that he did not do this every night, as shown in vs. 2.

3:8 — WAS AFRAID — Was startled, perhaps by a movement of his foot, he brought it in contact with Ruth.

3:9 — THY SKIRT — The Massoretic text here understands “wings” here, that is, protection, symbolized by the coverlet being spread over her. The narrative carries beautiful imagery.

FOR THOU ART A NEAR KINSMAN — His relationship gives her a right to apply to him for a performance of duty. It was in accord with ancient usage to leave the assertion of a right to its possessor.

3:10 — BLESSED BE THOU OF THE LORD — Boaz is indeed a man of God. He had a clean heart in which no impure thought arises. He stands as firm in the hour of temptation and secrecy as when the eyes of all Bethlehem are upon him. He is an Israelite, not only before man, but before God above. He did not forget, “Thou God, seest me.”

THOU HAST SHOWED MORE KINDNESS IN THE LATTER —

This was a harder thing for Ruth to do than gleaning had been. This was more delicate and dangerous. This had to be secretly and quietly done. To claim this right was more painful than the other duties. But her self-forgetful love surrounds this with a glow of purity. In order to procure honor and love in Israel for her mother-in-law and to save the name of her deceased husband from extinction in Israel, she does what only a chaste woman, inspired by the obedience of love, dares do; and what the polluted eyes of impure souls never understand. It is more of a martyrdom to face the possibility of appearing as a sinner than to suffer punishment for the sake of virtue. Naomi must have trusted God very deeply to advise this step. Boaz' words show no thought of impurity.

THOU FOLLOWEDST NOT YOUNG MEN — He says, “Thou comest to assert thy right with one more advanced in life, rather than seeking a husband among the young men, solely because he is a Goel,” a blood relative able to redeem. Ruth's present act of kindness is a severer test of her love than even the gleaning.

3:11 — FEAR NOT — Evidently Ruth's anxiety made her tremble a little.

3:14 — LET IT NOT BE KNOWN — Scandalous rumors with Ruth for their object would have been exceedingly injurious. An undeserved stain would have been fixed on the good name of Ruth and render it very difficult for him to prosecute her claims in Bethlehem.

A WOMAN — The Woman.

3:15 — SIX MEASURES OF BARLEY — Why six? It would give a hint to Naomi that, in any event, Ruth would obtain a resting place. Six is the symbol of labor and service, followed by seven, the time to rest. Whoever has served six years is released on the seventh. After long labor, the day of rest is at hand.

3:18 — SIT STILL MY DAUGHTER — Ruth is to remain at home. God will do the rest.

4:1 — THEN WENT BOAZ UP TO THE GATE — The gate was the place where judiciary business was held. (Gen. 19:1)

4:4 — I THOUGHT TO ADVERTISE THEE — “Uncover thine ear,” i.e., remove the hair over the ears, talk confidentially.

I WILL REDEEM IT — He is thinking only of the land here, but Boaz calls his attention to his other duty. Ruth is the heiress of Mahlon. Ruth must go with the land.

4:6 — THE KINSMAN SAID — The kinsman is nameless. Feloni almoni is, in the Septuagint, rendered kruphie, hidden one. An ancient explanation says the name of the first goel is not given because he was unwilling to raise up a name for his dead relative. However, he who was so anxious for the preservation of his own inheritance, is not now even known by name.

LEST I MAR MY OWN INHERITANCE — He is probably thinking of Ruth as a Moabitess and fears what happened to both Mahlon and Chilion may happen to him. Elimelech’s misfortunes were popularly laid to his emigration to Moab, and Mahlon’s and Chilion’s death to the fact that they married Moab women.

4:7 — A MAN PLUCKED OFF HIS SHOE — The shoe is a symbol of motion and wandering, also of rest and possession. Ex. 12:11 says, “with shoes on your feet,” meaning a journey is ahead. In Deut. 29:4, “shoes not grow old.” The shoe symbolized possession of what one actually had and could tread on with one’s feet at pleasure. When the goel pulled off his shoe and gave it to Boaz, he thus surrendered to him all claims of possession. Had he done his part, he would have set his shoe upon the inheritance of his brother as his own. The widow, whose brother-in-law refused to marry her, is authorized to pull off his shoe and spit in his face. His house becomes “the house of him that had his shoe pulled off.” A man might pull off his own shoe and hand it to another goel without any disgrace. (See Psa. 60:10)

4:9 — I HAVE BOUGHT ALL THAT WAS ELIMELECH’S — Boaz is here a type of Christ, or a parallel picture instancing the custom of Redemption. Boaz, by marrying Ruth, became Naomi’s son-in-law and redeemed Ruth and her field. (vs. 5) So Christ became (by his being made flesh through Mary) a son-in-law (because God was his father, not Adam or Joseph) of Eve, and hence had the right under the Law to redeem the race and the world (Ruth and her field.) (E168)

4:13 — SO BOAZ TOOK RUTH AND SHE WAS HIS WIFE — Thus Ruth became incorporated into the commonwealth of Israel, being a sincere Jewish proselyte, though a Gentile by birth. She henceforth was recognized as one of the chosen people by God. She was honored with a place in our Lord’s ancestry, being the great-grandmother of David. The same was true of Rahab, also a Jewish proselyte, who became the mother of Boaz (by Salmon), who was the great-grandfather of David. (Z. ’07-344; R.4090)

I SAMUEL

1:1 — AN EPHRATHITE — Samuel's descent. (1 Chron.6:33-38, 22, 28; 1 Sam.8:2) For Eli see Lev. 10:1, 2, 12; comp. 1 Kings 2:27 with 2 Sam.8:17; 1 Chron.24:3. So Samuel was a Kohathite and could not be a priest. This study gives a little insight into the family conditions of the Israelites not long after the days of Samson and Ruth. It shows the deep religious sentiment prevailing among many of the people. (Z.'15-24; R.5615)

1:3 — IN SHILOH — The Tabernacle of the Lord, in these chapters styled the "Temple," was at Shiloh, a few miles north of Jerusalem. (Z.'15-24; R.5615)

When Israel crossed Jordan the Tabernacle had been erected at Gilgal, quite near Jordan, (Josh. 5:10), but a more suitable place was found at Shiloh, in almost the exact center of Israel. Obviously Shiloh became the spiritual capital of the country, for Jerusalem was still the stronghold of the Jebusites, and not in the possession of Israel at all. In these days there were no kings of Israel. The Judges rose, ruled and passed away at frequent intervals. So the High Priest was a more permanent figure and so had immense possibilities for good or for ill, according to the administration of his sacred office. (B.S.M.)

1:23 — UNTIL SHE WEANED HIM — The word weaned we may properly understand to mean, not the time merely when the child ceased to receive suck from the mother, but the time when he was able to do without the mother's care — probably about ten years old. (Z.'15-25; R.5615)

1:27 — FOR THIS CHILD I PRAYED — It is difficult to imagine the value to a child of being well born—born of healthy parents, and particularly of intelligent and God-fearing parents. Few realize the dignity and responsibility of the parental office. Many know the fact that vitality and constitution proceed from the father to the child, whether this be slight vitality or strong vitality, weak or strong constitution.

The mother, indeed, has to do with this also since the portion assigned to her by nature is that of nourisher, provider for the child up to the time of its weaning. The mother's mentality during the period of gestation stamps itself upon the unborn child, Her fretfulness or vacillation or discontent; or her peace, joy, high ideals, are affecting not only her own happiness, but stamping almost indelibly her offspring. How serious is the responsibility of motherhood as well as fatherhood! The mother's attitude of mind is largely under the influence and control of her husband. The responsibility is with him to place before his wife at this important period of life high ideals, noble sentiments, helpful suggestions, peaceful and restful surroundings. Thus parents cooperating intelligently might produce children even nobler than themselves, as their ideals may be better than their own birth conditions; or reversely they may produce children inferior to themselves, while their conditions are possibly more favorable than those of their parents. How often children come into the world undesired and permanently marked thereby to their disadvantage through life! How favorable is the condition, in comparison, of the child that is desired, prayed for, prepared for, and whose mental condition has been well provided for by the parents! Samuel was such a child, such a man! (Z. '15-25; R.5615)

2:12 — THE SONS OF ELI WERE SONS OF BELIAL — The inference given is that Eli's sons misused their position as under priests, taking more of the sacrifices than they were properly allowed in the divine arrangement, and, besides this, practicing immorality, and thus misleading the people into unrighteousness whereas, as the Lord's servants and priests, they should have been instructors of the people in righteousness, both by precept and example. (Z. '15-25: R.5615)

2:29 — HONOREST THY SONS ABOVE ME — "Democracy" is the cry of today! But democracy is good only for those who are fit to govern themselves, and that is not true of mankind today. Hence the world, in which the masses are claiming and gaining more and more power, is steadily becoming more ill-governed and anarchistic. That was the condition of Israel under the judges and it is much the condition of Christendom now, even the communal Christian life. The company of believers, for all of their zeal and loyalty to the Lord, are not yet at that stage of Christian maturity where they can properly order their own courses. So God has provided teachers, for the perfecting of the saints, the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ. (Eph. 4:12) When such men give wise and clear-sighted leadership the Church prospers. When their vision is fading, or their devotion is slacking, the Church declines. We need the wisdom and reforming zeal if growth is to be attained and maintained. (B.S.M.)

2:32 — THOU SHALT SEE AN ENEMY IN THY HABITATION — For many years the office of High Priest had fallen into disrepute and the nation suffered accordingly.

2:35 — I WILL RAISE ME UP A FAITHFUL PRIEST — This properly seems to refer to Christ. "And He shall walk before (me) as mine anointed forever," seems to be the thought.

- 2:36 — THAT I MAY EAT A PIECE OF BREAD — This was not fulfilled completely till Solomon's time. (See 1 Kings 2:27; 1 Sam.23:6; 22:9-23; 14:5)
- 3:1 — THERE WAS NO OPEN VISION — i.e., it was seldom that God sent messages at that time. Perhaps that of the angel of the Lord who appeared to the father and mother of Samson, probably fifty years before, was the last direct communication between the Lord and any of His people, Israel. Visions and revelations were not then being given. The divine plan was hidden. The Urim and Thummim answers of the Lord to the inquiries of the people had ceased. (Z.'15-25; R.5615)
- 3:12 — I WILL PERFORM AGAINST ELI ALL THE THINGS THAT I HAVE SPOKEN — This was not the first time that the Lord had reproved Eli regarding the wrong course of his sons and what would happen. Years before (chap. 2:27-36) a message was sent him on this very subject and, although Eli himself was apparently faithful and loyal to God, he had not restrained his sons; hence he was a sharer in the penalty which came upon them. (Z.'15-25; R.5615)
- 3:17 — HIDE IT NOT FROM ME — It was a trial to Samuel to tell his friend and benefactor, who was like a father to him, about the Lord's criticism and sentence of judgment against himself and his family. Thus it often is with the Lord's faithful servants. Their tenderness of heart, their sympathy, might prompt them to hide, to cover matters, which their sense of duty may require them to speak boldly. In every case the individual's conscience must be educated and, of course, the word of God is the educator. (Z.'15-25; R.5615)
- 3:18 — IT IS THE LORD, LET HIM DO WHAT SEEMETH HIM GOOD — However faithful and submissive Eli may thus appear to be, we know that his character was not satisfactory to God. There are many like Eli, willing to take without murmuring the punishments which God metes out, but the Lord prefers characters that are stronger. Eli would have been more pleasing to the Lord had he had more firmness of character—a clearer appreciation of his duty toward the Lord as his servant (chap. 2:29), and toward his children, as their father. We may be sure strong characters are more pleasing to everybody. They may, in some respects, be more difficult to deal with, but, nevertheless, firmness of character is something that is a jewel, highly esteemed by all wise men and women, as well as by the Lord. (Z.'15-25; R.5615)
- 3:20 — SAMUEL WAS ESTABLISHED TO BE A PROPHET — Samuel is called the first of the prophets (Acts 3:24), and John the Baptist the last. It astounds us, perhaps, to find the Bible clearly teaching that, while the offices of prophet and priest were restricted in olden times, yet during the Gospel Age all who come unto God through Christ, may become priests, and every priest of this new order may be a prophet of the Lord. (Z. '15-26; R.5615)

4:2 — ISRAEL WAS SMITTEN BEFORE THE PHILISTINES — In all these 20 years, apparently no reformations took place. The aged Eli, now 98 years old (1 Sam. 4:15), had not purged the servants or the service of the Lord. He had allowed matters to continue in the hands of his sons, notwithstanding their continual dishonesty in the things of God and their immorality and pernicious example. Samuel apparently may have been absent at the time of this lesson and perhaps for years. Wherever he was, we may be sure he was a true servant of God and more and more recognized as such by the people. We are not to overestimate the moral and religious condition of the people during these 20 years. But we may assume that the evil example of the priests, the sons of Eli, whom he had associated with him in the priestly office (see Annas and Caiaphas) had a demoralizing effect upon the people. According to God's covenant, he was bound to reprove and punish them. A fresh invasion of the Philistines took place. (Z. '15-42; R.5626)

4:3 — LET US FETCH THE ARK OF THE COVENANT — In their chagrin and groping after some help, they looked to God, just as the nations of Europe today are looking to God for help and praying in vain. The customs today are the same as then—namely, an attempt to bring God into the war, to involve the assistance of religious symbols, etc. The Israelites had more ground for so doing than the nations of today, for God had declared Himself the keeper of Israel, and they were His special nation, His ward, and that He would protect them as long as they were faithful to Him. The kingdoms of this world have no such divine promise, no ground for such expecting of divine aid. They falsely style themselves “Christian kingdoms,” “Christendom,” whereas they have neither part, nor lot with the Lord. He recognizes no nation except natural Israel of the past and spiritual Israel of the present. (1 Pet. 2:9; Psa. 147:20) (Z. '15-42; R.5626)

The Israelites doubtless remembered how the ark went before them in the wilderness, at Jordan and at Jericho. They thought they would insure victory. They apparently reasoned that God would not permit the ark of the covenant to be taken or injured, hence they would be safe, and victory would be bound to come to Israel. They forgot they had been living irreligiously, in violation of their covenant with God, and that the covenant called for punishment upon them at the hand of their enemies. They forgot that the two priests by no means represented God and His righteousness, and that they were thieves and robbers garbed as the priests of God, that they were immoral, impure, posing as the representatives of the divine holiness. They forgot that God's blessing was not to be expected under such conditions. (Z. '15-42; R.5626)

They forgot that their blessings did not depend upon the ark being with them, but upon their obedience to God; and no amount of forms or religious symbols could take the place of that obedience. God cannot be deceived. Though many centuries removed from them, we see much of the same spirit today, much sham, much pretence, much misrepresentation of God by those who profess to be His representatives. We see the present war, with the Kaiser of Germany at the head of the Lutheran Church; Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria-Hungary, the chief son of Papacy; King George at the head of the Church of England; the Czar, the “little father” of Russia, chief representative of the Greek Catholic Church—all these marching out to battle, each rallying the soldiers with the thought of God, each treading the precious name of the Prince of Peace into the dust, each bent on the use of the sword for the selfish purpose of promoting the greatness of his empire and its commercial prosperity, and incidentally upholding the traditions of the past respecting his authority to establish the kingdom of God on earth. (Z. '15-42; R.5626)

4:5 — ALL ISRAEL SHOUTED WITH A GREAT SHOUT — They shouted their usual battle hymn—“Rise up, Lord, and let thine enemies be scattered, and let them that hate thee flee before thee.” (Num.10:35) We see the pageant—here come the Levites, bearing the holy ark of God, and the two sons of Eli arrayed as the priests of the Most High, the representatives of God’s Holiness. So today, the peoples give a shout as they couple the cause of God with their national projects, again they forget that the two are entirely separate, that God’s cause is under divine direction; and that His course will prosper best by permitting a great defeat to all these systems of men, preparing for the establishing of Messiah’s kingdom after the Armageddon of the Bible shall have humbled the world and made them ready to acclaim the new king. (Z. '15-42,43; R.5626)

4:11 — THE ARK OF GOD WAS TAKEN — Calling on the name of the Lord and having the Ark in battle did not help the Israelites, even as the carrying of the icons of the Russians will not give them the victory; or wearing the name of God on their belts give the victory to the Germans; or carrying the cross of St.George give victory to the armies of the British. (Z. '15-43; R.5626)

4:13 — HIS HEART TREMBLED FOR THE ARK OF GOD — No doubt he was fearfully remembering the twenty-year before prediction of disaster. (Z. '15-43; R.5626)

4:18 — HIS NECK BRAKE AND HE DIED — When he heard that the precious treasure over which he was the guardian by divine appointment, had been taken by the Philistines, the poor man fell over in a faint, his chair toppled, his neck was broken. Although faithful at heart until death at 98, he nevertheless is not without reproof in that he neglected his family and neglected to see that the work entrusted to them was not interfered with by those of his own household. His loyalty to God was not sufficiently great to hinder him from shirking his responsibility. In his character was too much of the "peace at any price," not enough of that courage which is prepared to die for righteousness sake. (Z. '15-43; R.5626)

The ark could not have been taken without Eli's permission. Evidently the Philistines followed up their victory by razing Shiloh to the ground, for the name drops out of history thereafter, except a reference in 1 Kings 14:2. (B.S.M.) (See Jer. 7:12; Psa. 78:60, 61) This is the most fearful act of sacrilege ever committed by Israel. They thought that God, thus put to the test, would not allow the sacred symbol of His presence to fall into the hands of the uncircumcised Philistines. They would compel God to save them, even against His will. It shows the depth of ignorance into which they had fallen. (B.S.M.)

5:2 — THE HOUSE OF DAGON — The Lord's warning to his people not to make an image of anything in the likeness of a fish would imply that such was possible. Prof. Layard, in his excavations at Nineveh, discovered sculptured figures of a fish god, which he identified with Dagon, the fish-god of the Philistines, who borrowed it of the Babylonians. ("Nineveh and Babylon," pp. 343, 350) An image is a hieroglyphic, that every feature of it is intended to convey to the beholder a message, or suggest some attribute concerning the god the image represents. We can perceive that this fish god described a man who was in some respects like a fish. It could not have represented anyone more perfectly than Ham (or possibly Noah) for did not this man live through the waters of the flood which destroyed all in whose nostrils was the breath of life. In this respect he was like a fish, for we do not read that the fish were destroyed in the deluge. (Gen.7:21, 22) Doubtless this is the origin of the mythical mermaid and merman. (Bro. M. Edgar, "Mythology and the Bible")

5:4 — ONLY THE STUMP OF DAGON WAS LEFT — Or, the fishy part.

7:2 — ALL THE HOUSE OF ISRAEL LAMENTED AFTER THE LORD — Samuel, the prophet, might serve Eli the priest, but he could not become his successor, because not of the priestly family. It is probable, therefore, that, as he reached maturity, he found other service. But there is a blank in the record of at least twenty years. The intimation is, however, that he was faithful to God and to all the interests of his people, and that the people trusted him as a servant of God. We may be sure that he was not idle, but engaged in some good work. Quite possibly he was engaged in instructing the people respecting their wrong conditions, the permission of idolatry amongst them, their neglect of God. (Z. '15-43: R.5627) Samuel was probably about 25 years old when the battle of Aphek occurred. (1 Sam. 1:24; 7:2)

7:4 — BAALIM — The plural for Baal, meaning overseer, caretaker, lord. The Israelites had been distinctly warned not to make any kind of idols and to keep themselves separate from all idols to such an extent that they might not make an image of even their own God, Jehovah. He would not have any symbols before His people, but have them worship Him in Spirit and in truth. But all around were the Canaanites whom they had not had the faith to drive out of the land. These Canaanites had the Baal idols in all their towns, and some had them in their homes and trusted in them as protective genii. (Z. '15-44; R.5627)

ASHTAROTH — Ashtaroth is plural for Ashtoreth, a female deity, the same known to the Babylonians as Ishtar, and to the Greeks as Astarte. She was the goddess of fertility and the sexual relations, and connected with her worship were many licentious services supposed to promote fertility—propagation of the human species. If Samuel's work of 20 years reached this harvest where the whole people of Israel decided to put away their Ashtoreth of gods and to worship and serve Jehovah only, he certainly accomplished much. We may be sure also that some human agency was connected with so great an outward manifestation. Such reformations do not come by chance, nor are they miraculous. (Z. '15-44; R.5627)

7:5 — GATHER ALL ISRAEL TO MIZPEH — Watch Tower. (See Judges 20:1; Josh.18:26) The people had become thoroughly aroused to a sense of their unholiness, their need of God, and their need of mutual help if they would come back into relationship with God. Having brought the people to this proper condition of mind, he appointed a general meeting at a small mountain called Mizpeh. They came in considerable numbers, bowed down in grief in recognition that they were sinners, and therefore they had been foreigners—out of divine favor. They came seeking God and He was found of them. (Z. '15-43; R.5627)

I WILL PRAY FOR YOU UNTO THE LORD — Samuel's message was definite and without compromise, but it held hope. And Israel turned. The example and preaching of one who loved and served them so faithfully, because he loved and served God most of all, brought the nation back to God. At 45 years of age, Samuel found himself at the head of a repentant people. The apathetic Eli, doubtless a good man in his youth, had been the cause of national ruin and the loss of the nation's greatest treasure. Weakness of faith, dimness of vision, had palsied his hands and leadened his feet so he no longer inspired and led the nation, and the people drifted from belief to open rebellion. Now Samuel, in faith and zeal, and by ceaseless endeavor, had restored the people to their position before God, and, as ever in such circumstances, God waited to bless. Sensing that the time was ripe for God to intervene to honor His people's faith—"I will pray to the Lord for you." Can we not imagine how his heart must have beat fast as he looked upon that confident host, so different from the fear-stricken army that twenty years before had borne the sacred ark into battle to their own destruction. Here was a people for whom the Lord could indeed fight, an army that trusted not in carnal weapons, nor in its own power, but in the superabundant power of Almighty God. As the people publicly acknowledged their fault and repudiated the past, saying, “we have sinned against the Lord,” God drew near to act. They drew water (from a spring or well) and poured it forth to indicate their irrevocable determination to obey God. They fasted also, denied themselves.

7:6 — DREW WATER AND Poured IT OUT BEFORE THE LORD —

Water poured may be viewed from different angles. It may represent the truth, which they could not gainsay, could not take back, even as water spilled on the ground cannot be recovered; another, that it represented their vows of faithfulness to the Lord, which would be as irrevocable as water poured forth; and, as this came from the depths of the earth, so their confession came from the depths of their hearts. (Z. '15-44; R.5627)

WE HAVE SINNED AGAINST THE LORD — This confession of sin was not only a credit to the people as a manifestation of their honesty and sincerity, but it was appropriate that they should do this when asking the God whom they had offended to receive them back into covenant relationship with Himself. Confession is good for the soul, and surely all have proven it so. It served to commit them. The humility necessary to the making of such a confession would be profitable for character building. (Z. '15-44; R.5627)

SAMUEL JUDGED THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL — i.e., As a judge, a counselor, he gave advice, gave decisions in respect to their affairs, disputes, proper course of conduct, right and wrong on any subject. Thus the nation of Israel was making a new start, and, as a people they were more drawn together than at any time in their history from the days of Joshua onward. But, as if it were a trial of their faith, at this very time, while they were resolving on a course of righteousness, their enemies, the Philistines, having heard of the gathering, sought to nip the rebellion in the bud. (Z. '15-44; R.5627)

7:7 — THE LORDS OF THE PHILISTINES WENT UP AGAINST

ISRAEL — Our Philistines that come upon us, and enslave us, when we forget the Lord, are our passions and weaknesses and the oppositions of the world and the Adversary, These are our foes, and against these only divine power can enable us to fight a good fight and come off victorious. (Z. '15-44; R.5627)

7:8 — CEASE NOT TO CRY UNTO THE LORD OUR GOD — They were learning to look for help in the right direction. This cry, coming to the Lord, after they had abandoned their idols and vowed to be loyal to Jehovah, put them in a very different attitude toward him from that of 20 years previous when they called for the ark of God to lead them in battle against the Philistines without any reformation of character or repentance for sins. Is there not a lesson here for all of God's people? Is it not true today, as ever it was, that it is vain to call upon the Lord for assistance and blessing while they are living in sin, in violation of their covenant and its obligations? The first lesson of all, then for those who realize themselves in sin, is repentance and definite vows to the Lord regarding faithfulness in their petition for His mercy. Those who thus come unto the Lord, as Christians, under the headship of Jesus, are sure to have divine mercy and grace to help in time of need. (Z. '15-44; R.5627)

7:9 — SAMUEL TOOK A SUCKLING LAMB — A lamb of the first year. Samuel did not know it, but this was a type of the "Lamb of God, which taketh away the sins of the world." Besides this, Samuel cried to the Lord for the people, and the Lord heard him. So with all who stand beside the great antitypical sacrifice, and in the name and merit of that sacrifice, as people of God in covenant relationship with Him, having put away sins and weaknesses to the best of our ability, we may be sure of divine help and deliverance. (Z. '15-44; R.5627)

7:11 — BETH-CAR — The place of victory was the very spot, where twenty years before, the ark of the Lord had been captured by the Philistines. (Z. '15-44; R.5627)

7:12 — CALLED THE NAME OF IT EBEN-EZER, SAYING HITHERTO, HATH THE LORD HELPED US — So with Christians, in their victories under the Lord's assisting grace. When, by the Lord's grace, they gain victories, they should set up memorials or monuments in their minds, in their hearts, and not pass these blessings by or forget that the victories were gained by help from on high. Every Christian should have his Eben-ezers, his monuments of victory, as it were, of divine assistance o'er his foes, the world, the flesh and the Adversary, and he should rejoice in these.

*"Here I'll raise my Ebenezer,
Hither by thy help I'm come;
And I hope by thy good pleasure Safely to arrive at home."*

7:13 — SO THE PHILISTINES WERE SUBDUED — The deliverance wrought that day is comparable with the destruction of Sennacherib's host in the days of Hezekiah (2 Chron. 32) and of the Moabites in the days of Jehosaphat. (2 Chron. 20) There are three memorable times when the Lord delivered Israel in response to the prayer of faith without His people needing to strike a blow. (2 Kings 7) Thus did the last and greatest of the judges become firmly established in the seat of power. He was leader by common consent. Israel willingly accepted his rule. At Ramah, his home, he guided the nation's destinies, and gave Israel perhaps the only period of real peace it had known since the elders who were after Joshua. Israel, that forgetful people, never forgot Samuel. His greatness in rulership and dispensing justice passed into a proverb, so that years afterward the Lord could say to Jeremiah—"Though Moses and Samuel stood before me, yet my mind could not be toward this people; cast them out of my sight." (Jer. 15:1) The little lad who had been given to God in the Sanctuary at Shiloh had grown to be classed with Moses, the greatest man of all Israel's history. (B.S.M.) (Psa. 99:6)

7:15 — SAMUEL JUDGED ISRAEL ALL THE DAYS OF HIS LIFE —

The Israelites had accepted God's Law and agreed to abide by His decisions. Whoever they would have confidence in as an interpreter of Divine Law they, in proper condition of heart, would be ready to obey his rulings, his judgments. Spiritual Israelites similarly have come into covenant relationship with God and have bound themselves to seek to know and to do the will of God and not their own wills. Hence, whoever may be the person of opportunity, who can show an "Israelite indeed" the mind of the Lord on any matter, he becomes his counselor and the Lord's mouthpiece to him. Thus all the people of God assist one another to judge themselves, to build one another up in the most holy faith, to guide each other to know and to do the will of God. This office is not left to ministers, but is open to all the Lord's people. (Z. '15-45; R.5627)

As respects the hearts, the Lord tells us we are not yet competent to judge, but "by their fruits ye shall know them." Men do not gather grapes off thorn bushes, nor figs off thistles. A good spring will not send forth bitter water. We are to judge ourselves as to whether our conduct is in harmony with the principles of righteousness. We may similarly assist in judging one another as respects outward conduct, leaving the judgment of the heart to the individual himself and to the Lord. (Z. '15-45; R.5628)

7:16 — HE WENT FROM YEAR TO YEAR IN CIRCUIT —

Samuel established a new order of things which we see was the outgrowth of his reformation work among the people of God. He did not do as others had done before him, have his place of residence to which all the people must go to ask his advice, his counsel, his judgment. But he introduced the circuit system, and went from place to place, holding court, not so much to condemn anybody, but to advise those who desired advice. Thus the nation of Israel began to be cemented as one people and to realize that their interests were common; and that all their interests were bound up with God, His Law, His covenant with them, and the interpretation of those through such agents as the might send to them, Samuel being one of these. (Z. '15-45; R.5628)

8:5 — THOU ART OLD — They perceived that the prophet was growing old and they feared that his sons would seek to succeed and continue themselves as judges. (Z. '15-58; R.5636)

MAKE US A KING — Israel's government was a theocracy, i.e., God was their king, His law was their government. The elders of each tribe supervised its affairs. God provided a priestly tribe which represented the religious interests of the people. Prophets and judges were sent from time to time as special messengers of the Lord, but without authority, except as people believed their counsels to be wise. Thus Israel was, so far as its earthly interests were concerned, a republic, a republic in covenant relationship to God. No one will dispute that a Republic is the highest type of government. In a republic each citizen is a sovereign and these sovereigns, by their votes, appoint some of their number to be representatives and servants. But this highest type of government can be appreciated only by intelligent people, and can work the highest good only in the hands of intelligent and conscientious people, submitted to the divine regulations. Had no fall occurred undoubtedly this highest form of government (human) would have prevailed. The Scriptures indicate, that after Messiah's kingdom shall have thoroughly subjugated sin, thoroughly uplifted humanity, absolutely destroyed the wilfully wicked and completely brought the remainder of the race up to absolute perfection, then, at the close of Messiah's reign, the earth, to all eternity, will be a republic, each member of the race a sovereign. (Z. '15-57; R.5636; Z. '15-76; R.5646)

TO JUDGE US LIKE ALL THE NATIONS — The Israelites did not appreciate their divinely arranged republic. They beheld the splendor of the surrounding nations and thought, because they were different, it would be to their (Israel's) disadvantage. As a result of the noble reform instituted by Samuel, and maintained throughout his long judgeship, the people were greatly blessed, the national spirit was strengthened.

8:20 — THAT OUR KING MAY JUDGE US AND GO OUT BEFORE US — The people had set their heart on having a king. Already they were imagining how a king would lead them forth and give them dignity, marshal their hosts and cause fear of them in the hearts of their enemies. (Z. '15-58; R.5636)

How foolish and superficial man has become, laying great stress on outward show and apparent splendor and not noting the condition of the common people who are the backbone of a nation. Even in Solomon's reign, he oppressed the people. (2 Chron. 10:10, 11) Man, in ignorance, seeks not for solid prosperity but for glamour and show.

10:6 — THOU SHALT PROPHECY WITH THEM — This story reminds some of witchcraft and other occult doings. The difference between Samuel and his occult powers and the occult powers of others today is that Samuel's were manifested under divine direction at a time when God was pleased to use such powers among his people, Israel—powers which doubtless will be exercised to some extent in the Millennial Age also for the world's guidance. But the Scriptures recognize evil occult influences, and the Israelites were warned against necromancers who claimed to have communication with the dead, and against them that peeped and muttered—had mediumship. (Z. '15-58; R.5637)

During this age we believe God does not use such hypnotic powers, but, as St. Paul declares, he has spoken to us through his son and has given us His Scriptures "that the man of God may be thoroughly furnished unto every good work," not needing any occult powers. Hence we know of no good occult powers, but are to rate them all as deceptions of the great Adversary, against which God's people are fighting. (Z. '15-59; R.5637)

10:10 — THE SPIRIT OF GOD CAME UPON HIM — The spirit which came upon Saul was not the spirit of sonship, the change of heart did not mean that he had become a New Creature in Christ, for there could be none such until Christ, the head of the Church had come, and, as the forerunner of His members, had opened up the "new and living way." Saul had a new heart in the sense that he no longer had the mind of purpose, disposition, to be a farmer, but the divine disposition, will, ambition, judgment and wisdom granted him, especially qualifying him in the office to which God had chosen him—to be a statesman. (See notes on vss. 26, 27, etc.) In other words, God's Holy Spirit, qualifying Saul for his position as a king, was a mechanical one, much after the manner we read that God qualified certain workmen in preparing the Tabernacle. We may be sure that if God calls any man for any particular work, he is abundantly able to qualify him for its performance, whether it be a religious work, or whether it be for some work of public benefit, as for instance, in modern inventions, which belong in this dawning time of the New Dispensation. (Z. '15-58; R.5637)

10:27 — THE CHILDREN OF BELIAL SAID, HOW SHALL THIS MAN SAVE US? — The rougher element had refused it sneeringly, saying, "Who is he? What is his record that we should hope for anything great in his hand?" It looked as though the Lord's plan had failed, as though the choice had been an unsatisfactory one and had come to nought. (Z. '15-59; R.5637)

BUT HE HELD HIS PEACE — Saul made no attempt to exercise authority, seeing that he had such half-hearted support from the people. He returned to his home, resuming his life as a farmer. But we may be sure that he was patiently waiting the opportune, or the psychological moment to arrive when, with God's blessing, he would enter upon the duties and responsibilities of a king, for which he had been divinely appointed. Possibly he was there a month.

11:6 — HIS ANGER WAS KINDLED GREATLY — The disgrace of the situation struck home to Saul's heart. Israel, to whom God had promised the possession of the land and his assistance, lacked faith and leadership. Saul was appointed leader and the psychological moment for him to lead had come. (Z. '15-59; R.5635)

11:12 — WHO IS HE THAT SAID, SHALL SAUL REIGN OVER US? — The masses of the Israelites realized that God indeed had given them a wise king, whom they had been slow to recognize. (Z. '15-59; R.5635)

11:13 — THERE SHALL NOT BE A MAN PUT TO DEATH THIS DAY — The king was wise and generous. There is a lesson here for all, for Saul had naturally some good traits, which he later diverted or misused. That Saul had humility is shown by the fact that, when the suggestion of his being king was made, he repudiated the thought of his worthiness of the position. (chap. 9:21) Again, when Samuel the Prophet called the people, that the Lord's lot might be determined as to who should be the king, Saul was in hiding among the stuff, sitting among the piles of baggage. He knew how the Lord's lot would fall and it was to his credit that he was not strutting about among the people, showing himself, and saying the Lord would surely choose me. (chap. 10:21-23) Again, when some of the people murmured that he was not acceptable, Saul quietly went to his home, farming, letting the matter rest. Thus he displayed patience and wisdom as well as humility. His later action, and leading the army of Israel, showed his faith in God and his courage. Had Saul maintained these characteristics, his experiences later would have been very different. (Z. '15-60; R.5636)

11:15 — SAUL AND ALL THE MEN OF ISRAEL REJOICED GREATLY — Like Saul, Christians have been nominated of God, not only to be kings, but also a Royal Priesthood. As Saul was anointed with the oil, so the Royal Priest-hood are anointed with the Holy Spirit. As the people rejected Saul, and he waited patiently the Lord's due time, so mankind are not yet ready for the Royal Priesthood and their reign, of which Jesus is the head, and God's time has not yet come for establishing the kingdom. Lessons of patience, humility, confidence in God, are requisite that, after enduring, they might inherit the promises. (Heb. 6:12) The great Armageddon is at hand and terrible lessons will be learned at heavy cost by the world. Thereafter the kingdom of Messiah will be very popular and they will be saying, as they did in Saul's case—"Let all who oppose be put to death." However, the glorified Christ will be very gracious and a general amnesty will be proclaimed for all who will desire to come in line with the kingdom. (Z. '15-60; R.5636)

Not only those who persecuted the Saviour will be forgiven and be assisted back to harmony with God, but also those who have despised the Royal Priesthood and persecuted them unwittingly will be mercifully dealt with. The shame that will then come upon all who, in the meantime, have resisted the Lord's choice for His kingdom class, will be a sufficiently great penalty. After the shame and God's forgiveness, the Christ will bring blessings of restitution. (Z. '15-60; R.5636)

12:12 — THE LORD YOUR GOD WAS YOUR KING — The government of Israel was different from every other government in the world. God was their king, and in his providences, according to His covenant with them, he supervised their affairs, whether by permitting them to go into temporary captivity, because of unfaithfulness to Him, or by prospering the nation and guiding their efforts favorably when they lived in obedience to Him. In many respects their condition was most happy. But in the days of Samuel, as the elders perceived that his sons were not to be relied upon to follow in their father's steps and be faithful, impartial judges, they forgot—or perhaps had never realized—that God was their real judge, their king, and Samuel only his representative or mouthpiece. They forgot that, though Samuel was growing old, the Lord was the same yesterday, today and forever and able to raise up for them, in his own due time, a judge of the kind best suited to their necessities. Doubtless they did not realize that personally and nationally they were on a higher plane than the nations around them who had kings. On the contrary, they felt “out of style” and, as people are very apt to do, they concluded the majority must be right. Influenced by this servility to custom, the elders petitioned Samuel to anoint for them a king, as he was God's representative—make them a nation of servants to one of their own nation. It is hard for us to sympathize with such ignoble sentiments, such prayers for their own degradation. Samuel seems to have viewed the matter from this standpoint. However, he probably took the matter to the Lord in prayer. It was not for him to decide—he was merely the Lord's mouthpiece. (Z. '15-75; R5646) (See notes on chapter 8)

THE PEOPLE WERE SCATTERED FROM HIM — It was probably as a test to Saul. It was contrary to the divine arrangement for the king thus to offer sacrifice. Apparently King Saul was not evilly intentioned, but lacked proper respect and reverence for the Lord and His arrangements. This incident may be said to have been the beginning of Saul's rejection by the Lord. From this lesson we should learn that our Heavenly Father wishes for us to be very attentive to His word and not to think for a moment that it can be improved upon, or that times and circumstances will alter the propriety of our obedience to him. Had King Saul been obedient and the result disastrous he would at least have had a clear conscience; he could have said that he had been obedient to God and not responsible for results. But if he had been obedient, God would have been responsible for results and we know divine powers would have brought about the proper results. (Z.'15-76; R.5647) 13:12 — I FORCED MYSELF THEREFORE AND OFFERED A BURNT OFFERING — The king apologized, explained the circumstances, that he thought it necessary to do something and that what he did was the only thing that he could think of. Very few kings or generals of our day would be prepared to do any nearer the will of God than did King Saul. Very few would have waited seven days at all, or paid any attention to the prophet. Very few would have apologized to the prophet afterwards and explain why they attempted to offer sacrifice to God. We cannot but think that, if King Saul had been given further opportunities, he might gradually have learned the lesson of implicit obedience to God. And yet again he failed along the very same line. (1 Chron. 15) It requires many experiences to teach some of us the lesson of complete reliance on the Lord and full obedience to his every requirement. Perhaps the Lord was wishing to teach a special lesson along this very line, that any king sitting on the throne of Israel, of the Lord, must be implicitly obedient, not merely to the letter, but to its spirit, for Israel's kings foreshadowed, to a considerable extent, the kingdom of Christ and his Church. Those who will be joint-heirs with Messiah in his kingdom of glory must learn obedience. (Heb. 5:7, 8), else they will not be accounted worthy of the honors of the kingdom, not merely outwardly obedient but inwardly obedient to the spirit or intent of God's Law. (Z.'15-61; R.5638)

“Obedience is better than sacrifice.” Many are the workers in the Lord's cause in the denominations of Christendom, and many are their sacrifices of time and money; but, as they are not obedient to the Lord, they fail of the blessings they would have and indeed, in a considerable measure, cut themselves off from greater privileges and opportunities. Yea, many, we fear, are cutting themselves off from the kingdom, from glory and joint-heirship with our Lord. Let us apply this lesson to ourselves regarding our daily conduct in every matter of life. Let us hearken to the Word of the Lord, and keep close to it, not fearing results, but having faith that he who keeps us never slumbers, is too wise to err, as well as competent to meet every emergency that could possibly come upon us as the result of our obedience. Time and again the Lord's people in Babylon have said, “I see that present arrangements and institutions are contrary to the simplicity of the Gospel of Christ and the practice of the early Church. But what can I do? I am identified with this system and am sacrificing in its upbuilding. If I now withdraw my hand it would mean more or less disaster. I wish I were free from human institutions and that I had my hands filled with the Lord's work along the lines of His word, but I cannot let go for necessity seems to be upon me. I must perform a sacrifice, and this seems to be the most convenient place for it.” The Lord is not pleased with such arguments. “To obey is better than sacrifice,” that we leave the matter of our sacrifice in His hands. For unless he accepts it, our sacrifices will amount to nothing, and he accepts sacrifices only from those who are first obedient. "Come out of her, my people." (Z. '15-77; R.5647)

13:14 — THE LORD HATH SOUGHT HIM A MAN AFTER HIS OWN HEART — These words must have been uttered about the time of David's birth. Thus we have an illustration of God's foreknowledge and design in respect to those whom he specially uses in His service. Similarly, God's choice of Jacob was declared before his birth. (Rom. 9:10-13; Gen. 25:23) Also the Apostle Paul. (Gal. 1:15) We are not to have any false thought respecting the divine choice, and note that none of these were chosen eternal life, but each for a special purpose fitted. David still had a will, however, and even though favorably endowed, it remained with himself to determine whether or not he would walk in the Lord's ways and to what extent he would be obedient. There is no coercion of the will, for the Lord seeks such as worship him in spirit (willingly, heartily) and in truth. But God knew David's ancestry and pre-natal influences. His great-grandmother was Ruth and Great-grandfather, Boaz. (Ruth 4:18-22) Like Boaz, David's father, Jesse, was doubtless one of the elders of Bethlehem, respected and honored as a noble man. Of his mother, we know little, except that David twice mentioned her as a handmaid of God. (Psa. 86:16; 116:16) (Z. '15-88; R.3225)

13:19 — THERE WAS NO SMITH FOUND THROUGHOUT ALL THE LAND OF ISRAEL — This shows the cunning of the Philistines. They not only disarmed the Israelites, but prohibited their making any iron implements or doing any black-smithing. In this manner, they held down the Israelites in a species of peonage, exacting tribute of them. A great maritime power of our day practices a similar oppression in India, supplying from her mills and shops implements of labor, while guarding against importation of war materials. Moreover, modern methods of finance bring to her the rich revenues without the outwardly crude and rude methods of the Philistines. (Z. '15-11)

Apparently the land of Israel was dominated completely by the Philistines who here and there had garrisons. These were content to take a certain amount of tax from the people, much as the British govern India. (Z. '15-61; R.5638)

15:3 — SMITE AMALEK AND UTTERLY DESTROY ALL THAT THEY HAVE — The destroying of the Amalekites by the sword caused far less pain and suffering than if a plague had been permitted to destroy them. It is unreconcilable with reason that those who blaspheme God's name by teaching the doctrine of eternal torment, should have any difficulty about the slaughter of a few hundred of the poor heathen.

SPARE THEM NOT — See Deut. 25:17-19. Certain great catastrophes of the past are explained in the Scriptures as being afflicted with a view to prevent the race from going into further degradation. The Canaanites were sentenced to destruction when their iniquity had come to the full. So were the Amalekites, so the Sodomites. (Ezek. 16:50; Luke 17:29) (Sermon, Aug. 9, 1908) (See Lev. 18:24-30; Deut. 18:9-11) (See Z.'15-77; R.5647)

15:9 — SAUL AND THE PEOPLE SPARED AGAG AND THE BEST OF THE SHEEP — The Lord's command comes to us to destroy sin entirely. But, like Saul, many are disposed to destroy the vilest things connected with sin, but to save alive the king sin, merely making him a prisoner. Many are disposed also to seek out the things which they realize to be condemned by the Lord for their destruction, such things as would be choice and desirable to their taste, and frequently, like Saul, they claim that even these sins, of the less obnoxious kind, are held onto for the purpose of sacrificing them to the Lord, in order thus to honor God! How deceitful above all things is the human heart. How necessary that all who would be in accord with the Lord, should be thoroughly true-hearted, thoroughly sincere; and, that under the Lord's directions, we should seek to take the life of every sinful principle, evil teaching or doctrine, and all unholy words or thoughts. (Z.'15-78; R.5648)

They were not to destroy their enemies to their own advantage, but to act simply as the agents of the Lord in thus executing the decrees of the sentence of justice. They were not to take booty and thus become like the nations about them, a robber nation profiting by the troubles which they inflicted upon the enemies of the Lord. This is in full accord with the Lord's character and with the explanation. (See note on vs. 3) (Z.'15-77; R.5647)

15:13 — I HAVE PERFORMED THE COMMANDMENT OF THE LORD — We must understand his words to Samuel to have been, to a great extent, hypocritical. (Z.'15-77; R.5647)

15:15 — TO SACRIFICE UNTO THE LORD THY GOD — Incidentally, this would have meant a great feast for the Israelites, for the flesh of animals to be sacrifices were to be eaten by them. But the prophet stopped the king in his explanation. (Z.'15-78; R.5648)

15:17 — WHEN THOU WAS LITTLE IN THINE OWN SIGHT — Saul was humble when he was chosen of the Lord as His representative upon the throne, and at that time he was very willing to give strict obedience to the heavenly voice. But the intimation is that he had grown more and more self-confident, and therefore less reliant on the Lord and less attentive to his commands. (Z.'15-78; R.5678)

15:18 — THE LORD SENT THEE ON A JOURNEY AND SAID —

Samuel's indignation and the Lord's positive statement (vs. 3) show clearly that King Saul had not misunderstood his instructions, but had with considerable deliberation, violated them.

15:21 — TO SACRIFICE UNTO THE LORD — Saul sought to defend his course and to put as good a face on the matter as possible and to lay the responsibility for saving the spoil on the people who, with himself, were very desirous of offering sacrifices unto the Lord. The prophet's answer is the pith of this lesson. He clearly pointed out to the king what the latter should have known and all should recognize—that offering sacrifices is far less pleasing to the Lord than is obedience to His word. No one could offer an acceptable sacrifice to God unless he was obedient in his heart and unless the sacrifice represented that obedience. So with God's people today. It is not so much of ill-gotten wealth that we may sacrifice to the Lord. Our sacrifice must be of the heart. First of all, it must be the will. He who gives his heart, his will, to the Lord, gives all; and he who gives not his will, who comes not into heart obedience to the Lord, can offer no sacrifice which would be acceptable to the Lord. "To obey is better than to sacrifice" is a lesson which should be deeply engraved on the hearts of all the sanctified in Christ Jesus. It is necessary also to have the spirit of obedience. Whoever has that spirit, will not only obey the divine will, but will seek to know the will of God more and more that he may obey it. ("I delight to do thy will, O my God.") (Z.'15-78; R.5648)

15:22 — TO OBEY IS BETTER THAN SACRIFICE — Samuel was right.

God was right. The death of the Amalekites was not a violation of any principle of righteousness, but rather in the interests of righteousness, as taking away a people whose iniquity had come to the full that they might come forth in due time under the power and instruction of the Great Redeemer to have a full, blessed opportunity as knowing the truth, as compared with the error. Then if they will to choose the truth, they shall live; but if they will not choose it, they shall be cut off in the second death. (Sermon, Aug. 9, 1908)

15:23 — REBELLION IS AS THE SIN OF WITCHCRAFT — This seems to mean that, though Saul had been very diligent in his opposition to witchcraft and idolatry throughout the land of Israel, and, in so doing, was accomplishing a good work and the divine plan and will. But Samuel calls attention to the fact that his energy in such matters would not prove an offset to his deliberate, wilful neglect of the divine injunction. The Lord's commands against sin and evil things are to be executed to the very letter, no matter how highly exalted the sin may be in dignity and place, and no matter how precious or desirable or toothsome or valuable the sin may be to our fallen nature. Though it be as dear as a right hand or right eye, there is no course open to the Lord's followers, but to be obedient even unto death. (Z. '15-78; R.5648)

15:30 — I HAVE SINNED, YET HONOR ME NOW — Saul here desired another chance. How many of the human family have felt on their death beds that, if they had life to live over again, their lessons of experiences would be precious and enable them to do much better. The man or woman who has not had some such experience along this line of failures and endeavored to surmount them and do better has lived his life very much in vain. Let us encourage one another to strive for high ideals, and not be discouraged by our unintentional failures. Saul, being himself partly a type, was necessarily dealt with along the lines of strict justice, and the kingdom was declared to be forfeited by his family because of his offering a sacrifice not authorized by the Lord. (Z. '15-62; R.5638)

15:35 — NEVERTHELESS SAMUEL MOURNED FOR SAUL — Showing the beauty and strength of the prophet's character. He was ever ready to do the commands of the Lord in every particular, yet was not without a feeling of compassion for those who were out of the way, not a compassion which would make them his friends and lead him to co-operate in their wrong course, but one which would have been glad to co-operate with them at any time in a righteous course. (Z. '15-78; R.5648)

16:1 — HOW LONG WILT THOU MOURN FOR SAUL — Samuel mourned and prayed for this King Saul and apparently was disappointed that this man, of whom he had expected such great things and under whose guidance he had anticipated such great prosperity for Israel, should be rejected. Quite probably, fearful forebodings of a civil war to result from the installation of a new king perturbed the prophet's mind. He knew that Saul would not quietly submit to laying down the scepter which he had taken up with so great modesty in obedience to the divine arrangements. The prophet's mental eye could see the possibility of civil strife which might rupture the nation. He should have had greater trust in the wisdom and power of the Almighty, but his trouble was more or less like that which assails all of the Lord's people, even today. The lesson to our hearts should be that we should implicitly trust the Lord to manage his own affairs. (Z. '15-88; R.3225)

I HAVE REJECTED HIM FROM REIGNING OVER ISRAEL — This meant, not only his own ultimate removal from the throne, but that his sons should not succeed him to it. (Z. '15-88; R.3225)

16:2 — IF SAUL HEAR IT, HE WILL KILL ME — Samuel showed a fear not elsewhere noticeable in his character. He did not hesitate to perform the Lord's bidding, but he intimated that he clearly understood that it meant the risk of his own life—that Saul would kill him as a traitor. (Z. '15-88; R.3225)

16:4 — THE ELDERS OF THE TOWN TREMBLED AT HIS COMING —

Thinking that his presence indicated some sin on their part or by some of their fellow-citizens which God had sent him to reprove or punish.

(Z. '15-88; R.3225)

16:5 — I AM COME TO SACRIFICE UNTO THE LORD —

The Ark had been captured by the Philistines. The Tabernacle services were thus discontinued and had not been re-established, and for this reason the sacrificing was performed by the Lord's specially appointed servant.

(Z. '15-88; R.3225)

SANCTIFY YOURSELVES — Meaning that if they would be participators in the blessings of the sacrifice, they must wash their bodies, put on clean clothes and draw nigh to the Lord with their hearts. Thus they typically represent the justification and sanctification which the Church of this age has enjoyed. (Z. '15-88; R.3225)

Justification (represented by the washing) and sanctification (by the drawing nigh with their hearts.)

16:11 — THERE REMAINETH YET THE YOUNGEST —

This anointing and clean clothes applies to the Christians in connection with the anointing of this Gospel Age. We, too, as the Lord's messengers, are seeking for those to be anointed with the oil of gladness, the Holy Spirit, that they may be kings and priests of God in the Kingdom He is about to establish and which will supersede present institutions. We too, like Samuel, might feel afraid of this work of anointing the successors to present institutions, did we not realize that the work of sealing the elect of the Lord, now in progress, is a secret work, which the world cannot understand. David means Beloved and is applied specially to Jesus (Eph. 1:6; Matt. 3:17). It also applies to all the members of His body, each of whom must be beloved, else he cannot be accepted as a member. (John 16:27; 13:34, 35) All who receive this anointing of the Lord must be of the David (beloved) character. The spirit of love must be in them, love for the Lord and for one another. (Z. '15-89; R.3225)

David was counted by his brethren as too insignificant to be considered in this connection; so also are those whom the Lord is choosing and anointing for the Heavenly Kingdom. Our Lord Jesus was disesteemed by His brethren, and when the suggestion was made that he should be the Lord's Anointed, His people hid, as it were, their faces from Him, disclaimed Him, despised Him, and considered Him hopeless respecting anything great or glorious—"a root out of dry ground." The same has been true of His church. They have been despised and rejected of man and of them we read, we are made as the filth of the world and the offscouring of all things. (Z. '15-89; R.3225) (1 Cor. 4:13)

WE WILL NOT SIT DOWN TILL HE COME HITHER — This referred to the feast of which they were about to partake. It was the custom that, after the sacrifice had been offered, the sanctified persons present, and those in spirit sharing in the sacrifice, might join in the feast, eating the flesh, and thus celebrating a communion with the Lord. It was this feast which the prophet decided should not commence until David's arrival. Indeed, being the Lord's anointed, he would be the most important person present at the gathering. So a feast of fat things has been designed for the whole world of mankind. But the feast cannot be participated in until the justifying and sanctifying sacrifice has been killed and until first the Anointed One shall come and receive the anointed. The anointing began with our Lord, the head of the Church, and throughout the Gospel Age has been flowing down upon the members of His body, the Church. The sacrifice has been killed and we, as members of Christ, have been participating in the sacrifice. Shortly the whole matter will have been accomplished and then, as the Lord's Anointed, the feast of fat things will be spread—the Anointed One, Head and Body, being the principal One in that great antitypical feast. (Z. '15-90; R.3225)

16:12 — THE LORD SAID, ARISE, ANOINT HIM, FOR THIS IS HE —

This principle of the divine selection of things that are not esteemed among men is noticeable throughout the Gospel Age. Often have we, like the prophet Samuel, looked about among men seemingly eligible for a place in the Kingdom—socially, intellectually, morally, educationally and in the esteem of men, and expected that surely the Lord would sanction their anointing with the oil of gladness and grant them a knowledge of the truth, only to find ourselves mistaken and get a fresh lesson on the fact that God looketh not on the outward appearance, but on the heart. When, in due time, all the secrets of this present life shall be disclosed, we shall then be able to understand the meaning of the Lord's selections more completely than we do now. Instructed regarding the divine methods, we are not to despise the least, the most ignoble or illiterate of those who give evidence of a purity and honesty of heart toward God, and to whom he seems to give the anointing of His Spirit, and the "ear to hear." Rather, while making known the message to all as we have opportunity, we are to rejoice with those especially upon whom the favor of the Lord is manifested, regardless of their earthly surroundings, (the Lord knoweth them that are His), and it is for us to recognize, to honor and co-operate with all such as the ambassadors and representatives of our Lord and Master. (Z. '15-89; R.3225)

Often have we thought, that had the Lord sent us forth to seek His Bride, we might have ignorantly passed over some of his choice jewels and have gathered in some whom he rejects as unworthy because we are unable to read the heart. This thought should make us very humble, gentle and meek toward all, and very trustful of the Lord and very much inclined to look to His leadings in respects to our labors as His servants—just as the Prophet

Samuel looked to the Lord in connection with the anointing of David.

16:13 — THE SPIRIT OF THE LORD CAME UPON DAVID FROM

THAT DAY — In some manner God's blessings and power were with David enabling him to progress in knowledge, etc., and preparing him for the duties of his office to which he had been anointed. May we not consider as the antitype of this the anointing which comes upon the Church from the time of her acceptance with the Lord? Ours is not a physical anointing, nor are the blessings conferred of a temporal character. It is as New Creatures that we are anointed, that we grow in grace, knowledge and love; and it is as New Creatures by and by that we shall be perfected in the first resurrection and come to the throne with our Lord and Master as our head. (Z. '15-90; R.3225)

Probably David's father and brethren did not understand this anointing, thinking perhaps that it meant a special blessing or commission of the Lord to engage as a member of the school of prophets, or something else of the kind. Probably the Prophet informed David privately of the meaning of the anointing, just as he had privately informed Saul when he secretly anointed the latter to the office of the King of Israel. (Z. '15-88; R.3225)

So the world does not now understand our anointing or its purpose, but the Lord tells us. Let us follow David's and Jesus' example.

16:14 — AN EVIL SPIRIT FROM THE LORD TROUBLED HIM — More properly, "an evil spirit, opposite from the Lord's"—the reverse of the Lord's spirit of goodness, justice, love. (Z. '15-105; R.5663) Saul probably had fits of melancholy, knowing he was rejected of the Lord and yet vainly hoping it might not be. He knew he had done wrong, and there was a cloud between himself and the Lord, a spirit or sense of separation from the Lord and consequent misery and loneliness. Saul's proper course would have been to prostrate himself before the Lord and continue so until the Lord would bless him with the sense of forgiveness and his restored favor, as David did in the matter of Uriah the Hittite.

16:18 — THE LORD IS WITH HIM — How wonderfully the Lord leads and arranges for those who are loyal to him. David waited and the Lord arranged for him to be brought to the attention of royalty and thus to become known before the public. The Lord is with him—a grand testimony of David's faithfulness. Would that all God's people could behave so wisely. God's due time is the best. Blessed are all they who wait for Him.

17:4 — GOLIATH OF GATH, WHOSE HEIGHT WAS SIX CUBITS AND

A SPAN — The first giants mentioned in the Bible were those who had human mothers, but whose fathers were materialized fallen angels. (Gen. 6)

These, however, all perished in the Deluge. From time to time since then there have been human giants found in Asia. Og, King of Bashan, had an iron bedstead 13 feet long. (Deut. 3:11) In their report on Canaan, the spies told of seeing giants there—the sons of Anak. Goliath, the son of Gath, whom David slew, was probably a descendant of this family. We have had giants in recent times also: Byrne, an Irishman, 8' 4"; Middleton, an Englishman, 9' 3"; Lushkin, the Russian, 8' 5"; Chang, the Chinese, 7' 8"; Pliny declared that Gabbaras was 9' 9" tall. There is no room for discrediting the story of David and Goliath. (Z. '15-105; R.5662)

17:24 — WERE SORE AFRAID — These warriors were accustomed more to depend on their own power and strength of armor, and placed their faith more in these; and consequently their faith in God and God's promises grew to be less in mind. Man's ways and man's schemes were their reliance, thus it always is under the present order, men in their power and learned discussions on man's greatness and his power are often apt to forget the Lord and his strength as did Saul and his counsellors. Then is needed the counsel of one who has not been under the stultifying influence. A giant of trouble and of Satan now faces Christendom, vice, liquor, evil politics, etc., threatens the world with anarchy. The learned counsellors of Christendom, its ministers, evangelists, etc., try schemes in vain to overthrow it. They can think of only human schemes and plans, which depend on how much money (armor) they can raise; on the strength of numbers and man-made organization. But a David from outside, who has not had his faith killed and reason stultified by association and development in these humans systems, and with the sling of faith and the stones of promise from the brook (God's Word) will be able to overcome this Goliath (Satan and his hosts) and destroy his influence and power. (J.A.M.)

17:26 — THAT HE SHOULD DEFY THE ARMIES OF THE LIVING GOD — Young David was amazed that this had progressed so long and nobody had accepted the challenge. A believer in the true God he realized the covenant between God and his nation. His faith in the Almighty was such that he accepted the Divine promise implicitly. He wondered at the lack of faith manifested by his brothers and countrymen. He intimated that, backed by God's promises, he himself fared to meet that Goliath. (Z. '15-104; R.5662)

17:28 — I KNOW THY PRIDE AND THE NAUGHTINESS OF THY HEART — Eliab was stung by David's reproof of their lack of faith, and jealousy and pride led him to taunt David. "Go back to your sheep, you are not fit to associate with warriors who are trained." So now the great warriors of Christendom (ministers) are stung by the accusation of the David class about their lack of faith. They say, "You are not trained in theology and not fit to associate with us hardened warriors, though we have to admit that we can make but little impression on the enemy. Go back to your farms and mechanics and dry goods stores. You are only a spectator.”

17:29 — IS THERE NOT A CAUSE? — But the David class answers “Is there not a cause?” Does not Christendom need advice and help, seeing your wisdom is unable to cope with situation?

17:36 — THIS UNCIRCUMCISED PHILISTINE SHALL BE AS ONE OF THEM — Those who have faith in God still have battles to be won, but not with carnal weapons. These victories, nevertheless, are based upon the same principle which operated favorably with David. Faith in God lies at the basis—the realization that the cause in which they fight is one approved of God. A courage proper to their faith—a faith gradually developed in previous victories over lesser foes, as in David’s case, helps to give courage and strength for battling with the most terrifying giants we may encounter. Remembering this, each Christian should be daily on the alert to overcome the little weaknesses, the little frailties, to be conquerors in the little battles with selfishness, anger, malice, evil speaking. Victories over these, and experiences gained with God’s help in overcoming these, give preparation, step by step, for the greatest trials and grandest victory. The Lord’s promise that the overcomers shall share his throne gives us the thought that a great victory must be won to prove themselves worthy of the great honor to which God has called His Church. And this victory, as we are happy to learn, is not always to the strong, but to those whom God will bless. And the conflict which God approves and will reward is not strife with friends and neighbors however unreasonable they may be, but strife against unrighteousness, sin, and everything which the divine law opposes. This strife and victory belong, first of all, in our own hearts and minds and secondarily may extend as the Lord’s providences may indicate in battles against public evils and in support of public and civic righteousness. (Z. ’15-104; R.5662) These victories prove to us there is a God of power and might over us.

17:37 — THE LORD THAT DELIVERED ME OUT OF THE PAW OF THE LION — As God had blessed him in him in his daily duties of the past he would give him strength for victory in the duty of the hour. (Z. ’15-104; R.5662)

17:40 — CHOSE HIM FIVE SMOOTH STONES — This slight armor, with God’s blessing, was more than sufficient, for he needed only one of the pebbles. (Z. ’15-104; R.5662) David could not comfortably fight in the suit of armor, though it was the best in the land. So God asks us to do battle against the hosts of sin, not with other people’s talents or powers we do not possess, but with what talents we have. We are wise if our faith is strong enough to believe he can use even these, and go forth in His strength to fight sin. (J.A.M.)

17:47 — THE BATTLE IS THE LORD'S AND HE WILL GIVE YOU INTO OUR HANDS — We are not to forget that the great giant of sin and iniquity, which has dared the people of God for centuries, will be smitten down only at God's appointed time and by the antitype of David. David means Beloved, and the antitypical Beloved is Christ, Jesus the Head and the Church His Body. Shortly a sling stone of truth is to smite down the opponent, and the antitypical David will begin the Millennial reign which is to lift up the world and to bless it. As members of this David class we must have the overcoming spirit and its supporting faith and trust in God's power and purpose. (Z.'15-105; R.5662)

17:48 — THE PHILISTINE AROSE AND CAME AND DREW NIGH TO MEET DAVID — According to tradition, as the lad approached, the giant laughed, throwing his head backward. His helmet fell off and he was exposed to the sure marksmanship of his despised opponent. There were no newspapers then, and no libraries, and he knew not of how mighty a place sling stones occupied in warfare, even then, and that often, in skilled hands, they were almost as effective as the rifles of today. (Z.'15-104; R.5662)

18:3 — HE LOVED HIM AS HIS OWN SOUL — See note on chapter 19:5.

18:9 — SAUL EYED DAVID FROM THAT DAY AND FORWARD — Jealousy is the bitter fruit of selfishness gone to seed. It imbalances reason, extinguishes happiness. It subjects the possessor to a horrible melancholy, so that when it is in control he is really crazy. Not only is this illustrated in King Saul's case, but it is more or less illustrated in the experiences of every human being. Who does not know by experience what jealousy is? And the more he knows of it the worse. It has murderers of children as well as of grown ups. It has wrecked homes as well as business enterprises. It is the most terrible and, at the same time, the most foolish, manifestation of selfishness. Every one recognizing it in himself should be alarmed, should throttle it promptly, seeking victory through vigilance. (Z.'15-105; R.5662)

18:27 — SLEW OF THE PHILISTINES TWO HUNDRED MEN — We are not to judge David and the people of his time as we would judge ourselves of this Gospel Age. He must be judged by the Law under which he and his nation were placed at Mt. Sinai—"an eye for an eye, as tooth for a tooth, a man's life for a man's life." The Israelites were informed that the people of Canaan had allowed their cup of iniquity to come to the full (1 Sam. 15:2, 3), and that the children of Abraham were given that entire land, with the Divine approval of taking possession of it as quickly as possible. They were fully commissioned to slay all the enemies there as being enemies of the Lord, not even being told that the Lord had a future provision for them all in Messiah's Kingdom. The Philistines were in the land of Canaan, where they not only held their own portion, but had invaded the portion which Israel had already conquered. They had caused the loss of many lives in Israel. It was in full accord with the Divine instructions to Israel that the Philistines and all other occupants of Canaan should be utterly destroyed. David, therefore, was merely carrying out what all Israelites recognized as being the Divine instruction respecting the Divine program. From this viewpoint alone can the Lord's instructions and the conduct of the Israelites in the past be recognized as proper. (Z.'15-106; R.5663) (Lev. 18:24-29; Deut. 18:9-12; 12:29-31)

18:30 — DAVID BEHAVED HIMSELF MORE WISELY THAN ALL THE SERVANTS OF SAUL — It was because David loved the Lord and sought to be guided by His will as that will manifest at that time, that he could wait—that he conducted himself with wisdom. And it was because Jonathan discerned this spirit of wisdom, because he realized that David was guided by the spirit of righteousness, that he loved David. Indeed, we may be sure that in proportion as we understand the Bible and receive the spirit of truth in that same proportion we shall be able to appreciate and copy and exemplify the best there is of principle, whether of friendship or of duty, to monarch or to an employer, or of duty toward our family relationship, or of duty toward our God. There are many influences operating toward a spirit of selfishness, avarice, jealousy, while the influence making for true friendship, true love, all the best qualities of heart and head, are from the Lord. (Z.'15-107; R.5664)

19:4 — JONATHAN SPAKE GOOD OF DAVID UNTO SAUL HIS FATHER — Rev. Alex White remarks, "Jonathan was the eldest son of Saul. He was thus the heir apparent to the throne of Israel. Handsome and high-mettled, full of nerve and full of heart, Jonathan was the pride of the army and the darling of the common people. His comrades, for his beauty of person and swiftness of foot, were wont to call him the gazelle. But for his father's great and disastrous transgressions, Jonathan might soon have become the second king of Israel, second in succession to Saul, but second send to no king that ever sat on a throne in those great qualities of mind, heart and character that give stability to a throne and add luster to a crown. (Z.15-106; R.5664) Jonathan's love for his friend was not of the effervescent kind. It was the genuine article. He did not love merely in word, but in deed and truth; not merely when his father favored his friend and when the public acclaimed him, and when he thus would have favor with others; but he loved him just the same when the king became the enemy of his friend and sought his life. Indeed it may be said that no friendship may be surely counted upon, until after it has been tried. The friendship which will not endure trial, testing, the friendship which will make no sacrifices, is not the kind to be modeled after. Jonathan had love of the kind the Lord admonishes his followers to have, the love which, in honor, prefers one another. While other loves have been great, this one doubtless stands preeminent above earthly loves, especially because it was founded on a religious basis. (Z.'15-107; R.5664) We trust that none can read this story without being influenced favorably toward friendship, to be a truer, a nobler, a more faithful, friend than otherwise. But especially should Christians get a blessing from the story of Jonathan's love, leading on, as it does, to the love of Christ, and to the injunction that they should be copies of God's dear Son; and that they should be loyal, true, enduring, especially one for another. (Z. '15-107; R.5664) (2 Sam. 1:26)

19:5 — WHERE FOR, THEN, WILT THOU SIN AGAINST INNOCENT BLOOD — The sentiment of Jonathan was as loving and brotherly as his father's was cruel, jealous, selfish; it was Jonathan who would lose by David's attainment of the honor of the kingdom. Hence the love of Jonathan has become a proverb. Additionally he had the true spirit of manhood and brotherhood, the spirit of a peacemaker. He interceded with his father for David. (Z. '15-105; R.5663)

19:6 — SAUL HEARKENED UNTO THE VOICE OF JONATHAN — The king was not without some noble sentiments, but they were not deep enough. They did not control his life. But he was under the control of the evil mind, the selfish, jealous mind, which is far from the opposite to the mind, the Spirit of God. (Z. '15-105; R.5663)

22:2 — EVERYONE THAT DISCONTENTED GATHERED THEMSELVES UNTO HIM — It was a great training for him in preparation for his kingdom work later on. It gave him an inside view of the condition of the ne'er-do-well's of society. He and his little army doubtless subsided upon foraging, collecting a toll in the nature of a tax from the farmers. In offset of this toll, or tax, David doubtless defended them from the marauders who frequently came, not only from the Philistines, but also across the Jordan from Moab. (1 Sam. 23:1-5; 25:15, 16) Evidently up to that time no adequate police protection had been provided by King Saul's government. Instead of guarding the interests of his subjects properly, the king was mad with jealousy against his faithful servant, David, and from time to time instituted pursuits of him, much after the manner of hunting expeditions for wild beasts in the forest. Among those who came to David were three sons of his sister, nephews. These afterwards became very prominently identified with King David in all his work. One was Joab, who became the captain of the host, or general. Abishai and Ashael were the two others, men of ability. (Z. '15-122; R.5672) It was greatly to David's credit that he refused to plunge his nation into a civil war, as he would have been abundantly able to do. Evidently the majority of the people would have sided with him from the first, and his victory over King Saul might have been easily accomplished. And how easily he might have deluded himself into thinking that such would be God's will. He remembered that the Lord, through the Prophet Samuel, had anointed him to be king. But he remembered also that it was not for him to take possession, but to abide God's time, when Divine power would overthrow Saul's kingdom and give control to himself as Saul's successor. (Z. '15-122; R.5672) How blessed it would be if all of God's people would thus remember to wait upon the Lord! (Zeph. 3:8. 9) The Lord's times and seasons are best for us, and any attempt on our part to push ourselves in advance of the Lord's will, would be sure to react unfavorably. It was because David was thus full of faith in God and possessed of the spirit of obedience to Him that he was called a man after God's own heart—not that he was perfect, not that he always did the Lord's will, but that the Lord's will was his real heart's desire; and whenever, through weakness of the flesh, he took a wrong course, he was prompt to repent on seeing the mistake, to implore divine forgiveness and to change his course. (Z. '15-122; R.5672) (See 1 Chron. 11:11-47)

HE BECAME A CAPTAIN OVER THEM — Joseph Parker, commenting, says, "There is no straining of the meaning in discovering in all of this a type of the position of Jesus Christ in the world. He was despised and rejected of men, He had not where to lay his head, and the people who immediately surrounded Him were characterized by unaccountable expectations, personal inferiority, social degradation, and also by needs of every description; certainly it was no valiant or brilliant host that gathered round the Son of God whilst he tenanted the Adullam Cave which we call the earth." (Z. '15-122; R.5672) (See notes on 1 Chron. 11:11-47) Bishop Wilderforce remarks, "A mighty training lay in that wild outlaw life for the knowledge and government of men. Nothing but the completest personal supremacy could hold such unruly elements under any species of command; and David, the unwilling head of such a following, learned, in mastering them, the secret of governing men and knitting together their discordant hearts into an harmonious unity."

23:25 — SAUL AND HIS MEN WENT TO SEEK HIM — Every now and then King Saul would become feverish for the destruction of David. (Z. '15-123; R.5672)

24:3 — DAVID AND HIS MEN REMAINED IN THE SIDES OF THE CAVE — Kitto tells us that some of the caves were quite large enough to shelter 1,500 men. Another writer remarks, "A traveller indeed tells us that in one of them that lies some twenty miles from Engedi, no fewer than 30,000 people once hid themselves." These caverns are as dark as midnight. One can see outward clearly, but to see four paces inward is impossible. (Z. '15-123; R.5672)

26:7 — DAVID AND ABISHAI CAME TO THE PEOPLE BY NIGHT — Such an intrusion into the camp of a king today would be impossible because of modern methods of setting guards, pickets, etc., but not so in olden times, nor to any great extent, in Eastern countries today. We recall that Gideon and his servant similarly invaded a camp. We recall Abraham's pursuit of the five kings, and his finding them enwrapped in slumber without proper picketing. (Gen. 14:14-16) A traveller of large experience in the East says, "The Arabs sleep heavily, especially when fatigued. Often when travelling, by muleteers and servants have agreed to watch together in places thought to be dangerous, but in every instance I soon found them to be fast asleep, and generally their slumbers were so profound that I could not only walk among them without their waking, but might have taken the very covering from them." (Z. '15-123; R.5673)

26:9 — WHO CAN STRETCH FORTH HIS HAND AGAINST THE LORD'S ANOINTED — David's anointing with the same oil was not to give him a right to interfere with the Lord's anointing previously on Saul, but to give him the assurance that he was to be the successor of Saul, not by his removing Saul, but by the Lord giving possession in his own time and way. (Z.'15-123; R.5673)

29:11 — TO RETURN INTO THE LAND OF THE PHILISTINES — David could not willingly fight against the Lord's people, though he felt free to fight against those whom the Lord declared were to be destroyed, because their wickedness was come to the full, to the limit of the Divine permission. So, while residing at Gath and Ziklag, David's conquests were over the Amalekites, etc., and never against the Israelites. (Z.'15-124; R.5673) (See 1 Sam. 27:8-12)

II SAMUEL

1:17 — DAVID LAMENTED — Then chanted David this dirge (lament) and he commanded to teach the sons of Judah the Song of the Bow. Lo, it is written in the book of the upright (heroes). (Rotherham) David's grandeur of mind and kingly disposition is here splendidly attested. Suddenly he finds himself freed from the persistent, murderous, persecutions of Saul, and the way opened for his accession to the long promised throne, its royal power and honor. How easily might his heart have abandoned itself, if not to malicious joy, at any rate to joy for God's righteous judgment on his enemy, and the restoration of quiet in his life and peace in his land! How human and natural it would seem if he expressed satisfaction at Saul's death and its results to himself. Instead of this we see in David's conduct and words in the presence of this terrible catastrophe the noblest and purest unselfishness, and concern only for the sacred interests of Israel as the people of the Lord. Looking altogether away from himself and his royal calling, he immerses himself and his men in mourning for this national calamity, for the downfall of the army of the Lord, for the violation done to the Lord's honor in the defeat of His people. He shows deep, true sorrow, for Saul's death, looking away from all that Saul had done to him and noting only what he was for Israel in his royal position as the Anointed of the Lord. Further, without envy, he celebrates him as the glory of Israel in the elegy, which contemplates Saul only as a military hero, but as such from the theocratic point of view in his quality as leader of the people and army of the Lord. As he acted in perfect justice in slaying in holy anger the Amalekite as the murderer of the Anointed of the Lord, giving no room in his heart for revenge, so he stands on the summit of the theocratic view, when, in his elegy, he celebrates Saul as the national hero and consecrated leader of Israel, being wholly free from bitterness and anger at the suffering that Saul had so long inflicted on him. All the selfish feeling vanishes in the presence of the slaughtered people and the slain king, in the general concern for Israel and in the consciousness of the Lord's control over His people with the army and its leaders. It is a monument of his noble, unvengeful spirit. He who can so speak of the enemy who, for years, has sought his life and inflicted on his soul wounds that can never heal, can certainly not be charged with revenge. While he thus exhibits a noble, high-hearted disposition, David also presents an example of true love for his enemies, being not merely free from all feeling of revenge in the heart, making no complaint or accusation about the wrong done him, uttering no word of joy over the judgment that has befallen his enemy, but mourning his fall as a friend, avenging in holy anger the insult offered to God in his person, and dwelling with just recognition and praise on the good with which God endowed Saul. (Lang) Lessons for us: David pictures Jesus, the Christ (Beloved); Jonathan, shared Saul's misfortune; Saul, the disobedient ones (Col. 3:6) and comforted him.

WITH THIS LAMENTATION — The song of the Bow. When David heard of the results of the battle, his sympathy for Saul and Jonathan is expressed in a beautiful poem which is remarkable for the fact that it contains not a single suggestion of how Saul had persecuted him or sought his life. It compliments Saul for what good he had accomplished. It tells of the tender love for Jonathan, surpassing that of women. This ode is recorded in 2 Sam. 1:17-27. The "Dead March from Saul" is an attempt on the part of the musician to put the sentiment of David's "Song of the Bow" for Jonathan and Saul into the music of our day, and thus it has become identified with the funeral services of the great today. (Z. '15-124; R.5674)

The exquisite beauty of this ode has been noted by all commentators. The artistic skill with which its successive thoughts are introduced is equal to the beauty and passionate tenderness of the thoughts themselves—the lament over Israel's glory slain—the picture of exulting foes—the imprecation upon the spot of ground that witnessed it—the praise of the military exploits of the heroes, their oneness, their strength, the appeal to the women—the picture of Jonathan's deep and faithful love—these are all exquisitely expressed and connected—the ode has unity and yet, short as it is, has wonderful variety. It is to be observed that the divine name does not occur, nor does it contain any theocratic or religious thought. (Lang) A gem of ancient Hebrew poetry, not only pleasing as poetry, but instructive in the light it throws on the personages and events of the times. Bible Commentary says that there was, in the book of Jasher, a collection of poems, in which special mention is made of the bow, that this collection was known as Kasheth (the bow) and that the author of the book of 2 Samuel transferred this dirge from the book of Jasher to his own pages, with the title, "For the children of Israel to learn by heart. Kasheth from the book of Jasher." It was in existence before the books of Joshua and Samuel, and contained a collection of songs on specially remarkable events of the history of Israel, together with the celebration of the prominent pious men connected with the events. (Lang)

1:18 — THE USE OF THE BOW — God has His bow (Word of God) and sends out His arrows. Psalms 45:5; 7:11-13; Revelation 6:2; Acts 2:37, 38 (Peter on the day of Pentecost); (Psalms 18:14; 2 Samuel 22:7-15; Psalm 120:4 (sharp arrows of the mighty); 144:3-6 (send thy arrows); Habakkuk 3:9,11; Zechariah 8:13, 14; 1 Chronicles 12:2, 2 Chronicles 26:15; 2 Kings 13:14-19 (death of Elisha); Psalm 64:3, 4, 7; 11:2; 91:5; Revelation 6:2 (Gospel). Military power to be broken, Psalm 37:14, 15 (bow of wicked broken); 46:9; 76:2, 3.

1:19 — BEAUTY — Some render this opening word literally, "gazelle" as Ewald said, Jonathan was known among the soldiers as "The Gazelle." But two heroes, not one, are here spoken of. The glory of Israel is the king and his son.

IS SLAIN — The two most prominent warriors of Israel gone, dead.

UPON THY HIGH PLACES — The heights are the mountains of Gilboa, on which David looks as the scene of the tragic end of the two greatest heroes of Israel. David laments the heavy loss which Israel suffered.

HOW ARE THE MIGHTY FALLEN — An astonishment! This moan begins and ends the lament, and is its central thought. Thrice (verses 19, 25, 27) it appears as the ground work of the whole song. This repetition shows how deeply David felt the loss.

1:20 — TELL IT NOT IN GATH, PUBLISH IT NOT IN THE STREETS OF ASH-KELON — The two most prominent of the five cities. Israel's shame is great enough in being overcome and trodden down by the godless nation, may it not be increased by Philistine songs of triumph over vanquished Israel. (See 2 Samuel 5:17-25) But David did not know that the Philistines already had possession of the bodies of Saul and his sons. (1 Samuel 31:8-13)

1:21 — LET THERE BE NO DEW, NEITHER LET THERE BE RAIN — May you lack that which makes you green and fruitful and dispenses fresh life. Waste and desert they were to lie, that their death might represent the fitful end of those slain there and so nature might, as it were, mourn for them.

FIELDS OF OFFERING — To be brought as sacrifices. (Not “first fruits” as the Hebrew word is in the singular. A different word is used in Num. 15:19 and 2 Chron. 31:10 about the bringing of the first fruits.)

VILELY CAST AWAY — Combined the two shades of meaning of the word.

NOT BEEN ANOINTED WITH OIL — Some object to introducing “as if” as not being necessary or right. But it refers to the shield not being cleansed and polished from the blood and dust, so as to be ready for further use, as this is their last battle and the inglorious end, the glory of Israel lying powerless in dust and blood. (But the other view may be right.)

1:22 — FROM THE BLOOD OF THE SLAIN, FROM THE FAT OF THE MIGHTY — Saul had destroyed the nation of Amalek. (1 Sam. 15:4-9) Jonathan had conquered a group of 20 Philistines, he and a companion. (1 Sam. 14:1-23)

THE BOW OF JONATHAN TURNED NOT BACK AND THE SWORD OF SAUL RETURNED NOT EMPTY — To Jonathan is assigned the bow (see 1 Sam. 18:4; 20:20) and to Saul, the sword. Thus they represent the weapon powers of the whole people. The bow was a principal weapon of the Benjaminites, Saul’s tribe, with great success. (1 Chron. 8:40; 12:2; 2 Chron. 14:8; 17:17)

1:23 — SAUL AND JONATHAN WERE LOVELY AND PLEASANT IN THEIR LIVES — These heroes were accustomed to gain complete victory, to overthrow and destroy all opposing power. (1 Sam. 15:15) The two met death, not only together, but also in a deep, cordial union of war comradeship. They were beloved and amiable, lovely, the second being the cause of the first; important data for the character description of the two men, both adjectives being referred to each. (Compare 1 Sam. 9:2 and 10:24) David here looks at Saul only in the light of his God-given noble endowments and qualities, and praises them, turning his glance away (in view of his death) from the time during which the “evil spirit” had darkened and destroyed his nobility, and not thinking of the persecution he himself had suffered.

IN THEIR DEATH THEY WERE NOT DIVIDED — David praises the filial love of Jonathan, in which he remains true to his father in spite of Saul's hatred and persecution of his friend, not permitting that friendship to diminish his filial piety. Equal in noble qualities of heart, bound together in life and death in cordial personal association, they had also the noblest, heroic qualities in common, each was distinguished with eagle-like swiftness and agility and for lion-like courage and strength. How great and sorrowful, then, the loss.

1:24 — YE DAUGHTERS OF ISRAEL, WEEP OVER SAUL — As the men are to mourn for the hero, so the women for the gracious king, who out of the booty of his battles, bestowed on them costly adornment. The poetical power of this appeal to the women of Israel, beautiful in itself, is heightened when we recollect that these women had once sung the war praises of Saul, and were therefore the admirers of his prowess, as well as grateful recipients of his bounty. Womanly tenderness is to mourn the fallen hero, whom in his life womanly enthusiasm had celebrated. (Lang)

WITH DELIGHTS — Many beautiful things to delight the hearts of women, who love beautiful things.

WHO CLOTHED YOU IN SCARLET — Saul's gracious free-handedness in dividing out the bounty of war.

WHO PUT ON ORNAMENTS OF GOLD — To this costly clothing for women, be added golden ornaments, brought along in the spoil of war.

1:25 — HOW ARE THE MIGHTY FALLEN — Repeats the key expression of the song, showing a heart filled with sorrow.

IN THE MIDST OF THE BATTLE — Before the end of the battle.

O JONATHAN, THOU WAS SLAIN IN THINE HIGH PLACES — David mentions him alone, bemoaning what he had lost in Jonathan, a heart bowed down with grief. His union of heart with his friend differences this lament sharply from the mention of them both. (See Absalom)

1:26 — I AM DISTRESSED FOR THEE, MY BROTHER — Deeply grieved, broken-hearted, lost.

VERY PLEASANT — Precious, of great value.

THY LOVE TO ME WAS WONDERFUL — More wonderful, more extraordinary, richer than that between man and woman. Possible only on the basis of a common covenant of heart with God.

1:27 — HOW ARE THE MIGHTY FALLEN — A perfect ending to the lament.

THE WEAPONS OF WAR PERISHED — Made useless.

2:4 — THEY ANOINTED DAVID KING OVER THE HOUSE OF JUDAH

— David waited upon the Lord these many years, fully confident that in the end he would be king of all Israel, but not hastening the event in any way, simply standing ready for the responsibilities and powers of the office where the Lord should put him. What a wonderful example we have in David's course. How much Christians can learn of patient waiting for the Lord's time in all their affairs, not only waiting for the Kingdom, while they pray "Thy Kingdom Come," but also waiting for the Lord's leading and providence in all their affairs, overruling them all for good. It is one of the frequent mistakes made by Christians, that they overlook the Lord's providences and promised supervision of their interests and attempt to do for themselves, often to their own disadvantage. (Z. '15-125; R.5674)

3:21 — I WILL ARISE AND GO, AND GATHER ALL ISRAEL UNTO MY

LORD — King David appreciated the proposition, doubtless considering it to be the Lord's will and in harmony with the Lord's promise. (Z. '15:125; R.5674)

3:36 — WHATSOEVER THE KING DID PLEASED ALL THE PEOPLE

— Thus did the people see exemplified in David's course principles of righteousness quite uncommon in his day, and, we might say, yet uncommon. All these things served to endear to the people the king, who, they perceived was not merely self-seeking, narrow, but was broad-minded, and even generous towards his opponents, his enemies. He seems to have had a great appreciation of justice and also a breadth of sympathy for his enemies. (Z. '15-125; R.5674)

5:3 — THEY ANOINTED DAVID KING OVER ISRAEL — This marked the third time the holy anointing oil was poured upon his head. For the other two times, see, first, by Samuel, (1 Sam. 16:13); second, by men of Judah, (2 Sam. 2:4).

5:5 — HE REIGNED OVER JUDAH SEVEN YEARS AND SIX MONTHS

— This was 7-1/2 years after the death of King Saul, and probably about 17 years after David had been anointed first by Samuel. Faith and patience mark every step of those years and show us King David's character as we would not otherwise have known it. It's grandeur was chiefly shown in that it manifested a devotion to God and a submission to the Divine Will. (Z. '15-125; R.5674)

5:6 — EXCEPT THOU TAKE AWAY THE BLIND AND THE LAME —

Guided by Divine providence, King David sought a new capital after he had been anointed king over all Israel. The city of Jerusalem had for centuries been an impregnable fortress held by the Jebusites. They claimed that even the blind and the cripples could defend it against any foe, so advantageously was it situated. (Z. '15-136; R.5679)

5:23 — MULBERRY TREES — “Baka” (fr. “bakah,” a prim. root, to weep; same as Baka, a valley in Palestine, meaning weeping, the weeping tree; some gum-distilling tree, perhaps the Balsam.)

6:2 — BAAL OF JUDAH — Margin, Kirjath-Jearim. The Tabernacle, which was first at Shiloh and then at Nob, had fallen into disuse when King Saul had destroyed the priests because they gave comfort to David (1 Sam. 22:17-19), and the King had the Tabernacle removed to Gibeah (1 Chron. 16:37-43; 21:29). The ark was not in it and had not been for a long time. (After being taken from Israel, it was in the land of the Philistines for seven months (1 Sam. 6:1) at Kirjath-Jearim 20 years (1 Sam. 7:3), and at the house of Obed Edom three months (vs. 11). (Z. '15-130; R.5679)

TO BRING UP FROM THENCE THE ARK OF GOD — King David possessed a very deep, religious nature whose center or will had been early turned to the Lord. Realizing that God was the real king, and he merely God’s representative, David sought to fulfill the Divine will and arrangement by inaugurating the Tabernacle and its religious services. It does not matter if some impugn the motives of David and claim that this was merely a policy stroke for binding the people to himself through their religious instincts and a revival of ancient customs. If it were merely policy, it was good policy, helpful to the people, and for unifying and solidifying the empire. The love which thinketh no evil will give the king credit for the best of motives.

6:3 — THE HOUSE OF ABINADAB — Both Abinadab and Obed-Edom probably Levites. (S.B.D.)

UZZIAH AND AHIO, SONS OF ABINADAB, DRAVE THE NEW CART — It is not for us to be ingenious and inventive in respect to Divine methods and services, but rather to be students of the Divine will, searching the Scriptures that we may know the will of God and do it. The lesson King David learned all God’s people may well take to heart. (Z. '15-137; R.5680) The new cart represents man’s inventions and innovations as to how God’s work ought to be done.

6:4 — ACCOMPANYING THE ARK OF GOD — The good intentions of all concerned are not to be misjudged, but a serious error was made in that the divine order in connection with the matter was neglected. God had made no such arrangement of transferring the ark on a cart, however honorable that may have seemed to David and the priests.

6:9 — HOW SHALL THE ARK OF THE LORD COME TO ME? — The whole people thus learned a lesson of reverence, a lesson which seems to be as much needed today as at any time. Irreverence is frequently manifested by the world, but this does not astound us as much as when we find irreverence, manifested by those who profess to be the Lord's consecrated people, the Royal Priesthood. It is sometimes irreverence of manner, sometimes irreverence of language, sometimes the making of jokes on religious things or on passages of Scripture. Everything of the kind is surely injurious to the individual, as well as to his influence with others. (Z. '15-136; R.5679)

6:12 — DAVID WENT AND BROUGHT UP THE ARK OF GOD — David had meantime studied the matter, and this time there was no new cart. (1 Chron. 15:12-16) (Z. '15-137; R.5680)

6:15 — WITH SHOUTING AND WITH THE SHOUT OF A TRUMPET — On this occasion was composed and sung the psalm recorded in 1 Chron. 15:7-36. (Part is Psa. 105:1-15; part is Psa. 96:1-13; part Psa. 106:47, 48; also Psa. 24, q.v.) (Z. '15-137; R.5680)

6:16 — SHE DESPISED HIM IN HER HEART — Perhaps when the grand procession approached the city it was met by the women of the city with rejoicing, and if so, then Michal, King David's wife, should have been at the head. But not so. She was in a cynical, proud, mood. Was not she the daughter of King Saul? Had not her husband David been a poor shepherd boy and then an outlaw for a time? She said his conduct was not dignified and reproved him. (Z. '15-137; R.5680)

6:17 — THEY BROUGHT IN THE ARK OF THE LORD AND SET IT IN ITS PLACE — As the ark represented Christ in whom are hidden all the wisdom and power of God and in whom center all of God's blessings for men, so the bringing of the Ark into the city corresponded, in a measure, to our receiving of Christ. All such realize that the earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof. Every good and perfect gift cometh down from the Father and through the Son. The world and all that dwell therein are subjects of His blessings. (Z. '15-137; R.5680)

6:21 — WHICH CHOSE ME BEFORE THY FATHER — King David reminded her that the Lord had taken the kingdom from her father and given it to him and he had thus the Lord's favor and thus relied on Him. And the proud woman was apparently left to herself thereafter, and the bare mention being made that she was thenceforth childless. (Z. '15-137; R.5680)

THEREFORE WILL I PLAY BEFORE THE LORD — It would appear that this custom of a dignified rhythmic moving of the feet in harmony with music is a common form even today in far Eastern countries. Mr. Clark tells us how there was such a dance at a gathering of the Christian Endeavorers at one of their meetings in India, and how dignified and beautiful it appeared. (Z. '15:137; R.5680)

11:3 — DAVID SENT AND INQUIRED AFTER THE WOMAN — David first coveted his neighbor's wife. He did not rebuke this sinful condition of mind, but allowed it to proceed until he stole his neighbor's wife.

11:4 — HE LAY WITH HER — No wonder that we are surprised that one who manifested so many noble traits would also have manifested such weaknesses as are condemned in this lesson—adultery and murder. We think of David the youth, his reverence for God, his faith, his loyalty, trials, difficulties, and we wonder how he could become so changed in so short a time. The secret is not far to seek. It is easier to live a wholly consecrated life in poverty than when surrounded by wealth and the pleasures, customs and liberties of the court. The king temporarily forgot that the Ark, representing God's favor and presence, was now in his city. He realized indeed that the eyes of the Lord are in every place, beholding the evil and the good, yet the seeing of the Tabernacle, should have brought freshly to his mind the thought—"Thou, God, seest me." But we may be sure that King David did not get into so sinful a condition of mind and heart suddenly. The narrative shows the matter must have gone on for months, gradually reaching a culmination. Nor would it be fair to the king to assume that his heart was as wrong as his conduct. Rather, we must assume from subsequent manifestations that his heart was still loyal to God and to the principles of righteousness, but somehow his heart had gone to sleep and his flesh had become very much alive. He was awake to sin, asleep to righteousness. He had before him the unfavorable examples of other kings and the liberties they exercised. His relationship with God had made him keen of intellect and now, in yielding to temptation, this keenness of mind was all the more effective in the evil course. (Z. '15-138; R.5681)

11:6 — JOAB SENT URIAH TO DAVID — Her husband was in the war, a faithful soldier. The emergency seemed to call for his death in order to protect the king from shame (one sin leads to another, to hide the first). David's conscience was surely asleep when he ordered his general to put the faithful soldier in an exposed place in the attack being made on a certain city, then command a retreat (vs. 15) and thus leave the most exposed one to be killed. (Z. '15-138; R.5681)

12:1 — AND SAID UNTO HIM, THERE WERE TWO MEN IN ONE CITY — Nathan wisely brought his reproof in the form of a parable. (He thus made the king recognize the general application of a principle and thus awakened his sleeping conscience. If he had directly accused the king, he would have only aroused David in self-defense to protect himself; but by

12:7 — THOU ART THE MAN — Thus promptly Nathan drove home the lesson. It required courage, but whoever had a message from the Lord must have courage to deliver it, as wisely as possible, of course, but faithfully. (Z. '15-138; R.5681)

12:8 — I WOULD MOREOVER HAVE GIVEN UNTO THEE SUCH AND SUCH THINGS — Note the Lord's provision for David's happiness, had he only been obedient. The Lord will take care of the righteous. The important lesson here is that we keep close accounts with the Lord. No child of God should go forth in the morning without an earnest petition to Him for Divine supervision of his affairs and for help to walk in the right path. No child of God should retire at night without a retrospective glance on all the day's pathway, to discern to what extent it has been a profitable one and has brought him a day's march nearer the heavenly home. Or, if perchance something has occurred of which he should feel ashamed, it is none too soon to go at once to the throne of Heavenly Grace to obtain mercy and find fresh help for future times of need. The child of God, thus keeping daily accounts with the Father and with the Redeemer, will abide in their love and will not be in danger of falling into any such great sins as those noted in this lesson. Even King David, we may be sure, would have fallen into no such great sins had he not allowed gradually to arise, earth-borne clouds of fleshly hues between the Lord and himself. (Z. '15-139; R.5681)

12:13 — THE LORD HATH PUT AWAY THY SIN, THOU SHALT NOT DIE — Here we see a principle of the Divine government in respect to those who are the people of God and in covenant relationship with God. Justice would have been required in respect to the sins, but to the repentant soul the Lord's favor would nevertheless be granted. Many Christians have had experiences along this line. God does not continue to treat them as sinners, but accepting their heart condition, contrition, He forgives them in that sense of the word; yet, true to His arrangement, "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he reap. In this divine arrangement there is nothing to encourage sin, but everything to encourage righteousness; and if sin be fallen into, everything to encourage the sinner to accept divine forgiveness and reform his life, even though he shall be obliged to bear some severe penalty, perhaps to his tomb. (Z. '15-138, 139; R.5681) (See Psa. 51)

13:37 — ABSALOM FLED AND WENT TO TALMAI — Here Absalom was still further removed from the good influences associated with his father and with the true religion. (Z. '15-169; R.5700)

DAVID MOURNED FOR HIS SON EVERY DAY — It is the parent's duty to see that a proper child is born into the world (see note on 15:1), reasonably gifted, not merely outwardly beautiful, but conscientious, just, loyal to God and loyal to the principles of righteousness. He should give the child proper conceptions of life, proper instruction. (Prov. 22:6) It seems pitiful indeed that, with all the preaching and teaching of centuries, so few parents realize their obligations toward their children they bring into the world. So few fathers realize that they are the protectors and caretakers of their wives and of their off-spring, and that not only is it their duty to select a noble, conscientious wife to be the mother of the family, but it is also their duty to place her under favorable conditions during the period of gestation and generally to assist her to keep her mind and her heart pure, loving, noble, loyal to God and to righteous principles, so their child may be well birth marked, of noble character, less seriously marked and blemished with sin that would otherwise be the case. Well do the Scriptures declare that the people perish for lack of knowledge. (Z. '15-170; R.5700)

14:33 — The closing years of King David's life included a series of very trying experiences which, however, under the Lord's providential care, apparently worked out for him a ripeness of heart and character exhibited to us in his later Psalms. These disastrous experiences date from the time of his sin and, to a considerable extent they were used of the Lord as punishments for that sin. We are to remember that it was quite in the Lord's power to have shielded David so as to have prevented the success of Absalom's machinations. (Z. '03-397; R.3261)

15:1 — ABSALOM PREPARED HIM CHARIOTS AND HORSES — This was probably a custom introduced from his grandfather's court at Geshur, a custom which still prevails in Egypt. King David seems to have had so much love for his son that he let him have his own way in these matters. The people were pleased with the display. (Z. '03-398; R.3262)

An earlier influence upon Absalom was David's marriage to Absalom's mother who was not a Jewess but a foreigner, the daughter of a heathen king. (2 Sam. 3:3) The counsel of the Lord was to the effect that His people should not be unequally yoked with unbelievers and this counsel applied to the typical Israelite as well to Spiritual Israel. This disregard of divine wisdom was sure to produce unfavorable results in some manner at some time. Children born to such a mismatched marriage are sure to inherit some elements of character and disposition from the unbelieving parent which will eventually show themselves. In Absalom's case, his vanity, insubordination, disloyalty, went hand in hand with an ambition which seemed to hesitate at nothing. It killed a half-brother and later on stimulated a usurpation of his father's throne and the seeking of his father's life. Absalom is a distinguished example of dishonor to a father and the resultant cutting off in the prime of life. (Z. '03-397; R.3261)

15:3 — THERE IS NO MAN DEPUTED OF THE KING TO HEAR THEE

— The king, in those days, acted as a superior court, so that cases not satisfactorily adjudicated before the regular judges should be brought to him. As the nation grew these cases would become more and more numerous, and doubtless the king's advancing age and his greater attention to religious things, interfered to some extent with the conduct of his court business. (Z. '03-398; R.3262)

15:4 — OH THAT I WERE MADE JUDGE IN THE LAND

— That vain young prince was quick to see that his spectacular course pleased the people, and quite probably he heard that his younger brother, Solomon, was David's choice for his successor in the kingdom, and he concluded to make a bid for the royal honors of his father. He had no filial affection, only selfish ambition, as is manifested in his course. He would use his father's indulgence, which shielded him from the penalty of his crime, to undermine his father's influence. Surely, if it is wrong to render evil for evil, it is a despicable crime to render evil for good. (Z. '03-398; R.3262)

15:5 — HE PUT FORTH HIS HAND, AND TOOK HIM, AND KISSED

HIM — Feigning a love and humility he evidently did not feel. A royal kiss would be a matter to boast of. To have the fellowship, nay, the affection, of a prince would mean to many a complete perversion of their judgment and binding them to him as his obedient servants. There is a point of morality here which is but faintly discerned by many in our day. We regret to be forced to believe that quite a good many are very willing to steal the affections of another and to misrepresent another to their own advantage. The Lord's people of the New Creation need continually to be on their guard against any such tendency in their flesh which might disguise itself so that its real character would not be readily discernible by the new mind. The golden rule should be applied. (Z. '03-398; R.3262)

15:10 — YE SHALL SAY, ABSALOM REIGNETH IN HEBRON

— The people who had learned to love Absalom because of his mock meekness would thus gain the impression that the revolution of the kingdom was complete, that King David was certainly thoroughly vanquished and that their personal prosperity with the new king would depend upon prompt obedience, manifestation of their loyalty. The matter worked remarkably well and, as a result, practically, the entire nation was turned to Absalom in a day. (Z. '03-398; R.3262)

15:13 — THE HEARTS OF THE MEN OF ISRAEL ARE AFTER

ABSALOM — Here we see an illustration of how God is able to overrule the affairs of the world in such a manner as to execute His designs without interfering with the free agency of any. Had it not been for David's sin and the penalty prescribed for it (2 Sam. 12:1), Absalom might have had the same evil designs upon the kingdom, but the Lord would not have permitted the matter to reach so successful a climax. An example of this is found in a subsequent attempt by a younger brother of Absalom's (Adonijah) to take the throne. He proceeded in many respects as Absalom did and under more favorable conditions because, at that time, the king had grown quite feeble with age and was unable to administer the interests of the kingdom personally or take the field in battle. However, in due time, the Lord brought the matter to the attention of David, so that the revolt was nipped in the bud before it had time to take effect and Solomon, instead of Adonijah, was crowned and anointed. (Z. '03-399; R.3262)

So now, conspiracies may arise to threaten the interests of the truth, but the Lord is at the helm and will permit these to go no further than, in His judgment, is wise—only so far as will work out for the Lord's glory and the accomplishment of His plans, for the instruction and discipline of His people, and for the sifting out of those who at heart are enemies of the cause. (Z. '03-399; R.3262)

The general lesson for us is confidence in the great King of Kings and Lord of Lords, implicit obedience to him and loyalty to the principles of His government; the law of love in our dealing with all the true Israel of God and with mankind in general. The Lord is able and willing to make the things which would seem to harm us work out for our everlasting good and work disastrously to those who assay the injury of His people and His cause. (Z. '03-399; R.3262)

15:14 — AND SMITE THE CITY WITH THE EDGE OF THE SWORD —

Note David's unselfish thought for the interests of the people and their homes, a rare thing in kings.

15:25 — CARRY BACK THE ARK OF GOD INTO THE CITY —

Note the submission and humility and love and contriteness of heart here expressed, his confidence in God. He probably recognized this as a punishment for his sin and bowed his head and went. He knew his sin was forgiven, but whatever might come, he would hold to God's promises and character and not take even a tangible guarantee of God's presence with him unless so directed. God's face seemed to be turned away. David probably remembered how the ark did not guarantee God's presence as a blessing in the time when the Israelites in Eli's day took out the ark. The ark, without the Lord's spirit and a contrite heart, David knew would avail him nothing. So we should not put our confidence in outward charms or guarantees of God's favor but should realize that all these would avail us nothing without God's Holy Spirit and our own contrite and loyal heart.

17:4 — THE SAYING PLEASED ABSALOM WELL — Absalom's course was like that of Satan. (Z. '15-169; R.5700)

He became disloyal to his father and tried selfishly to establish his own plans and himself as king, when David had determined his son Solomon to be king and whose empire became a type of that greater king. Satan tries to displace Christ.

24:1 — HE MOVED DAVID — Margin, Satan. Note this reference. This is one of the incidences where one can misunderstand if he does not study. So God hides his truth from the world.

I KINGS

1:50 — CAUGHT HOLD ON THE HORNS OF THE ALTAR — These were the horns of the brazen altar. Flee to the horns of the altar for protection. These symbolize the power of Jesus' ransom sacrifice to protect from the demands of justice. See 1 Kings 2:28. Adonijah was forgiven.

2:28 — CAUGHT HOLD ON THE HORNS OF THE ALTAR — Horns of the brazen altar, symbol of the power of Jesus' ransom sacrifice to protect from the demands of justice. Adonijah was forgiven but Joab was not. It somehow seems that, in spite of God's mercy, the wrong heart will break away from the right path and bring retribution on its own head. The cases of Adonijah, Joab and Shimei seem to illustrate a principle.

3:4 — THE KING WENT TO GIBEON TO SACRIFICE THERE — With him were the heads of the people. This was the calling of a religious convention at which were assembled the chief men of the nation. Solomon realized the importance of religion to himself and the people—that God must be first. And this assemblage was doubtless intended to stir up the religious enthusiasm of the nation, as well as to convince all that Solomon acknowledged the Lord and that the course of the new kingdom would be after the same pattern as that of his father — loyalty to the Lord as the great King and recognition of himself as merely His servant and representative. (Z. '03-429; R.3277)

THAT WAS THE GREAT HIGH PLACE — Solomon went to Gibeon evidently because the Tabernacle and brazen altar were there. (2 Chron. 1:3-6)

A THOUSAND BURNT OFFERING — This does not mean that 1,000 animals were burnt entire, but rather that certain portions of them, particularly the fat, were burned as an offering to the Lord, while the food portions became the basis of the feast (the right shoulder was devoted to the priesthood), and the people feasted on the remainder. Less meat was eaten then than now, except on such occasions. We can see the wisdom of such acknowledgment of God and of His inauguration of a new king; and the feast for the people signifies the good will of the king and his desire to make his reign one of prosperity, blessing, rejoicing and helpfulness to all. The divine ordering of the matter was recognized by the Israelites, who perceived that all things were to be done with an eye to God's approval. (Z. '15-187; R.5714)

This custom (of offerings) was recognized also in heathen nations, each acknowledging its own gods. Thus, Croesus, King of Lydia, offered up 3,000 of every kind of sacrificial beasts, to the god of the Delphinian oracle, as Herodotus relates. Xerxes, according to the same authority, "made an offering of 1,000 oxen to the Trojan Minerva." Whether the heathen nations copied these sacrifices from the Jews or not cannot be positively stated, but the earliest and most authentic histories seem to so indicate. (Z. '03-429; R.3277)

3:5 — THE LORD APPEARED TO SOLOMON IN A DREAM BY NIGHT

— That this dream was supernatural there can be no doubt. Although the Christian Church is peculiarly in relationship with God, much closer than the Jews under their Law, yet we must not suppose that all dreams which even Christians may have are inspired. Very evidently the majority of our dreams are merely the wanderings of our minds, because we are not soundly asleep. For God to make fewer communications with Spiritual Israel by dreams would not signify a lesser interest in their affairs, but rather that He has otherwise provided for them, for their guidance—in the Bible. Additionally, we learn that He wishes us to walk by faith and not by sight, and to direct us continually by dreams would interfere with this walking by faith. Paul tells us that the Word of God is sufficient, that the man of God shall be thoroughly furnished. (2 Tim. 3:16, 17) There is nothing to hinder God from using a dream as a means of instructing His spiritual children if that should seem at any time to be the appropriate course. Many of the Lord's people have had more or less experience with such profitable dreams which seemed to give them the needed instruction or suggestion. Nevertheless there is but one sure way of receiving dreams—to interpret them only in full accord with the Scriptures. The Apostle Paul suggests that if an angel should proclaim any other gospel than this it should be rejected. The Divine Word is to be the great talisman, test, standard for everything for the Christian. (Z. '15-188; R.5714)

God wishes us, by study of His Word and meditation upon His thoughts and plans there recorded to transform our mind and get its faculties to work more and more like His, so that He can guide us by His spirit through our ripened and instructed judgment, trained by His Word. Dreams are for those less developed, or a mind that could not otherwise grasp the Divine purpose.

The Lord was not operating contrary to the freedom of Solomon's will, because, had the young king's mind been full of ambition for power, for victories over his enemies, or for great riches, undoubtedly in the dream he would have asked for these things. His reply shows us that he was full of appreciation of the great work which God had committed to his care; that he recognized that his father's success had been of the Lord and not of his own power, and whatever others thought of his father's real sentiments, Solomon recognized his loyalty to God, to truth, to righteousness, to uprightness of heart. (Z.'03-430; R.3278)

3:6 — MY FATHER GREAT MERCY — Solomon did not regard David's success and blessings as David's own winning or desserts, but of God's mercy.

ACCORDING AS HE WALKED BEFORE THEE IN TRUTH — He recognized God blessed David according as he was faithful and walked with God.

THOU HAST GIVEN HIM A SON TO SIT ON HIS THRONE — Solomon regarded his kingship as God's reward to David and not on his own account. What God keeps for us is often the greatest and the sweetest. David did not try to grasp, and God blessed him, because he was willing to wait God's due time. (See notes 2 Sam. 5:3; 15:25) Saul was not continued on the throne because he was not willing to wait, but took things into his own hands.

3:7 — THOU HAST MADE THY SERVANT KING — In acknowledging the Lord's kindness in raising him to the throne, he was acknowledging that God was the real king, that he merely sat "upon the throne of the Kingdom of the Lord." What a strength it gave this young man to realize that he was in God's hands, that it was not merely his father's foresight and wisdom that he came to the throne, not by the superior prestige of his father's influence over the army and the majority of the people, but of the Lord's providences. Similarly, this should give strength to all the Lord's people who realize that they have come into present truth, not by their own wisdom and power, nor by the wisdom of others, but through the wisdom and grace of the Lord. The same thought should be had by all who serve the church of God as ministers, servants in any department, in any manner responsible to the Lord for their position in the household of faith and their opportunities to serve as the Lord's mouthpieces should be felt and confessed. But failure to confess it even, implies a failure rightly to appreciate it. (Z.'03-430; R.3278)

This was really the strength of Solomon's character, namely that he was meek, teachable, like a little child; not boastful and self-confident, not blind to his privileges and obligations. (Z.'15-188; R.5714)

3:9 — GIVE THEREFORE THY SERVANT AN UNDERSTANDING HEART — Hebrew, “shama,” to hear intelligently. Note God’s answer in the same thought—but hast asked for thyself understanding to discern judgment. (vs. 11)

3:15 — OFFERED UP BURNT OFFERINGS — He evidently was full of joy and satisfaction and peace. So with God’s people. They too should realize that the proper way to show their appreciation of the Lord’s promised blessings is by a manifestation of faith in Him, confidently trusting and rejoicing in these. Wherever we find fear, unrest, we may know that these are symptoms of some spiritual malady. (Z. ’03-431; R.3279)

This going immediately to Jerusalem and sacrificing, and asking or inviting the people to join in his joy and happiness, showed Solomon’s proper appreciation of God’s loving kindnesses and his generosity of heart.

4:24 — HE HAD DOMINION OVER ALL THE REGION ON THIS SIDE THE RIVER — Typifying the dominion of Christ.

FROM TIPHSAH — Passage was on the Euphrates in the north of Palestine.

EVEN TO AZZAH — Gaza (R. V.) meaning strong. “From the river to the ends of the earth (land).” (Psa. 72:8; Zech. 9:10)

HE HAD PEACE ON ALL SIDES — Typifying the peace from sin and evil and enemies during the reign of the Christ. (Psa. 72:7)

4:25 — EVERY MAN UNDER HIS VINE AND UNDER HIS FIG TREE — As in the Millennium, “In his days.” (Jer. 23:6; Mic. 4:4; Zech. 3:10)

4:31 — THE EZRAHITE — Possibly “Zerahhite,” as all these four were sons of Zerah, the son of Judah. (1 Chron. 2:6) Ethan and Heman are not to be confounded with the same of 1 Chron. 15:19. These latter were Levites; Ethan son of Kishi, or Kushaiah, a Merari Levite; Heman, son of Joel, and a grandson of Samuel the prophet. In 1 Chron. 25:5 he is called “the king’s seer in the words of God.”

THE SONS OF MAHOL — Possibly Zerah or his wife.

5:15 — SOLOMON HAD THREESCORE AND TEN THOUSANDS THAT BARE BURDENS, AND FOURSORE THOUSAND HEWERS IN THE MOUNTAINS — These 150,000 laborers were apparently foreigners, hired from outside, (see also 1 Kings 9:20-23) or they may have been aliens residing in the land of Palestine—Canaanites. The overseers would appear to have been 550 chiefs and 3300 subordinates, of whom 250 were Israelites and 3600 Canaanites. (2 Chron. 2:7; 8:10) This preponderance of the Canaanites among the overseers seems to imply that the laborers were Canaanites and reminds us that the “Canaanite was still in the land.” The fact that the Canaanites were the chief laborers in the construction of the great temple seems to have been typical of the fact that aliens, strangers, foreigners, enemies of the Truth, have the larger share in the work of preparing the antitypical Temple. Their hammering and chiseling, their melting and casting, under Divine Providence, serve to make ready the living stones and the glorious pillars for the spiritual house. Verily, they know not what they do. Their work is greater and better than they comprehend, as the glories of eternity will demonstrate. (Z. '03-441; R.3282)

6:7 — STONE MADE READY BEFORE IT WAS BROUGHT THITHER

— These stones were prepared at the quarry and then finally assembled for the construction of the Temple, and they were so perfectly shaped and marked for their various places that they came together without the sound of a hammer—without need for chiselling or other labor upon them at the time of construction. So the Church is God’s workmanship (Eph. 2:10; 1 Peter 2:5, 9) and His work will be so perfectly accomplished that there will be no need of rectification or alteration beyond the Veil. It is this viewpoint that is specially interesting to the Lord’s people. Such as can realize that they have been called of God to this high calling, to membership in the Temple, can fully appreciate the necessities of the trials and difficulties of life which are shaping and fitting them for glory, honor and immortality. These are the “all things” working together for our good. (Rom. 8:28) (Z. '15-189; R.5713)

In its antitypical sense Solomon’s Temple certainly represents the glorified Christ, head and body, built up of living stones as the Apostle Peter explains. (1 Pet. 2:5) Under the supervision of the Anointed, the work of gathering the various stones for the temple has been in progress throughout the Gospel Age. As not any and every stone was taken for Solomon’s Temple, but only those of specific dimensions and peculiar pattern in accord with the plan, so it is with the antitypical living stones. Only a certain class is approached at all, and only those which, being cut out, are firstly roughly quarried out and found suitable in character and dimensions are tooled at all; and only those which, under the tool, yield proper results and become conformed to the intended pattern, will ultimately find their place in the glorious temple, which our Lord, as the great Master builder is constructing. As before intimated, various agents are used of the Lord as servants for the chiseling and polishing and fitting and preparing these living stones for their future glorious position, even Satan himself being used. Viewed in this light, what a satisfaction may come from the trials and difficulties which all the Lord’s people are sure to experience and without some of which they would be justified in fearing they are not sons, but bastards. (Heb. 12:8) Only those who have some such insight into the divine plan can ever reach that position St. Paul attained, rejoice in tribulation, knowing that tribulation worketh patience, and patience experience, and experience hope, which will not put to shame but will be rewarded at last in the glorious joint-heirship in the Kingdom promised by our Lord to his faithful. The fact that the materials for Solomon's Temple were prepared before its construction began, and were so perfectly fitted that no iron tool needed to be used in the construction, indicates that the antitype, this Gospel Age, has seen the preparation of the various living stones which, when ready, were marked of the Lord to their positions in the Temple and fell asleep in Jesus until the time of the First Resurrection, the time for the construction of the Temple.

To our understanding we are now living in that time and have been in it since 1878, the living stones of the past have been brought together and the Temple is merely waiting for the few living stones which are still under trial and disciplining, chiselling and polishing. The Resurrection change, coming to these in turn, places them with the fellow members of the grand Temple of the Lord. (Z. '03-443; R.3283)

6:31 — A FIFTH PART OF THE WALL — Margin, or, five square, possibly means five cubits square.

6:33 — FOURTH PART OF THE WALL — Margin, or, four square. Possibly, four cubits square.

7:1 — SOLOMON WAS BUILDING HIS OWN HOUSE THIRTEEN YEARS — If we spend more time building our own houses, seeking our own plans, than we do seeking the Lord's plans and serving Him, we will be cut off from His great favor, as was Solomon.

7:51 — THE TREASURES OF THE HOUSE OF THE LORD — The story of the cost of the Temple seems fabulous, the gold and silver employed in its construction being variously estimated from $1,000,000,000 to $2,500,000,000. We are inclined to think the smaller amount nearer the truth, or that the ancient standard of values experienced a change. (Z. '03-441; R.3282)

8:2 — IN THE MONTH ETHANIM — This is about the time we call October, corresponding to the Jewish New Year's Feast held in connection with the Great Day of Atonement. The Atonement Day was probably past, the sacrifices of Atonement having been made in the Tabernacle and the blessing of the Lord, as usual, dispensed upon the people for the New Year. While they were thus legally cleansed, reconciled to God typically, was the most appropriate time for the dedication of the Temple, which represented the spiritual aims and hopes of the nation. (Z. '03-441; R.3282)

WHICH IS THE SEVENTH MONTH — Strange to say, the Temple was dedicated about a month before it was completely finished. Doubtless this contained some important typical lesson which we may some day fully understand. (Z. '15-188; R.5713)

The Temple was finished in the eighth month, “Bul.” (1 Kings 6:37, 38) As Solomon dedicated the Temple so the Church of Christ will be dedicated, formally presented to the Father. The great antitype of Solomon will do this—the Lord Jesus, presenting us all as His members, as the Temple, which is His body, reared up on the third day, the third thousand-year day from the time of His death, the dawning of the great Sabbath. (John 22:19-22) As a result of the dedication, the glory of the Lord will fill the Temple. The fact that the typical Temple was filled with the glory of the Lord before it was entirely completed seems to imply that at the present time there will be some manifestation of God’s favor toward the Church in glorification while yet the work of construction is not quite finished. However, it is difficult to read prophecy in advance of its fulfillment. We must wait and see what would be the fulfillment of this feature. (Z. '15-190; R.5714)

8:4 — THEY BROUGHT UP THE ARK OF THE LORD — The Ark, which represents the divine Covenant (the Abrahamic being the chief, but this ark so called because it was the repository of the tables of the Law Covenant) must be transferred from the Tabernacle to the Temple that the latter might supersede the former as the meeting place between God and His covenant people. (Z. '03-441; R.3282)

AND THE TABERNACLE OF THE CONGREGATION — Typifying how the Church in the Tabernacle will merge and change into the Temple condition.

8:5 — SACRIFICING SHEEP AND OXEN THAT COULD NOT BE TOLD — These sacrifices had a typical significance as representing the consecration unto death of the whole company thus engaged in transferring the emblem of their faith and hope. In some respects the king and chiefs of the nation typified our Lord Jesus and the overcomers, and the chief priests and under priests represented the same from another standpoint. (Z. '03-441; R.3283)

8:6 — THE PRIESTS BROUGHT IN THE ARK — The procession was the meeting place between the type of the sacrificing of the present age and the typical representation of the Kingdom glories and honors of the next age. The great King, antitype of Solomon, has about finished the Temple construction and has sent forth the invitation to the heads, chiefs of Spiritual Israel, to attend and share in the great dedication. These chiefs are not the great of the world, but the Lord’s very elect. From the four quarters of the spiritual heavens they come, the procession has already commenced. But as the Temple was not complete until the Ark, its most important part, was placed in position, so the glorious Temple will not really be finished until every member of the body of Christ has been changed from the Tabernacle condition to the Temple or permanent condition in the first resurrection. (Z. '03-442; R.3283)

8:8 — THEY DREW OUT THE STAVES — As the Ark represented Jesus and the Church as the ones whom the plan of God will be carried out, and the Tabernacle represented the Christ in the flesh, and the Temple the Christ in Glory; so, while in the Tabernacle condition, the Christ has no abiding place, “here we have no continuing city,” “pilgrims” tarrying but for a night, foreigners and strangers here, but when we will have entered the heavenly glorified condition we will have entered the rest that remaineth for the people of God, our final and perfect abode and shall “go no more out.” The staves were needed for carrying the Ark and were not to be taken from the Ark while it was in the Tabernacle. (Ex. 25:15)

NOT SEEN WITHOUT — i.e., In the Court. See note, Ex. 25:15.

8:9 — NOTHING IN THE ARK SAVE THE TWO TABLES OF STONE — The declaration that there was nothing in the Ark save the tables of stone on which was inscribed the Law, seems at first to be in conflict with the Apostle’s statement in Heb. 9:4 where he mentions the pot of Manna and Aaron’s rod that budded. We are to remember, however, that this description of Paul’s related to the Tabernacle and not to the Temple. The golden bowl of Manna which did not corrupt was a type of the immortality, incorruptibility, which the Lord has promised for the Royal Priesthood and the budded rod was a reminder that the blessing and fruitfulness and privilege of service belong to the antitypical Levite, but as types, both of these will end in the present dispensation (the hope of immortality and the election of the Church to be priests.) (See Rev. 2:17; Ex. 16:32-36; Num. 17:10, 11; Ex. 40:20; 25:26) They met with the Tabernacle conditions, they will not be needed in the future conditions of glory, honor and immortality, represented by the Temple, because there the glorious things typified by these will be realized, fully entered into by the overcomers of the Church. But the Law will still be an integral part of the divine covenant. As the Apostle expresses it, the fulfilling of the Law is love, and love never faileth. It will always be the divine requirement and essential to participation in any of the blessings of divine favor represented in the Ark of the Covenant. (Z. '03-442; R.3283)

8:10 — THE CLOUD FILLED THE HOUSE OF THE LORD — The peculiar pillar of cloud which symbolized the Lord’s presence thru the Wilderness Journey and later in connection with the Tabernacle and now in the Temple for the first time resting upon it. That which outwardly had the appearance of a cloud in the Sanctuary on the mercy seat represented an extreme brightness, so great that the priests could no longer remain in the Holy. (Z. '03-442; R.3283)

8:19 — THOU SHALT NOT BUILD THE HOUSE: BUT THY SON. . . SHALL BUILD THE HOUSE UNTO MY NAME — Meantime the King explained to the people the significance of the Temple, that it was the House of God and built under divine directions, given to himself and to his father David. (Z. '03-442; R.3283)

8:28 — YET HAVE THOU RESPECT UNTO THE PRAYER OF THY SERVANT — A most beautiful prayer, one which we recognize as prophetically directed and as teaching us the purpose and object of the Great Antitypical Temple, constructed by the antitypical Solomon. The literal temple was to be the place toward which all the Israelites should look as God's dwelling place, the center of His power, authority, forgiveness, and blessing and help in every time of need. So in due time when the Spiritual Temple shall have been constructed and dedicated and filled with divine power, it will be the center toward which all who would approach God shall look for help and assistance and blessing and forgiveness, toward which they shall make their prayers (vss. 35, 38, 42, 44), and in which they shall realize the manifestation of Divine Power and blessing on their behalf. (Hag. 2:9; Zech. 4:9; Isa. 56:7)

8:64 — THE BRASEN ALTAR . . . WAS TOO LITTLE TO RECEIVE THE BURNT OFFERINGS, AND MEAT OFFERINGS — See note, 2 Chron. 7:7.

9:15 — AND THIS IS THE REASON — The "manner." (Leeser)

9:22 — MAKE NO BONDMEN — Compare Chap. 5:13. This would seem to show that the children of Israel were not employed as bondmen, or laborers, but were the officers. See Chap. 12:4. Was it the officering of these that the Israelites objected to or what?

10:1 — Tradition tells us that the Queen of Sheba sent her ambassadors with a letter to King Solomon before she went herself. With them she sent 500 youths dressed as maidens with instructions that they were to behave accordingly in the presence of Solomon. She sent also 1000 costly rugs inwrought with gold and silver and a crown composed of finest pearls and gold hyacinths; also camel-loads of musk, amber, aloes and other precious products of South Arabia. She added a closed casket containing an unperforated pearl, a diamond intricately pierced and a crystal goblet. A letter accompanied these gifts as follows: "As a true prophet thou wilt no doubt be able to distinguish the youths from the maidens and divine the contents of the enclosed casket, to pierce the pearl and thread the diamond and to fill the goblet with water that has not dropped from the clouds nor gushed from the earth.”

The legend declares that when this embassy reached Jerusalem King Solomon told the bearers the contents of the letter before they presented it, and made light of their mighty problems. He caused the thousand slaves to wash their hands and faces and from the manner in which they applied the water detected their sex. He directed a fiery young horse to be ridden through the camp at the top of speed, and on its return caused its copious perspiration to be collected in a goblet. The pearl he pierced by some process known to him. The threading of the diamond with its crooked perforation puzzled him for a moment, but at length he inserted a small worm, which wound its way through, leaving a silken thread behind it. He dismissed the ambassadors without receiving their presents. When the emissaries reached the Queen of Sheba, their reports of these matters determined her to visit King Solomon in person. The account of her visit and her astonishment are recorded in this chapter. (Z. '03-444; R.3284)

10:2 — AND SHE CAME TO JERUSALEM — The distance she came is estimated at 1500 miles and as the means for travel was by camels and their average speed 20 miles per day, it is estimated that the journey to Jerusalem and return consumed five months besides whatever time she spent at Solomon’s court. Unquestionably it would be much less inconvenient today to journey around the earth than it was for the Queen of Sheba to visit Solomon. (Z. '03-444; R.3284)

10:3 — AND SOLOMON TOLD HER ALL HER QUESTIONS — We are not informed as to the character of her questions, many of which were probably in the nature of conundrums, after the custom of that time. Everything connected with this story assures us that Solomon was truly a wonderful man, that his mental powers were great and active. Nothing illustrated this better than the useful and expensive waterworks and arrangements which he provided for the capital city. So far as is known they were the first of their kind in the world and very much resembled the superior arrangements of our day. Truly the Lord’s promise to the king was abundantly fulfilled. The fact that, though constructed over 2500 years ago they have recently been partially put into operation again, clearly shows the solidity of their construction. (See Eccl. 1:6) (Z. '03-444; R.3284)

10:22 — A NAVY OF THARSHISH WITH THE NAVY OF HIRAM — Solomon’s ships and those of Hiram were known to all the nations of that time as far east as India and as far west as Britain. (Z. '03-444; R.3284)

11:8 — BURNT INCENSE AND SACRIFICED UNTO THEIR GODS — One great injury to Israel from such conduct was that it led those whose religious instincts were on lower levels to regard all nations as more or less right and on a religious parity. (Z. '98-190; R.2325)

So now the recognition by ministers of worldly people and other even heathen religions leads the common people to think that the Catholics and Heathen may be as near right as we are, and have many good points worthy of notice.

11:26 — AN EPHRATHITE — meaning, as in 1 Sam. 1:1, an Ephraimite, for Zereda was in Mt. Ephraim. Ephrathite usually means an inhabitant of Bethlehem, which was formerly called Ephrath. (Gen. 48:7) See Mic. 5:2.

11:28 — AND THE MAN JEROBOAM — Naturally Jeroboam may have felt something of the spirit of discontent as he perceived that the wealth of the nation was being gathered principally at Jerusalem and in Judah, that all the tribes were being taxed, and that most of the benefit was going to the tribe of Judah. Jeroboam became a leader of a party of discontents, and an incipient rebellion was the result. This was quickly suppressed by Solomon, and Jeroboam fled into Egypt, whence he returned at the death of Solomon and became leader and spokesman of the ten tribes when they demanded of Rehoboam, the reform of the government's policy. (Z. '10-378; R.4723) (See also S.B.D. "Jeroboam")

11:33 — THEY HAVE FORSAKEN ME . . . AND HAVE NOT WALKED IN MY WAYS — The Lord here shows that the reason for giving Jeroboam rulership of the ten tribes, was that Solomon's course of dealing with the nations roundabout was gradually breaking down the true religion and leading the people toward idolatry. Jeroboam should have had all this in mind and should have applied his heart with special fervor to the banishment of idolatry. (Z. '10-379; R.4723)

11:44 — AND SOLOMON — Solomon's life was in many respects a contradiction of his wise utterances.

12:1 — AND REHOBOAM WENT TO SHECHEM — The Kingdom was now about as large as England and Wales. It was God's Kingdom. Rehoboam was about 41 years old when he began to reign. See 1 Kings 14:21, 31; 2 Chron. 12:13, 15. He was inexperienced. The king was really a better man in some respects than one would expect, seeing that his mother was a heathen woman and that to please her Solomon had erected a sanctuary to Moloch on Mt. Olivet. (Z. '04-186; R.3384)

With such a mother and a royal father whose time was necessarily largely occupied in other ways, it would have been a wonder if Rehoboam had been more godly than he was. His mother was very beautiful and the favorite of Solomon's household. The son probably inherited personal beauty from both of his parents. (Chap. 11:1, 4, 5). The riches of the Kingdom had been chiefly gathered to Jerusalem, its capital, and King Solomon's annuity is supposed to have been more than $10,000,000. (Chap. 10:14-29). No young man probably ever stepped suddenly into greater opportunities than Rehoboam, and few ever dissipated good fortune more rapidly; but while few have so great opportunities financially and politically to lose, yet each has character possibilities and a kingdom of his own will, valuable beyond all monetary calculations. Let us all learn lessons from the successes and failures of others. Let us all set before us proper ideals that their attainment may be a blessing and not a curse.

ALL ISRAEL WERE COME TO SHECHEM TO MAKE HIM KING

— Although a monarchy the nation of Israel had in it the elements of a democracy; that is, each tribe, except the Levites, maintained a political organization, and a measure of independence. So David reigned seven years in Hebron over Judah and Benjamin, before he was accepted as King by Israel, the other ten tribes. Although the nation was a theocracy, God being its king, and the earthly king merely His representative, yet the religion of the nation had much to do with the King's regulation, changing much with the different kings. (Z. '10-377; R.4722)

12:3 — ALL THE CONGREGATION OF ISRAEL — A conference of all.

12:4 — THY FATHER — King Solomon, the wise, though reverent toward God, was evidently much less zealous and religious than David. His heathen wives, riches, and political intercourse with surrounding nations made him bright minded rather than a religious man. This was reflected on his son and on his nation.

MADE OUR YOKE GRIEVOUS — Solomon's great enterprises brought the wealth and revenue, and glory to Jerusalem, and did not evenly distribute it throughout the Kingdoms. Following the custom of other Kings, wealth was gathered largely from the enforced labor of his subjects who were compelled to labor at the capital for the common weal without pay. They were drafted and put under taskmasters. (1 Kings 5:13) In Solomon's day this was borne, though sometimes resentfully, but when his son came to the throne the Northern tribes determined that they would not acknowledge him as king unless he would give them a bill of rights. (Z '10-377; R.4722)

The fact that discontent was rife in a considerable portion of Solomon's Kingdom, so that it was ready to break out in open rebellion at his death, does not necessarily prove they were badly governed, oppressed. Many of the best governed and most people today are discontented. There is perhaps more complaining under the wisest and best governments today than in the more despotic ones. This seemed to be somewhat so with Israel, for they never prospered to the same extent afterwards. After their rebellion against what they considered oppression, they seemed to be less prosperous. (See Ex. 1:11 note) (Z.'04-186; R.3384)

12:5 — DEPART YET FOR THREE DAYS — The matter was too weighty to be decided hastily; he and all realized that a crisis in the affairs of the Kingdom had come. (Z.'10-377; R.4722)

12:7 — THEN THEY WILL BE THY SERVANTS FOR EVER — Instead of accumulating wealth at the capital, and being personally great, he should serve the entire nation, looking out for all of its interests and forwarding the same. (Z.'10-377; R.4722)

12:10 — THE YOUNG MEN — These young men were his schoolmates. Their advice was that the one way for a monarch to be successful is to intimidate his subjects and rule them with a heavy hand.

12:13 — FORSOOK THE OLD MEN'S COUNSEL — The young king had not been rightly taught the principles of justice. Wise as his father was he had neglected to prepare his son for the crisis before him. Pride and ambition are dangerous counsellors. (Z.'10-378; R.4723)

12:16 — WHAT PORTION HAVE WE IN DAVID? NEITHER HAVE WE INHERITANCE IN THE SON OF JESSE — “He belongs merely to the tribe of Judah.” They had evidently lost faith somewhat in the promise of a Deliverer through Judah.

SO ISRAEL DEPARTED UNTO THEIR TENTS — The answer was a foolish one. We will not claim that if the King had taken a less haughty answer the ten tribes would not have revolted, rather we believe the result would have come anyway, the tribes were ripe for it and it was of the Lord, for the Lord was overruling Israel's course so as to be typical of Spiritual Israel's course.

12:19 — ADORAM, WHO WAS OVER THE TRIBUTE — The same as mentioned in 1 Kings 4:6, who presided over the forced labor. Israel promptly resented this (See 2 Chron. 10), and after the manner of their time they stoned the messenger (for a better way see 2 Kings 6:19-23). The King then realized that the people were not only sullen, but angry and determined. (Z.'04-188; R.3386)

12:24 — FOR THIS THING IS FROM ME — See note on 2 Chron. 10:15.

