On the east and west of the sacred and city are shall be the land for the Prince (the Ancient Worthies). The Prince may give of this land (condition) as an inheritance to any of his sons—those of the people not of the Ancient Worthy class, but having their disposition, and who during this life have lived conscientiously and striven to do right, though never called to the spirit nature. These may be pictured by the sons of the prophets, associated with the Ancient Worthies, but not of their number. (2 Kings 2:3, 5, 7, 15) These will have the reward of being associated with the Ancient Worthies, and may be asked to share the blessings (land) of the Prince class. (46:16-18) If they continue in this spirit they may have a permanent share with the Ancient Worthies, but others who do not have this spirit so richly, are used as servants, will have this privilege discontinued at the end of the Millennial age, as not being fully qualified. The Prince must not oppress the people, nor take any of their inheritance, that the possession of each may be secure.

The land of each tribe is apportioned by lot. (47:22) The share of each one in the restitution blessings is not predestinated but is the result of the degree of effort and consecration. It cannot be taken away. (46:18 R.S.V.) All are to have an equal opportunity, inherit it one as well as another. (47:14)

Aliens dwelling in Israel shall have an inheritance in the tribe where they live. (47:22, 23) These would be the ones who come from outside the New Covenant into the New Covenant, to be God's people, and share the blessings of these in covenant relationship with God, through Christ.

The tribes south of the sacred and secular enclosure are Benjamin, Simeon, Issachar, Zebulun, Gad.

The gates of the city, as given in Rev. 21:12, 13, have the names of the twelve tribes of Israel over them, one tribe name over each gate. Revelation does not give the names of the tribes which go with each gate, but Ezekiel does. (48:30-35) On the north side: Reuben, Judah, and Levi; on the east side: Joseph, Benjamin, Dan; on the south side: Simeon, Issachar, Zebulun, on the west side: Gad, Asher, Naphtali. These names probably have characteristics, symbolized by the meaning of the names. Note that the rotation of the names of directions are from the left to the right, while the Jewish people are accustomed to read from the right to the left. Each side of the city being 4500 reeds in length, the total circumference would be 18,000 reeds, and its name means—The Lord is there, or Jehovah dwells there, or the Home of Jehovah, among men, as stated in Rev. 21:3.

In Ezek. 44:15-18-31, various regulations about the priests are given. They shall wear linen garments, cool and clean, representing the righteousness of the priesthood, the glorious perfection of the Christ in glory. Thus would be indicated not only cleanliness, but all reminder of labor and toil would be at an end. They are not to be outlandish in anything, either in shaving their heads, as do the monks, not let their hair grow too long, but only be normal. (vs. 20) They must not be intoxicated with false doctrines, not by anything that would mar the clearness of their judgment and thought. They are to sit in judgment over the people (vs. 24); and settle controversies according to divine Law. They are to keep this Law themselves, and judge the people by that standard. (Rev. 20:12; Isa. 29:18) They are to teach the people to discern between holy and secular things, and between clean and unclean thoughts, words and actions. HALLOW MY SABBATHS, teach the people to keep and observe their rest in God in and His Son. (vs. 23, 24) They will serve the divine purpose in intimate contact with the Father, sharing His nature, God Himself being their possession and inheritance. (vss. 27, 28) They will continue to guard and keep all holy Truths and doctrines, as God's own principles. They alone have the privilege to enter the Temple class, the Christ (vss. 15, 16) True godliness, divine love in all things will be their aim, to have every human being and every angel share it to the fullness of their nature, in all its applications and particulars. There will be various grades of honor and service among them, according to their zeal in the present life, the Gospel Age. (Matt. 25:20-22; Luke 19:16-27) They will be entrusted with the dispensing of all the blessings under the New Covenant. All dedicated things will belong to them (vss. 39, 30), all covenants, vows and consecrations of the people will belong to them. They alone have the charge of the Altar, to superintend and accept all the sacrifices of the people, applying the merit of Christ to atone for and wash away the sins of the people. They alone make the offering of the people to God, declaring divine forgiveness and approval of the people generally, and individually.

The Priest will make union with and make fruitful, fulfil, all the divine promises (wives) avoiding all those not divinely approved. A priest can marry only a virgin (a divine promise yet unfulfilled) and that only of the tribes of Israel. (44:22) These promises not applicable to any but those who are willing to come into the New Covenant...he could not marry a stranger, a promise not made in accord with the Lord's will, by any unauthorized person. (Jer. 23:26-29) So the promises of God are to be fulfilled only to those who trust him to the extent of a full consecration (Acts 15:17: "Upon whom my name is called"; Psa. 25:1, 4, 9-12; 50:16-23) If a promise of covenant has been only partially fulfilled (a widow who had a priest before) in harmony with God's will, that promise may be completely fulfilled by the Church in the Kingdom.

Any sympathy with evil, or things out of harmony with God, will not be tolerated (vs. 25), anything of disobedience (contact with death). But for those in covenant relationship with God, under the New Covenant, they, the Christ, as priest may extend help and comfort.

The Levites (44:11-44, the Great Company class) shall receive and make effective, under guidance of the Church, the consecrations of the people, to cleanse them with truth, the Water of the Word (boiling places in the Outer Court, 46:21-24), to administer the stripes and chastenings as directed by the Church, many or few (Luke 12:47,48), tempered by mercy, with the Water of the Word, so the people may thoroughly appreciate and understand the significance of their vows and consecrations. In Ezek. 45:5, the K.J.V. translates the Hebrew: "For a possession of twenty chambers," so Lang and Young, but Rotherham and the R.S.V. renders it: "As their possession for cities to live in." Leeser renders it like the K.J.V.

In the division of the land the R.S.V. uses the word "cubits" instead of "reeds." But the distance north to south of the land sections given, is from Damascus to the River of Egypt (a small river some distance east of the Suez Canal, at a point now called El Arish), about 250 miles. The Interpreter's Bible gives it as 280 miles. Even the 25 inch cubit would not give this distance. Twelve sections of 10,000 each equals 120,000, plus 25,000 for the sacred and secular sections, equals 145,000 cubits. At 25 inches to the cubit this equals 3,625,000 inches, which equals 383,083 feet, or about 57 miles. The nine foot reed (six cubits, each one of which is a cubit and a hand-breadth, 15 inches plus 3 inches equals 18 inches; or 6 x 1.5 equals 9.0 ft.) makes about 247 miles. If we use the 18 inch cubit and add 4 inches as an handbreadth, equals 22 in., this would come out 453 miles, much too big. So the 9 ft. reed seems about right.

But the land promised Abraham as his inheritance is from the River Euphrates to the River Egypt, a much larger section. So this division of the land seems to be symbolic. Leeser's translation in Ezek. 40:5 is "A reed six cubits long, by the cubit which was an handbreadth longer than usual."

DANIEL

1:1 — AND BESIEGED IT — This siege was in the third and fourth year of Jehoiakim (2 Kings 23:36; 24:1; 2 Chron. 36:5-7), and in the first year of Nebuchadnezzar (Jer. 25:1—part of third year and part of fourth year of Jehoiakim), and 17 to 18 years before the desolation. (2 Kings 23:26; 24:1, 2, 6, 11, 12, 18; 25:1, 2; 2 Chron. 36:5-13, 17, 20—eight years more of Jehoiakim and eleven years of Zedekiah). The 19th year of Nebuchadnezzar was the year of Zedekiah's dethronement and the beginning of the 70 years desolation. There were three captivities: (1) The one mentioned above; (2) In the eighth year of Nebuchadnezzar, when Ezekiel was probably taken captive. (2 Kings 24:12; Jer. 52:28; 27:19, 20; Ezek. 40:1) (3) In 19th year of Nebuchadnezzar's reign when desolation began. Hence the dates are: first 624 B.C.; second 616 B.C.; third 606 B.C. Daniel was 14 to 16 years old when taken captive. (See also Ezek. 14:14, 16, 20; 28:3.) The character of Daniel and his standing with Jehovah impressed Ezekiel.

1:2 — VESSELS OF THE HOUSE OF GOD — See 2 Chron. 36:7; some of the vessels of the temple were taken away at this time.

1:3 — CERTAIN OF THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL . . . PRINCES — 2 Kings 20:17, 18; Isa. 39:7 foretells this captivity. Children of the royal lines and of the nobles of all the captive nations, as well as of the Jews. This first captivity included the very cream of the Jewish nation. The children chosen here are without blemish, mentally or bodily. (Z. '05-280; R.3630)

1:4 — CHILDREN — See comment verse 3.

CHILDREN . . . WHOM THEY MIGHT TEACH THE LEARNING . . . OF THE CHALDEANS — This class was chosen because of their brightness and general intelligence, to be specially educated in a school from which the king drew his assistants and counselors of state. (Z. '05-280; R.3630)

These captives were not maltreated nor enslaved in the ordinary sense. In this captivity not only were the disloyal to God punished, but some also of the good were captured. But we see here how God is able to make even the disasters of life work out blessings to the truly loyal; as Daniel and his companions were blessed and prospered in the enemies' land and advanced to positions far higher than they could ever have attained in their own land. (Z. '11-345; R.4873)

1:5 — PROVISION OF THE KING'S MEAT — The King's table was of course supposed to afford the very best of food of all kinds and hence it was selected for this school.

NOURISHING THEM THREE YEARS . . . THEY MIGHT STAND BEFORE THE KING — The King here appoints the end of the three years as the time when he would examine the pupils.

1:6 — DANIEL, HANANIAH, MISHAEL, AND AZARIAH — These young men were perhaps 14 or 16 years old. Their names indicate a parentage who were loyal to God. The fruit of Godly training is manifested in the course pursued by these young men. Their captivity seemed to them and to all concerned a great hardship, and yet in God's providence it was overruled to be to them a great blessing. (Z. '05-280; R.3630)

The names mean:

Daniel — God (is) my Judge
Hananiah — Jehovah is gracious
Mishael — God-like
Azariah — Jehovah has helped.

1:7 — UNTO WHOM THE PRINCE OF THE EUNUCHS GAVE NAMES — This was probably one of the first things done. But this change of name by no means changed their characters, or their loyalty to the God of their Fathers. These new names implied relationship or servitude to the deities of Babylonia. (Z. '05-280; R.3630)

1:8 — DEFILE — Defile here probably has two applications:

First: The dainties and meats of the heathen were usually dedicated to their Gods in some manner, and this to a certain degree would defile those who recognized that there was but the one living and true God whose blessing alone they might ask on every interest.

But—the separate descriptions, meats and wines seems to imply more than a sentiment at defilement, to imply that Daniel recognized that his own health of mind and body would be clearer and better if he abstained from many of those delicacies and wines in common use. It is now a recognized fact that peas, beans and wheat contain all the necessary elements for the development and support of the body—bones, muscle and brain. We are assured on competent authority that beans will yield a larger amount of muscular strength than the best of beef steak. It is important to know, in view of the increasing price of meat, and also with regard to future events that we have all the necessities of life in a vegetable diet. (Z. '05-280; R.3630)

1:9 — FAVOUR AND TENDER LOVE WITH THE PRINCE OF THE EUNUCHS — Daniel was evidently of a kind to make friends with good people under all circumstances, and soon he was brought by God, and by this lovable character and honesty of purpose into favor with the prince of the eunuchs. (Z. '05-281; R.3630) There is something in a meek and quiet spirit that is impressive, and as a rule this spirit comes only from a proper religious training.

1:12 — PULSE — Vegetables.

1:13 — AND AS THOU SEEST, DEAL WITH THY SERVANTS — Daniel wished to be upright and yet not endanger the prince's head, so the test of ten days was agreed upon. The results probably were helped by God in some way.

1:16 — AND GAVE THEM PULSE — They were permitted to continue their diet no doubt much to the amusement of their associates in the school, who would consider them foolish. It undoubtedly did cost some self-denial to all these young captives to forego the pleasures of the palate, to endure the sneers of their comrades, to be thought strange, peculiar, and to ostracized from those who would be apt to consider them as common people without the cultivated taste of the aristocracy. The effects were good every way, all the Lord's people should draw a lesson as to their diet, as well as to the other affairs of life, which have so much to do with the formation of the character which is so all important for those who would be heirs of the kingdom. It is undoubtedly true that those given to gluttony and to alcoholic liquors, stupefy their brains, and hence are to a certain degree disqualified for whatever business may come before them. To mingle with the world, to conform to its habits, to be the hail-fellow-well-met with the children of this world is the surest way to worldly success under present conditions. On the other hand, the abstentious course of self-denial, the practice of self-restraint, though sneered at by the world, is all important in the upbuilding of the character likeness of Christ, and all seeking to follow in his steps should endeavor to fight a good fight against their appetites, their natural desires, and for the upbuilding of themselves as New Creatures, possessed of the New Mind, the Spirit of a sound mind, which relates to all the affairs of life. (Z. '05-281; R.3630)

1:17 — AND DANIEL HAD UNDERSTANDING IN ALL VISIONS AND DREAMS — Knowledge might have been gained by study, but the understanding of dreams was purely a God given ability. The other three boys did not have it. These were seeking to develop characters in accord with the will of God, that they might have a share in the better resurrection (Heb. 11:35). The high position which these Ancient Worthies will be granted in the earthly phase of the Kingdom will more than compensate them for the little self denials, which at the moment were no doubt severe tests of character and heart loyalty. And if this is true of the earthly phase of the Abrahamic Covenant, how important to us, who by God's grace are living during this Gospel Age, and have been called of the Lord to joint-heirship in the Heavenly Kingdom. As ours will be the still higher reward and station, it follows that the trial of our faith will be still more crucial than that of the Ancient Worthies. (Z. '05-281; R.3630)

1:18 — AT THE END OF THE DAYS — End of the three years of verse 5. (Z. '05-281; R.3630)

1:20 — IN ALL MATTERS OF WISDOM AND UNDERSTANDING — The secret of this wisdom and understanding lay in God's blessing and in the fact that these three sought to devote their lives to God, to doing the divine will. Our hearts and minds can be free from selfish motives, free from superstition, free from fears, free to do the will of God at any cost. Such minds are scarce at any time, but they always develop wisdom. Contrariwise—sensuality, selfishness, grinding of personal axes always becloud the judgment. We need today in every walk of life men of the stamp of Daniel and his companions, whole hearted men, who will give their best for the service of their fellow men in whatever sphere they work. The world has grown wiser(?) since. Today a Daniel would not get into such a position of influence; or if he did it would be a miracle if he were not removed—such a miracle as has kept Judge Lindsay of Colorado in office for several years, in spite of every pressure of high handed politics which has sought to crush him because of his faithfulness to the principles of righteousness. Christians in this age are in a position very similar to that of Daniel. The great King of glory has them in the school of Christ, to select a few to be joint heirs in the Messianic Kingdom. The test of examination will come in the end of this age. Those then found worthy will be such as have the Daniel spirit of devotion to God and to the principles of righteousness, willing to lay down their lives in the service of the truth, followers in Jesus' footsteps. (Z. '11-345, 346; R.4873)

HE FOUND THEM TEN TIMES BETTER THAN ALL THE MAGICIANS AND ASTROLOGERS — God's blessing was upon these boys and their fixity of principle. He blessed them with superior knowledge, wisdom, and grace, so that the eunuch, their companions, and at last the King, perceived God's favor in them. But this favor with God and with the King meant to a considerable degree the jealousy and enmity of their associates. We see this in the event of the fiery furnace and of the lions' den. (Z.'05-281; R.3630)

(70 years + 18 years before = 88 years)

There is no record of his return to Jerusalem, among his people. Probably he held so high a position that he could not leave and probably the Lord had more work for him to do there. Daniel's age at least $16 + 70 + 18 = 104$ years at the first year of Cyrus. (536 B.C.)

2:1 — AND IN THE SECOND YEAR — Daniel and his companions had been in school only for less than one year. (Chap. 1:5, note, and verse 18.)

2:4 — TELL THY SERVANTS THE DREAM, AND WE WILL SHEW THE INTERPRETATION — They seem to have been told before that the King had forgotten the dream, and made such requests repeatedly.

2:5 — THE THING IS GONE FROM ME — Leeser: "The decree is firmly resolved on by me."

2:8 — I KNOW OF CERTAINTY THAT YE WOULD GAIN THE TIME — The Chaldeans being unable to answer the king, kept putting him off for three years. (See Z.'99-165; R.2492)—"Event of the interpretation of his dream by Daniel." This would put the interpretation in the fifth year of the reign, 15 years before the "fiery furnace" and 14 years before the Desolation.) All their powers and wiles could avail them nothing. The King at last grew impatient and in fury at the answer of the Chaldeans in vs. 10, 11 he decreed that all the wise men should be killed.

BECAUSE YE SEE THE THING IS GONE FROM ME — Leeser: "Because ye see the decree is firmly resolved on by me."

2:9 — TILL THE TIME BE CHANGED — The time in which the decree of vs. 5 was to be executed. The Chaldees knew they could not answer the dream.

2:10 — EARTH — Leeser: "Habitable Earth."

2:13 — THAT THE WISE MEN SHOULD BE SLAIN — Leeser: "And (some of) the wise men were slain; and they sought . . ."

2:15 — THEN ARIOCH MADE THE THING KNOWN TO DANIEL —

These verses seem to show that Daniel had no knowledge of the occurrence of the dream before the King's decree. It was probably kept secret among the astrologers and soothsayers. Daniel and his fellows not being thought wise enough to be included among them as a dream teller. Yet Daniel and his three friends were included in those numbered to be slain. Perhaps the King, in unreasoning fury decreed that all his counselors be slain.

2:16 — THAT HE WOULD SHEW THE KING THE INTERPRETATION

— Daniel did not here speak directly to the king, for vs. 25-27 shows that the king at that time first knew of Daniel's personal offer, and so vs. 16 is merely a request for more time, and a promise that the dream would be interpreted if more time were given him or them. This was the first definite indication that the dream would be interpreted, and the king may have given more time in the hope that the dream would be known. Daniel probably asked through some officers.

2:18 — THEY WOULD DESIRE MERCIES OF THE GOD OF HEAVEN CONCERNING THIS SECRET

— They did the only wise thing. They knew where they could get help, and prayed to Jehovah. Daniel's promise or expressed hope in verse 16 shows his great faith.

HIS FELLOWS SHOULD NOT PERISH WITH THE REST OF THE WISE MEN OF BABYLON — See note on verse 13.

2:19 — THEN WAS THE SECRET REVEALED UNTO DANIEL IN A NIGHT VISION

— Here was the reward of loyalty. The dream was revealed to Daniel, the others did not have this gift. (See 1:17; 2:30)

THEN DANIEL BLESSED THE GOD OF HEAVEN — They gratefully thanked and praised the creator, for his help and kindness and mercies. An example for us not to forget to thank the Father for all his goodness and care over us.

2:20 — FOREVER AND EVER — Leeser: "From eternity to all eternity."

2:21 — HE GIVETH WISDOM UNTO THE WISE, AND KNOWLEDGE TO THEM THAT KNOW UNDERSTANDING

— "To him that hath (and uses it well) shall be given." God does not give knowledge to them that are foolish toward God, to those without understanding. So if we use our talents God will give us more, and so we will be more and more used in His service.

2:25 — THE WISE MEN OF BABYLON — The wise men of Babylon must thou not destroy. (Leeser)

2:28 — THERE IS A GOD IN HEAVEN THAT REVEALETH SECRETS

— Daniel always gave God the glory. (Dan. 5:17; 2:30) He showed the king that the astrologers were useless in the matter, but that Jehovah could reveal it. He wished to impress upon the King the fact that there was but one true God. Daniel was very humble and meek. He was given the dream that the king might know the things to come (not for Daniel's benefit to make him great) and also mainly for us, the Church. (Rom. 15:4; vs. 28)

2:31 — A GREAT IMAGE — The image represents not the people but the governments and all the families of the earth. These are to be destroyed that the people may be delivered. Jesus came not to destroy men's lives but to save them. (John 3:17; Luke 9:56)

BRIGHTNESS WAS EXCELLENT — Excellent in man's, Nebuchadnezzar's sight, because of man's perverted tastes and he knows of nothing better. God's view of these same kingdoms is given in Dan. 7. "Beasts."

2:32 — THE IMAGE'S HEAD WAS — The image as a whole represents the universal rule of the Gentile powers over the earth. Hence "Gentile Times." Note 2, Chap. 2. with note 1, chapter 1 shows that this dream was interpreted some time (14 years) before Zedekiah's dethronement and the fall of the only kingdom recognized by God as having rule actually (crown = actual rule), removed at fall of Zedekiah. (Ezek. 21:26, 27) These Gentile kingdoms could not be recognized as having the rule before God's own people fell, and their crown was removed. Hence Nebuchadnezzar was not fully recognized as sole ruler until 606 B.C. How then account for the dream being given fourteen years before? The Lord might have given the dream in advance, because as far as earthly kingdoms were concerned, he already had attained headship or lordship over them, and even at that time the Jewish King was a vassal, paying tribute. As the head (to be) of the image Nebuchadnezzar was already in power and the image was being prepared to fill its appointed place. But the Lord had not yet removed the diadem from the king of Israel, hence the "seven times" of tribulation upon Israel had not yet fully begun and the seven times were to be unrestricted, unlimited dominion, God's typical kingdom being out of the way (and the Ark gone). So now we have the establishment of Christ's Kingdom dating we believe from 1878, and yet during all the years from 1878 to 1914 the Gentile Kingdoms are permitted to hold sway and will so continue till 1914 ends, their lease of power dating from the overthrow of Zedekiah, 606 B.C. to 1915 A.D. 2520 years. The Image represents both Gentile times and the four universal empires of earth. Extract nearly from Bro. Russell's letter (10/10/05). See vs. 37, 38.

2:33 — HIS FEET OF PART IRON AND PART OF CLAY — Mixture of iron and clay = union of ecclesiastical and civil power for rule. The Holy Roman Empire, Papacy. The iron continues to represent civil governments and the miry clay, making them appear like stone represents Ecclesiasticism as it is now mixed up with the politics of the ten kingdoms of Europe. (N-9-9-10) The feet were of iron the same as the legs, but were smeared with miry clay to make them seem like feet, stone being a symbol of God's kingdom. God will thus allow man to prove to himself that his best attainments are but imitations and lead to disaster.

2:34 — WITHOUT HANDS — Not by human power and hence not man-made, but of divine origin and power. Man's best and noblest efforts to uplift himself out of sin and degradation are represented in the existing kingdoms, although these previous kingdoms had actually passed away. (Dan. 7:12)

SMOTE THE IMAGE UPON ITS FEET — At the latter end of Gentile power. The smiting represents the judgments upon Babylon and the Kingdoms of this world, resulting in the great time of trouble.

2:35 — THEN WAS THE . . . BROKEN TO PIECES TOGETHER — Outward appearance, or characteristics of all four kingdoms remained till the end, represented in the existing kingdoms, although these previous kingdoms had actually passed away. (Dan. 7:12)

THE WIND CARRIED THEM AWAY — The storm of trouble at the end of the harvest.

THE STONE . . . BECAME A GREAT MOUNTAIN — Showing the growth of the Kingdom from the beginning in Jerusalem till it reaches all nations, all the families of the earth.

2:37 — THE GOD OF HEAVEN HATH GIVEN THEE A KINGDOM — There the Gentile Kingdoms, or powers that be, were ordained of God. (See Dan. 4:17; Rom. 13:1.)

2:38 — HATH MADE THEE RULER OVER THEM ALL — This king was also a type later of the race of man. Nearly these same words were used to Adam in Gen. 1 and in Dan. 4:12, 22.

THOU ART THIS HEAD OF GOLD — Nebuchadnezzar. Babylonia. This empire ended 536 B.C. Nebuchadnezzar was mentioned because he was the then reigning King. Gold is symbolic of the splendor, magnificence, majesty of the empire. Babylon then in the height of its splendor and power. Its hanging gardens were one of the seven wonders of the world.

2:39 — ANOTHER KINGDOM, INFERIOR TO THEE — Breast and arms of silver represent Medo-Persian empire, (two divisions as indicated by the two arms). Less grand, inferior to Babylon. Cyrus first king (Darius, possibly a title of Cyrus, or Darius and Cyrus may have ruled together over Medo-Persia for a while, two years and by 536 B.C. Cyrus was sole ruler and took Babylon.) See note on Dan. 5:31.

THIRD KINGDOM OF BRASS — Belly and thighs of brass (copper) represent Greece. Alexander first king, bore rule from Italy to the Punjab and Macedonia to the Indian Ocean.

2:40 — THE FOURTH KINGDOM — Legs of Iron represent Roman Republic and empire, the Caesars. Two legs represent split kingdom into Eastern Empire (seat of Byzantium or Constantinople) and the Western Empire (seat at Rome); separated by Constantine in A.D.

Three of these empires had passed away and the fourth, the Roman, held universal sway at the time of our Lord's birth as we read. "There went out a decree from Caesar Augustus that all the world should be taxed." (Luke 2:1) The iron empire, Rome was by far the strongest and lasted longer than its predecessors. It still continues as represented in the ten toe kingdoms of Europe now. (C253)

2:41 — PART OF POTTER'S CLAY AND PART OF IRON — Mixture of Church and State. Stone is the symbol of the true kingdom of God, and Babylon substituted an imitation of stone—clay—which it has united with the fragmentary remains of the Old Roman Empire, and this mixture—the Church Nominal wedded to the kingdoms of this world, which the Lord calls Babylon, confusion, presumes to call itself Christendom, Christ's kingdom. (C254)

THE FEET AND TOES — These ten toes, kingdoms, are supposed to be as follows: The Western or Roman Empire extended west to include Britain and Spain, south to the Mediterranean Sea, north to the Rhine and Danube and east to the limits of the German Empire. Here we may look for these subdivisions: 1) Lombardy, the seat of a powerful kingdom; 2) Ravenna, seat of the eunuch who reigned over a great part of Italy; 3) the State of Rome, seat of the Empire; 4) Naples; 5) Tuscany; (making five parts of Italy); 6) France; 7) Spain; 8) Portugal; 9) Austria; 10) Great Britain. This is on the basis of the territorial division.

2:43 — THEY SHALL NOT CLEAVE ONE TO ANOTHER — Church and world blend but cannot thoroughly amalgamate, not a perfect union. Because the kingdom of God (in embryo) cannot have fellowship with idols. (1 Cor. 10:20, 21; 2 Cor. 6:14-18; 1 John 2:15-17; James 4:4)

2:44 — IN THE DAYS OF THESE KINGS — In the days of the 10 toe kingdoms. Clay and iron were partly separated when Napoleon proved the Pope was not divine, 1799, 1800. Now that the miry clay has become dry and “brittle” it is losing its adhesive power and the iron and clay show signs of dissolution and will quickly crumble when smitten by the “stone” the true kingdom of God. (C255)

IT SHALL BREAK IN PIECES AND CONSUME — Smiting not begin till 1915 A.D. as lease of power to Gentiles ends there. In a sense it is going on now, but really, the material to do the smiting is now being prepared—anarchists, socialists.

2:45 — THE STONE WAS CUT OUT OF THE MOUNTAIN WITHOUT HANDS — This represents the true Kingdom of God. During the Gospel Age, this stone kingdom is being formed, cut out, carved and shaped for its future position of greatness, not by human power or efforts (man’s efforts are represented in the image), (Zech. 4:6) Jehovah’s invisible power. When complete, it will smite and destroy the kingdoms of this world. The Papal system has long claimed that it is the kingdom which the God of heaven here promised to set up and that in fulfillment of this prophecy, it did break in pieces and consume all other kingdoms. But the truth is that the nominal church merely united with the earthly empires as the clay with the iron and that Papacy never really was the true kingdom of God, but merely a counterfeit of it. One of the best evidences that Papacy did not destroy and consume these kingdoms is that they still exist. (C254-255) See Rev. 3:21; 2:26, 27; Psa. 2:8-12; 149:6-9. When this kingdom has accomplished the work of destruction, then will the hand that smote be turned to heal, and the people turned to the Lord and he shall heal them. (Isa. 19:22; 2:2, 3; Jer. 3: 22, 23; Hosea 6:1; 14:4)

2:46 — AND WORSHIPPED DANIEL — Of course Daniel did not accept the worship, as is implied, it seems, in vs. 47. Worshipped = Leeser “Brood down to.” See Daniel’s character in Dan. 2:28; 5:17.

2:49 — DANIEL REQUESTED OF THE KING — In his prosperity Daniel did not forget his friends.

SAT IN THE GATE OF THE KING — Was next in authority to the king or very near to him; the words imply that he did the business of state for the king.

3:1 — THE KING MADE AN IMAGE OF GOLD — Why set up the image? Nebuchadnezzar’s pride increased by his victories and also he may have wished to unify the religion and politics of the empire. Same or similar policy followed since. Papacy is here pictured. She set up the worship of wealth and ease and fame and earthly advantage. This image was probably a copy of likeness of Nebuchadnezzar himself. He wished to cement the religions of his empire into one harmonious whole and instituted a peace celebration. He was perhaps the first to grasp the thought of a universal government to make war cease. (Z. '11-346; R.4874)

SIX CUBITS — Sacred cubit = 20" and a fraction, figured on Egyptian cubit = 1-1/2", the statue would be 90' high and 9' broad.

IN THE PLAIN OF DURA — This would seem to mean that it was outside the city. Only the nobility were invited to the dedication. Daniel may have been away in some distant portion of the empire.

3:2 — THE KING SENT TO GATHER TOGETHER — These were to be duly impressed with the greatness and magnificence of the Babylonian power and of the futility of resisting it. They were to be given an illustration of the blessings to result from having one government and the entire world at peace. Nebuchadnezzar had doubtless heard that the Israelites were from of old inspired by a certain promise from their God that at a future time their nation would be made the ruling one for the blessing of all. He considered this theory a wise one, and himself the opportune person to be the blesser of the world through Bel-Merodach. (Z. '11-346; R.4874)

God had His true plan. Nebuchadnezzar set up man's scheme, making it like God's, and in the punishment had a fiery furnace. So Papacy set up man's idea and their punishment.

3:5 — ALL KINDS OF MUSICK — Music probably refined, not barbaric. Babylon then was the center of civilization. We may sympathize with the victorious Nebuchadnezzar in a certain measure of pride in the achievements of that hour and the peace program. Hitherto his rule had been one of conquest, henceforth, everything conquered, the world was to have a jubilation of peace. (Z. '11-346; R.4874)

THE GOLDEN IMAGE — Not necessary to suppose it was of solid gold, though Herodotus mentions a smaller statue at Babylon which was of solid gold weighing 43,000 lbs. (Z. '11-346; R.4874)

3:6 — INTO THE MIDST OF A BURNING FIERY FURNACE — The penalty for disobedience was so severe as to leave no room for opposition in a sane mind. (Z. '11-346; R.4874)

3:8 — CHALDEANS . . . ACCUSED THE JEWS — Chaldeans envied the Jews, as Daniel probably helped them all he could.

3:12 — SHADRACH, MESHACH, ABED-NEGO — Abed-nego = servant of Nebo or Nego = Planet Mercury. Worshipped as scribe or interpreter. Shadrach = royal; Hananiah = given of God. Meshach = guest. Mishael = what God is.

3:14 — IS IT TRUE — We should sympathetically remember the circumstances. Nebuchadnezzar had conquered the world, and would he now be defied by three men whom he had made what they were, educating them and exalting them. He was giving a great lesson on the very subject of necessity of obedience to his government. Could he allow some of his own representatives to defy that government? That he appreciated these men was shown by the exaltation he had given them. He was seriously disappointed at the only in harmony in connection with his plan to work such blessings to all the earth and such honor to himself. (Z. '11-347; R.4874) Leeser: "Is it out of disrespect."

3:15 — NOW IF YE BE READY — He could hardly think it possible that these three men, now only about 30 or 35 would challenge his authority and power, knowing his autocracy. So he would give them a further chance.

WHO IS THAT GOD THAT SHALL DELIVER YOU OUT OF MY HANDS — The King reminded them that none of the gods had been able to deliver any people out of his power. Their own nation had been overthrown. They could hope for no help, no rescue, if they persisted in defying the King of the whole earth.

3:16 — WE ARE NOT CAREFUL TO ANSWER THEE IN THIS MATTER — Leeser: "We have no need to answer thee in this matter." Their minds were already made up and they would not compromise their consciences.

3:18 — BUT IF NOT, BE IT KNOWN UNTO THEE — What sublime faith and courage! As these Hebrews said we are not able to know the wise plans of our God, nor what may be His will respecting what little remains of our lives. But of His power and love we are confident we can trust, where we cannot trace Him. (Z. '11-347; R.4874)

3:19 — HEAT THE FURNACE — Furnace probably one used to smelt the gold. Heated seven times as hot as usual. Recent explorations show that in that vicinity there were oil wells (Naptha?) and this may have been the fuel. (Z. '11-347; R.4874)

3:21 — THEN THESE MEN WERE BOUND IN THEIR COATS — With all their robes of honor on them.

3:22 — THE FLAME OF THE FIRE SLEW THOSE MEN — A Jewish legend says the flames streamed out 75 feet, perhaps driven by a gust of wind or by throwing in additional fuel at the same time. (Z. '11-347; R.4874)

3:23 — FELL DOWN BOUND INTO THE MIDST OF THE BURNING FIERY FURNACE — This door to the furnace may have been the hole near the top for throwing in the fuel, and above the bed of the fire, as the men fell down bound into the furnace.

3:24 — THEN NEBUCHADNEZZAR THE KING WAS ASTONIED — He had already had some evidence of the power of Jehovah and so watched the furnace.

3:25 — THE FORM OF THE FOURTH IS LIKE THE SON OF GOD — Leeser: “A son of the Gods” for Nebuchadnezzar knew nothing about Christ. Undoubtedly this was Christ our Savior, “Michael.”

3:26 — THEN NEBUCHADNEZZAR CAME NEAR — What had he done! What would he do now?

THEN SHADRACH, MESHACH AND ABED-NEGO — These men were alone in their trial, but they had faith in Jehovah, believing that He was able to deliver them if in His wisdom He wished, and if not, then they had faith that His way was the best for them and that He would take care of them, for they hoped in the better resurrection. Their faith was rewarded. It is notable that very little creed idolatry existed in Israel after the desolation. Idols now worshipped are the systems. Job says that God will be with us even in the seventh trouble (greatest, final). Copies of the king and his image, are the Beast and its Image; and these are to be the great tests of the Lord’s followers in the seventh trouble.

4:1-37 — The form of this chapter is peculiar. It appears as though the king had in his own words submitted to Daniel a kind of statement of what occurred to him. It makes the account much more forcible. Nebuchadnezzar had a universal kingdom.

4:3 — HOW GREAT ARE HIS SIGNS — The king at the time of the telling of the vision appreciated to some degree the greatness of God.

HIS DOMINION IS FROM GENERATION TO GENERATION — This seems to be an unwitting prophecy.

4:5 — I SAW A DREAM — The dream came as a warning at a time, when the king was prosperous and at ease. The dream primarily refers to Nebuchadnezzar but also shows the king to be a type of the human race, for 7,000 years in the likeness of a beast. The dominion is to be restored to the race at the end of the Millennium or 7,000 year period; but more particularly typical of the times of the Gentiles.

4:7 — THEN CAME IN THE MAGICIANS — The king still valued his astrologers and magicians to some extent, and seems to have forgotten the lesson of his earlier dream.

4:8 — AT LAST DANIEL CAME IN BEFORE ME — Daniel may have waited until the king found out that his astrologers were powerless, and thus by contrast show him the power of Jehovah. Only the wise men of Babylon were called (vs. 6) and as Daniel came, he was probably in or near Babylon at the time. See Dan. 2:49 where he is last mentioned.

4:9 — MASTER OF THE MAGICIANS — Daniel was the master or greatest of the magicians. (Dan. 2:48) The fact that he did not destroy or try to exterminate the false magi, may have been due to not having the power, but it more likely means that Daniel had a loving, merciful, spirit (chap. 9:1-19) and also may have seen that God was permitting evil and that it was not Daniel's duty to overthrow it in all Babylon. Also he was the king's trusted officer and did what he was ordered to do. He was not hanging around the king to influence him unduly to favor Daniel.

4:10 — A TREE — Human dominion of earth given to man in Adam. Nebuchadnezzar a type of mankind. The whole vision is a beautiful type of the original dominion of man, of his subsequent degradation and restoration in the Millennium. Seven times also typify "Times of Gentiles" when man is governed by beastly governments.

4:12 — ALL FLESH WAS FED OF IT — Shows the greatness and beauty of the dominion; reached up to heaven and included the fowls. Leaves give shadow and protection and its fruit gave food to all the living creation.

4:14 — HEW DOWN THE TREE — Dominion taken away. The beasts and lower creation were left without a protector and Lord. Death (the curse) hewed down the tree and scattered its fruit and foliage.

4:15 — BAND OF IRON AND BRASS — Bound by bands that would securely confine it, that it should not sprout till God's appointed time. Field represents world. Root represents God's purpose in Restitution, His oath bound promise.

4:16 — SEVEN TIMES — Words here translated "seven times" are same as used in Lev. 26 except that here the word "Iddar" is used, while in Lev. it is left to be understood. These seven times turned out to be seven literal years. Those in Leiticus are symbolic years.

PASS OVER HIM — The punishment given to be a lesson for all mankind as it was to Nebuchadnezzar. Men will admit God's rulership over the earth, after the 7,000 years, and also after Gentile times, and in the great trouble. God has set up over mankind some of the worst men as rulers, that the experience might be a lasting benefit to them. 2,520 years, is a very peculiar number, it is the least common multiple of all the numbers from 1-10.

4:19 — HIS THOUGHTS TROUBLED HIM — Daniel was sorry for the king (vs. 19) and was anxious to break the interpretation as gently as possible. He counselled the king (vs. 27) to forsake evil for righteousness, if it might be a lengthening of his peace.

THE DREAM BE TO THEM THAT HATE THEE — See Leeser: “O that the dream might be for those that hate thee, etc.”

4:30 — IS NOT THIS GREAT BABYLON — Babylon was the most magnificent and probably the largest city of the ancient world. It was built in the form of a square on both sides of the Euphrates; and for protection against invaders. It was surrounded by a deep moat filled with water, and enclosed within a vast system of double walls. 32 to 85 feet thick, 75 to 300 feet high. On the summit were low towers, said to have been 250 in number, placed along the outer and inner edges of the wall, tower facing tower; and in the walls were 100 brazen gates, 25 on each side, corresponding to the number of streets which intersected each other at right angles. The city was adorned with splendid palaces and temples and the spoils of conquest. Nebuchadnezzar was the greatest monarch of the empire, whose long reign covered nearly one-half the period of its existence. The city was noted for its wealth and magnificence, which brought a corresponding moral degradation, sure precursor of its decline and fall. It was wholly given to idolatry and full of iniquity. Its people were worshipping Baal. The name Babylon originated from the frustrating of the plan for the great tower called Babel (Gen. 11:1-9) (confusion) because there God confounded human speech, but the native etymology made the name “Babel,” which instead of being reproachful and a reminder of the Lord’s displeasure, signified to them “the gate of God.” (D23, 24)

THAT I HAVE BUILT — One of the most prominent features of all forms of insanity is an exaggeration of egotism, either in self-exaltation or self-depression. Egotism implies a want of judgment. Everyone has more or less of this want of judgment and form of insanity; and it is one of the great objects of the children of God to subdue self and develop the spirit of a sound mind and realize our dependence upon God. Nebuchadnezzar had the insane idea that he could rule the world and God knowing that he could not in his fallen condition, yet allowed him to attempt. God has allowed all of the phases of the Gentile powers to attempt to rule the world in order that man may learn a valuable lesson, namely his dependence upon God. In the same way the Apostate Church, tired of waiting for the coming of the King, had the insane idea that she could rule the world, and though God knew she could not, yet allowed her to attempt it. In all these cases the result has been confusion, misery and death. See note vs. 34.

4:34 — MINE UNDERSTANDING RETURNED TO ME — Just as Nebuchadnezzar after seven years of insanity was able to appreciate the almighty power and loving care of God, so man after the seven times of the Gentiles (and also more completely the 7,000 years of his fallen condition) will learn under the rule of Christ their own weakness and dependence upon God, and will have their reason restored to them.

4:36 — AND I WAS ESTABLISHED IN MY KINGDOM — Daniel had probably told the king's counselors that the madness was only temporary and so caused a kind of regency to be established, thus enabling the king to receive his throne after seven years. The empire was probably at peace during those seven years. The return of the kingdom to him and the adding of excellent majesty, typified the return of the dominion to man, and his added glory.

4:37 — NEBUCHADNEZZAR PRAISE AND EXTOL . . . THE KING OF HEAVEN — Nebuchadnezzar's repentance and acknowledgment of Jehovah's power is a type of the repentance of the human race, when after the Millennium every being in heaven and earth will own Him as King and sole ruler.

5:1 — BELSHAZZAR — Daniel must have been an old man (103) at the time of this incident. Nebuchadnezzar was dead. Nebonidos, his son, (Nebonidos is the same as Belshazzar.) (Z. '99-173; R.2497) was probably also dead, and Belshazzar, the grandson had but recently come to the throne. Babylon was the capital city of the empire, and from all descriptions must have been by far the most wonderful city of the world up to that time, and in some respects there has been no rival since. It was very wealthy and luxurious, enriched not only by the plunder of the palaces and temples of the conquered nations round about, but also by the yearly tributes of these nations; and also by the mercantile traffic with all the nations of the world. It was also a great fortress. The great plain on which it lay, a paradise of fertility and cultivation was intersected by countless canals, serving alike for irrigation and navigation. Babylon was 14 miles square. The Euphrates flowed through it, and was banked on each side with solid massive walls, and intersected with water gates made of bronze. The historian says Babylon was the strongest fortress in the world. Even a small force of men could have held it for years. It would be the natural effect of having such richness and strength under his control to make the king proud and self-confident. (Z. '05-283; R.3632) Belshazzar means Prince of Bel.

GREAT FEAST TO A THOUSAND OF HIS LORDS — The enemy was little thought of (as true now). While Belshazzar and the people of Babylon were holding high revel, convinced of the security, the impregnability of their city (Zech. 11:1, note), Cyrus and his army were building a trench above the city (So Jesus and his people are now diverting the water—people—of modern Babylon; Rev. 16:12) into which the, in due time, waters of the Euphrates were turned. Belshazzar boasted of the impregnability of his fortress, and declared the gods of Babylon were superior to all others. (Z. '10-373; R.4719)

5:3 — GOLDEN VESSELS . . . TAKEN OUT OF THE TEMPLE — These vessels, or many of them, were sent back to Jerusalem by Cyrus. See Ezra 1:7-11; 5:14; 6:5.

5:4 — THEY DRANK WINE, AND PRAISED THE GODS OF GOLD, AND OF SILVER — He pointed to the subject nations surrounding as evidence of this and in derision called for the holy vessels brought by Nebuchadnezzar from the Jewish temple, that he and the lords might drink from these to do honor to the gods of Babylon. (Z. '05-284; R.3633)

5:10 — THE QUEEN — The king's mother remembered Daniel. She had probably heard of the wonderful interpretation of Nebuchadnezzar's dream by Daniel, when all others had failed. The prophet was evidently well known, and not far off, probably still engaged in the government service near the palace. (Z. '05-284; R.3633)

5:17 — DANIEL ANSWERED AND SAID BEFORE THE KING — Daniel's courage on this occasion is worthy of remark. He had a most painful duty to perform towards his superiors—the king as an autocrat had the power of his life at his tongue's end. The king had offered both wealth and honor to the wise man able to give the meaning of the remarkable writing, for all felt that some dire calamity was impending. But the Lord's prophet showed that he was not mercenary, and that his interpretation was not influenced by any such considerations. (Z. '05-284; R.3633)

5:22 — HAST NOT HUMBLD THINE HEART, THOUGH THOU KNEWEST ALL THIS — The king, knowing this, should have humbled himself before God Jehovah, and inasmuch as he had boastfully defied and knowingly dishonored him (as many now do, of professors, etc.), the writing on the wall was a direct message from Jehovah to him announcing the end of his dominion as a just punishment for his sins.

5:25 — MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN — These are Chaldaic terms taken from the Babylonian table of weights and being translated from the ancient cuneiform in which they were written, would mean—a mina, a mina, a shekel, a half-mina.

The table of weight is —

1 mina = 1000 gerahs

Hence “a mina, a mina, a shekel, and a half-mina,” or 2-1/2 minas plus a shekel, reduced to gerahs = 2,520. So Daniel alluded not only to the literal kingdom of Babylon, nor to the literal Medo-Persian empire, which succeeded it. Rather he was prophetically declaring—After 2,520 years of supremacy the Gentile lease of power will expire, and the rulership of earth will then be broken up and divided and given to a two-fold empire — the heavenly and earthly phases of the Messianic Kingdom. Also 2,520 is the least common multiple of all the numbers from 1 to 9, and yet is seven symbolic years in duration. (R.6377)

5:26 — MENE — Mene, repeated for emphasis. Mene = (p.p. of menah = to appoint, to count.) “numbered.”

5:27 — TEKEL — To balance (Chald.) corresp. to Heb. shawkal = to suspend, to poise; from which comes shekel = a weight.

5:28 — PERES — “Upharsin” was the original word on the wall, but Daniel, in the interpretation used the word “Peres.” “Upharsin” is the plural of “Peres,” and while “Peres” means divided, “Upharsin” means completely shattered, crushed. It appears as though Daniel, to break the news to those who had treated him kindly, used the gentler word. Paras = to split up. By a change of vowel it becomes Pawras = Persia, the country which conquered Babylon. Thus the message = “Numbered, numbered, weighed, divided.” The “U” in Upharsin means “and.” Literally—a mina, a mina, a shekel, and half minas. A mina = 60 shekels; Parsu = 1/2 mina. Transliterated into sacred Semitic = “Numbered, etc.” While by another slight change of vowels, the word which had already meant half-minas, and divided, was soon to be the very name of the conquerors of Babylon. Paras = the Persian. So this was a real Babylonian puzzle. (Wheldon)

6:2 — AND OVER THESE THREE PRESIDENTS OF WHOM DANIEL WAS FIRST — Daniel was honored by all the rulers of Babylon. His position shows the trust which was placed in him, and also the character of the king in placing over his kingdom a just and honorable man, whom he could fully trust. We see here something of Darius’ system of government. What a compliment was thus paid to this noble, consecrated Jew, and how the recognition of his ability marks the breadth of mind of some of the rulers of the past! Their desire to have such a man in such high repute and authority seems to show their good intentions in respect to governing the world. This may be true of many noble-minded modern monarchs—that they give their subjects the best government of which they are capable, according to their own imperfect judgments. What specially will mark Messiah’s kingdom will be that it will have perfect ideals as to human government, and it will be backed by divine power. (Z. 11-347; R.4874) Such a man as Daniel was sure to be in the way of grafters, hindering their schemes. Eastern governments are full of graft.

6:5 — WE SHALL NOT FIND ANY OCCASION AGAINST THIS DANIEL, EXCEPT . . . CONCERNING THE LAW OF HIS GOD —

This should be a lesson to us, that we should so live that none could find fault with us, except it be concerning the law of our God.

6:10 — TOWARD JERUSALEM — This showed his faith in the promised restoration of Jerusalem. This was a custom of the Jews. (Dan. 9:2; 1 Kings 8:38, 39, 42, 44, 48; Psa. 5:7; Jonah 2:4) As the sharpening of scythes in harvest time is not thought a waste of time, so the time spent in prayer is not lost as respects the affairs of life. Unquestionably the best men and women in the world are those who pray, and pray regularly, and bow the knee, as did Daniel. (Z. '11-348; R.4875; Z. '99-184; R.2502)

The moments thus taken from earth's affairs are well spent and bring more than commensurate blessings. It is impossible to live a consecrated life without prayer. What would Daniel have been without his praying time? How would his faith in God have persisted in that heathen land? How could his loyalty to principle have maintained itself in the midst of corruption had it not been for his communion with his maker? To the Christian this blessing is increased many fold for we have an Advocate with the Father. (Z. '11-348; R.4875)

HE KNEELED UPON HIS KNEES THREE TIMES A DAY — Daniel would not adopt a less humble posture in his communion with the Father than he did in addressing an earthly monarch. We do not perhaps fully appreciate as we should the high privilege we have in communion with the Father, in being allowed to have it.

AND GAVE THANKS BEFORE HIS GOD, AS HE DID AFORETIME — These words imply that Daniel, instead of being terrified by his impending fate, did not even alter his usual mode of prayer, but had such perfect trust in God's care over him, that his prayer consisted in giving thanks.

6:14 — HE LABORED TILL THE GOING DOWN OF THE SUN TO DELIVER HIM — The king was very sorry, for he loved Daniel, and he was losing the only man in his kingdom, probably, on whom he could absolutely rely and trust. Darius would have liked to have found some way of evading the law, and very likely sent for the wise men of Babylon, just as people now get a lawyer, and try to find some loophole whereby they can evade the law. The wise men in this case however were probably in league with Daniel's enemies and so little could be expected of them. The king was probably angry at having been trapped so.

6:15 — THESE MEN ASSEMBLED UNTO THE KING — They evidently desired not mercy by vengeance, blood, to satisfy their spite and hatred and envy.

6:16 — THY GOD WHOM THOU SERVEST CONTINUALLY, HE WILL DELIVER THEE — What a beautiful testimony to Daniel's uprightness! The king evidently by this time despaired of saving Daniel from the consequences of the king's rash command. These last words may have been given to cheer Daniel, but the king evidently believed them somewhat, or he would not have gone to the den in the morning and called to Daniel to see if he was alive.

6:17 — A STONE WAS BROUGHT — This double seal would guard against fraud on either side, and both sides would have to be present at the unsealing.

6:22 — MY GOD HATH SENT HIS ANGEL — Perhaps the Lord's power acting upon the lions. But possibly a real angel was sent to do it, as in Dan. 10:13.

INNOCENCY WAS FOUND IN ME — Daniel's delivery a proof of God's faithful care over those who serve him. Daniel was here used of the Lord to further his plans. Daniel's hope was not of this life, but it was of the earth, he had no spiritual promises. Ours is a heavenly hope and hence we should not expect an earthly deliverance, but rather to suffer with him that we may be glorified together. No heavenly promises were seen in Daniel's day. (Heb. 2:3; 2 Tim. 1:10)

6:24 — AND THEY CAST THEM INTO THE DEN...THEIR CHILDREN, AND THEIR WIVES — This shows the ferocity of men in those days, and the high esteem in which human life was held. The king was probably terribly angry, at the trick played upon him. Kings held absolute power over the lives of their subjects, and it seems to have been a frequent occurrence that whole families were exterminated for the fault of one member. (See Esther 7:10; 8:7; 9:10, 13-15) The qualities of mercy and gentleness seem to have been nearly unknown amongst the Gentiles, on the part of the powerful, until Jesus came preaching his message of love. (Also see Z. '11-348; R.4875)

6:27 — WHO HATH DELIVERED DANIEL — The decree shows the king's appreciation of Jehovah's power, and also his repentance. The decree may have been given to avoid a like occurrence again. Darius' decree reminds us of Nebuchadnezzar and his words after being restored to his senses.

6:28 — REIGN OF DARIUS, AND IN THE REIGN OF CYRUS THE PERSIAN — Darius and Cyrus may have reigned together for years and then Cyrus became sole ruler at Darius' death. Daniel most positively declares that Darius the Median took the kingdom from Belshazzar (Ch. 5:31). Cyrus appears to have been the chief in some respects, yet that Darius was the representative of authority for some time. Darius was probably under Cyrus. (Z. '11-348; R.4875)

7 — Events in this chapter are previous to those of the last two chapters.

7:2 — FOUR WINDS — Four winds may be the same as in Rev. 7. Financial, civil, social, and religious influences acting upon the sea (turbulent humanity, not, perhaps, under religious restraint) which produced here the four great universal empires in turn because working under different conditions than in Rev. 7.

7:3 — FOUR GREAT BEASTS — Earth's four great universal empires, all four different one from another. The four beasts are the four empires as God and his people see them (bestly-ignoble, ferocious, selfish) while Nebuchadnezzar's dream image represented the same governments as seen from man's viewpoint (gorgeous, beautiful).

7:4 — LIKE A LION — The lion is the king (head) of beasts, and the eagle is the king (head) of birds (spiritual power). So Babylon was the head of gold over all the other kingdoms or world powers which followed it. So the antitypical Babylon the great would set itself up as the spiritual ruler of the world under the Pope. In both type and anti-type Babylon claimed the rulership over temporal and spiritual affairs. It had the voice of kingly power, really the spirit of Satan.

AND HAD EAGLE'S WINGS — As the eagle is a bird of prey, the lion with eagle's wings may represent the character of the Babylonian Kingdom before it became universal. Then it seemed to get its wealth by incursions upon other nations, a destructive policy. Plucking of wings = change of character to that of Kingdom under Nebuchadnezzar—constructive.

IT WAS LIFTED UP . . . A MAN'S HEART WAS GIVEN TO IT — Lifted up and given heart of man = given universal dominion. (Dan. 2:37, 38; 4:20-22)

7:5 — BEAR — Medo-Persia!

RAISED UP ON ONE SIDE — One part of the two sides of the kingdom (the Persian) became greater and overshadowed the other. (Representing how that the Lord's Kingdom, though the earthly phase was prepared first, the heavenly phase will be the greater and more resplendent.)

THREE RIBS IN THE MOUTH — Mouth = speech (Jer. 1:9; vs. 20). The bear was figuratively uttering words regarding three ribs. Rib represent a woman (Gen. 2:22) As Cyrus and his dual kingdom represent Christ and his dual kingdom. So typically this Medo-Persian power was declaring concerning three women. In Palestine it was the custom for parents to select the bride for the son. So the heavenly Father has been selecting a bride for His Son.

The first to be favored with the proposal of the heavenly marriage was the Jewish nation, the old Jerusalem. But when Jesus came to his own they would not receive him. (John 1:11). They saw no comeliness or beauty such as they would desire and he was despised and rejected (Isa. 53:1-3). So they were cast off, and second God did visit the Gentiles to take out of them a people for His name. But although the called out company of the Gospel Age was originally espoused as a chaste virgin to one husband, Christ, yet as the serpent beguiled Eve through subtlety, so the Nominal Church was corrupted by the god of this world from the simplicity that is in Christ. (2 Cor. 11:2, 3). Tired of waiting for her Lord she apostatized from the faith and in 539 A.D. “married” another and thus became an “adulteress,” and the “Mother of Harlots” (Rev. 17). When Jesus returned in 1874 and the cry went forth—“Behold the Bridegroom go ye forth to meet Him” (Matt. 25:6), he was again despised and rejected. The third rib is the true Church composed of the faithful remnant of both the houses of Israel. This is the Church whom Christ loved and for whom he gave himself in sacrifice (Eph 5:25-27). Like her Lord she has been despised and rejected; but in spite of every trial she has remained chaste and faithful throughout her long period of waiting, and will now soon become the Holy City, the New Jerusalem (Rev. 21:2, 9; 19:7, 8). As the second Eve she will, in the regeneration, become the mother of all living (Gen. 3:20) (G.P.P. Vol. 2:154.) Word for rib here is Chaldee, same Heb. letters, but with different vowel points. (tsela = a side, as often rendered) In 2 Sam. 2:23; 3:27; 4:6; 20:10, original has simply “fifth” (chomesh), in Gen. 47:26.

7:7 — STAMPED THE RESIDUE WITH THE FEET OF IT — Rome often destroyed the warriors and power of a nation after appropriating its wealth, so that the nation would remain helpless under Rome’s power for a long time. (See Gaul, Carthage, Mesopotamia.)

7:8 — THREE OF THE FIRST HORNS PLUCKED UP BY THE ROOTS — Three of the powers uprooted before it = (1) Power seated at Ravenna fell A.D. 476; (2) Heruli, fell 489 A.D. (3) Ostrogoths, vanquished 539 A.D. by Belisarius for Justinian. (At this time Pope was acknowledged) the chief authority in city of Rome by Justinian in his edict or letter to Pope John (first Pope) in 534 A.D. (C76, 77)

EYES LIKE THE EYES OF MAN — Symbolic of intelligence and far sighted policy.

A MOUTH SPEAKING GREAT THINGS — Its power was to be that of its mouth (utterance) guided by its eyes (knowledge), rather than physical force.

7:9 — TILL THE THRONES WERE CAST DOWN — Leeser. “until chairs were set down.” May refer to the establishment of the Millennial Kingdom. (vs. 13) (Matt. 29:28)

AND THE ANCIENT OF DAYS — Jehovah. (vs. 13) Christ does the actual work, but nevertheless it is Jehovah’s plan and work. (John 5:22, 27)

9:24 — TO FINISH THE TRANSGRESSION — “Fill ye up the measure of your fathers.” (Matt. 23:30-36). Perhaps to bring an end to Israel’s trial and disobedience, bring it to a culmination as with the Amorites (Gen. 15:16); Israel in Zedekiah’s time (Ezek. 21:25-27; See Dan. 8:23.) The Lord cast them off.

AND TO MAKE AN END OF SINS — “He put away sin by the sacrifice of himself” (Heb. 9:26). “Sin” here seems to be same as in Hos. 4:8 = sin offering; for the same Heb. word is used. (See also 2 Cor. 5:21—Diag. and note; Rom. 6:6.) The same word is translated sin offering in Num. 7:76, 82 etc. where there is no Hebrew word for offering. (See Strong’s Conc. Offering and Sin) (B68)

AND TO MAKE RECONCILIATION FOR INIQUITY — By becoming the sin offering for all. “God was in Christ reconciling the world unto himself.” (2 Cor. 5:19)

AND TO BRING IN EVERLASTING RIGHTEOUSNESS — Make an everlasting Justification for sin instead of the yearly justification accomplished in the types. (B68) This would be the beginning of everlasting righteousness.

AND TO SEAL UP THE VISION AND PROPHECY — Set a seal upon as true. Guarantee its fulfillment. The fulfillment of this 70 weeks prophecy would serve to set a seal upon Daniel as a true prophet and upon all his prophecies, especially would it seal this (2300 days) vision. (C107, B68)

AND TO ANOINT THE MOST HOLY — The Most Holy of that nation were anointed at Pentecost and after; the faithful remnant, the purest and fittest. (B68) (Rom. 11:5; 9:27, 29; 11:7)

9:25 — SEVEN WEEKS AND THREESCORE AND TWO WEEKS — Why this division? The seven weeks were perhaps troublous times, followed by more favorable times. Seven weeks = 49 years, bringing us to 405 B.C.

The corresponding date in the Gospel Age is 1440 A.D. This is the time that printing was invented in Europe, a very important factor in the Reformation.

Arch-bishop Trench in "Medieval Church History" p. 423: "Then, while abuses were never rifer, while the lives of the clergy were never fuller of scandal, while the Papal Court was never more venal, nor could less endure the beating upon it of that fierce light which leaves nothing hid—the invention of printing (1440) multiplied a thousand fold every voice which was raised to proclaim an abuse or to denounce a corruption. And marching hand in hand with this wondrous invention was the revival of learning." (Z.'05-183; R.3577)

10:13 — PRINCE OF THE KINGDOM OF PERSIA — Roman Catholic Theologians hold that these were spirit beings, this view is given in the Douay Version. Just what Gabriel had accomplished with Cyrus we do not know, but notice the wording, of 2 Chron. 36:22. It was probably another of Gabriel's missions, the object being to work upon the more generous impulses of Cyrus in a manner that would cause him to issue the edict freeing the Jews. (In this connection, Bro. Russell says that as the prophecy of Daniel was brought to Alexander's attention by the Jewish Priests, so also Isaiah's prophecy (44:28; 45:1) was brought to Cyrus' notice and was what induced him to free the Jews). Gabriel had on this occasion been trying to accomplish something with Cyrus. The 21 days here are the same as the three full weeks of vs. 2.

10:20 — I RETURN TO FIGHT WITH THE PRINCE OF PERSIA — Probably may refer to the obtaining of Nehemiah's commission from Arterxerxes, 80 years later.

AND WHEN I AM GONE FORTH — Left him, having accomplished his mission.

12:4 — See Jer. 23:20; 30:24.

12:7 — THAT IT SHALL BE FOR A TIME, TIMES, AND AN HALF: AND WHEN HE SHALL ACCOMPLISH TO SCATTER THE POWER OF THE HOLY PEOPLE — Leeser: "That after a time, times and a half and when there shall be an end to the crushing of the power of the Holy People." A.R.V.: "It shall be for a time, times and a half; and when they have made an end of breaking in pieces the power of the holy people.” = When the powers that he will seemingly have crushed the power of the Truth. (Rev. 13:15-17)

12:9 — FOR THE WORDS ARE CLOSED UP AND SEALED TILL THE TIME OF THE END — No human being, not even Jesus, as he himself declared (Matt. 24:36), could know what this prophecy meant, until the due time. It was written as per chapter 10:1, and Jesus had access to this as well as to the other prophecies. The prophecy was opened up through the steward. This now is part of the sealing.)

HOSEA

The name means Deliverance, Salvation. Not uncommon among the Jews. Israel's last King was named Hoshea. It was also the original name of Joshua, which Moses changed (Num. 13:8). The prophet's name thus stood in marked contrast to his mission which was to announce ruin and destruction.

This period, Uzziah to Hezekiah and Jereboam son of Joash of Israel, was a very long active ministry; death of Uzziah to first year of Hezekiah was 32 years. Jereboam died 762 B.C. and Uzziah died 759 B.C., three years after, and the ministry may have lasted 60 years. (Lang)

Accordingly Hosea was contemporary with Isaiah, and Micah (Isa. 1 and Micah 1) and with Amos (1:1). These must have been closely connected in time and message and service. Hosea takes up the thread of prophecy where Amos left off and keeps spinning it out until the destruction of the Kingdom. There are parallel passages in Hosea and Amos—(Hosea 8:14 and Amos 2:5; 1:4-7, 10; 12; 2:6; Hosea 9:13 and Amos 7:17; Hosea 12:8 and Amos 8:5; Hosea 12:10 and Amos 2:10.) While Amos is probably aware of Assyria, by which God was to execute His judgments upon the Kingdom of Israel, he does not name or even allude to it. In Hosea it is named repeatedly and plainly and he must denounce any association of Israel and this world power. (Lang)

The time of Hosea's prophecy covered two periods of the ten tribe history first the time of Jereboam II who raised the kingdom to unprecedented position of eminence and power, although internal conditions of decay were abundantly present which the prophet was commissioned to reprove. The second was the period of decline and decay of the kingdom after the fall of the house of Jehu, and under succeeding kings, induced inwardly by a religious and moral ruin and not deferred but only hastened by a godless policy which sought support from foreign powers and delivered the nation into the hands of Assyria. (Lang) (See 2 Kings 14:23-29; 15:8-31; 17:1-6, 7-23)

The prophecy is mainly occupied with the ten tribe kingdom, though Judah is not kept out of sight, but is alluded to in chapters 5, 6. It gives a most severe testimony against the national apostasy from Jehovah and the deep and prevailing moral and civil corruption as the fruit of that apostasy and in immediate connection therewith an announcement of divine judgments which increase in severity until the utter destruction of the Kingdom is foretold. By the side of the severe threatenings are found words of promise most richly unfolded not merely as a hope of future conversion and thus of better days, but as a definite announcement that the time was coming when the people, purified by chastisement and returning in grief and repentance to their God, would again find acceptance with Him, and thereby their kingdom would be restored, not in its then abnormal and divided condition, but as one united nation, under a king of the line of David.

The prophet announces punishment because of Jehovah's love of His people. In this love of God (not merely in His righteousness) are rooted even the threatening and announcing of punishment. For it was because Jehovah's love embraced His people from the beginning that He could not suffer any apostasy from them, but must become angry at it, must chastise it, must even slay and destroy it, utterly in its corporate existence. All threatening and chastisement is really the indignation and zeal of love, born of sorrow and hence all the more intense. Love is indeed angry and most justly and deeply so, but it is and remains nothing but love, for it is pained that it must be angry and with all the wrath it can aim only to remove that which interrupts and prevents the display of love to the beloved objects and must ever aim to secure salvation, reconciliation and restoration else it would stand in its own way realizing its object, the happiness of all God's creatures, and would thus contribute most surely to its own failure.

So promise is as necessary as threatening and in proportion to the severity of the punishment must be the richness of the promise, as flowing from the love of God and not simply from a compassion coexisting with His punitive righteousness, or from His faithfulness by which the covenant is maintained as though His truthfulness alone were to be kept unimpeachable. So the prophetic exhibition of the love of God, wounded sorely and in many ways by Israel's guilt, and therefore necessarily a chastening love, though ever remaining unchanged in its inner nature and so deeply grounded would not destroy, but heal and recall to itself. (Lang)

To this prophet the love of Jehovah is the deepest ground of His relation to Israel. That love was always active in developing the faithful; it was injured and disturbed by Israel, it chastens now in deep pain but can never deny itself or be extinguished; it would still deliver and will at length save all the willing and obedient. All this is shown with the most glowing sympathy and in a great variety of ways. As the wife is united to her husband in indissoluble and sacred bonds, and in the faithful husband feels justly angry and punishes her or even casts her off for a time, but can never really cease to love her, so the love of Jehovah never departs from Israel, though He is angry and must punish them.

DIVISIONS OF THE BOOK:

Chapters 1-3 are introductory, the beginning of the divine revelation to Hosea and describes the spiritual adultery of the ten-tribe kingdom in its apostasy from Jehovah to idolatry.

The second main division is chapters 4-14. Chapter 4 is separated as a general charge of apostasy of the people from Jehovah.

Chapter 5 the denunciation is directed against those of exalted position and in addition to the general unfaithfulness to Jehovah something special enters—the false policy, an insult to Jehovah, of going after Egypt and Assyria.

Chapter 6 this disloyalty does not appear to be mentioned, but is again resumed in chapter 7, where the denunciation is directed chiefly against the Court itself, while 5 and 6 seem to be more against the priests. In all these chapters the threat of punishment is united with the accusations. But actual announcement of judgment appears first in chapter 8 and continues in 9 and 10.

Chapter 11 begins a new section and promise enters. Jehovah's love to Israel seemed to be swallowed up by judgment, but here comes forth again. At first only in the reminder of its action to Israel in childhood. This is naturally expressed in a sorrowful complaint against Israel who now in his manhood requites that love, so ill, showing in his apostasy the basest ingratitude. In 11:5, 6 the threat of punishment. But Jehovah again brings His love to remembrance; it is He that loves Israel, this love is His essential disposition and so cannot now belie itself. It oversteps wrath and appears as mercy and promise breaks forth on its shining way as sunlight after dark and long distressing clouds.

But the storm is not yet passed. In chapters 12 and 13 threats of punishment reappear. The present is contrasted with the past and the weighty words are twice uttered—"I am Jehovah, thy God from the land of Egypt" (12:9; 13:4). That people cannot be given up who have from the beginning Jehovah as their God. So on the ground of their expected conversion love at last flows forth in fullest promise, no longer a mere cessation of punishment (11:9) but positively holds out in promise a glorious state of blessedness.

This section may be divided into two main parts —

1. First discourse (chapters 4-11)

A. Chapters 4-7

1. Against the people as a nation, on account of their idolatry and deep depravity of morals promoted by the priests.

2. Chapters 5-7 against the rulers (priests, 5, 6) and the Court (7) especially on account of their evil alliance with the powers of the world.

B. Chapters 8-10: The judgment, extending events to carrying away of people bondage under Assyria.

C. Chapter 11. Mercy. God cannot destroy Israel whom he has always loved, but will again have compassion upon them, even though they have most vilely requited his love.

2. Second discourse (chapters 12-14)

A. Chapter 12. Complaint resumed.

B. Chapter 13. Judgment most emphatically given

C. Chapter 14. But, in hope of conversion, love finally flows forth in promise of rich blessing

Kiel divides each of the two main sections. (Chapters 1-3 and 4-14) are each divided into three smaller ones (1:2 to 2:1 and 2:2-23, 3; 4:1 to 6:3; 6:4-11:11; 11:12 to 14:9) each marked by a beginning of denunciation and an ending of promise.

The prophecy describes the sorrow and indignation of Jehovah's love, so sorely wounded by Israel's faithlessness, the language is peculiarly emotional and impassioned, reflecting plainly the rush and swell of the feelings. "This anguish of love at the faithlessness of Israel so completely fills the mind of the prophet that his rich and lively imagination seeks perpetually by variety of imagery and fresh turns of thought to open the eyes of the sinful nation to the abyss of destruction ahead of it. His deep sympathy gives to his language the character of excitement, so that he merely hints briefly at the thoughts instead of studiously elaborating them, passes with abrupt changes from one figure or simile to another and moves forward in short sentences and oracular utterances rather than in gently rounded discourse.” (Kiel)

“The style of the prophet is like a garland woven with various kinds of flowers, comparisons intertwined with comparisons. He breaks off one flower and throws it away, only to break off another immediately. He flies like a bee from one bed of flowers to another, bringing the honey of his varied sentences. His diction is marked by rare words and forms and unusual combinations and it may be conceived how difficult is the exposition of the book. The prophet is one of the most difficult of the prophets of the Old Covenant, and indeed of all the Biblical writers.” (Wunsche)

“His heart full of the deepest anguish on account of the destruction and the inevitably approaching dissolution of the State makes him neglect all artistic and harmonious treatment of his theme.” (Wunsche)

“In Hosea there is a rich and lively imagination, a pregnant fullness of language, and in spite of many strong figures, great tenderness of expression and warmth. His poetry is purely original, replete with vigor of thought and purity of presentation. Sudden changes occur.”

1:1 — IN THE DAYS OF JEROBOAM — Jeroboam was the last king of the ten tribes through whom God promised any aid to that kingdom. The succeeding ruler scarcely deserved the title of king, the others are not viewed as kings, but as robbers. (See 2 Kings 14:27.)

1:2 — THE BEGINNING OF THE WORD — When Jehovah began to speak unto Hosea. First message is a command to marry a certain woman.

INTO HOSEA — A closer personal relation, an energy of speaking.

WHOREDOMS — Note plural, as meaning many acts, repetitions. Children born of the mother as a result of her unchastity, illegitimate, and having her disposition and spirit. Israel, united to Jehovah by the Law Covenant had repeatedly behaved that way.

GREAT WHOREDOM — Emphasizing the intensity, the awfulness of her idolatrous behavior. Holding a mirror before them to awaken their conscience.

FROM THE LORD — In opposition to Him. This marriage and the children were symbols of Jehovah’s covenant with Israel, already existing.

1:3 — GOMER — Elsewhere the name of a people means completion that is completion in whoredom. Some interpreters take it as fire-glow—consumed with passion.

DIBLAIM — (Dual from masculine of debelah) (two cakes of pressed figs) “daughter of fig cakes” hence lover of delicacies offered to idols.

1:4 — JEZREEL — God will disperse, thus indicating punishment for the crimes committed there in the valley of Jezreel. Jehu had by one fearful massacre exterminated the whole house of Ahab (2 Kings 8:30; 10:17) at the express command of God (10:30) through Elisha, yet it is to be avenged as a murder. He used the command of God as a cover for his own selfish ambitions. God designed that Israel be cleansed from idolatry, by destroying the house of Ahab and elevating a new dynasty. Jehu ceased from worship of Baal, but continued worship of calves. Fulfilled command indeed, but went only half way. Having gained the throne which God had promised him, he struck out for himself in a false policy, rendering the intention of the command null and void, and so entailed a burden of guilt. After the death of Jehu a state of wild anarchy followed, in which only one king had his son succeed him on the throne, all the rest were overthrown and killed by conspirators. So the fall of the house of Jehu was the beginning of the end.

1:5 — THAT DAY — 721 B.C. was when the destruction of the ten tribe kingdom occurred.

BOW OF ISRAEL — Military might.

1:6 — LO-RUHAMA — Not having obtained mercy. That the second child is a daughter emphasizes the statement because compassion is associated with woman-kind. (Isa. 49:15). The negative name indicates the exhaustion of divine mercy.

1:7 — A keen reproach for the ten tribe kingdom. If like Judah they also would find compassion. Judah acknowledges Jehovah (through reigns of Hezekiah and Josiah; 2 Chron. 32, note vs. 31 and 34:35). Yet the deliverance was not to be by military power. When Jehovah delivers He needs no weapons, nor horses nor riders nor can these give any help without Him.

1:8, 9 — Weaning and conception are to be taken together; as soon as she had weaned the daughter she conceived again, showing continuity of evil practices in spite of all God’s warnings—no interruption of evil till the end of complete rejection!

LO-AMMI — Not many people; a complete rejection, as utterly distasteful. (Isa. 65:1-7). Covenant relation between Jehovah and ten tribes utterly broken. Persistency in evil and disobedience makes further patience useless. (1 John 5:16; Jer. 7:8-28; esp. vss. 12, 16, 25, 26 against Judah.)

1:10, 11 — The Lord through the prophet spans over the years of rejection, till the second Advent of Christ, when Judah and Israel will be united and return fully to the Lord. (Jer. 3:14-19; Isa. 11:13) Yet only a remnant at first, one of a city and two of a tribe or family. (Amos 9:8-10; Jer. 31:8, 9; 50:4, 5)

NUMBER AS SANDS OF SEA — In the resurrection, in the Kingdom of Christ. This reference to the promise in Gen. 22:17 and 32:12 is designed to show that while the rejection must be as a nation because of wickedness, yet God's promises are not in vain, nor can they be voided by man's neglect, but a remnant will be used to convert the rest of them, for they are like sheep who need a shepherd. (Rom. 11:2-5, 26, 27; Jer. 3:6)

SONS OF THE LIVING GOD — A full return in heart and spirit. (Jer. 31:31-33) Emphatic, better than before. (Rom. 8:19-21)

ONE HEAD — Accept Jesus as their Messiah. (Zeph.12:10)

COME UP OUT OF THE LAND — The land of the enemy. (Hosea 3:5; Ezek. 34:11-16; 37:24; also Deut. 28:68; 8:13; 9:3; Ex. 1:10)

GREAT . . . JEZREEL — The complete deliverance in Battle of Armageddon. Ezek. 38; 39; Zech. 14; 12:8, 9. See R.2490

2: — This chapter is an essential supplement to Chapter 1. An exposition justifying and explaining theme of chapter 1. Two sections—a) complaint against the unchaste wife, vss. 4-15; b) vss. 16 to end introduces declaration of deliverance through a conversion and repentance and from vs. 20 on becomes a glorious promise.

2:1 — Note the names as indicating original relation, also the use of plural—brethren, sisters.

AMMI — My people.

RUHAMA — Having obtained mercy.

2:2 — PLEAD — The demand is made by Jehovah. Those addressed are the children of Israel, the adulterous wife. Israel is viewed as a unit, the nation (ten tribes) is the mother. The children are now to plead with their mother, as those who have suffered grievous misfortune (as we are asked to write to our congressmen about needed changes) due to her evil behavior. Distinction between mother and children is to make the nation realize the suffering brought upon the people by the national course of idolatry and immorality, in hope to persuade to abandon their lewdness and repent.

So now many wise observers, by articles in magazines and papers, plead with the authorities the course of folly in war waste, in selling the public out to pressure groups—labor unions, medical fraternity, godless and foolish conduct of education, etc.

NOT MY WIFE — She behaves as one who could not be my wife and I cannot regard myself any longer as her husband. God cannot acknowledge them as His people.

PUT WHOREDOMS OUT OF HER SIGHT — Out of her heart, no longer to love evil thoughts and ways. The national behavior was brazenly open and public, defying decency and truth.

BETWEEN HER BREASTS — Out of her heart, no longer to love evil thoughts and ways. The national behavior was brazenly open and public, defying decency and truth.

2:3 — STRIP HER NAKED — Strip her bare in a way she would not like and of which she would be ashamed—meaning—lest I take from her everything I have given her and reduce her to the condition in which she was before I delivered her. The nation was born when it was brought out of Egypt where she had been a slave without a country. Reduce her to a condition where the necessities of life are wanting (wilderness) so she dies of hunger and as in a parched land where there is no water. Reduce her from a condition of great abundance to one of utter destruction, destitution (as in Joel 2). A prophecy of the dispersion among all nations.

Actually done as shown by the monuments of Egypt and Assyria. Expose the nation to the scorn of the Gentiles.

WILDERNESS — No fruit, no food, contrasted with a land flowing with milk and honey.

2:4 — Will refrain from protecting them, let the enemy have complete control.

CHILDREN — Individual Israelites, as happened when Assyria took them captive (721 B.C.). Brought up in the practice of idolatry and licentiousness, no self-control or restraint.

2:5 — The national mind so alienated from God that she imagined she got her wealth and delicacies by dealing with her Gentile neighbors. Practiced idolatry till she was as blind and deluded as they, who attributed their success to their gods. (Hab. 1:11)

2:6 — Place difficulties in her way and obstacles, so she can not escape the punishment. Withdraw His protection so her paramours would find no profit in her and would despoil her.

MAKE A WALL — Such an obstacle as would stop her plans, like slavery.

2:7, 9 — Not repentance, but necessity. First the destruction by Assyria, then the desolation by Babylon and later the long experience of the Gospel Age, when God's favor was completely taken away.

2:8 — Blind and base ingratitude, used God's blessings in evil debauchery and abandonment to evil.

2:9 — God's blessings misused would be withdrawn and reveal all her disagreeable qualities and weaknesses.

2:10 — LEWDNESS — Folly, villainy (margin). No escape, none to pity or deliver. All nations would hate the Jews, despise them.

2:11 — Feast days could not be kept while they were in foreign lands. (2 Chron. 36:21)

2:12, 13 — The Jewish double 1845 years (A.D. 33-1878) An end to all her joy. This privation in her distress would prove the impotence of the idols, and their misery would awaken a longing for the favor of Jehovah. A long, long period of suffering. (chap. 3, 4, 5)

Marriage is here as a union, inward, indissoluble, sacred, involving indefeasible rights and obligations. It has two elements: love and fidelity. Jehovah's love of Israel is as strong as the marriage tie. As the husband chooses the wife from love and oft takes a poor maiden and raises her to his own eminence.

2:14 — THEREFORE — Because Jehovah's love and promises (Rom. 11:29; Num. 23:19) are without repentance.

WILDERNESS — Palestine made a wilderness by the wars of the nations and neglect. (See Ezek. 20:35). Palestine is yet looked upon as a holy land by Moslems and Christians, most nations.

SPEAK COMFORTABLY — As in Isa. 40:1, 2. Fishers. Set attractions and inducements. Zionist movement, Disraeli and the Congress of Vienna. That her double is ended (1878) appointed time of punishment is over.

2:15 — VINEYARDS THENCE — From 1878, end of the Jewish double, begin to restore hope and vision and revisit the land. (Ezek. 36:21-28) A transformation of mourning into joy. The vineyards she once possessed but lost by disobedience.

VALLEY OF ACHOR — Door of Hope. (See Josh. 7:26; Isa. 65:10.) Jacob's trouble. (Jer. 30:7) Break down all her self-confidence, and trust in help from her neighbors and turn them by prayer to God. (Zech. 12:9-14) Every avenue of help cut off, only God can save them and will. (Zech. 14:1-3, 12, 13; Micah 5:5, 6; Joel 3:1-3)

SING — R.S.V.—Answer. Shout aloud. Will be humbled and enter the door of hope. Answer the Lord's invitation, as they did at Sinai, return to faithfulness to her Lord Jehovah through Christ.

2:16 — ISHI — Husband, my husband. The New Covenant as the old covenant was broken. (Jer. 31:31-33) No more Baali (my Lord) as that was the name of their idols.

2:17 — Put out of mind and out of speech (as Ex. 23:13), not even mention them. No more use the same term or word for the Lord. No more eternal torment god (Isa. 28), but a God of mercy and deliverance. Isa. 25:9. See R.S.V.

2:18 — Even the animals will benefit and come under the spirit of love, the whole earth. (Isa. 11:6-9; 65:25) The Kingdom of earth will be restored. Peace like a river deep and wide. (Isa. 32:15-17) Note the three classes of creatures same as in (Gen. 1:26; 9:2). Beasts of field (Behemoth) are those which live in freedom in the fields, as distinguished from tame or domestic animals. Fowls—including birds of prey. Creeping (Remes) not merely reptiles, but smaller animals of the earth, which move about.

BOW AND SWORD — Wars and violence made to cease. (Psa. 46:9; Isa. 33:21; Isa. 2:1-4; Micah 4:1-5)

SAFETY — Because divine power will be in operation, guarding all the obedient.

2:19 — BETROTH . . . FOREVER — Repeated three times.

MARRY — (Isa. 62:4, 5) Make the New Covenant. Note the five ways, great contrast with Israel's behavior and so a reproof and rebuke.

RIGHTEOUSNESS — In contrast to Israel's evil deeds, injustice, and oppression. (Amos 8:4, 5, 6) God's ways are right. (Isa. 2:1-5; Micah 4:1-5; Isa. 28:9) The foundations of the new society. (Isa. 28:19)

JUDGMENT — Restore balance of mind by the truth, so to be able to judge properly, discern between truth and error.

LOVINGKINDNESS — Love and Power be able to freely operate, because the claims of justice against mankind will be offset by sprinkling of the merit of Jesus. (Joel 2:28, spirit poured upon all flesh.) (Isa. 32:15) Love expressed in every way.

MERCIES — Poured out upon all the willing and obedient (Luke 1:78) to the poor and unfortunate, even to animals.

FAITHFULNESS — Contrasting with Israel's unfaithfulness. God will fulfill all His promises, and they will even learn to be faithful. (Psa. 119:90; 36:5; 89:1-8, 24, 22. Lam. 3:22, 23)

KNOW THE LORD — Understand God's true character. (Prov. 2:5, 9) Not a mere recognition of God, but a personal living relationship, fellowship.

2:21 — HEAR — (R.S.V.) Answer. Answer their hopes, expectation and prayers.

HEAVENS. . . EARTH — New heavens and new earth. (Isa. 65:17-25; Joel 2:21-27; 3:18-21) Earth yield her increase. (Psa. 67:6) Removal of the curse. (Gen. 3:17-19. Rev. 22:3; Isa. 55:13)

JEZREEL — To disperse, scatter, sow. The same name which symbolized the judgment and punishment of Israel (chap. 1:4) is here used in its other derived meaning—sow. The new sowing will bring full fruitage. Psa. 72:16

I WILL SOW. . . IN EARTH — Fulfill the promises of earthly blessings under the New Covenant. Use Israel to bless other nations. (Zech. 8:13; Isa. 27:6; Micah 5:7; Psa. 72:16) Full restoration for Israel and all mankind. (Jer. 3:17-19)

3: — Here we have not so much the judgment Israel has to suffer, rejection, but the symbolic declaration that God loves Israel, must chasten her, but does so because of love, only because He will not utterly cast them off. The emphasis is on the command to love. "Go once more" refers back to chapter 2. The Hebrew word expresses repetition.

The prophet is to represent the feeling of God, His display of love is from a loving mind—to love a woman not in the least worthy of it. In chapter 1, he is to marry a whorish woman and beget symbolic children by her. As there the children's names were changed to their opposites, so here a new feature is brought in—turn in heart and spirit. (Jer. 31:31-33) @THIRD PAR = Emphatic, better than before. (Rom. 8:19-21) God's suffering love.

According to the love of the Lord for Israel, even though they do worship idols and love raisin cakes or flagons of wine—the drunken debauchery of idol worship. “They forget their God for the sake of dainties.”

3:2 — BOUGHT HER — From slavery. All her beauty now gone, all her attractiveness worn away. All she was worth now was what work she could do! What a come-down! But the natural result of evil pleasures.

FIFTEEN SHEKELS OF SILVER — Thirty shekels was the price of a slave, so he bought her at half price and an homer (10 ephahs) plus 1/2 homer (5 ephahs) = 15 ephahs. (Ezek. 45:9-14)

BARLEY — Same as jealousy offering (Num. 5:15), while the ordinary offering was of fine wheat flour. The feeding of the 5,000 was with barley loaves. (John 6:9, 10) Ratio of values was 3-1 (Rev. 6:6). Barley harvest was right after passover. Wheat was always valued more. So 1-1/2 homers of barley = day's ration for a slave.

3:3 — Referring to the Jewish double in Gospel Age of disfavor for Israel.

ABIDE FOR ME — As being mine.

MANY DAYS — 1845 years and 738 B.C. = 2584 years. Note they will not be able to practice idolatry, nor have any favor from God. Deprived of king, prince and sacrifice. (Deut. 28:15-68; Lev. 26:14-39) Also no image (idol) or ephod, or teraphim (household gods) as heathen have. Neither the worship of Jehovah nor idolatry. The scorn and detesting of all nations.

AFTERWARD — At the end of the age. (vs. 5) In the latter days.

4: — This chapter may be divided into four sections: vss. 1-5; 6-11; 12-14; 15-19. vss. 1-5 contain the sense or gist of the whole. Jehovah appears against Israel (ten tribes) as a judge who makes the accusation and pronounces the sentence and punishment.

4:1 — CONTROVERSY — Contest, legal action.

TRUTH — Faithfulness, true to one's word.

MERCY — Affection, kindness, love toward the feeble and distressed, no pity.

KNOWLEDGE OF GOD — Their actions show they do not know the living God, nor fellowship with Him. Having cast aside restraint, self-control, crime of every sort is on the increase; so now in Christendom.

(1 Tim. 4:1-5; 2 Tim. 3:1-5) They do not care to serve Him. (Luke 19:14)
These show the lack of God's guiding principles.

4:2 — Shows the active result of such lack. The sins are not described by nouns but by active verbs. Five sins contrast the five of the ten commands. Fearfully prevalent.

BREAK OUT — Without restraint, uncontrolled greed, lust and lawlessness.

BLOOD TOUCHETH BLOOD — Murder so common no space left between deeds. Breakdown of respect for law and order. (Micah 2; 2 Kings 15) So it is increasingly in Christendom.

4:3 — LAND MOURN — The breakdown of all restraint brings the withdrawal of God's blessings. The whole earth suffers when mankind departs from God's laws. Fruits, vegetables, grains are withheld (Psa. 82:5; Hosea 2:8, 9) and animals suffer.

FISHES OF SEA — Salmon scarce, seals, whales; also by atomic bombs. Also people of better class who seek truth and God become truth people or go into infidelity, socialists, communists. No more response to Gospel message, night coming on. (John 9:9; Isa. 21:12)

4:4 — Let none quarrel with another. The hardened hearts of the people will listen to no rebuke. There would indeed be much to rebuke, but it would be to no purpose. Let none blame another, for all were equally guilty, priests, kings and princes, people. (Deut. 17:2-12) Like those who would not allow themselves to be directed aright by those in authority. (Jer. 44:15-28) So deeply steeped in evil that they cannot see the right.

4:5 — IN THE DAY — In the time of testing at the end of the age. (John 4:35)

PROPHET — False prophet, as in 1 Kings 22:6, 7 who prophesied as a source of gain.

NIGHT — Dark night of trouble, when the towers fall; (Ezek. 32:1-10; Isa. 30:25).

MOTHER — The Law Covenant, or perhaps the nation as a whole unit. (chap. 2:1-5)

4:6 — From want of knowledge. (Isa. 1:3) All Israel were called to be a nation of Priests. (Ex. 19:6) This privilege was to be taken from them. (Matt. 21:43; Rom. 11:7)

FORGOTTEN LAW OF GOD — A terrible condition, forgotten the rules and paths of life. The Priests have taken away the key of knowledge (Luke 11:52) by false doctrines and creeds instead of Bible. Increased disrespect of law and order among children. (2 Tim. 3:1-5)

THY CHILDREN — Lack the blessing of the Lord.

4:7 — INCREASED — Not merely in numbers but in prosperity, wealth and influence. They ascribed their prosperity to their idols (Jer. 44:16-18), and so were confirmed in their idolatry. So Christendom, the American Way, Profit System.

CHANGE GLORY TO SHAME — Their greatness depart when God withdraws His blessings, and as a people they will be the derision and despising by all nations. (Deut. 28; Lev. 26) So the false preachers. (Zech. 13:2-4)

4:8 — EAT . . . SIN — (Sin-offerings). By Law the priests were given a portion of the peoples' sin offerings. Lev. 10:12-15, 17. But the greed of the priests made them take more than their share, and used it for their own personal gain. (As 1 Sam. 2:12-17; Lev. 6:19)

SET THEIR HEART — Affections. Lift up soul (margin). Priests wished the people to sin more, so to get a larger supply of food. Took the choicest portions. They grew fat by this abuse of privileges.

4:9 — LIKE PEOPLE, LIKE PRIESTS — All of the same rebellious spirit, determined on idolatry and its practices.

I WILL PUNISH — Done in love and because He loves them. God always gives a warning, and repeated, but justice is the foundation of His throne.

4:10 — The nature which God gave man is very sensitive, yet very strong, and its senses are dulled by over indulgence in any line. For its health is dependent upon sound judgment, self-control and restraint, upon wise exercise guided by God's laws. (Prov. 4:20-22)

Whoredom brings its own punishment. Disease and childless. (Lev. 20:19, 20)

LEFT OFF TO TAKE HEED — Ceased to be guided by His laws, abandoned to evil like Ahab (1 Kings 21:25). Ceased to listen to words of life and chose ways of death. (Prov. 8:35, 36)

4:11 — Over indulgence, blinds the mind (Prov. 11:19) and enfeebles all the powers.

4:12 — Inquire of idols made of wood, especially Teraphim, in order to get a divine revelation—in direct contrast to inquiring of God. (Isa. 8:19, 20; Lev. 17:1-7; 1 Cor. 10:20, 21) The reproach is made keener by the contrasted words—my people, their wood, which they made their god instead of Jehovah. The answer they get would be from demons, as did Saul. (1 Sam. 28:7-20)

THEIR STAFF INSTRUCTS THEM — This is called “Rhabdomancy.” Two staves placed upright were allowed to fall, while incantations were repeated and an oracular response was supposed to be given by the direction of its fall—forward or backward, or to the right or left (so described by Cyril of Alexandria). Compare use of divining rods, wishing rods.

CAUSED TO ERR — Idolatry with its consequences (whoredom and debauchery) is a seductive demoniacal power, which they could no longer resist.

FROM UNDER THEIR GOD — From obedience and subjection to Jehovah, submission.

4:13 — MOUNTAINS — And hills were favorite places to worship idols. (Deut. 12:2; Jer. 2:20; 3:6; Ezek. 6:13; Jer. 32:35; 18:5) So were green shady trees in pleasant places. Lewdness (Isa. 57:3-5). The prostitution of maidens and wives formed an essential part of the nature worship of Babylon and Canaan.

THEREFORE — Because of their wilful insistence in wrong doing the Lord abandons them to their own filth. (Rom. 1:28; Matt. 23:32-36)

4:14 — The young cannot be so much blamed as the older ones, husbands and Fathers, who are worse yet.

SEPARATED — In order to be alone with.

SACRIFICE WITH THE TEMPLE GIRLS — Appear at the altar with them in the worship of Astarteor Venus. To such an extent did they carry their impudence and shamelessness. Not understanding. (Prov. 6:32, 33; 21:16)

WILL NOT PUNISH — Abandoned by God, given up to evil and death. Those whom God loves He chastens. (Heb. 12:6-8; Hos. 9:12)

ABANDONED — For the time of chastening, but not utterly or forever. (Rom. 11:1-5; Jer. 50:4-7; 4:27; 5:18; 30:11; 46:28) That generation had abandoned themselves to evil-doing, vice and idolatry. (Isa. 1:3-9)

4:15 — A participation in Israel's idolatry would be induced by pilgrimages to the shrines of the ten tribes. Such places were:

GILGAL — Southwest from Shiloh (now Djidjilia) formerly a seat of a school of the prophets (2 Kings 2:1; 4:38), later a center of idolatrous worship. (Hosea 9:15; 12:12; Amos 4:4; 5:5)

BETH-HAVEN — And Bethel, south of Gilgal and near border of Judah, (now, Betin). The name the Lord gives to Bethel, because instead of continuing to be the house of God it became a house of iniquity. See note Hosea 10:8.

GOD IS THE LIVING ONE — Mingling Jehovah's name with heathen, demon worship

4:16 — Punishment of the ten tribes is pointed out as a warning to Judah not to follow in same path. Intractable, stubborn, as we say "stubborn as a mule." God gives them a free course (bitter irony), like a sheep in a wide plain, dispersed, alone, far and wide, without home or rest or comfort, exposed to wild beasts and storms, not as under a watchful shepherd..

4:17 — JOINED — In common Hebrew use, this word is used in the sense of being held under, as by a spell, fascinated in an evil sense. Held by the spell of demons in idolatry. Israel is drugged with its own pollutions, deluded by a false idea of God; at first by its own choice until now contentedly the nation is seen by the prophet so drugged and deluded by idolatry, linked up with it, held by it, satisfied with it—while all the time idolatry was working its ruin; like the hold opium has on its users. Joined to them so fast, so obsessed by demon worship that they cannot give it up. The Lord abandons them to serve idols till the end. Let Judah have nothing to do with the idolatry of ten tribes.

LET HIM ALONE — Not that God will let him alone, but let Judah have nothing to do with idolatrous ten tribes. God will discipline them, but not abandon them utterly.

4:18 — "A band of drunkards, they give themselves to harlotry, they love shame more than their glory." R.S.V. A drinking bout.

SOUR — Worthless, corrupt, spoiled. Abandon themselves, without restraint to the orgies of idolatry and vice.

RULERS — (Heb. shields) Her princes as the defenders of the people. (Leeser)—"Their drinking bout will end, while they so often are guilty of lewdness; their rulers love, prepare themselves but shame."

GIVE YE — Taxes.

4:19 — Leeser: “The wind seizeth fast on them with its wings.” In the midst of their debauchery destruction carries them away, like a tempest with irresistible force. When their eyes are opened by the loss of all, they will see the result of their folly and be ashamed. (Ezek. 36:31; 6:9; 16:63; Isa. 1:3-9)

5: — This chapter is directed more to the priests and the king and counsellors, but the message becomes general again (O, house of Israel). A direct accusation! Along with idolatry, the conduct of the court is specially reproved for seeking help from Egypt and Assyria (vss. 13, 14). The king may be Manahem. (1 Kings 15:17-20)

5:1 — The rulers, instead of leading the people to the Lord, both priests and kings and counsellors, were laying snares and traps to cause the people to sin more and more because it brought more wealth into the hands of the leaders. Exploiting the people (as in Jesus first advent Annas took profit from exchange and sacrifices).

JUDGMENT — The judgment is that announced in chapter 4:6-11

SNARE ON MISPAH — Probably a height in Gilead, in the tribe of Dan. Deceiving and misleading the people for the personal profit of the priest or leader. The charge indicates a planned exploitation of the people, as in Jesus day and Isa. 22:15-19. So the rulers are the most to blame.

NET ON TABOR — On West side of Jordan, would correspond with the height on the East side. Places suitable for bird catching, and so likened the deceptions of the priests and leaders to it. So now in Christendom priests and leaders exploit the people—cigarettes, liquor, advertising, even Easter and Christmas. So we know we also are approaching a reckoning time!

Israel in rebellion against God, and Judah in danger of same. History and prophecy reveal terrible decadence in both Israel and Judah, as in Isa. 1.

5:2 — Literally—“Have made slaughter deep”—sunk deep in murder! Hebrew word is one usually used for slaughter of beasts for sacrifice. Allusion suggests that the evil influences of priests and rulers in their idol worship, is like slaughtering them for sacrifice. (Ezek. 13)

5:3 — Nothing is hid from God (Prov. 15:3; Jer. 16:17; Prov. 5:21). Disobedience defiles the whole mind and body (Ezek. 23). So now people have perverted their minds so that they cannot receive the truth, and have persecuted its messengers.

IDOLATRY — Hebrew word means “something carved” (see Exodus 20:25, 26; Isa. 44:9-20), a carved representation of something else—an image to represent God. Idolatry is worship of false ideas of God. (Exod. 20:4, 5; Jer. 19:5; 32:35)

When the ten tribes revolted from Rehoboam because of taxation which was crushing the people. Jeroboam made two golden calves to represent God at Dan and at Bethel; for he feared the ten tribes would go up to Jerusalem to worship and he would lose his kingdom. “Jeroboam, who made Israel to sin.” (1 Kings 12:25-33; 14:16; 15:34). They were worshipping falsely represented—a religion seeking to worship God through any other representation of Him beside that given to men by revelation, even Jesus Christ.

If a man thinks of God and then says—I must grasp and understand God, and have something that represents God to me and proceeds to make that representation, he is attempting the impossible. Yet it is such an easy thing to do. Man says—“give me something that will keep God before my eyes,” and he can satisfy his demand only by projecting his own, or some other human personality into tangible shape. That is the history of all idolatries. Some lower forms have deified animals, always with bestial results in the lives of the devotees. When man says God is an infinite human being the result is an abortion, a monstrosity, a failure. Zeus, the god of force; Moloch, the god of brutal cruelty; Baal, the god of lust and impurity. Israel had rejected the true knowledge of God, with the result that they were filthy and polluted with sins, animal in their nature. (G. Campbell Morgan)

5:4 — THEY WILL NOT FRAME THEIR DOINGS — “Their deeds will not allow” them to return to God. Their practices stand in the way, for they are not isolated actions but are the expressions of their inner nature, held securely by the spirit of whoredom (4:12), as by a demoniacal power, which has stifled the knowledge of God. They are not free, but slaves. (Lang)

5:5 — PRIDE OF ISRAEL DOTH TESTIFY TO HIS FACE — Moffatt “Israel’s pride shall confront him;” Leeser: “Therefore the pride of Israel shall be humbled before his face.” Pride begets a stubborn opposition to correction, and is very offensive to God. (Isa. 65:1-7; Prov. 6:16-19; 8:13). Pride goeth before destruction. Presumptuous self reliance, wilful defiant disobedience, shall bring about the loss of all in which their pride centers; and in that destruction they will realize that their pride brought them there. Both Israel and Judah were blinded by it.

5:6 — The fruitlessness of Israel’s sacrifice without a mind answering to the offering, is here shown. Until repentance with their whole heart is acknowledged all their offerings will avail them nothing, and is hypocrisy. God was not wanted and so withdrew His presence. (Prov. 1:14-23)

5:7 — TREACHEROUSLY — Faithlessly, especially the infidelity of a wife to her husband.

STRANGE CHILDREN — (In making a covenant and then breaking it.) Instead of bearing children to God, in covenant with Him, they had by their illicit intercourse with idols begotten strange children, illegitimate, not belonging to God's household; children whom the Lord cannot acknowledge, are not of His spirit, but of the spirit of disobedience. They had stopped educating their children according to Deut. 6:4-9. The worldly people in the nominal church, now.

MONTH — Thirty years. (Leeser — like K.J.V.; Roth. and R.S.V.—new moon; Moffatt — “So shall a conqueror destroy them and their acres.”) from death of Menahem (749 B.C.) to destruction of Samaria (721 B.C.) about thirty years.

5:8 — ALARM — The judgement is seen in the spirit as already inflicted. The invasion announced by the horn (ram's horn) and the trumpet. (Num. 10:9).

GIBEAH. . . RAMAH — Both Gibea and Rama were in Benjamin, and being lofty in height were suitable for signaling alarms. (Hosea 8:1; Joel 2:1) Give the alarm from Bethel (Beth aven). “The enemy is close behind thee, O, Benjamin.” The destruction will involve all Israel.

RAISE A SHOUT, SOUND AN ALARM — To warn of the danger and destruction ahead. But they paid no heed, even as now in Christendom. Isaiah used this same warning. (Jer. 51; Joel 2:1)

BETH AVEN — So Israel had made the place which once Jacob named “the house of God.”

5:9 — DESOLATE — Have nothing of good to show, no fruitage.

DAY OF REBUKE — Day of judgment, typical of Christendom, now.

SURELY BE — The punishment must come to destroy the evil doers. So with Christendom. (2 Thess. 1:7-10; Isa. 26:21; Jude 14, 15).

5:10 — (Deut. 27:17) Underhandedly perverting or removing the truth, and so deceiving the people into false ideas and false worship. The princes were the leaders of the people and so were more responsible; misled them for personal profit. (Isa. 65:11-16; Ezek. 34)

LIKE WATER — Like a flood, irresistible, and also, cleanse, wash away the filth.

5:11 — OPPRESSED — Narrowed in mental view, twisted, perverted by false reasoning, blurred vision.

BROKEN IN JUDGMENT — Cannot discern the right way.

WILLINGLY — Walked after man's direction, doctrines of men (Matt. 15:9; Mark 7:9; Col. 2:18-23). Man's perverted ideas leading men to believe devil doctrines.

5:12 — MOTH — Quietly, secretly working destruction. Evil practices eat out the character like a moth; subtle, lacking in terror, but weakening the strength and decaying virility.

FIRST THE MOTH, THEN THE LION — The moth was to make the nation realize its weaknesses, and it produced that effect, but Israel went to Assyria for help. So the moth discipline was not enough. Then God said — I will take another, harsher method, but still to make the nation come back to Him. But this also failed.

ROTTENNESS — Rotten wood. (Isa. 59:1; 51:8; Psa. 39:11; Job 13:28)—a worm; dry rot.

5:13 — When Israel realized need of help forgot Jehovah and sought human aid Israel to Assyria, Judah to Egypt (Isa. 30:1-5; Jer. 17:5, 6). So has Christendom turned to worldly leaders. They cannot get healing, except from the Lord, no human aid can help. (Psa. 103:3; Jer. 3:20-25)

NOT CURE WOUND — Too deep, was of heart and mind.

KING JAREB — “King that should plead”

5:14 — So the Lion is applied, to tear and rend, and destroy, none can deliver.

LION — Assyria. God takes away His blessings and protecting care, and lets events take their course. (2 Cor. 7:1; Rom. 12:2; Hosea 6:1; 14:4; Psa. 103:12; Jer. 3:22). So on Christendom will come seven last plagues and result in complete destruction.

5:15 — RETURN TO MY PLACE — Seems to refer to events at first advent — at right hand of God, and Israel has been scattered and without God's favor. As in chap. 3, Jewish people will finally return to God, and as in 6:1-3.

AFFLICTION — Double, and finally Jacob's trouble (Jer. 30:7; Psa. 78:34; Ezek. 36)

UNTIL — This word reveals the heart of God, His longing for His loved ones to return. (Zech. 12)

6:1 — US — The Jewish people, at second advent. This will be their cry, when the comforting message of Isa. 40:1, 2 is given them, after 1878, the end of their double of punishment. Not yet fulfilled. (Psa. 102:16-22; Jer. 3:16-19; Zech. 8:13; Ezek. 36:25-38; as in Jer. 31:6-14). The final recovery of Israel.

TORN . . . SMITTEN — In Israel's double, during Gospel Age. (Rom. 11:25-32; Zech. 9:9-12; Jer. 16:18; Isa. 40:1, 2). The punishment foretold in Lev. 26 and Deut. 28 (these two refer more to the Gentile Times).

HEAL. . . BIND — Thoroughly cleanse away from them all their disobedience and rebellion. (Hosea 14:4)

6:2 — TWO (1000-YEAR) DAYS — The fifth from Adam when Jesus was crucified and Israel rejected their Messiah; plus the sixth 1000-year day, and now we are in morning of seventh 1000-year day, the third from the cross.

REVIVE US — Restore them as a nation, to health and service in the kingdom.

RAISE US UP — Restore them as leading nation. Resurrection and restitution.

LIVE — Restored gradually and attain eternal youth, perfection and life, with God's fellowship restored, and heaven and earth married. (Isa. 62:4, 5)

6:3 — THEN KNOW — Understand and know the ways of life, learn God's true character and become like Him.

AS THE MORNING — The Millennial morning.

GOINGS FORTH — All His activities planned from the foundation of the world. (Eph. 1:4)

RAIN — Restoration of the normal functions of earth's physical elements (James 5:7). As in Isa. 30:23-26. Psa. 72:6.

FORMER RAIN — Truth at first advent.

LATTER RAIN — Truth at second advent.

6:4 — Not the cry of a human soul seeking after God, but the cry of God seeking after the human soul! God had done for Israel and Judah all that could be done. (Isa. 5:4, 7; Psa. 180:8-16). In the past Israel had often repented and turned to God and He delivered them. But their repentance was short lived. Hosea was speaking in the northern kingdom (ten tribes), and Isaiah was saying the same thing in the southern kingdom, Judah.

MORNING CLOUD AND EARLY DEW — Both things of beauty and usefulness, blessings. The morning cloud is tinged with beauty exquisite by the rising sun, and the dew sparkles with all the colors of the rainbow, delicate and quiet. But the likeness to Israel is that they fade away so soon. Too feeble to produce a harvest both dissipated by the heat of the sun. Character that could not survive trouble or affliction. Not able to meet the events of the day.

GOODNESS — Hebrew word has the root meaning of bending the neck—submission. In their returning there has been no resoluteness, no abiding value. The return has been so often and has meant so little lasting value or repentance. They bend the neck sincerely, but it had no lasting effect. Such experience deadens the conscience.

How have we reacted to our Father's chastisements? Has our repentance been short lived? The revelation of the glory and beauty of God's righteousness and character—was its effect on us as permanent as it should have been? Mixed motives, the divided heart are destructive of good intentions. The Psalmist prayed—"Unite my heart to reverence thy name." (Psa. 86:5, 11-13)

6:5 — THEREFORE — Because Israel had so often slipped and forgotten Jehovah, and its repentance so short lived.

HEWED — By the Prophets—hew out, or cut off the rebellious section. The figure is hard stone or wood to which by hewing or chipping the right form is given. Stiff-necked Israel was subjected to such treatment for their good—the destruction of Korah, the leprosy of Miriam, during period of Judges, etc.

SLEW THEM BY WORDS — Many heavy chastisements through Word of Jehovah, sent by the prophets, to cleanse out the evil doers.

MY JUDGMENTS. . .AS LIGHT — The disciplinary corrections were to clear their minds, and enable them to see their wrong course and come back to the light — to God. Enlighten minds (Psa. 119:130)

6:6 — MERCY — Steadfast love. (R.S.V.) Love is the mainspring, all God's actions and His efforts are to bring us to realize love as the only successful motive to guide our lives, even as Jesus taught. All sacrifice not prompted by love is useless and unacceptable. (1 Cor. 13)

KNOWLEDGE OF GOD — This is the real salvation (John 17:3; Prov. 2:1-9) more than all literal burnt offerings, or outward appearance of piety. (Matt. 11:20-24; 12:7; 23:13-15, 33)

6:7 — LIKE ADAM — As Adam had by disobedience broken the covenant or agreement, so Israel had broken the covenant made at Mount Sinai.

TREACHEROUSLY — The nation had promised to obey (Exod. 19), but continuously they had carelessly and thoughtlessly wandered off into disobedience. How have we kept our covenant? (Job 31:33)

6:8 — GILEAD — (Hard, rocky region)—A district on the east of Jordan. All Gilead was, as it were, like a city of evil doers, as full of them as a city is of men. That was the section given to the half tribe of Manasseh. More properly the land east of Jordan, between the River Yarmuk (just south of the Sea of Galilee) to near the Dead Sea.

TRACKED WITH BLOOD — Hebrew—a foot mark full of bloody tracks, evidences of murder and crime.

6:9 — The most shameful crimes. The priests act like robbers, banded together like a crime syndicate. Like the lurking of robbers. Shechem was a city of refuge. (Josh. 20:7) The way to Shechem was mentioned as a place of murders and bloody crimes, because the road from Samaria, the capital, and from the northern part of the kingdom to Bethel, the principal seat of worship among the ten tribes, lay through this city. Pilgrims to the feasts generally used this road, and the priests, who had been taken from the dregs of the people, lay in wait to rob, or in case of resistance to murder, or hired the murderers. (Kiel) So in the Gospel Age, the priests misguided those seeking salvation, robbed them of the truth and made them believers in Devil doctrines, encouraged them in wars, hatred and murder. They changed the road signs to “Cities of Refuge.” Unchastity and incest.

VILLAINY — Thievery and evil practices, as denounced in Amos 8:4-10.

6:10 — HORRIBLE — In the sight of God, is a man behaving like a ravenous beast, given up to lust and greed and murder. Defiled. (Deut. 9:4, 5; 12:31; 18:9-14; Lev. 18:24-28)

6:11 — Judah also is guilty, and a harvest is prepared for her also. Typically they came upon them at Jesus’ first advent, but Israel was not restored then, so the reference is more to the second Advent, in Jacob’s trouble occurs (Jer. 30:7) and the harvest of the Gentile world occurs. “When God shall come to punish, that He may root out ungodliness, and restore them . His people, to their true destiny. Judah also will be visited with judgment.” (Kiel)

7:1 — WHENEVER GOD WOULD HEAL ISRAEL — Their corruption was made manifest by the way they treated His message and His messengers. The prophet mentions their terrible condition: lying, thieving, gangs of robbers as if organized robbery. The breakdown of law and order, as now in the world. This comes from having left God and His way and laws.

7:2 — In the midst of such conditions, feeling secure, not a single thought of divine knowledge and punishment!

BESET THEM — Their evil deeds have become so blatant, like mountains hedging them around. Evil habits have so blinded their minds, they do not realize they are slaves to them. (Job 24:15; Psa. 64:3-6; Gen. 16:13; Psa. 139:1-12; Heb. 4:12, 13)

7:3 — Their kings and courts also delight in evil. The corruption extends to the highest level. (Isa. 1:3-6)

7:4 — The whole people are such.

OVEN HEATED — Expresses the burning of lust. “To place the violent and incontinent character of their lust, the prophet likens it to a baker’s oven, raised to such a degree of heat that he requires only to omit feeding it during the fermentation of the bread” (Henderson) “When he has kneaded the dough,” he rests from kneading, which is the most fatiguing part of breadmaking and does something else which compared with kneading is resting, heats the stove and stirs it up till hot enough for baking. This while the fermentation is going on. Preparation for and enjoyment of evil lust is thus likened.

7:5 — Not only adulterers but drunkards, heated with wine as well as with lust. The rulers lead the way by their example. A banquet is meant, given by the king to his nobles.

OUR KING — Hosea acknowledges his citizenship. Wine, women and song. A drinking bout. The king constantly holds out his hand, encourages the evil-doers, goes hand in hand with them, keeps company with them.

SCORNERS — Men who ridicule what is sacred, a state of natural intoxication.

7:6 — The figure of the heated oven is again used, here likened to the heat of covetousness and anger burning in their hearts, craftily concealed, does not at first make itself manifest, but grows the more surely in secret, and at last breaks out in deeds of violence. The cordiality of the princes toward their king is only apparent, the results of cunning. It ends with an insurrection, with the murder of the king, who richly deserved it. There is no safety for any one in such conditions. Such evils were rampant in the late 1920's.

BAKER SLEEPETH ALL NIGHT — Instead of watching the fire, until in the morning the fire is a raging destructive conflagration beyond control.

BAKER — Those entrusted with welfare and safety of the people — the officials.

7:7 — This applies to the period following Jeroboam II, when in swift succession Zachariah was overthrown by Shallum and he by Menahem and Menahem's son by Pekahiah and he by Pekah. Between Zachariah and Pekah 11 years of anarchy prevailed, (2 Kings 15:8-38) complete estrangement from God in all, from king down to the people. No one reflected that he should return to the Lord. Rotten to the core!

7:8 — EPHRAIM MIXED HIMSELF AMONG THE PEOPLE — Through mingling with the nations around them, and abandoning selves to heathen practices, the ten tribes had become heathen. God had warned them repeatedly against that danger.

CAKE NOT TURNED — Burnt on one side and not baked at all, on the other, good for nothing, destroyed beyond use, fit only for rejection and destruction, which came in due time by Shalmanezzer, king of Assyria. (2 Kings 17:1-23)

7:9 — STRANGERS — Gentiles, those not consecrated to God, as the nation of Israel were. Association with these and paying for their help. (2 Kings 16:17, 18; 18:13-16)

Their idol worship robbed Israel of their blessing from God, and the very substance and foundation of character. "The dark and terribly sinister background of a degenerate and polluted people is stressed throughout Hosea. The desire of God is to heal and restore; but this desire is constantly frustrated by the pollution of the nation and its wilful ignoring of God. In difficulty politically with the surrounding nations, it was running to Assyria and Egypt for help. The nation's strength is ebbing away, being destroyed." (G. Campbell Morgan)

KNOWETH IT NOT...GRAY HAIRS — Signs of decay, repeated. Men, specially women would inevitably notice this, especially in the physical realm. Signs of decay, noticeable to others, are often not noted by ourselves, in spiritual realm specially. We go on and on, the victims of ebbing strength, spiritually and morally becoming degenerate without knowing it, blind to the signs very evident to others, unconscious decay. The skillful physician knows how often the cessation of suffering means that mortification has set in. In the moral realm that may be the meaning of such ignorance of gray hairs.

“Like Samson playing with the temptations of Delilah—“He wist not that the spirit of God had departed from him.” (Judges 16:20). A man who had known the power of the Holy Spirit resting upon him, working through him, was going to his ruin, and the spirit had left him and he knew it not. No condition is more perilous, more calamitous to a man or a nation. Moral degeneracy and spiritual failure are cursing them and all the while they are unconscious of it, going through the same daily actions, but without vital significance. Perhaps they still go to church every Sunday, or to class frequently, say their prayers every night, make their contribution to the work of God in the world with regularity, yet all the while suffering from spiritual degeneracy and moral pollution.” (Morgan)

They have lost the normal vision, the sense of divine standard and pattern, the ideals of God for us, not our own ideals. If a man is unconscious of failure he has lost the sense of true standards. Holiness is forevermore the condition of beauty and health. (The trouble with many—they think of themselves meanly, forgetting the majesty and dignity of their personality. The ideal of a man’s life is never accurate when the spiritual is either neglected or a contradicted quantity in his life. Man is at the highest when he communes with God. The ultimate vocation of human life is not gathering dollars or property or power. The ultimate meaning of human life is fulfilled when a man walks with God.

That faculty of the human mind that soars from the rock of reason, spreads its pinions and reaches the infinite and has fellowship with God, is the image of God in man. Faith which grasps the eternal in its thinking, and then compels conduct to conform to that vision.

Is there a remedy for this degradation? There is no correction more quick, sharp and powerful than determined consideration, study of the ideal of human nature as shown in Christ Jesus. Such study means the restoration of correct vision. (Heb. 3:1, 6, 14)

7:10 — PRIDE OF ISRAEL — The blind pride make him unable to see his fallen condition. “Humbled was the pride of Israel before his own face.” (Leeser and Young) “When the punishment of such pride is being suffered, then it will be felt what it means to reject Jehovah in presumptuous self reliance.” (Lang) The many punishments God had given Israel failed to bring him to his senses. Not withstanding all this they would not return to God, nor even seek him. (Leeser)

7:11 — As a consequence of their pride they are like a silly dove, not seeing the snare set for her is caught in it. (as vs. 12) They call to both Egypt and Assyria and are caught in the net of Assyria.

7:12 — It is the Lord who prepares this destruction for them as a fowl is caught in a net, according as He has prophesied through the Law and the prophets (as their congregation has heard).

7:13 — The clouds darken, woes multiply for them, fled from their only friend and protector, as did Adam and Rom. 1:28-32. Though he has often delivered them, they have spoken lies against God (even as have the clergy of the present time) by their actions and their false prophets.

7:14 — CRIED — Even their howling was not in repentance, but in vexation at the spoiling of their plans. (Isa. 65:13, 14; Prov. 1:24-32; Jer. 25:34). They try to drown their troubles in drunkenness and debauchery, but it only multiplies their troubles.

7:15 — Repeatedly God has instructed through the prophets and strengthened and delivered them, even as to Ahab. (1 Kings 20:13-30). Imagine mischief, devise evil in the treatment of His messengers. (Acts 7:51-53)

7:16 — They will not return upwards (to God). Blinded by disobedience they go anywhere but to their Creator (John 5:40).

DECEITFUL BOW — A bow on which the archer cannot depend, but will cause him to miss his aim. So God cannot depend upon Israel, they do not respond to His treatment.

PRINCES — Princes are emphasized because they seduced the people. Egypt would realize they could not be trusted.

RAGE — (R.S.V.—“for the insolence of their tongue.”) So Jews have been the scorn of all nations, because of their mad rebellion against the Lord, and their vacillating course of disobedience. (2 Chron. 28:22-24; 1 Kings 15:18)

CHAPTERS 8 - 10 — The Judgment.

8:1 — Note supplied words, better without them. Hebrew suggests two trumpet blasts to arouse the people, two Clarion cries —

THE TRUMPET TO THY MOUTH! — (Margin — to the roof of thy mouth).

AS AN EAGLE AGAINST THE HOUSE OF JEHOVAH — (Trumpet — Num. 10:3-5, 9, 19). This is an alarm, the enemy approaches. The prophet indicates five blasts upon trumpet (vss. 1-3).

- (a) Transgression (Heb. — abar (aw-bar) — prim. rt. = to cross over) of Covenant. Trespassed (Heb. — maal (maw-al) a prim. rt. = to cover up, used only fig. = to act covertly, i.e. treacherously) against my Law.
- (b) False kings and princes set up to rule without regard to will of God. (see notes chap. 7:7)
- (c) Idolatry — the calf of Samaria set up as a center of worship.
- (d) The folly of seeking safety by alliance with Assyria, a heathen power.
- (e) False altars and sin as a result of them.

8:2 — Yet, in the midst of their disobedience they cry:

WE KNOW THEE — Claiming His favor and protection. Like their taking the Ark of the Covenant into battle (1 Sam. 4) to compel God to help them.

8:3 — But as then (1 Sam. 4) they cannot deceive God. He let the enemy capture the Ark, and it was never again in the Most Holy of the Tabernacle! (See notes on Ark.) Twenty long years! Israel shall reap as they have sown.

CAST OFF GOOD — Rejected it as their standard! Threw it aside! Refused God's guidance! So Christendom is sinking into heathen practices, allowing heathen temples in their midst and heathen practices before their eyes! The inevitable punishment cannot be avoided.

8:5 — HE HATH REJECTED THY CALF, OH SAMARIA — The calf of Bethel is meant. It was at least worshipping God in the wrong way; a forbidden way (Commandment two) and God's wrath is certain to come upon them! How long will they be incapable of purity? There is a point of no return. (1 John 5:16)

HOW LONG ERE ATTAIN TO INNOCENCY? — Will they ever? Not if left to themselves! The Almighty will have to shake them terribly!

8:6 — FROM ISRAEL IT ALSO — That is, the calf. It originated from men, from Israel, through the idol maker. Hence it is no God and is doomed to destruction.

BROKEN IN PIECES — And melted for the gold by the conqueror, Assyria.

8:7 — SOWN THE WIND — Unlawful behavior, disregard of all laws of decency and right.

WHIRLWIND — Destruction, as irresistible as a cyclone. (Prov. 1)

NO STALK — No ears of grain borne on the stalk (barley or wheat), no fruitage. (Isa. 17:9-11). Even if should bear fruit strangers (Assyrians) will devour it. Israel's efforts in every direction are vain and fruitless.

8:8 — The prophet looks into the future, a prophecy of the double of punishment upon Israel. (Jer. 16:18; Zech. 9:12; Isa. 40:2) In fulfillment of Lev. 26:21, 24, 28-33; Deut. 28:15-68. This all has been literally fulfilled.

8:9 — By seeking help from Assyria, like the stubborn and intractable nature of the wild ass, in spite of all the warnings of the prophets. Also like the burning lust of the male wild ass, seeking any mate. So Israel gave presence to Assyria, disobedient and unnatural. (2 Kings 17:3; 16:7-9, 17, 18; 15:19, 20)

HIRED LOVERS — Used God's blessing to lure Gentiles to help her in her idol worship and evil doing.

8:10 — Though Israel has sought help among the nations by sending presents. Yet God "will gather them up." (R.S.V.—"And they shall cease for a little while from anointing kings and princes") or—from the burden of kings and princes." (As in chap. 3:4, 5.)

8:11 — Because of idolatry, Ephraim (ten tribe kingdom).

HIS ALTARS SHALL LEAD HIM INTO GREATER SIN — Evil conduct leads from bad to worse. (Luke 11:24-26). Israel should have only one altar, but as he prospered he built more. (Chap. 12:11; 10:1)

8:12 — So far had Israel departed from God they had lost the power to discriminate between good and evil. Truth and right were unfamiliar, strange! (See Deut. 4:6, 8; Psa. 119:18; 147:19, 20; Psa. 19:8)

8:13 — Leeser = My sacrificial offerings they slay as common flesh that they may eat it." That is, they eat not to glorify God, but to satisfy their bellies, as a feast. But God cannot accept it. Their cup of iniquity is full and demands punishment. Only severe discipline will affect them, so hardened is their heart. "Reprobate silver" (Jer. 6:30). The evil doers will be rejected as God's people, and in the resurrection will be treated as the rest of the world. Only a remnant will be found faithful.

RETURN TO EGYPT — Be treated as the rest of the world will be. (Deut. 17:16)

8:14 — MISLAY — Heb. shakeach—to mislay, be oblivious to a thing through neglect, or lack of memory. Israel was specially warned against this very danger. (Deut. 4:9; 6:10-18; 8:10-20; 9:1-5)

“Personal neglect, neglect within the family to train the child, self satisfaction that comes from such neglect, the self-righteousness and the pride which says: ‘we have made ourselves great;’ and finally that terrible mislaying of God, which comes with prosperity, so God is placed out of sight (misaid).

“The years had passed, and everything God through Moses had warned them against had come to pass; and now this prophet of tears and thunder, as he declared an imminent judgment, said—‘Here is your malady, causing your transgressions and trespasses, your false kings and princes, your calf in Samaria, your Alliance with Assyria, the altars you are building’—all these symptoms—the malady is that you have misaid God, till you have become oblivious of Him. That is the peril of a man, the peril of a nation—mislaying God!

“How do men mislay God? First they give merely an intellectual assent to the fact of His existence, without seeing to it that their conduct corresponds with their assent. That will blast a man as surely as heresy will. Unless there is action in life that corresponds with the accurate assent of the mind to truth. That is the story of this nation, and there results spiritual dullness. God, when intellectually accepted without response in obedience, fades away from immediate consciousness. He is relegated maybe to the temple and left there. Is relegated to the church on Sunday and left there till they return next Sunday. God help us if that is so, God is misaid, lost as an active power affecting life, conditioning it.

“What then happens? They build temples (R.V.) palaces (Heb.—spacious buildings). The passion of the nation came to be to build big things. The passion for bigness is a symptom of capacity for the eternal, for God. Some may say these prophets are out of date! But think again! When men have misaid God, they try to build big things and add ceremonies without God—big churches, big schools, big skyscrapers, big roads; unlimited ambition to reach the moon!

“What meant the fortified cities? The hunt for security! What mean the big bombers, big missiles, etc.—the attempt to secure safety! All want security? Security against what? The lack of God in the hearts and homes, and the results that come from it. Big buildings and engines of war. But security moves rapidly away! More unrest, more fear, more feeling of insecurity—growth of insurance policies, hospitalization, spending on war weapons to the devaluation of the dollar.” (Morgan)

FIRE — Destructive trouble that cannot be escaped. Their pride in their wonderful big buildings—churches, palaces—shall be humbled to the dust!

9:1 — REJOICE NOT — The context would indicate a natural rejoicing over a bountiful harvest. The Hebrew word intensifies it—rejoice exceedingly. “Israel, after the heathen fashion attributed the blessings of harvest to the heathen gods, and rejoiced in it as a gift of the gods, as did the heathen nations around them.” (Kiel) R. V.—“Rejoice not, Israel, unto exaltation like the heathen.”

9:2 — But because of their stubborn disobedience, God will remove their blessings of corn (grain) and wine and oil, they shall not feast upon or enjoy these blessings.

9:3 — This will be brought about, not by failure of the crops, but by captivity. Thus they will lose their harvest.

EPHRAIM RETURN TO EGYPT — A reference to Deut. 17:14-17 (Return no more that way). God would reject and abandon them as unusable trash, let them go back into the world, as they loved to act like the Gentiles. So now with the disobedient of the Church, they are abandoned to go back into the world, without God’s favor and protecting care. (Heb. 6:4-8; 10:26-31; 2 Peter 2:20-22; 1 Cor. 11:31, 32)

EAT UNCLEAN FOOD — Partly because the legal prohibitions about particular kinds of food could be observed only with great difficulty in foreign lands, like Assyria. The offerings of the first fruits must cease, and their other feasts, and so the food not be sanctified with and by the Lord’s blessing. In the Christian’s case it would be believing and publicly sponsoring devil doctrines.

9:4 — BREAD OF MOURNING — For the dead.

DEFILED — A dead body defiled the house for seven days. All who eat it defile themselves.

NOT COME INTO HOUSE OF JEHOVAH — Not be acknowledged by Him, nor have His blessing. It will be only a physical help to keep from starving. God’s house in Jerusalem even, would be destroyed.

9:5 — Festal days and years will no longer be possible, nor the three yearly journeys to Jerusalem. All be defiled. (Lam. 2:6, 7, 20-22; 4:1-16)

9:6 — GONE AWAY — The prophet sees them as already in exile in Assyria. Egypt is mentioned typically, but also because the remnant left in the land after Judah's destruction by Nebuchadnezzar fled into Egypt and died there. (Jer. 44:11-14)

MEMPHIS — A celebrated burial place, the ancient capital of lower Egypt, the ruins of which are yet to be seen now, on the west bank of the Nile, to the south of old Cairo.

NETTLES . . . THORNS — Indicate utter desolation. Their pride and treasures gone. (Like "Gone with the Wind.")

9:7 — ISRAEL SHALL KNOW IT — The punishment irrevocable. Israel shall realize it to the full. (Woe to them when I depart from them. (Verse 12.)

PROPHET A FOOL — May be taken as of the false prophets. But more likely the way disobedient Israel regarded the Lord's prophets sent to them.

FOR THE MULTITUDE OF THINE INIQUITY — Blinded their minds, so the warnings seemed to them to be the babblings of a fool, crazy.

Five things are mentioned in this chapter as calamities because of Israel's pollution: 1) death of joy; 2) actual exile; 3) loss of spiritual discernment; 4) falling birth rate; 5) actual casting out, abandoned by God.

SPIRITUAL MAN IS MAD — The phrase—"the man of the spirit" is never used of a false prophet. Because of the abundance of their iniquity and enmity against God, and God's hatred of their abominations they are blinded and regard the "man of the spirit" as mad. Hebrew word for fool used 25 times in the Old Testament (twice in Job, once in the 150 Psalms, twice in Isaiah, once in Hosea, 18 times in Proverbs). "Eviyl" = silly, daft, inane, not worth attention, beneath contempt, said to be raving. (Isa. 28; Shemaiah said it of Jeremiah 29:24-32).

This is a different Hebrew word from that used in Psa. 51:1. (Nabal—has a moral element.) Opposers said of Jesus "he has a devil" John 8:48, and of Paul, Acts 26:4, 5; that was the idea Israel had of Isaiah, and Hosea and Micah and Amos.

INIQUITY, HATRED — Hatred of God, then of His messengers.

Mark the process. They disobeyed God; next they forgot Him, failing to maintain vital relationship with Him; mislaid Him and put Him out of their calculations; misinterpreted Him in idols; then they hated Him because He interfered with their pleasures. See Ahab's statement about Micaiah in 2 Chron. 18:7.

9:8 — WATCHMAN OF EPHRAIM — “A searcher is Ephraim with my God.” (R.S.V.) “The prophet is the watchman of Ephraim, the people of my God. Yet a fowler’s snare is on all his ways, and hatred in the house of his god.” Satan is the fowler (Psa. 91:3), and as shown in our day by the Nazis and Communists, hatred is their spirit, hatred of God, of His ways, and of His people. They strive to replace the image of God in man by Satan’s image—hate.

9:9 — DEEPLY CORRUPTED — As in Gibeah. (Judges 19:22-28) This incident resulted in the almost complete extermination of the tribe of Benjamin. Iniquity so great and so persistent that God can no longer overlook it, but must punish it.

9:10 — LIKE GRAPES IN THE WILDERNESS — God chose Israel when a small people, as grapes in the wilderness. Small, dried and not rich and full. And like the first ripe figs—small, not luscious and full like the fully developed fruit. As in Ezek. 16:6-14. But Israel went to demons and devil worship. (Num. 25:1-5; Lev. 17:3-7; 1 Cor. 10:20, 21)

SEPARATED THEMSELVES — Consecrated themselves unto Baal (shame) and became detestable like the things they loved. We become like the things we love, because we think most often of it, give it our mental support and energy, and its influence gradually dominates our life and activities. How important then to us that we learn to love God and what God loves and in the way He loves, and study and meditate upon His thoughts (Psa. 92:5, 6; 40:5) and His truths (Rom. 12:12; 1 Peter 1:13-16; Col. 3:1, 2; 2 Cor. 3:18; Phil. 4:6-8.)

9:11 — THEIR GLORY — Ephraim’s glory. The prosperity and wealth they now delight in will disappear because the things on which they are based will be taken away — no birth, not pregnancy, no conception. (Psa. 127:3-5; Ezek. 23:36-39; 16:20, 21; Jer. 8:13) Desolation. Natural laws operate. (Lev. 20)

9:12 — God’s blessings and protection will be removed and calamities destroy them. Exposed to Satan’s hate and to the wild elements. Woe. (Deut. 31:17; 2 Kings 17:13-18)

9:13 — EPHRAIM, AS I SAW — R.S.V.: “Ephraim’s sons, as I have seen, are destined for the prey. Ephraim must lead forth his sons to slaughter.” Roth.: “Ephraim, just as I provided for Tyre, was planted in a meadow.” Others.—“As I looked upon Tyre”; “make it as glorious as Tyre.” Leeser.: “Ephraim, as I have seen him like Tyre, planted in a pleasant meadow.” Hebrew is admittedly difficult. As in Ezek. 26:28. Possible for a glorious future, but like Tyre, made evil use of its blessings.

MEADOW — Rich lands favorable for growth. But because of abuse of God's blessings he will "lead forth his children to the murderer."

9:14 — Seeing all God's blessings had been abused, the prophet asks for punishment as justice would demand, but rather than have the children killed, he asks that they be not born.

9:15 — GILGAL — Being one of the chief places of worship idolatrous, the wickedness of the nation may be said to be centered there. R.S.V.: "Every evil of theirs is in Gilgal, there I began to hate them." So Moffatt. (But Gilgal means circle. All their evil is a circle, returns upon itself, increases, endless.)

OUT OF MY HOUSE — Out of my congregation, as no longer my people.

LOVE THEM NO MORE — No longer give them blessings as tokens of love and gifts, but of detestation. Even their leaders are rebellious.

9:16 — DRIED UP — The prophet beholds the future punishment as already present. Their root should have been in God. No fruitage either of soil or of children. Slay their loved ones.

9:17 — WANDERERS — Among the nations. Cast off and rejected because they would not hearken to the Lord.

10:1 — EMPTY VINE — Luxuriant vine. (R.S.V.) Israel was prosperous at this time. (2 Kings 14:23-27) The prophet repeats the figure of Chapter 9:10, but differently, pointing out that in spite of all God's patience and blessing, Israel was bearing its own fruitage, not God's kind, but wild grapes, sour, after the Gentile standard. As its prosperity increased Israel used it to multiply its demon worship, images, groves. "The better they made their images." So now, in Christendom, they build richer churches, and costly altars. In the days of our Lord's first advent, the outer great gate of the Temple (built by Herod) had as decoration a golden vine. It was a symbol of the national life. This gives a greater force to Jesus' statement "I am the True Vine." (See John 15; Isa. 5; Jer. 2:21.)

FRUIT UNTO HIMSELF — Hosea uses sature here.

10:2 — HEART IS DIVIDED — (Smooth). Expression used elsewhere of the tongue, lips, words, = deceitful, false, not sincere. (See Psa. 86:11; Jer. 32:39.) We use the word "oily." Hebrew means to divide, hence not wholly the Lord's, but divided, part to self, or to another god. R.S.V.: "Now they must bear their guilt." So God will destroy their altars. See 1 Kings 13, and its fulfillment in 2 Kings 23:15, 16.

10:3 — They will see they no longer have a king, none appointed by God. See the last few kings the ten tribes had. 2 Kings 15, 16, 17) Having forsaken Jehovah, no king can help them.

10:4 — THEY HAVE SPOKEN WORDS — R.S.V.: “They speak mere words, with empty oaths they make covenants.” Words without sincerity, the covenants want truth, like those of Communists. They were made (with foreign nations) only for the sake of an expected advantage, not from real friendship.

JUDGMENT SPRINGETH UP — R.S.V.: So “judgment springs up like poisonous weeds in the furrows of the field.” If justice prevailed the land would be like a well appointed field, but now like one neglected, where poisonous plants (evil doctrines and practices) spring up (in the activities of daily life), because justice is prostrated. So now in Christendom tricky, traitorous lawyers frustrate justice by technicalities, so breakdown of respect for law and order, and crime is encouraged and increases (Heb. 12:15.) The laws falsely administered, abused, perverted, bring results like poisonous plants, poisoning society.

10:5 — BETHAVEN — House of iniquity, idolatry, vanity. The name here of Bethel (House of God.) See Hosea 4:15; 1 Kings 12:29. A type of how the House of God, the Church, would become a house of iniquity, through idolatry, false doctrines, disobedience—“a den of thieves.”

PEOPLE THEREOF — What an accusation. “The people of the calf-god.”

MOURN — The first part of the Hebrew usually means to rejoice, but here used with another word which means to writhe in anguish. The glory associated with the calf in their minds, will depart when it cannot give protection from the enemy, and the calf itself be carried away, broken up and melted.

Degeneration of the nation and its religion. The altars are built and become the centers of selfishness instead of symbols of sacrifice. As in verse 1, goodly images = artistic perfection, ornate, carved. God was lost, mislaid, forgotten and instead were splendid decorations, robes, ceremonies and forms. (The Laodicean condition). The resources which God gives us to spread the knowledge of God to others, can be misused and consumed upon selfish interests. Israel was an elect nation, chosen by God to be a blessing to other peoples. But they came to think of themselves as the pet of God, pampered by the Most High; the people whom God loved and let the rest of the world go by. That lie, as well as their worship of lying demons, ruined them and robbed them of moral and spiritual significance. Every benefit is a deposit, for which we are responsible, not for self consumption, but to pass it on to others, that through us the breadth, beauty and blessing of the divine plan and kingdom may be revealed to all peoples. The prophet points out that God elected that nation and looked for a fruitage of righteousness, but behold a cry, the cry of the poor, the oppressed, and of injustice, as of Sodom. Gen. 18:20, 21. It may be a luxuriant vine, but it is bringing forth its own fruitage, and so is a disastrous failure.

If the desire be for a crowd, or for organic efficiency then all sorts of things fasten on the life of the Church—parasitic growths sapping energy, contribute nothing to spirituality. The nominal Church today is cursed with fungus growths, all sorts of institutions, until one hears constantly the click of machinery, and then look for fruit. And the supreme question is, What is the fruit?—the divine intention or selfishness.

The deficiency in the religious life of Israel, resulted in multiplication of altars. The nation adapted its religion to conform to its failure. Altars and church buildings are ornate and artistic, but no sacrifice is inspired by them. Ornate altars instead of God. Stone instead of spiritual bread, passivity instead of passion, human artistry instead of divine beauty, a degraded people. A people God-created, God-planted, a people intended to function for God in the interests of humanity at large; a vine planted by God to bring forth the fruit of justice and righteousness. The vine is still existing, the branches are spreading and yet there is no acceptable fruit. So religion degenerates, altars record no sacrifice, the symbols of selfishness, replace God. The relegation of the religion of the cross into the background as something vulgar, and the worship of the artistic according to human thinking, is ever the degeneration of religion.

The mourning is well described in Rev. 18:9-17.

10:6 — IT — The golden calf.

KING JAREB — Assyria, whom Israel had vainly asked for help.

ASHAMED OF HIS COUNSEL — Which advised Israel to seek help of Assyria. Shame—be conquered and abound. “Tossed like a ship on the water.”

10:7 — AS THE FOAM UPON THE WATER — Driven on by the wind and stream and disappears, untraceable disappearance, scattered among the nations. (Yet of true Israel see Amos 9:9.)

10:8 — HIGH PLACES OF AVEN — The heights of evil, evil practices of idol worship.

SIN OF ISRAEL — Departing from Jehovah and worshipping other gods, giving to demons the chief and best of their lives and hearts; degrading themselves to the level of beasts. “Silenced is Samaria.”

SAY TO THE MOUNTAINS — If literal, it expresses hopelessness of despair. But more likely symbolic, as in Isa. 2:19-21; Rev. 6:16; Luke 23:30. Seek protection of the Gentile kingdoms, and the secret societies, clubs, organizations, vainly for help to preserve their properties, rights, families, as now the growth of insurance companies.

THORN AND THISTLE — Irritation and wounds, instead of peace and safety.

10:9 — SINCE GIBEAH — Judges 19 and 20.

THERE THEY STOOD — There the eleven tribes of Israel stood against Benjamin. But that war did not destroy the tribes, nor stop the evil. Leeser and Moffatt: “They are deeply corrupt, as in the days of Gibeah.” R.S.V.: “From the days of Gibeah you have sinned, O Israel. There they have continued. Shall not war overtake them in Gibeah?” Roth: “The battle against the sons of perversity touched them not in Gibeah.” The meaning seems to be—that battle did not destroy the evil, for they, Israel have continued since then.