12:25 — THEN JEROBOAM — An Ephrathite, 1 Kings 11:26. A prophet (Ahijah, 2 Kings 11:29) had foretold that he would be king over the 10 tribes. But he should have followed the example of David. Young David was content to wait God's time for bringing him to the throne. The fact that God had indicated that he would be king, did not indicate that the time had come; hence, David waited on the Lord and meanwhile learned valuable lessons of self-control and trust in God. Not so with Jeroboam, who was evidently of a different type of man, no doubt possessed of more confidence in himself than trust in God; possessed of more impatience to be king than of loyalty and patriotic zeal to serve God and His people. This first mistake should be noted by all. Wait ye upon me, saith the Lord. The man who ignores God is not wise, the man who opposes God is a fool. (Z. '10-378; R.4723)

Finally the boy of humble birth (1 Kings 11:26) had reached a high station of influence, a grand opportunity for service for God and for his people. (1 Kings 11:37-39) Whoever occupies a position of prominence, political, social, literary, should recognize that thereby he has come under special responsibility and obligations toward all with whom he had to do. Such opportunities should be used humbly, faithfully, as a responsibility. (Z'10-378; R.4723) Jeroboam should have set his heart to please the Lord and show gratitude and appreciation of the favor to which the Lord had called him, and determined to prove himself worthy of it if possible.

See 1 Kings 11:37-39 and note.

12:27 — IF THIS PEOPLE GO UP TO DO SACRIFICE IN THE HOUSE OF THE LORD AT JERUSALEM — By divine order Jerusalem was the center of religious service, and all the people, individually or representatively were expected to be at Jerusalem three times a year; Feast of Passover; Pentecost in June (Feast of Weeks); Feast of Tabernacles in October. (Ex. 23:14-17)

THEN SHALL THE HEART OF THIS PEOPLE TURN AGAIN UNTO THEIR LORD . . . AND GO AGAIN TO REHOBOAM — Jeroboam feared that this recognition of Jerusalem as the center of the religious interests might ultimately lead the ten tribes to long for union with Judah. Hence his arrangement to break the religious tie. (Z. '04-188; R.3386) This was his second mistake. @SECOND PAR = If I would establish my family in the Kingdom of these ten tribes I must separate them effectually from the influence of Judah. (He thus reasoned, looking not to the Lord to serve him, nor to the people to serve their best interests; he looked selfishly to his own interests). (Z. '10-379; R.4723)

12:28 — MADE TWO CALVES OF GOLD — Wood overlaid with gold. (Z. '04-189; R.3386)

IT IS TOO MUCH FOR YOU TO GO UP TO JERUSALEM — He claimed that the ten tribes had gone long enough to the farther part of the country, to Jerusalem, to worship; that it was time Israelites should recognize that their God was accessible from other quarters as well. They should feel a kind of national pride and patriotism in their religion. Craftily he did not tell them his real reason, that he feared ultimately his own rejection, and was merely strengthening his power over them and feathering his own nest. (Z. '04-188; R.3386)

BEHOLD THY GODS . . . WHICH BROUGHT THEE UP OUT OF THE LAND OF EGYPT — Jeroboam himself had been in exile in Egypt, and so had been several years under the influence of Egypt's idolatry. (Z. '98-190; R.2325)

12:29 — SET THE ONE IN BETHEL — Already sacred as scene of Jacob's dream.

THE OTHER PUT HE IN DAN — See reference on Josh. 18:30, 31. An altar had long been at Dan, contrary to the divine arrangement where certain descendants of Moses had long officiated. Jeroboam thus showed worldly wisdom in choosing places for the new religious movement, already sacred in the minds of the people. (Z. '04-188; R.3386)

12:30 — AND THIS THING BECAME A SIN — Jeroboam who made Israel to sin—23 times it is repeated of king after king in the chronicles of the Northern Kingdom.

12:31 — AN HOUSE OF HIGH PLACES — In these buildings lustful practices were carried on in the name of religion and in the manner of heathen peoples; this form of religion pandering to the fallen appetites and commending itself to the people who were not at heart religious. (Z. '10-379; R.4723)

PRIESTS . . . WHICH WERE NOT OF THE SONS OF LEVI — Not content with changing the arrangement, he changed the Priesthood also. See notes on 2 Chron. 11:13-17.

12:32 — ORDAINED A FEAST IN THE EIGHTH MONTH — His scheme was far-reaching. In addition to changing the place of gathering, and the priesthood, he changed the date for one of the gatherings; (Feast of Tabernacle); instead of the seventh month, he changed it to the eighth. (Z. '04-189; R.3386)

HE OFFERED UPON THE ALTAR — Thus a man of great opportunities and of great natural ability for serving God and his people dishonored the One and lead the other astray. The lesson to each of us should be—See thou do differently! Make not Jeroboam's mistake. (Z. '10-379; R.4723)

12:33 — HE OFFERED UPON THE ALTAR, AND BURNT INCENSE —

Craftily he perceived that by taking the High Priest's position to himself, and being both priest and king, he would attach to his own person the more of the people's reverence. This was the very matter which God had stipulated for the Israelites (keeping King and priest separate) as being more favorable to their liberties, as putting less power into the hands of their rulers; but Jeroboam's plan was to take the very step that would forward his personal interest. Similarly the Roman Emperors took to themselves the priestly office, in order more effectually to bind the people to them, and appear to be not only great military heroes, but the representatives of the gods. (Z. '04-189; R.3386) See 2 Chron. 13:4-12.

14:25 — THAT SHISHAK KING OF EGYPT CAME UP AGAINST

JERUSALEM — There has been discovered at Karnak, near Thebes, in Egypt, a splendid structure erected by the very Shishak, King of Egypt, who conquered Rehoboam, (2 Chron. 12:1-12), for the purpose of commemorating his victories. On the walls is sculptured the giant figure of the great conqueror, standing erect among the thirty-eight Kings and rulers he had subdued. Among these captives stands a Jewish figure, distinguished by his beard, with a rope around his neck to indicate he had been conquered. The Egyptian King is represented as striking down the Hebrews with a colossal club. The name of Judah appears on the sculptures. (Z. '04-363; R.3467)

16:31 — HE TOOK A WIFE JEZEBEL — Jezebel's father was a priest of Baal who murdered his father, the King of Tyre, and then succeeded him. Thus Jezebel inherited in a natural way her perverse and idolatrous disposition.

WENT AND SERVED BAAL, AND WORSHIPPED HIM — In connection with the worship human lives were sacrificed, usually children. Just as was found in Alaska, when in 1867 it came into possession of U.S., human sacrifices were frequent, particularly in connection with the laying of the foundation of a great building. (Z. '10-394; R.4729)

16:32 — AN ALTAR FOR BAAL . . . WHICH HE HAD BUILT IN

SAMARIA — Thus was the true temple at Jerusalem, the true altar of God, and the true Priesthood appointed by God, counterfeited by Ahab at the instigation of Jezebel. Similarly we have now a great counterfeit system in Christendom, Nominal Spiritual Israel, misrepresenting the true on a gorgeous scale. (Z. '04-218; R.3399)

16:34 — HIEL — "God liveth."

BETHELITE — “Bethel” means house of God, showing that the one who would make or establish would be the “living mighty one” of the “House of God.” Probably Jehovah, the self-existing one.

FOUNDATION THEREOF IN ABIRAM HIS FIRSTBORN — Foundation—the Foundation of the New Covenant Abiram means high Father, or exalted father, Jesus and the Little Flock. (Isa. 9:6) the first born.

SEGUB — means elevated.

HE SPAKE BY JOSHUA — As Joshua spoke this not of himself but of the Lord, it would seem to point to some deeper meaning, something for us.

17:1 — BEFORE WHOM I STAND — “Whose representative I am,” the Lord’s mouthpiece. The Lord might have withheld the rain without using Elijah, but then the lesson would have been measurably lost upon Israel. By sending the message in advance of the drought, it would be evident to Ahab and to all who should ever come to know of the circumstances that the drought was a judgment or punishment from the Lord for sin.

THERE SHALL NOT BE DEW NOR RAIN — “Matar,” rain. The force and appropriateness of this kind of a punishment is seen when we remember that the claim made for Baal was that he was specially the god of the forces of nature. His worship was supposed to bring increase in the home and field. The drought and famine would be a contradiction of these claims made for Baal, and would shatter faith in him, and prepare Israel to recognize and worship the true God, Jehovah. (Z. '98-191; R.2326)

So many nominal Christians now claim they must tend to their business and to money getting (Baal worship) to the exclusion of the Lord’s worship, claiming they have to; and the Lord is going to show them that the result of such a course will be great scarcity of the necessities of life in the time of trouble.

ACCORDING TO MY WORD — Doubtless Ahab considered this a vain boast. This drought was a special punishment from the Lord as in Amos 3:6.

17:3 — GET THEE HENCE . . . AND HIDE — (1) To preserve him from special persecution as the one who had brought the trouble and the one who if he would could remove it. (2) The inability of the king to find the prophet, whose word alone could according to the Lord’s arrangement, revoke the drought and famine, would cause the king and people to see that it was a judgment from the Lord, and lead them to look to the Lord for relief from their chastisements. (Z. '04-219; R.3400)

17:6 — THE RAVENS BROUGHT HIM BREAD AND FLESH — How often God has used figurative ravens and wolves to bring his children needed spiritual nourishment! How often have the trials and difficulties and persecutions of the evil one and his blinded followers been overruled of God for good to those who trust Him! See Psa. 23:5. As by the widow we often receive blessings through those not God's people, and they get a blessing too. (Z. '04-220; R.3400)

See Isaac Newton's poem on Ravens. A Missionary in India resident 30 years in the east, while not professing to know where the ravens got their food, thinks it was taken from the bazaars of Jerusalem or Jericho, because meat sellers have to be on the alert to keep crows and kites from stealing their meat. (Z. '98-191; R.2326)

HE DRANK OF THE BROOK — The Lord did not supply Elijah with luxuries (which are often a depraved taste) but only with necessities. So we should not ask nor expect more than the necessities of life. It is well with us because we are the Lord's, and all shall work out for our good. (Z. '04-219; R.3400) (1 Pet. 5:7; Phil. 4:19)

We should be content, and yet note and avail ourselves of any providential doors that the Lord might open for our betterment. Those who neglect to thus look for the Lord's blessing and guidance in their affairs are not only missing a blessing to their hearts now, but are failing to be prepared for the glorious things future. (Z. '04-219; R.3400)

17:7 — AFTER A WHILE — Spent perhaps a year here.

17:8 — THE WORD OF THE LORD CAME — Perhaps Elijah was here about two years. (Z. '98-191; R.2326)

17:10 — WENT TO ZAREPHATH — He seems to have been specially sent here in the interest of this widow. It was another instance, like Naaman, and the Syrophenician woman, of greater faith than many in Israel. She was a Gentile, crumbs of divine favor to the "dogs." It indicates to us the Lord's appreciation of well intentioned people outside Israel, although under His Covenant with Israel they were strangers. But God appreciated their faith and used them to shame Israel. (Luke 4), more worthy of divine care than many widows of Israel.

FETCH ME, I PRAY THEE, A LITTLE WATER — In eastern countries the giving of water to the thirsty is regarded as a sacred duty. A writer says, "Never yet during many years residence in Syria, and many a long day's travel have I been refused a draught of water by a single individual of any race or sect. The Bedouin in the desert has shared with me the last drop in his waterskin." (Z. '98-192; R.2326)

17:11 — BRING ME, I PRAY THEE, A MORSEL OF BREAD — If it were not for the famine probably, the woman would have been justified in asking why the man did not labor and earn his own bread, instead of asking to share her bite. But it was a time of distress and general lack of employment. (Z. '04-220; R.3400)

17:13 — BUT MAKE ME THEREOF A LITTLE CAKE FIRST — This was not because of greed or selfishness on his part, but as one feature of the lesson of faith which the Lord wished to inculcate. If she had the faith necessary to obey, she would be esteemed worthy of the Lord's blessing, if she did not exercise the faith another widow might be found who would. She had respect to Jehovah and in some manner recognized Elijah as one of His servants. (Z. '98-192; R.2326)

Perhaps this was the way Elijah was to find the right widow, as Eleazar found Rebecca (Gen. 24), the one the Lord had in mind. Similarly we ought to recognize those with whom the Lord would have us stay by their faith and generosity.

17:14 — THE BARREL OF MEAL SHALL NOT WASTE, NEITHER SHALL THE CRUSE OF OIL FAIL — The widow was not asked to exercise this faith without a definite promise from the Lord. So with us! Often God brings us to a place where we must exercise faith, if we do, we get the blessing, if not, we lose it. Also we are not to be blindly credulous respecting words and promises of man and think this to be faith in the Lord, but when we recognize the word of the Lord we are to trust it implicitly. (Z. '98-192; R.2326)

Doubtless the wealthy of Israel and Sidon could procure the necessities of life, and the burden doubtless fell most upon the poor. (Z. '04-219; R.3400)

Meal, bread of truth. Oil, Holy Spirit, so we are daily supplied with bread of truth, and also spirit of truth, which makes it nourishing and profitable to us. Oil used as butter.

17:15 — MANY DAYS — Probably two and one-half years. (Z. '04-219; R.3400) See 1 Kings 18:1.

17:16 — THE BARREL OF MEAL WASTED NOT, NEITHER DID THE CRUSE OF OIL FAIL — God is able to use any and every means he may desire in sending us his favors.

17:21 — CHILD'S SOUL — Nephesh, breath, the only thing going out of a man at death and which by reentering gives life. In Job 27:3, he says the Spirit of God was in his nostrils.

17:22 — SOUL OF THE CHILD — See comment on 1 Kings 17:21.

18:1 — IN THE THIRD YEAR — Probably the third year of his stay at Zarephath. (Z. '04-220; R. 3400)

The fourth year without rain, actually three and one-half years after the announcement to Ahab. (Luke 4:25; James 5:17)

AND I WILL SEND RAIN UPON THE EARTH — When a sufficiency of punishment had come upon the Israelites for their iniquities, when at least some of them had been called to their senses. (Z. '11-10; R. 4740)

18:2 — AND ELIJAH WENT TO SHEW HIMSELF UNTO AHAB — A less courageous man than Elijah might have hesitated, for he doubtless knew the King had searched for him in every direction. He seems to have been a most courageous servant of the Lord in executing whatever commission he received from Jehovah. He was encouraged with the thought that his mission would be a most acceptable one, since the Lord has assured him that the due time for rain had come. Probably too, his love for the people and particularly for his nation would make him glad. (Z. '04-221; R. 3401)

18:3 — NOW OBADIAH FEARED THE LORD GREATLY — Obadiah should hence be reckoned as noble, true and as a courageous servant of God in some respects, though a wide difference between Elijah and him. That he maintained his position in the King's family not only implies that his loyalty to the Lord made him a trusted and useful servant in the King's service, but also implies that in a house so given up to idolatry, he must have in a large measure put his light under a bushel, and avoided the advocacy of the truth, else he never would have been acceptable and retained his position. We may be sure that the King, and especially the Queen, never knew he hid the prophets. No doubt the Lord rewarded him for his loyalty and service and will do so. But Elijah's loyalty to God was so thoroughly tested on every possible occasion. Elijah pictures the Little Flock with whom the Lord is especially pleased. Obadiah was less courageous and in some respects weak-kneed. We rejoice with the class represented by Obadiah in their partial loyalty, but could wish them greater zeal and boldness in advocating the Lord's cause. We fear that such being ashamed of the Lord to some extent, preferring present advantages (prominent positions, good society, surrounded by luxury maintained at the expense of a failure to properly confess the Lord) will mean to such eventually the loss of the prize. This is the attitude of the Great Company. (Z. '04-221; R. 3401)

18:5 — THAT WE LOSE NOT ALL THE BEASTS — Something must be done or all the cattle would die of thirst. Apparently he was more anxious for his beasts than for the people. The loss of the beasts would impair his power and dignity as a king, and his wealth. (Z. '04-221; R.3401)

18:14 — AND HE SHALL SLAY ME — Immediately Obadiah's fear and caution came upon him as he thought of how eagerly Ahab had sought Elijah etc. The king would be angry at him for not insisting on bringing Elijah captive to the King. (Z. '04-221; R.3401)

18:17 — ART THOU HE THAT TROUBLETH ISRAEL? — Ahab was bold and defiant at first. This is the worldly custom. The fearless minister who tells the divine prophecy respecting the rewards of evil doing is held accountable as though he had caused the trouble. (Z. '11-10; R.4740)

Since the faithful mouthpieces of the Lord cannot prophecy smooth things (Isa. 30) but must present the truth in reproof of unrighteousness, therefore the world and the nominal Israelite hate them. (Z. '98-204; R.2332)

They do not seem to realize that the difficulty is with themselves and their sins and separation from the Lord.

18:19 — NOW THEREFORE SEND — The King's boldness wilted in the presence of the prophets lance-like thrust of the truth, and Elijah took the place of command.

18:20 — This was to be a challenge as between the forces of Baal represented by the King, government, heads of ten tribes and all the prophets of Baal 850. (Z. '04-222; R.3401)

The people by this time no doubt recognized the famine as more than an accident, as a judgment. But was it a judgment from Baal or from Jehovah? For the people as a result of their extended acquaintance with idolatry had a comparatively weak faith in Jehovah, who permitted no image or likeness of himself to be made or worshipped. (Z. '98-204; R.2332)

SO AHAB SENT — Evidently Ahab was considerably humbled by his experiences and was now hopeful that the difficulties would be at last adjusted. Perhaps Elijah told him that his mission was to bring blessing and refreshment through rain. At all events he did not parley. (Z. '04-222; R.3401)

Perhaps he thought that since Elijah was only one in contrast with so many priests of Baal with the heads of the ten tribes and with the King and his courtiers, and this seemed to be the only course open to secure the coveted rain. Also Elijah's claim that the drought was the penalty for idolatry seemed reasonable. (Z. '04-232; R.3406)

18:21 — The test was so fair and reasonable that the prophets of Baal could not refuse. It was an essentially appropriate test also; for Baal was the god of fertility, the sun god, etc. The 3-1/2 years of drought already testified against Baal's power to bless the fields and flocks, and now Elijah proposed that the God which answered by fire was to be held the real one. (Z. '04-232; R.3406)

18:26 — As the noonday sun shone out scorchingly in that climate, not only the stones of the altar became hot, but the fat of the slain sacrifice must have sizzled with heat and seemed to require very little to accomplish their object. (Z. '04-232; R.3406) (Z. '98-205; R.2332)

Tradition says that after the manner of many of the deceptions of heathen religions a man was placed inside the altar to set the wood on fire at the proper moment; but the legend declares, that he was afterwards found suffocated. (Z. '04-232; R.3406)

18:27 — PERADVENTURE HE SLEEPETH, AND MUST BE AWAKED

— Elijah poured upon them the sharpest sarcasm—truth not error. For our God heareth in secret. Thus he was giving to the Israelites in general the most telling lesson possible, considering their lethargy on religious subjects. He was preparing them for the final demonstration he was about to give that Jehovah is the only true God, the only God who had power to answer both by fire and by water (rain).

18:28 — TILL THE BLOOD GUSHED OUT UPON THEM — Claiming that it must be because some of them as priests of Baal, had trespassed against him that their prayers were not heard, and that Baal should thus be propitiated and hear and answer them.

18:29 — THE TIME OF THE OFFERING OF THE EVENING

SACRIFICE — Elijah then proposed that in the cool of the evening, assuring the people that Jehovah who had withheld the rain would demonstrate His power.

18:30 — REPAIRED THE ALTAR OF THE LORD THAT WAS BROKEN

DOWN — Typifying the recalling attention to Christ as the Redeemer and Savior, our Altar, which Papacy, had torn down, “base of Sanctuary overthrown” by doctrine of Mass, worship of Mary, Confessional.

18:31 — TOOK TWELVE STONES — Ex. 24:4; Josh. 4:3, 8, 9, 20. Showing that Jehovah should be the God of the ten tribes as well as of the two. It would also bring to their minds the time when Israel was united and they had God's rich blessing. It would make them more repentant and contrite.

18:33, 34 — Four buckets of water, four Gospels and four Attributes of God. Trench, earth land redeemed. Two measures of seed, heavenly and earthly. Water poured three times, pouring out of truth in Jewish, Gospel and Millennial ages. Also pouring out of Holy Spirit at (1) Jesus' baptism, (2) Pentecost, (3) to world in Millennium. Altar, the Ransom.

18:34 — AND THEY DID IT THE THIRD TIME — No one must have room to say that there was a secret smoulder of fire underneath. And since the sun had gone down none could claim a spontaneous combustion. (Z. '11-10; R.4740)

18:36 — I HAVE DONE ALL THESE THINGS AT THY WORD — This is a beautiful prayer. Elijah did not say, — “Oh, Lord, cause all Israel to know how great I, Elijah, am, as a prophet of the Lord.” He had no boastful spirit of pride in connection with his mission, but that humbly he recognized that he was merely a servant of the Lord. His desire was not personal display of power but the blessing of the nation and the drawing of their hearts to the Lord.

18:38 — DUST — Earth used as mortar.

18:40 — SLEW THEM THERE — This was not cruelty or persecution. They had been fairly tried and according to Jewish Law were condemned to death as traitors. (Deut. 13:6-11) God had special dealing with the Israelites. Elijah as the divine mouthpiece of the occasion was fully commissioned to carry out the divine execution, against these men, who had so baneful an influence over Israel, leading them from light to darkness, from God's worship to idolatry. This is not a pattern for any today. According to all laws of men, traitors are worthy of death. However there is a higher law than ours which we must recognize. It must be admitted that God is the proper judge of the whole world, and it is with Him to say who may live and who may not. The death of these was a type of the second death of all wilful sinners, rebels against God, but these priests did not die the second death. They will come up in the resurrection and be fully enlightened and given a full opportunity to know and return to God. (Z. '04-233; R 3406; Z. '11-10; R.4740)

18:41 — GET THEE UP, EAT AND DRINK — In olden times it was the custom when a sacrifice was offered (general one) that it was followed by a feast. Apparently while the sacrificing was in progress a feast had been prepared, at the mountain top, and to this Ahab went. Ahab and his associates might much better have spent the time in fasting and prayer for divine forgiveness for the idolatry which had brought upon them the drought. Nevertheless the Lord did not urge upon them any avowals of sorrow which they did not volunteer themselves. Herein is one of the differences between the Lord's people and others. The Lord's people feel so aggrieved at their failures that they are promptly led to the throne of grace to find grace to help in future times of need, but others take their failures lightly and fail to profit by them accordingly. (Z. '04-234; R.3407)

18:42 — AND ELIJAH WENT UP TO THE TOP OF CARMEL — While the king and elders went to feast, Elijah went to pray for the rain. He did not pray for it until he understood that the Lord's time had come, then he prayed with all earnestness and expectancy and confidence. Just so with us in prayer. God has definitely promised, and these we may as positively expect and appropriately request; other things not promised we should not expect. (Z. '04-234; R.3407)

We should ask only those things which He has already declared to be pleased to grant to us. We may not pray for the conversion of our friends. For Jesus set us no such example, but we may properly pray for wisdom and grace upon our hearts and upon our lips to know how to present the Lord's message clearly, forcefully, convincingly to those we love and desire to see brought under the influence of the truth. (Z. '04-234; R.3407)

18:43 — GO AGAIN SEVEN TIMES — Having been used of the Lord so mightily, Elijah might have begun to feel too much of his own importance, if his prayer for rain had been too promptly responded to. Opportunity was given for doubt and fear that the Lord would fail to keep His engagement about the rain. But Elijah did not doubt, he knew the sureness of the Lord's word. "Men ought continually to pray and not to faint." (Luke 18:1) He that seeketh the spirit of holiness, the showers of divine grace, findeth them. (Z. '98-206; R.2332)

18:46 — RAN BEFORE AHAB — Elijah, apparently endowed with supernatural power, ran ahead of the king's horses as an act of courtesy, and as showing that he as a servant of God nevertheless recognized Ahab as king of the nation. Thus to some extent the shame and confusion of the king's position during the day was offset on his return home. (Z. '04-234; R.3407)

The Elijah class have the lessons of courage and faith and trust to be strong in the Lord and in the power of His might. Let us speak His word plainly and show forth on every occasion (suitable) and by every proper means the glories of Him who hath called us out of the darkness into His marvellous light. It is not for us to put to death the enemies of the Truth as did Elijah, but it is for us to slay and expose utterly the error and follies which are deceiving the people. The Lord's little ones may be mighty through His power to the pulling down of strongholds of error and turning back the tide of deception and sin from those in a reasonable attitude of mind to receive the truth—those merely deceived into error and not willingly and willfully its followers and beneficiaries.

Infidelity in our day is calling on many to worship the god of nature, and through Higher Criticism and Evolution, the priests of error are misleading and deceiving many in spiritual Israel who really desire to know the truth. The Lord today is making an exhibit between truth and error, in many respects as astonishing and miraculous as that made at Elijah's hands. Let us decline henceforth to recognize the errors of Babylon and the messages of her prophets now forever to be false. It is time for all to decide whether they will worship the Lord or false systems of error. (Z. '04-235; R.3407)

19:2 — The influence of slavery and superstition could not easily be eradicated. Reform was not accomplished, only commenced. The people were lacking in those qualities of liberty and nobility of mind essential to a quick and thorough reform. They lacked the courage of their convictions, and were easily brought under the influence of that wicked woman Jezebel, whose evil spirit and self-will were so persistent.

IF I MAKE NOT THY LIFE AS THE LIFE OF ONE OF THEM BY TOMORROW ABOUT THIS TIME — This was probably merely a threat intended to drive Elijah out of the kingdom, so that she might the better overthrow the reform movement so recently begun. Had she not become fearful that the killing of Elijah might bring some bad result, insurrection of the people or divine judgment, no doubt she would have ordered him to be killed, instead of telling him what she would do twenty-four hours later. (Z. '98-206; R.2333)

Jezebel was probably at heart afraid to have an encounter with the man, who, as God's representative was able to do such things testified to by her husband and by the rain. She was too shrewd to risk defeat and her course prospered. (Z. '04-236; R.2408)

19:3 — HE . . . WENT FOR HIS LIFE — It is useless for us to speculate how Elijah might have done otherwise. God was using him as a type:

Jezebel—Church of Rome.

Ahab—Civil power of Roman Empire, the agent of the antitypical Jezebel to accomplish her desires. (Rev. 17:6; 18:24)

Elijah — Church in the flesh (John the Baptist was a fresh type corresponding to Elijah). The Elijah class prophesied the drought. Paul and John prophesied of the antitypical drought. The Elijah class disappeared about A.D. 300 and were not seen for 3-1/2 symbolic years, about the time of the Reformation 1550 A.D. The drought really began 539 A.D. and copious refreshing showers came 3-1/2 (symbolic) years later in 1799 A.D. This period is mentioned in Rev. 12:6, 14; 13:5. With the reappearance of the Elijah class prominently before the world (Luther's time) we have some measure of reassertion of the proper worship of God. The Reformation work to 1799 was preparatory, just as the work of Elijah on Mt. Carmel with Baal priests was preparatory. Then followed the great shower of blessing, scattering the Word of God through the whole world in every language. Nearly all the present Bible societies were organized between 1803 and 1815. The civil governments (Ahab) has to a considerable extent recognized the general truth of the matter, but they are more or less closely associated with and under the influence of Jezebel; and, alas! as Revelation points out, she has daughters who partake largely of her spirit, (and the Elijah class again have to flee into the wilderness. B256) These later persecutions, some still future, are represented in John the Baptist, beheaded by Herod at the insistence of Salome, but at the instigation of Herodias (Jezebel).

19:4 — TAKE AWAY MY LIFE; FOR I AM NOT BETTER THAN MY FATHERS — Why thus flee from death and yet pray the Lord for it? So amongst the Lord's people some of strong faith at times become discouraged, panic stricken, fearful; and for a moment seem to forget whose servants they are, and the almighty power behind them, able and willing to make all things work for the good of His faithful ones. In point of fact all God's consecrated people devoted their lives to sacrifice when they became followers of the Lamb, and if they could but realize their consecration continually they would be ready for the end at any moment. Not a hair of their heads can fall without their Father's knowledge and permission. Their attitude should be that of our Redeemer. (Z.'04-237; R.3408) "The cup which my Father hath poured, shall I not drink of it?"

19:5 — AND HE LAY AND SLEPT UNDER A JUNIPER TREE — Elijah's discouragement may have been a natural consequence of the tension under which he had been for some time laboring in his zeal for the truth. (Z.'04-236; R.3408)

How severe his disappointment was, we may judge—3-1/2 years of preparation for this reform movement, and it had been started so favorably with so pronounced results—and now to have it all seem to fail, was very discouraging. (Z.'98-206; R.2333)

But the Lord did not even chide the prophet for his fear, realizing better than Elijah the physical exhaustion he experienced in connection with his great work. So Elijah was permitted to take a rest.

19:6 — CAKE — Bread 1/4" thick and somewhat in the form of a pancake, baked on heated pebbles. Symbol of our spiritual food, Christ and God's word.

WATER — Truth.

DID EAT AND DRINK, AND LAID . . . DOWN — However earnest the Lord's people may be, they need rest and food and these cannot be neglected with impunity if we would be strong and courageous in mind and heart. (Z. '04-237; R.3408) The Lord did not provide dainties, but bread and water. So is our promise.

AND HE LOOKED . . . AND DID EAT AND DRINK, AND LAID HIM DOWN AGAIN — The true church had become discouraged and inclined to give up. The awakening at first represents or parallels the Miller movement, as in the parable of the ten virgins, but the Lord did not come, and then the true church fell asleep again.

19:7 — ARISE AND EAT — The second awakening parallels the harvest message of the presence of Christ and the food is the spiritual food of the church.

JOURNEY TOO GREAT — Church would need the special food of the Harvest to complete her journey, to do the work of Harvest and reach the kingdom.

19:8 — STRENGTH — Of the Harvest message.

FORTY DAYS — Forty years of Harvest 1874 to 1914.

HOREB — His reaching Horeb would seem to typify the church reaching its Zion Hill in 1878 and on. (Z. '98-207; R.2333)

This type is of the Heavenly Phase of the kingdom and the end of the journey and the end of the Harvest, the closing of the door, and the glorification of the church. Then follows the wars which weaken the nations, then the social earthquake, and then destructive anarchy, and last the quiet small voice of God speaking peace to the people.

19:9 — WHAT DOEST THOU HERE — He seems to have had no special aim or purpose in mind, simply dwelt in a cave there.

19:10 — I, EVEN I ONLY, AM LEFT — The church here is typified in Elijah. See verse 18.

19:11-14 — That he had tried to do all he could, but apparently everything was wrecked, and the people had lost their faith and courage in the Lord and that seemingly nothing could be done to help them. The Lord purposed to give Elijah a little lesson on various methods of work. (Z. '98-207; R.2333)

19:11 — WIND — It was merely a manifestation of power of God. Winds = wars whose dark clouds have threatened the civilized world for forty years, have been miraculously hindered, that God's people might all be "sealed in their foreheads" (intellectually) with Present Truth. When these are loosed it will mean a cataclysm of warfare, rending the kingdoms (mountains), and rending the rocks (unions, organizations entered into for protection. Rev. 6:15-17; Isa. 2:19-21; Hos. 10:8) But God's Kingdom will not follow the epoch of war, the world will not thus be made ready for the reigning of Christ. No, a further lesson will be needed and will be given. (Z. '98-208; R.2334)

Windy strife of words, coming even as a hurricane (Psa. 31:20; Job 5:21), bringing devastation to the present order of society, is not the voice of God, but the voice of humanity. (Z. '11-13; R.4741)

EARTHQUAKE — This was merely a manifestation of God's power. Earthquake is Revolution. It is not unreasonable to expect that an era of general warfare would so arouse the lower classes of Europe and so discontent them with their lot (especially with the conditions which would follow such a war) that revolution would be the next thing in order. If so this would seem to be the one referred to in Rev. 16:18. But severe as those experiences will be to the world, they are not sufficient to prepare men to hear the voice of God. (Z. '98-208; R.2334).

The earthquake, represents a time of great social unrest, upheaval, is not God's message to Elijah, but another power He has in the world, by which ultimately the present order of things will give way before the Kingdom of Christ. (Z. '11-13; R.4741)

19:12 — FIRE — A wonderful display of celestial fire, lightning. An Epoch of divine judgments and chastisements upon a maddened but unconverted world, wild, in anarchy. The result of wars and revolution and anarchy—the failure of their schemes and the lessons of Divine Judgments, will have an exhausting and humbling effect and prepare mankind for God's revelation of Himself. (Z. '98-208; R.2334)

The fire is not the Lord (rep. consumption, destruction, anarchy), but merely human passions which He will permit. (Z. '11-13; R.4741)

A STILL SMALL VOICE — In a great stillness he heard a small voice speaking to him. The difficulty with mankind is in great part, their ignorance of God. And they fail to know Him, partly at least, because of their high opinion of themselves, their own wisdom and ability to get along without God. They will soon learn to the contrary and will then be willing to hearken to divine wisdom and say "(Isa. 2:3; Mic. 4:2)." After every hope of man in his own power is gone—the still (quiet, peaceful, gentle) small voice is heard. As is pictured in Psa. 46. He who spoke to the winds and waves of the Sea of Galilee, will in due time "Speak peace to the people." Hewill speak with authority, commanding the observance of His long neglected Law of Love. (Z. '98-208; R.2334)

The Elijah class are to understand God through the still, small voice, the voice of truth, the voice of God's Word, speaking to His people most wonderfully yet unheard by the antitypical Ahab and Jezebel and others, intended now to the Elijah class.

The same thought of fire followed by the still small voice is in Zeph. 3:8, 9; Psa. 46.

19:13 — ELIJAH HEARD IT . . . AND STOOD IN THE ENTERING IN OF THE CAVE — Elijah recognized this to be the power of God for bringing blessings and fulfilling His promises to the seed of Abraham and through it to all the families of the Earth. We are not informed what the voice said to Elijah, but it had an influence upon him that all the manifestations of power did not have. He learned the lesson designed. Perhaps the small voice told Elijah that he should have had greater faith in God and should have remained at his post, in spite of Jezebel's threats and that the Lord could have delivered him from her power. Are we discouraged in His service? Have we been fleeing from the Lord's enemies? Having begun in the Spirit are we hoping, contrary to His Word to find earthly blessings and victories? Has our courage deserted us? After being courageous for the Lord and His Truth and His people are we in danger of being put to flight by any woman or man or any creature? Shall we receive of His marks of kindness and provision for our necessities of Spiritual food, yet doubt His care to and ability to supervise our temporal interests? Let us learn this lesson here. His grace is sufficient for us. Never the less He will be inquired of for these things by us. (Z. '98-207; R.2333)

WHAT DOEST THOU HERE, ELIJAH? — The Lord thus intimated that he was doing nothing, and not in a place where he could do anything. The lesson taught him that he had discontinued the Lord's work, and for the time was out of service. He had expected the reformation to go forward like a terrific windstorm, or earthquake, or like the fiery lightnings, and when it did not take such form he fled, discouraged. Now he was to understand that reformation was to work more secretly, quietly, in the hearts of the people before it would give great outward manifestations. (Z. '98-221; R.2521; Z. '98-207; R.2333)

So God always works, from the heart outward striking first at the root, and the outward results follow naturally; but man looks for outward results too soon.

Some men are claiming that the conversion of the World will come in a grand success quickly, and do not heed the still small voice, and so will be bitterly disappointed. The great antitypical Jezebel, the Mother of harlots alarmed the reformers of the 16th century and caused them to flee, and to desert some of the principles of the reformation for fear of the consequences. Yet in the Lord's due time, the antitypical Elijah, the church, was refreshed in spirit, and learned the lesson that God's revolutions were not to be expected along the lines of wholesale conversions to the truth, from sin to righteousness, but was to be inculcated gradually, and was to do its work among the people as the still small voice of God, of conscience. It is along these lines the truth has been progressing for the last three hundred years. (Z. '98-221; R.2521)

19:15 — SYRIA — For some reason the Lord seems to have had more interest in Syria than in the other nations of the world outside of Israel and Judah. The reason probably lies in the fact that King David conquered Syria, and incorporated it as part of the twelve tribe kingdom (and it so continued during Solomon's reign.) It was thus considerably permeated with Israelitish influence. Syria seems to have regained its independence in the revolt of the ten tribes from the two. More than any other Gentile nation the Lord seemed to have an oversight over Syria. (Z. '98-233; R.2346) See 2 Kings 5.

These interferences on God's part were not by way of bringing salvation to the heathens thus, but merely part and parcel of His dealings with Israel, their preparation to receive. When the Lord's due time shall come for a full interference, it will be on a far different scale than anything hitherto done and will be fully effective in putting down all authority and power opposed to Him. (Z. '04-298; R.3438) The Lord used outside nations as servants or tools or types.

19:18 — SEVEN THOUSAND IN ISRAEL — Elijah was doubtless surprised at this. So now there are thousands in the Nominal systems who are not in sympathy with the errors there taught, who are merely confused and blinded by the misrepresentations of divine character. So the Elijah class have come to understand that there is an important work yet to be accomplished by it in the world. So too the Elijah class about 1878-81 have been encouraged by the unfolding of the divine word, that the blessings and reformation of the world will all come about in God's due time and manner. (Z. '04-250; R.3415)

The discouragement of Elijah and his flight represent the discouragement of many of God's people from 1844 to now, in view of the rising power of Papacy and the tendency of many so called Protestants to sympathize with Papal methods, and the general loss of faith in the Ransom for all.

Elijah's lesson typifies one to us now. Protestants obtained from Papacy the false idea that the whole world must be converted in this age. Facts have brought discouragement and dismay, and perplexity. Our work now is to keep at work undiscouraged and revive the fainting. His revealed plan shows that first God's power must be shown and then He will speak to the people by the still small voice of the Truth. (Z. '98-208; R.2334)

So today there are two classes in Spiritual Israel. One class is in the wilderness condition separate from the world. The other, a large class is still more or less associated with and bound up in Babylon, although at heart they do not acknowledge any but the true God, nor bow the knee to others. (Z. '11-13; R.4741)

These may, in connection with Elijah, represent the Great Company. 7,000 are these at the end of the Gospel Age, who will be left and at heart not servers of Baal, Papacy, or Babylon. See vs. 10 and Ex. 15:27.

19:19 — SO HE DEPARTED THENCE — Elijah returned to Israel apparently paid no attention to the threats of Jezebel, but prosecuting a work of arousing true faith in the true God. (Z. '04-250; R.3415)

20:15 — ISRAEL — Israel here would represent God's people, or the honest, holy, reverential of men.

20:16 — BEN-HADAD . . . AND THIRTY-TWO KINGS — These would correspond to Satan and his hosts. We may name these hosts as we please. To some one portion and to others other portions would seem worse. Many of these kings may represent various trusts, which by manipulation of life's necessities, are attacking the welfare of the people. Others may represent political grafters; others various vices which prey upon the public, including intemperance. The forces thus set in array of battle against the public are appalling especially when the wealth at their command is considered. The demands of these various interests come first upon the honorable and well meaning public servants. These, like Ahab, would be inclined to submit, even ignominiously, if thereby the public would be safe guarded. But when the demands broaden and it is evident that general pillage is intended, the voice of the Lord should be heard and heeded, and a stout resistance be made. As with Ahab the resistance should not be merely defensive. The call is for the princes, chiefs of the people who love righteousness, to go out first to do battle with all iniquitous invaders of the rights, happiness, and interests of the people; and these who stand for righteousness should be able, seconded by all the courageous and efficient of the people who love the same standards. (Z. '11-44; R.4759)

21:1 — PALACE OF AHAB — Perhaps this was the "Ivory Palace" mentioned in 1 Kings 22:39. (See Z. '15-284; R.5770, 5771)

21:3 — THE LORD FORBID ME — The Lord's regulations forbade him to sell his family inheritance. (Num. 36:7-9, see margin)

21:4 — AND AHAB CAME . . . HEAVY AND DISPLEASED — The crime of covetousness is now not only general and common, but almost approved as proper. It seems to be generally practiced and almost without a suspicion of its being wrong, sinful, condemned by the Lord and fruitful of many evil works of the flesh and devil.

It leads one workman to disparage the work or character of another in order to have favor with his overseer in hope of personal advancement. In society it works stealthily, fearing lest it react upon the covetous one. Hence, the effort to undermine the character of another and thereby advance ones own interests into the good graces of others, is ably assisted by its yokefellow, hypocrisy.

In business, a man becomes successful, and covetous neighbors set up a competing business as they would have a full right to do. But suppose then that the latter coveting the whole trade, attempts sharp practices, selling things below cost, interfering with the other's credit at the bank, or slandering the other—this would be the same kind of covetousness as that of Ahab.

A storekeeper doing a good business was offered a certain thing at a less price than he had been paying under a three years' contract. He accepted. The person who had been selling him this in the past was angry, covetous of the trade. He set up a competing business and sold goods at a loss, as he could afford to do, being wealthy, until the first storekeeper failed for lack of business. Then the new store was closed down, because it had affected its work as a business assassin. It had killed Naboth. (Z. '11-14; R.4742; Z. '98-220; R.2340)

It is even in the Church of God which is not yet free from those who have this covetous disposition. It inspires many of the petty jealousies, envyings, strifes as to which should be greater.

TURNED AWAY HIS FACE AND WOULD EAT NO BREAD — He was sour, his whole frame poisoned with envy and covetousness. "Covetousness is like the drinking of salt waters of the sea, which only increases thirst; or like piling wood on the fire, which only makes it burn the more fierce; or like climbing higher, which only widens the horizon of the desires." (Z. '98-221; R.2340)

21:7 — AND JEZEBEL . . . SAID . . . I WILL GIVE THEE THE VINEYARD — Jezebel here shows herself, if we had no other record of her evil way, as a most diabolical woman. The tenderness which belongs to her sex had entirely given place to envy, pride and ambition, incident to her great exaltation to power as the wife of Ahab. She was ready to instigate perjury, foulest of murder to gratify her whims, or to please those who truckled to her vanity. (Z. '98-219; R.2339)

21:9 — PROCLAIM A FAST — Making a mockery of religion.

SET NABOTH ON HIGH AMONG THE PEOPLE — Acting hypercritically toward their neighbor.

21:10 — AND SET TWO MEN, SONS OF BELIAL — Two worthless scamps, presumably by bribery. (Z. '11-14; R.4742)

AND STONE HIM — The penalty for blasphemy, see reference.

21:11 — DID AS JEZEBEL HAD SENT UNTO THEM — Showing the terrible degradation the people of Israel and their elders, who were presumably of average or more than average intelligence, had descended, doing this in utter disregard of their own consciences and of justice. It is doubtful whether our disgust should be greater with the queen who instigated the evil, or with the elders who so supinely became her tools to accomplish it. This shows that where a people lose sight of the grand teachings of the law of God, and come under the influence of the devil through other religions, there is no knowing where the corruption of morals will end. All sense of justice and right seems to become obliterated in proportion as people are separated from the Lord, and His Word. (Z. '98-219; R.2339)

21:16 — TO TAKE POSSESSION OF IT — The king seems to have had no qualms of conscience, but in some respects as bad as the queen but with less courage. (Z. '11-14; R.4742)

Ahab fully endorsed the conduct of Jezebel, by accepting the fruits of her villainy, and this fact with the fact that the Lord sent the reproof as much to Ahab as to Jezebel, leaves room for the inference that he had intentionally worked upon the feelings of Jezebel, with a view of getting her (more courageous for wickedness than himself) to devise and carry out plans for the satisfaction of his covetous designs. So today many feel free to covet the possessions of others—social, religious, financial or otherwise—and to take possession, but they strive to have the dirtiest part of the work done by others, or at least not directly by themselves. Such share every crime to which their covetousness, by any road leads others. (Z. '98-220; R.2340) As though he did not recognize that there is a God of justice to whom he must ultimately account. (Z. '11-14; R.4742)

21:20 — O MINE ENEMY — Note how inclined Ahab was to ignore the Lord and think merely of the prophet. (Z. '11-14; R.4742)

HAST SOLD THYSELF — He did not realize that in leaving the Lord, and doing evil he was selling himself as a slave and would have hard work to get free. So every one who willingly does what he knows to be wrong, sells himself for a little self gratification. (John 8:34; Rom. 6:16; 2 Pet. 2:19) See John 8:34 note.

21:21 — I WILL BRING EVIL — Not sin but trouble, retribution.

21:27 — FASTED AND LAY IN SACKCLOTH — Ahab was learning to have great confidence in the word of Elijah, and in the power of Jehovah. (Z. '98-221; R.2340)

21:28 — THE WORD OF THE LORD CAME TO ELIJAH — And was probably sent to Ahab.

21:29 — I WILL NOT BRING EVIL IN HIS DAYS — The fact that sinners may for a time go unpunished is not a sign of weakness on God's part, but of patience and forbearance—"not willing that any should perish," but in due time He will reward both the well-doer and the evil-doer. (Z. '98-221; R.2340) (Rom. 9:22-25; 2 Pet. 3:9; Matt. 16:27; 2 Cor. 5:10)

It should be remarked that now as in the past the Lord is not acting as a policeman to safeguard the world against its own fallen conditions, appetites, covetousness, etc. For 6,000 years the Lord seems to have contented Himself with letting mankind learn their own lessons, except so far as their course of sin might interfere with the outworking of God's great plans. In such cases the sentiment of the Lord seems to have been—"Thus far shalt thou go and no farther." Undoubtedly the permission to mankind to do great injury to themselves is a very practical way of teaching certain lessons. Now God seemed to be bidding the angels to no longer restrain but to let loose the four winds of heaven—to allow mankind to engage in universal strife, unhindered, the result is the most stupendous of wars, impoverishing all nations engaged therein costing millions of lives in the flower of manhood, and entailing debts, to pay interest on which will impoverish the people for long years to come, debts which probably never can be paid. The Bible indicates that following the war will come a great revolution, and then anarchy. The winds of strife now let loose may be expected to injure the world, unrestrained by the Almighty, until in man's extremity God's opportunity will come and the Kingdom of Messiah will be established for the blessing of the world. Then everything will be changed. No longer will sins be permitted and punishments follow; but instead punishments will be inflicted upon those who attempt to do evil, before they shall have done the evil. (Isa. 11:9; 26:9) In that glorious time all good intentions and good endeavors will have God's blessing and will uplift mentally, morally and physically those participating. (Z. '15-284; R.5771)

22:22 — I WILL BE A LYING SPIRIT IN THE MOUTH OF ALL HIS PROPHETS — See:

1 Sam. 19:9; 1 Sam. 16:14-23	(Saul);
Judges 9:23	(Abimelech)
1 Sam. 8:1-22	(Saul, Israel chooses king, disobedience)
1 Sam. 15:1-10, 11, 17	(Saul's change from obedience)
1 Sam. 22	(Saul's murderous hatred)
Matt. 12:24-32	(wilful sin)
Heb. 10:26-31	(wilful sin—mire)
Heb. 6:4	(wilful sin—doctrine)
1 Sam. 10:5, 6	(Saul's early humility)

These disobeyed so continuously and wilfully that they became obsessed by demons. (Luke 22:3; Judas) See Ex. 10:9, 11; Isa. 14; Ezek. 28; Jer. 25:5-17; Psa. 78:49.

II KINGS

2: — See Z. '15-285; R.5771.

2:1 — WHEN THE LORD WOULD TAKE UP ELIJAH — This would evidently be the Harvest time of the Gospel Age, for the time (period) of the deliverance of the church could not be until then. So the following dates all are properly placed in the Harvest. (See notes on Gilgal, Bethel, and Jordan in vss. 1, 2, and 6. Also Jericho in vs. 4. These notes are from Z. '15-286; R.5772)

These words suggest that Elijah had a specially protected life, not subject to the power of his enemies. So of the antitypical Elijah—Jesus the head. The Scribes and Pharisees made many attempts at his life before the successful one, but could not harm him previously for “his hour had not yet come.” (John 7:30; 8:20; 18:6; Matt. 26:53, 55; Luke 22:53; John 12:23). Also the Church, his body, not even a hair on their heads could fall without divine permission, all of their affairs are under divine guidance, and he will overrule them all for their good. (Luke 21:18; Rom. 8:28) (Z. '22-26)

ELIJAH AND ELISHA — See Z. '04-218, 219, 221, 232-237; R.3400, 3401, 3406, 3407, 3408; also Z. '11-10; R.4740; also Z. '11-13; R.4741; also

Z. '11-42-44; R.4757-59; also Z. '98-191, 192, 206, 207; R.2326, 2333; also Z. '04-252, 280; R.3416, 3429; also Z. '15-285; R.5771; Z. '16-4, 5, 38, 39; R.5824, 5845; also Z. '22-26, 27.

GILGAL — (Means “circle”; Galilee means “circuit.”) Would seem to represent the beginning of the Harvest time, Oct. 1874. That date prominently marked in the Bible (Dan 12:12) was looked forward to by many Bible Students with deep interest as the possible time when the church would be completed—although nothing in the Bible so declares. The inference was clearly deducible, but there was no positive statement as to the church’s change being accomplished then. Some measure of disappointment was felt when expectations were not realized. Nevertheless, the Elijah class started for the next point accompanied by so many others as were worthy of being accounted of the antitypical Elisha class. (Z. '15-286; R.5772)

2:2 — ELIJAH SAID UNTO ELISHA, TARRY HERE — Elijah’s suggestion that Elisha tarry may imply that Elisha was discouraged and had lost faith in the journey. But no! he went on.

THE LORD HATH SENT ME TO BETHEL — These visits to the schools of the Prophets had doubtless a good effect upon these students of the Lord’s word, who well knew the aged prophet, and his allegiance to God, and God’s power manifested through him. This last visit would be impressed upon their minds and go with them to the various cities of Israel in due time. Meantime the revelation which had been given them that God intended to take away Elijah by a whirlwind, would prepare them for this final miracle. (Z. '04-252; R.3416)

I WILL NOT LEAVE THEE — Elisha here would represent a consecrated class of this harvest time, but somewhat inferior to the Elijah class (Little Flock)—the Great Company. These invitations for Elisha to tarry, would represent trials and difficulties in the pathway of the Church, that would suggest to the Elisha class that they follow no further their more zealous Brethren of the Elijah class. (Z. '11-42; R.4757)

So there will come various siftings and testings to this class of inferior consecration to separate them from the Company and fellowship of the Elijah class. Whoever will fall away in this sifting and testing will cease to belong to the Elisha class. Those who endure the siftings and testings will thus maintain their position in the Great Company and some will thus continue down to the very close of Elisha’s experience and will then in consequence receive a great blessing, a double portion of the Elijah spirit. (Z. '04-252; R.3416)

These attempts to have him stop were with a view to test his earnestness and fidelity. Had he stopped he would not have received the great blessing he later got. (Z.'98-222; R.2341)

BETHEL — The Spring of 1878 corresponded to Bethel. Considerable interest attached to that date on the part of many Bible Students. It was clearly seen to be the time parallel to the Lord's assuming his Kingly office in the end of the Jewish age and saying to the Jewish nation—"Your house is left unto you desolate" (Luke 13:34) and the time of our Lord's resurrection. It was not unreasonable to think of that scripturally marked date as the time for the church's glorification, although the Lord did not directly promise this. But a blessing came to all who received their disappointment in a proper spirit. (Z.'15-286; R.5772)

2:3 — THE SONS OF THE PROPHETS — Elijah had re-established "the schools of the prophets"—gatherings of young men desirous of studying the Law and appreciating the divine will. Thus we see that the awakening at Mt. Carmel, witnessed by the heads of all the ten tribes of Israel, bore its fruit; idolatry was at a discount thereafter. Jezebel and Ahab did not have it in their power to oppose or destroy these schools of the Prophets, and the general reformation work which Elijah was doing. He is supposed to have continued their work for some ten years or more, after his return from Mt. Sinai and before he was taken up. (Z.'04-250; R.3415)

These schools were of piously inclined young men who sought instruction in the divine Law under those recognized as prophets, with a view of becoming doctors or expounders of the Law of God in their own cities. (Z.'04-252; R.3416)

AND HE (ELISHA) SAID, YEA, I KNOW IT; HOLD YE YOUR PEACE — Evidently Elisha was filled with sorrow at the thought of the loss he was about to sustain, for everything indicates that during the ten years or more that he had been Elijah's servant and collaborer in the prophetic office, a strong personal attachment had sprung up between the two men, who in some respects were very dissimilar. (Z.'04-252; R.3416; Z.'22-27) (See notes on 1 Kings 19:19-21)

2:4 — JERICHO — Corresponds to 1881. That was the date parallel to the time when the door was thrown open to the Gentiles, and Cornelius, the first Gentile convert was received into the family of God. We assumed that this might mean a change of dispensation here, and that the glorification of the Church was typed. We were mistaken in that supposition but received a great blessing and went on. (Z.'15-286; R.5772)

2:6 — JORDAN — Corresponded to Oct. 1914, the close of the Times of the Gentiles. Many Bible Students are thoroughly convinced that the 2520 years from Zedekiah's day to Oct. 1914 ended there. That date marked the end of God's lease of world power to the Gentiles. They are convinced that the war was the result, and that its ultimate conclusion would be the complete overthrow of all the kingdoms of the world and the full establishment of Messiah's Kingdom in the control of Earth. The Lord did not say the church would be glorified before (or at) the end of the Gentile Times. Yet such a thought seemed not unreasonable in view of many scriptures. Not disconcerted, Bible Students are going on even as Elijah and Elisha went on after crossing the Jordan. They are not however headed for any particular date, even as Elijah was not directed to go to any other place. Simply they went on waiting for the Lord to fulfill His promise of taking Elijah in his own time and way. (Z. '15-286; R.5772)

2:7 — FIFTY MEN OF THE SONS OF THE PROPHETS — While modestly refraining from following with Elijah, they yet were deeply interested in the event they knew was about to take place. From this point they witnessed what happened. (Z. '04-252; R.3416)

THEY TWO STOOD BY JORDAN — Probably very near the point where Joshua had been used of God to cause a like miracle, and this was perhaps near Mt. Nebo where the chariots met them, where Moses died. (Z. '04-252; R.3416)

2:9 — DOUBLE PORTION — Not twice as much as Elijah himself had, but twice as much as any other one (the portion of the first born, see margin and Z. '11-63, letter two; R.4771) not selfishly, but that he appreciated Elijah's character and position as servant of God, and desired that as far as possible he might enter into a similar work of service. His request was granted conditionally, but it was told that it would be dependent upon his own watchfulness.

This was a familiar way of expressing an elder sons' portion, double as compared with other members of the family. Elisha aspired to have of the Lord a recognition as the Lord's special representative instead of Elijah, when the latter was gone. This seems to imply that circumstances or conditions would tend to separate the two, and if they were separated from any cause Elisha would fail of the blessing desired. (Z. '22-27). It is an interesting fact that Elisha performed just twice as many miracles as Elijah. (Elijah. 1 and 2 Kings)

2:10 — IF THOU SEE ME WHEN I AM TAKEN FROM THEE, IT SHALL BE SO UNTO THEE — So now the Elisha class will need to be on the alert if they would discern the passing away of the Elijah class, and only in proportion as they do discern this will they become recipients of a proportionately large measure of the spirit and zeal of the Elijah class. From the scriptures we get the thought that after the Elijah class is completed, tested, proven and glorified, there will still be a work during the period before the full end of the present evil world in the time of trouble. During that period the Elisha class—consecrated but lacking in some measure the full spirit of devotion shown by the Little Flock—will be quickened and energized by the change of dispensation and the evidences of the fulfilling of the divine plan, so that thereafter they will be practically as devoted, self-sacrificing and zealous every way as the Elijah class had been.

2:11 — A CHARIOT OF FIRE — Now as to the meaning of the fire and chariot of Fire always representing destruction, and a chariot of fire would seem to indicate some very trying experiences that would separate the Elijah class from the Elisha class and bring the deliverance of the Elijah class. Bro. Russell are you not afraid of alarming us? No. We are all desirous of getting into the Lord's chariot, surely. It is the best thing in all the world but it means trouble! Well, we desire trouble, if this trouble be our chariot to take us home. We are waiting for it day by day. When Elijah's chariot came, it was in the whirlwind that he was carried into heaven. What does the whirlwind represent as regards the church? Does it mean more trouble? We think it does. Dear friends, we are waiting for that chariot and whirlwind. What will it be? Well we know that the Lord pictures the great time of Anarchy as a great whirlwind. (Jer. 25:30-33; 30:23, 24)

To our understanding the Elijah class will be the first to suffer by the great whirlwind of anarchy. We believe that it signifies that many of the Lord's people—all of the faithful of that time will be taken from the present life in some anarchistic movement. It may be mobs that will destroy the lives of the Lord's faithful ones. We do not know, we do not intend to do anything to get into trouble....Something else is coming first. We do not as yet see clearly just what it is but this matter of Elijah's rolling his mantle together and smiting the waters of Jordan seems to mean something and also the crossing of the river. This picture is not given for nothing. What does it mean? Ah, we know that most prophecies are understood only after they are fulfilled! We might however have a suspicion—In Bible symbolic language water represents Truth, and also Peoples. Both of these are given in Scripture as represented by water (Rev. 17:1; Jer. 51:12, 13; Rev. 17:15; 22:1, 2; Ezek. 47:1-12; Eph. 5:26). Furthermore, Jordan means Testing or Judging Down. Now who or what would be judged by the antitype? We believe that the peoples of earth, the public in general are to be judged by the Truth. The peoples are represented by waters. It would seem in some way the people are to be judged and tested, and that a division of Public sentiment is to be caused in connection with the Truth. Waters are to be separated from waters, peoples from peoples, the truth being received by some and rejected by others. Elijah wrapped his mantle together and smote the waters and they were divided. Elijah's mantle was the outward indication or sign of God's power with him and represented God's power and blessing with the Church. The mantle was in Elijah's hand when he smote the waters with it. So the church, it seems, will use what is in their hand, the power and authority of the Truth (Finished Mystery) the power of God in smiting the waters-the peoples. Do you think that this has taken place? We think it has not as yet fully taken place. Do you think the Photo-Drama of Creation had a part in this? It may be. Will there be something more? We do not know. We rather think there is something more! (Z. '16-392; R.5846)

WHIRLWIND INTO HEAVEN — (Whirlwind = “ca’ar” or “sah’ar” or “carah, seh aw raw’” = hurricane) Into the sky, not in the heavens where God dwells, typifying how the last members of the Little Flock will be taken away in the midst of fiery trials and a whirlwind of trouble, the chariots representing the trials, merely God’s agents for the deliverance of the Little Flock. (Z. '98-222; R.2341)

The record is that they were separated by chariots of fire, but that Elijah was taken up not by these but by a whirlwind into heaven. The chariots would seem to symbolize severe persecutions on the last members of the Elijah class, perhaps unto death. Elijah being seen by Elisha would indicate close personal friendship down to the very close, and the effect of these would be to energize the Great Company into greater zeal. (The separating may point to trials which the Great Company cannot endure). The whirlwind of the heavens = a great trouble agitating the ecclesiastical powers, great commotions. (Z. '04-254; R.3417) Elijah no doubt was buried by the Lord, as was Moses. (Z. '98-223; R.2341; Z. '11-41; R.4757)

2:13 — HE TOOK UP ALSO THE MANTLE OF ELIJAH — See 1 Kings 19:19-21. The receiving by Elisha of power from the departed Elijah would seem to correspond to the “foolish virgins” getting their oil and being able to trim their lamps after the wise virgins have gone in and the door is shut. As the Foolish Virgins were not evil but good, so Elisha was not a wicked but a good man. As the foolish virgins lacked something (oil) that the wise virgins possessed, so Elisha lacked something which Elijah possessed and that lack (supplied to the foolish virgins in the oil) is here represented by Elijah’s mantle and blessing. So during the time of trouble there will be the Great Company—a consecrated class who had not a sufficiency of zeal to be counted of the Lord as members of the Little Flock but who yet will experience a great time of refreshing and become thoroughly devoted after they see the church has been glorified and the prophecies on Babylon being fulfilled, and they rejoice. (Rev. 19:7-9) (Z. '04-253; R.3416)

So the larger degree of sympathy and fellowship these have with the overcoming church, the larger will be the blessing which will come to these later and the larger their future privileges in the Lord’s work. (Z. '98-222; R.2341)

2:14 — WHERE IS THE LORD GOD OF ELIJAH? — Is not the Lord God of Elijah with me? If so then the same power will be exercised through me.

AND ELISHA WENT OVER — Signifying the death of the Great Company. Passing over Jordan without being overwhelmed by its waters, may signify a passing over death without sleep, and immediate change from human to spirit conditions by the Great Company. (Z. '04-280; R.3429)

From this time on Elisha represents the Ancient Worthies, as the earthly representative of the kingdom, and who will take up the work left by the Great Company, who received theirs after the Little Flock had passed; and thus the Ancient Worthies will begin to exercise a controlling influence in the affairs of mankind. (Z. '04-280; R.3429)

2:15 — SONS OF THE PROPHETS — Perhaps representing a respectable class of Bible Students who have not made a full consecration of their all to the Lord, and so not eligible to either the Great Company or Little Flock.

2:17 — THEY SOUGHT THREE DAYS, BUT FOUND HIM NOT — This would seem to represent an expectancy by the well meaning but uninstructed people of the time, that the Gospel Church would be reinstated. It would indicate on their part a slowness of perception of the change to the new order of things, in which the Ancient Worthies (represented by Elisha) would have the guidance and direction of earthly affairs and through whom the blessings must thereafter be expected. The wait and search for Elijah may represent a period of three years in which the world may fail to receive the blessings it might enjoy by reason of a failure to exercise faith in the new institutions of that time. As soon as Elisha was recognized beyond all question as the successor of Elijah, his work began. (Z. '04-280; R.3429; also Z. '15-286; R.5772)

2:19 — THE WATER IS NAUGHT, AND THE GROUND BARREN — The spring of water which supplied the city and irrigated the surrounding country, contained some mineral property which caused the products of the land to drop off before reaching maturity (barren = untimely birth, literally as in Leeser) so the land brought no fruit to perfection.

2:19-21 — THIS CITY — JERICHO = His moon, or month. As Jericho was the symbol of the Law, and the sun = the light of the Gospel. So there is this bare hint that as Israel under its law have in the past been striving to bring forth fruitage, but could not. They have indeed clung to the promises of God and tried somewhat, but failed to bring to perfection obedience, worship, reverence, because by the deeds of the Law can no one be justified. The Law arrangement, represented by the brackish water, lacked something necessary to make it a blessing. This something was the work of Christ fulfilling the Law and releasing those who received him from its curse. So the Jews will appeal to the Ancient Worthies to know why the blight had been upon them and what would be necessary to correct their difficulty so they could receive the Lord's blessing.

NEW CRUSE — So the Ancient Worthies will take a new earthen vessel (new institutions and new arrangement) and put salt therein (the recognition of Christ as their Messiah, preserver, Savior, Redeemer, Mediator, the antitype of Moses; Jesus and the Church were called “the salt of the earth,”) and when their society becomes imbued with these truths it will be cleansed and the people blessed. (Z. '04-280; R.3429)

For long centuries error and superstition have been mingled with the truth. The Jews have been hindered by their Talmud, and the Christian world, so called, by other errors and Satan’s lie “thou shalt not surely die.” This stream will be cleansed, and its cleansing from error will come by the church glorified, although it will come through the Ancient Worthies, as a part of the New Covenant blessings. (Z. '11-43; R.4758)

2:22 — THE WATERS WERE HEALED UNTO THIS DAY — Till the end of the Millennium.

2:23 — CAME FORTH LITTLE CHILDREN — Children in the sense that every person is a child under the Law until 21. (30 with the Jews). Probably the young men and boys of Jericho, a hoodlum set 10-20 years old (from the city whose waters were healed), doubtless taunted him at the instigation of their parents, to destroy his influence. Ahab and Jezebel and many of the people merely tolerated the true religion.

GO UP, THOU BALD HEAD — Your master went up to heaven in a whirlwind, why do not you go also? You are a bald head, or one who has lost his master. You are not fit to pose as a prophet, nor to be compared to Elijah.

2:24 — HE . . . CURSED THEM IN THE NAME OF THE LORD — Elisha did not swear at the children. (Young) He called them “evil in the name of the Lord;” condemned them as did Jesus saying, “Woe unto you, Scribes and Pharisees.” So Elisha pronounced woe or blight upon them. He declared something would befall them. Divine justice would square accounts and vindicate him. (Z. '11-42; R.4758)

TARE FORTY AND TWO CHILDREN OF THEM — Tare, wounded, but not killed them, putting them to flight. This was a just rebuke and profitable lesson for those torn and for their parents and for all who heard it. (Z. '11-42; R.4758)

Their parents had failed in their duty, either by misinstructing or not instructing them. Antotypically, it would seem to show that in the beginning of the Millennium, there will be some among Natural Israel who will appreciate the new conditions and some others who will oppose it. Those who come into harmony will be blessed, and those despising the Lord’s arrangements and violating the proprieties will be quickly punished. “When thy judgments are in the earth the inhabitants of the world will learn righteousness.”

After some such manner there will be judgments in the world during the Millennium—punishments for every wrong course, rewards for every right deed. Thus through chastisements (called judgments in the Bible) the world will be taught right and wrong for 1000 years. It is for this reason that the Millennial Age is called the World’s Day of Judgment. The judgments will be in the nature of rewards and punishments that the people may learn righteousness and abhor sin. (Z. ’15-300; R.5780)

4:1 — A CERTAIN WOMAN — Josephus says this woman was the widow of Obadiah, Ahab’s steward, and the borrowed money mentioned in the text was that used in supporting the 100 prophets whom he hid from the wrath of Jezebel and fed them in a cave. (1 Kings 18:4) Nothing in the scriptures connects the two, except that the woman’s description of her husband is in similar words to Obadiah’s description of himself. (Z. ’04-282; R.3430) As she was a widow she needed her son’s assistance at home.

THE SONS OF THE PROPHETS — These schools of the prophets were probably started in the days of Samuel, and doubtless their members were Israelites who had a firm trust in God and who, as the nation went more and more into idolatry felt the need of fellowship with one another and of holding up a divine standard in their nation. It is quite probable that their gatherings were like what we call summer schools—at times which did not conflict with farming, industry. This account here indicates that they were not a monastic order, but rather attended to the duties of life and had certain periods for assembling for religious study and worship.

TO BE BONDMEN — To render service equal to the debt, or until the year of Jubilee. The woman’s husband had bequeathed her a debt instead of an estate. See note Lev. 25:39.

4:2 — WHAT HAST THOU IN THE HOUSE — The debt was to be paid. Justice was not to be violated and any miracle to be performed would be preferably by blessing something already possessed. Thus doubtless it will be in the Millennium. The Lord will bless what people have according to their faith in using it in harmony with His will, and it will increase with that for the full supply of all their needs. Every person has something of a talent or possession. The lesson to us would be: Use what you have, asking God’s blessing, and seek to use it in harmony with His will nothing doubting. The Lord always rewards faith.

SAVE A POT OF OIL — This was a genuine case of distress; the woman loyal to principle did not appeal for aid until it was absolutely necessary.

Doubtless this had much to do with the miracle wrought for her relief. Had she asked while she still had the means to pay the debt, her petition probably would not have been responded to as it was. A lesson here for us, that we should do with our might what our hands find to do, and in time of trial or temptation or distress we should do all in our power, and then if necessary would be the time to appeal to the Lord. Our hearts should be so full of gratitude for blessings already received, temporal and spiritual, that we would hesitate to ask more than God's wisdom has seen fit to provide, hesitate to ask more than bare necessities. (Z. '04-282; R.3430)

Oil was to the Jews indispensable, used for light, heat, and butter, a household necessity and article of ready sale. The immense quantities of oil then produced in Palestine is shown by the fact that King Solomon sent as a present to Hiram king of Tyre every year during the period of the building of the temple 200,000 gallons of oil. (1 Kings 5:11)

4:4 — THOU SHALT SET ASIDE THAT WHICH IS FULL — This assistance was rendered in a manner which helped to develop her faith. There is a lesson here of God's sympathy with us, willingness to assist us to pay our honest debts, a lesson of the propriety of paying our debts. And it shows that God is pleased to bless the things which we have rather than to send us other things, or miraculously put the money into our pockets. (Z. '98-232; R.2346)

4:6 — THERE IS NOT A VESSEL MORE — The fact that she was able to borrow from her neighbors, shows she had a good reputation for honesty, for they must have known she was poor. There is a lesson of faith for us here too, for it was in proportion to her faith that she borrowed few or many vessels and so got a larger or smaller evidence of divine bounty. (Z. '98-232; R.2346)

That she was able to pay off her debt and have enough left to live on showed how large her faith was. (See in contrast 2 Kings 13:18, 19.) So we must seek opportunities to pour out our lives upon other people (vessels) but we can pour it only into vessels that are empty, we should seek those who are willing to learn and have a hearing ear. It is for us now to see that we are empty vessels, emptied that He may fill us, enlarged more and more that we may more and more be filled with His spirit. In due time God will pour out His spirit upon all flesh, every vessel, fitted for its reception shall be filled to the full, the whole world, will be brought under the influence of the spirit of God, and then there will come to all the willing and obedient a full release from the debt for sin and from all sin and death conditions.

4:7 — LIVE THOU AND THY CHILDREN OF THE REST — Her faith in the Lord was called out by the extreme condition in which she found herself—in poverty and threatened with the loss of her sons. Her cry to the prophet was a cry to the Lord and His answer was doubtless accepted as direct from the Lord. Her faith was tested and developed by the method chosen—to borrow vessels, and then behind closed doors without even the prophet present, to pour out the oil. The lesson so learned, we may be sure, was a great blessing to both her and her sons for the remainder of life, and it has been a blessing to many a widow and orphan since, as they have remembered the same God and had faith that He is still willing to hear their cry. (Z. '04-283; R.3431) All the gold and silver are His and the cattle on a thousand hills. See poem on “pouring forth the oil.”

4:8 — ELISHA PASSED TO SHUNEM — Apparently Elisha’s home was at Mount Carmel. But thence he made visits to the schools of the Prophets and to Samaria, Israel’s capital. The route by which he travelled led him near the village of Shunem. There were then no hotels or even inns.

A GREAT WOMAN — Probably possessed a large estate which may have been her birthright, rather than her husbands. But the account shows she was truly great in character. She may have been superior to her husband in intelligence. She had the kind of greatness which recognizes goodness and reverences the Lord. She was also loyal and submissive to her husband. (vss. 9, 10)

4:9 — PASSETH BY US CONTINUALLY — The more she saw of the Lord’s prophet the more she was convinced and realized that it was a favor to have him under her roof.

4:10 — ON THE WALL — Probably on the top of the wall, the edge of the roof and accessible from an outside stairway. (Z. '04-284; R.3431)

TO US — Although apparently the husband was less great than his wife in some respects, yet this courteous request expressed in so wifely a manner and proper, appealed to him. How many women, if they felt themselves the greater of the two, would altogether forget the propriety of consulting the husband, the divinely appointed head of the family, and requesting cooperation in religious work and benevolence, rather than demanding. Modesty and humility are true signs of greatness. (Z. '98-232; R.2346)

She recognized Elisha as a consecrated man of God, that his life was given to the Lord’s service and hence whatever she attempted to do for him was done as unto the Lord. Her wisdom, too, was shown in the moderation and simplicity of the arrangements provided—comfortable, but not extravagant. (Z. '04-284; R.3431)

We believe that so far as possible every Christian would do well, if their means would justify, to have a spare room for the entertainment of the Lord’s servants who may come their way. A blessing comes to all who seek to have this spirit of hospitality, kindness in entertaining the Lord's servants. (Z. '98-232; R.2346)

4:13 — Wouldest thou be spoken for — A similar spirit of benevolence and thoughtfulness for others was in the prophet. We who receive favors from others—from the Lord or others—if we have the same spirit will seek to do something in return. Those who accept of favors from others and lack the desire and fail to seek the opportunity to do as much or more for them in return are lacking in the Lord's spirit. (Z. '98-232; R.2346)

4:14 — SHE HATH NO CHILD — In harmony with general views in the East, there could be no greater blessing come to her than to have a son, that otherwise her home was like Jericho, beautiful for situation, but having a serious lack. (Z. '04-285; R.3432)

4:19 — AND HE SAID UNTO HIS FATHER, MY HEAD — Evidently a sunstroke.

4:21 — SHE . . . LAID HIM ON THE BED OF THE MAN OF GOD . . . AND WENT OUT — Exhibiting here her faith. To her the lad was not hopelessly dead, for she had faith in God and the prophet, and reasoned that He who was able to give her her son was able also to restore him again. (Z. '04-285; R.3432)

4:23 — AND SHE SAID, IT SHALL BE WELL — Evidently she told no one that the child was dead. Her answer implies her faith, for she believed that somehow God would over rule this for her good—"all is well."

4:28 — DID I NOT SAY, DO NOT DECEIVE ME? — She reminded him that she had not requested the child, that it was a gift, and that if he were to remain dead he would be a source not of comfort and blessing but of sorrow to her. Yet she did not say the boy was dead, her faith was strong.

4:29 — LAY MY STAFF UPON THE FACE OF THE CHILD. — Much as Paul did sending handkerchiefs and napkins to heal the sick.

4:30 — I WILL NOT LEAVE THEE — She did not have full confidence in the results of the servants doings, possibly realizing that the servant was not such a man as the prophet was, as later events showed. (Z. '04-285; R.3432)

4:35 — WALKED IN THE HOUSE TO AND FRO — The case evidently perplexed the prophet. The staff in the hands of his servant had been without avail. His own efforts for a considerable time had been without avail. Here was room for doubt as to whether or not the Lord's power had forsaken him. He stalked the little room repeatedly, and again and again laid his face and hands on those of the child (his body on the child's), probably the meanwhile praying the divine blessing. But faith finally triumphed. This reminds us of the case where the disciples failed to cast the devil out of the boy, while Jesus with Peter and James and John were in the Mount of Transfiguration, and our Lord's words: "This kind cometh not out but by prayer and fasting." (Z. '98-233; R.2346) This was the only case of its kind in all Elisha's experience.

4:37 — AND TOOK UP HER SON AND WENT OUT — Had her son not taken sick she would have lacked the depth in life's experiences which we doubt not provided to her a great blessing, which developed in her more and more of faith in the Lord and appreciation of His favors. While deeply agitated, her faith in God's goodness through the prophet, preserved her from excessive grief, and apparently from tears. So we "sorrow not as others who have no hope." (Z. '04-285; R.3432)

4:38 — A DEARTH IN THE LAND — The general dearth of pure food now. (B266)

4:39 — ONE WENT OUT INTO THE FIELD TO GATHER HERBS AND FOUND A WILD VINE — Field = world. Wild vine = a plant not understood, not of the fruits that were known to bless = new doctrines, found in the world, and added to the food without investigating. This will represent the doctrines of Satan which he suggests will be helpful, but tries to keep us from investigation.

4:40 — AND THEY COULD NOT EAT THEREOF — The people of civilized lands today have God's Word in their hands and its contents are good and nourishing and health-giving; but some of the theological cooks have unintentionally added doctrines of the Evil One, so that it is made to the people poisonous, injurious, causing spiritual sickness, as shown in the various creeds of Christendom. This will be cleansed of error and God will feed man on clean provender (Isa. 30:24) and have a pure language. (Zeph. 3:8, 9)

4:41 — THAT THEY MAY EAT — Truth will by and by be plentiful, enough for all. (B266)

4:44 — AND THEY DID EAT — See comment for verse 41.

5:1 — HONOURABLE — Truly great and honorable as shown by his conduct in this chapter.

BY HIM THE LORD HAD GIVEN DELIVERANCE UNTO SYRIA
— Naaman's victory is here credited to Jehovah. But we are not to gather from this that God has special supervision of every war and battle on earth; and that those who win have His favor and those who lose have His disfavor.

HE WAS A LEPER — We are not told how serious Naaman's leprosy was, but we do know that lepers, even under unfavorable conditions, often live long, sometimes as long as forty-five years under the affliction. It is a repulsive disease, a wasting away or rotting of the part affected, an eating of the flesh somewhat like a cancer, yet not generally painful until in the latter stages. (Z. '04-299; R.3438)

5:3 — SHE SAID UNTO HER MISTRESS . . . HE WOULD RECOVER HIM OF HIS LEPROSY — The little maid, so far from feeling envious, revengeful and wickedly toward her captor, had evidently a very benevolent, kindly disposition. Perhaps she had been well cared for by her captors. She probably knew nothing about the name of the prophet, nor his resident city, but her account was sufficiently explicit to awaken the interest of her master. (Z. '98-234; R.2346)

5:4 — THUS AND THUS SAID THE MAID THAT IS OF THE LAND OF ISRAEL — So those who know of the divine power and arrangement for the healing of sinners may tell the good tidings even to their enemies. (Z. '11-60; R.4768)

5:5 — I WILL SEND A LETTER UNTO THE KING OF ISRAEL — His thought evidently was that a prophet so notable and able to cure any disease and who already had performed wonderful cures, would be found at the royal court, specially favored by the King and made a high officer, in some sense, in the kingdom. (Z. '98-234; R.2346)

5:7 — HE RENT HIS CLOTHES — A sign of sore distress, perplexity of mind; the outer garment, far less of a job than it would be now. (Z. '98-234; R.2346)

AM I GOD, TO KILL AND TO MAKE ALIVE — The King of Israel was an idolater (2 Kings 3:2), though professedly making some acknowledgment of Jehovah, yet fostered false worship in the Kingdom. Under these conditions he had no dealings with and scarcely any knowledge of Elisha. (Z. '04-299; R.3438)

5:8 — ELISHA . . . SENT TO THE KING, SAYING . . . LET HIM COME NOW TO ME — Possible Elisha had a divine revelation respecting the matter. He had strong faith and was conscious of God's power in such a case. So the King sent Naaman to Elisha, doubtless with many assurances that it was not in the power of kings or princes or ordinary beings to heal leprosy. (Z. '04-300; R.3439)

5:10 — ELISHA SENT A MESSENGER UNTO HIM, SAYING, GO AND WASH IN JORDAN SEVEN TIMES . . . AND THOU SHALT BE CLEAN — The word of God has pointed out to us the only cure for the malady of sin, the only channel for forgiveness is the Ransom paid by Jesus. However man may philosophise about it, sin is undeniable and its cure impossible except as the Lord will grant relief.

SEVEN — Seven = perfection, not that we are to believe into Jesus seven times, or be converted seven times, or consecrate seven times; but that our belief, obedience, baptism into death in Christ must be perfect, complete, otherwise we have no remission of sins. Half-hearted consecration and obedience are not wanted by nor acceptable with the Lord. (Z. '04-301; R.3439)

5:11 — BUT NAAMAN WAS WROTH, AND WENT AWAY — All this experience seemed very strange to Naaman, to find that the King at first knew nothing about such a person as the Prophet able to heal leprosy, and then to be sent to a lowly house. And still more surprised when the prophet did not think it worth while to come out and salute him or do obeisance or make particular inquiry or say words of enchantment; but sent him a commonplace message that he needed to go wash several times. (Z. '98-234; R.2346)

Naaman did not see that in calling upon Elisha he was calling upon God of whom Elisha was merely the servant. It was appropriate that Naaman should learn the lesson and he probably did learn it. Elisha's course declared—"I am greater than you because while you are the servant of the King of Syria, I am a servant of the King of Kings, the Almighty; while therefore I shall grant the boon requested, I will do it in such a way that you shall learn the lesson that you receive it as a favor and not as you expect, in exchange for the expensive presents and rewards you have brought." (Z. '04-300; R.3439)

As a General, Naaman probably had considerable combativeness. However this does not mean that we should follow Elisha's course. The essence of Christian grace is love, which is long suffering, patient, gentle, rendering honor to whom honor is due. The better we can keep this in mind as a rule for daily life, the larger will be their success in serving the truth. Meekness, gentleness, patience, kindness must be cultivated if we would share the Heavenly Kingdom. (Z. '04-300; R.3439)

5:12 — ABANA — The Abana is no doubt the modern Barrada, the river to which the delightful oasis of Damascus owes its beauty and very existence. The Greeks called it the "Golden-flowing." It has the clearest waters possible, and singularly bright in color; in the morning a full, deep, emerald green, in the evening a sapphire blue. It was impossible not to think of the two jewels, so exactly did it resemble their clear gem-like lines at times. (Z. '04-300; R.3439)

MAY I NOT WASH IN THEM AND BE CLEAN? — There are many suggestions as to how sin can be gotten rid of. Some philosophies deny its existence, others tell us a moral life atones for sin. These various theories are like the waters of Syria, which Naaman well knew could not make him clean, nor restore his health. (Z. '04-300; R.3439)

Every man realizes he is imperfect, that sin has a hold upon his mental, physical and moral powers, and many methods are advocated for getting rid of it. The natural man suggests that he can get rid of sin himself by moral reforms which he will some day begin in earnest, that he needs no High Priest nor Redeemer. Besides to fulfil the conditions for the forgiveness of sin would be taking a very open and courageous step. He shrinks from such a demonstration, and argues that it would do no special good anyway as the Lord can save him in one place as well as in another. (Z. '98-235; R 2347)

Naaman possibly thought he would be the laughing stock of his own servants, his own people and the Israelites. (Z. '11-60; R.4768)

5:13 — HIS SERVANTS — The servants were able to take a calmer view than Naaman because they were not so acutely interested. Had he been a man of inferior mind, he would have been so haughty and dignified that his servants could not even have offered him a suggestion or if he received it he would have resented it as being from an inferior source, considering that his servants were not qualified to offer him any suggestions. But being a “great man and wise” he was not unapproachable, nor inclined to disrespect sound, reasonable advice, even though it came from a humble and unexpected quarter. All of the Lord’s people should realize that the little child or an unlearned person may be able to offer a suggestion, valuable to the most profound thinker. We all should be so humble-minded as to be approachable and able to weigh and act upon sensible advice, even from those below us. (Z. '98-235; R 2347)

Naaman was undoubtedly a wiser and abler man than his servants, yet he was so closely interested that his judgment did not act as well as theirs. And they were wise not joining with him and agreeing with his every word and thought. Their counsel was wise. (Z. '98-235; R.2347)

MY FATHER — A loving and respectful way of addressing him, and shows that he was a kind master.

IF THE PROPHET HAD BID THEE . . . WOULDST THOU NOT HAVE DONE IT — Calling attention gently to the fact that his pride was blinding him and that he should be humble and not risk losing the blessing through pride.

5:14 — The sinner who has come to feel the load of sin, its grievousness is prepared to do a great deal if he can only get rid of it. When he comes to this point, and often it is through good advice of friends, Christian friends, he is finally prepared to take the humiliating step of acknowledging that nothing he can do for himself will relieve him, acknowledging that there is but one power able to prescribe or supply the remedy. Then when he plunges into the anti-typical Jordan and dips seven times (the complete consecration) he is completely cleansed, made every whit whole, reckonedly and then has a standing with God. Complete submission to the Lord and His methods of getting rid of sin. How often those inquiring are misdirected by the very ones who have opportunity to help them take proper views of the matter. The Lord's people should always counsel in harmony with the Bible. At each dip Naaman probably looked for results, but there was probably no sign of improvement till the seventh. It requires faith to go to the muddy Jordan to bathe at all; it required faith to continue the bathing until he had finished and fulfilled the complete number of times. With the seventh dip came the blessing, and he was clean. If he had desisted with the fifth or sixth dip saying; "It is useless, there is no improvement manifested," he would have failed of the blessing (Z. '04-300; R.3439)

Not a profession of faith, but the exercise of an active, living faith brings the blessing. (Z. '98-235; R.2347)

LIKE UNTO THE FLESH OF A LITTLE CHILD — His flesh was better than before. He was clean. Showing how perfection is imputed to those who consecrate wholly to God. (Job 33:25) (Z. '04-300; R.3439)

5:15 — AND HE RETURNED TO THE MAN OF GOD — This shows Naaman's greatness of character. If he was not noble he might have said; "Well I have received a great blessing and got it cheaply. If the prophet had come down to me in a courteous manner and assured me of these results, or offered to come with me, I fully intended that he should have a liberal gift, if not all the rich treasures I have brought; but now seeing he did not put himself out so much as to come down to my chariot, I certainly need not put myself out to return many miles to Samaria to proffer him a gift." Noble minds are not selfishly seeking to get all they can of this present life and give as little as possible to others. They truly take pleasure in being just and generous. The Lord appreciated this generous heart, as it is also appreciated among noble men and women. (Z. '04-301; R.3439)

With a true nobility he desired to make some acknowledgement of the goodness bestowed upon him. He probably knew something of the true, and probably with his heart and lips acknowledged him and rendered thanks for his recovery, as soon as he was healed. As God had seen fit to use an agent in bringing the blessing to him, he rightly judged that it was as little as he could do to recognize the same agent that God did—God's own accredited agent in the healing. (Z. '98-236; R.2347) Our Lord refers to this Syrian in Luke 4:27 and intimated that this leper's faith was greater than that of the "many lepers" who no doubt had heard of the prophet as had the little bondmaid. They had not thought it worth while to seek Elisha even though he was in their own country. So we are apt not to notice some of the great blessings around us, if we are not humble and anxious to learn and get all God has for us.

Naaman retraced his journey nearly forty miles to give Elisha these presents. Like the nine lepers many receive the cleansing from sin as a matter of course; some are thankful but specially glad they got it so cheap. It is only the occasional one who receives the divine blessing and returns to give thanks, to give God the glory. Not very many present either money or influence or their lives at the Lord's feet. (Z. '98-236; R.2347)

THERE IS NO GOD IN ALL THE EARTH BUT IN ISRAEL — This was not mere bombast but the statement of a convicted heart. He had learned the lesson that God was indeed a great God and the only one worthy of worship.

I PRAY THEE TAKE A BLESSING OF THY SERVANT — These gifts were consecrated beforehand when he had hoped to get a blessing. Would he after receiving the blessing withhold any part? To have done so would have proven him unworthy of the blessing. So the Lord's people, fleeing from sin and desiring forgiveness, reconciliation are generally disposed, or at least some of them, to make a full consecration unto the Lord, but after receiving His grace, if they attempt to keep back any of the consecrated earthly things, how would their course appear to the Lord and to all who had his Spirit? Let us see that we, Israelites indeed having received of the Lord healing and forgiveness and blessing be full of gratitude and thankfulness and spare no pains to express this, and that we do not seek to have it at no cost to ourselves; "Bring all the tithes into the storehouse." (Z. '04-301; R.3439)

5:16 — AND HE URGED HIM TO TAKE IT; BUT HE REFUSED — To have received the presents would have meant the selling of the divine power which operated through him; and Elisha well knew that God's gifts are not for sale. Fortunate would it be for many who deal with the spiritual things of the Lord in the cure of the leprosy of sin, if they could take as exalted a view of matters as did Elisha. Too often the Lord's servants are willing to accept rewards for their part in the healing of sickness, costly apparel, gold and silver. (Z. '98-237; R.2348) Had Elisha accepted the money he doubtless could have used it in connection with his mission as the Lord's prophet, or among the poor of Israel, but he evidently did better in refusing it. So with the Lord's people. It is not wrong of them to receive compensation, salary; it could not be said that as servants of the Lord they were worthy of no compensation. Yet as a rule the Lord will be more glorified if his servants keep the ministries of the truth separate and distinct from all mercenary considerations. The Lord owns all the gold and cattle on a thousand hills, and is able to provide for his work and for all his servants, and we believe that he is more honored in their looking to Him and trusting in His providences rather than accepting anything in the nature of pay for dispensing His grace. (Z. '04-301; R.3439)

We believe the Lord's spirit is never to sell spiritual things for money. It is for this reason that some ministers now object to taking up collections, holding fairs or soliciting money in any manner. Their contention is that whatever is given to the Lord should be given with a free hand and a ready heart. The Father seeketh such to worship Him as worship Him in spirit and in truth. It is a privilege to give to the Lord and His cause, for the Almighty is not poor that He should need our gifts. (Hag. 2:8) (Z. '15-301; R.5781)

5:17 — THY SERVANT WILL HENCEFORTH OFFER NEITHER BURNT OFFERING NOR SACRIFICE UNTO OTHER GODS, BUT UNTO THE LORD — To place it in some suitable place in his own country, to build him an altar to the Lord, that he might present his offering on consecrated earth, and kneel on it and offer prayer and praise to Jehovah. (Z. '98-237; R.2348; and (Z. '04-301; R.3439)

5:18 — WHEN I BOW DOWN MYSELF IN THE HOUSE OF RIMMON, THE LORD PARDON THY SERVANT — If the General made full profession of his faith in the true God, it would not be improper for him to accompany his master to the house of the false God. For his own adherence to Jehovah would be recognized. (Z. '15-301; R.5781)

His mind had grasped the situation and now as a follower of the Lord, he could no longer with propriety do the things formerly done by him in false worship with his King, for his eyes had been opened. He enquired of the prophet how the Lord would regard it, if he did as formerly with the King, now that his heart was not in such false worship. The noble conduct of this man, his candor, his apparent willingness to sacrifice all to the Lord, puts to shame the course of some who by God's favor have become Israelites indeed, and adopted into God's family as Sons. Many of them have much less conscience on such subjects—much less careful about sailing under false colors, misrepresenting the Lord and the truth. Many for the sake of earthly fame are willing to be false to the Lord. Let us place the Lord first in all our calculations. (Z. '04-302; R.3440)

5:19 — AND HE SAID UNTO HIM, GO IN PEACE — We cannot doubt that Elisha sought the Lord's direction in this matter and that he had the Lord's mind. Naaman was not an Israelite and God was dealing only with Israel. He was still a stranger to the Covenants of Israel, without God and not given any special hope. He might therefore do things under such a case, which would have been wrong in an Israelite. And as his heart was for Jehovah and not for Rimmon. (Z. '04-301; R.3440) The Israelites were under special covenant relationship. The time had not come for favor to the Gentiles. Consequently though Naaman had recognized Jehovah, Jehovah had not fully recognized him, could not do so under the covenant then in force. It was proper then. It mattered not in a sense, because his prayers would not be answered then. They were stored up in God's mind, like the prayers of Cornelius, to be answered in due time. (Acts 10:4) He had no advocate. Naaman, having recognized Jehovah, himself, should worship and respect him alone as the true God; yet as the servant of the King of Syria, he might go with the king and bow himself, Jehovah not having accepted or even called him to be His servant. (Z. '98-237; R.2348)

5:20 — GEHAZI . . . SAID . . . I WILL RUN AFTER HIM, AND TAKE SOMEWHAT OF HIM — Gehazi had been with Elisha a considerable time and witnessed many wonderful works, the same servant, probably who laid Elisha's staff upon the Shunamite's son. But all of this contact with the divine power and goodness and mercy and all of the illustrations of this prophet's nobility of character and generosity had counted for nothing. He allowed covetousness to enter his heart. (Z. '98-238; R.2348) So there are some in daily contact with the Truth and the Lord's consecrated servants, who do not partake of the Spirit of the truth, nor of the Spirit of the servants—in whom selfishness is the ruling passion, and who eventually will not only fail to receive the blessings, but will receive divine disfavor, the second death. (Z. '04-302; R.3440)

While some who have been ignorant of the grace of God are mightily and properly actuated by it (like Naaman), others in daily contact with divine grace fail to have the right attitude of heart to appreciate it, and know of it chiefly as so much merchandise (like Gehazi). This covetousness becomes to some, even if they had already been cleansed, a renewal of the leprosy of sin. The same influence which operates favorably on one heart, operates unfavorably upon another. See 2 Cor. 2:16.

5:22 — MY MASTER HATH SENT ME — Covetousness with almost every one leads to other sins—lying and even murder. Gehazi did not hesitate to lie.

5:23 — AND NAAMAN SAID, BE CONTENT, TAKE TWO TALENTS — Again showing Naaman's generosity.

5:25 — AND HE SAID, THY SERVANT WENT NO WHITHER — A second lie to cover up the first.

5:26 — IS IT A TIME TO RECEIVE MONEY, AND TO RECEIVE GARMENTS, AND OLIVEYARDS, ETC. — Intimating that all these had been the moving covetous cause before the mind of Gehazi.

5:27 — AND HE WENT OUT FROM HIS PRESENCE A LEPER AS WHITE AS SNOW — It is not with impurity that we can misrepresent God through covetousness.

For a later notice of Gehazi see 2 Kings 8:4.

6:8 — THEN THE KING OF SYRIA WARRED AGAINST ISRAEL — This was probably after the death of General Naaman.

6:12 — ELISHA . . . TELLETH THE KING OF ISRAEL THE WORDS THAT THOU SPEAKEST IN THY BEDCHAMBER — Apparently the knowledge of Jehovah and Elisha had spread from General Naaman to some of the household of the King. (Z. '15-302; R.5781)

6:13 — AND HE SAID, GO AND SPY WHERE HE IS, THAT I MAY SEND AND FETCH HIM — Although the King was evidently a man of force he was not wise in his determination to ascertain the location of Elisha and capture him first and thus secure a free hand in the looting of Israel. He might have known that if Elisha could inform the King, he could be equally well informed in matters regarding himself. But thus it is with all who leave the wisdom of God out of their calculations. Paul sums up the matter for them saying: the wisdom of man is foolishness with God, for the worldly its wisdom knows not God and does not consider the boundlessness of His wisdom and power. The Christian recognizing Divine power and wisdom and coming into accord with the same is thereby blessed. Whatever was the measure of his wisdom as a natural man, this would surely be intensified by his partaking of the wisdom that cometh from above. (Z. '04-303; R.3441)

6:15 — WHEN THE SERVANT OF THE MAN OF GOD WAS RISEN EARLY. . .AN HOST COMPASSED THE CITY — Elisha may have understood in advance, but working in harmony with the Lord's arrangements he did not flee the city. He was entirely restful in mind about the matter. (Z. '04-303; R.3441)

6:17 — THE MOUNTAIN WAS FULL OF HORSES AND CHARIOTS OF FIRE ROUND ABOUT ELISHA — This was doubtless intended by the Lord as a lesson for his people all down through the ages. We must assume that the horses and chariots of fire were in the nature of a vision granted to the servant and to us as illustrating the divine power and protection given. Thus viewed, the servant saw an active parable, a picture similar to those in Revelation serving the intended purpose most thoroughly and completely and giving to the eyes of his understanding a proper conception of the Divine power present with the prophet. (Z. '04-303; R.3441)

An encampment representing a continued and abiding presence of the Divine representatives, safely guarding all the interests of the Lord's faithful ones.

(Matt. 18:10) Our great wise all-powerful Heavenly Father has numberless messengers at his command and has deputed and appointed many of these to care for the interests of his cause on earth, especially to watch over and minister unto the very elect. Nothing can by any means, therefore, harm these except as the Heavenly Father sees that the earthly injury or disadvantage would prove profitable to the individual or to the Lord's general cause. All things work together for good to those who love God and are called according to His purpose. (Z. '04-303; R.3441)

6:18 — SMOTE THEM WITH BLINDNESS — The original word does not signify total blindness, but rather a visual indistinctness, perhaps somewhat akin to mesmeric or hypnotic conditions as they are known today. (Z. '04-303; R.3441)

6:22 — SET BREAD AND WATER BEFORE THEM — “Heap coals of fire on their heads.” So long as we are the Lord's we may have absolute confidence respecting the result in all of life's affairs and this confidence should tend to make us more generous and kind toward our enemies, to all those who would despitefully use or persecute us.

8:16, 17 — JEHORAM THE SON OF JEHOSEPHAT KING OF JUDAH BEGAN TO REIGN . . . AND HE REIGNED EIGHT YEARS IN JERUSALEM — Margin reads: “Began to reign in consort with his father.” The margin is erroneous. Asa was contemporary with Ahab of Israel three years. (1 Kings 22:41) His son, Jehoshaphat, reigned 25 years (1 Kings 22:42). In the 17th year of Jehoshaphat, Ahaziah of Israel began to reign and is said to have been king two years. (1 Kings 22:51) But in the 18th year of Jehoshaphat, Jehoram of Israel was made King and he reigned for 12 years. (2 Kings 3:1) In his fifth year Jehoshaphat died, and Jehoram of Judah reigned in his stead, and in the 12th and last year of Jehoram of Israel, Jehoram of Judah died, having reigned eight years. (2 Kings 8:16, 25) These passages and this item of history well illustrate the difficulty of getting a certain chronology from a comparison of the lives of the Kings of Judah and Israel; but it also shows that the account in Chronicles is reliable, for the total years under the review agree even though the details do not show the closest harmony, owing to the method of counting which obtained. In this period, the number of years for Judah is:

Asa 3, Jehoshaphat 25, Jehoram 8 = 36 years

The number for Israel is:

Ahab 22 (1 Kings 16:29), Ahaziah 2, Jehoram 12 = 36
Exactly the same as recorded for Judah when we accept the Scripture statement that Jehoram of Judah reigned eight years. (J. Hemery, Z.'10-136; R.4601)

11:1 — ATHALIAH — She was the daughter of Queen Jezebel and King Ahaz;
(2 Chron. 21:6; 2 Kings 8:26 margin, 27, 16, 18) and the wife of Jehoram of Judah (called Joram in 2 Kings 8:21, 23, 24). Jehoram of Israel was also called Joram in 2 Kings 8:25, 28, 29). In character she had a strong resemblance to her mother Jezebel. From the time of her associations in the Kingdom of Judah the idolatrous influences there began to gain strong foothold and a Baal Temple was built and under the royal protection the licentious worship of Ashteroth found favor with many of the people.
(Z'04-315; R.3446) (See 2 Chron. 24:7)

SHE AROSE AND DESTROYED ALL THE SEED ROYAL — When King Ahaziah was slain by Jehu (2 Kings 9:27, 28), his mother the Queen Dowager (Dowager = a widow in enjoyment of a dower applied chiefly to widows of persons of high rank to distinguish from the wife of her husband's heir who bears the same title. The widow of a King bears the title of Queen Dowager: Dower = the portion of a husband's land, tenements, etc., which is settled upon his wife to be enjoyed during her term of widowhood, usually one-third part.) realized instantly that this meant loss of rank and power—the power, the honor and the riches which her selfish proud heart so loved. She realized that the moment her grandson ascended the throne she must vacate her position in favor of her daughter-in-law, (who would then be queen Dowager). Her selfish, proud heart resolved that under no circumstances should this be. Rather she would be a murderess.
(Z.'15-314; R.4777)

Other illustrations of the power of pride leading to murder in the interest of a throne are mentioned in history: King Herod's murder of all the infants of Bethlehem was to preserve to himself and to his heirs the Throne of Israel; Laodice poisoned her six sons one by one, that she might be Empress of Constantinople; another named Irene (which means "peace") gouged out the eyes of her own son that he might be incapable of ruling the Empire over which she hoped to reign. (Z.'15-314; R.4777)

11:3 — AND ATHALIAH DID REIGN OVER THE LAND. — Judah must have sunken considerably in the qualities of patriotism and manhood to allow the Queen Dowager to usurp the throne by murder for six years. So states and cities which permit and recognize the domination of frauds and combines against the public interests are usually getting as good treatment as they deserve. The heart, mind, intellect must be educated to the higher standards. (Z.'15-314; R.4777)

11:4 — AND THE SEVENTH YEAR — With great wisdom he called together the chiefs of the nation at a time of festival when their assembling would not be thought strange. (Z. '15-314; R.4777)

11:5 — KEEPERS OF THE WATCH OF THE KING'S HOUSE — These were men of Levi whose service turns were arranged by David and Samuel. See 1 Chron. 9:22, 25, 26. They evidently served for seven days at a time. Jehoiada kept those who were to go out to assist in the work.

11:7 — EVEN THEY — See comment for verse 5.

11:11 — AND THE GUARD STOOD — Evidently the guards were so placed as to give every protection to the young King and to leave the palace without protection. (Z. '15-315; R.4777)

11:12 — PUT THE CROWN UPON HIM AND GAVE HIM THE TESTIMONY — When the crown was placed on the young King's head, on top of it was laid the Parchment Scroll of the ten commandments (2 Chron. 23:11). Thus was indicated the fact that the Divine Law was superior to the crown. Such should be the estimation of the matter in every well balanced mind. Divine Law comes first, human laws second, and human laws are usually up to as high a standard as the people who make them are worthy. (Z. '15-315; R.4777)

11:14 — AND ATHALIAH RENT HER CLOTHES, AND CRIED, TREASON, TREASON — Sometimes injustice becomes so entrenched in human minds and fortified that an attempt to establish righteousness is considered treason, rebellion, outrage. To all the Lord's people the lesson is—"Keep thy heart with all diligence for out of it are the issues of life." (Prov. 4:23) (Z. '15-315; R.4777)

12:3 — THE PEOPLE STILL SACRIFICED AND BURNT INCENSE IN THE HIGH PLACES — The Temple was considerably dilapidated; for the people were still half-hearted in the worship of Jehovah. The influence of the idolatry of the surrounding nations was still upon them. (Z. '15-315; R.4777)

12:5 — REPAIR THE BREACHES OF THE HOUSE — Today, judging by the magnificent churches of great cities, outwardly the Church is rich. Spiritually, she is poor. It is from the spiritual standpoint that the Church needs repairs. The majority of her educated ministers have lost faith in the Bible as the Word of God. Yet, they are not known as infidels but as Evolutionists, Higher Critics. The cause and foundation of their disastrous condition is not far off. The absurdities of the creeds formulated in the dark ages are so great that intelligent people can no longer accept them. See 2 Chron. 24. The Truth is that the Creeds of the past contradict one another and contradict the Bible. To believe this means a return to Bible study with the Creed spectacles of our fathers removed and with our hearts uplifted to God that he may give us the light promised to his faithful people in the end of this age. (Dan. 12:10) (Z. '15-315; R.4777)

12:6 — THE PRIESTS HAD NOT REPAIRED THE BREACHES OF THE HOUSE — Not every good hearted man has executive ability. The record does not say that the priests were dishonest in the use of the money entrusted to them, collected for their affairs, nor does it say they spent the money unwisely. Possibly the people did not have confidence in the Priests and did not give so freely on that account. (Z. '15-315; R.4777; Z. '11-75; R.4777)

12:7 — AND SAID UNTO THEM — The King passed over the matter as lightly and courteously as possible, without charging the Priests with embezzlement or neglect. (Z. '15-315; R.4777)

NOW THEREFORE RECEIVE NO MORE MONEY OF YOUR ACQUAINTANCE, BUT DELIVER IT FOR THE BREACHES OF THE HOUSE. — There is a lesson here for us. They wish to know that moneys donated for religious purposes are not all absorbed for office expenses. Volunteer offerings have the approval of both God and man rather than offerings that are importuned, coaxed, begged, wheedled from saints and sinners. Whoever gives to the Lord is advantaged thereby. He not only forwards a benevolent cause, but cultivates generosity in his own heart. Church begging is undoubtedly doing great harm. Someone has remarked that in some churches the chief item of religion is begging for money—private solicitation and also public by the collection box. Church fairs, suppers, grab bags, etc., are still more reprehensible than the collection box. Someone has called such efforts “the milking of the goats.” The Lord’s people are supposed to be sheep, the world’s people, goats. The proper thought seems to be that each Christian should give according to his ability and his interest in the work; and non-worshippers should not be requested to give nor expected to do so. Who does not know that a large part of the money collected for church purposes is unwillingly given by people who not only are often not interested in the projects but sometimes opposed thereto. Protestant business men often give to Catholic charities rather than offend good customers, and vice versa. See 1 Cor. 16:2. (Z. '15-316; R.4777; Z. '11-75; R.4777)

12:16 — THE TRESPASS MONEY AND SIN MONEY — Sin offerings and trespass offerings.

17:2 — NOT AS THE KINGS OF ISRAEL THAT WERE BEFORE HIM.
— This is a rather doubtful compliment, that he was less evil in the sight of God than were his fathers. (Z. '11-152; R.4820)

17:5 — BESIEGED IN THREE YEARS. — It seems astonishing that the city could hold out three years. But then cities were often so planned that the outer walls included large sections of country where cattle could be kept, and thus the city supported from famine.

17:7 — AND HAD FEARED OTHER GODS — The decline of Israel as a nation from the time of Solomon had been a gradual one. The most religiously inclined had been attracted to Judah. (2 Chron. 10:15 note) Judah, with the smaller tribe of Benjamin, not only had the temple and the Holy City, but gradually gained all the holy people of Israel, attracted by the worship of Jehovah and repelled from their own tribal homes by the prevalent idolatry. The ten tribes must have wasted away considerably before this final overthrow. In previous wars captives had been taken, who having lost their religion were Israelites in name only, having no Father in God, nor interest in the Abrahamic promises nor in the land of Israel, were just as much at home and just as much in fellowship with the surrounding conditions and as well suited in religion as they were in their old homes. (Z. '11-153; R.4820) Probably the people were not worse off as respected their material welfare, for they were not treated as slaves but as immigrants and settlers. (Z. '04-349; R.3463)

17:10 — AND THEY SET THEM UP IMAGES AND GROVES — So now some worship the idols of wealth, fame, pleasure, and in a general sense the spirit of worldliness is swallowing up the time and talent and influence of Christendom. As natural Israel had its totem poles, some plain and some carved, so many spiritual Israelites have for their totem poles the creeds, and to these the masses bow with reverent thoughtlessness, neglecting God and his Word. (Z. '04-351; R.3464)

17:14 — BUT HARDENED THEIR NECKS — Unmanageable, self-willed, resenting every effort to turn them in the right way like an unruly yoke of oxen, stiff-necked. (Z. '04-351; R.3464)

17:15 — LIKE THEM — These other nations were not specially chastened of the Lord for idolatry, as was Israel, but were allowed to take practically the course they chose. (Rom. 1:28) (Acts 17:30) God gave them over to a reprobate mind to do things not proper, because they wished not to retain him in their minds. (Z. '04-349; R.3463)

17:18 — REMOVED THEM OUT OF HIS SIGHT — This was God's abandonment of the ten-tribe kingdom, his permission for them to have their way, and henceforth be treated of him as the heathen—without special chastisement. It was in this sense only that these tribes were lost. Located in various parts of Assyria they gradually assimilated and inter-married with the population around them and lost their identity as Israelites. It was because of their failure to appreciate him, hankering after false Gods and false worship and mixing these with the true worship, that God withdrew his favor. God did not cast them off without reproofing them (vs. 13), chastising them and sending them messages by prophets and seers, instructions, encouragements to repent and obey, threatenings, warnings—Elijah, Elisha, Jonah, Amos, Hosea. Through Hosea God had made specially kind and loving appeals to them, as a father to children. “How can I give thee up, Ephraim, how shall I make thee as Adamah (a desolate room)?” (Hosea 11:8; 6:4; 13:9) These messages had indeed an effect upon some individuals, but on the nation as a whole there was little effect and no reformation. They sold themselves to do evil in God’s sight. They became the slaves of their passions and self-deceptions, and were so misled of evil spirits as to consider the burning of their own children as acceptable sacrifices to false gods. It was well that all pretensions to their being people of God should cease, that they be removed to new scenes where their minds would be otherwise engaged, even though it should be an entire alienation from God. (Z. ’04-350; R.3464)

17:20 — AND THE LORD REJECTED ALL THE SEED OF ISRAEL —

All of God’s dealings with the children of Jacob were with a view to select the two seeds of Abraham, natural and spiritual. To this end their national experiences conspired—to find in that nation certain noble, loyal, reverential souls, as David, Jonathan, and all the holy prophets and to prepare that people by prunings etc., to be the people to whom the Messiah would present himself, and among whom he would find a goodly remnant prepared to be his followers. The separation of the ten from the two tribes was an important step. The promises of the Lawgiver were to be fulfilled through Judah, and hence any Israelites indeed of the ten tribes must have looked with longing interest toward Judah as the channel of their hopes—the Messiah and the fulfilling through him of the Abrahamic Covenant. Throughout the varying history of these two Kingdoms the greater religious faith was to be found in Judah and the more religious in Ephraim gradually removed to Judah and identified themselves with it, because of the greater religious privileges and blessings there enjoyed. Thus Judah eventually represented the cream of the nation, and not only Hezekiah but other kings of Judah had been well disposed toward Israel and welcomed them to their religious assemblies. Thus the captivity of Ephraim was merely the rejection of the skimmed milk of the nation and was not really at all to their injury as far as temporal interests were concerned. It was their cutting off from divine favor that was regrettable. By this last stroke the Lord would put away (in the captivity of Judah also later) (vss. 19, 20) all the more grovelling and sensual and worldly minded of his people. The desolation of the land for seventy years permitted all who would to forget the original covenant of which they were heirs, permitted them to intermarry with the nations around them if they would, permitted them to settle and prosper and be content in their new homes; and then the Lord opened up a way for all who are not satisfied with the good things they were enjoying to return to their own land, a desolate land. We can see that none of them would come back under such conditions except those who had strong faith in the Lord and in the original Oath Bound Covenant. All without faith and all of weak faith, all lacking in zeal would surely find it much to their advantage every way to remain where they were. The faithful people who did return (55,000) were the very cream of that nation and their successors to whom Jesus came, and presented himself as King represented in many respects the noblest and best people of the world. There are analogies in spiritual Israel. After the Apostles came the great falling away, chastisements and persecutions followed and finally the great majority went into captivity to Mystic Babylon. To these the worship of images and shrines and pictures and offering of incense and holy candles was associated with a great false sacrifice—the Mass. Gradually the Lord separated from that system of confusion and error, the few spiritual Israelites. Indeed, Protestantism thus grew. It had much that was reprehensible in God's sight, but was in some respects more near the Truth, but some were found at heart loyal. So God has thus been separating and preparing a remnant to receive him at his second presence, from Catholic and Protestants. (Z. '04-351; R.3464)

18:4 — AND HE CALLED IT NEHUSHTAN — This shows how ignorant some of the Israelites were as to the power which cured, or else how degraded they had become. But it reads “Until those days.”

18:7 — HE REBELLED AGAINST THE KING OF ASSYRIA, AND SERVED HIM NOT — Hezekiah urged by his people had probably joined the confederacy of Egyptians, Philistines and Sidonians by which they hoped to regain their liberty from the Assyrian yoke. They urged Judah to join them. Hezekiah did and stopped the tribute money—contrary to the Lord's admonition through Isaiah (8:12). The measure was popular and the King did not seem to realize how fully the prophet represented the Lord in this matter. He should have remembered that Israel was under a special Covenant with the Almighty, by which He was their King and the arbiter of their destiny. The error was allowed to work out a serious penalty for the disobedient, but when the King and people repented and gave evidence that the lesson had been learned, divine mercy came to their assistance. (Z. '11-171; R.4831)

18:10 — IN THE SIXTH YEAR OF HEZEKIAH, THAT IS THE NINTH YEAR OF HOSHEA — This would be 133 years before the desolation ($11 + 11 + 31 + 2 + 55 + 23 = 133$) and 380 years after the anointing of Saul; and 260 years after Jeroboam commenced to reign. See Ezek. 4:5. (739 B.C.)

18:12 — WOULD NOT HEAR THEM, NOR DO THEM — If reproofs are not rightly received, they do not have a corrective influence, they will have the opposite effect, the sinner will be more obstinate, and self-willed, opposed to God. (Z. '11-153; R.4820)

18:14 — I HAVE OFFENDED — Hezekiah acknowledges his unwise course. (See Isa. 8:12)

18:17 — AND THE KING OF ASSYRIA SENT . . . A GREAT HOST AGAINST JERUSALEM — Thus breaking his compact with Hezekiah in verse 14. The Assyrian king evidently was sorry he had made the agreement. (Z. '11-171; R.4831)

19:7 — BEHOLD I WILL SEND A BLAST UPON HIM — The Lord was waiting to be gracious as he always is to those who are his true people. (Isa. 30:18) He delayed to give the word of comfort until the necessities of the case had humbled the people and taught them the lesson of faith and dependence upon their God. (Z. '11-171; R.4831)

19:33 — BY THE WAY THAT HE CAME, BY THE SAME SHALL HE RETURN — This probably seemed a strange statement to the Israelites. Assyria had threatened to become the 1st Universal Empire, but such was not the Lord's will, that honor was reserved for the Kingdom of Babylon, nearly a century later. At exactly the proper time God was prepared to withdraw his own typical kingdom from the earth until Christ's Kingdom. The lesson for us is to note how the Divine power overrules and directs, so that all things work together in harmony with his will. (Z. '11-171; R.4831)

20:11 — HE BROUGHT THE SHADOW TEN DEGREES BACKWARD — Prof. Barbett, writing for a magazine . . . declares that he knew of an afternoon some years ago, when on many sundials in Southern England there occurred exactly the wonder described in the book of Kings. Asked by astronomer R. A. Proctor to describe it, he writes as follows: "The shifting of the shadows on the dials, which Isaiah predicted to sick Hezekiah are liable to occur at any place when these two circumstances occur:

1) the upper atmosphere is in that condition which causes two bright parhelion or mock suns to appear on opposite sides of the sun;

2) that the lower air contains drifting clouds, massive enough to hide two of the three (apparent suns). When the real sun and eastern mock sun are hidden, there is only the western (mock sun) to cast shadows, which then coincides with what the sun would cast an hour-and-a-half later; but if the cloud shift so to hide the west parhelion and disclose the eastern, the shadows instantly become such as the sun cast an hour and half earlier."

On March 29, 1858, these effects occurred had any one been looking, on every dial of Portsea and very probably much of Hampshire besides. The parhelia were present and bright enough at about 1:00 a.m. and still better at 1:00 p.m. (Bible Box, Labor Tribune)

20:20 — HE MADE A POOL AND A CONDUIT, AND BROUGHT

WATER INTO THE CITY — These celebrated reservoirs are known as the Pools of Solomon. In 1861 a visit was made by a party of men —

“Our course lay along the aqueduct leading from these pools or reservoirs, the grading of which along the hillsides forms a comfortable horse or foot path. The aqueduct goes to Jerusalem. Between Bethlehem and the pools the aqueduct is in a good state of preservation and in many places has been repaired. It is built of stone, the passage for water 18" broad and 12" to 15" deep, and lined with a strong coat of waterproof cement. It is carried on a near level the whole distance, following the windings and curvatures of the hillsides like a canal. Through this ancient channel the water still flows fresh and clear. Occasionally a hole was broken through the top, so the thirsty traveller can refresh himself. We had occasion several times to try the water and found it excellent.

“Upon entering a ravine these works of antiquity were suddenly revealed to our view. They are partly excavated in the solid rock and partly built of hewn stone. Many of these stone are of great size, and bear the marks of great antiquity. There are three of these tanks ranged along the ascent of the valley, one above and beyond the other, so the bottom of one is as high or higher than the top of the next one below it. When one is exhausted the second can be emptied into it and the 3rd through the 2nd. The size of these reservoirs is:

	Length	Breadth	Depth
Upper Pool	380 ft.	232 1/2 ft.	25 ft.
Middle Pool	423 ft.	232 1/2 ft.	39 ft.
Lower Pool	502 ft.	127 1/2 ft.	50 ft.

“The supply of water is abundant and excellent, a large stream of waste water flowing down the valley from the lower pool after the aqueduct is supplied. But the great curiosity of these pools is their source of supply, a fountain and place generally overlooked by visitors. Mr. Barklay, author of ‘The City of the Hills’ had spoken to us of this place and told us how to find it, and advised us by all means to see it. We went northward about forty rods to an open field covered with barley. Here we found a small opening in the ground like the mouth of a well, nearly choked with dirt and rubbish. My companions examined it from the top and decided not to enter. But I had come to see all that could be seen and I was going down if possible. If I found anything worth seeing I would call them. The descent was perpendicular for little more than the length of one’s body, and then turned at an angle of 45 degrees. There was scarcely room to crowd the body through, and I was soon in darkness. I slipped along a muddy inclined plane some ten or fifteen feet until I could stand erect, and struck a light. Fifteen or twenty feet below I saw an open chamber and heard the gush of running waters. I clambered down over rocks and dirt and then returned and called to my companions, and one after another they crept through the passage into the opening below. three or four candles were now lit. We stood in a vaulted chamber upwards of 40 feet long and 25 feet broad, the sides and roof protected by stone masonry. On one side of this was an opening into another chamber smaller and walled in the same masonry. This is the fountain head, whence the large reservoirs and aqueduct are supplied. The water springs up in copious streams from four different places, and is brought by small passages into a large basin, whence it flows off in a broad subterranean passage which is walled and roofed and arched and large enough for three men to walk abreast. It carried water to the northeast corner of the upper pool. There it branched into two, a portion falling into a vault 24 x 5 feet, and thence into the upper pool. Another carried a portion of the water along the hillside and so arranged as to carry a part into the second and third pools, and the rest directly into the aqueduct below the pools and on by a winding course into Jerusalem. The wisdom of this arrangement for an unailing supply is at once apparent. In time of freshet when the fountain yielded more than was needed the surplus passed into and was preserved in the pools. In time of drouth, it was augmented from the pools.

“These reservoirs are now (1861) called El Burak, and no one seems to question that they were built by Solomon. From this place the Holy City and Temple were supplied with water.” (Z. '20-329)

22:2 — This expression (see Deut. 5:32; 17:11, 20; 28:14) is used only of this king in this book. The work of purging and destroying the idol worship began in his twelfth year (2 Chron. 34:3) in all Israel, not merely in the two tribes. The book of Kings attaches the interest to the religious and theocratic features of the history, from the standpoint of the prophets; while the Chronicles deals especially with the ecclesiastical details, from the standpoint of the priesthood, ritual and hierarchical. (Lang)

22:4 — THE SILVER — This money was the result of offerings which came in slowly and steadily. They were to take up the money which had been paid up to this time, make an account and so finish up, make complete the sum on hand. This was paid in by all Israel. (2 Chron. 34:9) According to verse 11 much of the building's interior had been destroyed.

22:5 — TO REPAIR THE BREACHES OF THE HOUSE — Since the time of Joash, a period of 250 years, the Temple had not been repaired and had become dilapidated. (2 Kings 12 compare 12:4-16 with 22:3-7)

22:8 — AND HILKIAH THE HIGH PRIEST SAID — Though he was the High Priest he had not known that this treasure was in his keeping. To what depths must the priesthood and the Temple service have sunk! Quite evidently the injunction that the Law be taught to the children and read in the ears of the people had not been honored for a long time. The consternation of the king when it was read to him reveals that the Law of Moses was in general unknown to Judah at this time. It had been forgotten, and with it the ceremonies and ritual of the Day of Atonement, the Passover and feast days must have fallen into disuse. (B.S.M. April-May, 1959)

22:10 — HATH DELIVERED ME A BOOK — Shaphan was more indifferent than the High Priest. His remark to the King showed he did not realize its importance, perhaps just an old book, hopelessly out of date.

22:11 — HE RENT HIS CLOTHES — The King realized, as the book was read, that his ambitious plans for the rebuilding and repair of the temple (vs. 6) counted for little in God's sight without the deeper and more important thing, which had not till now even occurred to him—the Temple was but the outer shell, without the worship and service of a consecrated people, conscious of its own weakness and short comings, but confident in the saving power of God, the beauty of the restored Temple would be as ashes and its sacrifices an empty form and so an abomination in the sight of God. So we, in the midst of all our planning and scheming activity and service of our Master and the brethren, our preaching and witness to the world, all these are but sounding brass unless we have first made our hearts right with Him. The will of God for us is first our sanctification, and it is after we have started on the consecrated walk that he leads us to opportunities of service for Him. "Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice—Hath the Lord as great delight in burnt offerings and sacrifices as in obeying the voice of the Lord." But Josiah did not stop with the rending of his clothes—"Godly sorrow worketh repentance unto salvation." (2 Cor. 7:10) Happy are we if like good king Josiah, we can realize the situation when the Word of God falls on our ears, and act swiftly and decisively. (B.S.M. April-May 1959)

22:13 — GO YE, INQUIRE OF THE LORD FOR ME — Josiah did not stop with rending his clothes. Repentance is a necessary preliminary to justification and no progress can be made till that first step is taken. But we must not stop there but go on to develop in service and character toward perfection. Unless there is that tangible fruit of repentance, the repentance is not very real. Josiah sent speedily to learn the Lord's will in the situation.

23:5 — PLANETS — Hebrew = Mazzaroth, as in Job 38:32. See margin

I CHRONICLES

11:18 — BUT DAVID WOULD NOT DRINK OF IT — This journey was perilous for two reasons; 1) They were outlaws from King Saul; 2) Bethlehem was in the hands of the Philistines at the time. David showed a wonderful loyalty of heart. Not only did he appreciate the great devotion which they had shown, the risk they had run and the water they had brought, but he declared it was too precious and gotten at too great a cost to be lightly used. He poured it forth upon the earth in oblation, a sacrifice of thanks giving to the Lord for the blessings they were enjoying and for the comfort and support of such loyal associates. Surely the greatness of David and his devotion to the Lord and his faith were well manifested again in this transaction. It marks him as more than an average man, a noble man. (Z. '15-122; R.5672)

15:19 — HEMAN, ASAPH, AND ETHAN — For these see 1 Chron. 25:1-7. Ethan was son of Kishi or Kushaiah, a Merari Levite, through Mahli. Heman, son of Joel, Kohathite Levite. He was the king's seer (2 Chron. 25:5) and son of Joel, and grandson of Samuel (1 Chron. 6:33). Asaph, a son of Berichlah, a Gershonite Levite. (S.B.D.)

28:1 — AND DAVID — This was in David's seventieth year or thereabouts. (2 Sam. 5:4; 1 Chron. 26:31)

ALL THE PRINCES OF ISRAEL — These princes represented a) the heads of the families in the twelve tribes; b) the captains of industry and their subordinate officers; c) the military heads, in a word he gathered all the influential representatives of the Nation, civil, military and commercial. This was evidently a wise course and points a lesson to the Lord's people of this Gospel age. It is not sufficient that those who serve the Lord's flock shall be sure they understand the divine will in respect to the general interests of the work; it is expedient that they seek the cooperation of the entire congregation either directly or through their chosen representatives. David's assurance that God had chosen Solomon was a guarantee to him that the Lord would so overrule and influence the nation that they would gladly accept the Divine choice. At the same time the course would have been the wisest one in any event because it is an element of human nature to prefer to be considered rather than be ignored. (Z. '03-427; R.3276)

28:2 — HEAR ME MY BRETHREN AND MY PEOPLE — King David was evidently not of the dictator class, and all noble men and women will appreciate him all the more on account of this. Notwithstanding his greatness, his success as a soldier in establishing and enlarging the Kingdom, and his eminence as a poet, and his evident favor with God, he was not by any or all of these things made haughty, or tyrannical, or domineering, but even in speech was a faithful humble shepherd to the people over whom God had appointed him. No wonder his name is revered to this day not only by the Jews, his countrymen, but by all who love the Lord and the principles of righteousness. (Z. '03-427; R.3276)

28:3 — THOU HAST BEEN A MAN OF WAR, AND HAST SHED BLOOD

— Here we see a wide distinction between the character of our God and His temple and that of the other gods and their temples. The god's of the heathen are gods of war and their mighty ones are their bloody ones. One is impressed with the same thought in connection with some of the homage given to war heroes in the Nominal Church. In Westminster Abbey the names of generals and admirals and men of the world in general are almost the only ones made prominent. Nor was this exceptional in David's case, we see the same principle pointed out in the Law. (Num. 31:19) Those who participated in battle were unclean and required purification seven days before sharing in the principles of citizenship. (Z. '03-427; R.3276)

28:4 — THE LORD GOD OF ISRAEL CHOSE ME — In this speech the king was not attempting to defend his position on the Throne for that was conceded by all the tribes. But he did wish that the people should recognize the matter in a still higher light—that God was their real king and that God had taken the supervision of the affairs of the nation and directed matters up to that juncture. It is well that spiritual Israelites should refresh their memories similarly, that they should call to mind that God who was the King of typical Israel is specially the King of Spiritual Israel, and being our King the affairs of His Church are not left to chance or haphazard but, in their largest interest at least, are under divine supervision and care. (Eph. 1:22, 23) (Z. '03-428; R.3277)

28:6 — AND HE SAID UNTO ME — How he knew the mind of the Lord on the subject (how the Lord informed him) we are not told, but evidently he had assured Bathsheba years before that her son, Solomon, should fill the throne (1 Kings 1:17, 30) and now probably announced the matter, declaring that God had given him assurance that Solomon should build the great Temple which David was not permitted to build. (Z. '03-428; R.3277)

TO BE MY SON — We are not to understand by this that Solomon was lifted up from the house of servants and made a member of the house of sons. According to the scriptures the first opportunity for any of the house of servants to become sons of God was granted at the time of our Lord's 1st advent and in view of the fact that he had then already made consecration of himself as man's redemption price. (Z. '03-428; R.3277) Solomon typified Christ.

28:7 — AS AT THIS DAY — Solomon was born at a period when King David's activities as a warrior had very nearly ceased and when the great double sin of King David's life and his repentance from it had, we believe, wonderfully moderated and chastened him. His loyalty to God in this serious matter, his earnest prayer for forgiveness and realization of peace from God, apparently had made a new man of King David. Even though before this he had been loyal to God, he apparently now was still more devoted. The peace which he craved and which was a mark of Divine forgiveness may have had something to do with the gentle and thoughtful character of King Solomon, and something also, perhaps, to do with his name. It may have been given him as signifying that his birth marked peace with God on the part of his parents. Additionally the record seems to show that King David, having in mind a successor to his throne, and perhaps by that time having realized that he had not done his duty fully by his other children in allowing them to grow up under the adverse influences of the court, rectified the matter in the case of Solomon while he was still young, leaving him partly in his mother's care and appointing him as the ward and pupil of the Prophet Nathan. This excellent start in life doubtless had much to do with Solomon's career. (Z. '15-171; R.5701)

That Solomon was a model young man at the time of his induction into the kingdom is evidenced by these words—"As at this day."

28:9 — KNOW THOU THE GOD OF THY FATHER — Here knowledge is given its proper place. First, it is only in proportion as we know God that we can properly trust Him or faithfully serve him and the Christian's course should be a progressive one in these respects. (Z. '03-428; R.3277)

IF THOU FORSAKE HIM, HE WILL CAST THEE OFF FOR EVER — To us also the exhortation applies that we are to keep continually seeking the Lord if we would be continually finding Him more and more precious, and "if we forsake Him and break our covenant He will cast us off forever." (Z. '03-428; R.3277)

As a matter of fact Solomon did not continue in divine favor but was led astray by the dangers of his lofty position (1 Kings 11:4, 5) and forfeited for his posterity their share in the promise (1 Kings 11:11) hence we find that our Lord is not of Solomon's line but a descendant of another son of David, Nathan. (Luke 3:31)

28:19 — THE LORD MADE ME UNDERSTAND . . . ALL THE WORKS OF THIS PATTERN — This shows that the Temple was of the Lord's design, not David's. (Z. '96-209; R.2030)

28:29 — THE LORD GOD . . . WILL BE WITH THEE: . . . UNTIL THOU HAST FINISHED THE WORK OR THE SERVICE OF THE HOUSE

OF THE LORD — Solomon was strengthened in wisdom and power and did accomplish that work. So the antitype of Solomon has been strengthened, has been faithful, has been an overcomer, approved of the Father. He already has nearly prepared all the living stones which will constitute the living temple of God for the coming age through which the divine blessing will be administered for the restoration of the groaning creation. The building of the house, the growing together of the living stones is already in progress. Soon the capstone will be brought in with shoutings of Grace! Grace! unto it. (Zech. 4:7) See note 1 Chron. 29:2. (Z. '03-428; R.3277) See Isa. 42:4.

29:2 — NOW I HAVE PREPARED WITH ALL MY MIGHT FOR THE HOUSE OF MY GOD — This shows that the Temple was of the Lord's design, not David's. (Z. '96-209; R.2030)

II CHRONICLES

1:10 — GIVE ME NOW WISDOM AND KNOWLEDGE . . . FOR WHO CAN JUDGE THIS THY PEOPLE — Solomon recognized that the most necessary thing for the welfare of the nation was righteous judgment of the various questions pertaining to the nation's welfare, as well as those relating to individuals. Doubtless he had come to realize, as his later written proverbs clearly indicate, that selfishness is a foe to justice and the very wisest and best of governments need to be carefully guarded lest the selfish interests of some would work injury to others. The whole world realizes this today; and if we should ask civilized humanity what is the one great need of the world the answer probably would be—we need to have righteousness established between the nations, between individuals and we need wisdom to discern the right from the wrong, false from true, pure from evil. Many of the wisest people of the world, though realizing the needs of the present time, have reached the conclusion that it is useless to attempt to secure evenhanded justice in all particulars, amongst all classes; and those best informed respecting the teachings of the divine Word have been led to pray with greater earnestness than ever before—"Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven." They realize that earthly beings are all more or less fallen and selfish and a crying need of the world today is for a perfect government, backed up by full power to enact and execute laws of righteousness which shall control the whole world, subduing evil and exalting good. The antitype of Solomon, the Prince of Peace, Messiah, is to accomplish this in the world in the Father's good time in the Millennial Age. (Z. '03-431; R.3278)

1:12 — WISDOM AND KNOWLEDGE IS GRANTED UNTO THEE; AND I WILL GIVE THEE RICHES, AND WEALTH, AND HONOUR —

It was just like our Heavenly Father to give Solomon the riches and honor which he had not asked, as a reward of his appreciation of wisdom. Solomon tells us that riches and honor are in the right hand of wisdom. (Z. '03-431; R.3278) So Jesus asked only that he might be restored to his former glory, esteeming it joy enough to have served the Father in such an important matter. But the Father appreciated such loyalty and gave him grander exaltation than ever before. Like Solomon, Jesus sought for wisdom to do the Father's will (Isa. 50:4-9). Solomon, like Jesus showed that the glory of God and the good of His people were deeper in their heart than any selfish interest.

2:11 — BECAUSE THE LORD HATH LOVED HIS PEOPLE, HE HATH MADE THEE KING OVER THEM —

Solomon being a type of Christ, this would be in the antitype, "Because God loved the world of mankind He made the Millennial Kingdom arrangement and made Jesus and the Church, the Christ, king over them," (see chap. 9:8) to judge and uplift the world and teach them justice.

3:13 — WINGS OF THESE CHERUBIMS SPREAD THEMSELVES

FORTH — As the position of the cherubim in the Tabernacle pictures Love and Power waiting for Justice to be satisfied, so their position in Solomon's Temple illustrates that Justice had been satisfied; wings not together over the ark but outstretched to full extent, and their faces toward the Holy or Court (inward—Margin and Strong's)

STOOD ON THEIR FEET — As if about to fly.

FACES WERE INWARD — Looking toward the court as if some one had passed out. (Love and power to bless the world) because Justice is satisfied. (See 1 Kings 6:23-28; 8:6-8) (Ex. 25:37) Hebrew word for inward is bayith. This is translated inward in Ex. 28:26; 29:19; 1 Kings 7:35; 2 Chron. 4:4; Ezek. 40:9; Translated "without" only once in 2 Kings 11:15; "court" in Amos 7:13 (R.V. house) meaning Bethel. The word Bayith literally means house. (Strong's Conc.)

5:2 — BRING UP THE ARK OF THE COVENANT — The picture of the bringing in of the ark seems to be an illustration of the bringing of the members of the body of Christ from the Tabernacle or earthly condition to the Heavenly or Temple condition. Soon the Ark will be in place and priests and Levites and people are generally learning to sing of the Lord's mighty love and that His mercy endureth to completeness—to the full limit to which mercy could be of service, benefit or advantage; to the completion when every ear shall have heard, every eye have seen and every heart shown appreciation shall have come to a knowledge of the grace of God in Christ Jesus our Lord. Let us as day after day rolls by remember our three-fold relationship to the Temple: (1) We are still in process of preparation as living stones. (2) As members of the Royal Priesthood carrying the Ark we are marching from the Tabernacle to the Temple condition; some of our number have already entered it and some are on the way. (3) As the Lord's people, the time has come for us to know, to sing with the Spirit and the understanding the new song of Divine mercy, justice, love and truth. Let us be faithful in each of these respects, fulfilling our parts and ere long our course will be ended and the glory of the Lord will fill the Temple. It will be after this that the people will take up the refrain—for His mercy endureth forever—to completeness. (Z. '03-443; R.3283)

7:1 — THE FIRE CAME DOWN FROM HEAVEN, AND CONSUMED THE BURNT OFFERING AND THE SACRIFICES — The Lord openly manifested His favor toward the King and all the people by accepting their sacrifices with fire from Heaven (Z. '03-442; R.3283)

7:2 — GLORY OF THE LORD HAD FILLED THE LORD'S HOUSE — See Rev. 15:8.