10:10 — IT IS MY DESIRE — R.S.V.: “I will come against the wayward people to chastise them, and nations shall be gathered against them, when they are chastised for their double iniquity.” See margin.

TWO FURROWS — Double iniquity. Forsaken Jehovah and worshipped idols with all their shameful degradation. (Jer. 2:13)

10:11 — TAUGHT — Trained for work.

LOVETH TO TREAD — Loves to thresh. Tread out the grain, as being lighter work than plowing. For by law (Deut. 25:4; 1 Tim. 5:18) the ox or heifer may eat at his or her pleasure. The emphasis is on treading, subduing enemies and enslaving those subdued.

PASSED OVER UPON HER FAIR NECK — Disregard her pride (neck held haughtily), and her prosperous condition.

EPHRAIM TO RIDE: JUDAH SHALL PLOW — Subdue them before their enemies, and make them toil and labor for their enemies. The compulsory endurance of severe toil, in contrast to their present pride and arrogance.

10:12 — SOW TO YOURSELVES — Thought of plowing suggests sowing. The plowing prepares the ground for sowing. And so, sow for your own personal profit, for your own health and happiness. Properly to enjoy life fully.

IN RIGHTEOUSNESS — According to the principles of justice and truth, in harmony with God's laws and truth.

REAP IN MERCY — As a result of the sowing. Repentance and true effort in obedience will bring the mercy of God in blessing, in kindness and love. A full and beautiful harvest.

FALLOW GROUND — New soil, unused. Israel need not merely to scatter true, good seed, but new soil, a change of heart, to begin anew. "Let them cleanse their hearts, from all corrupt affections and lusts, which are like weeds and thorns, and let them be humbled for their sin, be of a broken and contrite heart and spirit. Let them be filled with sorrow and shame at the remembrance of their evil deeds and prepare to receive, learn and practice the divine precepts, as the ground that is plowed is to receive the seed, that the seed may take root." (Matthew Henry)

The fruit of sin is ever the fruit of lies. For sin always deceives those who serve it. Going in our own ways and trusting to human power is specially deceptive.

TIME TO SEEK THE LORD — It is always time to seek the Lord. A plea for Israel to pause and think and hearken to the invitation to return in repentance and contriteness. In due time God will rain righteousness. (Isa. 32:13-19; Jer. 4:3)

10:13 — Practiced wrong doing, evil and reaped an evil character hardened by sin, a slave to disobedience.

EATEN FRUIT OF LIES — The apples of Sodom. (Gal. 6:7-9; Prov. 22:8)

10:14 — SHALMAN — Perhaps Shalmanezar. Though, according to the monuments, it was Sargon, his son, who destroyed Samaria.

BETHARBEL — House of the snare, or ambush, of God. Israel turned Bethel into Bethaven, and it became Betharbela. (2 Kings 17:3)

MOTHER . . . CHILDREN — A terrible calamity. Perhaps the Arbela in upper Galilee.

10:15 — BETHEL — Their sins would bring their punishment. The house of God outraged will bring retribution. Evil of your evil. In the early morning, very soon.

KING — Kingdom.

11 — Part III. Mercy.

11:1 — ISRAEL — Here used collectively. So worded as to be a prophecy. (Matt. 2:15)

CHILD — As a young nation, beloved for the Fathers' sake. (Rom. 11:28; Deut. 9:5)

I LOVED THEM — The deep love of God. To endure, for so many years, their lack of appreciation, and disobedience. (Isa. 63:9; 30:18)

11:2 — AS THEY CALLED THEM — R.S.V.: "The more I called them, the more they went away from me." But R.V.: "They (the prophets) called them, so (often) they (Israel) turned away from them."

SACRIFICED TO BAALIM — Showing perverted heart longings. (Jer. 44:15-19) Israel was Jehovah's first born son (as a type of Jesus) (Exod. 4:22; Jer. 31:9) Because they were chosen as the people of His inheritance, but His love was rewarded with unfaithfulness, and they must be the more severely punished.

BURNED INCENSE — Israel actually did, symbolizes, deepest heart affections and loyalty, given to idols and to evil standards.

11:3 — EPHRAIM — The ten tribes, as Ephraim was the most prominent and most numerous.

TAUGHT TO GO — By righteous laws and detailed directions. Taught them the right ways of thought, word and deed; to walk uprightly in harmony and fellowship with God. (Prov. 6:20-23; Isa. 48:16-19; Deut. 5:29; Psa. 81:8-16)

TAKING BY ARMS — As a loving, patient father would do. (Isa. 63:7-9) But they did not realize His goodness, too wilfully immersed in disobedience. (Hos. 2:8, 9)

11:4 — THE CORDS OF A MAN — Only man has the family arrangement, the angels do not. In the four attributes of God the human face represents love. (Ezek. 1:10; Rev. 4:7) Among the jewels the Sardius represents sympathy, love.

CORDS . . . BANDS — As contrasted with ropes by which beasts are led.

TAKE OFF THE YOKE — Lift up the yoke. Loosen the strap with which the yoke is secured and which passes through the mouth. Draw it back over the jaws so the animal may eat conveniently. Gentle treatment by a gentle master.

MEAT — Food, abundant harvests, in spite of their rebellion; reached out to bless them, went beyond justice. Also God had made light for them the Law Covenant, partly by displays of mercy and partly by means of grace in their religion.

11:5 — HE SHALL NOT RETURN — (Deut. 17:16) The people of Jehovah shall not return to the land from which He called them, that it may not seem that the design of the Exodus and the march through the desert were frustrated through their disobedience. But they shall enter another bondage—to Assyria.

REFUSED TO RETURN — To God. (2 Kings 17:13; Jer. 8:4-6; Hosea 6:1; Amos 4:6; Zech. 1:4)

11:6 — SWORD SHALL ABIDE — God will withdraw His favor and leave them to their own devices. (Hosea 9:12) This prophecy was fulfilled 737 B.C., when Assyria captured Samaria. (2 Kings 18:9-12)

OWN COUNSELS — Opposed to God's counsel.

11:7 — BENT TO BACKSLIDING — Irrevocably set and determined, their conscience seared, burned, hardened; no desire to repent, no thought of God, no meditation, no considering of their ways. (Prov. 4:26)

CALLED — Repeatedly through four prophets, Hosea, Isaiah, Micah, Amos; but none responded.

11:8 — HOW SHALL I — Here sorrow and grief and hurt are plainly working in the mind of God and in an agony of rejected love He exclaims.

GIVE THEM UP — How can He bear to do so.

DELIVER — Them over to punishment and the horrors of ancient sieges.

ADMA . . . ZEBOLIM — Cities of the Plain, destroyed with Sodom and Gomorrah.

MINE HEART TURNED — Love and mercy striving against justice and in the end triumph, because a messenger was found to give a ransom.

KINDLED TOGETHER — As coals by mutual heat burst into flame. God's love could not let them be utterly destroyed. A remnant will return to Him and others follow. (Jer. 4:23; 5:18; 30:11; 46:28; Isa. 11:11, 16; Micah 5:7, 8)

There are four speeches of Hosea as the mouthpiece of Jehovah, and three times the prophet breaks in with his own comment. The comments of the prophet are all in the minor key, and those of Jehovah are all in the major key, declaring the triumph of love. There is no disagreement between the two, but the mental mood of Hosea is shown. He is still delivering the message of Jehovah, but is amazed that any such message could be delivered, for in his three comments he confesses the sin of the people. God is telling of His love, and the amazed prophet breaks in and describes the sin of the people.

The speech of Jehovah begins chapter 11 and continues through 12:1. Then the prophet breaks in, verses 2-6; Jehovah speaks, verses 7:11; Hosea, verses 12, 13:1; Jehovah, 13:2-14; Hosea 13:15 to 14:3; Jehovah, 14:4 to end. All ends with the speech of Jehovah, which is burdened with love, and Hosea burdened with the unworthiness of the people. "I loved him, I taught Ephraim to walk I took them in my arms, I healed them, I drew them with love." In a picture of cattle coming home at night—"I lifted the yoke and freed their jaws and fed them." The father, the mother, the husband, the herdsman. Four sentences tell of Israel's reaction—they went from me; did not know I healed them and gave them their blessings, bountiful crops, gold and silver; they refused to return; bent on backsliding. Love that becomes an agony, a tragedy—His loved ones wronging themselves, blighting and blasting their future interests.

11:9 — I WILL NOT — Note the three I will not, not destroy them utterly. (Jer. 46:28; Rom. 11:1, 2)

I AM GOD AND NOT MAN — Possessed of knowledge and a plan to give all a full opportunity. An everlasting love. (Jer. 31:3)

11:10 — WALK AFTER — Follow His leading, seek Him. (Jer. 31:6-9)

ROAR — A loud call, the point is not only loudness (terrifying influence of the sound) but its extent. It reaches far and near, the world around. Combined with judgments upon Gentiles. (Isa. 42:13-16; Jer. 25:30; Joel 3:16; Amos 1:2)

TREMBLE — Become active, hasten eagerly. Fishers and hunters at work.

FROM THE WEST — The sea and western lands.

11:11 — THEY SHALL TREMBLE — “His sons shall come trembling from the west—and eagerly like birds from Egypt and like doves (meekly, docilely, humbly) from the land of Assyria.” R.S.V. and Moffatt.

11:12 — COMPASSED ME ABOUT WITH LIES — Surrounded me with lies, every approach and appeal deceptive. It was no isolated act, but Israel’s general practice. So treated by all Israel, He had a right to expect thankfulness and fidelity, because He was their rightful Lord. But they turned away from Him to idols, demons, and sought help from the heathen or Gentiles.

This verse belongs with Chapter 12. “But Judah yet ruleth with God, and is faithful to the Holy One.” Leeser. So R.S.V. and Young, but Moffatt and Roth. and A.R.V. have—“And Judah vacillates with God with the faithful Holy One.” Hebrew word—rove about, vacillate. Even Judah is betraying Him, or a vain hope Judah would return, as in the reigns of Hezekiah and Josiah and Uzziah.

12:1 — EPHRAIM FEEDETH — Jehovah speaks (11:12-12:1). Hebrew = the East wind, a hot wind from the Arabian desert, which dries up everything in its course. Israel pursues after that which will destroy him. Feedeth on emptiness, no nourishment, no satisfaction. Daily the deception and blindness increase and desolation approaches. At one time help is sought in Egypt against Assyria, and at another in Assyria against Egypt. (2 Kings 17:4) Oil = Olive oil.

12:2 — THE LORD HATH — In verses 2-6 Hosea speaks his own thought. Recalling the promising early experience of Israel, the good beginning, and urges Israel to return. Contest—to reprove sins committed. Jacob—the ten tribes. According to his doings—recompense.

PUNISH — Visit upon the results of his deeds.

12:3 — HE TOOK HIS BROTHER — Jacob’s action here was earnest, eager striving after the birthright, which involved the Abrahamic Promise and its blessings. Note the parallels: 3a) in the womb; 3b) in manhood; 3a) seized the heel (Gen. 3:15) to overcome as in Gen. 25:23; 3b) he wrestled first with his brother in youth and later with God in full manhood. The two names also show the two struggles—Jacob with his brother; Israel with God. (Gen. 32:24-29)

12:4 — WEPT. . .MADE SUPPLICATION — The intensity of the struggle to gain a blessing, that he might be assured of God’s help and blessing. Great faith.

BETHEL — Where Jacob had the dream and obtained the covenant. (Gen. 28:10-15)

US — Note the interpretation, application to us. The promises were to the seed, as well as to Abraham. Israel had now shamefully turned this glorious privilege into idol worship.

12:5 — EVEN THE LORD OF HOSTS — It was even Jehovah (rep. by the angel) the supreme Creator. Jehovah—the self-existent one. (1 Tim. 6:16)

MEMORIAL — The name to which He alone has the right (Psa. 83:18), and by which distinction He will always be remembered. (Exod. 3:14, 15)

12:6 — THEREFORE — Lose not the Covenant promise, turn and be like Jacob in faith and appreciation. Practice the right way and in patience inherit the promise. If they continue in evil they will lose it. (Heb. 10:36)

12:7 — HE IS A MERCHANT — Again Jehovah speaks. (vss 7-11) He suddenly breaks into Hosea's speech with the abrupt and contemptuous word—"Canaan"—A trafficker, a trader, a merchant. Hebrew word literally means humiliated, degraded—a profit-taker, with all the tricks and dishonesty practiced by traders. (Lev. 18:24-28)

"Israel was sent into Canaan to cleanse it, make it a purifying influence among the nations, but now the time had come always in the interests of humanity—to inclusion, not exclusion. The chosen instrument must always be true to the divine purpose, and to divine standards. But here—false balances, deceit and oppression. (Ezek. 16:3; Zech. 14:21)

12:8 — AND EPHRAIM SAID — Self justification, not needed except by an uneasy conscience. R.S.V.: "But all his riches can never offset the guilt he has incurred." Moffatt "Not all his gains will be enough to expiate his guilt." Leeser, like A.V.

12:9 — I THAT AM THE LORD — The supreme Judge, their God and Covenant Lord and provider since they left Egypt. Moffatt: "And can send you back to live in tents as in the desert, long ago." R.S.V.: "I will again make you dwell in tents as in the days of the appointed feast" (Feast of Tabernacles). Lev. 23:39-41.

A warning that God can, as the covenant required, strip them of their prosperity and make them poor as at their beginning. In the Gospel Age they have had to dwell in ghettos in misery and poverty.

12:10 — I HAVE ALSO SPOKEN — He has warned them in every possible way. (2 Kings 17:13; Amos 3:7; 4:6-8) Also this verse tells the variety of ways and instruments God uses to speak to His people and to humanity. Israel had no excuse for their behavior.

12:11 — IS THERE INIQUITY IN GILEAD? — Answers the blind claim of verse 8. The deluded and presumptuous Ephraim. They have given their best of wealth and possessions to idols (demons), and their altars of worship (chap. 10:1, 2; 8:14) shall be as stone heaps in the furrows of the plowed field, an obstruction worthless and impeding progress. (R. V., Moffatt, Roth.) Gilgal and Gilead were the two parts of the northern kingdom. (6:8) The moral ruin had its counterpart in the physical. (Lang)

12:12 — AND JACOB FLED — The prophet speaks again, muses of Israel's past glory and sacrifice to obtain God's blessings. He let Esau take all Jacob's earthly possessions, who wanted them above all. And Israel now throws these away.

12:13 — THE LORD BROUGHT — Israel had been led by the Lord through prophets, and should heed them now. But they called the prophets mad, and hired false prophets. (1 Kings 22:6-28) So has Christendom done. (1 Tim. 4:1-3; 2 Tim. 3:1-5) They excommunicated Arius, and chose the way of error in belief and practice. See also the N.E.B.

12:14 — PROVOKED. . . MOST BITTERLY — Hebrew — with bitterness, beyond further endurance. Unwise to let them go any farther. (See Ezek. 16:49-50; Jer. 7:12; 26:6, 9). Israel will have to pay for their evil deeds.

13:1 — TREMBLING — A.R.V., R.S.V., Roth. and Leeser—"Men trembled." But A.V. and Young as here. The contrast seems to be that in early times Ephraim was humble, but his desire to be prominent led to the forgetting of God, and then to idol worship and its moral evils, and in God's sight he died, lost his standing through disobedience and sin.

13:2 — THEY SIN MORE AND MORE — Continues in downward course to worse and worse behavior. Misuse the silver God gave them and made idols of it.

UNDERSTANDING — Their own perverted ideas. Having rejected Jehovah their perverted minds make an image more in harmony with their own desires. (Rom. 1:22-25)

KISS THE CALVES — Submitted their minds to demon control. (Lev. 17:7; 1 Cor. 10:20, 21) Devoting their best skill and effort of mind, worshipping the work of their hands—the depth of stupidity and abasement. When men make idols they make them like themselves. In the days of Ahab, they had forgotten Jehovah and substituted other gods. (Psa. 115:4-8) The true worship of Jehovah lifts the mind to standards above human power, keeps one ever striving upward for greater likeness to God. (Matt. 5:45, 48; 2 Cor. 3:18; 1 Peter 1:14-16)

13:3 — THEREFORE — The natural result is destruction. (Rom. 6:21) They built upon the sand, and the wind of adversity would destroy, chaff, whirlwind, smoke escapes by the windows, as there were no chimneys; like a thing without substance, refuse, reprobate silver. (Jer. 6:30)

13:4 — YET — In contrast to Israel's unfaithfulness, God is yet the same one who delivered them from Egyptian bondage, now inviting them to return, and keep the covenant they made with Him, as He had remained faithful.

13:5 — I DID KNOW THEE — Jehovah had preserved them in the wilderness and brought them through. He had warned them of the danger of forgetting their God when they became prosperous. (Deut. 8:11) They had not heeded the warning, but had rushed blindly on, as in verse 6.

13:7 — AS A LION — In line with the figure of the pasture in the land given them by Jehovah, the flock would be rent by wild beasts (Gentile nations). The punishment had already begun and would continue.

13:8 — CAUL OF THEIR HEART — The punishment would affect their inmost being. Thoroughly purge all their dross. (Isa. 1:25)

BEAR . . . BEREAVED — Ferocious beyond all restraint. Notice lion (Babylon), bear (Medo-Persia), leopard (Greece), the three Gentile powers that ruled over Israel.

LIKE A LION — Without mercy or deliverance. Justice.

13:9 — THOU HAST DESTROYED THYSELF — Roth. and R.S.V.: "It hath destroyed thee. . .that thou wert against Me." But A.V. seems more in line with that of the text. By their disobedience they had brought their own ruin. But yet God stood by to help when and if they should repent.

13:10 — I WILL BE THY KING — See margin. R.S.V.: "Where is now your king." (King Hoshea being then in prison). Their king was only a self-seeking murderer. (2 Kings 17:1-6)

THY JUDGES — The princes who were the king's counsellors. Israel had chosen to have a king, and their kings had misled them.

13:11 — I GAVE THEE A KING — Refers to Saul and his removal because of disobedience.

13:12 — IS BOUND UP — See Job 14:17. The idea is like tying up money in a bag and hiding it in some secret place, to keep for future use. His iniquity is completed, and sin come to the full. (Gen. 15:16; Dan. 8:23; Matt. 23:32, 33) Certainty of quick punishment. (Job 21:19)

13:13 — SORROWS OF TRAVAILING — Under image of childbirth, not the pangs of the mother, but the pressure the child must endure. The pressure is not to destroy but to bring to the birth.

13:14 — I WILL RANSOM THEM — A.R.V. and R.S.V. put this as a question. But Roth. as here and agrees with the rest of the verse and Paul quotes it as a promise. (1 Cor. 15:54; Isa. 26:19) Hence promise of a Redeemer, though such looks impossible then. He promises there will be no going back—deliverance complete and permanent. Sting of death is sin. (1 Cor. 15:56)

13:15 — THOUGH HE BE FRUITFUL — A play upon the name Ephraim (fruitful). Prosperity by the Lord's goodness, patient endurance and mercy. Being misused blessings, the punishment is likened to an east wind to dry them up, a punishment from the Lord.

SPRING — Source of blessing be withdrawn.

FOUNTAIN — His use of these blessings stopped. All his desired and treasured things be destroyed. "He (Assyria) shall plunder the treasure of all costly vessels." (A.R.V.)

13:16 — SAMARIA SHALL BECOME DESOLATE — An awful retribution, but like the cruelty of those times. See margin. (2 Kings 17:6)

14:1 — RETURN — The longing invitation of God's love for Israel. At that time they paid no heed, but in the latter days they will, after their double of punishment. (Isa. 40:1, 2; Jer. 16:18) The cause of their fall will then be recognized and admitted by them.

FALLEN — Not raised, but degraded, lost the high honor of God's people, and His fellowship, and now in fellowship with demons and becoming like them.

14:2 — TAKE WITH YOU WORDS — They were not to come before Jehovah empty handed. Here is shown the importance of proper words. (See Acts 10:6; Prov. 15:23; 25:11; Isa. 50:4) Emphasized.

Then the proper words of repentance and contrition, asking pardon, forgiveness. He promises to take away all iniquity. (Isa. 1:18-25; Jer. 31:31-33)

CALVES OF OUR LIPS — Comparing the heart-felt praise, to the sacrificial offerings. The Lord desires a humble and contrite heart, rather than sacrifices. The people must first return to God's love with their whole heart. The prophet not merely exhorts them thus, but shows them how it should be done, how and in what spirit, even to the words (for they had forgotten how) that the penitent must use to draw near to God — not merely outwardly with imposing sacrifices of bullocks, but with the living promises of the spirit that out of a contrite heart struggles for the mercy of God. (Isa. 57:15; John 6:37, 44, 45)

14:3 — ASSHUR SHALL NOT SAVE US — No longer rely on human aid, nor on military power (Isa. 30:16), nor degrade themselves by idol worship, and so dishonor God.

IN THEE . . . MERCY . . . FATHERLESS — Those without the true God, as well as the literally fatherless. (Psa. 10:14; 68:4, 5)

14:4 — I WILL HEAL — The picture of what God will do for the penitent, because of the Atonement provided. Heal the calamities which their disobedience has brought upon them.

14:5 — AS THE DEW — This is the third time “dew” used in the prophecy (6:4; 13:3). Qualifying words were used before (early dew; and dew that passeth early away) here no qualifying words. Here interpret by the personality, the timeless eternity of God, freshness and vigor of youth.

LILY — Beauty and purity.

GROW — Thrive, develop, because of abundance of pure truth (water, dew of morning.) Its growth in Palestine is remarkable.

ROOTS AS LEBANON — The lily has but small roots, trees of Lebanon have large strong and deep roots, and thick trunks. The Temple was lined with these cedars. (Psa. 104:16; Isa. 61:3; 60:21) Beautiful and strong.

14:6 — BRANCHES SHALL SPREAD — His effect upon surrounding Gentile nations. Covering and strengthening.

BEAUTY AS OLIVE TREE — Another kind of beauty, not merely delicate and gentle like the lily—but useful for light, food and health. So Israel will be among the nations. Enlightenment, truth and restoring health. Leaf not fall in winter, slender gray-green. Olive oil symbol of Holy Spirit.

SMELL — Odor, fragrance, influence. Invigorating as air about evergreen trees. (Gen. 27:27; Cant. 4:11) His influence among the nations. (Zech. 8:23, 13)

14:7 — DWELL UNDER HIS SHADOW — The Gentile nations, all the families of the earth.

RETURN — To God, to health and restitution and to perfection and dominion, to fellowship with God and the angels.

REVIVE AS GRAIN — Attain perfect life and vitality, the natural food.

GROW AS VINE — The grape vine and its invigorating juice, luxuriously; at last as God's earthly vineyard. True doctrine, natural food and food for the mind.

SCENT AS THE WINE OF LEBANON — Influence, as doctrine that lead to everlasting life (evergreens). Evidently extra-rich grapes and invigorating wine. Lebanon (white) = righteousness.

14:8 — WHAT HAVE I TO DO — See R.S.V. But Roth. as here, seems more filling, complete turn about. "What brings about this break with idols? What causes Dagon to come crashing to the ground? What sweeps idolatry out of the soul of a man or nation? As Ephraim says—I have answered and will regard Him." "I have seen, got a good view of the true character of God. His patience, love and goodness and mercy, and been overwhelmed and yielded." (Isa. 6:5) I have responded to His call, heard and answered. I will regard Him. Continuous contemplation, watching for God, to know His will and way. Resolve to live in obedience and wholly His. The cure of idolatry is the restored vision of God. See Poem, by G. Campbell Morgan, "Vision of God"

VISION OF GOD

*Hast thou heard Him, seen Him, known Him?
Is not thine a captured heart?
Chief among ten thousand own Him,
Joyful choose the better part.*

*Idols, once they won thee, charmed thee,
Lovely things of time and sense;
Gilded, thus — does sin disarm thee,
Honeyed, lest thou turn thee thence.*

*What has stripped the seeming beauty
From the idols of the earth?
Not a sense of right or duty,
But the sight of peerless worth.*

*Not the crushing of those idols,
With its bitter void and smart;
But the beaming of His beauty,
The unveiling of His heart.*

*Who extinguishes their taper
Till they hail the rising sun?
Who discards the garb of winter
Till the summer has begun?*

*T'is that look that melted Peter,
T'is that face that Stephen saw,
T'is that heart that wept with Mary,
Can alone from idols draw.*

*Draw, and win and fill completely,
Till the cup o'erflows the brim;
What have we to do with idols
Who have companied with Him?*

JOEL

Joel has 3 sections—	Chapter 1	2:18-27	3:1, 2
	Chapter 2:1-11	2:28-32	3:3-8
	Chapter 2:12-17		3:9-17, 18-21

Joel = Jehovah is God, the mighty one. Pethuel — opened or enlarged by God. (fr. Pathah [paw-thaw] = to open, make roomy, enlarge, make simple or clear)

Prophesied 850-800 B.C. in early part of reign of Uzziah, king of Judah. (2 Chron. 26). A southerner and countryman, not a city dweller, shown by allusion to country life—vine dressers, palm tree, oranges (apples), fig tree (1:7), pomegranates (1:12), are mentioned as familiar things; rivers and grain fields (1:20). This world Joel knew—his allusions and symbols have this framework. Probably the first of that long list of prophets ending with Malachi, who saw in visions, the judgments to come to deliver man from the enervating grasp of evil, and of the after glories to come, and recorded what they saw in words never-to-be forgotten. (Uzziah to Desolation 223 years + 606 = 829 years.).

Malachi lives some 450 to 500 years after (397 B.C.) Joel. During all that time the voice of God by prophets was hardly ever silent, and when at last with the death of Malachi the Holy Spirit ceased to speak through the prophets, the foundation had been well laid for all that man was to learn about God's good plans for the last conflict with evil, and setting up of the Kingdom.

This obscure countryman, notable not for wealth, nor rank, nor talent, unused to city ways, or society of the learned or cultured, a man of the people, a man of the soil, was the first to be blessed by the Most High with visions of the last days, and in this short prophecy gives the outlines which later were developed to the revelation of the events of the time of the end.

Isaiah began his lifetime of prophecy in the reign of Uzziah, and expands much that is found in embryo form in Joel. The Restitution is noted first in Joel (2:21-27; 3:18-21). Joel speaks of the "remnant" that turn to God and are cleansed (2:32) and which God uses to begin the Kingdom.

So as the centuries roll we see the widening and enlargement of vision and prophecy for the instruction of the Church, and completed and sealed in Christ.

1:1 — Tells all that is known of Joel's descent or relatives, no one knows whence the family came or of what tribe. The message is the important thing. It is from the heart, and sent out with burning, white hot urgency and fire. A youthful zealot like John the Baptist crying his message with such intensity that people are compelled to listen.

1:2, 3 — An arresting opening. He has something to tell them that had not been known in previous generations.

OLD MEN — Their memory goes back farther.

HATH THIS BEEN — An unheard of thing has happened and they are asked to testify to it — the complete desolation of the land by successive swarms of locusts. Something to tell to after generations! A subtle appeal to their knowledge of the Mosaic Law, (Deut. 6:4-9) which they sorely neglected to do. Very phrase used.

1:4 — By masterly wisdom to this unfaithful people, he calls their attention to the utter ruin of their land and world, and their own impotence to remedy it, their undone condition, before he begins to turn their minds back to their true healer and savior.

FOUR VARIETIES OF LOCUSTS — Gazam — to devour, "the biter"; Arbeh = swarming multitudes; Yelek = "the licker," licking up all in its path; Khaw-seel = the ravager or destroyer. Is reference to God's "Four sore judgements" (Ezek. 14:21), the sword, famine, noisome beasts, pestilence. Locusts were a familiar picture or occurrence in Joel's day. Travellers tell of the terrible ruin caused by millions of flying insects—an effective symbol of devastation and ruin. The past tense shows the plague has come and gone and the land is utterly ruined. Note the use of four in divine judgements—Four horsemen of Rev. 6; Four winds of Rev. 7; Four horns of Zech. 1:13; Four Beasts of Dan. 7; Four sore judgments, Ezek. 14:21.

Such were the attacks of Egypt under Pharaoh Necho (2 Kings 23), of Shalmanezzer V of Assyria (2 Kings 18:9); Sargon II (Isa. 20:1) of Assyria; and Sennacharib (Isa. 36:37); and Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon. (606 B.C.) who finished the destruction. (2 Chron. 36:11-21)

1:4-14 — The following verses describe the lament that goes up from all quarters, from the people and the priests, the merry makers and the workers; merging into a national cry of distress rising up to God. But there is yet no evidence of repentance.

Here in Joel's prophecies is the seed of the exhortation of Paul in Acts 17:30. The listeners are being carefully led from the lower plane of dire lament at the troubles which are coming upon them to the higher one of repentance for the sin that has caused the trouble, and to dependence upon God for recovery from that trouble. In vss. 5-12, the lamentation is self-centered, there seems no thought of appealing to God. In the latter part of the first chapter the lament does move to a higher level in that the cry is taken into the Sanctuary of God and the cry of woe and despair ascends up before Him.

1:5 — His first call is to the careless pleasure-seekers, heedless ones who had broken their Covenant with God and turned to the distractions of the moment, which leave you in worse condition than at first. (Prov. 20:1).

CUT OFF FROM YOUR MOUTH — The excess and misuse of God's blessings. Stupefies the mind and enfeebles the body and the ultimate result is the withdrawal of all such blessings. (Isa. 65:11-16; Zeph. 1:12, 13; Hosea 2:6-13; Amos 4:1-13; Jer. 8:4-13; Hos. 9:12, 13)

NEW WINE — Nothing from their fields to make new wine. All their fruitage is dead. New wine of God's provision is given in Chapter 3, but none from their arrangements.

1:6 — The locusts are represented as a hostile army. The weapons of these invaders are their teeth, which tear and devour like those of a lion. This switch is to advance the picture to that of a real army, as it was fulfilled in later years. (vs. 4)

1:7 — VINE, FIG TREE — Israel is often referred to as a vine (Isa. 5:1-7; Jer. 2:21; Luke 20:9-18), and as a fig tree (Hosea 9:10; Matt. 24:32, 33).

CLEAN BARE — Bark peeled off and thrown away, branches white, dead. (A prophecy of future destruction, the death of a nation.)

1:8 — Israel was in Covenant relation with God, but she had broken the Covenant so completely that it was as if it was dead, and she ought to be in mourning for it. (Isa. 50:1; Hos. 2:2; Ezek. 16:8-14)

SACKCLOTH—Rough hair cloth, irritating to the skin; a symbol of abandoned hope. (Jer. 31:31)

1:9 — Certainly no judgment could be more severe than one making it impossible to bring the sacrifices, the meal and drink offerings. The locusts and drought combined had made a great scarcity of animals. They were losing the visible emblems of their God's communion with them. The prophet acknowledges their divine office, even while denouncing their unfaithfulness, as in vs. 13.

1:9-12 — Detailed description of their undone and desolate condition.

NEW WINE DRIED UP — BE YE ASHAMED — As if a play on meaning of the words used. Not the same (dried = buwsh — prop. to pale., by impl. to be ashamed, or disappointed or delayed. Ashamed = yabesh—be ashamed, confused, or disappointed.) They, too, should acknowledge their dried up condition.

A national cry of distress, all classes from laborer to priest send up a cry and lament, but not yet repentant. The lament is self-centered, yet no thought of appealing to God. The listeners are being carefully led from the lower plane of selfish sorrow and lament to the higher one of repentance from disobedience that has caused the trouble, and to dependence on God for relief and recovery.

Suspension of the temple offerings was a heart-searing affliction. It meant that the Covenant had fallen into disuse, and all the gracious promises of God dependent on the Covenant were null and void.

Joel's method of treatment is a pointer to us in our speaking of the Gospel message. Do we tend to paint a rosy picture of the blessings God has in store for man, and fail to show man how utterly he has ruined the heritage God gave him at the beginning? It is proper for us, as did Joel, to lay proper stress upon the fact that man, unworthy of the privileges so given, unable to govern himself, unfit to be allowed any longer to desecrate God's creation with the abominations of his inventions. Today joy has fled from the hearts of men, and we, like Joel, should begin to turn men's minds first to the need of repentance.

1:13, 14 — This is the first step toward salvation—the gathering of the people, elders, and priests unto the house of God, to cry unto Him for deliverance, acknowledging their sin and neglect. The power of united worship to elevate the spirit and inspire the heart is well known. Consciousness of the presence of the Holy Spirit in a prayer meeting of believers is an experience many know. It was when Israel, captive to their enemies in the days of the Judges, turned unto the Lord and cried to Him in their trouble, that He heard them and delivered them. Joel's first effort was to bring his people face to face with their God and to that heart condition in which God could bless them.

So the farmers have left the vain watching of their blasted fields and dying herds, the pleasure seekers their bibbling, the priests their endless discussions of legal points. The ringing tones echo through the temple and pierce the ears of the people assembled in the courts.

SOLEMN ASSEMBLY — Day of restraint.

1:15 — Later on Joel has wonderful words of comfort for this people; But not yet! At the first his message is like Ezekiel's—one of "mourning and lamentation and woe." This is the day of the Lord's judgment, tribulation and disaster. As the nation did not then repent, the fulfillment of this prophecy came with Pharaoh Necho of Egypt, the attacks of Assyria and ended and culminated in Nebuchadnezzar's destruction of Jerusalem, the captivity of Israel, desolation of the land, and extinction of the Davidic line of Kings as told in Ezek. 21:25-27.

1:16 — How wisely Joel links together their natural lack of blessing with the worship of God, all according to their Covenant! Their woe and disaster due to neglect of their Covenant. So now in Christendom—prosperity of some, poverty of others, neglect of righteousness and of judgment and neglect of the warning God has sent by the Harvest Message, persecution of the Jews, will certainly result in a similar punishment, as in v. 17.

1:17 — This is like Isa. 30:8-14; 32:9-14. (See Moffatt) Men and animals suffer alike. As did Israel, men have left the Lord and gone, every man to his own way. (Isa. 65:11, 12; Prov. 1)

1:19, 20 — So Joel utters a mighty supplication, which had been in his heart all the time. Perhaps he has the people with him by now, and he is speaking for them and on their behalf. He turns to the Almighty and pours out his heart desires and woe.

This ends Joel's first appeal. He yet does not ask deliverance, but he leads the way. Like Hezekiah taking the threat of Sennacherib into the Temple and spreading it out before the Lord. (Isa. 37:14-20) Perhaps the intensity of his prayer, opens his mind and heart so the Lord can give him a larger vision of things to come, for Chapter 2 shows a greater insight into events of the latter days

2: — This is the second section of the prophecy, and Joel's prophetic vision is becoming keener. He sees farther into the future. The language used in vss. 1-14 still is fitting to the plague of locusts picture of Chapter 1, but the words and terms are so much stronger and pointed as to leave no doubt that under the figure of a locust swarm a greater and more devastating invasion of Israel's land is foretold. There is no resisting the oncoming hosts, and no deference which the people can make will be of any avail.

In vs. 11 begins the prophetic invitation. The prophet points to a way of escape, by turning with their full heart to the Lord. While the people are considering this message the second alarm comes (vs. 15)—the enemy is now at the gates and is become a reality. Every ordinary occupation is suspended, vs. 16—and the entire nation comes together in sincere and heartfelt prayer to God, and God turns. From this point the danger begins to lessen. Children and all are united in prayer.

2:1-11 — See also D-535, 544-546, 549-550.

2:2-11 — The Day of Jehovah is a Judgment Day, Day of Reckoning, of Retribution. When the evil harvest of this world's sowing is to be reaped. There was a Day of Jehovah for Israel because of their waywardness, and a Day of Jehovah for Christendom and the world because of its wickedness. (Isa. 63:4; Ezek. 39:8; Isa. 34:8; Luke 21:22) "Turn ye to me with all your heart" stands as an impassable barrier to the giving of the blessing in full measure until Israel's blindness is turned away. (Rom. 11:26) The punishment upon Israel began less than a century after Joel's prophecy.

2:1 — Well might Joel cry the urgency of his message and call for a trumpet in Zion for the Day of Jehovah whose coming he announced and it began with Israel less than a century after his preaching.

2:2 — A stormy dawn. Instead of the light of the rising sun, there are masses of dark thunder clouds banked along the mountains, blotting out the daylight. The morning (vs. 10; Psa. 30:5; Isa. 21:12; Ezek. 7:6, 7; Psa. 46:4, 5)

A prophecy of the advancing army of Assyria relentlessly despoiling Israel's fair land. On their heels the Babylonians, 150 years later, to overturn the kingdom of Judah and bring an end to the royal kingship of the line of David. Down through the ages the Greeks, Romans, Persians, Arabs, and Turks oppressed Israel and spoiled their heritage continuously as their subjection to Gentiles continued. And in end of this age the prophecy is nearing complete fulfillment, as in Ezek. 38, 39; Zech. 14; Joel 3:1-3; Ezek. 32:7-10. These the legions of the Lord's great army used to execute His Word. The present enemy from the north is the last of these great waves of locusts appointed to ravage Israel. These have or will each play their part in executing divine judgments on that stiff-necked, wayward, disobedient people, until at last a remnant marvelously become purified and made usable, God's own earthly people.

A vivid description of a ruthless, merciless invader. Most commentators apply it to successive waves of locusts, yet it even more fully refers to the capture of the city by an invading army, especially of these last days.

From the first sight of the enemy on the distant hills to the dread moment when the defenders, pressed back to their last stronghold within the city, behold with fear the merciless soldiers, climbing in at their windows, breaking down their doors, so it has been in Israel's long history, the enemy advanced more and more closely, until in these last days it seems as though they are appointed to utter destruction, extinction, and nothing can save them.

- 2:4 — The alarmed watchers discern the first signs of attack, the dust clouds raised by the hoofs of the galloping horses and the following war chariots (now tanks and lorries).
- 2:5 — The chariots now in view, bumping and rattling over the stony ground and precipitous slopes. The advancing host is likened to a sheet of flame, eating up the dry stubble, at a rapid pace.
- 2:6 — The fear and dismay and discouragement of the people, as all hope of aid from their Gentile friends is proved vain. None to help or pity.
- 2:7 — Now the invaders have reached the city walls, they have stormed the walls, and forced their way into the city. The desperate defenders have retreated to their houses, but to no avail, their relentless enemies follow close upon their heels.
- 2:8 — See Leeser — “They do not press one another, every one on his beaten track do they go forward; and they pass through between warlike weapons, and change not their purpose.”
- 2:9 — This is the supreme crisis; the foe has besieged and taken the city and appears at the house doors to satiate his lust for pillage and ravage. (Zech. 14)

Joel here shows the reason God interferes as in Zech. 14:1, 2 and 12:9, 10-14. It is that the people, a remnant, repent and turn to their God with full heart.

- 2:10, 11 — The utter disruption of all the normal course of life, caused by this calamity upon the people. This can be nothing less than a prophecy of the last days. No ordinary military invasion could justify the use of such extraordinary language. Here the prophecy passes into our days, the last great trial of faith upon God’s earthly people. So Isa. 13:13; 24:19, 20.

This is the time when the Lord rises to judge the earth. (Isa. 26:21; 21:34) First, He judges His own people—Christendom and Israel. That is why it is called the Lord’s army, His Camp. He uses them as a means of judgment, of testing and purifying His people. He so called and uses them to display and convince men about His great power and glory; and when they have served His purpose, He will execute upon them the judgment they so richly deserve. (Isa. 10:24-27; Ezek. 38:16; Zech. 14:12-15) In this last crisis Israel will not fail, but a remnant will be delivered.

2:12 — This is a last moment invitation. The previous verses show God's judgments in operation. He allowed the enemy to come in among His people and ravage them, even into their homes. He could have held them at arm's length, but no. Then, when all hope seems at an end and there is none to help, He invites them to turn to Him. So it will be evident to all that Jehovah alone rescued them.

2:13, 14 — Joel realized that God was merciful, so Jonah (4:2) knew. But evil is not banished from the earth by the destruction of one nation that practices evil.

The following verses show the invitation is to be heeded, and the blessing follows. It has never yet been true—"I will no more make you a reproach among the nations" (vs. 19; Zech. 8:13). So the prophecy must refer to the last days, when the greatest invader of all time will be hammering at the portals of the Holy Land.

Note it is the northern army that attacks. Israel's enemies of former times since Joel's day—Assyrians, Scythians, Babylonians came from the north down the great highway from Carchemish of the Euphrates, through the Plain of Esdraelon, the literal Armageddon of the Bible, down into Egypt. But after the Babylonians there were no more northern invaders till the end; Greeks and Romans from the West; Persians and Saracens from the East.

In both Joel and Ezekiel the place of the invader's defeat is between the two seas—the Dead Sea and the Mediterranean.

2:17 — Between Porch (Solomon's) and Altar. The Brazen Altar in the Court. Porch = the colonnade surrounding the court. Evidently the people would assemble in the outer court, as in Jesus' day, while the priests and Levites (Singers, etc.) had the inner court reserved for them.

Sanctify the Congregation — probably by a sprinkling (Exod. 19:8; Isa. 52:15; Ezek. 36:25; Num. 19:13, 17-19)—cleansing from contacts with the dead—influence of the world and its spirit upon the mind and heart.)

Water = truth. Ashes = memory of their sufferings, loyalty and obedience. (Hebrew 9:13; 10:22)

WHERE IS THEIR GOD? — See Moses prayer. (Num. 14:13-16)

2:18 — God goes forth like a man of war and drives away the invading army, returns to His own people and begins to bless them in basket and store. All they have lost is restored to them and they know at last that Jehovah is their God and is dwelling in their midst.

At this point the prophecy expands so definitely into events of this Gospel Age end, that there is no mistaking the application of this promise made by Peter (Acts 2:16-21), to events unto the end of this age, and into the Kingdom.

The first part of this chapter was fulfilled, when the northern armies—first of Assyria, overran and took captive the ten tribes, and later Nebuchadnezzar took the two tribes captive and desolated the land. This partly fulfilled to verse 14. For, though the people repented under Asa (2 Chron. 15:8-15) and Jehoshaphat (2 Chron. 20), and Hezekiah (2 Chron. 29), and Josiah (2 Chron. 34); it was short lived. (2 Chron. 24:17-21; 36:14-21) The blessing could not roll out to the full, was only partial. The nation did not fully repent so the blessing was postponed time after time. (Dan. 8:26)

Another chance was given Israel when their Messiah really came, and again the nations were threatening them, and again the prophecy ran to verse 14 and stopped. They knew not the time of their visitation and did not repent and their house was made desolate and has remained so.

Again today the cup of Israel's suffering is threatening to fill to the brim. Their enemies hem them in on every side, once more the Lord's great army from the north threatens. But this third time the judgment will be so severe that the prophecy will run to its full end. (Ezek. 38, 39; Jer. 30:7) But a remnant will thoroughly repent, after they have been thoroughly humbled. (Zech. 13:8, 9) In utter dismay they will look to God for deliverance and He will completely and finally deliver them.

2:19 — NO MORE A REPROACH — The final blessing.

2:23 — CHILDREN OF ZION — The Little Flock; rejoice in the Lord in His character, plan, goodness and providence.

THE FORMER RAIN — The Vulgate has the translation as in the margin. (“a teacher of righteousness”) In the century prior to the first Advent, there was a movement or sect among the Jews looking for just such a teacher of righteousness. The first expression really means—“rain in just measure,” the three “rains” after that represent the three agricultural divisions of the year. First in October came the early heavy downpour to soften the ground and make plowing and sowing possible. Then December to February the “former rain,” or as the Hebrews called it—“the sprinkling rain” encouraging steady growth. Lastly in April and May the “latter rain” that refreshed and ripened the crops. This may also picture the climate of the Millennial Age. First the heavy rain of intense trouble to soften men's hearts and prepare them for sowing the seed of the Kingdom—next the sprinkling rain of divine deliverance, and finally the latter rain to perfection. The former rain came about October or November, and the latter rain about April to ripen and fill out the wheat. The former rain gave it a start.

The Gospel truths given by Jesus and apostles at the first advent.

MODERATED — Not in so great abundance as the latter rain.

LATTER RAIN — The great abundance of truth on all subjects (Isa. 66:6), given at the second advent. See also former rain.

FIRST MONTH — The first thirty years of the Harvest. 1874-1904 wherein much Scripture explanation was given.

2:24 — FLOORS — See Matt. 3:12 at the first advent. The threshing floor at the second advent.

WHEAT — Wheat class, in the Harvest, the true children of the Kingdom. (Matt. 13:38) The seed of the truth was sown during the Gospel Age, first came the early rain, then the draught of summer (Amos 8:11, 12) then the latter rain. (James 5:7)

THE VATS SHALL — The vats (Leeser) = wine press vats overflow with wine (Truth and its spirit) or fruits of grapes from the Lord's vineyard (John 15; James 5:7) and the olive presses with oil (Holy Spirit of Truth) from the true olive tree (Rom. 11). The presses may represent the trials and testings which produce the fruits of the Spirit in those rightly exercised by them; while the overflowing vats = the abundance of fruits among the true people of God. A higher development than at any previous part of the Gospel Age.

2:25 — This refers to the doctrinal pests and false teachers and teachings which covered up the Truth and left the Church without nourishment from God's Word (Rev. 11:6) during the great dearth of God's Word under the reign of Papacy. These now are being restored. (Leeser = And I will repay to you the years (that is, their fruitage and truth concerning them) in which the locust hath eaten all.).

2:28, 29 — These two verses are reversed in time of fulfillment. See E217-220

AFTERWARD — After the Gospel Age, after the Elect church is gathered. (Acts 15:15-18) This wine (truth) and oil (Holy Spirit) is now being gathered and will be poured out upon the world afterwards.

I WILL POUR OUT — It will be necessary for those who would enjoy it and be profited by it to avail themselves of its privileges; just as it is necessary for believers of this Gospel Age who would come under and be blessed by the Holy Spirit, to make use of the means—to consecrate themselves and to eat the truth that they may have the Spirit of the Truth. (E218)

There will be no difference between the Spirit of God, as it will come upon the world in the next age and the Spirit of God as it comes upon the Church in this age, because it is the same Spirit of truth, the Spirit or influence which God will exert in favor of righteousness and goodness and truth. Nevertheless it will not mean the same thing in every particular then that it means now. To receive the Holy Spirit of God now, and to live in harmony therewith means necessarily a conflict with the spirit of the world—persecution and opposition from all who have not the Spirit. To receive the Holy Spirit then will not mean persecution, because the arrangement of the next age will be very different from the present one, whereas the prince of this world is Satan the Prince of the World to come will be Christ. Since the law of the next age will be the law of righteousness, truth, and will be ruling, those who come into harmony with that government and its law and who have the Spirit of the Truth will not suffer persecution as a result, but will experience favor and blessing. (E220)

The possession of the Holy Spirit during the Millennial Age, will not as during this age signify a begetting of the Spirit to a spirit nature, nor will it signify an acceptance to joint-heirship with Christ in his Kingdom. That promise belongs only to this Gospel Age, and to the servant and handmaiden class who suffer for righteousness sake. The possession of the Holy Spirit then will simply signify that the recipient has come into harmony with Christ, the Mediator, and is to that extent in harmony with God and in line for the blessings which God has provided for mankind in general, which blessings are not to a change of nature to the divine, but a restitution to all that was lost through the failure of the first Adam. (E221)

That will not be a teaching in the Church, nor of the Church, but a teaching of the world by the world under the supervision of the glorified Christ on the spirit plane, and the perfected Ancient Worthies on the human plane as the earthly representatives of the Heavenly Kingdom.

YOUR YOUNG MEN SHALL — “Your young men shall see the glorious visions (of Restitution blessings, etc., in process of fulfillment) of which your ancient men dreamed (the things respecting which they vaguely hoped and dimly understood and greatly longed for).

HANDMAIDS — The Lord’s few people now, the consecrated during this Gospel age.

IN THOSE DAYS — The Gospel Age.

POUR MY SPIRIT — Since Pentecost downward to the end of the age when the last member is begotten of the Spirit. From the Head to the members of the body. (Acts 2:33)

2:30 — THE HEAVENS — Ecclesiastical heavens. Strange works because unexpected. Signs and wonders. Also in the literal heavens.

EARTH — Society, also literal earth.

BLOOD — See verse 31, typified by plague one of Egypt and also in Rev. 16:4-6.

FIRE — Consuming trouble, trial, testing, judgments.

PILLARS OF SMOKE — Confusion and evidence of wreckage and stubble being burned. Go up in smoke.

2:31 — SUN — Gospel message, which will seem darkness and superstition to the eyes of society in general through the sophistries of higher criticism and evolution theories of today.

MOON — Jewish Law which will be viewed as bloody. Its sacrifices will not be esteemed as types nor appreciated as such, but as the work of misguided, barbarous Jews, who slaughtered their animals by the thousands because of their ignorance and superstition, and that the commandments which they obeyed were not of God but of their own conjecture and priestly connivance. (Z. '07-279; R.4059)

3: — This is a key chapter to all the Scriptures have to say about Armageddon. The short, terse, vivid description of the nations feverishly arming themselves and gathering for the final conflict, only to meet the might of the Lord to destroy them has hardly a parallel anywhere. These verses show that the judgment of the Gentile nations and the regathering of Israel will occur at the same time. (Dan. 2:35, 44, 45; Rev. 14:19, 20) Here God asserts His intention of bringing to an end all the smouldering opposition to His purposes by the Gentile nations. (Isa. 11:11, 12; Mal. 3:5; Isa. 12:11-13; 42:13-15)

This chapter has four sections: a) verses 1 and 2; b) verses 3-8; c) verses 9-17; and d) verses 18-21.

3:2 — PLEAD — Enter into judgment with. (Isa. 66:16; Jer. 25:31; Ezek. 38:22)

PARTED MY LAND — The land has been repeatedly divided. First the Assyrians took the ten tribes captive, then Babylon took the rest captive. Only partial restoration under Persia, the people still in subjection. The Greeks, then the Romans oppressed them. Later the Persians, Arabs, Crusaders and Turks trampled the people and the land and made it a wilderness and desert and still continues into the twentieth century. Under pretense of giving the Jews their homeland, they have only a portion, the Arabs have the rest like a spear driven into the side of Israel. The Gentile nations allow Israel to be shot at on every side and robbed them of land rightfully conquered—the Sinai Peninsular. Egypt never did anything with it and does not intend to, but Israel was already prepared to develop it, and had engineers and builders with them as they took possession of Mount Sinai.

3:3-8 — Lists some of the things done by the Gentiles. These things were literally done and worse. (Isa. 12:16-18; 2 Kings 8:12; 15:16; Psa. 137:7-9; Obad. 11; Nah. 3:10)

This selling into slavery and the evils done with it, is the main crime mentioned. The sin of Tyre was old and deep. As they were the carriers of the world's traffic, so they were slave dealers and men stealers. Greek tradition has them trading and selling both men and women from Greece and Egypt. Sisera came from that territory. These nations have ruled over Israel, spoiled their goods and occupied their land. (Amos 1 and 2)

Tyre was taken and destroyed by Alexander, who sold 13,000 inhabitants into slavery. There were two Tyres. The old built on the mainland, and destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar after a siege of thirteen years. The new, built on a rocky islet about one mile from shore, was destroyed by Alexander. (Ezek. 26:7-14; 26:15-21)

Sidon (= to fish) was conquered by Artaxerxes Ochus and it is said 40,000 perished. (Ezek. 28:20-23; Isa. 23; Ezek. 32:30)

In the Kingdom men will find themselves brought under the righteous rule of the once despised slaves whom they had sold and scattered over the earth. (Isa. 60:10, 11; Zech. 8:13, 23)

3:4 — Borders = lit. circles, referring to the five subdivisions, five cities — Gaza, Ashdod, Ashkalon, Gath, Ekron.

RECOMPENSE — Retaliate?

3:9-11 — Thus the nations are impoverishing themselves, bringing down the value of the dollar, into financial ruin. Over $.75 of every dollar goes to military use.

The industry and energy that built this nation is being wasted upon Quixotic ideas and fantastic ambition.

3:11 — THY MIGHTY ONES — Margin. The Lord shall bring down thy mighty ones.

3:12 — WAKENED — By increase of knowledge and inventions.

VALLEY OF JEHOSEPHAT — God is judge. Why this valley? Perhaps Joel was thinking of the valley of Tekoah in Judea, down toward the Dead Sea, where had been a memorable victory of Israel over Moab and Ammon in the days of King Jehoshaphat. (2 Chron. 20) There Israel did rise to the heights of faith and reaped its reward. It seemed as though all were lost, but under the leading of their God-fearing King, the people put their trust in God for defense, and marched out unarmed to meet the invaders, their priests leading the way and singing the high praises of God.

3:13 — The picture changes. The hosts gathered in the fatal valley appear as masses of grapes on the vine, full to bursting, waiting for the gathering. (Rev. 14:19-20; Isa. 63:1-6)

Winepress full, vats overflow = ripeness, wickedness reached to its limit permissible, like Amorites, Sodomites, and Matt. 23:32-36.

3:14 — Valley of concision of threshing (from Margin). The nations of Earth (as nations, not as individuals). Day of Jehovah.

3:15, 16 — These are signs of Christ's presence. (Matt. 24; Luke 21)

ROAR — Speak with might and power as in Exod. 24 at sealing of Mosaic Law Covenant. To the unjust and wicked it will seem terrible.

Jehovah, the hope and strength = Hebrew = place of repair or harbor. Machseh, from a prim. rt. to flee for protection; a shelter, a place of refuge. (Isa. 32:1, 2)

Strength (Hebrew maowz = a fortified place.) The same as the clefts of the Rock, the secret place of the stairs (Cant. 2:14), the chambers of faith (Isa. 26:20). Pavilions. (Psa. 27:4, 5; 31:19, 20)

3:17 — Lord dwelling. Make His home in the hearts of His people. (Rev. 21:1-5; Isa. 25)

Holy mountain. The Kingdom completely devoted to doing God's will.

JERUSALEM BE HOLY — The capital of God's Kingdom, be holiness (margin). The dark days are gone. The prophet has seen evil, with its almost victory, and distress and oppression wax to its zenith and then disappear by the power of the Lord and he is content.

3:17, 18 — The Gentile hosts have been judged and broken to pieces. They undertook their last assault against God's people, and have been repulsed and their power broken forever.

Israel has returned completely and wholly with their heart to the Lord their God, and the Kingdom is established.

NO STRANGER — No unconsecrated person pass through, as a conqueror, or ruler.

3:18 — NEW WINE — New doctrines, the pure and God given Truth. (Zeph. 3:9; Ezek. 32:13, 14; Matt. 26:29)

MILK — Simple fundamental truths or principles, abundant and plain. (Isa. 29:18, 24; 42:16; 35:8)

RIVERS — A picture of full prosperity.

FOUNTAIN — The existence of a large water supply under the temple is beyond all question. While the Temple was still standing mention is made of an overflowing fountain under it, as well as pools and cisterns. One well acquainted with the locality says: "The pavements had slopes to flush with water in order to cleanse away the blood of the many thousands of animals slain in sacrifice on festival occasions. Of water there was a copious supply from a natural fountain within, gushing over. There being moreover wonderful underground receptacles in the substructure of the Temple, and each of these having numerous pipes, the several streams intercommunicating." He relates that more than half a mile from the city, he was told to stoop down and heard the sound of gushing waters underground.

The superfluous water was carried off underground to what is now the Fountain of the Virgin and thence again to the pool of Siloam. The blood of the sacrifices flowed into the same brook, Kidron, and was a known source of fertility. From the pool of Siloam the fertility was carried to the Gardens of Siloam—a little oasis of verdure.

VALLEY OF SHITTIM — Acacia trees, now a dry valley, for in such soil conditions the Acacia or Sandalwood grows. This wood is very strong, of incredible lightness and beauty. This beauty and freshness will be fully restored. (See Gen. 13:10; Ezek. 36:35.)

AMOS

Introduction

The meaning of the name Amos is uncertain. According to Strong's concordance it means burdensome, derived from Amaz, meaning to load or impose a burden. His home was in Judah. (Chap. 7:10) He labored in Ephraim, but was considered a stranger by Amaziah, who reproved him as an insolent nuisance and bade him escape to Judah. So he did not live in Bethel, nor anywhere in the ten tribes. He states his residence was in Tekoah (1:1), a town in Judah often mentioned in the Old Testament. (2 Sam. 14:2; 2 Chron. 11:6; 20:20; Jer. 6:1; I Macc. 9:33) The town is said by Jerome to be some miles south of Bethlehem. The ruins are still preserved in modern Tekva.

In Chapter 7:14 he is called a herdsman, but verse 15 says—"The Lord took me from following the flock," and the Hebrew word means sheep and goats as distinct from larger cattle. So herdsman is used in a wide sense, and included being a shepherd. Jerome, who knew the holy land from personal observation, says the soil in that vicinity is sandy and barren, and full of shepherds who made amends for its failure to yield crops by the number of their flocks. That many shepherds were there is shown by the statement—"among the herdmen of Tekoah." The word herdsman means a sheep master. So he was the owner of flocks, but not wealthy. He calls himself one who cultivates sycamore trees for support (7:14). This tree (wild figs), by its sweet fruit, which it bears abundantly, affords a shepherd a living in the open country food ample and easily obtained. So Amos had a competent support, though not rich. In 7:12 he rejects the summons to go to Judah and eat bread there because he did not prophesy for bread, but has income of his own, and satisfied with simple fare. (Lang's commentary)

THE DATE

Jeroboam II, under which King Amos prophesied at Bethel, came to the throne in the 15th year of Amaziah, King of Judah (2 Kings 14:23) who reigned 29 years and Jeroboam reigned 41 years. So Jeroboam II was 14 years contemporary with Amaziah and 27 years with his successor Uzziah, so the date of Amos' prophecy was between 777 and 804 B.C. Two years before the earthquake—mentioned in Zechariah 14:5, in the reign of Uzziah, king of Judah. It must have been very severe as Zechariah refers to it two and one half centuries later. Uzziah reigned 783 to 759 B.C.

The period of Amos' prophecy was one of great external prosperity for the ten-tribe Kingdom of Israel. Under Jeroboam II it was at its zenith of power. Amos pictured the rich as seeking only increase of wealth and luxury. Under outward pomp and prosperity was a deep moral decay, closely connected with apostasy from the true religion. He openly complains of a contempt for God's law (2:4). Israel had sunk deep in corruption, yet no one either perceived or was willing to learn of any danger, all in careless security. No political sign indicated any danger from a foreign foe. Assyria indeed attracted attention, but seemed in no intention of attacking Israel. One with a living faith in God might well conclude from the nation's departure from true faith, and prevailing moral corruption, that such a people were on the downward road, and divine retribution would surely visit them. But it is a long step from this to a public announcement of certain overthrow by a foreign power. Just this Amos did and showed that he had special revelation from God.

Joel gave judgment upon the nations in general terms. Amos, after an allusion to Israel, then paved the way with a statement of judgment upon foreign nations. He unfolds before the eye of Israel a picture of divine justice in its sure and awful march through the kingdoms.

But if the people at first regard this with satisfaction, because it concerns their foes, upon whom they will thus be avenged, they are frightfully awakened from their fancied security by a sudden turn in the direction of the menace. Israel itself is counted among these Gentile kingdoms, and treated in the same way. Address about Israel's foes is but an introduction, and hence passes rapidly from one to the other, not giving details, but citing only one example of their many transgressions, as an example of the rest. The stroke upon Israel is thus made heavier and more lasting. Were those nations punished? Not less will this one be. Did they suffer, who had not received the Law Covenant, nor enjoyed the special tokens of God's favor? Far heavier will be the punishment of this people who, chosen by God, had yet in the grossness manner despised Him and His well-known commands. The storm of divine wrath at which they gazed as it fell upon others would fall upon them in all its fury. (Lang) (Jer. 25:29; 46:28; 30:11)

It should sink deep into the heart of Israel that not even the possession of such exalted blessings as the Temple and the throne of David could avert the merited punishment. The crimes of these Gentile nations: 1) Crushing with a threshing sledge or wagon; 2) Giving prisoners to embittered foes; 3) Forgetting the brotherly covenant; 4) Slaying a brother and stifling compassion; 5) Ripping the pregnant; 6) Displacing the landmarks; 7) Burning the bones of a corpse—plainly moral offenses, transgression of the simplest laws of morals. God is the provider of all nations, and so their judge, even if they do not serve Him. (Psa. 104:27-30) This shows the impartial character of His punitive righteousness. He is no respecter of persons.

1:1 — THE WORDS OF AMOS — An unusual expression. Usually stated as the word of Jehovah, as in Hosea, Joel, Micah. Jeremiah used the same expression (Jer. 1:1), but adds—to whom the word of Jehovah came.

WHICH HE SAW — Indicates a vision. vss. 2, 3 show the message was from Jehovah.

CONCERNING ISRAEL — The first and second chapters are introduction to get their attention. He takes up first the judgment of the Lord against—1) Damascus (vss. 3-5); 2) Philistia (vss. 6-8); 3) Tyre (vss. 9, 10); 4) Edom (vss. 11, 12); 5) Ammon (vss. 13-15); 6) Moab (vss. 1-3 of Chap. 2); then Judah (2:4, 5), in short arresting sentences, then having their attention he turns to Israel (ten tribes), and in greater detail names the prevailing sins. 1) Oppression of the poor; 2) Lascivious luxury; 3) Gross contempt for God's favors to them as His chosen people; 4) A full announcement of the complete subjugation of Israel under an invading foe. Note that in their arraignment he mentions four items, as in the denunciation of the other nations.

TWO YEARS BEFORE THE EARTHQUAKE — The Jordan valley, descending lower and lower, the sulphurous and bituminous condition around the Dead Sea, lava, pumice stones, hot springs, crater like depression of the Dead Sea itself 1300 feet below sea level and 3500 feet below Jerusalem, and only 20 miles off, basaltic columns, disturbed strata and numerous crevices, all show volcanic action. The vale of Siddim, south of the Dead Sea, probably sank due to an earthquake. (Fossett's Bible Dictionary) (Gen. 14:1-3) Other occurrences—Bela (meaning swallowed up) is so called as having been engulfed by an earthquake; Dathan and Abiram in Num. 16:30-32; at our Lord's death. (Matt. 25:51-54)

1:2 — THE LORD WILL ROAR FROM ZION — UTTER HIS VOICE FROM JERUSALEM — A prophecy of the final judgment, preceding the Kingdom. Zion—the glorified Church, the spiritual phase of the Kingdom; Jerusalem—the earthly phase through the prophets and Ancient Worthies. Jerusalem will be the capital of the world. (Jer. 3:17)

HABITATIONS OF THE SHEPHERDS SHALL MOURN — (R.S.V. "The pastures of the shepherds.") The religious leaders mourn because their churches and congregations fade away, due to perplexity and fear of events. The shepherds are greedy, lazy, ignorant teachers.

TOP OF CARMEL WITHER — In early days there were forests clear to the top of this mountain, which is a plateau where Elijah tested and slew 400 prophets of Baal. These and the pastures there would dry up. The earthly blessings would be withdrawn for a time. (Isa. 32:9-20.)

1:3, 4 — Judgment upon the nations, six in number, or seven if we include Israel, and begins with Damascus and Syria. In Jeremiah, chapters 47-52, ten nations, all the earth. As these ten nations represent the world in general in the final judgment, these seven were nations round about Israel, and may represent what is called Christendom. See the five woes of Habakkuk 2.

1:3, 4, 5 DAMASCUS — THUS SAITH JEHOVAH — Emphatic 3, yea 4, not exactly 3, but more. One particular offence is mentioned. The city Damascus represents Syria as a nation. Their harsh and cruel treatment of Gilead, the tribes of Israel east of the Jordan, under iron threshing machines. This occurred when Palestine east of the Jordan was subdued by Hazael. (2 Kings 10:32, 33; 13:7)

SEND FIRE — Consuming trouble. These nations had incurred, not a light, but a heavy degree of guilt, Hazael the father and Ben Hadad the son. (2 Kings 13:3)

DEVOUR PALACES — Take away and destroy their luxuries and comforts, destroy the kingdom.

NOT TURN AWAY — Not stop or delay the punishment. The execution is inevitable.

BREAK THE BAR OF DAMASCUS — Literally, shatter the bolt, that is of the gate, certifying the conquest of Damascus.

PLAIN OF AVEN — Literally, the valley of nothingness. Modern Beka, the valley between Lebanon and Antilebanon in Syria. It is 230 miles long and 8-20 miles wide, and is a most fruitful valley. Heliopolis (or Baalbek) was the chief city.

HOLDETH THE SCEPTER — The king, meaning he would be subject to other rulers.

HOUSE OF EDEN — The reigning family. The river Leontes flows in the valley.

CAPTIVITY UNTO KIR — Fulfilled by Tiglath Pileser. (2 Kings 16:5-9) Kiry was a province of Assyria on the banks of the River Kir (or Cyrus), which flows into the Caspian Sea, now Georgia. This captivity occurred about 730 B.C.

1:6-8 — PHILISTIA — GAZA — Mentioned as most actively engaged in the sale of the captives.

WALL — The defenses.

WHOLE CAPTIVITY — Complete, in full number, all the prisoners. See Joel 3:6. Joel speaks of sale to the Grecians, both occurred.

EDOM — Descendants of Esau, hated the Jews. Hatred by the Philistines against the Jews needs retribution. Edom was Israel's chief foe. Four of the five cities of the Philistines are mentioned. Gath is omitted, but probably included in "the remnant of the Philistines shall perish."

PALACES — The choicest of their treasures, their licentious luxury. God's blessings misused bring certain retribution.

CUT OFF THE INHABITANT FROM ASHDOD — In the general ruin of Philistia. The name Ashdod means a ravager, from Shadad, a primitive root meaning properly to be burly, powerful, by implication to ravage, hence those who selfishly seize property of others for self, or hatefully to ruin, or destroy. Such will themselves be cut off, ravaged, prevented.

HOLDETH THE SCEPTER FROM ASHKELON — Meaning a mart or market place, from Shaqal, a primitive root, to suspend or weigh (in trade), in the sense of a weighing place. Hence those in authority to judge, decide.

TURN MY HAND AGAINST EKRON — Exterminate, eradicate; from Awkar a primitive root to pluck up (by the roots), specifically to hamstring; figuratively exterminate. Hence He will destroy the destroyers. (Rev. 11:18) Remnant of Philistines shall perish.

1:9, 10 — TYRUS — The judgment upon Phoenecia.

DELIVERED UP THE WHOLE CAPTIVITY TO EDOM. — The same crime as charged against Philistia, delivering captive Israelites over to their worst enemy, Edom. The Tyrians may have bought them from others, or maybe they fled there for refuge.

BROTHERLY COVENANT — The one made between Solomon and Hiram. (1 Kings 5:12; 2 Chron. 2:11-16) The Israelites may have hoped for a refuge there.

FIRE DEVOUR PALACES — Tyre on the coast was subjected by Nebuchadnezzar, and destroyed after a siege of 13 years. (Ezek. 26:7-14) New Tyre was built on a rocky islet about one mile from shore, and was destroyed by Alexander, who sold 13,000 of its inhabitants into slavery.

(Ezek. 26:15-21; Joel 3:3-8) Their chief joys and choicest possessions were to be taken away. Nebuchadnezzar's siege of Tyre was about the time of his subjection of Syria, a little before 606 B.C. Alexander's siege was in 332 B.C.

1:11, 12 — Judgment upon the land of Esau. (See Deut. 23:7, 8) The crime here mentioned is hatred and cruelty. The Arab nations still bear the same hatred toward the Jews, and plan to destroy Israel. @SECOND PAR = TEMAN — A city of Edom mentioned by both Eusebius and Jerome, six hours journey from Petra.

BOZRA — The capital city of Idumea, south of the Dead Sea, now the village of El Buseirah, in Jebel. Edom steeled himself against his own better feelings, stifled his compassion, acted without mercy. (See Psa. 137:7-9; Isa. 13:16; Hosea 13:16; Nahum 3:10; Hosea 10:14; Jer. 49:7-22) These places were desolate for centuries, only in modern investigations of archeology being found again, their very memory forgotten. (Eccl. 1:11)

1:13-15 — AMMON — Judgment upon the children of Lot. (See Deut. 2:18-23; Hosea 13:16; Jer. 49:1-6; Deut. 23:3, 4)

RIPPED UP WOMEN WITH CHILD — Again the crime is needless cruelty. Like Chaka of the Zulus; Ghengis Kahn of China; the slaughterer, Nero, Domitian.

RABBAH — (Meaning wall, and would represent in modern times, the civil power.) It was the capital of the Ammonites. (Deut. 3:11; Jer. 49:1-6; Ezek. 25:1-7)

SHOUTING, TEMPEST — Desperation and violence of the retribution, irresistible. With such crimes is it any wonder that the time of trouble is necessary? (Rev. 18:24)

KINGS, PRINCES — Retribution upon the leaders for their selfishness. Ruins and desolation are all that remains of these places. The judgment was carried out completely, and so will the destruction of the present powers of evil and selfishness, in the time of trouble ahead of us.

2:1-3 — MOAB — One of the children of Lot, the judgment upon them as a nation. (See Isa. 15:16; Jer. 48; Ezek. 25:8-11; Zeph. 2:8-11)

BURNED THE BONES — The carrying of hatred even beyond the grave to the dead body (but see "drawn and quartered" in England only two centuries ago). Perhaps this occurred in the war waged by Joram of Israel and Jehoshaphat of Judah and the King of Edom against Moab. (2 Chron.

20: 1-25) Edom was a vassal on the side of Israel, and so this was an insult to Israel also.

KIRIOTH — A chief city of Moab, now Kereyat, meaning buildings, or a city.

DIE WITH TUMULT, SHOUTING, TRUMPET — By conquest from without, as by Assyria and Babylon.

JUDGE — Equivalent to king or scepter holder, as a judge over the people.

IN THE MIDST — From being the central authority, from among them.

SLAY THE PRINCES — The leaders of the people who have misled them away from God and their covenant. History shows that the people are easily led, even want to be led, and if their leaders are righteous the people will follow them, and if the leaders are evil the people will follow them also. So the leaders are the most to blame, and should have the more severe punishment. See Jer. 48:41-44; Num. 24:17.

2:4, 5 — Judah's sin was apostasy from God.

LIES — Their worship of false gods and the associated immoral practices led them into a maze of false views, farther and farther away from God and His righteousness.

DESPISED — Man carries on the serpent's first fraud. He would not willingly own that he is directly opposed to God. That was too silly and terrible. So, lying to himself—"God's word must not be taken too seriously, too precisely. God cannot have meant just that." So he avoids the Law. (Matt. 15:4-9)

FOUR TRANSGRESSIONS OF JUDAH — Coming now to God's people, but still the other kingdom, with whom the ten tribes were often at war.

LIES CAUSE THEM TO ERR — Wrong beliefs lead to increasing darkness of mind, blur the vision, lead to fighting against God (Acts 5:33-40) as their fathers had done.

FIRE, DESTROY PALACES — Disobedience destroys even God's blessings. The only way lastingly to enjoy the works of God, His earthly or spiritual good things, is to be in harmony with Him, and His law.

2:6 — Coming at last to the ten tribes — their faults are many — defrauding the righteous, bribery of court judges and juries, oppression of the poor, immoral practices, pledges taken for usury, appropriating to themselves the fines imposed upon others.

SOLD THE POOR FOR A PAIR OF SHOES — The poorest slave was certainly worth more than this, a mere trifle for which the poor man was in debt, and for which the bribed judge gave him up to the creditors as a slave. (Lev. 25:39-43)

2:7 — PANT AFTER DUST OF THE EARTH ON THE HEAD OF THE POOR — Bring the poor to such misery they will strew dust on their heads as a token of hopeless misery or sink into the dust and die.

TURN ASIDE THE MEEK — Deny their rights and defraud them. (Isa. 10:2; Amos 5:12; Isa. 29:21)

PROFANE MY HOLY NAME — Degrade it, because they were called God's people, and other nations regarded them as such. Caused His name to be blasphemed among the Gentiles. (Rom. 2:24; Isa. 52:5; 2 Sam. 12:14) Deliberate disregard and contempt of God's name. (Lev. 20:7, 8)

2:8 — CLOTHING LAID TO PLEDGE — R.S.V.: "They lay themselves down beside every altar upon garments taken in pledge." R.V.—"They stretch themselves upon pawned clothes by every altar." (Ex. 22:25-27; Deut. 24:10-13) Greed, hypocrisy, and mockery.

DRINK WINE OF THE CONDEMNED — Wine of those who had been fined, in the house of their god. Not their own wine. (Prov. 5:15-17) Jehovah was worshipped at Dan and at Bethel, but it was with idols, and hence broke the second commandment, and led to apostasy. The name, Jehovah, was linked with immoral practices, and with other gods, as merely one of many, and so was an insult to Jehovah.

2:9 — AMORITE — Mentioned as one of the strongest of the Canaanite tribes. (Num. 21:21-26) Uses Eastern parabolic language.

CEDARS — Of Lebanon, the tallest trees of Palestine, and felt that they would endure forever.

OAKS — Strongest of the native woods and represents great leaders of the world.

FRUIT FROM ABOVE — (Isa. 5:24) The best of his grandeur, military might, his pride and accomplishments, wealth.

ROOTS FROM BENEATH — His idolatry and evil practices; hopes and expectations based upon wrong ideas, perverted. The roots of a nation are its beliefs, the habits of the common people, their standards. This meant a thorough destruction.

2:10 — As miraculously as He had destroyed the Amorite so He had led Israel from Egypt and through the wilderness to possess their land, forty years patiently dealing with them in the wilderness. The Lord here calls Israel's attention to the care and patience He had expended to bring them into the possession of their enemies.

2:11 — God specially favored Israel by choosing Israelites for His special messengers. The prophet arouses their attention lest they turn away—"Is not this true? All these special favors?" So we do well to count our blessings, when we feel inclined to complain, or become dissatisfied. They could not deny that they had shared these favors.

O YE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL — Calls attention to their fathers, that they were the inheritors of the promises, and should value them, but had not even been thankful.

2:12 — Ye showed contempt for all these. These benefits are so many loud accusations, from which there is no escape. For all Israel's sins are not merely violations of divine law, but a shameful contempt for His goodness, and the blackest ingratitude. The punishments are a just reversal of abused mercies.

These gifts of grace gave Israel an advantage over the Gentile nations, and distinguished them as the people of God and the medium of salvation for other nations. (Rom. 3:1, 2; 9:4, 5; John 4:22) Amos reminds the people, not so much of the earthly blessings which the Gentiles also had, but the real pledges of God's gracious covenant with Israel.

YE GAVE NAZARITES WINE TO DRINK — The life of the Nazarite was a continual protest against the self indulgence and worldliness of the people. It was a life above nature. They had no special office except to live that life. Their life taught others. In one way it taught the more, because they had no special gifts of wisdom or knowledge, nothing to distinguish them from ordinary men except extraordinary grace. They were an evidence of what all men might be and do if they used the grace of God. Had the men in power not felt that the people respected the Nazarites they would not have attempted to corrupt them or force them to break their vow. Evil minded people try to drag down to their own level of degradation those who are striving to live rightly.

2:13 — I WILL PRESS YOU DOWN IN YOUR PLACE, AS A CART IS USED TO THRESH WHEAT — See margin. (Isa. 28:29) A crushing so severe that no one could escape.

2:14 — THEREFORE — Because of these long continued and oft repeated rebellions, unrepented of and even in defiance of God.

The head of Carmel is dried up, its glory has passed away. God has spoken the word, and it came to pass. All lies waste, all is a wilderness. The utmost fertility is here lost to man, useless to man. The vineyards of Carmel, where are they now? Behold the long rows of stones on the ground, the remains of the walls. They will tell you that where now with difficulty you force your way through the thick entangled copse, in the days of old lay those incomparable vineyards to which Carmel owes its name.

God is longsuffering and ready to forgive, but when the sinner finally becomes a vessel of wrath, He punishes all the former sins which for the time He had passed by. Sin adds to sin out of which it grows; it does not overshadow or obliterate the earlier sins but increases the mass of guilt which God punishes. When the Jews crucified the Son all the righteous blood shed upon the earth from Abel to Zacharias was required of them. That generation should have had the result of all the blessings bestowed, but because of disobedience they bore the result of all the evil committed. So the present generation, who have not only disregarded the repeated warnings of God's messengers, but treated them evilly and cast them out with contempt, must bear the result of the accumulated evils of the past in the worst time of trouble which the world has ever known, which will effectively destroy all the powers of evil.

Edom pursued his brother with the sword. Eleven hundred years had passed since the birth of their forefathers, Jacob and Esau, but the enmity had continued throughout the centuries. It was an abiding law that Israel was not to take Edom's land nor refuse to admit him into the congregation of the Lord. (Deut. 2:4-12; 23:7, 8) Edom also remembered the relation, but only to hate Israel.

Ammon committed unspeakable atrocities, merely to enlarge their border or inheritance. The war of extermination was carried not incidentally nor in a sudden surge of passion, but in cold blood. A massacre here and there would not have enlarged their border. They wished to make place for themselves by annihilating Israel, that there might be none to rise up and thrust them from their conquests and claim their old inheritance. Such was the fruit of habitually indulged covetousness. Such is the heart condition of the Arab nations today, and such are the communists, but the Lord has a rod in store for them, that will subdue all the enemies of righteousness.

The rage against the bodies of the dead is sinful and horrible. The hatred vented upon one's remains is a sort of impotent grasping after eternal vengeance. It wreaks upon what it knows to be insensible the hatred which would pursue if it could beyond the grave. Hatred which death cannot extinguish prepares the mind for eternal death.

FLIGHT SHALL PERISH FROM THE SWIFT — No time to escape, no way to flee, paralyzed with an overwhelming disaster.

STRONG SHALL NOT STRENGTHEN HIMSELF — Strength no help, unable to use it. Leeser—“Not make use of his force.”

MIGHTY — Neither influence nor money be any longer any help. All will go down together.

2:15 — BOW — Skill in arms will be of no avail, military power be useless, because a greater power than man can muster is behind the scenes. This is a vivid description of the final struggle of the powers that be to hold control over mankind.

3:1 — HEAR THIS WORD — A phrase repeated in the beginning of chapters 5 and 6 and shows each chapter is a complete message. These chapters (3-6) contain four discourses, in which the Kingdom of Israel, especially the great men are threatened with divine judgment, destruction of palaces and sanctuaries, overthrow of the kingdom and carrying away of the people, unless they seize the only hope of deliverance—seeking the Lord in repentance and asking forgiveness. A man of the people, a herdsman, feels himself called chiefly to scourge the nobles, and specially those by whom the people suffered. It is correct to say God called and used him to chastise such people. He declaims against the sins of the great because their position is so important, that upon their conduct depends the weal or woe of the community; for if corruption prevails in their circles the foundations of the national prosperity and security are undermined and shaken.

Because important, they are very responsible. Their rights and privileges impose corresponding duties. They have much ability, but much is expected from them. To much is given, much is required. If they mistake and abuse their position, so much the heavier is their guilt, and the greater the harm they work. Their degeneracy at last brings destruction on the whole.

UPON THE WHOLE FAMILY — The nation as a whole, called and chosen of God, and so the punishment for sin comes upon all. As far as sin extends so far must punishment follow.

BROUGHT UP FROM EGYPT — Calls attention to this great favor in the beginning of their nation.

3:2 — YOU ONLY HAVE I KNOWN — Chosen, since the knowledge expresses sympathy and love. These have had greater blessings of instruction and training, and so were lifted up above other nations, enjoyed greater privileges, hence deserved more severe correction.

- 3:3 — CAN TWO WALK TOGETHER — The two are Jehovah and Israel. He cannot longer associate with them because of their shameful and brazen conduct. (1 John 2:6-10) The answer is no! These parabolic statements are to show every effect has its cause.
- 3:4 — WILL A LION ROAR — The Lion is Jehovah, the roar is His complaint and judgments. (Roar—Hosea 11:10; Isa. 42:13; Jer. 25:30) He has adequate cause in the base ingratitude and rebellion of Israel.
- 3:5 — DOES A BIRD FALL IN A SNARE — WHEN THERE IS NO TRAP FOR IT (R.S.V.) — There is no result without a cause. Does a snare spring up from the ground when it has taken nothing?
- 3:6 — IS A TRUMPET BLOWN IN A CITY AND THE PEOPLE ARE NOT AFRAID? (R.S.V.) — “Does evil befall a city, and the Lord hath not done it?” The Lord had a covenant with Israel binding Him to bless them if they were obedient and punish them if disobedient. (Lev. 26; Deut. 28) This was not true of any of the Gentile nations.
- 3:7 — THEREFORE, SURELY THE LORD WILL DO NOTHING, BUT HE REVEALETH HIS SECRET UNTO HIS SERVANTS THE PROPHETS — When the prophet speaks or predicts, the Lord has revealed it to him. If Jehovah has revealed it to him then what he predicts is a message from Jehovah, and will surely come to pass. Also all the Lord’s purposes for mankind are recorded in the Bible, which should make us the more eager to study its pages, especially by those who love Him and want to cooperate with Him.
- 3:8 — THE LION HAD ROARED, JEHOVAH HATH SPOKEN — The lion is Jehovah.
- FEAR — Reverence. Jehovah hath spoken and His true people will delight to carry the message, they cannot refrain from uttering it. (Jer. 23:28, 29)
- 3:9 — Not only are the sins to be punished, but the Gentile nations are summoned to be witnesses. This shows their sin, the disobedience to be very great, even to astonish the nations, and thus put Israel to shame. Israel regarded the Gentiles as godless heathen, and when she is compared with them her pride will be brought down to the ground. (Ezek. 5:5-11; 16:47, 48; 2 Kings 21:9, 16, 51)

ASSEMBLE ON THE MOUNTAINS — So as to get a full view of the whole situation. So Christians get a better view of the corruption of Christendom by coming outside to the Kingdom class. (Luke 21:20-22)

BEHOLD GREAT TUMULTS — The evil behavior of Israel, unnatural extremes of their worship of idols, abandoning themselves to evil, and their shameful ingratitude to God.

OPPRESSIONS — Of the poor, injustice, thievery, murder. (Chap. 2:6-9)

3:10 — KNOW NOT TO DO RIGHT — Do not understand, so accustomed were they to do evil. Habit had blinded their minds, so they forgot how.

STORE UP VIOLENCE AND ROBBERY — The proceeds of their violence and robbery went to adorn their rich homes.

3:11 — AN ADVERSARY BE FOUND — The Lord will withdraw His protecting power, and all their pride and wealth be destroyed. The adversary turned out to be Assyria in 739 A.D.

BRING DOWN THY STRENGTH — Since they turned their backs upon God, their ability to defend themselves would be gone.

3:12 — In the plundering of Samaria, only the evidences of destruction would be left. The people were transported to Elam and Persia (2 Kings 17:6), and there became absorbed among the nations. Leeser: “Sit in Samaria on the corner of a bed, and on Damascus couches.” Roth: “So shall be rescued the sons of Samaria in the corner of the divan, and on the damask of the luxurious couch.” Their hiding would not save.

3:13 — HEAR YE — Pay attention, give heed, these are no idle threats. Jehovah commands it.

JACOB — Natural Israel.

3:14 — ALTARS OF BETHEL — Where the idol worship of calves was practiced. These were set up by Jeroboam I. Shameful misuse of the name of Bethel—the house of God.

HORNS OF THE ALTAR — Its power and influence be destroyed. The horns had the blood of the sacrifices sprinkled upon them, thus calling attention to the power of the altar to make anything holy which touched it. (Exod. 29:37)

FALL TO THE GROUND — Brought low as possible, be destroyed. The original altar at Bethel is mentioned in 1 Kings 13, and 2 Kings 23:15-18.

At the present time the altars of Christendom are the various sects and denominations, these also shall be brought low, and lose their power and influence, in the day when the towers fall.

3:15 — WINTER HOUSE — Refuge from the cold blasts of winter, hence their comforts and luxuries.

SUMMER HOUSE — Easy, luxury, pleasure. Both of these to be taken away, as from an unworthy and rebellious house and people. Primarily those of the royal family and of the nobles, the wealthy.

HOUSES OF IVORY — Extremes of luxury and selfishness, shall have no end. The certain end of all greed and oppression.

GREAT HOUSES — The Hebrew means not large, but many, meaning the wealth and ease of the nation shall disappear. It seems that not even a remnant of the ten tribes was saved, except only that portion which had already, previous to the destruction of Samaria, gone over to Judah. (2 Chron. 35:17, 18; 30:11, 21.)

4:1 — HEAR THIS WORD — The same phrase occurs in chapters 3-5. Each chapter is a separate message.

KINE OF BASHAN — A contemptuous term, like beasts, the cattle of Dan, strong, fat, well fed, because of their extortions and luxurious life. Perhaps also suggests their effeminacy. The term refers to the kings, princes, and other men of rank.

MOUNTAINS OF SAMARIA — The city was on a hill. It was the capital of the nation, where the elite of the kingdom gathered or resided.

OPPRESS THE POOR, CRUSH THE NEEDY — As in Chapter 3, the very opposite of what they should be, blind greed detestable.

BRING AND LET US DRINK — Debauchery as well as luxury. The prophet upbraids them not for fierceness, but for a more delicate and wanton unfeelingness, the fruit of luxury, fullness of bread, a life of sense, dull the mind, deaden the sympathetic senses. Perhaps some of them did not directly oppress, perhaps even did not know that it was done; they sought only that their own thirst for luxury and self-indulgence should be gratified, and may not have known, as is often the case, that their luxuries are watered by the tears of the poor, tears shed almost unknown except to the Master of both. But He counts wilful ignorance no excuse.

4:2 — THE LORD HATH SWORN BY HIS HOLINESS — In contrast to their debauchery. This quality of His character was the most insulted by their evil behavior. The Great Day of Jehovah is holding on its steady course, with steady, noiseless tread it is coming upon the evil doer. Men put out of their minds the day of reckoning, but it is now gathering in dark, threatening clouds.

THE DAYS SHALL COME UPON YOU. DRAG YOU AWAY WITH HOOKS — Referring to the practices in those days of chaining captives together, fastening their arms above their heads, using yokes.

AND THE REMNANT WITH FISH HOOKS — Not their posterity, but the very last one of them, with cruelty and severity, to slavery. To render this “posterity,” would mean two generations would suffer the punishment, which was not the case. The captivity would include their then children as well as the grown.

4:3 — THROUGH BREACHES IN THE WALLS, EVERY ONE STRAIGHT BEFORE HER — Not being allowed to turn to right or left. Depressing captivity and oppression.

CAST AWAY — Note margin—“Ye shall cast away the things of the palace” (Hebrew—Harmown—high place, castle, palace). Fer. Fen.—“They will fling you to the public.” The complete conquering by the enemy, without mercy.

4:4 — COME TO BETHEL, TO GILGAL, MULTIPLY TRANSGRESSION — They will not arrest the judgment day by your idolatrous worship, eagerly as you may pursue that worship. It is only an enlargement of your sin. It is bitterly ironical, this summons to greater zeal. They worshipped idols in the name of Jehovah. Continuing in that course, even more zealously, would only bring them into greater condemnation.

SACRIFICES, TITHES EVERY THREE YEARS — Even if you offered slain sacrifices and offerings every morning and the tithes (Deut. 26:12), it would only increase your guilt.

4:5 — SACRIFICE WITH LEAVEN — (Lev. 2:11; 7:12, 13) Leaven was prohibited to be used on the altar, because it typified sin, but should be used on an offering to be eaten by the priests. The irony here was that the worship and heart condition was wilfully sinful.

PROCLAIM FREE OFFERINGS — To gain public esteem for holiness, not acceptable to God. (Matt. 6:1, 4; Luke 11:39-44)

FOR THIS LIKETH YOU — Giving public notice of one’s gifts indicates pride and the love of praise, far from the true spirit of giving in meekness.

O YE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL — Claiming to be the children of Israel (Jacob), a prince with God, they were showing an exactly opposite character, a rebellious disposition. This was stinging satire!

SAITH THE MIGHTY JEHOVAH — The supreme Judge of all, the standard of perfection, of right and truth. The one whose all seeing eye detects the sophistry and hypocrisy even if we cannot discern our own thoughts.

4:6 — All punishment hitherto had been in vain, five incidents are given, each ending with the sorrowful refrain — AND YET YE HAVE NOT RETURNED UNTO ME! — Thus strikingly displaying the patient, deep love of Jehovah, who visits and punishes His people to prevent the necessity of more severe punishment.

AND I ALSO — The prophet sets what Jehovah did in opposition to what the people did. Jehovah fulfilled His duty as agreed in the Law Covenant. This punishment was famine.

4:7, 8 — WITHHELD THE RAIN — The latter rain is meant. It fell in February and March, while the harvest occurred in May and June, an interval reckoned about three months. This is utterly ruinous to the farmer. A little earlier or a little later would not be so fatal, but drouth three months before harvest is entirely destructive. (Land and Book) Withholding of rain is stated as partial, to show more distinctly that it was of God.

ONE FIELD — Very local, even as some are now, when a similar weather condition prevails. Two or three cities wandered to one city to drink water. But this did not wake them up to come to Jehovah in repentance and ask forgiveness, with resolves to obey thereafter. This was thirst and cutting off of many privileges, and enjoyments. But this did not effect them to change their hearts.

4:9 — SMITTEN WITH BLAST AND MILDEW — A bad harvest, blight upon the grains and destruction of the fruits, by locusts and worms. Even this had no effect.

4:10 — Fourth chastisement, pestilence and war. Disease as in Egypt, the Botch of Egypt.

TAKE AWAY YOUR HORSES — They could not use their chariots for defense, and much of their fine show would be impossible.

STINK OF YOUR CAMPS — Unsanitary conditions due to lack of rain, pestilence and disease. (See 2 Kings 8:12; 13:3-7) Yet even this did not wake them, they were incurably blinded. (Rom. 1:18-32)

FIREBRAND PLUCKED OUT OF THE BURNING — Israel was repeatedly forgiven, and kept separate from the nations. God's every effort had been to use them as a blessing to others, but their persistence in degradation and debauchery made them totally unfit. The emphasis is not on the escape from the burning, but of the narrowness of it. It vividly pictures the severity of their chastisement. Inexcusable are they for not having returned unto Jehovah.

4:11 — This sums up all in a single phrase. The reference to Sodom and Gomorrah is to Gen. 19:29, where the word overthrow occurs, and which became a standard phrase to describe this fate. (Deut. 29:18-28; Isa. 1:7; 13:19; Jer. 49:17, 18; 50:40; Jude 7)

4:12 — THEREFORE THUS WILL I DO UNTO THEE, PREPARE TO MEET THY GOD — Not thy doom! but to avert it by true repentance. The punishment is unavoidable, but repent and meet it like a man. The punishment will then have a cleansing effect. With one uniform, steady, noiseless tread the judgments are approaching, and cannot be avoided.

4:13 — Be sure that the one who formed the mountains, the Creator of the wind, the reporter to man of what he decides and plans, who uses the wings of darkness and walks on the heights of the earth—Jehovah, the God of all the angelic beings of heaven and of all the forces of earth, in His name, the one from everlasting to everlasting.

THE GREAT CREATOR OF ALL — Even of the wind. All might and power concentrated in Him, majesty, righteousness. With a short but lofty description of God, transcendent greatness and power almighty, the prophet closes the chapter, showing that Jehovah speaks with emphasis, and can execute His threatenings. It is beautiful poetically and profound theologically. It shows an elevation and depth in the conception of God, which permits a very definite conviction as to the strength and clearness of the divine manifestation made to Israel. As thus controlling all things, God is called the God of Hosts. Amos is fond of this phrase in the vehement outpouring of indignation in Chapter 3:6, 13; 4:13; 5:16, 27; 6:8, 14. Here Jehovah appears as one who towers above all creature existences, who rules the highest spheres of might; against whom therefore nothing can avail; around whom everything stands ready to execute His will. He is not merely the national God of Israel alone, but the God of the world. Hence He is not merely a natural force which builds and again destroys, but a personal God, who acts according to His own thought, which He makes known to men. And as such a personal, self-conscious, self acting being. He stands in constant relations with His personal creatures. (Lang)

“With the courage to bear testimony must be united the courage to suffer on account of such testimony.” “The fear of man should not close the mouth to an open testimony against the high and mighty.”

“The more violently men deal in matters of office and government, the more viciously they proceed among their fellows, trying to stifle all human feelings for others’ need, all complaints against the wrong that is done.”
(Lang)

God tries all means before proceeding to extremes. If benefits are not recognized He sends chastisements. These in the first instance aim not at destruction, but at opening the eyes through perception of divine wrath so men may repent and seek God. They are therefore as much tokens of grace as proofs of wrath. But if this goal is not reached, the forbearance of God ceases and decisive judgment steps forth. But this last is something extorted from God. It is against His real disposition. Only with reluctance does He resolve upon it. He waits long in the hope that there will be a change, so the last will not be necessary.

We seek in the course of God’s dealings with men, not the blind mechanics of a clock, but the work of a personal, intelligent will, which considers the law of that course as the thought of this will which rules and governs the whole, the domain of the spiritual, as well as the moral and physical; and naturally does not leave these to run on merely side by side, but puts them in constant and intimate relation and alternation with each other, so that physical life finds its highest aim in the loftier domain of moral and spiritual life.

A nation is determined to maintain and guard its independence and freedom, and considers the loss of it the last punishment from God’s hand. This is very clearly the prophet’s view. (Lang)

5:1 — HEAR THIS WORD — Listen, take note, for it concerns your very life. By heeding you may escape the doom of evil doers.

WHICH I TAKE UP AGAINST YOU, EVEN AS A LAMENT — The Hebrew word is the same as in David’s lament over Saul and Jonathan, a wail, or long moan of sorrow. In it the terribleness of sin (evil, disobedience) and the destruction to which it leads, is sadly shown; but at the same time are interwoven warnings to seek God so that in some measure the punishment may be abated.

In this chapter, more than in the preceding ones, admonition is given with a promise annexed. The sharper the threatening, the more the way of escape is pointed out, for God desires not that any should perish. (2 Peter 3:9; Ezek. 18:31, 32; 33:11) God so gracious, so sympathetic to our blindness that He not only shows us our sins, but even mourns that He must punish us for them. So much does He long for us to enjoy life. Did we heed God's warnings we would not need to hear His lament. The bewailed who know why they are bewailed are the more miserable because they know not their own misery. This lament over the fall of Israel is a mournful song or dirge. The song begins in verse 2.

5:2 — THE VIRGIN ISRAEL IS FALLEN — The one who had such promise and glory! Who had every prospect for beauty and usefulness, who could have been so glorious! Now stretched out —

UPON HER OWN SOIL — Living in the gutter of sin, wallowing in the mire! See Jeremiah's lament.

NOT RISE AGAIN — Helpless and utterly unable to repent and rise again.

NO ONE RAISES HER — None of all her lovers, the Gentile nations, are willing to. Again and again had God forgiven her, but she would not listen, would not learn. "If our evil behavior has turned the Lord against us our walls become cobwebs; but if the Lord is with us because of our faithful efforts then our cobwebs become walls." (Wordsworth)

5:3 — Only a small remnant can be saved. Wars and destruction shall remove the greater number. Only one in ten! Is the short enjoyment of fleeting pleasures worth the loss?

5:4 — SEEK YE ME AND LIVE — Four times repeated. Repeated efforts to reach their hearts, to wake them up, to save them. Note the wonderful conciseness of God's word. Seek Him for Himself as the fountain of life, as the source of all worth having, of happiness, of health, and fullness of joy. Not seek His gifts, His created things, but seek Himself.

5:5 — SEEK NOT BETHEL — Israel pretended to seek Jehovah in idol worship at Bethel, thus breaking the second commandment. The God worshipped at Bethel was not the true God, to seek God there was to lose Him.

IT SHALL COME TO NAUGHT — Be destroyed with its worshippers. (Rev. 18:4; Jer. 51:6, 45; 50:8)

GILGAL — (Place of rolling away, Josh. 5:9.) There the reproach of Egypt was rolled away. Our blessings are turned into curses if we misuse them. Our holiest Gilgals—sacraments, scriptures, sermons, Sundays—which were designed by God to help roll away the influences of the world, will be rolled away from us if we misuse them, and will roll us down to destruction. (Wordsworth)

PASS NOT TO BEER-SHEBA — Jeroboam pretended it was too much for Israel to go to Jerusalem (1 Kings 12:26-28), yet Israel thought it not too much to go to Beer-Sheba, three or four times further, so much more pains will men take in self service, and yet not see that it takes away the excuse for neglecting the Truth. They had forgotten that Beer-Sheba (the well of the oath) represented the Abrahamic Covenant. They had cast it aside!

5:6 — SEEK THE LORD AND LIVE — The second repeat. Live in life's full richness, a proof there is no other way. Men are trying the other miscalled ways now and find only loss and disappointment and vain regret. (Cardinal Woolsey's lament) Though repeated so often in vain, God's gracious promises must be held before men, lest in despair they abandon themselves to sin and evil. How can one feel genuine repentance if he has no hope? (Acts 17:30, 31; Rom. 10:14, 15)

LEST HE BREAK OUT AS FIRE — Consuming trouble. Justice will overtake the careless and rebellious.

HOUSE OF JOSEPH — The tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh.

NONE TO QUENCH — Unquenchable fire, even if the place or building is called the House of God. Even so now, with all the holy names attached to the churches and their rituals, they do not tell the truth about God nor about His plans, nor will they listen to correction, so they, like Israel are to be rejected. Reprobate silver shall they be called. (Jer. 6:28-30)

5:7 — JUDGMENT TO WORMWOOD — Make the common man hopeless to get justice in the courts, cause disrespect for Law, and the breakdown of law and order; bitterness of soul, hopeless. Bribed judges.

CAST RIGHTEOUSNESS DOWN TO THE GROUND — Care nothing for it, defy it, treat it with contempt, trampling it under foot.

5:8 — SEEK HIM THAT MAKETH THE SEVEN STARS — Literally, the crowd, the Pleiades.

ORION — (Heb. the Giant), the constellation of Orion. These were prominent star groups, known from earliest times, beautiful and spectacular. As verse 7 says Israel is acting in an atrocious way. Ye who worship the stars are rebelling against Him who made them. (2 Kings 23:5) Jehovah is almighty, and thoroughly able to bring destruction upon them.

Misbelief retains the name of God, but means something different from the one true God. Men speak of the Deity as a great first cause, but lose sight of the personal God. A first cause is conceived as no more than that, and is an abstraction of the mind, not God. God is the cause of all causes; all things are and have their relations one to another as cause and effect because He so created them. This great first cause is thought of only as a cause, is a mere fiction of man's imagining, an attempt to appear to account for the mysteries of being without owning that since our being is of God we are responsible creatures who are to render an account of the use of our being, which He gave us. Israel had so mixed up the thought of God with nature that it had lost the thought of God as a loving Creator, working all things for the happiness of His creatures, and unfolding for their delight increasing wonders. So Amos, after appealing to their conscience, sets forth God as the Creator and disposer of all things, and a just God who punishes man's violence and injustice.

TURNETH THE SHADOW OF DEATH INTO MORNING — Remove the death sentence in the Millennial morning.

MAKETH DAY DARK WITH NIGHT — The alternation of day and night, day for activity and night for rest and recuperation; one of His many points of loving care and provision. (Psa. 104:10-15, 22-30)

CALLETH FOR THE WATERS OF THE SEA, AND POURETH THEM OUT UPON THE FACE OF THE EARTH — The evaporation of the sea water and pouring it as rain upon the thirsty ground, the blessing of rain.

JEHOVAH IS HIS NAME — As distinct from all other names and beings, the self-existing one, who has been from everlasting to everlasting. This name belongs to Him only. (Psalm 83:18)

5:9 — STRENGTHENETH THE SPOILED AGAINST THE STRONG — R.S.V.—“Who makes destruction flash forth against the strong, so that destruction cometh upon the fortress.” Ferrar Fenton—“Who flashes destruction on power, and brings destruction on the mighty.” As men did in the French Revolution, and as labor is now taking from the corporations, and as they will further in the last stages of the time of trouble.

5:10 — THEY HATE HIM THAT REBUKETH IN THE GATE — The conduct of Israel. Impatience at a well meant rebuke is the mark of an evil and perverse spirit. (Prov. 29:1)

ABHOR HIM THAT SPEAKETH UPRIGHTLY — Characteristic of those who love evil, so steeped in and saturated with evil, they violently oppose anything or anybody who is against their practices.

5:11 — It is a crime against God to oppress the poor, and shows a hard heart and great selfishness. (Prov. 14:31; Psalm 9:18; Exod. 23:11)

BUILT HOUSES OF HEWN STONE — With the profits they wrung from the poor. Such are many of the great fortunes of the present time. The share croppers of the south, whom the bankers and estate owners kept in continual debt by greedy practices. The coal miners of West Virginia who were kept in continual debt, because the company owned their homes and owned the stores in which the people had to buy their needs. Fallen human nature is still as greedy and selfish as of old.

STONE HOUSES, PLEASANT VINEYARDS — Selfish greed at the expense of others winds up with the loss of what they sold their souls to gain. (Jer. 17:11; Luke 12:16-21) The destruction left nothing but ruin.

5:12 — I KNOW YOUR MANIFOLD TRANSGRESSIONS, YOUR MIGHTY SINS — Because of repeated wilful neglect of God's repeated instructions, these sins were not covered, not forgiven. (Isa. 59:12; Hosea 5:5; Psalm 50:16, 17; Ezek. 18:24) R.S.V. — "I know how many are your transgressions, and how many are your sins." Nothing can be hid from God, "The eyes of the Lord run to and fro throughout the earth beholding the evil and the good," and "He will bring every work into judgment whether it be good or whether it be evil." (Prov. 15:3; Eccl. 12:14) Why are these three specially mentioned? The denial of these induce disregard of law and order, cause a hopelessness even to get justice or fair dealing by due process of law, so lead to revolution and anarchy.

5:13 — THEREFORE THE PRUDENT KEEP SILENCE — Those whose counsel is wholesome and wise will be compelled to silence. As in verse 10 the upright speaker is abhorred. Instead of attentive hearing he has only violence to expect. Even as our Lord experienced. Speaking would only increase the anger of evil doers. Foolish to reprove a scorner. (Prov. 9:7) When the wicked rise, men hide. (Prov. 28:28)

AN EVIL TIME — When evil seems to triumph. Political behavior is drifting in that direction even in our own country.

5:14 — SEEK GOOD THAT YE MAY LIVE — Harmony with God's laws bring health and happiness and long life. Opposition to them brings the loss of all things and finally death.

SO THE LORD OF HOSTS BE WITH YOU — He cannot companion with evil doers. (John 14:21, 23; Isa. 65:3-5) His presence is necessary for life.

AS YE HAVE SPOKEN — Then that will really be the fact, which now you vainly imagine, that God is with you. Once the way of deliverance is pointed out. This is the fourth time in this chapter, five times in chapter 5—vss. 4, 6, 8, 14, 15.

5:15 — He hateth evil who not only is not overcome by its pleasures, but hates its deeds, its practice, detests it as vile, and beneath decent human behavior, beastly. He loveth good who, not for necessity or from fear, does what is good because it is good, beautiful, lovely in its practice and in its results. He would not do evil even if no punishment went with it.

ESTABLISH JUDGMENT — Set up justice. Justice is a pillar of the state. To set it up when fallen is the duty of all men, especially for those in posts of honor and trust.

IN THE GATE — In ancient cities this was the place of trial, where court was held and justice meted out. Law courts.

IT MAY BE THE LORD WILL BE GRACIOUS — Then possibly there may be favor. This does not refer to the previous condition of the ten tribes as reduced by Assyrian conquests, for Jeroboam II had recovered the former territorial limits, as under Solomon.

REMNANT OF JOSEPH — Ephraim and Manasseh were the main ones of the ten tribes. This refers to what would be left in the future after the great impending chastisement. See Joel 3:7; Isa. 10:20-23.

5:16 — Jehovah, the God of all the universe, declares this judgment.

WAILING — On every hand there will be dead to weep for. As in the cities so in the land or country, streets and highways.

ALAS, ALAS — Gone are their pleasures and luxuries, as in Egypt at the death of the firstborn.

SKILFUL OF LAMENTATION — Professional mourners were used in those days, to make louder wailing.

CALL TO HUSBANDMEN — Workers and farmers called in to help in the general lamentation and woe.

5:17 — VINEYARDS — Instead of joy will be sorrow, wailing and mourning. Even in the vineyards, usually places of liveliest joy, wailing would resound—a vintage of woe, not of wine.

THE LORD PASS THROUGH — As in the death of the firstborn in Egypt. (Exod. 12:12)

5:18 — WOE UNTO YOU THAT DESIRE THE DAY OF THE LORD! — Woe to the overconfident who deceive themselves with false hopes. They fancied that disobedient Israel was still the true people of God, and hence the day of the Lord, the day of judgment, must of course bring deliverance from all distresses. But because of disobedience this day will only bring destruction.

DARKNESS, NOT LIGHT — As in Egypt.

5:19 — If they escaped one trouble another would overtake them. There would be no escape, no security, no rest. Trouble and terror on every side, in every line of human activity.

For the tenth time (Vss. 3, 4, 6, 8, 14, 15, 18, 19, 27) in this chapter, Amos reminds them in whose name he spoke—the Great I Am, the self-existing God, the Creator and director of all things in heaven and earth. He has absolute power over all His creatures to dispose of them at His will.

The terribleness of the prophecy lies in its truth. When war pressed without the walls of Samaria, within was famine, pestilence; woe, woe, woe must have echoed in every street, for in every street was death and the fear of worse. Imagine every sound of joy, or din of human activity, or mirth of children hushed, and woe, woe, going up in one unmitigated, unchanging, ever repeated, continuous monotony of grief. Such are the fruits of disobedience. Yet, what a mere shadow of the inward grief and heartache is its outward appearance! (Lang)

5:20 — A similar spirit of overconfidence was manifested by Israel in Jeremiah's day (Jer. 7:4)—“The temple of the Lord are these,” or as in R.S.V.: “Do not trust in these deceptive words: This is the temple of the Lord, the temple of the Lord, the temple of the Lord!” They prided themselves on their national religious principles, but did not obey the Lord of the temple, and were therefore condemned by the prophet. A like disposition was manifested at the first Advent. The Hebrew nation was eager for the Messiah's coming to the new-built temple, but the prophet reminded them that his coming would be a day of fear and woe for the ungodly. (Mal. 3:2; Matt 3:7-12)

DARKNESS, NOT LIGHT — For the nominal mass and their leaders. So the churches now, sure they are the Lord's people, have buildings, money, influence, but will not hearken to the Lord's message. Men's consciences often are truer than their intellects. “Is it not so? Tell me for you know!”

5:21-23 — I HATE, I DESPISE YOUR FEAST DAYS — The Lord violently detests their hypocritical worship. (Isa. 65:5) If offered with a right heart, they were sweet savor offerings, (Lev. 1:9, 13, 17), but were now offensive, because hypocritical, offered with a false heart. R.S.V.—“I take no delight in your solemn assemblies.” (Isa. 66:3)

Israel would fain be conscientious and scrupulous. They offered whole burnt offerings, fatted beasts, full-toned chorus, music. What was wanting? Love and obedience!

NOISE OF THY SONGS — Here is warning to those who think to please God by elaborate musical services in His house, while they do not take heed to worship Him with their hearts, and to obey Him in their daily life. But often now the elaborate music is to attract numbers to their church. (Isa. 66:11; 1 Tim. 4:1-3; 2 Tim. 3:1-7)

5:24 — LET JUSTICE RUN DOWN AS WATER — Freely and without restraint, practice the things you preach. Obey the commands of God. Seek Him with a whole heart in all the daily life. Get His peace and blessing. (Mal. 3:10-12)

5:25 — The ten tribes, by approving and copying the worship of their forefathers, made that sin their own. These idolaters were filling up the measure of their fathers, (Matt. 23:32-36) and in the punishment of those who perished in the wilderness they might behold their own finish. As God rejected the divided service of their fathers, so He would theirs. If God is not served wholeheartedly and alone, He is not served at all.

5:26 — YE HAVE BORNE THE TABERNACLE OF YOUR MOLOCH — They tempted God ten times by their false worship. (Num. 14:22, 23) Worship of Moloch was a type of the eternal torment theory.

CHIUN — (Ramphan) (Acts 7:22, 23) Israel secretly carried on idolatry in the wilderness with a small shrine, escaping Moses' attention. (Ezek. 20:5-9; 23:3; Josh. 24:14) Ken and Rempu were foreign gods, worshipped jointly in Egypt, and names interchangeable. Ken is akin to Khem, Egyptian god of productiveness. Rampan and Chiun correspond to Phoenician Baal and Astarte. (Fosset's Bible Dict.)

WHICH YE MADE FOR YOURSELVES — This was the fundamental fault. They made for themselves gods out of their own mind. All idolatry is self will—first choosing a god and then becoming enslaved to it. (See note on Hosea 5:3) “Star of your God.”

5:27 — Literally fulfilled. (2 Kings 17:6, 23, 24)

SAITH JEHOVAH WHOSE NAME IS THE GOD OF HOSTS — This is the commandment of the great Ruler of all, and Creator of all, whose declarations none can dispute nor prevent. Ferrar Fenton—“Did you present to me for the forty years in the desert, sacrifices and offerings? House of Israel? When you erected your tent to Moloch, and shrines for your star-god Kion, whom you made for yourselves?" Evidently Chiun was a star-god.

6: (See R.5242)

6:1 — WOE TO THEM THAT ARE AT EASE IN ZION — Many of the nation's wisest and most brilliant people had settled down to a life of ease and luxury, to self-gratification. They considered that they had won in the battle of life, and would take their ease and enjoy the fruits of their strife and diligence. They would let the other fellow worry for a while and they would live on easy street.

IN ZION — The great leaders in Jerusalem, the capital of the nation.

AND TRUST IN THE MOUNTAIN OF SAMARIA — Those great leaders of the ten tribes who recognized Samaria as their capital. Trust in its defenses, and influence and power. Uzziah was then king in Judah and Jeroboam II in ten the tribe kingdom. R.S.V.—"To those who feel secure in the mount of Samaria."

WOE TO THE SECURE, TO THE CARELESS — A sharp censure of the thoughtless revelry by the heads of the nation.

WHO ARE NAMED NOTABLE MEN OF THE FIRST OF THE NATIONS — As they were the distinguished ones in the nation of Israel, so Israel is spoken of as the first, or most exalted of the nations, since it was called the chosen people of God.

TO WHOM THE HOUSE OF ISRAEL CAME — For counsel and direction, as being wise and experienced. Thus these men were reminded that they were in the eyes of the people, the successors of the princes of the tribes, who shared the burden of judging and advising the people, with Moses. Theirs was a great responsibility.

Israel's peculiar enjoyment of divine favor, shown even in its outward relations, its power and influence as compared with surrounding nations. It could measure itself with any of them. This knowledge and favor should sober them, and confirm them in fidelity to God, who, in spite of their disobedience, had brought them to this height. The penalty of unfaithfulness would be the loss of all this, to fall below other nations, and come to a shameful end.

Security and vain self-confidence, the common faults of men! He is blind to his danger, reels around the abyss without perceiving it, and at last would plunge headlong were it not that God startles him with judgments. It is this blindness which renders necessary such strokes of correction. Hence such corrections are to be esteemed as gracious acts, prompted by love, to save them from total overthrow. But alas, how many refuse to heed them!

This is equally applicable to our own favored land. If our territorial extent, material development, liberal institutions, final welding together in the furnace of war for the Union, and our co-operation unto victory through the two world wars, have made us the first of the nations; that fact should not generate in us vain self-confidence and stupid sensuality, but rather awaken a lively gratitude and deep sense of responsibility and generous obedience to the Ruler of nations—Jehovah of Hosts.

6:2 — PASS OVER TO CALNEH — Because the Euphrates must be crossed to reach it. He bids them look around, east, north, west, and survey three neighboring kingdoms. Israel was not inferior in prosperity or greatness to the mightiest Gentile states. Calneh (Calno in Isaiah 10:9, Calneh in Ezekiel), was built by Nimrod in the land of Shinar (Gen. 10:10), but is not mentioned again in Scripture until here. It later became celebrated as Ctesiphon. Julian's generals held it to be impregnable. It was built on a peninsula, surrounded on three sides by the waters of the Tigris River. @SECOND PAR = HAMATH THE GREAT — Capital of the Syrian Kingdom of that name, on the Orontes River.

GATH — One of the five cities of the Philistines, and in David's time, the capital of the kingdom. "Observe these Gentile states, their lot is not better, their power not greater than yours. Rather they have fallen, while you, by God's grace yet stand. If you depart from Jehovah the same fate will befall you."

A comparison with others less favored than ourselves is always beneficial when it prompts to humility and thankfulness. As David said—"Who am I, Oh Jehovah, God, that thou has brought me hitherto." (2 Sam. 7:18) Alas, all the thanks God receives for giving to us more than to others often is that we forget Him the more.

Prosperity only led to self will, and rendered them arrogant, and feeling secure. A picture is given in verses 4-6 of an insolent, presumptuous community, in which every thought of danger is drowned. Internal evils of the state are not seen, nor is it observed that all tends downward to destruction. The higher ranks proceed with their evil example. Instead of becoming pillars of the state by their position and culture, they help to undermine it. When the crash comes they will be the more deeply affected, and meet a frightful end. (Lang)

6:3 — PUT OFF THE EVIL DAY — The thought that the Lord has a judgment day frightens the irreligious, and they use different ways to get rid of it. The strong harden themselves and distort and disbelieve the truth. The weak and voluptuous shut their eyes to it, as if what they dread would cease to be because they would not see it.

CAUSE THE THRONE OF VIOLENCE TO COME NEAR —

Regarding the day of judgment as far off, they cause violence to erect its throne nearer among them, that is, they close their minds to it and work evil more openly and boldly. So now blind leaders of the people refuse to believe the day of reckoning is near.

6:4 — BEDS OF IVORY — To oppression they added luxurious sensuality, selfishly revelling in costly luxury, in utter disregard of the injustice by which they obtained them. Taking their ease upon couches, feasting on the choicest lambs and calves fattened in the stall. This has been oft repeated in history — Babylon, Persia, Greece, Rome, the Crusades, France before the Revolution. Heedless luxury dulls the senses, blinds the mind, saps the courage and manhood, and refuses to heed oncoming disaster.

6:5 — TRILL TO THE SOUND OF THE HARP — The Hebrew word of trill means a hurried flow of words without meaning, in which the rhythm is everything, the sense nothing. This well describes the modern jazz and dance—sensual wiggles. Debased music is a mark of a nation's decay, and promotes it. It is an artificial, effeminate music, which relaxes the mind, drowns the sense of responsibility and danger, frittering the melody, displacing the power of divine harmony by tricks of art, is fit company for giddy, thoughtless, heartless versifying. They were justifying their degrading dances by reference to David's dancing.

INVENT TO THEMSELVES INSTRUMENTS OF MUSIC LIKE

DAVID — Leeser: "Like David's do they imagine their instruments of music to be."

6:6 — Amos calls attention to the fact that aggressive selfishness has amassed great riches. The wealthy were living in great luxury, and those conditions fostered pride and moral laxity; while the poor were being filled with avarice, losing their respect for God and religion, for truth and mercy, and the desire for more knowledge of God. So now, while earthly blessings are enjoyed by the common people more than ever before, and by doles and state and federal aids more of the wealth is distributed, yet anxiety and discontent, fear and worry are increasing, and crime increases. Prosperity does not bring satisfaction nor content. Unwisdom and blind stupidity is very noticeable in modern statesmen and nations. (Isa. 24:19, 20; Zeph. 1:17; Isa. 19:11, 14)

WINE IN BOWLS — Large quantities, revel in luxury and pleasure. The Hebrew for bowls means literally sprinkling vessels, used in the Temple service.

DRINK WINE OUT OF SACRIFICIAL BOWLS — The first princes of the tribes (Num. 7:3) showed their zeal for God by offering massive silver bowls for the service of the Tabernacle. But these later served their god (their bellies) by using the huge sacred vessels to drink wine, like Belshazzar.

ANOINT THEMSELVES WITH CHIEF OINTMENTS — The best that could be procured, most costly.

BUT THEY ARE NOT GRIEVED FOR THE RUIN OF JOSEPH — Do not sorrow for the sins of the people, and have no sympathy for them in their estrangement from God, do not try to stem the tide of discontent. Much is now done to assist the unfortunate, but even in this the people are exploited. In this crisis, when divine wrath was about to break out upon the nation, they should have been sitting in sackcloth and ashes, but were curious to buy the best ointment for their own personal use. In Cicero's day Roman patricians cared only for their own fish ponds, that their tables might be well supplied with mullets and other fish, while their country was in danger of being overwhelmed. They thought only of the little cockboat of their own fortunes when the vessel of state was going to wreck.

As Joseph was afflicted by his own brethren, who saw the anguish of his soul, and were not moved by his tears. And when they had sold him to the Ishmaelites, they sat down to eat. (Gen. 37:23) And their descendants ate the passover after crucifying their Savior.

6:7 — THEREFORE — Because of these wilful crimes, unrepented.

GO CAPTIVE, WITH THE FIRST — As they had led in disobedience and evil, so they would lead in the punishment, in captivity.

BANQUET OF THEM WHO STRETCHED THEMSELVES — The revellers, who stretched themselves on couches. Leeser: The noisy banquet.

BE REMOVED — Taken away, destroyed.

6:8 — Jehovah hath sworn by Himself — As there is no greater (Heb. 6:13), as surely as I am God.

ABHOR THE EXCELLENCE OF JACOB — Their temple and sanctuary (Ezek. 27:21), all the revered objects used in their worship (Ezek. 21:15-24), because they were misused in idol worship. (2 Chron. 33:2-10; 2 Kings 21:2-9)

HATE HIS PALACES — Because they were built by injustice and oppression.

ALL THAT IS THEREIN — Was literally carried away by Assyria, and later Babylon. Everything, even their joys, had been polluted by their idol worship and degrading practices. (Num. 35:33; Gen. 4:10; Lev. 18:25; Psalm 106:38)

6:9, 10 — NOT MAKE MENTION OF THE NAME OF THE LORD —

Things have come to a fearful pass when a man trembles for fear at Jehovah's name, he must fear His wrath, and instead of turning to God must flee away; a frightful condition of conscience, exhibition of an evil conscience. (James 2:19; Matt. 8:29) He who has obstinately abused the intellectual powers given him by God, and not be able to utter His name. (Wordsworth) When on the death of the ninth a relative comes to the house to bury the dead, he will ask the last one, the tenth, who has fled to a remote corner to save his life, whether there is yet anyone with him alive. On receiving the reply—"none," he calls out to him—"Silence!" (literally the hiss-st), that is, interrupts him quickly lest he utter Jehovah's name, and thus bring down a judgment upon himself. The deaths mentioned are by sword and famine. "Shut up your praying and moaning, for there is no God to pray to." A picture of the despair of the dark night of trouble. God will not hear. (Prov. 1:24-32)

6:11 — JEHOVAH COMMANDS — When a people is ripe for judgment the human conqueror acts only as a divine instrument. (Jer. 27:2-8; Ezek. 29:17-20; Isa. 10:5, 24)

GREAT HOUSE, LITTLE HOUSE — Judgment on all rich and poor, great and small. The whole structure is defiled. (Lev. 16:16) Ferrar Fenton: "Knock the great house to pieces, and the cottage to splinters."

6:12 — Ferrar Fenton: "Can horses gallop up a precipice, or bullocks plow it?" They could just as well and as reasonably expect to do the above, to cultivate the rock and expect to get crops, as to expect to gain health and happiness and blessing by their evil course. Something preposterous!

YE HAVE TURNED JUSTICE INTO GALL AND FRUIT OF RIGHTEOUSNESS INTO HEMLOCK — They had changed the laws of justice, the stable foundation of society, into the gall of bitterness. Leeser—"Justice into poison and the fruit of righteousness into wormwood." Because of fraud, crooked lawyers, technicalities, favoritism, the people are losing faith in the courts, and any hope of obtaining justice by law. The next step is mob rule, and violence, the people take the law into their own hands, anarchy. Now where they look for prosperity they find only barrenness and death. "The prosperity of fools." (Prov. 1:32) Hemlock—the berries and juice are poison. It was given to Socrates, in Greek history, to kill him.

6:13 — REJOICE IN A THING OF NAUGHT — Hebrew—a non-thing, a thing which does not exist, namely the strength mentioned in the next statement. The present fleeting pleasures, which have no real value as compared with eternal joys. (Isa. 17:9-11)

TAKEN US HORNS BY OUR OWN STRENGTH — Have we not gained this power and wealth by our own brilliancy and smartness, our own wisdom? Like the claim of some scientists now. Really pride.

6:14 — Jehovah's answer! Here Assyria is intended as the one whom the Lord would use as His instrument. But as it was yet in the distance Amos does not mention it by name.

THEY SHALL AFFLICT YOU FROM THE ENTERING IN OF HAMATH — This was the usual term for the northern boundary of Israel. (Num. 34:8; 2 Kings 14:25; Ezek. 48:1)

RIVER OF THE WILDERNESS — Brook of the desert, the so-called River of Egypt, the Wady El Arish, the southern boundary of Israel.

RAISE UP — As in Exod. 9:16.

7:1 — THUS HATH THE LORD SHEWED UNTO ME — Meaning that the prophet was given a vision. This is the first of two visions. The judgments they represent are averted at the prayer of the prophet. The sense of verses 1-6 is that God will have patience for a time and spare the nation the plagues it deserves, but if there be no change, and the goodness of God does not lead to repentance, forbearance will cease and the punishment come.

BEHOLD! — Astonishing, unexpected.

THE LORD FORMED LOCUSTS — Shows clearly the affliction was due to Jehovah, without whose will they would not have come. The prophet sees the plague in its very beginning. This vision of the locusts occurs at a very unfavorable period.

IN THE BEGINNING OF THE SHOOTING UP OF THE LATTER GROWTH. AND LO IT WAS A SECOND CROP AFTER THE KING'S MOWING — The first crop having been mown by and for the king, the only further crop of the year would be destroyed. The people were restricted to the second crop, and this was now threatened with destruction. The Hebrew word here is gowb, from its grubbing as a larva. This refers to the worm or grub.

7:2 — MADE AN END OF EATING THE PLANTS OF THE EARTH — Not merely the grass, the Hebrew word means all vegetable growth.

FORGIVE, I BESEECH THEE, BY WHO SHALL JACOB ARISE, FOR HE IS SMALL — How can he ever recover from such a plague? Jacob, Israel, is small in comparison with Jehovah. What would then become of him? He would be annihilated! He sees sin at the bottom of the trouble, and that pardon would be the only way of deliverance.

7:3 — THE LORD REPENTED, IT SHALL NOT BE — Surely not as if He would confess unrighteousness in His threat, but merely to express the frank, positive withdrawal of the threat. (See 2 Sam. 24:10-14) What was threatened was deserved, but had not yet become a necessity. God can yet spare. (See Jer. 18:6-10) God was framing the punishment for a special purpose, not of nature, but of His moral government in the correction of Israel. In this vision He opens our eyes and lets us see Him framing the punishment for disobedience, so we may correct ourselves and avoid the evil.

7:4 — THUS HATH THE LORD GOD SHEWED UNTO ME — The prophet repeats the wording of the first vision, to impress the seriousness of the occasion and the danger that threatened.

THE LORD CALLED TO PUNISH WITH FIRE — Drouth, destruction. Fire stands as the symbol and summary of God's most terrible judgments. It spares nothing, leaves nothing, not even the outward form of what it destroys. Like the destruction of Sodom.

AND IT DEVoured THE GREAT DEEP — Elsewhere, the ocean. But as Genesis 1:2 and 7:11, and in Job 38:8-10, it was the immeasurable deep or cloud-bank that surrounded the earth.

DEVoured THE INHERITANCE — R.S.V.: "Was eating up the land." This would also fall upon the Gentile world.

7:5 — Note the power of prayer. If God did this for the prophet, would He not also have withheld the punishment if the people had repented and prayed.

BY WHOM SHALL JACOB ARISE? — HOW CAN JACOB STAND HE IS SO SMALL! — How can he endure, or continue? God desires not the death of sinners, but their conversion. (Ezek. 18:23; 18:32; 33:11) So should we pray for the Kingdom to deliver mankind from sin and death.

7:6 — The Lord cancelled this also. Why are these two threatened punishments mentioned? Perhaps to show the forbearance of God.

7:7 — Third vision. THE LORD STOOD UPON A WALL — Thus the A.V., Ferrar Fenton, and Rotherham; but Young, R.S.V. and Moffatt, render it "Beside" the stone wall. The wall may represent Israel, which resembled such a solid well-built wall, made by Jehovah with a plumb line. Now

Jehovah comes again with a plumb line, but this time not to build but to tear down. As carefully and thoroughly as the wall had been built, even so carefully would it be destroyed.

WHAT DO YOU SEE? — Asking one to describe a thing makes him notice it more carefully. The plumb line was the most noticeable thing; so in many other prophecies. (Zech. 5:2; 4:2)

IN THE MIDST — The Lord's judgment strikes not merely at the outwork, but at the very heart of the trouble. Like the plumb line it turns neither to the right nor to the left, nor varies at all from its aim. The heart of a nation is in its sanctuaries and capital. From these proceeds its life; as they are, so is the life of the people, either sound or diseased or wholly rotten. If the heart is corrupt, the blow must fall on it. Upon the sanctuary the secular government exerts a powerful influence. If it subdues the sanctuary to be an instrument of its own plans, the sanctuary and the people are corrupted, and its guilt becomes so much the greater, and God's judgment the more certain.

7:9 — NEVER AGAIN PASS BY — Spare, the Lord specifies "the midst" — the sanctuaries, the things held most sacred.

RISE AGAINST THE HOUSE OF JEROBOAM — The monarchy, the kings descended from Jeroboam. With the fall of this, the power of the kingdom would be broken. Fulfilled in 2 Kings 15:10, 12.

7:10 — AMAZIAH, PRIEST OF BETHEL — Plainly the high priest in the sanctuary of the golden calf at Bethel, the center of the ten tribes' worship. How significant that the priest cannot oppose any contrary testimony to the prophet's word! All he can do is denounce Amos to the King, and thus call in the secular power. He is the court-priest, and is stationed at Bethel, which is as he says the King's sanctuary (not the Lord's), such naive candor! He obviously means to say something of great moment, which will awe the prophet, but is not conscious of the poverty of the claim he makes for the sanctuary.

As sacred, it should take its authority from God, and its highest boast would be that it is God's sanctuary. Rooting its authority in the great and noble makes it a mere tool of the state. A warning to every state-church never to forget where all church authority strikes its roots—not in the protection of the state nor in civil privileges, but only in the Word of God.

CONSPIRED AGAINST YOU — Amaziah feared that the craft whereby he obtained his wealth was endangered, and so makes it an affair of the state. A lie mixed with the truth is the most deadly form of falsehood, the truth serving to gain admittance for the lie, and gives credence to it. In slander, as in heresy, falsehood, and falsehood to destroy the truth. Amaziah omits the reason for the threat and the hope of escape urged upon them. He omits also the prophet's intercession for the people, and selects the one prediction which could give a more political sound to the whole. Suppression of truth is a yet subtler means of falsehood. (Lang)

Amaziah appeals to the king on what he thought to be the king's weak side, fear for his own power and life. Such also were the experiences of Jeremiah, Daniel, Jesus and the Apostles, and so with Nehemiah in his work of rebuilding the walls of Jerusalem.

LAND NOT ABLE TO BEAR ALL HIS WORDS — He makes out that the nation is endangered, not seeing that his own course endangers it still more.

7:11 — Amaziah distorts the prophet's words.

7:12 — EAT BREAD THERE — The high priest sees in office only a means of bread. So without scruple he ascribes the same view to Amos.

7:13 — BETHEL IS THE KING'S SANCTUARY, A TEMPLE OF THE KINGDOM — The highest honor Amaziah could think of. Union of church and state must not be disturbed! The very reason it could no longer be continued!

7:14 — The prophet repels the charge with dignity. He seeks not for money or means, he needs it not. He does not once claim the title of prophet. When he came forth as a prophet, it was not for the sake of the office or the name, or for bread, but solely in obedience to God's command. He did not seek reward nor shun danger or persecution. He knew the divine commission to announce wrath to a godless people involved peril, but he did not hesitate, nor allow himself to be intimidated by threats. Even if men would not hear him, but would try to close his mouth, he would not be silent, he must speak, because he bore a divine command.

Strong faith belongs to the calling of a prophet, who is to announce God's positive wrath. Quite independent of the duty of reproving the lofty, a high degree of faith is needed to maintain and firmly to utter, in the midst of a degenerate race, the conviction that God still rules, and will at last vindicate His honor and His Law, and show Himself as Lord and Judge.

7:15 — THE LORD TOOK ME AS I FOLLOWED THE FLOCK, AND SAID UNTO ME — As the apostles, when forbidden to speak in the name of Jesus answered—"We must obey God rather than men," so Amos, when forbidden by the idol-priest to prophesy, not only continued to obey God's command, showing that he obeyed God's bidding more than their forbidding, but boldly and freely denounces the punishment upon him who tried to forbid and hinder the word of God.

7:16 — DROP NOT THY WORD — Used in the sense of prophesying, also used in Micah 2:6, 11; Ezek. 21:2, 7; as in Deut. 32:2. God's word comes as a gentle rain, or dew, not beating down, but refreshing; not sweeping away as a storm, but sinking in and softening even the hard ground, all but the rock, gentle so they can bear it. God's Word is to men as they are to it, dropping as the dew to those receiving it, but wearing and destructive to those hardened against it.

HOUSE OF ISAAC — The whole of Israel. But as this is contrasted with the house of Jacob, it may mean that the ten tribes valued themselves as the best of the two divisions of Israel. Also it would be most fitting for modern Churchianity which claims to be the True Church.

7:17 — THUS SAITH THE LORD — This was not merely Amos' saying, but was given by the Lord. Thou teachest idolatry, which is harlotry to God, and thou shalt be punished by harlotry in thine own house. The fulfillment of this terrible prophecy is not recorded, except in their general distress, but neither is the doom upon Shebna, Isa. 22:17, 18; nor Ahab and Zedekiah, Jer. 29:22; nor Shemaiah, Jer. 29:32; nor Pashur, Jer. 20:6. But from the fulfillment of other prophecies, we know that it came to pass as did the others.

8:1 — The fourth vision — THE LORD GOD SHEWED UNTO ME . . . BASKET OF SUMMER FRUIT — The time of harvest, they were fully ripe, ready for the picking. This basket is an image of a people ripe for judgment. No more forbearance. The Hebrew word for summer (Quayits, from Quwts = to clip off, to harvest.) The play upon the similarity of the words in the original for "ripe fruit" and "end" indicates more clearly the necessary result of the ripeness, the reaping and destruction of the nation.

This is due to the violence and injustice by the leaders and the rich upon the poor. These are particularly aggravated sins, calling down the judgment of God. The spirit of justice and compassion, so emphasized in the Old Testament, plainly taught by law and custom, desires that everyone, even the poorest should have his rights. The Law protects the poor against the violence of the rich. They have an advocate in God, who visits penalties upon the transgressor. He bears so long with those who oppress the poor, that it often appears that He has forgotten, or does not notice, or does not care. As He has sympathy for the poor, so He has forbearance with their oppressors, because He desires not the death of the sinner but that he should turn and live. (Lang) So now the violence we notice in all parts of the world indicate the forbearance of God, but will bring its result in due time.

8:2 — At harvest time no more can be done for the crop, good or bad it has reached its end and is cut down. So Israel's harvest was come for that time and conditions. Heavenly influences of love and patience and blessing can but injure the ripened evil doer. Israel was ripe, but for destruction. Like Sodom and Gomorrah, to stop the iniquity, lest they become so hardened in evil that they could not return from it, even in the kingdom. See Gen. 15:16; Matt. 23:29-36; Dan. 8:23.

I WILL NOT AGAIN PASS BY THEM ANY MORE — The end of patience and loving kindness, and time for abrupt correction!

8:3 — The Hebrew word here (Haykal, a large public building, a palace or temple) evidently includes the revellings and boisterous laughter of drunken bouts.

SONGS BECOME HOWLINGS — When this occurs there must be complete sorrow. Not merely hushed, but become just the opposite, deep grief because of the multitude of the dead.

DEAD BODIES — Slain by the invader or died in the siege.

IN SILENCE — (Hebrew—be silent, hush!) An admonition to bow beneath the severity of the divine judgment. Men do not recognize that though He is a God of love, yet that very love must at times express itself in severity of judgment. He is obliged to show to a race which has lost its faith in the God of the Scriptures, by actual fact as violent as in 1870, in Argentina in 1960, in San Francisco in 1906, that the storms of divine wrath are not merely accidents of nature, but a reality planted in the midst of a century claiming itself as the highest culture. When the measure is full these storms break forth, and a hundred times over put to flight "culture love," and all similar catchwords of the modern spirit of pride. There comes suddenly a shaking of the earth, or gloom falls upon an entire nation, so that it becomes dark in broad daylight, festivals turned into mourning, and songs into lamentation, all loins clothed in sackcloth, just when men in their blind security hold such things to be impossible, such as the sinking of the Titanic.

When divine judgments come and give flaming proof of God's existence to a race which has forsaken Him and forgotten Him, the once despised and neglected word of God is appreciated again. Men hunger and thirst for it, but often not in the right way. They desire as speedily as possible to hear of promises and consolations, and to these every ear is open. But in vain. God often lets the punishment sink into their hearts, and produce sincere heart repentance, before He sends relief. R.S.V.: "The dead bodies shall be many; in every place they shall be cast out in silence," as in Chapter 6:9, 10.

8:4 — HEAR, THIS, YOU WHO TRAMPLE UPON THE NEEDY — So eager are they to add to their wealth, they can hardly hold themselves in check; the restraints of the Law and the Sabbath irritate them. They cannot wait even for the end of the festival to resume their traffic.

8:5 — NEW MOON — The new moon was a holiday, like the Sabbath, on which trade and business ceased.

SET FORTH WHEAT — Open the granaries to make their profits and display their wheat. As Joseph did (Gen. 41:56), but Joseph did it for the needs of the people, but these for their own greed, making usurious gains from the poverty of others. With this they combined fraud and cheating.

MAKING THE EPDAH SMALL — By making the ephah small was cheating on the standard measure.

AND THE SHEKEL GREAT — Raising the prices artificially. The same is being done now. The government has inspectors to check the measures and scales.

FALSIFYING THE BALANCES BY DECEIT — Tinkering with the scales or using scales arranged to cheat.

8:6 — BUY THE POOR FOR SILVER — The poor man was made and kept so poor that he was compelled to sell himself either for a bit of silver that he owed, or for a pair of shoes which he had obtained, but was unable to pay for. Thus he was continually in debt, and could never get out of debt; like in Virginia some 50 years ago and Pennsylvania coal mines, and the cotton growers of the south. The company owned the stores, and the homes of the people.

SELL THE REFUSE OF THE WHEAT — To complete the thievery, the people were forced to pay the full price for the refuse as for the good wheat.

8:7 — THE LORD HATH SWORN BY THE EXCELLENCY OF JACOB — By Himself, who was the most excellent relation that Jacob had, the excellence, or pride of Israel. By leaving such sins unpunished He would deny His own covenant with them.

NEVER FORGET — Not forgive, but require punishment.

ANY OF THEIR WORKS — They were too galling, too wilful, too persistent.

8:8 — SHALL NOT THE LAND TREMBLE FOR THIS — Meaning the people who dwell there, may be the earthquake of chapter 1:1 and Zech. 14:5.

RISE UP WHOLLY AS A FLOOD — As the Nile; suddenly, and overwhelmingly with no escape.

CAST OUT AND DROWNED — Heave and sink, as it did, filling people with terror.

EVERYONE MOURN — As in verse 10.

CAST OUT AND DROWNED — Tossed about and sink again, like the Nile.

8:9 — IN THAT DAY — Israel's day of punishment, and antitypically in the last stages of the time of trouble. Like the day of the earthquake, when darkness was over all the land. Refers more fully to the judgment of the nations in Armageddon, at the end of this age.

SUN GO DOWN AT NOON — The day be darkened, contrary to the course of nature. Symbolically when they feel secure, at the height of their prosperity.

DARKEN THE EARTH IN BROAD DAYLIGHT — As at Jesus' death, just the opposite of nature; and like the dark day in New England in May, 1780.

8:10 — TURN YOUR FEASTS INTO MOURNING, SONGS INTO LAMENTATION — Turning all their pleasure and happiness into mourning, sorrow for the loss of their comforts and delicacies.

SACKCLOTH, BALDNESS — Signs of deep sorrow without consolation. Shaving a part of the head suggested irreparable loss.

FOR AN ONLY SON — Comfortless, and without hope. Misused blessings are eventually withdrawn.

A BITTER DAY — Like Isa. 17:9-11.

8:11 — SEND A FAMINE IN THE LAND, NOT FOR BREAD NOR FOR WATER, BUT FOR HEARING THE WORDS OF THE LORD — Take away the fellowship and the favor and His presence and men grope in darkness, and despair. This was fulfilled in larger measure antitypically during the 1260 years of Papacy's rule, 539 to 1799 A.D. There were periodic famines in Israel, one in Abraham's day, one in Isaac's, and in

Jacob's time, besides several since, like the three and one half years without rain in the reign of Ahab. (Gen. 12:10; 26:1; 42:53-57; 1 Kings 17:1; 18:1)

8:12 — SEEK THE WORD OF THE LORD — Which they had despised. They will then long for it, but in vain.