7:3 — THEY . . . PRAISED THE LORD, SAYING, FOR HE IS GOOD; FOR HIS MERCY ENDURETH FOREVER — Probably, joining with the Levites in singing Psa. 136. It is noticeable that the Levites and people did not sing of divine wrath never ending, but of divine mercy forever. This however according to the strict significance of the Hebrew word (Ilam, see note Eccl. 1:4) does not mean “without an end” but “to an end,” that is, that divine mercy shall be exercised to its completeness, to its fulfillment until every creature shall be brought to a knowledge of the Lord and His goodness and to an opportunity of knowing Him and benefitting by the great promise made to Abraham and symbolized in the Ark of the Covenant. See Rev. 15:3, 4. (Z. '03-422; R.3283)

7:7 — BRAZEN ALTAR . . . WAS NOT ABLE TO RECEIVE THE BURNT OFFERINGS — This may picture the fact that more will consecrate than will be Spirit begotten, because the Bride will be complete and there will be no place there for them. Not being on the altar might mean not accepted as part of the sacrifice of the Christ. These may have part with the Ancient Worthies. See 1 Kings 8:64.

8:1 — AT THE END OF TWENTY YEARS — Seven years for the temple and thirteen for his own house.

9:8 — MADE HE THEE KING OVER THEM — See note Chapter 2:11.

10:15 — FOR THE CAUSE WAS OF GOD, THAT THE LORD MIGHT PERFORM HIS WORD — The split in that nation must have seemed a woeful disaster to many of the people, reducing them as a nation from a high place as one of the principal nations to a much lower place; perhaps even a failure of the divine purpose, that God never wished the nation to be divided, but wished the Jewish nation to become mighty, powerful, so that He might accomplish through them the promise to Abraham. But God had a different plan, He wished to humble and weaken them. Let us not look at this matter as wholly the result of unwisdom on part of kings and rulers, but as a matter entirely overruled by the Lord for a special purpose. The object in view of the entire Jewish age was the purifying of Abraham's descendants, so that the Lord might find in that people the most devoted, most obedient, so that when the time should come for the presentation of Messiah, the nation should be represented by its very best people, under the most favorable conditions. This was attained in the time of our Lord, notwithstanding the fact, that many were called hypocrites, and many others professedly publicans and sinners, yet the moral and religious conditions were never better. This is shown we think by the fact that in addition to the five hundred brethren who received our Lord during his ministry, several thousand were ready to receive him at Pentecost, and more thousands afterwards. It is doubtful if as many thousands of Israelites indeed in whom there is no guile, could have been found in any other period of Israel's history. The Lord sifted the nation time after time to take out of it the classes possessing less faith and to bring more closely together those possessing more faith, until the best results were eventually found. This was the beginning of a sifting process. The nation of Israel was more or less honeycombed with idolatry, though still the religion of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob was their national faith. The tribe of Judah became the most religious of all the tribes because of their nearness to the temple and its ceremonies. Both the sufferings and the royal glories were impressed upon them. With the political rupture came the tendency to cast off faith in the promises. Idolatry began to come more and more into Israel, and those who respect to the Lord and his promises were disposed to leave their own tribes and emigrate to the land of Judah. The division of the tribes therefore tended to sift the Israelites indeed from out of the various tribes to Judah. So the Lord overruled for the welfare of the true hearted.

So with us; we learn not to feel disappointed at what to others might appear to be unfavorable turns in national or temporal affairs, but realize that the Lord is wisely directing, not according to man's plan but according to His own plan in the interests of His own cause and people. (Z. '04-187; R.3385)

10:17 — CHILDREN OF ISRAEL THAT DWELT IN CITIES OF JUDAH — We see Israelites who were of other tribes and who were faithful to the promises, and who remained with Judah. (Z. '04-187; R.3385)

11:14 — THE LEVITES LEFT . . . AND CAME TO JUDAH — The priests and Levites lived in various places in Palestine. It is probable, though not so stated, that the Levites refused to cooperate in the establishment of those unauthorized religious services mixed with idolatry. If so it was to their credit. But the King would have no difficulty in getting others and to these probably went the tithes of the people. This would mean the deprivation of the Levites as a reward for their fidelity to the Lord and the truth. Many of them removed to Judah. (Z. '04-189; R.3386)

11:16 — AND AFTER THEM OUT OF ALL THE TRIBES OF ISRAEL SUCH AS SET THEIR HEARTS TO SEEK THE LORD GOD OF ISRAEL CAME TO JERUSALEM — Thus went on the sifting of the noblest, truest, and best people from the ten tribes was gathered to Judah, and was evidently a part of the divine program for preparing that people for the reception of Messiah in the due time.

Let us apply to our own hearts the lesson that evil is insidious and that every parting of the ways, every leaving of the divine path signifies a separation from righteousness to a degree which we are unable to estimate at the beginning. The only safe course to pursue is to trust in the Lord and be glad to have whatever His providences mark out for us, and to refuse to have anything contrary to His will, however desirable it might be, however gratifying to human ambitions. Ambition is a dangerous thing, especially in our present imperfect condition, our judgments more or less warped by the fall, where our knowledge is imperfect and Satan is sure to put light for darkness and darkness for light. Our ambitions must be curbed, yes, every thought be brought into subjection to the will of God in Christ, if we would be on safe ground as New Creatures in Christ. (Z. '04-189; R.3386)

12:9 — SHIELDS OF GOLD — These shields of gold which Solomon made, 300, and the 200 targets, were like the divine promises given to the early Church. Because of unfaithfulness were lost, and the unfaithful leaders of the church then made them copper hopes and promises (since they lost the heavenly ones) and now the nominal church's idea of heaven is merely the earth restored.

14:1 — ASA . . . IN HIS DAYS THE LAND WAS QUIET TEN YEARS — The great grandson of King Solomon twenty years after Solomon's death. (2 Chron. 12:13; 13:2)

14:2 — ASA DID THAT WHICH WAS GOOD AND RIGHT IN THE EYES OF THE LORD — Under all the circumstances one is inclined to wonder whence Asa received his aspirations for righteousness and loyalty to God. The gathering to Judah of many of the religious people of the ten tribes gave the true religion a strong impetus. The heathen religions were fascinating to the people, not only because showy, but because of the licentiousness of them and it is a weakness of the fallen human nature to want to be right and yet to be wrong; to pretend to do good while at the same time gratifying the lower and baser elements. The entire human family is weak in this respect as shown by all the heathen religions. The religion of the Bible is the only one that lifts its standard far above all baseness, which demands of its followers the highest ideals. This conflict will cause the children of the light to walk the narrow and difficult way. The darkness is reproved by the light wherever the light shines. Some such conditions must have prevailed in Judah, when the best people of the whole twelve tribes had gathered in Judah and were letting the light of their faith shine before their fellows. The influence of the truth took hold on Asa's heart, and upon his reaching the throne he promptly availed himself of the opportunity to strike a blow at idolatry. (Z. '04-2-2; R.3391)

His father was far from being a good man and his grandmother an idol worshipper. We have occasionally seen children of evil parentage, who seemed to see the evil of the parental course, and to be nauseated therewith, and by this is led into right paths. It has at times appeared as though God occasionally interposed in prenatal influences which made the child very different in bent of mind from either of its parents. St. Paul seems to have indicated something like this in his own case, when he declares that divine providence had favored him from his mother's womb. (Gal. 1:15) Nothing in this however interferes with the will of the individual. (Z. '10-379; R.4724)

14:9 — ZERAH THE ETHIOPIAN — Supposed to be Osorkon II of Egypt, or else Zerah was the General of that King. (Z. '04-203; R.3392)

14:10 — THEN ASA WENT OUT AGAINST HIM — This was the very occasion for which the nation of Israel had prepared under Asa, but he looked to God for the victory. So in the years of our youth we should properly put away all idolatry of money, fame, of honor of men, and should seek to know and do the will of God from the heart. In the early years of life we should erect the fortresses of character which will serve us as a defence against the attacks of the world, flesh and devil in later years, and when the battle comes, thus prepared, we are still to look to the Lord. Nor should a great victory elate us and make us careless and self-sufficient. Warned of the Lord as was Asa, we should make our consecration still more thorough and thus continue to fortify ourselves, that we may be strong in the Lord and the power of His might. See 2 Chron. 15:17; 1 Kings 15:14. (Z. '04-203; R.3392)

14:11 — O LORD, THOU ART OUR GOD; LET NOT MAN PREVAIL AGAINST THEE — This is a beautiful prayer. But it does not mean that all nations can pray to God thus and have His blessing. No nation of the world today is God's nation in the sense that Israel was His people. With no other nation has God made a Covenant as He did with Israel, and which existed between God and Israel from Sinai to Calvary. No nation or kingdom of the world today can claim divine authority or right or backing. The title "Christian nation," is a misnomer. The Lord acknowledges none of them, but describes them unitedly as Great Babylon, which in due time would fall and give place to the Kingdom of God's dear Son. (Z.'04-204; R.3393)

14:12 — THE LORD SMOTE THE ETHIOPIANS BEFORE ASA — Many ask why God is so often represented in the Old Testament as a God of battle. The whole world was lost in sin and under the death sentence. Whether therefore God permitted them to die by famine or pestilence, or naturally, mattered not; the death sentence must sooner or later be executed against them, all must go down to the tomb. They all are to have a resurrection to be blessed and instructed in the ways of righteousness. Israel also was under the curse. So the whole matter was just. But God chose Israel and used them to make types and pictures illustrative of His loving and wise and just purposes. Thus figuratively, Israel stood as representatives of God (and His people) and His righteousness in the midst of an idolatrous world, and when the ten tribes broke away, Judah was left as the special representative Kingdom of God, to which the loyal hearted of all the tribes resorted. (Chap. 15:9, 10, 15) He is a God of battle against all sin and evil, and these heathen nations represented the evils that spiritual Israel and later the world will have to combat, and how God will help them overcome. (Z.'10-380; R.4725)

15:2 — IF YE SEEK HIM, HE WILL BE FOUND OF YOU; BUT IF YE FORSAKE HIM, HE WILL FORSAKE YOU — The hour of victory is a more dangerous time than the hour of distress, the heart is more apt to be proud and self-conscious, and to feel its own importance. The divine warning helped the king and his people to appreciate the situation and take a firmer stand than ever for righteousness. A second and more thorough reformation was thus inaugurated. (Z.'10-380; R.4725)

15:9 — THEY FELL TO HIM OUT OF ISRAEL IN ABUNDANCE, WHEN THEY SAW THAT THE LORD HIS GOD WAS WITH HIM — They were glad to get away to a place where the great God was worshipped. (Z.'15-222; R.5733)

17:4 — NOT AFTER THE DOINGS OF ISRAEL — Jehoshaphat had good parents (1 Kings 22:41, 42)—a great advantage. The iniquity and idolatry of Israel, reacted favorably upon Judah, just as the drunkenness of a parent sometimes reacts upon his children, who perceive his folly and learn by his mistakes. Moreover the idolatry of Israel drove the most saintly characters into Judah (2 Chron. 15:9, 10, 15) enriching Judah in moral tone and character. This included all the priests and Levites who were still loyal to God and to His worship as established by Him. All these things produced a healthy sentiment in Judah, which the young king shared. (Z. '10-395; R.4730) (2 Chron. 11:13-17)

18:1 — JOINED AFFINITY WITH AHAB — No doubt he considered this marriage with his son and the daughter of Ahab and Jezebel a wise method of re-uniting the two kingdoms, but it was worldly wisdom and foolishness, contrary to the wisdom from above; for it ruined and made a wicked man of his son. (Chap. 21:6) Evil communications corrupt good manners. There is a corrupting power in evil, a downward tendency to which nothing in righteousness corresponds. A little leaven of sin can affect a whole community, it has a power of self-development in the fallen human nature which righteousness does not possess. The more we realize this the more we are led to look to the Lord for the one relief which the world needs. A son once asked his mother why she would not let him play with certain boys of the neighborhood. She said she feared their influence over him would be for evil. He asked why she should not expect that his good example would influence those boys rather than their bad example influence him evilly. She asked him to bring a tumbler of water and a bottle of ink. She asked him to put a drop of ink into the water and notice how it clouded and darkened the water. Then she put one drop of the water into the ink bottle and note how little change would be manifested. (Z. '04-205; R.3394)

19:2 — THEREFORE IS WRATH UPON THEE FROM BEFORE THE LORD — Indicated by his ignominious return without any evidence of divine favor, specially promised to the kings of Judah as long as in harmony with Jehovah. (Z. '04-206; R.3394)

19:3 — THOU HAST TAKEN AWAY THE GROVES . . . AND HAST PREPARED THINE HEART TO SEEK GOD — Evidently the experience was profitable to Jehoshaphat.

19:8 — DID JEHOSHAPHAT SET OF THE LEVITES, AND OF THE PRIESTS . . . WHEN THEY RETURNED TO JERUSALEM — He could hardly have acted more wisely. His sentiments are grand and worthy of a Gospel age saint.

19:10 — BETWEEN BLOOD AND BLOOD — In a murder trial, to determine whether or not the death was manslaughter, accidental killing, or in the second degree, unpremeditated, or incited by anger or fear, or third if murder in first degree, premeditated, intended; and so determine the degree of guilt.

BETWEEN LAW AND COMMANDMENT — Which were offences against the common law and which against the divine law.

STATUTES AND JUDGMENTS — Which against the law and usages of society, and to see that justice was meted out to all.

19:11 — DEAL COURAGEOUSLY, AND THE LORD SHALL BE WITH THE GOOD — Whoever has a duty to perform, let him not fear, and while seeking to do unpleasant tasks in a kindly manner, both justly and lovingly, let us fear not man, but rather fear the Lord and be intent on pleasing Him.

21:12 — AND THERE CAME A WRITING TO HIM FROM ELIJAH THE PROPHET — Elijah died about the time of the death of Ahaziah, king of Israel, about the 18th year of Jehoshaphat, King of Judah. In the fifth year of the reign of Jehoram of Israel, successor to Ahaziah, began Jehoram of Judah to reign, and reigned eight years. Sometime in his reign this letter came (about ten years after the death of Elijah?) So perhaps a prophecy called to our attention by Pastor Russell would be issued after his death to Kings of Christendom (Protestant).

24:13 — AND THEY SET THE HOUSE OF GOD IN HIS STATE, AND STRENGTHENED IT — See notes on 2 Kings 12. Noting the spiritual impairment of the House of God, the Church, all who love the Lord and worship Him should do their part, should make their contribution to the improvement of the spiritual conditions. The work is not to be left wholly in the hands of the clerical class. The people in general are to appreciate the situation. Each is to delight to do his part in the rebuilding of the spiritual walls of Zion. Those consist of the faith once delivered to the saints. Each Christian should ask himself, “What am I doing toward these repairs?” How am I manifesting to the Lord my zeal for the truth and righteousness and my hatred of sin and untruth? And as an answer to these questions each should redouble his efforts to understand the truth and help others to an understanding of it, whatever the cost to the creeds and systems of the dark ages. (Z. '11-76; R.4778)

26:16 — BUT WHEN HE WAS STRONG, HIS HEART WAS LIFTED UP TO HIS DESTRUCTION — Pride came in. He forgot that he was merely the Lord’s representative in the Kingdom, and his first duty as a loyal subject of the Almighty was to hearken and obey the divine commands. (Z. '11-89; R.4786)

HE WENT INTO THE TEMPLE OF THE LORD TO BURN INCENSE UPON THE ALTAR OF INCENSE — Having done great things from a political and military standpoint he essayed to a religious distinction. He evidently felt that God was proud of him and of his success, and would be very pleased to have him enter the temple, and like the priests, offer incense at the Golden Altar. He knew the rules and regulations governing the temple and its service, but considered himself above them. He would go direct to God and not recognize the priest. (See David). Many successful people fall into the same error of supposing that their success in business or politics, their brilliancy of mind, or their polish of education, are the only requisites in the sight of Jehovah. They feel that if they should go to church and acknowledge God, God should be very proud to have them, and of course should give them the first place in everything. This is a mistake. The Great King, “the Lofty one that inhabiteth eternity,” has rules governing all attempts to approach him. There is just one way and no other—through the Great Advocate the High Priest, Jesus Christ. “No man cometh unto the Father but by me.” (Acts 4:12)

26:17 — THEY WERE VALIANT MEN — This was only their duty, but it marked them as courageous, for in ancient times Kings had great power. King Uzziah was feeling his own greatness, and proud of it, was likely to resent any interference with his kingly prerogatives. Would that the modern priests were as zealous and courageous to point out the wrong and keep the temple class clean. (Z. '11-90; R.4786)

26:18 — FOR THOU HAST TRESPASSED; NEITHER SHALL IT BE FOR THINE HONOUR FROM THE LORD GOD — True honor and blessing and prosperity, cannot be found in opposition to the divine arrangements. Had the king hastened to glorify God, he no doubt would have received a blessing. But, instead, violation of divine law brought him a curse. (Z. '11-90; R.4786)

26:19 — AND WHILE HE WAS WROTH WITH THE PRIESTS, THE LEPROSY EVEN ROSE UP IN HIS FOREHEAD BEFORE THE PRIESTS IN THE HOUSE OF THE LORD — It was not enough that the king had good intentions to praise God. Good intentions should have led him to a study of the divine arrangements and promises. Ignorance of the law is not an excuse. “Study to show thyself approved.” Leprosy is a type of sin. So in the picture here is typified that whoever would approach God aside from his ordained priest (Christ), having a knowledge of the impropriety, would come under divine sentence as a wilful sinner, and the penalty be in proportion to his enlightenment. But this does not mean that the laity cannot approach God except through the clergy; no such thought, or such a division, is recognized by the Bible.

26:20 — THE LORD HAD SMITTEN HIM — The lesson is one of humility for both church and world. Some are humble minded and others self-conceited. The latter are handicapped as respects this grace though have more courage to battle against present adversities. On the whole our handicaps of fleshly imperfections are not so unequal as to make it easier for one than for another to enter the Kingdom under the Gospel Age call, for where much is given much will be required, and the judgment of the Lord will be according to the heart. (Z. '11-90; R.4786)

36:21 — THREESCORE AND TEN YEARS — Seventy years. Seven represents perfection (usually perfection of time), and ten represents numerical completeness.

EZRA

The books of Ezra and Nehemiah are not prophetic but historical. They take up the history of Israel where it was laid down by the Scribes who wrote the books of Chronicles. Ezra, the writer of this book, was a scribe (chap. 7:6) or an educated man whose genealogy is traced through the priesthood back to Aaron in Ezra 7:1-5. Ezra was amongst those who went up first to Jerusalem under the proclamation of Cyrus, he was probably not born till after that. The record of the first six chapters covers a period of twenty years; and then an interval of about fifty years passed before the events of the seventh chapter. He probably got the records of the return from captivity and the peoples' experiences in building the temple from the records of the Scribes at Jerusalem. (Z. '99-198; R.2509)

1:1 — THE FIRST YEAR — This evidently does not mean the first year of his reign as King of Persia, but the first year of his reign over Media and Persia as the successor of Babylon, in world empire. 536 B.C. (Z. '05-300; R.3642)

CYRUS, KING OF PERSIA — Nebuchadnezzar's theory of government was to bring representatives of the people of all lands to Babylon and there make them homogeneous. But when Cyrus came upon the throne as the Conqueror of the Babylonian Empire (Darius the Mede being under him) he found the theory of his predecessor had not worked out satisfactorily. The mixed people of Chaldea were not patriotic. Cyrus adopted the opposite plan for government in governing the world. He not only gave liberty to the Jews to return to their own land, but he did the same for the people of other nations. (Z. '11-378; R.4891)

HE MADE A PROCLAMATION — 536 B.C. the date of the return from Babylon under Cyrus' edict, was 572 years before A.D. 36 (the end of the seventy weeks of favor) and so the corresponding gospel date is 1309 A.D. This was the first year of the "Babylonian Captivity" of the Papacy at Avignon, generally recognized as forming the foundation of the Reformation. Archbishop Trench in "Medieval Church History" page 275: "Then in 1305 the French King contrived that the choice should fall on one who had so sold himself to carry out the wishes and policy of France that he did not feel safe anywhere from popular indignation except on the north side of the Alps and under the protection of him whom he had engaged to serve. After a brief residence at Bordeaux and then at Poitiers, Clement V. fixed his seat at Avignon. There from 1309-1377 he and six following popes resided. The "Babylonish Captivity" is the name by which this voluntary exile in a foreign land, with a servile dependence on a foreign power which this exile entailed, is often called, the name being suggested by the about seventy years for which this exile endured. The Popes could no longer be regarded as independent umpires and arbiters. Nevertheless they advanced claims to a universal monarchy which stood in ridiculous contrast with their own absolute dependence on the Court of France, a dependence so abject that there were times when the Pope dared not give away the smallest preferment without permission first obtained from the French King."

1:2 — THE LORD GOD OF HEAVEN HATH GIVEN ME — This may seem to teach that Cyrus was a believer in and servant of the true God, but we have no corroborative evidence. The records of his time refer to heathen gods and apparently make no mention of Jehovah. The heathen kings were then in the habit of recognizing the gods of the various countries they governed and wrote and spoke respectfully about them, apparently with a view of preserving the respect for their realms of all the creeds amongst the worshippers. So England and other countries now do to the heathen they govern. Positiveness in religion is found usually only in those who have the truth and a clear knowledge of the divine plan; or in fanatics blinded by prejudice, ignorance and superstition.

HE HATH CHARGED ME — Probably as a result of being shown the prophecy of Isaiah 44:26-45:4, and his desire to prove himself the one mentioned by fulfilling it. See note Dan. 10:13.

1:4 — WHERE HE SOJOURNETH — Unprepared for the journey.
(Z. '11-379; R.4892)

BESIDE THE FREEWILL OFFERING FOR THE HOUSE OF GOD
— So under the antitypical Cyrus, Christ, the Israelites indeed will return from Babylon and build the temple (Church in glorified condition) and the new Jerusalem.

As in Egypt the Lord here arranged matters so that the people thought well of the Jews and gave them whatever was needed for the work. So at the final return the Lord will bless the Jews and enrich them for their setting up in Jerusalem. The proclamation gave liberty to all Jews who remained to help that they might not feel that the king would be offended if they gave of their substance to help the enterprise, but specially mentioning that such cooperation would be pleasing to the King. (Z. '99-199; R.2509)

1:5 — THEN ROSE UP THE CHIEF OF THE FATHERS . . . THE PRIESTS . . . THE LEVITES . . . WITH ALL — Tradition says the Israelites set out accompanied by an escort of a thousand cavalry for their protection against the desert Arabs, and went forth to the sound of joyous music in harmony with Isa. 48:20, 21. (Z. '11-379; R.4892) See note on chap. 3:3—burnt offerings.

It is important to notice that the decree of Cyrus gave no mandate to build the city, but to build the Temple only. There was a deep truth here for Israel to learn. Their temple was to rise undefended in the midst of a hostile population. The Lord himself would defend his own Temple. They fell after the same example of unbelief that has been so often in world history—recourse to material means of defense, to carnal weapons to defend divine interests. They did not understand that God is able to defend His own.

WHOSE SPIRIT GOD HAD RAISED — We are not informed as to just what way the Lord did this. We may suppose that those whose hearts burned within them with faith in the divine promises to Israel and with zeal to be and to do whatever would be acceptable in God's sight, would be awakened, and quickened by Cyrus' decree, which was of God's instigation; also by the presents of gold etc., from the people and from Cyrus and also Cyrus' return of all the vessels to the temple. (Z. '99-199; R.2509)

1:11 — ALL THE VESSELS . . . WERE FIVE THOUSAND AND FOUR HUNDRED — An astonishing number! (Z. '05-301; R.3642)

SHESHBAZZAR — Zerubbabel.

2:64 — THE WHOLE CONGREGATION TOGETHER WAS — 50,000 is about the same number that now occupy the city of Jerusalem (returning after) a still greater captivity than at the time of Cyrus and a wider scattering. (Z. '11-379; R.4892)

2:65 — SERVANTS . . . MAIDS . . . SINGING MEN AND SINGING WOMEN — Remembering the length of time the people had been in Babylon and that scarcely any of the Jews living at the time of this Emancipation Proclamation had ever been in Palestine, that they had merely heard of it through their parents and that only a few aged men and women remembered to have even seen the city as children, it will not surprise us that the total number volunteering to return and rebuild the city and temple was only 50,000. But they were a choice 50,000 as nearly as could be reasonably expected. Israelites indeed. In their hearts burned faith in God and in the great Abrahamic promise, which had held their nation together up to that time. In their captivity they had learned lessons respecting why they had been cast off from divine favor, and had learned also to look and wait for this very event they knew the prophets had foretold that it would be seventy years of desolation, and they recognized that the opening of the door was of divine arrangement. Many of these were probably children, probably more than half. The great mass of the nation having become settled in business and in family relationships in Babylon, were loth to leave. Just as today, Palestine being open to the Jews only a few are returning from U.S. where they are prospering in business, etc. The majority are from countries of persecution and chiefly poor. Though not all these were poor. (Ezra 2:69) We may be sure the Lord did not wish the return of any except those who had reverence for him and faith in his promises. So we may conclude that the company which did return, 50,000, was composed of the very choicest of all Israel out of all the tribes, the tribes of Judah, Benjamin and Levi being most prominently represented, as most of the faithful ones for several centuries had been found in their tribes. After the return the divisions Judah and Israel were recognized as one people, all Israel. (Ezra 2:70; 6:16, 17) (Z. '99-199; R.2509)

2:69 — GAVE AFTER THEIR ABILITY — About $400,000. See Neh. 7:71, 72.

3:1 — THE SEVENTH MONTH — Perhaps they arrived about July or August and their first work was to build at least temporary homes, and then at about the feast of Tabernacles in the 7th month. Num. 29. (1st day = feast of Trumpets; 10th day = Day of Atonement; 15th day for 7 days = feast of Tabernacles, 8th day was ingathering.) Also Lev. 23:26.

3:3 — UPON HIS BASES — On the same Rock as Abraham offered Isaac and also where David built an altar in the threshing floor of Arannah and offered on it an acceptable sacrifice and stayed the plague. (2 Sam. 24:21-25) See verse 10 and note. (Z. '99-201; R.2511)

BURNT OFFERINGS — Illustrating that all approach to God, all reconciliation, atonement with Him must be by and through the great Sacrifice for sins which these sacrifices typically represented. Vain are all other approaches to God than through the Ransom for all.

This base of the altar is now protected by a railing, put up by Mohammedans who have a great respect for the holy places. It is of solid rock and has a rather distinct trench or groove around it, which probably conducted the blood of the slain animals to what seems to be a natural drain or sewer by which the blood flowed in the direction of the valley of Jehoshaphat, the valley of graves. So the life of the Lamb became a stream or fountain of life for all not only of Israel but all mankind. The flow of blood toward the Valley of Jehoshaphat seems to speak symbolically of life for the dead, through the Ransom. And as not only the blood of the bullock, but that of the goat as well flowed through this natural channel, so the Church fills up that which is behind of the afflictions of Christ, and her sacrifice must be finished before the world can have life. (Z. '99-201; R.2511)

3:4 — THEY KEPT — Dr. Peloubet says: “The exiles brought together the representatives of the divided kingdom and made one nation where there had been two, welding the twelve tribes together like iron in a furnace.” God represented this union to the prophet Ezekiel (37:15-28) by two sticks. On one was written “Judah” and on the other “the House of Israel.” These sticks were joined together. “And they shall become one in thine hand.” This was done in the presence of the people to show that the exiles of Israel carried to Babylon in B.C. 722, when Samaria was destroyed were to unite with the captives of Judah. Thus we see that there were no “ten lost tribes,” for whom there has been so much seeking. See Ezek. 37:15-22. (Z. '11-379; R.4893)

3:8 — THE SECOND YEAR — Probably the journey from Babylon had taken about four months. (Ezra 7:9) After leaving their homes in Babylon they reached Jerusalem only to find greater discouragements. Very few of them had ever seen the place before, and these few had seen through the eyes of childhood, for the city had been desolate seventy years. The Temple had been demolished by Nebuchadnezzar's orders, many private residences destroyed and after seventy years of such desolation “without inhabitants” the place was a wilderness. Trees were growing in what formerly were streets. Everything in disorder. Any other class than those full of faith and zeal as these would have been discouraged. The Lord thus tries our courage and faith and zeal not to destroy them but to deepen and fix them, to establish us, develop us in character. All such trying experiences will work out to our advantage if we will but persevere in our faith and zeal and love. It required more than a year to put themselves in a reasonable condition for living and then their attention turned to the Temple. That they should have begun so soon to think of the house of the Lord speaks well of their spiritual condition. (Z. '05-314; R.3649)

So these seventy years of captivity, of desolation of the land of Palestine, represented the seventy Jubilee cycles, whose time of fulfillment we now are living in. In this long interim of time God's favor was transferred from natural to spiritual Israel, from the house of servants to the house of sons, and the antitypical Babylon had carried away captive the Lord's people and all the golden and silver vessels of truth. Spiritual Israel has been in captivity waiting for the promised glorious deliverance by Immanuel, the greater than Cyrus. The proclamation of liberty for the Lord's people to go out of Babylon has not been generally responded to by them. A comparatively small number of them have had such a love for the Lord, such a reverence for his promises, such a desire to be inheritors of those promises as to lead them to sever earthly ties and bonds which hold them satisfied in Babylon. But some have heard, some have rejoiced, some have stepped out and some are still leaving. Our antitypical Cyrus, our Present Lord, has permitted us to bring back the golden vessels, the golden truths, which for so long have been misappropriated, misused, misunderstood in Babylon. (Z. '05-302; R.3643)

As the company of Israelites left Babylon with joy and rejoicing, so we now who have gotten free from mystic Babylon rejoice exceedingly and would not go back under any consideration. See Jer. 51:6. (Z. '99-199; R.2509)

The only ones disposed to risk the hardships and to go forth into the desert, leaving the strong walls and protection of Sectarianism, are those who have great confidence in God and great respect for the promises made to the seed of Abraham. The call to return to the old path, and to rebuild the temple of the Lord and replace therein the vessels of gold and silver (the precious truths of the divine Word—setting them in order as at the first) is appreciated by only a few. (Z. '99-200; R.2510)

As Israel's experiences were used under providential leadings, to sift and test, purge and separate and purify the proper class to be ultimately brought back to the Lord and inherit the Land of Promise, so the experiences of the Lord's people during the "dark ages" in captivity to Babylon and recently, all tend to show us the necessity for separation from the world and its spirit, and to appreciate more than ever the divine arrangements by which the Lord is making ready for Himself and His service a peculiar people zealous for the Lord, for the Kingdom and for all good works. (Z. '99-200; R.2510)

3:10 — THE FOUNDATION — This was built on the consecrated site, for it is supposed that Abraham's typical offering of Isaac was made upon this very "dome of the Rock" upon which the temple was built, a Rock alike revered by Moslem, Jews and Christians. (Z. '05-315; R.3649)

3:11 — ALL THE PEOPLE SHOUTED — So now spiritual Israelites returned from Mystic Babylon should shout and sing the praises of our King from our higher standpoint of knowledge and appreciation of His grace and truth. All such who are in right heart attitude are full of songs of gratitude and praise, not always audibly however. The Psalm of life which each of the Lord's followers declares in actions and words to those about him is the best testimony, best praise we can raise, more to the glory of our King than many others.

If the Israelites who remained in Babylon, whose faith and courage were not sufficient, could have witnessed the scene at a distance, they doubtless would have shouted for joy that they had not undertaken such a pilgrimage and such a work of restoration. But as Paul and Silas could sing in the prison with their backs bleeding from the cruel lash, while others enjoying every luxury of life in the same city were miserable, so it was with the returned Israelites, full of faith and hope they looked forward to still greater favors from the Lord in harmony with His promises. So with us now, we rejoice not because of temporal favors, but the joys of faith in the divine promises, the culmination of the same promises to which the Israelites aspired. (Z. '05-314; R.3649)

THE FOUNDATION OF THE HOUSE — Now as the foundations of our Temple were laid at Pentecost under apparently very unfavorable conditions—a dead leader and a handful of a few hundred disciples scattered and considerably discouraged. Yet those who have the right view of it see by the eye of faith in Jesus the great Rock of our Salvation typified by the rock of the dome, the top of Mount Zion on which the Altar of Sacrifice stood. The twelve Apostles as the foundation stones by divine appointment (John 17) built upon the Rock Christ Jesus and upon the ministries of those appointed representatives, a glorious Church, a glorious temple of the Lord is being erected. (Z. '05-315; R.3649)

3:13 — A LOUD SHOUT — If we have been astonished from time to time at the readiness of the Israelites to go into idolatry, we may also feel astonished that from the time of their return from Babylon idolatry in its grosser forms was never even known among them. (Z. '11-379; R.4893) See Neh. 13:23-31.

4:2 — LET US BUILD WITH YOU — These 42,000 people, about 35,000 of whom are supposed to have belonged to Judah, Benjamin and Levi, and 11,000 from the other ten tribes, occupied only a small district in Palestine, about 25 miles square, Jerusalem the center. The rest was more or less settled by immigrants. The King of Babylon followed the practice of moving the captives of the nation into the territory of another, so that being broken up from old associations they would be more dependent upon the Babylonian government and lose their own natural traits. These people settled in Palestine had acquired some of the traditions of the land and its religious customs, and in our Lord's day were called Samaritans. (Matt. 10:5, 6) They now remembered the ancient glories of the nation and of Solomon and the first Temple. We cannot doubt they were sincere in their offer and really their religious fervor prompted them to it. (Z. '05-345; R.3664)

4:3 — YE HAVE NOTHING TO DO WITH US TO BUILD THE HOUSE OF OUR GOD — Some commentators think the Israelites made a great mistake here. But Jesus by his conduct and words fully substantiated the thought that the Samaritans had nothing to do with the true Temple and its building. God had been sifting the true seed of Abraham to select from it the faithful few, and now to have invited the Samaritans to come in and join them in the temple building and services would have been to bring in a semi-heathen mixture which the Lord did not desire. This is just what the Christians did after the Apostles fell asleep, let the Greek Philosophers, who were good men and anxious to help come in and help in the Church, people not consecrated, "strangers." (Note 1 John 2:26)

So today there are Samaritans, who have no part nor lot in building this great temple, men and women of good character, and religious inclinations, found in all denominations. Some are "good Samaritans," helping the sick and indigent. Worldly wisdom says these (though not consecrated) should be recognized as "Israelites indeed." Many are inclined to upbraid us for refusing the fellowship and cooperation of these. We should appreciate and encourage whatever is good in these, but as oil and water will not mix so likewise there can be no real union between the consecrated and unconsecrated. The spiritually begotten ones would thereby injure themselves by compromising their Covenant with the Lord, and it would deceive the Churchianity class into thinking they could be joint-heirs with Christ without consecration; be injurious to both classes. (Z. '05-345; R.3664)

If these strangers were permitted to share in the work of building the Temple, they could with propriety claim a share also in the character of the worship which would be established therein, and they foresaw that it would open the door to laxity in religious matters, and perhaps to the old idolatry, on account of which the Lord had so severely chastised them. Our Lord would not accept the aid of the demons. (Mark 1:34; Luke 4:41) The Reformers accepted the service of the worldly and to their cost, for it soon filled the church with "strangers." The tendency in every case is to bring in an unsanctified influence and to do great injury to the true Israelites. Nominal Zion is full of "strange children" and their voice and influence predominate in the business affairs of the Churches and in doctrines. "The Christian in the world is like a ship in the ocean; the ship is safe as long as the ocean is not in the ship." One of the great difficulties with Christianity today is that it has admitted the "strangers," "the people of the land," and recognized them as Christians. It does injury not only to Christians by lowering their standards (for the average will be considered the standard), but it also injures the "strangers," by causing many of them to think themselves Christians, thoroughly safe and needing no conversions because they are outwardly respectable and frequent attendants at public worship. It lowers the standard of doctrine also, for the minister who realizes that three-fourths of his congregation would be repelled by the presentation of the strong meat of the truth, withholds it and permits those who need the strong meat and who could appreciate and use it to advantage, to grow weak to starve. Also strangers have been attracted to the ministry and these not knowing the Lord nor His Word, are thoroughly unprepared to feed the sheep, even were they so well disposed. The lesson for us is that worldly persons, worldly aid and wisdom is to be rejected. (Z. '99-204; R.2512)

(Hosea 8:8-10)

4:4 — THEN THE PEOPLE OF THE LAND WEAKENED — They became angry and thought no doubt the Jews were bigots, and consistently worked against them. So now, those who are faithful to the Lord, “the people who do know their God,” are esteemed to be religious bigots and fanatics by some of the respectable of Churchianity (moralists, liberalists and Higher Critics) who consistently with their views of the subject, are doing all in their power to hinder the temple building. We need to understand the situation properly or we would soon be discouraged and think of God as being against us because He permits such opposition. These really serve to do the chiselling and polishing of our characters, necessary to fit us for the honorable stations in the Temple of glory soon to be completed. We should not forget that we are the stones and He the master workman, and all the trials, difficulties, oppositions, perplexities, etc., are the chisels, wheels and emery sand for our preparation. (Z. '05-316; R.3650)

4:5 — TO FRUSTRATE THEIR PURPOSE — In some respects this corresponds to the establishment of the Church at Pentecost. (Zerubbabel laid its foundation, and would complete it. Zech. 4:9) The joy associated with the founding of the Temple was followed by a period of slackness, the result of the opposition of the Samaritan neighbors, who employed every art to discourage the building and cause an interruption of the work. As a result several years elapsed before the structure was finally completed. Just so, after the founding of the Church by Jesus and the Apostles, and the great season of refreshment associated with it, came a period of fierce opposition from Satan and his blinded servants (the strangers in the Church). As a result little was done to build up the Church—the preparation of the living stones, yet finally with the Lord’s assistance and encouragement through the Reformation Movement the work has progressed and the spiritual temple is nearly complete. This will receive its top-stone in the sense of being brought directly in contact with the Lord glorified and under His guidance. (Z. '05-316; R.3650)

Dr. Peloubet says: “The exiles brought together the representatives of the divided kingdom and made one nation where there had been two, welding the twelve tribes together like iron in a furnace.” God represented this union to the prophet Ezekiel (37:15-28) by two sticks. On one was written “Judah” and on the other “the House of Israel.” These sticks were joined together “And they shall become one in thine hand.” This was done in the presence of the people to show that the exiles of Israel carried to Babylon in B.C. 722, when Samaria was destroyed were to unite with the captives of Judah. Thus we see that there were no “ten lost tribes, for whom there has been so much seeking.” See Ezek.37:15-22. (Z. '11-379; R.4893)

4:24 — IT CEASED UNTO THE SECOND YEAR OF THE REIGN OF DARIUS — A period of seventy to twenty years. (Z.'05-333; R.3659)

The second year of the reign Darius Hystaspes = 521 B.C. (Z.'05-182; R.3575) thus a period of 14 years. (Ezra 3:8)

Up to this time only the foundations of the Temple were laid. Building operations were not much begun until this second year of Darius Hystaspes (521 B.C.) and the Temple was finished in the sixth year of his reign. (Ezra 6:15) 517 B.C. Usher's Chronology puts the date of the second year of Darius as 521 and other authorities seem to corroborate this by placing the date of his ascension in 521. But Prof. Rawlinson in "Five Great Monarchies" Vol. 3, page 404, states that Darius mounted the throne on the first of January 521 B.C., and then adds in a footnote on page 408 in connection with the statements of Ezra 5:2; Hab. 1:14, 15, that according to Jewish modes of reckoning "the 14th day of the sixth month of the second year of Darius would be September 521 B.C., 8-1/2 months after Darius' ascension." This is probably correct as both Ezra and Habakkuk would reckon by the ecclesiastical year. The rebuilding of the Temple would therefore occupy the four years from 521 B.C. to 517 B.C. and the corresponding dates in the Gospel Age are 1324-1328 A.D. In 1324 Marsiglio published his famous book "Defensor Pacis" (Defender of the Peace), a book against the Papacy, and in 1328 he died. In the autumn of the same year the Emperor Lewis (of Bavaria) who had been induced to attempt some of the reforms advocated by Marsiglio, deprived of his (Marsiglio's) advice, retired from Rome and gave up the attempt. (Z.'05-183,184; R.3577, 3578) See Archbishop Trench "Medieval Church History," page 280; Workman's "Dawn of the Reformation" Vol. 1, page 80; Prof. Lodge's "The Close of the Middle Ages" page 98; Poole's "Age of Wycliffe," page 28; (this last gives some points of Marsiglio's teachings) which were far in advance of his age.

So the whole glorious dream faded, and the golden hopes with which the exiles had set out to return to their own land were in less than a decade dashed to the ground. At the first opposition the people had wilted and laid down their tools and turned themselves to the secular pursuits—tilling the land, gaining livelihoods, building houses, organizing commercial life, buying and selling, marrying and giving in marriage—while the deserted, half finished house of God stood on Mount Moriah, a monument to the fickleness of man and the weakness of his faith. "Fear knocked at the door, later faith opened it, and no one was there."

5:11 — WE ARE THE SERVANTS OF GOD . . . AND BUILD THE HOUSE — Behold now the difference! Since God had raised up these two prophets, Haggai and Zechariah. How different from the attitude shown in verse 24 of Ezra 4 and Haggai 1. The prohibition of the Persian King was still in force. (Ezra 4:21) The wrath of the King could still be backed by the military might of Persia if this handful of Jews dared to rebel against his express decree. The Samaritans were still there, their ancient enemies, at whose instigation the work had been stopped. They were malignantly watchful and would not hesitate to report any new activity to the King without delay. There was no change in the circumstances, no reason from the material point of view why any fresh endeavor would not meet the same fate as past ones. And yet the fervent preaching of these two prophets so wrought upon the minds and hearts of the people that they forgot all their fears and apathy, regained their faith and without so much as a thought about the king of Persia, rose up as one man to resume the building of God's Temple. (B.S.M.)

The wonderful inspiration which we may draw from this thrilling book, we give to the days when these two young men stood in the markets of Jerusalem and bade the people forget their fears, pay no heed to the mandates of that heathen King, and enter the service of the Lord their God in the building of His Sanctuary. There was no fear and hesitation now! The same Zerubbabel and Joshua, the same builders and laborers, the same citizens who 17-20 years ago had laid down their tools at the king's behest, now proudly declare their determination to continue. Last time they ran away from the lion; this time they faced the lion and defied him, in the strength of the Lord, their God.

So cleansing must precede entrance into divine favor, proceed consecration, and faith and zeal proceed a place in the divine purpose. The powers of this world may threaten and forbid; it is the spirit that trusts in the overruling power of God Most High, that will defy the forces of evil and lay hands to God's work, in full confidence that He will defend and prosper and bring triumph at last. Let us remember that there was a time when the powers of this age, the powers of evil had to be defied before God's protection could be manifested and His work go forward. It may be so now.

6:19 — KEPT THE PASSOVER — This passover was one of the most memorable Israel had ever known. This Passover denoted something more than the deliverance from Egypt, more than their recent deliverance from Babylon. It was deliverance from the bonds of apathy and indifference which had well nigh cost them the loss of their favored standing before God. It marked their entrance into a new life, in which God and His holiness held first place and became the center of all life's actions and activities. All was holiness unto the Lord. (Zech. 14:20, 21) "Whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God." (Col. 3:17)

7:1 — NOW AFTER THESE THINGS — Nearly 75 years after the first company went up under Zerubbabel, about fifty years after the Temple was finished. With the completion of the Temple came a lull in the zeal of the people and a corresponding deadness in religious matters. See Neh. 1:1. We must sympathize with the struggles of those poor people, against the unfavorable conditions surrounding them. Their city wall was still unbuilt, they were exposed to the malevolence of their neighbors, who hated the Jews, largely because of their refusal to mingle with the Samaritans, a thing which the former were not permitted to do according to the Law of Moses. Added to this unfriendly feeling from their nearest neighbor was the fact that they were continually subject to trouble, loss of life and loss of property from marauding bands. They did not connect these losses and disadvantages properly in their minds, nor see that rightly received, all these matters would have been working good to them, and that anything which would not have been for their welfare the Lord would have hindered. Instead they grew careless and indifferent to religious matters, losing considerably the zeal which first brought them from Babylon. Indeed many of them concluded they would affiliate more with the Gentiles around them. (Ezra 9:1) Thus settling at naught the divine counsel, would seek worldly alliance for themselves and their children. As a result with many of them religion had reached a very low plane. The Law was disesteemed and disobeyed. God still had His eyes upon the nation however, which He had chosen, and which according to divine purpose, must be sifted yet kept together until the coming of Messiah, and the establishment through him of spiritual Israel. In harmony with this the Lord stirred up the love and zeal of others residing in Babylon, chiefly the children of some who had declined to go in the first return under Zerubbabel, or were too young to choose and exercise choice at that time. (Z. '05-333; R.3659)

7:7 — IN THE SEVENTH YEAR — Xerxes (Ahasuerus, Ezra 4:6; Esther 1:1), the Persian king who took Esther to be his queen, and who exalted Mordecai, her uncle, to be chief minister of state in the Persian Empire, had been murdered by a palace conspiracy, and his son Artaxerxes was the reigning monarch at the time Ezra undertook this expedition. B.C. 467. (Z. '05-333; R.3659)

Rollin in his Ancient History of the Medes and Persians says (Book 6, paragraph 18) that Xerxes died in 473 B.C. and quotes as authorities Ctesias, c. 2; Diodorus, book 11, p. 52; Justin, Book 3, ch. 1. He says Xerxes reigned 12 years, in book 7 paragraph 1, he states that Artaxerxes was crowned in 473 B.C. and reigned 49 years. In accordance with this he mentions (Book 7, paragraph 6) that Ezra's commission was in 467 B.C. and Nehemiah's in 454 B.C. Regarding the latter he says: "Artaxerxes immediately caused a decree to be drawn up that the walls and gates of Jerusalem should be rebuilt, and Nehemiah as Governor of Judea was appointed to put this decree in execution. It is from this decree communicated by Artaxerxes in the 20th year of his reign, for the rebuilding of the walls of Jerusalem, that we date the beginning of the seventy weeks, mentioned in the famous prophecy of Daniel after which the Messiah was to appear to be put to death.”

The year in the Gospel age corresponding with 467 B.C. (the date of Ezra’s commission), is a very important date. It is the year of the great Papal Schism, when Wycliffe came out as the great reformer.

Workman in “Dawn of the Reformation” p. 172; “Wycliffe’s spiritual earnestness was shocked and his theory destroyed by the spectacle of two Popes, each claiming to be the sole head of the church, each labelling the other Antichrist. To Wycliffe the year of the Schism 1378, was the crucial year of his life. He first urged that both Popes should be set aside as having little in common with the Church of the Holy God. From the position of neutrality he quickly passes into one of antagonism to the Papacy itself.”

Archbishop Trent in “Medieval Church History”: “Gregory XI died on March 27, 1378 and the Papal Schism broke out. The year 1378 marked the turning point in Wycliffe’s career. Hitherto he had concerned himself with matters of mixed ecclesiastical import, but henceforth he devoted himself exclusively to matters of doctrine and came out as the Reformer. He began in earnest the translation of the Bible into English, and took the next step decisively by an open attack, forced upon him by his studies of the Bible, against Transubstantiation. The effect was immediate. The University itself turned against him. He was forbidden to teach. Ever afterwards he did in nearly all his writings, introduce in some way a statement of views on Transubstantiation.” Can anything be more conclusive than that we have here a parallel, not only in time but in events in 467 B.C. and 1378 A.D.? Ezra in leading back from Babylon many Israelites, and bringing with him some vessels for the service of the house of God did for the literal Temple what Wycliffe by his doctrinal reforms did for the spiritual temple. (Z. '05-182; R.3575)

7:13 — MINDED OF THEIR OWN FREE WILL TO GO — The Jews evidently were prosperous in Babylon and their exile for a time at least led them to earnest study of the Law and Prophets. In fact Judah, under Ezra, perhaps as one of their chief representatives, seemed to prosper in Babylon more than in Jerusalem—not as a whole but a certain pious few. These were vexed as they from time to time heard of the poverty of their brethren in Jerusalem, and that religious matters were not prosperous there, and that the rebuilding of the temple, which represented divine presence with the nation was but poorly served. (Z. '11-410; R.4911)

7:24 — NETHINIMS — (From Hebrew nathan — to give, and is its past participle) = people given or dedicated to the Temple service, to help the Levites. From this root comes Nathan (given), Nathaniel (given of the Mighty God), Nathaniah (given of jah or Jehovah).

7:27 — HATH PUT SUCH A THING AS THIS IN THE KING'S HEART

— In the Lord's providence his (the King's) acquaintance at his father's court as a boy would associate him with Mordecai and other Jews prominent in the Empire and inspire him with respect for the God of the Jews. (Z. '05-333; R.3659)

8:1 — THESE — These were volunteers, no one had a right to insist on their going. Some may have gone in a spirit of adventure, but doubtless having knowledge of the condition at Jerusalem, the majority were thoroughly enthused with a religious ardor for God and for His Law. Knowing what we do through the records of Ezra's thorough going character, teaching and practices, we may be sure that no other class would be attracted to the standard raised by him in this expedition. (Z. '05-333; R.3659)

8:21 — A FAST — Self-denial. Not the weakening of the body by total abstinence from food, but a disciplining of it by abstaining from delicacy, relishes, etc. It not only relieves the physical system of over pressure but with many tends to clear the mind and make it more acute, more spiritually inclined. To all believers especially to all starting on a course of consecration, self devotion to the Lord and His cause, we commend fasting in reasonable and proper ways, denying oneself the gratification of the natural passions and in general living moderately, using its comforts and blessings and not abusing them. Such use of them will be to our highest advantage as New Creatures in Christ. This is not an occasional curbing, but an everyday one. Our every day is a fast day, a day of self-denial as respects any and everything sinful or that would not be to the spiritual advantage of ourselves as New Creatures. (Z. '05-334; R.3659)

A RIGHT WAY FOR US — There was a shorter way through the desert, but it would have been more unfavorable and extra hazardous on account of the Bedouin tribes of the desert, who would seek to rob them.

8:22 — I WAS ASHAMED TO REQUIRE OF THE KING . . . TO HELP US

— To ask for an escort now would be to imply a doubt of the favor of God toward them or of His ability to protect them. The prayer did them good, awakening their hearts to realize the Lord as the Captain of their salvation, and that the whole expedition was based upon faith in the Lord and in promises as respects the present and future life. So we have the guarantee that whatever befall us, the Lord is able and willing to overrule it for our good if we trust in Him. It is in proportion as this promise fails to be appreciated that we look to the world for protection. This very experience of realizing danger and feeling timidity may prove indeed a blessing superior if it will but lead us to the Lord, through fasting and prayer. Our fasting, like our baptism, has a definite point of beginning and a definite point of ending. It begins with our baptism even unto death and ends in death. These self-deniers, these fasters, are the self-sacrificers, the overcomers of the world, to whom the blessings both present and future are specially promised—peace, love, joy, and fruits of the Spirit now, and joint-heirship in the blessings and glories and perfections and completeness of the Kingdom by and by—glory, honor, and immortality. (Z. '05-334; R.3659)

8:23 — HE WAS ENTREATED OF US — So this applies to the spiritual Israelite who is journeying to the New Jerusalem under the leading of the great High Priest of our profession. Our fastings and prayers to the Lord for protection and help along the narrow way and for success to the journey's end, are heard, and the Lord assures us in advance that such prayers are heard and granted. If we live out our consecration day by day the results will be more than we could have asked or thought. (Z. '05-334; R.3659)

8:24 — THEN I SEPARATED — All of the priestly class, typifying the Royal Priesthood. The different departments of the great Temple. Every talent and character item we develop here will be a treasure in heaven, which will each one be put to a particular use in the work of the Great Restoration.

8:28 — THE SILVER AND THE GOLD — Between two and three million dollars of our money, but really equivalent to much more than this when we consider that labor is much more valuable now than then. (Z. '05-333; R.3659)

8:29 — WATCH YE AND KEEP THEM — So our Lord has entrusted to each of us talents and pounds (Luke 19:11; Matt. 25:14) for which we must ultimately give an account, and He urges us to watch and keep these. Watch—because the agents of the adversary will seek to rob us of these by attacking us unawares, when we are off guard or sleepy, not watching, and so leave us to appear naked and empty before our King at the end, and be ashamed. Keep—because we will be tempted to misuse them and so gradually lose them because God will take away what we continue to misuse.

One way or the other the Adversary will seek to rob us of our treasure either directly or by having us misuse them. (Jer. 8:10, 13; Matt. 22:11-14; 25:24-30; Luke 19:20-26) O let us watch lest we enter into temptation. Weigh them—give an account of our stewardship. Chief Priest—Jesus Christ our High Priest, Levites—Great Company and all the holy angels and Ancient Worthies, too shall know. At Jerusalem—the kingdom of Heaven, New Jerusalem. In the chambers of the house of the Lord—(the different departments of the great Temple). Every talent and character item we develop here will be a treasure in heaven, which will each one be put to a particular use in the work of the Great Restoration; in the mansions above. But these treasures will then be given us to use again and put in the parts of the Great Temple, to be used by us for the blessing of all Israel, the world, in the work of the priests. (See Z. '05-335; R.3660) Those of Ezra's company had to hide theirs but we may show ours openly, let them shine.

8:35 — TWELVE BULLOCKS FOR ALL ISRAEL — Showing that the nation was regarded as a whole and that representatives of all the twelve tribes were there and not merely of the two tribes, and that the nation was not considered as divided any more.

9:2 — THE HAND OF THE PRINCES AND RULERS HATH BEEN CHIEF — So today many of the children of the most devout reformers have lapsed into measurable indifference about the holy things of the Lord and His Law, and are disposed like the Israelites of the first return to not only fellowship with the world but to amalgamate with it in customs, habits and social functions. The spirit of separation and consecration which enthused their forefathers is dying out, leading to a mixed, or Churchianity condition not at all pleasing to the Lord and calling for reformation. On the other hand we see spiritual Israelites coming out from Babylon with great zeal for the Lord and for His cause, and if perhaps we wonder we find a solution of the matter to be that some of these inherited a blessing from their parents, and we remember the word of the Lord that He would show mercy and favor to many generations of them that love and reverence Him. (Z. '05-334; R.3659) See Ezra 7:6 and note.

9:4 — EVERY ONE THAT TREMBLED AT THE WORDS OF THE GOD OF ISRAEL — Ezra magnified the Law showing the people how the calamities that had befallen them were all foretold in the Law and the result of failure to keep the Law; and the proper course now was not only to build the Temple as they had done, but to go back to the Law and seek to keep it inviolate to the best of their ability. (Z. '05-335; R.3660)

10:1 — WEPT VERY SORE — The way of the transgressor is hard. (Z. '11-410; R.4911)

10:5 — THEN AROSE EZRA, AND MADE . . . TO SWEAR THAT THEY SHOULD DO ACCORDING TO THIS WORD — Ezra's course would be roundly denounced by the entire civilized world today. But evidently he did the proper thing at the proper time, in God's sight. This should teach us that if any of us have been backsliders and grown cold and careless and it behooves us to wake up before it is too late; and reminds us that we must expect that those improper ties then formed and associations will be painful in the breaking up and will show us the cost of disobedience; and yet if we would live spiritually and not go to second death these ties must be broken, however painful it may be.

Much the same course today is prescribed against the Mormons and the wives of plural marriages and bigamists, though it works great hardships on the women and children cast off, but such is the result of evil doing. This applies also to spiritual harlotry of many that have come out of Babylon. After having come out of Babylon in leaving Roman Catholicism they have become involved with the world in a Babylonish system—Churchianity. The Lord's people have entered worldly alliances through worldly sects and parties, contrary to the divine command, and to its spirit, which commands us to be subject in religious matters to the Lord alone. These misalliances today are so general with the daughters of Rome, that only the Israelites indeed will have the spiritual ears to hear the message of present Truth, or the spiritual courage to break off the improper union, to stand out separate from all earthly alliances, as the people of God, recognizing the one Head of the one Church whose names are written in Heaven, and recognizing as brethren all who are united to that one Head, and repudiating all false bodies of Christ (churches) as well as the false heads to which they are united. This is the particular trial of our day. The voice of the Lord is being sounded in every quarter of Christendom saying, "Babylon is fallen," "Come out of her my people." The Churchianity of Protestantism is but a transplanting of the Spirit of Babylon to new ground and brings into bondage all who will associate with these sects and parties; and all who would be in full accord with the Lord and have His blessing fullest must be faithful to His message and stand firm at any cost. To such and such alone the message of the Lord is now going forth, proving a glorious blessing and uplift, bringing them nearer to the Lord and in closer fellowship with those who are truly His and most completely under the blessed provisions the Lord has made for His faithful. NEHEMIAH

NEHEMIAH'S COMMISSION AND ANTITYPE: — The year 1391 A.D. corresponds to the year 454 B.C., Wycliffe died in 1384, before he could personally carry into effect all that he longed for, but his works followed him. It was John Huss of Bohemia who more particularly took up the work of reform after Wycliffe's death. Though it was in the early years of the 15th century, up until his martyrdom in 1415 A.D. that his work attracted general notice, yet it was in 1391 that Huss might be said to have received his commission to rebuild the walls of Spiritual Jerusalem, for it was in that year that he became acquainted with the works of Wycliffe. (Blackie's Modern Cyclopedia, Vol. 4, p. 483)

Thatcher and Schwill in "Europe in the Middle Ages" p. 539—"Political considerations the alliance between Henry V and the Papacy, led to repeated persecutions of his followers, and so all of Wycliffe's efforts at reform came to nothing. But the cry for the reform of the church was never again hushed in Europe. Through one of his pupils, John Huss of Prague, his teachings were carried to Bohemia where they also caused a great uprising.”

Huss condemned its (Papacy’s) worldliness, its right of secular possessions, and objected to the supremacy of the Pope. The Bible according to him, ought to be the sole rule of faith. (Z. '05-182; R.3575)

1:2 — HANANI — Nehemiah was a young Jew of one of the prominent families of the Babylonian captivity. His brother Hanani had been among those who went up to Jerusalem with Ezra. That expedition had been partly successful and partly a failure. Ezra had heroically drawn the line between Jew and Gentile. The walls of Jerusalem had been repaired in a fashion but their enemies had been angered by what they no doubt considered the arrogance of the Jews in considering themselves separate and distinct from other peoples, refusing to intermarry with their neighbors. The sending back to their homes of all foreign wives capped the climax of what the neighbors considered injury done to them. These enemies had spitefully attacked the city, broken its walls and burned its gates. The people of Jerusalem, comparatively few in number, weary and exhausted, did not have the energy to rebuild and repair. Moreover they feared to do so lest their enemies would deal harshly with them. (Z. '05-342; R.3662)

ONE OF MY BRETHREN — Thus the message was brought from Jerusalem to 250 miles beyond Babylon. Shushan was on the banks of the Ulai River. (See Daniel 8) (Z. '05-342; R.3662)

1:3 — THE GATES THEREOF ARE BURNED WITH FIRE — The news made him heartsick, for not only had he the usual patriotism, but as a Jew and a believer in the divine threatenings and promises, he had an intensity of love for the land of his forefathers, a burning desire to lend his assistance in every manner for the recovery of the Lord’s people, and their re-establishment in power as the Lord had promised. (Z. '05-342; R.3662)

1:4 — MOURNED CERTAIN DAYS — Nehemiah was praying without ceasing during these four months. Of course he attended daily to his duties, but this prayer was always in his heart, the sentiments of his mind, and more or less associated with all his thoughts, plans and arrangements. So it should be with all the Lord’s people of spiritual Israel. The things for which we have only a slight desire we may mention once or twice at the throne of grace; but those things which lie very close to the heart become our continual prayer, associated in our minds with all of life’s interests and duties. The heart gravitates continually toward the things which we have desired of the Lord, and on suitable occasions we repeat the request to Him, first making sure that the thing we ask is in accord with His promises. This is the kind of prayer Jesus commanded (Luke 18:1) saying that men ought to continue to pray, and not to faint; that the Lord's people should continue to ask for the right things with some degree of persistency, and should not grow weary, hopeless, faithless, faint in their minds. (Z.'05-342; R.3662)

AND PRAYED — Note the form of this prayer:

- a) God's greatness and majesty;
- b) acknowledging His faithfulness in the past, a fulfiller of promises;
- c) confess of sin and weakness;
- d) acknowledging His just ways;
- e) recalling His promises;
- f) claiming them by faith;
- g) asking guidance, strength and the main request.

1:5 — O LORD GOD . . . THAT KEEPETH COVENANT AND MERCY FOR THEM THAT LOVE HIM — He did not reproach the Lord as having failed in His part of the covenant, but quite to the contrary, acknowledged that the Lord's ways and dealings with Israel had been just and true and that their difficulties were the just penalties due them for the violations of the covenant made at Sinai. He expressed confidence also that the Lord would keep His covenant and have mercy upon the people, or upon those at least who would walk in His paths. (Z.'05-343; R.3663) 1:6 — I PRAY BEFORE THEE NOW, DAY AND NIGHT — See note on Nehemiah 2:1.

BOTH I AND MY FATHER'S HOUSE HAVE SINNED — No proper prayer can be offered to the Creator that does not acknowledge in some manner the weakness, the deficiency, imperfection, sin of the one approaching the throne of grace. Even we New Creatures approach the throne of grace for help in time of need. But our boldness is not self confidence but trust in the merit of the precious blood. Nehemiah was very open in his confession and we all should be, however our faults may reasonably be screened from the eyes of others while we are seeking to do our best. (Z.'05-344; R.3663)

1:11 — GRANT HIM MERCY IN THE SIGHT OF THIS MAN — His prayers were to the point, that he might have a special blessing from the Lord upon himself and upon a mission which he believed the Lord would be willing to put in his care. This shows his strong faith in God. We have often wondered if a deficiency of faith along such lines is not a part of much of the trouble of God's truly consecrated people today. We know that sometimes they have severe trials from those who hate them, despise them, or deal unjustly with them; and we wonder to what extent they remember, as Nehemiah did that God has full power to open ways and means before us whereby we may engage in His service, if He be willing to have us. (See anecdote in Reprint) (Z.'05-343; R.3663)

I WAS THE KING'S CUPBEARER — In those days kings needed to be continually guarded against poisons which could be easily mingled with their food without detection. Consequently the cupbearer was one whose loyalty was deemed irreproachable, and his duties afforded him privileges and opportunities for intimate intercourse with the king more than others. They became confidants of royalty and court advisers, really of occupying the position of a minister of state. (Z. '03-343; R.3663) 2:1 — AND IT CAME TO PASS IN THE MONTH NISAN — Nehemiah was thus praying for four months before the Lord gave him his request. No doubt there are many reasons why the Lord delays to grant such of our requests as are in accordance with His will: 1) To test the strength and depth of our desires for the good things we request of Him. He tells us He is more willing to give us the Holy Spirit than an earthly parent is to give earthly good things to their children; yet the giving of His Holy Spirit is a gradual matter, and we are enabled to receive it only as we empty our hearts of the worldly or selfish spirit. It requires time to become emptied of self and prepared for the mind of Christ, requiring longer in some than in others. Yet all need to be emptied to receive the refilling. He that seeketh findeth, but the more he seeks the more he finds; to him that knocks it shall be opened, but his continual knocking and his increasing interest in the knocking means his increasing desire to enter; so as the door of opportunity and privilege swings slowly open before him his courage and strength increase, as he seeks to avail himself of the opening; and thus every way the blessing is greater than if the Lord had granted the petitions more hastily. (Z. '05-343; R.3663)

As with Nehemiah so with us; patient endurance and faith are among the lessons which the Lord wishes us to learn by the delay in answering our petitions. Doubtless the four months of delay was used by the Lord in more or less preparing the king for cooperating with Nehemiah. (See Dan. 10:20.) So it may be that while we are praying, the Lord is not only preparing us for the blessings and opportunities we desire, but also preparing the circumstances and conditions which will bring us these opportunities, etc. in the best form.

2:2 — I WAS VERY SORE AFRAID — Because his life was in danger. This was evidently at a banquet at which the Queen was present. Even a modern autocrat like Louis XIV expected everybody's face to shine if he did but appear. How much more Artaxerxes! If he had ordered his melancholy visage away to prison or death it would have been justified by precedent. (Z. '99-236; R.2526)

2:8 — AND THE KING GRANTED ME, ACCORDING TO THE GOOD HAND OF MY GOD UPON ME — Apparently the preparations for the journey occupied nearly a month, and the journey itself three months, bringing Nehemiah and his retinue of servants to Jerusalem about July.

(Z. '99-236; R.2526)

2:9 — NOW THE KING HAD SENT CAPTAINS OF THE ARMY AND HORSEMEN WITH ME — Nehemiah's course was different from that of Ezra. It was perfectly proper for him to use the means at hand to protect his life and the property under his care for the Lord's service, and not to tempt God, even as Jesus refused to tempt God. Ezra's preparation was such as necessitated going alone and so it was not tempting God, but trusting Him; while Nehemiah with no less trust, as shown by his prayer was doing properly in using an escort, as he was a king's officer. Our faith in God should not lead us to expect Him to do for us what we are able to accomplish for ourselves. (Z. '05-361; R.3675)

So we should in no case refuse reasonable safeguards when under the Lord's providence they are furnished. (Z. '99-237; R.2526)

2:11 — I CAME TO JERUSALEM AND WAS THERE THREE DAYS — Nehemiah was a man of action. He had come to Jerusalem for a purpose and wasted no time. (Z. '05-361; R.3675)

2:12 — NEITHER TOLD I ANY MAN — Had he done so his enemies would have heard of it and taken steps to interfere; and this course was better to arouse the interest of the people, for he could thus examine carefully and see what needed to be done and he could then speak as a man who knew what he was talking about. Many of the Lord's people need to learn this lesson of secretiveness—not to tell all they know. We are exhorted to be swift to hear and slow to speak—not too ready to tell all our plans and arrangements. Some had thought that to secrete any matter, to avoid telling all one knows, giving full answers that would reveal all that is asked would be deceptive, sinful. It is well to have our conscience, but conscience needs training. Jesus often did not tell all he knew nor give a full answer. See Jn. 16:12. In answering his enemies' questions, who sought to entrap him he avoided answering them or gave them evasive answers. See Mark 11:27-33; Jn. 8:25-27; 2 Cor. 12:6. In all things Jesus was wise as a serpent and harmless as a dove. He did not refrain from telling what was really proper to be told, necessary to the comfort or advantage of his questioner. An evil mind can put an evil construction upon the noblest words and deeds, as the Jews did of Jesus. The apostle Paul used wisdom in dealing with those he desired to bless, hiding from them for a time truths which at first they were not prepared to receive, but afterward, when necessary to them, making them plain, so that he did not shun the whole counsel of God. Strong meat for those developed and milk for babes is the thought. Let us more and more seek to exercise heavenly wisdom in all our affairs, that we may accomplish as much good as possible and stumble or choke none. (Z. '05-361; R.3675)

WHAT MY GOD PUT IN MY HEART TO DO AT JERUSALEM —

He took a survey of the condition of the city walls by moonlight for three nights, meanwhile maturing in his mind the plan he was about to suggest. There is a valuable lesson here for spiritual Israelites. If we desire to do a good work we must first and thoroughly inform ourselves respecting the needs of the case, so that our course of conduct may be both reasonable and efficient. This is none the less true and important if the walls which need repairing and building are those of spiritual Zion, the church of the living God, the Holy Jerusalem; nor less if they are the walls of our own characters, hearts, dispositions. We should take a full survey of the weaknesses and deficiencies in order to be able under the Lord's direction and by His assistance to build ourselves up in the Most Holy Faith and similarly build up others of the true Zion. Inspection properly precedes any intelligent and profitable reformation. (Z. '99-237; R.2526)

2:17 — THEN SAID I UNTO THEM, YE SEE THE DISTRESS THAT WE

ARE IN — Nehemiah did not begin his work by chiding his brethren with unfaithfulness to God, or with lack of enterprise. Such a course would have further discouraged them, antagonized them, and perhaps caused them to say, "You will see how it is for yourself when you are here a few years." Neither did he begin by boastfully saying, "I have come here to do some work and in an incredibly short time you will see it accomplished. I will accomplish in days what you have failed to do in years." Such a course would have aroused the opposition of the very ones without whose aid, humanly speaking, his mission would be sure to be a failure. Many Christians can learn a valuable lesson here. Whoever desires to be a co-worker with God should work in the Lord's way and be guided by the spirit of Love; for love does not think unkindly or ungenerously, or slightly of the efforts of others, nor is it boastful. But its trust is in the Lord and its boast in Him. This lesson is also valuable to us in individual efforts in our own hearts to build up good characters acceptable in God's sight through Christ Jesus our Lord. We are to remember that nothing is to be gained but much lost by the thinking or feeling boastfully of what we hope to attain in self-control and character likeness to the Lord. Nor is much to be gained by repining over misspent opportunities of the past. The proper course is to begin afresh with confidence, not in ourselves, but in him who called us and has given us such exceeding great and precious promises. (Z. '99-237; R.2526)

3: — Nehemiah not only prayed and labored but he also planned the work. The people entered into the work spiritedly, each anxious not only to see the whole wall built, but anxious that his own share in it should be substantially done, a credit to himself as well as to the city. There was tact in this. It was making use of the natural tendencies of the human mind. It would be well for the Lord's people charged with the building of the walls of the New Jerusalem† (Rev. 21:14, 18; Eph. 2:20 though God is the real builder Heb. 11:10) to likewise encourage and stimulate one another in the work which all have at heart. There is labor for all in abundance, for those who have a mind to work, and right at hand for each, work to which each one is suited.

†In the Reprints the wall of righteousness surrounding God's people and keeping them separate from the world. (Z. '05-361; R.3675)

4:1 — HE WAS WROTH, AND TOOK GREAT INDIGNATION —
As these enemies of the Jews were wroth without a proper reason, from selfish motives, so those who are engaged in the Harvest work, in the rebuilding of the walls of Zion, in the replacing of the doctrines of righteousness and truth, overthrown by the Adversary during the dark ages, find opposition from the world, the flesh and the devil, but chiefly from the Sanballat followers of nominal Christianity, the “mixed peoples” who have a form of Godliness without its power. All these opposing influences are ready to combine to hinder the reestablishing of the truths and principles which properly separate the Lord's people from all others. Various schemes and hindrances are devised. (Z. '05-362; R.3675)

4:2 — HE (SANBALLAT) SPAKE BEFORE HIS BRETHERN AND THE ARMY OF SAMARIA — Sanballat was evidently governor of Samaria, a people of mixed Jewish and heathen parentage, typifying the mixed peoples of Christendom who have a form of godliness without its power. (Z. '05-362; R.3675)

4:3 — TOBIAH THE AMMONITE — Governor of the Ammonites across Jordan.

IF A FOX GO UP, HE SHALL EVEN BREAK DOWN THEIR STONE WALL — The opposition first took the form of sarcasm and ridicule, saying that the wall they were building was not scientifically done, would not stand the tests of Higher Criticism. Those today building upon the wall of Zion, each in his own place according to his opportunity, must be prepared for a similar sarcasm. “Who are you? What are you? What can you hope to accomplish? Look at Romanism, at Methodism, at Presbyterianism, look at all the wealth and learning represented in the various denominations of Christendom! What can you hope to accomplish by the rebuilding of the walls of Zion?” Those who are easily put to shame and who give up the work of building evidence thereby that they have not the faith that would be pleasing to the Lord if they withdrew in spite of all we can do to encourage them. We must let them go, though by and by they will regret such a course. (Z. '05-362; R.3675)

4:7 — ASHDODITES — A Philistine city in the south. These were opposed for several reasons—the fortification of Jerusalem meant an increase of Jewish power and proportionate decrease in their own influence. They remembered its old greatness. Besides religion was the factor with all these peoples. Each had his own religious party and creed, and the success of the Jews in Jerusalem meant the triumph of the God of the Jews and the corresponding lessening of the influence of those who differed. Also the Jews scattered among the peoples and more or less amalgamated with them would be more likely to be drawn back to Judaism if its capital were again a stronghold and the nation seeming to rise more completely from the dust. (Z. '05-362; R.3675)

4:8 — CONSPIRED . . . TO COME AND TO FIGHT AGAINST

JERUSALEM — Seeing that sarcasm availed nothing, and that the building of the wall progressed with considerable speed, they secretly took counsel to attack the city.

4:10 — AND THERE IS MUCH RUBBISH; SO THAT WE ARE NOT ABLE TO BUILD THE WALL — While outer foes were working, other matters tended to discourage the workers: a) The supply of stones for the wall became more difficult to secure. As the top and loose ones were used the others needed to be more or less dug out. b) As the wall grew higher it made slower progress and required greater effort to carry the materials onto it. c) The burden and heat of the day sapped the strength of the laborers and they needed the encouragement which Nehemiah continually gave them—that the Lord was on their side, that their prayers were heard, etc. (vs. 16) and to remember how great the Lord was. It is so with many of the Lord's followers today building on the walls of Zion. At first we felt so glad to be rid of the tormenting errors of the dark ages, so glad to be free and to know something of the Divine Plan of the Ages. But with outward opposition came also greater labors as we strove for the mastery over ourselves and to build one another up in the Most Holy Faith. How many spiritual Israelites who began with great courage and zeal and shoutings of joy, have become more or less disheartened. But not all. By the Lord's grace there are encouragements and stimulations for the laborers on the walls of Zion: Pilgrim visits, conventions, sermons, etc. (Z. '05-362, 363; R.3675, 3676)

4:12 — WHEN THE JEWS WHICH DWELT BY THEM CAME — Some of the builders had in the Lord's providence come in from the surrounding country, anxious to have a part in the work and the secret messages for these to return home because of an attack about to be made reached the ears of Nehemiah. Leeser: "From all places (in the city) whence ye shall return home (the laborers who lived outside return to their homes among these enemies) (they intend to come) over us" (they will be upon us.)

4:18 — FOR THE BUILDERS, EVERY ONE HAD HIS SWORD GIRDED BY HIS SIDE, AND SO BUILDED — Thus the work progressed under difficulties, showing that love and zeal was behind the work. Thus today with all laboring in the Harvest, each one needs to be armed, not though, with carnal weapons, (2 Cor. 10:4) but with the whole armor of God. (Eph. 6) Whoever is not armed is in danger of being overcome by the Adversary. When we are opposed we must be able to give a reason for the hope that is in us with meekness and reverence, from the word of God, wielding the sword of the Spirit. Our warfare has reached this stage at the present time. Our enemies no longer ridicule us as at the first. Let each who is a servant of the Lord and who has consecrated his life to His service be on the alert continually. Greater is He that is for us than all that be against us. (Z.'05-362; R.3675)

4:20 — OUR GOD SHALL FIGHT FOR US — So today we are not following the voice of man, but it is the voice of the great trumpet which gathers us, announcing our Redeemer, present, as the King, gathering together His saints, making up His jewels, shortly to establish them with Himself in the kingdom, in control of the whole world for its blessing and uplifting and the destruction of all the wicked (wilful opposers). (Z.'05-363; R.3676)

5:8 — AND WILL YE EVEN SELL YOUR BRETHREN? OR SHALL THEY BE SOLD UNTO US? — We are glad this condition finds no parallel among the Lord's people now. Love seems to mark their intercourse. (Z.'05-363; R.3676)

5:12 — SO WILL WE DO AS THOU SAYEST — This was noble of those Jews. Some of the leaders were in league with the enemy. (Neh. 6:17, 18)

6:3 — WHY SHOULD THE WORK CEASE, WHILST I LEAVE IT, AND COME DOWN TO YOU? — Nehemiah in these various tests holds much the same position as Bro. Russell in the Harvest work. "Doubtless our opponents now would like to draw attention away from the work which we are doing; they would like to have us discuss with them other projects, other reforms, social, political, federations, etc. But we cannot join in any of these. We have a work to do, the Lord's work; there are few to do it and it requires all of our time and energy." (Z.'05-362; R.3675)

He will not leave and neither should any of the builders suffer their attention to be drawn away. Ono = strong (See 1 Chron. 14:4 and margin, and Neh. 11:35). These villages were now inhabited by the surrounding peoples, though the villages were given to the Jews. The latter had lost them and the enemy came in. The builders of Ono had been craftsmen.

6:4 — YET THEY SENT UNTO ME FOUR TIMES — Satan and his agents always repeat their temptations where they think there is a remote chance of our giving in, yielding. They will keep nagging us until we for sheer weariness and for peace give in, if it is possible to make us do so; and God permits it, so that we might see the necessity of fleeing to Him for strength, and have experience in being strengthened, that we might know our own weakness and His power and thus become stronger, and that we might realize the terrible dragging power of sin.

6:6 — ACCORDING TO THESE WORDS — False accusations to see if he could be frightened—so will they do with us. As did Nehemiah we should flee to God and ask Him for strength.

6:11 — I WILL NOT GO IN — Evidently their thought was that if the leader of the movement could be frightened and drawn from the work, the others would soon be discouraged and the whole matter fizzle out. But Nehemiah was certainly a chosen vessel of the Lord, for this very service and could not be thus frightened. May it be so with us; may our confidence in the Lord be such that the fear of man will not be a snare to us. (Z. '05-362; R.3675)

8:1 — AND THEY SPAKE UNTO EZRA — Nehemiah manifested his humility in many ways. He did not here ignore the worthy ones of the Lord and seek to take all the glory to himself, but he recognized Ezra the Scribe as more suitable than himself to take a prominent part in the work of educating the people in the knowledge of the Lord through His Law. (Z. '05-364; R.3676)

THE BOOK OF THE LAW OF MOSES, WHICH THE LORD HAD COMMANDED TO ISRAEL — In God's providence the national interests of the Jews was associated with their religious interests. They were God's people and all their political and national hopes were associated with the divine promises; and hence a revival of interest in their city and national hopes meant a revival of their reverence for God, in their desire to honor the Lord and obey Him, to observe the festivals He commanded. Nehemiah was evidently a prudent man, and we find that the Lord's general way is to choose suitable persons and then add His blessing to promote the outcome He desires.

So in choosing the Tabernacle builders (Ex. 31) the Lord uses as little of the miraculous as is necessary, He takes advantage of conditions as they are, so far as possible and uses them. So that while not many great, wise, etc. are chosen, yet we are to assume that the Lord chooses as great, learned, noble men as He can find who are of the right condition of heart. We are not to consider that qualifications are despised by the Lord, but that he puts first the qualities of honesty, obedience, humility, love; and these things being present in a number. Those possessing the greatest number of other qualifications would have the preference. So the twelve apostles represented the best material for the Lord's purpose every way, yet later when Saul of Tarsus consecrated and inquired for the Lord's will, the Lord was willing to use him, and his talents enabled him to take a foremost place among the apostles. (Z. '05-364; R.3676)

8:7 — AND THE LEVITES CAUSED THE PEOPLE TO UNDERSTAND THE LAW — These Levites were probably scattered among the people, explaining the meaning of the words, and the sense of the language. This was necessary probably for two reasons: first, that the people who had been in Babylon had more or less of a corrupt tongue or ear, while undoubtedly the Law was written and read in classical Hebrew; secondly, even if they had understood all the words, a particular explanation of the sentiment or meaning is sometimes both convenient and necessary. (Z. '05-364; R.3677)

8:17 — FOR SINCE THE DAYS OF JESHUA THE SON OF NUN UNTO THAT DAY HAD NOT THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL DONE SO — This would seem to typify how the doctrine of Restitution was lost from the days of Jesus (Joshua) and the early church, until this rebuilding of the temple and the city of Jerusalem (now in the Harvest time), and that now it is being brought forth again to show forth its beauty and its blessing upon all. The Feast of Tabernacles was a type of Restitution under Messiah's reign. (See Lev. 23:34, 39, see the notes on these verses.)

ESTHER

PURPOSE OF BOOK — To teach trust in our God who gives deliverance to His people. To show results of disobedience, even though long afterwards. (1 Sam. 15:1, 17-23) (Saul laid blame on the people.) We must obey, or roots of bitterness or evil clung to, or devoted things held back, will rise up and try to destroy us.

While the more faithful Jews had gone back to Palestine to repair its wastes, and were rebuilding the temple, the Lord was not negligent of the remainder of the people who had not been zealous to return to the land of promise under the decree of Cyrus. Hundreds of thousands of Jews resided in all parts of the empire, including India. While special lessons and peculiar trials were given to those rebuilding the temple, the Lord's favor was upon the remainder of the chosen people to the extent that He permitted to come upon them a great trial, severe testing which taught them a valuable lesson. This lesson is given in the book of Esther. (Z. '05-330; R.3656)

AHASUERUS — Type of the “Sun”—Christ. (Means “King”, prince, head or chief.)

VASHTI — (That drinks, or thread, or woof)—Them that were bidden to the feast and would not come. (Not willing to suffer reproach.)

ESTHER — (The Planet Venus) The bride of Christ. Venus is the brightest of the planets reflecting more of the rays of the Sun. Hishtar—Chaldaic for Venus.

MORDECAI — (Dedicated to Mars)—The Ancient Worthies.

HAMAN — The last Amalekite mentioned in the Bible (Youngs Conc. Amalekite). Typifies the class who will try to take the power out of the hands of the Ancient Worthies at close of the Millennium. This indicates heavenly honors for Ancient Worthies at end of Millennium, perhaps. (Z. '07-199; R.4018)

1: — Xerxes reign third year—about 483 B.C. date of great assembly. Xerxes quitted Sardis for Susa around Sept. to Dec. 479 B.C., four years after Vashti was deposed. Perhaps two years of the four were used on expedition against Greece.

Campaign against Greece probably result of pride gendered by this feast. War against Greece fifth year of reign about 481 B.C.

Pride goeth before destruction. (Prov. 16:18) Feast for 180 days, six months. Showing glory and majesty and riches of kingdom, for the power of Persia and Media. Greatest in world. Feast to all in palace for seven days. In court. vss. 4-9 note the wealth.

Age of Mordecai about 30-40 years and of Esther about 18-20. Vashti is probably Amestris of secular history (Sanskrit-Vasishtha—superlative of vasu—sweetest). History says the disgrace was only temporary and Amestris restored later to former dignity. (The overthrow of Persian power—331 B.C.)

- 1:1 — AHASUERUS — Xerxes or Artaxerxes, some say one some another. Darius Hystaspes tried to conquer Greece but failed. Then Xerxes (who reigned during the raid of the 10,000 Greeks), then Artaxerxes.
- 1:3 — IN THE THIRD YEAR OF HIS REIGN — This would seem to show it as Xerxes. About 465 B.C.
- 1:12 — QUEEN VASHTI REFUSED — In the course of these two queens is a lesson about the suffragette question. The company was probably under the influence of wine somewhat, and this may have been Vashti's reason for not appearing. We do not dispute that the suggestion that in a question of "rights" along lines of force or compulsion, Queen Vashti won a victory which cost her dearly. Queen Esther won a victory with happy results by a totally different course, and one which, in our judgment recommends itself to the wisest and best of women. If Vashti felt that the King's requirement of her presence would expose her to jest or rudeness, she should have relied upon her charm and tact and purity and on her husband's love and care. While it was not hers to intrude into the banquet, once invited her presence should have been a hallowed one, a sweet perfume, a rebuke to any immodesty. Like many another well meaning woman, Vashti was unwise; she abandoned the most potent defence of pure womanhood when she met command with refusal. But of course she was without divine guidance. (Z'11-391; R.4900) The whole matter was probably divinely ordered.
- 2:5 — SON OF KISH — See 1 Sam 9:1. Was taken captive with Jeconiah.
- 2:7 — HADASSAH — Hebrew name—myrtle, and corresponds to Gr. Wurtis.
- ESTHER — Persian name, thought to be connected with Zendctare—star. As Venus the brightest of planets, she is associated with it. According to Herodotus, Persian families of 1st rank, and king usually chose his wives from these. Chap. 1:13, 14 the councillors.
- 2:8 — MANY MAIDENS — Implied that each concubine received seven maidens, but Esther picked seven maidens. With her Aryan name Esther may have passed for Persian. Persians had no special contempt of Jews, but more or less despised all foreigners. Leading families must have remembered Daniel, and been sympathetic toward Jews. Satan's plan to have every nation proud and contemptuous of foreigners. No love ruling among nations.
- 2:10 — MORDECAI — Dedicated to Mars. From Persian — Little man, or Babylonian—worshipper of Merodach.

- 2:11 — WALKED EVERY DAY BEFORE THE COURT — Occupied a humble place at court and needed some effort to keep in communication with Esther.
- 2:14 — SHE RETURNED INTO THE SECOND HOUSE OF WOMEN — Esther returned to the house of concubines, under Shaashgaz, chamberlain.
- 2:15 — ESTHER — She needed but little beside her own personal attractions. King delighted in her. Here, evidence of God's foreknowledge and preparation for Jews' deliverance and for destruction of Haman. So with us. God continually preparing for our good and the destruction of evil forces in our lives.
- 2:16 — TEBETH — Occurs only this once in Scripture. About our January.
- 2:17 — KING LOVED ESTHER — God acted on the King's heart affections.

MADE HER QUEEN INSTEAD OF VASHTI — Vashti, though a noble woman, yet was a Gentile, outside a covenant. Esther was of the covenant people and God looked after her. Which shall we be? This was apparently without particular thought or knowledge as to her nationality, and not knowing that Mordecai, one of his faithful attendants, a keeper of the palace gate, was her uncle. (Z. '05-330; R.3656)

- 2:18 — KING MADE A GREAT FEAST — In honor of Esther to princes and servants, and he did not get drunk. Good influence of noble women.

MADE A RELEASE — From taxes or from military service, or both (the Hebrew word occurs only here).

ACCORDING TO THE STATE OF THE KING — In true kingly fashion.

- 2:19 — A new paragraph begins here, in contrast with vs. 8. It appears a new collection of young women was made, a second. It was about this time that Mordecai saved the King's life, through word to the king by Esther, who reported it in Mordecai's name. (They worked together, loyal to each other.) Esther had not yet made known her nationality. Conspiracies were ordinary occurrences in the king's palace. Xerxes was murdered by Artobanus, a captain of the guard, and Aspamitras, a chamberlain and eunuch. Gentile kings were insecure, they had no covenant with God; they were left to violence unless God had some special use for them. The kings of Israel were protected by reverence of the people as long as they were obedient even half-way.

2:23 — HANGED — Crucified or impaled, the usual punishment of traitors in Persia. Ctesias and Herodotus both refer to these chronicles.

3:1 — HAMAN — Jews take this man to be a descendant of Agag, and last Amalekite mentioned in the Bible. (1 Sam. 15:9, 17-23) Showed the spirit and pride of one a stranger to God. His exaltation perhaps an attempt of Satan to destroy the Jews.

THE SON OF HAMMEDATHA THE AGAGITE — According to the Targum and to Josephus, who interpret this as a statement that he was an Amalekite. The Septuagint in Esther 9:24 calls him a Macedonian. (S.B.D.)

3:2 — MORDECAI BOWED NOT — Probably on religious grounds.

3:4 — THAT HE WAS A JEW — Whether his explanation, that he was a Jew, would be allowed to be sufficient reason.

3:5 — HAMAN SAW — Seems not to have noticed it, until his attention was called to it.

3:6 — HAMAN SOUGHT TO DESTROY ALL THE JEWS — An insane madness. Such wholesale massacres were not unusual in the east. The Magophonia or massacre of the Magi, at the accession of Darius Hystaspes, was not fifty years past, in 12th year of Xerxes; and was commemorated annually. A massacre of the Scythians (Russians) had occurred about a century before. (Herodotus)

JEWS. . . THROUGHOUT THE WHOLE KINGDOM — Though these had not returned with Ezra, they still were God's Covenant People, and He loved them and so looked after them in mercy. (Lam. 3:31-34) A loyal God. (Lev. 26:44, 45) Under God's protection.

3:7 — CAST LOTS — Pur supposed to be an old Persian word, connected with Latin Pars—part or lot. Cast lots to ascertain a lucky day. A cast or throw of some kind for each day of the month and each month of the year. Day and month of best throw was taken.

ADAR — Our March. Seems to be derived from adar—splendor, because of the brightness of flowers and sunlight.

3:8 — IS A CERTAIN PEOPLE SCATTERED ABROAD — Greater portion of Jews still dispersed among nations. Compare these charges with those of Rehum and Shimshai. (Ezra 4:11-16)

3:9 — PAY TEN THOUSAND TALENTS — Herodotus says revenue of Persian King was 14,560 talents of silver. Says Pythius presented Xerxes with 4,000,000 gold Darics ($4,500,000); and a certain Satrap (ruler) of Babylon had a daily revenue of nearly two bushels of silver.

3:10 — RING — As emblem of authority, seal attached.

3:11 — THE SILVER IS GIVEN TO THEE, THE PEOPLE ALSO — A grant to him of all the property of the Jewish families executed. In the East confiscation follows execution, as now in Russia.

This seems incredible, but yet is like the character of this King. When en route for a war he rested at Olaenae in Phrygia, where he was the guest of Pythias, who entertained him magnificently. But when Pythias begged that of his five sons in the King's army the eldest might be left with him in his old age, the brutal Xerxes in a rage caused that son to be slain in the presence of his father, the body divided into two parts and placed on either side of the road, and the whole army marched between them. Of this same Xerxes it is related that he allowed one of his previous queens to mutilate one of her rivals most horribly. "Her breasts, nose, lips and ears were cut off and thrown to the dogs, and thus disfigured she was sent back home." Of another Persian King it is related that to show his skill in archery he sent an arrow into the heart of his young cupbearer, the son of his greatest favorite, Prexaspes. (Z. '05-331; R. 3657) This is like the character of Hitler, Stalin, Chaka.

3:13 — THIRTEENTH DAY OF THE TWELFTH MONTH — Haman had evidently obtained by the use of the "lot," the 13th Adar as the lucky day (12th month) to destroy the Jews. The Jews throughout the empire had thus from the 9th through the 11th month warning of peril which threatened them. Why not flee? It would have been evidence of guilt and provoked a massacre. Maybe some did flee, but many believed deliverance would come. Thus they showed their faith and hope in God. As to why Haman gave such long notice—possibly his main wish was to get rid of Mordecai, and flight would serve as well, and would be an excuse and proof he was right and certainly mean a massacre. The Jews celebrate the 13th a fast and the 14th and 15th days a feast of deliverance.

POST — There was a system of posts and post roads, like our pony express, in Persia. Babylon the first nation to establish such. (See Jer. 51:31)

3:15 — SHUSHAN — Susa the capital of Persia, and residence of high rank Persians. These being Zoroastrians would naturally sympathize with the Jews (Daniel). But even a part from that, this decree was sufficiently strange and sudden and ominous to perplex thoughtful citizens. So it looked like Satan had triumphed. But the Lord of Israel was not asleep.

4:1 — BITTER CRY — Like the lamentation of Jeremiah. Great wailing.

4:2 — NONE MIGHT ENTER INTO THE KING'S GATE CLOTHED WITH SACKCLOTH — Nothing of evil omen was allowed to be obtruded upon the king; a general practice in the East.

4:3 — MANY LAY IN SACKCLOTH AND ASHES — Such an experience as this would do more to draw the hearts of the Jews to the Lord in reverence and supplication than anything else that could have occurred to them. (Z. '05-330; R.3657)

4:4 — ESTHER'S MAIDS AND HER CHAMBERLAINS CAME AND TOLD IT HER — So her nationality was known by this time to them. Other Jews had been highly honored in Babylon and Persia. Perhaps a month passed before this came to the attention of Esther.

4:11 — WHOSOEVER . . . SHALL COME UNTO THE KING INTO THE INNER COURT . . . PUT HIM TO DEATH — That her fears were not groundless is shown by the cruel character of the King in the stories related of him. (Z. '05-331; R.3657)

Herodotus tells of a single exception which shows death the usual penalty upon any who should intrude into the king's presence unannounced or uninvited. Probably to protect him from assassins.

GOLDEN SCEPTER — Always kept by the king, near; in all representations the king had a long tapering staff in his right hand (on monuments).

NOT BEEN CALLED — Herodotus says the custom of king's wives and concubines shared his bed in rotation and sometimes the number exceeded three hundred, so each one's turn would not be often.

THESE THIRTY DAYS — Esther delayed because, strangely enough, at this very time the King had shown a coldness toward her, and had not called her for a month. (Z. '11-391; R.4900)

4:14 — IF THOU . . . HOLDEST THY PEACE AT THIS TIME, THEN SHALL THERE . . . DELIVERANCE ARISE TO THE JEWS FROM ANOTHER PLACE — If she failed to respond to these opportunities to manifest her loyalty to the Lord's people, failed to risk something on their behalf, it would mean her own loss anyway shortly; and Mordecai believed that God would provide some means for the deliverance of the people in general. It was her opportunity, her duty to act, and he cast the responsibility upon her.

There is a grand lesson for us here — whatever positions we occupy of influence or power or wealth or the confidence and esteem of others is so much of a stewardship granted to us by the Lord and respecting which we should expect to give an account; and if the account would be rendered with joy we must be faithful even to the risking of our lives in the interests of the Lord's people and His cause. Let us lay this lesson of Esther to heart. The suggestion that she had not come to this place of honor by accident but that the Lord had overruled in the matter, should appeal to us. Whatever we have is of the Lord's providence, let us use it as faithfully and wisely as possible for Him and His, that our own blessings and joy may be increased in the Lord, and our favor with Him. (Z.'05-331; R.3657)

AND WHO KNOWETH WHETHER THOU ART COME TO THE KINGDOM FOR SUCH A TIME AS THIS? — Mordecai evidently trusted in the Lord that the decree could never be accomplished, suggested to Esther that quite possibly she had come to her present position of honor and privilege for the very purpose of staying this evil against her people. (Z.'05-330; R.3657)

4:16 — FAST YE FOR ME . . . THREE DAYS — So Esther commanded fast and prayer for three days. See Exod. 19:10-16; Josh. 1:11; Matt. 9:29. Trust, claim the promises, pray, then act. Self-denial, living close to our Master and Father. How else except by God's help could a simple poor group carry on the work. Self sacrifice, people gave and God multiplied it, and it was done in many efforts.

This was probably not literally fasting from all food, but went on short allowance, avoiding anything specially pleasurable and all luxuries. This prayer and fasting convinces us that not all the Jews who had faith in the Lord had returned to Palestine, but that some were still scattered through Asia. No doubt this exceptional trial was very strengthening to the faith of Esther and the Jews.

5:1 — ON THE THIRD DAY — The third day from the beginning of the fast.

OVER AGAINST THE GATE — The usual situation of the throne in the throne room of eastern palaces. The monarch, from his raised position (dais) can see into the court.

5:3 — IT SHALL BE EVEN GIVEN THEE TO THE HALF OF THE KINGDOM — So did Herod Antipas. (Mark 6:23) Herodotus says Xerxes on another occasion offered one of his wives anything without limitation. Note the tender expression "What wilt thou, Queen Esther?" The king probably perceived that only some urgent matter of request had thus brought her into his presence. The last phrase probably was not literal but a mere formality to express great interest.

5:4 — LET THE KING AND HAMAN COME THIS DAY UNTO THE BANQUET — Esther wisely, did not ask abruptly, but wished to impress the King favorably. She thought the King would understand that she had a real petition in the background and that he would recur to it, as in fact he did. The Queen's plans were evidently well thought out, though at this time she was only fifteen years old. Doubtless the Lord granted the wisdom necessary for the occasion. (Z. '05-331; R.3657)

Some of the Lord's dear people are a little inclined to go to extremes, and trusting in the Lord, do nothing to forward the cause they wish to serve. We believe that Esther's course is a good example of propriety. We should both watch and pray, labor and wait, be wise as serpents and harmless as doves. We should do all in our power, while trusting to the Lord for the results, assured that He will make up all our deficiency; but at the same time leave as little deficiency as possible. (Z. '05-331; R.3657)

5:6 — WHAT IS THY PETITION? — After the meats removed, it was customary to continue the banquet with fruits and wine. The King renewed his request, and she renewed the invitation to another banquet; with the promise to reveal the real petition.

5:8 — I WILL DO TOMORROW AS THE KING HATH SAID — She wisely refrained, and this left time for the Lord to work on the King's mind.

5:9 — THAT HE STOOD NOT UP, NOR MOVED FOR HIM — Mordecai was even more negligent; he did not even move for Haman; he gave no notice of his presence. Notice the action: Pride—resents lack of notice; Humility—feels it is all right, I am not worthy of it anyway, and is glad to remain unnoticed.

5:10 — NEVERTHELESS HAMAN REFRAINED HIMSELF — Haman held himself in check, but was boiling inside with wrath.

CALLED FOR HIS FRIENDS — He called for advice of his friends. He told of his honors, wealth, and sons. He had ten sons. Herodotus says it is regarded as the greatest proof of manly excellence in Persia to have many sons.

ZERESH — Probably connected with the Zend—Zara— gold. Note how pride wants to destroy others.

5:12 — ESTHER. . . DID LET NO MAN COME IN WITH THE KING. . . BUT MYSELF — Pride and vanity and blind to any possible warning to take care!

5:13 — YET ALL THIS AVAILETH ME NOTHING — Pride is deeply hurt because due honor is not paid.

5:14 — LET A GALLOWS BE MADE — Gallows were not the usual punishment in Persia.

50 CUBITS — Is 75 feet high, to make the punishment more conspicuous and terrifying. The purpose was probably to crucify or impale. Such cruelty and spite delight the proud and the vengeful heart.

GO THOU IN MERRILY TO BANQUET WITH THE KING AND QUEEN — Shows heartless cruelty.

6: — God sees all. The Majesty of the universe steps in.

6:1 — COULD NOT THE KING SLEEP — The Covenant God of Israel begins to influence the King. He is sleepless. The Lord worked upon the mind of the King in a way we know not. (Perhaps Dan. 10:20) The King seems to have inferred from his sleepless night that he had been derelict to some obligation—that someone who had done him a favor had not been suitably rewarded. No doubt the King was guided to this matter by the Lord's providence. (Z'05-331; R.3657)

Many think there is a reason to believe that the kings of that day were unable to read. Generally only the professional Scribes and Priests could read. Also if another reads, many men can think better.

6:2 — IT WAS FOUND WRITTEN — Why not before? Rewards not always given immediately some had to wait for months. But it was a settled principle of the Persian government that an adequate reward be given.

6:7 — HAMAN ANSWERED THE KING — The request shows Haman's vanity, an empty outward show. He thought this must mean the King wished to honor him.

6:10 — DO EVEN SO TO MORDECAI — The King may have sensed a bit of irony here, as Mordecai's Jewish nationality was known. (Chap. 3:4)

LET NOTHING FAIL — A most bitter pill after such boastful pride. Make haste.

6:12 — MORDECAI CAME AGAIN TO THE KING'S GATE. BUT HAMAN HASTED. . .MOURNING — Mordecai returned to his humble place, and filled it with diligence and honor. But Haman hung his head and covered it in shame lest any of his friends should meet and speak to him.

7:1 — SO — Under these circumstances. The King pleased at a most excellent irony or joke on Haman, rewarding a loyal servant and cooling the grasping ambitions of an officer of court. Haman, his pride and self confidence shattered, sorely perplexed, even somewhat fearful. Queen Esther, determined at any cost to herself to save her people, having fasted and prayed and full of hope and faith in the protecting power of her Covenant God. Yet careful and cautious. A wonderfully dramatic scene. Talk about tense, dramatic occasions, no novel ever designed is as rich in the forces at battle!

7:2 — WHAT IS THY PETITION QUEEN ESTHER? — Note again the endearing words.

7:3 — LET MY LIFE BE GIVEN ME AND MY PEOPLE AT MY REQUEST — The most simple plain and telling way to word the answer!

7:4 — WE ARE SOLD, I AND MY PEOPLE — Esther reveals her nationality to save her people. Bondage could have been endured and borne but not complete destruction.

What a shock this statement must have been. An intolerable condition. To both Haman and the King. Haman could not have even suspected the Queen a Jewess, and the King realized what a terrible situation. A complete silence prevailed. They were amazed.

COULD NOT COUNTERVAIL — Could not compensate the King for the loss of so many industrious subjects.

7:5 — WHO IS HE? — Whose heart hath filled him with such impious presumption? Who dares?

7:6 — THE ADVERSARY . . . IS THIS WICKED HAMAN — What an astounding revelation. One of the King's closest officers, to have such traitorous ambitions! Haman was stunned and speechless!

7:7 — THE KING ARISING — The King was so overwhelmed he went out to collect his (ideas) thoughts and plan proper action. He realizes that Haman had trapped him, and his rage and suspicion were demanding satisfaction.

HAMAN STOOD UP TO MAKE REQUEST FOR HIS LIFE — Haman in despair and desperation, pale and terrified at the awful situation his unlimited pride and vanity had created! He could see nothing but terrible retribution.

7:8 — HAMAN WAS FALLEN UPON THE BED WHEREON ESTHER WAS — In the intensity of his supplication he fell on the foot of the couch used at the banquet. The King has reached some conclusion and comes in and sees Haman on the couch. His anger explodes.

WILL HE FORCE THE QUEEN ALSO BEFORE ME — Not decent reverence for the person of the Queen. The King determined such a man was not safe to have around.

THEY COVERED HAMAN'S FACE — Macedonians and Romans were known to have muffled the heads of prisoners before the execution. It is not mentioned elsewhere in Persian annals.

7:9 — HANG HIM THEREON — A most fitting retribution! God had rolled back upon Haman's own head the slaughter Haman had intended to do to God's people.

So God is even now preparing to destroy the enemies of the Jew's. He watches over His people. (Isa. 27:3; 40:28-31; Matt. 21:44)

7:10 — SO THEY HANGED HAMAN — With this the king's wrath was pacified.

8:1 — MORDECAI CAME BEFORE THE KING — The King advanced Mordecai, as having proved his trustworthiness. He recognized his merits, and Esther told him he was her uncle.

8:2 — THE KING TOOK OFF HIS RING — The King no doubt was glad to delegate some of his cares and labors to one who had proved he could be trusted.

8:3 — AND ESTHER SPAKE YET AGAIN — Mordecai wisely let Esther do the interceding lest he presume on the King's favor. Mordecai could not act without the King's order.

FELL DOWN AT HIS FEET, AND BESOUGHT HIM WITH TEARS — Once more she risked her life, and the King's favor. It was her privilege and duty and she was faithful and energetic. She put her whole soul into her plea. God blessed the effort, as He always does ours. (Eccl. 9:10; Prov. 22:29)

8:4 — THE KING HELD OUT THE GOLDEN SCEPTRE — God's influence prevailed and the King was pleased.

8:5 — REVERSE THE LETTERS — Esther was asking for a reversal of the decree. She was careful to state it was Haman's work which was the truth. He had used the King as a tool to get personal vengeance.

8:8 — MAY NO MAN REVERSE — The King had signed the decree and it was irrevocable. The King's answer is a statement of plain fact. The decree could not be reversed, but he stated it as kindly as he could.

WRITE YE ALSO FOR THE JEWS — The King suggested a decree giving the Jews the privilege of defence.

8:9 — THEN WERE THE KING'S SCRIBES CALLED — The King's suggestion quickened the inventive faculties of Esther and Mordecai. The old decree could not be revoked, but the Jews could stand to their defence and slay all who attacked them, and the King would help them. He realized it meant civil war in all the great cities of the empire. He was probably prompted by a sense of justice and of anger at being duped by Haman.

IN THE THIRD MONTH . . . THREE AND TWENTIETH DAY — The second month from the issue of the first decree. (Chap. 3:12).

SIVAN — Our June.

LIEUTENANTS — Satraps.

8:10 — RIDERS ON — It may be suggested as probably the true translation being—"riders upon coursers of the King's stud, offspring of high bred steeds."

8:12 — UPON ONE DAY — The same day for the first decree to be executed.

8:14 — BEING HASTENED AND PRESSED ON BY THE KING'S COMMANDMENT — Seeing how much depended on the mandate and how necessary that Provincial Governors well comprehend the real wishes of the court (see Chap. 6:3) we need not be surprised that all haste be made.

8:15 — IN ROYAL APPAREL — Garment or inner robe. The tunic or inner robe of the King was purple striped with white. "Fine white linen and purple." This was blue and white. Over this was the purple and white.

A GREAT CROWN OF GOLD — Not such a crown as the King had, (Kether), but a coronet (atarah).

SHUSAN REJOICED — The Persians, now the chief inhabitants of Susa, had a real sympathy for the Jews.

8:17 — MANY . . . BECAME JEWS — They reasoned that such a royal favor as to have issued such a counter decree must mean the Jews were in great favor. They may have thought it good policy. Fear of the Jews fell on the people.

9:2 — LAY HAND ON SUCH AS SOUGHT THEIR HURT — From the account it seems that the Jews did not remain on the defensive. Their enemies no doubt were well known to them, and they were prepared for the struggle which it was seen must come. Sometimes the one and sometimes the other would continue the attack.

9:3 — THE RULERS — All probably Persian nobles, helped the Jews.

9:4 — MORDECAI WAXED GREATER AND GREATER — The Lord rewarded those who trusted in Him. Mordecai was greatly exalted to the place Haman had tried to grasp.

9:10 — THE TEN SONS OF HAMAN — The names of these sons are thoroughly Persian in character. Except for Adalia, they are all readily traceable to Persian roots. Haman would ingratiate himself with the Persian aristocracy, as Satan teaches his servants to identify themselves with the people. (See Hitler's "Studenten," infiltration, Stalin's methods. Pharisees scattered their agents throughout the mob to yell "Crucify Him." Communists now have seized power over the unions.)

The ten sons names: Parshandatha = given to Persia or Persians; Dalphon or Darpon — probably Persian for the Sanscrit darpin = arrogant; Aspatha — from acpa = a horse, or horseman; Poratha — apparently from paru = much, great + ratha = a chariot, hence, having many chariots; Aridatha — from roots ari = very, + da = give, hence liberal (compare Phidates); Parmashta — a little doubtful, but may be from Fra an intensive particle and mathista = greatest; Arisiai = intensive ari + saya, a root = to conquer or go; Adridai = ari (intensive) + da = give, hence generous; Vajezatha — from vayu = the wind + zatha = powerful, hence, strong as the wind.

ON THE SPOIL — Legally they might have taken it, but wisely refrained. So it would go to the King.

9:12 — HAVE SLAIN . . . FIVE HUNDRED MEN IN SHUSHAN — In the palace or fort, probably the whole of the upper town. The real Persians who formed the standing army, and kept empire in subjection and were at disposal of the various governors of the provinces, helped the Jews. These enemies were almost entirely among subject peoples (of the idolatrous nations) for whose lives neither the Persians nor the King cared greatly.

9:13 — BE HANGED UPON THE GALLOWS — Exposed on crosses the bodies of criminals already slain—a practice not unknown to the Persians.

9:15 — SLEW THREE HUNDRED MEN AT SHUSHAN — Probably in the lower town which lay east of the upper town and about the same size.

ON THE PREY THEY LAID NOT THEIR HANDS — Though legally they were entitled to it.

9:16 — SLEW OF THEIR FOES SEVENTY AND FIVE THOUSAND —
The Septuagint gives 15,000 probably more nearly correct and more in proportion to the 800 slain in Susa.

9:18 — MADE IT A DAY OF FEASTING AND GLADNESS — Both the 14th and 15th are now universally kept by the Jews. (See Chap. 3:13) The 14th has been made the chief day.

9:19 — SENDING PORTIONS — See Neh. 8:10. So in the Kingdom time.

9:20 — PROVINCES — Country districts.

WROTE THESE THINGS — Wrote an abstract of the occurrence, not necessarily in the Book of Esther.

9:22 — TURNED UNTO THEM FROM SORROW TO JOY — From mourning to joy on account of their deliverance.

DAYS OF FEASTING AND JOY — Jer. 31:13. So Natural Israel will be at the second advent.

9:29 — SECOND LETTER OF PURIM — To make this observance mandatory.

9:31 — AND THEIR CRY — Probably the Jews had added certain fasts, ceremonies and wailing or mourning songs. And the second letter confirmed these.

9:32 — IN THE BOOK — In the Book of Esther.

10: — A very fitting close to the history.

JOB

It is an elementary instinct of appreciation to express a sense of the greatness of a particular work by claiming that it is the greatest. If then a jury of persons well instructed in literature were impaneled to pronounce upon the question, (What is the greatest poem in the world's great literature?) while on such a question unanimity would be impossible, yet I believe a large majority would give their verdict in favor of the Book of Job. It deals with the most universal of all topics, the mystery of suffering.

For the treatment of such a subject, so universal, Hebrew has advantages over other languages. It bases its verse on a parallelism which is also a function of prose; accordingly it constitutes a highly elastic medium, which can shift at will from the measured beauties of verse to the freedom of prose, while the verse itself can reflect any change of feeling in some metrical variation. Again, what seems at first a defect of Hebrew literature, in reality, increases its range. The lack of a theatre to specialize drama has caused the dramatic impulse to spread through other literary forms, until epic lyric and discourse are all drawn together in a common basis of dramatic presentation. Thus of the two distinguishing features of Hebrew, the one draws together the forms of poetry, the other tends to unite poetry with prose. Thus in the book of Job all these literary forms can be combined and all the modes of thinking of which these forms are the natural vehicles. (R.G. Moulton, Prof. of Literature in English in the University of Chicago.)

A patriarchal life which is in touch with the whole of human experience. It is a full life that these patriarchs lead; there is no narrowness of external circumstances such as might cramp sympathy and mental vision. The description of Job's wealth displays the pastoral life united with the settled life of agriculture, and house or tent is used indifferently to express a dwelling place. The picture stops short only of the enterprise and competition that tend to swallow up life in adding to the means of livelihood. In their thoughts they are familiar with the whole range of the larger world. They speak of kings and counsellors and judges and priests (3:14; 12:16-21); of solitary sepulchral piles where the great lie buried with their gold (3:14 margin, 15); Egypt under the name Rahab is a byword with them (Rahab in Hebrew = pride) and is poetical for Egypt. (See Psa. 87:4; 9:13; 26:12; Isa. 30:7;) They have marked the lessons of nations in their rise and fall (12:23-25). They know of cities, the abode of the prosperous wicked, who cover their faces with fatness and have collops of fat on their flanks (21:7-16-21; 20:4-29; 15:27); the place also of prisons, slaves and task-masters (3:17, 18). They talk familiarly of the gold of Ophir (28:15-19, 22:24) and the topaz of Ethiopia, and can picture every detail of the miners venture into the earth (28:1-11). War they know; the casting up of military camps and roads, the warrior with his thick bosses of bucklers, his iron weapons and bow of copper (19:12; 15:26; 20:24, 25). They know the chances of war, and have had their share in redeeming from oppressors and delivering the fatherless from the casting of lots. (6:23; 29:12-17) They know also the robber bands, whose god is their strong right hand, breaking upon the prosperous out of their lairs in desolate and ruined cities. (15:28) Their knowledge extends even to the outcasts of mankind (24:7-12) savages gaunt with want and famine, gnawing the dry ground in the gloom of wasteness and desolation, children of fools, driven out of the land. (30:2-8)

The things of everyday nature make imagery for the poem. The rush, the flag (8:11), the spider leaning on its web, (8:14) the flower cut down, swift ships, (9:25, 26) the eagle, (9:26) the fallen tree, the landslip, (14:18; 18:4) the stars and constellations (9:6-9; 38:31-33), the water wearing the stones (14:18, 19). So saturated are the speakers with nature sympathies that they seem to pass beyond imagery. It is more than a fashion of speech when Job says that his steps are washed with butter, and the rock pours him out rivers of oil (29:2-6), that his root is spread out on the waters, that God in His anger lifteth him up to the wind and causeth him to ride upon it and dissolveth him in the storm (30:22).

Like Melchizedek who gave his blessing to Abraham while the chosen people were yet unborn; like Balaam testifying from without Jehovah's care over his own; so these patriarchs worship Israel's God outside the ranks of Israel. Job is called the servant of God. Here then we see the religion without a temple, with no national ritual, with nothing in which the modern mind can recognize a church. (Prof. R G. Moulton, Prof. of English in the University of Chicago, "Modern Readers' Bible," "Book of Job")

The book of Job is credited with being the finest piece of literature in the Hebrew language. It is a poem and all scholars admit that no translation yet given does it justice. Martin Luther, after reviewing his last effort to translate it into the German, said, "Job is suffering more from my version than from the taunts of his friends and would prefer his dunghill to my translation of his lamentation." "The Book of Job is admitted, with hardly a dissenting voice to be the most sublime religious poem in the Literature of the World," said Samuel Cox. "I call that one of the grandest things ever written with pen. . . . There is nothing written in the Bible or out of it of equal literary merit" said Thomas Carlyle. (Z.'14-51; R.5401)

The fact that Job lived 140 years after his adversities, or probably over 200 years in all, together with the fact that neither he nor his friends make any allusion to Israel, or Moses or the Law, nor to Abraham and God's Covenant made with him, seems to indicate beyond doubt that he belonged to the Patriarchal age. Possibly he lived about the same time as Abraham. His home was evidently in Arabia, and probably not far from Palestine. (Z.'14-51; R.5401)

In the Septuagint a postscript identified Job with Jobal, second King of Edom. Gen. 36:23 but the lists of children don't agree.

Some have assumed that the book of Job is merely a parable and that Job himself is merely an imaginative character. But if this were the case, the teachings of the book would not be different. However, we see no cause to doubt that such a person did live and pass through the experiences related. In Ezek. 14:14, 20 and James 5:11 Job is classed with other holy men, which would not be the case were this narrative merely a parable. Besides there are particular details given such as are not common to parables.

Whoever was used of the Lord as penman, his name is not given. The Book is introduced with a prose narrative of Job's losses and sufferings. Then his patient endurance is set forth. Next follow the poetic colloquies between Job and his three friends; then Elihu's argument; then the Almighty's address; then Job's confession. The conclusion, relating to Job's return to favor and blessing, and his death, is in prose. (Z'.14-51; R.5401)

1:1 — UZ — There are three persons called Uz in Scriptures. The son of Aram, (Gen. 10:23); son of Nahor, (Gen. 22:21); the son of Dishan. (Gen. 36:28) Hence the difficulty of deciding upon what country is called by this name. The most probable opinion, because the best supported by Scripture is that which places Uz in Idumea, as Lam. 4:21, where Uz and Edom are identified. The same may be seen by referring to Jer. 49:7; Ezek. 25:13; Amos 1:11. In Obadiah 9 the men of Teman are described as inhabitants of Idumea, and in Job 2:11 Eliphaz is described as a Temanite. Jer. 25:20 groups it with Egypt, Philistia, Edom and Moab. (Self Interpreting Bible) (1 Chron. 1:17, 42)

1:3 — CAMELS — The mention of camels implies traffic and merchandise.

MEN OF THE EAST — "Children of the East." This name seems to be given in Scripture to the Arabian Nomad people to the east of Palestine. Their present successors claim descent from Abraham. (Gen. 29:1; Jer. 49:28)

1:4 — HIS DAY — His birthday.

TO DRINK WITH THEM — Their joy is not sensuous indulgence, but festive mirth.

1:5 — AND CURSED GOD — A.R.V. "Renounced" (from Barak = a prim. root = to kneel; by implication, to bless God, as an act of adoration, and vice versa, man as a benefit); also (by euphemism) to curse (God or the King, as treason) Same word used in Job 1:11; 2:5, 9, but not the same as in Job 3:1 where an entirely different word is used.

The word renounce is founded on the gesture of salutation and like the double meaning of the Greek (cheirete) may be used for welcome or departure. This brings before us the worship of Jehovah as a sense of sanctity and restraint, in contrast to competing religions of revel and excitement.

THUS DID JOB CONTINUALLY — Showing a very loyal and righteous character. Job is introduced as a man of great learning and influence; as a man of great piety, who knew and revered God and appreciated justice; as a man of great generosity who considered the widow and orphan, and a merchant prince of great wealth who carried on an extended and very prosperous traffic. (Z. '14-51; R.5401)

However lawful feasting and mirth may be on occasions, there is always need after it to examine our hearts and conduct and supplicate the pardon of our mistakes in it.

1:6 — SATAN CAME ALSO AMONG THEM — This account of Satan's conversation with God concerning Job should be considered allegorical, after the style of Pilgrim's Progress. (Z. '14-51; R.5401)

It is hardly conceivable that Satan would be in heaven and thus converse with God. Rather it seems that on a certain time God was specially thinking about His various sons, and He thought of all of them and considered the condition of all; and among others Satan, that wayward son of His.

1:17 — THE CHALDEANS — The name Chaldeans signifies "robbers."

1:21 — BLESSED BE THE NAME OF THE LORD — By permission of God comes the fire from heaven, the winds of the wilderness, the foragers of the desert, concentrating their powers in a single moment to bring about a colossal ruin. It is encountered by as colossal a patience. In orderly dignity Job goes through the gestures of bereavement, bidding farewell to all the accessories of life, which have left him only his naked manhood. But when he turns to God, he shows no tearful resignation, but a grateful courtesy, that hastens to make mention of the giver when the gift is taken away. (Modern Readers Bible)

2:4 — SKIN FOR SKIN, YEA — Cox quotes a Jewish proverb which is similar. "One gives one's skin to save one's skin, and all to save one's life."

2:5 — TOUCH HIS BONE AND FLESH — Suffering is here pictured as a test of saintliness, made the more severe as the character is stronger to endure.

2:10 — WHAT SHALL WE RECEIVE GOOD AT THE HAND OF GOD, AND SHALL WE NOT RECEIVE EVIL? — To Job it seems meanness that a man should accept from a wise providence things of good, and draw back when its dispensations are things of evil.

3: — Here begins the poetry; the first two chapters are prose. A.R.V.

3:1 — OPENED JOB HIS MOUTH, AND CURSED HIS DAY — In what Job says there is not the smallest approach to the sin Satan thought possible for Job, and Job thought possible for his children. He does not renounce God, but appeals to Him. He does not complain of what has been taken, but only asks for the stripped and suffering life to be brought to a speedy end. Job sets his woe to music, the music of an unsurpassable lyric elegy. All variations of darkening that fancy can suggest are invoked to blot out that day which betrayed Job into life. (Modern Reader's Bible)

CURSED — “Qalal” = a prim. root = to be (caus. to make) light; lit. (swift, small, sharp, etc.) or fig. (easy, trifling, vile). Not the same word as in Job 1:5, 11; 2:5, 9.

3:8 — WHO ARE READY TO RAISE BY THEIR MOURNING — A.R.V. “Who are ready to rouse up Leviathan.” See Job 26:13; and Isa. 27:1

3:14 — BUILT DESOLATE PLACES — R.V. note = “Solitary piles.”

4:1 — THE TEMANITE — A descendant of Esau. (Gen. 36:11) An Edomite?

4:4 — THY WORDS HAVE UPHOLDEN — He mentions Job's kindness to other sufferers and how he strengthened them with consolation. Eliphaz now offers him.

4:6 — IS NOT THIS THY FEAR, THY CONFIDENCE, THY HOPE, AND THE UPRIGHTNESS OF THY WAYS? — R.V. Is not thy fear of God thy confidence, and the integrity of thy ways thy hope?

4:7 — WHO EVER PERISHED, BEING INNOCENT? — Here Job's friends try to show him that he must have been a great sinner and hypocrite. Many mistakenly quote these as being inspired. (Z. '14-51; R.5401)

These three friends appear as persons absolutely committed to a fixed theory of life, that all suffering is a judgment for sin. Their minds are closed: Job's objections do not disturb their confidence for a moment, while they pour out in voluble eloquence generalities which are in accord with their theories, and resistance to their view of God's actions they treat as resistance to God. Eliphaz opens for the friends with dignity and tenderness. He has the delicate task of hinting that the ideal of human perfection has been shown by his afflictions to be a sinner.

4:13 — IN THOUGHTS FROM THE VISIONS OF THE NIGHT — The basis of the doctrine of the three friends (the distance, infinite, between God and man) is developed by Eliphaz in a vision.

4:17 — SHALL MORTAL MAN BE MORE JUST THAN GOD? SHALL A MAN BE MORE PURE THAN HIS MAKER? — And so from a visitation of God there can be no appeal.

5:17 — THEREFORE DESPISE NOT THOU THE CHASTENING OF THE ALMIGHTY — Eliphaz holds forth the hope of restoration if Job confesses his sins.

6: — Job's second speech.

6:17 — THEY ARE CONSUMED OUT OF THEIR PLACE — Job recoils from the false friends who have given him rebuke where consolation was due, like brooks found by the thirsty traveller to have run dry in the sands of the desert.

6:28 — LOOK UPON ME — Job challenges them to look him in the face and accuse him.

6:30 — IS THERE INIQUITY IN MY TONGUE? CANNOT MY TASTE DISCERN PERVERSE THINGS? — Job, conscious of his own heart honesty toward God, defends himself and challenges his friends to prove any evil doing on his part.

7:2 — EARNESTLY DESIRETH THE SHADOW — The length of his shadow on the ground, long at even, which was the end of the day when he might go to rest.

7:12-19 — As Job meets these successive speeches, there is no calmness in his tone, but he reaches the full height of passion at once. He does not claim to be sinless, but he knows that no sin of his can explain the total ruin which has descended upon him.

7:20 — WHY HAST THOU SET ME AS A MARK AGAINST THEE — Why cannot God forgive his iniquity and let him die? The basis on which his friends' doctrine rests he turns against them. It is just this infinite distance between God and man which makes it impossible to bring his cause before the mighty Judge. There is no days man to lay hands on both, his adversary equally with himself.

8: — Bildad's first speech. He reasserts the position of Eliphaz with appeals to nature and tradition. He was a descendent of Abraham and Keturah. (Gen. 25:2)?

9:1 — THEN JOB ANSWERED — Job's third speech.

9:2 — HOW SHOULD MAN BE JUST WITH GOD? — Job speaks of the hopelessness of submitting his cause to overpowering strength.

9:9 — ARCTURUS — See note Job 38:32.

ORION — Hebrew = Cesil = lit. a fool. The general interpretation of the term is that the name of Nimrod, founder of the earliest Euphratean Empire, was given by his courtiers to the most glorious of all the constellations; but the Hebrews, whose traditions represent him as a mad rebel against God, and a tyrant over men, while adopting the identification of Nimrod with the constellation, instead of regarding him as a glorified hero in the sky, consider him as a “mad rebel,” bound in chains among the stars that all may behold his punishment. Hence the question: “Canst thou set free the stars that make up this figure and so loose thereby? Canst thou loose the bands of Orion?” (Job 38:31)

PLEIADES — Hebrew = Cima = lit. a heap or cluster. There can be little doubt that the stars intended are those we know by that name: the most conspicuous star cluster visible to the naked eye. Six stars can be easily seen by any good eye 8, 10 or even 14 have been counted by specially keen sighted persons. But the telescope reveals hundreds, and photography raises the number to thousands, and shows the stars as linked, enveloped and bound together by delicate streams of nebulous matter, the “tie of the Pleiades.” See A.R.V. The ordinary translation would be equivalent to: “Canst thou bind (or restrain) the sweet influences of the Springtime?” for the Pleiades were the sign of the Vernal Equinox about 2000 B. C. and no doubt the group continued to be associated with the Spring for centuries later. See Amos 5:8. In each of the three passages where it occurs it seems to stand in antithesis to Orion, or correspondence. (E. W. Maunader, F.R.A.S., Royal Observatory, Greenwich.)

CHAMBERS OF THE SOUTH — See note on Job 38:32.

9:14 — HOW MUCH LESS SHALL I ANSWER HIM — Again Job speaks of the hopelessness of submitting his cause to overpowering strength.

9:24 — IF NOT, WHERE, AND WHO IS HE? — R.V.: “If it be not he, who then is it?”

9:25 — THEY SEE NO GOOD — A further ground of hopelessness in his short life.

9:33 — NEITHER IS THERE ANY DAYSMAN — God is a God to be revered. He is not one like ourselves, our equal, into whose presence we may come without that ceremony and decorum due to His glorious person and office. The Court of Heaven has regulations and ceremonies of respect and due reverence which must be complied with by every man who would gain an audience with the King of Kings and it behooves us to inquire what those regulations are before we presume to address Him. Our Lord Jesus is the appointed Daysman for whom Job so earnestly longed. "No man cometh to the Father but by me." (John 14:6) The manner of address is given in the Lord's prayer. (Matt. 6:9-13, Luke 11:2) (Z. '10-139; R.4603)

Job seems to realize his need of someone to represent his cause before God. He cries out that he is as righteous as he knows how to be (chap. 10:2, 7; 16:17), that he cannot reason the matter with God (9:14, 32) being so much beneath him in knowledge and power. He declares that the wilfully wicked are not so troubled, while he who has pursued righteousness is so afflicted that life has no further pleasure and he wishes he had never been born. (12:6) Feeling his own insufficiency to state his case before the great Jehovah, he desires a "daysman."

10:1 — I WILL LEAVE MY COMPLAINT UPON MYSELF — R.V.: "I will give free course to my complaint." Job's antagonism to his friends' misconstruction is leading him to appeal from them to the very God he had before (9:14) pronounced inscrutable. At the climax of this portion of the poem the thoughts of Job sway to and fro, and the metre, with its pendular figure sways with them—between the effort to make this appeal, and the overpowering awe of the Being to whom he is to address his case. At this point awe gains the mastery.

10:9 — THOU HAST MADE ME — Job appeals to God against a persecution which is a persecution of God's own workmanship, and of unrelenting severity against helplessness.

11:1 — THEN ANSWERED ZOPHAR — Zophar's first speech.

ZOPHAR — Unknown origin. But evidently a prince of the desert.

12:1 — AND JOB ANSWERED — Job's fourth speech.

12:4 — THE JUST UPRIGHT MAN IS LAUGHED TO SCORN — Job commences with blunt opposition of facts to the friend's doctrine; impunity of the wicked is to be seen as well as their punishment.

12:10 — IN WHOSE HAND IS THE SOUL — Delitzsch suggests that a proverb is quoted here. See Isa. 41:20. This turns what seems a vague weakness (in the "this") into a fine stroke of argument. This line must be connected with the previous line, "Who knoweth not such things as these?" They have offered Job commonplaces of Divine Judgment, he retorts with commonplaces of impunity bringing out their commonplaceness by the phrase of a current proverb. (Modern Reader's Bible)

12:14 — BEHOLD HE BREAKETH DOWN — Job confronts the wisdom of the aged which has been cited to him (8:8, 10) with another wisdom seen in the actions of irresistible strength (as it were the logic of events).

13: — In this chapter Job gives a masterly reply to the false reasonings of his friends and gives expressions of his confidence in God and of his final deliverance. (Z. '14-51; R.5401)

13:19 — IF I HOLD MY TONGUE — The idea is gathering strength of an appeal to God against God's own visitation as interpreted by the friends. Job sways between longing to make the appeal, and awe of the power to be appealed to. The feeling of awe prevails (chap. 14).

13:25 — WILT THOU BREAK A LEAF DRIVEN TO AND FRO — This would be marvellous hunting, harassing a driven leaf. Job cannot understand why God persecutes him. Yet though God is slaying him Job will still trust in His wisdom and goodness (vs. 15).

14:4 — WHO CAN BRING A CLEAN THING OUT OF AN UNCLEAN? — The first four verses graphically picture what all of experience fully realize—that human life under present conditions is full of sorrow and trial from the cradle to the tomb and Job shows that he realizes that as a son of fallen parents he could not be perfect, free from sin, clean in the full sense of the word. Although many are still in the dark upon this subject, it is open now and clear to all the earnest ones to whom it is granted to know the mysteries of the Kingdom of Heaven, to understand the deep things of God. (Matt. 12:11; 1 Cor. 2:10) These see that the reign of evil, of sin and death under Satan, the Prince of this world, is permitted for two reasons. a) That all men may gain a full experience of the exceeding sinfulness of sin and the bitterness of its lawful fruit; b) That God's people may be fully tried and tested as to their loyalty to God in the shadow of affliction and trial as well as in the sunshine of health and prosperity.

Thus while God did not directly cause the evil state of things which surrounds us in nature and among men, but let it come upon men as the legitimate result or fruit of disobedience, sin, yet He does make use of the wrath of man and the sins of men and the animosity of Satan to work out grand designs which they do not comprehend of which His children know only by faith in His Word of Revelation. How little Satan and those malicious Jewish priests and Pharisees and the heartless Roman Soldiers know that they were assisting in the working out of the Divine Plan when insulting, mocking and crucifying the Lamb of God.

So with the many afflictions of God's people, especially those of the Little Flock. Trials are designed to fit and polish them for the greater usefulness and honor in the future developments of God's great plan. Thus regardless of the wilfulness or ignorance of the persecutors, these trials of faith and patience are working out for them a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory. This they do by preparing the called ones to be heirs of glory by cultivating patience experiences, brotherly sympathy and love, which is Godlikeness. Such and only such can rejoice in tribulation and realize that all things, bad and good, will be overruled for their final benefit. (Z.'14-52; R.5402)

14:6 — TURN FROM HIM — In verses 5, 6 he tells the Lord that he recognizes that the authority and power to limit man's days are in His hands, but urges (not seeing the ministry of trouble); why not let me and all men live out our short time in peace, even as we would not afflict a hireling who already has a heavy, burdensome task! (Z.'14-52; R.5402)

14:10 — AND WHERE IS HE — Close reasonings about the helplessness of man in death, so far as any powers of his own are concerned. A tree may die and yet its root retain life which, under favorable conditions, may spring up into another tree. But when man dies there is no root left, no spark of life remains; he giveth up the spirit of life and where is he? (Z.'14-52; R.5402)

14:12 — SO MAN LIETH DOWN AND RISETH NOT — Man lies down in death and uses all power to arouse himself, nor can he be aroused from the sleep of death by anyone till God's due time. This will be the resurrection morn, the Millennial Day when the present symbolic heavens shall have passed away and the new heavens or the new spiritual ruling power—Christ's Kingdom—shall come into control of the world. In this Job fully agrees with the teachings of our Lord and the Apostles. (Z.'14-52; R.5402)

14:13 — UNTIL THY WRATH — The entire period from Adam's fall is called a time of divine wrath and properly so, for in all this long period "the wrath of God is revealed against all unrighteousness" in many ways. While love is a controlling principle in the divine government, it can operate only in harmony with justice and wisdom. It was both just and wise to let man feel the real weight of condemnation to death incurred by willful transgression, in order that when love should in due time provide a ransom and a restitution, the culprit might the more gladly avail himself of the favors provided, of restitution and everlasting life. Thus death and all the evils permitted to come upon the culprit race are manifestations of God's wrath, which will be yet further shown in the great time of trouble. This will be followed by full and clear manifestations of God's love and favor in Christ and the glorified Church during the Millennial Age. (Rom. 1:18) (Z.'14-52; R.5402)

AND REMEMBER ME — The more he thinks of that blessed time when evil shall no more have dominion but when the King shall reign in righteousness and Princes rule in judgment, the more he wished he might die and be at rest. Job had faith in a resurrection or he never would have uttered this prayer for death—for hiding in the grave. But he preferred death and desired to sleep until the morning for one reason only—that he might have no further experience with God’s wrath. (Z. '14-52; R.5402)

14:14 — IF A MAN DIE, SHALL HE LIVE AGAIN? — Here Job puts the question pointedly as though to determine and settle his own faith. But he immediately answers yes. (Z. '14-52; R.5402)

14:15 — THOU SHALT CALL — Having confessed there is no ground for hope, inherent in man, Job begins to express the only real hope of our race—a resurrection. (Z. '14-52; R.5402)

15:1 — THEN ANSWERED ELIPHAZ — Eliphaz second speech. In this second round of speeches there is intensified feeling on both sides. The speakers interrupt one another, each supports his views by not merely argument, but with tours-de-force of sustained rhetoric, enumerating instances or elaborating pictures. On the side of the friends there is no advance save in expression of thought. But Job’s thoughts and faith are developing.