STAGGER — Because plagued by hunger and thirst. Do unreasonable things like the Crusades, not guided by the Lord nor by His Word.

WANDER — Because not acquainted with the truth, without guidance. We who have finally obtained the truth, often do not appreciate what a treasure we have, and many quibble about it, and some even desert it for the hopeless phantoms of the world.

NOT FIND IT — Because they do not seek it where it may be found, the Bible was then (during the Dark Ages) only in dead languages.

8:13 — YOUNG MEN, VIRGINS — The strongest and the pure in heart faint for heart nourishment.

8:14 — SIN OF SAMARIA — The golden calf at Bethel.

THE GOD OF DAN — The golden calf there.

WAY OF BEERSHEBA — The way by which men go to Beersheba, to worship idols there. The swearing, or taking of oaths, by these objects shows that young men and maidens were worshippers of these idols.

FALL AND NOT RISE — This punishment would and did stop idolatry in Israel. Ever since the Babylonian and Assyrian captivities there has been no crude idolatry in Israel. But there arose other idols of fame, wealth and place in Israel.

9:1 — Fifth vision.

I SAW THE LORD STANDING AT THE ALTAR — A symbol of the work of justice on those despising the mercy of God, through Christ. (Heb. 10:31)

SMITE THE CAPITALS — Symbolizing the leaders of religion, the final judgment begins with them (Ezek. 9:5-10), for they are most to blame. As Samson toppled the pillars (Judges 16:28-30), so these will topple and fall. These are the false shepherds of Isa. 24:21, 22; Jer. 23:34-38.

TILL THE THRESHOLDS SHAKE — The destruction of Israel as a door by which people may come to God. (Isa. 6:4; Heb. 12:26-28) The Hebrew word for thresholds also means the foundation beams in which the pillars are set. A blow which strikes the pillar capitals so that the foundation beams shake is manifestly a crash that brings the whole building to the ground. We are, then, to think of the temple representing the whole religious structure of modern Christendom. The shaking to the ground is the first step.

UPON THE HEAD OF ALL — R.S.V.: “Shatter them upon the heads of all people.” The whole people is considered as assembled around the national sanctuary, for they uphold and support it. It means a destruction of the whole religious organization, totally. No one can escape. The general multitude has the mark of the beast or of his image.

9:2 — No place or condition is hid from God. Heb. 4:13. If their ambition goes to any extreme, He will humble them.

THOUGH THEY DIG INTO HELL (Sheol) — The grave, though they think they can restore and create life, His hand can reach to deter them.

HEAVEN — Attempts to conquer space, and seek other worlds. Man’s ambition knows no bounds. But God is able even there to make a limit to their presumption. The pride and self-confidence of man is making a presumptuous rebel out of him.

9:3 — HIDE AT THE TOP OF CARMEL — A mountain of considerable height rising up from the sea, and is the extreme west point of Israel, the farthest they can go toward the west on land. “Whoever hides there must know of no other refuge in all the land.” If there is no security there, nothing is left but the sea. No hiding anywhere, even in isolated places.

BOTTOM OF THE SEA — SERPENT BITE THEM — Whether at the height of finance or in the ghettos, the curses of Lev. 26 and Deut. 28 will reach them. During Israel’s double of punishment there was no refuge for the Jews anywhere.

9:4 — This was literally fulfilled during Israel’s double, the diaspora, terrible suffering.

9:5 — THE LORD GOD OF HOSTS TOUCHETH THE LAND — And there is none that can interfere. He will do so in the time of trouble, which is already begun. Many mountains or kingdoms have been leveled. The fire of men’s passions is burning up the earth, society. As 2 Peter 3:10. This came first on the ten tribe kingdom.

AS A FLOOD — As the Nile yearly overflows. R.S.V.: “The whole of it riseth up like the Nile, and sinketh down like the Nile and sinketh down like the Nile of Egypt.” Evidently refers to the earthquake during Uzziah’s reign.

9:6 — WHO BUILDS HIS UPPER CHAMBERS IN THE HEAVENS AND FOUNDS HIS VAULT UPON THE EARTH — Jehovah’s omniscience and omnipresence work together with His omnipotence. He is almighty, all wise, and by His spirit everywhere present. He commands the earth when and as He will and it must obey. If He just touch it, it trembles. He created and rules the heavens and the earth, the hope of His servants and the terror of His enemies.

CHAMBERS IN THE HEAVENS — He dwells there, and presumptuous man cannot go beyond God’s permission. (Psalm 76:10)

HIS VAULT — The sky. (Psalm 104:3, 11, 13)

CALLETH FOR THE WATERS OF THE SEA, AND POURETH THEM OUT UPON THE FACE OF THE EARTH — Refers to the evaporation of the sea water forming clouds, which the wind blows over the land and which falls down as rain. This shows that the circulation of the waters was understood at that time, and the origin of the clouds. Jehovah alone can do this.

9:7 — ARE YE NOT AS CHILDREN OF THE ETHIOPIANS UNTO ME?
— Israel had behaved worse than the Gentile nations, no better than those who Israel had despised, the Ethiopians, as ignorant and backward.

ISRAEL, PHILISTINES, SYRIANS — God has a general oversight over the nations. (Dan. 7; Deut. 32:8; Acts 17:26; Dan. 4:35, 37) Israel should not, in its pride, think that God must prosper it because they were better than other nations, because they had behaved worse. (Deut. 7:7, 8; 9:4-6)

9:8 — BEHOLD THE EYES OF THE LORD ARE UPON THE SINFUL KINGDOM — God watches over all. (2 Chron. 16:9; Zech. 4:10; Psa. 11:4; Prov. 15:3; Heb. 4:13)

DESTROY — As he did by Assyria, and Nebuchadnezzar, and later by Rome.

NOT UTTERLY DESTROY HOUSE OF JACOB — A remnant would be saved. (Rom. 9:27; Isa. 1:9; Isa. 65:8)

SAITH THE LORD — He gives His word and promise, so we can rely upon it.

9:9 — SIFT ISRAEL AMONG ALL NATIONS, YET SHALL NOT THE LEAST GRAIN FALL UPON THE EARTH — The sifting had already been done, and the promise is to save every grain of wheat, every Jew who can be made into something useful to the Lord, and a benefit to his fellow man. All varieties of Jews are returning to Israel, but even at this time only a remnant shall go over into the Kingdom.

9:10 — ALL THE SINNERS OF MY PEOPLE SHALL DIE — Wilful, unrepentant, evil doers.

WHO SHALL SAY EVIL SHALL NOT OVERTAKE US — In both destructions of Jerusalem the people perished the more miserably because buoyed up by a false hope, “It cannot happen here.”

THIS EVIL SHALL NOT OVERTAKE US — So now the nominal Christians are sure that God will not destroy the churches, their strong organizations and beautiful buildings, and choirs. But God will accomplish His strange work. (Isa. 28:21) He had to destroy Solomon’s Temple, and the Temple in Jesus’ day, because of the disobedience of those who worshipped there. See Ezek. 20:38; 13:9—not enter the land, perhaps as in Psa. 95:11; Heb. 4:6.

9:11 — FALLEN HUT OF DAVID — Heb. literally, a booth, here, a hut, in the New Testament, a “tent.” A strange comment on human greatness—the royal line was not to be employed in the salvation of the world till it had been humbled to a hut. Restitution is promised here. Amos declares that a Redeemer would come and renew the whole state of the kingdom, and the Jew yet hopes for the Messiah.

9:12 — Amos closes his prophecy with the promise of the restoration of the kingdom in all its splendor, “as in the days of old.” (Acts 15:13-17) Correct all that was faulty, and rebuild the ruins in even greater glory. (Hag. 2:9) The royal palace had to become the hut of Nazareth and the manger of Bethlehem ere the Redeemer of the world could be born, whose glory and kingdom are not of this world (Greek, cosmos), who came to take nothing from us, but to share and bear our miseries, and sanctify us. Yet human vision could not foresee it, nor even believe it when he did come.

REMNANT OF EDOM — Particularly mentioned because they were related to the Israelites, but of all nations the Edomites were the most hostile to Israel. (Chap. 1:11; Jer. 49:7-39; Ezek. 25:12-14) In the present time this would refer to the people of Christendom, held under restraint (the grass of Rev. 9:16). Restored Israel will be the leading nation. (Isa. 11:14)

ALL NATIONS — The whole world of mankind.

UPON WHOM MY NAME IS CALLED — All who consecrate and come into the New Covenant (Jer. 31:31-33; Isa. 65:16; 2:1-4)

BECOME HIS PEOPLE — As stated also in Rev. 21:1-5; Isa. 35.

9:13 — Signs of restitution appear before the harvest is completed. The plowshare of trouble will prepare the hearts of men.

PLOWMAN OVERTAKE THE REAPER — Expressing the abundance of harvest; the earth will yield its increase, no more curse, but a rich blessing upon the people, fulfilling the promise of Lev. 26:5 and Psalm 129:3.

THE THRESHING REACH UNTO THE VINTAGE — Or as R.S.V.: “The treader of grapes him that soweth the seed.” Gradually no more thorns and thistles, and a better climate.

MOUNTAINS DROP SWEET WINE — No more fermentation, but pure grape juice. Symbolically, true doctrine, pure message of hope and health and life.

ALL THE HILLS FLOW WITH IT or ALL THE HILLS SHALL MELT — All the present selfish and corrupt governments be done away with, no more national barriers, no customs collectors, no separate and distinct governments, but all one family, all sons of God.

9:14, 15 — The ideal blessings and conditions which the best of men have dreamed, the long deferred hopes of men, at long last a reality. Men will not only build and plant, but will long enjoy the fruit of their labor. Homes which men can beautify as they wish, and know that it will not be destroyed, but remain as they wish, and improve when they want to. They will plant gardens of beauty, and increase their beauty and variety, with no pests to destroy, no lack of rain and sunshine, but a gradual return to the Garden which God made, and then will spread over the whole earth. Indeed the days of heaven upon the earth. Men will learn the happy and free condition of love for one another, mutual enjoyment of each other. Men will find their fellow men more precious than the Gold of Ophir. Communion with the Father and His Son and with the angels will be restored as it was in the beginning.

NO MORE BE PULLED UP — Ah, what glad assurance, for God gives this in its fullness and glory and beauty forever. May thy Kingdom soon come, that thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven!

OBADIAH

The situation and time in which the prophet stands is shown mainly in verse 10. Jerusalem is distressed by a hostile invasion, strangers have entered into her gates. They have plundered and ravaged so that the population have taken a wild flight (vs. 14), have carried off many treasures (vs. 11), and divided the inhabitants by lot (vs. 11), to sell them as slaves to distant people (vs. 20). The Edomites have not only shown an unbrotherly and malignant delight in these events (vs. 12, 10, 13), but have actively taken part in them (vs. 11), have shared in the invasion of the city (vs. 13), in the plundering (vs. 11), and in the mad revelry which followed (vs. 16), have lain in wait for the fugitives as they escaped from the city and slain them in part and in part delivered them to slavery (vs. 14). The punishment for these deeds is what the prophet foretells (vss. 1-9) and with this is linked the restoration of Israel (vss. 17-21).

From this description it is evident the time of the prophet's warning is after the destruction of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar. The conduct of Edom at that catastrophe was thoroughly hostile, as Isaiah (63) and Ezekiel (35). Around 600 B.C.

The first ten verses are in striking similarity to Jeremiah (49) against Edom. Obadiah excels Jeremiah because he looked back on the scene which Jeremiah (49:7-22) foresaw. In Joel and Amos (4:19, 1:11 and 9:12) Edom appears as the enemy of Judah.

Of the great monarchies of the world Obadiah says nothing. Besides the Edomites he mentions only the Philistines (vs. 19) and the Phoenicians (vs. 20), both of whom Joel names as enemies (4:4). The two divisions of the Kingdom of Israel and Judah, exist side by side—the southern one consists of Judah (inhabiting the Negev and the lowland), and Benjamin (vs. 19) and the northern one of Ephraim and Gilead (vss. 19, 20). See Hosea 2:2.

But by some this attack, slavery and desolation, may be the capture of Jerusalem by Philistines and Arabians, at the time of Jehoram. (2 Chron. 21:8-17; 2 Kings 8:20, 24) They took away great treasures, took as captives the princes of the royal families. Obadiah mentions nothing about the destruction of Jerusalem and the end of the national existence, but only rapine and plunder. So some place this prophecy under the reign of Jehoram (890-880 B.C.) more correctly (777-761). Some identify him with that pious Obadiah whom Jehoshaphat (Jehoram's father) sent to teach the people.

1:1 — AN AMBASSADOR IS SENT — “We have heard tidings from Jehovah (that Edom is to be attacked) and already is an ambassador sent forth.” The ambassador may be the prophet himself. Moffatt—“This is what the Eternal Lord has to say to Edom. The tidings we heard from the Eternal, as an envoy went through the nations with His summons to rise and make war on her.” See Rev. 17:13, 14.

LET US RISE UP AGAINST HER — It is not His people that Jehovah summons to battle and punish His faithless people, but heathen nations, unchristian peoples. So now the Communists are the instrument of God to chastise Christendom and destroy its institutions.

1:2 — MADE THEE SMALL — Moffatt: “I will make you least among the nations, deeply despised by men.” True Christianity is at a discount, the nations of the world “will not have this man to reign over us.” They do not want Christ, not prepared to pay the price that consecration to his service demands. So they treat the appeal of the Gospel with indifference. The Edomites know that and they compromise with the world by rejecting all there is in Christianity that runs counter to the world. For a time in past ages that course of action brought results. The fear instilled by the doctrines of Hell fire, and the power wielded by the priesthood made organized Christianity a very useful ally to kings with turbulent subjects. State and Church found many common interests and between them they ruled the people with a rod of iron. But now things are becoming different. Education has opened the eyes of the people. The hail of truth is sweeping away the refuge of lies (ignorance). Men and women are no longer driven by fear in western nations. The State has found other and more effective means of keeping the people in check. In these days when the masses themselves wield much power, the State finds means of making those same people serve the interests of the State. The assistance of the Church is not so much needed in secular matters and Edom will become despised among the nations. (B.S.M.)

1:3 — THE CLEFTS OF THE ROCK — The territory of Edom had rocky mountain masses, full of caverns and the Edomites dwelt partly in these natural caves. Hence the earlier inhabitants of Mount Seir were called troglodytes = cave dwellers. (Gen. 14:6; Deut. 2:12, 23) Horites = cave dwellers, troglodytes, inhabited Mount Seir before Esau's invasion. Herodotus, Jerome and Pliny wrote of the inaccessible fortresses.

Moffatt — “Your pride of heart has played you false, perched in your fortress of the rocks, you who built your home so high, thinking none could pull you down.” See R.S.V. How like Rev. 18:7. The pride of the Edomites was in their lofty dwellings high up among the pinnacles of their mountain city. See “Petra.” They were supremely confident that no enemy could ever dislodge them and they sat there in arrogant pride. (As the Jebusites in Zion, but David by Joab found their secret entrance and conquered the stronghold.) (2 Sam. 5:6-10; 1 Chron. 11:4-9) So with all who have part in this harvest time, with the woman seated on the scarlet beast (Rev. 17:8) arrogant in her pride and proud of the influence and power over the nations of earth, never dreaming that the end of that power is shortly to come. Jeremiah saw this in his splendid vision of the fall of Babylon. (Jer. 50:31, 32) Babylon was the proudest and greatest city of antiquity. With her massive walls and mighty towers, it must have seemed as if she could never be overthrown. But overthrown she was and she lies today a waste of broken brickwork, inhabited only by jackals and lizards. See Baalbek, Palmyra, Egypt.

1:4 — THOUGH THOU EXALT THYSELF — The supreme example of this overwhelming ambition is Lucifer. (Isa. 14:12-15) The coming downfall of the King of Babylon is there made the symbol of the downfall of Lucifer. He refused to believe that the “Most High ruleth in the kingdom of men and giveth it to whomsoever He pleaseth.” One who was exalted above all humbled himself and was obedient to the Father, even unto death. Here is a great contrast with the Edomites of this Gospel Age. They have followed the way of Lucifer rather than the way of Jesus. Like the builders of the Tower of Babel, they sought to build their own edifice and storm the gates of heaven, entering the very presence of God in their pride of power, refusing to believe that the restraining hand of God can overthrow their puny efforts. Only the humble can find the strait gate and enter the narrow way as followers of Jesus can enter the celestial realm.

During the whole of this Gospel Age the “Power of the Heavens” the principalities and authorities of so called Christendom, those who have controlled the merely nominal institutions and systems have had things very much their own way. One of the most infamous of the Popes is reported to have said—“This Christianity, how profitable a farce it has been to us.” Thence will I pull thee down.

A few faithful leaders of the Lord’s sheep who honored his Master’s name above himself have been a spiritual salty influence in the world and helped to encourage and sustain the faithful flock, and left their mark on history. But the majority of men in high positions have yielded to the seductive influence of the world and forsaken the narrow way for one that offered greater ease and praise from men.

The day of the earthly power of the Princes of the Church is waning. If a dignity of the Church does venture to express an opinion on political or social matters, he is often told to confine his remarks to religion and leave other matters to people who understand them.

1:5, 6 — The prophet sees Edom's condition as worse than a house or vineyard that had been plundered. What a downfall is yours. What a ransacking of Edom. What a rifting of her treasures. (Moffatt)

1:7 — THEY THAT EAT BREAD — “They that eat thy bread,” “the man of thy peace, of thy bread.” Referring to the ancient covenant that those who ate at one's table would not injure him until clear of his territory. The prophet shows the futility of Edom's trust in her worldly allies. In spite of the many services given to the Kings of this world and her allegiance to them in opposition to God and His people they have no hesitation in discarding her when she has served their purposes and is of no further use to them. The powers of this world have no scruples about taking from her such possessions and treasures as she holds, leaving her poor and naked. They rifle as they will and pillage all her goods. Sorry indeed is the condition of those who have forsaken God and trusted to Mammon retaining the name of God on their lips. They finish by being poor and blind and naked. (Rev. 3:17; Isa. 31:1-3) All through the Gospel age some have failed to humble themselves to go to the Master, but have gone to Egypt for help, putting their trust in the arm of flesh instead of the power of God, and though for a time they have appeared to prosper in material things it has been at the expense of their standing with God. “Your very allies have betrayed you and brought you to the ground.”

1:8 — For some reason the men of Teman were renowned for their wisdom. The scriptures do not say just why, but in Jer. 49:7 the Lord asks—“Is wisdom no more in Teman, is counsel perished from the prudent?” The prophet there used the same language as Obadiah. (Jer. 49:7-16) Teman and Edom were intimately connected. He was the grandson of Esau. (Gen. 36:11, 15) Father and mother of Teman were Eliphaz, the son of Esau, descended thus from Abraham the faithful, and Timna the daughter of Seir, the original inhabitant of the land who gave his name to Mount Seir. So Teman was the fruit of an alliance between the favored line of Abraham who held the promise and truth of God and the earthly line of Seir who had nothing in common with the promise. A fitting symbol of the alliance of the apostate ones, here pictured by Edom and the powers of this world with which they have allied. (Gen. 26:34, 35)

So Isaiah 63:1-4 pictures the judgment upon Edom. See also Isa. 21:11-17.

1:10-14 — The sin of Edom at first was not open hostility, but that they stood aside when their brethren were attacked by the enemy and did nothing to help. Not the active doing of wrong, but abstaining from doing right. They could have given assistance or comfort, but instead they preferred to witness the agony of Jacob, waiting till the tragedy was over so they could share in the spoils. "He that is not against us is for us." (Luke 9:50) The Edomites, no doubt smug in their own self-righteousness, and thinking with good reason that Israel had brought all their troubles upon themselves by their unbelief and apostasy, were condemned in the sight of God because they had failed to remember that Israel and Edom were brothers. So Christendom has treated the Jews and will be punished for it, and so also have they treated the true church. How many of us exult over our brother's fate in his day of misfortune, or rejoice in his ruin, or boast ourselves in our superior position in the day of his distress; or take possession of what is rightfully his when he cannot defend himself?

In verse 11 — refused to help in his hour of need.

verse 13 — shared in the spoils in his day of distress.

verse 14 — cut off those who escaped and sold them to slavery.

These are the four evils. All these showed hatred without mercy.

So verse 10 states their punishment, which came in the days of Nebuchadnezzar, after conquering Judea, turned his armies upon the other nations around them and made them tributary also.

1:15, 16 — The time of trouble in the end of this Gospel age will bring retribution upon Christendom for their evil treatment of both Jews and true Christians.

THY REWARD SHALL RETURN UPON THY OWN HEAD — There is a law of Creation at work here, natural retribution, the divine law incorporated in the universe, overtakes the world at last. As men or nations have sown so shall they reap, there is no escape from that law. So all the vivid language about the impact of this day of the Lord is but the natural expression of God's abhorrence of evil and disobedience, the misuse of God's blessings and unkindness toward our fellowmen. See Isa. 34:2-8.

YE HAVE DRUNK UPON MY HOLY MOUNTAIN — After Israel had been taken into captivity and Jerusalem itself left ruined and desolate the Edomites took possession of the Land and entered into the city and gave themselves over to all kinds of excesses on the site where Israel had formerly worshipped God. So the Edomites of the Gospel age have usurped the place of the True Church and indulged in a riot of false doctrines and practices and blasphemy of the divine Character. So Paul says (1 Thess. 2:4) and Jeremiah (51:7).

DRINK . . . SWALLOW — The cup of the Lord's anger. (Jer. 25:15-29)

1:17 — MOUNT ZION — The Kingdom of God, the Church in glory with Jesus, as the Heavenly ruling power, the New Heavens and the Prophets from Abel to John the Baptist, as the earthly visible ruling power.

DELIVERANCE — Margin—those who have escaped. Literally those who come through the time of trouble (Zech. 13:8, 9) the remnant. Paul quotes this prophecy in Rom. 11:26; like Isa. 59:20; and Psa. 18:7. So through the measure of tribulation the Edomites have brought upon God's people, deliverance will come both to spiritual and to natural Israel. The afterward of peace comes to those who have proved their sterling faith and stood firm. Spiritual Zion shall inherit all things (Micah 4:8; Isa. 60:14; Rev. 3:9) and the remnant of natural Israel shall inherit Palestine as a whole as in Gen. 15:18 as Solomon did. (2 Chron. 9:26; 1 Kings 4:21)

1:18 — See Jer. 49:7-22; Micah 5:8; Isa. 11:12-16. "Which they shall ignite and consume until nothing is left of the house of Esau." This is what God has decreed. This is pictured in Matt. 13; as the burning of the tares; and in Rev. 14 as the victory by the rider on the white horse. So in Zech. 12:6. There again the enemies of Israel are to be consumed by a fire emanating from the saviors of Obadiah 21.

1:19 — There are symbolic statements as well as literal. Those who have lived barren and desert lives because of the oppressions of Edomites who have seized power will come into full inheritance (the righteous shall have dominion over them in the morning, Psa. 49:14); those who have been oppressed by the world, the Philistines, will move into places of prosperity, formerly seized by the grasping of the world. Ephraim dispossessed by enemies will inherit its portion of the land in quietness and peace. Those who Assyria or Babylon removed into far away Halah will return to the full enjoyment of their land and allotted inheritance.

1:20 — ZAREPHATH — Sarepta of Luke 4:26. The name means "smelting shop." Near Sidon, a little village now seven or eight miles from Sidon, the ancient town was below on the shore where are ruins of a flourishing city, columns, marble slabs, sarcophagi, and a chapel of the Crusaders.

SEPHARAD — Perhaps a place in Ionia or Greece. Some think Spain, as Spanish Jews are called "Sephardim." As in Joel 3:6. The Jews were scattered in all regions abroad.

1:21 — The Church shall judge the world.

JONAH

1:1 — JONAH THE SON OF AMITTAI — Jonah was a real personage, who lived in the days of Jeroboam, son of Joash, who reigned in Samaria. (2 Kings 14:25) He was doubtless the author of the book. His faults and disobedience are placed in full light. This shows he was honest and sincere and desirous to have others profit by his mistakes. He was of Gath-hepher, town of Lower Galilee in Zebulun.

1:2 — NINEVEH, THAT GREAT CITY — Nineveh was a very great and wicked city, a mistress of witchcrafts (Nah. 3:4), over 120,000 infants who knew not their right hand from their left. It was proud, cruel, violent, and it was very rich. It was about 500 miles from Palestine. It had walls 100 feet high, broad enough for three chariots to drive abreast upon them, and defended by 1500 towers, each 200 feet high. It formed a quadrangle of about 60 miles in circumference. (150 x 90 stadia, or 480 around it) (Diodorus Siculus, S.B.D.)

AND CRY AGAINST IT — Jonah received a very strange command of the Lord. The prophets had been sent to the Hebrew people and no others. No prophets had been sent to a Gentile city or nation; a very strange command.

FOR THEIR WICKEDNESS IS COME UP BEFORE ME — Nineveh was a very wicked city, a figure of the wickedest cities of today. God's dealing with it here, is a sign, a foreshadowing, perhaps that by and by in due time God would bring light to the Gentiles, and they would receive knowledge and responsibility. The way to Nineveh was across burning deserts, and Jonah would have to cross these alone and deliver a very strange and terrible message.

Who of us would have the courage? He must cross rivers without boats, must follow lonely mountain paths, in danger of robbers. He must climb the Lebanon range, go through the great jungle and forest, in danger of wild beasts. And he must walk this alone, there were no steam cars then. When he reached there what probability was there that such a proud and wicked city would receive his message? Perhaps he would be cast out of the city gate for the jackals to feed upon! It is easy to criticize Jonah, but when we see his difficulties we have more respect for him, especially as we see he later turned and went.

1:3 — JONAH ROSE UP TO FLEE . . . FROM THE PRESENCE OF THE LORD — Jonah was fearful and fled from duty, but he could not flee from God. This fleeing from duty was what brought him into all his trouble.

1:4 — A GREAT WIND — Represents Satan, the prince of the power of the air. His spirit seemed to control the mob.

THERE WAS A MIGHTY TEMPEST IN THE SEA — “God hath his way in the whirlwind and the storm” (Nah. 1:3). Jonah was a prophet. It costs something now to serve God; we must put away our own desires and do only God’s will, no matter what the cost is. There is a moral lesson here for us. We are sometimes tempted to flee from duty, and then we encounter chastisement. There are no dangers so great as those we meet when fleeing from duty. The way of obedience, no matter how dark and dreary it may seem, is the way of safety and of life. “There is a way that seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death.” (Prov. 14:12; 16:25)

1:11 — WHAT SHALL WE DO UNTO THEE — Jonah was a “sign” (Luke 11:29-32) and his experiences here are like those of Christ Jesus with the mob.

SEA — The mob who clamored for Jesus’ death. “The wicked are like the troubled sea, whose waters cast up mire and dirt.” (Isa. 57:20)

1:12 — TAKE ME UP, AND CAST ME FORTH — Jonah’s experiences here are typical of those of Jesus.

1:13 — NEVERTHELESS THE MEN ROWED HARD TO BRING IT TO THE LAND — The ship here would represent the Roman Government or Jewish nation. Remember the words of Caiaphas: “Expedient that one man die, that the whole nation perish not.” (John 11:49-51; 18:14)

1:14 — LAY NOT UPON US INNOCENT BLOOD — The captain and sailors represent Pilate and his associates. These strove hard not to have to sacrifice Jesus. “I am innocent of the blood of this just man.” Pilate washed his hands of the whole affair.

1:15 — AND CAST HIM FORTH INTO THE SEA — In order that the ship, (the Jewish nation) might not perish, Jonah was cast into the sea. Likewise Jesus was given over to the mob that the Jewish nation perish not.

1:17 — A GREAT FISH TO SWALLOW UP JONAH — This shows the Lord’s foreknowledge and preparation. Notice it does not say a “whale,” but a great fish. “Strange Creature Captured in the Sea.” From Florida comes the prize fish story of the Season. Capt. C. H. Thompson, a mariner of Miami, in company with two other men, was cruising off the coast when they encountered a sea monster whose like men had never before seen. They gave chase and the fight that ensued was one to gratify the most adventurous. Before the creature was subdued five harpoons and 151 bullets were lodged in its body and after that its life lingered for five days. In the struggle it smashed a boat into 1000 pieces and knocked the rudder off a 31 ton yacht. With a harpoon line connecting it to their boat it towed the men for 39 hours at the rate of 45 miles per hour. Most of the inhabitants of Miami were on hand when the victors brought their prize in to the shore. Usually fishermen have to explain that their big fish got away, but these men delivered the goods. Officials of the Smithsonian Institution at Washington were unable to classify it. Its weight was found to be 30,000 lbs., and it measured 45 feet in length by nearly 24 feet in circumference; its mouth was 38 inches wide and 45 inches deep and its tongue 40 inches long. Teeth to the number of several thousands and were set into its huge jaws. When cut open an animal weighing 1,500 lbs. was found in its stomach. Its hide which was three inches thick, without scales, resembled that of an elephant. (The Pathfinder, Washington, D.C. 1913)

It is thought by the Smithsonian people that the monster is an inhabitant of the far down depth of the ocean, 1500 feet, and that it was thrown up by some volcanic disturbance which injured its diving apparatus and so it was unable to return to its native levels.

JONAH WAS IN THE BELLY OF THE FISH THREE DAYS AND THREE NIGHTS — Jonah was delivered on the third day. Jesus also was resurrected on the third day. In Hosea 6:1, 2 we have the third day again; The church has also been in the tomb for parts of the fifth, sixth, seventh thousand-year periods, and will be, is, resurrected in the third of these, in the early morning:

- (1) Josh. 1:11 food for 3 days
- (2) Jesus bread from Heaven be in earth 3 days.
- (3) "I do cures today and tomorrow and 3rd day be perfected."
- (4) "Destroy this temple and in 3 days raise it up."
- (5) Lev. 23. Sheaf of 1st fruits waved on 16th Nisan, the 3rd day after passover.
- (6) Jonah 3 days in fish.
- (7) Hosea. "Third day raise us up."
- (8) Cana of Galilee, marriage on 3rd day.
- (9) Abraham journeyed 3 days to mountain.
- (10) Ex. 19:11 Covenant made on 3rd day.

3:2 — ARISE — Jonah was delivered, now where is he? Just at the same place, as far as his duty was concerned, as he was before he fled. So we are always brought back again to face our duty, if we repent. God's law and will is above all human reason and conjecture.

Our conscience is our helper but it often needs to be educated. Paul's conscience needed to be educated and regulated. The word and will of God is superior to all human ways. We must recognize God's will as above all our interests and be sanctified, consecrated unto him. The voice of God makes no abatement in its claims to first consideration. By doing His will we become great even in a small, humble work.

Some are doing glorious works, but whatever we do, big or little, let us do all to the glory of God. Do everything well, with our might, which we find to do. Whatever is worth doing at all is worth doing well. God sees us, and He doeth all things well, and we as his son's should learn his way and be copies of Jesus. Let us persevere and not be turned aside. Our duty is still our duty, even if we have shunned it. Excuses do not diminish our responsibility. Render unto God our reasonable service.

3:3 — SO JONAH AROSE — Jonah had learned to obey. God wants us to start, and He will take care of us. The wilderness and forest and jungle and wild beasts and desert and Lebanon were all in front of him as before; but none hurt him one bit, God took care of him, because he was doing God's work.

3:4 — BEGAN TO ENTER INTO THE CITY A DAY'S JOURNEY — He did not immediately begin his preaching, but sought a suitable opportunity probably. He must have noticed its beauty and grandeur, its palaces and gardens, and warehouses for Nineveh was a center of commerce of that day. Inscriptions of victories and soldiers on every hand.

AND HE CRIED, AND SAID — He was ready with his message. How he must have thrilled with the pressure of the Spirit!

YET FORTY DAYS, AND NINEVEH SHALL BE OVERTHROWN — Why 40 days? At time of flood it rained 40 days and 40 nights; the spies were 40 days searching Canaan; The children of Israel journeyed 40 years in the wilderness; Eli served Israel as judge and priest for 40 years; Saul reigned 40 years; David reigned 40 years; Solomon reigned 40 years; Moses life was divided up into three periods of 40 years each; Jesus was tempted 40 days; see Ezek. 4:6.

What means so much use of the number 40 in the Bible? We find a clue in the Law: 40 stripes was the maximum penalty under the Law. (Deut. 25:3). St. Paul received 40 stripes save one. (2 Cor. 11:24) So 40 has the thought of chastisement, a time of testing and wrath of God. But he always wounds to heal, and punishes in love. He proved Israel. Saul's, David's and Solomon's reigns were testing periods. Solomon's reign was one of peace and splendor; David's one of battle. Saul was tested and proved unworthy and his kingdom was taken from him and given to another. In this his reign was typical of the Jewish age in which the Jewish nation was tested, found unworthy, and the kingdom taken from them and given to Spiritual Israel (Matt. 21:43). David (beloved) represented Jesus and his body, the church; and his reign typified the Gospel age, a warlike period between Spirit and flesh. Solomon's reign typified the Millennium, a time of universal peace and a testing period for the world. The Jews were tested and found unworthy, the church is now being tested and the world will be tested in the Millennial age. Each age ends with a harvest period of 40 years, a final testing period, manifesting the wrath of God.

3:10 — THAT HE HAD SAID THAT HE WOULD DO UNTO THEM: AND HE DID IT NOT — Jonah's message and Jesus' message were very similar, both were calls to repentance. Nineveh heard Jonah and repented and God had mercy on it. The Jews did not repent (save a small remnant) and so the foretold destruction came upon it, foreshadowing the destruction of the Gentile nations.

Nineveh was a type of the world, the Gentiles, in some respects. Jonah said there would be a testing period and then an end; so Jesus said: "This Gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness and then shall the end come." So the Apostle says "In the last days perilous times shall come." God will not acquit the wicked. Nineveh is now heaps and ruins. Nahum prophesied its destruction in Nah. 3:5-7, 11. Nineveh repented and God had mercy, so the world will repent by and by and God will have mercy upon them.

4:1 — AND HE WAS VERY ANGRY — Jonah was then the exclusive messenger of God to the Ninevites. During the Gospel age God has used many messengers, but collectively these have been a visible agency as was Jonah. This visible agency (the Nominal Church System) has become angry when God's mercy toward the world is made clear, in that He does not intend to torment the world everlastingly, but has mercy in store for them abundantly, as shown by the revealed Harvest Truth; just as Jonah was displeased.

4:5 — TILL HE MIGHT SEE WHAT WOULD BECOME OF THE CITY — Jonah was, it seems, more interested in himself and his own reputation, than he was in the Ninevites and their interests. The Lord's servants must not be so! Self should be lost sight of. "Love seeketh not her own." "Even Christ pleased not himself." (1 Cor. 13:5; Rom. 15:3)

4:6 — GOURD — Protestant federation or image of the Beast, which will grow up very suddenly and shield the heads of the D.D.'s for a short time from the scorching rays of the Sun of truth. It is a strange plant, of man's work, not of God's work, hence of the Adversary. Grows up in the night and will perish in the night of the Harvest time (vs. 10).

4:7 — WORM — May be socialism, which will later turn to anarchy, which will destroy the nominal systems (Rev. 17:15-17).

4:8 — SUN DID ARISE — The Sun of Righteousness even now rising, Sun of truth. Harvest truth. All those who are angry because of God's revealed truth will be smitten (Rev. 16:21).

EAST WIND — A strong spiritual power from the sun rising, the power of Christ and those with him who will overturn the present evil arrangement.

4:11 — AND SHOULD NOT I SPARE NINEVEH — The Lord taught Jonah a lesson respecting his sympathy for the gourd, an inanimate thing, and his lack of sympathy for the Ninevites. So it is with many preachers and others. They have sympathy for the flowers, for children, and, to some extent, for all men. But such sometimes become angry at the bare suggestion that God does not intend to roast and torment the Ninevites, Sodomites and Amalekites, or anybody else, to all eternity. (Z. '11-89; R.4785) We should show greater love and interest and sympathy for our fellowmen than for plants or animals.

MICAH

MICAH — “Who is like God”. He belongs to the great critical period the latter half of the 8th century B.C., like Isaiah. The Assyrian Kingdom just prior to its fall, recovered its power and with irresistible might carried out God's judgments on Western Asia, predicted by Amos 1 and 2. His activity, like Isaiah's, was in the Kingdom of Judah, these 2 mightiest of the prophets.

ISRAEL'S CONDITION IN MICAH'S TIME (Lang) — The internal corruption of the nation (Judah), which under Jotham was still gilded with a superficial splendor (2 Chron. 27) because he sought the Lord, had under Ahaz, through the participation in criminality of this morally unripe (or corrupt) monarch (Isa. 3:12) everywhere broken out. Ahaz is described as one of the most shamefully criminal kings ever belonging to the house of David. He introduced the Baal worship, sacrificed his children unto Moloch, sanctioned by his own acts the worship of the high places, which had hitherto been barely tolerated, made arbitrary changes in the Temple after patterns he had seen at Damascus, and finally closed the doors of the Sanctuary completely (2 Kings 16:2; 2 Chron. 27). What wonder if the example from above poisoned the minds of the people?

It was the privileged classes in particular, who as soon as they felt the hand over them relaxed, began to turn to their advantage the opportunities afforded them. Covetousness and luxury were the sins most in vogue and Isa. 5:8 gives us a melancholy evidence that nothing was holy to the wanton nobility, not the paternal field of the poor, nor sacred justice itself, to prevent them from stealing the field and perverting justice, that they might bring tribute to their own lust.

This condition of things Hezekiah found at his elevation to the throne, and though his will was good from the first (2 Chron. 29:3), and the bulk of the people showed themselves not unfavorable to his zeal for restoring the old worship and the old piety (2 Chron. 29:28), it was yet all the more difficult to restrain those inveterate sins of the ruling classes. The tendency of the people was more toward an outward churchliness than toward religion. Isaiah and Micah zealously supported the efforts of the King to effect a reformation of those faults among the people which must have abounded especially during the first years of the reign. To the bitter complaints of Isaiah and the lively sketches he drew concerning the practices of the great, correspond the details drawn out by Micah 5.

The Patricians as magistrates knew the right, but abuse it to fill their purses and enlarge their lands (3:1; 2:1-9; 6:10) and thus become flayers rather than guardians of the people (3:3). Strong in their combinations with each other, they have organized a formal system of public law breaking (7:3; 3:10).

The Priests, who should cover the rights of the poor with the protection of God's law, are covetous and judge for hire (3:11). With special energy of indignation, both prophets contended against the true source of the prevailing sin—the prophetic class, whose members, according to their vocation and office, should be the organs of divine revelation, but who have degraded themselves into cheap sycophants toward the great. They stand at the head of the libertines, and speak what the ears of the latter itch for, so that it is no wonder if the rebuke of the true prophets seem to the wanton scorers of the Most High, to be unintelligible drivel (2:6, despising which they either seek to refute with commonplaces (2:7), or in the lust of revelry deride with brutal stupidity. (Isa. 28:8) Yet the prophets sit with them (3:5), feast with them, and wrest the consecrated language of the spirit learned in the schools of the prophets, to draw from it lulling lies of peace and good days to come (2:1; 3:5). Nay they do not shrink from heathenish arts forbidden in the law (3:7). Thus public life, even in Jerusalem, has by degrees, reached that state for which Samaria was brought into one calamity after another and finally to the last (6:10). The better part of the people is prepared to fulfil the ceremonial requirements of the law and even go beyond them (6:6; Isa. 1:11), but that this law has a moral meaning and demands holiness of heart, without which the offering has no value, is hidden from them, or is too bitter a truth.

With severity the prophet reminds them how they plunder the fugitives of the sister kingdom of Israel, as these are flying through Judah before the Assyrian army (2:8) and to point them to what the Law requires of the inner man (6:18). Micah tries to rouse their conscience by telling the approaching judgments.

1: — Two Main divisions —

A. Threatened destruction of Ephraim. vss. 2-7.

B. Lamentation over Chastisement of Judah. vss. 8-16.

1:1 — MICAH — Who is like God? (7:19)

MORASTHITE — Refers to place of his birth, that Morasheth which lies near the Philistine city of Gath. (vs. 15) This locality was well known to Eusebius in the “Onomast” and to Hieronineus who relates that there was once the grave of Micah, but that in his time a church had been erected, and Robinson found ruins of a church and hamlet twenty minutes southeast from Beit-Jibrin, which corresponds with the Eleutheropolis of the ancients. (Lang)

1:2 — Spoken against the nation of Israel, land of Palestine, but applies to Christendom, mainly Europe and America, but involves the whole earth. Word of Jehovah.

HEAR — Listen! An important proclamation, involving their life.

ALL — Every nation, but particularly Christendom.

WITNESS — As in a court of Justice, the record of Earth’s iniquities. (Rev. 18:29; Prov. 1:24-33)

1:3 — OUT OF HIS PLACE — From heaven, sending His Son. (Psa. 102:13-22; Psa. 2; John 5:22; Rev. 14; 2:26, 27)

HOLY TEMPLE — From the Mercy Seat. His throne, at end of this age—the church with Christ Jesus.

THREAD UPON — Trample upon, conquer and subdue. (Isa. 63:1-6)

HIGH PLACES — Ruling classes, officials, financiers, trade kings. (Rev. 18:9, 10-18)

1:4 — MOUNTAINS MELT — Kingdoms disintegrate as they have since 1914.

VALLEYS — Lower elements, labor, poor, jobless.

CLEAVE ASUNDER — As in an earthquake. Law and order break down, crime increase.

WAX, FIRE — Heat of human passion, general mistrust and suspicion, misunderstanding.

WATERS POURED — Gathering speed as they descend. Nothing can stop it. [Analogy of a tempest, mountain veiled in clouds, earth dissolved into flowing mud, deep gullies torn through the plains. (Isa. 28:2, 3)]

1:5 — ALL THIS — All this judgment, punishment, trouble. (See Introductory.)

TRANSGRESSIONS — (“Pesha”—revolt, rebellion.)

JACOB — All twelve tribes—the one who bought the birthright was now throwing it away.

SINS — (“Chattath”—miss, offences, habitual.)

ISRAEL — The prince with God, how fallen! It is the consequence of sin unchecked, which has broken up the harmony of the world.

WHO? SAMARIA — In Samaria sin had reached such a climax that it had become the substance of the popular life, and from the capital outward had polluted and poisoned all the land. (Hos. 6:10) From this point forward the light is thrown in a striking parallel on the sin and fate of Judah.

SIN OF JUDAH? JERUSALEM — The hills on which it is built should be sanctuaries of God, but had become high places for idols, Bamoth (Ezek. 36:2) Roth. translates—Whose? The city of Peace given over to devil worship.

1:6 — SAMARIA — First Samaria’s judgment is foretold.

HEAP, VINES — Not merely lay it in ruins (Hos. 12:11), but make it waste for so long a time that men shall devote the depopulated region to tillage, and convert the fertile territory (Isa. 28:1) into a vineyard.

POUR STONES OF IT INTO VALLEY — Down from the hill of Samaria (Amos 6:1)

BARE ITS FOUNDATIONS — Destroy it to the very ground. “The whole mountain on which the ancient city lay is now cultivated to the summit, but in the middle of it, on a field, a heap of ruins is to be seen, and not far off lies a miserable village—Jabustiah.” (Quandt) Now is the restoration.

1:7 — CARVED IMAGES — Creeds and ceremonies, defiled with human ideas, will be destroyed (Jer. 51:25-26). In the judgment of the great trouble at end of this Gospel Age many things now held sacred will be wrecked.

HIRES BURNED — Hires (of idolatry, harlotry) are primarily the consecrated offerings lavished on idol altars, by which the preparations of the service were maintained. Since God is the rightful husband of Israel (Hos. 2:8) idolatry is whoredom (Hos. 9:1). But they are also all the possessions of the city, because she looks upon her riches not as the gift of God, but of her idols.

MAKE IDOLS A DESOLATION — Show them to be demons and leading to the loss of everything.

RETURN TO HIRE OF A HARLOT — Become a prey to other idolators, who will devote these things to their idols.

1:8 — LAMENT — The prophet's, on the one had standing above the people, utter with seeming mercilessness the decrees of God's justice, yet on the other hand as members of the people, they enter with sympathy into the deepest popular sufferings.

NAKED — Without the outer garments.

LIKE JACKALS AND OSTRICHES — As in Job 30:29; and Psa. 102:6. Mournful howl of wolves and coyotes; living in desert solitudes, like cries of hunger and pain. (See Moffatt)

1:9 — DEADLY WOUNDS — Incureable, because too far gone to permit recovery. (Hebrew = strokes).

EVEN TO JUDAH — The demon worship and its evil practices, like a pestilence involves even the two tribes (see warning in Hos. 4:15; 1:7; 11:12). Deadly sins strike the heart of the land and the seat of the sanctuary.

GATE, JERUSALEM — In eastern countries, the gate, the place of solemn assembly; hence Jerusalem is called the gate of God's people, because there Israel held its solemn courts. (Isa. 33:20)

Note: The affecting increase of intensity in the discourse, which reaches its climax in the last clause of vs. 9

1:10-16 — THE LAMENTATION.

1:10 — The prophet thinks of the malicious joy of their heathen neighbors.

GATH — The Philistine city on northwest border of Judah. Like the lament of David over the death of Saul and Jonathan. (2 Sam. 1:20) (Gath = annunciation)

IN ACCO WEEP NOT — Acco is the later Ake. or Ptolemais, a city of the Canaanites northwest on the coast. Rotherham so translates. (A contraction in the text, see Lang's argument) Acco (vale of tears). Roth. quotes a rendering by George Adam Smith—

“Tell it not in tell-town
Weep not in weep-town.” (See Moffatt)

BETH LE APHRAH — (Dust house, the misfortune of the Benjamite city “Ophra.”) (Josh. 18:23). It was Gideon’s birthplace (Judges 6:11-24; 8:32). There he put the Ephod he made and adorned it with the gold from Midian (Judg. 8:27).

ROLL IN THE DUST — Token of deep affliction.

1:11 — PASS ON YOUR WAY — Depart, go away.

IN SHAMEFUL NAKEDNESS — As was often done to captives by conquerors, a suggestion of their fate.

SHAFIR — Pleasantness or Fairview.

INHABITANTS OF ZANAN — (Outlet or departure) goeth not forth, (perhaps the Zenan of Josh. 15:37 in western lowland).

WAILING OF BETHEZEL — (Perhaps Azel not far from Zanan, Bethazel—house of firmness, standing, or separation). The meaning seems to be—“The distressed inhabitants of Zaanán cannot leave their walls, because the supposed neighboring town of Bethazel can give no standing in it, being in like affliction from besieging foes.” (Lang)

[From vss. 10-15 is a graphic painting of the first results of the Assyrian invasion, as they were felt in one city after another along the line of march. In most of the cases the things said of each city are a play on the meaning of the name of the city—a method well adapted to impress the idea upon the memory. Sometimes there is merely a resemblance of sound between the prominent word spoken of that city and the name of it. Like—“Is there quarrelling in Concord? War in Salem, family feuds in Philadelphia?” (Cowles)

“His description of the destruction of villages or cities of Israel corresponds in vividness to Isaiah’s ideal march of Sennacherib. The flame of war spreads from place to place, but Micah removes the sameness of the description of misery by every variety language allows. He speaks of them in his own person, or to them; he describes the calamity in past or in future, or by imperative. Verbal allusions are crowded together in a way unexampled elsewhere. The prophet knew well what would impress the people to whom he spoke. The Hebrew names had definite meanings. We can well imagine how, as name after name was spoken connected with some note of woe, all around waited anxiously to know upon what place the fire of the prophet’s word would next fall, and as it at last fell on Jerusalem, the names of those places would ring in their ears as heralds of the coming woe; reminding Jerusalem itself of its portion of the prophecy, that evil should come from the Lord unto the gate of Jerusalem.” (Dr. Pussey)

1:12 — MAROTH — Bitterness.

WAIT ANXIOUSLY FOR GOOD — Writhes in pain because of the lost prosperity. (“Hopes in vain”—Moffatt)

EVIL . . . FROM JEHOVAH TO GATES OF JERUSALEM — Unavoidable, unescapable, just.

1:13 — HARNESS STEEDS TO CHARIOTS, LACHISH — To escape from punishment. (To horse and drive away, Horsetown—Moffatt.) The tribe of Dan, not liking its own inheritance allotted it at beginning moved northward and took Lachish and renamed it Dan (Judges 18) and began its idol worship which Jeroboam strengthened, and it spread to all Israel. [A play of like sounds between Lachish and Rechesh (swift beasts)]. A strong fortress and walled city.

— SOURCES OF ZION’S SIN, WHERE CRIMES OF ISRAEL CENTER — (Moffatt)

1:14 — THEREFORE — Because of this judgment of Jehovah.

GIVE A RELEASE — Literally “dismissions,” part with, some understand it as a dowry from the parents to send off the bride.

MORESHETH OF GATH — (Gath’s possession), the prophet’s birthplace. Give it up.

HOUSE OF ACHIB — (Place of deceit) (“Israel’s kings are ever balked at Balkton”—Moffatt) “Shall be a deceitful thing to the kings of Israel.” (R.S.V.) Now the ruins Kussabeh.

1:15 — I WILL MARCH THE CONQUEROR ON YOU YET — (Moffatt)

MARESHAH — Near Achib (Josh. 15:44) Mareshah means conquered town.

GLORY OF ISRAEL — The nobility, honorable men. (Isa. 5:13)

ADULLAM — To hide themselves in the mountain caves there, as David once hid from Saul.

1:16 — Micah has named twelve cities of Israel and Judah, six in the lamentation, and six in the threatening, closes the whole with an address to the mourning mother Israel, who must see her children dragged away into exile.

BALD AS EAGLE — Sign of utter lament, in spite of prohibition in Deut. 15:1. (Griffin Vulture, whose head is bald in front.)

As Chapter 1 had 2 parts — Samaria and Jerusalem, so the next two chapters 2 and 3 have two nearly equal divisions, 2 and 3.

2: — Chapter 2 begins with a description of the corruption of the nobility (vss. 1-5), then shows the falsehood of the sham prophets (vss. 6-13), the essence of which is comprehended at the close in a deceitful but brilliant prediction as the false prophets give it. (vss. 12, 13)

2:1, 2 — A woe is stated like that of Isa. 5:8. The selfish greed of the nobility is detailed. Wickedness is more criminal in proportion as it is more deliberate. Note the progress of evil in their minds—they devise (Psa. 7:14-16), form the plan (Psa. 36:1-4), prepares ways and means and puts it into execution. Upon their bed they think it out; in the light of morning they carry out their plans. Their first thought is not of prayer, but of covetousness. They are able to do it, and no one hinders them!

What an opportunity the present life and evil world gives for those who love evil to let it dominate their lives!

The transgression of the laws for the protection of each man’s real estate and inheritance (Lev. 25:23-28), by destroying the property of the peasants and oppressing them, as Isaiah also bitterly reproves (5:8), is the surest way to create a helpless proletariat, to the hostile separation of proprietors from those without property, so to ruin the national welfare and popular life. We see this in Cuba, Dominican Republic, Peru, etc.

2:3 — DEVISE EVIL — The punishment which the Law Covenant agreed to.

THIS GENERATION — The whole people, as in Amos 3:1; the people living at this time (comp. Matt. 12:41, 42 “genea”).

NOT REMOVE NECKS — The yoke shall not be lifted, there is no escape, cannot be shaken off. (Amos 4:1; Jer. 27:6-12). Their stiff, proud necks will have to bend.

NOT GO HAUGHTILY — Pride be broken. (Isa. 28:1-4)

2:4 — TAUNT — By his enemies.

LAMENTATION — By the friends of Israel and the righteous among them.

UTTERLY DESTROYED — All is lost.

PORTION TAKEN AWAY — God withdraws His blessings. (Hos. 2:9)

TO AN APOSTATE HE DIVIDETH OUR FIELDS — To the Gentiles. (Lam. 2:6, 7)

2:5 — THEREFORE — Continue verse 3, as a just punishment for their evil deeds. Jehovah will not acknowledge them of this generation as His assembly or people; they will have no portion in the distribution of His blessings. (Mark 8:38; Matt. 10:33; Luke 9:26; 12:9; John 2:23)

2:6 — Israel refuses to listen to God’s message and tells the prophet to cease. (Isa. 28:7; Amos 5:10) “Let not drop, trickle, pour out copious discourse, let bubble, gush forth.” (Amos 7:16)

THEY SHALL NOT PROPHECY — “Shall they not drivel for that? Shall the shame not depart?” “Let them not prate of these things, the reviling has no end;” “If they prophecy not to these the reproach will not depart.” The Hebrew words here signify not merely reviling but everything as reproach and ruin to one. (Shame.) They say contemptuously—“Don’t keep driveling, drooling.”

“Even so, people like these shall cease to enjoy the benefit of what they call driveling; I will give them up to their own wish and the shames, which my word would have turned away, shall not depart, but come upon them.”

2:7 — O THOU SO CALLED HOUSE OF JACOB — A rebuke, because they do not behave like His people.

SPIRIT STRAITENED — Short, impatient. Or are these (the plagues threatened by the prophet) his deeds? Should he plague Israel, whom he is accustomed to foster as his first born son? The prophet replies to this foolish, blinded speech, which claims the blessing for itself regardless of their conduct, reminds them that God remains the same, but that they have changed, and the promise is no longer theirs. “My promises belong only to those who walk uprightly.”

2:8 — AS YESTERDAY . . . STOOD AS AN ENEMY — When those from the ten tribes, trusting for security, fled from the Assyrian attack, Judah stripped the mantle off from the other garments of those whom in secure confidence of safety, passed by, averse from war. Plundered and spoiled them.

2:9 — As they spared not the peaceable, so still less the defenseless.

WOMEN OF MY PEOPLE — The unprotected widows. (Isa. 10:2)

HOUSE OF THEIR DELIGHT — The house inherited from the husband, to which they are attached by memories as their home of their wedded love.

FROM CHILDREN YE TAKE AWAY MY ORNAMENT FOREVER — Child — singular. A collective noun. To belong to Jehovah is the honor and ornament of every individual Israelite. (Jer. 2:11; 1 Sam. 26:19) Whoever thrusts out the children among the heathen takes away this ornament. The result—“those that expel shall be expelled.”

2:10 — ARISE YE AND GO . . . HERE IS NOT THE REST — You do not belong here. My rest was promised to the righteous people (Heb. 4:6) and you are cast out.

UNCLEANNESSETH BRINGETH DESTRUCTION — (Lev. 18:24, 25, 28) An automatic law. What a warning to evil doers of all time, they can have no part in God's blessings.

2:11 — IF A MAN, WALKING IN VANITY AND FALSEHOOD DO LIE — Saying, I will prophecy to thee, people of Israel, of wine and strong drink. He would be acceptable to this people. (Isa. 65:11, 12)

2:12, 13 — Some understand these two verses as what the false prophets say will come to Israel, irrespective of their behavior. That God would not withdraw His temporal promises to His people of abundant harvests and vintage, and assured them that God was not so precise about His law. Are any like these now? See Anglo-Israelites, etc.

But, Dr. Pusey points out—“The image is not of conquest but of deliverance. They break through, not to enter in, but to pass through the gate and go forth. The wall of a city is ordinarily broken through in order to make an entrance, or to secure to a conqueror the power of entering in at any time. But here the object is expressed to go forth. Plainly they had been confined as in a prison, and the gate of the prison is burst open to set them free.” (Lang)

Also the Remnant is spoken of here, not the apostate nation.

SHEEP OF BOZRAH — “Put them together as sheep in the fold, as a herd in the midst of its pasture.” Lang and R.V. There shall be a multitude of men (swarm).

THE BREAKER THROUGH WILL GO BEFORE THEM — The Lord Jesus as their new deliverer. They will break through the gates of their bondage to Satan’s Kingdom, into the glorious liberty of the sons of God. (Rom. 8:21) Jehovah at their head through Christ.

3:1 — HEAR NOW — Listen before it is too late. Addressed to the nobility and high officials.

TO KNOW THE RIGHT — You, above all who are the leaders and instructors of the people. Regard, practice, give heed to. They have taken oath to do and yet dishonor God, their own oath and the public welfare. Christendom approaching that condition, tricky lawyers.

3:2 — Rob the public for all they can get, without mercy, a condition just preceding destruction.

Repeated but changed to third person, as if those addressed had stopped their ears, and the prophet, addressed his complaint to God and the congregation.

3:4 — THEN — At the time when the punishment falls, as in Prov. 1. As they would not hearken to God, when He sent them warning, so in their calamity He will not heed their prayers. “Jehovah’s countenance is the fountain of life, but when it turned away death ensues.” Moffatt—“One Day.”

3:5 — LEAD MY PEOPLE ASTRAY — The people if rightly led would follow, as they are like sheep. Take away the key of knowledge. (Luke 11:52) They lead astray because they are bribed by the great.

WHEN THEY HAVE ANYTHING TO BITE IN THEIR TEETH — When they receive a bribe, a favor, prophecy as desired. They sit with the rich at their tables, and sing their song.

SANCTIFY WAR — As in last two wars, the preachers and church blessed it. To sanctify a war is to declare it is waged for the honor of God against His enemies. Persecute those who oppose them.

3:6, 7 — CHASON — Vision, elsewhere used of the genuine vision of true prophets, here defined by the parallel— Kesom, the comprehensive designation for all the heathen arts of augury. In the use of Chason gives the idea the night will so break upon the people, that even the genuine prophecy shall cease. (Lam. 2:9; Amos 8:9; Ezek. 32:7, 8) No message from God. So upon Christendom for the same or similar crimes.

3:7 — ASHAMED, BLUSH — Because their disloyalty to God and their lies are made manifest.

3:8 — Micah here contrasts his spirit with that of the false prophets.

POWER AND SPIRIT OF THE LORD — The only source of truth and safety. Judgment—justice; Might—strength and courage.

3:9 — LEADERS OF JACOB, LISTEN TO THIS — Moffatt: “Who spurn justice, twist equity” through the desperate arts of a sophistry which perverts right because they have the power.

3:10 — ZION WITH BLOOD GUILTINESS . . . JERUSALEM ON CRIME — Zion—the highest point, the citadel, which should be justice, but now is murder. Jerusalem—the lower, immediate contact with the people. Contrasted with God’s Kingdom, two phases. Modern leaders, recording own unfitness to lead. See note on verse 12.

3:11 — See Moffatt. (Jer. 7:4) Like Balaam. (2 Peter 2:15; Num. 22:6) Hypocrites, lying messengers.

3:12 — PLOWED — Utterly overthrown and earth broken for new work. Zion—religious. Jerusalem—heaps, ruins, for all to see the result of such a course. Earthly. Like Christendom now.

FOR YOUR SAKE — Because of you. Your actions, disobedience, idolatry. Because you make the Lord’s typical temple a den of thieves. (Matt. 21:12, 13; Isa. 56:7; Jer. 3:11)

MOUNTAIN OF THE HOUSE — The height on which the Temple stood. Represents the religious element which should be the Lord’s Elect.

FOREST — Back to nature, uninhabited, deserted. “In our wealthy nation the term poverty describes a condition of other days. We have had to coin a new name to indicate the misery, offspring of our material prosperity. From our wealthy towns goes up to heaven against us the cry of ‘pauperism,’ i.e. the cry of distress, arrived at a condition of system and power, and by an unexpected curse, issuing from the very development of wealth. The political economy of unbelief has been crushed by facts on all the theaters of human activity and industry. ‘By blood’ may mean that they indirectly took away life through wrong judgments, extortion, usury, fraud, oppression, reducing wages, or detaining them, withholding them, they took away what was necessary to support life. Men thought to promote the temporal prosperity of Jerusalem by doing things unjust, oppressive, crushing to their inferiors. So Solomon, in his degenerate days made the yoke upon his people grievous. So ambitious rulers by large, standing armies, or filling their treasuries, drain the life blood of their people.

“Truly we ‘build up Zion with blood’ when acquire luxuries and comforts at the price of souls, use men’s toil like brute strength, tempt men to dishonesty and women to other sin to eke out the scanty wages which our selfish thirst for ease and power allows, heedless of everything save our own gratification, or our commercial prosperity which we have made our god.” (Lang)

“The result of this wrong course is that not merely the land becomes foreign, but prosperity disappears altogether, and God’s interests and claims become a dead shadow and His holy abode a stone heap.”

In modern times excessive taxation for military purposes, and wild dreams of going to the moon and to other planets.

4: — (Gen. 49:1; Isa. 2:2; Jer. 23:20; 30:24; Job 19:25; John 6:39, 40, 44, 54; 11:24; 13:48; 1 Tim. 4:1; 2 Tim. 3:1; James 5:3; Jude 18)

4:1 — LAST DAYS — The days of the Kingdom. The preparatory work of establishing the Kingdom now going on. The Social Security, pensions, children’s allowance. But these abused, reserve of money used for political purposes and more power; men living on children’s benefits; misuse of funds. Shows man in present state cannot be trusted to administer justly the available help.

MOUNTAIN — Kingdom. Jerusalem built on four mountains. Zion—the highest, David’s city, captured by him, through Joab from the Jebusites. (2 Sam. 5:6-10; 1 Chron. 11:6) Here he built a tent for the Ark. (2 Sam. 6:1-9) Represents the Church with Jesus as head.

Moriah—where the Temple was built and where Abraham sacrificed Isaac, or was commanded to, but the ram instead. Represents the Great Company.

Acra—represents the Ancient Worthies.

Bezetha—represents the world of mankind.

HOUSE OF THE LORD — His ruling family, as house of David. (2 Sam. 7:11, 16) Not a literal Temple.

BE ESTABLISHED — Founded, on the basis of Justice and Righteousness.

TOP — Head or highest over all Kingdoms. (Dan. 7:14; Rev. 11:15-18)

RAISED ABOVE THE HILLS — Have authority over them, rule them with rod of iron.

NATIONS FLOW — Of their own free will.

4:2 — COME AND SAY — Encouragingly, one to another. (Zech. 8:20:23; Isa. 2:1-5) Not all will want to come immediately (Zech. 14:16-18), but ultimately all will.

LET US GO UP — Ascend, it will really be an upward movement, out of the chaos and ruin and destruction, to recognize Jehovah.

MOUNTAIN OF JEHOVAH — Acknowledge it, recognize it, submit to it. (Isa. 25:9) God's ideal Kingdom, His beauty and perfection illustrated in it. (Psa. 48:1-3, 12-14; 145:4-13)

HOUSE OF THE GOD OF JACOB — The immediate father of Israel, that God he saw at Bethel. Jacob gave all to get and keep the promise.

THAT HE MAY TEACH US CONCERNING HIS WAYS — Subj. imperfect instead of perfect. They have refused hitherto to try God's ways, justice, love. Trouble humbles them. In tears and repentance.

THAT WE MAY WALK IN HIS PATHS — (Psa. 16:11; Jer. 10:23; Isa. 42:16) See also Z. '93-151; R.1528.

OUT OF ZION — Jesus and His Church glorified. (Isa. 62:1-7) Heavenly phase.

THE LAW — New Covenant regulations.

WORD OF THE LORD — Jehovah. Through Christ, explanations as Levites gave. (Neh. 8:4-8)

FROM JERUSALEM — Through Ancient Worthies. The earthly phase. (Zech. 12:6; Psa. 102:16-22; Jer. 3:17)

4:3 — JUDGE — Implies a fair trial and a consequent judgment. They have hitherto been defiant, distrustful, suspicious of each other, spying, full of hate, at war. Then Christ will compel peace, restrain iniquity, reveal truth and justice.

CORRECT STRONG NATIONS AFAR OFF — For their wrong attitude, England, United States, Russia, France. Nations then unknown to Israel, distant. Rotherham, “up to far away.”

BEAT SWORDS — Stop manufacturing war materials, turn their labor and work into peaceful pursuits, cooperate, (Isa. 19:23-25) come together to help each other and learn God’s ways.

NOT LEARN WAR — No conscription, no military training, war lords no longer have any say, nor any one any vote.

4:4 — SIT (DWELL) UNDER OWN VINE AND FIG TREE — An expression of security, peace, safety. Vine = Christ and Church. Fig Tree = Jewish Nation. In time of Solomon. (1 Kings 4:25; Isa. 36:16, 17)

NONE MAKE AFRAID — No landlords, no lawyers, no oppressors.

MOUTH OF JEHOVAH HATH SPOKEN IT — And none can prevent it. (Isa. 43:13, 16; 46:9-11)

4:5 — ALL PEOPLES WALK — Conduct themselves.

IN THE NAME OF ITS GOD — After the character and authority, subject selves to demons under Satan. Do now and have always so.

BUT WE — Restored Israel.

NAME OF JEHOVAH, OUR GOD — In accord with His will and commandments and character. (Hosea 3:5; Jer. 3:17-19)

4:6 — IN THAT DAY — The Lord’s day, the Millennium.

ASSEMBLE THE LAME — The humbled remnant who acknowledge that they cannot of themselves walk uprightly. The poor of spirit and humble.

GATHER THOSE DRIVEN AWAY — The remnant of Jewish people who have experienced their double of punishment, now beginning.

WHOM I HAVE AFFLICTED — In harmony with His covenant with them at Sinai, and under the New Covenant.

4:7 — MAKE A REMNANT — A humbled and purified class. (Zech. 13:9; Jer. 50:4-7; Ezek. 36:21-36)

CAST OFF. . . MAKE A STRONG NATION — Cast off at the first advent, become leading nation. (Isa. 11:10-16; Zech. 8:13)

JEHOVAH REIGN OVER THEM — The Kingdom and onward. (Zech. 14:9)

IN MOUNT ZION — Through Jesus and the Church.

THIS TIME — The beginning of the Kingdom. “Not till after many hard blows, after abuse and rejection.” (vss. 9, 10)

4:8 — TOWER OF THE FLOCK — Jesus (as in Isa. 32:1, 2) likened to a watch tower for protection of the flock. (Migdal-edar = flock tower).

STRONGHOLD — Hill or mount. Ophel. Once already has Zion turned to the flock to get her King, so she will the second time. The flock tower is directly a symbol of the house of David, as having come from the flock.

In 2 Chron. 27:3 Jotham built on the wall of Ophel; 2 Chron. 33:14 Manasseh built a high tower there. In Neh. 3:26 near the Water Gate (verse 27) and Neh. 11:21 says Ophel was the residence of the Levites, was outside the south wall of the Temple, lay between the central valley of the city, which opens above the spring of Siloam and the east portion of the Temple. It was the swelling declivity by which the mount of the Temple slopes off on its southern side into the Valley of Hinnom—a long narrowish spur or promontory, rounded, which is between the mouth of the central valley of Jerusalem (Tyropoeon) and the Kidron or Valley of Jehoshaphat. Half way down, on its eastern face is the Fount of the Virgin and at its foot the lower outlet of the same spring—the Pool of Siloam. (S.B.D.)

DAUGHTER OF ZION — The strong tower of the Church, her defence and refuge provided by the Father.

UNTO THEE . . . THE FORMER DOMINION — The first dominion, Adam’s dominion, the Earth, for he purchased it by His death. (See also D648; E45.)

KINGDOM TO DAUGHTER OF JERUSALEM — The Church will share with him. (Dan. 7:14, 18, 22, 27)

4:9 — In striking contrast to the rapturous vision of future splendor, appears the suffering which must first be endured.

In spirit the prophet perceives the cry which Jerusalem will raise at the approach of the Babylonian army. The three kings after Josiah were not worthy the name of kings. The kingdom goes straightway to ruin. The loss of the king was much more painful and dismaying than for any other people than Israel. Zion is thrown into deepest lamentation. (Lam. 1-3) So many glorious promises were connected with the kingdom. The king was the visible representative of divine favor, and his removal a sign of God's wrath and a nullification of all the promised blessings to the people through him.

COUNSELOR — The king as the one who sums up the decisions of his counselors.

PANGS — Birth pangs said to be the most awful. (Gen. 3:16) The righteous of the nation suffered with the guilty. Daniel, Jeremiah, Shadrach, Meshach, Abednego.

4:10 — WRITHE AND GROAN — Thrust forth as the fruit of the body. The humbling experiences of pain and sorrow must first come. See Deut. 4:29-31; 30:1-10; Isa. 9:11, 12.

GO FORTH — Surrender to enemies and dwell in the open country. Without the comfort and conveniences which they have had, return to primitive conditions and want.

GO TO BABYLON — In Micah's day this was part of the Assyrian Empire, called Shinar in Isa. 11:11, and Assyria used to send her captives there. (2 Chron. 33:9-17) From the holy city, under God's care—to the land of rebellion against God under Nimrod—the God-hating city of Babylon and the God-despising king Nimrod. From God's protecting care to the heart of evil.

THERE RESCUED . . . REDEEMED — Return from Babylon typical, Temple rebuilt, law read, city rebuilt. Water gate. In troublous times, as now.

4:11 — Now oppression from this time forth, hatred of Jew. Prophet looks forward to future dispersion.

4:12 — KNOW NOT THE THOUGHTS OF THE LORD . . . — See R.S.V.

TO THRESHING FLOOR — In future as Ezek. 38:39; Joel 3; Zech. 14.

4:13 — ARISE, THRESH — At second presence.

HORN, HOOF — Using threshing by oxen as type. The iron, copper irresistible.

DEVOTE GAIN, WEALTH TO LORD — In the Kingdom time, as Isa. 11:10-16.

5:1 — GATHER TROOPS — Because of their confidence in military power. At the first advent the Jews looked for a military leader to deliver from Roman power. Now depend on military power, self confidence. See Zech. 4:6, 7; 1 Kings 19:9-13.

Because of this misguided hope they could not recognize their Messiah, but smote and crucified him.

RULER — Judge. Christ Jesus.

LAI SIEGE — Testing time, harvest. See Matt. 3:10-12.

5:2 — BETHLEHEM EPHRATAH — The addition of the ancient name (Gen. 35:16) heightens the solemnity. Bread-house of fruitfulness. See 1 Chron. 2:50, 51; 4:4; 1 Sam. 16:1, 4; Gen. 48:7. One of the oldest towns of Palestine. It was in existence at the time of Jacob's return to the country. Its earliest name was Ephrath or Ephratah. (S.B.D.) It would seem the mother of Hur was named after the Town of Ephrath. (S.B.D.)

LITTLE — Small. So small that it is wanting in the catalog of cities in the book of Joshua. The Septuagint has it, and this warrants the conjecture of Jerome that it originally stood there and was afterwards stricken out, and restored by Rabbinic critics who felt obliged to correct the text. In Ezra 1:21 and Neh. 7:26 it is numbered in the Hebrew text as one of the families of Judah. It is missing in Neh. 11:25 among the cities rebuilt after the exile. In the New Testament it is called merely a "kwun" (village) (John 7:42); and a "xwpiov." (Josephus)

COME FORTH UNTO ME . . . OUT OF THEE — A prophecy of Jesus birth. See Matt. 2:4-6. Notice the "for Me." My Son.

RULER IN ISRAEL — The prophetic son of David. (Isa. 9:7; Jer. 23:5) The "arm" of Jehovah. (Isa. 63:5; 40:10; 51:9) One of the wonderful prophecies showing the foreknowledge of God.

GOINGS FORTH — All His activities to carry out the plan of God.

OF OLD — From before the foundation of the world. R.V. From days of eternity. As in Eph. 1:4; Acts 15:18; 1 Peter 1:20; Gen. 49:10; 3:14, 15.

This does not mean that Jesus is Jehovah. Notice that it does not say that “he has been of old,” but his goings forth (doings, works) have been of old, from everlasting. i.e They were foreknown and pre-arranged for, foretold, in the Father’s plan, from its inception. See also verse 4.

5:3 — THEREFORE — Because of this rejection. (Luke 19:41-44)

HE GIVETH THEM UP — The rejection of Israel. (Dan. 9:26, 27; Luke 21:20-24; Rom. 11:7, 25)

SHE WHICH TRAVAILETH — The Sarah Covenant and the virgin birth by Mary. (Isa. 54:1; Gal. 3:16, 29)

REMNANT OF HIS BRETHREN RETURN — Return of God’s favor to Israel and their return to Palestine and recognize their Messiah.

HE SHALL STAND — Take control as in Dan. 12:1.

FEED HIS FLOCK IN STRENGTH OF JEHOVAH — Bless and restore first Israel and then all the Gentiles who come into the New Covenant. (Acts 15:16, 17) All power in Heaven and Earth will be back of the Kingdom.

MAJESTY OF THE NAME OF JEHOVAH, HIS GOD — Jesus will be carrying out God’s plans for human salvation and glorify Jehovah (see John 20:17). His arm shall rule for Him.

5:4 — DWELL SECURE — Abide. All the willing and obedient may gain eternal life, peace and security. (Micah 4:4)

GREAT TO ENDS OF THE EARTH — Now from the start of the Kingdom. Kingdom spread till it includes all nations. (Isa 9:7; Dan. 7:13, 14; 2:44; Psa. 2:8, 9; Rev. 11:15)

5:5 — Leeser: “After this manner shall peace come.” Final peace, the overthrow of Satan’s empire and establishment of Kingdom.

ASSYRIAN — The northern horde of Ezek. 38, 39, as in Isa. 10.

INTO OUR LAND — Into Palestine, the land promised to Abraham. (Gen. 15:18-21; Ezek. 36:28; 20:6, 15)

INTO OUR PALACES — (Zech. 14:2; Joel 3:12) Half the city taken.

WE WILL RAISE AGAINST HIM — God will be on their defense. The prophet is talking as one family under the Lord's protection.

SEVEN SHEPHERDS — Jesus and the Church take control. (Ezek. 34:20-24; Isa. 40:11; John 10:14-16; Heb. 13:20; Acts 20:28-30) Seven is the completed number of the Elect Church. (Rev. 7)

EIGHT PRINCES OF MEN — The Ancient Worthies. The number eight—(Lev. 12:3; 22:27; 9:1; Ex. 22:30; Luke 2:21; Gen. 17:12; 21:4) After seven days of growth new work started, sabbath, Jubilees. The eighth day a new week; eighth 1000 year day all evil destroyed and universe clean. So Ancient Worthies have had their tests and development and will start a new life and work. (Heb. 11:39, 40)

5:6 — WASTE THE LAND OF ASSYRIA — Satan's empire, the present evil world. (Heb. 2:14; Rev. 2:26, 27; Obad. 19-21)

SWORD . . . TRUTH — Sickle of Rev. 14. Jer. 25:15-33.

NIMROD — As a symbol of Satan, the great rebel against God.

DELIVER US — As in Jacob's trouble. (Jer. 30:7; Joel 3:1, 2, 14; Zech. 14:16-19, 1, 2; Hos. 2:15)

5:7 — REMNANT OF JACOB — The third part of Zech. 13:9; Micah 4:6, 7.

MANY PEOPLES — Gentile nations.

LIKE DEW — The earthly channel of blessing. (Isa. 19:23-25; 11:11-15; 27:12, 13) Showers upon grass. (Psa. 72:6; Deut. 32:2)

TARRY NOT FOR MEN — Not wait till the League of Nations or United Nations bring peace—will never come by them.

5:8 — LIKE A LION — Instruments of judgment and chastising.

NONE TO DELIVER — No appeal from Jehovah's Judgment, Justice laid to the line. (Isa. 28:17)

5:9 — Deliverance of Israel. (Zech. 14) Hand above adversaries Israel as a blessing nation. (Zech. 8:13)

5:10-15 — Tells five things the Lord will do.

5:10 — HORSES, CHARIOTS — Military equipment. (Deut. 17:15, 16; 1 Kings 10:28, 29; Micah 4:3; Isa. 33:21)

5:11 — CITIES . . . STRONGHOLDS — Gentile governments. Rule of a few men over their brothers. Nimrod established the first cities. Not God's way to crowd into cities, but each family own land and be in open country. (Isa. 2:1-5; Micah 4:4; Zech. 3:10) No locations of power to keep down the people with fear. Now there is already a tendency to move to the country.

5:12 — All demonism, sorceries, cheats destroyed. (Lev. 17:7; Deut. 32:17; 2 Chron. 11:14, 15)

5:13 — IMAGES — Idol worship destroyed. Pillars—Temples for idol worship.

5:14 — ROOT OUT ASHERIM — Groves. All traces and tendencies to false worship and false ideals. Solomon and Jeroboam.

CITIES — Seats of false worship.

6: — The last two chapters, 6, 7, divide into three parts:
(A) verses 1, 2 (7 lines) the call to attention.

I. First stage of the suit. (6:3-8)

1. Verses 3-5 God's complaint (13 lines).
2. Verses 6-8 Israel's anxious reply (13 lines).

II. Second stage of the suit. (6:9 to 7:8)

1. Verses 9-16 God's reproof (26 lines).
2. 7:1-6 Israel's complaint (26 lines).
3. Verses 7, 8 Hope and trust (7 lines).

III. Closing Psalm. Humiliation, confidence and praise (7:9-12) (13-26) (13 lines).

6:1, 2 — MOUNTAINS — Kingdoms of Earth, all nations. These will ultimately understand why Israel was cast off and punished.

IMMOVABLE FOUNDATIONS — These were established by Jehovah at the time of the flood, but have been corrupted by man's disobedience. The religious heavens and social earth are to pass away and be renewed in righteousness. Eccl. 7:20; Heb. 1:10; 2 Pet. 3:13, 11; Hosea 4:1.

PLEAD WITH ISRAEL — "Have a settlement," "Contend" as in a court of justice.

6:3 — WHAT HAVE I DONE UNTO THEE — Jehovah speaks not with the thunder of the Law, but with much more penetrating voice of wounded Love.

MY PEOPLE — An expression of love. Belong to me, brought up by me, taken out from all other nations and given special care. Israel had become wearied with the Law Covenant. (Mal.1:12, 13; Isa. 43:22, 23) But much more had Israel wearied the Lord. (Mal. 2:17; Isa. 43:24)

ANSWER ME — Defend thyself against me. Make reply to my charge.

6:4 — God's language continues in tones of deep irony—Dr. Kleinert renders—“Is it that I led thee up out of Egypt? (Amos 2:9-11) And that I sent before thee Moses and Aaron and Miriam?” With special fondness the Lord through the sacred writers brings to notice, when He would impress upon the people the goodness of the Lord, His earliest deeds, and specially those connected with their deliverance from Egypt, because through that Israel became His peculiar possession. Redeemed thee out of the house of bondage—into liberty and freedom and wonderful possibilities.

How have we requited the Lord for His marvellous goodness like that to us? Let us meditate awhile and resolve that we shall give Him proper fruitage and not be reprobate silver. (Jer. 6:30)

6:5 — Jehovah calls attention to these tokens of Love, in the history of Israel from its planting till its arrival in the Holy Land. “It is no light thing that Israel ready to enter the Promised Land, is not cursed by Balaam, but rather blest by God through him, though even against his will. The curse would have discouraged them and inspired their superstitious foes. Under the peculiar circumstances of the blessing the spirits of the people were raised, because it showed that the Lord had so completely protected them in the eyes of all the nations that even enemies, who would curse them were obliged to bless them.”

FROM SHITTIM TO GILGAL — From after Balaam's blessing (Num. 25:1) to the entry into the promised land (Josh. 4:19)

KNOW THE RIGHTEOUSNESS OF JEHOVAH — His saving acts. R.S.V. The covenant grace, and deeds of mercy. Punishing them for wrong doing, yet protecting. These tests got rid of the ones who love evil.

How are we reacting to his even greater mercy and love?

6:6-8 — Israel cannot close its ears to the voice of truth, hence admits its guilt without parley, and asks only the way to pardon and expiation.

WHEREWITH COME BEFORE JEHOVAH? — Meet Him with gifts, an expression of respect, and desire to atone.

BURNT OFFERINGS — That is the first thought with men who look at what is external—to fill the “aching void” in the soul with outward show, and try to expiate the sins which spring from the heart against God, according to the outward written letter—work—righteousness, idolatry of the letter.

CALVES A YEAR OLD — Fresh and living not an old worn out animal. (Mal. 1:7, 10, 13, 14)

RAMS — Burnt offerings, morning and evening sacrifices, 10,000 vast number.

RIVERS OF OIL — Part of the meal and thank offering. A vast quantity.

MY FIRST BORN — The very choicest and most costly gift, as Abraham, and copied by the kings of Moab. (2 Kings 3:27)

6:8 — HE HATH SHOWED THEE, O MAN — You know, why do you ask? It is not an idle question, contrived that, instead of the answer, an excuse for thy conscience?

WHAT IS GOOD — What Jehovah seeks from thee. The thing He would use to build up a character He can trust. Micah shows accurate acquaintance with the Pentateuch, as in Deut. 10:12; 16:12, 8:14.

DEAL JUSTLY, LOVE MERCY, WALK HUMBLY — Three things that sum up the desirable character. (Job 1:1, 5; Ezek. 14:14, 16)

6:9-7:6 — VOICE OF JEHOVAH — The accusation, the sentence proceeds from the great judge of all.

CALLS CONCERNING THE CITY — To Jerusalem, the representative of the people, as it was their capital.

AND IT IS SOUND WISDOM — To reverence, hear, perceive thy name. To heed and obey.

HEAR YE THE ROD — Perceive the scourge. Notice what is the instrument used by the Lord. As in Isa. 10:5, 24.

AND WHO HATH APPOINTED IT — The one they had promised to obey and who had told them long ago what He would do. An outraged God.

6:10 — ARE THERE YET — Not merely, are the old ill gotten treasures still there, but that still new sins are ever heaping up.

TREASURES OF WICKEDNESS — Obtained by fraud, injustice and cruelty, yet loved as treasures, love of money.

SCANT (or Lean) EPHAH — False measure of grain, too small. (Deut. 25:13-16; Prov. 11:1; Amos 8:5; Ezek. 45:10-12)

THAT IS ACCURSED — By God's law.

6:11 — SHALL I COUNT PURE — Wicked balances, fraudulent, short. Deceitful weights—below par. The sinners dream, or hope, by their offerings before God (really before men) they shall stand pure, be accepted, in spite of their daily repeated sins. This is the faulty view, or hypocrisy, which the prophet would destroy. This trait is prevalent today. "Thou thoughtest I was altogether such an one as thyself." (Psa. 50:21) Honesty in business and in all the acts of life is needed.

6:12 — RICH MEN FULL OF VIOLENCE — A condition where truth and justice were dead.

INHABITANTS SPEAK LIES — (Isa. 59:14) The tongue deceitful. Deceit daily practiced till habitual.

6:13 — SMITING THEE — Smite mortally.

MAKE DESOLATE — Take away all His gifts.

BECAUSE OF THY SINS — (Hos. 13:9; 4:6; Isa. 1:3)

6:14 — THY EMPTINESS REMAIN IN THY BOWELS — Scarcity of food. (Jer. 52:6; Hag. 1:6)

SHALL PUT AWAY, BUT NOT SAVE — R.S.V.: Be robbed. What you save, I will give to the sword. Literally fulfilled by Assyria and in the Gospel age.

6:15 — Labor in vain. The enemy shall reap your harvests and plunder your stores. In Isa. 62:8 the promise for the Kingdom shows this prophecy was literally fulfilled. Amos 5:11 same as Micah.

6:16 — STATUTES OF OMRI — All the works of the house of Ahab. The Baal worship (1 Kings 16:31) and all the other abominations (1 Kings 22:27; 2 Kings 16:3) by which this evil dynasty had disgraced the throne of Israel.

Note the intensity of the Judgments. The inhabitants a hissing—hated and despised by other nations.

BEAR THE DISGRACE OF MY PEOPLE — All that was mentioned in Lev. 26 and Deut. 28.

7:1 — WOE IS ME — The prophet Micah speaks as representing Israel, the righteous men in the nation. Even as Zacharias in Luke 1; and Simeon and Anna (Luke 2:25-35; 36-38). Bemoaning the condition of Israel, no righteous fruits. And as Daniel (9:4-19).

GATHERED SUMMER FRUIT — Ordinarily there would be some gleanings left. (Lev. 19:9, 10) As there should be some fruitage of righteousness, as a result of God's care.

VINTAGE GLEANED — No cluster of grapes, no first ripe figs left. Greed and selfishness had left none. Disobedience made the harvest barren. (Isa. 17:9-11)

MY SOUL DESIRES — The Lord had a right to expect some fruitage. (Isa. 5:1-7)

7:2 — GODLY MAN PERISHED — Micah here shows what is symbolized by the grapes and figs—righteous men. Godly (possessors). Upright men none—of the Chesed, the grace, who by their conduct show a righteous heart, and who are the true Israel, the remnant.

LIE IN WAIT FOR BLOOD — The condition of Israel here represents the condition of Christendom, Europe and America, at the end of the age, last stage of trouble. The evil minded get control. (Isa. 57:1)

Israel is a type of Christendom and the world in general. dictators. Instead of remembering that men are brethren, creatures of one God, sons of one forefather (Acts 17) and bound by law to love each other as themselves.

7:3 — “Only the evil do they practice well.” (Hitzig) For evil alone have they hands, while, if anything good is to be done they will have none of it.

PRINCE AND JUDGE ASK — Corruption in every social and governmental activity. (Isa. 1:5, 6) The judge, for a price from the princes may be bought. The great man utters the evil desire of his soul and together they extort it. Each one gives his part so that a dark web of intrigue, a snare for the victim results.

7:4 — BEST OF THEM A BRIER — Hurting all who touch them.

MOST UPRIGHT A THORN HEDGE — Violence is their creed.

DAY OF THEIR WATCHMEN — Of their punishment. As it did for natural Israel so it will for Christendom, Judgment day. Day of Jehovah. They will have to give an accounting for their misuse of all their privileges and blessings.

Now their perplexity, confusion, no way out.

7:5 — Safety and security gone, fear on every side, every man's hand against his brother. (Isa. 24:17-21; Jer. 48:43-44; Ezek. 7:2-15; 2 Tim. 3:1-5) Reason for this given in next verse.

7:6 — As Jesus warned. (Matt. 24:10; Mark 13:12)

7:7 — LOOK TO THE LORD — The determination of the righteous. Watch and give heed, confidently trust in His promised help. To learn His will and cooperate.

WAIT FOR GOD — Part of our training is patiently to wait upon Him. (Psa. 27:14; 37:7; 130:5; Isa. 40:31; 49:23; Lam. 3:25, 26; Zeph. 3:8; Rom. 8:25)

MY GOD WILL HEAR ME — Perfect confidence in God's character and faith in His promises. (Psa. 102:16, 17, 19, 20; Isa. 65:24; Luke 18:7; Psa. 34:15; Luke 21:19)

7:8 — REJOICE NOT OVER ME — A confident and sure hope and a warning. Our path will not always be one of success, but we learn through failures. (Prov. 24:16) Learn the strength of our weaknesses, the power and hold of a wrong habit. Hard to eradicate. Like cancer, one little root left and it spreads again. (Heb. 12:15)

IF I FALL I WILL RISE AGAIN — The certainty of God's help. (Isa. 50)

WHEN I SIT IN DARKNESS — Part of our training is to endure hardness. (James 5:11; Heb. 6:15; 12:7; 2 Tim. 2:3; Matt. 24:13) Jehovah is my light—our faith becomes knowledge, we prove His faithfulness. Jesus endured. (Psa. 119:75-77)

7:9-10 —The Psalmody sounds on from here through verse 20. The Prophet personifies the righteous remnant who feel that the worst abominations are maturing and with them the judgment. And by gradual approach stands finally in the crises of the judgment, and now proceeds through judgment to salvation and deliverance.

- 7:9 — I WILL BEAR THE INDIGNATION — Submission, because God is just and His justice has been outraged and His judgments will cleanse me. (Job 23:10)
- I HAVE SINNED AGAINST HIM — All sin is against God, and all have sinned. (1 Kings 8:46; 2 Chron. 6:36; Rom. 3:23)
- UNTIL HE PLEAD MY CAUSE — Because we endured the chastening and learned the lesson. (Heb. 5:8)
- BRING ME FORTH TO THE LIGHT — (2 Cor. 11:2; Eph. 5:26, 27)
- I SHALL BEHOLD HIS DELIVERANCE — And He can deliver to the utmost. (Matt. 13:43)
- 7:10 — The scorner and scoffer and evil doer are put to shame. (Isa. 60:14; Rev. 3:9)
- 7:11 — A DAY FOR BUILDING YOUR WALLS — The prophet looks forward to the Kingdom and the day of victory. The restoration of Jerusalem. (Zech. 12:6; Jer. 30:18)
- LAW BE FAR REMOVED — Decree A.V.; Boundary far extended, R.V. Hebrew word is the Law in its most general sense (as in Psa. 119:7; 148:6; Ex. 25:25) and refers to the Old Law Covenant with its impossible offer. Be replaced by New Covenant. Jer. 31:31; New Mediator.
- 7:12 — COME TO THEE — To restored Israel. (Isa. 60:3; Zech. 14:16; 8:21-23)
- FROM ASSYRIA, FROM CITIES OF EGYPT — As to the World Capital. (Isa. 19:23-25)
- FROM EGYPT — The fortress to the River Euphrates.
- FROM SEA TO SEA — Mediterranean to the Persian Gulf.
- MOUNTAIN TO MOUNTAIN — From Sinai on the south to Lebanon on the north. From all over the world. (Isa. 66:19-20; 49:12)
- 7:13 — But first the final punishment upon the world for their iniquity, as was Palestine, for its disobedience. In its activities, social and religious. (Isa. 19:1-10, 15)
- 7:14 — Prophet requests the Lord to lead His people, as a shepherd his flock.

STAFF — Correction and guidance.

THINE INHERITANCE — God has chosen them as such. Isa. 19:25 and will yet possess them as exhibits of his workmanship. (Eph. 1:18; 1 Kings 8:51; Ex. 15:17; Deut. 9:26, 29; 32:9; 2 Kings 21:12-14) Though it be but a remnant at first.

DWELL ALONE — Separated from other nations from its beginning, belong to Thee alone. (Isa. 43:21)

FOREST — Among other nations as in Ezek. 3:3-9.

IN THE MIDST OF GARDEN LAND — Carmel—Bashan, Gilead. R.V. The Kingdom will make, not only Palestine, but the whole Earth as a garden. (Isa. 60:13; Ezek. 36:35)

AS IN DAYS OF OLD — As in days of Abraham and Lot. (Gen. 31:10; Deut. 8:7-10)

7:15 — MARVELLOUS THINGS — Wonders of grace. Notice change of pronoun—“Thy coming out of Egypt.” “Show him.” Thy = the present Israel and of old. Him = the Israel of the Kingdom. The wonders of God’s goodness. Marvellous deliverance.

The overwhelming destruction of the enemies of Israel (described in Ezek. 38:18-39; 20 and Zech. 14:3) bringing in the end of the time of trouble and time for the setting up of God’s people, can be compared only to the terrible overthrow of Pharaoh and his hosts when trying to repossess themselves of Israel whom God was delivering.

7:16 — The Gentile nations, be astonished. (Ezek. 33:9) Ashamed of their use of force and their greed and boasted power. (Ezek. 32:30, 9, 10)

HAND ON MOUTH — Speechless with amazement, extreme astonishment takes away the power of speech.

EARS DEAF — Before the thunder of Jehovah’s mighty deeds. Nothing so marvellous have they known. (Mark 2:12)

7:17 — LICK THE DUST — Like the serpent humbled from their pride. (Isa. 60:14)

LIKE CRAWLING THINGS — Will seek to hide, but cannot.

COME TREMBLING OUT OF THEIR STRONGHOLD — Or hiding places. No use to hide (cannot), like Adam.

APPROACH WITH TERROR — To Jehovah. In fear before Him.

7:18 — WHO IS A GOD LIKE THEE? — No comparison possible, others powerless, cold, unsympathetic. (Exod. 15:11-17; Psa. 89:16-18; 2 Sam. 7:22; 1 Kings 8:23; Psa. 86:5, 8-10; Isa. 44:6-20)

PARDONETH INIQUITY — Because of the sacrifice of His Son. (Rom. 3:26; Ex. 34:6, 7; Isa. 55:7; Neh. 9:17-23)

PASSETH BY TRANSGRESSION — (Acts 17:30)

RETAINETH NOT ANGER FOREVER — (Isa. 57:15, 16)

DELIGHTETH IN MERCY — (Psa. 103:8-14)

7:19 — TURN AGAIN — Change His method of operation. (Psa. 102:13-22)

SUBDUE OUR INIQUITIES — By instruction, help them to self-control.

CAST SINS INTO DEPTHS OF SEA — Be blotted out forever. (Acts 3:19; Psa. 103:12)

7:20 — PERFORM TRUTH UNTO JACOB — Carry out, fulfill the promises of the Abrahamic Covenant through the New Covenant.

NAHUM

1:10 — FOLDED TOGETHER AS THORNS — For Protestantism and Papacy can never perfectly assimilate—each will be a thorn in the other's side.

AS DRUNKARDS — With spirit of the World, false doctrines.

BE DEVOURED — Be overwhelmed in the great tribulation and as religious systems to be utterly destroyed. (Vs. 9)

AS STUBBLE FULLY DRY — Useless, all the water of truth having gone out, and fit only to be burned, as are dead leaves in the fall.

HABAKKUK

DATE OF PROPHECY — Babylon had suddenly risen from as nothing, in the time of Jehoiakim, by the overthrow of Nineveh to the summit of power. Taking advantage of the complications in Mesopotamia, Necho, King of Egypt, had already set out, seized the kingdoms along the Mediterranean and had deprived King Josiah, who manfully opposed him at the battle of Megiddo, of throne and life. Had also carried away Jehoahaz, his legitimate successor to the Throne, into Egypt, and put in his place Jehoiakim, a weak and impious man, as king over Judah. (2 Kings 23:37-24:4) his expeditions advanced continually onward while the Babylonian (Chaldean) and Median armies were held fast before Nineveh. And already he had pushed forward to the Euphrates when Nineveh fell. Immediately Nebuchadnezzar marched against him with his Babylonians exalting in victory, annihilated the Egyptian power at Carchemish, in the 4th year of Jehoiakim (B.C. 625 B.C.) and pursued the fugitives even to the borders of Egypt. (See Dan. 1:1) Daniel mentions the third year of Jehoiakim. (Lang)

CHAPTERS 1 and 2 contain a dialogue between God and the prophet, by the pure elevation of its style is like Micah 6 and 7. It takes the present experience as its starting point and immediately shows the coming events. Israel's sin must be punished by a severe and powerful judgment and the scourged generation. But it is a revelation of the righteousness of Jehovah, which will be executed, and which will strike the destroyer eventually, as well as every sinful being upon earth. At least the earth will be filled with the glory of Jehovah and keep silence before Him. (Lang)

The prophecy of Habakkuk is clothed in a dramatic form—man questioning and complaining, God answering with threatenings. It announces as nearest of all, the impending fearful judgment by the Chaldeans as an instrument, on Israel, because of its prevailing moral corruption, and next to this in a five fold ignoring and idolatrous offender. (Chapter 2) (Kiel)

The prophecy must be placed in the 4th year of Jehoiakim and shortly before the battle of Carchemish. Only from this situation, in which the distress is certainly approaching (Jer. 36:9), but the decisive blow not yet fallen, there being still good confidence in Jerusalem, can both the following circumstances be understood—1) that Habakkuk proclaims his message as something incredible (It was indeed incredible that the power of Egypt, regarded as supreme and invincible since the battle of Megiddo in the southwest, should be overthrown by this people of yesterday, the Chaldeans under Nebuchadnezzar; 2) and that Jehoiakim causes the similar message of Jeremiah to be destroyed as treason. Had the battle of Carchemish been fought at the time of this prophecy, then Jeremiah's message was not only not treason, but as one might expect.

Next to Isaiah, Habakkuk is the most powerful evangelist among the prophets.

It seems from the prophecy that Habakkuk prophesied during the reign of Jehoiakim (628-617 B.C. Edgar charts). He was probably director of the musical service at the Temple in the days of Jehoiakim and just before the shadow of Babylon fell across the land. The particular form of the title use, applied only to Haggai, Zechariah and himself, appears to indicate that he held a definite prophetic office. He was not one of the wandering seers like Elijah, or one of the people like Nahum or Amos. Because of his musical connection he may have been a Levite but not necessarily. The name Habakkuk is from a root meaning to embrace. (Lang) He might have known Ezekiel and Daniel, the latter being a boy at the time. (B.S.M.)

Nothing whatever is known of his life. He comes upon the scene and delivers his prophecy, calm in his faith and his message resplendent in its presentation of the majesty of God, and passes out into the unknown. He was essentially a prophet of faith.

The text of 2:4 was used by the apostle Paul to prove that greatest of doctrines—Justification by faith. Paul saw the inner truth of the text, and carried them to completion by showing it referred to faith in Christ as our Redeemer. Habakkuk's own personal faith is revealed here and there in his prophecy, shining forth like illuminated gold and red letters on an ancient parchment. His sterling confidence in God's holiness and justice despite the apparent triumph of evil (1:12,13); his steadfast belief that God would perceive his standing on his watch and would reveal to him His plans (2:1); his plea that God would preserve alive His work with His people in the intervening years between the early and latter fulfillments (3:2); his willingness to rest in death till the time of Israel's deliverance and glory at the end of the world (3:16); and his determination to honor and praise the Lord despite the utter failure apparently to fulfil his promise (3:17); all attest to deep rooted faith which enabled this man to see plainly not only the faults and shortcomings of his own people and the retribution that must surely come upon them in consequence, but also the divine intervention, which at the end of the ages, would restore and exalt righteousness over evil forever. (B.S.M.)

In three short chapters there is a whole process of development which must be repeated in the life of every Christian, who would understand intelligently what his Lord doeth. Habakkuk was first led to supplicate God, on account of the injustice and apostasy, rampant in his own day. "Why does God permit such evil?" was his question.

Jerusalem was in a state of Godless infatuation feeling secure. Habakkuk proclaims his message as something incredible. Indeed incredible that the power of Egypt, regarded since the battle of Megiddo as invincible, (Josiah slain there) should be overthrown by the Chaldeans, just recently coming to notice.

1:1 — HABAKKUK — An embracer, one who takes another in his arms, and presses him to his heart. Habakkuk calls his message a massa, or burden, because it announces heavy judgments upon the covenant nation and its imperial power.

BURDEN — The message he bore of retribution and punishment was one hard to deliver, a burden.

1:2-11 — First dialog:

He speaks first in the name of the true Israel, as an advocate of righteousness, then in the; name of God.

The complaint — vss. 2-4.

He accuses the people of disobedience, describes the wretched condition of the country, which urgently calls for judgment, Judah itself.

1:2 — HOW LONG? — Properly “until when?” though a covenant God, who hearest those that call upon thee, and art angry with the wicked.

1:3 — WHY? INIQUITY — 1) Nothingness, vanity; 2) Nothingness of words; falsehood, deceit; 3) Nothingness as to worth, inequity, wickedness. perversity, crookedness.

AND CAUSE ME TO BEHOLD GRIEVANCE — Why does He permit it to happen? Where there powers are unequal, there is oppression; where they are equal, fighting, violence.

AND THERE ARE THAT RAISE UP STRIFE AND CONTENTION — This complaint was fully justified. The reforms of King Josiah had lapsed soon after his death. His son Jehoiakim, a young man of 25, had no reverence for God and much more interested in political bargaining with Egypt. He was a “Modern” ruler surrounded by a “Smart Set,” which had but small respect for older and wiser counsellors, such as Jeremiah, the men who saw plainly where this flinging aside of restraint. As a result public morality declined, injustice and oppression flourished; unbridled commercialism forced the observance of the Sabbath into virtual disuse, and the Temple of God was neglected. The nation had repudiated its covenant with God, and so national disaster must follow. (B.S.M.)

(Eccl. 8:11)

LAW IS SLACK — Not heeded, nor carried out. Justice (a righteous sentence) never goes forth, no respect for the Law of God, think they can do evil and get away with it. No security nor stability, as in our day. The wicked man surrounds the righteous; to a whole circle of wicked men there is but one righteous, so that right bows to superior power.

JUDGMENT GOES FORTH PERVERTED — Even as in our day.

1:5-11 — Jehovah's answer:

The scourge is already prepared, and a terrible one.

1:5 — LOOK AROUND AMONG THE NATIONS AND SEE! — Already the storm has burst forth among the nations, which will also overtake the secure sinners of Israel.

BE AMAZED, BE AMAZED! — The emphasis of the benumbing astonishment, verb repeated. Stupefying consternation!

WOULD NOT BELIEVE IT, IF TOLD — It so far exceeds anything that could be imagined or expected, and is immediately at hand (in your days).

1:6 — I AM ABOUT TO RAISE UP THE CHALDEANS — The following description shows they had already appeared in history, but will in short time appear before Israel. Casdim = now preserved in the name Kurds. Jer. 5:15 calls them an ancient nation. Their origin is Tataric and occupied whole country between the Tigris and the Black Sea. (Jer. 5:15) Ancient nation. Chaldee, Heb.—kas-dee = a Kasdite, or descendant of Kesed; son of Nahor, Abraham's brother. (Gen. 22:23) By impl. a magician or astrologer.

BITTER AND IMPETUOUS — Rushing and precipitately marching—speed, threatening. Like the Communists.

1:7 — ITS RIGHT AND ITS DIGNITY — Put its own statutes in place of divine Law, and enters despotically into world power at strife with God. Could there be a more accurate description of Communists?

1:8 — LEOPARDS, EVENING WOLVES — The battle, with them, like the prey to the ravenous beast—a savage delight, to which they hasten with impatience.

MORE FIERCE — Pityless, heartless.

HORSEMEN FROM AFAR — From distant regions, where horse riding and battle are the main occupations and training. Like the Cossacks, Chengis Kahn, Tamerlane. Experts.

LIKE EAGLE — Swift and to devour the prey. No withstanding them.

1:9 — COME FOR VIOLENCE — Deeds of violence for the purpose is to execute judgment. “Eagerness of their faces urges forward”; “Terror of them goes before them”; “Gathers prisoners like dust”; Horror at their practices, like Communists, and nothing done about it. Stupor of Leaders.

1:10 — SCOFFS AT KINGS AND RULERS — These seem paralyzed — confident that it has the power to overcome all resistance. Self-confidence. Laugh at every fortress. Heaps up earth and take the fortress.

1:11 — THEN THEY SWEEP BY LIKE THE WIND — Like a tempest; the threefold comparison of the revolving whirlwind, rushing speed, and demolishing power. A vivid description, expressing astonishment at the invincible power of the Babylonian who immediately after the capture of Nineveh, marched against Pharaoh Necho and conquered him and drove the Egyptian army in flight back into Egypt.

But, speaking from the standpoint of Jehovah, the conqueror is guilty in his irresistible autocratic insolence—and in due time his feet shall slide. (Deut. 32:34, 35) Their god is their own power.

The nations of Gentiles shoot up into ascendancy, while God’s truth is impeded by pride, injustice, and spirit of contention among His people. On these the enemy lives like fungi, and God permits them to spring up, in order to be used as chastisement upon his people. The more certainly that individuals insist on their own view of what is right and pursue the war of flesh instead of the Gospel of Peace, the more certainly is the scourge already in preparation. Selfish pride blinds one to the approaching punishment. God’s retribution is wonderful and often incredible. That they will come, he who has learned to examine the signs of the times in the light of God’s Word, sees it in advance. How they are to be, God reserves to Himself, in His time and way. Enough to know it is God’s purpose. To him who knows this, there is no strange work in the world.

1:12 — Jehovah is implored as the Holy One who in a special manner and special revelation took Israel from among the nations. So the prophet realized God will not utterly abandon His chosen people. (We shall not die.) Hence these calamities are judgments, corrections. Oh Rock—dependable, we can safely put our trust in Him.

1:13 — When God is so righteous and evil so detestable to Him, Why? does He permit evil? He is silent when the wicked destroys those more righteous than he. Why? Age long question. As in Job. (Psa. 50:21, 22)

1:14 — Then he mentions of the unjust, heartless things done:

THOU MAKEST MEN — Jehovah permits it, men like crawling things, so debased that have no ruler, no protector, helpless, seemingly abandoned.

1:15 — THEY CATCH THEM IN THEIR NET — Like a giant fisherman with net, he (the Chaldean). Drags by superior power. (Jer. 27) The net and seine = his army.

REJOICE — Rejoices and exults at his success. (Dan. 4, great Babylon.)

1:16 — Worships his military power. Sacrifices and burns incense. Built great image (Dan. 2) made himself a god and commanded people to worship it. Nebuchadnezzar.

BY THEM — His army, men and horsemen. Lives in luxury, rich food. So ancient kings, and rulers of Arabs and India. So Communists have made a god of their organization and call it—“the state.” All people compelled to acknowledge it. The Image in ancient time, only to give a religious appearance, for benefit of the people. Roman rulers gods. (See Acts, Herod.)

1:17 — Is this forever? No hope of relief? The prophet things there is a purpose, and relief will come in due time, as in chapter 2.

2:1-4 — A picture of the appointed watchman, as in Isa. 21:5-16; 11:11, 12; Ezek. 3:17; 9:1-11; 33:30-33; 33:2, 6, 7; 24:15-25; Psa. 130:6; 102:7; 127:1; Jer. 4:16, 17; 31:6; 51:12; Isa. 52:8; 56:10; 62:6; 2 Kings 17:5-7; Micah 7:4.

Not necessary to think he actually went to a watchtower. (From this Scripture came the Title—Watch Tower.) While the watchman lived we felt it was so, and he really distributed the meat in due season. He received, and we checked and made sure. It was from the Lord.

2:1 — AND WILL WATCH — Diligently study and pray and hearken “to see what he will say to me.” (Margin—Heb. “in me”; that is by using me as a picture.)

WHAT I SHALL ANSWER — “What answer I shall bring to my Complaint.” (This seems to be the Heb. though not much sense. The events seem to indicate—“What answer I shall get to my complaint”.) How long?

2:2 — WRITE THE VISION — “Write down the vision.” (first) That the word may be Made known to all; (second) that it shall not be obliterated or changed, but given just as worded by the Lord. So plainly that everyone passing by may read it quickly and easily.

The purpose of a divine Revelation is that it can be passed on to others. The prophet who by patient watching, has been entrusted with a knowledge of the divine plan, is thereby obligated to make it known to those who need that knowledge. God will speak to men in him.

UPON TABLETS — “Luach = Heb. = clay tablets. Soft clay, inscribed by a stylus, with cuneiform characters (arrow or wedge shaped), were baked till hard, and so made a lasting indestructible record.

“Sepher” (as in Judges 1:11; Josh. 15:13-19) = usual Heb. word for “Books,” in Habakkuk’s day were parchments written with ink. Not many parchments have survived, like the “Dead Sea Scrolls.”

So indicated that Habakkuk’s message was to be preserved for the latter days, as Isa. 30:8.

Leeser—“For there is yet vision for the Appointed Time, and it speaketh of the end, and it will not lie.”

MAY RUN — (Roth.—“that one may swiftly read it.”) (Leeser—“That everyone may read it fluently.”)

2:3 — THE VISION IS YET FOR AN APPOINTED TIME — As in Dan. 8:19.

AT THE END IT SHALL SPEAK AND NOT LIE — (Isa. 30:18; Job 19:25; Jer. 23:20; Gen. 49:1; Num. 24:14; Deut. 4:30; 32:29) It hastens to the end, strives, puffs, pants. True prophecy animated by impulse to fulfil.

TARRY — Two different Heb. words, each having a distinct meaning. First—“Mahahh (Maw-hah) = to question or hesitate, be reluctant. From “Mah” (Maw) = What? Where? When? How?

Second—“Achar” (Aw-khar) = a prim, root = to loiter, be behind.

So better rendered = “Though it linger wait for it, because it will surely come, it will not fail to come.”

2:4 — BEHOLD HE WHOSE SOUL IS NOT UPRIGHT IN HIM SHALL FAIL — Indicates we need serious soul searching, to see if we are doing the best we can, if anything is held back, if we are wholly trying to do the Lord's will. Any root of bitterness (Heb. 12:14, 15) or disobedience remain. Like Reuben. (Gen. 49:4; Rev. 3:11; Matt. 24:12, 13)

BUT THE JUST SHALL LIVE BY FAITH — Evidences of Kingdom are becoming brighter (Luke 21:31; Mark 13:29; Matt 24:33) (No pronoun, is in verb ending in Matt.) Yet we must live by Faith (Rev. 14:12; 13:10; Heb. 10:36; 3:6, 14) Civil War Deserters, Hold on! "How little, how little"—(Heb. 10:37) Ours is a life and walk of faith. (Rom. 3:22, 28; 5:1)

2:5 — BECAUSE HE TRANSGRESSETH BY WINE — (1) "Wine is treacherous"—whether literal or unbridled ambition. Here two proverbs are quoted. In drunkenness men arrogate to selves high things, and afterward have not strength for them.

A PROUD MAN — (2) "The arrogant (boastful) man shall not abide." "He who widens his desire like the insatiable jaws of hell, like death he has never enough." (Isa. 5:13, 14)

GATHERETH UNTO HIM — "Gathers for himself" = like all great conquerors, selfish ambition, thinks divinely authorized. Collects as his own; vast egotism. These not realize God is using them as a rod of chastisement. (Isa. 10:5, 7-10)

2:6 — A PARABLE AGAINST HIM (A.V.), A TAUNT AGAINST HIM, IN SCOFFING DERISION (R.S.V.)

Note the five woes against the conqueror. Songs raised by the oppressed over the fall of the conqueror.

2:6-8 — First Woe: — This woe because of plunder, blood.

HEAPS UP WHAT IS NOT HIS OWN — Seized the property of others—retribution.

LOADS WITH PLEDGES — With a burden of pledges gained by usury. (See Deut. 24:10)

2:7 — BITE THEE — A play upon words; bite of a snake and usury.

VEX THEE — Shake thee violently, allusion to violent seizure of a debtor by his creditors.

2:8 — REMNANT — What is left and in existence at time of retribution. (Jer. 50:18, 22-46)

2:9-11 — Second Woe: Robbing others to amass wealth for himself, that he may be safe, from hand of evil.

2:10 — THOU HAST CONSULTED SHAME — Thou hast consulted shame for thy house (family). (Dan. 12:1,2) “Forfeited thy life.” (R.S.V.) “Involest thy soul in guilt.” (Lang)

2:11 — THE STONE SHALL CRY OUT — “Stone cry out from the wall and the beam from the woodwork respond.” (R.S.V.) (Num. 32:23) Dumb witnesses. (Eccl. 10:23; 12)

This Woe shame and greed and cruelty.

2:12-14 — Third Woe: Lives shed to build fortress and city founded in wickedness (disobeyed, disregard of God.) (Psa. 127:1)

2:13 — IS IT NOT FROM THE LORD OF HOSTS, PEOPLE LABOR FOR THE FIRE, AND NATIONS WEARY THEMSELVES FOR NAUGHT — 2 Chron. 25:20; Jer. 51:58 (Labor vain); Jer. 8:13-15 (Silent); Isa. 26:17,18 (Wind).

VANITY — All this vanity must be made manifest, the works of man must crumble into the dust from which they arose.

2:14 — KNOWLEDGE OF THE GLORY OF THE LORD — Because God’s plans will be accomplished in spite of all man’s and Satan’s opposition and all men will realize the futility of selfishness and opposition.

This woe is because of vaunting ambition, not recognize God.

2:15-17 — Fourth Woe: Making neighbors drunk to gain desired power and vengeance. And to fulfill their lust, either by drink, or lull them into a feeling of security by specious promises, to work their own desire upon them. Whether done by Israel or by the enemy it will bring the following woes upon them.

2:16 — SHAME — Shame will return (show thyself uncircumcised) upon them in heaps, contempt. (Dan. 12:1, 2) In due time their retribution will come. (Deut. 32:35)

SHAMEFUL SPEWING — Shameful vomit upon their glory. Chaldeans described as a drunken nation. (vs. 5)

2:17 — LEBANON — The fine cedar forests wickedly spoiled by conquerors.

This woe because of the debauchery of others. China now raising opium to spread debauchery. Same spirit shown by cigarette and liquor interests. The blood of men, outrageous destruction of land, wells, trees.

2:18,19 — Fifth woe:. Idolatry and its punishment. Behold it is adorned with gold and silver, and there is nothing of soul, nor breathing, nor feeling nor understanding in it. It cannot teach—give active guidance, advice or counsel, which belong to the deity as above mankind, and which form the basis of practical piety. Pesel is an image carved out of wood or stone. Massekah an image cast in metal. Destruction of all images, organizations and systems religious and social, financial and political.

2:20 — JEHOVAH IN HIS TEMPLE, SILENCE — This command to be sent over the earth at beginning of Kingdom—after trouble. (Psa. 46:10; Isa. 52:15; Zech. 2:13; Zeph. 1:7)

3: — The Hebrew text is divided into:

- (1) 7 lines (2-3b);
- (2) 14 lines (3c-7);
- (3) 7 lines (8-9b);
- (4) 14 lines (9c-13);
- (5) 7 lines (14, 15).

The prophecy itself verses 2-15 in the translation (R.S.V.)

- (a) Verse—5 lines
 - (b) Verses 3-7, first chief part—approach to God, 16 lines
 - (c) Verse 8, 5 lines—transition
 - (d) Verses 9-13, second chief part—operation of the judgment, 16 lines
 - (e) Verses 14, 15, conclusion, 7 lines.
- Notice the three Selahs. Verses 3, 9, 13.

3:1 — A PRAYER — A song sung to worship. According to—after the manner of “Shagah”—to err, to reel to and fro, a song (Shigayon) in excitement, with rapid change of emotion. (In Dithyrambic measure.)

3:2 — I HAVE HEARD THY SPEECH — “Heard report of Thee.” Report or announcement of grand appearance of Jehovah, as a judge.

AND WAS AFRAID — “Thy work I fear” (or tremble).

REVIVE THY WORK — As the deliverance from Egypt, in the beginning of their history and the final restoration to their land. Jesus’ first advent was the fulfillment of this prayer. He brought light and immortality to light and made known some of the plans of God.

REMEMBER MERCY — (Luke 1:68-79, 72, 79) Wrath came upon the nation, but mercy upon believers and mercy still reserved for the end of the Gospel age. (Rom. 8:28-31)

3:3 — Jehovah approaches in the south (visits the earth) in judgment at 1914—establishment of Kingdom.

TEMAN — See Jer. 49:7, 20 (7-23); Ezek. 25:12-14; Amos 1:11, 12; Obad. 9 (1-21); vss. 3-6. Under vivid symbols appears a dual picture of the great time of trouble that will close the Gospel age and usher in the Millennium. The picture shows first the working of God's spirit in the "Time of the End," the period when the kingdoms of this world are disintegrating and breaking down in the face of the oncoming kingdom of Christ; and second arising to intervene in that short and final phase of human resistance called "Jacob's Trouble," the invasion of the Holy Land by the hosts of Gog and Magog.

EDOM — Land of Esau, Christendom.

PARAN — Region of Sinai, where old Law Covenant. made, to make New Covenant.

3:4 — BRIGHTNESS WAS AS THE LIGHT — Glory of His coming like splendor of a sunrise. The clear brightness and splendor, like the purple light of the morning, covers the heavens and like a sea of fire sinks on the earth. The glory will ultimately fill the earth, dispel the darkness and all will praise Him. Out of this glory, bursting upon the view, shoot forth lightnings like rays, flashes of knowledge and understanding, enlightenment of mind, dispelling ignorance, the refuge of lies.

HORNS — Rays. Arabic poets and popular Eastern language liken the first rays of the rising sun to horns and antlers. So the coming of God, at the Second Advent, is enclosed by rays of light, even as the rising sun is surrounded by a splendid radiance.

HANDS — Power.

THERE WAS THE HIDING OF HIS POWER — (In this radiance, splendor) is the Vail, or hiding of His power. (See Psa. 74:11; Exod. 4:6, 7) Power at first revealed in punishments upon the wicked—plague, pestilence, cancer and polio and influenza spread alarmingly, in spite of all modern medicine.

3:6 — MEASURED THE EARTH — Checked it to make manifest how far off from righteousness it is, and bring to light its evils (Rev. 11:1, 2; Zech. 1:1, 2)

SHOOK THE NATIONS — Breaking them up as unfit to continue. (Heb. 12:26, 27; Isa. 6:4)

MOUNTAINS — Kingdoms.

HILLS — Lesser governments. All are shaken.

HIS WAYS — Or paths are as of old. Founded upon justice, as he had dealt with Egypt.

3:7 — TENTS OF CUSHAN — Ethiopia (Cush—Gen. 10:6, 7) Africa is rising to throw off its chains. In affliction.

CURTAINS OF MIDIAN — Allusion to the dream of Gideon, and the overthrow of Midian = powers of evil.

3:8 — RIVERS — Teachings of Man's Philosophies, Wrong religious teachings, and social standards, militarism.

SEA — Working classes in labor unions, their abuse and mismanagement. (Psa. 46)

HORSES — Jehovah sends forth His truth and doctrines, harvest message of truths and of the kingdom.

CHARIOTS OF VICTORY — God's organization of Jesus and the Church in glory.

3:9 — BOW AND ARROWS — Messages of truth. (Psa. 45)

CLEAVE THE EARTH WITH RIVERS — Messages of truth to separate His people from society and from world institutions.

3:10 — Kingdoms are broken up by stone Kingdom. Raging waters.

MOUNTAINS SAW THEE AND WRITHED — Collapsed in trouble and difficulty, revolutions.

RAGING WATERS SWEEP ON — The rising of the peoples, nothing can withstand it. The cry of the peoples raises to heaven. (Psa. 107:23-30)

3:11 — SUN AND MOON — Reference to Joshua's victory over the Amorites. (Josh. 10:12, 13)

THINE ARROWS — Beams, flashes of light and knowledge, illuminating the minds of Men, destroying superstition.

GUTTERING SPEAR — The word of God. (Psa. 45)

3:12 — MARCH — Orderly progress, irresistible.

THRESH — As at Harvest Time.

3:13 — SALVATION OF THY PEOPLE — The Jewish nation.

THINE ANOINTED — The Church. (Isa. 63:1-4)

HEAD OF WICKED — Binding of Satan and destruction of wicked leaders.

DISCOVERING FOUNDATION — That all human systems of Satan's Empire are based on injustice and selfishness and lies (Isa. 28:14-20)

THIGH TO NECK — Whole body mixed with evil and selfishness.

3:14 — PIERCE WITH THY SHAFTS — With the messages of truth, battle and revolution.

HEAD OF HIS WARRIORS — Defeated all the leaders of the enemy. Their purpose to destroy all opposition and destroy God's people and true religion, as do the Communists.

3:15 — Command even the raging multitudes to keep still. (Psa. 46)

3:16 — The prophet's fear at the message.

DAY OF TROUBLE — Overthrow the nominal people then, and nominal religion now.

3:17 — It would seem very strange if the Prophet should wind up the whole chapter, so highly symbolic, with anything so plain and literal as a literal interpretation (that though famine stalked everywhere and there was nothing of earthly hope, yet God's people at any time and in any place would rejoice in God and give him the glory), it would seem but reasonable that the words should be interpreted in keeping with the context, and that we should regard it as the prophet's expression of some deep truths. (Z. '14-19; R.5383) (For elaboration of verses 17 and 18 see Z. '14-19, 20; R.5383)

3:18 — I WILL REJOICE IN THE LORD — As the just shall live by steadfast faith, so I must wait calmly for the day of affliction (vs. 16). I will rejoice in God my salvation. The way of Him who stands fast upon the Word of God—a way marked by humility and fidelity must lead to salvation. It is the mutual relation of the stability of the Divine Word (2:3) and of the stability of him who preserves in it, whereby the solidarity (mutual obligation of all to each, and of each to all.) between God and the subjects of His Kingdom, and whereby the impotence and self-destructive character of all attacks against this mutual covenant, are characterized.

(Lang)

3:19 — TO THE CHIEF SINGER OF MY STRINGED INSTRUMENTS —
“To the conductor of my pieces of music.” The prophet appoints his psalm for use in the public worship of God, accompanied by his stringed playing. This would indicate that he himself will accompany it with his own playing. So Habakkuk was probably a Levite. The phrase would indicate that he was qualified to take such a part.

ZEPHANIAH

The name Zephaniah, means Jehovah hides or protects. He traces his genealogy back four generations to King Hezekiah, hence he is of the royal family. He prophesied in the reign of Josiah, who reigned 31 years (659-628 B.C.). Josiah's reforms began in the twelfth year of his reign, and continued through the eighteenth year. (2 Chron. 34:3-8)

The Law is very frequently quoted in Zephaniah, as something supposed to be known; hence it could not be before the eighteenth year of his reign when the Book of the Law was found which Moses placed in the Ark. Also he still awaits the destruction of Nineveh, which happened in the fourth year of Jehoiachin, So the prophecy would be after the eighteenth year, about 640 B.C. though many interpreters place it between the twelfth and eighteenth years of Josiah's reign.

The kingdom of Judah did not benefit by the fate that befell the ten tribe kingdom of Israel, to repent and turn to the Lord, at heart. The 31 years of the reign of Josiah should have fixed their hearts to stay faithful to Jehovah, but after the death of Josiah they quickly forgot the ways of truth and righteousness and fell quickly into the ways of idolatry under the remaining kings. Their leaders were corrupt and that influence dominated the people until the defiling influence corrupted the whole nation, so the correcting judgments of the Lord destroyed their nation.

Josiah himself was sincere, but many of his relatives were not. The abandonment of the national religion and morals had its core in the sphere of the men of rank. The Law existed, but since the ruling classes were corrupt (chap. 1:8; 3:3; Jer. 2:8), it is the same as if it did not exist; but it existed for abuse and oppression (chap. 3:4; Jer. 8:8). The service of Jehovah had been publicly established again, His worship was officially purified, but the Baals and the Molochs and the host of heaven sit enthroned in their hearts by the side of the lip service of Jehovah (chap. 1:4; Jer. 6:20; 7:17). And the idolators were far from concealing their idolatry, they still have their priests and idol worship, and swear at the same time allegiance to Jehovah and to their idols. (chap. 1:5; Jer. 5:2, 7; 7:9). The service of Baal is a remnant, but a powerful one, which is rooted in the national character, and does not yield to the good, while the pure service of Jehovah has lost the quickening power of sanctification.

The common prophets prophecy, but not God's Word, they utter their own fine-spun deceits, and in the great mass of the people the religious feeling, which Micah could still recognize in his day was gradually becoming extinct. Even among those who do not make themselves guilty of idolatry many are not actuated by fidelity to God, but by perfect indifference (chap. 1:12), like a perishing race, dead in a living body. They sit upon their money bags, and regard Jehovah with unconcern.

While the contemporaries of Micah could still ask—"Wherewithal can I be reconciled to God?" these say Jehovah does no good and no evil (chap. 1:12). They are a shameless people (2:1; 3:5; Jer. 3:3; 6:16). The city has become rebellious, polluted and oppressive. (3:1; Jer. 4:17; 2:22; 6:6). Everything that God has done for it and is still doing is thrown into the sieve; exhortations are fruitless, and even the exhibitions of power (3:17; Jer. 2:30; 5:3; 6:9, 19). They receive no discipline willingly. So God's wrath cannot fail to punish severely. (Lang)

Zephaniah's prophecy is divided into six parts

- (1) verses 1-16. Judgment of the world, the reason of the judgment upon Israel due to the evil conditions of the present.
- (2) Chap. 1:7-18, description of the judgments, as to their objects, and as to their dreadfulness.
- (3) Chap. 2:1-3, an exhortation to seek God.
- (4) Chap. 2:4-15, Judgment upon the nations.
- (5) Chap. 3:1-7, misery in Jerusalem without remedy.
- (6) Chap. 3:8-20, Promise of salvation—a) Salvation for the nations after the judgment, vss. 8-10, b) Purification of Israel, vs. 11-15; Salvation of Israel, vss. 14-20.

However the commentator Kiel more simply divides the book into three sections:

- (1) Chap. 1:1 to 2:6
- (2) Chap. 2:7 to 3:6
- (3) Chap. 3:8-20

1:1-3 — Very strong language about the destruction of evil doers. It cannot be taken absolutely literally, as this would contradict the covenant with Noah (Gen. 8:21, 22; Matt. 24:22), as in 2 Thess. 1:7-10; Zech. 3:8, 9, but such severe desolations as would put an end to the nation. Disregard of the Almighty cannot forever be tolerated. This refers to the Land of Israel, but anti-typically to the world.

1:4-6 — The Judgment upon Israel—Four classes are mentioned—(a) The worshippers of Baal, with the priests and the false gods, even the very name of the priests will be blotted from the records. (b) The worshippers of the sun and the stars, usually carried on on the house tops, Nature worshippers, Evolutionists. It seems that every possible worship was carried on except the true worship of God. Also every evil practice had adherents in Israel. There was nothing that could be done except to wipe out the whole nation. And yet there were a few loyal souls, but they were so few that they suffered with the general mass of the people. Yet the Lord had His providences operating for them. Even as Daniel and the three Hebrews who refused to worship Nebuchadnezzar's image, and possibly others, had to bear the exile with the others, but the Lord singled them out for special deliverances. It pays to stay with the Lord even when overwhelmed with trouble. He always delivers in due time. (Psalm 40:1). (c) The third class were the double dealers. They took oath to Jehovah, and also to Moloch (some read Milcom, the god of the Ammonites). Change the vowels and it becomes Molech, meaning king. It seems there are always some of these, fence riders. d) Those who by their negative conduct prove the apostasy of their hearts.

Note the thoroughness of the destruction: 1) The remnant of the idols of Baal. (See Hosea 2:17); 2) The company of their servants; 3) Nature worshippers, evolutionists; 4) Secret worshippers, hypocrites; 5) Those who without actually practising idolatry have apostasized from God in their hearts; 6) The indifferent ones.

1:7-18 — Second section:

1:7 — SILENCE! — (Hab. 2:20; Zech. 2:14) Listen to the proclamation of God's judgments! The day of vengeance is at hand!

CONSECRATED HIS GUESTS — These guests are the Gentile nations. They are consecrated (prepared) for the destruction of the impious nation, Israel. Those who slay these sacrifices are not the priests of Israel, and those who feast on them are not the people of Israel, but strangers. So Hab. 1:12; Isa. 10:5.

1:8 — Note the three acts of punishment:

THE PRINCES — a) Upon the princes who practice the customs of the Gentiles, officials, leaders.

THE KING'S CHILDREN — b) The King's children, and household (1 Chron. 3:14, 15), the royal families. In the antitype this is already going on in Europe.

ALL SUCH AS ARE CLOTHED WITH STRANGE APPAREL — c) Those following foreign styles, voluptuous and suggestive and enticing garments. As now applied to Christendom, these would be those claiming to be Christians but not really accepting Jesus as their Redeemer, not having the robe, only their own righteousness, not consecrated.

1:9 — THOSE THAT LEAP ON THE THRESHOLD — d) The labor elements and leaders, who commit violence, their hired thugs, and those who resort to violence.

MASTERS' HOUSES — Business organizations, public utilities, national industry, who hire the people and pay them wages.

LEAP OVER THE THRESHOLD — Overstep their sphere of operation and duty, and thrust themselves into the councils of the managers and try to run the business. Their demands know no limit.

FILL THE HOUSES WITH DECEIT AND VIOLENCE — Unauthorized strikes, mob violence. Exactly contrary to the Apostle's advice in 1 Tim. 6:1, 2; Titus 2:9, 10; 1 Peter 2:18; Eph. 5:5, 6; Col. 3:22. But worldly people are guided by selfishness, and this goes to seed at the end of this age, even as it did in Israel.

1:10, 11 — Second act of punishment—falls upon the rich.

1:10 — FISH GATE — Where the fish market was.

SECOND QUARTER — Lower city, the northward extension of the city, as the sheep market by the sheep gate.

LOUD CRASH FROM THE HILLS — The armies surrounding Jerusalem in the siege.

1:11 — HOWL YE INHABITANTS OF MAKTESH — Or the Mortar—A deep hollow resembling a mortar, perhaps the cheese-monger's valley (Tyropoean), between Zion and Moriah, hills in Jerusalem. The traders and merchants, "For all the traders and no more."

ALL WHO WEIGH OUR SILVER ARE CUT OFF — The breakdown of all business and trade. The siege of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar brought this about. And in the end of this age, with all countries and peoples being mechanized, the markets for trade are disappearing, because of overproduction and too many employed in manufacturing with too few on the land as farmers. There is enough being produced now both of food, of clothing and of manufactures, that with proper arrangement there would be enough for all, and the hours of labor be much shortened. But there is too much selfishness and greed. Only the Kingdom of Christ will be able to accomplish this.

1:12, 13 — Third act of punishment—This falls upon the careless despisers of God and Justice.

1:12 — SEARCH JERUSALEM WITH CANDLES — Bring all their deeds to the light. In the straitness of the siege the dire distress will search out those who have hoarded for their own pleasure.

SETTLED UPON THEIR LEES — Like wine that is not drawn off, seeking their own ease while others are in distress. So James says the rich will find much pain in the latter days.

THE LORD WILL NOT DO GOOD, NEITHER WILL HE DO EVIL — They think He may exist but He pays no attention to what is taking place and will do nothing to us. This expresses the mental obstinacy of those who deny the agency of God in the world, and who in the opinion that chance governs everything in the world, despise exhortation and warning, and live from one day to another. By such practical denial of the judgment. (Psalm 10:4-6,11; 50:21)

1:14-18 — The Dreadfulness of the Judgment, its severity.

1:14 — R.S.V.: THE GREAT DAY OF JEHOVAH IS NEAR, NEAR AND HASTENING FAST. THE SOUND OF THE DAY OF JEHOVAH IS BITTER — Because it will mean hardship upon all classes, the disruption of all the institutions of man, an unsettled condition where there is no security for anything, no dependability for any future planning in home, society, business, government.

MIGHTY MAN CRY THERE BITTERLY — Because all their planning for gain, or even a living cannot go forward. Those in power or authority will find it hopeless to try to get anything done, their power and authority will not be recognized, the breakdown of law and order, strikes, mob violence, money losing its value, trade and transportation at a standstill because of strikes at the docks of ships, and railroad tie-ups; religion losing its hold upon the people, a despairing outlook! All their labor and hopes ruined, and no relief.

1:15 — DAY OF WRATH — As in chapter 2:2; Isa. 42:13; Jer. 25:30.

DISTRESS, ANGUISH, RUIN! — Desolation, darkness, gloom, clouds, thick darkness! What woe and hopeless trouble is pictured here! A world in ruin and chaos! The collapse of civilization, society, trade, finance, religion, government! It staggers the imagination.

1:16 — A DAY OF TRUMPETS, BLAST AND BATTLE CRY AGAINST THE FORTIFIED CITIES AND AGAINST THE LOFTY BATTLEMENT — The yell of revolution against oppression, unjust government, unjust social conditions. We can see this beginning now in the demands and marches of the colored people, and organized crime in defiance of government.

1:17 — I WILL BRING DISTRESS UPON MEN THAT THEY WALK LIKE BLIND MEN — Every scheme for bettering the conditions only makes them worse, no reforms possible without injury to many. Wherever men turn the road is blocked by some entangled business or social organization. The government dare not lessen the war preparations because it would throw out of work thousands of men, and too many are out of work now. The rising cost of living is hurting everybody, but who is willing to give up their high income or their high wages, so that prices can be lowered?

BLOOD Poured OUT LIKE DUST — As in Rev. 14:19, 20. Many lives lost in the struggle, dictators slaughter their opponents in order to hold their power; the farmers demand a better return for their labor because they cannot meet the high cost of farm implements and needed supplies; labor wants an increase in their wages in order to enjoy life more, and the consumer pays the too high price upon everything. Human life is becoming very cheap.

1:18 — NEITHER THEIR SILVER NOR THEIR GOLD SHALL BE ABLE TO DELIVER THEM! — Devaluation of the national currency has crept quietly onward. Italy and Germany, as a result of the first world war, and in Germany at the end of the second world war, a bushel basket of their money would not buy a loaf of bread. The mounting debts of nations spell financial ruin, and our own currency is no longer backed by sufficient gold or silver, just printed paper. What great changes must take place, that a man be more precious than the golden wedge of Ophir!

IN THE FIRE OF HIS JEALOUS WRATH ALL THE EARTH SHALL BE CONSUMED, A SUDDEN END — Unexpected and short. The mind

shrinks from thinking upon the conditions; yet it is all brought about by selfish methods of selfish people. But the Lord's anger is clearing away the obstructions to the peace and happiness of mankind. As long as Satan and his minions are loose there is no possibility of peace or lasting good, so the Lord removes them. Men will learn the happy effects of brotherly love and justice among men, as the Kingdom teaches them the ways of truth and righteousness. The peace and joy of the Kingdom will be so heart-satisfying and stabilizing that the terrible trouble of the past will be buried and forgotten, except for their lessons. Now the terrible results of disobedience are impressed upon us because it takes such an awful wreck of everything that is honeycombed, by the selfish spirit to clear it away, and let society be established upon a right basis.

2:1-3 — This is a solemn warning to those who can hear. It gives a hope of being hid from the visitation of wrath to those who are striving to live rightly.

OH, SHAMELESS NATION — Literally, “O nation that does now grow pale!” The insolent, audacious people who sit erect upon their money bags, at ease. The normal life is infected by the godless influences that have flowed in, a corrupting deposit of complete indifference was formed. In cherishing other gods law a falseness that bears its fruit in the field of morals. The most pernicious fruit of indifference is the shamelessness which no longer turns pale. “Shame is the first prophetess, when thou turnest aside, to beckon thee back again to the land of peace.” (Lang)

An upright heart can have but one God, but a double mind, in its profoundest depths, is actuated by two opposite opinions and these influences finally neutralize each other and produce indifference to heavenly influences, with two results: 1) Pride and avarice displace the fruits of the spirit; 2) This fearless, practical atheism concludes—God does no good and no evil. He thinks either that God does not exist, or He sits tranquilly in heaven and cares for nothing about His earthly creatures. Men intoxicated with sensual pleasures drive God out of His office as Judge.

2:2 — DRIVEN AWAY LIKE THE DRIFTING CHAFF — Worthless, that cannot be used for anything. The chaff is the outer covering of the wheat grain, necessary for the development of the wheat, but after the grain is fully developed the chaff is of no further use. So evil men and pseudo Christians and evil institutions are necessary for the development of the two classes of faith men, the Ancient Worthies and the Church, but after these are developed there is no further use for the evil and it is destroyed or restrained. (Jer. 23:28—"What is the chaff to the wheat.")

THE DAY OF WRATH, THE FIERCE ANGER OF JEHOVAH —

The day of vengeance (Isa. 34:8), the day when evil will be wiped out of the earth. (Zech. 3:9)

2:3 — SEEK YE THE LORD ALL YE HUMBLE OF THE LAND, WHO DO HIS COMMANDS — God always gives a warning to His people before a calamity or judgment comes, so that the humble and earnest minded may take heed and escape the severity of the judgment. So here the meek and humble are warned, that they may be forearmed and thus be protected. Notice that the statement is "Ye may be hid." It is not directly promised like the promises to the Church. (Mal. 3:17)—"I will spare them;" (Psalm 27:5)—"He shall hide me"; (Psa. 31:19, 20)—"Thou shalt hide them;" "Thou shalt keep them"; (Psalm 46:5)—"God shall help her." These last are certainties, while the other "May be" is evidently dependent upon the earnestness with which they seek the Lord.

2:4-7 — Note in verses 4-15 three parallel groups of four verses each about the Judgments. The first group deals with the West, the sea coast. Four cities of the Philistines are mentioned:

2:4 — GAZA — Means "strong," mentioned as the most actively engaged in the sale of the captive Israelites, but her strength will disappear, and she shall be desolate and forsaken.

ASHKELON — Means mart or trading place, but all trade shall stop and desolation reign.

ASHDOD — Means ravager. This was the seat of Dagon worship. (1 Sam. 5); but Dagon will have no power to deliver in that day.

DRIVEN OUT AT NOON — So sudden and powerful will be the attack that the city will be taken by noon.

EKRON — Be rooted up, or plowed up, that is, destroyed. This is like Amos 1:6-8. The four directions of the compass are here paralleled by mention of the four cities of the Philistines. There were five, but only four are mentioned. Gath is left out. As these punishments are on the four quarters of the world, they suggest the four winds. (Rev. 7:1; Jer. 49:36; Zech. 2:6; 6:5 margin; Dan. 7:2)

2:5 — INHABITANTS OF THE SEA COAST, CHERITHITES — These Cherithites were people living in the south of Philistia. Some translate it, “Ye Cretans.” The connection of the Philistines with the island of Crete was known from very ancient times. See 1 Sam. 30:14; Ezek. 25:16.

CANAAN — Properly means, “low country,” originally the name of the whole tract of land along the Mediterranean, inhabited in the north by the Phoenicians and in the south by the Philistines.

I WILL DESTROY THEE TILL NO INHABITANT IS LEFT — Utter wiping out of that nation.

2:6 — SEA COAST — In the Hebrew is literally a cord or rope, but as used to measure land and mark out lots, it came to mean a possession, region, district. Nebuchadnezzar and later Alexander completed this destruction.