15:10 — WITH US ARE . . . AGED MEN — Eliphaz says Job resists alike the wisdom of his friends and the visitation of God. “We have back of us the arguments and findings of aged men.”

15:15 — THE HEAVENS ARE NOT CLEAN IN HIS SIGHT — The present spiritual ruling powers.

16:1 — JOB ANSWERED AND SAID — Job’s fifth speech. Job here shows his contempt for the arguments and position of the friends.

16:20 — MINE EYE POURETH OUT TEARS UNTO GOD — Job appeals to God, swaying between the misery of his visitation and his appeal to the visiting God rather than the misinterpreting friends.

18:1 — THEN ANSWERED BILDAD — Bildad’s second speech.

18:3 — WHEREFORE ARE WE COUNTED . . . VILE IN YOUR SIGHT
— Bildad rebukes Job for his contempt of them.

18:4 — SHALL THE EARTH BE FORSAKEN FOR THEE? — Bildad supports the friends doctrine by a sustained picture of the reward of the wicked. Shall Job be an exception to universal law?

19:1 — THEN JOB ANSWERED — Job’s sixth speech.

19:20 — SKIN OF MY TEETH — Job and the learned of his day were far from being monkey-men. Until lately Job's words were considered a joke by dentists as well as others. The Bible is a wonderful book. Nasmyth's Membrane: "Under the names—Nasmyth's membrane, enamel, cuticle or persistent dental capsule a structure is described about which much difference of opinion has been and still is expressed. Over the enamel of the crown of a human or other mammalian tooth, the crown of which is not coated with a thick layer of Cernentum, there is an exceedingly thin membrane, the existence of which can be demonstrated only with acids which cause it to become detached from the surface of the enamel. When thus isolated it is found to form a continuous transparent sheet, upon which by staining with nitrate of silver, a reticulated pattern may be brought out as though it were made of epithelial cells. It is exceedingly thin, Kolliker attributing to it a thickness of only 1/20,000 inch, but nevertheless it is very indestructible, resisting the action of strong nitric acid, and only swelling slightly when boiled in caustic potash." Toures' Dental Anatomy, 1904, Fourth Edition, London. (Z. '16-348; R.5994)

19:25 — I KNOW THAT MY REDEEMER LIVETH — Job here expresses his certainty that in the end he will be justified if not before.

19:26 — YET IN MY FLESH SHALL I SEE GOD — "And though after my awakening they destroy this body, yet apart from my flesh shall I see God, whom I shall see for myself and mine eyes shall behold and not another, though my reins be consumed within me." This seems to point to the fact that the Ancient Worthies will be changed to spiritual nature.

19:27 — MY REINS BE CONSUMED WITHIN ME — A pause. This idea however seems to overpower him so that he almost faints.

19:29 — THERE IS A JUDGMENT — Job warns them to be careful of their accusations.

20:1 — THEN ANSWERED ZOPHAR — Zophar's second speech.

20:5,6 — THAT THE TRIUMPHING OF THE WICKED IS SHORT . . .
THOUGH — The short triumphing of the wicked is only to emphasize their fall.

21:1 — BUT JOB ANSWERED — Job's seventh speech.

21:7 — WHEREFORE DO THE WICKED LIVE, BECOME OLD, YEA,
ARE MIGHTY IN POWER? — Job begins to describe the visible impunity of the wicked, nay their prosperity through life and honorable burial. The stock objections used to bolster up the appearance of providential equity he tears to pieces. His own trouble is forgotten for the time. What can the friends say as to these doubts? They have nothing to say, nothing at all in their formal speeches, and even if the arguments Job answers are supposed to be interjected by the friends, yet these are not really arguments, only restatements of the theory in other terms. But in this final round of speeches their heated tone subsides, the case has become too serious for passion. They seem to speak under a sense of making final pronouncement; and it would appear as if each charged himself with bringing to a climax a different element of the common contention. (Moulton's Modern Reader's Bible)

21:16 — LO, THEIR GOOD IS NOT IN THEIR HAND: THE COUNSEL OF THE WICKED IS FAR FROM ME. — This may be an interruption from Eliphaz. (Good = prosperity). Or as A.R.V. note: "Ye say" etc., so verse 19.

21:18 — THEY ARE AS STUBBLE — Job challenges this statement by Eliphaz.

21:19 — GOD LAYETH UP HIS INIQUITY FOR HIS CHILDREN — This may be an interruption by Bildad.

HE SHALL KNOW IT — Job claims it more just and potent to let the punishment fall on the wicked man himself, instead of on his children.

21:22 — SHALL ANY TEACH GOD KNOWLEDGE? SEEING HE JUDGETH THOSE THAT ARE HIGH — Zophar interrupts.

21:23 — ONE DIETH — Job answers.

21:26 — THEY SHALL LIE DOWN ALIKE . . . THE WORMS SHALL COVER THEM — At the end of this verse the friends offer to interrupt, but Job continues.

22:1 — THEN ELIPHAZ THE TEMANITE ANSWERED — Eliphaz third speech. Eliphaz feels bound to drop the general terms he had used in the hope that Job would be his own accuser, he now enumerates actual transgressions, but he seeks to soften down the effect by dwelling on the theme of submission and restoration (vss. 21-30), now touched for the last time. (Modern Reader's Bible)

23:1 — THEN JOB ANSWERED — Job's eighth speech.

23:10 — I SHALL COME FORTH AS GOLD — Job expresses his faith in his final vindication though he cannot find the Lord.

24:1 — WHY, SEEING TIMES ARE NOT HID — A.R.V.: “Why are times not laid up by the Almighty?” See Eccl. 3:17 “God shall judge the righteous and the wicked; for there is a time there for every purpose and every work.”

24:2 — SOME REMOVE THE LANDMARKS; THEY VIOLENTLY TAKE AWAY FLOCKS, AND FEED THEREOF — Note the steps of social evolution pictured. a) Encroachment by removing the boundaries; b) The consequent formation of a class sinking into hardship and poverty (2-10); c) The intensification of this hardship by close contact with wealth (10-12); d) The crowding of population in the cities and the violence of city crime (vs. 12); e) Finally the rise of a distinctly criminal class, whose whole existence is a warfare against the light; in this way the morning is to them all as the shadow of death.

24:22 — HE DRAWETH ALSO THE MIGHTY WITH HIS POWER: HE RISETH UP, AND NO MAN IS SURE OF LIFE — A.R.V.: “Yet God preserveth the mighty by his power, He raiseth up him that hath no security of life, God giveth them to be in security, and they rest thereon and His eyes are upon all their ways.” E.R.V.: “Yet God by His power maketh the mighty to continue; they rise up when they believed not that they should live.”

26:1 — BUT JOB ANSWERED — Job’s ninth speech. Job here starts to answer Bildad, but is interrupted at vs. 5 by Bildad who continues to the end of the chapter. This thought is shown also by chapter 27:1 “Job continued his parable,” as if he had been interrupted.

26:3 — HOW HAST THOU COUNSELLED HIM THAT HATH NO WISDOM? AND HOW HAST THOU PLENTIFULLY DECLARED THE THING AS IT IS? — Leeser: “What sound wisdom hast thou made known so plentifully.”

26:4 — WHOSE SPIRIT CAME FROM THEE? — Job here shows his contempt for the arguments of the friends.

26:5 — DEAD THINGS ARE — Bildad continues to the end of the chapter. He deals with the basis of the friends doctrine, the distance between fruits and infinite power overpowers us as we read of the authority that is arbiter among the Sanctities, architect of the universe, finding flaws in heaven’s own brightness.

DEAD THINGS — = “Rapha” = lax; fig. a spirit (as dead, in plural only) from “raphah” (a prim. root) = properly to mend (by stitching), or fig. to cure; in the sense of “raphah” (a prim. root) = to slacken.

FORMED — = “Chuwl” or “chiyl” (keel) = a prim. root, properly to twist or whirl (in a circular or spiral manner); i.e. (spec.) to dance, to writhe (in pain, esp. of parturition) or fear; fig. to wait, to pervert; Young's trans.—"The Rephaim are formed beneath the waters, also their inhabitants"; Leeser:—"The departed are called into being beneath the waters, and their inhabitants"; A.R.V.: "They that are deceased tremble beneath the waters, and the inhabitants thereof"; Moffat: "Before him the primeval giants writhe, under the ocean in their prison"; Ferrar Fenton: "The Raphaim themselves were destroyed and rest themselves under the sea."

26:10 — HE HATH COMPASSED THE WATERS WITH BOUNDS, UNTIL THE DAY AND NIGHT COME TO AN END. — A.R.V.: "He hath described a boundary upon the face of the waters unto the confines of light and darkness." This boundary is the horizon.

26:13 — THE CROOKED SERPENT — May refer to the Polar constellation of the Dragon.

26:14 — HOW LITTLE A PORTION IS HEARD OF HIM — Moffat: "All this is the mere finger of His force, the faintest whisper we can hear of Him! Who knows then the full thunder of His power!"

27:7 — LET MINE ENEMY BE AS THE WICKED — Some think that Zophar begins to speak here, reiterates the doctrine of unfailing judgment on sin. Zophar sums up the case for the friends. He states over again the doctrine of judgment on the wicked. The most marked feature of literary style in the book is its extreme parallelism. This makes it most improbable that the third colloquy should be imperfect by the omission of a speech from Zophar and a reply to him from Job. The change in the introductory formulas when chaps. 27 and 29 are reached is very suspicious. All critics recognize the difficulties of the text as it stands between chaps. 26 and 28 inclusive, which has the effect of making Job take up a position against his former contention and to his subsequent words; some commentators resort to violent explanations such as prolonged irony, etc.

27:12 — BEHOLD ALL YE YOURSELVES HAVE SEEN IT: WHY THEN ARE YE THUS ALTOGETHER VAIN? — i.e. Why are your united attestations to go for nothing with Job?

28:1 — SURELY THERE IS A VEIN FOR SILVER — Verses 1 and 12 point to man's works, how he searches out all natural treasures, mines, turns aside rivers, etc.; able to do such great things but cannot find wisdom. Certainly men are able to find gold and silver.

28:2 — BRASS — Brass = copper.

STONE — Stone = ore.

28:3 — HE SETTETH AN END — A.R.V.: “Man setteth an end to darkness, and searcheth out to the farthest bound the stones of obscurity and of thick darkness” = digs down to the bowels of the earth, and lights up its caves.

28:4 — THE FLOOD BREAKETH OUT — A.R.V.: “He breaketh open a shaft away from where men sojourn; they are forgotten of the foot (i.e. by men who walk over them on the surface) They hang afar from men, they swing to and fro.”

28:5 — OUT OF IT COMETH BREAD — Man cultivates the surface.

TURNED UP AS IT WERE FIRE — Perhaps referring to the earth’s interior as molten, shown by volcanic eruptions.

28:6 — THE STONES OF IT — And in this underneath part are found treasures of sapphires and gold.

28:7 — HATH NOT SEEN — No beast or bird has gone into such depths of earth.

28:9 — HE OVERTURNETH THE MOUNTAINS — As now done in mining and railroading.

28:10 — SEETH EVERY PRECIOUS THING — Men search for every natural precious thing and brings wonders to light. But with all his skill he cannot find wisdom.

28:11 — BINDETH THE FLOODS — By building dams or sea walls.

28:13 — NEITHER IS IT FOUND — No miner, for all his skill can find wisdom among the precious things he brings out of the earth. God alone knows its place (vs. 23) and when He wrought the structure of His creation He linked wisdom with the fear of the Lord, understanding with departure from evil.

28:20 — WHENCE THEN COMETH WISDOM — If there is a place to find all other precious things, where can one find wisdom?

28:22 — DESTRUCTION AND DEATH SAY — One end, the end of man’s way, teaches by experience that the course leading to it was wrong, that God’s commands here were wisest. But wisdom is not found in destruction and death, she is not there.

28:23 — GOD UNDERSTANDETH THE WAY — God alone knoweth it for His works proves He knows wisdom.

28:24 — FOR HE LOOKETH — His vision includes all things.

28:25 — TO MAKE THE WEIGHT FOR THE WINDS — Perhaps to give force or power to an invisible thing; or possibly that cold air being heavier than hot air is the cause of our winds, trade winds, tornados, etc.

HE WEIGHETH THE WATERS — Perhaps the vapors which form clouds. (Psa. 135:7)

28:28 — THE FEAR OF THE LORD, THAT IS WISDOM — By the description we see this is not earthly wisdom (James 3:13-18) not the knowledge of nature, of science, etc.; but the wisdom from above, viz.—knowledge of God. See Job 12:9-13.

TO DEPART FROM EVIL IS UNDERSTANDING — Zophar here makes the fear of God and His judgments the basis of universal wisdom. God thus points man to wisdom.

29:1 — AND JOB CONTINUED HIS PARABLE — As if he had been interrupted by Zophar. (27:7)

29:2 — OH THAT I WERE AS IN MONTHS PAST — Job gives a climax picture of misery. Chap 29 is what Job was; 30:1-15 the contrast, what he has become; 30:15-31 he sinks into a wail of misery.

30:1 — THE DOGS OF MY FLOCK — After this Moffat inserts verses 11, 9, 10 of chapter 16.

31:— Job rises and in the most formal manner, falling into a traditional form of oath (vs. 1) disclaims all such sins as he could be suspected of; the form of speech being plastic enough to admit emotional outbursts of horror at the suggested sin, or longing for an appeal to God.

31:5 — IF I HAVE WALKED WITH VANITY — See similar oath of disclaiming in Psa. 7.

31:33 — AS ADAM — As Adam hid in the Garden when he heard the voice of God. If Job had secret transgressions that forced him to keep in hiding from public contempt. The sentence is not finished.

32:— The first five verses of this chapter are prose.

32:2 — THE BUZITE — This leads us to believe that Uz was the land of Uz, the first born of Nahor, Abraham's brother; Bus was the second son. Elihu represents God himself.

RAM — Abraham (?) the name originally was Abram = exalted father. Rashi's note on the passage is curious: "Of the family of Ram: Abraham, for it is said, 'The greatest man among the Anakim (Josh. 14); this (is) Abraham.'" Ewald identifies Ram with Aram, mentioned in Gen. 22:21 in connection with Huz, Buz. (Gesch 1:414). Elihu would thus be a collateral descendant of Abraham and this may have suggested the extraordinary explanation given by Rashi (S.B.D.) Possibly a descendant of Abraham's brother Nahor. (Gen. 22:21)

32:6 — I AM YOUNG AND YE ARE VERY OLD — The decorum of Patriarchal life is broken in upon by the wisdom of youth. Elihu feels fully the bashfulness of a young man interposing in the conversation of elders. But he feels also the fervor of youth, longing to champion the truth. He takes 52 lines to say he is going to speak. A curious zigzag meter reflects his struggles between nervousness and a growing enthusiasm for his cause.

33:6 — I AM ALSO FORMED OUT OF CLAY — "Behold, I am toward God as thou art." (A.R.V.) Elihu's words were as wise as any of those spoken by Job's comforters—probably wiser. But they were merely human wisdom, so far as we can discern. (Z. '14-53; R.5403)

33:13 — HE GIVETH NOT ACCOUNT OF ANY OF HIS MATTERS — Elihu shows Job that he had been reasoning in part from a wrong premise — that he must not expect to fully comprehend all the ways of one so far above him, but must trust in God's justice and in His wisdom. (Z. '14-52; R.5402)

33:14 — GOD SPEAKETH ONCE, YEA TWICE — The Hebrew words literally are: God speaketh one, two—as though He speaks with a kind of repetition, stroke upon stroke, word upon word. (Isa. 28:10) Men do not regard the constant witness of divine truth. (B.S.M.)

YET MAN PERCEIVETH IT NOT — Elihu here reaches his real argument, that calamity is a warning and admonition of God to keep men humble before Him and save them from destruction. Continued the thought in verses 29-30.

33:16 — HE OPENETH THE EARS OF MEN — In the thunder tones of the day of trouble. (B153)

33:17 — WITHDRAW MAN FROM HIS PURPOSE — Here we have the first detailed definition of the divine purpose for reclamation of man from sin and death and the fact that this is to be accomplished by God Himself providing the Redeemer and Teacher to lead men back to Him. Elihu has a theme which revolves around four words in two couplets—soul and grave, life and death, repeated five times (vss. 18, 20, 22, 28, 30). This refutes the arguments that God does not care. He is and has always been ready to respond to the slightest opening for the entrance of His words and power. Will be particularly so in the Kingdom. (Isa. 65:24)

33:23 — A MESSENGER WITH HIM — He shows the one thing necessary to man's recovery from the power of death, and his restoration to divine favor.

ONE AMONG A THOUSAND — A rare one.

TO SHOW UNTO MAN HIS UPRIGHTNESS — "To declare His own righteousness for man." (Z. '14-52; R.5402)

33:24 — UNTO HIM — Unto man. (Z. '14-52; R.5402)

God's wisdom and justice cannot be impugned. The sentence of death is justly upon all men through father Adam. But God has provided us a Redeemer, Christ Jesus; and he, in harmony with the Father's plan became a man, and then gave himself a ransom price for all by paying the death penalty for Adam. As soon as the Bride is complete this Mediator will stand forth to declare his righteousness as for or applicable to everyone who will accept it.

33:25 — RETURN TO THE DAYS OF HIS YOUTH — Then will follow restitution, physically, those for whom the mediator stands shall be restored to a perennial youth, in which death and decay will find no place. They shall find acceptance and communion with God in joy and peace, and He will restore them to the original perfection, lost in Eden. (Z. '14-53; R.5403)

33:26 — RENDER UNTO MAN HIS RIGHTEOUSNESS — A.R.V.: "He restoreth unto man his righteousness;" Young: "He returneth to man his righteousness."

33:27 — HE LOOKETH UPON MEN — Margin: "He shall look upon men, and say, I have sinned . . ."; Leeser: "He then should assemble men around, and say . . ."; He will chant it before men and say, "I have sinned and perverted the right, and it was not requited me. (So Leeser: "Yet have I not received a like return") He has redeemed my soul from going into the pit and my life that it may be brought to the light." So an acknowledgement that God is just (Z. '14-53; R.5403) and that the restitution was unmerited will be required.

33:29 — OFTENTIMES WITH MAN — Moffatt: "Now God does this over and over again, twice, thrice, for men, to bring them back from death into the sunshine of life."

33:32 — SPEAK, FOR I DESIRE TO JUSTIFY THEE — Elihu appeals to Job and pauses for an answer, but none comes. Job's silence evidently nettles Elihu.

34:2 — HEAR MY WORDS, O YE WISE MEN — Elihu then appeals to the three friends and hopes to unite them and all other men of wisdom and understanding with himself in protest against Job, whom he describes as drinking scorn like water, and adding a rebellious spirit to sin. (vs. 37) But he cannot draw any notice from them. They have finished their argument.

34:14 — UPON MAN — Margin. Upon him.

SPIRIT — "Ruach" — spirit of life.

BREATH — "Neshamah" — breath of life.

34:15 — PERISH TOGETHER — Showing that man and beast have a similar spirit of life and breath of life. For the same thought, see Psa. 104:29.

34:29 — WHEN HE GIVETH QUIETNESS, WHO THEN CAN MAKE TROUBLE — Elihu seeks to draw a line in the criticism of Job, agreeing with neither Job nor his friends, but endeavoring to be moderate in his position. He defended the Almighty claiming that if God had not so ordered, Job's adversities could not have come upon him. To Elihu it seemed clear that God had a hand in Job's experiences. Satan could not have sent all these calamities unless God had permitted it. Neither man nor angel of whatever rank could thwart the divine will. God, not Job, had the authority to decide what should be done. God alone had to order all of life's affairs. The Christian may well draw a lesson from Elihu's question. Though the words are not inspired they are very wise. We can recognize the truth they contain—that when God purposes to give peace, the whole universe will be in obedience to His law, and none can make trouble. If we have difficulties, persecutions, trouble, of any kind we should look to God. We should say: "This thing could not happen to me unless the Lord permitted it." We have come under special divine care. God has promised that all things shall work together for good to us who are His children. The lesson of trust is one of those difficult lessons for us to learn and apply—to realize that all of life's experiences are under divine supervision and that nothing can happen to us but what is for our highest good. This is not now true for the world, but merely of God's family. By and by God will make all things work out blessings for the world. (Z. '14-53; R.5403)

While the world is troubled more or less, yet many enjoy a measure of peace or rest from worry. Yet they are unaware of the great truths we enjoy and are in blindness, ignorance, superstition, error through Satan's delusions. They have a feeling of security and ease, through the blinding influence of error and falsehood. Those who come into relationship with God, are therefore sometimes awakened from false security. Then they gain the true peace and rest of heart. (Matt. 11:28-30) No true rest can be gained otherwise. The Lord's people have a rest and peace of mind through the knowledge of the Lord's plan, the knowledge of His justice, mercy and love and a blessed realization that He is our God. All these things give us rest and peace of mind. God's children have a peace that the world knows not of and can neither give nor take away. And when the trials are all over the Lord will make up for all the troubles of the present, for all His children have suffered. (Z. '14-53; R.5403)

34:32 — TEACH THOU ME — We should look first to see if we can discern any wrong doing in ourselves which might properly bring chastisement. We should have joy in the Lord. But perhaps we have not been living close enough to the Lord. Yet these clouds do not necessarily mean that we have not been so living.

34:37 — MULTIPLIETH HIS WORDS AGAINST GOD — Elihu looks to the three friends, but they give no sign.

35:4 — AND THY COMPANIONS WITH THEE — This is directed against the friends as well as against Job.

35:5 — BEHOLD THE CLOUDS WHICH ARE HIGHER THAN THOU — Doubly slighted, Elihu can yet, from a single glance at the sky, draw an inspiration that strengthens him to confront both his adversaries.

35:9 — THEY CRY OUT BY REASON OF THE ARM OF THE MIGHTY — The blindness of sinful men who complain of the sufferings but refuse to read the lessons.

35:16 — HE MULTIPLIETH WORDS WITHOUT KNOWLEDGE — Here also there seems to be a pause, but both Job and the friends ignore Elihu.

36:21 — TAKE HEED REGARD NOT INIQUITY — From this point the signs of an approaching storm become visible in the sky and Elihu's words seem to be inspired by the changing heavens.

36:27 — MAKETH SMALL — R.V.: "Draweth up."

THEY POUR DOWN — R.V.: "They distill in rain from his vapor."

36:32 — WITH CLOUDS HE COVERETH THE LIGHT — R.V.: "He covereth His hands with the lightning and giveth it a charge that it strike the mark."

36:33 — THE NOISE THEREOF SHEWETH CONCERNING IT, THE CATTLE ALSO CONCERNING THE VAPOUR — “The storm which cometh up” (R.V.) With youth’s keen responsiveness to nature he eagerly drinks in every detail of the growing change. The brilliant atmosphere begins to show ominous signs of change. Through his words we are able to see the gradual rise of the whirlwind. We have spreading of clouds, small drops of water, such lightning and mutter of thunder as makes the cattle stand expectant of the storm “that cometh up.” Then some heavier crash makes Elihu tremble (37:1) and his heart move out of its place. Now beasts go to their dens as the thunder roars with a voice of majesty (37:8) and the lightning reaches the ends of the earth. (37:3) It is a tempest of all the winds of heaven. Elihu and his companions have to endure the sultry sweep of the south, under which their garments are too warm (37:17), and the icy breath of the north which mingles snow with the mighty rain. (37:9, 10) The thick storm cloud balances itself as it descends and wraps all in a darkness that appalls even Elihu. (vs. 19)

37:14 — CONSIDER THE WONDROUS WORKS OF GOD — The storm has become a whirlwind, the whole scene is wrapped in thick darkness, broken by flashes of lightning.

37:20 — SURELY HE SHALL BE SWALLOWED UP — Supernatural brightness mingles strangely with the darkness of the storm.

37:21 — THE WIND PASSETH, AND CLEANSETH THEM — At last comes a transition beyond even tempest. The whirlwind, in mystic fashion, spreads the thick clouds round the horizon, like a curtain shutting in Holy ground. From the cleared (cleansed) sky come flashes of intolerable brightness. (vs. 21) Lastly in that northern quarter from which Hebrew figure looks for the advance of divine judgments is seen a “terrible majesty” of “golden splendor”; and the roar of the whirlwind has become an inarticulate voice.

37:22 — FAIR WEATHER COMETH OUT OF THE NORTH — R.V.: “Out of the north cometh golden splendor.” The north must not be taken as of the north wind cleansing the skies, but of the north as in prophetic imagination the quarter specially associated with the divine abode (Pleiades) or the direction from which the God of Judgment makes His appearance. The friends take this glory, golden, yet too bright to look upon as the visible glory of God. (See Isa. 14:13; Ezek. 1:4; Jer. 6:1; 1:13-14; also Hab. 3:3-6)

38:3 — FOR I WILL DEMAND OF THEE, AND ANSWER THOU ME — This answer is often supposed to be an indignant denial of Job’s right to question (or inquire of) the ways of God. That this is not its significance a single consideration is sufficient to show. Such denial of the right to questions had been the position of the friends. Job had resisted and questioned. Yet in the epilogue God declares that the friends had not declared of Him the thing that was right, as His servant Job had. Nor can this be met by the suggestion that Job had made submission, whereas the friends had not, and were therefore under divine displeasure because of their misinterpretation of Job's visitation. The friends had not been called upon for submission. It is impossible to interpret the epilogue except as a pronouncement on the side of Job, however much there may be of rebuke for his wilder utterances. Unless then we say that the divine intervention pronounces on one side and the epilogue on the other, it cannot be that the former is a denial of the right to question. No part of the divine intervention refers to them, nor bears on their case.

38:4 — DECLARE IF THOU HAST UNDERSTANDING — We have here not an outburst of angry rebuke, but an elaborate and unique poem, with a strong tone of thought, supported by a wealth of details; and the answer of a God who reasons with His creatures; here is shown an all pervasive sympathy, embracing the vastnesses that strain the imagination, but penetrating also to the smallest things and things most remote from human interest.

38:5, 6 — Joints in the casing stones of the Great Pyramid. "Hear what Mr. Flinders Petrie has to say of those grand casing-stones as made by them, and examined after an existence of 4,000 years by the science of modern times. The eastern joint on the northern casing stones is on the top 0.020, 0.002, 0.045 (of an inch only) wide; and on the face 0.012, 0.022, 0.013, and 0.014 wide (of an inch); and the mean variation of the cutting of the stone from a straight line, and from a true square is but 0.01 (of an inch) in a length of 75 inches up the face, an amount of accuracy equal to most modern opticians' straight edges of such a length. These joints with an area of some 35 sq. ft. each, were not only worked as finely as this, but cemented throughout. Though the stones were brought as close as 1/500 of an inch, or in fact in contact, and the mean opening of the joint was but 1/50 of an inch yet the builders managed to fill the joint with cement despite the great area of it, and the weight of the stone to be moved—some 16 tons. To merely place such stones in exact contact at the sides would be careful work; but to do so with cement in the joints seems almost impossible'." (Our Inheritance in the Great Pyramid, Part 1, page 20, Chapter 2)

Coffer in Great Pyramid—Mr. F. Petrie discovered that the coffer must have been sawed out of the solid granite, however superlatively hard that rock may be and however unknown and impossible to modern civilization such process may have been until the epoch of the French Exhibition of 1878 A.D., when were produced black diamond drills capable of working through almost any kind of stone. Now the sawing of the outside of the Coffer must have been done, Mr. F. Petrie concludes, by bronze saws, 8 or 9 ft. long, set with teeth of sapphires. While the cutting out of the material of the hollow must have been accomplished by tubular drills of the same hard metal, with the same still harder jewel teeth, and rotated with such immense force under enormous vertical pressure that the teeth have actually found in some cases to have cut continued and regular spiral lines, as the drill descended with comparative rapidity into the solid granite rock. (Ibid. page 112, Part II)

38:22 — TREASURES OF THE SNOW . . . TREASURES OF THE HAIL

— See “How Nouri saw the Ark,” San Francisco Examiner; June 29, 1892; June 28, 30, page 3, July 1, 1892, page 3. Probably refers to the Mastodon, ice bound, frozen with grass undigested in his stomach, and even unchewed grass in mouth. (F28) Also discovery of the Ark, probably buried under snow on mountain.

38:23 — WHICH I HAVE RESERVED AGAINST THE TIME OF TROUBLE — These are to be revealed in the time of trouble, to give man the tangible proofs, that the Bible record is true. Like the Pyramid.

Noah’s Ark—Chicago Tribune, August 13, 1883: “London, August 9. A paper at Constantinople announces the discovery of Noah’s Ark. It appears that some Turkish Commissioners appointed to investigate the question of avalanches on Mount Ararat, and suddenly came upon a gigantic structure of very dark wood protruding from a glacier. They made inquiry of the inhabitants. These had seen it for six years but had been afraid to approach it because a spirit of fierce aspect had been seen looking out of the upper window. The Turkish Commissioners however are bold now, not deterred by such trifles and they determined to reach it. Situated as it was among the fastnesses of one of the glens of Mount Ararat, it was a work of enormous difficulty, and it was only after incredible hardships that they succeeded. The Ark was in a good state of preservation, although the angles (observe, not the bow or stern) had been a good deal broken in its descent. They recognized it at once. There was an Englishman among them who had presumably read his Bible, and he saw it was made of the ancient gopher wood of Scripture, which as everyone knows grows only on the plains of the Euphrates. Effecting an entrance into the structure, which was painted brown, they found that the admiralty requirements for the conveyance of horses had been carried out, and the interior was divided into partitions 15 ft. high. Into three of these, only, could they get, the others being full of ice; and how far the Ark extended into the glacier they could not tell. If however on being uncovered it turns out to be 300 cubits long it will go hard with disbelievers in the Book of Genesis.”

The Gopher wood, of which the ark was built is generally supposed to be the Cypress, famous among the ancients and frequently mentioned in scripture. It is remarkable for durability. Instances are related of doors and posts made of this wood which had lasted 1,100 years. Remembering also that Mount Ararat is covered with perpetual snow and ice more than 3000

ft. below its summit, and that an earthquake which shook it in the beginning of the present year (1883) broke loose tremendous quantities of ice, burying under the avalanches whole villages, we cannot but think that the foregoing article is not so unreasonable as might at first appear. (Z. '83-9-2; R.525)

38:31 — PLEIADES — See note on Job 9:9.

BANDS OF ORION — See note on Job 9:9.

38:32 — CANST THOU BRING FORTH MAZZAROTH — Mazzaroth probably corresponds with the “chambers of the south” of Job 9:9. This clearly means the twelve constellations of the Zodiac through which the sun appears to pass in the course of a year, and which are poetically likened to the Inus or Chambers of Tabernacles in which the sun rests on his annual journey. These twelve constellations God brings forth each in his season, in antithesis to His guiding Arcturus (the great bear) always visible in its circuit round the pole. See “Planets” 2 Kings 23:5.

ARCTURUS WITH HIS SONS — Hebrew = Ash (lit. an assembly) is probably not the actual star Arcturus but the neighboring constellation of the Great Bear, or Dipper. A.R.V. “Canst thou guide the bear with her train?” The thought is: Canst thou guide the great assembly of northern stars, which follow their course round the Pole, like the wheels of a chariot driven by a swift charioteer round a race course?

38:35 — LIGHTNINGS THAT THEY MAY GO AND SAY — Possibly a prophecy of wireless telegraph. This verse was sent by wireless to Bro. Russell on his return trip from Europe while he was on shipboard.

39:27 — THE EAGLE — Eagle is a type of the spirit begotten ones, Jesus and his church, from the peculiarities mentioned in the following verses.

MOUNT UP — Step by step to greater spiritual heights. (2 Cor. 3:18; Rom. 12:2; Heb. 6:1)

AT THY COMMAND — Through obedience to God’s Word. (John 17)

ON HIGH — Her dwelling place. (Psa. 91:1; Isa. 57:15)

39:28 — ON THE ROCK — On Jehovah. (Deut. 32:4)

42:3 — WHO IS HE THAT HIDETH COUNSEL WITHOUT KNOWLEDGE? — This sentence looks like an echo from the storm, as if it were retreating, breaking up. From Job’s first words the storm begins to retreat, in harmony with Job’s submission; and such retreat of the storm can be powerfully indicated by the breaking out of the characteristic words, each time sounding more in the distance. They may be to remind Job of the whole answer, and show his folly and make him realize the majesty of God and his own littleness. 42:4 — I WILL DEMAND OF THEE, AND DECLARE THOU UNTO ME — See comment on verse 3.

42:6 — I ABHOR MYSELF — Job conscious of innocence as regards the contention of the friends, had passionately desired to come into the very presence of the Judge. His desire is granted, but in the purity of that presence the whiteness of innocence abhors itself in dust and ashes.

42:7 — AS MY SERVANT JOB HATH — This shows that the bold faith of Job, which could appeal to God against the justice of God's own visitation was more acceptable to him than the servile adoration of the friends who sought to distort the facts in order to glorify God.

This verse (beginning with the beginning of verse 7) is written in the prose style, the poetry having ended with verse 6. (A.R.V.)

42:12 — SO THE LORD BLESSED THE LATTER END OF JOB MORE THAN HIS BEGINNING — Just double what he had in the beginning! (Job 1:3)

42:13 — ALSO SEVEN SONS — Complete numerically. Just as many sons and daughters as he had at the beginning. That is how Adam's race will be redeemed and the earth filled with the proper number, just as God originally intended. Also if Job represents Adam's race, the seven sons may represent the restitution class, restored race. No special names given to the sons.

THREE DAUGHTERS — Given special names, evidently for a purpose. They may represent the Bride of Christ (see names) taken out from humanity.

42:14 — JEMIMA — Means "Dove," a name applied to the Church in Song of Solomon.

KEZIA — Cassia.

KEREN-HAPPUCH — Means "Jar of Ointment" (horn of paint). But why three daughters? They were developed in the last three of the seven thousand year days. Seven thousand years will complete the restitution work.

PSALMS

The Psalms are arranged in five books: chapters 1-41, 42-72, 73-89, 90-106, and 107-150. This division is from very ancient times. It is thought to be in imitation of the Pentateuch. Each book ends with a doxology. The word "Praise" is used 208 times in the Psalms. 208 bones in the human body.

1:3 — LIKE A TREE — See Isa. 61:3; Jer. 17:5-8.

RIVERS OF WATER — Doctrines of truth in God's word and the divinely appointed channels through which they come.

FRUIT — For these fruits see Gal. 5:22, 23.

LEAF SHALL NOT WITHER — Hence an evergreen tree represents life everlasting is sure to any one who will always keep in the above condition.

WHATSOEVER HE DOETH SHALL PROSPER — Because "the steps of a good man are ordered of the Lord." "Commit thy works unto the Lord and thy thoughts (plans, purposes) shall be established." (Prov. 16:3; Psa. 37:23)

2:1 — HEATHEN RAGE — Margin says "tumultuously assemble." The heathen = nations or Gentiles, the irreligious. Will tumultuously gather to strive for liberty and blessings in their own strength, not knowing the divine plan of the Kingdom.

THE PEOPLE — Nominal Christendom, the favored people of God will be deceived into expecting that they will be able to convert the world and bring in the Messianic Kingdom. They are waiting for a few million to be poured into the missionary treasury to effect the world's conversion and to insure God's will being done on earth as in Heaven. (N-9-7-13) As the Socialists hope to accomplish peace and equity by legal methods. The question is asked—why do such conditions exist? Why are the people striving thus, forgetful of God and His promises? The reason is shown in vss. 2-4.

2:2 — THE KINGS — Includes financial kings and captains of industry as well as political chieftains.

OF THE EARTH — These wise men of the earth have grasped the situation only in part. They perceive the blessings and riches rolling in upon the world through human invention and are fortifying themselves in luxury and power beside the golden streams they have corralled. Thus have they set themselves. (See Isa. 5:8, 9)

THE RULERS — The ecclesiastical rulers and princes are affiliated with them. Together they take counsel. Their next step will be to put their counsels into practice. (N-9-7-13)

2:3 — BREAK THEIR BANDS ASUNDER, AND CAST AWAY THEIR CORDS — The spirit of hope and liberty set forth in the Bible is the divine restraint, the bands and cords of our text. The just commands of God, man's duty to man. The kings cast aside these restraints!

2:8 — ASK OF ME — Jesus did not ask to receive the heathen at the beginning of the Gospel Age, or before his second advent, because he knew the Father's plan to be a different one and the more excellent way, and he delighted to do the Father's will; he was well contented with the divine times and seasons and had no wish for change in this. He has been content to wait and place that request in its due time, in harmony with another feature of the divine plan—the selection of the Church. So with the true followers of Christ; as soon as they ascertain the glorious plan of salvation, they find it to be soul-satisfying, and greatly preferable to any plan of their own. It is the undeveloped Christians whom the Apostle calls "babes in Christ," who are continually praying to the Heavenly Father for a change of the divine program, imagining that their wisdom and their love in respect to the heathen are superior to those of the infinite Creator.

Nearly all Christians have had their experience with such ignorance and we are glad to suppose that the heavenly Father laid not the sin of such presumption to their charge, but rather sympathetically appreciated our interest in the Heathen, though He must have deprecated our ignorance, or lack of reverence, headiness, high-minded assumptions of more than infinite wisdom, or our mistrust that He was not able to do the work in the best way. (N-7-18-09)

THE UTTERMOST PARTS OF THE EARTH FOR THY POSSESSION — "His dominion shall be from sea to sea and from the river to the ends of the earth." (Zech. 9:10) This is the "purchased possession," (Eph. 1:14) the "first dominion." (Mic. 4:8)

2:9 — BREAK THEM WITH A ROD OF IRON — Force will be used then (the breaking refers to the time of trouble) not merely moral suasion. Force will be employed in putting down the reign of evil. Satan will not merely be requested to desist from deceiving the world, but will be bound for 1000 years and be unable to deceive the nations. Mankind will no longer be invited to accept Christ and to give their hearts in obedience to him, but will be compelled to obey. (See Psa. 45:3-5; 66:3; Rev. 2:27) Offers of grace will no longer be held out with rewards of faith attached; instead the whole earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the Lord. (Isa. 11:9)

2:10 — BE WISE . . . BE INSTRUCTED — Take heed and warning from the words of this Psalm. Receive instruction from the Lord. Be wise and yield willingly while yet there is time.

O YE KINGS — Kingdoms of Christendom, all rulers and judges and princes of earth.

2:11 — SERVE THE LORD WITH FEAR — Serve Him with reverence and fear to disobey. Serve Him by dealing justice and mercy, and help the poor and needy. (Psa. 92:2-4) If they did this it would prevent anarchy. But selfishness and pride have gotten so firm a hold on men that they will not do this, as shown in verses 2 and 3.

2:12 — WHEN HIS WRATH IS KINDLED BUT A LITTLE — Those of the nations which freely and heartily accept Messiah's rule will be correspondingly saved from the breaking process. "When His wrath is kindled but a little"—before the time of trouble is fully upon you in all its terror.

BLESSED ARE ALL THEY THAT PUT THEIR TRUST IN HIM — Those who follow the instructions of this Psalm and wait patiently for Him and obey Him and trust Him will be wonderfully blessed.

4:2 — HOW LONG WILL YE TURN MY GLORY INTO SHAME? — How? By disobedience, defiling His work, changing its use from that for which it was created to some other; by misrepresenting the Heavenly Father; by degrading His image, covering the earth with shame instead of with glory. All God's works before Adam, during the six creative days, was to His glory. All worked in perfect order, but when on the seventh day God created man, man turned His glory into shame. Now God rests and works for man. (Bro. Hollister)

6:5 — DEATH — "Maveth" = (from prim. root - to die; or causative - to kill) = death.

GRAVE — "Sheol" = grave. Hades, or the world of the dead (as if a subterranean retreat). From "shael" — to inquire. (Strong's Conc.)

17:8 — APPLE — Heb. = Ishon — little man; the same word is in Deut. 32:10; Psa. 17:8; Prov. 7:2; the corresponding English word is pupil, from the Latin pupillus. In Zech. 2:8 the Heb. = baw-baw—something hollowed out, as the pupil. In Lam. 2:18 the Heb. = bath — daughter, used figuratively.

18: — THE DIVISIONS OF THE PSALM —

Vss. 1-3	Introduction and Praise;
Vss. 4-6	The Gospel age course of the Church in sorrow and humiliation;
Vss. 7-15	The wrath of God in the time of trouble;
Vss. 16-24	The deliverance and glory of the Church;
Vss. 25-36	Reward according to heart intention, God our strength and shield;
Vss. 37-42	Victory of the Church over the world, flesh, and Devil;
Vss. 43-50	Rule of the Church over the world and her enemies.

The Psalm is about how the Church with her Lord Jesus shall rule all nations.

18:1-3 — I — David is in this Psalm a picture of the feet members of the Christ, or the Christ at its deliverance.

WILL LOVE THEE — The response of a grateful heart full of deep appreciation of God's love and goodness. So the Church will love Jehovah to all eternity, love Him far more than can the angels or mankind, because they have tried Him and learned His character.

O LORD, MY STRENGTH — They have all learned that their overcoming has not been in their own strength of will, but in God's strength, they have been strong in the Lord and in the power of His might.

18:2 — THE LORD IS MY ROCK — Firm solid foundation, which will not give way, and which can be trusted.

AND MY FORTRESS — Place to which we can flee when in danger, and which will protect us. Many have refuges to which they can flee, "holes in the rocks," but which will not protect them. But this one cannot fail. "They that put their trust in Him shall never be confounded."

AND MY DELIVERER — We recognize Him as the one whose power delivers us.

MY GOD — My mighty one, the one I have put my trust in.

MY STRENGTH — Or rock (margin) in the sense of the strength which we may have when we realize that He is in back of us. We fear nothing.

IN WHOM I WILL TRUST — From what we have learned we will put our trust in no other, neither self, nor man, but in God alone.

MY BUCKLER — A protection fitting around the body. So through His word, which is our “shield and buckler.”

AND THE HORN OF MY SALVATION — The power by which I shall be saved. He is our life giver, Father, the power to uphold us all through our course.

AND MY HIGH TOWER — A means of warning of danger. These expressions show that God is every conceivable protection to us, all sufficient, in every time of need, and never failing.

18:3 — I WILL CALL UPON THE LORD . . . WORTHY TO BE PRAISED
— Hence we will call upon Him when we need help. For He is worthy in all ways to be praised, and so shall we really find salvation.

18:4-6 — The Gospel Age course of the Church in sorrow and humiliation.

18:5 — THE SORROWS OF HELL COMPASSED ME ABOUT — Picturing the fact that the Church, like Christ, will seem to be engulfed and overcome by her enemies and wiped out.

18:6 — MY VOICE OUT OF HIS TEMPLE — The true Church. The relief will come through Christ, in connection with the temple class. “I will raise them up at the last day.”

MY CRY CAME BEFORE HIM — She cries to God and puts her trust in Him and the time for the deliverance of the Church has come.

18:7-15 — The wrath of God in the time of trouble.

18:7 — THEN — When the deliverance of the Church takes place.

THE EARTH — Society shaken.

THE FOUNDATIONS ALSO OF THE HILLS — The real principles and methods upon which the present lesser governments are run, oppression, selfishness, the groaning mass of people; these are shaken and loosed and made plain so that the governments fall.

BECAUSE HE WAS WROTH — The day of vengeance.

18:8 — WENT UP A SMOKE OUT OF HIS NOSTRILS — Anger.

FIRE OUT OF HIS MOUTH DEVoured — Consuming trouble upon the world, destroying all iniquitous institutions.

COALS WERE KINDLED BY IT — Coals of fire, the embers kindle and ignite which will set on fire the present order of things.

18:9 — BOWED THE HEAVENS — The second presence of Christ, his return to earth.

18:10 — AND HE RODE UPON A CHERUB — One of God's four attributes is particularly exercised—justice, a just recompense for all the evil and the neglected light. (Rev. 18:24; Jer. 51:49)

DID FLY UPON THE WINGS OF THE WIND — Picturing the swift, sudden judgement that will come. (Rev. 18:18, 8; 1 Thes. 5:3)

18:11 — DARK WATERS — The truth which comes with Jesus' second presence is darkness to the world. (Rev. 16:10; Isa. 60:2)

18:13 — THE LORD ALSO THUNDERED — The seven thunders among the ecclesiastical heavens.

GAVE HIS VOICE — “The voice of the Lord rendering recompense to His enemies.” (Isa. 66:6)

HAIL STONES — Truth (water) congealed in a hard form. The truths now revealed will act as such a storm on its enemies, for it will show up their falsity and the foul error of their doctrine. See the seven last plagues.

AND COALS OF FIRE — That will burn and consume the evil and error in society, will start the elements burning.

18:14 — ARROWS — See Psa. 45:5. Truths and their spirit.

SCATTERED THEM — Scattered his enemies, so that they could not work well together. As at the first advent the enemies of the truth will soon be squabbling among themselves, after they have outwardly united.

AND HE SHOT OUT LIGHTNINGS — Diffusions of knowledge on various subjects.

AND DISCOMFITED THEM — Routed them and put them to confusion.

18:15 — CHANNELS OF WATER WERE SEEN — Waters represent truth; Channels represent instruments or agents used to give out the truth. Satan and the nominal church have given out error for truth and the world will then, now that the God given channels have been filled largely with the mud of human tradition, reject it and overthrow it.

AND THE FOUNDATIONS OF THE WORLD WERE DISCOVERED

— It will be made plain that the present world, religious and social, is founded on selfishness, and thus its foundations will be dis-(un)-covered, and its evil and wrong and injustice be shown up, that it is not worthy to remain. (Psa. 82:5; Heb. 1:10; 12:26, 27)

AT THE REBUKE — At God's voice (Heb. 12:26; Isa. 2:4; Mic. 4:3)

18:16-24 — The deliverance and glory of the Church.

18:16 — HE DREW ME OUT OF MANY WATERS — At the second advent of Christ the deliverance of the church will take place. This is the David class, and pictures their deliverance in the early part of the trouble, in the dawning of her morning. Many or (margin) great waters represent the tumult of the people. As Jesus was delivered over by the ministers and the mob to his death, so his feet members may soon be given over to death by the ministers and their following, "for the good of the cause."

18:17 — STRONG ENEMY — Satan.

18:18 — IN THE DAY OF MY CALAMITY — In the day when the Church is in the flesh, beset with trials and difficulties, then her enemies try to hinder her and block her way.

BUT THE LORD WAS MY STAY — But they put their trust in the Lord and now look back and are exceeding glad they did.

18:19 — LARGE PLACE — Roomy place. The present truth and the liberty and blessing it brings. (Isa. 33:20, 21; Joel 2:24-27)

HE DELIGHTED IN ME — The Lord delights in the Little Flock, because she is the image, exact copy of His Son. (Psa. 87:2; 149:4; 132:13-16)

18:21 — FOR I HAVE KEPT THE WAYS OF THE LORD — Striven to do His works and ways, to practice them.

18:22 — I DID NOT PUT AWAY HIS STATUTES FROM ME — I did meditate on His word and thoughts and did not reject them for my own or the plans of another.

18:23 — I KEPT MYSELF FROM MINE INIQUITY — From my weaknesses and my besetments of the world, flesh and Devil.

18:24 — ACCORDING TO THE CLEANNES OF MY HANDS IN HIS EYESIGHT — Showing the faithful loyalty of the Little Flock with Jesus.

Their righteousness has been one of will, heart, intention, and they had the imputed robe of Christ to cover them. According to their righteous intentions and earnest efforts (hands).

18:25-36 — Reward according to heart intention; God our strength and shield.

18:25 — WITH THE MERCIFUL THOU WILT SHEW THYSELF

MERCIFUL — The merciful love mercy, notice that trait in God and are drawn by it.

WITH AN UPRIGHT MAN THOU WILT SHEW THYSELF

UPRIGHT — Similarly, the perfect (Young's trans.) or the upright have a capacity for appreciating perfection and justice and see it in God and are drawn by it.

18:26 — WITH THE PURE THOU WILT SHEW THYSELF PURE — The pure see this of His character; stands out prominently to them.

WITH THE FROWARD THOU WILT SHEW THYSELF FROWARD

— To the perverse (Young's trans.) God seems always to be thwarting their plans and to be in their way. "Thou thoughtest I was altogether such an one as thyself." (Psa. 50:21) "A man's idea of God is a fair index of his relationship to God." (Z. '80-9-7; R.139)

18:27 — AFFLICTED PEOPLE — The Church.

HIGH LOOKS — Vaunting ambitions of Satan and his emissaries.

18:28 — FOR THOU WILT . . . ENLIGHTEN MY DARKNESS — Thou wilt enlighten my mind through the light of the Holy Spirit. (Ex. 37:17-24; Psa. 19:18; 119, 130; Eph. 2:18)

18:29 — TROOP — Troop of opposers.

WALL — Obstacles thrown in our way to stop our progress.

18:31 — ROCK — Sure foundation.

18:32 — STRENGTH — Courage to do His will.

MAKETH MY WAY PERFECT — Leads me in the narrow way that leads to perfection, the way of the perfect in heart.

18:33 — MAKETH MY FEET LIKE HIND'S FEET — Swift to run in the narrow way, to do His will.

SETTETH ME UPON MY HIGH PLACES — Places of honor in His service, to do His people good.

18:35 — THY GENTLENESS HATH MADE ME GREAT — Thy humility and gentleness has made me ashamed of myself and set me to copying thy true greatness.

18:37-42 — Victory of the church over the world, flesh and Devil.

18:43-50 — Rule of the Church over the world and her enemies.

19:1 — THE FIRMAMENT SHEWETH HIS HANDIWORK — It is said that the plan of God is written in the stars and in their relations one to another.

19:2 — NIGHT UNTO NIGHT SHEWETH KNOWLEDGE — The wonderful power and wisdom and order manifested in the stars, shows at least God's infinite wisdom and power.

19:3 — WHERE THEIR VOICE IS NOT HEARD — Leeser: "There is no speech, there are no words, their voice is not heard."

19:4 — LINE — Leeser—"Melody" represents the testimony of their order and harmony and perfect workings, testifying to the same of God.

IN THEM — Amongst the heavenly host of angels etc. The literal heavens are here used as a picture of the religious ruling powers of the Millennial Age.

IN THEM HATH HE SET A TABERNACLE — A dwelling place. "I go to prepare a place for you" among the "many mansions." A condition representing glory, honor and immortality of the divine nature.

THE SUN — The Sun of Righteousness (Mal. 4:2, 3) which shall rise with healing in its beams. The Christ glorified.

19:5 — WHICH — "And he." (Leeser)

BRIDEGROOM — Jesus, the husband of the Bride, the head of the body.

COMING OUT — To accomplish the work of the Millennial Age.

HIS CHAMBER — From heaven to come to earth? ("Whom the heavens must retain." Acts 3:21)

REJOICETH — "I delight to do thy will, O, my God."

STRONG MAN — “All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth.”
Matt. 28:18

TO RUN A RACE — Leeser: Run his course—accomplish the work of the Millennium. “His work is before him.” (Isa. 40:10; 62:11)

19:6 — HIS GOING FORTH IS FROM — From the beginning to the end of the Millennium, when Christ will deliver up the Kingdom of the Father.

HEAVEN — The spiritual ruling powers. Or as the literal sun covers the whole earth in its course, so the Sun of Righteousness will shine over the full extent of the earth and over the whole race. (Psa. 72:8)

THE HEAT THEREOF — Influence and power (cleansing influence). It will penetrate into every nook and corner of the world and of the hearts of men, cleansing them and rooting out every form of evil and evil influence.

19:7-11 — These verses refer us to the superior glory of God’s special written revelation of Himself (above that of the stars), given through His inspired agents, the prophets and apostles. This testimony not only declares the existence, power, and wisdom of Jehovah, with a silent intimation of His goodness and grace, but with overwhelming force it bears to the thoughtful mind the convincing testimony of all His glorious attributes and of His love toward us in Christ. Other agencies may lead to temporary and partial changes of course and action, but nothing else equals God’s revealed truth for producing a change of character. (Z.’18-155; R.6259)

It is because other converting agencies and powers are so often used that there are so many glossed over characters, nominal Christians, as compared with the few whose entire beings are turned and fully consecrated to the Lord. People may be converted from savagery to civilization by a general knowledge, or from intemperance to sobriety by a study of the advantages of the latter over the former or from dishonesty to honesty by learning that honesty is the best policy. But none of these are soul conversions. Only God’s Truth can produce soul conversion, as our Lord indicates in John 17:17.

19:7 — LAW — “To-raw” — a precept or statute, espec. the Decalogue or Pentateuch. (From “yaw-saw,” a prim root to flow as water, i.e. rain, trans. to lay or throw; espec. an arrow, to shoot; fig. to point as with finger, aiming; to teach). Margin reads doctrine.

TESTIMONY — “Ay-dooth”; — (feminine of “ayd-concr.” a witness, abst. testimony; spec. a recorder, i.e. a prince) = testimony, evidence.

The testimony is not doubtful but clear and positive, making wise the single-hearted who have no will or plan of their own which they wish the Lord to adopt, but who seek the Lord's will only.

19:8 — STATUTES — “Pik-kood” — prop. appointed, i.e. a mandate from God; (plural only, coll. for the Law) (from paw-kad, a prim. root, to visit; by impl. to oversee, muster, charge, care for, miss, deposit). Margin reads purposes.

The statutes, His appointed plans, are right, rejoicing the heart. God's glorious plan of the ages rejoices the hearts of all who have come to a knowledge of that blessed arrangement.

COMMANDMENTS — “Mits-vaw”; a commandment whether human or divine. (Coll. the Law) (From “tsaw-vaw,” a prim. root, to constitute, enjoin). Margin reads precepts.

The commandments, precepts or teachings are pure and clear, showing us the unmistakable cause and end of righteousness and of unrighteousness.

19:9 — FEAR — “Yir-aw”; fear, moral reverence. (fem. of yaw-ray, fearing, moral reverent, from yaw-ray, a prim. root, to fear; caus. to frighten; moral. to revere). The fear or reverence is a pure and lofty sentiment based on love and gratitude not upon a servile recognition of tyranny or power and this proper fear will endure forever and will lead the possessor to everlasting life.

JUDGEMENTS — “Mish-pawt”; prop. a verdict, spec. a sentence, or formal decree; divine Law; abst. justice, including a particular right or privilege. (From “shaw-fat,” a prim. root, to judge, i.e. pronounce sentence; to vindicate or punish; by exten. to govern; pass. to litigate).

Judgements. Once when following the teachings of mistaken teachings and catechisms, we thought of the judgements of the Lord, His “eternal decrees,” only with horror, supposing that they provide for the salvation of but a mere handful of our race and the everlasting misery of the masses. But what a change of sentiment has come since our eyes of understanding have opened to the Truth. Now God's decrees are sweet to our taste, we appreciate them greatly. Moreover, the thoughtful servant of God who meditates on God's decrees, judgements is warned thereby and in remembering and obeying them there is great reward. (Z.'18-155; R.6259)

19:10 — THAN MUCH FINE GOLD — The lust of the eyes.

THAN HONEY AND HONEYCOMB — The lust of the flesh.

19:11 — IS THY SERVANT WARNED — Warned against the influence of pride, these give the true wisdom. Eve was tempted along these three lines, so was Jesus, so is the Church. (See Matt. 4:1-11; 1 John 2:16; Gen. 3:6)

GREAT REWARD — Those who keep these will get all that Eve sought to get before God's due time, and more, and will have every sense and their whole nature satisfied in a legitimate, wholesome way in harmony with God. (See Rev. 2:7)

19:12 — HIS ERRORS — His own errors. Not the sins before our consecration, and for our sins afterward Christ's merit is amply sufficient to atone. But the Lord requires of us that we shall take note of our imperfections and apply to Him for specific forgiveness. This will tend to keep us humble, assist us in keeping in remembrance the horrible pit of sin from which we were lifted by the gracious merit of our Redeemer. These experiences will also be helpful to us by drawing us to the throne of grace more frequently that we may obtain mercy and grace to help in time of need. (Heb. 4:16) (N-11-7-09) We are not able to judge or discern our own sins and errors by our faulty judgments. But must have divine assistance to know them and fight against them. "It is a wise man who knows his own faults."

SECRET FAULTS — Faults secret from others and known only to the Lord and to ourselves, or faults secret from ourselves but well known to others. The heart in harmony with the Lord and the principles of righteousness will more and more desire full perfection, full victory over the weakness of the flesh and will strive hard for it. We must "cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh (body) and spirit (mind, will); perfecting holiness in the reverence of the Lord." "Then He will be faithful to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." (2 Cor. 7:1; 1 John 1:9) See washing in the Laver.

19:13 — KEEP BACK — By thus correcting and disciplining us. "I will guide thee with mine eye."

PRESUMPTUOUS SINS — Pride; wanton exposure to danger as in Jesus' second temptation; like Moses smiting rock, when told only to speak to it: to Lord it over God's heritage, presuming to take place and authority not bestowed by the Lord. To dictate to the Lord. (N-11-7-09) Satan's sin is presumption. Typified by the strange fire offered by Nadab and Abihu.

DOMINION OVER ME — Blind us and influence all our actions. Let not pride or avarice or envy, hatred, malice, etc. have dominion over me, rule me and make me their helpless slave. "Whosoever committeth sin (willingly) is the servant of sin." (John 8:34) Their dominion over us would mean ultimately the second death. Let thy Spirit rule in my heart, not the spirit of selfishness. “Thy will not mine be done.”

UPRIGHT — Perfect in character, at the mark. At the end of our course we will be ready for the Kingdom. “If ye do these things ye shall never fail.”

THE GREAT TRANSGRESSION — From deliberate intentional sin, from anything worthy of second death. (N-11-7-09)

20: — Perhaps Jesus here may be soliloquizing, or some of the Divine purposes or qualities are personified and speak thus.

20:1 — HEAR THEE — Answer thee. Did the Lord answer Jesus in the garden? John 11:42. (Z. '21-166)

DAY OF TROUBLE — That upon Jesus in Gethsemane when in “strong crying and tears” he faced the most momentous problems in his existence. It would not be inappropriate to stretch the application to the whole period of his humiliation (3-1/2 years) and to the humiliation of his body and the closing Time of Trouble of the Gospel Age and to apply the final setting upon high to the exaltation in the Kingdom. But it is simplest to apply it to our Lord Jesus himself.

21: — This is a coronation Psalm of Israel. In all probability written for David’s own coronation; but being a “Psalm of David’s” it has a bearing upon David’s Son and Lord. Its subject matter is connected with Psa. 20:4. (Z. '21-166)

23: — Beecher wrote: “It is the nightingale among the Psalms. It is small, of a homely feather, singing shyly out of obscurity, but it has filled the air of the whole world with melodious joy.” Spurgeon said: “This is the Pearl of Psalms, whose soft and pure radiance delights every eye.”

23:1 — MY SHEPHERD — This is a cry of joy and deep appreciation. “Other lord’s have had dominion over us, but now thou art our leader.”

Jehovah is the over-shepherd, the Great Shepherd, and Jesus the under-shepherd, (Heb. 13:20; 1 Pet. 2:25; John 10:11), as Jesus has appointed under-shepherds.

The work of shepherding is not exercised toward the world. Jesus does not shepherd goats or wolves, but only sheep. The special care is taken of the Flock of God (Acts 20:28). Originally the Jewish nation constituted this flock and David recognized himself as one of the sheep. Israel was not chosen because better than the rest of mankind but God made an exception of that people for Abraham’s sake. So God made Israel His sheep. As they obeyed He blessed them and whenever they went astray He chastised them and brought them back again under His care. But the special application is to the spiritual seed who were to reign over the natural seed; all the chiefest of God's promises are to spiritual Israel. God had a still more particular care over spiritual Israel. Hence we understand that the speaker is Jesus, and all his consecrated body-members are also represented in the speaker. (Z. '14-198, 199; R.5490)

There is a distinction implied between sheep and wolves. See note on John 10. The world likes to be considered strong and well able to defend themselves and their rights. On their escutcheons we never see a sheep portrayed. We see lions; the eagle with its outspread wings and sharp claws and beak; dragons, bears, serpents—everything to indicate rapacity, ferocity, cunning desire for conquest. The Lord passes by all these strong, fierce nations—the lion, eagle, bear and has called out a new nation altogether distinct from these. God has chosen for the members of this nation few in number—those who are sheep-like in disposition and who desire to come into His fold. For these He has provided a particular way in which to enter this fold. He does not have bears, tigers, wolves nor birds of prey in His fold. God does not recognize such. They are not to be fed and cared for as He cares for His sheep. If therefore we would claim the promise of this beautiful Psalm we must make sure we are of sheep-like disposition and desirous of being led by the true Shepherd.

We are to be careful to note there is only one shepherd who is able to care for our interests and who can safely be trusted with them. A strange shepherd would lead the sheep astray, would lead them into difficulties, disasters and dangers. For this reason we do not trust everybody who wears the garb of a shepherd. There is but one shepherd that we can trust. (Z. '14-199; R.5490)

Wayward sheep. Alas not all of the sheep have full confidence in the shepherd, fully resigned to no will but His. Some are continually getting into trouble, because they neglect the green pastures and cool waters, the refreshing of the Truth found in the Word of God because goat-like they sometimes wander off into the desert, straying far from the Shepherd, attempting to feed themselves on the indigestible things of the present life, on which no spiritual nature can thrive. (Z. '14-91; R.5426)

NOT WANT — Destroy disappointment by restricting desire to that blessed will of God, which can never fail to be accomplished.

Those who are proper sheep will submit their wills to the Shepherd's will, and trust wholly to His guidance, and so doing are relieved of that anxious craving so common to the children of the world and which is never satisfied, but the more it gets the more it wants. The Lord's sheep appreciate the heavenly things more than the earthly, and their wants in this respect are more than supplied when they accept by faith the divine assurance. (Phil. 4:19) They have given up every earthly interest in exchange for the heavenly, and realizing their own insufficiency and lack of judgement they are trusting to the Lord to grant them such experiences and leadings, trials, difficulties, blessings, etc. in this present life as will be for their highest good, and as would work out for them a share of the glorious things to which they have been called. The wants of this class are not of the kind after which the Gentiles seek, and for which they are anxious and strive. Jesus has satisfied. (Psa. 84:11; 34:9, 10) (Z. '03-412; R.3269)

23:2 — GREEN PASTURES — Although the experiences of the Lord's sheep include many trials in the parched wilderness of sin, yet He graciously gives them restful experiences in oases of divine favor. These are not always accompanied with immunities from trial as the world would view the matter, but certainly are seasons of rest and refreshments, to such an extent that the Lord's people may truthfully say they have the peace of God which passeth all understanding ruling in their hearts, in spite of outward trials, perplexities and adversities. Which of the Lord's sheep has not found such green pasturage of spiritual refreshment in his private devotions and studies of divine things? Which of them has not had similar refreshment and rest and nourishment from the Master's provision that His sheep shall not forsake the assembling of themselves together, for the study of the Word, for prayer, for testimonies of the Lord's goodness and mercy. Sheep which have no enjoyment in such blessings and refreshment have reason to question their faithfulness in following the shepherd. And sheep, finding such opportunities decline to use them, thus give evidence of lack of harmony with the shepherd's gracious intentions and wisdom. (Z. '03-412; R.3269)

HE LEADETH ME — In various ways the Shepherd speaks to His flock of sheep and lambs. His written words treasured up in the heart mark the way of truth continually. His special providences further shape the peculiar course of each individual; and the abiding presence of His Holy Spirit makes manifest every intrusion of any other spirit which seeks to beguile and lead astray. The true sheep will carefully listen for the faintest accents of the voice of the Shepherd, i.e. he will treasure up His words in his heart, he will study His providences and he will cultivate that communion and personal fellowship with the Lord, which are his privilege. They may not have much learning and humanly speaking they would not be able to grapple with the sophistries of error. But being so well acquainted with the Master's voice, they quickly perceive that other voices are the voices of strangers and they will not follow them, for they are loyal and obedient to the Shepherd only. (Z. '02-365; R.3116)

STILL WATERS — Contrasted with the rushing torrent of the mountain slope, not still in the sense of stagnant, but rather smooth flowing. The great Shepherd leads in from the strife of worldly ambition from the greatness and power and riches and honor highly esteemed among men, but does not lead us to stagnancy, rather to spiritual ambitions which bring with them a restfulness and refreshment of soul obtainable from no other source. The streams of truth and grace are living (life-giving) but comparatively quiet waters. (Z. '03-412; R.3269)

God's ways are not noisy boisterous, boastful, but are quiet unassuming, meek, patient and yet most powerful. He does not sound a brass trumpet before Him. He is active, busy, accomplishing results quietly.

Let us discriminate, discern His voice, with its truthful accent, so different from the voice of error. True sheep will not follow strangers, for they know not the voice of strangers. They do not like its money ring, or its worldly ambition ring, or its priestcraft tone, or its contradiction of the divine message and method. (Z. '03-412; R.3269)

23:3 — RESTORETH MY SOUL — Not a restoration of bodily or physical health, but of soul, being. The Lord's precious saints have been weary and faint and troubled, even Jesus. Applying this to the Christian's experience the restoring of our soul would correspond with our justification to life. All our lives were forfeited under Divine sentence and by faith a complete restitution or restoration of soul is granted the believer that he might have something to offer in sacrifice to the Lord, (Rom. 12:1) holy and acceptable, and in this sacrificial service we may walk in the footsteps of our great Shepherd who laid down his life for the sheep. Thus the true sheep are led in right, proper paths, advantageous to their spiritual development, though frequently trying and difficult to them according to the flesh. (Z. '14-91; R.5426)

HE LEADETH ME IN PATHS OF RIGHTEOUSNESS — (See comment on Psa. 23:2—Leadeth Me.) He causes me to learn, even by my own stumblings and difficulties to learn to appreciate the desirableness of his ways and the undesirableness of every other way. All his ways are perfect, righteous. He leads us not contrary to our wills but in harmony therewith to prove what is the good, next the acceptable, and finally the perfect will of God. (Rom. 12:2) (Z. '14-91; R.5426)

FOR HIS NAME'S SAKE — Not for our own sakes or worthiness but through the Lord's grace, that His name might be glorified in the minds of His creatures. He wants them all to know the joys and soul satisfaction of peace with Him, that they may have fulness of joy, partake of His joy.

23:4 — VALLEY OF THE SHADOW OF DEATH — The whole world is walking in this valley. Mountain tops of life and affection, were left by the race 6,000 years ago. In the broad road the whole human family is still walking, and though the shepherd leads His flock upward and in the reverse direction from the course of the world, yet according to the flesh they are still in the world, in the valley of the shadow of death. However, the true sheep hearing the voice of the Shepherd have learned to be neither careless nor indifferent as are some, nor to be in fear, doubt and perplexity as are the majority. (Z. '03-412; R.3269; Z.'14-91; R.5426)

FEAR NO EVIL — If they have full confidence in the Shepherd, they know that He will permit them to have no needless experiences and none which will be to their injury; but He will overrule all for their good. (Z.'14-199; R.5490)

Because the Lord's favor is with them, He is with them, on their side and has shown His favor in the redemption price already paid. With us in His Word of promise, His assurance that death shall not mean extinction of life, but merely until the resurrection, an undisturbed sleep in Christ. What wonder these can walk through the valley of the shadow of death, singing and making melody in their hearts to the Lord, calling upon their souls with all that is within them to praise and magnify His holy name who loved us and bought us with the precious blood, and called us to joint heirship with His Son our dear Redeemer. (Z.'03-412; R.3269) (Psa. 91:10; 121:7)

THOU ART WITH ME — The Lord's fellowship.

THY ROD — The crook of the Shepherd to correct and punish or chastise, to keep us in the right way. (Heb. 12:10; Psa. 119:75-77)

THY STAFF — The crook used to assist the sheep out of difficulties, to defend it from its too powerful enemies. (Z.'03-412; R.3269)

COMFORT ME — The true sheep learn to love the providence of the shepherd and are comforted by them. Knowing the shepherd's power and his watchful care, they realize that all things work together for good to them because they are his sheep. (Z.'03-413; R.3270) (Psa. 94:19; 119:54, 50, 75-77, 92, 93; Lam. 3:22-26; 2 Cor. 1:4)

23:5 — PREPAREST A TABLE — The picture here changes to that of a mighty Lord preparing a sumptuous feast for his humble friend. We as the Lord's people are accepted of him, counted as friends and made to sit down to a bountiful feast. All religious people make more or less claim to spiritual food—the various parts and factions of Christendom specially boast they have much advantage every way and that their tables are spread with divine truth, promises, etc., food from which they claim to receive their strength.

But what a variety of these tables there are and how different are the viands doctrinally, the food on most of them seems to have been spoiled in the preparation. Some of it is sad, some sour and much of it is musty. For the most part it originated in the Dark Ages and the dear friends who sit down to these tables, find that they have little appetite for such food, and we do not blame them. Rather we would attract their attention to the generous bountiful supply of divine truth which the Lord himself is dispensing to the household of faith, things new and old, but all of them pure, sweet, delicious, grand. This table is open to all those who love the Lord with all their soul and strength, better than they love houses or lands, parents or children, husband or wife, lodge or society, or sectarianism or self. (Z. '03-413; R.3270)

IN THE PRESENCE OF MINE ENEMIES — From Satan and all the wicked spirits in high places mentioned by the Apostle. (Eph. 6:12) Enemies that surround us on every hand. (Z. '03-413; R.3270) While beset by Satan and sin, we are sustained by the Lord's abundant provision for every necessity. (Z. '02-366; R.3116)

ANOINTEST MY HEAD WITH OIL — The anointing of the head of the guest was a part of the hospitality of olden times. The antitype is the outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon all this class, the body of Christ, of which he is the Head, Chief, Shepherd, Leader. (Z. '04-413; R.3270)

MY CUP RUNNETH OVER — The fulness of the cup running over has a double meaning. It is a cup of joy and one of sorrow and in both respects it overflows. He who would partake of the Lord's joys must also partake of his sufferings, his cup; we must suffer if we would reign with him. But we count the sufferings of the present as not worthy to be compared with the glories which shall be revealed in us and so we rejoice in tribulation, and as the tribulations overflow, the rejoicing also overflows. Rejoice and again I say: Rejoice. (Z. '03-413; R.3270; Z. '14-91; R.5426)

23:6 — GOODNESS AND MERCY SHALL FOLLOW ME — Mercy = Lovingkindness. (R.V.) The goodness and mercy which we anticipate beyond the veil has its beginning here already and is thus to be appreciated. Whoever knows nothing of the joys of the Lord in the present time, will evidently not be prepared for the joys of the Lord in the Kingdom, whatever blessings and joys he may attain to under the Kingdom during the Millennium. This joy is not a momentary matter connected with their first acceptance of the Lord and their consecration to Him. The goodness and mercy of the Lord is not to be looked back to as a thing of the remote past, but is to be recognized and appreciated as a thing of the present. Day by day God's goodness and mercy follow us, refresh and strengthen us, bless us. (Z. '03-414; R.3270) (John 15:11)

I WILL DWELL IN THE HOUSE OF THE LORD — The highest hope to which we may aspire is that of final union with our great Shepherd, our Heavenly Father and the good Shepherd, His Son, in the heavenly state, in our Father's house on high, one mansion or plane of which is intended for the Little Flock, separate and distinct from the mansion provided for the Restitution class of the Millennial Age. The end of all our highest ambitions will be attained and far more than realized, when we shall be like our Lord, see him as he is and share his glory in the Father's house. (Z. '03-414; R.3270; Z. '14-91; R.5426) (Psa. 27:4)

FOREVER — Surely by God's grace I shall ultimately gain the Heavenly Kingdom and the glorious things which he has promised to those who love Him. The few who can thus enter fully into sympathy with Paul (Heb. 10:21, 22) and David in their expressions of full assurance of faith have a great joy, a great blessing, a great rest of heart which none others possess. (Z. '14-90; R.5425)

Beecher wrote: "It is the nightingale among the Psalms. It is small, of a homely feather, singing shyly out of obscurity, but it has filled the air of the whole world with melodious joy." Spurgeon said: "This is the Pearl of Psalms, whose soft and pure radiance delights every eye."

24: — This Psalm seems to have been used by David when he brought the Ark into the city of David. (Z. '15-137; R.5680)

24:2 — ESTABLISHED IT UPON THE FLOODS — God is founding his new order of things in the midst of the seas of discontent, among those who are not established, and in harmony with God—the restless masses. (Z. '15-137; R.5680)

24:3 — WHO SHALL ASCEND — God invites us to ascend into his Holy Hill, Holy Kingdom, and to be established in His Holy Place—in the spiritual divine nature. (Z. '15-137; R.5680)

24:4 — HE THAT HATH — He stipulates that none can be of this class except upon certain conditions—a pure, honest heart and clean hands, righteous living to the best of their ability. (Z. '15-137; R.5680)

NOR SWORN DECEITFULLY — These are all expected to swear allegiance to God. This is styled their covenant with Him. (Psa. 50:5) Jesus was the first of these Covenanters, and all of the Church must walk in His steps, if they would be with Him in His holy Kingdom. These must not lift up their soul to falsehood nor swear deceitfully. God will require of them all they have covenanted with Him. Only such will receive the blessing of the Lord and only to such will his righteousness be imputed through Christ. Never more than today has this lesson needed to be impressed. How many confess that though they have made a covenant of sacrifice and vowed to the Lord, they are not considering this nor keeping their vows. How many confess they are speaking falsely in respect to their creeds, denying privately what they have publicly declared to be their faith. Surely such a course must be reprehensible in God's sight. (Z.'15-137; R.5680)

24:7 — THE KING OF GLORY — Jehovah will be there representedly in Christ, perhaps these words originally referred to the entering of the Ark into the city of David. (See 2 Sam. 6:1-19)

SHALL COME IN — This is a declaration (vs. 6) that the children of Israel are those who seek the Lord and who request that the King of Glory come in, even the Lord mighty and powerful, able to deliver from sin and from the power of sin—death. We are still waiting for the entrance of this King of Glory in the full sense. (Z.'15-137; R.5680)

32:1 — TRANSGRESSION — “Peshah” — rebellion.

FORGIVEN — “Kaphar” — hid, concealed.

WHOSE SIN IS COVERED — Note the distinction between the iniquity and the sin. The word “iniquity” carries with it the sense of lawlessness of wickedness; while the word “sin” has merely the thought of transgression, and many of our transgressions are wholly without iniquitous intention. Believers who are seeking to escape from sin, that sin should have no more dominion over them, are forgiven the moral obliquity connected with the sin, which they now no longer sympathize with, but hate; and the sin itself, while not blotted out, is covered. So therefore if any should return to sin “as a sow to her wallowing in the mire,” he removes the covering of sins and falls back where he was before, “having forgotten that he was purged from his old sins.” (2 Pet. 2:22; 1:9) (Z.'98-124; R.2294) See Acts 3:19.

A man who realizes his transgression forgiven, and sin covered must have great peace and joy toward the Lord and blessing beyond description. He may, however, at the same time carry the marks of those forgiven sins in his body to his dying day; and he may perhaps be troubled with aches and pains and various diseases as a result of sins that are forgiven, to his dying moment. The sins therefore are not blotted out all that while, though they are forgiven. The marks of them are seen in his flesh, in his mind or in whatever way they have blemished him. St. Peter tells us that our sins are to be blotted out fully at the second coming of Christ. (Z.'15-153; R.5690)

SIN — “Khaintaw” — miss, come short.

32:2 INIQUITY — “Awwone” — perversity, crookedness.

32:5 INIQUITY — “Khattawth” — an offence, from “Khawtaw” — miss, come short.

TRANSGRESSIONS — “Peshah” — rebellion.

THOU FORGAVEST THE INIQUITY — Iniquity is “awvone” — perversity, crookedness.

OF MY SIN — Sin is “khattawth” — an offence, from “khawtaw” — miss, come short.

33:2 — AND AN INSTRUMENT OF TEN STRINGS — The great harp of God with ten strings is the Word of God with its ten fundamental doctrines: 1) Creation; 2) Condemnation; 3) The Law; 4) Ransom; 5) Justification; 6) Consecration; 7) Election (or joint-heirship); 8) Resurrection; 9) Restitution; 10) Second Death.

Out of this harp comes the Song of Moses and the Lamb, it is the harp of Rev. 14:2; 15:2; 5:8. The Bible is not a fiddle upon which any tune can be played, but is a harp; and only certain ones who have taken the proper lessons in the school of Christ can play upon that harp. See Ezek. 33:32. David was a noted player upon the harp and the antitypical David can play well upon the harp of God.

33:14 — FROM THE PLACE OF HIS HABITATION — God will look down from Heaven upon men in the full sympathetic action to bless in the dawn of the Millennium. He will then, through Christ, behold and lift up. Yet he has had sympathy.

45:1 — MY HEART IS INDITING A GOOD MATTER — “Swelleth with a good speech” (Leeser) “Overfloweth” (R. V.)

I SPEAK OF THE THINGS WHICH I HAVE MADE TOUCHING THE KING — “I say `My works shall be for the King’ ” (Leeser) King represents Jesus in his Millennial glory.

45:2 — GRACE IS POURED INTO THY LIPS — This well pictures Jesus’ condition of humiliation when as a man he was shown to be pure in heart, absolutely loyal to Jehovah, and in this respect fairer than all the children of men, all of whom were sinners and out of the way. The grace of his lips is manifested in the message he left us. Never man spake like this man. (Jno. 7:26; Luke 4:22)

THEREFORE GOD HATH BLESSED THEE FOR EVER — Because of his faithfulness, loyalty, and the grace which he manifested, the Father glorified him, raised him from the dead to a position far above angels, to the divine nature, with its glory, honor, and immortality. God blessed him forever, his exaltation is perpetual. The church, gathered after his exaltation, having shared his suffering and reproach, will be raised in the first Resurrection to share his glory, honor, and immortality and share his Millennial work.

45:3 — WITH THY GLORY AND THY MAJESTY — Christ, head and body here takes to himself his great power to reign.

45:4 — BECAUSE — In the cause of.

AND THY RIGHT HAND — Symbol of the divine power which we exercised at the inauguration of the Kingdom, through Christ (Rev. 2:27)

TEACH THEE TERRIBLE THINGS — This is a noble inspiring picture of divine power as it shall go forth in due time to bind Satan and liberate all the slaves of sin and death. He shall not reign for the oppression of the world, nor to enslave the people, but the power of the kingdom will be exercised in the cause of truth, meekness and righteousness. (Isa. 26:9; 28:17; Psa. 105:7) This will necessarily mean a reign of force, very different from the Gospel Age and the invitation to righteousness. His righteous dealings will then be abroad in the earth. His power so exercised will mean his forceful opposition to error, pride, and all evil. No longer will men be invited to abandon sin, the punishments for sin will be prompt and vigorously applied. The world, now deaf to God's goodness, will learn righteousness in another way: by being made to feel a judgment, a punishment for every wrong deed or word. By the end of the Millennium the testing will be so crucial that even the favorable entertainment of a disloyal thought as respects God and His righteous rule, will lead to the second death. The Lord's fierce anger will burn hotly from the very beginning of the Millennium against all unrighteousness, so that it may be thoroughly removed.

45:5 — ARE — Should be "shall be."

ARROWS SHALL BE SHARP IN THE HEART OF THE KING'S ENEMIES — This does not refer to Jesus' dealings with his Church, for we are not his enemies. These are not literal arrows shot forth by Christ to cause the world to fall literally wounded with the arrows literally in their hearts. But as in Psa. 64:3,4, the arrows of Jesus are the words of his mouth. (also Psa. 57:4; 58:7; Jer. 9:3) But as a bitter fountain sends out bitter waters, so a pure fountain sends out sweet waters, so Jesus' words are not bitter but forceful words of truth and grace; (Rev. 19:15; Eph. 6:17) the message he will send forth and which shall prosper (Isa. 55:11). His rebuke will smite into the hearts of his enemies (Isa. 11:4) and they all shall fall down under him. It will be a blessing for the people, when his sharp arrows shall smite them, when his judgments as a hammer shall break the hard, stony hearts (Jer. 23:29). For he wounds to heal (Hos. 6:1) This expression is similar to that in Luke 19:12-27. (See also Acts 2:37; Isa. 61:1; Luke 4:18) (From Providence Sermon Psa. 64:3-5)

THE PEOPLE FALL UNDER THEE — Here the sharp arrows of divine truth are represented as slaughtering the hosts of error. This terrible carnage will mean a great blessing for the Lord smites to heal, and when His word cuts to the heart, the effect is to destroy the enemy. Unless the enemies of the Lord be thus brought into subjection, to Him nothing will remain for them but the final extinction mentioned by St. Peter. Acts 3:23. (Z. '07-204; R.4052)

45:6 — O GOD — “Elohim” — Christ. Leeser says “Thy throne, given of God” (Jehovah).

FOR EVER AND EVER — “Olam” + “ad”.

SCEPTER — Right or authority to rule. Jesus obtained this right to rule, in a righteous, just, fair manner, not by force or fraud or deception as has Satan and many earthly kings. He proved first his worthiness to rule, that he would use that rule for the blessing of others and not for self.

45:7 — LOVEST RIGHTEOUSNESS AND HATEST INIQUITY — Jesus proved this in that he was willing to die to establish righteousness and destroy evil; that he could not be persuaded or bullied into doing evil; evil that he abhorred and loathed as productive of nothing but sorrow and trouble, disease and death; he would rather suffer than injure others. So before all men and angels he has proven that he is worthy to be intrusted with unlimited power and authority. Therefore, God hath highly exalted him above all others. If we desire to be with him we too must abhor evil; be willing to suffer in our flesh rather than let it have dominion over us; or to suffer from outside that righteousness may be established in the earth; willingness to endure mis-understandings and persecutions that evil by showing its hatred and malice and murderous spirit may cause all to shun it.

OIL OF GLADNESS — The joys and deep satisfactions of the full possession of the Holy Spirit, its graces, its fruits and its reward. The joy of victory over sin and evil and death in ourselves, and the rejoicing that all who desire may share that victory and rejoice in the freedom of the Sons of God, and evil be altogether destroyed.

THY FELLOWS — The church. What a wonderful favor to the thus accounted his brethren (Heb. 2:11-18) He is the head over the church in all things.

45:8 — ALL THY GARMENTS — Character. All the testimonies of thy character (actions under trial) speak of sweetness gained through bitter trials patiently endured until victory and relief came.

MYRRH — From Greek meaning myrrh. A fragrant, bitter, aromatic gum-resin, issuing by incision and sometimes spontaneously from the trunk and larger branches of a shrub growing on the Abyssinian coast, “Balsamdendron myrrha.” It is light and brittle, does not melt when heated, burns with difficulty, and yields oil by distillation. Hebrew: mowr—as distilling in drops, and also as bitter.

ALOES — A genus of juicy, herbaceous plants, growing in warm countries. They have fleshy leaves, with a juice of intense bitterness.

CASSIA — “Quetsiyah” = (as peeled) may be the costus plant. An Indian composite plant called Aploxtaris lappa which grows on the mountains of the Cashmere valley where the aromatic root is dug up in autumn and exported to China to be used as an ingredient in the incense of the temples. It is specified as one of the articles of Syrian commerce (Ezek. 27:19) These, myrrh, and cassia were used in the anointing oil. So here is given a picture of perfection through suffering.

IVORY PALACES — Dream palaces, as the highest ideal, very costly. Ivory house built by Ahab (1 Kings 22:39) mentioned also Amos 6:4 (Ivory beds). See Amos 3:15; Solomon’s ivory throne (1 Kings 10:18; 2 Chron. 9:17); see also 1 Kings 10:22; 2 Chron. 9:21; Cant. 5:14; 7:4; Ezek. 27:6, 15; Rev. 18:2. Certainly heaven itself is the place of all our dreams, the most beautiful palace, to be thought of. Hence the hopes and promises of heavenly things made our Lord glad. See FM 283, 356, 360.

See note Ex. 30:30.

45:9 — QUEEN IN GOLD OF OPHIR — Queen of Sheba, a type.

45:14 — VIRGINS HER COMPANIONS — The custom of old times was when a wife was taken, the father would present with her a maid, servant, sometimes more than one, and these would accompany their mistress and be associated with her. Now, if a bridegroom were alluding to his family, while he would include as a part of his family or household her maid-servants. So in the Family of Christ—while the Bride is the Body of Christ and joint heir with him, yet the virgins her companions will be members of his general family, or household, honorable servants, but not the Bride. (Z. ’10-245; R. 4655)

UNTO THEE — Unto Christ.

46: — Psalm 46 is really a song of three verses, after each of which comes the triumphant refrain. The refrain should come after verses 3, 6 and 10, dividing the Psalm into three stanzas, each of which presents its own distinct picture (as Moffatt). (See A. J. Farnsworth, “A Psalm that has made heroes.”) Thus verses 1-3 form the first stanza, of which the key note is supreme confidence in Yahweh (Jehovah) who is the refuge and strength of his people in times of intense trouble and danger, and because of his very nearness there is no cause for fear even though disaster of great magnitude may threaten. (Eph. 6:10-12; John 14:23)

“Encamped upon the hills that surround Jerusalem is the proud victorious army from the East. He cries ‘Beware lest Hezekiah persuade you saying Jehovah will deliver us . . .’ (Isa. 36:18-21). Thus the contemptuous challenge is delivered, and there is no reply, both king and people stand within the walls silent. What answer can be given? What can they say who are more than outnumbered? What defense is theirs who are gripped as in a vise? How can a man retaliate when he is gagged and bound and dying of wounds? Can he defy the giant who stands over his prostrate form?

“All is not so hopeless as it seems. A power is near which only faithful hearts can feel, and faithful hearts are there. There is a voice which speaks in clear tones, unperceived indeed by the Assyrians, but heard within the walls of Jerusalem. God is in the midst. His servants know that he is near. He is watching and never sleeps. His help is sure. Though the mountains shake with the rushing of the hostile swollen stream, there are in Jerusalem humble brooks of divine succor to make the city glad. Jerusalem cannot fall while God is there. He is strong to deliver. With reassuring voice His prophet cries—‘Be not afraid of this blasphemy. Sennacherib shall not come into this city, nor shoot an arrow there . . .’ (Isa. 37:33-36) ‘The king hears, and his counsellors take courage . . .’

“Then comes the night when the arm of God reaches forth. He smites the invaders where they lie, ‘like the leaves of the forest when autumn hath blown, that host on the morrow lies withered and strawn. The might of the Gentile, unsnoted by the sword, hath melted like snow in the glance of the Lord.’

“The camp is silent. At last some of the defenders venture without the walls and enter the quiet tents. What a sight meets their astonished eyes! The Assyrians lie prostrate in death, stricken as with a pestilence, overwhelmed by the desolation of the God of Jacob. Until now Hezekiah has said concerning the Assyrian herald and his words, ‘Answer him not.’ But he has spoken in the ear of the Lord, and God has answered him. Now he will speak in gratitude and praise to his deliverer. It is not unreasonable to suppose that for his thanksgiving of the gifted men of his day, (perhaps Isaiah himself wrote this noble ‘song.’)

“It is said of Martin Luther that he made use repeatedly of Psalm 46, as a source of encouragement in time of trouble and the Psalm forms the basis of his famous hymn, ‘Ein fest Burgist unser Gott.’ Second stanza now begins (vss. 4-6). After the word “Selah,” and the refrain which should be at end of vs. 3.

“Now the scene changes. The trembling earth and moving mountains, the troubled sea, amid which is developed the confidence of a perfect and fearless trust; give place to a river and its tributaries, bringing joy and refreshing to the city in which God Himself dwells. Here is a glimpse of the Church of God (collectively) and the child of God (individually), surrounded by perils and threatened on every hand, yet resting in the serenity of a faith which never falls, and a hope that never grows dim, and waiting for that help which is sure to come.

“Outside the ‘city’ the nations continue to rage. The kingdoms of this world vainly endeavor by treaties and threats, to bolster up their rapidly crumbling authority; the restless waves of human hopes and aspirations break upon the rocks of selfish aims and Satanic deception.

“Then comes the climax—God speaks! The tumult ceases, the elements are hushed, the kingdoms fade away. For a moment there is silence, a silence that can almost be felt, and then a burst of thanksgiving—‘The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. Selah!’

“At this point the Psalms third and final stanza (vss. 8-10) carries us forward into a new era. The raging turmoil of strife and passion has died away, the evil institutions of Satan’s kingdom, including war and all unrighteousness, lie broken and shattered on the ground. While a chastened and bewildered people, freed now from the influences of the great adversary, exclaim—‘Behold the works of the Lord.’ Many of them whose hearts are already tuned to righteousness will say as in Isa. 25:9, ‘Lo this is our God!’

“To those who are still unready to accept the changed order of things, (and these will no doubt be many at the beginning), a new and iron discipline of divine authority will be applied, as our Lord, with his church now glorified, assumes control, and as the mouthpiece of the Heavenly Father, issues, not an invitation but a command—‘Be still, and know that I am God. I will be exalted among the nations, I will be exalted in the earth.’ And then once more, as an echo of past glory, will resound the cry—‘The Lord of Hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. Selah!’” (Dawn, June, 1959)

46:1 — GOD IS OUR REFUGE AND STRENGTH — Gen. 15:1 “I am thy shield and thy exceeding great reward.” God is fully master of the situation in that He could at any time overthrow all opponents.

A VERY PRESENT HELP IN TROUBLE — Leeser: “A help in distresses very readily found.” (See Isa. 55:6, 7)

46:2 — THEREFORE WILL NOT WE FEAR — Fear is the great torment of the majority of our race, the lash which the adversary often uses to drive away from God those who need His sympathy and love and succor. “Perfect love casteth out fear . . . he that feareth is not made perfect in love.” (1 John 4:18) “Their fear toward me is taught by the precepts of men.” (Isa. 29:13) All but the Lord’s people will fear then. (Jer. 20:10) (N-4-10-’10)

THOUGH THE EARTH BE REMOVED — Though the present social order be entirely overthrown. (D46)

MOUNTAINS — Kingdoms.

CARRIED INTO THE MIDST OF THE SEA — Overwhelmed in anarchy. (Luke 21:36; Isa. 24:19-21) (D46) (See Psa. 94:3, 4)

46:2, 3 — “Let us suppose the vast oceans, constituting three-fourths of the earth’s surface, to represent the masses of mankind, unsettled, unattached, without property, with little hope or prospect, with illimitable longings, but no power to satisfy them, ‘without God and without hope in the world.’ (Isa. 57:20; Luke 21:25; Rev. 27:1)

“Let us consider the land behind us and before us to represent society, fixed, established, desirous of peace, having something which it does not wish the sea class to wash away. As in the sea we find shallow and great depths, so on the land surface we find low marshy places, higher places, and mountain peaks and each of these various levels or heights may properly represent to our minds various degrees of prosperity or adversity (deeps). The mountain heights would represent the Princes of society, merchant princes, bankers, as well as political powers. As from time to time immemorial there has been a conflict between the sea and the land, the sea sometimes in a storm violently attacking the land and seeking to capture it; so between the two classes here represented; the sea class, helpless and without property is envious of the earth class—those who in the present social order seize and possess the chief blessings.

“Consider also the sky, the heavens, as symbolizing something still higher than either the sea or the land, symbolizing the ecclesiastical power or influence which more or less dominates all classes, and from which and through which come the showers of blessing, refreshing, and the gracious sunlight of blessing. Upon the sea class these were comparatively wasted; but upon the land class, or those socially organized, these blessings from the sky are represented in the fruits, flowers, and vegetables, which bring joy and comfort, and the streams of water, which bring refreshment to those living on the earth—to the social world. In the sky, the heavens, shine not only the sun, representing the Gospel light and grace; but also the moon, representing the law dispensation; and there shine also the bright stars, representing the teachers and guides of humanity.” (Sermon, Bro. Russell)

46:3 — WATERS — Peoples. (Rev. 17:15)

THEREFORE ROAR AND BE TROUBLED — The noise and clamor of the masses in their awakening and growing discontent. The disputings of contending factions.

MOUNTAINS — Kingdoms.

SHAKE — Tremble for fear and insecurity.

WITH THE SWELLING — The rising ride of anarchy, its threatening and rising power.

46:4 — THERE IS A RIVER — God’s word—a fountain of truth and grace.

THE STREAMS — The smaller amounts of truth given now from the Old and New testaments to and through the church, before the truth is spread world wide. (The doctrines and truths of the Bible.)

THE CITY OF GOD — The kingdom of God, the church, even now in its present embryo condition, before its exaltation to power and glory.

THE HOLY — The Sanctuary class, the church, wherein the Most High is pleased to dwell. (John 14:23; 1 John 4:12)

46:5 — GOD SHALL HELP HER AND THAT RIGHT EARLY — (Leeser) “At the dawning of her morning” which is when she has passed through her night time “in which no man can work” and which precedes the Millennial morning.

46:6 — THE HEATHEN RAGED — Heathen are Gentiles. “Raging,” angry voices arise from public meetings and from private meetings of the lodges of labor and capital and through the columns of the press as much as permitted. In Europe the press is muzzled and so for some time past. In England and France there is fear of tumult through the public press “raging” and everything possible is done to restrain it. But the Scriptures assure us that all effort to suppress the tumult and the angry voices will fail. (N-4-10-’10)

THE KINGDOMS WERE MOVED — Here it explains the symbols of vss. 2 and 3. The earth (society) is not yet melted, though we sometimes say things are getting pretty “hot.”

HE UTTERED HIS VOICE — “He will speak to the people in His anger,” retribution. (Psa. 2:5; Zeph. 3:8; Joel 2:11; Amos 1:2; Isa. 42:13, 14) “Whose voice then shook the earth.” (Heb. 12:19, 26) Speak for their correction and reproof.

THE EARTH MELTED — 2 Peter 3:10. See note Psa. 97:5.

46:7 — THE GOD OF JACOB IS OUR REFUGE — These will have peace and comfort and patience because they know the outcome, God has told them. They have faith in God and are willing to accept whatever His providence may send. “He will hide them in His Pavilion.” (Psa. 27:5; 31:20)

46:10 — BE STILL, AND KNOW THAT I AM GOD — This is the still small voice of 1 Kings 19:11-13, after the wars and earthquake and fire. (Z. '04-249; R.3414)

48:2 — THE NORTH — Satan, originally Lucifer, (Isa. 14; Ezek. 28) conceived an ambition to exalt himself to “sit on the sides of the North,” to be like the Most High. His ambition was for self-exaltation; Christ’s ambition was to please (and exalt) the Father and do good. Likewise the class called to be Christ’s associated in the Kingdom have a similar purpose and Spirit to their Lord and head. They are moved not to promote their own selfish interests and to gratify their fleshly propensities, but to lay down their lives in carrying out God’s purpose and plan. This is the class which will receive preeminence over all other classes, all other stations in earth or in Heaven. With their Lord they are to receive glory, honor, and immortality. They will be exalted far above angels and be granted the Divine nature as has been their Master and Forerunner. Such is the great promotion (Psa. 75:6, 7) which God purposes to give His true saints of this Gospel Age, and this promotion can be received from no other quarter than from God Himself. (Z. '15-186; R.5710)

For other tests on “the North” as a symbol of spiritual power see: Psa. 75:6, 7; Isa. 14:12-17; Ezek. 1:4; Zech. 6:6; Job 26:7.

49:19 — THEY SHALL NEVER SEE LIGHT — i.e. Before death overtakes them. Light represents knowledge of the Truth.

50 :— See Z. '05-312; R.3647.

50:1 — MIGHT GOD — Jehovah, “El elohim” = the might of the mighty.

THE LORD HATH SPOKEN — Through the glorified Christ, head and body, called the earth to repentance, righteousness, and eternal life.

FROM THE RISING OF THE SUN UNTO THE GOING DOWN THEREOF — From the rising of the “Sun of Righteousness,” (Mal. 4) to its setting (by giving up the kingdom to the Father), from the beginning to the end of the Millennium.

50:2 — OUT OF ZION — The Heavenly phase, the Christ.

THE PERFECTION OF BEAUTY — See Psa. 48:2; 45:11.

GOD HATH SHINED — Isa. 60:1, 2. God’s character will be revealed to all by the church, in its beauty, showing the perfection of His wisdom, justice, love and power.

50:3 — OUR GOD SHALL COME, AND SHALL NOT KEEP SILENCE — During the reign of sin and evil and death He has kept His silence, but will then speak in wrath and vex them in His sore displeasure. (Eccl. 8:11, 12; Isa. 57:11-13; Psa. 2:4, 5)

A FIRE SHALL DEVOUR BEFORE HIM, AND IT SHALL BE VERY TEMPESTUOUS ROUND ABOUT HIM — The time of trouble at the second presence of Christ, God’s “Day of Vengeance.”

50:4 — HE SHALL CALL TO THE HEAVENS — The high, or religious, ruling powers.

AND TO THE EARTH — The masses of men.

THAT HE MAY JUDGE HIS PEOPLE — His professed people, Christendom. This judgment is now in progress and accounts for the merciless criticisms of the Nominal Church by the world. He will be the supreme Judge. (D75)

50:5 — GATHER MY SAINTS TOGETHER UNTO ME — The gathering of the elect church in the harvest. (Matt. 13:30; 24:31) This indicates also the separating of the saints from the rest.

A COVENANT WITH ME BY SACRIFICE — By consecration. Rom. 12:1. A gathering into oneness with their Lord and with each other, and out of fellowship with mere professors, tares.

50:6 — AND THE HEAVENS — The religious ruling powers in the Millennium, the Christ. Perhaps also the literal heavens as in Psa. 19:1.

FOR GOD IS JUDGE HIMSELF — Through Christ. (Micah 5:4)

50:7 — HEAR, O MY PEOPLE — Those who claim to be my people by a solemn covenant.

O ISRAEL — Nominal Spiritual Israel.

Verse 7 and the following verses of the Psalm sum up charges brought against God's nominal people, while vss. 14, 15, 22, 23 interpose a word of wise counsel for those who will receive it.

50:8 — BURNT OFFERINGS — Free will offerings such as benevolent works. But such works cannot commend them to God in that day of Judgment. (See Matt. 7:22, 23) They have been false prophets, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men (Matt. 15:9). For their own erroneous theories they have claimed divine authority, and gone about to establish their own schemes of righteousness, not themselves to God and His plan. (Z. '05-312; R.3647)

50:9 — I WILL TAKE NO BULLOCK OUT OF THY HOUSE — God declares His independence of their works, and intimates His perfect ability to accomplish the blessing of the world according to His own plan without their assistance. Am I in need of your wisdom or works or in any way dependent upon your gifts? No! "Offer unto God thanksgiving and pay thy vows unto the Most High." (vs. 14)

50:14 — OFFER UNTO GOD THANKSGIVING; AND PAY THY VOWS — What have any of us to offer that we did not first receive from Him? Which should therefore be thankfully received and used in accord with His plan. It is therefore an obligation for such to pay their vows and fulfil their covenant. (Z. '05-312; R.3647)

50:15 — AND CALL UPON ME IN THE DAY OF TROUBLE: I WILL DELIVER THEE — Because in fulfilling such a Covenant of consecration there is much of reproach and persecution from the world to endure. (Z. '05-312; R.3647)

50:16 — BUT UNTO THE WICKED — Those who bear the name of Christ in vain, who claim to be God's children, and to be led of His Spirit, but whose actions show that they hate instruction and cast God's words behind them. The wicked here are not people of the world as in vs. 7 this testimony is against those who claim to be God's people, they are the Covenant-breakers. What right have such Covenant-breakers to declare the plan of God? None. Such unfaithful and wicked servants are hindered by their errors from seeing truths now due. Having been unfaithful to the measure of Truth received they are not permitted to know and cannot declare the deep things of God. (Psa. 97:11) (Z. '05-313; R.3648)

50:18 — WHEN THOU SAWEST A THIEF, THEN THOU

CONSENTEDST WITH HIM — Made common cause with the thieves and robbers who strive to teach men to climb up some other way than of God's appointment, whose whole course is in opposition to God and His truth, while they proclaim themselves His representatives and ambassadors. Such will not be held guiltless (Ex. 20:7) (Z. '93-149; R.1528) (Titus 1:15, 16)

For the wrath of God is revealed from Heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men who hold down (Greek, katexovtwv = to hold down or suppress) the Truth in unrighteousness. (Rom. 1:18) This is what the various ecclesiastical systems have been guilty of for centuries past. They have taught their own false doctrines and claimed for them the divine authority of God's word. In doing so they have unjustly suppressed the truth. They cast God's words behind them whenever that word was brought to testify against them. (Z. '05-313; R.3648)

All who do not guard the Truth and the flock of God against the encroachments of error, who bid false teachers God-speed or who commend wolves in sheeps clothing to God's little ones are wickedly consenting with thieves and robbers. (Z. '05-313; R.3648)

PARTAKERS WITH ADULTERERS — Such a compromise with the spirit of the world is scripturally defined as adultery. For this reason Babylon the Great (Papacy) is termed a harlot and mother of harlots (various similar systems that sprang from her.) (Z. '05-313; R.3648)

50:19 — THOU GIVEST THY MOUTH TO EVIL — Such is the course of all who in unrighteousness suppress the Truth.

50:20 — THOU SITTEST AND SPEAKEST AGAINST THY BROTHER —

The unfaithful always take the attitude of persecutors of the faithful. They cannot answer the Scriptural proof of the message of the faithful and so resort to reviling their character, as they did of Pastor Russell.

50:21 — KEPT SILENCE — Up to the present harvest time and because I kept silence and permitted this evil to run and prosper thou thoughtest . . . etc. that I was consenting with thee to thy evil ways. But not so, for a purpose I permitted you to run your course and make your real character manifest. But I will reprove thee . . . etc. Hence the present investigations and exposures of creeds and growing unrest in various sects of Christendom. (Z. '05-313; R.3648)

50:23 — OFFERETH THANKSGIVING — Thankfully received the reproof and applies his heart to instruction.

GLORIFIETH ME — As a faithful and consistent believer in the Truth he honors me.

ORDERETH HIS COURSE ARIGHT — Conforms his life and teachings to the light received. How solemn and weighty the admonition and how worthy of the most thoughtful and prayerful consideration of all who name the name of Christ! Only those who gratefully receive the message of Divine Truth and faithfully pay their vows to the Most High, will stand. (Z. '05-313; R.3648)

51: — It is said that Voltaire, the infidel, once attempted a burlesque of this Psalm, but became so awed by its solemn tone that he threw down his pen and fell back dazed on his couch, full of remorse. Bishop Hall, commenting, says, “How can we presume of not sinning, or despair for sinning, when we find so great a saint thus fallen, thus risen?” (Z. '15-139; R.5681)

51:3 — FOR I ACKNOWLEDGE MY TRANSGRESSIONS: AND MY SIN IS EVER BEFORE ME — These words of honesty assure us that the king was overtaken in some kind of fog which for months obscured his mental vision; earth-born clouds and fleshly weaknesses arose like a veil between his soul and the Lord, shutting out the light of the Lord's countenance. (Z. '15-139; R.5681)

63:1 — O GOD — Jehovah as contrasted with other gods.

THOU ART MY GOD — An expression showing the joy of heart and the satisfaction of one who has found God's true character, and has a blessed sense of rest and trust and full satisfaction in Him. My mighty one, my source of strength, my strong tower.

EARLY WILL I SEEK THEE — So as to have thy fellowship as soon and as long as possible, and that as little of evil as possible will be learned, to be later uprooted. Many of the world will wish they had not heaped up iniquity in their character, for they will have to root it all out. See Eccl. 12.

MY FLESH LONGETH FOR THEE — The earnest longing of the Christian heart for a deeper fellowship with God, for more of this spirit, and to know Him better. This is the new will longing for its proper developed and perfected condition and surroundings.

IN A DRY AND THIRSTY LAND — The present social and religious condition of Christendom. God's people by the dry and barren condition of Christendom are driven to Him for truth and for refreshment, and are refreshed by Him as by a fountain of living water.

WHERE NO WATER IS — Truth. See Isa. 59:13-15.

63:2 — TO SEE THY POWER . . . SO AS I HAVE SEEN THEE IN THE SANCTUARY — The earnest longing of our hearts to see God face to face, in the reality of His perfection of power and glory, as we shall see Him in the first Resurrection. As we have been before the second veil, offering incense at the golden altar we have by faith looked beyond through the rent veil and seen by faith the antitypical ark and cherubim and shekinah glory, and these glimpses have entered into our hearts and made us long for closer fellowship and to see the realities. (David had asked by the urim and thummim—see 1 Sam. 23:9, 2; 30:7—himself inquiring of the Lord.)

63:3 — BECAUSE THY LOVINGKINDNESS — Favor, approval, fellowship. God has a kindness of nature and disposition (Rom. 2:4), a loving kindness that is general, that goes out in one sense of the word to all His creatures (Psa. 145:9) intelligent and the unintelligent, both. (Psa. 104:27, 28; Matt. 5:45). But there is a special loving kindness, a special love which He reserves for those who have lovable qualities of heart, such traits of character as would permit Him to love them, just as every good person loves every other good person who is good and noble hearted. (Z. '14-118; R.5440)

IS BETTER THAN LIFE — This class has reached the condition where they have a most deep appreciation of God's love and favor and approval, realizing that His favor is better than to enjoy our life here on the earth even if everything went smoothly; they would rather die than willingly grieve their heavenly Father, and so they faithfully lay down their lives daily in His will, that they might have more of His fellowship and favor, and be more largely used to help others of the hungry to know how good our God is.

MY LIPS SHALL PRAISE THEE — Out of the abundance of the heart, and we will bring our whole being "all that is within us" to praise His name as we are able.

David had a taste of the loving-kindness of God in his own experiences. When he was anointed of God he knew he had found favor in God's sight. Later when he did things that were wrong God punished him in love, for David desired to do God's will. Therefore King David declared that life without God's loving-kindness would be worth nothing to him. He would not care for a life cut off from the Lord.

We of all people in the world have the loving kindness of God manifested toward us. We have His exceeding great and precious promises, we are the recipients of His special love and the more we appreciate this love and these glorious promises and the bountiful provisions of His grace, the more our hearts respond in gratitude the more His lovingkindness becomes a reality to us, and the more we are ready to lay down our lives in His service. It was thus with Jesus. He preferred the Father's favor above all else. This lovingkindness of God is not a favor respecting future hopes and prospects only but is the blessed possession of the present life. Gradually these come to prize the communion and fellowship of the Lord to such a degree that any interruption of it produces misery of soul. It brings an aching void that nothing else can fill. God is the sun of our soul. (Z. '14-119; R.5441)

63:4 — THUS WILL I BLESS THEE WHILE I LIVE — We who have come to realize our Father's unspeakable favor to us as better than this present life with all it could have to give, we who have joyfully laid upon His altar every earthly good thing, every hope and ambition, every power of our being, rejoice to tell the good tidings to others, of salvation. We rejoice to sound forth the praises of Him who hath called us out of darkness into His marvellous light. The message is too good to keep. If we could not proclaim it, it would be as a burning fire shut up in our bones, so we must tell it. And we are willing that the telling shall cost us trouble, money, misunderstandings, and persecutions of friends (former), and possibly the breaking of home ties. We are willing it shall cost us the frown of the world and of organized churchianity.

The prophet spoke prophetically of the Church of Christ. None but those who walk and talk with God would esteem His favor more precious than their earthly life. If we ask the average nominal Christian to weigh this matter and tell us if he would exchange this life for the favor of the Lord, putting in one side the balance all the good things, hopes, ambitions, family ties, social position, churchianity, esteem of men—and putting in the other side of the scale God's favor, he will hesitate and usually decide in favor of the things of this life. They do not highly appreciate God's favor, God's character has been misrepresented to them. Those who have come to see the loving kindness of our God, and His mercy, if they are the children of God at all are being put to the test. If they are merely glad to find out there is no place of eternal torture, and that God's loving plan includes the whole human race, their hearts are not touched with responsiveness by this manifestation of His great love. They like the nine lepers will go on their way rejoicing but do not return to give Him the glory or offer themselves in service to Him. We are in the great day of proving. Will we be able to stand the test? (Z. '14-119; R.5441)

I WILL LIFT UP MY HANDS IN THY NAME — Hands = powers, abilities. These feel so deeply thankful and appreciative for God's wonderful favor that they with all their hearts declare that henceforth, as long as God gives them breath, their powers and abilities shall be devoted to the service of God to do His will and to publish His glorious character. Lift up = the heave offering; while I live = the wave offering.

63:5 — MARROW AND FATNESS — Margin = Fatness and fatness! The richest of God's blessings now, and by and by the reward of the High Calling, satisfaction in His likeness. Favor upon favor. These have full assurance of faith in God's promises.

AND MY MOUTH SHALL PRAISE THEE WITH JOYFUL LIPS —

And this service shall be a delight to them, it will be a joy to them to sacrifice and suffer to praise Him with all their heart and voice. They will not complain. Are not we glad that we consecrated!

63:6 — AND MEDITATE ON THEE IN THE NIGHT WATCHES — These will delight to think upon God's character and plan in their spare moments, in the silence of the night and at the opening and closing of day, and they will meditate, study His character, and strive more to copy it, and study His word. Whenever they do so they will be filled with joy and peace.

63:7 — THEREFORE IN THE SHADOW OF THY WINGS WILL I REJOICE — Because they have found God's grace sufficient and have tried His power to aid and by it have come off victorious and hence realize that He is mighty to save.

SHADOW — Protecting and guiding and saving power.

WINGS — The Old and New Testament. These instruct and guide and keep us in the strait way, and guide our feet in the ways of peace and we will rejoice and rest in these. (Isa. 30:21, 15) His love and power.

63:8 — MY SOUL FOLLOWETH HARD AFTER THEE — As close upon Him as we are able to. Walk after the spirit; with eagerness, and longing to be with Him.

HARD — Swiftly.

THE RIGHT HAND UPHOLDETH ME — His mighty power to sustain and comfort us. (Psa. 91:11; Isa. 42:1)

63:11 — KING — Jesus.

65:9 — Leeser: "Thou has thought of the earth, and waterest her abundantly; thou greatly enrichest her (a picture of the Millennium); the brook of God (the River of truth and life Rev. 22:1, 2) is full of water (truth): thou preparest their corn (He now is and has been during the Gospel age, preparing the bread for the world, which came down from Heaven, the Christ, see Joshua 1:11 and notes) when thou hast thus prepared her (by watering the truth)."

66:6 — HE TURNED THE SEA INTO DRY LAND . . . THERE DID WE REJOICE IN HIM — The Lord has brought us out of the world; delivered us from the great taskmaster Satan; guided us through the wilderness journey; fed us with the Manna from Heaven; brought forth for us water of life from the rock of ages smitten for us that we may drink and live; washed our feet from the dust of the wilderness way, to protect us from all danger and harm. If natural Israel had great cause for rejoicing, thankfulness and praise, what should be our attitude for all the marvellous manifestation of His love and care for us? Truly, as no other people on earth can we praise God? (Isa. 63:7-9) (Z. '14-216; R.5500) (See Poem Z. '14-216; R.5501)

67:6 — THEN SHALL THE EARTH YIELD HER INCREASE — About three years ago a Virginia farmer found one abnormal bundle of 120 stalks of wheat from one root, the offspring of one grain of wheat. Under the name of miracle wheat this is now being developed slowly in various parts, the average yield appears to be about 1200 grains from one kernel. This very year this same peculiarity was discovered in oats—a bunch growing wild by the roadside. The same divine providence is guiding our chemists to economical methods of extracting nitrogen from the atmosphere for the feeding of the soil. (Z. '10-279; R.4674)

On the Dietrich place near Philadelphia of 15 acres three or four crops per year are grown. A gentleman near Los Angeles raised one bunch from one grain had 118 stalks, six to eight feet high, heads were five inches long, four grains to a shuck and yielded 3,536 fold.

68:11 — WORD — This “word” or message seems to be the message of the Lord through Bro. Russell at the evening of the harvest, connected with the payment of the penny in the 11th hour parable (Matt. 20) the Pastoral work. Leeser = “happy tidings.”

COMPANY — Leeser = “Female messengers; R.V. = Women.” Young = “Female proclaimers.” Seems to refer to the sisters, especially in the Pastoral work, who are put first. They carry the truth to the homes and loan the “Studies.”

68:12 — KING OF ARMIES — Those who control the present selfish order, both ministers of nominal church and the leaders of the present world.

SHE THAT TARRIED AT HOME — Those who because of household duties could not go, or the ill or infirmed; but whose hearts yet longed to serve and do something. These shall share equally with the workers, and can encourage them by prayers, etc. (1 Sam. 30:23-26)

68:13 — THOUGH YE HAVE LAIN AMONG THE POTS — R.V. note—“Will ye lie among the sheepfolds (classes of nominal church), will you be idle while . . .”

THE WINGS OF A DOVE COVERED WITH SILVER, AND HER FEATHERS WITH YELLOW GOLD — “With the wings of a dove (peace messengers) covered with silver (truth) and feathers (or Leeser = “pinions shining with flaming gold.”) Will you keep idle and quiet when you have such a glorious message and such grand tidings—when such wonderful precious opportunities are slipping by?

68:14 — WHEN THE ALMIGHTY SCATTERED KINGS — Scattered the rulers of the present order.

IT WAS WHITE AS SNOW IN SALMON — Leeser = “When even in darkness shone light pure as snow.”—The light of the truth for the workers and all saints while darkness rests over the rest of the world.

68:33 — HEAVENS OF HEAVENS — The Hebrew way of saying “the highest heavens” or the highest of the heavenly conditions, the divine nature. (The Father, Son and the Church.) (See Psa. 148:4; Eph. 4:10; Heb. 7:26; Eph. 1:3,20; 2:6; 3:10); “Song of Songs” is a similar expression. (See also Deut. 10:14; 1 Kings 8:27; 2 Chron. 6:6; 6:18; Neh. 9:6; Job 22:12)

69:22 — LET THEIR TABLE BECOME A SNARE . . . LET IT BECOME A TRAP — God’s favors and blessings always sooner or later become a trap and a snare to those who are not in the right condition of heart. Light makes error and sin manifest. Ultimately all will show of what spirit they are. As the goodness of God hardened Pharaoh’s heart, but leads others of better mind to repentance. See Rom. 9:27; 11:9; 1 Cor. 10:6 notes.

72:6 — HE — Christ head and body.

SHALL COME DOWN LIKE RAIN — Truth and blessing and refreshing, restoring mankind.

UPON THE MOWN GRASS — The human race under the curse. Cut down. (See Psa. 103:15, 16; 90:3-7; 37:2; Isa. 40:6-8; 1 Pet. 1:24) “My doctrine shall drop as the rain, my speech shall distill as the dew, as the small rain upon the tender herb, and as showers upon the grass.” (Deut. 32:2) (For a like figure see Dan. 4:14; B94)

AS SHOWERS THAT WATER THE EARTH — Society in the Millennium, reinvigorating it, as established upon another basis, love instead of selfishness.

72:16 — THERE SHALL BE AN HANDFUL OF CORN — The 144,000 grains from the one grain, Jesus Christ. The first fruits unto God from among men.

Leeser = “Abundance of corn in the land” and so R. V. May refer to the crop rather than to the grains sown.

IN THE EARTH — These have been planted in the likeness of Jesus death, were buried with him in baptism into death.

UPON THE TOP OF THE MOUNTAINS — Leeser = “Upon the top of the mountains its fruit shall shake like (the trees of) Lebanon.”

THE FRUIT — The world of mankind, the crop raised of the 144,000 grains. (See John 12:24; Rev. 22:2)

AND THEY OF THE CITY SHALL FLOURISH LIKE GRASS OF THE EARTH — Leeser = “And (men) shall blossom out of the city like herbs of the earth.”

74:2 — WHEREIN THOU HAST DWELT — The church class.

74:3 — ALL THAT THE ENEMY HATH DONE WICKEDLY IN THE SANCTUARY — Leeser = “The enemy hath ill-used everything in the Sanctuary.” How Babylon has misused the sacred truths (vessels) and utensils, etc. of the true tabernacle, and warped all the precious doctrines.

74:4 — THINE ENEMIES ROAR ON THE MIDST OF THY CONGREGATIONS — Speak loudly and lord it over the flock. The enemies = hirelings shepherds. Congregations = the gatherings of thy people.

THEY SET UP THEIR ENSIGNS FOR SIGNS — Their ensigns = standards, evolution, creeds and false doctrinal standards, for the true ones, to mislead and deceive the people.

74:5 — A MAN WAS FAMOUS ACCORDING AS HE HAD LIFTED UP AXES UPON THE THICK TREES — R. V.: “They seemed as men that lifted up axes upon a thicket of trees.” Driving Christians into infidelity, destroying their faith and making many despair.

74:6 — BUT NOW THEY BREAK DOWN THE CARVED WORK THEREOF — They are destroying as fast as they can the whole church structure of faith in God’s word, the Ransom, etc.

74:7 — THEY HAVE CAST FIRE INTO THE SANCTUARY — Tried to destroy utterly the true church and consume it, that they may have things their own way, as in vs. 8.

74:9 — WE SEE NOT OUR SIGNS — The signs of the conversion of the world hoped for by so many, or the signs of God's coming to judge the world.

THERE IS NO MORE ANY PROPHET — We do not hear God's word preached in the churches as earnestly and faithfully as we did 50 years ago.

NEITHER IS THERE AMONG US ANY THAT KNOWETH HOW LONG — Christian people are despairing of getting any light on the matter, or any relief, and put not much trust in any preacher. However there is a prophet among them if they will only seek and not faint.

74:11 — PLUCK IT OUT OF THY BOSOM — See "Voices of the three signs."

76:10 — THE REMAINDER OF WRATH SHALT THOU RESTRAIN — So during this period of Satan's liberty, he has not been permitted to frustrate the divine plan or intention, but unconsciously has cooperated with it and served it. Without his blinding influence, the Jewish rulers would not have crucified our Lord (Acts 3:17; 1 Cor. 2:8). Likewise had it not been for the delusions of Satan the Church would not have been persecuted, the way of glory, honor and immortality and joint-heirship with Jesus would not have been made the "narrow way" and the Saints, the "Jewels," whom the Lord is now selecting, would not have been polished and fitted and prepared for the glorious places to which the Lord has called them. (N-5-9-'09) The subduing of the earth has been accomplished by "convict labor," the labor of man under the death sentence. (See Gen. 3:17)

77:18 — HEAVEN — "Galgal" = a wheel, whirlwind, dust (as rolled), from galal = to roll.

84:3 — THE SPARROW HATH FOUND AN HOUSE . . . SWALLOW . . . LAY HER YOUNG — Even as the sparrow hath found a house; and the swallow a nest for herself, where she may lay her young—(so have I found thine altars, O Lord of Hosts my King and my God.) (Leeser) (D652)

84:5 — BLESSED IS THE MAN — "Happy is the man whose strong confidence is in thee, whose heart reflecteth (wholly) on the paths of (righteousness)." (Leeser)

84:6 — PASSING THROUGH THE VALLEY OF BACA MAKE IT A WELL — "Passing through the valley of weeping make it a place of springs. Yea the early rain covereth it with blessings." (A.R.V. and D653)

BACA — "Baka" = Mulberry Trees (from bakah, a prim. rt. = to weep.) A valley in Palestine = weeping, the weeping tree.

THE RAIN ALSO FILLETH THE POOLS — The out-pouring of the Millennium blessings after the time of trouble has ended. (Z. '92-143; R.1331)

85:1 — BROUGHT BACK THE CAPTIVITY OF JACOB — This Psalm may have two applications (several). First: when the Israelites were delivered from Babylon by decree of Cyrus. The people rejoiced in this manifestation of the turning away of disfavor and the return of favor. Their pardon of their transgressions was shown by the return of favor. But this was not complete, “for the blood of bulls and goats can never take away sin.” And they were afterwards again overthrown. Their deliverance was typical. (Z. '11-380; R.4894) The complete application is to their return under Christ at his second advent (Rom. 11:25-29; Isa. 40:1,2; Jer. 31:31-34; Heb. 8:8-11) Then the covenant which will forgive their sin and blot it out, will be made. (Acts 3:19)

85:2 — THOU HAST FORGIVEN — Because atoned for. Put behind his back. (Isa. 38:17)

THOU HAST COVERED — By the merit of Christ, pointed to by the atonement sacrifices and completed in Millennium, New Covenant.

SELAH — The complete application is to their return under Christ at his second advent. (Rom. 11:25-29; Isa. 40:1, 2; Jer. 31:31-34; Heb. 8:8-11) Then the covenant which will forgive their sin and blot it out will be made. (Acts 3:19)

85:3 — THOU HAST TURNED — Typically at return from exile in Babylon. But completely at setting up of Kingdom. (Lev. 26:41-46; Hos. 3:4, 5; Zech. 6:8)

85:4 — TURN US — “Return to us” (Leeser). But the people also will be turned in heart.

85:6 — REVIVE US AGAIN — In the Millennial morning. (Hos. 6:1-3; Rom. 11:25-28)

MAY REJOICE IN THEE — No longer rejoice in idols or selfish practices. Rejoice in the realization of His abiding love and care over His people. In the knowledge of his character, in the unchangeableness of His promises.

85:8 — I WILL HEAR — Obedience had been learned in the captivity. Have we learned to hearken and obey through things we have suffered?

HE WILL SPEAK PEACE — In due time, when the work of this age is over. In the kingdom, as in Psa. 46 to the world. He now speaks to us of the peace we may now have, and of the rest by and by. (Zech. 14:11; Zeph. 3:9; Psa. 29:11; Hag. 2:9; Isa. 48:16-19)

LET THEM NOT TURN AGAIN TO FOLLY — A warning from previous experience. (See Ezek. 18.) Let us not turn back again to sin and the old things. (2 Pet. 2:20-22)

85:9 — THAT GLORY MAY DWELL IN OUR LAND — The ark with its Shekinah glory had disappeared and the hope was for the full return of God's favor, and presence among them, represented by the Shekinah glory. The antitype of this will come with the Kingdom. (Ex. 40:34, 35; 2 Chron. 5:13, 14; 1 Kings 8:10,11; Rev. 15:8)

85:10 — MERCY AND TRUTH . . . RIGHTEOUSNESS AND PEACE — (Isa. 32:15-17) Love and power working together in harmony, after justice has been satisfied.

85:11 — OF THE EARTH — The earthly phase of the Kingdom.

DOWN FROM HEAVEN — The heavenly phase of the Kingdom.

85:13 — SET US IN THE WAY OF HIS STEPS — The work of the Millennial Age. "Make (level) the way by its steps." (Leeser)

89:2 — HEAVENS — Strong's Conc. #8064. The common word for heaven. "Shamayim" or "Shameh" — from an unused root meaning to be lofty, the sky.

89:6 — HEAVEN — Strong's Conc. No. 7834. "Shachaq" — powder (as beaten small), by analysis, thin vapor; by extension, the firmament; translated cloud (Psa. 36:5); small dust (Isa. 40:15); heaven (as here) and sky (Deut. 33:26). Same word in vs. 37. Translated "sky" in the R.V. See Psa. 77:28 for another word.

90:12 — APPLY OUR HEARTS UNTO WISDOM — "So that we may attain a heart endowed with wisdom." This will be fulfilled at the end of the Millennial Age.

91: — The theme of this Psalm is in the first verse. Verse 1-13 refer to the Little Flock and is addressed by Jesus in the spirit of prophecy to the church. Verses 14-16 are a statement of Jehovah concerning Christ and the Church. (See Z. '04-75; R.3331; and Z. '11-437; R.4926.)

91:1 — HE THAT DWELLETH — Not those who go in for a little while, but those who make that their dwelling, at rest there, his natural place, hence not the Great Company, only the Little Flock.

THE SECRET PLACE — Typified by the Tabernacle, no one but the Priests had access there, so only the faithful spirit begotten one, the Little Flock are in this secret place; he who dwells in the spirit-begotten condition, that keeps the new mind in control. This is God's secret place, and is a mystery to the world. Jesus' life was a mystery, so is ours if we follow him. Man of such talent!

SHALL — Emphatic, no uncertainty about, sure.

ABIDE — Lodge (pass the night time of the Gospel Age). In the night things are indistinct, but there is a light in this secret place (Candlestick) while outside all is darkness. This night is the Passover night and we are girded as pilgrims and partake of the Lamb.

UNDER THE SHADOW — Typified by the cloud covering the Tabernacle (note Ex. 40). In the heat of trial and temptation we will need a shadow and will find it in God, and "no man can pluck them out of my Father's hand."

91:2 — I WILL SAY — Jesus speaking to the Church.

OF THE LORD — Jehovah.

MY REFUGE — God was Jesus' refuge and fortress. Jesus for our comfort and lest we should be discouraged tells us some of his experiences.

A refuge is a place to flee to when things become too hard for us, like a cyclone-cellar in western places. The Lord is our refuge, and sometimes we feel too weak for the temptation that is come; we flee to him and he will protect us. Jesus would probably not have been able at the beginning of his ministry to endure what he was able to endure at the end. The Father gave him what he needed to fight the fight of faith and come off victorious. He went to the Father for refuge and was strengthened, comforted, and thus the Father became also a fortress to him.

MY FORTRESS — A fortress is a place where one goes to be strengthened. So if we go to Him for refuge, God will not allow anything, so long as we are faithful, to overthrow us, but will give us every protection we need, so that under increased trials we will be strengthened and be enabled to come off more than conquerors. We will find our Father a refuge in all our trials and a fortress to strengthen us for everything He wants us to do. The Lord tells us how good and faithful the Father was to him, and urges us to taste and see that the Lord is gracious.

IN HIM WILL I TRUST — Leeser — “I will say of Jehovah, who is my refuge and my stronghold, in whom I ever trust.”

91:3 — SURELY HE SHALL — Leeser—“That he will surely.” Oh! What certainty there is in this assurance! These are the words of one who had tried and tested God’s care and provision, and found him. Oh! so comforting and strengthening. And as a lover of men He urges us to put our trust in Him and He will deliver us.

SNARE OF THE FOWLER — Fowler = one who catches birds. Satan is the great fowler and the birds are the Lord’s people. Fishes live in the water, animals on the land, but the birds are far above the world, and fitly represent the Lord’s people. (See Isa. 40:31; Psa. 11:1; 124:7; Jer. 5:26 margin; Prov. 1:17; Isa. 33:17; Prov. 6:5; 7:23; Isa. 46:11; Amos 3:5.)

a) Birds have more liberty than other creatures. So the children of God have the unbounded liberty which Christ gives; not liberty to sin, nor to work merely for ones self, but liberty from thralldom of sin and self. The amount of liberty a bird has depends on the plane of its flight. If high, there will be nothing to obstruct its flight or view. If low, the tree tops and buildings will be in its way, and it can neither fly so freely nor see so far. If plane be still lower, the fences etc. are in its way and it has not much more liberty than the animals and is in danger of many snares. So the liberty of the Christian depends on the plane of his flight. We should “mount up on wings (old and new testaments) like eagles” and our strength and freedom will increase. If our plane of thought and life is thus high we will not be in such danger of snares, or of obstructions to clear sight; but the nearer we come to earth the more danger of snares and obstructions; and we may allow ourselves to get so low as to have but little more liberty than the world.

b) Birds can see farther than other creatures. “Thine eyes shall see the King in his beauty, they shall behold the land that is very far off.” (Isa. 33:17) We can see that land now very near, though the world can see nothing of it. As a bird flying high in the air might say to a little dog on the ground, “I see over yonder a most beautiful valley and river.” And the dog answers, “I don’t believe it, I cannot see any river. There is no river there or I could see it as well as you. I think you’re lying, and if I had you down here I’d bite your head off.” So the world refuses to believe the glad tidings.

Satan is not so much a fisherman or a hunter. He is not seeking those beneath the world, nor yet for those who are of the world, for these are already under his power. But he is after the birds, those who are beyond his power.

Snare = system of false teaching and doctrine. A snare has two parts 1) the snare proper, 2) the bait. The bait is the amount of truth in any of these systems, and some have more bait than others. Mormonism has but little bait and so does not catch many. The error of the system is the snare. The snare is usually hidden but the bait is in open view. So the truth in these systems are pressed to the front in full view, while the error often is not seen until the bait is swallowed. Satan catches birds to put them in a cage. The organization is the cage and is based on the snare. For instance—When one accepts the Christian Science doctrine he has swallowed the bait and is caught in the snare, but when he joins the Christian Science Church he is in the cage. There are many cages, and having become free let us not go back into any one of them. Keep in the narrow way, for it contains no snares. The snares are set by the way side. There are many stones and obstructions (seeming) in the narrow way and many turn aside to seek easier and smoother paths and fall into these snares.

NOISOME PESTILENCE — Pestilence of destruction. (Leeser) See margin (Heb. wordy). Not from physical disease, but from the moral and spiritual pestilence of destruction—from the sinful propensities of the old nature, which in unguarded moments are liable to assert their mastery and overwhelms the souls of those who are not abiding under the protection of the Almighty, not dwelling in His secret place; and from spiritual pestilences of false doctrine, which with subtle sophistry, destroy the faith of the unwatchful; such as Christian Science, Spiritualism, and various no-ransom theories, which bid fair, both from present prospects and from prophecy ere long to become epidemic. The world will be filled with error and lies, but God's people will if faithful, surely be kept from these. Psa. 31:19, 20; 27:5; Isa. 26:20; Job 5:21.

91:4 — HE SHALL COVER — The picture is that of the mother hen, who, when the hawk (Satan) is about, clucks for her brood, calling them under her shadow, under her wings, under her special protection. Corresponding to the cluck of the hen in this picture is the “Vow,” or solemn resolution to great faithfulness of living, in harmony with our original vow in that of thought, word or deed. (Z. '09-4; R.4304)

HIS FEATHERS — God's providential acts. The soft downy feathers under the mother hens wings serve to keep the little ones warm. Our Heavenly Father's love and care and protection are His wings and feathers shielding us from harm; keeping us warm. (Z. '14-109; R.5437)

HIS WINGS — Old and New Testaments. (Rev. 12:14) The eagle is sharp sighted and far sighted, and when God sees danger for us He gives us warning of it. Eyes = symbol of God's wisdom.

HIS TRUTH — Not any truth, but His Word.

SHIELD AND BUCKLER — Shield = faith in His word; Buckler = loyalty as servants of His word. (Eph. 6) If any of Satan's arrows pierce our shield they will be broken by the buckler, so we will not be utterly stumbled. Must strengthen our faith (make shield thicker) and more careful servants (tighten our buckler) till we are able to withstand all the adversary's darts. Be watchful and zealous and loyal. Jesus found God's word all this and longs to have us realize it too. Our benefit from it will depend upon our trust in His Word. See Psa. 61:3-5. Let us appropriate, meditate upon and store up the truth in mind and heart, that we may withstand error and evil in every form.

91:5 — TERROR BY NIGHT — Fear. The dark night of the time of trouble, wherein no man can labor, so great will be the terror and tumult and persecution. (Isa. 21:12; John 9:4) We will not fear this (Psa. 46) because of God's promises of care and deliverance. (Luke 21:34-36; 1 Thess. 5:1-5) Dark Ages, too.

ARROW BY DAY — Bitter words of persecution by opponents of truth. (Psa. 64:3) The present time is called day "in comparison with the night coming." (John 9:4; Heb. 3:13) God's people see which way the arrow is coming and know how to avoid it, because instructed by the Word.

91:6 — PESTILENCE THAT WALKETH IN DARKNESS — The moral and spiritual pestilence that spreads and makes its victim among those who are ignorant of the truth or have been unfaithful to it and hence unworthy of it and therefore lack the divine protection and are subject to the strong delusions of error. (2 Thess. 2:11) Those who have gone into outer darkness, are attacked by this.

THE DESTRUCTION THAT WASTETH AT NOONDAY — Leeser: "nor for the deadly disease that wasteth." Pride. The disease being the result of the pestilence making many in danger of second death. Undermining the faith and hope of many, while to others it is noon day, when the light of divine truth is shining clearer than ever before. Noon day represents full light in the heart of the consecrated, the time when full and sufficient knowledge is reached, making them fully responsible. If we fall away after we receive full light there remaineth only second death.

91:7 — AT THY SIDE — Those all about us, many of those acquainted with us.

AT THY RIGHT HAND — Our closest friends, the testing will be so severe and heart searching that if we hold onto forbidden things it will cause us to fall, and the heart condition of each one will be shown up. "Every secret thing brought to light." The men with the slaughter weapons will be working. Ezek. 9. Thousand will fall to one will stand. Many who for a time ran well, will fall away.

BUT IT SHALL NOT COME NIGH UNTO THEE — The class of verse one, because they are of the very elect and watch and are faithful.

The fall here is not a moral deflection into vulgar sin, but a falling away from the truth once delivered to the Saints, a falling into Higher Criticism, Infidelity, Theosophy, New Theology, Christian Science.

91:8 — SHALT THOU BEHOLD — As a result of obedience to the warning call (“Vow”), numbers of us have been drawn very close to the Lord, under the shadow of his protecting care, where no harm can come nigh us, and where only with our eyes shall we see the reward of the wicked (unfaithful) who refuse this refuge, and who will stumble in this evil day and be snared and taken by the great fowler (Satan and his demon hosts). (Z. '09-4; R.4304)

God’s faithful ones will thus see the result of hypocrisy, false swearers, (Mal. 3:5; Ezek 44:9) and the unfaithful, and it will be a warning to those laboring to keep the old will dead.

91:9 — BECAUSE THOU HAST MADE — How do we make the Most High our habitation? “He that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God and God in him.” “If we love one another God dwelleth in us.” By attaining and keeping the mark of perfect love. By dwelling in Him we can view things from this standpoint, and “perfect love casteth out fear.”

91:10 — NO EVIL BEFALL THEE — This applies to the New Creature, not to the flesh. All things that happen to us are necessary (Rom. 8:28) without these we could not fulfill our calling, therefore they are not evil. These refer only to the Little Flock, not to the Great Company. Some evils will befall them. It was an evil on their part that they neglected the Lord’s word and privileges of the High Calling. This coldness brought them into a condition which must be made right. They loved father or mother or houses or lands or something else more than they did their covenant with the Lord and so they lose their crown. But the Little Flock have kept nothing back, out of love and devotion. Things may happen disastrous to their fleshly interests, but they realize they “are not in the flesh but in the spirit.” (See Heb. 2:10; Rom. 8:28; Psa. 207:11) (Z. '11-58; R.4767)

No evils of the kind mentioned in earlier verses and any other seeming evils will be overruled for our good. Jesus here addressing the New Creature. Plenty of seeming evils have befallen the Lord’s people, but these, if properly received, only strengthen the New Creature. (Rom 8:28)

NEITHER ANY PLAGUE — False doctrines and the last plagues of Revelation. These seeming evils are not evils to the New Creature. The evils come to the flesh and the New Creature gets the good from them. It knows how to separate the bitter from the sweet. It is made stronger by the things it endures. It feeds on things that would destroy the flesh. There goes out from this dwelling a fumigation that keeps us immune. The reason why is stated in verse 11.

91:11 — ANGELS — Messengers, not spirit being messengers, but human messengers, for God has not given spirit messengers the authority to teach His truth, but uses human beings to do this.

CHARGE OVER THEE — A charge concerning thee. God will raise up some faithful pastors and teachers who “will watch for your souls as they that must give an account.” (Heb. 13:17) If we test all by the Word we will not be led astray. One of the effects of this was the Vow. Also the love studies in the Towers. We may expect others soon. Let us watch for these.

WAYS — To keep them in all their word, thoughts and actions, in harmony with the doctrines, precepts, promises, exhortations, prophecies, history, types of God’s Word. In all thy ways acknowledge Him and He shall direct thy paths. (Prov. 3:6) God will not let any of his people go into outer darkness without full warning, so if any go it will be through wilful neglect of his advice.

91:12 — THEY SHALL BEAR — See the Comments.

91:13 — THOU SHALT TREAD — Thus borne up in the hands of God’s faithful messengers, guarded by their vigilant watchfulness, and under the consistent protection of the Most High, God’s trusting, faithful children will triumph over every device of Satan, either to over-power or beguile them—whether he boisterously goes about as a roaring lion or a serpent—like he stealthily lurks about to insert his venomous poison.

LION AND ADDER — Papacy and its underhanded power and influence. Satan.

YOUNG LION AND DRAGON — Protestant Federation and its less skilled and secret trickery and influence, more open.

TRAMPLE — Overcome completely. Though they will destroy our flesh, yet we shall triumph over them, and the serpent will be crushed. The dragon represents civil powers.

91:14 — HE HATH SET — Fixed (Leeser); fixed his chief love upon God, unalterably, determined to be loyal to Him above all else. This shows what God is seeking to develop in us, perfect love. Love to God first, to Jesus and the brethren, to the neighbors and to our enemies. We cannot love Him fully without loving the rest and without having a character like God’s.

DELIVER HIM — It will be impossible for Him to desert us. He could do nothing else but deliver us, and He will do it gloriously and all our enemies shall know. (Rev. 3:9) To the divine nature.

SET HIM ON HIGH — To rule and reign with Christ and have the divine nature. The very position that Satan desired.

KNOWN MY NAME — Learned my character, knew it by entering into it and developing a like character, like His image. (Eph. 4:24; Col. 3:10) An intimate acquaintance with God.

Name has five uses: appellation, nature, character and office, and honor.

(1) appellation = as Mary, John, Jesus, etc.

(2) Nature = “I am Jehovah, that is my name,” self-existent one, ever-living one, immortality;

(3) Character = “My name is blasphemed among the Gentiles.” “Holy and reverend is his name”;

(4) Office = “His name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, Mighty God, etc.”

(5) Honor = “I will give him a name that is above every name.”

91:15 — WITH HIM IN TROUBLE — It is worth while falling into trouble to have such company. He helps us in our weaknesses and sanctifies them and makes troubles blessings to us and we have the constant assurance that He loves us, though the flesh does not realize it. How this assurance refreshes and strengthens us! If this is what I must pay to have this blessed, sanctifying, sympathetic company, continue it, I will gladly pay it.

DELIVER HIM — He delivers us here from worry and care and snares of evil and will completely deliver us in the First Resurrection. He will not forsake us in trouble as the world does.

HONOR HIM — Not only here, but will in the resurrection raise us to the highest plane in the universe, ownership with Him in Christ, seated with Christ in the throne, creation of new worlds. (Eph. 2:7) The more loyal we are to the Father now the more debased before men. God wants us to learn humility now, so that when He exalts us we will not become proud as did Satan. The heroes in the next age will be those who fought the good fight of faith and witnessed a good profession, and everyone in the Little Flock will be known by name and heralded throughout the world. (Psa. 87:5)

91:16 — WILL I SATISFY HIM — Complete satisfaction in the end.

Immortality. (Isa. 53:11; 54:7, 8, 11, 12; Psa. 17:15) He will shew us what He is able to do for us, by giving us the experience. Jehovah takes us out of the world and into His council chamber and tells us by trouble, secrets which He tells no one else. The church will never be left in darkness in respect to what God wants done. The Bible contains several thousand promises, and they are veritable treasures. The Church's share is for us if faithful, and each one is a check on the Bank of Heaven, signed by Jehovah, to be cashed there. Let us be loyal in denying ourselves and doing His will, and practice, to spread and suffer for His Word and thus we shall be under the protecting care of the Almighty.

97:1 — THE LORD REIGNETH — This began to be true when our Lord Jesus, having returned to earth to set up his Kingdom took unto himself his great power to reign. Yet not until his Kingdom has been fully established in the earth will his glorious Kingdom be fully recognized. (Z. '16-339; R.5989)

LET THE EARTH REJOICE — The prophet bids us discern in this work of judgment an abundant cause for rejoicing and gladness. See Psa. 96:9-13; 98:1-9. Indeed there is great cause for rejoicing not only among the saints, but in the whole earth; and it is the privilege of the saints to tell the glad tidings to all who will hear. But whether men hear or forbear, let us tell it out, and by and by when the great afflictions of this judgment hour seal instruction upon the hearts of men then the blessed testimony will be as healing balm. They will see that He who smote them in His wrath and scourged them in His hot displeasure is also merciful and gracious and unwilling that they should perish, but rather they should turn unto him, obey His counsels and live. (Z. '16-339; R.5989)

97:2 — CLOUDS AND DARKNESS — The prophet David is specially referring to the present time from 1878 onward down to the full inauguration of the Kingdom. How true it is that the storm clouds are all about us in the day of the Kingly presence of Jehovah's great representative, the executor of His great purposes. Daily the darkness of gloom and perplexity deepens on every side for those not acquainted with Jehovah's purposes. (Z. '16-339; R.5989)

HABITATION OF HIS THRONE — Why is this day of His presence such a time of trouble and distress of nations? Because righteousness and justice are the habitation of His throne and He is judging the nations and weighing them in the balance. Justice is being laid to the line and righteousness to the plummet. (Isa. 28:17) Ere long the equitable principles of His government may be established in all the earth.

97:3 — A FIRE — See comment on verse 2 "clouds and darkness."

BURNETH UP HIS ENEMIES — All the wilful and persistent opposers of His righteous course shall be cut off, destroyed in the second death, burned up, “devoured with the fire of His jealousy.” This work of judgment and consequent time of trouble being a necessary preparation for the glorious Reign of Righteousness that shall immediately succeed it and all being wisely directed by the High and Holy One, who is too wise to err and too good to be unkind.

97:4 — HIS LIGHTNINGS — Not the brilliancy of the “Brain Age,” but the increase of knowledge foretold by Daniel 12:4. How apt is this figure. Truly like lightning flashes in the midst of the gloom and perplexity of this cloudy day, come to men the remarkable glimpses of the great principles of truth and righteousness in contrast with which the present disorder is so manifest! A flash of lightning from the Throne disclosed here one error and there another, and there another. Soon the whole world will be aroused. It is remarkable that these lightning flashes are continually calling attention to the Word of God, to the Golden Rule, to the equal rights and privileges of human brotherhood, to the faultless character and loving, self-sacrificing disposition of Jesus Christ to the Law of Love in contrast with the Law of Selfishness everywhere prevailing. By the sudden and now increasingly frequent flashes of light which issue from the storm clouds that surround the invisible spiritual presence of our glorious King. These principles of the Word are being illuminated and brought to the front for the consideration of all men. They are discussed not only in the daily press but in our periodicals, in the official labor organs, in stores and factories, in counting rooms, market places, public gatherings. Even heathen nations are discussing them and contrasting both the daily lives of professed Christians and the present course of the professed Christian nations with the character and teachings of the great founder of the Christian Religion, extolling the latter and ridiculing the former. (Z. '16-340; R.5989)

ENLIGHTENED THE WORLD — In the day of His preparation. See Nahum 2:3.

THE EARTH SAW AND TREMBLED — For fear and insecurity. (Luke 21:26) As a result of God’s lightning flashes there is great commotion everywhere manifest. Never before have such conditions prevailed. There are ominous mutterings of dissatisfaction and unrest and the whole current of popular thought is set in a revolutionary direction. The lightning flashes are revealing the corruption in the world, the dishonesty in high places and showing men that they are living far below the dignity of manhood. But how to right things they are not able to see, and the conflicting ideas, voices, theories and threats, reveal the facts which the prophets foretold; for the nations are angry, the heathen (Gentiles) rage, and the whole earth trembles from the din of a worldly conflict and from the blows which even now are beginning to rouse the world. (Z. '16-340; R.5989)

97:5 — THE HILLS — The less high, less autocratic governments.

MELTED LIKE WAX — They still retain their form, but as the earth (society) gets hotter, they yield to its requirements, little by little coming down to the popular demand.

97:6 — THE HEAVENS — The New Heavens of the Millennial Age. (A323)

97:7 — CONFOUNDED BE ALL THEY THAT SERVE GRAVEN

IMAGES — Some, heedless both of the world's distress and of the voice which speaketh from Heaven, will still boast themselves in their idols. See Heb. 12:25. St. Paul addresses those words to those who know the Lord's voice and recognize it, warning them against at any time refusing longer to heed it, when he speaks in wrath and judgment. But also there are some who although they recognize the voice of the Lord, refuse longer to obey it. They turn from Him who speaketh from Heaven, toward the idols which then wayward hearts set up instead of God. These graven images are indeed the work of their own hands—human philosophies and science falsely so called, of this evil day. And those who reject the testimony of God, when once they have heard, invariably drift into one of the many forms of idolatrous worship now so prevalent, or else drift restlessly from one to another of them. All such shall be put to shame and confusion. Their idols shall be destroyed. (Z. '16-340; R.5989)

WORSHIP HIM ALL YE GODS — “Let all the angels of God worship him.” (Heb. 1:6) (E78)

97:8 — AND ZION HEARD AND WAS GLAD — The true Church. (Luke 21:28) These are the dwellers in the secret place of the Most High, and are provided in these perilous times with a knowledge of the divine plan of the ages, its times and seasons; which enable them to see both the necessity of the present method of divine discipline upon the world and also the peaceable fruits of righteousness which shall result therefrom. In the midst of the storm and battle of this great day of the Lord, they hear the commanding voice of the Lord of armies, and their hearts rejoice, for they have full confidence in His ability to bring order out of the confusion. They realize that in the judgments of this day, it is the Lord who speaks from Heaven, from the high place of authority and control. Therefore they give thanks at the remembrance of his Holiness. (Psa. 30:4) of His Justice, Wisdom, Love and Power and which insure His doing all things well. (Z. '16-340; R.5989)

97:10 — THE HAND OF THE WICKED — The hand of Satan. “Him that hath the power of death.” (Heb. 2:14)

97:11 — LIGHT — Truth. (Psa. 119:105)

SOWN FOR THE RIGHTEOUS — “The path of the just is as the shining light that shineth more and more unto the perfect day.” (Prov. 4:18) They must stir themselves to uprightness of heart and continue in the light, that they abiding in it, may receive it as it becomes due. If they grow slothful and idle the light will pass on and leave them in darkness.

102:19 — FROM HEAVEN DID THE LORD BEHOLD THE EARTH —

To behold the earth from the Heavenly viewpoint is a terrible sight, enough to make the angels weep—sighing, crying, dying everywhere. Some so demented they prefer darkness to light wallowing in the mire of sin and feeding on the apples of Sodom. Some so depraved they love wrong rather than right, others so weak they cannot do what they would, many in jails, penitentiaries, etc.; hundreds of thousands in hospitals, and in insane asylums; thousands of millions already gone down to the tomb, with a few in comparative health, rushing headlong seeking for happiness, or fighting and cheating to amass fortunes, which, dying they must leave. Verily, as God looks down, the Earth must appear to Him as one vast hospital, a cemetery, a mad-house.

102:20 — TO HEAR . . . TO LOOSE — God looked down now with curiosity but with sympathy, upon the entire race of Adam, shackled with sin and under sentence of death, with loving intention. (N-8-31-13) (London Tabernacle)

103:1 — BLESS HIS HOLY NAME — A stream of grateful praise, whose gentle and regular waves rise gradually higher and higher, here flows forth from a mind moved to its utmost depths by the blessings, especially spiritual ones, which God has abundantly and from the earliest ages bestowed upon His people. The poet begins by calling upon his whole being to declare its gratitude for the manifestations of God’s favor which he has personally experienced. The words uttered at the beginning of the Psalm reappear in the last line. Between these the Psalmist celebrates God’s gracious and helpful dealings with Israel (vss. 6-10); in their heavenly and paternal character and their relation to sinful man (vss. 11-14); in their trustworthiness for all who hold fast to His covenant and ordinances (vss. 15-18); then the whole world is called upon to praise this heavenly King, who rules over all (vss. 19-22). Lang.

103:2 — BLESS THE LORD — The thanksgiving, as a response to the blessing of God is denoted by the same word as the blessing itself.

BENEFITS — The benefits are a word that means literally actions for which one has deserved well. Man is prone to be so forgetful, he needs to be continually reminded. (“Ghemool,” an act of service)

103:3 — WHO FORGIVETH — On the basis of the coming Redeemer and Ransom.

INIQUITIES — “Aw-vone,” perversities, evils. (Moral evil.)

DISEASES — Not only physical but mental and moral through training which removes them out of our characters. (Rom. 12:2; 2 Cor. 3:18; 1 Peter 1:14-16.)

103:4 — THY LIFE — “Khay” (khahee). Life = living flesh, (from kaw yaw, a prim. rt. — to live).

FROM DESTRUCTION — “Shakath,” a pit, chasm.

WHO CROWNETH YOU — With the best things.

TENDER MERCIES — Heaps upon thee these rich favors.

103:5 — WHO SATISFIETH — (Isa. 58:11, Psa. 107:9) Not merely physical but mental and moral and spiritual, inward satisfaction. The apparatus of external means by which life is sustained and invested.

THY YOUTH — This will be fully true in the Kingdom Age, but is now fulfilled to God’s people as they need. (Psa. 84:11, Isa. 40:31)

103:6 — THE LORD EXECUTETH JUDGMENT — Sometimes now, but fully in the Kingdom. (Luke 18:7; Rev. 6:9, 10) Now justice is often delayed for the ultimate good of mankind. (Eccl. 5:8; 8:11; Mal. 3:15, 18) See also Isa. 57:16; 30:18; Hosea 11:8, 9; Jer. 3:23.

103:7 — MADE KNOWN HIS WAYS — Ways to Moses, in the regulations of the Law (Deut. 6:4-9; Lev. 19:18) and in the miracles of deliverance and the manna. The ways of God in human history.

103:8 — THE LORD IS MERCIFUL — See Isa. 30:18; Gen. 15:16. The Lord waits that men may repent of their evil ways. Verses 8-14 are a list of God’s mercies that we should remember.

103:9 — WILL NOT ALWAYS CHIDE — Literally means judge.

103:15 — SO HE FLOURISHETH — See Psa. 141:7; Job 14:1, 2; James 1:10, 11.

103:17 — THE MERCY OF THE LORD — See God’s mercies. Note the conditions—to those who reverence Him and practice His commands.

103:19 — THE LORD PREPARED HIS THRONE — Through the ages He has prepared to pour out mercy in His Kingdom; the great white throne. Rev. 20:11.

103:20 — YE . . . THAT EXCEL IN HIS STRENGTH — The heavenly angels, mighty, heroes. Heb. 1:13, 14.

103:21 — MINISTERS OF HIS — All his human servants.

103:22 — ALL HIS WORKS — All thy works shall praise thee. Rev. 15:3-4; 5:11-13.

104:16 — THE TREES OF THE LORD — The Christ, head and body.

SAP — Life-giving waters, truth.

THE CEDARS OF LEBANON — Cedars = evergreen trees, typifying ever-lasting life. Lebanon = white; justified, perfect. This also shows the greatness of the Lord and the Church.

WHICH HE HATH PLANTED — See Isa. 61:3. The Hebrew word for cedar (erez) comes from an Arabic root, and means “firmly rooted and strong tree.” (S.B.D.) 107: — Verses 1-9 refer to the Little Flock, especially to Jesus; 10-16 refer to the Great Company; 17-22 to Fleshly Israel during the Gospel Age; 23-32 to the World of Mankind in time of trouble; 33-38 to Millennial Age; 39-42 to the Little Season at the end of the Millennium; 43 to God's Plan.

Jesus and the Church

107:1 — ENDURETH FOR EVER — To a completion—the wrath of God is always just and tempered with mercy.

107:2 — FROM THE HAND OF THE ENEMY — Sin, death, Satan.

107:3 — AND GATHERED THEM — The Little Flock is gathered out of every nation and kindred and people and tongue. (Rev. 5:9)

107:4 — THEY WANDERED — A.D. 539 the Church went into the wilderness condition for 1260 years. (Rev. 12:14)

NO CITY TO DWELL IN — City represents organized government (Heb. 11:10) such as the Millennial kingdom. The Church in the flesh is unorganized, in a wilderness condition. We have Catholic, Baptist, etc., cities; but the Lord's people did not like the mayors (popes) of these cities, nor the policemen (watchers, pastors, teachers). They did not like the streets (thoroughfares, teachings) full of filth and bad smells (Rev. 18:2). They did not like the houses, rooms were small and dark. They would go into the kitchens to see the cooks (theological professors) mix the food (Matt. 24:41) and it turned their stomachs; into the dining rooms and all tables were full of vomit and filth (Isa. 28:8; Ezek. 8:10); beds were too short and covers too narrow (Isa. 28:20); no comfort in any part of the city; chairs (seats of the beasts) were full of briars and pins. They thus found no city to dwell in.

107:5 — THEIR SOUL FAINTED — All down the age they were mourners in Zion (Isa. 61:3; Ezek. 9:4); after hearing a sermon one went away with the spiritual tongue cleaving to the roof of the mouth.

107:6 — HE DELIVERED THEM — By giving them light and strength. The great deliverance will come in the Resurrection.

107:7 — THE RIGHT WAY — The path of righteousness, the "narrow way" to the heavenly kingdom.

THAT THEY MIGHT GO TO A CITY OF HABITATION — Reformation till now. (Heb. 12:22)

107:8 — OH THAT MEN — The world.

CHILDREN OF MEN — The Little Flock.

The Great Company

107:10 — SIT IN DARKNESS — The error of doctrines, false creeds, light of the worldly minded. @SECOND PAR = SHADOW OF DEATH — Shadow of Second Death.

BOUND IN AFFLICTION AND IRON — These through fear of (consecrational) death, are all their life-time subject to bondage. This is the Great Company. (Heb. 2:14, 15)

107:11 — THEY REBELLED AGAINST — They rebelled against the words (doctrines and commandments, will) of God, following after worldly things.

107:12 — WITH LABOR — They are brought down to labor (saving souls, begetting). They are with child (Matt. 24:19). We are told by Jer. 51:58 that they will work in the very fire (destruction, trouble) to prop and keep the wall (defense) of Babylon from going down. These are delivered to Satan for the destruction of the flesh, that the Spirit might grow.

107:15 — OH THAT MEN — The Great Company.

107:16 — GATES OF BRASS — Copper. Babylon had one hundred gates of copper (brass). (Isa. 45:2)

BARS OF IRON — Errors and methods used to draw people to Babylon and hold them there, restraining their liberty of thought and action.

Fleshly Israel

107:17 — FOOLS — Fleshly Israel at the time of their trouble. A.D. 70.

107:18 — ABHORRETH ALL MANNER OF MEAT — The doctrines Jesus brought them.

GATES OF DEATH — They went into destruction as God's people, but were not utterly destroyed as a people. (Rom. 11:1, 2, 11)

107:19 — THEN THEY CRY UNTO THE LORD — They cry unto the Lord, blindness passes away, at the second presence of Christ. (Rom. 11:25; 2 Cor. 3:15, 16)

107:20 — SENT HIS WORD — His message by the Ancient Worthies in the Millennial morning and healed them. (Mic. 5:5 and context.)

107:21 — OH THAT MEN — Fleshly Israel.

107:22 — LET THEM SACRIFICE — They will consecrate themselves then, a sacrifice of thanksgiving and with the Ancient Worthies will help others, the kingdom being first set up in their midst. They will be ready to go anywhere and everywhere in God's and Christ's service, thus declaring God's works and plan.

DECLARE HIS JOY — See Rom. 11:11, 14. Fleshly Israel has then been provoked to jealousy, to zeal and emulation. In the Millennial morning they will emulate the zeal of Paul and the Little Flock.

The World in the Time of Trouble

107:23 — TO THE SEA — Universal anarchy.

IN SHIPS — Trusts, labor unions, alliances (Rocks of Rev. 6:15, 16; Isa. 2:19; Hos. 10:8; Luke 23:30) (Chariots of Isa. 31:1) Image of the beast, are the tare bundles, the ships which go down into this condition of anarchy.

IN GREAT WATERS — There is a deafening roaring noise as the waves are beaten upon by the four winds.

107:24 — A WONDER OF THE DEEP — Christ is present, opening up the lighthouse upon all kinds of subjects, both earthly and spiritual. Men use these discoveries selfishly, capitalists lay hold of the secrets of nature, etc. Thus the truths will bind together in selfish ways — a wonder of the deep.

107:25 — LIFTETH UP THE WAVES — The labor classes and common people beat upon by the truths revealed by these stormy winds are broken up into all kinds of waves. The sea goes wild.

107:26 — MOUNT UP TO HEAVEN — The people mount up to heaven and go down to the depth, fight themselves, a veritable sea of anarchy. The work of slaughter will go on, millions will die. Anarchy will engulf the Ecclesiastical systems. Then He speaks, "Be still and know that I am God." (Psa. 46:10)

SOUL IS MELTED — Men's hearts fail them for fear. (Matt. 24:21; Luke 21:25, 26)

107:27 — AT THEIR WITS END — See Isa. 24:20.

107:28 — IN THEIR TROUBLE — See Hos. 5:15.

107:30 — THEIR DESIRED HAVEN — “The desire of all nations shall come.” (Hag. 2:7)

107:31 — OH THAT MEN — The world after time of trouble.

107:32 — CONGREGATION OF THE PEOPLE . . . ASSEMBLY OF THE ELDERS — Then will men consecrate to Christ and the Church, and through them will glorify the Father, and praise Him in the assembly of the Elders (Ancient Worthies).

The Millennial Age

107:33 — RIVERS — Creeds of Protestants. These two are counterfeit and are Satan’s rivers and springs of Ezek. 32:2.

107:34 — FRUITFUL LAND INTO BARRENNESS — In spite of selfishness it has been fruitful of inventions, etc., but man’s plans with these shall fail and be like barrenness.

107:35 — THE WILDERNESS — Christ and the Church in a wilderness condition to be turned into standing waters. The knowledge of God to fill the whole earth sea-deep.

DRY GROUND — Ancient Worthies will be turned into water-springs. They receive water from the standing water (as a reservoir) and deliver it unto the people. In verses 33-35: That which had seemed to men to be rivers and springs will turn to a wilderness and what seemed to men to be useless (wilderness) and dry, will be exalted to be the channels of life and blessing and truth to the people.

107:36 — THE HUNGRY TO DWELL — Those in the world who long for peace and righteousness. There these may dwell and prepare a city. The Millennial Kingdom.

107:37 — YIELD FRUITS OF INCREASE — This has both literal and symbolic fulfillments. Sow the truth that it may yield increase.

107:38 — MULTIPLIED GREATLY — Multiplied mentally, morally and physically. (See Z.’09-174; R.4410)

TO DECREASE — Nothing shall hurt nor destroy.

The Little Season

107:39 — AGAIN THEY ARE MINISHED — The trouble at the end of the Millennium will separate sheep and goats. Satan’s deceptions will probably come as temptations to get the right to rule for themselves, and to want the Christ to hand over the kingdom. The deceptions will be very subtle and oft repeated, for Satan will have to deal with nearly perfect men.

107:40 — IN THE WILDERNESS WHERE THERE IS NO WAY — The Goat class is here referred to. The wilderness is utter destruction, where there is no way, a void place, a vacuum, second death. Contempt upon princes. Those who have not yet begun to reign, but have the promise of it under certain conditions.

107:42 — THE RIGHTEOUSNESS — The sheep class.

God's Plan

107:43 — THE LOVINGKINDNESS OF THE LORD — Whoso will observe these things shall see God's loving plan. (Sermon, Bro. P. S. L. Johnson, Chicago, 2-12-06.)

110:1 — THE LORD SAID UNTO MY LORD — This verse is directly applied to our Lord by the Apostles (Acts 2:34; Heb. 1:13; Acts 3:22) and by our Lord to Himself (Matt. 22:44)

AT MY RIGHT HAND — He is not literally seated at God's right hand but he has been honored with a superior station, above all others.

MAKE THINE ENEMIES THY FOOTSTOOL — Nor does his second presence hinder or change his relationship; at his second advent, he will still be at the Father's right hand. (Matt. 26:64) At the Father's right hand during the Millennium, the Father through him will subject all things to himself. (Z. '02-12; R.2935)

110:2 — THE ROD OF THY STRENGTH OUT OF ZION — The description of the Millennial Kingdom is continued by the Prophet. Zion is the Church primarily. The rod or scepter of authority shall be exercised through the Church by the Lord Jesus, the Head of the Church. (Z. '02-12; R.2935)

RULE THOU IN THE MIDST OF THINE ENEMIES — This is the Divine Commission. This is not in any measure fulfilled yet. Jesus when in the flesh did not rule in the midst of his enemies and the Church has not thus ruled. Rather Matt. 11:12.

110:3 — THY PEOPLE — Not the saints of this gospel age, for these are willing before the day of his power. The day of his power is not yet here. Wrong and evil triumph now, the prince of this world rules and is the "god of this world," because our Lord has not yet taken to himself "His great power to reign” actually. These are therefore the ones who shall in the Millennium become his people. They are the sheep of the parable of the sheep and the goats. As his sheep they will desire to follow in the way of righteousness, truth, holiness; as his people they will not need to be coerced farther, but will be willing, nay, glad to serve Him when they know Him and understand his will. (John 10:16; Isa. 25:9) And all who shall not then willingly be his people shall be esteemed his enemies. (Z. '02-12; R.2935)

THOU HAST THE DEW OF THY YOUTH — As morning after morning comes forth fresh and vigorous as its predecessor, and the sun does not grow old and feeble, so with the Messiah, and so also with those accepted as members of his Body, they will have perpetually the freshness and vigor of youth—glory, honor and immortality which will result from drinking of the brook.

110:4 — THE ORDER OF MELCHIZEDEK — The Messiah’s priestly office is to be of a higher type than the earthly—that his priestly and kingly offices are to be blended and united as in Melchizedek. (Z. '02-12; R.2935)

110:5 — THE DAY OF HIS WRATH — The great day of trouble is generally referred to as the “Day of His wrath,” although under the direct supervision of our Lord Jesus. (Z. '02-13; R.2935)

110:6 — OVER MANY COUNTRIES — These are assurances that the glorious Priest-King will prosper, his reign of righteousness be successful—the assurance being that God will be at his right hand supporting him and bringing matters to a successful issue—smiting down kings and wounding the heads over many countries, subduing all things mightily. (Z. '02-13; R.2935)

110:7 — DRINK OF THE BROOK IN THE WAY — Appropriating the truth (wisdom). It was necessary for our glorious Lord from the Heavenly Courts to drink of the brook of experience and gain wisdom by the things he suffered, and thereby demonstrate his confidence in God. Not that he had ever been disobedient to the Father but that his testing was of such character and such intensity as never before had been brought to him or any other creature. His obedience attested his love to the Father and his faith in the Father’s love and justice, he was approved, he overcame every trial and drank frequently of the brook of wisdom in connection with these sufferings. It is now our time to drink of the brook of experience—to learn the lessons necessary to our preparation for the Kingdom. It is not enough that we have tasted of the brook of experience, that we have learned something of obedience, endured some trials—we must continue drinking until we can gladly say “Thy will, not ours be done.”

If we drink not of the brook in the way we shall not share in the glory to follow. Drinking of the brook does not mean that we sorrow and are disconsolate above others; but those who drink of the brook properly are full of joy. They are enabled in everything to give thanks to God. The hope we have gives a changed coloring, silver-lining, to every dark and troubled subject which comes to us in common with mankind, so that inspired by draughts from the brooks we can sing in the house of our pilgrimage. We want to ask our Lord and Master that he will bless us more and more as with renewed zeal we endeavor faithfully and joyfully to drink of the brook of life's experiences, and gain wisdom therefrom that will fit and prepare us for his service by and by and also in the present time and enable us to show forth his praises in all the vicissitudes of life so to glorify him in our minds and bodies which are his. Let us as we drink; take a lesson from the birds, which, when drinking, repeatedly lift up the head as if giving thereby thanks to God. Let us continually give thanks to God for every taste of life's experiences, every lesson and trial, appropriating them all to our spiritual development. The time for lifting up our heads is drawing near. (Z. '02-13, 14; *R.*2936)

THEREFORE — The first part of this verse indicates the reason why such great honors and dignities, blessings and authority are conferred. (Z. '02-13; *R.*2936)

LIFT UP THE HEAD — In ancient times human language was full of figures and symbols. This refers to exaltation. (Z. '02-12, 13; *R.*2935, 2936)

116: — The Psalm has strong Aramaic coloring to the word forms, set off with a variety of ornaments and by numerable passages borrowed from Psalms composed before the exile, is thought to belong to a late period. Many words and phrases remind us of the Psalms of David. His words must have laid hold in no common degree on the hearts of those who were heirs of his faith and have sustained them in times of sorrow and suffering and nothing could be more natural than that later poets would echo his strains and mingle his words with their own when they poured forth their prayers and praises before God. (Lang)

116:1 — I LOVE THE LORD BECAUSE — This is the song of thanksgiving of an Israelite rescued from death. It is indeed mixed with fragments of his yearnings, reflections, complaints and prayers in that time of peril. Penetrated also by the refrain—like utterance, gradually and evermore richly unfolding itself of a vow to proclaim with praises, now, after his deliverance, the name of Jehovah, whom he has invoked in his distress and this he would do as long as he lived, before the whole people, and in the place of God's worship, in Jerusalem. (Lang)

116:3 — SORROW OF DEATH . . . PAINS OF HELL — The pangs of death and the grave seized him, so he nearly died. Compassed—thoroughly and inescapably penetrated his being, so no medicine could relieve him.

I FOUND TROUBLE AND SORROW — Neither the peculiar nature of this distress, nor the position occupied by the author, nor the time of composition is discoverable. But evidently he was very sick, like to die.

116:4 — DELIVER MY SOUL — As many do even if they have never prayed before. Faith and hope directed his prayer, and the Lord graciously delivered him. 116:5 — OUR GOD IS MERCIFUL — Psa. 86:5; 50:14, 15.

GRACIOUS — Isa. 30:18; Jonah 4:2; Psa. 86:15; Neh. 9:31.

RIGHTEOUS — Deut. 32:4; 89:14; Isa. 45:21-25.

MERCIFUL — Psa. 103:8, 9, 13, 14; Ex. 20:6; 34:5, 7; Psa. 145:9; 108:4; Lam. 3:31-33.

Instead of saying directly—“Jehovah answered me,” he magnifies those attributes of God, which from the days of His self-revelation to Moses (Ex. 34:6) had been the joy and consolation of every tried and trusting heart.

116:6 — THE LORD PRESERVETH THE SIMPLE — (Heb. Pethi.) Those who admit they are unwise and need help, the meek and humble, poor in spirit. 116:7 — RETURN TO THY REST — The deliverance sent in answer to prayer stills the tumult of the soul, and brings the rest of confidence in God. The home of the soul. (Matt. 11:28-30) There we find sympathy, understanding, refreshing and strength.

THE LORD HATH DEALT BOUNTIFULLY — More than justice required, more than we could reasonably ask or think. Quiet thyself and then enjoy His comfort and strength. No word is more proper with which to close our eyes at night when we go to sleep, nor to close them at death, than long sleep, than this—“return unto thy rest O, my soul.” The land of the living is the land of opportunity.

116:12 — WHAT SHALL I RENDER — Here the attitude is that of one thinking how he can repay God for all his lovingkindness and he decides to consecrate. Showing how we must do certain things to be saved, but may consecrate, may sacrifice. It is an invitation not a command. “I beseech you, Brethren. . .”

116:13 — THE CUP OF SALVATION — Remember 1) that this cup comes from the hand of the Lord; 2) that it has been filled for many saints and beloved ones of God before you; 3) it is not dealt out at random, but that all you are to drink has been carefully measured; 4) it is not a cup of wrath or intoxication, but rather of salvation; and 5) after the cup of affliction comes the cup of rejoicing. (Lang)

119:105 — A LIGHT UNTO MY PATH — This is a picture of the path of the just, (justified, Church) the narrow way, the Church being travellers upon it. The traveller has the lamp attached to the toe of his sandal giving light only for each step of the way. (Sermon, Bro. Russell)

120: — From here to Psa. 134 each Psalm is a song of degrees.* Showing the pilgrim progressing toward Zion.

120:1 — IN MY DISTRESS — Describing the condition of one longing for righteousness and realizing their own helpless condition, condemned, imperfect. (Isa. 6:5; Prov. 18:21; Jas. 3)

120:2 — DELIVER MY SOUL, O LORD, FROM — Showing a class living among the wicked and yet hating evil and seeking deliverance from it in themselves; the tongue is the cause of much of the iniquity and sin among men. This is the class drawn by the Lord.

120:3 — WHAT SHALL BE DONE — How shall we get rid of the sin and sorrow that we have gotten into? How escape from the pit into which we have fallen; how cleanse ourselves and our tongues? (Strife of Tongue) The tongue utters usually what is in the heart. The tongue says hateful things, deceives, suggests wrong, etc. Tongue is at the bottom of much of the evil.

120:4 — SHARP ARROWS OF THE MIGHTY — The messages of truth and righteousness from the Lord's Word (arrows of the mighty one). (Psa. 45:5; 64:1-4; Acts 2:37, 38)

COALS OF JUNIPER — See Isa. 6:5-7. Spirit of Consecration with Christ.

120:5 — SOJOURN IN MESECH — Among godless men, who know not righteousness. (Ezek. 38:12)

TENTS OF KEDAR — Kedar = Ishmaelites whose tents are made of goat skin, and which represent our goat-nature, perverse and wilful. (Cant. 1:5)

120:6 — MY SOUL HATH LONG DWELT — The dissatisfied condition of those who love righteousness when they are among the wicked. Long enough. Soul dwelt = a harmony with sinners and doing their ways, and then a waking and a decision to seek higher aims and fellowship.

120:10 — I AM FOR PEACE — Peace lovers.

THEY ARE FOR WAR — The contentions, the spirit of the evil-doers. The peace lover tries to have others come to peace with God, but they refuse and prefer to be at war with God.

Aben Ezra quotes an ancient authority which maintains that the degrees allude to the fifteen steps which in the Temple at Jerusalem led from the Court of the Women to that of men and on each of which steps one of the fifteen Psalms of Degrees was chanted. Adam Clark (Comm. on Psa. 120) refers to a similar opinion as found in the Apoc. Gospel of the Birth of Mary: "Her parents brought her to the Temple and set her upon one of the steps. Now there are fifteen steps about the Temple, by which they go up to it, according to the fifteen Psalm of Degrees." The most generally accredited opinions however, are that the name "Degrees is connected with—"to go up," or to travel to Jerusalem. The Psalm thus denoted being those which the Hebrews sung when they went up to Jerusalem to keep the yearly feasts. If so the name degrees should be translated:—"goings up" or "ascents." Psa. 127 appropriate to be sung when approaching Jerusalem. (S.B.D., Edit 1890 by H. B. Hackett, Riverside Press, Cambridge, Houghton, Mifflin and Co., Boston) "Internal evidence refers these to the period when the Jews under Nehemiah were in the very face of the enemy, repairing the walls of Jerusalem. And the title may well signify 'Songs of Goings up' (as the Hebrew phrase is) upon the Walls. The Psa. from their brevity, being well adapted to be sung by the workmen or guards while at work." (S.B.D. p. 122, Vol. 3)

121:1 — FROM WHENCE COMETH MY HELP — The attitude of the truth seeker looking for help from sin and evil. He finds he cannot get help from human organizations; these only cleanse outwardly. (Jer. 3:23) He seeks further help.

121:2 — MY HELP COMETH FROM THE LORD — He recognizes the only source of help, in the Lord. The Lord who was almighty in power and the Creator and life-giver to all. His power is greater than all.

121:3 — NOT SUFFER THY FOOT TO BE MOVED — To slip into ways of darkness unawares, He will guide thee into better and higher ways, "guide our feet in the ways of peace." (Psa. 91:2, 3; Prov. 3:26)

HE . . . WILL NOT SLUMBER — Not be forgetful of interest in us and so we slip aside into danger when He is off-guard.

121:4 — NEITHER SLUMBER NOR SLEEP — The picture of one on watch, if he sleeps the enemy could enter and capture or harm us. But God never sleeps, never relaxes His vigilance over His people.

121:5 — THY KEEPER — Protector, preserver, He supports and gives us life and food and drink (truth).

THY SHADE — Protection from heat (too great and fiery trials) and from drought, giving us rest from trouble and care.

UPON THY RIGHT HAND — Our chief counsel and guide. Leeser — “He is on thy right hand.”

121:6 — SUN SHALL NOT SMITE . . . NOR THE MOON — The sun = light of the Gospel, in this the trial day of the Church, which shall not be condemned but will stand and increase in strength. The moon = Jewish Law, this will not condemn us, for “the righteousness of the Law is fulfilled in us who walk not after the flesh, but after the spirit.” We now have peace with God, and Jesus covers our failures.

121:7 — PRESERVE THEE FROM ALL EVIL — As per Psa. 91 and Rom. 8:28. To those in harmony with God all works for their good. (Luke 12:7, 6; 21:18; Matt. 26:53; John 19:10-11)

PRESERVE THY SOUL — “He that believeth on me shall never die.” He will preserve us to everlasting life. (John 10:28, 29; Col. 3:3, 4; Luke 12:4, 5; 1 Pet. 4:19)

121:8 — THE LORD SHALL PRESERVE THY GOING OUT — “The steps of a good man are ordered of the Lord.” “He shall go in and out and find pasture.” (John 10)

FROM THIS TIME — from the time of our decision to consecrate.

122:1 — I WAS GLAD — The joy and delight of the earnest, obedient heart when it sees the offer of the High Calling. It has at last found a way to acceptably serve the Lord and manifest its gratitude and appreciation of his love. Before it had found that it could not do the things that it would and found the way of righteousness a lonely way and difficult.

HOUSE OF THE LORD — The consecrated true Church, the temple of God, which when glorified will be the antitype of Solomon’s temple. David knew only of the Tabernacle.

122:2 — OUR FEET STAND — The decision that henceforth we will take our stand with God's consecrated people and be the class which shall compose the New Jerusalem.

122:3 — IS COMPACT TOGETHER — As in Eph. 4:16. Knit together by bonds of love as fellow-sufferers with Christ, members of the same body.

122:4 — WHITHER THE TRIBES GO UP — The spiritual Israelites now and also "My house shall be an house of prayer for all nations." (Isa. 56:7; Rev. 21:24, 26)

122:5 — THERE ARE SET THRONES — The thrones of the saints in the New Jerusalem, the New Dispensation. (Rev. 20:4; Matt. 19:28, 29; 1 Cor. 6:2) Judging the world. These are the thrones of those who have the sure mercies of David. (Beloved) (Isa. 55:3; Acts 13:34; Psa. 89:1, 28, 49, 35-37; 132:11)

122:6 — THEY SHALL PROSPER — Those now in sympathy with the true church shall not lose their reward and those of her that love her continually shall prosper in the Lord.

122:9 — BECAUSE OF THE HOUSE OF THE LORD — Because of the Church as the house of prayer for all nations. "They shall bring the glory and honor of the nations into it." (Rev. 21:26) Because we are members of it, because of its great purpose and that it will glorify God.

123:2 — SO OUR EYES WAIT UPON THE LORD — The prayer of the saints for deliverance and help; professing their faith and trust in Him, knowing that He is all wise and knoweth best and that they are willing to abide in His will and wait His due time for deliverance, but longing and praying for it.

123:4 — OUR SOUL IS EXCEEDINGLY FILLED — This was the condition of the faithful Israelites in captivity to Babylon. And it has been the condition of many of God's people. The proud and arrogant have driven God's people out of the churches, and these "strangers" have gotten control in many cases. "Woe unto them that are at ease in Zion." (Amos 6:1) Deliverance will come soon to the humble saints. (Psa. 119:75-77)

124:3 — THEN WOULD THEY HAVE SWALLOWED US UP — So with the Saints. If God had not been their preserver, it would have long ago been crushed by their enemies. But, "The Lord is our refuge and fortress, we will not fear what man shall do unto us." (Psa. 46; Heb. 13:6) This is a song of deliverance.

124:7 — OUR SOUL IS ESCAPED — Satan is the great Fowler and we all were under him as a usurper, but the Lord broke the net when we came to Christ and now we are free. See Psa. 91:3.

124:8 — OUR HELP IS IN THE LORD — It is in these depths of trouble and woe and distress, when it seems as if none of our friends could comfort us or understand us, as if no earthly power was a help, and we are driven to God. Then it is that we realize how tenderly He can comfort, how sweet is His sympathy, even as a mother comforteth (Isa. 66:13), a God of all comfort (2 Cor. 1:3, 4). As we are soothed we learn how deeply precious is the fellowship with God, and how great is His power to deliver, how tender and sympathetic is His love (Isa. 63:9), and how His ways are the wisest. Having tried Him in our hour of need, we found Him more than we dreamed and we realize and declare that our source of help is our Father and our guarantee of help in time of need is His character. He as the Creator has all power. It is of His permission that these conditions exist. We can endure.

125:1 — ABIDETH FOREVER — This mentions the lessons learned by the trials of Psa. 123 and the victory in Psa. 124. Those of the Gospel age who fully trust Jehovah will be as Mount Zion, the spiritual phase of the Kingdom, the Kingdom that will not pass away. Others will be like her in that they too, of all other ages, will abide forever. Such cannot be removed because God cannot be removed and will not change. “God’s greatness lies around our imperfections.”

125:2 — THE LORD IS ROUND ABOUT — The lesson learned from our trials that as the mountains were a protecting wall about Jerusalem, so the power of God surrounds and protects His people from the malice of the Adversary, from the power of enemies, from all harm. (Luke 21:18; Psa. 91:3; John 10:27, 28, 29; Rom. 8:31-35-39; 1 Peter 4:19)

125:3 — THE ROD OF THE WICKED SHALL NOT REST — “For the rod of wickedness resteth not on the lot of the righteous” (Young) “For the scepter of wickedness...” (Leeser)

Rod = shebet, from an unused root prob. meaning to branch off; a scion, i.e. (lit.) a stick (for punishing, writing, fighting, ruling, walking); or (fig.) a clan. Seems to have the thought of authority of Satan or power reaching out. Hence the power or authority of Satan shall not rest, (remain?) or be upon the lot of the righteous. God will not suffer him to harm His people. Lest if the Lord desert them, the righteous be compelled to sin.

INIQUITY — Leeser, wrong-doing.

125:4 — DO GOOD, O LORD, UNTO THOSE — The Lord can do good safely only to this class, the others would misuse or despise His blessings. Only the righteous can properly use His blessings or appreciate them.

125:5 — AS FOR SUCH AS TURN ASIDE — To those who under trial and temptation yield and get discouraged and give up and go back into sin and iniquity, peace will not be to them, but God will class them with evil-doers who shall be cut off. Having once been in the way of truth and then turn aside from it.

LEAD THEM FORTH — Drive away. (Leeser) God will not have them in His universe, for such are not of His spirit. Let us remember this in time of trial.

BUT PEACE SHALL BE UPON ISRAEL — Peace shall be upon all God's people.

126:1 — WHEN THE LORD TURNED AGAIN THE CAPTIVITY OF ZION — Zion had long been in captivity to Babylon and was delivered by 1799 A.D. But many of God's people have been in it much later. The cleansed sanctuary class were by 1846 A.D. Yet even now some of God's people have been in Babylon. When we are delivered by the Harvest message, the vision seemed so glorious that we seemed to be in a dream! Such a plan was revealed to us!

126:2 — OUR MOUTH FILLED WITH LAUGHTER — Then truly we laughed for joy and sung praises more than ever before. The Lord put a new song in our mouth. (Psa. 40:3; Cant. 8:5)

THE LORD HATH DONE GREAT THINGS FOR THEM — Young: "Then do they say among nations. 'The Lord did great things with these.'" i.e. The nations say among each other, "the Lord . . ."

126:3 — WE ARE GLAD — We answer. Yes he has done wonders and we delight to tell of it, how glad we are! What would we have done without His aid? Only fainted and given up.

126:4 — TURN AGAIN OUR CAPTIVITY — Leeser puts the previous verses "When the Lord bringeth again . . . then shall we be" etc. "Like rivulets in arid land." Like streams having gone dry are refreshed in full.

126:5 — THEY THAT SOW IN TEARS — "Though now ye have sorrow." He that goeth out doing the Lord's will, though it be at a heavy cost of broken heart-strings and unrequited love, and self-sacrifice and sorrow, yet a comfort and blessing in knowing it is God's will.

126:6 — BEARING PRECIOUS SEED — The seed of truth, precious because so costly to obtain and hold onto, and also because he has faith that it will bring a rich fruitage according to God's promise. (John 4:36)

SHALL DOUBTLESS COME AGAIN — Doubtless = a matter of faith, he does not say certainly, though Leeser does.

BRINGING SHEAVES — The fruit of his labor and self-sacrifice at the end of the course; "See what the Lord hath given me for my labor and sorrow," rejoicing with songs of triumph. This is our hope.

127:1 — EXCEPT THE LORD BUILD THE HOUSE — There is a real temple and a nominal temple, even as a real church and a nominal church. (Psa. 132:13, 14; 1 Peter 2:4, 5; Heb. 9:11; 11:10; 1 Cor. 3:9; Psa. 102:16) The house that God is building is of eternal stone, fully finished and each properly fitted. The mortar used is love, the plumb line and level is justice and the workman is power and the architect is wisdom. The building is to stand forever.

THEY LABOR IN VAIN THAT BUILD IT — They = those who depart from the Lord and follow their own wisdom. (Isa. 65:11, 12; Psa. 118:22) The individual stones are not properly fitted, and the cement is "untempered mortar" that has no clinging or adhesive power (Ezek 13:10-16), and when the hail and the wind and the flood come the structure will tumble to pieces.

THE CITY — Christendom.

THE WATCHMAN WAKETH BUT IN VAIN — Watchmen = the religious teachers and instructors. The Lord is keeping Zion, her walls are ever before Him. (Psa. 49:16) The Lord is round His people as the mountains about Jerusalem. He is her strong Tower, and her watchmen are guided of the Lord. (Hab. 2:1; Isa. 21:6-10; Micah 4:8; Psa. 61:3; Prov. 18:10). She shall abide and God shall help her right early in her morning. Psa. 46 But the watchmen of Babylon are blind and dumb (Isa. 56:10-12; Jer. 6:17; 51:12; Micah 7:4), and do not warn Christendom of her foes and her danger, but are even secretly admitting the enemies for gain.

127:2 — IT IS VAIN — To worry about the conversion of the world and lament for souls, planning without the Lord's wisdom and seeking to establish the Kingdom before the time, by reform work and good citizenship. Why worry on any subject? Turn it all over to the Lord and let Him do as He will. He is as much interested in man's good as we could be. When we come to Him and inquire about His will for us, He shows us now His plan, and this awakens confidence in Him.

SO HE GIVETH HIS BELOVED SLEEP — Perfect rest and trust in Him without care and anxiety. Leaving the results to Him. Realizing that He loves the world far more than we do.

127:3 — LO, CHILDREN — Children natural also as St. Paul said of Timothy (1 Tim. 1:2; 1 Cor. 4:15; Titus 1:2.) As Jesus said Matt. 24:19. We sow and another waters but God gives the increase. Let us labor to our best and leave the results with God.

127:5 — THEY SHALL SPEAK WITH THE ENEMIES IN THE GATE — They will be able also to help in the work and fight the good fight of faith against the enemies of the Truth, and take up the battle when he lays down. The picture is that of soldiers defending a walled city. Speak = be able to answer all railings and assaults against the Truth.

129:1 — MANY TIMES HAVE THEY AFFLICTED — Looking back over the history of the church, he sees the many attacks of the Adversary and the bitter opposition of the world.

129:2 — YET THEY HAVE NOT PREVAILED — Yet the Lord has kept the saints and they have not been conquered. His preserving power has been with her. (Isa. 54:4-8, 17)

129:3 — THE PLOWERS PLOWED UPON MY BACK — The terrible persecution of the Middle ages, Dark Ages, Inquisition, when the less solid part of the body of Christ was being developed. 129:4 — HE HATH CUT ASUNDER THE CORDS OF THE WICKED — We rely on the justice of God and His promises of deliverance. These wicked are not the world but those tares and wolves in the church, who persecute the true saints.

129:7 — WHEREWITH THE MOWER FILLETH NOT HIS HAND — Worthless material, reprobate silver. (Jer. 6:30)

130: — A Psalm showing a great trial and perhaps a stumbling therein or lack of perfection. We bemoan our imperfections and trust in the forgiveness of the Lord through Christ's merit.

130:1 — OUT OF THE DEPTHS — In many cases we cry for help out of deep sorrow, with prayer and supplication.

130:3 — WHO SHALL STAND — If He should deal with us according to our flesh (Psa. 103:10, 11) and mark all our failings. (James 3:2)

130:4 — BUT THERE IS FORGIVENESS — We trust in His arrangement for forgiveness through the merit of Christ, who is our advocate. (Rom. 8:34; 1 John 2:1,2) That He may be loved and revered. (Rev. 15:3, 4) "Not for my goodness but for His great love He keeps me.” That is my only salvation. His forgiving love. Do you ever weary so utterly of failure? Do you ever get so tired of yourself? Then do you ever feel that if others knew they could not love, then realize that God knows us like a book and yet loves us? Marvelously kind, and wonderful! A God of pardons. (Neh. 9:17; Isa. 55:7; Micah 7:18-20)

130:6 — MORE THAN THEY THAT WATCH FOR THE MORNING —

We hope and long for the promised time of full deliverance and rest from all these weaknesses and naggings of the fallen flesh. More = more eagerly, with greater hope and longing. More than any other class (Socialists, Nationalists, etc.) who are looking for the morning of deliverance to come.

130:7 — PLENTEOUS REDEMPTION — Full deliverance in the first resurrection as well as daily deliverance. (Eph. 1:7)

130:8 — AND HE SHALL REDEEM ISRAEL FROM ALL HIS INIQUITIES — (Psa. 103:12; 1 John 1:9; 2:2, 1)

131:1 — NOT HAUGHTY — Not lifted up in pride because God has given us some favors of service, not taking the credit unto ourselves for any good done to others, but as Jesus (Luke 17:10) and Paul (1 Cor. 7:25). See John 5:19, 20; John 14:10.

NOR MINE EYES LOFTY — Not self-righteous or thinking too highly of self. (Rom. 12:3; 1 Cor. 14:37) No holier-than-thou attitude.

OR IN THINGS TOO HIGH FOR ME — Not intruding into the work God has given to others. (Col. 2:18, 19) Not seeking to usurp authority but to know our place and work.

131:2 — BEHAVED — Have myself, self-control.

QUIETED — Kept under the old nature. Not give it any audience.

AS A WEANED CHILD — Developed and able to use a little reason. Can digest a little of the strong meat.

133:1 — BEHOLD — Consider, think about it, that we may have that spirit.

BRETHREN TO DWELL TOGETHER IN UNITY — The beautiful fellow sympathy and bonds of love of the true church. This is the unity of the divine family. (John 17:21; 1 John 1:3; 3:1)

133:2 — IT IS LIKE — Here David shows that the anointing oil, its use and manner of application, is typical of the Holy Spirit that came first upon

Jesus and from him flowed to all the members of his Body; they all are of the one Spirit of love for God and the truth first, and loyalty to him. It came directly upon Jesus: (John 1:32; 3:34; Acts 10:38; 2:27; Psa. 2:2, 7) We receive our anointing only through Him: (Acts 2:33; Eph. 1:13; 2:18; 4:16; Titus 3:5, 6)

133:3 — DEW OF HERMON — Dew typical of Holy Spirit. The dew of the mountain would be pure and clear.

THAT DESCENDED UPON THE MOUNTAINS OF ZION — The Holy Spirit upon the Church. (Deut. 32:2)

THERE THE LORD COMMANDED THE BLESSING, EVEN LIFE FOR EVERMORE — The blessing of eternal life will come to mankind through the church. (Rom. 11:3) She with Jesus is the seed of Abraham. (Gal. 3)

134:1 — SERVANTS — The true church, fully consecrated. “His servants and handmaidens.”

WHICH BY NIGHT — This identifies who is meant. Night = the night of the Gospel Age.

STAND IN THE HOUSE OF THE LORD — As members of the true church, the under-priests, God’s temple. (1 Cor. 3:16,17; 2 Cor. 6:16; Eph. 2:20-22)

134:2 — IN THE SANCTUARY — This is the Sanctuary class. In the Holy next to the Most Holy. In full heart consecration, at the Golden Altar.

HANDS — Powers, energies, talents.

LIFT UP — Keep ready for service or in service.

AND BLESS THE LORD — Praise Him gladly with full heart and joy. Offering the incense at the same time.

134:3 — BLESS THEE OUT OF ZION — Our blessings come by being in and of Zion, and the blessing of all the families of earth will come out of Zion. (Rom. 11:26; Micah 4:2)

137:2 — HARPS — The Bible and its books. The Old and New Testaments.

137:4 — HOW SHALL WE SING THE LORD’S SONG IN A STRANGE LAND? — God’s people cannot sing the New Song of Moses and the Lamb, and still remain in Babylon.

139:13-15 — CREATION VS. EVOLUTION: This is a very striking passage throwing light on the creation of man. Evolution theory declares that the human child, in the process of development before birth, passes through all the evolutionary stages of its animal ancestors. The Word of God says that God planned the structure of man's body before any part of that body existed. There are similarities between the physical frames of men and animals; that is only to be expected since both live under the same outward conditions, and have much the same physical needs. But does not at all mean that one descended from the other, and this Psalm states very definitely that God planned man as a special creation.

Sir Richard Owen (1804-1892), a British Naturalist, Supt. of Nat. Hist. Dept. of the British museum, a fellow of (nearly every) many learned societies in Britain and America and recognized as one of the authorities in this subject said, "The recognition of an ideal exemplar for the vertebrated animals (animals having back bones) proves that the knowledge of such a being as man, must have existed before man appeared. For the Divine mind that planned the archetype (first pattern), also knew all the modifications. The archetypal idea was manifested in the flesh under divers modifications upon this planet long prior to the birth of those animals species that actually exemplify it."

The fact that the animal creation exhibits a constantly ascending scale, leading up to and culminating in man, the crown and glory of the earthly creation, indicates that the knowledge of such a being as man must have existed in the mind of the creator, when the first animals came into being, long before man appeared. Louis Agassiz (1807-1873) an eminent Swiss Naturalist and professor at Harvard University, says in his "Principles of Zoology" (1848), "There is a manifest progress in the succession of beings on the surface of the earth. This progress consists in an increasing similarity to the existing fauna, and among the vertebrates, especially in their increasing resemblance to man. But this connection is not in consequence of a direct lineage between the faunae of different ages. There is nothing like parental descent connecting them. The fishes of the Palaeozoic Age are in no respect the ancestors of the reptiles of the Secondary Age, nor does man descend from the mammals which preceded him in the Tertiary Age. The link by which they are connected is of higher and immaterial nature; and their connection is to be sought in the view of the Creator Himself, whose aim in forming the earth, in allowing it to undergo the successive changes which geology has pointed out, and in creating successively all the different types of animals which have passed away, was to introduce man upon the surface of our globe. Man is the end toward which all the animal creation has tended from the first appearance of the first Palaeozoic fishes." Thus the same phenomena which has been explained by Evolutionists as an evidence of the descent of man from the lower animals, was noticed by scientists years before the Evolution Theory was set forth (in the "Origin of Species"

1859) and was realized to be evidence of the creator's orderly methods in creation; first the blade, then the ear, then the full corn in the ear. (Mark 4:26-29) (B.S.M. 12-'58)

139:22 — I HATE THEM WITH PERFECT HATRED — As the Lord hates, justly, hating all unrighteousness. Psa. 119:104; 97:10; 139:21, 22; Prov. 6:16; 8:13; Isa. 61:8; Jer. 44:4; Psa. 119:113, 128, 163; Amos 5:15, 21; 6:8; Zech. 8:17; Matt. 5:4; Prov. 13:5; 28:16; Isa. 1:14; Mal. 2:16; John 12:25; Mal. 1:3; Rom. 9:13; Psa. 5:5; 45:7; Deut. 12:31; Psa. 11:5; Luke 14:26; Rev. 2:6, 15; Psa. 26:5; 31:6; Hos. 9:15.

139:24 — AND SEE IF THERE BE ANY WICKED WAY IN ME — On the smallest appearance of sin (leprosy) we should subject ourselves to examination. The Lord gives us directions to find just where we stand. By such careful searching we avoid many hard trials. God will tell us kindly and gently. Here David did not trust his own judgment, even though he might not be able to detect any failings he was so anxious to become righteous that he earnestly desired to know his failings. (Matt. 23:26)

AND LEAD ME IN THE WAY EVERLASTING — This is the cry of an earnest heart longing to be like the Lord, to get rid of all the weaknesses that unbalance and hinder him from the Lord's fellowship. He longs to be fully perfect and inherit everlasting life.

141:1 — We should not fail to notice the difference between worship and praise which all may render unto the Lord; prayers and supplications which are acceptable only from the Lord's consecrated people and their children while still minors. While God has an interest in the world of man it is not the same interest He has in His Church. (Z.'15-154; R.5692)

GIVE EAR UNTO MY VOICE, WHEN I CRY UNTO THEE — The privilege of such prayer is only for the Beloved class, who alone have the privilege of prayer and divine fellowship as sons. (Z.'15-156; R.5692)

141:2 — Strangely enough many seem to have gotten the thought that anybody, at any time may rush into the presence of the Almighty God with his requests. The intimation even seems to be that God is unhappy because people do not come to Him thus. Such views of prayer show lack of Bible study, Bible information. The Bible teaches that prayer is a great privilege. Jesus said "No man cometh unto the Father except by me." He indicated the restrictions upon those who would approach the Father through him: They must be his disciples and to become such they must renounce their own wills and accept the will of Jesus; they must lay all upon the altar, otherwise they cannot be accepted, cannot be presented to the Father; cannot be begotten of the Holy Spirit, cannot be styled or treated as sons of God; cannot have the privilege of the Sons of God in the present life—privilege of prayer, of Divine fellowship, communion, instruction. All these special blessings the Bible reserves for those who have specially, peculiarly become Sons of God. Even in respect to these who have become thus Sons of God, Jesus intimates a danger of losing the privilege of prayer—“If ye abide in me and my word abide in you ye may ask what ye will,” not otherwise.

Misinformation on this subject has worked disadvantage to many. The majority, holding intercourse with evil, only occasionally flee to the Lord in some trouble and that without entering into any covenant with Him or receiving any recognition as sons, and without desiring this. If they were rightly informed the effect on their minds would be to stun them. They would awake suddenly to realize they are without God in the world; their affairs not subject to His supervision, but as part of the world they are under the curse and sentence of death.

MY PRAYER SET FORTH BEFORE THEE AS INCENSE — The prayers of God’s people rise up before Him as a sweet perfume. (Rev. 5:8) We remember the incense of old typifying the prayers of the Saints, was composed of a mixture of spices, giving forth a peculiarly sweet odor, and nobody was allowed to make that incense except the priests who were to offer it. (Ex. 30:34-38; 37:29) Thus again the Lord shows us that the privilege of prayer, of approaching Him in an acceptable manner, is confined to the antitypical priests, called by St. Peter, the Royal Priesthood. (1 Peter 2:9) (Z. ’15-155; R.5692) @THIRD PAR = Be acceptable as incense. See Ex. 30:1; Rev. 8:3. This is the incense altar position. See Psa. 134:2; 1 Tim. 2:8, a sweet perfume. Pleasing to God when offered in His appointed way. (Z. ’15-156; R.5693)

141:3 — SET A WATCH, O LORD, BEFORE MY MOUTH — Young:
“Watch Thou over the door of my lips.”

KEEP THE DOOR OF MY LIPS — These are striving to keep their lips from utterance which would be injurious to others, but helpful to men and honoring to God. (Z. ’15-157; R.5693)

The divine aid comes in line with this and assures us that the lips are not at fault, that it is the heart that needs completion of the regenerating work of the Holy Spirit, for “out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh.” (Matt. 15:17-20) (Z. ’06-79; R.3739)

141:4 — INCLINE NOT MY HEART TO ANY EVIL THING — Leeser:
“Permit not my heart to incline after any evil thing.” This, to have the heart incline toward evil, would show a willingness that way, and we should rigidly guard against such an inclination. This thought of willingness is also in “practice wicked works.” Only the Lord can help us and we should always be in communication with Him as with our fortress and base of supply.

AND LET ME NOT EAT OF THEIR DAINITIES — Not fellowship them (as at table, in old custom to eat with one was a sign of friendship); for this would surely mean a step further to fellowship in their evil thoughts. This may also be taken dainties meaning thoughts relished. Let me not think of the thoughts they like to think and feast upon and delight in. For if we do our mind will unconsciously become poisoned and thoughts will go to words and deeds.

How appropriate for these to note to what extent their blessings, luxuries, dainties have come to them contrary to the principles of justice, and the Golden Rule. Whoever intelligently thus prays will surely be examining his life to rectify his business relations, so he may not eat of dainties which come by oppression. (Z. '15-157; R.5693)

141:5 — LET THE RIGHTEOUS — The righteous one here is Jesus Christ. The chastisements would thus come from the Lord, and the one chastised would receive them with appreciation, knowing that the wisdom, justice, and love of God are connected with such reproof. (Leeser: "not break my head" = "my head shall not refuse it.") (Z. '12-66; R.4977)

IT SHALL BE AN EXCELLENT OIL, WHICH SHALL NOT BREAK MY HEAD — Since the Lord's people are right-intentioned, right willed, faith counted for righteousness. They also should be able to give reproof, correction in a manner helpful to those corrected, and for their good, in a way that would bring a measure of comfort, blessing, refreshment, in a manner like excellent or fragrant oil, whose perfume would linger for hours. Here is a valuable lesson. First we should be of those who receive the corrections as of the Lord; glad to be set right if we are wrong in any way. Second we should be of those who recognize that if a reproof be proper to give it should be of a kind not injurious, but spiritual uplifting, refreshing. (Z. '12-66; R.4977)

In order to accomplish this end a reproof should be sympathetic. We should remember that all the Lord's people are fallen according to the flesh, but are New Creatures in Christ, and so must have the mind of the Lord and desire to glorify Him. Any of the brethren giving reproof from this standpoint would recognize that the person reproofed would not have bad intentions, and would explain as gently and kindly as possible what are the real facts. A reproof of this kind should not be given suddenly, and the person reproving should judge of the punishment to be given and of the proper time, etc. as of the Lord. It should be done only after very careful consideration and prayer and after having arrived at the conclusion that this is the best possible way to help the brother or sister. If all reproof were so given it would be much more helpful than is the usual reproof. (Z. '12-66; R.4977)

SHALL NOT BREAK MY HEAD — A reproof should not be disastrous, or crushing, but should be an anointing, a blessing. To crush the head would be to kill the person. The righteous are not in the world to injure or harm others, but for doing good in the world. Those who use their criticism and reproof so as to exercise a crushing effect upon the reprov'd are not righteous. Such should learn how properly to use criticism. (Z. '12-66; R.4977)

See notes on Luke 17:3,4; Matt. 18:15-18, 35. Their prayers are for each other in what seem to be calamities, and all work together for their good. (Z. '15-156; R.5693)

FOR YET MY PRAYER ALSO SHALL BE IN THEIR CALAMITIES — “For even in their wickedness shall my prayer continue.” But it is better as above. Leeser: “My prayer is offered in their sufferings.” Young: About their vexations.”

141:6 — THEY SHALL HEAR MY WORDS; FOR THEY ARE SWEET — The words of the David class will be heard with comfort and encouragement by those who stumble. For these call attention to the Lord’s willingness to forgive and help us. (Prov. 24:16; 1 John 1:9; Psa. 103:8)

141:7 — OUR BONES ARE SCATTERED AT THE GRAVE’S MOUTH — The distress of the church as affecting them even unto death; — like the chips made by the woodcutter, destroying the tree and who considers the chips not worthy to be gathered. (Z. '15-156; R.5693)

141:8 — IN THEE IS MY TRUST — Our trust is in the Lord for our deliverance. We desire His assurances that He is with us and will take care of us.

141:9 — KEEP ME FROM THE SNARES WHICH THEY HAVE LAID FOR ME — Satan is the great fowler who uses snares, and he uses some angels and men as agents. The Lord will deliver all His people.

141:10 — LET THE WICKED FALL INTO THEIR OWN NETS — Satan and all his cohorts will fall into their own snares, as did the Egyptians at the Red Sea. (Isa. 10:24, 26) The gates of hell shall not prevail against the church. (Z. '15-156; R.5693)

148:4 — YE HEAVENS OF HEAVENS — The highest of the heavenly natures or conditions, the divine nature. (See Psa. 68:33.)

YE — Christ and the Church.

149: — See Z.'14-135; '15-53, 346, 269, 270; R.5451, 5631, 5803, 5762.

149:5 — LET THE SAINTS BE JOYFUL IN GLORY — Heretofore we had not questioned that this description was the glory of the saints applied to them beyond the veil, beyond the completion of the First Resurrection. But we may not be too sure of such a proposition. We suggest as a bare possibility that a time may come when a part of the Saints will be in glory beyond the veil, and when those on this side the veil in the flesh will enter very fully into the joys of the Lord and into participation in his work. (Z.'14-135; R.5451)

LET THEM SING ALOUD UPON THEIR BEDS — A rest of faith—that these saints were at rest in the midst of conditions to the contrary. This could hardly be the case if the reference be to those who have experienced the first resurrection “change.” Theirs will not be a rest of faith, but an absolute entering into rest. (Z.'14-135; R.5451)

SING — These saints in glory will be telling the good tidings of great joy—singing, presenting in melodious cadences and messages which none can learn except the 144,000.

149:6 — SWORD — The Word of God (Eph 6). We can scarcely imagine the saints beyond the veil as handling the Word of God. This would seem to imply that the saints described are on this side the veil, using the sword of the Spirit, the Word of God, in connection with the showing of high praise to God—clearing His name for the dishonor attached to it through the ignorance and superstition and darkness of the Dark Ages. (Z.'14-135; R.5451)

149:9 — EXECUTE JUDGMENT — Seems to imply that these saints, whatever their condition, will be in authority. For the Scriptural injunction is elsewhere—“Judge nothing before the time.” (1 Cor. 4:5) This Psalm therefore describes the time when they are to do a judging work in respect to the world in general, as well as respect to Israel, God’s people (vs. 7). We may be sure if any commission be given to the Lord’s people to execute judgment this side the veil it would be so explicit as to leave no room for doubt, remembering the divine requirements throughout the age have been that the saints of God shall be subject to the powers that be. Any change from this order to the effect that we should execute judgments upon them, will need to be very positively and clearly understood before being executed. Whether we participate in the work this side the veil or the other, makes no difference to us. (Z.'14-135; R.5451)

PROVERBS

1:5 — A MAN OF UNDERSTANDING — “Shama” = hear intelligently. (Job 28:28; Ex. 31:33; Deut. 4:6; 1 Kings 3:9; Isa. 11:2, 3; Jer. 3:15; Eph. 1:18; Col. 1:9, 10; James 3:13-18; Psa. 47:7; Prov. 1:2; 2:2; 4:5; 3:13-26; 8:1-10; 21:16, 30; 24:30)

1:20 — WISDOM CRIETH OUT — God thus through the Gospel, and through experience has spoken to man.

1:21 — SHE CRIETH IN THE CHIEF PLACE — Proclamation as a witness for the truth. Only a few men hear, however.

1:22 — HOW LONG — How long will ye love foolish ways and scorn God’s word and statements and warnings and fools hate the truth.

1:23 — I WILL POUR OUT MY SPIRIT — God promises the pouring out of His Holy Spirit, and then will open up their minds to wonders of His truth.

1:24 — BECAUSE I HAVE CALLED — God has sent these warnings throughout the Gospel age, but especially by His servant (C. T. Russell) in the end or harvest-time.

1:26 — I ALSO WILL LAUGH — Warning of the time of trouble and judgment. Their fear is anarchy.

1:28 — THEN SHALL THEY CALL UPON ME — Man in the distress of trouble’s extremity will turn to God, but for a while God will not answer them, because their prayers will be for God to help them keep their own selfish plans from destruction.

1:31 — SHALL THEY EAT THE FRUIT OF THEIR OWN WAYS — Retribution. Have their fill to nausea, of their own plans and purposes, till they are sick of them.

1:32 — TURNING AWAY OF THE SIMPLE — Ease of the simple. (Margin) The selfish ease of the leaders of society, finance, commerce. Simple because they cannot see the gulf of anarchy and trouble before them. (Psa. 2)

PROSPERITY OF FOOLS — Profiteers, undermining the solidity of business principles, the society of their fellowmen, and law and order, breaking it down; amid the laughter of fools; blindly rushing in a drunken revel to their doom.

1:33 — BUT WHOSO HEARKENETH UNTO ME SHALL DWELL

SAFELY — Those who heed the Lord's advice and seek him will be safe.

2:1 — MY SON — Anyone out of the world who having heard the cry of wisdom (chap. 1:20-21) has turned to God and seeks Him with his whole heart. The Son = prospective son, showing a desire for the spirit of sonship.

MY WORDS — Promised in chapter 1:23.

HIDE MY COMMANDMENTS WITH THEE — Let them sink deep into your heart.

2:2 — INCLINE THINE EAR UNTO WISDOM — Willingness to listen and learn, to be taught of God; rid of some self-conceit and self-confidence.

APPLY THINE HEART TO UNDERSTANDING — Study, give up time to its pursuit.

2:3 — YEA, IF THOU CRIEST — Asking for the truth, gaining courage and seeking it even if you know some will call you a fool and shy away from you.

2:4 — IF THOU SEEKEST HER SILVER — Self-sacrifice in consecration to God, to obtain the treasures of wisdom.

2:5 — THEN — When you have so proven your love for the Truth and for God as to go to Him in consecration and are begotten of the Holy Spirit.

2:7 — HE LAYETH UP — Laid up in His Word. (Prov. 22:19; Rom. 15:4; 1 Peter 1:10-12)

2:10 — WHEN WISDOM ENTERETH — A.R.V.: For wisdom shall enter. . .and knowledge shall be. . .

2:11 — UNDERSTANDING — Hebrew, biyn = to separate mentally, to distinguish. — Tabuwn = from above root — intelligence. Sakal = to act or be circumspect, or intelligent. Labab = the heart, as the most interior organ.

Greek — Ouvinui = to put together mentally, to comprehend. (ouv = together, with, + inui = send.) Ouvesis (from above verb) reasoning, reason, putting together mentally. Siavoia = deep thought, from dia = through + vous = the mind.

4:18 — THE PATH OF THE JUST IS AS THE SHINING LIGHT —

Individually our Christian experience should grow brighter every day, every year, and the end of the path should thus be refulgent with light of knowledge of the glory of God, of His character, of His plan, of our relationship to Him, of His love and care for us and for the world of men. But of the Church as a whole (those both justified and consecrated), her path has been a shining one, illuminated by word, and now in the end of the age, the early dawn, its illumination is exceeding great.

6:20 — MY SON — House of Sons, the Saints.

THY FATHER'S — Heavenly Father. (Psa. 45:10; Eph. 1:3; John 20:17)

COMMANDMENT — God's commandment is righteousness and justice. (Isa. 56:1, 2; Mic. 6:6-8; Col. 2:6; 1 John 1:7; Eph. 5:15)

THE LAW OF THY MOTHER — Abrahamic Covenant. Law of Abrahamic Covenant is the law of love to self-sacrifice, as Abraham showed in giving up Isaac. (John 15:12) Love should be our motive, motivating principle, which causes us to act. Give out the Truth for loves sake. (Psa. 126:5, 6)

6:21 — BIND THEM CONTINUALLY UPON THINE HEART — Wrap them again and again around the heart, as a string doing up a bundle, that it may be secure and not loosed. How done? By meditation and repetition, thinking upon the promises, prophecies, precepts, etc., of the Word. Every time we dwell upon them we make them and wrap them around the heart.

TIE THEM ABOUT THY NECK — As a locket, so that we may take it up and look at it and remember its pleasures and delights and impress them on our mind that we forget not. (Psa. 27:4; 63:1-3)

6:22 — IT SHALL LEAD THEE — (Psa. 32:8, 9; 25:9, 12; 73:24; 48:14; 121:8)

IT SHALL KEEP THEE — Sweet sleep to the righteous. (Psa. 127:2; Prov. 3:24; Psa. 3:5, 6)

SHALL TALK WITH THEE — These thoughts of the Lord which we have been treasuring up will come to us, and God will thus converse with us. (Psa. 139:17, 18; 40:5; 92:5, 9; 94:19; Amos 4:13)

6:23 — IS A LAMP — Candle to light the way in the dark. (Psa. 119:105; Isa. 62:1; Luke 11:36)

THE LAW IS LIGHT — Enlightening. (Psa. 119:130; 2 Cor. 4:4-6)

REPROOFS OF INSTRUCTION ARE THE WAY OF LIFE — (Psa. 16:11. God's reproofs. Heb. 12:5; Prov. 3:11, 12; Rev. 3:19)

8:1 — DOTH NOT WISDOM CRY? — Wisdom is personified in one who would come from God, having all the authority of God, an earthly manifestation of God, to show men what God is and can be to them.

9:1 — WISDOM HATH BUILDED — The wisdom of God as expressed in Jesus Christ. (1 Cor. 1:24) Referring to the Plan of God, the preparation for the work of the Kingdom. All of God's purposes are centered around Jesus as the Logos. "All the promises of God are in him yea and in him amen." (2 Cor. 1:20)

HER HOUSE — Christ and the Church as the temple of the Living God. (1 Peter 2:4, 5; Rev. 3:12; 2 Cor. 5:1; 1 Cor. 3:17; John 2:19-21)

HER SEVEN PILLARS — Possibly the seven stages of the one Church. (Rev. 1:16, 20) Or the seven stars or messengers of the Church. (Rev. 2:1)

9:2 — HER BEASTS — The beasts or animals of the sin-offering, the bullock and the goat, furnishing the blood to seal the New Covenant—the humanity of Jesus and the Church.

HER WINE — The rich, pure doctrine of the Truth. "Wines on the Lees, well refined." (Isa. 25) The "pure language," (Zeph. 3:8, 9) prepared the message of restitution and the new covenant for all men.

FURNISHED HER TABLE — The food (bread) for the Millennial Age, God's provisions for their growth and development to perfection, through Christ and the Church as the broken loaf. (1 Cor. 10:17)

9:3 — HER MAIDENS — The Great Company as servants of the Temple. (Rev. 7:15; Psa. 45:14)

SHE CRIETH UPON THE HIGHEST PLACES OF THE CITY — (Isa. 62:6, 7) The message of free grace, "whosoever will," as expressed in verses 4-6. "They that erred shall come to understanding." (Isa. 29:24) "The wayfaring man though a fool shall not err therein." (Isa. 35)

11:19 — AS RIGHTEOUSNESS TENDETH TO LIFE SO — Righteousness is a power, a force, which is inherently conducive to life—to continuing life. Evil contains within itself the seeds of its own destruction. It is inherently conducive to death—the complete absence and negation of life. Since all life stems originally from God and can be sustained by God, who is the Creator and Sustainer of all things, it follows that right is that condition of things which allows the perpetuation of that flow from the Creator to creature of life which imparts the quality of everlastingness to the creature. Conversely, evil is an opposing force which tends to hinder or destroy the orderly conduct of God's work, and because it is thus at variance with the laws on which divine creation is founded, and by which it continues, must eventually destroy itself. So the life governed by evil or influenced by it will become less and less capable of recovery and of maintaining that inflow of life from God which alone can guarantee continuance, and therefore will at last end in death. A man to whom God has given life and the power of living must either come eventually and willingly into harmony or alignment with the arrangements God has made for the eternal continuance of creation or he must reap the wages of disobedience in the loss of even that measure of life he possessed for a limited period, and be reduced to the condition obtaining before he knew consciousness. (B.S.M. 9-80)

16:32 — HE THAT IS SLOW TO ANGER — The text refers to a wall such as was formally used, and to a city which had become dilapidated and the wall was broken down. King Solomon gives this as a picture of a human being who has no rule over his own spirit. He is unable to protect himself against evil influences from within or without as a result of having suffered his will to be broken down.

SPIRIT — The mind, the impulses of one's nature. We are to rule our mind our natural impulses. This means that if a thought presents itself to the mind, or if we feel a certain impulse we should be quick to see the nature of the thought or impulse; and if it is not in harmony with the principles of righteousness or with our covenant as children of God we should at once resist it. If we are unable to do this successfully ourselves, as is often the case, the heart should be prompt to lift itself to the Lord for His promised grace to help in time of need. If we feel an impulse toward a certain action or course, we should carefully weigh the matter, decide as to its righteousness or propriety in the circumstances looking to our unfailing source of help and guidance.

Whether our wills are strong or weak, they need direction. To cultivate in oneself a lawless disposition is to cultivate the spirit of anarchy, a spirit of indifference to the rights and interests of others. No human being should live according to what is merely natural to his or her fallen nature. A being created in the image and likeness of God and still retaining some traces of his original Godlikeness should live above the plans of the lower animals which follow merely their natural instincts and passions. Some seem to glory in what they term their high spirit which will always stand up for the "rights." They are not so weak and childish as to let anybody run over them. If they do not like what others do or say, they will tell just what they think of others! They have some force of character! Oh, how the great Adversary and his hosts together with the fallen nature perverse, can deceive and mislead and blind the judgment, that is not guided or instructed by the only true guide, the Word of God! How they can make what is noble and truly strong and God-like appear weak and puerile; and what is weak, base, selfish and animal appear strong and manly! All should be regulated by some standard, either the civil standard which governs the world or the standard of God. But one might live up to the letter of a law and yet be violating its spirit. The Law of God is the highest standard of law and the Spirit of God's Law is embodied in the golden rule. All recognize this standard as right, and surely God's people should measure all their conduct and their words, yea their very thoughts by this standard. Thus they will be rulers over their own spirit.

The world would say this is too exacting—that they would have more pleasure in doing their own will. But we know that in doing their own will they often get into difficulty. A Christian has covenanted not to do his own will; he has given up his own will and has taken the will of God instead. The more advanced the Christian the more should we expect he would be able to rule his own spirit—“casting down imaginations and every high thing that exalteth itself against the knowledge of God and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of the will of God as revealed in Christ Jesus.” And if we rule our thoughts, our mind, we shall rule our tongue. If the thought were not in the mind, the tongue would not utter it.

There is great danger of saying or doing things under a momentary impulse that our consecrated judgment would not approve, hence the necessity of bringing our thoughts and impulses into subjection. We are to consider what would be the effect of my words and actions upon another. Would it be an injury and cause endless pain for me to say or do this thing, or would it do good? By thus scrutinizing himself and by thus taking himself in hand and ruling his spirit the child of God is thus showing his earnest desire of heart to be pleasing to the Lord and true to his covenant and those who learn to rule their own spirit according to the will of the Father are the ones whom He will be pleased to make joint-heirs with His Son.

How to attain strength of character. At first the individual has not the power to overcome and control himself in everything. But as he learns to exercise self-control in little things more and more doing what he can in this direction, in thought, word and deed. He will gain in strength of character. A certain man who wished to develop his muscles began to practice each day in lifting a calf. He commenced when the calf was very young, and he lifted it day by day for weeks and months. In due time the calf had become an ox. His daily practice had gradually strengthened his muscles; they increased in strength with the growth of the animal until he was strong enough to lift the full grown ox. So if we daily practice self-control, we shall gradually attain a strong character along this line which will be of inestimable value along this line.

Moral strength is infinitely nobler and more to be desired than the greatest degree of physical strength or the keenest strategy. And it is only after we have conquered ourselves, only after we have become master of our own flesh, only after we have cast out the beam from our own eyes, have subdued anger, malice, hatred and strife in our own hearts, that we are able by means of these severe battles with our weaknesses to assist the brethren and our neighbors, to aid them by our example in overcoming their besetments. To rule our own spirit, mind, disposition, implies a conflict similar in some respects to that of taking a city for no matter where we begin we find entrenched within many armed and opposing powers. They have possession by heredity—they are there as a result of the fall. And if we have passed the days of youth, they are the more strongly entrenched and it requires the greater skill and generalship to route them. But whether one has begun early or late he that would succeed in ruling his own spirit must “war a good warfare.” He must fight the “good fight of faith” down to the very end of this present existence.

If the child of God would be victor in this fight he must not only storm all the fortresses of inherited evils which seems to be a part of his very nature, but having gained possession and taken his seat upon the throne of this symbolic city (his will = the throne) he must thereafter be continually on the defensive for the old enemies are constantly on the alert, and ever and anon seek to regain possession so that he who continues to rule his own spirit is one who has not only routed the enemy (sin) from the throne of his being, but is continually to keep him at bay.

This ruling of ones spirit is by no means an easy task, and as in the illustration, it cannot be done single-handed and alone. Consequently the wise general will invoke all the assistance at his command, remembering Eph. 6:12. These powers of the world, flesh and devil are closely allied and therefore he who plans for a conquest and an established reign thereafter must seek alliance with another and stronger power. This power is offered to all who earnestly undertake this great work. It is none other than the almighty arm of our God who says to those who accept His strength, (1 John 4:4; Isa. 35:4) “Be strong, fear not.”

The ruling of this symbolic city will never be accomplished until the commanding general, the will has positively decided to change his allegiance from sin to God, and to rout the rebels who resist the change. But, “Where there is a will there is a way”—for good or for ill God will assist through various agencies for good. Satan, then through various agencies for evil. If the will says, “It must be done,” it calls in the needed and available help and immediately sets all the other faculties of the mind at work; first to subjugate and then to rule and regulate the entire being. Conscience is commanded to keep a vigilant watch over all the mental operations. Judgment under the influence of the conscience must decide the righteousness or unrighteousness of any matter and report to the will, which is under the same moral influence.

Thus we have three departments of government established, the legislative, which would always be conscience; the judicial, the judgment; and the executive, the will. In every well regulated and righteously ruled mind, all the other faculties must make their appeal to this Congress and as the will insists, in due and proper order. Their appeal to the will to execute their desires before submitting them first to conscience and then to judgment (whether it is right and then whether it is best) should never be tolerated. But when approved there they may freely urge their claims upon the executive power, the will. The will governs and if the will be weak the government is slack, and the appetites, passions and unholy ambitions take advantage of the situation. They seek to overbalance judgment and silence conscience and loudly clamor to the will to have their own wild way.

If the will be weak but strive to keep itself under the influence of conscience and sound judgment, it will be fitful and irregular in its rulings and the government will be unstable and ultimately wholly at the mercy of the fallen appetites, passions, and ambitions. The conditions of such a soul is one of anarchy, which, unless its course be speedily arrested, will hurriedly sweep the whole being to destruction. It is all important therefore that it strengthen itself in the Lord and in his name and strength rule with a firm hand, cultivating conscience and judgment as its assistants in determining the good and acceptable and perfect will of God as expressed in His Word. The will has the most difficult office to fill, and the Lord's commendation will be to the man of resolute will, instructed by an enlightened conscience and judgment. Blessed is the Christian, who sets his house in order and keeps that order to the end of his days. The thorns and thistles of his own nature have been exterminated; the beautiful flowers of peace, righteousness and love have been cultivated and now they flourish and adorn his character. The warring elements of his old nature have been brought to subjection to the new will. (Z.'14-195-197; R.5487-5489)

21:16 — THE MAN THAT WANDERETH OUT OF THE WAY — This, as concerns the world, is in the Millennium, as they have not yet had understanding to wander from. Then those who reject the conditions for obtaining life will go into second death. Now only the spirit-begotten have sufficient knowledge to fulfill this verse.

23:26 — MY SON, GIVE ME THINE HEART — This is not spoken to one in the world, but to a son class, justified (tentatively) by faith in Christ. This is the offer of the High Calling now. A worldly person, unbelieving, has not a heart acceptable to God.

23:29 — WHO HATH WOE? — While it cannot be said that the Bible commands total abstinence from liquors (intoxicating), yet everywhere from Genesis to Revelation it reprobates drunkenness and points us to its debauching effects, physically and mentally. We think probably that the climatic conditions of the centers of civilization and the nerve tensions of our day make the evils of intemperance specially grievous at this time. These facts would fully justify us as followers of Jesus and the Apostles should we go beyond them in urging absolute abstinence from all alcoholic drinks. Special emergencies and conditions require to be specially met. (Z. '10-135; R.4600)

23:30 — SEEK MIXED WINE — The picture of the drunkard.

23:31 — LOOK NOT THEN UPON THE WINE — A better rendering of the last part of this verse is “Goeth down smoothly.”

23:33 — THINE EYES SHALL BEHOLD STRANGE WOMEN — He associates the demoniacal power of liquor with its twin sister, fleshly desire and general immorality. Mouth utter perverse things = filthy language.

23:34 — LIETH DOWN IN THE MIDST OF THE SEA — Like floating wreckage.

LIETH UPON THE TOP OF THE MAST — In imminent danger of destruction.

23:35 — I WILL SEEK IT YET AGAIN — The condition of those beastly drunk. They are unconscious of injury and seem to have their chiefest pleasure in unconsciousness, so that, recovering from one debauch, their desire to seek the stimulation again. Thus are the chains of slavery to a most degrading habit forged and manhood gradually enslaved and earthly prospects, not to mention heavenly hopes go glimmering. See 1 Cor. 6:10.

24:30 — FIELD OF THE SLOTHFUL . . . VINEYARD OF THE MAN VOID OF UNDERSTANDING — Field and vineyard, as suggested by verse 32, is the mind, besides the literal lesson. Slothful those who are too loving of ease, to study and fill mind with good things.

24:31 — GROWN OVER THE THORNS AND NETTLES — Satan finds some evil still for idle hands (or minds) to do. Thorns = thoughts hurtful to others, selfish; nettles = stinging unkindness. Mind becomes filled with useless and injurious things.

THE STONE WALL THEREOF WAS BROKEN DOWN — Wall = will power, because not exercised it is broken down. (Prov. 16:32; 25:28)

25:11 — A WORD FITLY SPOKEN — Spoken upon his wheels.

APPLES OF GOLD — The promise of the divine nature or divine promises. Probably a fruit like oranges.

PICTURES OF SILVER — Baskets of silver or truth = the various books of the Lord's Word. i.e. A word spoken about the divine plan, would touch on the promises and exaltation of Christ and the Church and their part in the plan of Jehovah, glorifying Him.

25:20 — AS HE THAT TAKETH AWAY A GARMENT IN COLD

WEATHER — Taking away a coat in cold weather makes the person who had it jump and be lively to keep warm. Vinegar, or any acid, on nitre causes it to effervesce, or be active, move. So singing songs to a heavy heart makes the owner feel glad and leap for joy. There is a great depth of wisdom here. (Bro. Jolly)

25:28 — HE THAT HATH NO RULE OVER HIS OWN SPIRIT IS LIKE—

In old times the wall of a city was to preserve its people from harm. Marauders were abroad ready to plunder and the inhabitants had to protect their valuables. For a like purpose God gave man a will. It is one of the strong elements of likeness of man to his Creator.

We may have a will, however weak our bodies, or however strong our passions. That will may be strong whether we outwardly subject to others or not. Our bodies may be enslaved, but our wills cannot be enslaved without our permission, it cannot be taken from us. But it needs to be strengthened, defended, repaired and made strong in its weak places. Those who do not attend to this and do not strengthen the will where they find special liability to assaults, are sure to have it broken down, so that by and by they reach a place where they have no will, no self-control. Just as in a devastated city the protecting walls have been destroyed and the enemy finds easy access, so the human being who yields to sin and various weaknesses and assaults of the Adversary has lost his real manhood, and is in danger of losing everything.

It is part of our duty as Christians, and New Creatures, to withstand the assaults of Satan, and these come not alone from visible forces, but from evil spirits, from those who seek to obtain possession of us, as with those who come under the control of these evil spirits. Their wills are subdued, broken down and they are in the hands of their enemies. Let such strive to cast out the enemy, resist him, to strengthen the walls of their minds and make an alliance at once with the Lord Jesus, give their hearts fully to him, and accept his will, word and guidance in every matter. True, thus released they come under bondage to Christ, but to bondservants of Christ means to serve that which is good and true and right, and to have full liberty from sin and self.

Surely all are safe in putting themselves fully and unreservedly in his hands, for he so loved us that he gave his own life for us. But it is not sufficient that we merely place ourselves in the Lord's hands but also (Prov.

37:5; Phil. 2:13) trust in him. Our battle with self is our greatest battle and so our text, because we have to that extent learned to exercise the combativeness of a true character in the right direction—that of self control.

Lest we become discouraged with our slowness of progress, we must remember that the attainment of full self control, full harmony will be our final condition, gradually reached by “patient continuance in well doing,” relying on the divine assurance of grace in every time of need, and be workers together with Him. Let us all strain every energy toward this final grand development. We are to have it continually before us as the standard, ideal, aim, and although we may fail time after time, if we are rightly exercised in the matter we will be stronger as the result of each failure, and each failure will show us more clearly than we previously discerned, the weak points of our characters. And if each weak point be carefully noted and guarded against in the future we shall come by and by, by the grace of God and under the direction of our Teacher, by his word and example and providential leadings to that subdued harmonized condition in full accord with the will of God. So to such, looking back, even the failures led to greater fortification against the wiles of Satan and our weaknesses of flesh, and were overruled of the Lord for our good. (Z. '11-94; R.4789)

ECCLESIASTES

In the book of Ecclesiastes we have an important question raised, considered in various aspects and answered from the standpoint of a wide and varied experience. Chap. 1:3 is the question. It is an important one, especially for the young, but all would do well to carefully consider it in the light of Solomon's experience and with the prayer of the Psalmist in their hearts (Psa. 90:12) He was one of the most successful men, from the world's standpoint, that ever lived. He had all the comforts and blessings that wealth, and power, and honor, and fame, and natural qualifications of mind and body and education and even specially granted superhuman wisdom could bestow upon him. And all these he used chiefly for his own personal gratification. (Chap. 2:1-10) Presumably written in Solomon's later years. See Psa. 86; 84:10.

Words Translated “Ever,” “Everlasting,” “Forever”:

- (1) Olam — Strong 5769 prop. concealed. i.e. the vanishing point, gen. time out of mind (past or future) i.e. (prac.) eternity, freq. adv. (esp. with prep. prefix always, (from alam = a prime root, to veil from sight, i.e. to conceal. Same word used in Psa. 78:69; 119:89. but not in Psa. 104:5 (= ad). Same word is used of Jehovah that He is “everlasting” in Psa. 119:89; 90:2; 41:3; 93:2; 106:48; 145:13 (everlasting Kingdom). Also in Prov. 8:23.

- (2) Ad - prop a (peremptory) terminus, i.e. duration; (by impl) duration in the sense of advance or perpetuity. Strong 5703 forever in Psa. 104:5 (olam = ad) so in Ex. 15:13.
- (3) Tamiyd = from an unused root meaning to stretch, prop continuance (as indefinite extension); but used only attributively as adj. constant, or adv. constantly; elliptically the regular (daily) sacrifice. Translated ever in Lev. 6:13; Psa. 25:15. (Word in Strong 8548)
- (4) Tsemythuth; Strong 6783 (from 6789 tsamath = a prim. root - to extirpate lit. or fig.) = excision, i.e. destruction; used only (adverbially) with prep. pref. to extinction. Translated forever in Lev. 25:23, 30.
- (5) Owd or od (from Strong 5749 uwd = a prim root, to duplicate or repeat; by impl. to protest, testify, as by reiteration, intens. encompass, restore, as a sort of reduplication) = prop. iteration or continuation; used only adv. (with or without prep.) again, repeatedly, still, more. Translated ever in Num. 22:30. Strong 5750.
- (6) Netsach (from Strong 5329 natsach = a prim root meaning to glitter from afar, i.e. to be eminent, as a superintendent, esp. of the Temple service and its music; also as denom. from 5331 netsach, to be permanent) prop. a goal, i.e. the bright object of a distance travelled towards; hence (fig.) splendor, or usually (adv.) continually (i.e. to the most distant point of view). Translated forever in 2 Sam. 2:26; Psa. 74:1, 10, 19; ever in Isa. 33:20; 28:28. Strong 5331.
- (7) Nasag = a prim. root = to reach (lit. or fig.). Translated forever in Psa. 89:46. Strong 5381
- (8) Qedem or qedmah (from Strong 6923 gadam = a prim. root = to project one self, i.e. to precede, hence to anticipate, hasten, meet, usually for help) = the front; of place (absol.) the fore part, (rel.) the East; or of time antiquity; often used adv. before, anciently, eastwardly. Translated from everlasting in Prov. 8:23. Strong 6924.
- (9) Dowr or dor (from Strong 1792 duwr = a prim, root = prop. to gyrate; or move in a circle; i.e. to remain) = prop. a rev. of time, i.e. an age or generation; also a dwelling. Translated forever in Psa. 77:8 but usually age or generation. Strong 1755.
- (10) Kol-yome. (Kol from Strong 3634 Kalal = a prim root = to complete.) Kol = prop. the whole, hence all, any, or every. Yome = from an unused root meaning to be hot, a day (as the warm hours) (often used adv.) Together translated forever in Gen. 43:9; 44:32; Josh. 4:24 (See margin); Deut. 4:40; 1 Sam. 28:2. Strong 3605 + 3117.

(11) Eylowm (for olam). Strong 5865.

(12) Lo, low, loh, a prim part. = not (the simple or absol. negative); by impl. no. Translated or ever in Cant. 6:12. (Margin = Heb. I knew not) Strong 3808. Chaldee for above and translated or ever in Dan. 6:24. Strong 3809.

1:4 — EVER — See note page 1 on word Olam.

2: – In this chapter he shows how he delved into every luxury to seek full satisfaction and to find in these things the chief end of his existence. But after all he pronounces the whole experience “sore travail.” (vs. 11 and chap. 1:13)

3: 4: 5: — In Chapters 3, 4, 5, Solomon gives us the results of his wide experience and observation, from a business and social standpoint.

3:9 — WHAT PROFIT HATH HE — He saw men laboring hard to amass wealth and wisely inquired thus.

3:16 — THAT INIQUITY WAS THERE — So in chapter 5:8. In the adjustment of human affairs he sees iniquity and injustice prevail everywhere; and to such an extent that there is really no redress and no comfort to those who take it to heart, except that God is above all the judges of the earth and his judgments will someday be manifest.

3:20 — ALL GO UNTO ONE PLACE; ALL ARE OF THE DUST — In man however there is the promise and provision of a resurrection in due time.

5:1 — KEEP THY FOOT WHEN THOU GOEST TO THE HOUSE OF GOD — Take heed to your standing (see that you are on the Ransom as a sure foundation, Isa. 28:16), take heed to your walk, to your conduct. Whether the house of God be a great temple as in past times under divine direction, or the temple of God, which is the Church of Christ, now in the flesh, we should realize that reverence is befitting us in everything that is holy and consecrated. Whoever neglects the cultivation of reverence in respect to these matters is making his own pathway slippery and dangerous. He who reverences little and is careless is much more likely to stumble, to fall, and be utterly cast down. (Z. '07-141; R.3990).

We need to be watchful for two reasons:

1) Because of the growing irreverence of the world about us, born of a declining faith in God and in everything supernatural;

2) Because of our growing enlightenment in the Truth by which we see the falsity of eternal torture, there is danger of losing that proper reverence for God which is an integral part of love. (Z. '07-141; R.3989, 3990)

5:10 — HE THAT LOVETH SILVER SHALL NOT BE SATISFIED WITH SILVER — His experience agrees with our own observation and experience.

5:16 — AND THIS ALSO IS A SORE EVIL — So he regards business prosperity as an empty bubble and the labor for it as labor for the wind.

6: — This chapter shows how vain and unsatisfactory is every earthly good, when there is no hope beyond the present life.

7: — This chapter gives some advice which from the standpoint of the natural man of present selfish advantage is good. It counsels such as seek present ease, etc. to be careful to maintain a good name (vs. 1) not to be hasty-tempered (vs. 9) to be sympathetic with those in sorrow (vs. 2) etc.

7:16 — BE NOT RIGHTEOUS OVER MUCH — Because righteousness is not rewarded in the present life with prosperity, but rather with adversity, the ease and pleasure seeker will find it to the present advantage not to be righteous over much, nor wise over much, nor wicked nor foolish. In other words he should keep his finger on the popular pulse, and regulate himself according to popular ideas. This is not the proper course for the children of God, but it is the wise course from the standpoint of worldly policy, which, alas, is too often the course adopted by his professed children. It is the policy of the tare element in the Nominal Church, but the consecrated children of God prefer to suffer for righteousness sake, than to gain popularity.

7:29 — BUT THEY HAVE SOUGHT OUT MANY INVENTIONS — See Gen. 1:31.

9: 10: — Here and in the next chapter Solomon declares that in view of God's mighty works, he had sought to find out the deep mysteries of His plan for His creatures but that he had sought in vain. A knowledge of His plan was not then due. So in chapter 9 he considered that the righteous and the wise and their works are in the hand of God, but he could not tell certainly from the book of nature whether God loved or hated them. (vss. 1, 2) So from this skeptical view he concluded to take all the pleasure he could out of the present—to make merry and live as joyfully as he could, seeking first his own ease and pleasure, and second the pleasure of others in as far as it did not interfere with his own. (1 Cor. 10:24; 13:5) Upon these very principles Solomon acted until surfeited with self-gratification and sick at heart, he cries out at last, as does every one who has drained the cup of worldly pleasure—“All is vanity.”

9:10 — THERE IS NO WORK, NOR DEVICE, NOR KNOWLEDGE, NOR WISDOM — The absence of the four ingredients of the anointing oil implies death in trespasses and sins. Solomon here used these four (wisdom, knowledge, device or understanding and work, the result of workmanship) to show that the absence of these produces physical death, or is its sign, and conversely their presence signifies physical life. If we have been anointed with spiritual wisdom, knowledge and understanding and workmanship (or counsel and might) and are in a state of activity in our consecration, we will have spiritual wisdom etc., so we will know how to form character and bring forth spiritual fruits, our spiritual might received from God will be the power to bring about our spiritual works. If we possess these we will be spiritually alive, “living stones.” (Z. '07-349; R.4093)

10:1 — DEAD FLIES CAUSE — Like the error of false doctrines mixed with the Truth. When the error becomes manifest, people turn away from it. But many believe these errors are taught in the truth (ointment) of God's Word and so turn away from the Word.

Error, untruths, these are “dead” when their falsity has been revealed and the truth presented.

THE OINTMENT — “Balm of Gilead,” the healing spirit of the Truth and its influence.

TO SEND A STINKING SAVOUR — A savor of unreason, injustice, cruelty. Many believing these false doctrines are taught in the Bible, reject the Bible as unreasonable. Error is always injurious. (N-3-6-10) Stinking savour = bad spirit.

12:1 — EVIL DAYS — Days of physical decline and infirmity.

I HAVE NO PLEASURE IN THEM — The world offers its pleasures to the young, who snatch at the delusions, but old age has proved them all empty bubbles. The world has nothing substantial to offer and therefore, unless the mind has found its satisfaction in God, there is indeed no pleasure in old age.

12:2 — BE NOT DARKENED — Dimness of vision both physical and mental.

NOR THE CLOUDS AFTER THE RAIN — Clouds of trouble of one kind or another quickly succeed each other after every refreshing rain which brings hope of succeeding sunshine and prosperity.

12:3 — KEEPERS OF THE HOUSE TREMBLE — The arms and hands shake and tremble.

THE STRONG MEN SHALL BOW THEMSELVES — The lower limbs become unable to support the weight of the body and the steps become slow and faltering.

THE GRINDERS CEASE — The teeth cease to perform their office.

THOSE THAT LOOK OUT — The various mental faculties.

THE WINDOWS — The eyes, “the windows of the soul.”

BE DARKENED — Dimmed. The brain begins to decay as does the body.

12:4 — THE SOUND OF THE GRINDING IS LOW — When the work of life is done, there is little in common with the rising generation, and therefore less and less communication. (Leeser) “When the two doors on the streets will be locked” (referring to the fact that the doors are the means, entrances, for receiving visitors and communications; hence probably means that the ears have become deaf). Sound of the grinding = feasts, suppers, parties, are less frequent or cease.

RISE UP AT THE VOICE OF THE BIRD — Rise early because unable to sleep well.

THE DAUGHTERS OF MUSICK SHALL BE BROUGHT LOW — The failing powers cease the strains of earthly enchantments. The members of the body do not work together harmoniously, as in youth. But if he has the ear of faith he catches the strain of heaven’s melodies, of which Solomon in all his glory knew nothing.

12:5 — FEARS SHALL BE IN THE WAY — The great labor and burden and sorrow of extreme old age. The activity and surefootedness of youth are gone. They cannot defend themselves.

THE ALMOND TREE SHALL FLOURISH — Leeser: “The almond tree shall refuse (its blossom). Almond tree not blossoming may have the significance common among Eastern people. Its blessing is a sign of spring, and of the renewal of life and vigor and warmth. Hence that the body will not replace its decay, and hope and brightness fade. (Or it may, as reading in the common version, have the significance of Ex. 25:33; Num. 17; i.e. choice, selection, hence that old age is fussy.)

THE GRASSHOPPER SHALL BE A BURDEN — Cease to have so much interest and pleasure in the earthly vanities, (or beauties of nature?)

AND DESIRE SHALL FAIL — All the earthly desires.

HIS LONG HOME — The grave (Eccl. 11:8), to await the resurrection.

12:6 — THE SILVER CORD BE LOOSED — The silver cord of life.

THE GOLDEN BOWL BE BROKEN — The body, which contains the precious life blood, be broken down in decay.

PITCHER BE BROKEN AT THE FOUNTAIN — The lungs which draw in life from the fountain, the surrounding atmosphere.

THE WHEEL BROKEN AT THE CISTERN — The circulation of the blood at the cistern, the heart.

12:7 — THE DUST RETURN TO THE EARTH — When the body can no longer perform its offices, the dust of which it is composed returns to the earth as it was (mere inanimate dust.)

THE SPIRIT SHALL RETURN UNTO GOD WHO GAVE IT — The spirit or breath of life returns to God, who imparted it to Adam and to the race through him. It returns to God in the sense that it is no longer amenable to human control, as in procreation, and can never be recovered except by divine power. (E344) Hebrew for "spirit" = ruach = breath, wind; going back into the great reservoir of wind, breath, the atmosphere; and the soul (being), is no more save as it is engraven indelibly upon the tables of God's memory, to be reproduced again in the resurrection at the last day, now so near. Thus man's condition is in death reduced to the same condition as it was, exactly, before he was created.

See Job 27:3. He says the spirit of God was in his nostrils.

Other texts showing that man and beast are alike in this respect are: Job 34:14, 15 (R.V.; Psa. 104:29, 10.)

12:8 — ALL IS VANITY — This is the conclusion to which all men come sooner or later, it is after a wasted life the poor world's dying refrain, when they see that it would have been better to have feared God and kept His commandments. And that they may effectually prove this conclusion is God's object in letting them have the present experience under the dominion of sin, which even Solomon in all his glory called, “sore travail.” That they may be ready for the duty of submission to God, which will be enforced in the coming Millennial age of the world’s probation, and so this object is distinctly stated in Eccl. 1:13 and 3:10.

12:13 — FOR THIS IS THE WHOLE DUTY OF MAN — Well would it have been for Solomon, had he learned this lesson in his youth from the Law and the Prophets, (as David his father had done) instead of ignoring these and turning to poor human philosophy—his own reasonings—and then by the experience of a wasted life finally proving the vanity of every other course, save that of God’s appointment and direction and losing the reward of divine favor, which a course of entire faithfulness to God would surely have brought in due time. His course brought the temporal advantage which was very unsatisfactory; but it surely did not entitle him to a place among the Ancient Worthies some of whom Paul enumerates in Hebrew 11, who are to have honorable positions in the earthly phase of God’s Kingdom. Then those who faithfully suffered for righteousness sake will be exalted as princes in all the earth, while such as Solomon will have a much lower station. (Z. ’93-157; R.1533)

SONG OF SOLOMON

THE FIRST SONG and the first meeting:

1:1 — THE SONG OF SONGS — This is the Hebrew way of saying “the best song,” such as the heaven of heavens (Psa. 115:16), the Holy of Holies. So, of all songs that is the best one, the most beautiful, most melodious, about the most wonderful of all topics, with the choicest, richest, loveliest expressions. See 1 Kings 4:32, 29-34. Solomon’s super-human wisdom, above that of all other men, given him by the Lord because of his humility in asking for wisdom (2 Chron. 1:7-12) enabled him to select the words of beauty and delight, and so written that it expresses the mutual love and appreciation of Jesus and his bride, the church, who were to come over 1,100 years afterward. As Solomon was a type of Christ, as to his kingdom, temple, peace, wealth, wisdom; so this lovely description is about the grandest betrothal, the deepest love, the most wonderful marriage that all eternity will ever witness. Jesus looks upon his bride as she will be when perfected and completed, and the bride more and more appreciates the perfections of her Lord and Head. (Eccl. 12:10—marg.)

1:2 — KISS ME — The close personal endearments, which each member of the body shares.

MOUTH — Speech, message, the special personal expressions applied to each member, telling us the interest, the deep love and longing that every member of the church may have completing the training and development. Texts of rich comforts and loving gentle endearments. As in the human body every part is directly connected with the head, and every hurt, every contact, every joy is shared by and with the head (as the white stone of Rev. 2:17).

THY LOVES — Thy caresses (Moffatt). His endearments are richer and sweeter than the best of doctrine, though in full harmony with them, because they are personal contacts in which a spirit of sweetness and delight flows. Moffatt reads: “Oh, for a kiss from your lips,” a personal message from the head.

1:3 — SAVIOR — Odor, sweet delightful influences, like perfumes. Odor is the presence of minute drops of the vapor in the air, producing a pleasant and delightful effect on the nerves of smell or taste. So the ointments, graces, influences are each one a delight to think about, good ointments; every word and every act of Jesus and every look is a message of love and appreciation like the holy anointing oil and incense. (Exodus 30:23-33, 34-38)

POURED FORTH — Expressed, lived, practiced, in every contact. Sometimes instruction, sometimes correction or reproof, sometimes praise and encouragement; whatever it is it is full of the delight of growing, of learning how, and of fellowship.

THE VIRGINS LOVE THEE — The pure hearted, the single hearted, the unselfish to the point of sacrifice. And they do, don't they, to the point of laying down their lives for Him and for each other.

1:4 — DRAW ME — Invite me. (Hosea 11:4; John 6:37, 44, 45, 65; Rom. 2:4; Matt. 11:29, 30)

RUN AFTER THEE — In the steps of self sacrifice, in the narrow way, the race course of the high calling. (1 Peter 2:21; Heb. 12:1; 3:1)

KING — Jesus. The Father does the drawing (John 6:44) and the selecting of the bride.

INTO HIS CHAMBERS — The Holy now, and the Most Holy later (Psalm 31:19, 20; 27:4, 5; Isa. 26:20, 21), into the condition of complete harmony with His will, and enjoying the privileges of intimate association with Him as illustrated by the candlestick, the table of shew bread and the incense altar.

REJOICE AND BE GLAD IN THEE — The freest, clearest and most full and complete of all joys. (John 15:11; 16:22-27; 14:20-23)

REMEMBER THY LOVE — Store it in our minds and hearts as very precious, cherish it. (1 Peter 2:7—“To you who believe is the preciousness.” We can see and appreciate deeply His value.) The one altogether lovely, as in chap. 5:16.

THE UPRIGHT LOVE THEE — Because in thee is exhibited all the glorious perfection of every grace which their hearts long for. Moffatt renders this “No wonder the girls adore you,” but this seems cheap and is irreverent.

1:5 — I AM BLACK — The old imperfect human nature.

BUT COMELY — The New Creature (Col. 3:10; Eph. 2:10)

AS THE TENTS OF KEDAR — Kedar was a descendent of Ishmael (Gen. 25:13; 16:12; 21:20), so the name stands for the Ishmaelites or Bedouins. Their tents were of goats' hair, or skins, and were outwardly stained and weather beaten, but often were luxurious within, hung with costly draperies. Solomon's curtains were of spotless white. The inner curtain of the tabernacle was of pure white embroidered with cherubim woven of blue (faithfulness) and purple (royalty) and scarlet (self sacrifice). The inner curtain of Herod's temple was 30 ft. long, 15 ft. wide and 3 or 5 inch thick. So, the New Creature is becoming, beautifully adorned with rich graces like her Lord, the fruit of the Spirit. (Gal. 4:22-24)

1:6 — LOOK NOT SO UPON ME — Contemptuously.

BLACK, BECAUSE THE SUN HATH LOOKED UPON ME — The sunlight of the gospel has made their imperfections more noticeable, because they claim to be followers of Jesus. The world thinks that themselves are well enough, and will not expose themselves to the full light of Truth, and like to keep their deceptions and wrong beliefs and ways. The Truth people seem to the world to be so different that the world shuns them.

MY MOTHER'S CHILDREN — The religious denominations, other Christians.

ANGRY WITH ME — Because the error and its adherents hate the Truth. The true followers of Jesus will not support the error, nor the religious organizations which teach error.

MADE ME KEEPER OF THE VINEYARDS — Sunday School teachers and helpers, because of their zeal and spirit of self sacrifice in the service of the Lord. But when these begin to teach the Truth they are not wanted any more, and are thrust out.

MY OWN VINEYARD HAVE I NOT KEPT — Earnest Christians in the Churches are kept so busy with church work they have very little time for Bible study, and are warned not to believe differently from the denominational teachings. Also when such do get the Truth, they cease to use their own wisdom to benefit themselves in earthly ways but realizing their Father is the husbandman they try to direct their lives in accordance with His will, and not seek their own advantage. (John 15)

1:7 — TELL ME, THOU WHO MY SOUL LOVETH — The church is speaking here. All my being loves Him.

WHERE THOU FEEDEST — Where thy table is, where I can get an understanding of Thy Word and Plan or purpose. The Christian seeks for a closer relation with her Lord and better understanding of His word.

The Eastern shepherd rests his flock at the noon hour, the heat of the day, while he eats his own meal. Many of the Lord's people have sought for the Truth, the voice of their Master, through the various denominations, but found that all lacked the key; each had some truth, but left unanswered and unsatisfactory much, their hearts longed for the real, harmonious explanation of the Word.

WHY TURN ASIDE — Straying as a wanderer, not yet settled, not satisfied.

THY COMPANIONS — Other religious teachers and leaders, in or out of the denominations.

1:8 — IF YOU DO NOT KNOW — A gentle reproach. The Bible is there in nearly every home, why have people not found the Truth? Notice, as in Jesus' answer to John the Baptizer, not a direct answer. We must seek, so that we find the answer due to the Lord's drawing us, so that we may know the Truth, and realize that it is the Truth, not merely because it satisfies our longings as nothing else can do, but because it brings harmony and beauty in the Word of God showing God's answer to every religious question, and divides the Word of Truth so that it makes sense and reason, and shows God as a being that all our mind and heart can worship. "Knock and it shall be opened, seek and ye shall find." (Matt. 7:7, 8; Rom. 12:2)

FAIREST AMONG WOMEN — The true Church is the fairest among all the religious groups, most like her Lord. The earnest seeking for the Truth is a good sign of a sincere heart.

FOOTSTEPS OF THE FLOCK — Seek among those who by their lives manifest the likeness to Christ—humble, teachable, seeking to grow in knowledge.

FEED THY KIDS — Thy little ones beginners in the way of the Lord. The yearning of such hearts indicates that they have some faith, some love, some humility, some of the graces. Feed these small attainments by prayer and seek to learn more from those who really feed their flocks.

SHEPHERD’S TENTS — Their dwellings, as in Psalm 91.

1:9 — COMPANY OF HORSES — Literally “to my mare,” as the Hebrew is not even a collective noun, so it cannot refer to a group of horses. Refers to a particularly fine specimen, the finest and most spirited of Solomon’s horses, which he obtained from Egypt. (1 Kings 10:26, 28) The Lord warned his people not to multiply horses from Egypt (Deut. 17:16), lest it tend to militarism and pride. But Solomon did it, perhaps to satisfy the heathen wives he had. (Neh. 13:25, 26)

1:10 — YOUR CHEEKS ARE COMELY WITH ORNAMENTS — The general shape of the face is much determined by the habits of life, and also a heritage from a good ancestry. Education gradually changes it, and several generations of godly living would beget an intelligent appearance; while beastly and indulgent living develops an animal appearance. The face of the bride class is beautified by the things she has chosen as her treasures, ear rings and chains around the neck.

THY NECK WITH CHAINS (OF JEWELS?) — The Hebrew word in the singular means a circle or ring, and in the plural would mean the links of a chain ornament on the neck, under the chin. These rings are the divine promises, directions, admonitions, which are very precious to the mind of the Bride. (Prov. 6:21; Gen. 41:42; Prov. 1:8, 9; 3:3; 3:22) These meditations upon the Word of God, change the disposition and life into a greater likeness to Jesus’ disposition, and mind.

1:11 — WE WILL MAKE YOU ORNAMENTS OF GOLD STUDDED WITH SILVER (R.S.V.) — Ornaments, borders, chains; we (the Father and Son). We will perfect all of these rounded out and completed in the first resurrection. Even now our Father and our Lord Jesus beautifies our minds and spirits as we grow into their likeness. (1 Pet. 1:3-9)

1:12 — KING — Jesus.

AT HIS TABLE — Even as he promised in Luke 12:37, and Rev. 3:21; 1 Cor. 10:20, 21. Feasting on the truths brought to us by the Harvest Message, a foretaste of the Kingdom delights mentioned in Luke 22:28-30.

MY SPIKENARD? (or NARD) SENDETH FORTH ITS FRAGRANCE

— The fragrance is a figurative expression about the agreeable, delightful feelings produced in the heart of the bride class by the presence of her Lord. “She only emits again the fragrance which she has absorbed from his glances,” a mutual delight in each other.

1:13 — A BUNDLE OF MYRRH IS MY BELOVED, THAT RESTETH ON MY BOSOM (or BETWEEN MY BREASTS) — Close to the heart, an expression of deep love and devotion.

MYRRH — Grievous experiences which in their effect produce a lovely character, experienced in understanding and sympathy and loving endurance. (Heb. 12:11; Psa. 119:67, 71) In these experiences are we brought closer to our Lord and head, and realize his comfort and strength and help. (See Manna for June 16.) It is because he loves us that he puts us through these experiences to perfect us, that we may be fitted to be his companions to all eternity.

1:14 — CLUSTER OF CAMPHIR — Literally Cyprus, the cyprus flower or Alhenna, native of India and probably to Egypt, and may have been transplanted by Solomon into his vineyards at Engedi, for the sake of the strong odor of its yellowish white grape-like clusters of flowers. The bark is dark, the foliage light green. Hebrew kopher, from kaphar, meaning to paint, because its dry leaves were and still are made to yield a red unguent for staining women’s nails. Women in the east still place in their bosoms its sweet bunches of flowers. This gives a fine description of how dear and precious and sweet is the influence of our beloved, the Lord Jesus. Engedi is a town on the west shores of the Dead Sea, and its name means “fountain of the kid or goat.”

1:15 — Jesus here speaks. LO, THOU ART BEAUTIFUL, MY BELOVED, LO, THOU ART BEAUTIFUL! (Leeser) THINE EYES ARE THOSE OF A DOVE’S — Full of love and gentleness and tenderness. He beholds in those whom he came to redeem and suffer for, and who have responded to his Father’s call, a likeness to his Father and to himself, having the promise of perfection of all the desirable qualities. He delights in seeing this evidence of his sufferings, its depth and richness. Above all others these shall be his bride!

1:16 — The Church answers here. BEHOLD THOU ART BEAUTIFUL, MY BELOVED, YEA, PLEASANT! — She finds in him the sum of all that is beautiful, desirable, lovely. He thrills all her being with supreme joy, and happiness.

OUR COUCH — Rest in peace in God.

IS GREEN — Fresh and living, an eternal happiness and fulfillment.

1:17 — BEAMS OF OUR HOUSE ARE CEDAR — the chief supports of everlasting and of sweet influence, complete satisfaction.

RAFTERS OR GALLERIES — Fretted ceilings. (Rotherham) Wainscotting. (Leeser)

OF FIR — Of cyprus trees, also long-lasting.

2: — This chapter describes further the mutual delight that Jesus and his church have for each other; the second advent of the bridegroom, and the signs of the nearness of the kingdom.

2:1 — The Church speaks: I AM THE ROSE OF SHARON — The old human nature is here likened to a rose, red, convicted of sin, condemned. (Isa. 1:18) This rose is not the kind that we know, but some red flower growing on the plains of Sharon, a wild flower. From this time forth the rose drops out of sight, but the lily is often mentioned. So the old human nature is reckoned dead. We must attend to its necessities, but that must be secondary to the Lord's will. (Matt. 6:31-34; Rom. 6:11; 8:1, 2, 8-10)

AND THE LILY OF THE VALLEYS — The New Creature, "Ye are not in the flesh but in the spirit." (Rom. 8:9) It is the new spiritual mind that is meant. A valley is a low place, and not until we are willing to go into the low valley of humiliation are we willing to consecrate, and as few are willing, so few consecrate and get the blessing. (Isa. 66:2; Matt. 11:28, 29) The New Creature is white and pure and precious in the sight of God.

2:2 — Jesus is speaking here, LILY AMONG THORNS — The New Creature, begotten of God (Jas. 1:18), the new mind, the new will. The New Creature commits no sin, it is the old nature which commits sin. (Rom. 7:17-20; 1 John 3:9; 1 Cor. 6:18) The New Creature can stand in judgment before God, thru Christ, but the human nature cannot, it is reckoned dead. (Gal. 5:24; Rom. 8:8-10) For 1900 years the Church has been among thorns; our weaknesses of the humanity are thorns to the new mind, and also those about us who are not willing to live in accord with the will of God. Jesus wants us to know that he understands us. He knows from experience what the thorns are like, so he sympathizes with us.

AMONG THE DAUGHTERS — Among the other religious bodies. The thorns are also the jarring, warring sects of Christendom; Protestant and Catholic are like thorns in one another's sides. (Nahum 1:10; Micah 7:4) The true Church has been in the wilderness among these thorns and briers, and has been bruised by both sides.

MY LOVE — Jesus thus shows how much he appreciates the beauty of the New Creature. “So shall the King greatly desire thy beauty.” (Psalm 45:11)

2:3 — APPLE TREE — A valuable fruit tree with citrus fruit, not what we know as an apple. This is a fruit tree, and Jesus is the bearer of all the divine promises. (Prov. 25:11) All the promises of God are in him yea and amen. (2 Cor. 1:20)

TREES — Men.

OF THE WOOD — The world of mankind. So Jesus is the most nourishing and the richest of all teachers. He is fairer than the children of men (Psalm 45:2), the chiefest among 10,000. He is the green tree (living), all others are dry trees (dying). (Luke 23:31) He alone has the words of eternal Life. (John 6:68)

MY BELOVED — Jesus.

SONS — Either angels or men. Of all he is the most desirable, the most perfect and fairest. All the fullness of the deity is found in him. (Col. 2:9) It pleased the Father that in him should all fullness dwell. (Col. 1:19)

I SAT DOWN UNDER HIS SHADOW — Rested under his influence, meditated upon his beauty, his self sacrifice, his sympathy, his patient endurance under every stress, his loving kindnesses to us made so evident in our experiences.

WITH GREAT DELIGHT — With more intense satisfaction and pleasure than any other subject. Is this really true of us? This delight increases with experience and deepens with study, meditation and practiced obedience to his commands. Under the cover of his robe of righteousness, trusting fully, with full assurance of faith in the merit of his precious blood to cover our imperfections from the searching rays of the Gospel message, the sunlight. (Heb. 4:12)

HIS FRUIT WAS SWEET TO MY TASTE, — As Jeremiah said (15:16), “Thy Word was the joy and rejoicing of my heart,” also Job (23:12), “I have esteemed the words of thy mouth more than my necessary food.” And in Psa. 119:103, “How sweet are thy words unto my taste, yea sweeter than honey to my mouth.” So God’s people love the Word of God.

2:4 — HE BROUGHT ME TO THE BANQUETING HOUSE — Especially in the harvest time the Lord’s table is set with the richest of viands, all we can digest. He has unfolded his plans to our amazed eyes, and that subject fills our thoughts, our conversation, our behavior. Yes he brought us by trial and testing, through valley and over mountain top of experiences, to enjoy and to tell others about the great feast of truths in the harvest message. We have more light now upon the Word of God than had the early Church. It is indeed a banquet hall, and our hearts and minds are thrilled with the joy of what is to be, and the rich privileges now for the Lord's people.

BANNER — Standard, flag. “Thou hast given a banner to them that reverence thee, that it may be displayed (or lifted up) because of (or in the cause of) the Truth.” This banner is declared to be Love, we are learning to practice love to live in its atmosphere, to have it rule all our thoughts and words and actions, for it is to be the rule of life for all those who obtain eternal life. It is the sum of all graces. We are being trained in its practice.

2:5 — STAY ME — Sustain or invigorate me, strengthen me.

FLAGONS — (Or raisin) the doctrines and truths of the Word, to strengthen our faith and guide us aright. As in chapter 5:1 here is both drink and food.

COMFORT ME WITH APPLES — The promises of the Word, and assurances of God's loving care, such as in Isa. 63:7-9. The Hebrew word tappuach refers more to a fruit like the orange, some citrus fruit. It must denote some tree whose fruit is sweet and possesses some restorative and fragrant properties, the quince or the citron does not fill the bill, but the orange does (S.B.D.) The love of the true church is so intense she calls out for these promises and doctrines of the Word. They are her meat and drink (Matt. 4:31-34).

FOR I AM LOVESICK — When we become worn and faint or discouraged, the prayer and appeal goes to the Head of the Church, even Jesus, and the Lord strengthens us with the comforts of the Word, and his sympathetic spirit. He will never leave us nor forsake us. (Psalm 121) The deep love of our Lord Jesus, his sympathetic understanding is our strength and song.

*He fights for me when I cannot fight,
He comforts me in the gloom of night,
He lifts the burdens, for He is strong,
He stills the sigh and awakens the song,
The sorrows that bowed me down He bears,
And loves and pardons, because He cares.*

2:6 — HIS LEFT HAND, UNDER MY HEAD — Jesus has been assisting and supporting his Church all down the Gospel age, but especially at its end. (Chap. 8:5) “Underneath are the everlasting arms.” (Deut. 33:27) Rest to the mind and enriching the understanding with assurances of sympathy and strength. Both hands are used.

HIS RIGHT HAND EMBRACES ME — Assurances of love and protection. All power is available for our care and guidance. “All things are yours and ye are Christ’s and Christ is God’s.” (1 Cor. 3:21-23; Rom. 8:31-39; Heb. 1:13, 14)

2:7 — I CHARGE YOU — Give you this urgent admonition.

YE DAUGHTERS OF JERUSALEM — The various denominations call themselves Christian.

BY THE ROES AND BY THE HINDS OF THE FIELD — ROES — Gazelles. These are the most graceful and beautiful of the animals of the field; hence “by your hopes of the best things, the beautiful things of life.”

THAT YE STIR NOT UP, NOR AWAKE MY LOVE TILL HE PLEASE — Do not hasten by too much eagerness, our Lord’s second presence, nor delay or put it off, but leave that to the Lord himself, and keep it alive and precious as a hope watching for the signs of his presence as our Lord directed.

THE SECOND SONG

The Bridegroom comes and calls for his bride:

2:8 — THE VOICE OF MY BELOVED — “If any man hear my voice.” (Rev. 3:20) “The voice of the archangel.” (1 Thes. 4:16) The signs of his presence as he foretold them in Matt. 24; Mark 13; Luke 21; and 17. The Church recognizes the signs of his presence.

HE COMETH LEAPING UPON THE MOUNTAINS, SKIPPING UPON THE HILLS — Judging the nations, preparatory to establishing his kingdom. The events happening to the kingdom, when the stone strikes them. (Dan. 2:44)

2:9 — ROE OR YOUNG HART — Beautiful and full of life and activity; with full power in heaven and in earth.

STANDETH BEHIND OUR WALL — As a spirit being beyond the physical power of the human nature; the limitations of our human nature are like a wall.

LOOKETH FORTH AT THE WINDOWS — Calls our attention to the signs of his presence, the eyes of our understanding are able to discern these signs, by the aid of the Holy Spirit, and to understand their meaning.

SHOWING HIMSELF — Attracting our attention, and revealing to us some of the glories and wonders of the coming kingdom.

THROUGH THE LATTICE — Our imperfections and weaknesses becloud our vision, and are like a lattice, letting us see only imperfectly. As the new mind is cleared from these, and we attain nearer to the mark of perfect love, our vision clears, and we see more of his beauty and become more like him. (Eph. 4:16-19; 2 Cor. 3:18) But the flesh will always hinder us, more or less, till our sacrifice is complete.

2:10 — MY BELOVED SPAKE, AND SAID UNTO ME — Sent us the Harvest Message, including the unfolding of His plan of salvation, and many of the Scriptures of his Word. He sends us this message in many ways. It is interesting to know and remember how many ways the Lord has sent the truth unto his people.

RISE UP MY FAIR ONE AND COME AWAY — The call for the harvest, to come out of Babylon and to separate ourselves more than ever before from the world and its interests (Rev. 18:4), and as Isaiah has written, “Arise and Shine, for thy Light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee.” (Isa. 60:1) “How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that saith unto Zion—Thy God reigneth.” (Isa. 52:7) The Lord is gathering his elect from the four winds of heaven (Matt. 24:31), and taking them each as his course is finished to be with him in the air. (1 Thes. 4:17)

2:11 — FOR LO, THE WINTER IS PAST — The hard experiences of the Gospel Age is about ended, and now even the work of harvest is drawing to a close. The terrible experiences of the Church when the power of Jezebel nearly destroyed the Church.

THE RAIN IS OVER AND GONE — The storms of persecutions are about over. The king is present and judging the nations, so lift up our heads for our deliverance is near.

2:12 — THE FLOWERS APPEAR . . . THE TIME OF THE SINGING OF BIRDS IS COME, THE VOICE OF THE TURTLE DOVE IS HEARD — All the signs of spring, of the Millennial morning, when new life and vigor will appear in the earth. The kingdom signs are all about us.

AWAKE, BELOVED! — Spread the message wide and far, the king is here!

2:13 — THE FIG TREE — The Jewish nation (Joel 1:7; Matt. 24:32; 21:19, 43; 23:37, 38).

PUTTETH FORTH HER GREEN LEAVES — Signs of returning life and vitality, and the Lord’s favor. Her double of punishment is past. (Isa. 40:1, 2) The regathering of the Jewish people in their home land has been going on for the past eighty years, with increasing volume. The nation is once more a living factor among the nations of the world. (Jer. 3:18, 19; Jer. 33:9)

THE VINES WITH THE TENDER GRAPE GIVE FORTH A GOOD SMELL (THE VINES ARE IN BLOSSOM, THEY GIVE FORTH FRAGRANCE (R. V.) — This is a picture of spring and so does not refer to the ripe grapes, but to the blossoms and the beginning of the fruit. These are natural signs of the earthly blessings which will come to the world in the kingdom, and are even now showing their beginnings.

RISE, MY LOVE — What a wonderful thing that Jesus, the Son of God the King of Kings, has expressed that his chief love, next to the Father is his Church, his redeemed ones. Even the Father will delight in the Church more than any other of His creations. (Psalm 132:13-16) Yes, His loved one.

MY FAIR ONE — Jesus delights in the graces which he sees developing in his Church, more completely than in any other, because they are developed thru suffering.

AND COME AWAY — To be gathered here, and then on the other side of the veil, meeting the Lord in the air.