YOU, O SEA COAST SHALL BE PASTURES, MEADOWS FOR SHEPHERDS, FOLDS FOR FLOCKS — What a peaceful picture, contrasted with the continuous wars that have afflicted that land since the beginning of history. Rest and peace and security at last.

2:7 — THE SEA COAST THE POSSESSION OF THE REMNANT OF JUDAH — This is a prophecy of the Kingdom. The remnant of Judah evidently means the Jews who pass through Jacob’s trouble, who become humble and teachable, have accepted Jesus as their Messiah. These are mentioned in Zech. 13:9.

IN THE HOUSES OF ASHKELON THEY SHALL LIE DOWN AT EVENING — For rest, in peace and security.

FOR THE LORD THEIR GOD WILL BE MINDFUL OF THEM AND RESTORE THEIR FORTUNES (R.S.V.) — The full return of God’s favor to them under Jesus and the Church. (Isa. 32:13-20)

2:8-11 — The East, Moab and Ammon, the children of Lot.

2:8 — I HAVE HEARD — It seems that the nations who have persecuted the Jews will have to answer for it, either as with these four nations, in the past, or in the time of trouble as it increases. @SECOND PAR = TAUNTED MY PEOPLE — As in Neh. 4:1-8.

2:9 — MOAB BECOME LIKE SODOM, AMMONITE LIKE GOMORRAH, A LAND OF NETTLES AND SALT PITS, WASTE FOR THE AGE — This has indeed been literally fulfilled in the past. The returned Jews have already taken possession of part of it.

REMNANT, SURVIVORS OF MY NATION SHALL POSSESS

THEM — Those who pass through Jacob's Trouble, and have been purified and humbled, and accepted Jesus as their Messiah. These will be associated with the Ancient Worthies, in the establishment of the Kingdom.

SHALL PLUNDER THEM — (Zech. 14:14) There will be a new distribution of all properties and goods, and these shall be given to the righteous, for these shall inherit the earth. (Psa. 37:29)

2:10 — THIS SHALL BE THEIR LOT IN RETURN FOR THEIR PRIDE BECAUSE THEY SCOFFED AND BOASTED AGAINST THE PEOPLE OF THE LORD OF HOSTS — (Isa. 50:11; 17:10, 11) Pride is specially repugnant to the Lord. (Prov. 6:16-19) Scoffers not only lose the blessing which believers obtain, but their very attitude makes them refuse the very thing which would save them. (Prov. 1:22; 14:6; Isa. 28:14-19)

2:11 — FAMISH ALL THE GODS OF THE EARTH — Because the people will withdraw their support, the Euphrates will be turned aside. As people learn the truth they cannot support the falsehood.

AND TO HIM (JEHOVAH) SHALL BOW DOWN, EACH IN ITS PLACE, ALL THE LANDS OF THE NATION — To Him every knee shall bow and every tongue confess. (Isa. 45:23)

2:12 — ETHIOPIANS SHALL BE SLAIN BY THE SWORD — The South the universal war and trouble will bring down that government also. At present Haile Selassie has recently been in prominence before the world as the peace maker between Morocco and Algeria, and the country at present seems stable. But it is the ancient Ethiopia, which was at the borders of the then known world.

MY SWORD — The message of Truth. First a punishment to destroy the evil, then the pouring out of his spirit upon all mankind, to the Jew first and also to the Gentile. The temples will be in ruins and ancient Egypt but a memory. The Assuan Dam is removing part of these temples.

2:13-15 — THE NORTH. . . ASSYRIA. . . NINEVEH — At this time when the prophet was speaking the streams of water and the abundant irrigation were the pride and joy of the powerful city. This was the imperial power that was seeking to destroy the Kingdom of God in Israel. This prophecy has been literally fulfilled. In 1840 to 1850 Austen Henry Layard dug up much of the remains of Nineveh. Previous to then the very site of Nineveh was forgotten. The sketching of the picture of destruction passes from the general appearance of the city to the separate ruins, coming down from the lofty capitals of the windows, and from there to the thresholds of the ruins of the houses, as if the prophet in a vision was looking over the ruins. For further details see “Nineveh” in Fosset’s Bible Dictionary. In verse 15, a cruel, boastful, fabulous city thus laid in ruins forever.

3:1-7 — The obduracy of the Jewish people.

3:1 — WOE TO THE REFRACTORY AND POLLUTED, TO THE OPPRESSIVE CITY! — The mind (forehead) hardened, obstinate, self-willed, rebellious. Four reasons given for the punishment: (1) She listens to no voice of her God (as in verse 7) (2) She does not accept discipline, will not receive the lessons from one’s own or from another’s experience; (3) She does not trust in Jehovah, but in her own wisdom and wealth; (4) Does not draw near to her God but to Baal. Perversity and no repentance.

3:3 — HER PRINCES ARE ROARING LIONS — Threatening and devouring their people.

JUDGES LIKE EVENING WOLVES, GNAW NOT THE BONES TILL THE MORROW — They are ravenous in their slaughter, so greedy they instantly devour their victim, not even leaving anything for the morning.

3:4 — THE PROPHETS ARE KNAVES — Uttering vain empty talk to deceive their victim.

WANTON, FAITHLESS MEN — Defrauding God, and pretending their own message is the word of God.

PRIESTS PROFANE WHAT IS SACRED — Religious leaders desecrate the Temple (Jer. 23:11), and neglect to discriminate between holy and profane.

DO VIOLENCE TO LAW — They distort and pervert it, whereas they ought to be its guardians. All classes had become corrupt.

3:5-7 — But this evil is not due to God’s neglect, as they can witness. He is righteous, and has done all that could be done. (Isa. 5:4; Psalm 78) His mercies were about them every morning, at the beginning of each day without fail. Many have become so deeply impregnated with injustice that they have lost the sense of shame, and become more eager to make all their deeds corrupt. Normal people would have some appreciation, and would give some heed, but their conscience was seared as with a hot iron, and no influence of love or any reproof had any effect. They had reached the point of no return. Had they hearkened their houses would not have had to be destroyed.

3:8 — This prophecy is so worded that it applies not only to Israel, but applies to the end of the present evil world, and is gathering momentum at the present time, in the judgment of the nations. The seven last plagues which fill up the wrath of God, are each of them important truths which will show up the evil of the present symbolic heaven and earth and the judgments of the nations.

3:9 — The message is now the salvation of the nations.

YEA, AT THAT TIME I WILL CHANGE THE SPEECH OF THE PEOPLES TO A PURE SPEECH. (R.S.V.) — Hitherto with unclean lips they turned to their idols, and to doctrines of devils, false beliefs about God. He will send them the truths, and reveal the lies as such. (Isa. 28:14-19) Those who escape the slaughter of the judgment are dispersed into their own lands, and there Jehovah's new work of grace reaches them.

THAT THEY MAY ALL CALL UPON THE NAME OF THE LORD — Turn their hearts in full repentance to Jehovah, in full, hearty consecration, and thus enter into the New Covenant. (Acts 15:17)

WITH ONE CONSENT — Literally—with one shoulder (Rotherham), as men helping one another, steadily, and strenuously. “Thy people shall be willing in the day of thy power.” (Psalm 110:3)

3:10 — FROM BEYOND THE RIVERS OF ETHIOPIA — Beyond the limits of the then known world, from North and South America and the isles of the sea. (Isa. 66:18-24; 49:12)

MY SUPPLIANTS — My worshippers. The world then turning to God. One translation given in a note by Rotherham is—“My fragrant ones.” They will be entering the New Covenant.

DAUGHTER OF MY DISPERSED (ONES) — My dispersed people. Why the word “daughter,” descendant (“Bath.”)

BRING MY MEAL OFFERING — As in Zechariah 8:23. The meal offering was from the fruit of the ground, and would represent the fulfilling of the last six commandments, duty to our fellow men. The spirit of cooperation will gradually be universal, as men see the blessing of the Lord upon the earth again.

DAUGHTER — Heb. Bath, meaning daughter, is the feminine of Ben meaning son, as a builder of the family. Evidently means all the children and descendants.

DISPERSED ONES — The Jewish people, as the rest of the chapter shows. Their offering would be their consecrated selves, at heart satisfied that they have found the solution of all their problems. (Isa. 66:20)

3:11 — Rotherham and Ferrar Fenton translate this as a question — AT THAT TIME WILL YOU NOT BE ASHAMED OF ALL YOUR REBELLIOUS WAYS AGAINST ME? — The remnant of Israel will be purified and humbled as in Zech. 13:9, for is the severe time of Jacob's trouble, the Lord will remove all the proud and haughty, those who rejoice in their pride.

THOU WILT NO MORE PRIDE THYSELF UPON MY HOLY MOUNTAIN — The humbling of mankind will be very thorough, effective and lasting. (Ezek. 36:31)

3:12 — R.S.V.: I WILL LEAVE IN THE MIDST OF YOU A PEOPLE HUMBLE AND LOWLY. THEY SHALL SEEK REFUGE IN THE NAME OF JEHOVAH — As in Isa.32:1, 2. The exhausted and humbled hearts of men will need a refuge and assurance and comfort. (Isa. 66:13, 14)

3:13 — THOSE THAT ARE LEFT IN ISRAEL SHALL NOT DO INIQUITY NOR SPEAK LIES — No, that will have brought them only pain and ruin, and the loss of all things. Now they will learn the ways of the Lord. (Isa. 2:2-4) They will no longer find any use for lies, but will learn to detest them.

NOR SHALL A DECEITFUL TONGUE BE FOUND IN THEIR MOUTH — All the spirit of deceit and selfishness will gradually be rooted out of them, as the spirit of Truth and Righteousness flows into their hearts, filling them with the spirit of peace, content. Each one being fully provided for, will find no cause for stealing or jealousy or envy.

THEY SHALL FEED AND LIE DOWN AND NONE SHALL MAKE THEM AFRAID — The curse being removed from the ground, and abundant provision made for all, they will know security and satisfaction as in Isa. 32:17, 18.

3:14-20 — The prophecy closes with a theme of rejoicing and praise.

3:14 — SHOUT, O DAUGHTER OF ZION — This may be understood to refer to the Church, but the context seems to refer more to natural Israel.

SHOUT, O ISRAEL — Both phases of the Kingdom will find full cause for rejoicing. Rejoicing and praise will fill heaven and earth.

BE GLAD AND REJOICE, O DAUGHTER OF JERUSALEM — This certainly means natural Israel. (Isa. 65:17, 18)

3:15 — Shows the reason for the rejoicing.

JEHOVAH HATH TAKEN AWAY THY JUDGMENTS — Removed all the punishments and retribution. The claims of Justice will have been fully satisfied by the destruction of evil in the time of trouble.

HE HAS CAST OUT YOUR ENEMIES — By the destruction of the Gentile governments in the judgments of the nations, 1914-19. Israel will now be the leading nation of the earth, having been humbled to fit it for that work.

“Jehovah your God is in your midst, a warrior who gives victory; He will rejoice over you with gladness. He will renew you in His love. He will exult over you with loud singing, as on a day of festival. I will remove disaster from you, so that you will bear no reproach for it. Behold, at that time, I will deal with all your oppressors, and I will save the lame, and gather the outcasts, and I will change their shame into praise and renown in all the earth. At that time I will bring you home, at that time when I gather you together, yea I will make you renown and praised among all the peoples of the earth, when I restore your fortunes before your eyes.”

HAGGAI

The name—festive, or a feast. (Similar names of descendants of Gad, Gen. 46:16; Num. 26:15). Does not occur elsewhere in the Old Testament.

We do not know if he was a native of Judea or of Babylon, whether he was born before the captivity or after. Some think from Chapter 2:3 that Haggai saw the Temple of Solomon, but not necessarily. Legend says Haggai returned to Jerusalem with the other exiles, being then a young man; that he lived to see the Temple completed, and was buried with priestly honors, close to the burial place of the priests. (Lang)

His prophecies covered a period of four months, during the latter half of which he enjoyed the cooperation of Zechariah (1:1). He began his prophecy in the second year of Darius Hystaspes (about 520 B.C.). This was the fourth King of Persia (Cyrus, Cambyses III, Smerdis, Darius Hystaspes.) Cyrus, who issued the decree of 536 B.C. to rebuild the Temple, died in battle against the Massagetae; and the Median Smerdis seized the throne, claiming to be the son of Cyrus. Darius Hystaspes, with six Persian Chiefs overthrew the imposter and became King in 531 B.C. Smerdis had stopped the Temple building, and Darius renewed it. (Ezra 5:6; 4:24) The decree of Smerdis was 13 years after the foundation of the Temple was laid. Smerdis reigned only seven months.

Haggai was earliest of the prophets of the Restoration, preceding Zechariah by about two months. (Hab. 1:1; Zech. 1:1) At time of his appearance a divine messenger was greatly needed among the Jews.

The first religious acts of Jews promised favorably enough. They reestablished the legal festivals in seventh month of first year of their return, which was also the first year of sole reign of Cyrus. They hired workmen and purchased building material and laid the foundation of the second Temple in the second month of the second year 535 B.C.

But they became discouraged. The slow progress and lengthened intermissions in the work were not wholly due to the oppositions of the Samaritans. They were not fully zealous themselves.

Most commentators regard whole of Chapter 1 as one message, making the whole prophecy have four messages. But some think vs. 1-11 and 12-15 two messages, because of the different tone and nature.

1:1-11 — First Message:

1:1 — Months are named according to the sacred order; sixth month is Elul, about our Sept.—from sixth to seventh new moon. The first day was particularly suitable to give the message, it was the feast day of the New Moon, when many people would be together.

THERE WAS A WORD OF JEHOVAH — Indicates a freedom from all human mixture.

BY THE HAND OF — The prophet himself was merely an instrument, the Word simply passing through his hands.

TO ZERUBBABEL — In Ezra 1:8 & 5:14 he is called by his Persian name “Sheshbazzar” (Zerubbabel according to 1 Chron. 3:19 was a son of Pedaiiah, a brother to Shealtiel. In 1 Chron. 3:17 Shealtiel appears as a son of Assir, and grandson of Jeconiah (Jehoiachin). In Luke 3:27 Shealtiel was a son of Neri, a descendant of David through Nathan. By Jer. 22:30 Jeconiah would be childless, and by Luke 3:27 Shealtiel’s father was not Assir or Jeconiah, a descendant of David by Solomon; by Neri, a descendant of David through Nathan. So neither of sons of Jeconiah mentioned in 1 Chron. 3:17, 18 (Zedekiah and Assir) had a son, but the latter only a daughter, who married a man of her father's tribe, according to Law of heiresses (Num. 27:8) named Neri, who belonged to tribe of Judah and family of David. From him sprang Shealtiel, Malkiram, Pedaiah, and others. The eldest took possession of property of his maternal grandfather and was regarded legally as his son. So 1 Chron. 3:17 speaks of him as the son of Assir, the son of Jeconiah, but in Luke he is regarded as of lineal descent from Neri. As Shealtiel had no son, his brother Pedaiah seems to have performed this duty (Deut. 25:5, 10) and begotten Zerubbabel and Shimei by his sister-in-law. Zerubbabel passed as heir of Shealtiel. (Lang)

JOSHUA — Is the same one mentioned in Zech. 3, as prefiguring the Messiah.

1:2 — THIS PEOPLE — Not “my people”—the loss of God's confidence.

IT IS NOT THE TIME TO COME — (Heb. lit.) Come refers to building the Temple. The people had been urging as an excuse that the relations with Persia were not favorable to resume work on the Temple. But that was a mere pretext; for they had made no effort to discover whether the new and legitimate king Darius Hystaspes would regard them with favor. Easy and selfish indifference of people who had forgotten to be grateful and faithful.

THE TIME THAT THE LORD'S HOUSE SHOULD BE BUILT — The builders had become discouraged through the opposition. (Ezra 4:21-24) Besides, a new ruler of Persia had succeeded Cyrus, viz., Cambysis (Ahasuerus) and he with his hordes of soldiery had passed through Palestine in route to Egypt and doubtless, both going and coming the soldiers looted and thus discouraged the hopes of those who had looked for returning prosperity.

1:4 — While they held their own wants and even luxuries to be matters of pressing demand, they thought any time suitable to attend to the claims of their God. While their own homes had been regained. There was yet no house of worship for the God of Israel. While their wealthy members were using their superfluous means to adorn and beautify their dwellings, God's dwelling place still lay desolate, appealing in vain to their piety and patriotism, which had been overborne by selfishness and supineness. The message could not fail to expose the insincerity of their excuses. Houses wainscoted with cedar were the residences of Kings; and if some of them now had command of such resources as enable them to live in princely splendor, they might surely have reserved a portion for the Temple, when the work is resumed, if that work had been giving them the least concern.

Haggai and Zechariah had put their fingers on the source of the trouble. Faith and zeal had sunk to a low ebb; there was no longer the heavenly vision, which had inspired the first immigrants to wend across the desert with songs and thanksgiving on their lips and their faces turned toward Zion. Because faith and zeal had waned, the enemies of Israel and of God had loomed nearer and more menacing, and in fear and doubt the work of God had been stopped! (B.S.M.)

1:5 — CONSIDER YOUR WAYS — “Set your heart upon your ways,” look back upon your late course.

1:6 — See Z. '99-219-220; R.2520.

1:8 — GO TO THE MOUNTAIN — Perhaps Lebanon but more probably to seek building material where it could best be obtained. It was upon the highlands that the most suitable timber grew. So we need to go to the Word about God's kingdom and get the material wherewith to build the characters for God's spiritual Temple.

I WILL BE GLORIFIED — (“Kabed.”) The omission of the letter here, which represents the number five, was thought by later Talmudists to mean that five things were lacking: 1) The Ark; 2) The Sacred Fire; 3) Shekinah; 4) Holy Spirit; 5) Urim and Thummim.

SAITH JEHOVAH — Why? Though the condition of affairs could be explained by the people in their way, God gives the real explanation—while their own affairs had absorbed all their attention, His claims had been disregarded.

1:9 — Not only was their labor, to a very large extent profitless, and even what their fields and manual toil did produce gave but little enjoyment. The small quantity that was gathered profited but little on account of the absence of God's blessing.

1:10 — This was in accord with their Law Covenant (Deut. 28), misfortune threatening ruin because of the unfaithfulness of the people.

1:12-15 — Second Message:

The effect of the first message was powerful and lasting. Just such a special message was needed. Upon the first indication of a change in their attitude he is commissioned to tell the people that God's favor had already returned. The work was then re-commenced under the influence of that new zeal which Jehovah inspired in both leader and people.

They discerned in the words of Haggai the voice of God and they listened to his message because he attested himself to be God's messenger. The people revered Jehovah.

1:13 — I AM WITH YOU — The fact that God could now promise His presence, shows that their reverential fear was followed by sincere repentance and obedience.

1:15 — After about three weeks spent in gathering and preparing material sufficient to justify starting or continuing the work, the walls of the Second Temple began to rise from the foundations which had been laid 15 years before by the same people. (Ezra 3:8, 10; 4:24)

SIXTH MONTH, FOUR AND TWENTIETH DAY — Twenty-three days after the first message.

2:1-9 — Third message:

2:1 — SEVENTH MONTH, ONE AND TWENTIETH DAY — About four weeks after the second message. This was the seventh and last day of the feast of Tabernacles, also the Feast of Ingathering, and thanks were to be rendered for bountiful harvest. But this harvest was scanty, so there was the more urgent need of some word of comfort and cheer.

2:3 — The Ark was gone, and the Urim and Thummim, the sacred fire had long been out from the brazen altar. More than 87 years had elapsed (70 years desolation + 2 years of foundation + 15 years = 87). Old men wept. (Ezra 3:12, 13) Most Holy empty in Jesus' day and so here.

2:4 — BE STRONG, FOR I AM WITH YOU — God declares the Covenant made at Sinai, when they came out of Egypt, was still in force, and His Holy Spirit still operates among them, and hence they should take courage, and work. R.S.V.—“My Spirit abides among you.”

2:6 — ONCE MORE — (Heb. 12:26)

HEAVENS AND EARTH — Present evil world. (2 Pet. 3:7)

SEA — Restless mankind, the workers.

DRY LAND — Organized society. In all nations.

2:7 — DESIRE OF ALL NATIONS — (R.S.V.—“Treasures of all nations.”) Be realized, at last, though many despaired.

FILL THIS HOUSE — (The Church) with glory, in the resurrection morning. (Eph. 2:19-22; Exod. 40:34, 35; 1 Kings 8:10, 11)

2:8 — SILVER AND GOLD — Silver and gold in the restoration of the temple seem to be lacking. So in the building of the antitypical temple the church is not a wealthy class in literal gold.

2:9 — LATTER HOUSE — This is the Church glorified. This message must have seemed a riddle to the Israelites who heard it, an extravagant statement. (1 Pet. 2:7)

GREATER GLORY THAN FORMER — As the Church will be greater than any earthly glory.

PEACE — When the Church is glorified then it will bring peace to all nations and shall be a house of prayer for all people (Isa. 56). In it the complete antitype of all the glories of Solomon's temple will dwell, the Ark, the Urim and Thummim (Deut. 33:8) and all.

Was too little a fulfillment by the treasures supplied by order of Darius.

2:10-19 — Fourth message:

2:10 — FOUR AND TWENTIETH DAY OF NINTH MONTH — 63 days after the second message. Month of Chisleu (Nov. and Dec.) two months.

The ministry of the prophet had at last achieved its most important object, an access of new zeal and devotion to God's service. Another message was now due for two purposes:

(1) forewarn the people against conduct that would alienate them from God.

(2) To further secure them against despondency by the prospect of rich and speedy blessings, as result of their repentance and obedience.

The people were probably still feeling the pressure of the temporal distress. So they needed an encouraging message.

2:12 — HOLY FLESH — (Lev. 6:20, 27) The blood of the sacrificed animal, made the garment and person holy; but this could not be given to a third person or thing. Each one must come for himself.

Contact with dead (dead "nephesh") too intimate association with dead world makes one tainted with that spirit of selfishness, becomes unclean himself and can be a bad influence upon others. Why? (Ink and water) Fallen condition of humanity.

The people had become infected with this selfish spirit and forgotten the claims of God upon them, so that even the withholding of blessing and scarcity of crops did not wake them up. Now that they had returned God will bless them.

As he who was ceremonially unclean, tainted everything he contacted, so they, suffering from God's displeasure on account of their disregard of His claims, communicated the effects of that displeasure to all the labor of their hands, which profited them nothing. And as consecrated flesh did not convey its sacredness to any object beyond those immediately in the service, so all their external good works even their offerings upon God's altar could not secure those blessings which are the reward of living holiness. (Lang)

The temple was founded in the second year of Cyrus, 15 years before (Ezra 3:10). Comparing Ezra 4:4 with 4:23, 24, we see the work upon it was feebly continued till within two years of the present prophecy, so the foundation did not fall into decay.

“Whoever intrudes external ceremonies on God, to pacify him, trifles most childishly. The fountain of good works is integrity of heart and the purpose to obey God and consecrate one's life to Him. Whatever we touch is polluted by us, unless there be purity of heart to sanctify our works.” (Calvin)

Men are inclined to assign any other cause for their sufferings than their sins, yet this is often the true cause. Disappointment of our hopes on earth, should make us lift our eyes to heaven to learn the reason. Affliction may harden the heart, if we do not take it to the Lord in prayer. (Moore)

2:18 — The foundation was laid faithfully under Ezra. But then the people became discouraged because of the opposition, (Ezra 4:24; 5:16). Somewhere about twenty years.

2:20-23 — Fourth or Fifth Message:

On the same day as the fourth message (vs. 10) Repetition of third message about shaking, the destruction of the present order, at end of this age. The Kingdoms and military power to be destroyed. (Isa. 10:5-19, 20-23, 24-27; 13; 17:12-14; vs. 23)

2:22 — THRONE — Satan's throne as the God of this world and its ruler.

HORSES AND RIDERS — Destruction of the Gentile nations. Chariots represent organization for war, etc. commercial, etc. Those who ride represent leaders, Princes of finance and military.

SWORD OF HIS BROTHER — Mutual distrust and confusion and hatred.

2:23 — SIGNET — Seal of a king or ruler. So Zerubbabel = Christ will be God's instrument to work out his plan.

PERSIAN KINGS

Achaemenes led emigrating Persians to their final settlement 700 B.C. Teispes, Cambyses I, (Kabujiya in monuments), Cyrus I, Cambyses II, Cyrus the Great. After 80 years subjection to Medes, Persians revolted and became supreme 558 B.C. Cyrus the Great restored the Jews. His son Cambyses III conquered Egypt (Ahasuerus of Ezra 4;6). Magian priest Gomates pretending to be Smerdis (Cyrus' Son) gained the throne and Cambyses III committed suicide. Darius son of Hystaspes revolted and slew Gomates after seven months reign. Xerxes (Ahasuerus of Esther) Darius' son; Artaxerxes, his son, befriended Nehemiah; Darius Codomanus conquered by Alexander.

ZECHARIAH

INTRODUCTION

In our accepted canon of the Scriptures, this is the eleventh of the twelve Minor Prophets. The name is given to over twenty different persons in the Old Testament. Name is a compound of the divine name Jah or Jehovah and the verb remember—Jehovah remembers. He is mentioned in Ezra 5:1; 6:14 as encouraging the people in the rebuilding of the temple, after the return from the Babylonian captivity. He is called the son of Berekiah and the grandson of Iddo, the prophet. He is mentioned as a priest in Neh. 12:4. And in verse 16, Iddo is said to have a son named Zechariah. So Zechariah was both a priest and a prophet, like Jeremiah and Ezekiel. In chapter 2:4, he is called a young man. He was therefore born in Babylon and came up with the first company of exiles returning to Palestine. Later Jewish accounts state that he was a member of the great synagogue and provided for the liturgical service of the second temple. The LXX ascribes to him Psalms 137 and 138 (though the King James says the latter is of David.) With Haggai he is said to have composed the Psalms 145 to 148. The two prophets worked together for rebuilding the temple.

The restoration of the temple was a matter of great and pressing interest to the 50,000 who came up from Babylon under the decree of Cyrus in 536 B.C. They at once began to collect materials and workmen and in the second month of the following year laid the foundation of the house with mingled joy and grief. They were successful during the life of Cyrus (Ezra 4:5), but in the reign of Gomates, the pseudo Smerdis, their enemies obtained a decree absolutely prohibiting the work, so the whole enterprise lay in abeyance nearly 14 years. But in 521 Darius, son of Hystaspes, ascended the throne. Immediately Haggai and Zechariah incited their countrymen to resume the work.

Judging from the language of Haggai a great change had occurred in the views and feelings of the people. Their former zeal for divine worship had almost disappeared. They became engrossed in repairing their private fortunes and securing the comforts of life. They accepted the hindrances to the work as divine indications that they were not to resume it, and very energetic appeals and remonstrations were required to rouse them from their apathy, to becoming zeal and constancy in the enterprise. So the building was finished in the sixth year of Darius, (B.C. 515), 21 years after its commencement.

The prophet's statements take in the whole character and condition of the Covenant people, their present dangers and discouragements, their tendency to formalism and self-deception, their relations to the surrounding nations and their influence on the future prospects of the world. He prophesied in the second to fourth years of Darius. He not only met the wants of the present generation but the Holy Spirit gave their words a force and bearing which passed far beyond the immediate present.

Zechariah makes six prophecies of the Messiah:

- 1) 3:8 — The Branch (Isa. 4:2; Jer. 23:5; 33:15);
- 2) 6:12, 13 — The Branch to build the true Temple;
- 3) 9:9, 10 — The King in lowliness;
- 4) 11:12, 13 — Price of betrayal;
- 5) 12:10 — One whom they have pierced;
- 6) 13:7 — Smiting his fellow.

1:1—EIGHTH MONTH, SECOND YEAR OF DARIUS — Two months after the first prophecy of Haggai (1:1) about 522 B.C. Word of Jehovah, thus authorized. (Z. '99-222; R.2521)

1:2 — SORE DISPLEASED — Lit. “Angry was Jehovah with your fathers with anger.”

FATHERS — The disobedient Israelites, before the captivity. The prophet in verses 1-6 shows that repentance and holy living were indispensable conditions to attain any of the blessings of the Lord. The mention of God’s wrath is the ground of the summons to repent. Because God had been so angry with their fathers, the children should now repent in all sincerity. The severity of this wrath had been painfully shown in the overthrow of Jerusalem, the destruction of the temple, and the bitter exile in Babylon.

1:3 — SAITH JEHOVAH OF HOSTS — Repeated three times in this verse strengthens the command to repent. Not merely in the temporary work of rebuilding the Temple, but a thorough conversion, a genuine heartfelt return from their former works and ways of disobedience to the service and enjoyment of God.

1:4 — FORMER PROPHETS — Joel, Isaiah, Micah, Amos, Hosea, who warned the people from the time of Uzziah to the overthrow of Jerusalem, but all in vain.

The opening words of Zechariah are a truth, to deny which a persistent attempt has been made in every age—that God has wrath. The blinding influence of their own depravity renders men insensible to the evil of sin, and they easily come to transfer their own views to their Maker. (Psa. 50:21) Hence they attribute to Him an easy good nature which readily condones moral offenses, and is quite too gentle to give effect to the forebodings of a guilty conscience. To set forth His justice, and assert His prerogative as governor of the world is regarded as an unwarranted disturbance of men’s peace and an impeachment of the amiableness of the Divine character. (Eph. 5:6)

Men turn away from their Maker, hide from Him like Adam, or wander off dissatisfied and wretched. Having left the fountain of living waters, they find the cisterns they hew out for themselves to be broken cisterns which can hold no water. No matter how often the experiment is repeated it always fails. The only escape, the first duty is to return to God. This duty would be difficult, even impossible except for the gracious promise which accompanies it. God is found by those who seek Him in sincerity and Truth.

It is a sign of sickly piety when men are not willing to hear of the wrath of God against sin.

1:5 — YOUR FATHERS, WHERE ARE THEY? — Remember the fate which overtook them, because they would not heed to the warning God sent to them repeatedly by the prophets. This or worse would be your fate also, unless repenting.

AND THE PROPHETS, DO THEY LIVE FOREVER? — Will God go on eternally warning, but really do nothing? Will He never really carry out His threats?

1:6 — MY WORDS AND MY STATUTES — The words of the prophets—Joel, Isaiah, Amos, Micah, Hosea—through the reigns of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah. During 85 years the prophets after Hezekiah—Zephaniah (during Josiah, son of Amon, 640-610 B.C.) Nahum, Jonah, and Jeremiah prophesied, Josiah (2 Chron. 35:25; 13th year of his reign) thru Zedekiah. Other prophets words not recorded. (Uzziah—606 B.C. = 177 years.) The long suffering patience of Jehovah!

TAKE HOLD — Margin—overtake. The prophet pictures God's wrath as a sheriff who pursues the guilty nation and seizes them and executes the punishment.

RETURNED AND SAID — This acknowledgement is in Lam. 2:17; Dan. 9:4; Ezra 9:6, 7. There may be long delay and so a growing hope of escape, but sooner or later every transgressor makes the acknowledgement "Mine iniquities have overtaken me." (Psa. 40:12; Deut. 28:15,45; Psa. 50:21)

1:7 — Date (519-520 B.C.) — MONTH SEBAT — From new moon of February to next new moon. 11th Month, 24th Day.

1:8 — NIGHT — It seems in the space of one night the whole series of stately symbolic scenes passed before his eyes. Not in a dream but in a vision. His senses were not locked in sleep, but in a trance-like condition. The stillness, suspension of worldly cares, freedom from outward impressions. (Num. 24:16, Balaam.) A vision of the operation of God's Spirit in the Millennium. John had his vision by night, the night of the reign of sin and death. This date is three or four months after Haggai's last vision. This precise day (Hag. 2:10-20 seems to point to the fact that on just this day of the sixth month the building of the Temple had been resumed. (Hag. 1:14, 15) The Lord thus indicated His pleasure at the resumption of the work.

MAN — (Angel of the LORD, special in command—evidently pictured Jesus taking His power to reign.) Vision of the work of the Kingdom.

HORSE — These horses are the Spirit of God, the cherubim.

RED — Color of blood. May represent trouble and destruction preceding the kingdom. Note the order—the others follow him.

MYRTLE TREES — Representing everlasting life, evergreen. Perhaps referring to Ancient Worthies, among whom is the man on red horse (Wisdom of God.)

WERE IN THE BOTTOM — (Leeser) Deep valley, between the two phases or mountains of the Kingdom.

SPECKLED — Or Bay. Better conditions, progress toward righteousness.

WHITE — Last, finally righteousness and perfect, just conditions.

Or blood may represent application of ransom merit and then progress toward perfection. New teachings, doctrines.

1:9-11 — Note three present. (1) Angel of Jehovah (man on red horse); (2) The interpreting angel; (3) The operators pictured by the horses.

Prophet asks the interpreter, What mean these? Interpreter says he will explain. The angel of Jehovah answered—implies a question.

THESE ARE THEY WHOM JEHOVAH HATH SENT TO PATROL THE EARTH — The complete operation of God's Holy Spirit in all the earth. (See Zech. 3:9; 4:10; 2 Chron. 16:9; Prov. 15:3; Heb. 4:12, 13; Psa. 139:1-12; Gen. 16:13)

MYRTLE TREES — Life, hence may represent Ancient Worthies.

ALL EARTH SITS STILL AND IS AT REST — By end of Millennium, God's Spirit through Jesus and the Church will have subdued all things, all opposition and evil. (Isa. 32:9-20; 33:20-24; 65:17-25)

1:12 — Note that the angel of Jehovah asks the question of Jehovah.

HOW LONG — This has been the cry of many of God's suffering people thru the ages. (Isa. 6:11; Luke 18:7; Rev. 6:9, 10) To us it seems a long time, and we are cautioned to wait on the Lord.

SEVENTY YEARS — The seventy years of desolation of the land and their captivity.

1:13 — GRACIOUS AND COMFORTING WORDS — To give hope and heart consolation and strength to endure and wait.

Although the people had been restored, they were still in a sad state. The capital for the most part in ruins, its walls broken down, its gates burned (Neh. 1:3), the population small, the greater part of the land still a waste and the rebuilding of the Temple surrounded with difficulties. It might seem as if the troubles of the exiles would never end.

1:14 — JEALOUSY — The Hebrew word means to burn, to glow — indicates a strong emotion backed by jealousy that His people had been led astray from health and happiness with Him into sorrow and trouble. Jehovah is inspired with a burning zeal for Jerusalem and Zion (the two complete phases of the Kingdom, which He plans.) 1:15 — VERY ANGRY — Burn with great anger against the Gentile nations, because they are at ease when Israel is in distress, and needs help. Not merely tranquil, but in a state of selfish security, proudly confident of their strength and prosperity.

I WAS ANGRY BUT A LITTLE — The Lord intended a moderate, limited chastisement in love, for the purification and restoration of his people. But Edom, Tyre, and many others had added to the affliction by selling the captives to the Grecians and others, and thus added greatly to the suffering. (Amos 1:3-13; Ezek. 35:5; Obad. 10-14) They furthered the disaster.

1:16 — THEREFORE I HAVE RETURNED TO JERUSALEM WITH COMPASSION — The emphatic therefore shows that God will more than counterbalance their sufferings by their prosperity. Temple rebuilt, houses and lands returned to prosperity. Instead of scattered houses here and there, the whole city shall pass under the measuring line.

1:17 — BE SPREAD ABROAD — The blessings shall not be confined to the city of Jerusalem but the other cities of Judah shall overflow with prosperity.

AGAIN COMFORT ZION AND AGAIN CHOOSE JERUSALEM — This refers to the blessings of the Kingdom, when Israel shall return with their whole heart. It was fulfilled in small measure at the time, but Israel again deserts the Lord, but the final trouble will secure his lasting faithfulness.

1:18 — LIFTED UP MINE EYES — From earthly things to things above. Raise our thought and attention to consider God's plan and His Word.

1:19 — HORNS — Symbolize power, four powers, the four universal empires of earth. These are Satan's counterfeit of God's four attributes. (1) Power—Babylon; (2) Justice—Medo-Persia—laws of Medes and Persians alter not; (3) Wisdom—Greece; (4) Love—Rome—Satan's idea of love is self-love. These kingdoms in God's sight are beastly. (Dan. 7:1) And so are Satan's characteristics.

SCATTERED ISRAEL, JUDAH, AND JERUSALEM — Why the three? Perhaps because Jerusalem was dear to both Judah and Israel. The Gentile Kingdoms have oppressed and scattered God's people. (Jer. 12:14-17)

1:20 — FOUR CARPENTERS OR SMITHS — These are builders, not destroyers. Notice in verse 21 all three are collected in Judah.

1:21 — NO MAN DID LIFT UP HIS HEAD — Fear and oppression were the lot of the Jews in their dispersion. The four carpenters are the four attributes of God, which, during the Kingdom are to destroy all vestiges of the work of Satan and Gentile rule. (Jer. 51:25, 26)

CAST OUT — This is being done in the judgement of the nations since 1914.

2:1 — LIFTED UP MINE EYES — Away from and above earthly pleasures and cares to consider heavenly things.

SAW — Note with particular attention, enough to ask question.

MAN — MEASURING LINE — Its purpose in verse 2. Not merely to get its dimensions to indicate its future expansion and security; but to indicate the conditions or requirements for sharing its blessings.

2:2 — LENGTH AND BREADTH — Height excluded, so earthly—area of activity—sympathy and love for all.

2:3 — Angel with measuring rod went forth.

ANOTHER ANGEL — A commander—probably Jesus. (Three beside the prophet.)

2:4 — YOUNG MAN — Zechariah not old.

TOWN WITHOUT WALLS — Expansion and prosperity too great for walls. Also peace and security for all. (Isa. 32:14-20)

RUN — Because it is good news, for the weary and discouraged. Building of the temple had lagged and city still in ruins. Would not such prosperity attract jealous and envious nations?

2:5 — WALL OF FIRE — Lord will protect, like pillar of fire in the wilderness. Lord directs their mind to His former care of them when He brought them out of Egypt. Fire would consume every invader, better than walls of material substances, or an army.

GLORY IN THE MIDST OF HER — Glory, beauty, splendor within, God's presence. (Isa. 60:19)

2:6, 7 — FLEE OUT OF LAND OF NORTH — Babylon. "Come out her my people." (Rev. 18:4) Spiritual Israel to come out of mystic Babylon, and natural Israel to come out specially from Europe and escape the plagues. Babylon then called Land of North because she had to come by Euphrates, and also to be symbolic of present situation.

AS FOUR WINDS HAVE I SCATTERED YOU — So most translators, Rotherham says "apple of mine eye" was original but altered by Sopherim. Moffatt: "to the four winds"—meaning all over the Earth.

ESCAPE TO ZION — To the Kingdom.

2:8 — AFTER GLORY — Moffatt: "To proclaim His Glory." It could hardly mean after the glory has been settled upon her.

APPLE OF MINE EYE — Literally "the gate" through which the light enters the eye. Most sensitive organ, causes rest of body to rally to its defense. So Jehovah is aroused by injuries to His people. If God regards His people so kindly and is so jealous for their welfare, they should be equally concerned for His cause and His glory.

2:9 — SHAKE MY HAND — Exercise my power against them. (Isa. 11:15)

A SPOIL TO THEIR SERVANTS — As the Egyptians did to Israel at Exodus. So now Labor Unions demanding larger share in profits, high wages. Retribution—so the Negroes, Jews, Israel. Even as Israel's spoiling of Egyptians was back pay.

KNOW THAT THE LORD OF HOSTS HATH SENT ME — That the work was Jehovah's judgements. (Same as Ezek. 33:33)

2:10 — (Deut. 32:9) Kingdom of God will be enlarged to include all nations, not merely Israel. (Jer. 12:14-17; Rom. 4:13; Zech. 8:20-21; Isa. 2:3; Micah 4:2; Deut. 32:8)

I COME — Second presence of Christ. (Isa. 40:10)

DWELL IN MIDST — Rev. 21:1-5.

2:12 — HOLY LAND — Palestine.

CHOOSE JERUSALEM — Zech. 12:6; Jer. 30:18; 3:17.

3: — This third vision lays a sure foundation for the glowing assurances and promises of Chapters 1 and 2 by revealing the divine forgiveness through Christ. Sin had been the cause of all the previous troubles of Israel and all mankind. Hence the need and value of the great Truth revealed in the dramatic form and rich symbolism of this vision.

Verses 1-5 represent the High Priest (who represents all the people by onyx stones and breastplate and crown) before Jehovah and opposed by Satan. But Joshua is forgiven (and so Israel and man)—a fact literally stated and symbolically represented.

Verses 6-10 High Priest assured of divine protection and of future appearance of the Branch (the Redeemer) who will remove sin and establish eternal salvation.

3:1 — SHOWED ME — Caused me to see in the vision of that night. (1:7)

JOSHUA THE HIGH PRIEST — Typifying Jesus as the World's High Priest (typified by Aaron.)

ANGEL OF JEHOVAH — The speaker represents Jehovah.

STANDING BEFORE JEHOVAH — Is the technical term to denote the ordinary service of the priests. (Deut. 10:8; Ex. 28:12, 29, 30; 2 Chron. 29:11; Judges 20:28; Ezek. 44:15) He was not there for himself only but chiefly on behalf of the people, as their representative. That he was engaged in prayer is implied in the circumstances and in Jehovah's words in verse 4

SATAN — "O avtikos" (1 Pet. 5:8); "katnjwp" (Rev. 12:10); "siabohos" (Eph. 6:11) and Job 1 and 2 all point to the "chief of the evil spirits" as the person here intended.

AT HIS RIGHT HAND TO RESIST HIM — The most suitable place for the chief adversary. (Job 30:12; Psa. 109:6) Satan's efforts are to dwell upon the sins of the priest and the people and urge their condemnation and overthrow and oppose their progress by tricking them into disobedience. (Gen. 3:4, 5)

Still that malignant being opposes the Truth and leaves no stone unturned to turn away God's favor from His people and thus overthrow God's entire Plan and by his cruel pictures of God by Moloch and eternal torment theory and accuses men to God (as in Job) (Rev. 12:10)

Siabohos fr. diabahheiv = to set at variance by slander. Satan—opposer, the adversary of God and man and of all that is good.

3:2 — JEHOVAH REBUKE THEE — Instead of damaging others, Satan secures his own overthrow. Twice uttered. Used by our Lord (Michael) in Jude 9.

JEHOVAH WHO CHOOSES JERUSALEM — A peculiar identification. A suggestion that He has a plan of Salvation based on Justice which will be carried out and nothing can stop it. He chooses the Jewish nation and will restore it.

REBUKE THEE — Bind and finally destroy.

BRAND PLUCKED OUT OF THE FIRE? — Saved from destruction—Jews, Church and Mankind. Reference mainly to Jesus and Church, developed during Satan's rule. Fire of destruction of present order.

The Jews were weak in faith, despondent in spirit and more prone to labor for their temporary fortunes than for their spiritual interests. Satan had a high vantage ground from which to oppose them. But note the source of his repulse—"Jehovah that chooses Jerusalem rebuke thee". The people are here reminded that they had not chosen the Lord, but He had chosen them.

As he had chosen them in their beginning the election still continued. It was not their numbers, nor wisdom, nor wealth nor moral excellence (Deut. 7:6-10; 9:4-6; 12:29-32; 18:9-14) which induced Him to make them the depository of His Truth, and channel of His grace to a fallen world. It was His purpose to reveal thru them and the Church His character and glory, to angels and to men, and there would be a remnant that could be used to glorify Him.

They had been in the glowing furnace of Chaldean bondage and exile, and the smell of fire was still on their garments. Everything in their condition spoke of apostasy and its merited recompense. They were a very small remnant left of that proud Kingdom which once stretched from the Euphrates to Egypt and from the desert to the Mediterranean. It was difficult to see and trace of the former grandeur in poverty stricken remnant which gathered round their fathers' graves. But their very fewness and poverty and weakness pleaded for them, and out of them a humble remnant could be used. They had been rescued from the common doom of transplanted peoples by a peculiar providence. A forced migration of an entire population to a distant land usually breaks the old association entirely and forever. New ties and interests are formed and the present drives the past out of view and gradually out of memory. But here God, by the hand of a man whom He had called and named centuries before he was born (Isa. 44:28; 45:1) had broken the fetters and recalled His banished ones. The work of re-establishment had begun, and should it cease? No indeed! The brand so carefully rescued from the general conflagration would be preserved even through all the clamor of Satan. He who had begun the good work would carry it on to completion. The gifts and callings of God are without repentance. (Lang)

3:3 — CLOTHED WITH FILTHY GARMENTS — Our own natural character, developed under worldly training even the best is faulty. Rags is bad enough, but filthy rags is careless neglect. Though poor we can be clean. (Isa. 64:6) The body, not the head.

Instead of being arrayed in the pure and shining robes expressly appointed for the Priest functions he was clad in filthy garments—fit emblems of the hideous moral stains with which he and his people were soiled. (Psa. 51:8) Physical stains may be extracted, but no human agency in all the world can take the stains of sin from the conscience and character. Only the act of the Lord can do this. (Psa. 130:4; 36:7; Micah 7:18, 19; Psa. 103:8-14)

The Number Seven

We find in Scripture an extraordinary frequency of occurrence—Seven, Seventh, and Sevenfold occur in the Old Testament 383 times. A similar check of Six and Eight 176 times.

In Genesis:—Seven days of creation; Seven-fold vengeance denounced for Cain; clean beasts and fowls received into Ark by seven's; dove despatched from Ark at interval of seven days; Jacob serving seven years for wife he did not want; seven fat kine and seven lean; seven good ears and seven thin; represent seven years of plenty and seven years of famine. In Mosaic Law ritual many sacrifices required seven victims and blood to be sprinkled seven times; seventh day and seventh year both holy to Jubilee and seven weeks to Pentecost. Jericho overthrown by march of people seven successive days around its walls, and headed by seven priests who blew seven trumpets; on the seventh day circuit made seven times then at shout of people walls fell. Samson gave Philistines of Timnath seven days to solve his riddle, he was bound with seven withes; his seven locks woven with web. Seven years of famine were inflicted in Elisha's time and same offered as alternate to David; Psalmist praised God seven times a day; the just man falls seven times and rises again; Nebuchadnezzar's furnace was heated seven times more than usual.

In the Revelation the occurrence still more marked—three sevens in introduction—seven Churches, seven Spirits, seven Messengers. In body of work are two sevens of sevens—first—seven Candlesticks, stars, seals, horns, eyes, trumpets, thunders; Second—seven angels, heads, crowns, plagues, vials, mountains, kings.

Why? Prof. Hadley suggests five theories:

- (1) Arithmetical, used by Philo, a Jew, and based on peculiar property of seven as compared with other numbers.
- (2) Founded on early division of time into weeks, chronological.
- (3) Symbolic seven is union of two numbers—three, the divine and four the earthly—four cardinal points of compass, the seven then represents the reunion of man with God.
- (4) Physiological, seven parts of human body—head, chest, loins and four limbs; seven openings of head—two eyes, two ears, two nostrils, mouth. 7th, 14th, and 21st days are critical periods in diseases.
- (5) Astronomical—seven planets (nine now); Great Bear, Little Bear, Pleiades, Hyades.

3:4 — ANSWERED — Implies a question about the meaning of the vision. Answered the prayer for forgiveness—stood—before the angel—a patient expectancy, that in spite of our fallen condition and Satan’s calumnies and charges, we hope in the mercies of God that somehow deliverance will come. (Rom. 8:19-21; Gen. 3:15; Psa. 27:13; Job 14:14, 15; 19:26, 27; Psa. 78:5-7; Rom. 3:26) So sorely as the nation had been chastised, its iniquity had not been wiped away. “In every case where this Hebrew word (Gr. anokpiveoqai) is placed at opening of a speech or narrative without any question preceding it, always a question is understood.” (Virtranga-Lang)

THOSE THAT STOOD BEFORE HIM — His closest generals, servants (vs. 7) (Luke 1:19)

TAKE AWAY THE FILTHY GARMENTS — Remove guilt and sinfulness, by reason of the Atonement to be provided in Christ. (Rom. 5:1)

HE SAID TO HIM — Angel of Jehovah said to Joshua, as the Lord said to us—(John 3:16).

I HAVE CAUSED THINE INIQUITY TO PASS FROM THEE — Justification through faith in Christ Jesus and cleansing thru water of the Word. (Eph. 5:26; Isa. 6:5-8; Titus 3:5; 1 Cor. 6:11)

I WILL CLOTHE WITH CHANGE OF RAIMENT — Apply the merit of Christ Jesus unto us (Rev. 8:3-5)—Justification.

3:5 — I SAID — The prophet, who had been only a silent spectator at this point breaks in with a prayer for the completion of the work begun. He remembered the garments of the High Priest. (Ex. 28:36-38)

Had the originals been lost, with the breastplate and the Ark? (Ezra. 2:61-63)

CLEAN MITRE — The original one had been tarnished by the unfaithfulness of the priests. The antitypical one of actual righteousness.

ANGEL OF JEHOVAH STOOD BY — As authorizing and approving the action. (Rom. 3:26)

3:6 — PROTESTED — Made a solemn declaration, stronger than just said. Some translate it “testified” as in Gen. 43:3; Deut. 8:19.

Zerubbabel the prince and Joshua the High Priest would by this time, twenty years after the return, be on in years, at least in middle age. Neh. 12:16 shows that later on Zechariah held office in the priesthood under Joiakim the High Priest who succeeded Joshua. The two older men would probably be to some extent dispirited and discouraged at the failure of all their high hopes—the adverse decision of Artaxerxes and the apathy of the people of Israel, combining to dissuade them from any considerable activity in restoring the Temple of God. Then the Lord raised up Haggai and Zechariah. (Neh. 12)

3:7 — Jehovah’s message to Jesus and particularly to the Church.

WALK IN MY WAYS — Lean and practice the divine rules of life. (Isa. 50:4-6; Heb. 5:7, 8; Prov. 2:1-9; 6:20-23; Isa. 54:13; 30:21)

KEEP MY CHARGE — Faithfully use the gifts entrusted to us as stewards. Guard the Truth. (Prov. 22:19-21; 1 Cor. 4:1, 2; Luke 16:9-12) Practice God’s ordinances. (Jer. 16:19)

JUDGE MY HOUSE — (1 Cor. 6:2, 3; Matt. 19:28-30; Luke 22:28-30; Rev. 2:26, 27; Psa. 149)

KEEP MY COURTS — Have charge over all approaches to God, over the Great Company. Administer the service in the Holy place and guard the House of God from all idolatry and ungodliness.

PLACES TO WALK — A share in all the work of the Lord. Entrusted with blessings to distribute to God’s creatures, His loved ones. The Hebrew word here is a difficult word and occurs nowhere else. It is most likely a noun meaning egress and ingress, a particularly free access to God among His Heavenly servants.

AMONG THEM THAT STAND BY — God's Generals, His chief servants. See Gabriel. (Luke 1:19) Like the angel who appeared to Abraham, (Gen. 17:1; 18:1, 2) and to Joshua (5:13-15). This is a reward.

Activity in connection with the Kingdom of God is the highest honor and greatest favor which God can confer upon any mortal.

3:8 — HERE I PRAY — This statement calls attention to the importance of what follows.

THOU AND THY FELLOWS — Jesus and the Church, his associates.

MEN OF WONDER — Men who excite wonder in others and thus attract attention as to what they portend, become types of what is to come, important developments.

The continual exercise of Priestly functions in the offering of sacrifices which had no intrinsic efficiency was a continual testimony of man's need of forgiveness and God's purpose in future to provide the needed redemption, thus made known. The bringing forward of the antitype would show that their typical character was founded in truth. (Lang)

MY SERVANT THE BRANCH — Two names taken from the earlier prophets. Servant—Isa. 42:1. Branch—Jer. 23:5; 33:15; Isa. 11:1; 53:2. The name denotes the original obscurity of this person and the gradual development of his character and work. Instead of being a tall and stately tree, he is a mere shoot. This reference had become so well understood in Zechariah's time that he uses the word as if it were a proper name. (Jer. 17:22-24)—Uses like a figure.

Branch does not mean a limb in the sense of one among many on the same tree, but a shoot which springs up from the root (Isa. 11:1, 10; 6:13) and which, the small one at the first, becomes a tree of wonderful qualities. The monarchy of David and Solomon stood like a majestic and wide spreading tree, now it lay in ruins, the huge trunk cut down, mangled, burned. But from the stump there would come a slender shoot which would grow up into a mighty monarch of the forest, putting out limbs and foliage under which whole nations will collect.

The lowly, unpretending, unpromising origin of this deliverer, and the ultimately vast sweep of his beneficent rule! In all outward aspects he stood at the farthest remove his distinguished types, whether of Priestly or Kingly line. He never bore the brilliant breastplate of Aaron into the Holy of Holies, nor did his hand hold a scepter, except the mocking reed of Pilate's soldiers. Yet his Priestly function was the only real and efficacious one the earth ever saw, and his royal office will yet secure a depth of attachment and fullness of joyful service to which all the records of earth-born royalty together furnish no parallel. (Lang)

3:9 — BEHOLD THE STONE — The condition of the Covenant People was so deplorable that it seemed vain to expect such a blessing as the coming of the Messiah. To counter balance such despondency Jehovah of Hosts assures His people of His watchful loving care which will secure the gracious result. BEHOLD—Notice the prophecies describing the character and work of the Messiah. Psa. 118:22; Isa. 28:16 and become thoroughly familiar with them, so as to recognize him when he comes, at the first and the second advents. For it will require knowledge and faith to recognize him.

His associates are also described as living stones (1 Pet. 2:7) and foundation stones (Eph. 2:20-22) and parts of the Temple.

UPON ONE STONE SEVEN EYES — Upon the chief corner stone (4:7) the complete wisdom of God. (1 Cor. 1:24; 2 Cor. 1:20; Col. 2:3; Chapter 4:10; 2 Chron. 16:9; Prov. 15:3; Job. 34:21; Prov. 5:21; Jer. 16:17; Heb. 4:13)

I WILL ENGRAVE — Jehovah will see that the work is done perfectly. Execute its carving, make it a beautiful and costly stone, the reflection of Himself.

Like the engraving on the Onyx stones of the High Priest's ephod shoulder pieces and the Jewels of the breastplate. Engravings of a signet—the royal seal of state—a personally supervised work of Jehovah. (Phil. 2:13; 1 Cor. 12:6; Eph. 2:10; Jer. 31:33; Heb. 8:10; 2 Cor. 3:3) All the power and wisdom of God behind it.

I WILL REMOVE THE INIQUITY OF THAT LAND IN ONE DAY — The Millennial 1000-year Day. (Acts 3:19; Psa. 103:12; Isa. 33:24; 1 John 3:8; Heb. 2:14. Once for all. Heb. 7:27; 10:10.)

3:10 — INVITE EVERY MAN HIS NEIGHBOR — Love operating in every heart. Universal brotherhood. (Isa. 13:12; Micah 4:4; 1 Kings 4:25)

UNDER VINE AND FIG TREE — A proverbial phrase, borrowed from the older Scriptures. First occurs in description of happy period under Solomon's reign. (1 Kings 4:25; Deut. 33:26-29) Used by Sennacherib in 2 Kings 18:31. Meant peace and prosperity.) VINE — Christ Jesus and

4:1 — THE ANGEL CAME AGAIN — How oft the Lord in his mercy repeats his message to his people—in dreams, in visions, in types and shadows, in examples and instruction. So here is added a picture of the positive and abundant communication of grace by which all obstacles are overcome and God's Kingdom established in power and glory.

AWAKED ME AS ONE IS AWAKENED OUT OF SLEEP — How quickly and often we go to sleep after the Lord has awakened us—"It is so easy to slip back, to sink, so hard to live abreast of what you think."

*"It takes great strength to bring your life up square
With your accepted thought and hold it there.
Resisting to inertia that would drag you back
From new attempts to the old habit's track."*

4:2 — WHAT SEEST THOU? — To make him take notice, and examine carefully so as to describe it properly. So we should take careful note of Scripture texts to quote them properly and get the right meaning out of them.

CANDLESTICK — The description is just like the one in the Tabernacle except for the bowl on top and the pipes. The Tabernacle picture shows the daily renewal of the oil and the trimming of the wicks by the High Priest, representing the supervisory work of Jesus in seeing that the Holy Spirit is always available for us, and supplying the corrections and guidance by Jesus, using up our mortal bodies in His service. Here the picture represents the complete organization for the care and development of the Church.

The Candlestick would represent the Church as a whole, being supplied with the Holy Spirit thru various channels from the one head, the bowl at the top, from which goes a pipe to each lamp. On each side is an olive tree with a golden pipe going to the bowl—verse 13. What do the two olive trees represent? The angel says they are the "two sons of oil," and seem fittingly to represent God's two witnesses, the Old and New Testaments. We obtain the holy spirit from Jesus thru the Word. (2 Cor. 3:18; James 1:18; John 17:17; Prov. 6:20-23) Therefore let us study it and commit as much of it to memory as we can, fashion our lives according to its pattern.

Verses 5 and 6 indicate by the answer of the angel, that the prophet might have thought of the meaning by the Tabernacle picture. So we gain the understanding of other Scriptures by noting the lesson from what is given us in the Tabernacle Shadows and the Scripture Studies.

4:6 — THIS IS THE WORD OF THE LORD — The message of Jehovah for the encouragement and direction of His people. Note this not merely an explanation of the vision, not a direct answer to the question of the prophet but is the kernel and heart of God's message to His people of all ages.

UNTO ZERUBBABEL — Meaning a shoot or sprout out of Babylon. Type of Christ and has to do with our present experiences and hopes for the Kingdom.

NOT BY MIGHT (MILITARY POWER) NOR BY POWER (ANY OTHER USE OF FORCE) — His message encouraged the people under Zerubbabel, that the work of rebuilding the Temple and the Holy City would not be merely by their own strength, human strength in any form, but by the Spirit of the Lord. So all that was needed for the maintenance of His people, including their work of the Temple and the City would be the same Spirit of the Lord. The same truth applies to us now about the building of the True Temple of God and the establishing of His Kingdom is to be attained by the same Spirit, not by human reforms, nor military might, nor any other human agency. (Micah 5:7) If the Kingdom had to wait till man could establish it, it would never come. Satan must be bound and all evil restrained before men will be willing to listen to the voice of the Lord.

4:7 — WHO ART THOU? OH, GREAT MOUNTAIN? — Who are you, anyway, that presume to interfere with the commands of God! The thought is preposterous that any could interfere, but the blindness of man hides from him what he is really doing, in attempting to carry out his own plans. The resources of the Jewish leader were few, and the obstacles numerous and formidable; the colossal difficulties which arose mountain high against the continuation and completion of the building of the Temple.

BE THOU A PLAIN! — The imperative translation is quite as correct as placing it in the future. The wisdom and power of God will destroy Satan's Kingdom, and remove all the difficulties. Before the almighty power and wisdom of the Christ as Jehovah's agency, Satan's Kingdom will melt away and become level ground. (Jer. 51:25, 26; Isa. 13:1-13)

HE SHALL BRING FORTH THE HEADSTONE — In due time when all is ready for it. (Mark 1:14, 15; Rom. 5:6) The Chief Corner Stone. (Psa. 118:22, 23; Matt. 21:42; Mark 12:10; Eph. 2:20; 1 Pet. 2:4, 7) The cap-stone of the Pyramid. (Isa. 28:16)

SHOUTINGS — Of thankful deliverance, praise and acknowledgement. (Rev. 5:8-14; 15:3, 4)

GRACE! — Favor, honor, glory.

4:8 — MOREOVER — Additionally, more assurance!

4:9 — HANDS OF ZERUBBABEL — Christ as the trusted one to carry out the plan of God for the true temple and the salvation of mankind.

LAI D THE FOUNDATION — (Eph. 2:20; 1 Cor. 3:9, 11, 12)

FINISH IT — (Rom. 9:28; Heb. 12:2)

KNOW THAT JEHOVAH HATH SENT ME — The completed work will convince all right minded people. (Rev. 15:4; Jer. 23:20; 30:24)

4:10 — WHO DESPISETH DAY OF SMALL THINGS? — Denies them; some will because they cannot discern the need of them; necessity, as solid preparation for the great consummation. This means that only the meek and humble minded (Psa. 25:9) submissive, and those willing to wait. Small numbers, small accomplishments, seeming failure.

THEY SHALL REJOICE — All who trust him and wait his due time. (Isa. 65:17)

SEE THE PLUMMET — Used in erecting the building, to align it perfectly. Also a symbol of justice and righteousness. (Isa. 28:17)

THOSE SEVEN ARE THE EYES OF THE LORD (JEHOVAH) — See chapter 3:9; 2 Chron. 16:9; Prov. 15:3; Job 34:21; Prov. 5:21; Jer. 16:17; Heb. 4:13; Psa. 11:4. The Wisdom of God, all seeing. (Psa. 139:1-6)

4:12 — THE BRANCHES — Emphasized because the supply of oil came from them.

GOLDEN PIPES, GOLDEN OIL — Divinely provided, God's Holy Spirit. Job. 37:22 uses same word to represent the golden light (fair weather.)

4:13 — The angel repeats question to waken his attention and make him think, and fasten the reply into his mind.

4:14 — TWO SONS OF OIL — A beautiful expression, filled and overflowing with the Holy Spirit. (2 Tim. 3:16, 17; 1 Pet. 1:10-12; 2 Pet. 1:20, 21) God's two witnesses, Old and New Testaments—(Rev. 11:3-13)

5:1 — TURNED — Without losing consciousness, after the vision of chapter 4 he turns to behold another vision. Another prophecy. The sixth vision.

LIFTED UP MINE EYES — Raised his attention above the daily tasks of life to higher things, to God's dealing with men. (R.S.V. says "Turned again.") These statements of the prophet are for us as well as his experiences.

LOOKED — Examined, studied, thought about it. So we should notice the things about us. Often God sends a message thru nature, or the occurrences of life.

5:2 — WHAT DO YOU SEE? — How keen is your vision? How carefully and accurately do you read and observe? Depends on how deeply you are interested. If our consecration is vital and sincere, if we are wholly His we will be much interested. The angel knew, but expression deepens impression. If we tell about the Truth to others, it is more settled and fixed in our own mind.

FLYING — Swiftly, not leisurely. (Jer. 45:30; Joel 3:16) At last God acts (Psa. 50:16-22; Isa. 57:11)

ROLL — Book of papyrus, or dressed skins. The Hebrew for roll or volume is used of the Law (Psa. 40:7)— "Megillah"—a roller volume. Not "Sephar", which means a tablet.

TWENTY BY TEN CUBITS — It was unrolled, else its dimensions could not be seen, and this shows that the time of its execution was at hand. These are the dimensions of the Porch in Solomon's Temple, where the Law was usually read. Showing that this roll and its message was divinely authorized. Also the dimensions of the Holy in the Tabernacle, showing that this message had to do with the consecrated and the Spirit begotten New Creatures, the Church. Perhaps Christendom. Note "the whole earth" in verse 3.

Also as he could not have applied any measuring rod to the roll, because it was flying, these figures must have been suggested to him.

5:3 — CURSE — Of the Law Covenant. (Deut. 27:15-26; 28:15-68; Lev. 28:14-26)

STEALETH — The last six commandments, one of the two Law Tablets. To the Christian, this means to use selfishly, or for ourselves, what we have consecrated to God—time, money, talents. (Mal. 3:1-5)

ON THIS SIDE . . . ON THAT SIDE — Of the roll, refers to the two tables of the Law Covenant. They were written on both sides. (Ex. 32:15, 16) Two classes of evil doers, unfaithful ones—Thieves—the second set, on the second tablet, the last six commandments.

FALSE SWEARERS — Covenant breakers, the first set, on the first tablet.

CUT OFF — Separated from God's people, cast out. (Matt. 13:41; Mal. 3:5; Eccl. 5:4-6; Ezek. 9:1-11; 1 Pet. 4:17, 18) Judgment must begin at the house of God.

ACCORDING TO IT — As the roll declares, as the Law provided.

5:4 — I WILL SEND IT FORTH — The Hebrew is in the past tense, meaning the certainty of the judgment. (Rom. 14:10; 2 Cor. 5:10; Eccl. 12:14)

ENTER INTO THE HOUSE — Hebrew; lodge, pass the night, abide, come to stay.

REMAIN — Consume, work effectually, and gradually consume, destroy, not only the contents, but the house itself. (1 Cor. 3:11-15) After many warnings the judgments of God act swiftly and will cast out of His kingdom all that offend. The Gathering of the Wheat—The Church—1878-1918; then the testings began as in Matt. 13:47-50. Day of judgments on the nations 1914—to end.

If we love the Truth and meditate upon it our vision becomes clearer by practice and use. (Heb. 5:14; Luke 12:37) If we rejoice to eat at the Lord's table now and continue, we shall eat at His table in the Kingdom. (Luke 22:25-30; Matt. 19:28-30) Who sees the Flying Roll? Only God's faithful people. (Psalm 91:1-11, 8) 5:5 — WENT FORTH — Came forth — to call his attention to another vision—another prophecy.

LIFT UP NOW — Raise the attention and thoughts to contemplate God's purposes and His views of things rather than man's.

SEE WHAT GOETH FORTH — Take particular notice, for it is important enough for an angel of God to be sent down to tell us about it, slowly developing.

5:6 — WHAT IS IT? — Evidently the Prophet could not imagine what an ephah would mean. It was one of the most familiar of dry measures among Hebrews. Perhaps it was misty and indistinct.

AN EPHAH — Trade, profit getting, commercialism. In the last century the whole world is being bent to industrial expansion. Every human activity is being ensnared into money making, even religion.

Pastoral life with its peace and contentment and quiet is passing away and men are crowding into the big cities, leaving the farms. The small farms are being gobbled up by big enterprises.

Manufactured articles, sold on credit are flooding the markets and no longer made with pride of workmanship to give long dependable service but rather to wear out in a short time so the user will have to buy new ones.

Literature is being degraded into crime stories and sex, appealing to excitement, thrills, rather than to quiet meditation and building up the finer manhood.

Music—degraded into noise, exciting and appealing to the animal tendencies. Jazz, ragtime (melody torn to shreds.) Dances have become sensual wiggles.

Art—become daubs of a paint, instead of scenes of beauty.

A century and a half ago a business man, trader was regarded as an inferior activity. Now Lord of Creation, leader.

Honesty at a premium in high finance, business and politics.

Money getting and Business—(Heb. 13:5; Jer. 17:11; 1 Tim. 6:9, 10; Rev. 18:15-19)—is in control.

THIS IS THEIR RESEMBLANCE — Or Aim. (Heb. literally eye, that to which the eye is directed—Aim.) This is their predominating characteristic.

THROUGH ALL THE EARTH — The whole world involved in its influence. What is the characteristic? Money getting, selfish profiting, love of wealth. (Psa. 15:5; Ezek. 18:8, 9; Deut. 23:19, 20; Luke 12:15)

5:7 — BEHOLD, LIFTED UP A WEIGHTY PIECE OF LEAD — An astonishing thing—the basest of metals raised to prominence. Too much value on material things.

WOMAN IN MIDST OF EPHAH — The exploiting of women as sales agents, using their attraction to make sales.

5:8 — THIS IS WICKEDNESS — Selfishness, not love, not helpfulness, but greed! (Same word used in 2 Chron. 24:7) The wickedness. (Heb.)

CAST THE WOMAN INTO THE MIDST OF THE EPHAH, CAST WEIGHT OF LEAD UPON MOUTH OF EPHAH — Sealed or closed the ephah with the solid lid. The commercializing of both. With contempt.

5:9 — The prophet sees trade lifted up and made chief aim in life.

TWO WOMEN — Two religious systems glorify money getting, Protestant and Catholic, serve for money and gain. Isa. 56:10-12.

WIND IN THEIR WINGS — Powers of the air assist them. (Eph. 2:2; 6:12)

WINGS OF A STORK — Given power to operate by demons.

LIFTED BETWEEN EARTH AND HEAVEN — Raised it up to be a thing above the old standards, the main hope and desire of men.

5:11 — HOUSE IN SHINAR — Their aim and hope to establish it as lasting power and influence. Babylon—idol worship!

6:1 — AND I TURNED — The eight vision, as in Chapter 5, just after the second vision of Chapter 5.

LIFTED UP MINE EYES — To consider the heavenly things, laying the earthly cares aside.

LOOKED — Examined carefully.

FOUR CHARIOTS — Generally chariots represent organizations, but the description given in verse 5 answers that.

TWO MOUNTAINS OF COPPER — Two Kingdoms of perfect men. Adam's and the Kingdom at the end of Millennium. So, the work of God's Holy Spirit during permission of evil and in Millennium.

6:2 — FIRST . . . RED — Power.

SECOND . . . BLACK — Wisdom.

6:3 — THIRD. . . WHITE — Justice, right.