2:14 — The Lord speaks to the Church — OH, MY DOVE — a symbol of gentleness, purity, peacefulness, developing like her Master in every way, becoming fit to be his companion in the realms above, in the heavenly home.

IN THE CLEFTS OF THE ROCK — In the protecting care of the Father even as Moses was protected in the cleft of the rock and covered with the hand of God. (Exod. 33:20-23; Psa. 91:1, 4; Col. 3:3)

SECRET PLACES OF THE STAIRS — On the narrow way up to the heights beyond the stars, hidden from the world and all her enemies. The steps are mentioned in 2 Cor. 3:18, from glory unto glory even as by the spirit of the Lord.

LET ME SEE THY COUNTENANCE — The countenance of the New Creature would not be a physical thing, but the development of the new mind as manifested by our behavior under trial and as to how we meet difficulties. So the Lord sends us new experiences, sometimes trials, sometimes pleasurable experiences, sometimes leaves us open to the attractions of the wonders of the earthly things, to see if we will be drawn away from him, allow ourselves to be engulfed in worldly delights natural for the old human nature. Our behavior under these trials furnishes our appearance to the Lord. Each experience is a letter from him, asking how we are, and our reply is our behavior under the trial. Words are cheap, we can sing lustily and perhaps deceive ourselves and others, but our real answer is our behavior, how the new mind meets the experiences and whether it overcomes and grows, or falls down, and needs some more training along that line. Let us give the more care and effort that our answer may be more acceptable in his sight.

LET ME HEAR THY VOICE — Our expression of the message of the Gospel of the Kingdom, as the Lord reveals it unto us, our efforts to tell the truth unto others, as we strive to be witnesses for him. Every time we witness unto others strengthens and deepens our own knowledge of the Truth.

FOR SWEET IS THE VOICE AND THY COUNTENANCE IS COMELY — As we make progress and grow into his likeness, it is very pleasing to our Lord, as he sees some results of his training of us, and he endeavors to encourage us to keep on and perfect the New Creature so it may be used by him to tell the glories of his Kingdom unto the world of mankind in the kingdom. (Psa. 145:10-13; 48:12-14; 22:30, 31; Heb. 2:11-13)

2:15 — TAKE US THE FOXES, THE LITTLE FOXES, THAT SPOIL THE VINES — We need to watch the little things, the little words, the small opportunities, the little slips, for out of the little things are the great things built, and if we are careless about the little things we form habits of carelessness that will unfit us for the Kingdom. It is the day of small things. (Zech. 4:10; Luke 19:11-27; 16:9-12)

OUR VINES HAVE TENDER GRAPES — Just beginning to grow, and the young foxes went after the tender shoots and grapes and tear up the vines.

2:16 — MY BELOVED IS MINE AND I AM HIS — This tells of the mutual confidence and trust, thru entering into a covenant of sacrifice together with our head. We become more completely his as we share his experiences, go unto him without the gate, bearing his reproach.

HE FEEDETH AMONG THE LILIES — He does not associate with the great of the world, nor deal with them yet, but he has come to gather the lilies, and feed, rejoice in the revealed purposes of His Father. These are his brethren, his jewels, his loved and his own. Here he finds the delightful companionship of fellow workers. "Pastures his flock among the lilies."

2:17 — UNTIL THE DAY BREAK — Until the son of righteousness is fully risen and the millennial morning floods the world.

AND THE SHADOWS FLEE AWAY — The influences of darkness and evil, which blind the minds of men, the sorrows and sufferings associated with the reign of evil, sin and death.

TURN THOU, MY BELOVED, BE LIKE A GAZELLE OR A YOUNG STAG — Active with full vigor and beauty preparing the world for the two phases or divisions of the Kingdom (mountains of Bether—division). He is now working among these mountains judging the nations, let him continue that work until it is completed.

3: — A retrospect to vs. 6.—This chapter might well be entitled—“How I found the Truth,” or “How the Truth found me.” It pictures the Church searching for the Truth, or rather one seeking the Truth in these Harvest days.

3:1 — UPON MY BED, AT NIGHT, I SOUGHT HIM — Meditation and prayer, the mind seeks an answer to its longings to find a satisfactory explanation for the presence of evil, wickedness, cruelty, sickness and death in the world, when it seems so out of harmony with all nature, which gives evidence of being created for a better condition of things. Why all this confusion? We seek to draw nearer to the Creator, and know him better. Many explanations are offered, but none seem fully satisfactory. We learn about the Savior and the Creator, but much of the reasoning and beliefs attached seem unreasonable. Many earnest souls have sought long for the answer as in Prov. 2:1-9.

WHOM MY SOUL LOVETH — Our whole being yearned to know our Savior better (1 Peter 1:8), and to find the peace of heart and mind and fellowship with him.

I SOUGHT HIM, BUT I FOUND HIM NOT — Meditation alone is not sufficient, there must be energy of search and inquiry, as for hidden treasures. The promise is “Seek and ye shall find, knock and it shall be opened to you.” (Matt. 7:7, 8) By night, in the darkness of the creed beds of Christendom. Among the creeds and beliefs and Bible classes, we ask questions, but the answers are not complete, not satisfying. (Isaiah 28:20) The cooks who prepare the Sunday School lessons are not careful (Hos. 7:6, 4, 8; Isa. 28:8); heathen beliefs are taught, torments in Hell, immortality of the human soul, that all the righteous go to heaven when they die. (John 8:44)

I CALLED HIM, BUT HE GAVE NO ANSWER — The Lord does not answer our petitions immediately. If we found the Truth very easily we would not realize its value, nor appreciate it properly. We need to search diligently to realize how much error there is, and how precious the Truth is.

3:2 — RISE NOW AND GO ABOUT THE CITY — The seeker determines to look elsewhere, to enter into the world's activities with the thought of finding the Truth, and more about the Creator.

INTO THE STREETS — Enter into its commerce, politics, government, and social affairs.

AND IN THE BROAD WAYS — Plunge into its pleasures.

SEEK HIM — Try to find the solutions of these insistent questions, and to learn more about the Creator.

I SOUGHT HIM, BUT I FOUND HIM NOT — Christ is not found in the marts of trade, or in philosophy or the schools of learning.

3:3 — THE WATCHMEN FOUND ME — The religious leaders, who indirectly watch over the affairs of the civilized world.

AS THEY WENT ABOUT THE CITY — Trying to Christianize the world, and get it to follow their standards and join their organizations. And they try to get the truth seekers to join their organizations.

HAVE YOU SEEN HIM? — The deep questions of the Truth seekers are too much for the theologians, they cannot give the reasonable answers. "The book is delivered to one that is learned," read this I pray thee, and he says "I cannot, for it is sealed." (Isa. 29:9-12) "Can you tell me anything about the Lord's return, and his second presence?"

WHOM MY SOUL LOVETH — I am deeply interested in the future of the human race, its destiny, and the Lord has promised the salvation of the human race.

3:4 — SCARCELY HAD I PASSED THEM — The Lord finally sends the seekers the Truth, outside of all the denominations, and outside the world's wisdom. It was in the Bible all the time, but their eyes were holden by the darkness of the world, until the Lord opens them through his Holy Spirit.

I FOUND HIM WHOM MY SOUL LOVETH — The earnest, prayerful seeking brings its reward, and the Truth, the Harvest Message, brings the most satisfying explanation of all the religious questions, and he learns of the Presence of the Christ and of the Plan of restitution for the whole world, for all the willing and obedient, and the purpose of gathering of the Church, to bless all the families of the earth.

I HELD HIM, AND WOULD NOT LET HIM GO — Renewed with greater zeal their consecration, and their activity and study and prayer and communion with the Lord, more than ever determined to win their crowns and joint-heirship with him. “We are made partakers with Christ if we hold the beginning of our confidence steadfast unto the end.” “Whose house are we if we hold fast the confidence and rejoicing of the hope firm unto the end.” (Heb. 3:4, 14) “Cast not away therefore your confidence, which hath great recompense of reward. For ye have need of patience that after ye have done the will of God ye might receive the promise.”

UNTIL I HAD BROUGHT HIM — At his invitation, we go together, join him on this side the veil and then on the other side.

INTO MY MOTHER’S HOUSE — With him into the Sarah covenant, the covenant of sacrifice, suffering with him, bearing his reproach.

INTO THE CHAMBER OF HER THAT CONCEIVED ME — (Isa. 2:17; Psalm 69:9; 50:5) Into the secret place of the Most High (Psalm 27:4, 5; 31:19, 20; 26:20, 21), on this side of the veil, then later with him in heaven.

3:5 — I CHARGE YOU — I must leave you this important message.

O YE DAUGHTERS OF JERUSALEM — Other so called Christian sects, or groups.

BY THE ROES (GAZELLES), (or THE HINDS OF THE FIELD) — The most graceful and beautiful of the creatures about you, therefore symbolic of your churches, colleges, hospitals, libraries and charitable institutions, about which you have much pride, as showing forth your Christianity.

THAT YE STIR NOT UP, NOR AWAKEN MY LOVE TILL HE PLEASE — Concerning the second advent of our Lord, that you do not preach or believe false doctrines, nor merely your own ideas about the Kingdom, but seek to know and believe the prophecies of the Word of God about it, neither to hasten it nor to delay it. For when he takes charge there will be such trouble as the world has never known, and all these things which you take such pride will cease to be, will pass away, and be no more. (Jer. 23:28, 29; Ezek. 5:11; 13:17, 23)

THE THIRD SONG

Entry of the Bride.

Pass into the palace and city of Jerusalem.

3:6 — The Church in the harvest time speaks here — WHO IS THIS? — An exclamation of admiration and praise, pleasure and delight at the fragrant odors.

PILLARS OF SMOKE — (The Hebrew word is plural.) The litter of Solomon with its sturdy bearers, like columns of smoke or steam spreading out at the top like small clouds or bush crown, like a palm tree. The Hebrew words for smoke and for palm tree are much alike. Dense columns of rare perfumes. The prophecies speak of blood and fire and pillars of smoke (Joel 2:30-32), at the second presence of our Lord. So this is a symbol of the presence of Christ in majesty and great glory perfumed, the beauty and delight of the perfected graces in Christ Jesus are like the richest perfumes.

MYRRH — Wisdom gained through suffering and bitter experiences.

FRANKINCENSE — Praise and thanksgiving to Jehovah for all His goodness.

WITH ALL POWDERS — All the beautiful graces and words, and effecting the words and actions, illustrated in the spices of the anointing oil and the incense. (Exod. 30)

3:7 — BEHOLD IT IS THE LITTER (or PALANQUIN) OF SOLOMON — Indicating the second presence of Christ in power and great glory, to take the dominion of earth.

THREESCORE VALIANT MEN — Men of power through faith, (he shall divide the spoil with the strong); like a guard of honor; representing the power behind the throne, all power in heaven and in earth. David's guard were 37, 30 plus the seven closest to him. Here we have twice that number, the valiant men of Spiritual Israel, overcome by faith.

3:8 — ALL HOLD SWORDS — Everyone well equipped with the sword of the Spirit, the Word of God, to carry out His purposes, and expert in the use of it.

BECAUSE OF FEAR IN THE NIGHT — Surrounded by evils and trickery and every deception, during the night of the Gospel Age. The Almighty used these experiences to develop the strength of the Church. (Eph. 6:10-18)

3:9 — CHARIOT OF THE WOOD OF LEBANON — Representing the organization of arrangements of the Kingdom. A litter or palanquin, everlasting in its quality (cedar), and a pleasant influence (odor). The temple was partly of cedar.

3:10 — PILLARS (POSTS) — Supports

OF SILVER — Truth. No part of it associated with error. These were evidently the supports of the canopy.

ITS BOTTOM, — Or back (R. V.) or coverlid (Leeser), the Hebrew word rephidah means something spread along (Strong's Conc.) a railing, and is variously translated. Perhaps the most logical would be the back and arms, a rest for the body.

OF GOLD — The divine nature.

ITS SEAT — The Hebrew word is merkab, a chariot or a seat in a vehicle. (Strong)

OF PURPLE — Royalty, supreme authority, all authority vested in Jesus for the work of the Kingdom.

IT WAS LOVINGLY WROUGHT WITHIN BY THE DAUGHTERS OF JERUSALEM — This is the R. V. rendering and seems better than the A. V., as the Hebrew word translated “paved” is ratsaph, and means to tessellate or embroider, as with bright stones. (Strong) Many people in the various denominations do love the Lord, and as the Great Company will give valuable service in the Kingdom. Many of our valuable Bible helps, such as concordances, Bible dictionaries, histories, atlases, commentaries, have been prepared by many who may be of the Great Company, and some of these works have involved a great deal of labor.

3:11 — GO FORTH O YE DAUGHTERS OF ZION — This is the Harvest Message, to come out of Babylon, and gather together the feast of Truth, revealed more richly now than ever before, and proclaim the news of the Kingdom far and wide.

AND BEHOLD KING SOLOMON — Learn the soul satisfying truths about the great King who has now returned to take control of the world, and bring order out of the chaos of the present time. Learn about his pre-existence, his work as the Word of God, and the restitution work of the blessing of all the families of the earth.

WITH THE CROWN — The glories of the divine nature, with all its unlimited power and wisdom, its love and its justice.

HIS MOTHER — The covenant of sacrifice, the Sarah Covenant, by which the Father equipped him with all the wondrous graces and qualities needed for this wonderful work.

ON THE DAY OF HIS WEDDING — He will be fully instated with this glory and with his Church at the Marriage of the Lamb, when with him the completed Christ (anointed) will be inaugurated. (Rev. 19:6-8)

ON THE DAY OF GLADNESS OF HIS HEART — This is the time for which he has waited since his first advent, with his associates, who have traveled along the narrow way of sorrow and trial with him, and have learned to revere him as their guide and head, as the sum of all beauty and desirable quantities, and with this glorious work before him to complete the cup of joy. This will indeed be the grandest rejoicing that even Heaven has ever known!

4:1 — BEHOLD THOU ART BEAUTIFUL — Lovely to look upon, the phrase is repeated for emphasis, to show the depth of feeling, entrancing the beholder. The Lord Jesus is speaking here. @SECOND PAR = YOUR EYES ARE DOVES EYES — Soft and tender with love, peaceful, harmless. Thy glances are full of love, without any suggestion of anger or hate, but sparkling and full of life. The eyes are the windows of the soul, the thoughts shine through them and are expressed in every glance. Wide awake faculties brighten the eyes. So the beholder reads the character thru the expression of the eyes. A lovely character causes a beautiful expression.

WITHIN THY LOCKS (or BEHIND YOUR VEIL) — Woman's hair is a beautiful adornment for the face, a perfect setting or combination. As a symbol it represents consecration, as in Samson's story.

YOUR HAIR — Thick, luxuriant, representing a full complete consecration.

IS LIKE A FLOCK OF GOATS REPOSING ON MOUNT GILEAD — (Literally—which have couched from Mount Giliad downward.) Gilead means a hard rocky region, and is especially strewn with cattle, flocks and herds. Modern travelers still find it used for flocks. The point of comparison is the glossy blackness and luxurious abundance of the Bride's hair, perhaps also in its silky softness and delicacy, for the goats which pastured here were black and glossy. Abundance of rich glossy hair with its natural oil, is usually a sign of good vigorous health. See chap. 6:5. The Lord thus looks at the Church as she will be in the resurrection morning.

4:2 — THY TEETH — Representing ability thru the grace of God to digest the strong meat of the Word (Heb. 5:14); ability properly to chew, discern. (Phil. 1:9, 10—Weymouth)

SHORN SHEEP — Smooth and clean.

COME UP FROM THE WASHING — Completely clean and snow white.

ALL BEAR TWINS — The upper and lower jaws perfectly paired and fitted.

NOT A BARREN ONE AMONG THEM — Nothing lacking, every tooth in place and perfect growth. Perfection of number and beauty. Hence the picture is one of completely able to understand the Word of God, thoroughly equipped and so fit to carry out all its wondrous provisions.

4:3 — LIKE A SCARLET THREAD (or CRIMSON) THY LIPS — Like a rose colored ribbon. Equipped to speak with tact and well chosen words about the life of her beloved shed for her, the ransom. Not thick lips of sensuality, or too much animal nature, but perfectly suitable, becoming and beautiful, attractive.

YOUR MOUTH IS LOVELY — Full of grace, tact, sympathy and understanding; words of delight, alluring, captivating, pure and sparkling; and backed by a lovely mind, a soft tender voice, even as a mother to cheer and comfort and direct aright. These qualities will be much needed in the work of bringing mankind back to harmony with his Creator. (Isa. 49:18-23; 66:13)

THY TEMPLES — The mind, of the New Creature.

LIKE THE HALVES OF A POMEGRANATE — The pomegranate is said to have the flavors of all the fruits together. Also the upper part of the cheek contrasted with the hair thus has a mild coloring of pale pink or white. A pomegranate cut open thus reveals the luscious fruit and its red and yellow. The mind shows through the face, giving it general lovely appearance.

BEHIND YOUR VEIL or WITHIN THY LOCKS — The new mind is hidden behind the veil of the flesh, or human nature.

4:4 — THY NECK LIKE THE TOWER OF DAVID — Slender, graceful, erect, rightly becoming and recognizing the Head, and in every proper way supporting it.

BUILD FOR AN ARMORY, OR ARSENAL — David was a type of the Church Militant, during her battles with the enemy. Superb and stately. This tower is probably the same as “the house of the mighty,” in Neh. 3:16, on the eastern side of Zion, where David’s palace must have stood.

WHEREON HANG A THOUSAND BUCKLERS, ALL SHIELDS OF MIGHTY MEN — Weapons of offence and defense. The Church is thoroughly equipped from the Word of God with every offence and defense weapon, thoroughly furnished unto every good work. (2 Tim. 3:16, 17; Heb. 4:12) These shields and weapons have been greatly used through the warfare of the Church during the Gospel Age.

MIGHTY — Through the strength of the Lord; these are the strong ones mentioned in Isa. 53:12, strong to bear burdens to make the life of others easier.

4:5 — YOUR TWO BREASTS ARE LIKE TWO FAWNS, TWINS OF A GAZELLE — Delicate and exquisite beauty. The gazelle, full grown, is an admirable, attractive and favorite emblem of womanly grace and loveliness. Twin pair of young gazelles feeding or lying in a bed of lilies, a very beautiful combination. They would symbolize ability to nourish offspring, such as the Church will be doing in the Kingdom, nourishing the world of mankind, as they are restored from the grave. Consolation from the Old and New Testaments. (Isa. 66:11)

4:6 — UNTIL THE DAY DAWN — Until the dawn of the Millennial morning, in which we are living now, and these things are beginning to come to pass. The dark shadows of death and sickness flee away; Satan bound and the blessings of the Kingdom begin to spread around among the nations.

GET ME TO THE MOUNTAIN OF MYRRH — Carry out the covenant of sacrifice, as a member of the heavenly Kingdom.

AND THE HILL OF FRANKINCENSE — Or place of praise. Zion and Moriah were the two of the hills of Jerusalem, Moriah held the temple. In this verse the Bride is the speaker. Also this is the Kingdom of wisdom, these have chosen the wisest course and are learning of the heavenly wisdom, which will be much needed in the kingdom. Earthly wisdom has failed utterly to solve the perplexing problems which the increase of knowledge has brought into prominence.

4:7 — THOU ART ALL FAIR (BEAUTIFUL) THERE IS NO FLAW IN YOU — Jesus is speaking. His admiration of the Church as she will be perfected is overwhelming, and his appreciation beyond expression. Without spot or wrinkle, no pride or selfish ambition, or love of wrong or selfish ways. The beauty is internal as well as external. This class have kept their garments unspotted from the world and its ways.

4:8 — COME WITH ME — Let us look beyond the trouble and judgment of the world unto the blessings of the Kingdom, to our heavenly inheritance, and think of its glories. The Lord thus gives his people times and visions of the future for their encouragement and strengthening, especially when severe trials have made life hard to bear, even the angels came and comforted Jesus in the Garden of Gethsemane, and after the temptation.

FROM LEBANON — From the condition of building the temple, in which much of the cedars of Lebanon were used. The trees of cedar and fir had to be cut down and transformed into the beams and finish of the temple.

LOOK FROM THE TOP OF AMANA — This peak gives a beautiful view of the surrounding country. The word “Amana” means Truth, and how beautiful a view of the Kingdom of God is obtained when the Truth is understood.

FROM THE TOP OF SHENIR — More properly “senir,” the Arab or Syrian name for Hermon, and means “breastplate,” or “cataract,” from the cap of snow upon its summit. Lebanon means the white mountain, also its snow covering. This is the watershed of the Jordan fountains. Hermon is some 9,500 feet high. From here flows the Syrian Abana and Pharpar Rivers of Damascus; the Orontes of Antioch and the Leontes. Bahsan, Damascus, Syria and Israel converge here. Psalm 133 speaks of the dews of Hermonas, a symbol of the Holy Spirit. These regions were anciently inhabited by leopards and lions, symbols of the devouring powers of oppression which have ruled the earth in the past. The Church with Jesus will take over all these kingdoms of earth and restore peace and plenty among both animals and mankind. (Hosea 2:18) The leopard is a symbol of the Papacy. (Rev. 13)

4:9 — YOU HAVE RAVISHED MY HEART — Charmed and overcome me with love. Jesus speaks here.

SISTER — Begotten by the same heavenly Father, but to be his Bride as called by the Father for this purpose.

RAVISHED MY HEART WITH A GLANCE OF YOUR EYES — Literally “with one from thy eyes,” just a part of the many charms of the bride. Perhaps singleness of vision may be thought of here, as a characteristic of the Bride. Jesus finds the reward for his sacrifices and sufferings in the answering beauty and lovely perfections of the Bride. (Prov. 8:31).

WITH ONE JEWEL OF YOUR NECKLACE — The Hebrew word in the plural refers to the ornaments about the neck. The admonitions, commandments, promises and prophecies of the Word of God. (Prov. 6:21; 3:22) These are constant reminders of the right way, the Lord’s way, the way of life and happiness.

4:10 — HOW SWEET IS YOUR LOVE, MY SISTER, MY BRIDE! — How beautiful the varied forms of expression, the tone, the words, the looks, manner influence, all are a delight. (2 Cor. 2:14; Eccl. 12:10—margin)

HOW MUCH BETTER IS YOUR LOVE THAN MINE! — The juice of the grape is one of the most invigorating gifts of God to man, and is a symbol of doctrines. Better, because in the Church will be exhibited, even as in Jesus, the effect of the sum of all the graces operating together in beautiful harmony, producing an influence far surpassing the best of all earthly enchantments. The Father, the Son and the Bride will be at one in mind and heart and will cooperate in all the ages of eternity, producing glorious wonders of delight and happiness, for His creatures to enjoy.

AND THE FRAGRANCE OF YOUR OILS THAN ANY SPICE — Far above all that our minds can now understand, beclouded as we have been by the blinding influences of sin and the atmosphere of Satan's rule. When these clouds are cleared away, the influences emanating from the Church with Christ will gladden the hearts of all mankind, and even the angels.

4:11 — YOUR LIPS DISTIL NECTAR, MY BRIDE — How we should practice the use of grace and tact in love, so that our speech may finally become like this! Loveliness of mind and heart show themselves thru the words and expressions. How desirable and beautiful to live in such an atmosphere! The poet has expressed the difference between Adam's original perfection and the condition after the fall —

And all with pearl and ruby glowing was the fair palace door,
Through which came flowing, flowing, flowing and sparkling evermore.
A troop of echoes, whose sweet duty was but to sing
In voices of surpassing beauty, the wit and wisdom of their King.

But after the fall and practice of sin, disobedience —

Like a ghastly rapid river, thru the pale door
A hideous throng rush out forever and laugh, but smile no more.

The working of God's Holy Spirit in His Church will change these conditions gradually unto perfection and beauty such as described above. One translation has it—"Liquid honey thy lips distil." (Deut. 32:1; Psa. 19:10)

HONEY AND MILK UNDER THE TONGUE — Loveliness of speech, even as said of Jesus, "Grace is poured into thy lips" (Psa. 45), for the mind is filled with beautiful thoughts.

THE FRAGRANCE OF THY GARMENTS IS LIKE THE SCENT OF LEBANON — As in Psalm 45:8, features or graces of character developed thru patient endurance through trials of many kinds. The scent of Lebanon—the cedar groves of Lebanon diffuse a strong balsamic odor, as modern travellers testify. Our family noticed a similar change in the air of Pennsylvania, as compared with that of Kansas. The air in Kansas seemed dead compared with that of Pennsylvania and New England; due to the forests of evergreen trees. The perfumes used in Psalm 45:8 were myrrh and aloes and cassia. Myrrh would symbolize the graces obtained thru enduring suffering and bitter experiences, because of the Lord's will. The Hebrew word for aloes is ahaloth, or ahalim. The most precious kind grows in Cochin China and Siam, and is not exported, being worth its weight in gold. It is the image of all that is lovely, fragrant, living and incorruptible (Num. 24:6), and is used for perfuming garments. Symbolizes the most precious and fragrant graces of character.

4:12 — A GARDEN — A place of pleasure and delight, cultivated and watered and specifically and specially cared for.

ENCLOSED — Separated from the rest of the world, for special training, and surrounded by a wall of God's protecting care (as Isa. 54:1-7), a wall of the covenant of sacrifice.

MY SISTER — Begotten of the same heavenly Father as himself, by the same Holy Spirit, and for the same purpose, and to the same nature.

MY SPOUSE — My bride to be. Delighted possession is signified here, as of a very precious jewel.

A SPRING SHUT UP — A well spring of living water (John 7:37-39), tending to overflow and spread its blessings all around, but now shut up and concealed.

A FOUNTAIN SEALED — A source of life giving water sufficient for all, but sealed up until the appropriate time, when all other things are ready.

4:13 — YOUR PLANTS — The plants (symbolizing the fruits and graces of the spirit, set out with care and well watered by study and practice of the Word of God). Characteristics that when ripened will be beautiful and delightful fruitage.

LIKE AN ORCHARD OF POMEGRANATES — Not merely one tree but a whole orchard, an abundance, fullness. The pomegranate is said to combine the flavors of all the fruits, and so would represent Love, the sum of all the graces.

PLEASANT FRUITS — "All the choicest fruits," (R.S.V.) most excellent fruits, the highest development of all the created beings.

CAMPHIR — Probably the cyprus flower, or Alhenna was the only one of these plants cultivated in Palestine, and would symbolize rest, trust, confidence, developed thru trial and experience.

WITH SPIKENARD — The nard grass, grown only in India, has a delightfully fragrant odor. Spikenard would be spikes of the grass, and would represent fragrant devotion by self sacrifice. 4:14 — SPIKENARD — Is repeated as if it had a special preciousness, and was treasured in the mind.

AND SAFFRON — Greek: krokos — The saffron flower, native to India, but introduced into Egypt, Asia Minor, and Palestine. A water was prepared from it for smelling bottles, with a pungent but agreeable odor, which was a great favorite antiquity.

CALAMUS (or CINNAMON) — Is the bark of a tree, still used as a very agreeable spice. Herodotus says this came from the remotest south, through Arabia, probably from Ceylon.

WITH ALL TREES OF FRANKINCENSE — Every variety of incense woods, which yield a fragrant gum, like frankincense, or when pulverized is used as an aromatic dust or as a powder to be sprinkled for fumigation. Symbolizes praise and acceptable thanksgiving.

MYRRH AND ALOES (wisdom and patience) AND ALL CHIEF (or PRINCIPLE) SPICES — As in Psa. 45:8, 9. The holy anointing oil (Exod. 30:23-33), and the holy incense. (Exod. 30:34-38) All the finest, most precious, most delightful qualities of character will be fully rounded out and perfected in the Church. Calamus and cinnamon would represent knowledge and understanding.

4:15 — A FOUNTAIN OF GARDENS — Such beautiful fountains as are found only in well cared for gardens, under God's special care, water spring, or a garden spring, a well of living water. Not a stagnant, from which all the life giving oxygen has gone, but filled with oxygen, sparkling and clear.

FLOWING STREAMS FROM LEBANON — Snow water, from the melting snows of Lebanon, cool and full of life giving qualities.

4:16 — AWAKE — Become active, blow.

NORTH WIND — Hard and bitter experience.

SOUTH WIND — Pleasant and joyful experiences. We need both to perfect the desired grace of character.

LET MY BELOVED — The Church is speaking here. A longing desire for his second advent, and the deeper fellowship, always a heart's desire in the true Church. Even as Paul expressed it in Phil. 1:23, 24 (Diaglott note.)

COME INTO HIS GARDEN — Longing for the second advent with the presence of her Lord.

EAT HIS PLEASANT FRUITS — Start the harvest work of gathering the Church, and taking her to himself with all the joys which the completed union will bring not only to Christ and his Church, but to all the families of the earth. End of Third Song.

THE FOURTH SONG

5 :— This chapter deals with the presence of the Bridegroom, the Harvest and the neglectful course of the Great Company.

5:1 — I AM COME — The second advent of our Lord.

MY GARDEN — The Church real and nominal, to seek his bride, make the test which will separate out the unworthy. The Church has been his special care, and now he comes to gather his own.

MY SISTER — Specially close and dear because begotten by the same Heavenly Father, a real sister, like him and of the same family, having the family traits.

MY SPOUSE — His bride, his companion through all eternity.

I HAVE GATHERED — The harvest work with its testing and trials.

MY MYRRH — The result of the characters developed thru the bitter and unpleasant experiences. (Exod. 15:23)

WITH MY SPICES — The resultant characters developed through pleasant and joyful experiences. The unpleasant experiences develop humble submission, obedience, patient endurance, yet joyful because of the grand results promised; while the pleasant experiences are a foretaste of the joy and delight which will be ours in the perfected state beyond the veil.

I HAVE EATEN — Appropriated, accepted.

MY HONEYCOMB WITH MY HONEY — As the wax comb holds the honey, so the comb may represent the individuals or saints themselves as members of the Body; while the honey represents the full sweetness of the nectar. The bees make the honey out of the nectar, and so the experiences of life when rightly received and thru the operation of the Holy Spirit, develop in the saints the full sweetness, desired character, acceptable to the Master when he comes to receive his saints. (Jer. 15:16; Ezek. 3:3; Rev. 10:2, 8-10; Psa. 19:10)

WINE — The deeper doctrines (Prov. 9:2; Isa. 55:1)

MILK — The simpler doctrines and teachings. (Heb. 5:12-14; 1 Pet. 2:2) The Lord delights in these things, because they have been arranged by his Father, as the paths of life.

EAT AND DRINK DEEPLY — Study heartily and much, that you may be fully developed. “Be ye filled with the spirit.” So the Master has taken note of the doctrines taught, and how each of the saints has been faithful to the truth or not.

5:2 — I SLEPT — The Church in general, nominal and real.

MY HEART — The heart class, the bride, are awake, but the foolish virgin class are sleepy with inactivity and slothfulness, allowing the cares of this world or the deceitfulness of riches to choke the fruitage.

HARK! MY BELOVED IS KNOCKING! (or IT IS THE VOICE OF MY BELOVED!) — She recognized the evidences of the presence of Christ, as events fulfill the prophecies. “Behold I stand at the door and knock,” the knocking is the repeated callings to our attention the events which prove the presence of the Master. “He that hath an ear let him hear.”

OPEN TO ME — Admit the evidence and take part in the Harvest work, announcing the presence of the King.

MY SISTER, MY LOVE, MY DOVE, MY UNDEFILED — This is the general call of the harvest time, and the Bride class respond and are taken with the Bridegroom to his home. But the foolish virgins hesitate, and are loth to act immediately.

FOR MY HEAD IS FILLED WITH DEW — Evidence that the morning is at hand, it is time to awake. This could also be taken as calling attention to the consecration vows taken, as by a Nazarite; the dew representing the freshness and vigor, as in the Scripture, “Thou hast the dew of thy youth,” the freshness and vigor of fully developed manhood, or sainthood.

AND MY LOCKS — Evidences of consecration.

WITH DROPS OF NIGHT — Experiences during the night-time of the Gospel Age, in which the Church is developed. The Lord is seeking those who have the characteristics mentioned above, acting like one of Jehovah’s chosen ones; responding to his life to the full extent of their ability; showing the gentleness and lack of aggressiveness of the dove; and who have kept their garments undefiled from the world.

5:3 — The foolish virgins here show their lack of appreciation.

I HAVE PUT OFF MY COAT — Neglected the covering of the robe of Christ's righteousness, been too busy about other things. Ceased to be active, and become sleepy, not living up to their privileges, weary in well doing. Very comfortable as I am, perhaps in a creed bed. Why should I bestir myself?

HOW COULD I PUT IT ON? — It will mean acknowledgment of my neglect, and would mean separation from many friends and pleasant things. It will take a special effort. This class has ceased to watch, but the Lord said, "Blessed are those servants whom the Lord when he cometh shall find watching. Verily I say unto you, that he shall gird himself, and make them to sit down to meat, and will come forth and serve them." (Luke 12:37) So these have not been getting the rich food of the harvest message, and do not realize their dangerous condition.

I HAVE WASHED MY FEET — I have tried to live a righteous life, keeping from the sins of the world. Perhaps this one has become a regular church member, in good standing, conforming to their requirements.

HOW SHALL I DEFILE THEM — How can I become active in the harvest work, and seem to these other members to be a backslider, to engage in unpopular religious work, "go with him outside the camp?"

5:4 — MY BELOVED PUT HIS HAND TO THE LATCH (or PUT HIS HAND IN BY THE HOLE OF THE DOOR)— Exerted greater effort to wake me, in his love and pity for me, rattles the time lock; called our attention to the signs of his presence, the events which fulfill the prophecies. A more emphatic and repeated call.

MY HEART WAS THRILLED WITHIN ME (or MY BOWELS WERE MOVED FOR HIM) — At last awakened, but too late to go in with him to the wedding. She realizes at last the meaning of the great events about her, awakens to what her consecration means, and how precious is the opportunity. "Let no man take thy crown." (Rev. 3:11) But these have neglected their privileges and the Lord's warnings. The bride class answered immediately, as did Aunt Sarah of Scotland, when she heard of the presence of her Master, and saw the evidences. The enticements of the present time are greater than ever before, and the attractions of earth greater, but those whose eyes are on the Lord are not pulled aside by these enticements.

5:5 — I ROSE UP — Roused myself to activity, realizing the Master is present.

TO OPEN TO MY BELOVED — Began to realize the danger of losing him, begins to welcome him with the whole heart.

MY HANDS DRIPPED WITH MYRRH — Willing now to endure persecution and suffering, regaining the wisdom gleaned from “The Scripture Studies,” till then neglected.

AND MY FINGERS WITH LIQUID MYRRH — The activities bring suffering and trial, with bitterness, because she realizes it is later than she thought, entering the great tribulation.

UPON THE HANDLES OF THE LOCK — Realizing the time features are fulfilled, the Kingdom is at hand! (Col. 2:18, 19)

5:6 — I OPENED TO MY BELOVED — Fully renewed their consecration, and admitted whole heartedly the Harvest Message.

BUT MY BELOVED HAD TURNED AND GONE — The door to the high calling was shut. (Luke 13:25; Matt. 25:10-13) The Master had taken his bride and gone. (Jer. 8:20)

MY SOUL FAILED ME — I was not in my senses when the message of his presence reached me. She lacked the love, faith and hope to obey promptly.

I SOUGHT HIM, BUT I FOUND HIM NOT! I CALLED HIM BUT HE GAVE NO ANSWER! — Oh, what anxious heart ache and grief is here described, too late! In Isa. 17:10, 11 (margin)—“Because thou hast forgotten the God of thy salvation, and hast not been mindful of the rock of thy strength, therefore thou shalt plant pleasant plants, and shall set it with strange slips. In the day shalt thou make thy plant to grow, and in the morning shalt thou make thy seed to flourish, but the harvest shall be removed in the day of inheritance, and there shall be deadly sorrow.”

5:7 — THE WATCHMEN — The clergy not the civil authorities, except as the clergy use them to carry out their designs.

FOUND ME, AS THEY WENT ABOUT THE CITY — Professedly to protect the people, but really to further their denominations, and protect their jobs. (John 11:47, 48)

FOUND ME — Noticed my actions and attitude toward present Truth, how I had withdrawn from their systems and was not supporting them; was teaching things contrary to their creeds.

THEY SMOTE ME, THEY WOUNDED ME — With sharp arrows, even bitter words. (Psalm 64:1-6) The Great Company are experiencing their great tribulation (Rev. 7:14), they wounded my reputation by misrepresentations and false accusations.

THE KEEPERS OF THE WALLS — The civil authorities, who protect society, the governments and bulwarks of the nations.

TOOK AWAY MY VEIL — Were instigated and persuaded to destroy me. Here is represented the death of the Great Company.

5:8 — I ADJURE YOU — Urge you, she feels she must leave this message. Oh daughters of Jerusalem, all who claim to be Christians, who profess to love the Master, those in the sects of so called Christendom.

IF YOU FIND MY BELOVED — If you profess to be of the bride class, and hope for the Kingdom. If you realize what the events of the times really mean, and are hoping for the return of the Lord, if you finally realize that the Lord's kingdom is at the doors.

THAT YOU TELL HIM I AM LOVE-SICK — On my behalf, as if they had lost Him. They fully realize their consecration, and His presence, and long to be with Him.

5:9 — WHAT IS THY BELOVED MORE THAN ANOTHER BELOVED?
— The friends of the Church now speak, their associates in the nominal systems. Why is Christ more to you than to me, and to other people? Why is your belief and understanding better than ours? What do you see in him that makes you willing to sacrifice everything for Him, that you so urge us?

THOU FAIREST AMONG WOMEN — They recognize the sincere worshippers as living closer to their ideal than the others, their religion is more real to them. Nominal Christians begin to realize the fact that the last of the spiritually minded are leaving them.

5:10 — Note the ten descriptions of bodily excellence in verses 10-15. This is a beautiful vision of the glory of our head and King, as we shall see him in glory.

MY BELOVED IS WHITE — All radiant, glistening, shines with perfection along every line, perfect spiritually.

RUDDY — Perfection in health and powers of life, immortality.

THE CHIEFEST AMONG TEN THOUSAND — A standard bearer, the sum of all beauty, and desirable qualities; above all others supreme, higher and greater than all. Note, this description starts with the head.

5:11 — HEAD OF FINEST GOLD — Having the divine nature. "It pleased the Father that in him should all fullness dwell." "In him are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge." "In him dwelleth all the fullness of the deity (divine nature) bodily.” (Col. 1:19; 2:3, 9) Head over all things in heaven and in earth. (Eph. 1:10; 20-23) The reference is to the general appearance, refined and purified.

HIS LOCKS ARE WAVY (BUSHY, CURLED) — Literally Hill upon Hill, abundant, indicating overflowing life energy. As the hair is the best, most desirable, and complete adornment of the head, so it is a symbol of complete consecration (as in the Nazarite Vow, illustrated in Samson.) Like curving palm branches.

BLACK AS A RAVEN — Rich in color, glossy perfection in consecration, carried out completely, finished.

5:12 — EYES LIKE DOVES’ EYES — Gentle, pure, peaceable, full of love and kindness, mild, attractive, yet penetrating and watchful, a symbol of wisdom.

BY BROOKS OF WATER — The Word of God, rivers of Truth, abundance for all.

BATHED IN MILK — The fundamental truths perfectly learned and practiced in abundance. May refer to the clear whiteness of the eye all surrounding the pupil, also an indication of perfect healthy vision. This whiteness is contrasted with the bloodshot eyes of sensuality and drunkenness.

FITLY SET — The surrounding things, such as the eyelids and the lashes, in perfect harmony and beauty, perfection of sight and appearance, showing intelligence complete and perfect, eyes with drawing power, and commanding appearance, majestic and glorious. (John 12:32.)

5:13 — HIS CHEEKS ARE BEDS OF SPICES, YIELDING FRAGRANCE — His countenance toward me, show forth the loveliest graces, and richness of expression. Beds or groups of spices like a garden bed wherein are planted all varieties of spices and perfumes. Thrilling the beholder with joy and gladness, delight. A face glorious in expression, shaped through trials and sorrows patiently endured, exhibiting sympathy and understanding and patience, because he went through these experiences, sorrows and sufferings alone except with the Father, and so is a merciful and faithful high priest. (Heb. 2:17, 18)

HIS LIPS — His speech modest, meek, beautiful words of delight, well chosen, loveliness of speech—“They wondered at the gracious words that proceeded out from his mouth.” (Luke 4:22), words of knowledge, wisdom and authority, from the well of experience. See Matt. 5:37; James 45:2; Isa. 50:4; 61:1-3; 58:13, 14; Col. 4:6.

LIKE LILIES — Pure, white, righteous, the very spirit of holiness.

DROPPING LIQUID MYRRH — Issuing, sending forth the richest perfection in fruitage of suffering and bitterness patiently borne for the sake of those whom he came to redeem, wisdom and understanding and sympathy, tender-heartedness. (Deut. 32:1; James 3:17, 18)

5:14 — HIS HANDS (or ARMS) ARE AS ROUNDED GOLD (or GOLDEN RODS) — Divine powers exercised in accomplishing wonderful blessings for others.

SET WITH JEWELS — Like precious jewels, most desirable things; helps to bring out in others the best that is in them, beauty in action, love in operation.

BODY LIKE BRIGHT IVORY — Smoothness and grace in movement.

OVERLAID (or VEILED) WITH SAPPHIRES — Blue, represents faithfulness. The human body contains the life organs, so this picture would represent the vast might, energy of the divine nature, veiled in faithfulness, used always for the blessing of God's creatures (Exod. 24:10), a beautiful vision.

5:15 — HIS LEGS — Supporters of the body, to carry it about. He went about doing good; columns or pillars of white marble or alabaster. "He that overcometh will I make a pillar in the temple of God." (Rev. 3:12)

SET UPON THE SOCKETS (or BASES) OF FINE GOLD — The feet, refined in the troubles of the harvest time and the fire of trial. Note in this description the gradual descent from the head to the feet, the whole being. So all his activities are to distribute the blessings of the Creator, and during the past, the work of training the servants of the Lord.

HIS APPEARANCE IS AS LEBANON — Majesty, preeminence of the cedars of Lebanon above all other trees, surpassing height and stately form. Choice as Lebanon, excellent as the cedars, giving out refreshing, invigorating, life giving influence. Selected and outstanding above all others. The Prince of light and life.

5:16 — HIS SPEECH IS MOST SWEET — His message delightful, full of grace and beauty of words, drawing all men unto him, comforting and strengthening in tone.

YEA — As if to sum up the whole appearance.

ALTOGETHER LOVELY — Desirable, the sum of every grace and lovely quality, as if all expressions were too futile and incapable to describe him.

THIS IS MY BELOVED — My friend and protector, the love consuming her very soul. (Prov. 18:24) A joyful triumphant cry.

OH, YE DAUGHTERS OF JERUSALEM — All the lovers of righteousness in the present time and a like proclamation will be made in the Kingdom to attract the willing and obedient of the world of mankind.

6: — The first three verses are part of Chapter 5, as they deal with the answer to the charge of 5:16.

6:1 — WHITHER IS THY BELOVED GONE? — After the door is shut those who have been nominally Christ's begin to give heed to the message of the foolish virgins.

O THOU FAIREST AMONG WOMEN — These others recognize that the Great Company even is more spiritual than the common run of church goers.

WHITHER HAS THY BELOVED TURNED ASIDE? — These realize that something has happened, something has gone from their midst. The changed conditions in the religious world indicate that the dark night has begun to settle down.

THAT WE MAY SEEK HIM WITH THEE — They are interested in this great teacher, and want to know where they can find him. They see that the doctrines taught, which they have thought too beautiful to be true, and the character of these who have left the charge with them is more true than the general run, among all groups of believers. And if your beloved is such an extra-ordinary person, excellent and beautiful, why have we not seen him? Where is there such a person? We would like to know him.

6:2 — GONE DOWN INTO HIS GARDEN — The harvest time was come. The presence of Christ to take his Kingdom was a fact. See 4:12; 5:1.

TO THE BEDS OF SPICES — The most beautiful and desirable characteristics, whose influence is most attractive and agreeable. These are the qualities found in his bride, when she fully is prepared—"Made herself ready."

TO FEED IN THE GARDENS — To enjoy and be delighted with the ripened beauty of his church. Drink in the pleasant beauty of his church, see the results of his care and self-sacrifice (Isa. 53:11) He will be satisfied, filled with joy at the result of his work.

GATHER LILIES — To take his true Church unto himself as his bride. (John 14:2, 3; 1 Thess. 4:16, 17)

6:3 — Note the reversal of this statement as compared with chapter 2:16.

I AM MY BELOVED'S AND MY BELOVED IS MINE — The Great Company cannot forget that they are precious in the Lord's sight, and they are willing now to part with all earthly things, and center their love on the Lord.

HE FEEDETH AMONG THE LILIES — Among the pure and lowly, the meek will he guide in judgment, and the meek will he teach his way. (Psalm 25:9, 10)

6:4 — BEAUTIFUL ART THOU — A flood of overcoming love and appreciation by Jesus as bridegroom. Jesus thus speaks of his Church. Should not we respond with all our being to such love?

AS TIRZA — (Meaning beautiful, delightful)—Tirza is the name of one of the daughters of Zelophelad. (Num. 26:33; 27:1-11) Also is a town in the territory of Issachar, not accurately known, to the north of Sichem and due west of Samaria. A charming green hill, part of which has a very steep descent. Or one now called Thalluza, east of Samaria.

COMELY AS JERUSALEM — The delight of every Jew (Psa. 137:5) set on a hill. In the Kingdom will be probably as beautiful as men can make it. It will be the Lord's earthly capital of the Kingdom.

TERRIBLE — Majestic, awe-inspiring, inspiring respect, especially as indicated in the next verse. Terrible in the conquest of evil and wrong. The influence exerted by the love glance in the eyes.

AS AN ARMY WITH BANNERS — The standards represent the power and reserve force behind them. (Psa. 60:4; Isa. 13:2)

6:5 — Christ speaks — TURN AWAY THINE EYES FROM ME, FOR THEY HAVE OVERCOME ME — Have thrilled me with love, have taken me by storm. The artillery of the eyes in an idea common to the poets of all countries. As though nothing could be more glorious, even now the Church's being is all filled with love; she dreams of it, thinks of it all the day. Jesus appreciates and is delighted. Could the loving Father have provided a more suitable bride? She is from among those whom he has redeemed. The eyes are the windows of the soul, all the faculties shine out through them. (Eccl. 12:3)

YOUR HAIR IS LIKE A FLOCK OF GOATS — Her hair is the glory of the woman (1 Cor. 11:15) and is a symbol of consecration (as the Nazarite vow). As in chapter 4:1. Full of abundant, luxurious and glossy, not as one goat but as a whole flock, so is her consecration. And the glory of the Church is her covering, even the righteousness of her Lord.

GILEAD — Means strong, rocky place, and was much used as a pasturage for the flocks of goats.

6:6 — THY TEETH — Ability to feed upon the word of God, to get something out of it, understand it, and put it into use; chew, masticate, meditate upon the texts and get the full richness of its message.

FLOCK OF SHEEP, WHICH GO UP FROM THE WASHING — Clean, well washed, able to discern between good and bad teachings (Heb. 5:4; Phil. 1:9, 10; Jer. 15:19), washed by the water of the Word. (Eph. 5:26; 1 Cor. 6:11)

EVERY ONE BEARETH TWINS — The upper and the lower teeth fit perfectly, matched for perfect mastication.

NONE BARREN — None missing. Here is pictured mature judgment, and understanding discernment.

6:7 — AS A PIECE OF POMEGRANATE — As this fruit has all the fruit flavors in one, so it would represent perfect, complete fruitage of all the graces, a complete rounded out character. A pleasing combination of white and red, as in the halves of the fruit.

THY TEMPLES — Representing the mind of the New Creature, fully developed.

WITHIN THY LOCKS, OR BEHIND YOUR VEIL — The veil is the flesh, or the human nature fallen as it is. The setting of the hair on the head makes a perfect adornment. The Lord Jesus views the Church as she will be in perfection. Now she is but a dim reflection of himself, of his own graces.

6:8 — SIXTY QUEENS AND EIGHTY CONCUBINES — Compared to Solomon's 700 queens and 300 concubines (1 Kings 11:3), a studied avoidance of the number 70, to which a certain sacredness and completeness would have been attached. The concubines have no harmonious relationship of a binding covenant to Christ, all with them is imperfect and wide of the mark. The sixty queens may represent religious organizations openly joined to earthly organizations, while 80 concubines may represent even more who have secretly violated their pledges of spiritual separateness to the Lord.

VIRGINS WITHOUT NUMBER — The foolish virgins, really pure at heart, but careless and neglectful.

6:9 — Jesus speaks here — MY DOVE, MY UNDEFILED IS BUT ONE — My perfect one. Jesus' true Church is fully completely his, heart and soul, humble, gentle, fully and completely filled with love for him, peaceful. She has kept herself pure and undefiled from the world and its ways, by daily coming to the Throne of Grace for cleansing out every spot or wrinkle.

IS BUT ONE — In contrast to all these others, who follow various leaders (Isa. 4:1) these others want to eat their own bread, believe what they would like; and wear their own apparel (robes of righteousness), but want to be called Christians (His name), to take away their reproach. Rare, and under special training and guidance. It has taken 1900 years to find and train her, in long and patient waiting.

THE DARLING OF HER MOTHER — The Sarah Covenant of self-sacrifice, specially beloved, specially called, the choice and favored one. Flawless to her that bare her, called out ones by promise and selection. Isaac a wonderful and obedient child.

THE MAIDENS (VIRGINS) SAW HER, AND BLESSED HER — Other professed children of God noticed the true Church as distinct and separate. Most especially in the resurrection morning when the sons of God are manifested. Call her happy, fortunate to be selected and honored as the real queen, far above all others. These maidens or virgins would be the Great Company.

THE QUEENS AND CONCUBINES — Queens would be those openly affiliated with worldly churches in union with earthly governments; concubines those secretly so affiliated with earthly religious sects. All these will acknowledge her as specially trained and honored, praise and acknowledge her as worthy. Therefore shall the people praise thee forever. (Psalm 45:17)

6:10 — WHO IS THIS THAT LOOKS FORTH AS THE MORNING, or (AS THE MORNING RISING)? — The bride is seen here as resplendent, shining as the Sun, beautiful as the break of day—the gladness of the Millennial morning, after the darkness of the night of sin and death.

FAIR — Pure, holy, just, flawless and perfect.

THE MOON, — The complete fullness of the Law—Love (Rom. 8:4), by which life was promised.

CLEAR AS THE SUN — Bright, glorious white light, the sum of all the colors, as love is the sum of all the graces. Life and health is sustained by the sun, so the Church will nourish and sustain all the world, as the instrument of her Lord, in bringing the children up. Children are always put under the care of the wife. (Isa. 49:17-23)

TERRIBLE — Irresistible.

ARMY — The power of the heavens in the Kingdom. (Rev. 14)

BANNERS — Insignia of power, might and authority, inspires respect, conquers in the fight against evil. Terrible to all evil doers. These pictured are overcomers. Similar expression in verse 4. So the apostle says the message and the people of God appears to some an encouragement and blessing, and to others a threat of death and retribution. (2 Cor. 2:15-17). Who is speaking here?

6:11 — Jesus speaks here, following the exaltation of the Church.

I WENT DOWN — Another examination of judgment of another group, the foolish virgins, or Great Company.

GARDEN (or ORCHARD) OF NUTS — The heart gardens of the Great Company. A garden of nuts does not yield its fruit or treasures as easily or as early as a garden of spices. The meat is harder to reach.

TO LOOK AT THE BLOSSOMS OF THE VALLEY — Of the class which had not risen to the Pisgah heights of faith, hope and love, as the Church had risen. To see if the fruits would yield the pleased gratified contemplation which they should.

TO SEE IF THE VINES HAD BUDDERD — As the result of their experiences in the time of trouble, if their characters had been properly effected, the old natures put aside and the new natures strengthened.

POMEGRANATES IN BLOOM — If the promise of acceptable spiritual fruitage of love in all its applications had developed.

6:12 — This verse is omitted by Leeser and Moffat, but in the R.S.V. The Church speaks here.

ERE I WAS AWAKE — I knew not just how it was; a pleasure unexpected.

MY SOUL — Filled with love and pity for them.

MADE ME LIKE THE CHARIOTS OF AMMINADAB — Swiftly speeding to them to bless and help in their hour of extremity; chariots represent organized operation, or organizations. Amminadab (my willing people, or, the people of the Prince). With gladness shall they be brought into the King's palace, or household. The organization is being established.

Naason, Amminadab's son was prince at the first numbering of the people of Israel, in the second year of the Exodus. Amminadab may have died in Egypt before the Exodus, at the time of Israel's greatest oppression. His daughter, Elishaba, married Aaron, and bore Nadab (named from Amminadab), Abihu, Eleasar and Ithamar. This was an early alliance of the kingly line of Judah with the priestly line of Aaron. Another Amminadab was the chief of Uzziel's 112 sons, whom David sent to bring the Ark of the Covenant to Jerusalem. (1 Chron. 15:10-12) He was a chief of the fathers of the Levites.

6:13 — Really belongs with chapter 7, so, Long and Leeser, but Moffat, Young, R.S.V., and K.J.V. have it as part of chapter 6.

RETURN — Come back, stated by the daughters of Jerusalem.

THAT WE MAY LOOK UPON THEE — The world desires to see them back again, but they are gone, the last spiritual minded ones. We want to learn more about you, you may have been right and we did not see it.

WHAT WOULD YOU SEE? IN THE SHULAMITE? (Roth.—WHAT WOULD YOU LOOK ON IN THE SHULAMITE?) — You did not see anything you wanted when we were among you.

Daughters of Jerusalem answer — A COMPANY OF TWO ARMIES— Roth.: A dance of a double camp R.S.V.: Why should you look upon the shulamite as upon a dance before two armies? The Great Company will be used as the servants of the Church and Jesus, between the spiritual and the earthly phases of the Kingdom.

7: — In this chapter, and in like expressions in this book, the members of the human body are used as symbols of the spiritual characteristics of Jesus and his Church. Paul tells us that to the pure all things are pure. (1 Tim. 1:15) All that God made is good, and it has its place and work to do. But the minds of mankind have been so perverted and poisoned on every topic that many cannot think of the human body without evil associations. Here the mind of Christ is teaching his Church how deeply he appreciates their work for him. Notice that in this description of the Church the discussion begins with the feet and looks on up toward the head, while in chapter 5 the description is from the head downward, and it is a description of the Master. If any significance is intended here, it might be that the origin of the Lord was in heaven, he is from above (chap. 5); while the origin of the Church is from the earth. (John 8:23)

7:1 — HOW GRACEFUL ARE YOUR FEET IN THE SANDALS — This reminds us of Isa. 52:7. How beautiful are the activities, the behavior, of God's people, as they carry the message of the Prince of Peace and Light to the groaning creation! It is the message which lends beauty to the whole appearance. James 3:18—"The fruit of righteousness is sown in peace by them which make peace." The message of its spirit surrounds these with a hallowed influence, and the fragrance of the knowledge of God is diffused by them. (2 Cor. 2:14) Grace of movements on errands of mercy.

O, QUEENLY MAIDEN, (or O, PRINCE'S DAUGHTER) — She has the family nobility and, of royal blood. The zeal of thine house. The characteristics of our God are reflected in His people, even as Jesus could say—"He that hath seen me hath seen the Father," the same in word and action. Generations of nobility of mind and manner produce beautiful sons and daughters, so here is reflected the finest training. Nothing selfish of, or underhanded scheming, but transparent characters, open to all. Majesty developed through trial.

THE JOINTS OF THY THIGHS (or YOUR ROUNDED THIGHS) — The whole body fitly, most aptly joined together (Eph. 4:16). (Sunarmologoumen in the Greek word; Sun — together, with; plus Armologus — binding, joining, which is from Omos — a joint, plus Lego — to lay), most effectively, for the use and beauty. Thighs — softness, gentleness, tenderness.

LIKE JEWELS — Precious things belonging to the most precious being, and made from the glory of the Creator. (Mal. 3:16, 17)

THE WORK OF A MASTER HAND — "We are His workmanship" (Eph. 2:10), "His work is perfect" (Deut. 32:1-4), "Fearfully and wonderfully made." (Psa. 139:14-17)

7:2 — THY NAVEL — An important nerve center of the body; seat of the umbilical cord by which the unborn child is joined to the mother (here the Sarah Covenant, through spirit begetting, the cord of faith.)

IS A ROUNDED BOWL (or ROUNDED GOBLET) — Generous in capacity; a sympathetic and faithful mother for the world. Like her master, her sympathies are with the human race. (My delights were with the sons of men. Prov. 8:31)

NEVER LACKS MIXED WINE — Never dries up, its sympathies are ever full and available to all the human race.

THE BELLY — Bowels of sympathy and mercies (Phil. 2:1; Cant. 5:4; 1 John. 3:17). Also spiritual digestion, able to assimilate Truth as the message from God by His Holy Spirit.

HEAP OF WHEAT — Not merely a sheaf, but a whole pile of the threshed grain, source of the bread, the staff of life; “Food to eat that ye know not of.” (John. 4:32-34; Psa. 72:16)

ENCIRCLED WITH LILIES — Beautiful with humility and grace.

7:3 — THY TWO BREASTS ARE LIKE TWO YOUNG ROES, THAT ARE TWINS — The most graceful and beautiful of animals, perfectly matched. Ability to nourish offspring, as the Church will nourish mankind (Isa. 66:10-13). Fully developed and rounded out. Also, the Scriptures, the Word of God, the Old and New Testaments. “The Deaf shall hear the words of the book” (Isa. 29:18, 24) “and the books shall be opened.” (Rev. 22:12)

7:4 — THY NECK IS LIKE AN IVORY TOWER — Beautiful, graceful, smooth, and perfect, a perfect support for the head, “Holding the head” (Col. 2:19), slender and straight, setting the head off in perfection, not short and thick like a bull’s neck. Willingness to bear burdens, and to serve. (Acts 15:10; Jer. 27:8, 11) Ivory Tower, purity and strength.

THINE EYES — Clearness of vision and the windows of the soul. The faculties look out of the eyes, awake, clear and sparkling. Light blue pools, charmingly reflect back like a mirror the light of the sun. The pools near Heshbon, clearness of the sheets of water, and loveliness of their banks. Heshbon was a city of the Moabite Kings. Modern travellers still mention at least one large reservoir near Heshbon. (Deut. 2:24; Isa. 15:4) The pool lies in a wady south of the city, which is enthroned on a high hill, and has excellent masonry. The name means a place of devising counsel. (Jer. 48:2, 34, 35) Clear and deep, depth of mind.

BY THE GATE OF BATH RABBIM — The name means “the daughter of a multitude.” The gate opens on a crowded thoroughfare of the city, and would represent the world of mankind. In the faculties of mind which shine through the eyes are devised plans to cooperate for the blessing of mankind. The gate opens north eastward toward Rabba of Ammon.

THY NOSE IS LIKE THE TOWER OF LEBANON — By the nose is the ability to detect influences which come around, and separate the good from the bad (Heb. 5:14; Phil. 1:8-10) The Hebrew word means a watch tower. Lebanon is the northern outpost of Palestine.

THAT LOOKS TOWARDS DAMASCUS — Watching that nothing of the old world's ways come into the City of God, purposes of defense.

7:5 — YOUR HEAD CROWNS YOU LIKE CARMEN — Next to Lebanon, is the loftiest mountain in northern Palestine, some 16,000 feet above sea level; was formerly covered with woods, which have disappeared. The head would represent the mind and its reasoning faculties, which acknowledge the headship of Christ, the Church is trained like he was.

THY FLOWING LOCKS LIKE PURPLE — Royalty, majestic. The hair is a symbol of consecration, and here pictured as luxurious and abundant, glossy. The hair is the glory of woman, and given her for a covering, the Church's covering is the robe of Christ's righteousness, which will be her own righteousness in the resurrection morning. (Psa. 145)

CARMEN — The name is derived from "kerem el," the vineyard of God, how appropriate a setting for the new creature!

THE KING IS HELD CAPTIVE IN THE RINGLETS (or TRESSES—IN THE GALLERIES) — The head is devoted to Jehovah and to Christ as her King. The beautiful locks are attractive, and make a lovely adornment for the head.

Note here again as in chapter 5, are ten points of excellence brought out and described, so as to be noticed.

7:6 — HOW FAIR AND PLEASANT YOU ARE, O LOVED ONE, DELIGHTFUL MAIDEN! — A thrill of delight goes through the observer. As the Creator made Eve a glorious counterpart for Adam, and as she supremely delighted him, so the Father has devised a counterpart for His Son, a thrill of delight for him, and chosen from among those whom he redeemed by his death and sufferings. Such is a most fitting bride and companion, she sums up all that could be desired being a perfect reflection of him; perfect satisfaction to both, all that the heart could desire—the Father's gift to His Son!

7:7 — THY STATURE IS LIKE A PALM TREE — Majestic and beautiful, tall and stately, a very fitting likeness, the palm tree; the breasts like its cluster of dates, the nourishing fruit of the palm. The stature of the fullness of Christ. (Eph. 4:13)

7:8 — I SAY I WILL CLIMB THE PALM TREE, (or I SAID I WILL GO UP TO THE PALM TREE — The world will say this in the Kingdom time, and Jesus will use the Church to fulfill that desire; rejoice in the fullness of its luscious fruitage and its comfort. (Isa. 2:1-4; Micah 4:1-4)

WILL GRASP ITS BRANCHES — Lay hold of the opportunities under the New Covenant, and enjoy the fruits, and rejoice in the deliverance from the old bondage.

O, MAY YOUR BREASTS BE LIKE CLUSTERS OF THE VINE — Like the life giving grapes, nourishing the children, the world of mankind; rich and abundant, life giving food; the curse upon the ground being removed. (Rev. 22:3; Isa. 55:1; 35:1, 2; 66:11-13)

AND THE SCENT OF YOUR BREATH LIKE APPLES — The influence of your message and speech be like the fulfillment of the promises (apples) of God (gold). (Prov. 25:11; Cant. 2:3) Nose, the ability to scent the beautiful things, the spiritual things, rejoicing in the promises of God as they are fulfilled.

7:9 — AND YOUR PALATE BE LIKE THE BEST OF WINE — The palate, or roof of the mouth, is used in pronouncing consonants, as el. Some think the expression is used here not so much as used for speech but as a substitute for mouth in respect to the sweet breath, or lovely kisses (messages of love and affection).

BEST OF WINE — The delicious, delightful doctrines about the restoration of mankind to the liberty of the sons of God.

GOETH DOWN SMOOTHLY — Without irritation, satisfying the true heart's desires.

CAUSING THE LIPS OF SLEEPERS TO SPEAK — The Hebrew has the thought of "Lips of sleepers." The New wine of the Kingdom, the new Gospel of the Kingdom to be preached to the world (Zeph. 3:9; Rev. 14:6), exhilarating, invigorating, life giving, "Awake and sing ye that dwell in the dust, for the earth shall cast out the dead" (Isa. 26:19) The Holy Spirit being poured out upon all flesh. (Jer. 2:28; Isa. 44:3) The resurrection, as Jesus commanded Lazarus.

Roth.— "Flowing to my beloved smoothly, gliding over the lips of the sleeping"; Leeser— "Thy palate like the best of wine, that glideth down for my friend gently, exciting the lips of those that are asleep"; Young— "Thy palate as the good wine flowing to my beloved in uprightness, strengthening the lips of the aged." The message coming from Jesus through the Church, causing the sleepers to awaken, give encouragement, strength, vitality.

7:10 — I AM MY BELOVED'S — The rejoicing confidence of those who know and love their Lord, and realize they have been called and spirit begotten, and are realizing a closer union with their Lord; assurance, confidence. (1 John 3:20-24)

AND UPON ME RESTS HIS DESIRE — The mutual delight in the society of each other, for they both love the same things, and their minds are alike and in perfect unison. A cry of deep satisfaction and assurance.

7:11 — COME MY BELOVED — Jesus speaks to his Church, after the time of trouble is over.

LET US GO FORTH INTO THE FIELD — To the world, broken down, discouraged, sorely needing help, and to carry out the plans of the Father for the blessing of the world.

LODGE IN THE VILLAGES — Take up our temporary abode with mankind. The work of the Kingdom will use their full attention for 1,000 years. “The tabernacle of God is with men.” (Rev. 21:1-5) As in the parable of the talents, “have thou authority over ten cities.” (Luke 19:17; Isa. 25:6-9)

7:12 — LET US GO EARLY TO THE VINEYARDS — In the early dawn of the 1,000 years reign, early in the morning of the third day. (Exod. 19:10-16)

TO THE VINEYARDS — The hearts of mankind in general.

AND SEE IF THE VINE FLOURISH (HAVE BUDDED) — Whether men have been humbled sufficiently to long for God, and be willing to obey and learn of Him. (Isa. 25:9)

AND WHETHER THE TENDER GRAPE APPEAR (or THE GRAPE BLOSSOMS HAVE OPENED) — If there is promise of ultimate fruitage pleasing and acceptable to the Father.

AND THE POMEGRANATES ARE IN BLOOM (BUD FORTH) — If there are any evidences that mankind is willing to try love, and may and can develop the graces of character which they must have to obtain eternal life, and be accepted into God’s family.

THERE — When you see with what infinite patience, wisdom and love I cultivate the heart gardens of men.

WILL I GIVE THEE MY LOVES — Cause thee to appreciate fully, realize fully and enter fully into the family life of God’s children, fellowship, children, home.

7:13 — THE MANDRAKES GIVE FORTH FRAGRANCE — The Mandrake is a stupefying narcotic (related to the deadly nightshade, belladonna), with broad, dark green leaves, flowers purple, and green apples which become pale yellow when ripe, with a tuberous forked root. It is still found ripe in the wheat harvest in lower Lebanon and Hermon. The apples produce dizziness and exhilaration. The ancients believed them to produce fecundity. The Hebrew name, Dudaim—love apples, accords with their being used as philters, or love potions to conciliate love. Rachel had this superstition. (Gen. 30:14-17) The regeneration of the world is nigh, is beginning. The odor is too strong to appeal to Europeans, but orientals value strong-smelling things. The root was fancied to resemble man, and to form a potent magic spell.

AT OUR GATES — The Ancient Worthies are the gates whereby the restitution classes may come to Christ, the Mediator.

ALL MANNER OF PLEASANT FRUITS — Virtues which the bride cultivated, and others (new and old) appropriate to the changed conditions of the new age. The books will be opened. (Isa. 29:18; 42:16; Rev. 20:12) All good delightful things will grow more and increasing abundantly.

NEW AND OLD — The old excellencies, which were in harmony with God, will be restored, and the new arrangements adapted to the increased knowledge, and changes in society.

THESE THINGS HAVE I TREASURED UP FOR THEE, O, MY BELOVED — The delights of using the characteristics which the church has developed for the blessing of mankind, and of bringing back the fallen, dying race to God, seeing them restored to health and happiness, and into harmony with their Creator. If there is now joy in heaven among the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth, how much greater will be the rejoicing when the whole world returns unto God. (Isa. 35:11-14) All are parts of God's Plan of the Ages.

8:1 — O, THAT THOU WERT AS A BROTHER TO ME — The Church addressed those of the world who were her neighbors and friends, and to whom she tried to tell the truth, but who somehow would not take hold of it. How much rejoicing it would have brought had they been as a brother, as a member of the Lord's family.

THAT SUCKED THE BREASTS OF MY MOTHER — That nursed at my mother's (Sarah Covenant) breast. There is no family relationship so deep and precious as that of the body of Christ.

IF I MET YOU OUTSIDE — That is on the street or in the public.

I WOULD KISS YOU — A heart to heart greeting. Even the Romans noted it, as one of them said, "See how these Christians love one another."

AND NONE WOULD DESPISE ME — Because the world think it natural that friends and neighbors would love one another.

8:2 — I WOULD LEAD YOU AND BRING YOU — The longing of a Christian heart that her loved ones would rejoice with her in the precious and wonderful things of the Truth of God's plan of salvation. (1 Pet. 2)

INTO MY MOTHER'S HOUSE — God's family, the House of Sons, the Bride class.

INTO THE CHAMBER — The condition of fellowship of the Father and Son and the Church. (1 John 1)

OF HER THAT CONCEIVED ME — As Sarah conceived Isaac, so by the Holy Spirit we have this precious relation (John 1:16; 1 John 2:20; 2 Cor. 1:21, 22; 1 Cor. 12:13) into the secret place of the Most High (Psa. 91:1) in the secret of His presence. (Psa. 31:19, 20; 22:4, 5; 26:20, 21)

WHO WOULD INSTRUCT ME — "They shall all be taught of God." The speech and manners of the Kings household. The livery of the King.

I WOULD GIVE YOU SPICED WINE TO DRINK — The new wine of the Kingdom. The richest deepest doctrines of the Word, flavored and enriched by the Holy Spirit, spiced with hearts delight in the glories of the Kingdom.

OF THE JUICE OF POMEGRANATES — Which has the flavors of all the fruits. The satisfaction of every God implanted ability and hearts longing—deep and lasting and increasing delight.

8:3 — HIS LEFT HAND SHOULD BE UNDER MY HEAD — Here the use of both hands is indicated in harmony, the left supporting and directing the working of the faculties, showing the New Will, the New Creature, may be guided in all its steps thru the Word of God. Acquaint us thoroughly with the will of God so that we recognize it and understand it quickly, become familiar with it.

HIS RIGHT HAND EMBRACES ME — Expressing to us his love and interest in all our thoughts and actions, caresses, guarding and protecting us from all harm, and leading us into the delights of the spirit of God. "Eye hath not seen nor ear heard the things which God hath prepared for them that love him." (1 Cor. 2:9)

8:4 — I CHARGE YOU — An important message, which must be delivered.

O, DAUGHTERS OF JERUSALEM — Christians in the nominal church who claim to be God's people. Pay more attention to the Scriptures concerning the Second Advent; do not hasten nor delay his presence, by losing faith, but ascertain what the Scriptures say about it.

THAT YE STIR NOT UP MY BELOVED TILL HE PLEASE — Till the proper time comes in the Father's plans. There are signs of his presence to be noted, and studied. Humbly accept these and wait. This is the Church's farewell to the present order of religious life, the present heavens.

THE FIFTH SONG
The arrival home:

8:5 — WHO IS THIS? — The father thus speaks about the bride.

THAT COMETH UP — That cometh forward into prominence, in the harvest time, when the final selection of the Bride takes place.

FROM THE WILDERNESS — The experiences of the past, in this present evil world, from the wilderness condition.

LEANING UPON HER BELOVED — Upon Christ Jesus. His return has taken place, and he has gathered his bride, and is bringing her to the Father. (1 Thess. 4:16, 17; Rev. 3:5; Matt. 10:32)

UNDER THE APPLE TREE, — Under the care of Jesus (chapter 2:3), by your faith in the promises of God, and acting upon them.

I REARED THEE, OR RAISED THEE UP — Trained and disciplined and taught thee; provided the encouragements, the tests and trials, the delights that fed and strengthened the New Creature; arranged the sorrows to make you sympathetic, and the sufferings to enable you to endure and wait patiently. What a depth of love and fatherly care!

THERE — In that condition, under the shadow and wings of the Almighty. (Psalm 91; Deut. 32:9-11)

THY MOTHER — The Sarah covenant of self-sacrifice.

BROUGHT THEE FORTH — There all the training and education came in this condition.

THERE — Repeated for emphasis.

SHE THAT BARE THEE — No other one but the Oath Bound Covenant, Sarah division. The Hebrew for “bare thee” has the thought of writhing in pains of childbirth. Yes, it cost something to train the Church!

8:6 — Here the church speaks to her beloved.

SET ME AS A SEAL UPON THINE HEART — Put me in that preferred place as your chief love, stamped indelibly upon your heart. (Hag. 2:23) “I will engrave the engraving thereof.” (Zech. 3:1; Exod. 28:11, 21)

AS A SIGNET RING UPON YOUR ARM — In thine infinite power, in all that you do let me have a share, and be forever one with you; press me closely to thine heart and in your arms enfold me. Yes, he will share that glory with his bride.

FOR (BECAUSE) LOVE — (Agape)? Such love as I have for you, fills my whole being.

IS STRONG AS DEATH — Neither death nor life can separate us from the love of our bridegroom. (Rom. 8:36-39) We die, faithful unto and through death for him. At present death overcomes all and never lets go anything it possesses; but under Christ’s control death will yield up all its captives. (Isa. 49:24, 25)

JEALOUSY — Lest I should fail to be accepted, the fear that I may fail to be your bride. (Heb. 4:11)

IS AS CRUEL AS THE GRAVE (“Sheol”) — Merciless, pitiless, the king of terrors. (Job 18:14) Roth.—Exacting as “Hades.”

THE COALS THEREOF — The weaknesses of the fallen nature, its flame, its flashes, “Sons of the flame,” (Job 5:7) consuming, destroying. “The zeal of thine house hath consumed me.” (Psalm 69:9)

A MOST VEHEMENT FLAME — Mighty flame, burned into my very soul. These burning thoughts of my imperfections will be with me as long as I am in this tabernacle, only faith in the merit of my Savior enables me to press on.

8:7 — The Father reassures the anxious bride.

MANY WATERS — Troubles overwhelming.

CANNOT QUENCH OR WASH AWAY LOVE — (Isa. 43:1-3; Jonah 2:5, 6; Psa. 66:10-12; Rom. 8:31-39)

NEITHER CAN THE FLOODS DROWN IT — Extinguish it. It carries through death and reaches beyond the grave; overwhelming disaster that threatens to engulf everything. (“For I will be with thee,” to bear and help you endure.)

IF A MAN — The man whom I have ordained.

WOULD GIVE ALL THE SUBSTANCE OF HIS HOUSE — All his glorious station with me on the throne of the universe.

FOR LOVE — Such as you have manifested through the long, dark night of your earthly career.

IT WOULD BE UTTERLY SCORNE — Despised by the court of heaven. Yes, Jehovah values our sacrifice. (Heb. 6:10) Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death (the dying process) of his saints, (Psa. 116:15) and He will acknowledge it in glory.

CONDEMNING THEY WOULD CONDEMN — Is the literal Hebrew, repeated to show the high degree of contempt.

8:8 — Jesus and the Church speak — WE HAVE A LITTLE SISTER — The foolish virgin class, little, not developed to the completeness required.

SHE HATH NO BREASTS — Cannot nourish offspring, did not attain to the perfection required for those who would nourish mankind, in the Kingdom.

WHAT WILL WE DO? — What will be the divine arrangement.

FOR OUR SISTER? — The Great Company class, she was begotten by the same Holy Spirit, and called with the same calling, but neglected her opportunities.

IN THE DAY — The Millennial morning, the day of inheritance, when the time comes to raise them from the dead, when the voice of the Master says, “Come Forth.” (WHEN SHE SHALL BE SPOKEN FOR)

8:9 — IF SHE BE A WALL — A bulwark of the Truth, helping others to realize God’s protecting power about them, as from her own experience that he can deliver; if she can be so used to comfort others and encourage them.

WE WILL BUILD UPON HER — Upon what she has of strength of character.

A PALACE OF SILVER — A delightful dwelling place of beauty; a delightful privilege and experience of spreading the Truth about God, their Creator and sustainer, a condition in which to dwell.

IF SHE BE A DOOR — To help others unto the Lord to see the salvation which God offers and come to Him; help others to enter into a better life.

WE WILL ENCLOSE HER — Surround her, place her in the midst of such surroundings, work to do to bring others to God, to help bring the race of mankind up the highway of holiness unto God and everlasting life.

WITH BOARDS OF CEDAR — Everlasting life, use them in helping mankind to attain unto everlasting life.

8:10 — I AM A WALL — The church declares she has proven the protection of Jehovah for those who make a covenant with Him and keep it, and openly exhibit the evidence. She is a staunch defender of the Truth, and a grand illustration of what God will do for those who keep their covenant with Him. Those who have thus found their God to be all and more than He promised, become a source of encouragement for others seeking security and rest, and so become a wall unto them.

AND MY BREASTS — Ability to nourish offspring.

ARE LIKE TOWERS — Fully developed, abundance of ability to nourish the world of mankind. (Isa. 66:11)

THEN — Because of this complete development.

WAS I IN HIS EYES — In his estimation, his judgment, as having passed all the tests and examinations.

AS ONE THAT FOUND FAVOR — Was acceptable, perfectly satisfactory as a fit companion and mother. The Prince of Peace, the Prince of Light, desires those who are thoroughly trained in self-sacrifice and wisdom to apply it. Restraint to hold back the blessings till the person is able to use them wisely and enjoy them fully, and wise as to how and when to bestow these blessings. Self-restraint and self control is an absolute necessity for those who would thus be used by the Master.

8:11 — SOLOMON HAD A VINEYARD IN BAAL-HAMON — (Lord of the Multitude), a place not far from Dothan, in the South of Issachar's inheritance, not far from Shunem. Here is pictured the world of mankind as the vineyard of the Christ, hence a reference to the Messianic reign of 1000 years to bring mankind to the full fruitage. Literally—"A vineyard became Solomon."

HE LET OUT THE VINEYARD TO THE KEEPERS — Gave immediate charge of the work to the Ancient Worthies, princes in all the earth (Psa. 45:16). Restore thy judges as at the first. (Isaiah 1:26)

EACH WAS TO BRING FOR ITS FRUIT A THOUSAND PIECES OF SILVER — Yield a rich return of Truth and praise from the hearts cultivated for the one thousand years of the Millennium.

8:12 — MY VINEYARD, MINE OWN — The same vineyard; because the Church will share with Christ the inheritance of the world. (Micah 4:8; Isa. 60:14; Rev. 3:9, 21; 1 Cor. 6:2, 3) Joint heirs with Christ. (Rom. 8:17)

IS BEFORE ME — The work of the whole thousand years of the Kingdom.

YOU, O SOLOMON MAY HAVE THE THOUSAND — For he has bought it with his own precious blood, and the possession is in the name of the husband.

AND THE KEEPERS OF THE FRUIT, TWO HUNDRED — The Ancient Worthies two hundred shekels, or silverlings, a fifth part of the whole. Does this imply that the Ancient Worthies may have a special reward, above and separate from the world of mankind?

SOLOMON — Means peaceable, Jesus the Prince of Peace.

8:13 — O, THOU THAT DWELLEST IN THE GARDENS! — The world, the restitution classes thus address the Lord Jesus, their Savior. Thou who hast superintended the work of cultivation of the hearts of mankind.

THE COMPANIONS ARE LISTENING FOR THE VOICE. — The Great Company has listened and are listening to thy commands. They have entered with joy into the King's palace (Psa. 45), helping in the regenerating and bringing up of the world of men. They have learned to love thy voice, and to listen for its music. The Great Company have had the most close contact with the world during the Kingdom (Ezek. 44:9-14). They were once with us.

CAUSE ME TO HEAR IT — They would say, these others have been perfected through heeding thy voice, there is hope for me; I also would be thine and share the joys of the redeemed, of eternal life and peace in harmony with our Creator. We too have learned to love the voice of our Savior, and to realize its thrilling music. Show us thy will.

8:14 — The vision is ended, and we are still in the world with the work of the Kingdom not yet begun, or just beginning. This look into the future has been a glorious one, strengthening the heart and will, and renewing our determination. But now there is still work to be done here. But O, make haste! We are eager to help bring about such glorious blessings. The world also will learn to love the Master and his righteousness, and be eager for their share in the Kingdom of God.

BE LIKE A GAZELLE — Swift and sure of foot, beautiful and gentle.

UPON THE MOUNTAINS OF SPICES — Working in all the countries of men, directing, renewing their youth and vitality and fullness of life. Soon this world will be dwellings of sweetness and love and peace and plenty, the fulfilled longings of all nations. “I will make the place of my feet glorious.” (Isa. 60:13) “I will make my mountains a way, and my highways shall be exalted.” (Isa. 49:8-12) “The Kingdoms of this world have become the Kingdoms of our Lord and of His Christ, and he shall reign forever and forever.” (Rev. 11:15)

ISAIAH

ISAIAH = Salvation of Jehovah. The key word is Salvation. Isaiah is divided into books, each of which has a theme running through it and a different theme for each.

SECTION I

CHAPTERS 1-5 — Generally denounces nobles and people for their careless living and character. Gives warning of the fires of judgment destroying all but a purified remnant.

Six woes are uttered: against covetous masters of land, luxurious revellers, bold sinners who defy the judgments of the Lord, confounders of moral destructions, self-conceited skeptics, perverters of justice.

CHAPTER 6 — Who will carry the message?

CHAPTERS 7-9 — Do not make foreign alliances, but trust Jehovah.

CHAPTERS 10-12 — Destruction of evil contrasted with the Kingdom of God.

CHAPTERS 13-23 — Woes and judgments on various nations. From his watch-tower the prophet views the world and its course of disobedience to ruin.

THE WOES OF ISAIAH
Babylon — 13:1 - 14:27	Egypt — 19 and 20
Philistia — 14:29 - 31	Babylon — 21:1-10
Moab — 15 and 16	Edom — 21:11, 12
Damascus — 17	Arabia — 21:13-17
U.S.A. — 18	Valley of Vision — 22

CHAPTERS 24-27 — Messiah's Kingdom, the destruction of evil powers.

CHAPTERS 28-35 — Further prophecies of the destruction of evil leaders and doers, and the establishment of the Kingdom.

CHAPTERS 36-39 — Hezekiah's deliverance from the Assyrians, and lengthening of his life.

SECTION II

Predictions, warnings, promises, which refer to events beyond the captivity and reaching on down through the centuries through the Christian Age. This portion specially rich in Messianic references.

SALVATION	SEVEN EVERLASTINGS
a) Wells — 12:3	1) Strength — 26:4
b) Joy of — 25:9	2) Judgments — 33:14
c) Walls of — 26:1	3) Joy — 35:10
d) Everlasting — 45:17	4) Salvation — 45:17

g) Spread of — 52:10	7) Light — 60:19
h) Arm of — 59:16
i) Helmet of — 59:17
j) Garments of — 61:10
k) Light of — 62:1

2:2 — IN THE LAST DAYS — The Millennium.

MOUNTAIN — Kingdom

LORD'S HOUSE — Jehovah's house = His tabernacle (Rev. 21:3), His temple (1 Cor. 3:16, 17; 1 Pet. 2:5) the Christ, head and body.

SHALL BE ESTABLISHED — Set up, prepared. (See Isa. 40:3)

TOP OF THE MOUNTAINS — As a kingdom (the fifth universal empire) over-topping and overruling all other kingdoms.

EXALTED ABOVE THE HILLS — Exalted above the highest peaks.

ALL NATIONS SHALL FLOW UNTO IT — The world of men shall flow unto it. i.e. shall seek to become part of the Kingdom, to come under its blessings, become proselytes of the Gate, Israelites, children of Abraham. (Rev. 21:24-26; Rom. 4:13, 17, 18) (Z.'09-30; R.4321) (Jer. 12:15-17)

2:3 — MANY PEOPLE — All the willing and obedient of the race.

HE WILL TEACH US OF HIS WAYS — He will take away the stony heart out of their flesh and give them an heart of flesh, and teach them His ways, His plans and methods, the ways of love and righteousness. (Jer. 31:33; 24:)

HIS PATHS — The paths of truth, of righteousness, of peace.

OUT OF ZION — The Christ, head and body, Zion glorified. The spiritual phase of the Kingdom.

FROM JERUSALEM — The earthly phase, in the hands of the Ancient Worthies, whose capital will be at Jerusalem. "Princes."

2:4 — JUDGE AMONG THE NATIONS — The nations of earth as now organized. This judgment is now in progress.

REBUKE MANY PEOPLE — In the time of trouble.

THEY SHALL BEAT THEIR SWORDS INTO PLOWSHARES — As a result of His rebukes, and subsequently this Law and Word. There will be communication between the "Princes" and the Church, that all things may be ordered aright; for these will be perfect men like Adam before he fell. This communication is typified in the vision of Jacob's ladder (Gen. 28:10-15) and by our Lord's words in John 1:51. These fore-shadowed the close communion between the two phases. (D629)

4:1 — IN THAT DAY — In the harvest time when Christ is judging the Church.

SEVEN WOMEN — The complete number of the sects of Christendom. (2 Cor. 11:2)

OF ONE MAN — Christ Jesus.

WE WILL EAT OUR OWN BREAD — We do not want to take the bread from heaven that is on the Lord's table, but we want to believe Evolution and our creeds, what our Theological professors bake for us.

WEAR OUR OWN APPAREL — Walk in our own righteousness, and believe in our own schemes for salvation, not wear the robe (believe in the Ransom).

LET US BE CALLED BY THY NAME — We want to be known as Christians, because it gives us a good standing in society, or is good for our business.

TO TAKE AWAY OUR REPROACH — Lest people should think we are what we really are, just plain worldly people and not Christians at all.

5:1 — HIS VINEYARD — The house of Israel, fleshly Israel.

A VERY FRUITFUL HILL — Under circumstances where it was possible to have very rich fruitage; under God's providing care and protection (like the rich man's table).

5:2 — HE FENCED IT — The Law Covenant, the "middle wall of partition."

GATHERED OUT THE STONES THEREOF — Stumbling stones of Satan's deceptions and errors, which darkened the minds of the surrounding nations.

PLANTED IT WITH THE CHOICEST VINE — Out of the Jewish nation was to come the real seed. But as no one was able to keep the Law, so no one could get real life and when Christ came he kept the Law and inherited all the promises and thus became the true vine, and the faithful of Israel became branches in it, and the nation as a whole lost its favor (see John 15), and new branches were grafted in to replace those broken off. The Jewish nation was God's husbandry.

The richest promises, of the Messianic Kingdom and the blessing of all families of earth. This condition continued till Jesus' time, though troubles were from time to time permitted of the Lord, the breaches were always healed and the nation was preserved.

BUILT A TOWER IN THE MIDST OF IT — Place for watchmen, the prophets or prophecies. (See note Matt. 21:23-46)

ALSO MADE A WINEPRESS THEREIN — Something to make manifest the sweet rich fruitage of ripened character, namely the religious instruction about God and His Law and His blessings and punishments to aid in character building.

BRING FORTH GRAPES — Characters ready and glad to receive the Messiah when he should come. All God's blessings were so provided for them that if rightly received they would produce fine rich characters ready to receive Jesus when he should come.

AND IT BROUGHT FORTH WILD GRAPES — Perverse character, of the Adversary's spirit. (John 8:44)

5:4 — WHAT COULD HAVE BEEN DONE MORE TO MY VINEYARD, THAT I HAVE NOT DONE — God here calls all to witness to the justice of His dealings with Israel and how much He had done for them, so that none could say He was unjust. This is the main purpose of God's plan, to reveal His character to all his creatures. God certainly did all He could for the Jews without forcing their minds.

BRING FORTH GRAPES — God knew He would not get perfect grapes, but He had a right to expect heart endeavors, even if there were fleshly imperfections.

BROUGHT IT FORTH WILD GRAPES? — The Lord's favor and the knowledge of His goodness as it had reached them had not brought forth pleasant fruit—love; but that which was acrid and bitter, selfishness, self-indulgence. (Z. '01-348; R.2904)

5:5 — I WILL TAKE AWAY THE HEDGE THEREOF — Take away the protection of His power and care, the Law Covenant, break down the "middle wall of partition." (Eph. 2:14, 15)

AND IT SHALL BE EATEN UP — The vineyard (Jewish nation) be devoured by Gentile nations, by destruction by army of Titus, A.D. 70.

BREAK DOWN THE WALL THEREOF — See comment of this verse for "Hedge thereof."

AND IT SHALL BE TRODDEN DOWN — The beasts of the field, Gentile nations, have ravaged the vineyard.

5:6 — AND I WILL LAY IT WASTE — It was not that the Jewish nation was worse than the others, for the reverse was true, but the Gentile nations had not been specially planted, hedged about, specially watered and guarded. Where more was given more was required. (Z. '11-105; R.4795)

I WILL ALSO COMMAND THE CLOUDS THAT THEY RAIN NO RAIN UPON IT — No divine blessing, comfort, encouragement, and fructification.

5:7 — AND THE MEN OF JUDAH — Jesus was of Judah.

HIS PLEASANT PLANT: AND HE LOOKED FOR JUDGMENT — God had a right to expect a rich fruitage of His favors. Yet God has not cast them off forever, but will have mercy on them and what He will do for them is a sample of what He will do for all.

BUT BEHOLD OPPRESSION — Having given Israel His Law, instructing them through it respecting right and wrong in their dealings one with another, the Lord had reason to expect “judgment”—justice, but He beheld oppression. He beheld that those who had the greatest knowledge of His righteousness were still exercised by a spirit of selfishness, taking advantage of their more ignorant brethren.

A CRY — Of the oppressed. The reason for this national cry is given in verse 8. A cry from those who under the present social order fail to get their reasonable and legitimate share of the bounties which the Lord had so freely granted.

5:8 — WOE UNTO THEM THAT JOIN HOUSE TO HOUSE, THAT LAY FIELD TO FIELD — The method of oppression causing the cry. A condition very similar to that in Great Britain and throughout Europe—large estates held by private owners and thus withdrawn from the use and occupancy of the people in general. Also Landlordism—adding house to house. The Lord declares of the future that; “They shall no more build and another inhabit, no more plant and another eat.” (Isa. 65:21, 22) houses will be built for the owner’s occupancy and not to be rented. (Z. '01-348; R.2904)

Then as now Landlordism took possession of vast areas neglectful of the fact that “the earth hath the Lord given to the children of men,” and not merely to a few of them. (Z. '12-313; R.5112)

NO PLACE — For the poor to occupy. Devouring widows houses, under legal technicalities. Then and now these were not filled with neighborly love which would lead them to assist the poor, and be generous toward all. The sin of selfishness, avarice, shows a lack of the Lord’s spirit. The majority of Jews of Jesus' day were tinctured with selfishness, and not in a condition to accept him.

5:9 — MANY HOUSES SHALL BE DESOLATE, EVEN GREAT AND FAIR, WITHOUT INHABITANT — Even great and fine residences be without inhabitant. Large plantations are managed by employers instead of each person planting and reaping on his own account. It is intimated that by and by this will lead to serious results. When the present social fabric breaks up and there is “no hire for man or beast” (Zech. 8:10) no peace to him that goeth out or cometh in, then the large plantations and farms will be at a serious disadvantage and the yield diminished. The time of trouble will be specially against the great who live in palaces and who for safety's sake will desert these or be destroyed in the period of anarchy. (Z. '01-349; R.2904) Many of the rich will be in a sad plight in their country-side homes.

5:10 — AND THE SEED OF AN HOMER SHALL YIELD AN EPHAH — The Prophet seems to indicate that a shortage of crops would have much to do with the trouble. Never before has the world been so amply fortified against all peculiarities of conditions. Drought and famine in one part may be relieved by the surplus of another part. The entire situation is in the Lord's hands, and if a shortage of food supply should now come it would indicate a divine intervention in the matter. (Z. '12-314; R.5112)

EPHAH — One-tenth homer.

5:11 — THAT THEY MAY FOLLOW STRONG DRINK — Also the wine of Churchianity, Babylon, which confuses those who use it. It addles their judgment and brings the people into captivity to false doctrines and false teachers because they have no knowledge. This stimulating power is not the Spirit of a sound mind, but the delusion of false doctrines, “drunken, but not with wine.” (Isa. 29:9-13) (Z. '01-349; R.2904)

THAT CONTINUE UNTIL NIGHT, TILL WINE INFLAME THEM! — As then many of the rich so did, to their own injury and the neglect of their responsibilities to God, so now they asked—“Am I my brother's keeper?” By their intellect and good fortune they had triumphed over part of the curse and no longer had to earn bread by sweat of face; but this gave them time for which also (beside their wealth) they were responsible. Instead of using it to help fellow men they acted as above. Can they wonder at the result and disaster? The selfish poor and selfish rich will join struggle. (Z. '12-314; R.5112)

5:12 — THE HARP, AND THE VIOL, THE TABRET, AND PIPE — Instruments of joy and praise they do indeed employ, spending much money for grand pipe organs wherewith they would praise the Lord, even in the delirium of their false conceptions of His character and plan.

THEY REGARD NOT THE WORK OF THE LORD — God's way of using His time and talents to bless and help and encourage others. (Z. '12-314; R.5112)

This is the effect of the accumulation of wealth. They are not looking to see what the Lord is doing, nor inquire to know the mighty work He is about to accomplish in the setting up of His Kingdom. Hence to them the overthrow of Babylon will be a strange work. (Isa. 28:21)

5:13 — THEIR HONOURABLE MEN ARE FAMISHED, AND THEIR MULTITUDE DRIED UP WITH THIRST — This is the famine, not for bread or water, but for a hearing of the message of the Lord, the Gospel of Messiah's Kingdom. (Z. '12-315; R.5113)

Because the people have no knowledge they are consumed with thirst. The wine of false doctrine has produced erroneous views on various questions, and with the muddled condition of mind there comes a thirst for more knowledge and for explanations and consistency which their teachers cannot satisfy. The people in general have lost their taste and appreciation of the water of life, the Truth, and false teachers warn them against it as poison. The wine of false doctrine now being manufactured at all the Theological Seminaries (Evolution and Higher Criticism) does not satisfy the thirst, but increases the confusion of mind and makes null every attempt to appreciate and comprehend the divine plan. Even Babylon's notables are dissatisfied. (Z. '01-349; R.2904)

5:14 — HELL — The grave, will be greatly enlarged in the time of trouble. (Matt. 24:22) (Z. '12-315; R.5113)

AND HE THAT REJOICETH, SHALL DESCEND INTO IT — The grave figuratively opens her mouth to swallow those up. Undoubtedly large numbers will perish literally from the earth in the time of trouble. But it will specially enlarge to take into it more than human beings—the great octopus system of Babylon with its many arms, financial, political, social, religious, etc. humbling all classes together and exalting the Lord and his righteousness. (Z. '01-349; R.2904)

5:18 — WOE UNTO THEM — Those who will bring the special woes upon themselves are not those who beset by temptations yield through weakness, but such as greedily take hold of sin and iniquity, through their vanity and self-conceit. (Z. '01-349; R.2904)

CORD, CART-ROPE — Are used to tie on larger loads than the wagon would usually carry. So some in pride and self-conceit and greed use their power to enlarge the scope of their evil doing and commit greater crimes.

5:19 — THEY SAY, LET HIM MAKE SPEED . . . THAT WE MAY KNOW IT! — Pooh-poohing any statement of their punishment and of the Lord's kingdom.

5:20 — WOE UNTO THEM THAT CALL EVIL GOOD, AND GOOD EVIL — They deceive themselves into supposing that they are hastening the Lord's work and acting under his counsel in their various sectarian enterprises. But they are not in a condition of mind to appreciate the Lord's counsel, being drunken with false doctrine. Hence they put light for darkness and vice versa, good for evil and evil for good, and are wise in their own eyes, mighty in respect to their own wine of false doctrine. They call the eternal torture theory the gospel whereas it is most awfully bad news, and denounce the truth.

5:22 — WOE UNTO THEM THAT ARE MIGHTY TO DRINK WINE — Great exponents of sectarian theology and false doctrines. (Z.'01-349; R.2904)

5:23 — WHICH JUSTIFY THE WICKED FOR REWARD — They slander and misrepresent those who are loyal to the truth, taking away their righteous character by slander. And for a fee will preach sermons over the wicked and waft them to heaven. Justify the wicked for reward. (Z.'01-349; R.2904) They also justify those who oppose the truth, for the sake of the salary.

6:1 — SAW ALSO THE LORD — Jesus, not Jehovah.

SITTING UPON A THRONE — The Millennial Kingdom of Christ, the Great Throne (white).

HIGH AND LIFTED UP — "Exalted above the hills." "On the tops of the mountains."

AND HIS TRAIN FILLED THE TEMPLE — True Church, his train = his followers, the Church and the Great Company. The scene of the vision was the Temple, but instead of the candlestick, table, and golden altar, etc. there was the great throne.

6:2 — ABOVE IT STOOD THE SERAPHIMS — God's four attributes in beautiful harmony and bearing testimony to his greatness and glory.

6:3 — HOLY, HOLY, HOLY — The superlative degree, "most holy."

THE WHOLE EARTH IS FULL OF HIS GLORY — Or "Let the whole earth be full of God's glory." This must be future for the whole earth has not yet been full of His glory.

6:4 — AND THE HOUSE WAS FILLED WITH SMOKE — This vision is referred to in John 12:41. Jesus at the first advent appeared and tentatively offered himself to Israel as their great king of glory, mediator of the New Covenant promised by Jehovah. (Jer. 31:31). God knew Jesus would be rejected, yet the offer was made. Had he been received and taken his Messianic Glory and Power, it would have meant that a sufficient number of Jews had received him with their whole heart, so as to constitute the complete bride class, to be associated in the Spiritual Kingdom. No offer would have gone to the Gentiles to become members of the Bride, and Israel would at once have been the channel of blessing to all. But when the voice declared, “Let, etc.” the unreadiness of the world to receive the message was indicated by the shaking of the door posts and darkness beclouding the scene (glorious). The fulfillment of this we see in the fact that the Jewish nation, the doorway to this glory, was not in a proper condition. A new doorway must be provided, through which the glories of the King of Kings will issue forth to the world. St. Paul declares that the shaking of anything, in typical sense, signifies its removal, because of its instability, that something superior may be established in its stead. The Jewish Nation, a new doorway, a new channel of access to God between God and men has since been in process of establishment. No other nation in the world was found more worthy than Israel, of the honored position, so God proceeded to make a new nation composed exclusively of saints. (1 Pet. 2:9) Saintly Jews and Gentiles, and gathered during this age, will be completed in the first Resurrection. Then everything will be in proper readiness, and the command—“Let the whole earth, etc.” will go forth and the world be blessed.

6:5 — WOE IS ME! FOR I AM UNDONE — Isaiah recognized that the shaking of the door posts and obscuring mist meant an unpreparedness somewhere for the glory of the Lord, and he cried out recognizing his own imperfection and the imperfection of those among whom he dwelt. A glimpse of the Lord’s glory showed his own defects and those of his neighbors. (Z.’11-91; R.4787)

This was the effect of Jesus’ teaching upon all those who received the message. The Law shone out more resplendently than ever, and they found that they violated it more than they had supposed, in deeds, thoughts, and words. The holy ones, represented by Isaiah, took the matter to heart, humbled themselves before the Lord, and acknowledged that they were not fit to be teachers of men, but that the whole Jewish nation and all others were imperfect and that any message their lips could carry would be imperfect. (Z.’11-91; R.4787)

FOR MINE EYES HAVE SEEN THE KING, THE LORD OF HOSTS
— Woe! I am a man whose lips are not clean enough to join with you seraphim in praising the Great King, much as I would like to do so. Those who most fully recognize the holiness and perfection of God—these, more than do others, feel their imperfections and blemishes, unworthiness, although actually they are far superior to others of the human family, else they would never be granted such insights into the divine plan, character, and coming glory. Humility is an appropriate grace even to the angels. Whoever has a deep humility of heart, an intense appreciation of his own demerits, and of the divine perfection, is in a condition of heart ready to receive divine blessing, and for usefulness in the divine service, while the Pharisaical are in a deplorable condition, wholly unfit to be used of the Lord, as messengers of divine grace. (Z. '93-305; R.2371)

Those who would speak the message of present truth in love and with courage and fearlessness of men, need just such an encouragement as the Lord granted to Isaiah. A vision of the King in his beauty, and they need to hear distinctly uttered the fact that ultimately the Lord will establish his Kingdom which shall fill the whole earth with his glory. And so God is now granting just such a message to those who would be his mouthpieces. The present Truth, “meat in due season,” provides a waking vision of the Lord’s glory, never conceived before, but now clearly recognized, and we see the divine attributes as never before, in full harmony and accord in God’s great work. Those who thus see divine grace in its effulgence and who nevertheless realize their own imperfections and unworthiness—these are granted the opportunities of being mouth pieces of God, by being touched with the antitypical coal from the antitypical altar—touched with the consecration (spirit) of the great sacrifice. And these are anxious to render service to our Lord, and who are commissioned to bear the message of present truth to others. (Z. '98-307; R.2371)

6:6 — FROM OFF THE ALTAR — God’s altar of sacrifice. “Since you have realized your own blemishes and God’s goodness, you shall be granted powers of speech and eloquence and words that are not your own, but which are beyond your natural ability and inspired by the Lord—your lips shall be inspired with the message of the great salvation, the message of love, the fire, the zeal which shall prompt and consume that sacrifice, and with the grand results which shall follow. You may in your lips at least be cleansed from all sin.” (Z. '98-305; R.2371)

6:7 — AND HE LAID IT UPON MY MOUTH . . . THINE INIQUITY IS TAKEN AWAY — Picturing how the saintly ones of Israel and from all nations during this Gospel age, have had the required blessing upon their lips and how proclaimed the divine invitation. (Rom. 12:1) This message has taught a cleansing from sin and a service to God.

6:8 — THEN I SAID, HERE AM I, SEND ME — The vision had the desired effect upon Isaiah, establishing more firmly his faith, manifesting to him the divine greatness and power, to him the highest of holy things. His heart was quicken with a desire to further engage in God's service, no matter what the message God would send. So when the Lord asked for a servant he immediately responded, not only willing but anxious. So now none are forced into God's service, all must be volunteers, no soldiers of the Cross are drafted. The Lord does not even press us to become his servants, but, as to Isaiah, he shows us his character and plan, and lets us know he is seeking such to worship him as worship and serve in spirit and in truth, and this knowledge is his (call.) This is quite sufficient for all who have tasted of God's grace, appreciatively, for to such, to know there is an opportunity of rendering service to the King of Kings is to volunteer their services, to pray that the Lord will grant them a privilege of doing what they can. Only such are true mouthpieces of God. False prophets effect to serve the Lord, but teach for hire. (Z. '98-307; R.2371)

6:10 — MAKE THE HEART OF THIS PEOPLE FAT . . . LEST THEY SEE . . . AND BE HEALED — This message was not a pleasant one. It showed the divine foreknowledge that all the warnings and chastisements which had come upon Israel and Judah, and other punishments yet to come would fail to reach their hearts, and as a consequence their land would be desolate. This was a difficult message to deliver to any people and Isaiah was specially prepared for it. We are not surprised that it was resented, and even the ray of hope which his message contained that a remnant would be spared and returned to their own land and the national hope thus revived was no doubt considered as adding insult to injury, by the proud and self-willed people. Though Isaiah lived to the good age of seventy, there seems to be reasonable ground for the tradition that he was sawn asunder. Not long after this vision, Israel (ten tribes) were carried into captivity and although a reformation set in with Judah, it was temporary, and Judah's share in the prophesied captivity came about 150 years later. (Z. '98-306; R.2371)

6:11 — AND HE ANSWERED, UNTIL THE CITIES BE WASTED . . . AND THE LAND BE UTTERLY DESOLATE — Antitypically applies to Christendom now. The message of present truth is resented by those who love sectarianism and the worship of human theories and creeds better than they love the Lord and his message. (Z. '98-306; R.2371)

Particularly they resent the restitution message. This message would be unpopular. Few would hear, or see, and so few would receive the blessing of forgiveness and blessing and begetting of the Holy Spirit. Only the pure in heart, a "little flock," will get this blessing and be prepared to be the Kingdom class. The new doorway or threshold connecting the divine holy with the world of men. (Z. '11-91; R.4787)

6:12 — See comment verse 11.

6:13 — BUT YET IT SHALL RETURN . . . THE HOLY SEED SHALL BE THE SUBSTANCE THEREOF — The land of Israel (a type of the earth) will become utterly waste and broken down, yet there shall come a sprout of the roots, a holy people, a holy seed will be raised up. The Holy ones on this side of the veil will be the Ancient Worthies and to these princes be gathered the faithful, loyal, holy of the Jews and finally of all nations. (Z. '11-91; R.4787)

The Holy seed has also the Heavenly seed, for the seed of Abraham is of two parts. The Heavenly seed will be hidden, like the root of the oak (“the root of David”) and the earthly seed will be visible, like the stem of the oak.

8: — Time of the events is 741 B.C., two years before the overthrow of Hebrew dominion centering about Samaria and 135 years before the final overthrow of Judah, the smaller section of the Kingdom centering around Jerusalem. The northern Kingdom of ten tribes was destroyed in 739 B.C. by the Assyrians, who came from the great Mesopotamian plains. The Principal actors are:

A) Isaiah, a man of God, wholly consecrated to do Jehovah’s will, and represents a class of wholly consecrated Christians.

B) Judah—the southern two tribe Hebrew Kingdom, Jerusalem its capital, the more faithful of the two Kingdoms and containing the Temple, the center of the worship of Jehovah. Judah represents the Protestant element, a class actually worshipping Jehovah and quite faithful to Him, but few in number.

C) Israel, the northern ten tribe Kingdom, Samaria its capital, the less faithful nation, so far gone from Jehovah’s worship as to be only nominally Hebrew, given to the worship of pagan gods and containing their shrines. It became the residence of Queen Jezebel. Israel represents a large body of professing Christians in name only, actually worshipping pagan gods, sometimes known as Nominalism or Churchianity. In their midst dwells a Jezebel class, a crafty cruel religious class found in both churches but mostly Rome.

D) Syria—a kingdom to the north and east, Damascus its capital, quite pagan in its worship, antagonistic to Jehovah worship, prosperous commercially and antagonistic often to Israel or Judah or both. Syria, not Christian, big business, big politics, at heart opposed to any actual Christian religion, devoted to pagan ideas and practices, but always in more or less dread of Assyria.

E) Assyria, a mighty empire far to the north and east, worshipping gods strange to Israel and Judah and Syria, overwhelming in power, irresistible in war and later to become Babylonian under Chaldean dominion.

Assyria—the hordes of common people not amendable to Christianity of big business or big politics, as a class coming into prominence and power only at the end of the present order and destined completely to end it.

8:1 — SAID UNTO ME — To Isaiah, represents wholly consecrated Christians. Speaking and explaining the word of God without fear or favor.

A GREAT ROLL — Books were then in form of long sheets rolled up, suggesting that the message would go forward in book form, the printed page.

MAN'S PEN — Man-sized, explanations worthy the attentions of mature, real men.

MAHER-SHALAL-HASH-BAZ — Margin: "Heb. In making speed to the spoil he hasteneth the prey," or "Make speed, etc." Represents the Assyrians, the godless class of common people now speeding to the despoiling of their prey, the classes they are about to succeed or supersede politically, economically, and industrially.

8:2 — URIAH — (Fire or flame of Jehovah). A faithful witness to Jehovah.

ZECHARIAH — ("Jah" has remembered), son of Jeberechiah (Blessed of "Jah").

8:3 — PROPHETESS — Perhaps the word of God.

AND BARE A SON — Brought forth in the instance a message — child, a prediction about the vengeance of God against unfaithful big church, big business, big politics.

MAHER-SHALAL-HASH-BAZ — A prediction of the imminent coming of the common people to overthrow the three classes just named.

8:4 — CHILD — Message of divine vengeance.

HAVE KNOWLEDGE TO CRY, MY FATHER — Before the prophecy is generally recognized as of God and His Word.

DAMASCUS — Big business and big politics.

AND THE SPOIL OF SAMARIA — What big church desires, honor of men, ease, and wealth. The common people will in some way take away the special privileges and honor of big business, big politics, and big church.

8:5-8 — THE OVER-FLOWING RIVER — All three nations (Judah, Israel, and Syria) were in danger from an overwhelming attack by Assyria, yet an unnatural combination was being made by Israel and Syria to attack Judah. So now there is a combination of big church, big business, and big politics against the really protestant element.

8:6 — THIS PEOPLE — Israel = big church.

WATERS OF SHILOH — A symbol of the word of God and its message of peace and quiet rest. The Tabernacle had once been at Shiloh. Or it may refer to the beneficial healing of the spring in Jerusalem.

REZIN — King of Syria, controlling group in big business and big politics. The churches delight in favors from the men of big business.

REMALIAH'S SON — Pekah, King of Israel = the controlling group in big church.

8:7 — WATERS OF THE RIVER — (Euphrates)—hosts of the common people.

COME UP OVER ALL HIS CHANNELS — Along every avenue of approach, on all sides.

GO OVER ALL HIS BANKS — Pass all limitations of custom and Law. All classes will be affected.

8:8 — TO THE NECK — Overwhelming.

STRETCHING OUT OF HIS WINGS — The spread of his power shall be over all civilized lands of so called Christendom.

8:9 — THE TWO ASSOCIATIONS.

ASSOCIATE — Reference is to the unnatural associations of Israel and Syria against Judah. Their schemes to overthrow the truth and God's people shall not succeed, but as a result they themselves shall suffer the loss of all they have.

YOURSELVES — In a league of nations.

8:10 — TAKE COUNSEL — Hold many deliberative meetings. All the councils of the League of Nations have come to naught. Their commands are laughed at and not respected.

GOD IS WITH US — God is with His people.

8:19 — AND WHEN — Now, in the end of this Gospel age, the harvest time. Openly people are invited to seek the mediums and spiritualists, and these have a scientific standing.

SEEK UNTO THEM — Mediums, who act as agents, channels of communication between fallen angels and men.

FAMILIAR — (Strong's Conc.) Owb, from same root as awb = father, probably in sense of prattling a father's name. Hence prop. a mumble. i.e. a water skin, from its hollow sound, hence a necro-mancer (ventriloquist, as from a jar) (Mumble without knowledge, or truth.)

FAMILIAR SPIRITS — Evil spirits, the demons that infest earth's atmosphere, and are busily engaged in personating the dead, representing that they are the spirits of the departed ones, thus confusing and deceiving many who do not heed the Scriptures as these tell that the dead are dead and will not be alive or conscious till the resurrection.

WIZARDS — Mediums, who act as agents, channels of communication between fallen angels and men.

THAT PEEP, AND THAT MUTTER — These wizards peep (tsaphaph) to coo or chirp (as a bird) (whisper) and mutter mysteriously in the dark, instead of working in the open, where all may be clear and plain. The powers of righteousness do not have to labor in the dark or in underhanded ways, as they have nothing to conceal.

SHOULD NOT A PEOPLE SEEK UNTO THEIR GOD? FOR THE LIVING TO THE DEAD? — R.V. = "On behalf of the living should they seek unto the dead?" and so Leeser.

8:21 — BESTEAD — Leeser = "oppressed." Beset with difficulty.

AND HUNGRY — The hungry ones are those who neglect God's Word and give heed to doctrines of demons. They are dissatisfied and suffer pangs of regret and remorse, finding nothing to satisfy their cravings in the direction in which they seek light. A deplorable condition of darkness and anguish of mind. (Bible Question Box)

LOOK UPWARD — Leeser: "turn toward on high (for aid)."

8:22 — DIMNESS — Gloom. (Leeser)

THEY SHALL BE DRIVEN TO DARKNESS — R.V. = "Into thick darkness shall they be driven away." Leeser = "Be scattered into obscurity."

9:1 — This verse should be the last verse of Chap. 8. (So in Leeser.) R.V.—"But there shall be no gloom to her that was in anguish. In the former time he brought into contempt the land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, but in the latter time hath he made it glorious, by the way of the sea beyond Jordan, Galilee of the nations.”

9:2 — UPON THEM HATH THE LIGHT SHINED — The standpoint of the shining light is still future. The great light is not yet shining upon the people. They still dwell in the land of the shadow of death (this earth under the curse). The shadows of our demoralized sinful, dying condition affect all of life’s interests for the world. (Rom. 8:22) The world still waits for this great light (Mal. 4:2; Matt. 13:43) Darkness still covers the earth (civilized society) and gross darkness the people (Heathen). The light now shining is like a lamp. (Psa. 104:5) But the light will shine upon all. (John 1:9) The prophecy goes beyond those living of that time and assures us that the light will shine upon all those in the shadow of death—in the deadly shade, properly a title of Sheol. Upon every member of our race the light must shine, because Christ has redeemed us once for all. They are as sure to get a blessing from Christ’s redemptive work as they surely shared in the curse that came upon Father Adam. (Z. ’05-381; R.3686)

9:3 — THOU HAST MULTIPLIED THE NATIONS THOU HAST INCREASED THEIR JOY — R. V. Evidently correct, also Leeser. The picture presents to us the world of man during the Millennial Age, brought forth from the bondage of death, released from the Adamic curse. (Multiplication by resurrection.) Rejoicing as those who divide a spoil, sharing in something which is not theirs, something fallen to them. So, the blessings of Millennial Age will be distributed as divine bounty, curse will be rolled away. The Sun of Righteousness will shine for all with healing in its beams, bringing restitution for all, and none will escape the blessings except they wilfully refuse them and do despite to God’s favor. (Z. ’05-381; R.3686)

By and by sight and knowledge will largely take the place of faith. The world then realizing the grace of God in Christ Jesus, forgiving their sins, and providing them with eternal life if they accept it, will generally rejoice to divide the great spoil, the gift of God. (Z. ’05-381; R.3686)

9:4 — THE ROD OF HIS OPPRESSOR — This verse tells the cause of rejoicing, because the great oppressor, Satan, will no longer have control, his yoke of sin, pain, sorrow and death, his rod and staff of affliction and slavery will be broken and that forever. The victory over Satan is not to be a slow and gradual one, by missions or any power of ours, but the Lord himself shall interpose his power. (Z. ’05-382; R.3686) (Rev. 20:3)

AS IN THE DAY OF MIDIAN — Referring to the deliverance of Israel from oppression, through Gideon, when suddenly at the breaking of pitchers and the blowing of ram’s horns the Lord overwhelmed the powerful hosts of the enemies of His people and granted them a great and miraculous deliverance. It was after the testing of this little company that the Lord sent deliverance. So in the end of this age; as soon as the Gideon band, the Royal Priesthood under the captaincy of the glorified Savior, shall have given their message and let their lights shine out, the Lord will grant the great victory for truth and righteousness through a time of trouble which shall come upon the world, but which will eventuate in a great blessing upon all people and the binding of Satan and release of all the oppressed. (The Midianites slew each other). (Z. '05-382; R.3686)

9:5 — FOR EVERY BATTLE OF THE WARRIOR...AND FUEL OF FIRE

— A.R.V.: “For all the weapons of the fighters in the battle’s tumult and the garments rolled in blood, shall be burned, become fuel for the fire.” All the weapons of Satan, and accessories of sin and death, everything that pertained to this great conflict which for centuries has prevailed in the world between right on the one hand and sin on the other, all these shall be utterly destroyed. The picture shows us the world cleansed of every evidence of opposition to the divine government and law of righteousness. (Rev. 5:13) (Z. '05-382; R.3687)

9:6 — FOR — Because—an explanation of the process by which the foregoing gracious prophecy of blessing and release from the oppressor shall be accomplished. The Lord would draw the attention of all who had the hearing ear of faith to the fact that no such Kingdom of Righteousness, no such enlightenment and blessing of the world could be possible until first Messiah should come. (Z. '05-382; R.3687)

UNTO US A CHILD IS BORN — Messiah would be born after the manner of mankind, yet nevertheless would be the Son of the living God. How beautiful and simple is the statement from the standpoint of faith, yet how possible for the wisdom of this world to stumble over such simple statements and claim as do higher critics that this prophecy was wholly to the Jews of Isaiah’s day and that the one of promise was King Hezekiah. (Z. '05-382; R.3687)

THE GOVERNMENT SHALL BE UPON HIS SHOULDER — The figurative epaulettes of authority and honor will be on the Lord Jesus. (Z. '04-366; R.3469)

The weight and responsibility will be upon him. The responsibility falling upon him as a royal mantle from the Heavenly Emperor, Jehovah. The prophecy steps over the earthly trials and sufferings of our Redeemer, the Head and the Church his Body through the Gospel Age. It ignores the names Beelzebub, Prince of Devils, man of sorrows, etc. and points us to the second Advent to the complete and glorified Messiah, as viewed by Jehovah, and as the whole world will ultimately recognize him. (Z. '05-382; R.3687)

AND HIS NAME — A name stands for or represents the character, disposition, qualities or powers of an individual. Thus all these names, titles given to our Lord = his majesty, dignity, power, glory of his work. (Z. '05-382; R.3687)

WONDERFUL, COUNSELOR — (See note A.R.V). Our Lord is already recognized by his true followers who know him as the most wonderful counsellor; no other counsel or teaching. The world in general has yet to learn this about Him, but it will be generally known before the close of the Millennial age, for to him every knee shall bow and every tongue confess to the glory of God the Father. If after they have confessed him the wonderful, wise counselor, guide, teacher, they wilfully ignore and reject his teaching and assistance, and sin wilfully, intentionally, they must die the second death. (Z. '05-382; R.3687) He is also the wonderful one of all the Father's family.

MIGHTY GOD — Not the Father but the Father's representative voice, mouthpiece, the well beloved Son whom he has clothed with glory, honor, immortality, and given all power in heaven and earth (Matt. 28:18) necessary to accomplish the great work entrusted to him. (Rev. 1:8) The fitness for which he proved by his love and loyalty unto death.

EVERLASTING FATHER — Since our Lord purchased the world of mankind at the cost of his own life, since it is by virtue of that purchase he became its restorer, life giver, and since the very central thought of the word Father is life giver, our Lord could take no more appropriate name or title than "Everlasting Father" to represent his relationship to the world about to be regenerated, (Matt. 19:28) born again from the dead by a resurrection process, restitution. The world's life will come directly from the Lord Jesus, who bought it and paid justice the full price for it. (He will give the world his own life rights which he won by obedience, human life rights.) Nevertheless, the restored world, after the restitution process has been finished, will recognize Jehovah as the great original fountain head of life and blessing, the author of the plan of salvation executed by Jesus, the Grand Father and over Lord of all. (1 Cor. 15:24-28; 3:23) (E142) Adam, man's father, failed to give them life. Our Lord Jesus redeemed Adam and all his possession, and thus became the author of everlasting life to all who will obey. (Z. '05-383; R.3687) (For the church's share in this life giving see note 1 Cor. 15:45).

PRINCE OF PEACE — While his kingdom will be introduced by the great time of trouble, the trouble will not be of his producing. It will be the legitimate result of the wrong course of sin and selfishness fostered by the great oppressor, Satan. His love of peace will not hinder him from dashing in pieces as a potters vessel, the nations, that righteousness may be established upon a firm and sure foundation. He will put down, subdue all enemies, all insubordination to the divine will. He will not fail nor be discouraged. Nothing shall hinder his accomplishing of this great mission. (Z.'05-383; R.3687)

9:7 — OF THE INCREASE OF HIS GOVERNMENT AND PEACE

THERE SHALL BE NO END — From the time of its beginning to the end Messiah's government will be one continuous success; there will be no breaks or vicissitudes. The discipline and order which he will establish will be on such a firm basis that each succeeding day will see it more secure, until finally the consummation reached, and the incorrigibly wicked destroyed, the dominion without ending will be passed to the Father. (Z.'05-383; R.3687)

DAVID — Beloved (Eph. 1) and the Kingdom entrusted to David was God's Kingdom in a typical form which was promised never to pass away. It was maintained by the Lord down to the time of Zedekiah, when we are told the crown and diadem of authority and power were removed to be overturned, overturned, overturned till he should come whose right it is. Our Lord in the flesh as the descendant of David was the legitimate heir to that crown and dominion, that Kingdom of David which should have no end. But instead of establishing his Kingdom then, he declared—"My Kingdom is not of this world," and began to select a little flock to be his joint heirs. When Christ and the Church shall reign over the earth it will then be the continuation or exaltation of the Kingdom, which was begun in David and natural Israel. This greater David (Acts 15:16), this greater beloved one of the Father, full of grace and truth, will establish righteousness in the earth. (Z.'05-383; R.3687)

THE ZEAL OF THE LORD OF HOSTS WILL PERFORM THIS —

Although the Millennial Kingdom will be under the direct supervision of our glorious Lord and his associated Church, yet behind will be the Father's power, communicated, delegated, granted. It was the Father's Kingdom from the time of David; it will be the Father's Kingdom under the control of Messiah, during the period of subjugation and restitution; it will be the Father's Kingdom without end "after it shall have been delivered up to God, even the Father," and the assurance given is that the work of reconstruction will be so thoroughly carried out that never again will sin bring a curse.

11:2 — AND THE SPIRIT OF THE LORD SHALL REST UPON HIM,

THE SPIRIT OF WISDOM — Accustomed as all mankind have been to misrule and misgovernment, it was necessary that assurance should be given to Israel that the Kingdom of Messiah which God would one day set up in the earth would not only have good motives and intentions but would also possess superior power of knowledge and judgment.

11:3 — AND SHALL MAKE HIM OF QUICK UNDERSTANDING IN THE FEAR OF THE LORD — The new King will not need to rely on the common channels of information in the giving of his blessings and in giving his reproofs and chastisements, but will have a superhuman endowment of power by which he will know the very thoughts and intents of the heart. He will not need to judge after the hearing of the ear or the sight of the eye, as must all earthly rulers, however well intentioned. (Z. '14-339; R.5573)

11:4 — AND REPROVE WITH EQUITY FOR THE MEEK OF THE EARTH — It was proper that Israel and all others should know that the Kingdom of God to be established would be absolutely just and impartial; for their experiences have proved that even the wisest and best of their rulers, law makers, judges, etc. have been largely governed by selfishness. The world's great ones have amassed wealth at the expense of their subjects, and have made their special friends wealthy and granted them special privileges, often at the expense of the poor, the helpless, the despised. Hence the Lord assures us that earth's new King will administer equity toward all, that the meek, the backward, the modest and unassuming, those indisposed to press their claims and assert their rights, will have his particular assistance; and the poor, who have few to sympathize with them or encourage or help them will find in the new King a friend. He will reprove the rich in equity in the interests of the meek of the earth. (Z. '14-339; R.5573)

AND WITH THE BREATH OF HIS LIPS SHALL HE SLAY THE WICKED — How could this be possible if equity had already prevailed by a gradual process, so there were no poor and no rich, and all had become meek. This shows that at the time, when the Kingdom is established there will not only be poor, needing assistance but there will be wicked also.

ROD OF HIS MOUTH — The judgments he has already expressed, and which have very largely gone unheeded by Christendom (see John 12:48). (Z. '14-339; R.5573)

11:5 — GIRDLE — Diligence, service. Messiah will be a faithful diligent servant of God, accomplishing all the work entrusted to his care. (Isa. 42:1-4) (Z. '14-340; R.5574)

11:6-8 — Not only is mankind to be restored, brought back to his primeval condition of human perfection and harmony with his maker, but the lower animals will also share in the blessing. In the Genesis account there is no intimation that the animals over which Adam had control were wild, vicious, at enmity with man. The implication is that they were in complete subjection to their perfect master. We may reasonably suppose that while the race under sentence, gradually lost more and more of the likeness of their maker in which the first man was created, they at the same time lost the power of control over the lower animals. The nature of the power possessed by the perfect Adam may still be imperfectly traced in the superior ability of certain of the fallen race to control the brute creation. Some men can exercise mental force and control not only over wild horses, but also over ferocious beasts of the jungle. Adam was declared by the Lord to be King of the earth, and as such he was recognized by the lower orders of creation. After mankind had lost his original mental power to control the lower animals, a warfare sprang up between them, in which man has been compelled to pit force against force, as he has lost his hold upon the animal creation. The restoration of man to that exalted position lost by sin implies naturally therefore a restoration of the brute creation to primeval conditions. In Isa. 65:25 the same thought is conveyed. The reference there may be to men who were formerly of wolflike and lamb-like dispositions or character, or it may refer to animals, or to both. The expression in either case means a blessed reign of peace.

11:7 — LION EAT STRAW — If this refers to literal lion it would imply that they will lose their carnivorous dispositions and undergo some change which will make them herbivorous, as originally created. (See Isa. 65:25) The “dust the serpent’s meat” see Psa 72:9. This means the destruction of the serpent, or rather Satan whom the serpent symbolizes.

11:9 — KNOWLEDGE OF THE LORD — Not the knowledge of mankind, not the knowledge of sin, not human philosophy—none of these are to fill the earth and bring blessings to the world of men. But the knowledge of the Lord. “This is life eternal, to know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent.” (John 17:3; Jer. 9:23, 24) (N-5-9-'09)

AS THE WATERS COVER THE SEA — (Not merely showers, but a downpour of truth and grace which will produce a flood of righteousness and knowledge of the Lord, world wide and ocean deep. (N-9-'09) It seems almost too good to be true that after a reign of 6000 years of sin and death the struggle of truth with error, of righteousness with sin for so long centuries, that the time should ever come when righteousness and the knowledge of God should gain so complete a victory so thorough a mastery of the world! When the united energies of Christendom during the last century, to spread the knowledge of God among the heathen, has accomplished so little that at the end of the century there are twice as many heathen as at its beginning! The Scriptures answer that the conversion of the world will come “not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord.” During the Gospel age His Spirit has been poured only on His servants and handmaidens, but in the next age he will pour out His Spirit upon all flesh. (Joel 2:28, 29) (N-5-9-'09)

13:1 — BURDEN — Doom.

13:2 — LIFT UP YE A BANNER — The standard of the blessed Gospel of Truth, divested of the traditional errors that have long beclouded it. (D40)

UPON THE HIGH MOUNTAIN — Among those who constitute the true embryo Kingdom of God. (D40)

EXALT THE VOICE UNTO THEM — Earnestly and widely proclaim this truth unto the bewildered sheep of the Lord's flock who are still in Babylon. (D41)

SHAKE THE HAND — Shake, or motion with, the hand = let them see the power of the truth exemplified, as well as hear its proclamation. (D41)

THAT THEY — (The willing and obedient) may realize the blessings of the truly consecrated and heirs of the kingdom of heaven. (D41)

13:3 — I HAVE COMMANDED — They know the Lord's will and plan and set about doing it.

MY SANCTIFIED ONES — The Church, sanctified by the truth, set apart for God's service.

I HAVE ALSO CALLED MY MIGHTY ONES — "Ye are all gods (mighty ones, in Jehovah's power)."

FOR MINE ANGER — To execute His judgment upon the nations. (Psa. 149:5-9; Rev. 2:26, 27)

EVEN THEM THAT REJOICE IN MY HIGHNESS — Rejoice in God's glory and righteousness and plan and power. "Rejoice ye in the Lord" in His character and plan, etc. (1 Thess. 5:16; Phil. 4:4)

18:1 — WOE — Prof. Young: "Ho! to the land."

TO THE LAND — U.S. (with Canada)

SHADOWING WITH WINGS — Under divine care and protection.

(1) This favored land was unknown to civilization, kept hidden as it were until the due time, until it was needed as a home, an outlet for the rapidly overcrowding masses of Europe. It was open at a time when the Reformation movement was agitating Christendom, so called, when the study of the Bible was awakening conscience and character and Christian common sense. The awakened class was not the rich, titled or very comfortable, neither the poor degraded ignorant, helplessly poor, but the middle class of Europe. These did the thinking and protesting and endured the suffering under the persecution engendered. These needed an asylum and found one in this favored land, shadowed, cared for, by the wings of divine providence.

- (2) Many feared the influx of so many of the middle and lower classes, yet natural laws and legislation have hindered the coming of the most degraded, under divine providence the assimilating process has kept pace with the immigration, so that the vast improvement in manners and appearance is phenomenal, and suggests the greater work of restitution by and by.
- (3) Her wars have had a just cause, not for conquest, and in no instance has she treated the vanquished ignobly. Millions of money were paid to Mexico and Spain when it need not have been paid, but large indemnities might have been forced.
- (4) The prosperity of this land a constant surprise to the world. The poor from all nations have become the wealthiest nation on earth.
- (5) "Statue of Liberty enlightening the world." The influence of liberty here has been a potent factor in breaking the shackles of serfdom throughout the world. The practical illustration of people governing themselves so successfully, so prosperously, excited the admiration and envy of the world, and led to concession of greater liberties everywhere. No land could so well lay claim to being shadowed or protected by divine providence as these United States. (Z. '04-231; R.3405)

WHICH IS BEYOND THE RIVERS OF ETHIOPIA — In ancient times little was known of the world's size. Ethiopia was called the ends of the earth. Queen of Sheba came from the ends of the earth (Ethiopia). (Matt. 12:42) Hence "Beyond the waters of the ends of the earth"—a very fitting description of America, yet unknown and not intended to be pointed out at that time.

18:2 — THAT SENDETH AMBASSADORS — EVEN IN VESSELS OF BULRUSHES — Books and tracts going out in every direction bearing God's messages as ambassadors to all who have an ear to hear the message. (The literature sent out.)

GO, YE SWIFT MESSENGERS — "Light messengers." Harvest literature going to all parts of earth in various languages. These originate in the land shadowed by wings of divine Providence. From no other land could they be so well sent, and tolerably certain, too, that had it not been for "Liberty enlightening the world" other nations would not permit the publication of so glorious a "gospel of good tidings of great joy which shall be unto all people."

TO A NATION SCATTERED AND PEELED — These messages go to the Holy Nation, Royal Priesthood. Many people and various may handle and read these messages, but they are only for the one, and it is doubtful if any others will be able to understand the message now. The description fits no other nation. A nation scattered and polished (R. V.: smooth)

TO A PEOPLE TERRIBLE — In their experiences.

A NATION METED OUT — Whose course and experiences in life the Lord has measured out for them for their highest welfare.

AND TRODDEN DOWN — As a part of their necessary experiences “Bearing his reproach,” (Heb. 13:13; 1 Cor. 4:13) “Offscouring of all things.”

WHOSE LAND THE RIVERS HAVE SPOILED! — The river of death separates this holy nation from their inheritance on the other side of the veil (or of Jordan)—or as in Psa. 46:4—these messengers have a message of comfort, special consolation, and interest to every member of this holy nation: a message that the time of Zion’s travail is nearly ended, and we will soon be delivered in the First Resurrection.

18:3 — ALL YE INHABITANTS OF THE WORLD. . . HEAR YE — By these paper-messaged divine messages, all inhabitants of the earth who can see and hear are called upon to note the Lord’s ensign, about to be set up in his kingdom and the trumpet of Jubilee sounding to grow more and more distinct and the Jubilee morning dawns.

18:4 — CLEAR — “Tsach” = dazzling, i.e. sunny, bright; (fig.) evident (from tsachach = a prim root = to glare i.e. be dazzling white.)

HEAT — “Chom” — heat, from chamam (a prim. root) = to be hot.

HERBS — “Owr.”

18:4-6 — (Lang) In verse 3 the prophet intimated something great was impending. Now he declares a waiting period, before the destruction of evil. He can say it because Jehovah revealed it to him. For a time God will keep altogether quiet as a mere observer. Like warmth and dew ripen the harvest, so by the favor of the increase of knowledge and travel and God’s now intervention, the powers of evil and oppression will be brought almost to the greatest prosperity.

Verse 4—Almost! For before the highest point is reached the oppressor and the powers of evil will be destroyed (rep. then by Assyria, as in Isa. 10).

Like one destroys a vine by cutting off not merely the grapes, but the branches and sprouts.

Verse 5—So terrible will be this overthrow that the beasts of prey shall all through summer and winter find abundant to devour on the field of battle. Fowls = spiritual evil leaders; Beasts—the selfish little kingdoms of earth. (There are always thieves and looters in every great disaster). This would imply a reign of anarchy. The Lord purposely abstains from interfering. He quietly allows matters to take their course, waits patiently until His time comes. This quiet observant waiting, with the advantages of increased knowledge and travel and added blessings of the last days is likened by the prophet to the weather most favorable for maturing the harvest—warm days and dewy nights. The summer heat, the nightly dew is an extraordinary benefit to vegetation. Dew is often used as a figure of blessing. (Gen. 27:28; Deut. 23:2; 33:13, 28; Hos. 14:5; Micah 5:7; Prov. 19:12)

FOR — In verse 5 connects two thoughts implied in verses 4 and 5. Only immediately before maturity of events will He intervene.

HARVEST — Evidently refers here to the grape or wine harvest. Here not the true vine but the vine of the earth. (Rev. 14:18-20) By an emphatic use of words the second phrase (to cut down) explains the first (to take away) affirms that the enemy will be thoroughly destroyed; not merely a gleaning but a cutting off and removal of the very branches that bear fruit—a terrible overthrow of the Assyrian army (powers of evil), dead bodies in vast numbers so that birds and beasts find abundance of food summer and winter.

18:7 — IN THAT TIME — “At that time”—when the church is presented to the Father.

SHALL THE PRESENT BE BROUGHT UNTO — To the full realization of the heavenly glories. (Z. '10-232; R.4649)

19:1 — BURDEN — Doom. (Leeser)

OF EGYPT — The world (Rev. 11:8) kingdom of darkness. A prophecy of the overthrow of the present social order and arrangement, its doom.

SWIFT CLOUD — Time of trouble, which come swiftly when once started. (Zeph. 1:18; Rev. 1:7; Psa. 97:2, 3) Jehovah's day of vengeance.

AND SHALL COME INTO EGYPT — The second presence of Christ, come to the world to judge the nations. (Rev. 2:27)

AND THE IDOLS — Creeds, or idolatry of money over which the whole world has gone mad.

OF EGYPT SHALL BE MOVED — Be effectually and entirely overthrown.

AT HIS PRESENCE — The second presence of Christ.

AND THE HEART OF EGYPT SHALL MELT — Men's hearts fail them for fear of the things they see coming upon the earth.

THE MIDST — Christendom, the center of the world's activities, and the place where the strife will be hottest, melting.

19:2 — THEY SHALL FIGHT EVERY ONE AGAINST HIS BROTHER — Every man's hand against his brother (Matt. 10:21) ending in universal anarchy. (Dan. 12:1)

19:3 — AND THE SPIRIT OF EGYPT SHALL FAIL IN THE MIDST THEREOF — They shall lose their courage and become fainthearted, fear, lose their self-confidence.

AND I WILL DESTROY THE COUNSEL THEREOF — The wisdom of their wise men shall perish. (Isa. 29:14; 1 Cor. 3:18-21)

AND THEY SHALL SEEK . . . TO THE WIZARDS — The increase of Spiritism in the end of the age. (Isa. 8:19; Matt. 24:26; Jude 6; 2 Thess. 2:9-12)

19:4 — CRUEL LORD . . . FIERCE KING — Satan. God's restraining hand will be removed. And the Adversary will work wonders and a time of anarchy shall rule.

19:5 — AND THE WATERS — Truth.

SEA — Discontented masses of mankind, restless.

RIVER — River of Babylon (Euphrates, symbolic), the support shall be taken away from Babylon, as in the type (see note Dan. 5:1); or as in Psa. 46:4 the river represents God's Word a fountain of truth and grace; this shall become a sealed book (Isa. 29:9-12), be esteemed a book of fables, or no better than any other book. Sun be darkened and moon turned to blood. (Joel 2:31)

SHALL BE WASTED AND DRIED UP — Shall cease to give people in world any light or truth, because they have turned their backs on it (Psa. 50:17) key of knowledge taken away. (Luke 11:52)

19:6 — RIVERS — Channels by which truth comes to the people (sea) and (land).

FAR AWAY — Leeser: rivers become foul = be filled with muddy waters of tradition and so clogged and foul. (See Ezek. 34:18, 19)

AND THE BROOKS . . . DRIED UP — Leeser: deep streams (the foundation doctrines of the church such as Ransom, Sanctification, etc. be lightly esteemed as unworthy of intelligent minds. Evolution and New Theology be preached instead.)

THE REEDS AND FLAGS SHALL WITHER — Babes in Truth, weaker ones in Christ shall hunger and starve for lack of nourishment; these grew by the streams.

19:7 — THE PAPER REEDS — Leeser: well rooted plants = those stronger ones in the church, teachers, great lights, fall away. Stars fall from heaven. (Matt. 24:29)

SHALL WITHER, BE DRIVEN AWAY — Shall lose the spirit of the truth and be dry, driven away by wind (Leeser) of false doctrines. (Eph. 4:14).

AND BE NO MORE — Shall cease to be teachers, cease to be God's mouthpieces, shepherds. (Ezek. 34:10; Jer. 23:1-4)

19:8 — THE FISHERS — Teachers, those seeking souls.

ALSO SHALL MOURN — Because there are no more fish (Hosea 4:1-3) the fishes of sea (those men of better class, who seek good) to be taken away.

ALL THEY THAT CAST ANGLE — Do a fishing business, who set out attractions to draw the fishes.

SHALL LAMENT — See note on "shall mourn."

AND THEY THAT SPREAD NETS — Organize churches, sects, creed-fenced enclosures, and seek to gather men into them by various means.

SHALL LANGUISH — See note on "shall mourn."

19:9 — FINE FLAX — White linen = robe of Christ's righteousness; hence those who work among the justified and to justify.

THAT WEAVE NETWORKS — Leeser: weave white cloth. Those who help others to put on that robe.

SHALL BE CONFOUNDED — “Woe to them that are with child and to those who give suck in those days.” (Matt. 24:19) These all shall be ashamed and confounded. (Jer. 8:13-15)

19:10 — AND THEY SHALL BE BROKEN IN THE PURPOSES

THEREOF — Their plans and purpose shall come to nought; or as in margin, the whole structure of Christendom is to be broken down and not one stone left on another.

SLUICES AND PONDS FOR FISH — Receptacles to hold the fish, make organized work for them to use their activities in.

19:11 — ZOAN — An ancient city of lower Egypt called Tanis by the Greeks, on the east bank of the tanitic branch of the Nile. Its name indicates a place of departure from a country, hence it has been identified with Avaris, capital of the Shepherd Dynasty in Egypt. Num. 13:22 says Hebron was built seven years before Zoan in Egypt, and Hebron was built or was a town in Abraham’s day (Gen. 13:18; 23:19). The Shepherd Invasion (Hyksos) was about then. It is mentioned in connection with the plagues in such a manner as to leave no doubt that it is the city mentioned in Exodus as that where Pharaoh dwelt. (See Psa. 78:42, 43; Isa. 30:14; Ezek. 30:1-4) Zoan therefore seems to represent the civil seat, the government seat of a dynasty in the days of Psammetichus, quoted by Manetho as the 21st and 23rd. (S.B.D. and Young’s) See notes, end of Chap. 19.

PRINCES OF ZOAN — Government officials and King’s advisers. “There came up from the east, in a strange manner, men of an ignoble race, who had the confidence to invade our Country and easily subdue it without a battle. This invading nation was styled Hyksos, i.e. Shepherd Kings.” (G.P.P.) So Jesus at his second advent will enter Egypt (the world) in a strange manner, and easily subdue the inhabitants; will bind the ruler of the darkness of this world; hold him captive 1000 years; and through man will build a great Pyramid—the restored perfect race of men, etc. (see chart); and then will leave the world to man’s control. (Bible Question Box. N. Labor. Trib. 5-15-’13)

SON OF ANCIENT KINGS — Hereditary aristocracy, sons of nobles, anciently Lords and Barons. How can you claim to be wise when you cannot see how to settle these troubles or what they all mean?

19:12 — LET THEM KNOW WHAT THE LORD OF HOSTS HATH

PURPOSED UPON EGYPT — Leeser: “that they know what the Lord hath purposed.” Let them explain the present conditions after a century of the greatest missions and after so great peace efforts. Same as in Isa. 41:21-24; God here challenges man's wisdom at this day.

19:13 — NOPH (Jer. 2:16; Ezek. 30:13, 16) or Moph (Hos. 9:6) = Memphis. These forms are derived from the ancient Egyptian name Min-Nufr or Men-Nefru. = "the good abode" or "the abode of the good." Good probably refers to Osiris whose sacred Apis was here worshipped. (S.B.D.) Noph then seems to represent the religious rulers, Ecclesiastics.

EVEN THEY THAT ARE THE STAY OF THE TRIBES THEREOF — The Spiritual leaders, upon whom the people have depended for advice and wisdom have deceived and betrayed the people. Many Bishops and ministers holding stocks and bonds and shares in the gun and powder works. They have departed from the Lord and what wisdom have they now?

19:14 — AS A DRUNKEN MAN STAGGERETH IN HIS VOMIT — Perverse Spirit, opposition to truth and determination to have their own way. This seems to be more and more the spirit of the times. No drunkenness is so harmful and hard to overcome as that by false doctrine, (see notes on Isa. 5:22, 23), nor so blinding.

19:15 — NEITHER SHALL THERE BE ANY WORK — The night of trouble will come when no religious work will be possible and when work on natural lines will be hard to find also.

19:18 — DESTRUCTION — "Harac" (haw-ras) a prim. rt. = pull down or in pieces, break, destroy.

19:19 — ALTAR — "Mizbeach" (from Zabach — to slaughter as a sacrifice) an altar. Same word as used in Psa. 51:19; 118:27; Isa. 6:6. Usual word for altar in Old Testament. See Gen. 13:3, 4; 35:14.

21:1 — BURDEN — Doom.

DESERT — Barren of life, of joy, of pleasure. A vivid description of the down-trodden, exploited masses, deprived of all but the bare necessities of life, that a few may live luxuriously. (James 5:1-6)

OF THE SEA — The prophecy of the destruction of the anarchistic, discontented classes as such.

AS WHIRLWINDS IN THE SOUTH PASS THROUGH — The desert of Arabia was southward.

21:5 — PREPARE THE TABLE — The table Jesus was to feast his people at when he came. The table of present truth.

WATCH IN THE WATCHTOWER — The work of the Watchmen, Charles T. Russell, and us to give heed to it.

EAT, DRINK — The spiritual food so as to be strengthened thereby for the work.

21:6 — SET A WATCHMAN — The watchman has his eyes fixed on the great desert between Judea and Babylonia and he sees crossing that desert and advancing in the direction of Judea, coming away from Babylon a strange procession—first, a horse drawn chariot then one drawn by asses and last one drawn by camels. That is symbolic. The horse drawn chariot is the military conqueror returning in triumph from his conquest—that drawn by asses contains the captives who have been taken prisoner and are being taken to their new home in a strange land; that drawn by camels contains the spoil from the defeated and plundered city. (B.S.M.)

21:8 — HE CRIED, A LION — Marg. = “cried as a lion” with a mighty voice that has resounded throughout all Christendom.

21:9 — AND HE ANSWERED AND SAID, BABYLON IS FALLEN — Bro. Russell has declared this message of the fall of Babylon in the Dawns. Fell in 1878, spewed out.

21:10 — THE GOD OF ISRAEL, HAVE I DECLARED UNTO YOU — “This is God’s message not mine.” Hearken carefully to it.

21:11 — BURDEN — Doom.

DUMAH — Short for Idumea = Edom—descendants of Esau = Nominal Christendom. In the time of her doom men will enquire thus.

SEIR — Mount of Esau.

WATCHMAN, WHAT OF THE NIGHT — What is to be the outcome of this night of darkness? The earnest watcher, still imprisoned in Edom, calling—How far gone is the night?—imprisoned in the darkness and worldliness of modern Edom (Christendom’s churches), longing for the morning when the Kingdom of light and truth and love shall take control—looking to the Watchman for comfort and enlightenment.

22:20 — IN THAT DAY — The Millennial Day.

ELIAKIM — Whom God establisheth.

HILKIAH — Jehovah my portion. (2 Kings 18:18)

24:20 — THE EARTH — Society.

SHALL REEL TO AND FRO LIKE A DRUNKARD — Vainly endeavoring to right itself, maintain a footing and reestablish itself.

AND SHALL BE REMOVED LIKE A COTTAGE — A temporary structure, to clear the way for the new earth (society), the building of God, wherein dwelleth righteousness.

AND IT SHALL FALL, AND NOT RISE AGAIN — See Isa. 26:13, 14. It will be impossible to reestablish the present order of things, because:

- (1) It has evidently outlived its usefulness and inequitable under present conditions.
- (2) The general increase of knowledge secular.
- (3) The discovery of the deceptions of priestcraft, that it has long blinded and fettered the masses, will lead men to generally disrespect all religious claims and teachings as being fraudulent.
- (4) Because religious people in general will ignore reason and logic, justice and scripture in defending the present order of things, not discerning that God's time is come for a new dispensation.

24:22 — PRISONERS — Captives in death.

25:6 — MOUNTAIN — Christ's Millennial Kingdom.

LORD OF HOSTS — It will be Jehovah working through Christ, because while Christ will be using his own power given him by Jehovah as a reward for his faithfulness, yet it will be Jehovah's plan and all the power came from him originally.

MAKE UNTO ALL PEOPLE — Unto all the families of the earth, every man, all who have been Redeemed by Christ.

FEAST OF FAT THINGS, A FEAST OF WINES — A great feast for humanity, implying that mankind have been starving for the message of divine grace; the millions of our race have gone down in ignorance and superstition, famished for lack of the word of God. The bread which came down from heaven, the message of truth and grace which our dear Redeemer brought and exemplified, has indeed been supplied lavishly to some. Some of us have feasted upon the good things of our Father's word and plan. But the great mass of mankind have been so deaf and blind that they see not or understand or receive the grace of God under present conditions. How glad we are that all the blind eyes shall be opened and all the deaf ears unstopped (Isa. 35:5) and the whole world will thus be prepared for the true knowledge of God, whose goodness and loving-kindness and tender mercies will have a softening and mellowing effect on their hard hearts. It is the goodness of God that leadeth men to repentance, and of this it is that mankind needs to learn. There are many hungry hearts in the world—many whose bodies are well nourished have famished hearts which cry out for love and sympathy. He who knows the hearts has prepared this feast which will surely satisfy every legitimate righteous desire. (N-8-1-'09)

There are several differences between this feast for the world in the next age and the present feast of the church during the Gospel age. (1) The present feast is merely a feast of promises which must be partaken of by the exercise of faith while the world's feast will be a very actual one, the realities of blessing, of restitution of health, of strength, mental, moral and physical, bountifully supplied, to be partaken of freely by all who will appreciate them. (2) The present feast for the Church is a spiritual one, relating to a heavenly Kingdom glory and honor—things not seen as yet, except by the eye of faith. While the feast for the world will consist of earthly bounties and blessings, most tangible in kind as well as excellent in quality. (N-8-1-'09) Highly figurative language is used here, but no language could fully and properly set forth the riches of God's grace provided for the world of mankind in that Kingdom. (N-8-1-'09)

25:7 — COVERING — Death, death sentence, condemnation, this will be destroyed, no more curse.

THE VAIL THAT IS SPREAD OVER ALL NATIONS — This vail is none other than the vail of ignorance and superstition which hinders mankind from seeing that God is their true friend, that righteousness and truth are to their advantage, that the ways of the Lord are righteous altogether. The sunlight of the new dispensation (Mal. 4:1) will scatter the clouds and darkness, the vail of ignorance, and let into the hearts of mankind "the light of the knowledge of the goodness of God as it shines in the face of Jesus Christ our Lord." (2 Cor. 4:4-6) This vail will be destroyed and all shall know the Lord and the knowledge of the glorious character of God shall fill the whole earth. (Isa. 11:9; Hab. 2:14; Jer. 31:34)

25:8 — HE WILL SWALLOW UP DEATH IN VICTORY — For several thousand years death has had the victory and the human family have been swallowed up by it, 20,000,000,000 have gone into death and 90,000 go to the tomb every day (estimated). But with the establishment of the Kingdom dying shall cease, death will cease to swallow up the race. None shall die then except for his own wilful sin. (Jer. 31:29, 30). Men will be permitted, helped to return to the liberty of the sons of God. But even this is not enough, God will not merely restrain the power of death, but additionally he will “swallow up death in Victory.” The tomb which figuratively has gorged itself with humanity will be forced to disgorge, to release its victims. “All that are in the grave shall hear the voice of the Son of Man and come forth.” (John 5:29)

AND THE LORD GOD WILL WIPE AWAY TEARS FROM OFF ALL FACES — All our sorrows are more or less intimately associated with the reign of sin and death. Tears are the marks of sorrow, pain, suffering; and the poetic statement that God himself will wipe away all tears of mankind, is a beautiful and forceful suggestion of how the power of the Highest is shortly to be employed, not in the eternal torment of the world, but in its blessing, its uplifting, its comforting, the wiping away of its tears and sorrows. We who have accepted Jesus’ invitation to “Come unto me all ye that labor etc.” and have obtained from him the rest of faith, found that it meant to us the wiping away of our tears, the cancellation to a large degree of our troubles. So we can realize to some degree what peace and comfort, and blessing this will mean to the race.

REBUKE OF HIS PEOPLE — Throughout the period of the reign of Sin and Death there has been a rebuke, an odium, attached to being God’s people. Jesus and his church as the antitype of the bullock and the goat of the sin offering, suffer without the gate, or camp, bearing reproach. (Heb. 13:11-13) “The reproaches of them that reproached thee have fallen on me.” (Rom. 15:3) “The world knoweth us not, even as it knew him not.” (1 John 3:1) “We are become as the filth and offscourings of the earth, as deceivers and yet true.” (1 Cor. 4:13; 2 Cor. 6:8). When the Kingdom is set up and men come to know the Lord then her glory and righteousness will then be recognized by all. “Of Zion it shall be said this and that man was born in her.” (Psa. 87:5) “They are the seed which the Lord hath blessed.” (Isa. 61:9) (N-8-1-'09)

26:3 — THOU WILT KEEP HIM IN PERFECT PEACE — See note on Phil. 4:7 and John 14:27.

26:9 — WITH MY SOUL — My whole being, such have made the love of God and his righteousness a part of their very being.

IN THE NIGHT — The night of Sin. The prophet here personifies the Christ, Head and body. (2 Pet. 1:19; Psa. 30:5)

WILL I SEEK THEE EARLY — Early, before the dawning of the Millennial day, in the night, with the heart, mind, will these not walk after the flesh but after the Spirit. Why will they seek him early?

FOR WHEN THY JUDGMENTS ARE IN THE EARTH . . . THE WORLD WILL LEARN RIGHTEOUSNESS — So that when God's judgments are in the earth, they may rule and reign with Christ and have a share in teaching the world the way of righteousness. The world is now learning much evil, but will then learn righteousness and choose between the two. Then absolute justice, rewards and punishments will be swiftly meted out. All the willing and obedient will learn and choose righteousness and eternal life. (N-12-19-'09)

26:10 — THE WICKED — The thoroughly wicked at heart, who love evil better than they do righteousness.

YET WILL HE NOT LEARN RIGHTEOUSNESS — Showing a willful determination not to do right.

LAND OF UPRIGHTNESS — The Millennial Age—the land that is very far off — when righteousness shall rule.

WILL NOT BEHOLD THE MAJESTY OF THE LORD — A determined opposition to all righteousness, showing they have the Adversary's spirit.

BEHOLD — Recognize, obey, swear allegiance to. These will go to second death. (See Ezek. 47:11)

26:13 — LORDS — Various nations and systems that have oppressed Israel. Some of these are dead and the remainder will die; and as institutions they will die. (Z.'06-56; R.3725)

26:19 — MEN . . . TOGETHER WITH — The translators inserted these italicized words to make the passage clear, as they thought, but instead they obscured it through failure to see that God's "dead men" are the members of the body of Christ. Leaving these words out of the passage reads properly enough—"Thy dead shall live, my dead body shall they arise," thus referring we believe to the resurrection of the church, the body of Christ.

AWAKE AND SING — And this will be a general signal, as it were, for the blessing of all men. In due time all the dead shall be awakened, not to suffering and torment, but to sing. They shall come forth to learn of the goodness of God, his merciful provisions, and shall avail themselves of these provisions. (Z.'10-268; R.4667)

HERBS — (Heb.) oraw, fem. of owr = luminousness, i.e. fig. prosperity, also a plant (as being bright). owr = illumination, or (conc) luminary (in every sense, including lightning, happiness etc.), translated bright, clear, morning, sun, day, lightning (from owr, a prim. root = to be made luminous (oraw translated light in Esther 8:16; Psa. 139:12; twice. Usual word for light is owr (second one above). Usual word for herb is eseb = to glisten, (or be green), grass (or any tender shoot.)

27:1 — IN THAT DAY . . . THE LORD . . . SHALL PUNISH LEVIATHAN. . . AND HE SHALL SLAY THE DRAGON — The binding of Satan and the destruction of all evil systems in the time of trouble at the end of the Gospel age.

27:2 — IN THAT DAY — The dawn of the Millennium, the Harvest of the Gospel age, the day when the great trumpet shall be blown. (vs. 13)

SING YE — The Church; 144,000 who sing the song of Moses and the Lamb. (Rev. 19:5-7) “The spirit and the bride say come.” (Rev. 22)

UNTO HER — Unto fleshly Israel, and through them to the world. In Isa. 5:2 Israel is called the choicest vine, the old vineyard however proved unfruitful and was broken down and trodden down (Rom. 11:25; Luke 24:24). They failed to attain what they sought—to be the true vine for the blessing of all the world, because they sought it not by faith, but by their own works under the Law. They are still under the curse, but not forever (Rom. 11:11, 26, 27; 2 Cor. 3:16), and their deliverance is soon to be, and the vail will not only be taken away from them, but from all nations.

A VINEYARD OF RED WINE — The true vine is the Church, (vs. 3) Jesus the main stalk and we the branches. The vineyards of Israel were among their chief sources of profit, blessing and joy. (Psa. 104:15; Judg. 9:13) This vine, under the Lord’s care will bring forth the desired fruitage (nation that will bring forth the fruits thereof, Matt. 21:43). When the purging is all done, and the fruit ripened then all the families of the earth will have abundant access, freely. Red Wine = rich, ripe, full fruitage of the Spirit, all the graces beautifully, richly developed, full of life giving qualities, invigorating, restoring. This is that mentioned in Isa. 25:6. This also is the new wine of the Kingdom, which Jesus will drink with us. (Matt. 26:19) See also marriage at Cana. (John 3) Wine is a symbol of various things: symbol of the precious blood, (Matt. 26:28); false doctrine that causes drunkenness, (Isa. 28:1; Eph. 5:18; Rev. 17:2); of God’s wrath (Rev. 16:19); literal excess (Prov. 20:1)

27:3 — I THE LORD DO KEEP IT — The Father is the husbandman. (John 15:1; James 5:7)

WATER IT EVERY MOMENT — His provision of truth, all along for the Church.

KEEP IT DAY AND NIGHT — His ceaseless watching care over us. This fruit of the earth is precious to him.

27:4 — THE BRIERS AND THORNS — Protestants and Catholics, heavens rolled together. (Nah. 1:10)

BURN THEM TOGETHER — The destruction of Babylon in the time of trouble.

27:6 — THEM THAT COME OF JACOB TO TAKE ROOT — Fleshly Israel to take new root in the church, who will give them life.

FILL THE FACE OF THE WORLD WITH FRUIT — The Jews have been the keenest and most successful spoilers that ever lived. They commenced it, apparently with Jehovah's sanction (for a type) when they spoiled the Egyptians. Today "Jewing" and cheating are synonymous terms, and God tells us He will yet spoil the nations for their sakes and the sake of their fathers. (Ezek. 39:10) And the time will come in that day, when the Hebrews will restore to Egypt and to all other nations, a thousand-fold of the spoil in blessing, and they will be qualified to do it, when the Law goes forth from Zion and the Word of the Lord from Jerusalem. (vs. 13)

28:6 — FOR STRENGTH TO THEM THAT TURN THE BATTLE TO THE GATE — We are on the defensive, the stronghold Zion is attacked by enemies within and without. The Bible is attacked by so called Higher Critics of the Cross, the doctrine of the Ransom is attacked by Evolutionists and hosts of others, and the long entrenched errors of doctrine are now stumbling many who want to be on the Lord's side of this battle. The enemy of truth, Satan and his deluded followers, must be shown up and driven completely outside Zion's walls, that now at last "wheat" may be distinguished from "tares." (Z. '00-208; R.2662)

28:12 — THIS IS THE REST — Rest. Return to thy rest. (Psa. 116:7) The waters of Shiloah. As follows: In quietness and confidence, (Isa. 30:15); My presence goeth with thee. (Ex. 33:14); When He giveth quietness, (Job 34:29); I will take my rest, (Isa. 18:4); Not enter into my rest, (Psa. 95:11, Heb. 3:11); Arise into thy rest, (Psa. 132:8); This is my rest forever, (Psa. 132:14); Walked like troubled sea, (Isa. 57:20); Come and rest awhile, (Mark 6:31); Rest with us, (2 Thess. 1:7); Quietness and assurance, (Isa. 32:17, 18); His rest glorious, (Isa. 11:10); Earth is at rest, (Zech. 1:11, Isa. 14:7); Where is my rest? (Isa. 66:1); Go to them at rest, (Ezek. 38:11); I will give you rest, (Matt. 11:28, 29); There the weary at rest, (Job 3:17); When rest in dust, (Job 17:16); Rest from their labors, (Rev. 14:13); and Thy flock to rest. (Cant. 1:7)

28:16 — MAKE HASTE — “Chuwsh” — a prim. root = to hurry, fig. to be eager with excitement or enjoyment. Those who put their trust will not be anxious or worried over the outcome of the present trouble, they will understand the meaning and the outcome. But to others it will be a strange work. (Acts 13:41; Hab. 1:5; Isa. 28:21—see note)

28:21 — HIS STRANGE WORK — Because the Lord has generally let the world take its own course in the past 6,000 years (Rom. 1:21-26; Acts 14:6), except in the case of Israel, His interference will seem all the more “strange” to those who do not understand the changes of dispensation due then. None will be more surprised than the “powers of the heavens,” the great ones of Ecclesiastical control—who go about to establish their own righteousness, a plan of their own, have neglected His plan as revealed in His Word. To these the Lord’s work will be indeed a strange work. (D547)

28:22 — LEST YOUR BANDS BE MADE STRONG — The bands which bind the tares together were never so strong as now. Every spare hour of a zealous sectarian’s time is used up in the meetings, projects, etc., and no time is left for free thought and Bible study. (C145)

A CONSUMPTION — Expiration, consummation, the time of trouble, world wide.

28:24 — DOTH THE PLOWMAN PLOW ALL DAY — All the time (Leeser) or all the year, does he open and break the clods continually? Many believe that the chief work of the Church is to sow! sow! sow! all the Gospel age, and when the world is converted then Christ will come. But such is not God’s plan.

28:26 — FOR HIS GOD DOTH INSTRUCT HIM — When the ground is levelled and ready to sow, does not the farmer cast abroad the fitches and cummin, the wheat and barley, in their appointed places? For his God teacheth him so to do. And if God instructs the farmer to use wisdom, will He not be wise Himself in the arrangement of the sowing and reaping, and all the husbandry of the Church. He certainly has all the work of sowing and of reaping in the Harvest all planned out.

28:27 — THE FITCHES . . . THE CUMMIN — Fitches and cummin were small seeds and needed very little and gentle threshing to get at the grain. These represent those Christians who do their Lord’s will as soon as it is seen and quickly come out of Babylon, when called in the harvest, need not harsh treatment. (Z. ’84:1-4; R.576)

NOT THRESHED WITH A THRESHING INSTRUMENT — The heavy threshing instrument cannot be used on these, for it would crush them to bits, but they are threshed out with a stick or rod. (Psa. 32:9) “Be not ye like the horse and the mule, etc.” God does not want us to be like these. He wants us to be true sons who love their Father and who realize that their Father loves them and that He is working for their interest. “As a Father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear Him.” If we are obedient then He will grant us many favors that otherwise He could not grant; tell us His secret plans, and trust us with work to do for Him. (Psa. 25:9; 32:8; Isa. 1:18, 20; Isa. 28:12, 28; 30:15; 17:10, 11)

28:28 — BREAD CORN IS BRUISED — The Great Company, who hang back in Babylon till forced out. The bread-corn being bruised would represent those who are harder for the Lord to lead, who hang back and need chastening, before they obey; but yet the Lord while He grinds them small, does not destroy them. It would never be possible to lead such as God does the Little Flock (“He will not ever be threshing it.”) “Though He drives over it the wheel of his wagon (= chariot = trouble, clouds his chariot. (Psa. 104:3; Isa. 66:15; Hos. 3:8) He will not (thereby) crush it” (Leeser) He will not thus destroy them. God loves them and because they built on that foundation they shall not be destroyed, though their work will be burned, destroyed. (1 Cor. 3:11-15)

28:29 — THIS ALSO COMETH FORTH FROM THE LORD OF HOSTS
— This prophecy is part of God’s wonderful plan.

29:9 — THEY STAGGER, BUT NOT WITH STRONG DRINK — We can see this staggering this uncertainty of mind, through drinking in of false doctrines, everywhere, not merely among the professing Christians in general, but among ministers. They do not know what to think, they are confused, addled. (Z. '01-27; R.2593)

29:11 — AND THE VISION — Vision of the future, understanding of the Bible.

I CANNOT: FOR IT IS SEALED — So much so that few any longer expect to be able to understand the Bible, or to find in it anything reasonable, logical, satisfactory. The learned professor says: “I do not understand it, it is sealed.” How few are able to give a reason for their hope, or to quote the Bible on any subject in a connected, logical and reasonable manner.

29:12 — I AM NOT LEARNED — This is the attitude of the common people. They say they cannot be expected to understand or explain the Bible, since they are unlearned. That the exposition of the Bible should be left to the doctors of theology, who are paid for that purpose.

29:13 — THEIR FEAR TOWARD ME IS TAUGHT BY THE PRECEPT OF MEN — Their heart is full of fear because they have accepted the precepts and traditions of men, instead of the Word of God so generally neglected.

30:8 — THE TIME TO COME FOR EVER — For ever = “ad” = terminus, (end); i.e. (by impl.) duration. When used as prep., (adj. or conj.) = as far as (esp. with a prep).

AND EVER — “Olam” = concealed, i.e. the vanishing point; hence literally “until the consummation,” “until it be fulfilled (vanish).”

30:33 — FOR TOPHET — The Valley of Hinnom. Here used as a type or figure of destruction.

FOR THE KING IT IS PREPARED — Satan, represented here by the King of Assyria. (vs. 31)

THE BREATH OF THE LORD — “Neshamaw” = breath, as in anger, from nasham = to blow away, or destroy.

31:8 — MIGHTY MAN — “Ish” (a male).

MEAN MAN — “Adam” (common man).

32:15 — THE SPIRIT BE Poured UPON US FROM ON HIGH — Through the New Covenant in the Millennium. (Joel 2:28)

THE WILDERNESS BE A FRUITFUL FIELD — The earth now a wilderness, under the curse, will become fruitful, many will seek and learn righteousness and reach perfect life. “Israel shall blossom and bud and fill the face of the world with fruit.” (Isa. 27:6)

BE COUNTED FOR A FOREST — Forest of trees, restitution class of perfect men. (Psa. 1)

33:1 — WOE TO THEE THAT SPOILEST — The Papacy.

AND DEALEST TREACHEROUSLY — When Papacy had full control they oppressed and broke covenants and promises, could not be safely trusted.

THEY SHALL DEAL TREACHEROUSLY WITH THEE — When her power is going and she is desperately striving to use others so as to regain power, those she has deceived will deal treacherously with her.

33:14 — THE SINNERS IN ZION — Sinners against the covenant, Great Company, covenant breakers.

THE HYPOCRITES — Tares. We withdraw from the covenant and hang back, we cannot have fellowship with His people, and are in danger of second death. When we become disobedient and sinful we are in danger of becoming odious in God's sight. Unless cleansed we "cannot enter the Temple."

34:1 — COME NEAR, YE NATIONS, TO HEAR — There is a message to tell them. God's saints will tell it to them.

THE EARTH — Present organization of society.

ALL THINGS THAT COME FORTH FROM IT — All selfish and evil things that come forth from the spirit of the world.

34:2 — The message is concerning the fall of Babylon and the destruction of its military system.

THE INDIGNATION — The time of trouble.

ALL NATIONS — Including heathendom also, because they have preferred darkness to light. (D70)

HE HATH DELIVERED THEM TO THE SLAUGHTER — Taking a future standpoint.

34:3 — THEIR SLAIN ALSO SHALL BE CAST OUT — See Isa. 26:21.

THEIR STINK — Evil reputation, they will be shown up as gone to rot and evil of character and influence.

THE MOUNTAINS — Kingdoms.

34:4 — THE HOST OF HEAVEN — Ecclesiastical heavens. The Nominal Church. It will avail little then that the heavens shall have rolled together, united.

ROLLED TOGETHER AS A SCROLL — The two great bodies which constitute the Ecclesiastical heavens: Papacy and Protestantism, as the two distinct ends of the scroll are even now rapidly approaching each other, rolling together.

SHALL FALL DOWN — Fall off, drop out, not all at once but gradually, yet rapidly.

AS A FALLING FIG FROM A FIG TREE — As something that has rotted, decomposed, putrefied, is the sense of the Hebrew.

34:5 — THE SWORD OF THE LORD — Literally “because.” Sword of His mouth. The Truth shall reveal the lies and selfishness and hypocrisy of much of the religion of the people.

BATHED IN HEAVEN — Ecclesiastical heaven.

UPON IDUMEA — The world. See Isa. 21:11.

THE PEOPLE OF MY CURSE — Nominal Church, Laodicean, cursed, cast off from God’s favor, eternally.

34:6 — FAT WITH FATNESS — Gluttoned, over filled, as if crammed.

THE BLOOD OF LAMBS — Of the tribulation saints. (D17)

AND GOATS — Mere professors, tare class, self-willed.

A SACRIFICE IN BOZRAH — Bozra, still noted for its goats. Lambs, the tribulation saints (Rev. 7:14) who neglected to use the opportunities granted them, and did not so run as to obtain the prize of their high calling. Though not counted worthy to escape the trouble as matured “sheep,” yet they are not rejected of the Lord. Goats = tares. Bozra = Ecclesiastical system. (D17)

34:7 — THE UNICORNS — The Reem, or wild bull. Bullocks and bulls = leaders of the people.

SOAKED WITH BLOOD — Or drunken = mob lust.

34:8 — THE LORD’S VENGEANCE — The time of trouble.

34:9 — THE STREAMS SHALL BE TURNED INTO PITCH — The channels of teachings, supposedly truth. Pitch, easily ignited, temper of the people boiling, as in Korea and Turkey. (1960) Edom is by the southern end of the Dead Sea, where pitch abounds, allusion to the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah. A destruction that is beyond man’s power to stop.

AND THE DUST THEREOF — The little internal faults and evils daily practiced shall result in unquenchable trouble destroying the whole structure. (vs. 10; Isa. 30:33)

BRIMSTONE — Destruction.

BECOME BURNING PITCH — Idumea stretches southward to include the land near the southern end of the Dead Sea, where was the site of Sodom and Gomorrah, and the petroleum pits.

34:10 — THE SMOKE — The remembrance of the destruction of the present order of things, the present system of error and deception.

34:11 — CORMORANT — The Pelican (Heb. from a word meaning “to vomit.”)

BITTERA — Some think the porcupine—doleful creatures (Isa. 13:19-22) of desolation and despair, ruin.

STONES OF EMPTINESS — Plummet of Chaos, R.S.V.

34:12 — ALL HER PRINCES SHALL BE NOTHING — Afraid to acknowledge who they were and the positions they held, as in terror of French Revolution. Name it “no Kingdom” R.S.V. Royalty in Edom was not inherited, but Esau’s descendants formed a high nobility from which the King was elected. But none will call out a monarchy, the people will hate rulers because of the corruption among them.

34:13 — I SHALL BE A HABITATION OF DRAGONS AND A COURT FOR OWLS — Pictures of desolation and emptiness.

34:14 — THE WILD BEASTS OF THE ISLAND — Men will act like wild beasts. The demons make a mess of human society. Daughters of owl = night creatures. The prophet mentions a “female being, a specter of the night, restlessly wandering (Matt. 12:43). Lilith in this ruin and chaos, finds a comfortable condition to stay in. A picture of the riot of the demons. Lilith = a beautiful female specter that carried off children at night and destroyed them.

34:16 — SEEK YE OUT THE BOOK OF THE LORD AND READ — Prophecies of evil and desolation and their mates = the fulfillment. They will all be fulfilled and carried out to the last line.

34:17 — THEY SHALL POSSESS IT FOR EVER — The present evil order will never be allowed to happen again. It will be destroyed forever.

35:9 — BUT THE REDEEMED — “Gawal” = to redeem (in accord with oriental custom and law, to be next of kin, buy the property and marry the widow)—the Church?

35:10 — THE RANSOMED — “Pawdaw” = a prim. root, to sever, i.e. ransom, generally release, preserve, deliver. The world.

40:1 — COMFORT YE — The Church, those who have the knowledge of the Lord’s times and seasons are the only ones who can declare this message.

COMFORT YE MY PEOPLE — Comfort the Jews by this following message.

40:2 — COMFORTABLY — Speak “to the heart of.”

WARFARE — Appointed time of punishment, the double as in Zech. 9:12.

40:3 — THE VOICE OF HIM — Jesus was indeed the honored servant of Jehovah and His representative in the fullest sense. But he himself declares: “The Father hath sent me” (John 6:51); “As I hear I judge” (5:30); “I can of mine own self do nothing” (John 10:28); “My Father is greater than I.” John the Baptist but foreshadowed a greater messenger the Church in the flesh, which in turn will usher in the glorified Christ (head and body) and the work of the glorified Christ will be a still further step in the same great work of preparing the way of Jehovah and making the place of His feet glorious. (E44)

This was partly fulfilled at the first advent. John the Baptist was in the wilderness (outside of the Scribes and Pharisees and the nominal system) so now the John class is not crying or proclaiming from the city Babylon the Great, not from the citadel of Christendom; but from the wilderness, from those who are more or less separated, from those who have heard the Voice of the Lord saying “Come out of her, my people.” (Rev. 18:4)

MAKE STRAIGHT . . . A HIGHWAY — A straight path is certainly being marked out in the wilderness, the people are coming to see gradually what constitutes justice from the divine standpoint, the path that Jehovah God will take when coming to mankind to require an accounting for the blessings of religion and of enlightenments granted to man in this day. “Show his path of righteousness, make it known to all the people.” (N-10-30-10)

42:13 — HE SHALL PREVAIL AGAINST HIS ENEMIES — While God declares Himself a God of peace, order and love, He also declares Himself a God of justice and shows that sin shall not forever triumph in the world, but that it shall be punished. God attributes this great cry and roar to Himself, since they are accomplishing though unwittingly (Isa. 10:7, 8) His work of destruction. (D549)

The Law said—“thou shalt not kill,” but Jesus magnified that when he taught that whosoever hateth his brother without a cause is guilty of murder. The Law said thou shalt not steal, but Jesus taught us that we should not merely refrain from robbing our neighbor, but be ever ready to share with him what we had, even to the extent of laying down our lives for the brethren. The Law said “honor thy father and thy mother,” but we are instructed to honor all to whom honor is due. The Advents hold and see that Jesus magnified all the commandments but the fourth, but they fail to see that he magnified that, the Sabbath, too. On the contrary they believe he made it smaller. They say: "Before Christ every little act contrary to the Sabbath command, even the building of a fire, was to be severely punished, but since Christ's sacrifice so long as we do our best to keep the Sabbath, the Lord will pardon and overlook where we come short in our obedience to that command." That would magnify God's mercy, but not His command. Would it be magnifying the command number six if we should say "Before Christ murder was to be severely punished, but since then if you try to keep the Law—thou shalt not kill—it will be all right if you do kill a man once in a while?" See note on verse 21.

42:17 — TURNED BACK — "Cuwg" (soog) = lit. to flinch; to retreat (or fig. to apostatize). Will be caused to retreat, in their mad pursuit of wealth or pleasure etc., turned back in route and dismay in time of trouble. (James 5)

YE ARE GODS — The worshipping of money, fame, etc., now. These will be ashamed that they did not make better use of their opportunities.

42:18 — YE DEAF — Deaf to God's word and warnings.

BLIND — Blind to God's will, and cannot see anything but their own way.

THAT YE MAY SEE — Get your eyes opened to the proper way and your own folly and cease to seek selfish pursuits.

42:19 — WHO IS BLIND — Blind to self and self interest, does not apply scriptures to self, blind to own greatness.

MY SERVANT — Christ and then those who have his spirit.

DEAF — Deaf to all appeals to selfish interests, hearing only Jehovah's message. Blind and deaf to earthly ambitions and prospects and worldly wisdom, to the intent that they may the more diligently render obedience to their high calling which leads them to ignore present advantages, to sacrifice them all, laying down even life itself in service of truth. (Z. '03-111; R.3176)

AS HE THAT IS PERFECT — "Shalam" = to be safe (in body, mind or estate), to be completed. (Strong) Devoted.

42:20 — SEEING . . . THOU OBSERVEST NOT — Not the blindness of ignorance. It is not that we do not see earthly advantages, but we purposely reject, close our eyes to all such earthly allurements, heed them not. (Z. '0-3-111; R.3176)

HE HEARETH NOT — Opening the ears of others to hear the divine messages, but hears nothing that appeals to selfishness, closes his ears to it.

42:21 — THE LORD IS WELL PLEASED FOR HIS RIGHTEOUSNESS SAKE — God is highly pleased with such a character as Jesus' because it is like God's own and we are to be copies of the likeness of His son.

HE WILL MAGNIFY THE LAW AND MAKE IT HONORABLE — See the note on Isa. 42:13. Christ magnified this for us from one day to 7,000 years (61,362,000 times); for the world (Millennium) 1,000 years (8,766,000 times).—Bro. Hollister.

44:27 — I WILL DRY UP THY RIVERS — A prophecy of how Babylon would be taken, by the drying up of the Euphrates. A type of how Christendom would be overthrown by the antitype of Cyrus, Jesus Christ in glory.

44:28 — THAT SAITH OF CYRUS — History gives Cyrus a very honorable character, calling him "gracious, clement and just, treating men as men, and not as mere tools to be used and cast aside—a conqueror of quite a different type from any the world had previously seen." Plutarch declares—"that in wisdom, virtue, and magnanimity he seems to have surpassed all kings." (Z. '11-378; R.4892)

AND TO THE TEMPLE, THY FOUNDATION SHALL BE LAID — Showing how Christ will build the antitypical temple (the Church) and set up the New Jerusalem, the heavenly and also its earthly counterpart.

45:1 — CYRUS — The sun. He was a sun to the captives in Babylon, shedding light and warmth on them, setting them free from captivity and letting them return to their own land. But the greater Cyrus is the "Sun of Righteousness, who will arise with healing in his wings (beams) shedding light (truth) and the warmth of love on the whole race, giving life to all and sustaining life in all. As then it was not a compulsory return from captivity in Babylon, so under Christ it will not be compulsory, but voluntary.

SUBDUE ALL NATIONS BEFORE HIM — Cyrus thus became king over the whole world, king of kings and lord of lords. So the greater than Cyrus will become King of Kings and Lord of Lords, over the whole world. Israel included.

THE GATES SHALL NOT BE SHUT — Gates of death (dying condition) and hell, two leaved (Rev. 1:18), they will not be shut but opened (Isa. 61:1) and all mankind will come up out of death and hell (Rev. 20:13), to perfection and restitution.

45:2 — BREAK IN PIECES THE GATES OF BRASS — The gates of Babylon, type and antitype. See Psa. 107:16.

45:4 — I HAVE SURNAMED THEE, THOUGH THOU HAST NOT KNOWN ME — This applied to the literal Cyrus only.

45:13 — HE SHALL BUILD MY CITY — “Ir” = the court wall of the temple.

47:1 — O VIRGIN DAUGHTER — Said in derision of her claim to purity.

47:10 — THY WISDOM — Worldly wisdom.

49:1-26 — This prophecy identifies the faithful anointed as the servant, the remnant being a part thereof. The servant speaks under the direction of the Lord, first to the Great Company class and then to all peoples of good will. Many of the Great Company are in the denominational prison houses and the servant is commissioned to bid them come forth and show themselves, and take their stand on the side of the Lord. The servant is also commissioned to lift up a standard for the people and millions of people of good will hear the message of truth. The servant uses the truth as a sharp sword and as a polished shaft. While the servant is giving this witness, even though the times are dangerous, God holds the faithful ones in the hollow of His hand and shields them from the assaults of the enemy. On the identification of the servant see verse 3.

49:1 — LISTEN, O ISLES — Isles are stable places of land in the midst of restless waters. The mass of mankind is restless. The isles therefore represent certain companies of Christian people who mingle with mankind but who do not trust in the powers of restless humanity. They love the Lord to a degree and yet they are afraid. They do not fully exert themselves on the side of the Lord. These are of the antitypical city of Jerusalem who will be cut off from the city. Zech. 14:1,2.

49:3 — O ISRAEL . . . MY SERVANT — This refers to the Christ, head and body. (Isa. 61:2)

49:8 — IN AN ACCEPTABLE TIME — Gathering the full number of 144,000. When we like our Lord may sacrifice earthly rights and restitution privileges and thereby attain the spiritual blessing of our high calling of God in Christ Jesus. (Z. '10-6; R.4542)

HAVE I HEARD THEE — The Christ, Jesus the Head and the Church, his body. See 2 Cor. 6:2 where Paul so applies this text.

THE DAY OF SALVATION — The day of the Great Salvation to the divine nature. (Heb. 2:3) The Gospel age.

GIVE THEE FOR A COVENANT — Give the entire Christ, head and body—given as a Covenant for the world. In this connection is shown the appropriateness of Jesus' speaking of his cup of suffering and death which he invited his faithful to share with him, not only as his own blood shed for us, but also the blood of the New Covenant shed for many, in which we are privileged to participate. Those who see and appreciate the privilege rejoice to be counted worthy to have fellowship in His sufferings and sacrifices, that they may share his glories and work. The blood of the New Covenant signifies the sacrifices (better) by which God has been pleased to arrange to bring the whole world anew into covenant relations with Himself. The Covenant is made with the Mediator and he is to be given to the Jews for a Covenant.

TO ESTABLISH THE EARTH — The people and their earthly inheritance are distinct, as shown here, from the Great Mediator of the Covenant through whom the people are to be blessed. All the families of the earth.

TO CAUSE TO INHERIT THE DESOLATE HERITAGES — To institute times of restitution. The purpose of the mediatorial work of Christ. (Z. '10-6; R.4542)

50:1 — THE BILL OF YOUR MOTHER'S DIVORCEMENT — The Law Covenant.

YE SOLD YOURSELVES — The unfaithfulness was not on Jehovah's part, but on the part of Israel.

FOR YOUR TRANSGRESSIONS IS YOUR MOTHER PUT AWAY — The Law Covenant was cast off because of the transgressions of its offspring at Jesus' first advent. Type Hagar cast off for Ishmael's mockery.

51:16 — I HAVE PUT MY WORDS IN THY MOUTH — To have the fullest power in our lives these words of God must be spoken, not merely be in our minds. If there is not an inflow and an outflow, the message in us will become sterile, ineffective.

PLANT THE HEAVENS — By His words. (See Luke 3:21) Those enlightening words, guiding, comforting, molding, which prepared Jesus for heavenly glory are intended by the heavenly Father to continue on their mission of planting the heavens (the word of God likened to a seed) until the body members also like their head prepared by them for their place in the new heavens. (Dawn 11-'43, page 16)

52:1 — AWAKE, AWAKE — In the Harvest time, now, in the Resurrection morning. For the Bridegroom no longer tarries. Zion and Jerusalem have been asleep on the subject of the second advent, because of the disappointment in 1844. Those who are to be the prominent teachers in the Church are called to awake. Zion = bright, sunny. These are the teachers who go forth as light shiners.

O ZION . . . O JERUSALEM — Usually where Zion and Jerusalem occur together, Zion = Church and Jerusalem = Ancient Worthies or earthly phase, but here Jerusalem is called the Holy City and hence = the total Church, while Zion = the teachers, light bearers, stars in the Church.

PUT ON THY BEAUTIFUL GARMENTS — The virtues, the fruits of the Spirit. They should make themselves beautiful in God's sight, good works become them (Rom. 13:12-14; Gal. 3:27; 2 Pet. 1:5-10; Eph. 4:24; Col. 3:12-14) They are called garments because they cover us. (Psa. 93:1; 104:1; Isa. 61:10) "Put on thy strength and as a result put on these beautiful garments."

THERE SHALL NO MORE COME INTO THEE THE UNCIRCUMCISED AND THE UNCLEAN — After the Harvest is over no more of these two classes will come among God's people: the uncircumcised and unclean. (Ezek. 44:9) All who enter will be consecrated, and none but those who are cleansed from all Adamic defilements may enter into the kingdom. (Rev. 21:27; 22:14, 15)

52:2 — SHAKE THYSELF FROM THE DUST — Shake off earthly hindrances (weights) and the traditions of men, and man-made creeds, as the dust of the ground and arise above them, "set your affections on things above." (Col. 3)

AND SIT DOWN — Sit down at the table which the Lord has prepared. Previously she had been sitting down by the rivers of Babylon (Psa. 137) but now she is urged to come to the Lord's table.

O CAPTIVE DAUGHTER OF ZION — Housetop saints who have had the bonds or yoke of Babylon on their necks. They are to loose themselves from this yoke to come out of Babylon. The call is now going forth "come out of her my people."

52:3 — YE SHALL BE REDEEMED WITHOUT MONEY — Their yearnings and efforts were to bring others out of sin. The leaders in Babylon made merchandise of them (2 Pet. 2:3) but they are delivered by the truth, by God's sword, without money. Money is a great thing in Babylon, her priests teach for hire.

52:4 — EGYPT — The world.

TO SOJOURN THERE — Here the Lord used natural Israel's experiences as a type of how the Church was in the world and was oppressed by them.

THE ASSYRIAN — World in the Church. Papacy oppressed, wore out, crushed them without a cause.

52:5 — MY NAME EVERY DAY IS BLASPHEMED — Name = character, true. Blasphemed by false doctrine, especially that of eternal torture. It makes God worse than Satan himself. By these doctrines God's people have been made unhappy, fearful, burdened, and they gained nothing for God's cause by them. They have been made to howl because of these blasphemies. His people have been persecuted by the false leaders and God's work has gained nothing by the sectarian service, "all for nought."

52:6 — BEHOLD IT IS I — These false doctrines which blaspheme His character will be shown up and His character cleared in the sight of his people, and they shall know His character to be the perfect blending of wisdom, justice, love and power. His people will know when God speaks. "My sheep know my voice." The false doctrines have no justice, etc., in them. The character of His people is being made like His and they are growing in wisdom, justice, love, etc., and they will expect from Him only what would be in harmony with His true character, as revealed in His Word. How do we know that we have the Truth? Because it harmonizes God's Word so completely with his stated character. No doctrine can unfold His plan which contradicts His character. Every Bible doctrine is in harmony with and reveals God's character and no passage can be properly explained except in such harmony. If we find a doctrine which violates His character and Word, we may know it is false, but if in harmony with His Word and character we may be sure that He is speaking.

IN THAT DAY — The thousand year day.

52:7 — HOW BEAUTIFUL UPON THE MOUNTAINS ARE THE FEET OF HIM — The mountains are the kingdoms of earth, of Christendom, especially. The beauty referred to is of the New Creature, character. (Psa. 45:11) They do not come with a message of torture, but of peace by restitution under Christ's Millennium, salvation for all the willing and obedient. The "him" referred to is the entire Christ; and the "feet" the last living members of his body.

GOOD TIDINGS — Restitution and the near establishment of the Kingdom.

GOOD TIDINGS OF GOOD — The high calling, word repeated to make emphatic. The Song of Moses and the Lamb. (Restitution and the high calling.)

THY GOD REIGNETH — The second advent of Christ has already come and the kingdoms of this world will soon give place to God's kingdom.

52:8 — THY WATCHMAN SHALL LIFT UP THY VOICE — Here the picture is of watchmen on the walls or in the city to protect it. The watchmen are those who watch for your souls, as in Heb. 13:17. These will proclaim the message and they will be in harmony in the way they present it. There will be no jangling and clashing of creeds, no discordant notes. They will see alike, agree thoroughly and have the truth in the love of it. All will be playing in harmony on the one great harp "God's Word." "With the voice together shall they sing for they shall see eye to eye."

52:9 — BREAK FORTH INTO JOY — Part of the Harvest message is the return of favor to the Jews and the establishment of the earthly phase. We should encourage them to return to Palestine, that their double is past. (Isa. 40:1, 2) This is the song the Jews are urged to sing. The dark night is nearly over, soon Messiah shall reign over them and the Ancient Worthies return.

REDEEMED — Delivered.

WASTE PLACES OF JERUSALEM — The city and country have long lain desolate but are now to be restored and built up. (Acts 15:16; Jer. 30:18; 31:27, 28)

52:10 — THE LORD HATH MADE BARE HIS HOLY ARM — Jesus Christ. All things are of the Father and by the Son. To make bare is to uncover to the eyes of the understanding something previously hidden. In the Millennial age men will discern Christ and understand his work and mission. Then all shall see the salvation of our God. They will see the might and power of His love in saving the Church, and it will give them confidence and trust that He will save them. All who have not had full and complete opportunity now will have it then. The Jews will be restored to favor and the Gentiles be delivered from Satan's dominion. They will be given light and blessings and using these will or may gain everlasting life.

52:11 — DEPART YE, DEPART YE — Here are specific directions as to how to leave Babylon.

TOUCH NO UNCLEAN THING — Its organizations and doctrines and titles. Do not become contaminated with them but reject them. Some housetop saints are there yet, but they must not go down into the house (sect) to get their goods, but go out and leave all unclean things. (Mark 13:35; Josh. 6:18; 7:21)

BE YE CLEAN — In heart, mind, character, in the doctrine (vessel) you teach.

VESSELS — Doctrines, truths (silver and gold) of God's word, clean from error, and organizations and wrong practices. "Let every one that nameth the name of Christ depart from iniquity." God does not want His priests to serve Baal (a type of the services and mammon worship in the nominal church, especially Papacy). (Ezek. 44:15, 16)

52:12 — GO NOT OUT WITH HASTE — Before realizing what the truth is. When one gets a proper appreciation of the Truth, he will realize that he cannot be faithful to it, and remain in Babylon and so must come out. When the Truth gets into their hearts so thoroughly they won't need urging to come out. Those led out by the Truth do not go out with haste. We are to make our withdrawal as public as our entrance.

NOR BY FLIGHT — As will the Great Company who will be driven out. But the Lord will go before us, his true people, and help us in every thing. No one can capture us. He will be our rear guard and give us all the protection we need, for the interests of the New Creature. Here the children of Israel are used as a picture of the Church. (Num. 9:16, 17) But let us not urge any to come out. Do not try to get the tares out, for they are to be bound in bundles and if free would only be a hindrance to God's people.

52:13 — MY SERVANT — Jesus, his exaltation.

52:14 — AS MANY WERE ASTONIED AT THEE — Better rendered, "As astonished at thee have been many (so marred by man was his appearance, and his form by the sons of men) so shall he astonish many peoples." As the people of his day were surprised that he should submit to the abuse of those who crowned him with thorns and smote him and spat upon him and crucified and pierced him, so others of all nations now and in the future, hearing of such patient endurance of "such contradiction of sinners against himself" (Heb. 12:3), have wondered and will wonder at such patience and meekness. A faulty translation has given rise to erroneous thoughts respecting our Lord's appearance. Even the more careless readers who have seen faces of human creatures seriously marred by debauchery, disease, or mis-shapen by accident, have found it impossible to realize that our Lord's visage or countenance "was more marred than that of any man and his form more than the sons of men." Evidently something is wrong in such a statement for not such an one would Pilate present before the people saying, "Behold the man!" Not such an one would the common people hail as the Son of David and think to take by force to make him a King. Besides, have we not the assurance that not a bone of him was broken?

52:15 — THE KINGS SHALL SHUT THEIR MOUTHS AT HIM — For what was not recorded of others they will see exemplified in him. The great ones of earth never heard of any king submitting to such indignities at the hands of his subjects and in order that he might do them good. He shall sprinkle many nations with truth. “Thus shall he cause many nations to jump up (in astonishment)” (Leeser)

The kings are the Restitution class made perfect. They will give him due reverence as king of all. They will recognize that all honor is due him. (Rev. 5:13) (Sprinkle to cleanse from error? and evil?) (E159) Undoubtedly our dear Redeemer’s face bore marks of sorrow, for as we have seen, his deeply sympathetic heart was touched with a feeling of our infirmities; and no doubt these marks increased, until the close of his ministry at Calvary. But we may be sure that his faith and hope were also marked in facial expression. (E159, 161)

53:1 — WHO HATH BELIEVED OUR REPORT — The message of Jehovah to His people at the first advent and generally at the second advent. Very few have received God’s message then or now because very few have a meek humble spirit and a hearing ear.

TO WHOM IS THE ARM OF THE LORD REVEALED — To whom is the power of God among men revealed, who sees God’s power in the affairs of men? To whom is Christ revealed?

53:2 — FOR — Contrary to human expectation.

HE SHALL GROW UP BEFORE HIM AS A TENDER PLANT — The Lord’s way of accomplishing matters is the very reverse of what mankind would naturally expect. With our mental tendencies, man would expect that the Son of the Highest at his first advent would have been in glory and not in humiliation. Even in his taking the human conditions and such environments as to show forth strikingly and forcefully among the human race. It was a disappointment to the Jews that Jesus came humbly. To them he appeared too tender a plant ever to prosper. They acknowledged him to be of the Davidic line, but esteemed him to be from one of the roots which had lost its virility. They thought that from such a root in dry ground they could never hope for a sprout of glory, power and dignity. (Z. '05-205; R.3590)

53:9 — AND HE MADE HIS GRAVE WITH THE WICKED, AND WITH THE RICH IN HIS DEATH — Jesus died, the just for the unjust. He took the sinners place. He experienced the sighings and hardships that the condemned race has experienced even unto death. Yea “even while in the death state” he was still associated with them. He made his grave with the wicked and with the rich in this death state. Jesus was buried in the tomb of Joseph of Arimathea who was a wealthy man. (Matt. 27:57, 58, 60) “In his death” = death state, clearer if we transpose. In his death he made his grave with the wicked and with the rich. (Bible Question Box)

54:1 — MORE THE CHILDREN OF THE DESOLATE THAN THE CHILDREN OF THE MARRIED WIFE — She which hath the husband as Paul states in Gal. 4:27. The word used here is not (“ish” or “ishshah”) the usual Hebrew word for wife, but another which has the thought of possession. In an oriental home where there are several wives, if only one has born children to the husband, he is her husband in that special sense, he belongs to her.

54:3 — THOU SHALT BREAK FORTH ON THE RIGHT AND ON THE LEFT — The children of this covenant will not all be found in one part of the earth as are the seed of the Law Covenant found in Palestine, but will be of all nations, people, tongues.

54:4 — SHALT NOT REMEMBER THE REPROACH OF THY WIDOWHOOD ANYMORE — She was in the past, more like an unmarried woman, or worse yet more like a widow.

54:5 — FOR THY MAKER IS THINE HUSBAND — The Maker of that Abrahamic Covenant was Jehovah and he (typified by Abraham) is the husband of that covenant (typified by Sarah). This gives us some faint conception of how dear to the heart of the Father is that covenant. Sarah means “Princess,” and this is the Princess covenant which is going to give birth, to the royal seed. (See Gal. 4:23 note).

AND THY REDEEMER — As Abraham with divine assistance redeemed Sarah from her barren condition, so God, who originally made the Covenant of Grace (as Abraham made Sarah his wife), in due time redeemed or delivered it from barrenness.

As Abraham was to be the father of many nations, heir of the world, so God, (who for a time was known to Israel in a limited sense and esteemed as their Holy One) will be known of all men, as a wonderful God. Then He will be the God of the whole earth.

54:13 — AND ALL THY CHILDREN — Children of the Sarah Covenant, the Church, not the world. The world will be taught through Christ and the Church, yet they will give God’s teachings, and so in the beginning they must be taught.

55: — This chapter describes the conditions that shall obtain after the Gospel church has been selected and glorified to picture the Millennial age and the world of men blessed through the glorified Christ. (Z. ’-05-217; R.3596)

A second application of Isa. 55:1-7. “Here believers of this Gospel Age are described as those who hunger and thirst after righteousness. Under the Father’s drawing they come to Jesus now. They are not of those who, blind and deaf under Satan's power, love darkness rather than light, and will need the kingdom regulations and corrections to make them bow and confess, under the New Covenant arrangement with Israel and indirectly with all nations. To these hungry, thirsty, seeing, hearing ones believers, the Lord offers the cream or fatness of the Everlasting Covenant, saying—obey and your soul shall live, and I will give unto you the sure or promised mercies of David. David means beloved and is another name for the Redeemer, the antitypical King of Israel by divine appointment.

“This prophecy evidently therefore is the prophecy of the call of this Gospel age, to share with Jesus the glory, honor and immortality of the Kingdom. Note the context: A nation that thou (Christ) knowest not shalt thou call, and nations that knew not thee shall run unto thee. Unquestionably this is the Church. Spiritual Israel, a holy nation, a peculiar people, chosen out of all nations to the heavenly Kingdom of the Millennium.” (Z. '09-30; R.4321)

The everlasting covenant made with the Church is the Abrahamic covenant or Sarah Covenant. The everlasting covenant made with the world in the next age will be the New Covenant. (Z. '09-30; R.4321)

55:1 — HO, EVERY ONE — Everyone in the Millennial Age who has a desire for righteousness.

THAT THIRSTETH — All that will be required then will be that they shall be thirsty, shall be desirous of the life offered, that they shall be hungry for the bread of life, desirous of the life offered.

COME YE TO THE WATERS — There is no river of life flowing at the present time—or will there be until the Church is glorified, (the wells of water now being found will unite to make a great river of life), the kingdom established, and then the river of life will flow from the throne (Rev. 22; Ezek. 47) from the Millennial Kingdom power and authority established in the earth. Then the glorified Church, the Bride, with the Spirit shall give the invitation to the world of mankind in general. (Z. '05-217; R.3596)

Now whoever has the water of life gets it not from a river or pool, but from the Lord, a well of water springing up in you. (John 4:14) Since there is no water now (such as described here) to which to invite any at the present time, this chapter must belong to the time when there will be such a flow of water. There is a certain sense in which now any who thirst may come to Christ and find him a fountain of life, and all the Lord's people are thus refreshed in the present time by partaking of Christ, and thus having formed in them the well of water that will spring up into everlasting life. The statement here however seems to be a more general one, an invitation to every one, such as the Millennial invitation will be, for the invitation of the present time has limitations.

HE THAT HATH NO MONEY — The world will indeed be called to come to the waters of life, the river, and to partake thereof freely without money and without price, without walking in the narrow way of self-denial and suffering for righteousness' sake. All may indeed delight themselves in the fatness, the fullness, the gracious provision which the Lord has made for them and which will then be opened to the whole world so desiring it.

BUY WINE — True, soul satisfying doctrines, revealing the true God, Jehovah and his wisdom, justice, love and power.

AND MILK — The simple foundation doctrines.

WITHOUT PRICE — The water of life which our dear Redeemer offers us now is not without price, for he himself says that none can be his people, except he take up his cross and follow him—he who loves father or mother or lands, etc. more than me is not worthy of me, cannot be my disciple. The cost of the water of life in this present time is self-denial, self-sacrifice, a walk in the narrow way and baptism into Christ's death. Those desirous of being disciples should first sit down and count the cost. But when the Gospel age is ended there will be no more suffering for righteousness sake, the narrow way will no longer be. It will give place to the Highway of Holiness upon which all the Redeemed of the Lord may go up to life, restitution and perfection.

55:3 — YOUR SOUL SHALL LIVE — This is the message of Christ to the world as it will soon reach them through the glorified Church. Hear (obey) and your soul shall live will be the watchword of the Millennium.

AN EVERLASTING COVENANT WITH YOU — The New Covenant will then be proffered to all, the divine agreement to be merciful, to cancel the sins that are past. (Jer. 31:33, 34)

THE SURE MERCIES OF DAVID — The mercies guaranteed to Israel and the world through his great Son, our Lord. The real David (the real beloved) shall be the divine channel for the outpouring of the mercies and blessings of the New Covenant. (Z.'-05-218; R.3597)

A LEADER AND COMMANDER TO THE PEOPLE — This is the great Prophet, great Priest and King, typified by Moses, and Melchizedek and the kings of David's line.

55:5 — THAT THOU KNOWEST NOT — Not previously known, the new nation called during this Gospel age, a holy nation, peculiar people, a royal priesthood, to show forth the praises of Him who has called us out of darkness into His marvelous light. (1 Pet. 2:9)

SHALL RUN UNTO THEE — Many nations that knew not him previously, shall run unto him because of his being glorified, as the result of the calling of this holy nation, the establishment of the kingdom and the glorification of this nation with himself.

HE HATH GLORIFIED THEE — The glorification of Christ and the Church.

55:6 — SEEK YE THE LORD WHILE HE MAY BE FOUND —

Throughout the Millennial age there will be a grand opportunity for every member of Adam's race to seek the Lord while he may be found, to call upon him while he is near. The opportunity will last for a 1,000 years, and all will be invited to drink of the water of life freely. All fully appreciating the situation fully may attain to all that was lost in Adam. Restitution. (Z.'05-218; R.3597)

55:7 — LET THE WICKED FORSAKE HIS WAYS — Here is shown how the Lord may then be found, namely the wicked must forsake his ways of unrighteousness, the unjust must abandon unrighteousness even in thought. Under such conditions during the 1,000 years all may return unto Jehovah through the great antitypical David. But it will require all that 1,000 years of Christ's reign to restore and make fit for presentation to Jehovah those who will hear the voice and apply for the water of life, forsake evil and seek the Lord.

55:8, 9 — FOR MY THOUGHTS ARE NOT YOUR THOUGHTS — The blessings of the Millennial day will be beyond the thinking of mankind, higher, broader, deeper than they are ready to believe. Not until then, until the completed work is seen will we be able to realize the meaning of this assurance.

55:10, 11 — FOR AS THE RAIN THAT COMETH DOWN . . . SO SHALL MY WORD — Isaiah like Solomon (Eccl. 1:7) thought the rain coming down from the clouds, returned thither again. So God's Word, as His messenger, comes into the world charged with a certain duty, obligation and promise, and will ultimately return to the Lord to make report. The report, the result of the promise, shall not be other than the Father designed in His great love and mercy. It will not discredit Him but will be to his everlasting glory. (Z.'05-218; R.3597)

55:12, 13 — FOR YE SHALL GO OUT WITH JOY — These set forth the blessings and peace and favor of God which will then be upon the whole world of mankind. It will no longer be true that whosoever will live Godly will suffer persecution, for then such shall go out with joy and be led forth with peace, by the great Shepherd of the flock; who after telling us that we his flock of this present age are like sheep among wolves, assures us that

“other sheep I have which are not of this fold.” (John 10:16) It is these other sheep of the Millennial Age which are referred to, and whose leading out and in peace and joy is assured. “There will be no wolves there, no lion or ravenous beast.”

In grandly poetic language, mountains and hills and trees and fields are represented as all rejoicing in that glorious day, when Satan shall be bound and the knowledge of the Lord shall fill the earth, and the darkness of sin shall have fled away before the glorious beams of the Sun of Righteousness.

THORN — The wicked who lurkingly seek to injure the unwary foot.

FIR TREE — An evergreen, symbol of a man possessed of life, everlasting life. A balsamic evergreen with a healthy influence, giving refreshing effects.

BRIER — Reaching forth to attack and ensnare those attracted by its sweet odor.

MYRTLE TREE — Beautiful and harmless. The evergreen yields sweet perfume and berries that are a delicacy. These two, myrtle and fir represent mankind under the favorable influence of the Millennium, the blessing of the Lord; yielding good influence and themselves possessed of everlasting life. This state, righteous flourishing instead of the wicked will then obtain. (Psa. 72:7)

Thus does the Lord contrast the condition of the world today, full of men and women who are really thorns and briars in word and deed injuring others, and the peaceable strong stalwart ones of the next age, full of life and vigor.

FOR A NAME — To His honor and glory, revealing his justice, wisdom, love and power. Men and angels will then see His completed work and understand His ways, and all heaven and earth will unite in praising His glorious and wonderful character. (Rev. 5:13)

FOR AN EVERLASTING SIGN — This sign or proof or picture, or example of His greatness will be perpetual—never be cut off, but shall avail as a lesson for all future creations and races. The wicked will not be perpetuated, they shall be cut off, they would not be to His glory. But it will be to his glory that He should save from amongst men all who have a love for righteousness, all who under favorable conditions would prefer harmony with God and righteousness with truth and goodness and purity. (Z. '05-218; R.3597)

56:1 — THUS SAITH THE LORD — Speaking particularly to us, the feet members of the body, living in the Harvest of the age, for our comfort and encouragement.

KEEP YE JUDGMENT — Follow my Word and Law and keep my Spirit of a sound mind. Hold fast to my commands and Word, hold them! do not let them slip away! Keep level headed! O, how much this advice is needed now when there is so much loss of judgment amid the strife of human passion and hotheaded, selfish, and rash steps of many! The princes of earth are losing their better judgment, being deceived and led astray by selfish desires, greed, ambition, and error. Keep your balance of judgment! Hold on only a little longer and relief and rest will come.

MY SALVATION — Deliverance first for the church and then for the world, the Lord's saving power, salvation from all the present slavery to sin, and from all the evil conditions. He calls attention that it is Jehovah's power that will bring the deliverance, the schemes of men will fail, but God is ready to step in at the proper time with the true remedy.

IS NEAR TO COME — It is not far away now, only a little longer. Hold fast yet a little while, do not become discouraged and give up, hold on and hope and wait, it is but a short while now, even at the door.

DO JUSTICE — Deal justly with all, with God, with the brethren and with all men, justice in business and belief and conduct generally, practice it. It will encourage others and help them to be more, sober. Do not yield to temptations to slander, as we see slander increasing and back-biting.

AND MY RIGHTEOUSNESS — My righteous character.

TO BE REVEALED — God will teach men how He has been just and kind and patient in all things all the time. He will answer them and show them.

56:4 — THE EUNUCHS — (Matt. 19:12) They seem to be God's consecrated people during this Gospel Age.

THAT KEEP MY SABBATHS — The sabbaths mentioned in Heb. 4 and Isa. 58:13. Perhaps the Christian with Christ keeps the antitype of both the weekly and yearly sabbaths. (Lev. 25)

TAKE HOLD OF MY COVENANT — A Covenant with me by sacrifice. (Psa. 50:5) Also taken hold by faith of the Abrahamic Covenant, God's great, special covenant.

58:1 — LIFT UP THY VOICE LIKE A TRUMPET — Those who have the light of truth as it now shines out in God's Word, should as they have suitable opportunity, point out to Christendom of today, especially the professed people of God, their error. Show them where they have deviated from God's Word, where their course is not in harmony with the Golden Rule. Not go about berating anybody. Very little good is done by such a course. The Truth itself is to be the sword, a sharp two-edged sword, the Word of God. The work any of us could do aside from the Word would be but bungling work. We are to point out what the scriptures have to say, on proper occasion. This does not mean to insult people. God's ambassadors have no commission to insult anyone, but the rather, with gracious words we may nevertheless point to the conditions of the present day, the dangers now before the world, and the proper position to be taken by those who would wholly follow the Lord. (Z.'15-59; R.5637)

If we have favorable opportunity we might point out to the Jews the reason they are in their present cast off condition. (Z.'15-51; R.5630)

SHOW MY PEOPLE — The Lord is here describing the conditions of the nominal people of God. These words probably had an application in the prophetic day, but we believe a special application in our day.

My people are those now in covenant relation with God, His true people and no others. The great mass of the professed people of God now, have gotten into many transgressions—of the divine will and law, many quite ignorantly following blind leaders of the blind, following creeds of the darker past. (Z.'15-51; R.5630)

TRANSGRESSION — Especially grievous.

THE HOUSE OF JACOB — A distinguishing term referring exclusively to the Jews, God's ancient covenant people. (Z.'15-51; R.5630)

58:2 — THEY TAKE DELIGHT IN APPROACHING TO GOD — This is along the same line as Isa. 29:13; Matt. 15:9. The translation here is not so clear as perhaps might be. The thought seems to be that they apparently seek me daily, apparently delight to know my ways. They build churches with high steeples at enormous cost, with gorgeous appointments. Many churches have imposing images of the saints or great paintings which make a fine outward appearance; rich melodious bells chiming out sweet hymns; well trained choirs to sing anthems; highly educated ministers who are gifted orators and deliver eloquent dissertations. Outwardly they have a wonderful zeal for God but not according to knowledge; on the surface it would seem they are doing well. They appoint an annual Thanksgiving Day, take up large collections for poor, pay large salaries to preachers; raise money for missions, much like Matt. 23:15. (Z.'15-51; R.5630) A great deal that we have here today is a mere mechanical form, a mere outward display, a form of Godliness without its power.

58:3-7 — WHEREFORE HAVE WE FASTED — Compare vs. 6, 7 with Isa. 61:1, 2; Luke 4:17-19; Matt. 25:31-46. This chapter has unmistakable reference to the Millennial age, as the great Sabbath day of rest for the world. What a beautiful type this is to those who give themselves to this Sabbath keeping. See Acts 20:35.

The Father thinks it is more blessed to give than to receive, and so He has entered into this rest of working for others at the greatest cost to Himself, and He gives us the inestimable privilege of following in Jesus' footsteps, giving our all in behalf of others and trusting to His bounty. The new commandment of John 13:34, 35 has this thought. (vs. 2 and 1 John 3:16) See Ezek. 18.

After the race has been brought to perfection, the final test will be on the spirit of the fourth commandment. Sabbath-keeping, its spirit of self sacrificing love. All of the race who desire to join in this work of serving others and bringing them blessings, will have the opportunity of cooperation and if they thus cooperate, they will develop the same kind of character that the Lord and the Church have, like the Father. But if they shut up their hearts and refuse to cooperate, refuse to trouble themselves about others, although physically and mentally perfect, the result will be they will fail in the final test, because they did not form the right characters, did not enter into "His rest." (Brother Hollister)

58:13 — IF THOU TURN AWAY THY FOOT FROM THE SABBATH — Leeser: "If thou restrain thy foot for the sake of the Sabbath."

HONOUR HIM — Honor "it." R.V.

NOT DOING THINE OWN WAYS — This is Christian Sabbath-keeping, as shown in Heb. 4.

60:14 — BOW THEMSELVES DOWN AT THE SOLES OF THY FEET — By and by, when the Church shall have been glorified and a new dispensation ushered in, those who hate us now, largely because they are blinded by the Adversary and misled will bow before us as the Lord's anointed, and we shall have the pleasure of lifting them up, blessing them, encouraging them and forgiving them and assisting them both to the image and likeness of God. (Z. '01-300; R.2881) See Gen. 37:8.

61:1 — THE SPIRIT — God's Holy Spirit is expressed in any one of three ways:

- (1) God's holy heart or mind, His holy thoughts and purposes, His disposition.
- (2) the energy or power or influence emanating from God.
- (3) God puts His thoughts in His Word and these charged with the influence from God, pervade His Word and we in reading and study of His Word, have our minds and thoughts charged more and more with His disposition and thus we have His mind in us.

One or another of these senses will fit every occurrence of the words Holy Spirit in the Bible.

OF THE LORD GOD — Not the spirit of the world or of the Adversary.

IS UPON ME — Christ, head and body. The Spirit came on Jesus at his baptism, the Spirit came upon the body at Pentecost. (Z.'04-12; R.3301)

ANOINTED ME — Made me a Messiah.

TO PREACH — Expound, explain, publish by word or act or look.

GOOD TIDINGS — These come from the wellspring of God's heart and He gives us His spirit, anointing, that we may preach good tidings. (Luke 2:10) Only those who have his Spirit can so preach.

UNTO THE MEEK — The meek are not found in drunkard's dens. Why only to this class? Because only those who are meek can receive these tidings, only those who have the Holy Spirit can grasp the thoughts of God. (John 16:12, 13; 8:42-44; 1 Cor. 2:10-12, 16) Much depends on the way these tidings are presented; must be given in proper spirit tactfully, meekly, lovingly, else they will injure. Our possession of the Holy Spirit is our ordination to preach and the only ordination God recognizes. This is a principal part of our work, witnessing.

BIND UP THE BROKENHEARTED — Like is drawn to like. The loving, tender, sympathetic spirit is the only one that can preach to the brokenhearted. Gospel not preached to break hearts, but to mend the hearts already broken, to bind them up with bands of love and the oil of Gospel comfort. There are plenty ready to serve the appetites of those who long for pleasure, ball games, society fetes, chess, travel, etc. We have not a word to say against these. It is not our thought that they are going to eternal torment; hence we do not frantically beset them, annoy them. Let them have their pleasure. Let them wait for the time to come when something may occur in their experiences which will put them into the class of the broken-hearted and contrite of Spirit and cause them to feel after God if haply they might find Him, as a satisfying portion. We must seek to bind up the brokenhearted. (N-2-27-10)

TO PROCLAIM LIBERTY TO THE CAPTIVES — Captives of sin and Satan and captive in death, slaves of sin. This is a Jubilee message. God's glad Jubilee day is coming, dawning and the shackles are soon to be broken. There is liberty now from sin and Satan only in Christ.

AND THE OPENING OF THE PRISON TO THEM THAT ARE BOUND — Jesus never went into literal prisons to open them, nor ever taught his disciples so to do. Hence this is not a literal prison at all, but the great prison house of death. He will unlock the doors (for he has the keys) and set the captives free. (Rev. 1:18; John 5:28, 29)

61:2 — TO PROCLAIM THE ACCEPTABLE YEAR OF THE LORD — The Gospel Age. (2 Cor. 6:2; Heb. 3:14, 15; 4:7, 8) God is now pleased to accept sacrifices of justified bodies, reckoned perfect, holy, acceptable because of the imputed perfection of Christ. (Rom. 12:1) These sacrificers are called the Royal Priesthood, etc., (1 Pet. 2:5, 9) and their sacrifices are made in Jesus name, and counted as part of his sacrifice, because they are members of his body. Hence our message referred to here is the High Calling, the greatest offer of God.

THE DAY OF VENGEANCE OF OUR GOD — This in itself is not good, but in its proper connection is given to warn the warnable and the rest must receive stripes, the natural result of rejecting God's instructions. Must be proclaimed in love and sorrow, as did Jesus declaring Jerusalem desolate. (Luke 19:41-44) Given but little space here so not to be made first in our proclamation.

TO COMFORT ALL THAT MOURN — Three classes of mourners:

- (1) those of the groaning creation who mourn for loss of loved ones, disappointed hopes and ambitions, misfortune. Comfort these by telling them this condition is not to last much longer, God is soon to lift the curse and bless all people. Tell them why evil is permitted.
- (2) Those who mourn for their sins and imperfections. Tell these God's loving gift of His Son to die for their sins and redeem them, and of His gracious offer of justification.
- (3) See verse 3.

61:3 — THEM THAT MOURN IN ZION — The third class of mourners. Those in the city (Ezek. 9:4, Jerusalem = nominal Zion = nominal church) who sigh and cry for the abominations done in her, bewail her lack of faith, lack of honesty, her worldliness. Comfort these by appointing unto them, telling them that glorious message of God's plan; that nominal church is no longer His mouthpiece, but is cast off (Rev. 3:15, 16) and the true church is now enjoying and receiving the light. Jesus is now present (Rev. 3:20) and is feeding his flock.

BEAUTY FOR ASHES — The beauty in the resurrection. (Z. '04-295; R.3436)

And now the beauty of the truth, with all the peace and joy it brings, the very deepest of truth and the joy of those who walk in the light of God's countenance. This instead of the ashes of disappointed hopes and blighted prospects, and the ashes of death.

OIL OF JOY FOR MOURNING — The Holy Spirit given them with the peace, trust and happiness it brings, instead of mourning for the fallen conditions of the Nominal Church. The "oil of joy" refers to the Hebrew custom of covering themselves with sackcloth and ashes when mourning, but when those days are ended, anointing themselves with oil. It refers also to the holy anointing oil of the Tabernacle for anointing prophets, priests and kings. Type of the Holy Spirit bringing joy and gladness of heart.

GARMENT OF PRAISE FOR — Virtues, of praise = that make our hearts give praise to God for His goodness. "For the spirit of heaviness = God wants a happy people not heavy with sorrow. Our flesh has sorrow in the world, but our New Creature rejoice in God's care and loving provision, His training and in our possession of the Truth.

TREES OF RIGHTEOUSNESS — See Rev. 22:2; Ezek. 47:12; Psa. 1:3.

THE PLANTING OF THE LORD — We are His workmanship, of His grace and favor. (James 1:18; Eph. 2:10)

THAT HE MIGHT BE GLORIFIED — A good workman always had credit reflected upon him by his good work. (Eph. 1:12)

61:4 — AND THEY — The trees of righteousness = the glorified church.

61:5 — AND STRANGERS — Those not now having any relationship to God as sons. Now the children of wrath, under Satan's power. But who then will turn and love righteousness and work for and with the Church. The nation of Israel, now in disfavor. (Isa. 66:19)

FEED YOUR FLOCKS — The whole world of mankind.

SONS OF THE ALIEN — Those now without God and out of harmony with Him and their children.

YOUR PLOWMEN — Plow = the time of trouble. Plowmen plow and break up the ground and prepare it for the seed. Ground = hearts of men. Plowmen = the alien. These shall serve the purposes of the Christ and help her in her work.

YOUR VINEDRESSERS — Those taking care of and cultivating the vines. Those who help men to develop and progress to perfection of fruit.

61:6 — YE SHALL BE NAMED THE PRIESTS OF THE LORD — Ye = the little flock. They will be priests upon the throne. A priest does four things.

- (1) Sacrifices for the sins of the people (which Jesus and the Church do during the Gospel Age). Also receive sacrifices of the people, as the Christ will do in the Millennium.
- (2) Teach, instruct the people.
- (3) Intercede for the people.
- (4) Bless the people. These last three will be the work of the Christ in the Millennium.

SHALL EAT THE RICHES OF THE GENTILES — The Church with Christ shall inherit all nations and use their wealth for its work of blessing and uplifting the race. Appropriate to themselves the power etc. of all nations.

IN THEIR GLORY — The glory, name and position of rulers of earth. "Shall be placed as possessors. (Mic. 4:8—Leeser.)

61:7 — FOR YOUR SHAME YE SHALL HAVE DOUBLE — For the shame heaped upon the Church they (the world) shall have double (who brought them down to death) punishment, shame. (Rev. 18:6, 7; Dan. 12:2; Isa. 66:5)

FOR CONFUSION THEY SHALL REJOICE IN THEIR PORTION — Because the Christ endured the confusion, the world will be enabled to rejoice in their portion, restitution. The Church will heap coals of fire upon those who brought shame upon her. She endured confusion for the world's sake.

IN THEIR LAND — Social condition.

61:8 — ROBBERY FOR BURNT OFFERING — It is robbery for burnt offering when we take the rights of others and offer them to the Lord. Such as one stealing the rights of his wife to become a colporteur, or a mother deserting her children to work in the vineyard.

I WILL MAKE AN EVERLASTING COVENANT WITH THEM — God will direct the work of the Church in the world.

62:1 — FOR ZION'S SAKE — Zion (Heb. = sunny, bright) = the little flock. Zion gave up all her earthly possessions and rights because of faith in God's promises, allowing herself to be disliked and spurned as unclean by the world. She has been faithful and God will fulfill His promises to her.

FOR JERUSALEM'S SAKE — Jerusalem (Heb. = founded in peace or foundation of peace) = the earthly phase, Ancient Worthies. They will be the Christ's mouthpiece to bring man unto peace with God. The Ancient Worthies were faithful (Heb. 11:35) and for their sake (Rom. 11:29) God will not rest (cease) will not hold back, delay (1 Peter 3:9) but will keep His promises (Rom. 11:29) until the salvation of the earthly phase go forth as a lamp.

AS BRIGHTNESS — He will not hold his peace until her righteousness go forth as brightness (undimmed, to perfection). (Matt. 13:43; Dan. 12:3); go forth = shine forth as the Sun of righteousness (Mal. 4:2) upon all mankind bringing all the willing and obedient to perfection. See Jer. 23:6; 33:16.

AS A LAMP THAT BURNETH — God's Word shineth forth dispelling the shadows of darkness and ignorance and sin and bringing to all a knowledge of the truth. God will not keep his hands off until all this is accomplished, till all the willing and obedient are brought to perfection and the light of the knowledge of the glory of God shall fill the whole earth.

62:2 — GENTILES — Nations.

SHALL SEE — Perceive, experience. The nations will experience the righteous work of the Christ which will bring man back to perfection.

ALL KINGS THY GLORY — Kings = restitution class made perfect shall perceive her glory.

CALLED BY A NEW NAME — One of nature, honor, office; three combinations in her new name.

WHICH THE MOUTH OF THE LORD SHALL NAME — The Bible, through which He speaks, shall reveal it in due time. Jer. 23:6; 33:16 show that it will be “Our Righteousness of Jehovah.” Name will belong to both Jesus and the Church, and will some day be given the divine nature, divine glory and honor and power, and office of prophet, priest and king.

62:3 — A CROWN OF GLORY — Highest glory, rulership, royalty of position with Christ in the throne (Rev. 3:21) in the hand (service) of the Lord Jehovah. Her position with regard to Jehovah. She will probably not share Christ’s place in Jehovah’s throne until the end of the Millennium.

A ROYAL DIADEM — The power to rule or govern. In the hand of thy God, thy mighty one, Jesus, her head. Here is her position with regard to Christ Jesus. She shall rule and reign with him 1,000 years. Jehovah will use this class to rule and they will accomplish in His hand (with His power and plan): 1) the destruction of selfishness and all forms and systems of error; 2) the removal of the debris of this destruction and the setting of human society on a firm basis (a foundation of peace and love); 3) curbing and restraining every evil influence. They will rid the world of evil, establish good things and as good kings will reward righteousness and punish evil.

62:4 — FORSAKEN — During the Gospel Age they, like their Master and Head, are esteemed forsaken (Isa. 53:4) the offscouring of the earth, fit only to be burned without the camp. It is here promised that the time will come when they shall no more be termed forsaken, but shall be called “Hephzi-Bah” = “my delight is in her.” Men will recognize that she is the seed which the Lord hath blessed. (Isa. 61:9; Psa. 81:5)

NEITHER SHALL THY LAND ANY MORE BE TERMED DESOLATE BUT . . . THY LAND BEULAH — The land is the third earth, both literal and symbolic. For the past 6,000 years the human society and the literal earth have been under a desolate condition, accursed. But the time will come when they shall no more be desolate, but shall be called “Beulah”—husbanded, married. The third earth will be married, united, in mind and spirit and become productive richly as at the first. The literal earth will also be fruitful and blossom as the rose. Earthly phase married to the heavenly phase.

62:5 — AS A YOUNG MAN MARRIETH A VIRGIN — Is united with her, made one with her.

THY SONS — Fleshly Israel, shall marry (be made one in mind and purpose with thee). And ultimately all the willing and obedient. They will delight in thee be glad to do for thee. Under the terms of the New Covenant, Gentiles becoming “Proselytes of the Gate.” (Jer. 12:14-17; Mic. 5:7, 8)

AS THE BRIDEGROOM REJOICETH OVER THE BRIDE — Jesus over the Church.

THY GOD — Thy mighty one, thy head. Jesus (“elohim”).

62:6 — I HAVE SET WATCHMEN — The watchmen shall never hold their peace, day nor night, but will always constantly be working or teaching. Hence this class will not require sleep nor rest, so they cannot be the Ancient Worthies, who will be human, but refers to the Christ, glorified, who will have inherent life.

UPON THY WALLS, O JERUSALEM — Literal Jerusalem was built on two hills, Akra and Bezetha. And on two mountains, Zion and Moriah. Outside of and surrounding these was a wall, and outside the wall was Gehenna. Here is a picture of the New Jerusalem. Zion = the glorified Christ; Moriah = Ancient Worthies; Akra = Great Company; Bezetha = Restitution class; Gehenna = the second death condition.

YE THAT MAKE MENTION OF THE LORD — The watchmen are here defined as the Lord’s remembrancers (margin), who cause others to remember his Word, his plan, will, character, and who show them their respective duties under such plan. The watchmen are thus to encourage all to enter who wish to enter the kingdom, show them the conditions of admission and help them to enter. (The needles’ eyes will not then be in use, for the gates shall not be shut night or day—Rev. 21:25. Now it is night and the gates are not yet opened, the wall not yet being built and those who enter must come through the needle’s eyes, being humble and unloading of worldly goods.)

62:7 — GIVE HIM NO REST — Do not cease from the work He is doing through you. Give light on earthly and heavenly subjects until the kingdom is established fully and Jerusalem (God’s people) praise in the earth.

62:8 — BY HIS RIGHT HAND AND BY THE ARM OF HIS STRENGTH
— Jesus and the Church, by these hath he sworn an oath.

THY CORN — Spiritual food, meat in due season for the Church. It has been in the hands of her enemies and they have used it for their own selfish purposes; not knowing how to prepare it they mixed it with poison water (false doctrine) and let it get contaminated and rot, so that when they fed it forth to the people it produced all kinds of spiritual disorders.

THINE ENEMIES — Ecclesiastical systems and those in harmony with their spirit. To be destroyed utterly, shown to be false and not of God.

SONS OF STRANGER — The worldly people in the Church begotten not of God's spirit, but of the world's spirit, selfishness and pride and formality. Mother and daughters of Babylon are to be killed and they will no longer drink the wine (of truth, deep truth) and misappropriate it, for which God's people have labored and searched. The strangers will give heed to fables and God shall send them strong delusion. (Rev. 2:22, 23; 2 Tim. 4:3, 4; 2 Thess. 2:9-12; Jer. 23:1-4; Ezek. 34:1-11; Rev. 3:16)

62:9 — THEY THAT HAVE GATHERED IT SHALL EAT IT — The Church by study of God's Word and bearing spiritual fruit, developing the graces of character, obtain the meat in due season from God, as they are in an attitude to receive it and make it their own. Thus they gather it, and they alone shall eat it in the harvest time and after. Only those who overcome sin and develop character thus gather fruit unto life eternal, only these shall enjoy the rich food God shall send, either among the Church or among the world in the Millennial age. For justice and righteousness shall rule. Babylon is now cast off, and the Harvest laborers are enjoying the rich feast, which her now present Lord is feeding his true people.

IN THE COURTS OF MY HOLINESS — God's holiness. Holy and Most Holy. The church now on both sides of the veil are enjoying this feast and drinking the pure wine of true doctrine, and they are praising God therefore and bringing forth fruit, character, to His praise and honor and glory.

62:10 — GO THROUGH THE GATES — The first and second veils. Consecration and death. Consecrate yourselves and carry it out to the end, like the two steps of Jesus' life.

PREPARE YE THE WAY OF THE PEOPLE — Ye = the Church in the flesh, as the Elijah preparing the way.

WAY OF THE PEOPLE — Highway of Holiness. As John the Baptist (a partial fulfillment of the Elijah type) prepared the Jews to receive Christ, so we the Church (the complete fulfillment of the Elijah type) prepare the way for the people to receive Christ in the next age. (Isa. 40:2, 3; Mal. 3:1)

CAST UP THE HIGHWAY — Preach restitutional truths.

GATHER OUT THE STONES — Stumbling blocks, erroneous teachings: Trinity, eternal torture, immortality of the soul, etc. We are to show that these are errors, deceptions of Satan, and to show the true doctrine. The errors hinder those who believe them from a clear discernment of the truth.

LIFT UP THE STANDARD — The standard is the rallying point = the doctrine of the ransom, the rock foundation; the heat of battle is and will be around this point. (2 Pet. 2:1) All must believe in this to be saved and must accept it and formulate their lives in accordance with it. See Josh. 5:10 note.

62:11 — UNTO THE END OF THE WORLD — To the people living at the close of the Gospel Age, close of the present evil world, to those who have an ear to hear.

THE DAUGHTER OF ZION — Church. Her complete deliverance from flesh and sin is near at hand, yea now in progress as each overcomer is in turn changed.

HIS REWARD IS WITH HIM — His reward will be (not is) with him (when he comes) at his second presence. None received their reward at death previous to the Harvest time. (1 Pet. 1:13; 1:5) His reward is in connection with the first resurrection as per Rev. 11:18. His work shall be before him, to be done, not done and completed when he comes.

62:12 — THEY SHALL CALL THEM, THE HOLY PEOPLE — The Little Flock, the redeemed of the Lord as in Psa. 107:2; Isa. 35:9. They shall call them, the world shall call them (the church).

THOU SHALT BE CALLED, SOUGHT OUT — Thou = the Church, the Lord speaks to her. Sought out = selected, elected. (Acts 15:14)

A CITY NOT FORSAKEN — The Church, like her Lord, has been esteemed by man, as forsaken smitten of God and afflicted, but soon it will be made manifest to all that he has not forsaken her. (Isa. 54:4-14) And men shall know that she is the blessed of the Lord. Babylon will be forsaken and given over to destruction.

63:1 — EDOM — Edom was the name given to Esau after he sold his birthright. (Gen. 25:30-34; 36:1, 8, 9, 43; Num. 20:18-21; Jer. 49:17) It symbolizes a class at this day who have similarly sold their birthright, nominal Christians. They have preferred the mean morsels of earthly advantage and popularity to the glorious inheritance with Christ.

FROM BOZRAH — The land of Edom = Christendom. Edomites = Nominal Christians; Bozrah means sheepfold = their ecclesiastical system, their stronghold. Bozrah is still noted for its goats. (Isa. 34:6) Edom is another name for Babylon.

GLORIOUS IN HIS APPAREL — Having on his garments of glory and beauty. The glorious spiritual king, the beauty and glory of divine character, and brightness, the express image of the Father.

TRAVELLING IN THE GREATNESS OF HIS STRENGTH —

Having taken his great power (all power in heaven and earth) to reign in 1878. (Psa. 45:3, 4)

I THAT SPEAK IN RIGHTEOUSNESS, MIGHTY TO SAVE — The righteous judge, come to judge the world in righteousness and mighty to save all who come unto God by him, for he has bought the whole human race.

63:3 — I HAVE TRODDEN THE WINEPRESS — The treading of the winepress is the last feature of the harvest work. The “vine of the earth” is in it. It pictures to our minds the great time of trouble to involve all nations. (Rev. 14:20)

ALONE — The power exerted for the overthrow of the nations will be divine not human, the power of God, justice and truth. No nations with him.

OF THE PEOPLE THERE WAS NONE WITH ME — Of the Jewish people at the first advent and of Christendom at his second advent. (Rev. 19:15)

63:4 — THE DAY OF VENGEANCE IS IN MINE HEART — The treading of the winepress is the last feature of the harvest work. The reaping and gathering will all be done first. So this treading of the winepress of the wrath of God into which the “vine of the earth” (the false vine which has misappropriated the name Christian and Christ’s Kingdom) is cast when its iniquitous clusters are fully ripe (Rev. 14:18-20) represents the last work of this eventful harvest period. It pictures to our minds the last feature of this great time of trouble which shall involve all nations and of which we are so abundantly forewarned in the Scriptures. (D18)

63:5 — THERE WAS NONE TO HELP — To no human generalship can the honors of the coming victory for truth and righteousness be ascribed. Wild will be the conflict of the angry nations and world wide the battlefield and distress of nations and no human Alexander, Caesar or Napoleon will be found to bring order out of the general confusion. But in the end it will be known that the grand victory for justice and truth and the punishment of iniquity with its just deserts was brought about by the mighty power of the King of Kings. (D19)

63:16 — DOUBTLESS THOU ART OUR FATHER— Leeser — “For thou art our Father, for Abraham knoweth nothing of us, and Israel recognizeth us not.”

63:17 — O LORD, WHY HAST THOU MADE US TO ERR — Leeser — “Why hast thou let us go astray, O Lord, from thy ways, suffered our heart to be hardened against thy fear?”

65: — The three Harvests. We need the parallel dispensations to understand this chapter.

65:1 — I AM FOUND OF THEM THAT SOUGHT ME NOT — In Rom.
10:20 Paul tells us this applies to the Gentiles. In the Jewish age these didn't seek God nor ask for Him, but in the end of the Jewish Age these were led to inquire and seek who had not previously. He is found now by the Gentiles who seek Him. Previously they could not find Him, except by becoming Jews, for God's favors were confined to the Jewish nation. (Amos 3:2) In the harvest of the age, however, when the Jews showed themselves unworthy of the kingdom honors their seventy weeks of favor ended and the Gospel passed to the Gentiles A.D. 36. So we are in the end of the Gospel
Age in the antitype and the harvest message goes first to those professedly God's people. When the call ended generally in 1881 the opportunities of entrance passed outside of Christendom to include the earnest of the world, to complete the membership of Christ, as those previously called, fell and lost their crowns. We have good word of the progress of light in “darkest Africa,” while frequently we have evidences that some of the Scribes and Pharisees and doctors of the law of our day are not worthy of present truth.
(Z.'09-268; R.4468)

I SAID, BEHOLD ME — God's favor was taken from the Jews and given to the Gentiles. (Matt. 21:43; Acts 13:46) And so, behold me, look up to me, and see that my face is toward you. I am ready to receive those of every nation who hunger for righteousness. My favor is no longer confined to the Jews. (Acts 10:34, 35) The Jews were cast off from favor as a nation.

UNTO A NATION — Church, mostly composed of Gentiles. Israel had been called by God's name, the people of God. (Num. 6:27; Deut. 28:10; Jer. 14:9; Dan. 9:19; Hos. 2:23; 1:10; Rom 9:25, 26) The Gentiles had never been so called. But now they are a people for His name. (Acts 15:14; see also verse 17)

65:2 — I HAVE SPREAD OUT MY HANDS — To manifest the powers, activities of God. Manifest His powers actively to help and bless them and rebuke and punish them when they went astray. These were manifested through the prophets. (Hos. 12:10)

ALL THE DAY — All the Jewish Age, in the type, anti-typically all the Gospel Age for spiritual Israel.

UNTO A REBELLIOUS PEOPLE — The Jews chose to follow heathen rites and idols which were the products of the thoughts of their makers. The nominal spiritual house has done likewise. They have absorbed heathen doctrines and practices and rejected God's truth sent them through His messengers and chose to follow their own devices and thoughts. Their way has poisoned and blighted the heart.

65:3 — CONTINUALLY TO MY FACE — i.e. While His face was toward them. His favor upon them. They angered Him by disobedience and hypocrisy. In the Jewish age and antitypically in the Gospel age. (See Mic. 3:1-4; Psa. 80:3, 4, 19)

THAT SACRIFICETH IN GARDENS — According to the heathen idea, whereas the proper place was on the altar in the Tabernacle Court. (Lev. 17:1-9; Deut. 12:5, 6, 11, 13-15) In the antitype the gardens = sects of Christendom, which each claim to be the true church. (See Cant. 4:12, 16; 5:1) The people sacrifice and serve in these, giving their means and service to sectarianism, instead of to God and in His way. "I will be true to my denomination."

UPON ALTARS OF BRICK — Heathen altars. God's incense altar was of gold. The antitypical golden altar is Jesus, the new creature Christ. The Christian makes his sacrifice as a part of Christ's body. He sacrifices us, our sufferings are "that which is behind of the afflictions of Christ." (Col. 1:24) The fiery trials (hot coals) in contact with the virtues or proper heart conditions (the incense) produce the sweet fragrance, of sweet savour unto the Lord, acceptable to Him through Christ. The antitypical brick altars, are the false leaders, fake Christs, of the nominal system preaching false, no-ransom doctrines. The world in the church using heathen practices. The people have been led to regard these false teachers and doctrines as the ones in harmony with whom they should offer their incense. Therefore it is not acceptable to God because not offered in harmony with His instructions. If their intention be to offer it to God, He will show them their wrong position and point them to the true. See St. Paul's case. God will forgive their wrong work because their hearts are right, but the work itself was and is not acceptable to God and is only lost labor. They sell themselves (give their service) for naught. (Isa. 52:3)

65:4 — WHICH REMAIN AMONG THE GRAVES — The Jews did these things actually. Their heathen practices kept them in association with the dead. In the antitype this relates to things similar to the antitype of the red heifer, whose ashes were sprinkled upon those who were unclean from contact with the dead. Antitypically it is customary in the nominal church to be in harmony with worldly people (dead in God's sight (2 Cor. 5:14), not reckoned alive through faith in Christ's ransom sacrifice) hence the churches are contaminated with worldly heathen views. Papacy accommodated its teachings to the people around them to get new proselytes and changed the names of some heathen gods to those of some of its saints, and so became tainted with doctrines of devils. Hence Protestants and Catholics thus dwell among the graves (associate with the dead world).

LODGE IN THE MONUMENTS — Vaults, sepulchers = intimate association with the forms and creeds and ideas and ceremonies of the dead heathen world, preferring to remain there rather than come out into the healthful pure atmosphere of the truth and in the Gospel sunlight. Showing the utter worldliness of the nominal Church. The Jews were prohibited from association and contact with dead things, people. Typifying that spiritual Israel must keep herself unspotted from the world, “love not the world nor the things in the world.” See Num. 19:11-22; James 1:27; 1 John 2:15-17.

EAT SWINE’S FLESH — Unclean food. (Deut. 14:8) The doctrines and precepts of Papacy, received from heathendom.

BROTH OF ABOMINABLE THINGS — The nourishment derived from the false, unclean, doctrines and precepts of Papacy. The broth is in their vessels (doctrines, Isa. 52:11) and they eat the contents, poisoning themselves, and numbing and blinding their understanding.

65:5 — I AM HOLIER THAN THOU — Here is pictured the excommunication of God’s true people during the Jewish and Gospel ages. The reference is to the doctrine of apostolic succession, and ordination.

THESE ARE A SMOKE IN MY NOSE — Those who hold such doctrines, such characters, are a smoke (irritation) in his nose. (Margin = anger, causing his wrath, displeasing to Him.) They bring wrath and fiery destruction. (2 Pet. 2:1-3)

ALL DAY — Jewish age and antitypically the Gospel age.

65:6 — I WILL NOT KEEP SILENCE, BUT WILL RECOMPENSE — In the time of trouble in the Jewish and Gospel Ages.

INTO THEIR BOSOM — Unto their offspring, visit the sins of the fathers upon the children.

65:7 — YOUR INIQUITIES AND THE INIQUITIES OF YOUR FATHERS — Accumulated sins of succeeding generations of Israelites. These culminated in the harvest. (See Matt. 23:35, 36) So also in the Gospel Age harvest the heaped up willful sins of the whole world will culminate in the time of trouble. (Rev. 18:24; Jer. 50:15, 29; 51:49)

BURNED INCENSE UPON THE MOUNTAINS — In the type the worship of and burning incense to the false gods, on the mountains. Antitypically incense = best heart endeavors and conditions; mountains = kingdoms of earth. In the kingdoms or monarchies the offering of the best heart conditions and services to the clergy and their false, man-made doctrines has been most pronounced. Liberty of thought not so great.

UPON THE HILLS — In the type = the worship of Moloch among the hills. In one case (2 Chron. 23:6) his statue was set in Gehenna (the valley of Hinnom) and the Jews offered their live children in its heated arms. (Jer. 7:31; 2 Kings 23:10; 2 Chron. 33:6) Josiah destroyed this image and polluted the valley, making it ceremonially unclean by strewing it with human bones and other corruptions (2 Kings 23:10, 13, 14; 2 Chron. 34:4, 5; Jer. 7:32; 19:6) from which time it seems to have become the common cesspool of the city, into which its sewage was conducted, to be carried off by the waters of Kidron, as well as a lay stall where all its solid filth was collected. (S.B.D. p. 331) Thus it became a symbol of destruction and corruption. Jesus so used it to typify the second death, (Matt. 18:8, 9) the final condition of the wilfully wicked. The setting up of Moloch's statue in Gehenna typified the setting up of the doctrine of eternal torture as the punishment for sin, instead of the second death. Israelites represented the Nominal Christians. Hills represent less autocratic governments, England and the United States, nearer the level of the people. The worship of Moloch was a blasphemy of God (Jer. 7:31; 19:5) and the doctrine of eternal torture has been a blaspheme against God's character. It has been most fervently preached in these countries.

65:8 — NEW WINE — The essence of the vine = the blessing, the wheat, God's true people in each harvest. In each case God did not destroy the cluster until the faithful had first been gathered out and then the rest, the rind, the "chaff" were destroyed. (Matt. 23:12; 13:40, 42, 49, 50)

CLUSTER — The nominal people of God in the Jewish and Gospel Ages.

THAT I MAY NOT DESTROY THEM ALL — God does this for the sake of His real, true servants. The faithful remnant were gathered out of the nominal mass in both harvests and were blessed. (Rom. 9:27; 11:5; Rev 7:1-3; Matt. 13:30)

65:9 — SEED — Christ, head and body.

JACOB — Fleshly Israel.

JUDAH — Nominal church. The seed or remnant gathered out of fleshly Israel at the first advent (Dan. 9:24; Rom. 9:27; 11:5) to form the beginning of the body, and the remnant gathered out of the nominal spiritual Israel, the feet members to complete the body, which will then be an inheritor of God's mountains (Zion and Moriah). The Ancient Worthies (Moriah) will be the children of the Church (Psa. 45:16) hence here is meant that the complete Christ will inherit both phases of the Kingdom. (Mic. 4:8)

ELECT — The Christ, heir of all things and we joint heirs with him.

SERVANTS — More than the elect, though these are part of the servants of God. Includes the Ancient Worthies and at the end of the Millennium, the whole world of mankind, all the willing and obedient.

DWELL THERE — In God's mountains, the heavenly and earthly phases of the kingdom.

65:10 — SHARON — Plain or level country.

FLOCKS — Sheep and goats. Sharon was a plain south of Carmel, with very rich soil and many small streams. But the Lord using this valley as a type of the rich condition of the Jewish nation, foretold that it would become a wilderness. (Isa. 33:9) Then afterward its richness would be given to the new earth. (Isa. 35:2) Here it says Sharon shall be a fold for flocks. The blessings given to fleshly Israel would be taken from them and given to a nation that would bring forth its fruits. (Matt. 21:43) And the promise would become a fold for the Lord's sheep of the Gospel Age. (Rom. 11:7) The Jew's former condition of blessing would become a wilderness to them in their harvest. A new age would be ushered in.

VALLEY OF ACHOR — Valley of trouble. Great time of trouble in the end of the Gospel age. (Hos. 2:15)

HERDS — Obedient of race in Millennial age. (Mal. 4:2; Hab. 3:17) The time of trouble will overthrow present institutions and Satan's dominion and usher in a new dispensation, humbling the hearts of men and teaching them many valuable lessons that will lead them into harmony with the Kingdom in which they will feed and lie down in safety. Restitution.

FOR MY PEOPLE THAT HAVE SOUGHT ME — This is done for the benefit of the Lord's people. First in the Gospel Age to fit them for the Kingdom and then to help them in the work of restitution.

65:11 — YE ARE THEY THAT FORSAKE THE LORD — Nominal Jews and nominal Christians both have forsaken the Lord and forgot His Holy Mountain (Kingdom). The Jews forgot, neglected to seek for the Kingdom (Acts 13:46) and Nominal Christians forgot to seek first the Kingdom. Both sought something else of their own plan and device, they went about to establish their own righteousness. (Rom. 10:3) The Scribes and Pharisees falsified God's word by human traditions and prepared a table for the people of their own. Papacy defiled the Truth, and brought in many heathen doctrines.

THAT TROOP . . . THAT NUMBER — Those with whom God was not dealing. The outside world. Both fleshly and spiritual Israel have been willing to accommodate their teachings to please the people in order to get numbers. They should have had faith in God's purposes and kept the doctrines pure regardless of whether they found few or many converts. (Matt. 23:15; Acts 20:19, 30; Matt. 24:11, 24)

PREPARE A TABLE . . . FURNISH THE DRINK OFFERING — Spiritual food for the church, strong meat, milk, wine.

65:12 — YE DID NOT ANSWER — Ye = the leaders in both Jewish and Gospel Ages in the harvest. Every priest and professor and teacher of theology will not escape but will bow down to the slaughter of the time of trouble as they did in the Jewish harvest. Why?

CHOOSE THAT WHEREIN I DELIGHTED NOT — Because when God spake to them, called to them through His mouthpieces they refused to hearken. (Isa. 30:15, 16; 28:12) As Jesus said of the generation of his day; they were like children piping in the market places and saying—"we have piped unto you and ye have not danced, we have mourned unto you and ye have not lamented!" Jesus and his disciples preached the Gospel of the kingdom (the joyful news) (piped) and also foretold of the trouble coming upon the Jews (mourned), but they would not respond nor give heed. They chose their own course in which God had no delight. So now the truth in its beauty is preached and the time of trouble foretold, but none give heed. The Jews schemed to escape Rome, and mystic Babylon schemes to escape socialism.

65:13 — MY SERVANTS SHALL EAT — The Israelites indeed the truly consecrated. These eat the meat in due season; and now in the harvest Jesus is present and is feeding his faithful with the rich harvest food, present truth, meat now due, from his table, God's Word. (Luke 12:37; Rev. 3:20) So it is in both harvests. The food now given is "the presence of Christ, restitution, prophecies, covenants, etc., Tabernacle." But the nominal people are starving for lack of spiritual nourishment, they are in perplexity and doubt and darkness. One class is filled, the other is empty.

MY SERVANTS SHALL DRINK — Receive the truth and it is sweet to them, and satisfies their thirst for truth as nothing else can do, because they are in the right condition of heart, teachable, humble, and not overcharged with the cares of this life (Luke 21:34) or with personal ambition. They will receive the harvest truths, the latter rain in great abundance. (Joel 2:21-27)

BUT YE SHALL BE ASHAMED — The nominal people shall thirst for lack of truth. As said by Amos (8:11-13) they wander from sea to sea, north to east, seeking the Lord and do not find him. Strong men become weak and give up the search.

65:14 — MY SERVANTS SHALL SING — But God's true people rejoice in the presence of Christ and joy in their deliverance so near at hand. The nominal Church leaders and teachers are ashamed and will soon stand before the people branded as falsifiers, false teachers. Why all this? See Zech. 13:1-6; Isa. 66:5.

Sing for joy at their Bridegroom's presence and at the feast of truth and the blessings to come to the world after the Church's deliverance. But the nominal people will howl for sorrow and vexation of spirit, to see all their hopes which have not been founded on God's Word, shattered and broken. There is not a good time ahead for them. They have not heeded God's voice. They look for peace, but behold trouble. (Jer. 8:13-15)

65:15 — YOUR NAME — Your character as disobedient servants.

AS A CURSE — Their character will remain as an example of an accursed condition of heart, worthy of destruction, in the sight of the faithful servants of God, and ultimately in the sight of all who come into harmony with God. (Isa. 66:24)

MY CHOSEN — Christ, head and body.

SLAY THEE — God will take away from them their office as His mouthpiece and His servants and bind them and cast them into outer darkness, where there will be weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth. (Matt. 24:51; 25:30) They will be slain, destroyed as His servants, burned as tares in the fire. And some will go into the second death, as utterly accursed.

ANOTHER NAME — God will reveal to all that such were not His true servants, but that His servants were of an entirely different character, obedient, humble, loving, meek; not disobedient, ambitious, contentious, grasping for honor of men. He will highly exalt His servants to the divine nature, as prophets, priests and kings to bless and uplift the race, and will cause them to be honored by all, and will make His character manifest.

65:16 — BLESSETH HIMSELF — To invoke a blessing on themselves (or to consecrate?). They will seek blessing from God.

THE GOD OF TRUTH — The true God, not from idols or by evolution and false ways of salvation, for they will be taught the way of salvation.

SWEARETH — Consecrateth. (literally = seven oneself = repeat an oath seven times to complete) They will consecrate to the true God for they will know His true character. They will consecrate to righteousness and not to error. Why? because the former troubles, the sorrow and woe of the present reign of evil will be forgotten in the richness of the blessings, though the lessons learned will be ever remembered and because their former transgressions and sins of the race now will be forgiven and blotted out, because atoned for by the blood of Jesus. (Jer. 31:34; Rom. 11:27; Isa. 33:24) Hid from the Father's eyes.

IN THE EARTH — This is a restitution prophecy and refers to the world in the Millennium.

65:17 — NEW HEAVENS — The creation of the New Heavens, the new powers of spiritual control, takes all the Gospel age. They are Jesus and the Church. They that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament. (Dan. 12:3; Matt. 13:43)

NEW EARTH — Newly organized society, will take 1,000 years to complete it, and will be perfected as the completed human society by the close of the Millennial Age.

THE FORMER — The present imperfect social and religious structure, with all its sorrow and woe and trouble shall not be remembered, but will be forgotten in the rich blessings that then will flow to all the willing and obedient. (Isa. 25:6-10)

NOR COME INTO MIND — People will not desire to think of these evils past, it will be to them like a hideous nightmare, an everlasting lesson.

65:18 — REJOICE — Joy over and over again forever, in the new conditions the Christ and the new earth.

JERUSALEM — The New Heavens, the glorified Christ, a joy over and over again, continually, every time one thinks of it.

HER PEOPLE — Restitution class, the world of mankind. These will be a joy, a cause for rejoicing, but not so great a joy as the Church with Jesus.

65:19 — I WILL REJOICE IN JERUSALEM — The Christ glorified will be Jehovah's chief delight. (Isa. 42:1; 62:4; Eph. 1:5, 6, 12, 14; 2:6, 7) He will show forth in her the exceeding riches of His grace in the ages to come. He will have joy also in the people then for they all will be in perfect harmony with Him, and love Him with all their heart. God will wipe away all tears from off all faces, no more sorrow or crying or dying, joy will be eternal. (Isa. 25:8)

65:20 — THERE SHALL BE NO MORE — Leeser — “there shall come no more thence an infant of a few days, nor an old man who hath not had his full length of days; for as a lad shall one die an hundred years old, and as a sinner shall be accursed he who dieth at a hundred years old.”

There will be no more of two classes: 1) No more infants of a few days old, for now none will die so young, for all are to be given a full complete trial and full knowledge, and one who dies at 100 years will die as a mere lad, in comparison to the others who are obedient, and who may, if they will, live down the 1,000 years. 2) No more old men who have not had their full length of days (of trial), for any who die at that age, or at all then, will die accursed as a willful sinner who refuses to reform even outwardly. Others who do reform and obey will live on to the end of the 1,000 years. (Psa. 18:44; 66:3) If their obedience is of the heart they will live forever, so that one dying at 100 years would be but a child. So all will have at least 100 years trial. (Jer. 31:29, 30)

65:21 — THEY SHALL BUILD — The loyal at heart as well as externally. There will be none to hurt nor destroy in all the holy Kingdom. This is the restored earth not heaven.

65:22 — THEY SHALL NOT BUILD AND ANOTHER INHABIT — Now mortgage owners enter houses built by others, and crops are destroyed by cyclones or eaten up by creditors, or dried up by draught. There is much injustice. There will be none of this then, no lion or ravenous beast there. (Isa. 35:9)

DAYS OF A TREE — Evergreen tree. Everlasting life to all the willing and obedient.

MY PEOPLE — All those in full harmony with Him. He will preserve them eternally and will never see them want.

MINE ELECT — A special class of God's people. The Christ. Jesus and the Church.

LONG — Eternally.

WORK OF THEIR HANDS — The work of restitution, both of the people and the earth.

65:23 — THEY SHALL NOT LABOUR IN VAIN — Leeser — “They shall not toil in vain, nor bring forth to an early death, for the seed of the blessed of the Lord are they and their offspring with them.” Young’s Concordance shows that the Hebrew word Yalad, translated “bring forth,” beget, bear, is exactly the same word used under inspiration in Gen. 3:16 “in sorrow shalt thou bring forth children.” See verse 20 also. These texts seem to indicate that child bearing will continue for some time at least into the Millennium, if not up to within 100 years or thereabouts of its close. This does not conflict with Luke 20:34-36. These may be born to fill the places of those of the race who went into the Little Flock and the Great Company and those who went into second death, thus leaving the earth properly filled (Gen. 1:28) for God is an accurate book-keeper. (Z. '09-174; R.4410)

This would seem to redound to God’s glory in two ways: 1) The manifold wisdom of God in ordering conditions under which child-bearing would be not in sorrow, as under the Adamic curse, but under blessed conditions with every feature of the curse removed. Thus humanity would have an example of how the earth would have been peopled had Adam and Eve not sinned and had sorrow in conception and multiplication of conception not been inflicted as a penalty. 2) Another feature that will be brought to light is: that it is sin in its cancerous working that has caused the fearful degeneracy in sex matters that is today preying upon the world and that this quality, given to the race by its beneficent Creator, when used in wisdom and righteousness, will be shown to be of the divine order and pure. So right-minded men and women had thought, but among the sodden classes of all ages and nations the gross darkness is so complete upon this as well as other matters that no doubt, a demonstration coming through the channel suggested will bring to full light the righteousness and majesty and wisdom and power of our God in this as in all other matters. (Z. '09-174; R.4410)

BLESSED OF THE LORD — The Church. (Isa. 61:9)

OFFSPRING — Children of the world, grandchildren of the Church.

65:24 — BEFORE THEY CALL I WILL ANSWER — Men will ask only for good things then, and God will shower good upon them. The blessings will be ready for them waiting till needed. God rejoices in blessing those who serve Him.

BEFORE THEY WILL CALL — Reading the desire of the heart before it finds expression in words.

I WILL ANSWER — Begin to shape events so as to bring the answer sooner or later. May refer also to the prayers for resurrection. While this is a prophecy relating to the Lord's people in the Millennial age, it is also true of all His faithful ones of this age, as shown in Matt. 6:8. (Z. '10-141; R.4603)

65:25 — THE WOLF AND THE LAMB SHALL FEED TOGETHER —

The first part has a double fulfillment both literal and symbolic. There will literally be peace and plenty among the animals and no more killing one of another. (Isa. 11:7) Then also wolfish character, will be amended. Now great trusts monopolize business and drive out the small competitors. This condition will all be changed and justice will be laid to the line. Dust will be the serpents meat, the great Adversary will be made to lick the dust, i.e. be cast into Second Death. See comment on Isa. 11:7. (Z. '14-340; R.5574)

66 — God's servants, real and nominal.

66:1 — THE HEAVEN — The new heavens in the Millennium, Jesus and the Church.

IS MY THRONE — Shall be (not is) my throne. Real heaven is God's throne, but not the symbolic heavens yet. God (Jehovah) will rule through these after the Millennium. (1 Cor. 15:24-28; Matt. 5:34)

THE EARTH — New earth in social perfection, founded on love during the Millennium. His feet will rest then upon this third earth, His stepping will progress until it rests there.

THE HOUSE THAT YE BUILT UNTO ME — It is not the typical house which the Jewish people built (Acts 7:48, 49), neither is it the nominal house that men have builded (the former house was destroyed—2 Kings 25:19; 2 Chron. 36:9 and Herod's temple was destroyed—Matt. 24:2. The nominal spiritual house will also be destroyed. (Rev. 18:21) Men cannot answer, but the Bible tells us God's temple is the Christ (Jesus and the Church) (1 Pet. 2:4, 5; 1 Cor. 3:16, 17; Rom. 3:12; Rev. 3:12) Of this temple it is written that it cannot be said "Lo here, or lo there" for it is a spiritual temple.

PLACE OF MY REST — His footstool, the condition of the third earth, made glorious. (Psa. 132:8, 9, 13-16; 1 Chron. 28:2, 3—type; Isa. 62:1; Gen. 2:2; Heb. 3:11; 4:3-11; Isa. 11:10; 14:7; Zech. 1:11)

66:2 — ALL THOSE THINGS HATH MY HAND MADE — God made the literal temple through His agents (see 1 Chron. 29:9, 17, 18; 28:11, 12), also the nominal church, originally; it was His mouthpiece, His work in a sense, He built it but Satan defiled it. (2 Thess. 2:4) But both these have been. They were not the true church or temple and so did not abide. But God is looking for a humble, appreciative class, who understand and prize and hold to the Lord's promises, a faithful class (Isa. 57:15), those who love God's word and Law and fear to disobey.

66:3 — OX — Bullock.

HE — Jewish nation in their typical sacrifices. These at the end, in their harvest, slew Jesus, whom the bullock represented.

LAMB — Goat (margin.) Representing the true Church slain as was Jesus, she is the Lord's goat.

HE — The Nominal Spiritual house. Church mostly Gentiles (dogs). These slay (behead—(Rev. 20:4) "cut off neck") the church as ruthlessly as they would a dog; have treated them as outcasts, to be spurned and kicked (figuratively.)

OFFER OBLATION — Bring an offering for sacrifice.

SWINE — Unclean food, typifying unclean spiritual food, false doctrines of Papacy.

SWINE'S BLOOD — The life energy or principle in these doctrines. (Spirit of the Adversary). Doctrines of demons, doubly cursed. Spiritual Israel is forbidden to eat of these, for they make those who eat them unclean. Hence those in Christendom who bring offerings to the Lord supposedly, under the influence of these false doctrines, really offer God swine's blood. The influence behind the doctrine is evil and the doctrine is behind the offering, making it unacceptable, abominable in God's sight. (Ezek. 8:5-17)

BURNETH INCENSE — Heart worship, devotion, praise, etc. The fiery trials when rightly received yield a sweet savour of a good condition of heart. But false, devil, doctrines picture a false god, an idol, or demon (1 Cor. 10:20). Their God has the character of a demon, idol; and hence those who offer heart adoration and praise in the spirit of these doctrines are really praising an idol (a god of their own manufacture) and worshipping it. Satan is magnified in these false doctrines. Jehovah is magnified by the Truth.

THEIR SOUL DELIGHTETH IN THEIR ABOMINATIONS — They have set their own tables and made their own doctrines. They have only their bitter poison-water doctrines to drink, and only rejected food to eat (Psa. 107:4; Jer. 8:14). Men worship their ideals and fallen men have fallen ideals. They delight in their false doctrines, "glory in their shame," and in their hideous caricature of God. (Isa. 4:1)

66:4 — I ALSO WILL CHOOSE THEIR DELUSIONS . . . — Therefore because they have taught such doctrines and misrepresented God's word, pretending to get their doctrines out of it, God will choose their delusions. The natural consequences of their course will under God's Laws, so blind them as to leave them a ready prey to the great delusions of Satan at the close of the age, foretold in 2 Thess. 2:11.

WILL BRING THEIR FEARS UPON THEM — Anarchy, socialism, evil (Jer. 8:15); because in both Ages God called and they would not heed (Isa. 65:12). They insisted in choosing their own course, even if it was contrary to God's word.

66:5 — TREMBLE — Have deep reverence for God's word, tremble to disobey or malign it.

HEAR YE — Ye real servants, ye faithful.

YOUR BRETHREN — Those who were your brethren, who had a work in the vineyard, like yours. But you who found the truth and trembled at it and preached it to others—these former brethren hated you and cast you out, saying that they were doing God service. But really you were serving me and they cast you out because you were faithful to me.

BUT HE SHALL APPEAR TO YOUR JOY, AND THEY SHALL BE ASHAMED — It costs sacrifice now. We are cast off by the Nominal Church who really are not serving God, but Satan. When he shall appear (be made manifest) ye shall rejoice (John 16:20); but they shall be known for what they are, falsifiers, deceivers, and shall be ashamed. (Jer. 8:14; Dan. 12:2)

66:6 — A VOICE OF NOISE FROM THE CITY — There are two parts of the Truth now proclaimed:

- (a) Truth along earthly lines is making much noise, confusion, in the city (Babylon, Christendom), as by the Labor movement, Socialism, Capitalism, government party preparing for arms etc.
- (b) Among the Nominal people of God: evangelism, reform, etc. All these are the voice from the city.

A VOICE FROM THE TEMPLE — Message of present truth.

TEMPLE — True church. Restitution and high calling are brought to the attention of the Lord's people. By tract, Dawns, and words we blend our voice in the voice from the temple. Some share in noise from city and some in voice from temple. The truth now preached so undermines the confidence of the people in the Nominal Church, that people are ashamed to stand by it, and soon it will be seen in its true light, and will fall.

A VOICE OF THE LORD THAT RENDERETH RECOMPENCE TO HIS ENEMIES — The Truth and its influence. The Old Testament gives mainly the earthly truths and the New Testament the spiritual truths and these together the Trump of God, as His voice, rendering a recompense to His enemies (three voices = the shout, voice of Archangel, trump of God—1 Thess. 4:16)

66:7 — SHE — Nominal Church.

BEFORE SHE TRAVAILED — Before the time of trouble.

MAN CHILD — The Christ head and body.

BROUGHT FORTH — Out of her came the Little Flock before the time of trouble. The head and shoulders came out of nominal fleshly Israel and the rest out of nominal spiritual Israel. (See Rev. 12.) Out of the travailing of the early church came Papacy, a man child, Satan's counterfeit of the Christ; and out of the nominal system comes the true Christ.

66:8 — WHO HATH HEARD SUCH A THING? — Nothing known in nature like it.

NATION — The Christ, a "holy nation." Born in the harvest period. (Israel fleshly also is a nation born in a day.) This nation born by resurrection.

ZION — Nominal Church

TRAVAILED — Was in time of trouble

CHILDREN — Great Company freed from Nominal Church after the deliverance of the Christ. This is a striking reference to the fact, elsewhere clearly taught, that the ripe wheat of the Gospel Age are to be separated from the unripe wheat and the tares at the end of the age, that they are to be exalted and glorified before the burning, the consuming trouble shall come.

66:9 — SHALL I BRING TO THE BIRTH — The head Jesus.

AND NOT CAUSE TO BRING FORTH — The body.

SHALL I CAUSE TO BRING FORTH AND SHUT THE WOMB? — The intimation is that just so sure as Jesus, the head, was brought forth in the resurrection, so surely will all the members of his body share with him his glorious change from earthly to heavenly nature. “Shall I that cause to bring forth, shut the womb?” Will God go back on His word? Certainly not.

66:10 — REJOICE YE — Literally this refers primarily to the Jewish nation, earthly phase, established again.

ALL YE THAT LOVE HER — All the righteous of heart, longing for peace and righteousness. In these notes we apply the text to the Church.

JERUSALEM — New Jerusalem, Little flock.

YE — Great Company and Ancient Worthies and all of the righteous loving of the earth.

YE THAT MOURN FOR HER — The whole creation groans and longs for the manifestation of the love of God, the peace-loving, (literally it would be the Jews who mourn for Jerusalem). All that long for a righteous kingdom. The Great Company will also rejoice then (Psa. 45:14, 15). These really do love God and Zion, but not enough to sacrifice gladly.

66:11 — Why rejoice? Zion the church will be the mother of the whole world, the second Eve, the race will be regenerated in righteousness (not in sin and iniquity as they are now) and life.

SUCK — Appropriate the milk of the word.

BREASTS — Old and New Testaments. The milk of the word will be a consolation and comfort in the next age. That ye may milk out at the first part of the age, and at its end be delighted with the abundance of her glory. If they continue to draw the milk of the word they will finally reach perfection of mind and body. She is not now a mother to any while she is in the flesh, but is only an embryo; but the time will come when she will be able to give life and food to others.

66:12 — FOR THUS SAITH THE LORD, BEHOLD, I WILL EXTEND PEACE TO HER LIKE A RIVER — This is not yet true; now sorrow, no rest except by faith, and trouble and trials; but then peace so deep! Then shall the nations be fed and matured and supported by the Church, taught by her, through fleshly Israel.

66:13 — AS ONE WHOM HIS MOTHER COMFORTETH, SO WILL I COMFORT YOU — A very endearing expression. God will comfort the race through Christ. The Jews will be comforted in Jerusalem.

66:14 — HAND OF JEHOVAH — His power through Christ.

BE KNOWN — Made plain, recognized. God will swiftly punish evil and reward good. His attitude toward His servants (the Church, Great Company, Ancient Worthies, and obedient of the world) will be understood plainly, and His indignation toward His enemies will be recognized by swift punishments on all evil doers. “Then shall ye discern between the righteous and the wicked.” (Mal 3:18)

HEART REJOICE — Those who reform at heart and come into harmony with God will exceedingly rejoice.

BONES SHALL FLOURISH — Restitution, or perhaps the social structure become more and more near perfection.

66:15 — FIRE — Consuming trouble.

CHARIOTS — Labor organizations and others.

WHIRLWIND — Time of trouble. The flames of fire (2 Thess. 1:8; Psa. 50:3) and the whirlwind symbolize the complete destruction of all the present systems, as evil; showing the anger of Jehovah against all forms of evil.

66:16 — BY FIRE — Burning judgments.

PLEAD — Judge, teach.

SWORD — The truth. These will be used to educate the race. Some will learn by trouble, others by truth more, and many or all by both.

SLAIN OF THE LORD — Slain as enemies and brought into harmony with Him. Their enmity of heart slain. (See Psa. 45, note on verse 5)

66:17 — THEMSELVES — Marg. “one after another.”

SANCTIFY — Consecrate, set themselves apart. Some consecrate and seek to live out their consecration in the various sects (“gardens”) (see Cant. 4:12) of Christendom.

PURIFY — Cleanse from evil.

ONE FOLLOWING ANOTHER — Instead of following the Lord.

IN THE MIDST — In prominent places of service or influence.

EAT SWINE’S FLESH — Appropriate the unclean doctrines of Papacy.

ABOMINATION — The Mass, the “Abomination of Desolation” and so become part of Babylon.

MOUSE — Unclean doctrine of the Image of the Beast. Those who continue to believe these doctrines and seek to purify themselves in the various sects of Christendom and in Papacy, shall be consumed together in the trouble (overwhelmed). In the French Revolution the priests were given choice of three things; to marry, be banished, or be hung; and many lamp posts were decorated with heads.

66:18 — THOUGHTS — Doctrines, beliefs.

WORKS — Deeds and practices founded upon these false doctrines.

GATHER ALL NATIONS — In the time of trouble. (Joel 3:11-14; Zeph. 3:8).

SEE HIS GLORY — Discern His true glorious character, justice, wisdom, love, and power in harmonious blending.

66:19 — SIGN — Standard, the Ransom.

THOSE THAT ESCAPE (ARE DELIVERED) — First the Little Flock, and the Great Company, and the Ancient Worthies. The Little Flock escape from the earth before the great time of trouble. These will be teachers of the nations to declare God’s glory among those who never knew Him. (Literally those of the Ancient Worthies or others who make swift progress to perfection will be sent to teach the Gentiles.)

TARSHISH — Literal Tarshish was probably a city or town in Southern Spain where the Phoenecians traded. Prophetically may mean the chief commercial nations of Christendom, perhaps England. (S.B.D.) Also a son of Japheth, hence a European nation.

PUL — Probably an African (north) place.

LUD — A son of Shem, hence Asiatics; seems related to Lydia. Egyptian records mention people similar to Pul and as bowmen. (S.B.D.)

TUBAL, JAVAN — Sons of Japheth, Europeans.

ISLES — The account shows that all the families of the earth will be instructed.

DECLARE MY GLORY — Publish my true character and purposes, and plan.

66:20 — This literally refers to the return of the Jews to Jerusalem.

SWIFT BEASTS — Heb. Kirkasoth. (swaying furnace, train in rapid motion; from Kir = a furnace, and Karkar = to sway). The prophet sought thus to coin a word to describe what he saw); litters for the sick and weak, in the quickest way.

FOR AN OFFERING — But spiritually, they = Little Flock as kings, priests, prophets, etc. will bring all the willing and obedient (brethren) of the whole world back to the Kingdom (Mountain), back into favor and harmony with the Lord; just as in the type of fleshly Israel bringing their offerings to God, through its priesthood, after the Atonement Day.

CLEAN VESSEL — By means of the pure truth preached to them.

HOLY MOUNTAIN — God's kingdom.

LITTERS — Gentle means for the weak and out of the way. All brought back the very best and quickest way.

66:21 — PRIESTS — Little Flock, out of all nations (sons of Amram).

LEVITES — Kohath, Gershon, and Merari. Kohath = Ancient Worthies; Merari = Great Company; Gershon = world of men, the restitution class.

66:22 — NEW HEAVENS — The Christ.

NEW EARTH — Newly organized society. These will remain before God forever.

YOUR — The Church's.

SEED — Ancient Worthies and world.

NAME — Nature, office, character.

66:23 — This text is much used by the Seventh Day Adventists to prove Sabbath will be kept in ages to come. It may be so, but this verse does not refer to it, but seems rather to mean:

FROM SABBATH TO SABBATH — From month (new moon) to month, year to year, that is continually, always worship and serve God.

ALL FLESH — “Every knee shall bow and every tongue confess.”

66:24 — THEY — All men living will look upon (think upon, consider, examine, recognize by understanding) some who have transgressed against God, i.e. who were his servants and then turned against him.

CARCASES — (All that is left of them, their condition), second death. The worms destroy what they ate, and fire destroyed the rest.

FIRE NEVER QUENCHED — Cannot be stopped until thing burning is utterly consumed = they will never come out of that destruction. The faithful will then realize that such were utterly bad and deserved their destruction. They will be an abomination to all, all will shrink from their course and condition. (See Lev. 10:6)

For comments on Chapter 66 see Z.'09-247; Z.'14-340; Z.'13-99; or R.4454; R.5574; R.1648. These are especially on verses 7 and 8.

JEREMIAH

1:2 — IN THE THIRTEENTH YEAR OF HIS REIGN — The first year of Josiah probably began to count from the beginning of the Jewish year, Spring 659 B.C. (Saul's reign began in the spring—1 Sam. 1:12-15; 2:17; See also 2 Chron. 29:1-3, 17; 30:1-5, 15; 35:1, 19.) The middle of his 13th year would be autumn 647 B.C. therefore Jeremiah began his career as a prophet 646-1/4 years B.C. which would be 41 years before autumn 606 B.C. (2 Kings 25:1-3, 8) This corresponds to the 40 years of harvest before the overthrow of Christendom in 1914, 1915. A prominent feature in the public utterances of this faithful servant of the Lord was the destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple and the overthrow of the Kingdom. So since 1874 the Lord's servant and his associates have been declaring from the Scriptures the overthrow of Christendom. (G.P.P. Vol. 2; p. 151, 42)

1:3 — UNTO THE CARRYING AWAY OF JERUSALEM CAPTIVE IN THE FIFTH MONTH — See note on verse 2 above.

1:11 — ALMOND TREE — The Hebrew word for almond (or almond tree) is "shaked" from a root which signifies to hasten, to be wakeful, for the tree blooms very early in the spring, the flowers appearing before the leaves. This root meaning seems to be referred to here.

1:12 — HASTEN — Heb. "Shoked."

2:12 — O YE HEAVENS — The spiritual ruling powers as represented in the ministry and clergy who compose the Ecclesiastical or religious ruling powers of the various religious systems. (Bible Question Box)

AT THIS, AND BE HORRIBLY AFRAID, BE YE VERY DESOLATE — This should be the attitude of the clergy, of repentance and fear, but it is not, they are more blatantly boastful than ever.

2:13 — BROKEN CISTERNS — Creeds and religious systems to hold the muddy waters of the traditions of men. But they are very dilapidated and broken wholly incapable of holding the waters of truth, useless.

3:16 — NEITHER SHALL THAT BE DONE ANY MORE — The prophet foretells the time when the Ark shall come no more to mind nor be remembered, nor anything more be done with it. (Leeser) This would seem to indicate that it might be found again, when the Ancient Worthies come up, including Jeremiah, but nothing more will be done with it.

8:7 — JUDGMENT — Or “arrangement.”

OF THE LORD— They do not recognize that a harvest time of full and complete separation of wheat from tares and chaff must come. In this they show less discernment than the migratory fowls.

8:8 — HOW DO — How can.

YE SAY, WE ARE WISE, AND THE LAW OF THE LORD IS WITH US? — When you cannot discern the harvest time and change of dispensation then due.

WITH US — We are its keepers, His mouthpieces and the ones to whom you should look for explanations.

THE PEN OF THE SCRIBES IS IN VAIN — Leeser = “Truly in vain wrought the pen, in vain the writers.” Because God’s word by His prophets and apostles is made void and set aside without attention, and creeds formed in the Dark Ages are the lightless lanterns of them that walk in darkness.

8:9 — THE WISE MEN — Learned men.

THEY ARE DISMAYED — Disheartened by the failure of their cherished human schemes.

AND TAKEN — Caught unprepared, surprised.

AND WHAT WISDOM IS IN THEM — This is now. (Isa. 29:10)

8:10 — THEREFORE WILL I GIVE THEIR WIVES — Churches, congregations.

FIELDS — Fields of labor given to the conquerors (so Leeser) = the overcomers in the Harvest (Jewish—Matt. 21:43; Gospel—Isa. 65:15)

IS GIVEN TO COVETOUSNESS — “Greedy dogs that can never have enough.” (Isa. 56:11)

PROPHET — Orator.

PRIEST — Minister.

EVERY ONE DEALETH FALSELY — “Practiceth falsehood” (Leeser) see Isa. 56:10-12; 28:14-20.

8:11 — MY PEOPLE — Nominal Zion = Babylon now.

SLIGHTLY — (Leeser) = “very lightly.” Carelessly, with only outward effect, no real healing.

PEACE, PEACE; WHEN THERE IS NO PEACE — When her whole system is diseased, and needs thorough cleansing with the medicine of God’s Word, the truth.

8:12 — NEITHER COULD THEY BLUSH — Lost sense of shame, not even as honest as worldly people, glory in their shame. (Phil. 3:18,19; Jude 13)

THEREFORE SHALL THEY — The teachers.

THEIR VISITATION — Or inspection—the harvest.

8:13 — SHALL PASS AWAY FROM THEM — All divine favors and privileges.

8:14 — WHY DO WE SIT STILL? — Do nothing, inactive. We should try to regain our lost power and influence.

ASSEMBLE YOURSELVES — The rolling together of the heavens; or the Protestant Federation, Image of the Beast.

LET US ENTER INTO THE DEFENCED CITIES — Intrench ourselves with the strong governments (thus forming the Image of the Beast and giving it life).

AND LET US BE SILENT THERE — They somehow realize that neither reason nor Scripture supports their false doctrines, and the wisest method is to keep silence under the shadow of old superstitions and under protection of so called Christian governments. The truth presented now is so strong and unanswerable, and their efforts to answer it only lead so much more to its victory by proving it true and their theories false, so they with few exceptions decide to say nothing.

AND GIVE US WATER OF GALL TO DRINK — The only refreshment they may have is the cup of their own brewing mixing the poison of bitter error, doctrines of demons, mingled with pure water of life, the truth. These will be forced to drink this cup, to admit the falsity of their own doctrines. (Jer. 51:44; Rev. 18:6)

8:15 — WE LOOKED FOR PEACE — They expected that their poison-water doctrines would convert the world and bring on the Millennium.

AND BEHOLD TROUBLE! — The disease of nominal Christendom will grow rapidly worse from the time that the Israelites indeed begin to come out of Babylon.

8:16 — THE SNORTING OF HIS HORSES — The Lord's voice of the truth preached, God's true doctrines, the seventh trumpet.

WAS HEARD FROM DAN — From Dan to Beershebah, over the whole of Christendom.

THE WHOLE LAND TREMBLED AT THE SOUND OF THE NEIGHING OF HIS STRONG ONES — The spread of the truth will break up the confidence of the people in Babylon and help to bring on the time of trouble.

16:18 — DOUBLE — Jewish double — Death of Jacob (1812 B.C.) until the death of Jesus (33 A.D.)—thence to 1878 = 1845 years. "Mishneh" = repetition, duplicate, double—Isa. 61:7; Jer. 17:18; Zech. 9:12 (Word 4932 in Strong's Conc.). "Kephef" = something folded together, double—Isa. 40:2. (Word 3718). "Shenayim" = 2 Kings 2:9, dual, double, twice. (Word 8147). "Diplous" (Gr.) = two fold, double.,make double. (Word 1362)

20:8 — FOR SINCE I SPAKE, I CRIED OUT — This word of the Lord was given prior to the seventy years captivity of the Jews. There were false prophets among them who declared that the King of Judah was to gain a victory over their enemies. The people were glad to hear this assurance, and they despised the true prophet of the Lord, who gave them the real message from God. Jeremiah told them (18:15, etc.) they had failed to keep their Covenant with the Lord, fainted in the responsibilities to Jehovah, whose people they professed to be and whom they had promised to serve faithfully; that it was not too late even then for any to be delivered, who would repent (22:3, 4). But that the nation was surely to be delivered to their enemies and carried away into captivity. Jeremiah knew that the false prophets would encourage the King, and that he himself would bring the King's wrath upon his own head by reiterating the message which Jehovah had commissioned him to deliver. He shrank from the infamy, the reproach and persecution which by experience he knew would result from loyalty to the Lord. But he overcame the temptation to hold his peace.

20:9 — BUT HIS WORD WAS IN MINE HEART AS A BURNING FIRE

— He would speak as God commanded him, let the cost be what it would. He would tell Israel again the words given him. He would give them a further warning. If Jeremiah had allowed his fears to overwhelm him and had withheld the message, undoubtedly he would have been set aside as the mouthpiece of God, and another would have been sent to deliver the message.

The burning within the heart of the Prophet would have grown feebler and ultimately have died out. When a fire is kept shut off from a draft for some length of time, it will become extinguished. This is as true in the realm of moral and spiritual forces as in that of physical nature. "Quench not the Spirit." We might let the Spirit of God die out in our hearts by failing to do our duty, a failure to keep our covenant faithfully. The light within us, the holy fire, would smoulder for a time and finally become extinct.

The prophet Jeremiah could not withhold what God had commanded him to speak. He could not quench the fire within his soul without losing his relationship to Jehovah. So today God has let us into the secret of His counsels, granted us a wonderful spiritual illumination. He has given us a message of the utmost importance to deliver to His professed people. We have been informed by the Lord that a great change is impending, that the lease of power to the Gentile nations is about to expire, the religious systems of Christendom are to go down, the rule of the present order is about to end, and the dominion about to be given to Him whose right it is. The overthrow of the kingdom of darkness. The message is not to be stated in a rude manner, but it is to be stated. We are to tell forth this glorious message; tell it in our actions, in our words, by the printed page, by pictorial presentations to the eye, and in every way the Lord shall give us opportunity.

If through fear of persecution, of losing prestige in the eyes of men, for love of ease or for any reason whatever, we fail to give forth the message of God, it will be taken from us and given to one who is worthy. Is this wonderful message the like of which was never before granted to men or angels to tell, burning within us? Are we speaking it forth that its inspiration may cause other hearts to take fire? If we refrain from telling the glad tidings, the fire of God's Holy Spirit will die within us. And if the light that is within us become darkness, how great will be that darkness! The possession of the Truth, God's message, brings with it great responsibility. Shall we prove faithful to it? Shall we show to our God our deep appreciation of His loving kindness in granting us the knowledge of His wonderful message of salvation! How earnestly, with what painstaking care shall we give heed to the word spoken unto us. (Z.'14-197; R.5489)

23:6 — THE LORD OUR RIGHTEOUSNESS — “Our Righteousness of Jehovah.” (See Jer. 33:16; 2 Cor. 5:21) This name is appropriate to Christ, for he stood as the representative of God's righteousness and suffered the penalty for man's sin, that God might still be just and yet the justifier of him that believeth on Jesus. The translators have here given us a poor translation in their endeavor to find a place where the name “Jehovah” was associated with Christ.

23:29 — ROCK — Stony heart. (Psa. 72:4; Jer. 51:21)

25:32 — COAST — Literally, outward parts; or symbolically, that portion of society nearest the “sea,” society being encroached upon by that lawless element. The world is commercially brought together now, making one dependant on another. (Z.'11-28; R.4750) (See Rev. 1:7)

30:11 — THOUGH I MAKE A FULL END OF ALL NATIONS . . . YET WILL I NOT MAKE A FULL END OF THEE — The same time of trouble which will result in the national resurrection of Israel will mean the death of all other nations.

31:32 — ALTHOUGH I WAS AN HUSBAND UNTO THEM, SAITH THE LORD — Marg. “should I have continued an husband unto them?” This is more in harmony. Paul more correctly renders it—“and I regarded them not.” This in the text is a possible rendering, but the inspired one of Paul is the correct one, probably. Some Hebrew scholars give “reject,” “disregard,” as the meaning here and so “Gesinius.” Heb. Lexicon.

31:33 — I WILL MAKE — “Karath” = cut off (Jer. 11:19; Joel 1:9) This word is used in connection with the covenant in reference to the sacrifices which when accomplished will seal, ratify the new covenant.

I WILL PUT MY LAW IN THEIR INWARD PARTS, AND WRITE IT IN THEIR HEARTS — Showing that one point of difference between the Old and New Law covenant will be that while the first one was disregarded and broken, the new one will be respected and kept. The precepts of God will be brought before the human mind and engraved and interwoven in the whole fiber of his being, so that man in the end of the Millennial Age will be as Adam was in the beginning—fully in accord with everything good and righteousness, and unsympathetic with everything evil. This condition will come to be the very fiber of human nature again and only to such as will attain this will come the blessing of eternal life. (Z. '10-394; R.4730)

33:16 — THE LORD OUR RIGHTEOUSNESS — See Jer. 23:6; 2 Cor. 5:21. This name is appropriate to the whole church (The New Jerusalem). She not only shares Jesus' sufferings for righteousness (Col. 1:24), but also in all the glory of her husband, as a wife shares her husband's honors and name. (Rev. 3:12; 19:7; 21:9). There are other instances where the name Jehovah is used to compound another name. (Gen. 22:14; Ex. 17:15; Judges 6:23, 24; Ex. 48:35)

37:16 — WHEN JEREMIAH WAS ENTERED INTO THE DUNGEON . . . AND HAD REMAINED THERE MANY DAYS — It is safe to say that persecutors are always wrong, even if we cannot say that the persecuted are always right. The principle of persecution is a wrong one. Whoever finds himself disposed to persecute another either with physical torture or by slander and epithets should immediately inquire about his own heart condition, for there is surely something wrong. Whoever witnesses persecution, either physical or slanderous, should immediately decide that the persecutor is in error and should give his sympathy to the persecuted if he be able to do no more. He will thus be cultivating in his own mind a principle of justice—righteousness which will make for his own character-development. (Z. '11-235; R.4865)

Jerusalem was honey combed with underground cisterns and vaults, arched overhead and these were called "cabins." They were reservoirs for water in time of drought. The bottoms of these cisterns, when the water was removed, were frequently deep with mud and slime. (Z. '11-235; R.4865)

Jerusalem, described by Sabo—well supplied with water in a dry neighborhood, depends mainly for this upon its cisterns, of which almost every private house possesses one or more, excavated in the rock on which the city was built. The cisterns have usually a round opening at the top, sometimes built up with stonework above and furnished with a curb, and a wheel for the bucket. (Eccl. 12:6) (S.B.D.)

37:17 — THEN ZEDEKIAH THE KING SENT, AND TOOK HIM OUT — Not from sympathy or righteousness. However much the King despised Jeremiah and refused to recognize his words, he nevertheless realized in his heart that Jeremiah was a servant of Jehovah, and he feared that his message was true. (Z. '11-236; R.4865)

THOU SHALT BE DELIVERED INTO THE HAND OF THE KING OF BABYLON — Note the prophet's courage. He altered not a word of what he had previously told. He urged the King not to heed the contrary prophecies, and called to his attention the fact that already some of these had been untrue (vs. 19); his own dire statements must be true because they were the Word of the Lord. (Z. '11-236; R.4865)

The mental attitude of the one persecuted has much to do with the amount of the sufferings. Jeremiah in his dungeon with all those unhappy surroundings had a mind at peace with God. Whereas the very king who caused him to be put in prison, a little later, captured by the Chaldeans had his sight destroyed and was put into the dungeon. Poor man! disappointed in everything, with no human sympathy, and no fellowship with God, his must have been a terrible dungeon experience. (Z. '11-236; R.4865)

38:3 — THIS CITY SHALL SURELY BE GIVEN INTO THE HAND OF THE KING OF BABYLON'S ARMY — Jeremiah was a patriot in the highest sense of the word—in that he looked for the highest good of his nation along the lines of divine wisdom. His principle was "God first," and he knew that only this procedure could bring divine blessings to his nation. He was, of course misunderstood by the king and his counsellors. They did not like him because he told the truth, and that fearlessly—they preferred prophets who would tell them of their own wisdom, greatness and the success of their policies. (Z. '11-235; R.4865)

38:4 — FOR THIS MAN SEEKETH NOT THE WELFARE OF THIS PEOPLE, BUT THE HURT — Where the will of God and the plans of man conflict, those who are faithful to God will be in the minority and are likely to be considered public enemies, because out of accord with those who are out of harmony with God. This has brought upon the Lord's people of every age the frowns, opposition and persecution of those not the Lord's faithful people, not guided by divine counsel, but who are walking in their own ways under the leadership of the god of this world. Jeremiah was not ashamed of the Lord's Word. Are we? All the overcomers will be loyal to the message, not ashamed of the Gospel. (Z. '05-254; R.3616) (See Rom. 1:16)

Perhaps as we get down the stream of time, nearer to the actual trouble, we may see it to be our duty to call attention to it more particularly and to urge the people to take the course which would save them from the severity of that trouble—the course of harmony with the Lord. When that time shall come such advice will doubtless run counter to the wisdom and ambitions of some who will then be in power, and it may be that we shall be imprisoned or otherwise maltreated like Jeremiah. (Z. '05-254; R.3616)

38:5 — THEN ZEDEKIAH . . . SAID, BEHOLD, HE IS IN YOUR HAND — Jeremiah prophesied the success of the enemy and recommended the Israelites to surrender speedily and save themselves the trouble and famine.

He pointed out that their troubles were the results of disobedience to God, and that the proper course now was to repent and accept the situation and learn the lesson and profit thereby. (Z.'05-253; R.3616)

Self-willed, the King and princes esteemed Jeremiah as a traitor to the nation, and their opponent. Alas! They should have realized that the nation was God's and that Jeremiah alone was standing faithfully with the great King. (Z.'11-236; R.4865)

38:6 — JEREMIAH, AND CAST HIM INTO THE DUNGEON — Perhaps they were afraid of the consequences of killing Jeremiah, or perhaps deterred by the Lord's providences. (Z.'05-253; R.3616)

38:7 — NOW WHEN EBED-MELECH THE ETHIOPIAN — Yet we have people of sufficient intelligence to write books who claim that the "Negro is a Beast," and that he is everywhere condemned in the Scriptures. This Ethiopian evidently had a cleaner heart than the majority of the chief men of Israel—a heart much nearer to the divine likeness than theirs. (See Acts 8:27-38) (Z.'05-253; R.3616)

46:1 — AGAINST THE GENTILES — Against the nations of earth. Egypt: (46:1-28); Philistia: (47:1-7); Moab: (48:1-47); Ammon: (49:1-6); Edom: (49:7-22); Damascus: (49:23-27); Kedar: (49:28-29); Hazor: (49:30-33); Elam: (49:34-39); Babylon: (50:1-46, 51:1-64). With Judah (Israel) this makes ten nations. See the six (seven) judgments of Amos 1, 2 and the five woes of Hab. 2.

50:8 — BE AS THE HE GOATS — These he goats were leaders of the flocks. The Hebrew literally has no thought of goat in it, but is attud = prepared (i.e. full grown) (from past partic. of athad = to prepare) and is used figuratively of leaders of the people, and of goats in a similar sense. So here the Lord's people are to come out of Babylon that they may as "prepared ones" lead all men, the world, out from under the influence of Babylon and its king (Satan), through the time of trouble and through instruction. (See Strong's Conc.)

50:46 — AT THE NOISE OF THE TAKING OF BABYLON — Since the kingdoms of the civilized world have submitted to be largely dominated by "Babylon" accepting from her the title "Christian nations," "Christendom," and the divine right of kings, they also link themselves with her and become part of her so that, as in the type "Babylon" applies not only to the city (nominal church) but also to the whole empire (Christendom). The nations beyond Christendom will also feel the weight of the heavy hand of recompense in that they also are to some extent bound in with Christendom by various ties, commercial and others. (D27) In symbolic prophecy a city is a religious government backed by power and influence. Thus, the "Holy City, the New Jerusalem,” is the symbol used to represent the established Kingdom of God, the overcomers of the Gospel Church, exalted and reigning in glory. The Church is also called the “Bride, the Lamb’s wife,” in power and glory, backed by the power and authority of Christ, her husband. (Rev. 21:9, 10) This same method of interpretation applies to Mystic Babylon, the great Ecclesiastical Kingdom, “that Great City,” (Rev. 17:1-6) which is described as a harlot, a fallen woman (an apostate church—for the true Church is a virgin, 2 Cor. 11:2; Psa. 45:13; Rev. 14:4), exalted to power and dominion and backed to a considerable degree by the kings of the earth, the civil powers, which are all more or less intoxicated with her spirit and doctrine. The Apostate Church lost her virgin purity. Instead of waiting as an espoused and chaste virgin for exaltation with the heavenly bridegroom, she associated herself with the kings of the earth and prostituted her virgin purity—both of doctrine and character—to suit the world’s ideas; and in return she received and now to some extent exercises a present dominion, in large measure by their support, direct and indirect. See note on Rev. 17:5. (D26)

51:1 — AND AGAINST THEM — All in sympathy with Babylon.

51:6 — FLEE OUT OF THE MIDST OF BABYLON — No one should be urged to come out of Babylon. If he does not come out joyfully “with singing,” making melody in his heart to the Lord (see Ezra 2 notes), glad of the opportunity to come out, to get away from the error and into the place of divine favor and inheritance of the divine promises, let him stay in Babylon. If he loves the things of the present time, social and business advantages of Babylon and its opportunities for business, greater honor of men, greater comfort and ease—let him so indicate to the Lord and refuse to respond to the Lord’s message. (Z. ’05-302; R.3643)

51:7 — THAT MADE ALL THE EARTH DRUNKEN — Babylon misused and changed the doctrines which God hath given her, and replaced them with doctrines of devils and made all nations intoxicated with its blinding stupefying liquor.

51:24 — BABYLON — Babylon = Papacy specially and Protestants.

CHALDEA — Chaldea = Christendom (nations of so-called Christian World). (D39) (See Luke 18:7, 8; Isa. 59:18; Jer. 51:6.)

THEY HAVE DONE IN ZION — As we remember the long train of evils by which Babylon has oppressed the Saints and how God will avenge His own Elect and that speedily, we begin to realize that some fearful calamity awaits her. (D39) She is to receive double for all her sins.

51:39 — PERPETUAL SLEEP — “Perpetual” is here a translation from “Olam” = lasting enduring, but not endless. “Olam” sleepers awake in Psa. 86:9; Isa. 19:24, 25; Jer. 48:47; 49:6, 39; Ezek. 16:53, 55. In Ex. 29:9 the Aaronic Priesthood is called “Olam,” and ends in Heb. 7:12. In Jer. 25:9 the seventy years desolation is called “Olam” and is ended in Jer. 32:15. (Z. '06-56; R.3725)

51:44 — BEL — The god of Babylon, the Pope.

I WILL BRING FORTH OUT OF HIS MOUTH THAT WHICH HE HATH SWALLOWED UP — In his extremity, he shall repudiate the “great swelling words” and blasphemous titles which he has so long appropriated to himself — that he is the infallible Vicar. “Vice-gerent of Christ,” “another God on Earth.” (D40)

THE WALL OF BABYLON SHALL FALL — The civil power that once defended and in a measure does so still. (D40)

51:58 — THE BROAD WALLS — The Civil powers defending her.

BURNED WITH FIRE — Destroyed.

PEOPLE SHALL LABOUR IN VAIN — Labor to prop and save the walls of Babylon. This shows the blindness of the people, and the hold Babylon has on them, that they will labor to uphold her against their own best interests. (Or to prevent anarchy?) (D40)

LAMENTATIONS

3:1 — HOW IS THE GOLD BECOME DIM — Showing how the world and particularly Nominal Israel has so fallen from their former appreciation of God and His people that God’s messengers are no longer esteemed in the eyes of men.

THE STONES OF THE SANCTUARY ARE Poured OUT — “Ye also as living stones, etc.” (1 Pet. 2:5)

3:2 — HOW ARE THEY ESTEEMED AS EARTHEN PITCHERS — Little esteemed among men. A picture of the condition of Christendom at the time of its overthrow, as the prophet had in mind the time of the overthrow of Zedekiah.

(14 years after city smitten)

1:1 — IN THE THIRTIETH YEAR — Thirty years before this, or rather twenty-nine, since this was the 30th, would bring us to 641 B.C. This brings us to the end of the 17th and the beginning of the 18th year of Josiah. In that 18th year he started to and repaired the house of God, found the book of the Law and held the great passover! A worthy point of reckoning.

CHEBAR — Joined. The stream of commerce which joins the nations of Christendom. (FM367)

VISIONS OF GOD — The likeness of the glory of Jehovah. (vs. 28)

1:2 — THE FIFTH YEAR OF KING JEHOIACHIN'S CAPTIVITY — See 2 Chron. 36:8-11. This therefore must have been the fifth year of Zedekiah's reign and hence six years before the desolation, or about 612 B.C.

1:3 — EZEKIEL — "God is strong" (FM368) or "God will strengthen."

BUZI — "Despised."

1:4 — A WHIRLWIND — An invisible force or power, perhaps referring to the time of trouble which will usher in the Millennium, and be the "Day of Jehovah." (Joel 2:1)

OUT OF THE NORTH — Seat of divine empire, (Isa. 14:13, 14; Psa. 48:1, 2) spiritual power and rule, Jehovah represented by the Christ, will thus come.

1:5 — FOUR LIVING CREATURES — Cherubim.

1:10 — AS FOR THE LIKENESS OF THEIR FACES — These represent the four attributes of God, as also in the four gospels, and in Jesus' four states.

1:16 — THE APPEARANCE OF THE WHEELS — Wheels represent the progressive cycles of the divine plan of the ages, cycle within cycle. See Prov. 25:11.

Lion	Power	Matthew (pre-existent)
Ox	Service, Wisdom	Mark (spirit begotten) Prov. 14:8
Man	Justice, Corresponding Price	Luke (Son of Adam) Hos. 11:4
Eagle	Spiritual; Love	John (Exalted spiritual being)
See Prov. 30:18; Job 39:27-30

2:1 — SON OF MAN — Representing Bro. C. T. Russell. Many of Ezekiel's visions apply to him.

THY FEET — See Daniel 10:11.

2:3 — I SEND THEE TO THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL — A picture of Nominal Christendom. Willful, determined to have their own way, going about to establish their own righteousness and will not heed the Lord's message, as in Ezek. 3:6, 7.

2:4 — THUS SAITH THE LORD GOD — The message is God's not C. T. Russell's and so he represents it.

2:6 — THOUGH BRIERS AND THORNS BE WITH THEE — Papacy and Protestant Federation growing up around him. (Isa. 9:18; 10:17; 27:4; Nah. 1:10) The fruitage of wilful rejection of God's messages. (Heb. 6:7, 8)

AND THOU DOST DWELL AMONG SCORPIONS — False brethren who can sting most sharply.

3:5 — BUT TO THE HOUSE OF ISRAEL — C. T. Russell was not sent to the heathen, but to the people of Christendom. The heathen gladly hear the message when it is brought to them, but Christendom will not hear it. (Ezek. 33:30-33)

3:7 — THEY WILL NOT HEARKEN UNTO ME — If they would not hearken to God's messages previously, they will not now. Their heart is in a natural resultant condition.

3:8 — THY FOREHEAD STRONG AGAINST THEIR FOREHEADS — Intellectual understanding of the truth and of God's plan. The truth is more reasonable by far than error and always overthrows. Those who have been up in public debate with him have soon ceased to be prominent, they have fallen, cut down by the truth.

3:11 — UNTO THE CHILDREN OF THY PEOPLE — Those captives in Babylon, God's people there.

3:14 — SO THE SPIRIT LIFTED ME UP — (Rev. 4:1) Picturing a spiritual uplifting which Bro. Russell had.

3:15 — THE CAPTIVITY OF TEL-ABIB — Tel = mound, hill; abib = a green ear of grain (probably wheat—Ex. 34:22). This was the name of the first, the Passover month. Hence "hill of green ears (of wheat)." The saints who are awake and watching, but not yet fully developed, needing the Harvest message to develop and ripen them.

CHEBAR — (May be same root as "chabar," join) and if so would mean those joined to the Lord by consecration.

REMAINED THERE ASTONISHED — Perplexity, because of the different opinions held on some matters, and because of not having a clear understanding of the types and shadows. These came clear in 1881.

SEVEN DAYS — In wonderment awaiting the Lord's time to use him. These seven days represent the seven years, 1874-1881 when Bro. Russell was active and serving the people of God and watching, but not yet the One Servant. This was the time when Barbour was the one servant, and he denied his Redeemer in 1878. The resulting clash of preaching caused the separation of Barbour and he preached no Ransom doctrines, bringing out some things on the Tabernacle. To controvert this error Bro. Russell thought the correct understanding of the Tabernacle must be due. So he zealously studied Leviticus, Exodus and Hebrews and at noon of the third day, the light came.

3:17 — I HAVE MADE THEE A WATCHMAN UNTO THE HOUSE OF ISRAEL — At this time 1881 Bro. Russell became the one servant in Barbour's place, and the following verses show his responsibility.

3:19, 20, 21 — WARN THE WICKED . . . WARN THE RIGHTEOUS —

These are people of the Church nominal, especially the consecrated. The time had come for the Harvest work, the testing and sifting and gathering of the wheat. It was necessary therefore that all the consecrated be warned of the Harvest time and message. (Rev. 7; Ezek. 9) And have the truth testified to them, and then the choice left with them, so that all will be responsible. The Lord foreknew that Nominal Christendom would reject the message and many of the consecrated and so told Bro. Russell through the Bible.

3:22 — HAND OF GOD — Power of the Lord.

INTO THE PLAIN — Outside of nominal Christendom, outside all sects and parties, as did John and Jesus. See Rev. 17:3 and note. Plain = (Leeser) valley.

3:23 — THE GLORY OF THE LORD STOOD THERE — Another vision anew of God's wisdom, justice, love and power and of His plan, enhancing his appreciation of God's wonderful character and plan.

3:25 — THEY SHALL PUT BANDS UPON THEE — Hindrances, strive to stop and hinder Bro. Russell and not admit him among their Churches, as one of their ministers.

3:26 — SHALT NOT BE TO THEM A REPROVER — Bro. Russell was not to be a reformer as so many have been.

4:3 — AN IRON PAN — This iron pan may point to the League of Schmalkald by which all Protestant Princes formed a protective union on behalf of Protestantism, against the Papacy and Charles V, who planned to exterminate Protestantism by fire and sword. But this league made such a powerful impression upon Charles V, that they gave up their designs. Formed in 1531 between Dec. 1530 and April 1531 the 390 years reach to 1921; and the 40 years 1881-1921. Bro. Russell was made a watchman in 1881 when the Tabernacle Shadows and "Food for Thinking Christians" came.

6:3 — HIGH PLACES — Exalted human schemes and arrangements.

6:4 — ALTARS — Local churches.

IMAGES — Representations of things worshipped, creeds.

IDOLS — Power, gold, honor, etc., as things worshipped, given the first place in the mind, thoughts, affections.

6:5 — DEAD CARCASSES — Evidences of death, of God's curse.

CHILDREN OF ISRAEL — Nominal Christians.

BONES — Hopes.

6:6 — DWELLING PLACES — Conditions of classes.

CITIES — Local governments.

ALTARS MAY BE LAID WASTE AND MADE DESOLATE — Churches emptied and not used.

IDOLS MAY BE BROKEN AND CEASE — People cease to worship and reverence such ideals as power, wealth, etc., but recognize only God.

WORKS — Activities, slum work, church work of various kinds.

7:7 — THE MORNING IS COME — Tsphiyr = feminine, formed like tsaphiyr = a goat, male, as prancing; from tsaphai = to skip about, i.e. return. (a prim. root) = a crown (as encircling the head); also a turn of affairs (i.e. mishap). In Isaiah it is translated “diadem.” R. V. = “Thy doom”; Leeser = “The evil decree.” Literally “Thy turn of affairs.”

SOUNDING AGAIN OF THE MOUNTAINS — “Near is the day of tumult and not the joyful shouting upon the mountains [Kingdoms].” (R. V.)

7:10 — THE MORNING IS GONE FORTH — See note on Ezek. 7:7.

8:3 — THE SEAT OF THE IMAGE OF JEALOUSY — This was the false mother and false seed. This image of the “Mother and Son,” erected because of the jealousy of Satan against the true seed of the woman, to come, provoked God to jealousy because it led away the worship of his people. (See the second command of the ten commandments). In Egypt the mother and son were worshipped as Isis and Osiris, whose very names signify the “woman” and “the seed,” for Isis is the Greek form of Hishi = “the woman”; and Osiris on the Egyptian monuments He-siri = “the seed.” This was derived from Semiramis who declared that her son and husband, Nimrod, was the promised seed of the woman, who had been destined to bruise the serpents head, and who, in so doing was to have his own heel bruised. Formerly her son had been honored as a mighty hunter and the benefactor of the world. But though now he was dead she would declare he had been deified, and have him worshipped as god. Thus Satan, the “father of lies” tried to frustrate the glorious plan of Jehovah for redemption by the promised seed of the woman, by bringing in a false Messiah, a lying counterfeit of the true. Nimrod as the mighty hunter was identified with the constellation of Orion. (Bro. M. Edgar, “Mythology and the Bible”)

8:14 — TAMMUZ — Tammu — Adonis, identical also with Osiris. (Kitto, “Illust. Commentary” Vol. 4, page 141). (Wilkinson’s “Egyptians” Vol. 5, page 3) The great lamentations which followed the death of Nimrod when his body was torn in 14 pieces by the judges of Egypt was annually commemorated by the various nations. So these backsliding women of Israel wept for the death of the false Messiah under the name of Tammuz, in memory of the wailing of Semiramis for the death of Nimrod. It is significant that these women sat at the same gate as the seat of the image of jealousy in verse 3. On certain Bacchanalian festivals a spotted fawn was torn in pieces and great lamentations were made. Photius tells us of the meaning of this ceremony. (Photius, Lexicon, Pars. 1, page 291) “The tearing in pieces of the nebroi (or spotted fawns) was in imitation of the suffering in the case of Dionysus” (Bacchus) This Tammuz was connected with fire worship, Tammuz = Tam (to perfect) + muz (to burn) = to perfect by burning.

8:16 — THEY WORSHIPPED THE SUN TOWARD THE EAST —
Worshipping the creature instead of the Creator. Talking much of Evolution and the laws of nature.

9:1 — CHARGE OVER THE CITY — “Charge to punish the city.” (Leeser)

9:2 — SLAUGHTER WEAPON IN HIS HAND — The Truth or some special feature of it.

AND ONE MAN — Evidently not one of the six, but a seventh for he did not have a slaughter weapon, unless the inkhorn be one.

WRITERS INKHORN BY HIS SIDE — C. T. Russell showing a writer, a man with God’s message to the people. Towers and Studies.

STOOD BESIDE THE BRAZEN ALTAR — Took their stand by the “Ransom for all.” Showing that these six men are believers and defenders of the doctrine of the Ransom. They follow the man with the ink horn, not go before him nor even with him.

9:4 — AND SET A MARK UPON THE FOREHEADS OF THE MEN —
Can we not now see this separating work going on among us? of those who are careless, neglectful of study, of cultivating the spirit of love toward one another—from those who are deeply in earnest in this matter?

10:2 — THE MAN CLOTHED WITH LINEN — Evidently same one as in the last chapter.

10:14 — EVERY ONE HAD FOUR FACES — These as in Chapter 1 represent the four attributes of God. Cherus = ox, as the visions of the Cherubim are alike. (vs. 22)

11:19 — AND I WILL GIVE — This brief statement implies the full restitution of all that was lost in Adam. (Z.'10-394; R.4729)

13:10 — AND ONE BUILT UP A WALL — Leeser—“And my people built a protecting wall, and lo they plaster it with unadhesive mortar.”

14:21 — I SEND MY FOUR SORE JUDGMENTS UPON JERUSALEM — Do these suggest four heavy punishments upon Christendom? We have had two world wars, a bad depression in 1929, pestilence and disease of heart trouble, polio, disease, what next?

16:50 — I TOOK THEM AWAY AS I SAW GOOD — The Lord had promised that if ten righteous men could be found in Sodom he would not destroy it. (Gen. 18:32) Why did not God send Abraham to preach to them? Why did he not have Lot hold a revival meeting, or send some lesser punishment from which they might recover? Why blot them out at one stroke? How could this be good for them or for anyone else?

These Sodomites had already enjoyed more than their share of blessing and life, for these are provided only for the righteous. Their life was already condemned through Adam, they were enjoying more than their due. God might have cut them off at birth, or by disease or calamity. They, like the rest of the race were condemned, culprits. God took them away as He saw good, when their iniquity had reached its full, and it would probably have been injurious to themselves and to others if they had been permitted to go further. Meanwhile they have been suffering nothing, except the experience in dying, for there is no wisdom, nor knowledge, nor work, nor device in the grave. (Eccl. 9:5, 10) The Sodomites were redeemed by Jesus as well as the rest of mankind, and their awakening time will be in the Millennium. “Every man in his own order.” (1 Cor. 15:23) When they come forth therefore it will be under the favorable conditions of the Millennial age when the strong hand of Immanuel will have control over all the affairs of earth, Satan bound for 1,000 years, when good influences will be let loose on mankind, and all evil influence restrained, when the knowledge of God shall fill the whole earth. Since they were taken away from conditions no longer helpful to them, to be brought back again under more favorable conditions, was it not good to take them away from their scenes of degradation? He in mercy would not permit them to degrade themselves further.

16:60 — MY COVENANT WITH THEE — The Law Covenant, made between God and Israel at Mount Sinai. (Deut. 5:2, 3; Ex. 19:8; Ezek. 16:1-14)

AN EVERLASTING COVENANT — The New Covenant which God will make with natural Israel after the Gospel age. (Jer. 31:31-34)

16:61 — NOT BY THY COVENANT — Not by the Law Covenant which at this time was their Covenant, but by the New Covenant which will be theirs. The other nations of the earth, here represented by Sodom and Samaria will be given as daughters to natural Israel, they will become proselytes of the gate. See Jer. 12:14-17; Micah 5:7. (Z. '09-30; R.4321)

20:37 — I WILL CAUSE YOU TO PASS UNDER THE ROD — (Micah 7:14)

21:10 — IT CONTEMNETH THE ROD — Douay Ver. = Thou removest the scepter of my Son, thou hast cut down every tree.

21:13 — BECAUSE IT IS A TRIAL — “Because it is tried, and that where it shall overthrow the scepter and it shall not be; saith the Lord God”—Douay. Douay note. “He speaks (according to St. Jerome) of the sword of Nebuchadnezzar, which was about to remove the scepter of Israel, whom God calls His Son.” “Because a purification taketh place.” Leeser. The son here is natural Israel. (Hos. 11:1; Ex. 4:22, 23) They had a rulership but were unfaithful and God sent His sword through Jeremiah (Jer. 34; 37:8-11) used the literal sword of Nebuchadnezzar to cut off the Jews and take away their rule. So now God sends His sword (Ezek. and Rev.) to cut off the rulership of Christendom who claim they are a house of sons and have divine rights of kings and clergy. The sword of the Lord will show up their claims and the socialists and anarchists will cut off and destroy their boasted claims. (See FM465)

21:15 — IT IS MADE BRIGHT — Fer. Fen.—“I will make it like lightning flashing to the slaughter.”

WRAPPED UP — “Maot” = covered. (Young)

21:16 — EITHER ON THE RIGHT HAND, OR ON THE LEFT — Fer. Fen.—“Rush to the right hand! Turn to the left! Come! Fix your face!” (Bible in Modern English; Oxford Press, 1913)

25:1-17 — Ammon—vss. 1-7; Moab—vss. 8-11; Edom—vss. 12-14 (also chapter 35); Philistia—vss. 15-17.

26:1 to 28:26 — The judgment etc. of Tyre.

28 — Verses 1-10 depict the destruction of the priestcraft by the sword of revolution and anarchy and the sword of the spirit, the Word of God. (FM500)

28:2 — THE PRINCE OF TYRUS — The clergy class exalted of Christendom, as a system of Paganized philosophy. Tyrus = rock. See Jer. 23:29; Deut. 32:30, 31.

THOU HAST SAID I AM A GOD — The chief representative, the Pope of Rome claims to be “God, and the Vice-gerent of Christ and Jehovah.”

IN THE MIDST OF THE SEAS — The Pope claims to be the Vice-gerent of Christ, of God, Jehovah and sits on many waters. Rev. 17:1, 15. He sits over peoples, nations, tongues. (FM500)

THOU ART A MAN — Thou art man made, man ordained and not of God, not divinely ordained even though thou set thine heart (fix the desire) to pose before the people as divinely ordained.

28:3 — THOU ART WISER THAN DANIEL — Thou thinkest thou art wiser than Daniel. (Z. '05-280; R.3630) Thou supposed that through divine inspiration, the confessional, and the universal clergy spy system, there is nothing in heaven or earth which thou dost not know. (FM500)

28:4 — WITH THY WISDOM — With thy false philosophy (perverted wisdom) and thy misunderstanding (knowledge of evil and deceit) thou has acquired riches, much gold and silver. Many too of the Little Flock (gold) and Great Company (silver) into bondage. (FM500)

28:5 — BY GREAT WISDOM — By scientific suppositions of infidel evolution and higher criticism and good salesmanship of these worthless goods thou hast heaped up wealth (Rev. 3:17) and thou has become proud because of material wealth, doctrines and membership. (FM500)

28:6 — BECAUSE THOU HAST SET THINE HEART AS — Because thou hast set thyself up in pride to be the Vice-gerent of God, and assumed all the titles of His appointed King. (B307)

28:7 — I WILL BRING STRANGERS UPON THEE — I will bring upon the paganized anarchists, strangers to thy theories, the terror of the nations. Also my pilgrims and strangers, the sons of God, those whom thy philosophy dreading, and the anarchists shall turn their weapons of destruction against thee, and the sons of God shall smite with the sword of the spirit thy falsely beautiful philosophy and expose thy real pollution. The German followers of Nietzsche are destroying churches and forcing Christendom to show its real condition of heart.

28:8 — TO THE PIT. . .IN THE MIDST OF THE SEAS — Pit = dishonored oblivion and death. Materially and religiously thou shalt dig the deaths of those slain in the roaring waves of anarchy.

28:9 — WILT THOU YET SAY BEFORE HIM. — Though Christendom is making the claim that she represents God and this is a war between Christ and paganism, and they are fighting for the cross, yet Christ has repudiated them, abandoned them to their fate of destruction of their boasted churches and governments. All will see they are man made and not ordained of God.

28:10 — BY THE HANDS OF STRANGERS — The anarchists and socialists will destroy and this is told by the sons of God, who have abandoned her to be destroyed religiously as one of unclean conscience. (FM501)

28:11-19 — Verses 11-19 deal with the destruction of the Devil, as king of Christendom's rock, Tyre. (FM501)

28:12 — TYRUS — "Tsowr" = a rock; similar to "tsur" = rock or boulder in Deut. 32:4.

FULL OF WISDOM AND PERFECT IN BEAUTY — As Lucifer God created him as one of the highest, the sum of that grade of angel's capacity to hold (wisdom was one of the cherubs) and perfect in the beauty of holiness. (Z.'03-135; R.3187)

28:13 — THOU HAST BEEN IN EDEN — Showing this refers to Lucifer and not to the literal King of Tyre, who never was in Eden.

EVERY PRECIOUS STONE — Sardius = love, sympathy, pity; Topaz = benevolence; Diamond = justice; Beryl = love of the Father, loyalty to Him; Onyx = humility, purity, modesty; Jasper = perfection, prescience; Sapphire = faithfulness; Emerald = everlastingness; Carbuncle = self-sacrifice; Gold = worthiness to be in God's presence, to have His fellowship. (Ten in all.) Beryl may be Chrysolite = heavenly wisdom; Emerald may be Chrysoprase = constant cheerful endurance. Lucifer had the capacity for a most glorious character.

THE WORKMANSHIP OF THY TABRETS AND OF THY PIPES WAS PREPARED IN THEE — The harmony of thy faculties, their perfect balance and accord was created in him. God left him a marvel so his fall cannot be laid to God.

28:14 — THE ANOINTED CHERUB — God had ordained or anointed him to be the caretaker of the innocent pair in Eden. Cherub was one of the highest of God's Creatures. Evidently Lucifer was the embodiment of wisdom (cherub).

THAT COVERETH — “Sakak” = a prim. root prop. to entwine as a screen; by impl. to fence in; to cover (over) fig. to protect.

THOU HAST WALKED UP AND DOWN IN THE MIDST OF THE STONES OF FIRE — Thine activities and course of life was among the other stones of fire, angelic sons of God, flashing jewels reflecting God’s own attributes.

28:16 — I WILL DESTROY THEE — By teaching in mixed doctrines (merchandise) thy adherents, demons and clergy, have filled thy people with violence and warfare and thou has sinned unto death. This great world war is the work of demons and clergy. God will cast him out as polluted from among His holy angels and destroy him.

28:17 — THOU HAST CORRUPTED THY WISDOM — Thy mind was self-exalted in pride, overestimation of his powers and ability as compared with Gods, because of thinking too much upon his abilities and his wisdom, became corrupted, unbalanced, erring in judgment. He desired to show others how much smarter he was than others and to attract praise to himself as well as God. He taught falsehood.

I WILL LAY THEE BEFORE KINGS — I will humble thee before all, and expose thy real character, as a lesson to the Church, the Ancient Worthies and the world, that all may learn the folly and emptiness, the self-destructiveness of pride and never allow such thoughts in their minds.

28:18 — THOU HAST DEFILED THY SANCTUARIES — Thou hast defiled the churches of Christendom by thine iniquitous doctrines and practices and preaching error for profit and stifling liberty of thought and action. (FM502)

A FIRE FROM THE MIDST OF THEE — Showing that pride and evil carry within itself the seeds of its own destruction. The light of truth let into the minds of men will bring about this end.

I WILL BRING THEE TO ASHES — Make thee only a memory to all observers of the end of that way. (Rom. 6:21)

28:19 — THE PEOPLE SHALL BE ASTONISHED — All shall be astonished that such a wonderful one could go to such depths because of pride; they will learn that pride can ruin even the beauty of a cherub, and will detest it as poison.

A TERROR — Shall go into the second death as an example of the terrible results of pride. His fate will be a lesson to all, as all will learn of God’s patience and long-suffering toward Lucifer. He shall never exist anymore.

30:17 — YOUNG MEN OF AVEN — “On” or “Heliopolis.” “On” is here written “Aven” (iniquity, vanity especially idolatry) by a change in the punctuation.

31:14 — GO DOWN TO THE PIT — “Bawr,” from “buwr” = to bore = a pit hole, especially often used of a cistern.

31:15 — DOWN TO THE GRAVE — “Sheol.”

31:16 — DOWN TO HELL — “Sheol.”

DESCEND INTO THE PIT — “Bawr,” from “buwr” = to bore = a pit hole, especially often used of a cistern.

32:2 — A LAMENTATION — A tale of woe, of doom.

KING OF EGYPT — Satan, God of this world. (2 Cor. 4:4; John 14:30; Eph. 2:1; Rev. 11:8)

LIKE A YOUNG LION OF THE NATIONS — So Peter. (1 Pet. 5:8)

WHALE IN THE SEAS — Satan is like a dragon. (Isa. 27:1; Rev. 20:2) He has been stirring up the nations, the discontented masses of men to discontent and trouble wherever his kingdom was threatened by truth.

THY RIVERS — With his messages and declarations of truth, ignorance, superstition; putting darkness for light and light for darkness.

FOULEST THEIR RIVERS — Mixing the truth with error and human tradition—earth.

32:3 — IN MY NET — A trap for Satan. His very efforts to hold his kingdom will show up the evil of his ways in contrast with the light. See work of the “Menace” etc.

32:6 — WATER WITH THY BLOOD — Leeser—saturate with thy blood. Satan’s kingdom tottering to its fall and its life strength (= ignorance and superstition) ebbing away. Every effort to struggle only makes the matter worse.

THE RIVERS — Leeser—ravines, mountain streams.

SHALL BE FULL OF THEE — The overthrow of Satan’s empire. The preceding verses show how his evil ways of darkness will be shown up, the selfishness, corruption in government, evil and darkness and cruelty of Papacy, false claims of earthly rulers to be ruling by the grace of God, the boast of the Protestant Federation. They are now breaking down under war, and powerless against it. Church leaders own shares in the gun works and powder mills, etc.

32:7 — COVER THE SUN WITH A CLOUD — Sunlight of the Gospel, would cease to enlighten the minds of men; they would prefer Evolution, Christian Science, Spiritualism, etc., New Theology.

THE MOON SHALL NOT GIVE HER LIGHT — The Jewish law covenant arrangements, sacrifices etc. Cease to be regarded as of divine origin and be thought of as the bloody deeds of a misguided people.

32:8 — THE BRIGHT LIGHTS OF HEAVEN — Pulpit stars would not be giving forth the true light of the Gospel, but would be teaching Christian citizenship and preaching on social and civil topics instead of the “Word.”

32:9 — WHEN I SHALL BRING THINE — Leeser—“When I shall bring those who are broken off from thee, into countries which thou hast not known.”

32:10 — THEIR KINGS SHALL BE HORRIBLY AFRAID FOR THEE — Leeser— “On their kings the hair shall stand on end.”

BRANDISH MY SWORD — The “sword of His mouth” the truth.

IN THE DAY OF THY FALL — Notice the similarity of these verses (7-10) with Matt. 24:29; Luke 21:25, 26. They refer to the same event.

32:11 — THE SWORD OF THE KING OF BABYLON — Representing God’s agency now for overthrowing Satan’s empire.

32:13 — THE BEASTS — Destructive influences hindering the people from getting the blessings of truth, bureaucratic governments, selfish and oppressive. No longer allowing them to use the channels of truth for their own selfish ends.

NEITHER SHALL THE FOOT OF MAN TROUBLE THEM — After the time of trouble no more mingling of truth and error, human tradition will be allowed. See Zeph. 3:8, 9; Deut. 32:1, 2.

32:14 — THEIR WATERS DEEP — Leeser—Pure. Cleanse them from all error, and make them rich, sparkling and attractive, plentiful. Knowledge of God’s glory cover the earth as the waters cover the sea.

RIVERS TO RUN LIKE OIL — Peacefully. No more clashing of creeds and denominations but one message, bring heart comfort and satisfaction. See Rev. 22:1, 2; Isa. 32:15-18.

33-37 — All apply to Israel.

33:30 — THOU SON OF MAN — Bro. Russell, the Lord's mouthpiece in the harvest time.

TALKING AGAINST THEE — Of thee, about thee; see margin and Leeser.

IN THE DOORS OF THE HOUSES — This may refer to the colporteurs who thus speak of him.

THE WORD THAT COMETH FROM THE LORD — The colporteurs and pilgrims and tract distributors are thus speaking of Bro. Russell and calling the nominal Christians to hear the Lord's message through Bro. Russell. See Ex. 2, 3, 4.

33:31 — WITH THEIR MOUTH THEY SHOW MUCH LOVE — "As merry songs they carry them in their mouth." The people admit that the message is a lovely one.

THEIR HEART GOETH AFTER THEIR COVETOUSNESS — The attitude of the Nominal Christians.

33:32 — A LOVELY SONG — They admit it is a most beautiful plan, but their heart is elsewhere and they do not get a deep appreciation of it.

A PLEASANT VOICE — Bro. Russell's voice is not harsh or domineering, but gentle pleasant and persuasive, for the Master's spirit is behind it.

AN INSTRUMENT — Instrument of ten strings, the harp of God, the Bible. Can play well. Bring harmony out of it. Calvin found the "Election" string and strummed away on it loudly, but he knew not it was out of tune; so Wesley found Free Grace, but it also was not yet tuned. Bro. Russell was used of the Lord to tune it.

THEY DO THEM NOT — They heed not the message but go on building, planting, marrying, etc., seeking their own ways. (Matt. 24:37-39)

33:33 — LO IT WILL COME — Note the plain, firm warning statement.

THEN SHALL THEY KNOW — When it is too late for them to profit best by it. “The harvest is past, the summer is ended and we are not saved.” (Jer. 8:20)

34:2 — SHOULD NOT THE SHEPHERDS FEED THE FLOCKS? — This is a parable applicable we believe at the present time. It begins with an arraignment of the shepherds, the Pastors of the Lord’s flock. It accuses them of neglecting the sheep in favor of themselves. It declares that they appropriate the wool of the sheep and devour the best of the flock, but they feed not the flock, neglect to lead them to the green pastures of God’s Word and to the “still waters” of divine truth. The parable pictures the Lord’s Flock scattered here and there, some wounded, some torn, some hungry and lean, all neglected so far as the false shepherds are concerned. (Z. '15-156; R.5693)

34:3 — YE KILL THEM THAT ARE FED — Kill = slaughter their influences, cast out their names as evil. Them that are fed = those who find pastures of truth and feed despite the neglect of the shepherds.

THE FLOCK — We cannot understand this as signifying nominal Christians but the true saints of God. Nominal Christianity fares well enough, but the Lord does not recognize merely nominal Christians as His flock.

34:4 — THE DISEASED YE HAVE NOT STRENGTHENED — Those losing faith or getting weak through some cloud between them and the Lord. Did not feed them with good food to keep up their strength and especially energy.

SICK — As in 1 Cor. 11:30 and James 5:14, 15. Spiritually away from God and needed help and the Great Physicians’ medicine.

BROKEN — Leeser—a limb broken. Can not walk uprightly, fallen and lame, needing assistance and not censure.

DRIVEN AWAY — Leeser—wandered astray. Perhaps thinking minds who have sought richer food than the dry husks of Babylon and become lost amid the deceptions of Satan.

WITH FORCE AND WITH CRUELTY HAVE YE RULED THEM — The shepherds who neglect to care for the sheep to provide them with the spiritual food and assist them to find it, to appropriate it are often quite busy with the goats, the worldly elements of their congregations. Their church arrangements are too often for the goat or tare class. These do not care for spiritual food. They must be provided with entertainments, suppers, sociables, discourses on politics or harmless dissertations well filled with jokes. Do they not furnish most of the money? Would they not withdraw from the Church if spiritual food were dispensed? But the shepherds are not appointed of the Lord to look after the goats, but to look after the wheat, the Lord's sheep. They are unfaithful shepherds. Force = man has not yet learned the power of love.

34:5 — BEASTS OF THE FIELD — Become the prey of the beastly of the world.

34:6 — THROUGH ALL THE MOUNTAINS — Kingdoms of Christendom and their alliances of Church and State.

NONE DID SEEK OR SEARCH AFTER THEM — The shepherds, knowing the scattered and divided condition of the Lord's sheep, have been claiming it was the Chief Shepherd's will that they should be separated into various sects. (Z. '84-7-1; R.583)

34:10 — REQUIRE MY FLOCK AT THEIR HAND — Take my flock from them.

34:13 — BRING THEM TO THEIR OWN LAND — The Home Land of the Lord's sheep of this Gospel Age is heaven itself and His bringing them to it will mean their resurrection change. But "Other sheep have I which are not of this fold." All of mankind who in the Millennium will be willing to avail themselves of the Lord's great provision for them. There is a second flock of sheep and a second fold. (Z. '15-157; R.5694) 34:21 — YE HAVE SCATTERED THEM ABROAD — Not merely the shepherds but also some of the flock not in official positions are criticized also. Some, who have been considered quite prominent in Christendom pushing and managing its affairs and discounting the Lord's true sheep as peculiar people will be reproved by the Lord in this day, and is it not so? Is not the Lord now feeding and blessing his sheep irrespective of all sectarianism and wherever they may be in every land? Verily he is searching them out and feeding them and soon, the Harvest closed, these will be gathered to the heavenly fold. (Z. '15-158; R.5694)

34:23 — AND I WILL SET ONE SHEPHERD OVER THEM — The good work begun with the gospel sheep will be extended among mankind. It is refreshing to know that the Great Shepherd will be with them during the entire Millennial Age.

HE SHALL BE THEIR SHEPHERD — We are not from this to understand that the prophet David of old is to be made Jehovah's representative and given the care of the sheep for the future. David = Beloved, and we believe the antitype of David is meant. Jesus is preeminently the Beloved of the Father and of the Church Jesus says—"The Father himself loveth you.” So the Christ head and body will be the antitypical David or beloved of God into whose care all who are or desire to become His sheep during the Millennial Age will be committed.

34:25 — COVENANT OF PEACE — The New Covenant.

THE EVIL BEASTS — Evil doers, those who will devour, destroy and do harm will be caused to cease. The whole world will become the fold.
(Z. '15-158; R.5694)

No longer will there be need of building a special fold, building the fences against the enemies, for the sheep will be in a quiet and restful condition—“in the woods.” (Isa. 33:20, 21, 22, 24)

37:22 — AND I WILL MAKE THEM ONE NATION — Showing that there were no 10 lost tribes, for whom there has been so much hunting. This was done in the presence of the people to show that the exiles of Israel, carried to Babylon (B.C. 722) when Samaria was destroyed were to unite with the captives of Judah. Such promises were to strengthen the hearts and hope of the penitent and prepare them for the return to Jerusalem.

38:2 — SET THY FACE AGAINST GOD, THE LAND OF MAGOG —
Note that the name of Gog is the name of the prince or king or leader and the land or country is Magog = son of Japheth (Gen. 10:2) also a region to the North, Scythia, North of the Danube.

38:6 — GOMER . . . TOGARMAH — Magog, Meshech, Tubal, Gomar, Togomar, Javan and Tarshish were names of children of Noah's son Japheth, supposed to be the original settlers of Europe. Sheba and Dedan (vss. 5, 13) were descendants of Noah's son Ham supposedly the original settlers of North Africa. Abraham and his posterity (Israel) were supposed to have settled Armenia. (Gen. 10:2-7) Thus it seems that the attack will be from Europe (north quarters) with allied mixed peoples.

38:8 — THEY SHALL DWELL SAFELY ALL OF THEM — While the rest of the world of men is in the wildest confusion.

38:11 — I WILL GO UP TO THE LAND OF UNWALLED VILLAGES —
The comparative quiet and prosperity of regathered Israel near the end of this day of trouble, as well as their apparently defenseless conditions, will by and by stimulate the jealousies of and invite their plunder by other people. When law and order are swept away among the world in general (Rev. 16:3) Israel will be besieged by a host of merciless plunderers, Gog and Magog.

38:13 — SHEBA, AND DEDAN. . .TARSHISH — The part these play seems to be a very passive one. They seem not to approve the invasion of the northern army, and equally that they are unable to do much about it. This a good description of the Western Allies, the so called free countries. Verse 21 seems to imply a rising against the invader among those who cling to truth and righteousness. Joel 2:20 refers to the same events.

38:15 — THE NORTH PARTS — Europe and Asia Minor are north of Palestine.

39:15 — THE VALLEY OF HAMON-GOG — “Multitude of God,” from Hamaw, a prim. root = to make a loud sound, be in commotion, uproar, rage war, moan, clamor. “Haw-mone” =a noise, tumult, crowd. “Pride’s Multitude” (Strong’s Conc.)

39:23 — THEY TRESPASSED AGAINST ME — In rejecting Christ. (Rom. 9:29-33)

I GAVE THEM INTO THE HAND OF THEIR ENEMIES — During all the Gospel Age.

39:25 — THEREFORE — Now that their punishment or double is completed.

WHOLE HOUSE OF ISRAEL — Both living and dead, for the time of restitution will have commenced. (Acts 3:19-21)

40:1 — IN THE FIVE AND TWENTIETH YEAR OF OUR CAPTIVITY — Ezekiel was taken captive when Jehoiachin was taken about 617 B.C. and the 25th year would be 592 B.C.

THE HAND OF THE LORD — The power of God.

40:2 — VISIONS OF GOD — A mental or mind picture of the Kingdom.

LAND OF ISRAEL — Typical of the condition of the world of mankind, the established earthly phase of the Kingdom.

A VERY HIGH MOUNTAIN — The Kingdom of God. Spiritual = very high.

FRAME — The outline dimly seen.

CITY — Organized government, God’s Kingdom on earth.

SOUTH — The earthly phase of the Kingdom. Hence this city represents the outline of the divinely organized Kingdom of God on earth for the blessing of the world of mankind. (Rev. 21:3; Eph. 1:10; Col. 1:15-20; Psa. 20:1, 2; 77:13; 134:1, 2) Sanctuary.

40:3 — A MAN — Pastor Russell. (Ezek. 9)

BRASS — His justification, reckoned perfection.

LINE OF FLAX — Linen, represents righteousness; the measure of righteousness, fulfillment of the Law—Love. The only use of this line was to measure the growth of the River of Truth, hence to measure character.

A MEASURING REED — Nine feet or six great cubits of 18 inches each, or 15 inch cubit and a hand-breadth. Represents the fullness of the Word of God—the full requirements about anything, as stated in the Bible. What God's Word declares concerning the thing measure. With this he measured the Temple and the Altar and the Worshippers. (Rev. 11:1-3)

IN THE GATE — In the East Gate of the outer Court.

40:4 — SON OF MAN — A solemn title, claimed by Jesus. Emphasizing that that class spoken to is of the human race. Thus showing the sphere of his toil and place of work.

BEHOLD — Notice; take care to see and to remember.

HEAR WITH THINE EARS — Understand and take in the explanation given.

SET THINE HEART — Fix the affections on this purpose of God. Put your whole heart into the work.

THAT I MIGHT SHOW THEM UNTO THEE — The purpose of raising up Pastor Russell was to give him this vision and have him declare it to God's people. And our part is to spread it among all who love the Lord.

HOUSE OF ISRAEL — Spiritual Israel. Brother Russell did as he was commanded.

43:7 — THE PLACE OF THE SOLES OF MY FEET — Typified by Solomon's Temple.

NO MORE DEFILE — Christendom defiled God's holy name and character by erroneous teachings, about Him, and the evil lives of the clergy and laity, who presumed to bear His name. (FM587)

THEIR WHOREDOME — Unhallowed union of Church and State. (Isa. 30:1-7; Hosea 5:13)

CARCASSES OF THEIR KINGS — Permitting prominent persons (kings of finance, etc.) who were dead in trespasses and sins to assume elevated places in the worship of God. (FM587)

43:8 — THEIR THRESHOLD BY MY THRESHOLDS — Typified by the location of the Palace of Solomon and the Kings close to the temple. Conjoining the entrance to the Temple (Church) with the entrance into places of influence. (FM587)

THEIR POST BY MY POSTS — Setting forth as leaders in God's work men who were leaders only in business or state or influence.

THE WALL BETWEEN ME AND THEM — Establishing the same wall of living members of the churches as the wall of business and the state. (FM598)

43:9 — THEIR WHOREDOME — Dabbling with the spirit of the world, selfishness and lust. No longer following the leadership of those who are estranged from God and dead in sins, under the death sentence, unjustified.

FAR FROM ME — Far from the will and mind and heart where God alone should rule. He will not yield his place to another.

I WILL DWELL IN THE MIDST OF THEM FOREVER — This verse is the promise of the Kingdom; that if men will leave their evil ways and seek righteousness He will dwell evermore among them.

43:10 — THE HOUSE — The glory of the Temple—God's glorious Kingdom arrangements.

HOUSE OF ISRAEL — The Church of the present time.

ASHAMED OF THEIR INIQUITIES — This is the purpose of showing these truths and abundance of grace—to make God's people now ashamed of their iniquity.

MEASURE THE PATTERN — Compare themselves with the perfect pattern. Does not this make us more ashamed of our iniquities, comparing ourselves with Christ and God?

43:11 — AND IF THEY BE ASHAMED — If they show repentance and a chastened heart, show them the deeper things, the joys of the Lord.

WRITE IT IN THEIR SIGHT — Plainly, so they can understand. None may approach these privileges but those who love God.

43:12 — THIS IS THE LAW OF THE HOUSE — The Law of God's Kingdom shall be Holiness to the Lord and nothing unholy shall be permitted therein. (Exod. 28:36-38; Zech. 14:20, 21; Rev. 21:8, 27)

43:13 — EVEN THE BOTTOM SHALL BE A CUBIT — This bottom was therefore (vs. 17) 18 cubits long and 1 cubit high, with a 1 cubit width beyond the lower settle (next part above), and a border of 9 inches (span) = 1/2 cubit, circumference = 72 cubits = 1296 inches.

43:14 LOWER SETTLE SHALL BE TWO CUBITS — Thus the Lower Settle was 16 cubits square and 2 cubits high. It had no border. Circumference = 64 cubits = 1152 inches. 1 cubit larger than next.

THE GREATER SETTLE SHALL BE — The upper settle was four cubits high and 14 cubits long. One cubit beyond base of altar on each side. Circumference = 56 cubits = 1008 inches.

43:15 — UPWARD SHALL BE FOUR HORNS — Horns represent the power of the Altar to save all who worship upon it, all who trust in the merit of Christ.

ALTAR — Heb. Ariel, that is, the lion of God. (Top) Heb. Harel, that is, the mountain of God. (Base)

43:16 — THE ALTAR SHALL BE — So the Altar proper was 12 cubit square and 4 cubit high. Its area therefore is 144 square cubits. Its complete height = 11 cubits = 198 inches = 16-1/2 ft. hence highly exalted above all the Courts.

The Altar itself then, would represent the Christ, head and body, highly exalted above all the world, and upon Christ's merit will all offer their sacrifices. (Isa. 60:1-14. Rev. 3:9) The Upper Settle represents the Great Company as the nearest beneficiary of the Ransom. The Lower Settle represents Ancient Worthies, and the Base of the world of mankind. All these are beneficiaries of the Ransom.

43:17 — AND HIS STAIRS — The stairs shall be on the East side of the Altar.

43:18 — THE ORDINANCES OF THE ALTAR — Dedication of the Altar. The dedication of the Altar would be the calling of the attention of the world to Christ and the Ransom and the preparation of the priests for the service of the world. Seven days represent the Gospel Age in which the Priests were prepared.

43:19 — SEED OF ZADOK — Only those who have stood the tests for righteousness will be privileged to be priests. (Ezek. 44:9) The world, especially Christendom have in the past been taught wrong and hurtful ideas about Christ and God. So the Altar will need re-dedication, men will need to be taught the truth concerning Christ and his ransom and his church.

A YOUNG BULLOCK FOR A SIN-OFFERING — The first thing for them to learn is they are sinners, that merely going to church or joining a church did not save them, they must consecrate to the Lord. So the bullock of the sin-offering will be brought. Showing that all the merit is in Jesus and his perfect humanity (bullock) as a satisfaction of the claims of justice. (Isa. 28) That justice must be the basis of all dealings.

43:20 — THUS SHALT THOU CLEANSE AND PURGE IT — The power of Christ Jesus to save was not in his example that he was a good man merely and showed us the way to live and die; but that it is his blood, his life given that he died for us which saves, and that it was a real death and not mere pretense.

FOUR CORNERS OF THE SETTLE — To all under Christ. That this blood redeemed the Great Company also and will redeem all who come to Christ.

43:21 — HE SHALL BURN IT. . .WITHOUT THE SANCTUARY — The world will be reminded also of how they treated their Redeemer (Isa. 53; Zech. 12:10) and what it cost him to save them.

43:22 — ON THE SECOND DAY THOU SHALT OFFER A KID OF THE GOATS — Then the world will be told of the True Church, and how they followed in the footsteps of the Lord (as they did with the bullock), how they suffered with Christ and like him were cast out.

43:24 — SALT — A Covenant of Consecration, in the New Covenant. (Lev. 2:13; Num. 18:19; 2 Chron. 13:5)

FOR A BURNT OFFERING — Bullock and Ram (Christ and Church) pictures Consecration through thankfulness unto God and Christ. Picturing Jesus as the perfect one and the submissive and meek one.

43:25 — SEVEN DAYS — The lesson will be repeated each day. Goat—the Church for a sin offering. Bullock and ram for a burnt offering. The lesson will be thoroughly taught until completely learned.

Also these seven days picture the work of redeeming man till he is restored to favor with God at the eighth thousand year day.

43:27 — I WILL ACCEPT YOU — God will accept the world in Christ during the Millennial Age.

44:6 — ALL YOUR ABOMINATIONS — There will be defilement of individuals and the past defilement of the whole world.

44:7 — IN THAT DAY YE BROUGHT INTO MY SANCTUARY — General defilements involving all Christendom. Encouraging unconsecrated persons and not spirit-begotten, to serve in the holy things in the Church as teachers and clergy. (FM587)

THEY HAVE BROKEN MY COVENANT — Breaking their solemn covenant of consecration to God by careless living. (FM587)

44:8 — HAVE NOT KEPT THE CHARGE OF MINE HOLY THINGS — Not studying the Word nor preaching it in purity and love and striving to keep it pure.

YE HAVE SET KEEPERS — Hiring paid clergy to look after it for them.

44:9 — NO STRANGER — “Ye shall discern between the righteous and the wicked.” No ungodly person shall then be permitted to pose as a godly one.

44:10 — WENT ASTRAY FROM ME AFTER THEIR IDOLS — The great mass of the spirit-begotten have gone astray from God after their man-made idols of earthly honor, power and wealth, and they have served the evil tendencies of church members in their idol worship. Between the people and the clergy every conceivable abomination in the sight of God had been practiced.

THEY SHALL EVEN BEAR THEIR INIQUITY — A needed cleansing and a wholesome memory of it to safeguard against future outbreaks and to manifest continual appreciation of the holiness of any service for God. (FM587)

44:12 — BECAUSE THEY MINISTERED UNTO THEM BEFORE THEIR IDOLS — They have been more anxious to serve the people than to serve God, and so in the Kingdom they will directly serve the people and not directly God. (Isa. 43:24)

45:8 — MY PRINCES — The Ancient Worthies will be the new visible rulers and shall not deprive the people of their inheritance by oppression. (Ezek. 46:18)

ACCORDING TO THEIR TRIBES — Throughout the Millennium the world of mankind are to regard the perfect human condition as their inalienable possession toward which they are progressing, bought by the blood. No ruler or other power is to interfere with this right or teach them otherwise. The Hebrews, the original beneficiaries, are to welcome the rest of mankind and treat them as of their own number. (Ezek. 47:22, 23)

45:9 — REMOVE VIOLENCE AND SPOIL — These are the duties of the Ancient Worthies to remove violence and exploitation and take away all former exactions imposed on the people.

45:10 — YE SHALL HAVE JUST BALANCES — They are to see that the commercial intercourse of the people is on a basis just and equal for all.

45:11 — THE EPHAH AND THE BATH SHALL BE — This is a decimal system. The ephah (dry measure) = the bath (liquid measure), and 10 of either shall be an homer or cor. The homer is about 75 gallons and the ephah and bath, 1/10 homer = 7-1/2 gallons.

The weights are:

	Grains	Avoir- dupois
Talent	960,000	137.5 lb.	1
Maneh	16,000	2.25 lb.	60	1
Shekel	320	3/4 oz.	3,000	30	1
Beka	160	2/5 oz.	6,000	100	2	1
Gera	16	1/27 oz.	60,000	1,000	20	10	1

45:12 — AND THE SHEKEL SHALL BE — The Hebrew version (here) gives: “20, 25, 15” = 60 shekels. The Septuagint (Vatican Codex) = “20 gerahs, 5 shekels, 15 shekels, and 50 shekels shall be your maneh.” The Alexandrian Codex gives “The 5 shekel wt., the 15 shekel wt., and 50 shekels shall be your maneh.” It may be suggested that the question may be solved by combining the numbers of these versions and reading: “1 shekel, 5 shekels, 15 shekels, 20 shekels, 25 shekels (half maneh) and 50 shekels (maneh);” showing that 50 shekels and not 60 = a maneh. (Nelson Bible Helps, Frederick W. Madden)

45:14 — THE TENTH PART OF A BATH — 1/200 is not a large proportion = 1/2 percent. The Ancient Worthies are to receive this honor from the people. Note the special attention to the antitypes of these literal things. This pictures how the people must at heart consecrate their all. (FM587)

45:17 — TO MAKE RECONCILIATION FOR THE HOUSE OF ISRAEL

— The Prince class will thus direct the affections and hearts of the people through these consecrations, etc., toward the Christ.

These times of offering show that the world and the Jews may not effectively consecrate themselves until the Millennium, God's Seventh Day and the time of the New Moon (Covenant).

45:18 — IN THE FIRST MONTH — First month, first day—New Year.

Rejoicing for the passing of the old order and the founding of the New World. Bullock represents Christ Jesus as the great sin-offering. To cleanse the minds of the people and make them see the true view. Then men will say "Lo this is our God." (Isa. 25:9)

45:19 — TAKE OF THE BLOOD — Blood sprinkled to show that the Church

(Posts and Pillars of Temple) and the Great Company (four corners of settle of Altar), and the Ancient Worthies (posts of the inner East Gate, see Ezek. 46:1) were all saved by the blood of Christ.

45:20 — THE SEVENTH DAY OF THE MONTH — God's great Sabbath day of rest for man. Erring, hence not for willful sinners or sins, but those consequent on the fall. Simple means lacking in judgment or understanding.

46:20 — THE PRIEST SHALL BOIL THE — Priest's boiling places. The flesh belonging to the Priesthood is boiled here, symbolizing the consecration of the offerers new natural minds, as sharing in the holy spirit poured out on all flesh; and symbolized also the trials he must endure mentally in connection with the chastisements. This boiling was done by the priesthood suggesting that they will exercise supervision and direction over the acts of the Great Company. Collectively they constitute a merciful and faithful high priesthood in things pertaining to God, to make reconciliation for the sins of the people, for in that they themselves have suffered (in this life) being tempted (tried to the uttermost, boiled) they are able to succor them that are tempted. (Heb. 2:17,18) The receiving of the flesh by the priesthood, is from our viewpoint the receiving back by the Christ of the mental and moral development of the consecrator, which is but their own for the consecrator will have received it from them. They, the people, will acknowledge their dependency on the Priesthood as the source of all the attainments and ideals connected with the gaining of and enjoyment of human perfection through restitution. The people will separate themselves to the ownership and control of the Royal Priesthood. They will give themselves to the Christ as Lord (owner) and Master. (Isa. 2:3) They will acknowledge their new selves, their beings to be transformed by the renewing influences of the divine instruction and guidance of the coming age as of the Christ and to and for the Christ, by whose merit and through whose ministry they may be made ready to be delivered up to God, even the Father. The degree of perfection attained, step by step, or desired by the offerer will be taught him by the Royal Priesthood, will originate with them as will the character development accompanying the merit of Christ applied to and assimilated by the consecrator. (Z. '18-190)

Levites Boiling. The boiling of that part of the sacrifices to be eaten by the offerer was done in one of the boiling places of the outer court; symbolizing the infliction of chastisements on the natural, restitution plane. It was done by the Levites, symbolizing the fact that of all who are on the spirit plane the Great Company will be the most directly identified with earthly matters. This flesh when boiled was eaten by the offerer, representing his moral assimilation of the ideals presented by the Word of God, touching on human perfection.

In a general way any sacrifice pictures the consecration, the setting apart to divine service of the offerer (Rom. 12:1) the specific purpose or object being indicated by the peculiar ritual of each sacrifice.

Eating signified the appropriation of the offering by the person or being to whom it was divinely ordained that the part eaten should pertain. In a peace offering the breast and right shoulder (the best parts) were for the Priest to eat, the rest of the animal, except the part burned, being for the offerer. (Lev. 7:11-18) In a trespass offering the part of the animal not burned was for the priests. (Lev. 7:1-6) This signifies that in the coming age, when an individual consecration is made by an individual or he reconsecrates himself, his consecration will be accepted as made to and belonging to the Royal priesthood, Christ the Great High Priest and the Church, the underpriests. This will be proper because Christ bought the world with his blood and for a thousand years everyone will belong to our Lord by right of purchase. (Eph. 1:4)

Washing — The flesh of the animal was not fit for eating immediately the animal was slain. Nor will the consecration of a human being of himself be fit for assimilation by the priesthood until something more is done as before being eaten the flesh was washed with water (Ezek. 40:38) so too the person consecrating will be washed by the “water of the Word.” His being must be cleansed and made to approach closer to the divine standards. His new human mind and will must be continually transformed by the renewing of that mind, through the Word of God relating to human perfection. (Rom. 12:2)

47:1 — AFTERWARD — During the Millennium, after the door of entrance to the High Calling mentioned in Ezek. 44:1 is closed forever.

UNTO THE DOOR — Christ Jesus, the head and center of the Church, the door. (John 10:9)

OF THE HOUSE — The Christ glorified. (1 Pet. 2:5; 1 Cor. 3:16; Rev. 3:12) The antitype of Solomon's Temple.

EASTWARD — Toward the sunrising, the morning. Faces of stones toward the east, the stones representing the individual Christians, body members. (1 Pet. 2:5)

TOWARD THE EAST — Like the Tabernacle.

THE WATERS — Truth, pure and clean, unmixed with error, righteousness, life-giving waters. (Zech. 14:8) This is the river of the water of life (Rev. 22:1) bringing human restitution to all the willing and obedient, whosoever will. It is formed by the uniting on the other side of the veil, of the wells of living water (John 4:10-14; 7:38), the wells of salvation (Isa. 12:3) which shall flow out as a river to bless the world of men.

AT THE SOUTH SIDE OF THE ALTAR — As in Zech. 14:4 the South is the earthly phase of the kingdom, the Ancient Worthies, for these waters are to go forth from Jerusalem (Zech. 14:8) (the earthly phase); that is the life giving truth and blessings are to be given to the world of mankind through the Ancient Worthies and Israel restored under the New Covenant. "The law shall go forth from Zion and the Word of the Lord from Jerusalem." (Isa. 2:3; Mic. 4:2)

47:5 — AFTERWARD HE MEASURED — The growth and spread of the truth during the Millennium. Same thought given in Zech. 14:6,7. The full light of truth and righteousness will have come over the whole earth till the Millennium end.

47:6 — HAST THOU SEEN — Considered, studied, noted.

BRINK — Leeser: Bank, so A.R.V.

47:7 — MANY TREES — Fishers of men, called trees of righteousness in Isa. 61:3; teachers, instructors of mankind. See Psa. 1:3.

47:8 — EAST COUNTRY — Toward the sunrising, the world in the Millennium.

THE DESERT — Literally the desert of Judea near the Dead Sea, but symbolically the earth under the curse, "desolate heritages" (Isa. 49:8) "Streams in the desert, floods on dry ground." (Isa. 35:6,7; 44:3. See Psa. 72:6)

INTO THE SEA — Into the Dead Sea east of Jerusalem. In Rev. 17:15 waters represent peoples. If ordinary waters, sea represents the living peoples, nations, then Dead Sea represents dead nations, the whole world of men who have gone into death. (2 Cor. 5:14) “Dead know not anything”; “No work, nor device, nor wisdom, nor knowledge in grave.” (Eccl. 9:5, 10)

WATERS SHALL BE HEALED — Mankind be raised up out of sin and death conditions, curse removed.

47:9 — EVERY THING...WITHERSOEVER THE RIVERS SHALL COME, SHALL LIVE — A life giving, restoring stream, restitution.

MULTITUDE OF FISH — Fishing business (fishers of men) will again revive. Men will have learned valuable lessons in the time of trouble, which have humbled them and made them teachable. Many will then seek after righteousness and truth (like fish). (Micah 4:2; Isa. 26:9)

47:10 — THE FISHERS — Teachers instructors of righteousness to the world. The world will have abundant opportunities to learn, (Isa. 35:8) and all will be instructed in the ways of righteousness until the knowledge of the glorious character of God shall fill the whole earth as waters cover the sea, (Isa. 11:9) and all shall know him from the least to the greatest. (Jer. 31:34)

ENGEDI — Fountain of the kid (goat).

ENEGLAIM — Fountain of the two calves (bullocks). Probably these fountains refer to the Church with Christ, her Lord and head. (Zech. 13:1; Joel 3:18) The two sin-offerings?

SPREAD FORTH THEIR NETS — Perhaps the Gospel anew.

THEIR FISH — Men anxious to learn and do righteousness, the willing and obedient.

KINDS — Differences of race, nationality and character? (Psa. 87:4, 6)

AS THE FISH OF THE GREAT SEA, EXCEEDING MANY — “As the sands of the sea shore.” “Father of many nations.”

47:11 — MARISHES — Marshes = stagnant waters = those who will not progress who will not obey that prophet (Acts 3:23) who will not learn righteousness. (Isa. 26:10)

SHALL NOT BE HEALED — Not be uplifted and restored. “Unclean shall not pass over it.” (Isa. 35:8)

BE GIVEN TO SALT — The Salt or Dead Sea represents the first death, these waters were healed, but to be given over to salt again after the healing influences have been at work among them, would mean to be sent back again into death, second death. This is the end of all the willfully wicked and disobedient. (Acts 3:23; Isa. 65:20)

47:12 — ALL TREES — Teachers, fishers = Christ and the Church acting through the Ancient Worthies.

LEAF SHALL NOT FADE — The Church will have immortality, and will give the willing and obedient of the race, everlasting life.

NEITHER SHALL THE FRUIT THEREOF BE CONSUMED — Inexhaustible supply, enough for all.

NEW FRUIT ACCORDING TO HIS MONTHS — Meat in due season.

LEAD THEREOF FOR MEDICINE — An abundance of mental, moral and physical instruction and nourishment. The examples of the Church and the Ancient Worthies, and the rewards these received for their faith and obedience, and what God did for them, will serve as incentives to righteousness and healing. (Bro. Edgar Bunday, 8/19/06)

47:13 — THIS SHALL BE THE BORDER — The limitations of the human nature in various directions.

A place types a condition hence here, Canaan types the condition of the world of mankind. Its division among the twelve tribes in equal parts varying in nearness to the central sacred portion suggests among restored humanity twelve conditions or degrees of honor in the Kingdom; each individual being accorded a place befitting his loyalty and love during his trial period. (FM572)

INHERIT THE LAND — Inherit the blessings and grace of God for these conditions.

ACCORDING TO THE TWELVE TRIBES OF ISRAEL — So the saved nations of earth, peoples, families will be received among God's people and become members of the 12 tribes of Israel. See Deut. 32:8; Acts 17:26; Jer. 12:14-17; Zech. 9:1; Ezek. 47:22.

47:14 — ONE AS WELL AS ANOTHER — An equally fair chance for all; former pagan and heathen peoples (strangers, vs. 22) are to have the same chance as God's chosen people, the Jews, as though born to the same honored favor. (FM573)

47:15 — NORTH — The limitations of man's abilities and powers, or condition in the direction of spiritual things. Note the detailed boundary. The name meanings are suggestive of Kingdom conditions.

HETHLON — Stronghold, fortress, hiding place (from fear).

ZEDAD — Sloping place, or hillside (as one ascendeth from the great Sea—unorganized masses to the spiritual condition.)

47:16 — HAMATH — Defended or walled, fortress.

BEROTHAH — Wells, nourishment, food.

SIBRAIM — Sebraim = double hope (from cebar; to bear in mind, i.e. hope.

HAZAR-HATTICON — Middle village or middle court (Hazar = village.)

HAURAN — Cave-land.

47:17 — HAZAR-ENAN — Village of fountains, or court of the fountains.

DAMASCUS — Multitude of burning. (FM573)

47:18 — EAST SIDE — Side of the desert. Three points only are given, Perhaps an indefinite boundary. East—region of light and knowledge.

GILEAD — Rugged or rocky.

ISRAEL — A prince of strong one with God.

JORDAN — Descender.

EAST SEA — Dead Sea. Perhaps referring to light and knowledge among men.

47:19 — SOUTH — Limits of humanity in lower direction.

TAMAR — Palm tree (a palm branch pictures or symbolizes a victory).

KADESH — Holy. So a Holy Victory to perfect human nature, restitution. None of the living who will gain eternal life, will have less than restitution.

47:20 — WEST — Region and direction of darkness. There shall be no more sea. Mankind will never again go into an unorganized, discontented mass.

47:23 — IN WHAT TRIBE THE STRANGER SOJOURNETH — In whatever character class a man develops, in with that class will he have inheritance.

As men go up from the turbulent condition of trouble (sea) upward (the highway of holiness) ascending (Zedad) by way provided through refuge from fear, up to Hamath (defended, walled) condition of perfect humanity.

48:1 — DAN — Judge. Note that Dan is included in the earthly list while not in the heavenly, in accord with Jacob's prophecy. At extreme north, farthest from the central position, perhaps representing a class who have ability to make decisions, a grave, sober, more cold class. Those of humanity who develop such a character with inheritance in this condition. See Gen. 49:16-18. Possible a class who by experience have found it pays to follow the Lord's will and finally become fixed.

48:2 — ASHER — Happy. Contrasted with Dan. A cheerful, sunny class, lit up with joy. Jacob said, "His bread shall be fat. He shall yield royal dainties." Showing that this class will have good rich suggestions and food for thought from the King's table of our Creator, a class appealing and helpful to those who love beautiful thoughts.

48:4 — NAPHTALI — Wrestling. "A hind let loose, he giveth goodly words." Hind is one of the most beautiful and graceful animals of the forest. A beautiful and graceful character free to show all its beauties in activity for others. Also an encouraging class who having won through bitter struggles know how to sympathize with and encourage the meek.

48:5 — MANASSEH — Causing forgetfulness. A class who point out to others how God's blessings more than make up for all the pain and loss of the past and are worth going through trouble to obtain.

48:6 — EPHRAIM — Doubly fruitful. The firstborn of Ephraim exceeds Manasseh. A noble and highly fruitful class.

48:7 — REUBEN — "Behold a Son." Jacob's firstborn, a class who have pity and next to the first.

48:8 — JUDAH — Praise. The first and noblest of the race, outside the Ancient Worthies, nearest the Sanctuary.

THE SANCTUARY SHALL BE IN THE MIDST OF IT — The northern section of the holy oblation of land had the divine Sanctuary in the midst of it. The first part of verse refers to the whole of the holy oblation land, 25,000 reeds square. The priests' section represents the condition of the Little Flock, in center of all the land (seven sections north and seven south) and having charge of the divine Temple and Sanctuary, or of God's arrangements for world. They dominate all. The land outside of the Temple and its suburb was for priests dwellings etc. 48:11 — SONS OF ZADOK — Zadok means righteousness. Sons of Zadok represent Little Flock, who remained faithful.

48:13 — THE LEVITES SHALL HAVE — Representing the condition of the Great Company as antitypical Levites. Land are equal to that of Priests but south of it equals a lesser favor and honor.

48:14 — THEY SHALL NOT SELL IT — That is, their condition, or nature, etc., is to be eternal and different from that of others. Their blessings and privileges will not be taken from them.

48:15 — PROFANE PLACE — “Common” or worldly “City” represents earthly government administered by the Ancient Worthies with assistants from the willing and obedient of the world. (vs. 19)

48:17 — AND THE SUBURBS OF THE CITY SHALL BE — Showing that the divine government of earth (city and suburbs) will dominate all the world. “Established in the tops of the mountains.” (Isa. 2; Mic. 4) The 4500 reeds and twice 250 reeds equal 5000 reeds; the width of the secular portion.

48:19 — AND THEY THAT SERVE THE CITY — First the “Sons of the Prophets,” the consecrated at the end of the Gospel age who were not spirit begotten, and who will probably have a place with the Ancient Worthies. Then those of the world who specially desire to serve the Lord in return for his goodness.

48:21 — THE RESIDUE SHALL BE FOR THE PRINCE — Representing the condition of the Ancient Worthies, close to and in direct communion with the Christ and the Great Company, and privileged and blessed above all the world. They are the Princes in all the earth (Psa. 45:16), and have the better resurrection (Heb. 11:35) and are the communicants between man and the Christ, the elders or judges restored. (Ex. 19:7; 24:1, 9, 11; John 1:51)

48:24 — BENJAMIN — Nearest the Sanctuary on the south (place of less favor?) was Benjamin, smallest of the tribes, “Little Benjamin” who had stood with Judah after the ten tribes had deserted and left the Lord for heathen idols. So with Judah he is nearest the Sanctuary. Benjamin means Son of right hand. See Gen. 49:27—indicates a becoming strong. In morning, beginning of Millennium, he shall enforce law and order and punish evil-doers. In evening of Millennium, he will divide the blessings with the world.

SIMEON — Hearing, a class who hear, pay attention and obey; who also listen to the troubles of others. Jacob's prophecy seems to refer to Simeon's conduct in Gen. 34, and his displeasure thereat.

48:25 — ISSACHAR — Hired. One who labors hard in service for others, a burden bearer, helper. Hence a class who will encourage and help the burdened and troubled. This class see a reward in sight—perfect rest and content.

48:26 — ZEBULUN — Dwelling. A home like and home loving, hospitable, latch key always out. A heaven of ships = a resting place and welcome to home for the tempest tossed of the present life. Many will come from the "sea" into God's Kingdom through the aid of this class.

48:27 — GAD — A troop. The most southerly, perhaps a class who get into the Kingdom barely. "A troop shall overcome him, but he shall overcome at last." This class found many to take their interest and affection and draw away from God, but at last they overcome and prove loyal.

48:30 — GOINGS OUT — The extent. 4500 reeds and 250 each side for suburbs = 5000 reeds = full width of the secular portion of land, which was for all the children of Israel. (Ezek. 45:6)

CITY — This city represents the earthly government which God has arranged for the Millennium.

48:31 — GATES — Means of channel of entrance (see Isa. 6 "Door") represents the means of access of the world unto Christ and the blessings of the New Covenant. These gates represent also the Ancient Worthies as the channel by whom men will come to Christ. These will be Princes in all the earth, and of the twelve tribes and so their predominant traits are represented by these names.

NORTHWARD — The side of the Merarites, or spiritual.

REUBEN — Behold a son, with the thought of such as representing the pity and compassion of God.

JUDAH — Praise, noble traits which being praise to God as His handiwork. Judah thus is in the center of the most favored side, northward. Everlastingness.

LEVI — Joined (to the Lord). These three traits of the Little Flock will be thus most helpful to the Great Company and as manifested through the Ancient Worthies will draw and attract man and admit them to God's favors in Christ. Self-sacrifice.

48:32 — EAST — Side of the Amramites (exalted people)—Little Flock.

JOSEPH — Increase. His jewel points out humility, purity, self-sacrifice.

BENJAMIN — Son of right hand. His jewel points out God-likeness (jasper).

DAN — Judge. Represents justice. His stone (opal) represents changeableness or better forgetfulness. These three traits may be most helpful to the Little Flock members and manifest through the Ancient Worthies will attract men to Christ, some via these eastern gates (direction of light, truth, knowledge).

48:33 — SOUTH — Side of Kohathites or Ancient Worthies. The following traits of the Little Flock may be most helpful to the Ancient Worthies.

SIMEON — Hearing. His stone suggests benevolence (topaz).

ISSACHAR — Hired, those who labor hard for God. His stone suggests faithfulness (sapphire).

ZEBULUN — Dwelling, home blessings, fellowship. These traits will attract man to Christ via the south gate.

48:34 — WEST SIDE — Side of mankind. The following traits of the Little Flock may be most helpful to men.

GAD — Troop (of children). His stone suggests royalty (amethyst).

ASHER — Happy, light hearted. His stone (crysolite) suggests wisdom.

NAPHTALI — Wrestling, struggle. His stone suggests obedience and submission (agate). These traits will draw many of the world through these gates, Christ. Thus each of man shall find some quality of God and the Christ opened to their gaze and which would appeal most to the and draw them by acting on what was good in them.

Revelation points out that these gates are each one a pearl. (The lesson of a beautiful and valuable character developed by overcoming troubles with the grace of God.)

48:35 — THE LORD IS THERE — Or (E46) “The Wonder of Jehovah.” Or “The Home of Jehovah.”

STUDIES ABOUT EZEKIEL'S TEMPLE

THE SACRIFICES

The sacrifices of the world of mankind in the Millennial age, of course, will not be literal animals, as it was in the Jewish age, but will be the antitypes of those typical sacrifices. The burnt offerings will represent the full consecration of the individual unto Christ, and the entering into the New Covenant. It represents the offering of their whole being unto God through Christ. It was called the burnt offering because it was all burnt upon the Brazen Altar (Lev. 6:9); except the hooves, horns, skin or hide, and entrails. The fat, the life organs, such as the heart, liver, kidneys, caul above the liver. The meat of the burnt offering was not eaten by anybody, but was burnt on the Brazen Altar. The blood was usually sprinkled upon the Brazen Altar. The details are like the after Atonement Day sacrifices of the people.

The sin offering represents the individual's conviction of sin, and a desire to repent and do better, to get right with God; to get rid of the tendencies toward sin written into the human nature by 6000 years of disobedience. It recognizes God's arrangement for forgiveness through the imputed merit of Jesus, and the sinner avails himself of this arrangement. Parts of the sin offerings of the people will be eaten by the priests, appropriated by them. The offering will represent the acknowledgment of wrong doing, before those whom it involved, and a sincere effort toward more obedience. It requires the wrong doer to humble himself before those whom he has wronged, and before the Christ, and the Ancient Worthies. It also leaves a hurt in the mind (symbolized by the burning) as one realizes the damage he has done to others and to himself, which makes him think and watch his actions more carefully.

The peace offering represents thankfulness and joy of restored fellowship and communion by the offerer with the Christ and the Ancient Worthies. The fat and life organs were burnt on the Brazen Altar (representing the acceptance by the Christ) and the meat was eaten in some clean place, usually the Court, by the offerer and the priest who officiated. These were the offerings boiled in the boiling places at the corners of the Outer Court.

The drink or liquid offerings represented the use (pouring out) of ones energies in the service of the Lord, toward his fellow men, or as directed. The drink offering was poured upon the Altar. Sometimes it was oil, sometimes wine, sometimes water. (Ezek. 45:17,24; Num. 28:7,8; Ex. 29:40)

The meat or more properly meal offering, for it was made of flour, was usually of wheat flour. The wheat was usually harvested about June or July.

Sometimes the offering was of barley, such as the jealousy offering. (Num. 5:15) Barley was harvested in March or April. (Ex. 9:31, 33) It was usually esteemed inferior to wheat. (Hosea 3:2; Ezek. 13:19) See Judges 6:11. The meal offering represented, as it was of the products of the ground, the fulfilling of our duty to our fellowmen, the last six of the Ten Commandments.

OFFERINGS OF THE PRINCES

Ezek. 45:13-25. Out of God's abundant provision for them, in thankfulness and appreciation, the Princes (the Ancient Worthies) brought certain offerings. These will have lands of their own, out of which they can raise crops (vss. 7, 8), but the people provide for them also. So out of this abundance, the Princes bring 1/6 of an ephah for each homer of wheat. As the ephah is one tenth of an homer, this would mean 1/60 of his possession of wheat. The same proportion of the barley. Of the olive oil he is to bring 1/10 of a bath from each cor, and as the bath is the tenth part of the cor, this would be 1/100 part of his possession of oil. The bath is liquid measure, and is equal to one ephah dry measure. The homer is 10 ephahs dry measure and the cor is ten baths liquid measure.

The Prince shall furnish the burnt offerings, the cereal offerings and the drink offerings, the sin offerings and peace offerings at the New Moons, which represent the New Covenant, and the sabbaths, which represent the seventh thousand year day, the Millennium, in which the people shall cease from doing their own wills to learn to do the will of God; and in all the appointed feasts, he shall manage and arrange for all these offerings of the people.

For the cleansing of the Sanctuary (vs. 18), on the first month and the first day of the month a sin offering of a bullock without blemish is brought. The priest (one of the Church) shall take some of the blood and put it on the doorposts of the Temple, and upon the four corners of the ledge or settle (evidently the upper settle or ledge) of the Altar, and on the posts of the gate of the inner court (probably the east gate—Ezek. 46:1-3). This offering is repeated on the seventh day of the first month for every one that erreth and for the simple; that is for every one that sins through ignorance or mistake (error). This is the cleansing of the sanctuary, the whole arrangement of Temple and courts and their contents.

On the fourteenth day of the first month, the feast of the Passover, and the seven day feast of unleavened bread, the Prince will provide for himself and for all the people of the land a bullock for a sin offering. And on each of the seven days of unleavened bread shall he prepare seven bullocks and seven rams without blemish for a burnt offering, representing their complete renewal of their consecration unto the Lord; and a kid of the goats for a sin offering. The meal offering each day shall be an ephah of wheat flour for each bullock, the same for each ram, and an hin of oil to each ephah. The Passover services would bring to their minds the death of Jesus their Redeemer, and their complete (7) acceptance of it, their full appreciation of it, and this would increase as they progress along the highway of holiness toward perfection. The sin offerings would help them remember their former condition and their present imperfections. (vss. 21-23)

Also, in the seventh month, the fifteenth day, to commemorate their deliverance from Satan's dominion, as the world antitype of the exodus from Egypt, the Feast of Tabernacles; and coincident with it the Feast of Ingathering, representing the salvation of the world of mankind, as the after fruits; there was a week of rejoicing and offerings. The schedule of the Passover celebration was repeated, with like offerings each day. At this time they would renew their acknowledgment of their sins and imperfections by the sin offering; renew their consecrations, as in the burnt offerings; rejoice in their restored fellowship with the Christ, as in the peace offerings; with gladness and as a privilege renew their efforts to serve and help their fellow men, as in the meal offerings; and bring more and more their whole being into glad service of the King of Kings in every way possible, as in the pouring out of the drink offerings. (vs. 25)

Notice in these celebrations there is no Atonement Day, the work for that has been completed, the sufferings of the complete Christ, the anointed class, are complete and ended. Also there is no Pentecostal feast, as that also was fulfilled and ended with the work of the Church in the Gospel Age. How wonderfully everything fits in as it should! The work of applying the atonement for the world of mankind will take the whole thousand years of the reign of Christ.

OFFERINGS OF THE PEOPLE

Those of the people who have entered into the New Covenant by consecration of themselves in heart and mind and being unto the Lord, the Christ, will show their appreciation of the Lord's arrangements for their salvation by bringing a certain proportion of their possessions (45:13-16) for the service of the Lord. One sheep out of every 200 from each family and of each homer of wheat $\frac{1}{6}$ ephah, that is $\frac{1}{60}$ of the whole; the same of each homer of barley; and $\frac{1}{10}$ bath, or $\frac{1}{100}$ part of each cor of oil. This is a very reasonable portion. Of their time they give $\frac{1}{7}$ to the Lord through the Ancient Worthies, that is the whole of each sabbath day. The other six parts of the week are their own, to use in harmony with righteousness, truth and love. (Zech. 3:10) This will be a reward to the heroes of faith who lived before Christ, in that the very people who persecuted them and slew them will be subject to them, and can obtain eternal salvation in no other way.

The people will learn to love and honor their Princes as they thus learn what was suffered for righteousness sake.

The offering of a sheep or a lamb symbolizes the development of a meek and gentle spirit. The offering of a bullock will symbolize their learning how to use all their abilities and powers, in the quiet and efficient service of their Lord and of their fellow men. The ox or bullock is the symbol of power used in humility, in quiet efficient service.

Certain offerings of the people were eaten by them, thank offerings, peace offerings, which symbolizes their learning and practicing thankful appreciation of and submission to the Kingdom arrangements. These would be supervised by the Great Company as servants of the priests. (Ezek. 44:10-14) The boiling of these offerings, or parts of them, in the boiling places located in the four corners of the Outer Court, show that in the learning of this obedience the people will have some burning lessons of self control and obedience, pictured by the heat and the fire, in order to root out of their natures every tendency for disobedience or selfishness and pride, and will do this willingly and obediently to attain the reward of everlasting life and perfection and fellowship with their Creator, and with God's people. (1 Cor. 15:28) God will be all in all, that is everyone will find the most complete satisfaction and delight and fullness of joy in God and his fellowship. Toward the end of the Millennium the people will be able to offer perfect obedience and perfection of action and word and thought. (Psa. 51:19; Zech. 14:20, 21)

These offerings will also be appreciated by the priests, appropriated by them as they supervise the government of the world during the Millennium as shown in the two boiling places in the ends of the Inner Court toward the west, by the buildings of the priests. They will with thankfulness and joy, even as do the angels of heaven now, rejoice over every self-sacrifice of the people, as the priests eat (appropriate to themselves) the sacrifices, in their chambers. (42:13) There are three stories in these buildings, entered by a winding stairway (42:3-5), the beams of the floors of each chamber resting on the recess of the walls of the lower chambers. These eatings or feasting are part of their reward for enduring the persecutions of the past. (Isa. 64:14; 49:22, 23; Rev. 3:9) And the people will do this for love of the Church, and gratitude, counting as precious every sacrifice of the Church, and revere it in memory (lick the dust of thy feet). Is it worthwhile to endure? Indeed we can afford to wait for such a reward. Make eternal friends of our enemies!

CONSECRATING THE ALTAR

Ezek. 43:18-21. On the day when it is erected, at its dedication, there will be used for burnt offerings and the sprinkling of the horns of the Altar one bullock for a sin offering. The priest will take some of the blood and sprinkle it on the horns of the Altar, and upon the four corners of the ledge or settle, and upon the rim of the settle, round about, and make atonement for it. This is on the first day. The entrails, hide, hoofs, horns, were to be burnt outside the Sanctuary, the sacred area, belonging to the Temple. This would be a reminder of the way the sacrifice of our Lord was viewed by the world, by the Church and by the Father. This would also signify that the Christ, as the world's altar, was every whit holy and dedicated to the Lord. For each of seven days, they were to offer each day a kid of the goats for a sin offering, and a young bullock and a ram for a burnt offering. Thus the altar would be completely purged and cleansed, and the priests consecrated. The priests cast salt upon the burnt offerings, a preservative, to indicate the ever and complete efficacy of the sacrifice of Jesus, and the work of the Church in applying it. Upon the eighth day and onward the Altar would make their sacrifices acceptable.

The East Gate of the Inner Court will be shut the six working days. (46:1-8) During the 6000 years of man's history the world was not being dealt with by the Creator. There was election only. (Isa. 51:2) But it was opened on the Sabbath day (the Millennium) and the day of the New Moon (New Covenant). Illustrating that the opportunity for the world to be saved would be the seventh thousand year period, the reign of Christ and not before. The Prince (the Ancient Worthies) are to take their stand by the posts of that gate (as like the offering of the Church as is possible—their experiences were like those of the Church). The Priests (the Church in glory) are to offer his burnt offering (his consecrations) and peace offerings (fellowship and communion with the Christ). The Princes shall worship there. He shall go out, have activities of service for the world, as the earthly agents of the Christ. But the gate shall not be closed till the evening, the end of the Millennium.

The people of the land, the world of mankind are to worship near that gate, just before the Brazen Altar, on the Sabbath and on the New Moons, which are pictures of the Millennium. The Prince is to offer on the Sabbath day for a burnt offering, six lambs without blemish and a ram without blemish (seven altogether); for a cereal offering one ephah of wheat with the ram and with the lambs as much as he is able, and a hin of oil for each ephah. This might represent the complete sacrifice of Jesus and the Church, as the basis of his salvation, and his acceptance of it, and to live his own life in harmony with the Christ. This is the Sabbath offering, as representing man's efforts to live in harmony with the Law of God. It would show, by the use of that phrase "as much as he is able," the lack of full development in the Ancient Worthies, and that they will be perfected in every line of character by the end of the Millennial reign. On the day of the new Moon (the representation of the Millennium from the standpoint of the New Covenant) in addition to the Sabbath day offerings there is a bullock offered, referring back to the sacrifice of Jesus as the basis of the New Covenant, and looking forward to the time when they will be perfect in all things. With the bullock, as with the ram, was offered an ephah of wheat, and with the lambs as much as he is able, and an hin of oil for each ephah. The oil represents the holy spirit, as poured out on all mankind, as they come to the Lord. These offerings were for the people as well as for the Prince.

When the Prince comes with a burnt offering or a peace offering (both free will offerings) as this is his own private offering, the gate is opened for him, as on the Sabbath Day, but when he goes out, the particular offering finished, the gate is shut, no others may use it.

As a representation of the continual burnt offering, the continual efficacy of Jesus sacrifice to cleanse from all sin and imperfection, the Prince provided daily a lamb one year old (in the full vigor of youth) without blemish, and with the lamb 1/6 of an ephah of wheat flour, and an hin of oil to moisten the flour.

A VISION OF THE DIVINE GOVERNMENT DURING THE THOUSAND YEAR REIGN OF CHRIST EZEKIEL'S TEMPLE (Ezek. 40-48)

(Using the R.S.V.)

It should be borne in mind that the purpose of the whole Kingdom arrangement, with its Kings and Priests, its Levites and its people, the administration of its government, its rewards and punishments, is to bring back the human race into full obedience unto God, and therewith unto perfection of human nature; to restore order and peace in the Earth and everlasting life for mankind; and to destroy every trace of disobedience and discord, rooting it out of the human heart, so that the Universe throughout its length and breadth will be everlastingly secure in righteousness and peace and love.

Take notice of the large size of the doorways and entrances. These are in harmony with the prophecies of Isa. 29:18: "In that day shall the deaf hear the words of the Book, and the eyes of the blind shall see out of obscurity and out of darkness"; Isa. 29:24: "They also that erred in spirit shall come to understanding, and they that murmured shall learn doctrine"; Isa. 25:7: "He will destroy in this mountain the face of the covering cast over all people, and the veil that is spread over all nations"; Isa. 57:14: "And shall say, Cast ye up, cast ye up, prepare the way, take up the stumbling block out of the way of my people"; Isa. 62:10: "Prepare ye the way of the people; cast up, cast up the highway, gather out the stones, lift up a standard for the people"; Isa. 28:16: "Judgment will I lay to the line and righteousness to the plummet; and the hail shall sweep away the refuge of lies and the water shall overflow the hiding place.” Satan will be bound so he can deceive the nations no more. (Rev. 20:2, 3)

This temple never has been built, but could be built with the given dimensions.

In Eph. 1:10 we are told that “In the dispensation of the fulness of times He will gather under one head all things in Christ, both which are in heaven and which are on the earth; even in him.” In Col. 1:20: “By him to reconcile all things unto himself; by him whether they be things in heaven or things on earth.” (See Psa. 77:13; 134:1, 2; Rev. 21:3; Psa. 24:7; 118:19, 20)

Ezek. 40:1 25TH YEAR OF CAPTIVITY. Ezekiel was taken captive when King Jehoiakin was taken by Nebuchadnezzar, about 617-618 B.C.—25 years from that date would be 592 B.C. The city Jerusalem was smitten 606 B.C. plus 14 years would again be about 592 B.C. The selfsame day—a very definite point of time. As to just when its parallel date occurs we have yet to learn.

HAND OF THE LORD—God’s power through the holy Spirit. VISION OF GOD—A revelation of God’s plan and work, and of his character and glory. LAND OF ISRAEL—typical of the world under the Kingdom. VERY HIGH MOUNTAIN—God’s kingdom exalted over all others, and in complete control. (Isa. 2:16) CITY ON THE SOUTH side of the mountain—the framework or outline of God’s earthly government, in Restitution. BEHOLD A MAN—the Harvest Messenger, who would unfold these things to the household of God. COPPER—Justified human nature. Line OF FLAX—Linen, the measure of righteousness, fulfilling the requirements of the Law Covenant. (Rom. 13:8) This was used only in measuring the River of Life (chap. 47) A REED, SIX CUBITS PLUS A HAND BREADTH—If this is the 18" cubit the reed would be $6 \times 18 + 4 = 132$ ", but some think each cubit plus a hand breadth is 25", which would make the reed 150". (See Faucett’s Bible Dictionary) But it seems more reasonable that the reed was smaller, as some think the reed was nine feet long, $6 \times 15 + 3 = 108$ ", or nine feet. It seems there is no certainty about ancient measures. The hand breadth added seems to tell us that the measure is just beyond fallen human nature’s ability, and hence the need of justification. If seven represents spiritual perfection then six might be taken as man’s number, “just a little lower than the angels.” The reed was used to measure the Altar, the Temple and the worshippers; that is, show the conditions which the Word of God, as expressed in the New Covenant, requires for those who would be admitted into the privileges of Restitution, and for all those who have anything to do with the Temple was at one time a human being. THE MAN STOOD IN THE GATE—showing the way to God, helping others to return to God.

Verse 4. BEHOLD WITH THINE EYES—Study and examine each detail, take note of each part, so as to tell it to others clearly. HEAR WITH THINE EARS—Listen carefully to every word, so as to repeat it correctly, and understandingly. SET THINE HEART—Learn to love every one of God's arrangements, love the Truth, and God's ways. YOU WERE BROUGHT HERE FOR THIS—The purpose was not merely to make him understand so he could enjoy it, but that he might tell it understandingly to others, the antitypical House of Israel. So the Truth is given to us not for our enjoyment only, but that we might tell unto others the glorious majesty of His Kingdom, that they also might enter in and enjoy the glorious privileges of the people of God. So we are to preach, and to testify to all who will listen, especially to Christendom.

In Chapter 43:10-12: IF ANY BE ASHAMED OF THEIR INIQUITY—If any are attracted by the goodness of God, and so ashamed of their neglect of Him, and desire better things. LET THEM MEASURE THEMSELVES BY THE PATTERN AND IF ANY TAKE IT TO HEART AND ARE ASHAMED—Explaining the meaning of the symbols, and the message of God's forgiveness, and his merciful arrangement for their return to Truth and righteousness and life. SHOW THEM THE FORM—The outline of the plan of the ages for man's salvation; FASHION—The way things are made, God's way of acting; GOING OUT—Activities; show them how to serve the Lord, what kind of service is acceptable, explaining the truth; ORDINANCES—Regulations; LAWS—Rules of conduct and behavior; WRITE IT IN THEIR SIGHT—Explain the meaning and details, so they will know it to be true. (1 Cor. 2:9,10) This is the Sanctuary and Law of Life of Love. (Eph. 4:16; 1 John 4:16) Dwelling in God.

Verse 5. OUTER WALL OF THE SANCTUARY—One reed high and reed thick, Christ in the Ancient Worthies, also the New Covenant. As Paul likens the Old Law Covenant to a wall (Eph. 2:12-22), so this wall represents the New Covenant, separation between the outside world and all believers. One reed means the full measure of the divine requirement concerning the human nature. There are three gates, or entrances by which one may come into harmony with God. Outside are Amorites, Egyptians, all whose loyalty was to earthly rulers and standards; and all men as they are awakened from death, except the Ancient Worthies. These may enter the sanctuary by either the north or the south gate. (Ezek. 46:9, 10) Those entering by the north gate may refer to the more noble, the less fallen among mankind; and those by the south gate the more degraded and less favored. In either case (see Psa. 45:9—King's daughters were among thy honorable women; vs. 12—the daughter of Tyre shall be there with a gift, acknowledging allegiance to the new ruler; and the rich among the people shall entreat thy favor. We all know members of mankind who are noble and refined, yet at the present time seem not to be religiously inclined. When these see the highest ideals and virtues taught and lived will be glad to transfer their allegiance to the new King and his Queen.) In either case, whether by the north or the south gate, they must go round the inner court and sanctuary, noting all the provisions made for their welfare and instruction. They shall go straight ahead, continue to make progress. And with them will be some of the princes to help them understand, and realize the advantages of obedience, and fellowship with God's appointed servants. Each will learn to sympathize and love the others who enter by the other gate, and both will learn to cooperate and serve together, forgetting their former jealousies and misunderstandings. Even as foretold in Isa. 19:23-25. A great leveling building of brotherhood among men. (Zech. 3:10) The eastern gate is reserved for the use of the Princes, the Ancient Worthies. (Ezek. 46:11, 12)

There are seven steps from the outer region to the outer court (Ezek. 40:22, 26), illustrating upward progress from the outer world into the condition of justification, and final human perfection through Christ, by the application of his merit, and instructions.

All three gates were just alike in size and shape and design. In olden times great houses had gates for entry and guards at gates. One who wished to enter had to satisfy these guards that he had the right or privilege to enter. So here. Each gate structure was 50 cubits long and 25 cubits wide. (40:13, 15) The seven steps were probably entirely outside the wall, according to the measurements. The gates into the outer court had the vestibule or porch at the inward end, next to the outer court, while the inner court gates were reversed, the porch or vestibule being on the outer end, next the outer court. In the outer gates, the entry was one reed or 6 cubits broad, and the room 10 cubits wide. The gate had six chambers, three on each side of a hallway which was 10 cubits wide, and each chamber was six cubits square, with a doorway in front 1 cubit. (vs. 12) That is, the posts of the doorway were 1 cubit thick. There were four pillars on each side between the little rooms, each post 5 cubits thick. The inner threshold of the vestibule or porch was eight cubits wide and the outer threshold was ten cubits wide, while the dimensions of the vestibule were 10 by 20 cubits. The height of the gate seems to be 13 cubits. (vs. 11 A.V., margin) The outer posts or jams of the vestibule's outer doorway were 2 cubits thick. There were eight windows on each side, one to each chamber and to each post and to the vestibule. (vs. 16) Each post had two palm trees engraved on the walls. The windows narrowed toward the inside.

So this arrangement tested each one entering, keeping before them the requirements of the Word of God, and encouraging them with the hopes and divine promises of restitution. The way grew ever broader and brighter as the one entering made progress, even as it is with us, the Church, as the he-goats before the flocks. (Jer. 50:8) The windows also symbolize life, by the admission of air, and light. Every help is provided, but each one must be in living earnest, in order to make progress. There will be no follow with the crowd, nor acting because the going is fashionable, nor because a friend wishes it. The New Covenant will be a personal contract with each individual.

The porch of the outer gate being last would represent the resurrection perfection, which the world will gradually attain as they progress and will be completed at the end of the Millennium. The Gate represents Christ as the door. One entering has to meet all the conditions of the Word of God to be allowed to proceed. Entrance through the north or south gate means not participation in the sin offering, but sharing in the blessings guaranteed by it. They will recognize the Ransom as the center of all their blessings, as symbolized by the high altar in the inner court.

These gates will be hallways, crossing the 50 cubit lower pavement. On this pavement backing on the outer wall, and their doors opening onto the Outer Court, and thirty chambers, arranged with five on each side of each gate. These chambers may have been used for the storage of things used in the service of the Temple. In the four corners of this Outer Court were four courts or buildings, 30 by 40 cubits in size. Around each building was a row of masonry, with hearths built in at the bottom. These were for boiling the sacrifices of the people, by the servants of the Temple. (Ezek. 46:21-24) No sacrifices for the Altar were boiled, but only those portions to be eaten by the people, such as the peace offerings. This symbolizes the nourishment obtained under the arrangements of the New Covenant. Their growth will need some fiery experiences and the heat of severe experiences to burn and root out all traces of evil and disobedience, the wayward tendencies of the old nature will have to be denied and under the will of Christ controlled.

The Outer Court, which is seven steps higher than the surrounding land was 100 cubits wide and surrounded the Inner Court on three sides. Each of the three parts was 400 cubits long and 100 cubits wide. The three gates open upon the Outer Court, which represents justification through the merit of Christ, then applied for the world. Here is represented the condition of the Ancient Worthies, also those Hebrews or Jews who have joined the New Covenant and are the servants of the Ancient Worthies, and those of the world who have entered the New Covenant. The Ancient Worthies are perfect human beings, and the remainder progressing toward that condition by obedience and growth toward human perfection.

The Inner Court and upper pavement are reached by three gates, just opposite the three gates belonging to the Outer Court, and made just like the outer gates, except that the vestibule or porch is first, toward the Outer Court. This court is 300 cubits deep and 200 wide. It types the spirit born condition of the Great Company (antitypical Levites) and is eight steps higher than the Outer Court (Ezek. 40:31, 34, 37) The first step would represent the change to the spirit nature, and the other seven the development of that nature, though it is not the highest. This court is surrounded by a wall, which represents Christ in the Great Company, that is working through them as servants. As no dimensions are given for this wall this may signify that the spirit nature, and the Great Company are not a predestined class, as the Church were predestined, even though they are mentioned in prophecy and type, but are in the mercy of God a servant class.

According to the translation by Rotherham and the R.S.V., on the upper pavement were two chambers for the Priests as singers, one on the east side of the north gate, with its door toward the south, and on the other on the east side of the south gate with its door toward the north. (Ezek. 40:44) The A.V., and Leeser put the second one at the north side of the east gate, with its door toward the north. In either case the one whose door was toward the south (by the north gate) was for the priests having charge of the Temple. These, as sons of Zadok (righteousness) sing, give harmonious and with beauty and melody testimony concerning the spiritual phase of the Kingdom, about God's mercy and goodness, about his glory and majesty, the harmony of all his works and attributes. (Rev. 15:3, 4) The other building whose door faces the north and whose users have charge of the Altar, sing with melody and beauty about the blessings of Restitution brought about by the Ransom Sacrifice, and how it illustrates to men the wonder of God's Wisdom, Justice, Love and Power, his sympathy for all his creatures.

The singers are here made prominent as indicating the happy and exalted condition of the community of God. More ample material for such songs will certainly be given, as the light upon God's plan unfolds to His wondering creatures. Under David and Solomon the singers were greatly multiplied, and took prominent parts in the Temple services. Under Ezra and Nehemiah the singers were reinstated. So as stated in Rev. 5:13, the melody will be taken up by one class after the other until the whole earth will resound with praises to the Creator, as all thankfully and gladly see and understand his marvellous goodness and mercies. (Jer. 33:9)

The North gate of the Inner Court had in its vestibule or porch two tables on each side of the entrance, four in all, inside the entrance, on which the burnt offerings and sin offerings and trespass offerings were to be slain and kept for sacrifice. On the outside of the gate were also four tables, two on each side of the entrance, for the same purpose, eight tables in all. These tables were of hewn stone, one and one-half cubits long, and one and one-half cubits wide and one cubit high. Also the instruments used in the slaying and sacrificing of the offerings were kept here. Hooks, an handbreadth long, were hung roundabout within the vestibule. Besides these eight tables, verse 38 says there was a chamber within the vestibule of the north gate where the burnt offerings were washed. The tables mentioned in verse 42 are probably the same as the others just mentioned. As stated in chapter 44:11 these services were done by the antitypical Levites, the Great Company. For them this will be a joyous task, for many of them were missionaries and ministers and evangelists who gave much of their time and life service to saving souls in the present life, often with but little result. But then the converts will be many and lasting, for the holy Spirit will be poured out upon all flesh. The North gate is thus made much more important than the south gate of the Inner Court.

The great Brazen Altar was in the center of the Inner Court, which is also the center of the whole area of the Sanctuary, of both the Inner and Outer Courts, of the land of the priests, and of the land as divided among all the twelve tribes, typical of the whole world of mankind. In fact as it represents the Ransom sacrifice of Jesus our Lord, it is the center and pivot of all the Restitution plans and government and blessings. All the gates point toward it (chap. 43:13-27) and facing it are the steps, porch, outer and inner gates or doors of the Temple.)

The Altar itself is four cubits high and twelve cubits square (the cubit used being the ordinary cubit plus a handbreadth). It rests on two platforms or settles, the upper platform 14 x 14 cubits square and 4 cubits high; lower platform 16 cubits square and 2 cubits high; and the base 18 cubits square and 1 cubit high. The grate or hearth on the top of the Altar had four horns at the corners projecting upward 1 cubit high. The upper platform had a rim around it one span (9") and the bottom also a rim one cubit high. The Altar was reached by steps on the east side reaching up to the top platform. The Altar was thus raised 11 cubits, or 16-1/2 feet above the inner court. The Altar types the completed work of the application of Jesus' merit as a human being, sufficient to justify all mankind, and lead them back to the perfection and fellowship and joyous life that had been lost in Eden. Here are burnt, or consecrated to Jehovah, the life activities of the human race including the Ancient Worthies, the Princes. Here are centered all the activities of the Millennium, for the restoration of mankind, the activities of the Christ, of the Great Company, of the Prince of the world of men. All arranged to accomplish such a complete training of mankind, as will make them worthy to be intrusted with any and all the blessings within the capabilities of the human race. (Psa. 51:18,19)

The Temple structure was entered by a vestibule, the door being 14 cubits wide, with door posts 5 cubits thick, and the front wall being three cubits on each side of the doorway. There were two pillars inside the door posts. The depth of the porch was 12 cubits and the breadth 20. Ten steps led up to it from the Inner Court. A complete exaltation.

The entrance from the porch into the Holy, or outer chamber, was 10 cubits wide, with door posts 6 cubits thick, and the wall space back to the side walls of the holy were 5 cubits on either side of the doorway. The length of the Holy was 40 cubits and its breadth 20, twice the size of the holy in the Tabernacle, and the same size as the Holy in Solomon's Temple. (Ezek. 40:48; 41:1-4; 1 Kings 6:2, 20; 2 Chron. 3:3, 8) The door into the Most Holy was 6 cubits wide, with door posts 2 cubits thick, and side walls of the entrance 7 cubits to the wall of the Temple. The Most Holy was 20 x 20 cubits, double that in the Tabernacle and the same as in Solomon's Temple.

The wall of the Temple was 6 cubits thick (41:5-11), with side chambers 4 cubits wide in the lower story. The chambers were in three stories, thirty chambers in all in each story. All around the outer wall were offsets to strengthen the chamber walls and support the chambers. The thickness of the outer wall of the chambers was 4 cubits. The chambers became broader as they rose from story to story, according to the enlargement of the offset around the Temple. These chambers were reached by a stairway on the outside of the outer wall, to the middle story, and through it to the upper story. The Temple platform left free on the outside of the walls was 5 cubits wide. The doors of these side chambers in the lower story opened onto the platform, those on the north side onto the north platform and those on the south side onto the south platform. The foundations of the lower chambers were 6 cubits thick.

Ezekiel's Temple represented God's finished work. There was no furniture in either the Holy or the Most Holy, except a small table near the door into the Most Holy. The Holy no longer types the spirit begotten condition, but the memory of those experiences. The Most Holy would represent the completed and perfected divine nature. In front of the door into the Most Holy was a table of wood, 3 cubits high, 2 cubits long and 2 cubits wide, being square. (Ezek. 41:21,22) This represents the "Table of the Lord." (Luke 22:28-30; Matt. 26:29)

Around the Temple platform, on the north, east and west was a 20 cubit wide space, called the Temple yard. On the west side was a building 70 cubits broad, and 90 cubits long north and south with walls five cubits thick. The entrance was on the Temple side, the east. So the Temple with its platform was 100 cubits broad and 100 cubits long. The Holy and Most Holy and vestibule were paneled, and round about all three were windows with recessed frames, the paneling reaching up to the windows. The inner walls were adorned with palm trees carved into the walls and cherubim; a palm tree between each cherub. Each cherub had two faces, one of a man toward the palm tree on the one side, and the face of a lion on the other wide toward the other palm tree. These carvings were in the Holy and Most Holy. The entrance to the Holy and Most Holy had each two swinging doors, and on the doors were carved cherubim and palm trees, like those on the walls. Thus the priests, the Church, are always reminded of the justice and love of God in arranging for the restoration of mankind, to the glory of God and the blessing of all the world of men. There was a canopy of wood in front of the vestibule, outside, and there were recessed windows and palm trees on either side on the walls of the vestibule but no cherubim. The cherubim as the attributes of the Creator, seemed to represent a deeper understanding and appreciation about our Creator. (Ezek. 42:23-26) Thus the Temple would represent the wonderful privileges and fellowship which are the privileges of the Church during the thousand year reign for the blessing and restoration of mankind.

On the north and south sides of the Temple, between the inner and outer courts were two buildings, the length 100 cubits and breadth 50 cubits, with a passage 10 cubits wide between the two buildings. Their doors opened upon this passageway. As there were no pillars, the upper chambers of the three stories were narrower, and set back from the lower and middle stories. There was a wall between these buildings and the outer court. The building next to the outer court was 50 cubits long, with a wall the remaining 50 cubits, separating from the outer court. The building near the Temple was 100 cubits long. At the east end of this 100 cubit area was an entrance from the outer court, and a wall separating these buildings from the rest of the inner court. (Ezek. 42:1-12) These buildings and the court entrance thereto are for the priests only. In these buildings the priests eat the holy offerings which are stored there. This represents how the Church will appropriate the holy offerings of the people, the meal offering, the sin offering and the trespass offering. Here they receive and decide in the administration of the blessings and rewards, as the people thus show their appreciation and make progress in the Kingdom privileges. In the sacred conditions represented by these chambers the priests will have their feasts of love as they rejoice over the consecrated efforts of earth's billions in their progress toward human perfection, preparing for full fellowship with their Creator at the end of the Millennium. If there is now rejoicing among the angels of heaven over one sinner that repenteth, what will be the joy of heaven when the human race is returning to full appreciation of the glory and grandeur of our Creator and to full enjoyment of all their powers of mind and body in harmony with God.

The gate to the outer court was used by the priests only, and they must change their garments before going into the outer court. (Ezek. 42:13, 14) The holy garments may represent the promises of the Word of God respecting the divine, immortal nature, and the other garments which they put on when they go into the outer court may represent the New Covenant hopes and blessings and arrangements for the people. Does this imply that the members of the Church may reveal themselves to the people as special rewards for progress, or other special occasions?

The total enclosed area of the Temple and courts was 500 cubits square. An open space 50 cubits around this area is reserved as a separation. (Ezek.

45:2) In the corners, at the west ends of the inner court were places where the priests were to boil the trespass and sin offerings and the meal offerings of the people, for the food of the priests. This is a fulfilment of the promises of Isa. 60:14 and Rev. 3:9. This special privilege cannot be shared with any others.

The east gates of both the outer and inner courts are reserved for the use of the princes. They are first used by the glory of God, the Church. The Church is to all others the revelation of the glory of God. (Eph. 3:10; Ezek. 43:1-5; 44:1-3; 46:1-3) Thus is shown the progress of the Church from the world, outside the sanctuary, unto justification, and to spirit begetting, the gate to the inner court, and into the temple, through the Holy into the Most Holy. After the full entrance of the Body of Christ the gate shall be shut, and remain shut, no others may enter by it, except the Ancient Worthies may sit therein to eat bread before the Lord. They shall enter by the vestibule of that gate and go out the same way. These are privileged to enter by this gate because of their self sacrifice unto death, like the church. In this condition of being in fellowship with the Christ and with God they may assimilate the promises and prophecies of the Word of God. This will guide and strengthen them for the tremendous task of governing and directing the world of mankind.

Likewise the eastern gate of the inner court, the way to the divine nature through sacrifice will be closed after the entrance of the Glory of God, the Body of Christ, in whom God dwells, and no one may ever enter therein, like as the door was closed in the parable of the wise and foolish virgins. In the porch of this gate, in intimate communion with the Christ, the Ancient Worthies will continually renew their consecration vows (the burnt offerings) and their prayers (peace offerings) will be acceptable unto the Christ. They preceded the Christ in suffering, but follow Him in time and place. So throughout the Millennium, God's sabbath day, the day of the New Covenant (new moon). Here in this porch of the inner gate they will receive their instructions and guidance in all the affairs of earth.

STUDIES IN EZEKIEL'S TEMPLE THE LAND DIVISIONS (EZEKIEL 45)

THE NORTHERN BORDER: Up from the sea, the Mediterranean, as then called the Great Sea, up from the restless, lawless sea condition mentioned in Isa. 17:12-14; 57:20, 21; Psa. 46:2, 3, 9, 10—wherein all security was gone, all law and order broken down, nobody safe or when they would be engulfed in ruin. As Egypt is a symbol of so called Christendom, so Isa. 19:11-16 and Amos 5 well express the condition of the most privileged nations, which the Lord has so richly blessed, but which have turned aside to follow their own devices, and will soon reap the whirlwind, as declared in Prov. 1:24-32. So, coming from this condition into the arrangements of the Lord's Kingdom, will become out of anarchy into rest and security, and peace and protection, to comfort and consolation of heart, as mentioned in Isa. 32:1-5. This change is illustrated by the meanings of the names of these places on the northern border. Coming into Israel, into the New Covenant, unto HETHLON (a stronghold, where none can anymore smash up the condition of human society); to the entrance of HAMATH (defended, walled, protected, a condition of safety and security, Isa. 32:15-20); HAZAR-ENAN (court of the fountains, where abundance of truth will be flowing out for all to drink freely, as they feel the thirst for it); ZEDAD (sloping place, ascent, rising out of the condition of death and sickness to health and life). (This place is mentioned again only in Num. 34:1-29,8.) AS MEN GO TO ZEDAD, as mankind rises upward along the highway of holiness. BEROTHA (food, abundance of nourishment for health and long life); SIBRAHIM (double hill, the two phases of the Kingdom, Heavenly and Earthly); WHICH IS BETWEEN THE BORDER OF DAMASCUS AND THE BORDER OF HAMATH. No meaning could be found in any of the commentaries or dictionaries for the name Damascus. HAMATH as before given means defended, walled, protected. So the northern boundary carries one from the sea to the desert, perhaps representing the whole of the Millennium.

THE EASTERN BORDER: From HAZAR-ENAN (court of the fountains, and the only fountains in that district), along the Jordan (judged down, descender). HAURAN (cave district, perhaps shelter, safety); GILEAD (strong, rocky); ISRAEL (a prince or ruler with God, such as the Ancient Worthies). The East Sea is the Dead Sea, which is to be healed by the river of life so as to be a living sea. This would picture that under the government and protection, shelter and safety of the Prophets and Holy Men of Old, men will be led from death unto life, from tears unto joy, from disease unto health and vigor of perfect manhood.

THE SOUTHERN BORDER: From TAMAR (palm tree, suggesting everlasting life, with abundance of food); TO THE WATERS OF STRIFE AT KADESH, remember the lessons of disobedience and rebellion, their results. Men will loathe themselves for their stupidity and beastliness. (Ezek. 36:31; 20:43; Num. 20:1-13)

The statement that Joseph shall have two portions, emphasizes the fact that there will be still twelve tribes, after Levi is taken out, to preserve the fulness of the number. The two sons of Joseph, Ephraim and Manasseh, became full fledged tribes in Israel, in accord with the blessing of Jacob in Gen. 48:22,5. Also, even with the removal of the Church and the Great Company from the human race, there will still be enough to just fill the earth properly with perfect human beings, restored to God's image and likeness.

In the arrangement of the tribes on the land, each tribe is given a section of equal area, about 10,000 reeds in width and 25,000 reeds in length, from the Great Sea to the desert, east and west. There are seven tribes on the north of the sacred section and five on the south. On the north Dan is the farthest removed from the Sanctuary, but in the section near where the tribe originally chose to settle. (See Josh. 19:40-48; Judges 18.) The Asher, Naphtali, Manasseh, Ephraim, Reuben, Judah. Judah and Benjamin are closest to the sacred enclosure. The sacred district came next, and was 25,000 reeds x 20,000 reeds. Of this section the land for the Priests (the Church) was 25,000 reeds long and 10,000 reeds wide. In the center of this was the Sanctuary area 500 reeds square and 50 cubits on each side for the suburbs. (45:1, 2) The Priests had their homes and land in this section outside the Sanctuary. Then for the Levites (the Great Company) a similar section, 25,000 reeds long and 10,000 reeds wide. (48:1-7; 8-14; 45:1-5) The the portion for the city, 25,000 reeds long and 5000 reeds wide. This was to belong to the whole of Israel. (45:6; 48:15-20) The city is to be 4500 reeds square, with suburbs 250 reeds on each side. These suburbs are for the cultivation of food products for those who serve the city. Families out of all the tribes of Israel are to serve the general welfare of all the tribes, in this city. The 10,000 reeds long and 5,000 reeds wide spaces on the east and west of the city area, are for the food supply of the city workers. The sacred and secular area together is thus 25,000 reeds square.