FOURTH (Dappled) GRISLED AND BAY (Spotted)—Love.

6:5 — FOUR SPIRITS OF THE HEAVENS GO FORTH FROM STANDING BEFORE THE LORD OF ALL THE EARTH —

Evidently these are the Cherubim of Ezek. 1 and 10, the four attributes of God, at operation in the Earth — Justice, Wisdom, Power, Love.

6:6 — BLACK TO NORTH COUNTRY — To operate in spiritual matters? Wisdom—The application first of the death sentence, then in the Kingdom, the merit of the Ransom removes the death sentence from the world of men (Hosea 13:14) and allows the other three attributes to restore man to life and perfection. (Vs. 8)

WHITE, AFTER THEM — West (Fer. Fen.) Justice (not steel).

RED — To south—Power.

BAY (Dappled) — East—Love.

At least to all four points and so cover all the earth, to complete the work of Restitution.

6:10 — THEM OF THE CAPTIVITY — The Lord's people who have been captive in Babylon. Names are of descendants of Levi and the Priesthood.
@SECOND PAR = TAKE OF THEM — A selection for a special service.

HELDAI (HELEM vs. 14) — Robust, strength.

TOBIJAH — Goodness of God, God is good.

JEDAIAH — Jehovah knoweth.

JOSIAH — Healed by Jehovah.

ZEPHANIAH — Jehovah has hidden, or Secret of Jehovah.

MAKE CROWNS — Develop characters suitable to rule and reign with Christ.

HEAD OF JOSHUA — Savior, Deliverer.

THE HIGH PRIEST — Jesus the head and the Church his Body.

6:12 — BEHOLD — Take notice, consider. (Heb. 3:11)

GROW UP — See Margin. (Isa. 53:2)

BUILD THE TEMPLE — As antitype of Solomon, as God's foreman, direct all the operations on each individual stone.

6:13 — BEAR THE GLORY — As the great burden bearer, all the responsibility laid on him. (Isa. 53:6) As in the Tabernacle picture of the Onyx Stones (Ex. 28:9-12) and the Breastplate (Ex. 28:29, 30) Mighty to save (Isa. 63:1).

SIT AND RULE UPON HIS THRONE — King of Kings and Lord of Lords. (Rev. 19:11-16; Psa. 2:6-9)

PRIEST UPON THRONE — Like Melchizedek. (Heb. 7:1-4)

COUNSEL OF PEACE — BETWEEN BOTH — Between the Kingly and Priestly Offices. (Isa. 9:6, 7)

HEN — Josiah of vs. 10 = favor. Those who have realized the healing, salvation of Jehovah, abide in His favor (love).

SON OF ZEPHANIAH — Having the spirit of God's secret or hidden ones. (Psa. 83:3; 27:4, 5; 31:19, 20; Psa. 91:1) They have also been taught the Secret. (Psa. 25:9-14)

IN THE TEMPLE OF THE LORD — As members of the Temple Class. (Rev. 3:11; Eph. 2:19-22; 1 Pet. 2:4-9)

6:15 — AFAR OFF — The world of mankind.

COME AND BUILD — They also will build characters worthy of eternal life.

IN THE TEMPLE — As children of the Church.

OBEY — You may have a share in these joys and blessings by obedience.

7:1 — FOURTH YEAR . . . FOURTH DAY . . . NINTH MONTH — This prophecy is separated from the preceding by nearly two years. During all this time the work on the Temple had been steadily progressing. As the building rose before the eyes of the people and gave promise of a speedy restoration of the ancient worship in its integrity, they became doubtful of the propriety of continuing to observe the solemn fasts by which they memorialized calamitous events in their former history specially the destruction of the Temple and City by Nebuchadnezzar on the tenth day of the fifth month. (2 Kings 25:8-10; Jer. 39:2) The seventh month fast was on account of the slaying of Gedaliah the Governor. (Jer. 41:1)

KISLEV — Part of November and part of December.

7:2 — So a message of inquiry was sent to the Priests and Prophets.

IN THE HOUSE OF GOD SHEREZER — Of foreign derivation.

REGEM MELECH — The King's stone heap.

TO PRAY BEFORE THE LORD — To enquire as in verse 3 through the Priests and Prophets, God's representatives. See Margin — entreat the face of the Lord.

7:3 — WEEP — Because of their misfortunes, not necessarily in full repentance.

SEPARATE MYSELF — By fasting and self-denial and ceasing from usual activities.

MANY YEARS — During the 70 years of the nations captivity and desolation of the land.

7:4 — WORD OF JEHOVAH OF HOSTS — Of the armies or companies of Heaven. Great general, manager, commander. (Matt. 26:53, 54; Dan. 7:10; Rev. 5:11, 2 Kings 6:17)

UNTO ME — Unto Zechariah. The Lord sends His message by someone whom He chooses. Other prophets there, not for any to feel jealous or neglected, but to listen to the message and always be ready by study and prayer for service. (Jer. 15:19) Never think any service too menial, do with your might what opportunities come your way. (Eccl.)

SPEAK — (As in Acts 5:20; Jer. 23:28, 29) Be careful that your speech is God's message, not your own ideas. (1 Tim. 5:21)

7:5, 6 — DID YE FAST UNTO ME? — There is often some selfishness in our prayers and fasting. Much of Christendom's prayers are that kind, for their organizations, churches, activities. Rebukes them for formalism of their services.

7:5 — The Hebrew word for fast here means not only abstaining from food, but from all the ordinary occupations of life.

Their fasting was a matter of no consequence with the Lord. He had not commanded it, nor was it observed out of regard to Him. Hence it was a matter of supreme indifference to Him whether or not they kept these fasts. The emphatic repetition of "to me"—is the key to its meaning.

7:6 — WHEN YE EAT — That is your feasting as well as fasting is done without regard to me, but simply for your own gratification.

7:7 — WORDS . . . BY THE PROPHETS — He calls their attention to God's words by the prophets before the desolation and the captivity, which they would not hear.

During the time when the Lord was patient them and sent His prophets to guide them and warn them and to foretell His purposes. Should we not rather study His Word and pray that we be led to work with Him, to understand what He is doing, and cooperate.

WHEN JERUSALEM WAS INHABITED AND AT PEACE AND THE SOUTH (Negev) AND THE LOW LAND — Formerly, at the time of the conquest and before the Desolation.

7:8 — Then the prophet tells us and them what the Lord wants of them now. So in the Harvest time, study to know the present work and not spend energy bickering and criticizing. Learn lessons from the past.

7:9 — EXECUTE TRUE JUDGMENT — (2 Tim. 1:7; Rom. 8:15) Humbly stated—margin—judgment of truth. Founded on facts of case without regard to personal considerations.

SHOW MERCY — "Checed-kheh-sed"; from "Chacad" (khaw-sad) = a prim. rt. — prop. to bow — the neck only, as in contrast to "Chanan" stoop, bend — in kindness to an inferior. As to an equal; be kind, kindness. Show it, not merely feel it.

AND COMPASSIONS — Heb. Racham = tender love (verb = Racham) considering each others weakness, helpfulness. Every man to his brother.

7:10 — OPPRESS NOT THE WIDOW, NOR THE FATHERLESS, NOR POOR — Do not take advantage of anothers failings or lack, but help as and where and when needed. Do not take advantage of the need, or weakness, or ignorance of others, but be helpful, and lift up rather than cast down.

NOT IMAGINE EVIL — 1 Cor. 13:5—rather seek their good, give credit for good intentions. (Eph. 4:32)

Think not in your heart evil, but love your neighbor as you do yourself. Love thinketh no evil, but rejoiceth in the Truth.

7:11 — REFUSED TO HEARKEN — Determined to continue in their own way—(Prov. 29:1)—Would not take the time nor make the effort to consider. (Hag. 1:5, 7) Their minds filled with their own devices, no room to even stop and consider, no time to spare for it. (Prov. 1)

PULLED AWAY THE SHOULDER — As when one touches another on the shoulder for a personal talk. See Margin. Offered a rebellious shoulder—stubborn (R.S.V.) Stiff Shoulder (Fer. Fen.)

STOPPED THEIR EARS — Plugged. (Psa. 49:6) Determined not to give heed, not even to listen.

WILFUL — Persistence in wrong.

7:12 — HEARTS AS ADAMANT — Intentionally resisted, as did the Scribes and Pharisees and Sadducees, in Jesus' day.

HEAR THE LAW, WORDS SENT IN THE LORD'S SPIRIT BY THE FORMER PROPHETS — Before the desolation—Joel and Isaiah to Jeremiah; Micah, Amos, Hosea, Zephaniah, Habakkuk, Nahum.

WRATH — The only way to save these people is to destroy their temples, their great institutions of trade and finance, war and its allied institutions—leaders.

7:13, 14 — Retribution. The Lord removed His blessings. Scattered them.

THEY LAID THE PLEASANT LAND DESOLATE — The evil doings of its inhabitants. (Lev. 18:24-28; 20:22)

FASTING:

An expression of sorrow or humiliation proper to be used on occasions which call for such discipline of soul, and lead to benefits quite beyond regard to circumstances, it is inevitable that the tendency is to degenerate into a barren form and a mischievous self-deception.

Overstrained devotion to ceremonial observances is sure to react disastrously upon morals. Men lose the sense of proportion and lay more stress upon mere things, etc. (little things, outward) than upon judgment and mercy. Zechariah exposes the hollowness of mere outward fastings. It was not due to any inattention to ritual but to disregard of the plainest duties of justice and humanity. No religion is worth anything which does not regulate the life and secure the performance of social and relative duties. It mocks God and insults man.

One of the surest tests of intelligent Christianity, as well as of a high civilization, is the provision made and maintained for the victims of neglect or wilful oppression or disaster. Men need to be continually reminded that such a provision is a dictate not merely of reason and humanity, but of Him who is the Judge of the widow and the fatherless, and who has chosen the poor of this world to be heirs of the Kingdom.

WRATH:

The most terrible penalties are those in kind. Such as the drunkard pays when at last he finds himself the slave of a vicious habit which he knows is ruining body and soul and yet he is unable to throw it off. Or the licentious man when desire survives the power of gratification, and he is tortured by appetites for which exhausted nature has no provision to satisfy. They who will not obey the burden of obedience, must endure the burden of punishment.

- 8: — In Chapter 7 the prophet rebuked the people for this formalism and set forth the dreadful consequences of disobedience, as carried out in the captivity and 70 years desolation of the land of Israel.

Now he paints an exquisite picture of the Kingdom and its obedience:

- Vss. 1-3 — Restoration of Truth and Purity.
- Vss. 4-6 — Restoration of peace and security.
- Vss. 7-8 — Rescue of all captives from every quarter.
- Vss. 9-13 — General fertility instead of drought and want.
- Vss. 14-15 — Promises of future blessings as sure as past execution of punishments.
- Vss. 16-17 — Moral conditions needed to share the promised blessings and prosperity.
- Vss. 18-19 — Fasts shall become festivals.
- Vss. 20-23 — Prophecies of extension of Kingdom to all nations (as illustrated in 1878 Congress of Nations [10], Lord Beaconsfield, Prime Minister of England and beginning of Return of favor to Israel.)

Chapter divided into two parts by the phrase—“The Word of Jehovah came unto me” Vss. 1 and 18; and each of these divide into separate messages by the recurring expression “Thus saith Jehovah of Hosts”—Seven in first part and three in second—ten in all. These mean “do not consider these words to be my own, and so disbelieve them as coming from man, they are the promises of God.”

8:1 — WAS JEALOUS FOR ZION — In the time of trouble to clear the way for the Kingdom. (Jer. 51:6; Isa. 34:8; 61:2; Luke 21:22; Rev. 16:12) Symbolically in destruction of Temple and City by Nebuchadnezzar to destroy idol worship and sin and start anew.

8:3 — I AM RETURNED — In the Kingdom fully, and partially in rebuilding Temple and City. He had forsaken His dwelling place when Jerusalem was given up to her foes and Ezekiel had seen the glory of Jehovah departing (11:23) Now He would return.

THE CITY OF TRUTH — Fully and completely in the Kingdom, the center and fountain of Truth—(Zech. 13:1; 14:8)

MOUNTAIN — Kingdom. (Isa. 2:1-4; Mic. 4:1-4; Isa. 25:6-9)

OF THE LORD (JEHOVAH) OF HOSTS — The Earthly headquarter, or center. (Jer. 3:17; Psa. 102:13-22)

THE HOLY MOUNTAIN — Fully dedicated to the Lord, His spirit rules there. (Zech. 14:20-21)

8:4 — OLD MEN AND OLD WOMEN SIT — Not dwell. A beautiful picture of the extremes of life dwelling in all security and happiness. (Isa. 33:20-22) In small measure at the rebuilding of Jerusalem after return from captivity, but in full in the Kingdom, return from the tomb.

In 1 Macc. 14:4-12 “And the land of Judah had quiet all the days of Simon and he sought the good of the nation, and his authority and his honor pleased them always. . .And they tilled their ground in peace, and the earth gave her products and the trees of the field their fruit. Elders sat on the streets; all communed together of good things and the young men put on honors and warlike apparel. . . . And every man sat under his vine and his fig tree, and there was none to make them afraid.”

8:6 — MARVELOUS — Our vision and understanding is far short of God’s purposes. (Isa. 55:8-9) This confirms our faith in His promises. Not only difficult, but incredible, marvelous, wonderful.

8:7 — SAVE — Deliver, for in most of these lands the Jews suffer oppression, Asia to America.

LAND OF THE RISING AND SETTING SUN — From all sections, ends of the Earth.

8:8 — DWELL IN THE MIDST OF JERUSALEM — Cannot now as Jordan owns half of the City.

MY PEOPLE — THEIR GOD — Mutual honor, respect and love, glad obedience.

IN TRUTH — In fact and in full honesty of heart, in harmony with His laws. (Jer. 31:31-33)

IN RIGHTEOUSNESS — In the knowledge and in practice of right, justice.

8:9 — LET YOUR HANDS BE STRONG — Of good courage. (Hag. 2:4)

THE PROPHETS — Haggai and Zechariah encouraged the people effectively. (Hag. 2:18, 19) and the Temple was built.

8:10, 11 — Contrasting the days when they had ceased building and turned to ornamenting their own houses, (Hag. 1:4-11) with the present — BUT NOW.

8:12 — Fulfilled in small measure then, but completely in the Kingdom, especially verse 13. Abundance will compensate for the drought and need. (Isa. 65:17, 18)

8:14, 15 — Just as the prophecies of punishment came to pass, so surely would this promise of blessing — DO WELL TO JERUSALEM.

8:16, 17 — Conditions that must be fulfilled to get the blessings.

THESE ARE THE THINGS TO DO . . . SPEAK TRUTH — In all communications.

NOT EVIL IMAGININGS — Not impute evil but think and plan for good of each other.

IN YOUR GATES — Place where judgment was given.

LOVE NO FALSE OATH — Even if it bring profit to you.

I HATE — Irritating and repulsive. (Isa. 65:5; Prov. 6:16-19) Very emphatic.

8:18 — The Second Message — WORD OF THE JEHOVAH OF HOSTS — Three times “Thus saith Jehovah”—ten times in this chapter.

8:19 — Fasts to become joyous Feasts.

FOURTH MONTH — Taking of Jerusalem. (Jer. 39:2)

TENTH MONTH —Commencement of the siege (Jer. 39:1; 52:4) lasted two years.

Four fasts of mourning and self-denial. Their woe and misery to be turned into joy and gladness in the Kingdom. Strange, repeated blinded even now, when favor is returned.

THEREFORE LOVE TRUTH AND PEACE — The course of behavior that brings and keeps peace. Love to study it, practice it, live, eat and sleep it. (Prov. 6:20-23; Deut. 4:5-9; Isa. 48:16-19; 30:15)

8:20 — YET — In spite of all Satan’s arts and man’s blindness and perversity a remnant will be found worthy to be used and will be obedient. Very emphatic.

8:21 — SEEK JEHOVAH — Learn His ways, as their minds had been filled and guided by perverse ways. Entire nations.

8:23 — TEN MEN — Complete number.

OUT OF ALL NATIONS — Humble enough to be led by an Jew and hungry enough.

I WILL GO ALSO — Mutual, hearty response.

HEARD GOD IS WITH YOU — Only source.

Not only will the nations go in streams to Jerusalem to worship Jehovah, but they will seek close and intimate union with Israel as a nation. Each of these ten representative men stands for a distinct nation, since they each speak a different language.

The beginning and the indispensable of all true prosperity is the presence of God. "I am returned unto Zion." His absence, strikingly shown in the vision of Ezekiel, when he saw the glory of the Lord depart from the threshold of the Sanctuary, had abandoned Israel to consequences of its disobedience—invasion, conquest, exile, bondage. His return was the only sure pledge of permanent restoration.

He is never idle while He dwells with His people, for He cleanses away every kind of impurity, that the place where He is may be holy. The proof of His presence is not any partial, outward, or transient reform but the growth and prevalence of holiness founded on truth.

What a beautiful picture of prosperity—the old man leaning on his staff and groups of happy children playing in the streets. No pestilence stalks over the land, no war decimated the population, no famine wastes flesh and strength. The extremes of life are happy and all that lie between are in the same peaceful condition. The classes which are most exposed and defenseless being in complete and conscious security, the others in the prime and vigor of their days are exempt from fear and anxiety. All this was the more impressive to the people because of its contrast with the days when death came up into the windows, and cut off the children from the streets, when the husband was taken with the wife, and aged with the child. The scene will become universal and abiding in Messiah's Kingdom.

The chronic sin of human nature is unbelief. Men stagger at the greatness of the divine promises. This is shown not only by the worldly of whom the standing pattern in 2 Kings 7:2 when Elisha predicted an exceeding abundance of food, exclaimed—"If the Lord would make windows in heaven, might this thing be?" But even by the supposed Christian, as when God engaged to feed Israel with flesh for a whole month, incredibly stated that there were over 600,000 footmen plainly implying that the thing was impossible. Yet Moses had seen all the wonders done in Egypt. So the restored exiles of Israel regarded the glowing statements of Zechariah. They refused to accept them, and so lost the comfort and stimulus they would have enjoyed had they believed. They judged God by themselves, they measured His power by their own understanding. It is absolutely necessary to raise our thoughts above the world and bid adieu to human standards of probability, and remember the Master's statement—"With men this is impossible, but with God all things are possible." (Matt. 19:26) Abraham—"against hope believed in hope—being fully persuaded that what He had promised He was able to perform." (Rom. 4:21) So many like Thomas want to see first and then believe, but the special and peculiar blessing is for those who without seeing believe what God says just because He says it.

God reminds Israel that the wrath incurred by their fathers had been actually visited upon them, no repentance on God's part interposing to avert the blow. Even so will it be with His purposes of mercy and thus the very sorrows of the past become pledges for the hopes of the future. The Most High does not willingly afflict, He has no pleasure in the death of him that dieth. Yet when the limit of forbearance is reached He executes the fierceness of His anger and His threatenings are verified to the letter. Every Israelite saw this in the deep furrows the Chaldean conquest had made in this, his native land. But if Jehovah carried out His purposes so effectively in the strange work of judgment, how much more effective would He be in the kind, congenial work of blessing. If the work of justice had so complete verification, would not the work of mercy be still more completely carried out? In this view even the gloomy desolation of the Dead Sea and the ruins of Nineveh and Tyre confirm the faith and hope of the world wide blessings of the Kingdom. The evidences of God's severity will be surpassed by those of His goodness.

The truest test of religious character is in the degree of our sympathy with God. If we love what He loves and hate what He hates then we are His children and bear His image. What God particularly hates is not neglect of outward observances, but all departure from the law of love—evil speaking, evil acting, evil thinking toward our neighbor. If we are right minded we shall shun these things, not for policy's sake, nor even from thoughts of propriety, but because they are so offensive to God. This was what underlay the continence of Joseph under a fierce temptation—"How shall I do this great wickedness and sin against God?" "I know oh Lord that thy judgments are right and that thou in faithfulness has afflicted me." We must have sympathy with our fellows, but first and before all we must cultivate the same moral affections as our Maker exercises.

In our own day there is a persistent attempt in various quarters to introduce in a disguised form the dreadful error which Paul says is at the root of the idolatry and depravity of the world—worshipping and wanting gold not the Creator. Men reverse the order laid down by our Savior, and make regard for man the first and great commandment. The enthusiasm of humanity is substituted for obedience to God and love for the Lord Jesus, and the sanctions of Truth are quietly ignored.

Who would have supposed that the same imperial power which destroyed our churches and burned our Bibles should now rebuild the former at public expense in splendor of gold and various marbles, and restore the Bibles with colored pictures and splendid bindings.

9:1 — BURDEN — “Of the Word of Jehovah”—Burden is the admitted meaning of the word in other connections, it never joined with the name of God or of any other person but the subject of the prophecy and undeniably is in most instances prefixed to a threatening prediction. (Isa. 13:1; 22:1; 14:28; 15:1; Jer. 23:33) Message of woe or trouble, of punishment.

LAND OF HADRACH — (Fer. Fen.):“The country near Damascus.”) A region near Damascus. No such name as Hadrach is now or ever has been known, it has resisted all the efforts of the acutest scholars to give it any historical identification.

RESTING PLACE — The region where it will be executed.

JEHOVAH HAS AN EYE UPON MAN — (Fer. Fen.) “For Jehovah’s eyes are over mankind, and on all the tribes of Israel.” Hebrew—the eye of Adam. (R.S.V.) The American Version is not in harmony with the rest of the context, for it would place the time in the Kingdom, but the context shows that the judgments mentioned are even now past history. (Jer. 4:27; 5:18; 30:11, 46:28)

9:2 — HAMATH ALSO — As well as Damascus included in the judgment, and all the other nations mentioned—“which borders thereon, Tyre and Zidon.”

BECAUSE IT IS VERY WISE — As the world counts wisdom, multiplying wealth and strength and trusting in them. But this very pride and worldly wisdom brought the divine retribution. Hamath, the Greek Epiphania on the Orontes. Hamath and Damascus are closely connected as representing Syria. Contiguous in territory they are alike in doom. Tyre was a colony of Sidon, but the daughter soon outstripped the mother, and as early as Isaiah’s time the elder city was viewed as an appendage of the younger.

Here is a prediction of a heavy calamity which falls in succession upon Damascus, Hamath, Tyre, Zidon, and the sea coasts of Phoenicia and Philistia. Yet the people of God are safe, guarded not by any human power but by the unseen presence of their God. The Syrian conquests of Alexander the Great fulfilled the prophecy to the letter. After the battle of Issus he captured Damascus, which Darius had chosen as the strong depository of his wealth and this opened to him all Coele—Syria. Zidon soon surrendered. Tyre, strong in its position, its wealth and its wisdom made a stubborn resistance, yet after a seven month's siege was taken and devoured by fire.

Two hundred years had passed away after these prophecies were given, and Tyre seemed stronger than ever; yet when the day of vengeance came the galleys that had made her the queen of the seas, when they returned, found her out a bare and blackened rock, a lonely monument to the truth that our God is a consuming fire.

9:5 — ASHKELON . . . GAZA . . . EKRON — The name Gaza meant “the strong” but it was conquered after five months effort and destroyed. The whole region fell a prey to the imperious conqueror, but the armies passed and re-passed Jerusalem without doing the least injury. Josephus accounts for this remarkable fact by recording that when the conqueror drew near the city the High Priest went forth to meet him clad in his official robes, followed by a train of priests and citizens arrayed in white, and that Alexander was so impressed by the spectacle that he did reverence to the Holy Name on the High Priest's miter. And when Parmenio expressed surprise at the act, he answered that he had seen in a vision in Dium in Macedon the God whom Jaddus represented, who encouraged him to cross over into Asia, and promised him success. Afterwards he entered the city, offered sacrifice and heard a recital of the prophecies of Daniel, which foretold his victory, in consequence of which he bestowed important privileges upon the Jews. He tore down that others might build up. This really was a preparation for the later conversion to the Christian faith. Alexander exhibited on the world's broad stage the time of trouble with which this age will end as a preparation for the Kingdom of God on Earth.

9:6 — A BASTARD DWELL IN ASHDOD — Literally a mongrel, one of blemished birth. The same word occurs in Deut. 23:2.

CUT OFF THE PRIDE OF THE PHILISTINES — Their strongholds, temple idols.

9:7 — TAKE AWAY HIS BLOOD OUT OF HIS MOUTH — The blood of sacrifice and idolatry. Also his cruel treatment of Israel.

ABOMINATIONS — The evil practices connected with their idolatry.

HE THAT REMAINETH, EVEN HE — The whole clause strikingly depicts the abolition of idolatry in the nations of the Philistines.

FOR OUR GOD — They shall become His worshippers unlikely as it may seem. This conversion is in the Kingdom.

GOVERNOR IN JUDAH — Like a prince or tribal head. The Hebrew word denotes the head of one thousand men (as in Micah 5:2). In earlier books the word is applied only to the tribes of Edom, but here to tribal heads of Judah. The remnant of the Philistines is to become so thoroughly converted that he can be trusted with leadership, like a captain or ruler of one thousand.

EKRON LIKE JEBUSITE — One of the live cities as used for the whole. Inhabitant of Jebus, who were incorporated into Israel. (See Aurauna, 2 Sam. 24:18)

9:8 — I WILL ENCAMP — Not only shall a judgment fall on the neighboring nations and the remnant of them be converted, but the Lord will carefully protect Israel. (R.S.V.) “Then will I encamp at my house as a guard so that none shall march to and fro; no oppressor shall again overrun them, for now I see with mine own eyes.” Moffatt: For I am on the watch now.” See Ex. 3:7; Psa. 102:19.

9:9 — REJOICE GREATLY — Make a loud noise, shout, Hallelujah!

DAUGHTER OF ZION, DAUGHTER OF JERUSALEM — The Jewish people at the first advent. “Zion”—sunny, bright, joyful; “Jerusalem”—founded in peace.

BEHOLD THY KING — Look! At last the Messenger of the Covenant has come, long awaited. (Mal. 3:1-6) Fer. Fen.—“Look, for your King comes to you, he is righteous, has power to save, is humble and rides on an ass—on a colt, the foal of an ass.” Not any ruler, but THY King. Note the four features of character mentioned here.

RIGHTEOUS — A perfect counterpart of Adam, to satisfy the claims of Justice against mankind. (Rom. 3:26; Psa. 49:6-8; Isa. 63:5, 53)

HAVING SALVATION — All the ancient versions render this Hebrew word (Niphal) in the active voice; but some modern critics put it in the passive voice—Saved—perhaps this king is saved not for his own sake but for his peoples.

LOWLY — Some render this word “afflicted.” The Hebrew root = to be bowed down (by outward circumstances), or if inwardly = meek, patient, lowly.

RIDES ON AN ASS — The ass was indeed ridden by distinguished persons in the early days of Israel, when horses were not used at all. But after the time of Solomon no instance occurs of its use on state occasions. That this King should ride officially, not on a horse but upon an ass, and that an untrained foal (that had not yet left its mother) showed how far he would be from military force and power and worldly splendor. He comes to serve in peace, to prove that the forces of right and peace and humility are more effective in blessing than all the pomp and show of military power.

9:10 — CUT OFF — The destruction of military power with all its taxation and its training to kill, its destruction and fear and waste of everything—life, manufactures, buildings, homes, farms and land. Our nation has fallen into the hands of military minds and its drifting to ruin. “Cut off”—extermination.

SPEAK PEACE TO THE NATIONS — Message of comfort, rest, quiet and security. No more destruction of homes, and property, no more slaughter of our young men, the brains and strength of the nation with its awful waste of steel, much needed metals, rubber, gasoline, etc.

DOMINION FROM SEA TO SEA — The whole length and breadth of the land, and of the whole earth. And that, by request and voluntarily. (Chap. 8:20-23)

Here is presented a person in whom the greatest grandeur, magnificence, power and influence are associated, without confusion or contradiction, with the greatest humility, gentleness, poverty, suffering and weakness. No judge, king or ruler of any sort in all Jewish history ever united in his character or experience these two extremes. None were so lowly, none so exalted. None without spoke peace even to his own people, much less to the nations, and least of all to the entire known world. It is true of only one human being in all history that he had not where to lay his head and rode upon an ass, and yet acquired a limitless dominion over land and sea.

Jesus by this humble procedure was calling their minds back to the time when peace and prosperity ruled, before military rule had robbed them of peace and security and most of their possessions and to the meek and lowly service of love and true living. (Isa. 32:15-18)

The Hebrew prophet was a man of genius, enthusiasm and intense moral energy. His pure reason, illumined by God, enabled him to understand the character of the divine government and foresee events hidden from common eyes. His exalted imagination and sensitive conscience presented to him the visions of God. Thus he foresaw not only the general triumph of Truth and the exaltation of Israel, but also the means by which these were to be obtained, namely the Messiah. Among the Hebrews the idea of the Messiah was the central thought of their Scriptures and the organizing basis of their national existence.

Their theocratic constitution was not owing to a blind and odious particularism, but was the result of God's wisdom in choosing one race to be the depository of the truth and blessing destined one day to be the coextensive with the race.

It is remarkable that St. John's narrative of the triumphal entry of Christ, riding into Jerusalem on the foal of an ass is immediately followed by an incident in the history—"Certain Greeks wished to see Jesus." The incident itself was like a vision of the coming of the Gentile world to Jesus. These Greeks were its first indication.

He will bruise and break the power of his enemies, but with his golden scepter of love, following the Just retribution of the time of trouble. He reigns by His own right, and by their full and free consent in their hearts. He will reign upon a throne of Grace to which they have access at all times, and whence they receive the pardon of all their sins, grace to help in time of need, and a renewed supply sufficient for all their wants, cares, services and conflicts.

9:11 — AS FOR THEE ALSO — Particularly for the Jewish people to whom the prophet is sent. Their calling is not to be forgotten. (Rom. 11:25-32) They shall have their portion in the Kingdom.

FOR THE SAKE OF THY COVENENT-BLOOD — The covenant of Jehovah with His people was sealed with blood in the type, and the New Covenant will be sealed with the blood of His own Son.

Here the prophet turns away from the beautiful picture of the peaceful King extending his beneficent sway over all the earth, to describe a period of distress and weakness, as their further experience, but from which He promises full deliverance.

SEND FORTH THY PRISONERS FROM THE PIT, WHEREIN IS NO WATER — This refers to the resurrection in the Kingdom. The "Pit" is the grave (Heb. Bowr = a pit or hole, from a root meaning to bore.)

9:12 — RETURN TO THE STRONGHOLD — This is the same command as given by John the Baptizer. Those who heeded the command were received into Christ but the nation as a whole refused him and so our Lord declared their punishment in Luke 19:41-44; Matt. 23:33-39. Jesus is the stronghold as in Mic. 4:8.

PRISONERS OF HOPE — The Jews were prisoners of hope under the Law Covenant looking for Messiah to deliver them, which will be accomplished at the time of the Kingdom at the second advent. He will deliver them from the curse of the Law and from death and all their ills.

TODAY DECLARE DOUBLE — Because of their refusal their double of punishment mentioned by Jeremiah 16:17, 18 and Isa. 40:2 and spoken of in the Law in Lev. 26 and Deut. 28—1845 years.

9:13 — This refers to the Kingdom though partially fulfilled in the times of the Maccabees (the name means the hammer). Then Judah will be the leader and the whole nation will be used as the Lord's instrument for the work of the Kingdom. (Micah 5:7-9; Isa. 11:10-16; 19:23-25; Zech. 12:6-9) The Hebrew for "bend" literally means tread, because a bow was often stretched by setting the foot upon one end.

STIR UP THY SONS, OH ZION AGAINST THY SONS OH GREECE — Javan, the name of the fourth son of Japheth (Gen. 10) is the Hebrew word for Greece, usually identified with Ion or Ionia. This seems to be a reference to the last battle against the allied nation coming against Israel in the last day. (Ezek. 38, 39; Zech. 14; Joel 3)

MAKE THEE LIKE THE SWORD OF A HERO — A conqueror, as they will. (Zech. 12:7, 8)

9:14 — JEHOVAH APPEAR ABOVE THEM — As He will fight for them (Zech. 14:3) from heaven through The Christ.

HIS ARROW LIKE LIGHTNINGS — Not only swift, but the Word of God will be illuminating them, recalling to their minds the prophecies.

BLOW THE TRUMPET — The seventh trumpet, the trump of God, the Jubilee message of liberty throughout all the earth for all mankind.

WHIRLWINDS OF THE SOUTH — Irresistible driving all before it. (Isa. 21:1)

9:15 — JEHOVAH PROTECT THEM — His favor will return to His people and he will be active in their behalf as in the days of old.

THEY DEVOUR — As a lion. (Micah 5:8)

SUBDUE THE SLING STONES — Subdue the enemy, contemptuously styled sling-stones, or pebbles from the brook.

DRINK AND MAKE A NOISE AS FROM WINE — The reference is to the Brazen Altar and the sacrifices made upon it. The flesh of the offering is the food, and the blood of the sacrifice is the drink. The Jews were forbidden to drink blood. The noise as from wine would indicate a fullness, perhaps satisfaction.

FULL AS THE SACRIFICIAL BOWL — These were the bowls used to catch the blood of the animal, and the horns of the altar were sprinkled with the blood. This would seem to have reference to the time of trouble as a retribution, and a just recompense for the slaughter of mankind in the past oppression and wars, as typed in the statement of our Lord in Luke 23:34-36; Rev. 18:4; Jer. 51:35, 49. The requirement of Justice for the murders and cruelty of the past.

9:16 — STONES OF A CROWN — But His people will be delivered in that day, at the second advent, first the deliverance of the Church as the Lord's jewels as mentioned in Mal. 3:16, 17; Isa. 62:3.

LIFTED AS AN ENSIGN UPON HIS LAND — The Church will be exalted with her Lord to shine as the sun (Matt. 13:43) an example to all of what the Lord can do for those who trust Him. R.S.V.: "For like the jewels of a crown they shall shine on His land." Moffatt: "He shepherds them on His own land (like jewels for a crown)." Fer. Fen.: "Like bright gems for a crown on His land." Roth.: "For they shall be like the jewels of a diadem sparkling over His land."

9:17 — FOR HOW GREAT IS HIS GOODNESS, AND HOW GREAT IS HIS BEAUTY — Roth.: "How excellent is it! Yea how beautiful!" The goodness of Jehovah will then be seen by all, and all may benefit by it, as love and power will be working to their full extent, guiding by wisdom. (Rev. 15:4; Isa. 25:9)

CORN AND NEW WINE — The earth will yield its abundance as the curse will be removed. New wine would be the unfermented juice of the fruit. Also there will be Truth on every subject for the mind and heart, and true doctrine to straighten out the thoughts and ideas of all. (Isa. 29:18, 24) All shall be taught of God. (Isa. 54:13; 52:15; Jer. 31:34; Micah 4:2; Heb. 8:10) Health and strength will be abundant.

Verse 10 speaks of the peace of the Kingdom, and verse 15 of the final conflict with evil which will precede it.

10: — This chapter does not commence fresh train of thought, but rather it is an expansion of the foregoing prophecy. First there is the promise of rain and fruitful seasons (vs. 1); a reference to idolatry as the cause of their afflictions (vss. 2, 3); deliverance by God's blessing upon native rulers (vss. 3-5); restoration of ancient mercies (vs. 6) special mention of Ephraim as participating in the growth and enlargement promised to the whole nation (vss. 7-9); further promises to the nation couched in historic allusions to their former experience, and fulfilled only in Messiah's Kingdom.

This chapter continues and enlarges the promises of the preceding; after showing that their distresses are due to their apostasy, it foretells their deliverance thru actual conflicts where Jehovah gives to the native leaders a force and courage which suffice to subdue foes far greater than themselves. (Zech. 12:7-9; 14:14)

The words of the prophet in verse 6 were fulfilled partially in and after the captivity. Many of the transplanted Ephraimites fell away from the faith and became absorbed among the nations who surrounded them, but many who remained true to Jehovah joined their brethren of Judah even before the captivity. (2 Chron. 11:13-17; 15:8-15; 30:11, 21, 18; 31:1, 6; 34:9, 6, 7, 33; 35:17, 18) Their common calamities softened and at last obliterated the old feelings of enmity toward each other. Jerusalem again became the central point of the whole nation and while not a few (50,000) actually shared in the restoration, others who remained in exile, yet adhered to the second Temple, aided it by their gifts and often attended the yearly festivals.

In the New Testament there are repeated allusions to the twelve tribes, conveying the distinct impression that the inhabitants of Palestine in our Lord's day represented all twelve tribes.

The Israelites under Persian rule became identified with the captives of Judah, the nationality of the ten tribes became extinct.

By this dispersion the light given the Jews shone everywhere. So when the Gospel was proclaimed a freer access was had to the Gentiles, because Jews were dispersed in all lands. The first preaching was done in synagogues.

This summons to prayer is not a mere expression of God's readiness to give, but from the force of the words and the connection, is to be taken literally, as well as spiritually. Rain stands for all blessings temporal and spiritual. The doctrine of prayer is a vital one. There never has been and never can be a religion without communion with the object of worship.

The question with man is not whether he will have a religion, but always whether he will have that which is true or that which is false. Not only his intuitions, his moral convictions, but his dependent condition, his subject to change, want, sorrow and death, all compel him to look up to some superior power, something nobler and better than himself. If this craving be not met with the Truth, it will surely will be met with falsehood. A permanent stay of atheistic unbelief is impossible. Such a state has never been seen in all the world's history. In ancient Israel there was a constant oscillation between the worship of Jehovah and the worship of idols, but never the abnegation of all worship. And this is the alternative which confronts every man in every age. They may reject the true God and the revealed religion, but the inevitable result is superstition in some form, more or less refined.

Just as among the Jews, whenever they deserted the true God “diviners” came to the front. When Saul could get no answer from the Lord, either by dreams, or by Urim, or by prophets, he went to the witch of Endor.

Intelligence and culture are no guard against such a result, if men will not believe the rational and true they will believe the absurd and the false. Our own land at this day furnishes conspicuous examples. Table turnings and spirit rappings have led captive many who turned away in scorn from the teachings of Christ and His Apostles. The voice of God uttered with every kind and degree of evidence in his word, has been given up for the pretended disclosures of the spirits of the dead; and the necromancy of the 19th century before Christ has been revealed in the 19th after Christ. And the results have been what was to be expected. On the one hand a degree of unnatural excitement of the feelings and the imagination which terminated in an eclipse of reason; and on the other a lowering of the tone of morals which undermined the family constitution and swept away the surest safeguard of human society. It is criminal now as in the days of ancient Israel, and as dangerous, to consult diviners. (Isa. 8:19, 20)

10:1 — IN THE TIME OF THE LATTER RAIN — In the closing years of the Gospel age. In the time of the harvest of the age, 1874-1919. This has been amply fulfilled as promised by our Lord in Luke 12:37 and Joel 2:21-27; Rev. 3:20.

THE LORD SHALL MAKE BRIGHT CLOUDS — More properly “Lightnings” and give them showers of rain—as He had done during this Harvest Time.

TO EVERY ONE GRASS IN THE FIELD — Truth and abundance of food for study. The prophet includes here under one kind all things necessary for an abundant spiritual life, for the New Creature, and blessings for the world also in the way of increased knowledge and invention to make life easier and give more time for better things. As in verse 6 “For I am Jehovah their God.” For every one who asks.

10:2 — FOR THE TERAPHIM HAVE SPOKEN VANITY — The teraphim were household gods. (Gen. 31:30-35; Hos. 3:4, 5; Judges 17:1-4) The prevalence of imposters of the kinds here mentioned just before the overthrow of Judah is abundantly established. (Jer. 27:9; 29:8; 23:9, 14, 32; Ezek. 21:34; 22:28)

THEREFORE THEY WENT THEIR WAY AS A FLOCK — The consequence of their idol worship was that they wandered away further and further from their God. Troubles overtook for them in increasing degree. And among their leaders—

THERE WAS NO SHEPHERD — They would not hearken to the prophets whom the Lord sent, and their diviners were prophets, were messengers of lies. Even as it is today. Their leaders use the dog in the manger tactics, they would not eat, and they were determined that the people should not eat of the truth. (Matt. 9:36; Mark 6:34; Jer. 23:16-29)

10:3 — SHEPHERDS — Because they preached lies, deceived and misled the people. (Isa. 28:14-18) The priests and king and leaders of the people, who have led the people into idolatry, oppressed and defrauded them. (Ezek. 34:2-6, 10-19, 23)

HE GOATS — Selfish, grasping leaders, wilful against the Lord, rebellious.

PUNISH, VISITS — There is a play here upon the Hebrew word Paqad = to visit, in its two meanings—to care for and to punish. Jehovah cares for His people and punishes their evil leaders.

HOUSE OF JUDAH — The faithful remnant of His people.

GOODLY HORSE IN WAR — His instrument for punishing the nations which come against the Jews in their final trouble and in work of the Kingdom (Zech. 12:8, 9; 14:14) such a horse as having extraordinary qualifications (qualities), well trained and equipped as the war horse of the general.

10:4 — FROM HIM (JUDAH) CORNER STONE — Christ Jesus. (Psa. 118:22; Eph. 2:20; Matt. 21:42; Mark 12:10; 1 Pet. 2:4-7; Zech. 3:9; 4:7-9; Jer. 30:21)

THE PEG (NAIL) — (Eccl. 12:11; Isa. 22:20-25) Christ Jesus. Large ornamental pin built into wall of oriental houses to suspend household utensils and garments.

BATTLE BOW — The military forces and weapons. The Word of God. (Psa. 45:4, 5; 2 Cor. 10:4, 5; Rev. 19:11-16; Eph. 6:17)

EVERY RULER — Oppressor is the original meaning, but here as in Isa. 3:12; 60:17; Jer. 30:21.

TOGETHER — As united in the Kingdom, Ancient Worthies.

10:5 — LIKE HEROES TREADING DOWN INTO THE MIRE — Overcoming their foes, annihilating them. (Zech. 12:8)

LORD IS WITH THEM — His favor returned to them.

RIDERS ON HORSES — Shame—Military leaders revealed as slaughterers. Whole military organizations as oppressors, exploiting the people. Slaughter so many periodically to keep population down and under control. Also teachers of false doctrines.

10:6 — STRENGTHEN JUDAH — Give them divine help. (Zech. 14:3, 13; Joel 3:2, 7, 8, 16)

JOSEPH — The ten tribes, as Ephraim and Mannasseh were the most numerous.

BRING THEM AGAIN TO PLACE THEM (MAKE THEM DWELL) — Moffatt—“Bringing them home in my compassion”; Fer. Fen.—“will establish them, because I pity.” (Ezek. 36:11) Security and happily as in the olden time.

HEAR THEM — Answer their prayers and heart longings. (Isa. 65:24; Psa. 102:16-22)

BE AS THOUGH I HAD NOT CAST THEM OFF — Return to full favor in the Kingdom, Ezek. 36:11. Fer. Fen.: “As though I had never expelled them.”

FOR I AM JEHOVAH — The God of Mercy, Their God. (Ex. 20:6; Psa. 130:4; Ex. 34:5-7; Psa. 108:4)

10:7 — EPHRAIM = Mentioned to assure that all Israel would share the blessing as well as Judah. The 10 tribes had not returned as fully as the two from Babylon, partly because they were in Elam and Persia. All Israel will share.

WINE — Makes the heart merry. (Psa. 104:14, 15)

THEIR CHILDREN — Showing the blessing future. The Kingdom will start with the living, later the resurrection. (Psa. 78:65)

REJOICE IN JEHOVAH — Showing a complete heart conversion.

10:8 — HISS FOR THEM — (Isa. 5:26; 7:18) Alludes to ancient method of swarming bees. A large part of Israel were still in exile, but all Israelites indeed will be gathered. Perhaps whistling.

The utter downfall of the ten tribes, now so long ago that every political reason for keeping the old disagreement was dead and gone. (Ezek. 36:11) Especially now that all tribal records have been lost and destroyed. None can prove their tribal descent.

REDEEMED THEM — God's purposes still stand. All were redeemed, but the Jew first. (Rom. 2:9, 10; Zech. 12:7; Acts 15:15-17)

INCREASE — As they did in former years in beginning. (Ex. 1:12, 20) In Merrivale's History of the Romans, chapter 29: "Josephus informs us that 200 years after this prophecy, Galilee was peopled to an amazing extent, studded with cities, towns and villages. He adds that the villages were not what are usually so called, but some of them contained 15,000 inhabitants." When in the Kingdom those in their graves will be brought back, they will swarm again. (Ex. 1:12)

10:9 — SOW THEM AMONG THE PEOPLE — Instead of dying out, the increased even in the Ghettos.

REMEMBER ME — Long for the return of God's favor. (Psa. 102:14; 137:5, 6)

TURN AGAIN . . . LIVE — (Ezek. 37:4) Return to Jehovah.

THEIR CHILDREN — The blessing would not be transient but abiding.

10:10 — BRING THEM AGAIN — When their double of punishment is over, just preceding the Kingdom.

EGYPT — ASSYRIA — Egypt and Assyria are mentioned here as symbols of all the countries into which they were dispersed. See Isa. 19:18-25; 11:10-16. Egypt was their first oppressor and Assyria the final instrument of overthrow for ten tribes.

GILEAD AND LEBANON — Northern Palestine on both sides of the Jordan, the former home of the ten tribes. Gilead now possessed by Arab Kingdom of "Jordan." Context looks like Israel would possess it before Jacob's trouble. If so Israel would have to take it and this might precipitate trouble with United Nations and so involve all nations.

ROOM NOT FOUND FOR THEM — The usual phrase for multiplying multitudes. Merrivale accounts for the manner in which the Jews swarmed over the whole Roman world, in the centuries just before Christ, swarmed over the whole Roman world, from the Tiber to the Euphrates, from the pines of the Caucasus to the Spice Groves of Arabia Felix, because of the insufficiency of their native land to support them, the immense population. (Merrivale, Lang)

10:11 — PASS THRU THE SEA WITH AFFLICTION — Referring to crossing of Red Sea at beginning of their history. R.S.V.: "They pass thru the sea of Eg." Fer. Fen.: "He will cross the sea of distress." Roth.: Though he pass thru a sea of affliction yet shall he smite the sea, with its waves.”

Refers to Gentile persecution of the Jews. Though the help of the Lord will help them to overcome (as in Isa. 11:15).

ALL THE DEPTHS OF THE NILE DRIED UP — Power and resources of Egypt, symbol of Gentile power, be destroyed.

PRIDE OF ASSYRIA BROUGHT DOWN — Well expressed character of Assyria. (Isa. 10:7, 13-15, 12)

SCEPTER (or ROD) OF EGYPT DEPART — Rod of the taskmaster. Gentile rule and power be overthrown.

10:12 — I WILL MAKE THEM STRONG ON THE LORD — God’s favor return to them. (Zech. 12:8)

WALK UP AND DOWN IN HIS NAME — All their activities be in harmony with God.

In the last three verses the prophet describes a far greater blessing than hitherto, to be theirs in the Kingdom, where and when their heart shall fully return to the Lord. (Hos. 3:5)

The drying up of the sea (Psa. 45:2, 3; Rev. 21:1), the humiliation of Assyria (Isa. 10), the overthrow of Egypt, set forth the removal of all possible obstacles to the Kingdom of God.

The removal of these obstacles is set forth in beautiful imagery in the next chapter — 11.

11: — This chapter eleven, presents a marked contrast to chapters 9 and 10. Those were full of encouragement. They speak much of conflict, but uniformly represent the covenant people as finally victorious and paint a bright picture of increase property and happiness. But here is a sad scene of general overthrow caused by deliberate and persistent wickedness.

It was necessary that the blessing of God should first of all be announced to the Jews that they might engage with greater alacrity in the building of the Temple, and feel assured that they were not wasting their time. It now desired to warn them against a course of careless disobedience, that the faithful should take alarm in time and earnestly draw near to God. Nothing is more destructive than false security, and whenever sin is committed without restraint the judgement of God is close at hand. So the prophet passes on to lift the veil of the future and show the final out come of Jewish obstinacy and its terrible results.

The first three verses describe the ruin of the entire land in words arranged with rhetorical power, full of poetic imagery and lively dramatic movement. Then the cause of this widespread desolation is set forth not by vision as in previous chapters, but by symbolic action. Israel is a flock doomed to perish by the divine judgement. The prophet personating the Lord makes an effort to tell of the threatening infliction. He assumes the office of a shepherd equipped with staves fitted to secure success. He seeks to rid them of false leaders and win them to ways of truth and right. But the attempt is vain because of their obdurate wickedness and the result is a mutual recoil. He loathes them and they abhor Him. So He significantly breaks his staves to show that all over is over. But after breaking one, and before doing the same to the other, the shepherd asks for a reward for his unavailing effort. He receives one but it is so trifling that he had better have received none. They give him the offer of the price of a slave. Then the scene changes. Instead of a wise, kind shepherd the prophet personates one of an opposite character. The gentle crooks are replaced by knives and battle axes. The flock is no longer fed and guided and guarded but is torn and devoured, and at last its misguided rulers are smitten and palsied and so the curtain falls.

11:1 — This chapter has a double application, first to Natural Israel and then to Spiritual Israel and to Christendom.

LEBANON — = White, and so represents justification, righteousness.

OPEN THY DOORS — To admit the world as she has done, and worldly men have obtained control of her, the Nominal Church. The fire looks forward to the final condition. The fire is the result of the worldly spirit of self seeking. The leading lights see the trouble coming and are trying to stem it.

CEDARS — The religious leaders, ministers, priests. Many of there have already lost their faith and publicly announce it.

DEVOUR — Destroy as Christians, show them up as they really are, take away their leadership.

11:2— CYPRUS (FIR TREE) — A cry of despair and loss, the church people, the lesser leaders, Sunday School Teachers, etc.

LOFTY GREAT ONES — Their leaders are fallen, discredited.

SPOILED, LEAD WASTE — Their congregations have deserted them.

OAKS OF BASHAH — Bashan = sandy soil. The great business leaders, princes of commerce. Bashan was part of the territory of Dan.

THE HIGH FOREST — The whole nominal system.

FOREST OF THE VINTAGE — The counterfeit vine. These more or less spiritual leaders have been the stay and steadying force in the world. When they are fallen, the present order will rapidly disintegrate.

FOREST OF THE VINTAGE IS COME DOWN —

Leeser—“Impregnable forest.” Babylon has regard herself as indispensable to the Lord’s plan and to the world, as not possible to be destroyed (Rev. 18:7 “shall not see sorrow”). “Babylon is Fallen.”

11:3 — HOWLING OF THE SHEPHERDS — The great systems of religion break down and their congregations break up.

GLORY LAID WASTE — The proud leadership of the churches is destroyed in the intense trouble.

ROARING OF YOUNG LIONS — PRIDE OF JORDAN — In the literal picture the flames spread over the luxuriant growth around Jordan, forcing the lion out of their lairs into the open. The luxuriant bushes and reeds enclose the stream with a garland of fresh and beautiful verdure, the pride of Jordan. The young people are now taking over more of the activities, they are eager church workers, and active in the business world.

PRIDE OF JORDAN — The creeds and catechisms and confessions of faith in Western nations. These are shown to be illogical and full of false human ideas, which, is representative of God and His Word. Pride of man is greater now, because of accomplishments.

11:4 — THUS SAITH JEHOVAH, FEED THE FLOCK OF THE SLAUGHTER — They should preach the Truth, The Word of God, to the people, especially the True church. Not only persecuted but covenanted to sacrifice even unto death.

MY GOD — An expression of thanksgiving. Faithfully declaring an unpopular message.

11:5 — WHOSE POSSESSORS — The Pastors speak of My Church, My Congregation, My flock.

SLAY THEM — The treatment the nominal church has given God’s people. Persecute, rob them of the Truth. Drive the truth seekers out of the church. Slay them socially.

The undertakers, the publishers of church literature, profit by them. Raise money by church socials, Bingo parties, keep members busy.

THEIR OWN SHEPHERDS PITY THEM NOT — The clergy.

SIT ON THE MT. OF THE CONGREGATION — Take their ease and get large salaries. (Isa. 14:13) This prophecy was true of religious leaders at first Advent, and is true now of Churches nominal. (Matt. 23:13-35)

11:6 — NO MORE PITY — The time of judgment had come at first advent, Harvest (Luke 3:9; Prov. 1:24-32; Matt. 23:34, 35; Luke 19:42-44) and is true at second advent.

WILL NOT DELIVER — Let the punishment take its course. (Isa. 26:21)

INTO HAND OF NEIGHBOR — Cut-throat competition. Scarcity of work and high prices of food and supplies, bring it about. (Isa. 19:15)

INTO HAND OF HIS KING — (Or ruler.) Oppression by heavy taxation in everything.

SMITE THE LAND — Exploit the people and by foolish laws restrict their liberties till the land groans. (Use of insecticides.)

11:7 — AND SO I FED THE FLOCK — Referring to Harvest Message, the special food for the true Church in the time of the second presence. (Luke 12:37) With the pure truth of the Word.

FED — Not merely with food — the Hebrew word means entire care.

TWO STAVES — Used to care for the flock. Staves have names—not merely one stave as was usual, but two to indicate extra portion or provision.

BEAUTY — (or grace) — Divine favor which wards off evils. Truth along spiritual or Heavenly lines for the New Creatures' development.

BANDS — (or union) — Excludes internal discords. Truth along earthly lines to enable Church to understand the events and times.

FED THE FLOCK — Used the staves to care for and provide for His people.

11:8 — THREE SHEPHERDS — Three guiding forces (cut off from being his mouth pieces, spewed them out of his mouth (Rev. 3:14-16)—Beast, False Prophet, Dragon, Babylon in general.

IN ONE MONTH — Thirty years from 1886 to date of publication of Volume 1 of Scriptures Studies to 1916 death of Bro. Russell.

Mutual repulsion—Babylon renders lip service, but not heart worship. Civil authorities, Priests, Prophets. (Lang) (Jer. 2:8; Matt. 16:21) Babylon in 1878 (Priests and Prophet) and Civil Power 1914.

11:9 — I WILL NOT FEED YOU — Babylon cast off and the Lord feeds his people through other channels or servants.

Let the destroying forces do their work. (Isa. 18:4, 5) As at Midian and as in Zech. 14:13; Isa. 19:2.

11:10 — BREAK, OR CUT, IT ASUNDER — Rightly divide the Word of Truth and thus show the understanding of the Covenant with Israel (no other nation had such. (Psa. 147:19, 20; Deut. 4:32-36)

BREAK MY COVENANT WITH ALL THE TRIBES — Destroy, Annul. See Rotherham note—tribes.

In the Harvest time the light on the Covenants showed Law Covenant broken and why and how. Rightly divide beauty staff, truth or spiritual things, God's plan.

ALL THE PEOPLE — Cast off the Nominal People, spew out Laodicea. All the people = the household of faith.

11:11 — POOR OF FLOCK — The faithful, true Church, wise virgins.

WAITED UPON ME — Gave heed to the Lord, watchful and obedient.

KNEW IT WAS WORD OF JEHOVAH — Not merely Bro. Russell's. See Parable Matt. 21:33, 34. The humble saints knew then that it was the Lord speaking and who is returned.

11:12, 13 — I (JEHOVAH) SAID UNTO THEM — The Priests and rulers.

IF YOU THINK GOOD — Left it to their judgment, that they might show to all future generations how little they valued the Lord's messengers and His labor for them.

THIRTY PIECES OF SILVER — The price of a slave (Ex. 21:32) and of a female slave. (Hos. 3:2) Such an offer was more insulting than a direct refusal and was contemptuously rejected (for fulfillment see Matt. 27:1-10).

THROW IT TO POTTER — Contempt could not be used in Temple treasury (Matt. 27:6) price of blood. Like our phrase "throw it to the dogs."

GOODLY PRICE — Sarcasm and irony.

11:14 — CUT ASUNDER (rightly divided) BANDS — The brotherhood spirit of all under one covenant, as it was after return from Babylon. In Jesus' day they ended up by fighting one another in the siege of Jerusalem by Titus.

The diligence and affection of the shepherd had no effect. The foredoomed flock turned away from with loathing. The kindly effort miserably failed.

“The Kingdom of God shall be taken from you.” (Matt. 21:43) No more was to be done. The last and crowning manifestation of Divine mercy had been made, and yet, so far from awakening and reclaiming the infatuated people it only incensed them, and brought wrath and ill-doing upon the messenger. They had the services of the Good Shepherd, under whom they had found repose, protection, green pastures and running waters. but they would have none of Him.

Their rejection of him culminated in a mad frenzy of hate for one another. “If I had not come and spoken unto them they had not had sin; but now they have no cloak for their sin. . . If I had not done among them the works which none other man did they had not had sin; but now they have both seen and hated both me and my Father.” (John 15:22-24)

The two staves were broken and he who held them relinquished his office. Neither Beauty nor Bands any longer performed their grateful function. To break a shepherd's crook is a graceless, unappreciative act, but as performed by one who represented the Good Shepherd it expressed a most fearful truth—the final abandonment of the flock by the only one who could feed, guide or defend it. Ever since the miserable natural sheep have experienced the weight of Jehovah's words “Woe unto them when I depart from them!”

It was the loss of all brotherly unity represented in the old disruption of the nation under Jeroboam. The breaking up of the nation into two parties bitterly hostile to each other, was one of the most marked peculiarities of the later Jewish history and greatly accelerated the ruin of their nation in the Roman war.

11:15 — INSTRUMENTS OF FOOLISH (WICKED) SHEPHERD — Usual equipment—a crook, a bag, a pipe, a knife. The nature of these of the foolish or neglectful shepherd are not stated but evidently are not for caring for the sheep, but for selfish reasons. He not merely neglects, but destroys. The term directs attention to the fact that the rulers of the nation are so blinded by their selfish greed and fear of losing their positions that all the graces and goodness manifested by Jesus only inflamed them the more.

While the rulers at the first advent gave a partial fulfillment, yet the words fit more accurately to the Harvest Time and describe the acts of Joe Rutherford.

NOT VISIT THOSE CUT OFF — Those who (vss. 15,16) will not submit to his rule. Fer. Fen.—the young—those just entering the Truth, not fully established). (Margin—hidden.) (R.S.V.—the perishing—those abandoning the Truth.)

(Fer. Fen.—“not visit the young, nor seek the wounded, nor care for the sick, nor provide fodder.”) (R.S.V.—“not care for the perishing or seek the wandering, or heal the maimed, or nourish the sound.”) (Moffatt—“not look after what is missing, not look out for what is scattered, or heal what is hurt, not cherish the sound sheep.”)

Four things he will not do. All are the equipment or characteristics of a foolish or wicked shepherd and are the things a good shepherd will do.

Two things this shepherd will do, and both are selfish and cruel—eat flesh of fat ones and so greedy take away even the hooves (hoofs.) Destroy their power of movement or service to the Lord.

11:16 — I WILL RAISE UP A SHEPHERD — Bro. C. T. Russell.

THOSE THAT BE CUT OFF — Will have nothing to do with the Nominal Church, spewed out, cast off.

THE YOUNG ONE — Leeser and R.V.: Those that are scattered, gone astray. He will not chase or seek after those who have gone out of the truth.

NOR HEAL THAT THAT IS BROKEN — Leeser: “That hath (a limb) broken -that will not walk uprightly.”

NOR FEED THAT THAT STANDETH STILL — Who will not progress, who will not read and study and grow.

BUT HE SHALL EAT THE FLESH OF THE FAT — Feast on the rich. @SECOND PAR = AND TEAR THEIR CLAWS IN PIECES — R.V.: Teak their hooves—destroy their propelling powers so that they could not travel. Refers to horses—false doctrinal hobbies. The truth will show up their falsity and render them powerless to deceive the Lord’s people (faithful).

11:17 — WOE (punitive judgment) TO THE WORTHLESS SHEPHERD — Leeser, Fer. Fen., Roth., R.S.V. Because of ambition and pride cannot render any real service to the sheep or to their owner.

LEAVETH THE FLOCK — Forgets, deserts, forsakes. Does not remember they are the Lord’s sheep, but exploits them.

SWORD — “Sword of His mouth”—Bible, truth.

SWORD UPON HIS RIGHT ARM — Cut off his power to serve the Lord. Reject him as cannot be trusted.

UPON HIS RIGHT EYE, DARKENED — Spiritual vision. Fulfilled in Joe Rutherford.

AND HIS RIGHT EYE SHALL BE UTTERLY DARKENED — This had an actual fulfillment in Mr. Barbour. But symbolically also.

RIGHT EYE — His spiritual eyesight. His influence was taken away by the Truth and he was forced into outer darkness.

12: — Chapter 12 begins the second half of the last division of Zechariah’s prophecies. It begins with the same words as the first half (Chapter 9), but in a different application. Both utterances are burdens i.e. threatening predictions. The first sets forth calamity as the portion of God’s enemies, whether within or outside His covenant people. The second describes the attack upon Israel by the gathered Gentile nations in the last days of the present order; and the spectacular deliverance of Israel.

12:1 — BURDEN — Upon, but not against Israel, concerning; hence a message.

ISRAEL — Regathered in Palestine, and restored as a nation, but at present in unbelief as regards Messiah.

JEHOVAH . . . STRETCHES — Heb. extends, forms.

THE HEAVENS — As in Job. 9:8; Psa. 104:2; Isa. 40:22; 42:5; 44:24; 45:12.

LAYS THE FOUNDATIONS OF THE EARTH — This has a deep meaning, both natural and religious. The natural earth has a solid rock base, the central core is supposed to be molten rock, mostly nickel and iron, from 1600 to 4000 miles in diameter. This is surrounded by an intermediate layer of rock and iron some 1400 mile thick. Then an outer core or mantle some 1800 miles thick of heavy rock. The crust is of rock and soil, 30 miles or so thick. So this earth of ours is well founded and securely established, made to last for eternity.

As earth represents human social conditions, God founded it originally perfect and beautiful as in Eden. (Deut. 32:4; Heb. 1:10; Eccl. 7:29) But man has so corrupted these that they must be destroyed as unfit to continue. (2 Pet. 3:7, 8)

FORMETH THE SPIRIT OF MAN — Through the centuries by permission of evil and training in righteousness to develop a character crystalized for right, trustworthy and dependable, thru eternity. Takes time. (This formation of the spirit of man may suggest that unrestrained and continuous agency (Holy Spirit) by which He controls the thoughts and purposes of men and so is able to accomplish His own purposes through or in spite of them.)

12:2 — “BEHOLD” — An astonishing event!

JERUSALEM — Natural Israel at Armageddon.

CUP — Not Hebrew word for cup here, but bowl or basin, perhaps because many are to drink of it.

REELING — Vain, disastrous attempts, the enemy hesitant and staggering, trying various means. (See Ezek. 38, 39)

IT WILL BE AGAINST JUDAH ALSO IN SIEGE AGAINST JERUSALEM — Rest of the statements indicate Judah as heroically fighting, so this seems to mean the battle against Jerusalem and Judah.

12:3 — HEAVY STONE — As in sports, trying to lift a stone too heavy for them and so get sprains and dislocations (tear themselves). It is in the way of their plans, and they try to get rid of it.

ALL NATIONS OF EARTH GATHER AGAINST IT — As Joel 3:1-3; Micah 5:5, 6; Ezek. 38, 39; Isa. 10.

12:4 — SMITE EVERY HORSE WITH TERROR AND BLINDNESS — Confusion and wondering consternation, so they attack one another (chap. 14:13) as the Midianites. (Judges 7; Hab. 3:7)

MADNESS — So that they do stupid things and injure one another.

OPEN MINE EYES — God smites with blindness the warring powers of His foes, but opens His own eyes wide to see and provide for needs of His people to protect, defend and bless.

12:5 — CHIEFS OF JUDAH — The leaders of the tribes or clans.

INHABITANTS OF JERUSALEM HAVE STRENGTH THROUGH JEHOVAH OF HOSTS, THEIR GOD (R.S.V.) — The siege will cause them to realize no help from Gentiles, and their own strength failing them, their only hope is in Jehovah. (Hosea 2:15)

12:6 — CHIEFS OF JUDAH AS A PAN OF FIRE (BLAZING POT) AMONG WOOD —Set fire to and burn up and destroy all around them.

FLAMING TORCH AMONG SHEAVES — Consume their foes on every side.

DEVOUR TO RIGHT AND TO LEFT — (Isa. 11:14; Micah 5:6, 7; Isa. 10:16-18, 26, 27)

JERUSALEM INHABITED IN HER OWN PLACE, EVEN IN JERUSALEM — Rebuilt on its own heap. Moffatt: “Still remain on its own site”—not in New York, nor London, but where it has always been.

12:7 — JEHOVAH WILL SAVE TENTS OF JUDAH FIRST — No one now knows of what tribe he is, all records lost, so what does it mean! These are contrasted with House of David and “inhabitants of Jerusalem”—as though some would be delivered before others. Chapter 14:2 states that “the city shall be taken, houses rifled (plundered), women ravished, and half the people (city) go into exile” but the rest of the people not be cut off from the city.

Who would be taken captive? Perhaps the fighters, the most active defenders. Notice the “tents”—not in the city, perhaps these in captivity. But why called Judah?

12:8 — THE LORD DEFEND INHABITANTS OF JERUSALEM — R.S.V.—“Put a shield about.” The return of God’s favor to Israel.

SO THE FEEBLEST AMONG THEM LIKE DAVID — In his battle with Goliath, trust fully in Jehovah. (1 Sam. 17:45-47) So gain the victory against great odds. (Zech. 14:12-15) As at battle of Sinai Peninsular. (The “stumbler”—one who can scarce hold himself up.)

HOUSE OF DAVID LIKE GOD — Exalted by divine help to direct and execute wise devices to make success in situation—the Ancient Worthies?

12:9 — DESTROY ALL NATIONS — That come against Jerusalem. As in Ezek. 38, 39; Joel 3; Zech. 14:1. Destroy their governments, not the people at home, destroy the armies and generals.

SEEK TO DESTROY — So that the destruction can be stopped at any point.

Israel has always been a burdensome stone to its assailants. They have harmed themselves, but not Israel. Pharaoh pursued Israel and caught them entangled in the land, shut in by the wilderness, but when he sought to spring the trap they escaped in safety, while he and his host sank like lead in the mighty waters. The Philistines captured the Ark but no defeat was ever so damaging to Dagon and his worshippers as this seeming triumph. Babylon rioted in the plunder of Jerusalem, and the impious king turned the vessels of the sanctuary into the drinking cups of an idolatrous revel, but the fingers of doom wrote upon the wall a sentence which numbered and finished his days that same night. Herod sought to slay the infant Redeemer, but while the child was safe in Egypt, the cruel king perished by a painful and loathsome disease. The stone was unharmed, but the lifters were torn and lacerated. "The Lord is known by the judgments which He executeth, the wicked is snared in the work of his own hands." (Psa. 9:16) His providences have justified the counsel which Pilate's wife gave to the Roman governor in the great crisis of his life "Have thou nothing to do with that just man."

So in the bloody persecutions which attended the introduction of Christianity, one and another took up the stone (the Church) to toss it hither and thither, but in vain. All were made to feel what the dying Julian uttered in his despair "O, Galilean, thou hast conquered."

12:10 — POUR — Not sprinkle, but in great abundance, to fill every heart and result in thorough and lasting conviction and conversion. (Isa. 32:15-19)

HOUSE OF DAVID, INHABITANTS OF JERUSALEM — 13:1 — Stand for whole Covenant People, as the capitol representing the nation. Royal house—all ranks from highest to lowest need and receive the gift. Joel earlier mentions it (3:23-27).

SPIRIT OF GRACE — Not prayer, nor love, but grace. It produces in the mind of man the experience of the grace of God, and this experience rousing the sense of unworthiness, appreciation of God's goodness, leading to conviction of imperfection and sin and to supplication for pardon, forgiveness.

LOOK ON ME — Consider, meditate, study, investigate; the prophecies of Old Testament and their fulfillment in Christ as explained in New Testament. Already many Jews are reading the New Testament. See Z.1896-52.

WHOM THEY HAVE PIERCED — Acknowledge they crucified their Messiah, their own Redeemer. (John 19:34-37; Rev. 1:7; Psa. 22:16; Matt. 27:19)

MOURNED FOR HIM, AS FOR AN ONLY SON — Note change of pronoun—a sign of the deepest sorrow. The prophet uses the strongest metaphors known to human experience. No pang which death can inflict is so severe as that which wrings the heart of parents following to the tomb. It seems as if all hope and joy were buried with the loved one.

AND BE IN BITTERNESS FOR HIM, AS FOR THE FIRST BORN —

So the realization of a great national calamity is intensified by the influence upon one another of all affected by it. When President Lincoln was assassinated in 1865, a shuddering horror seized every heart throughout the land and multitudes who had never seen the kindly leader were as deeply moved as if the blow had fallen on their own kindred. A gloomy pall settled down over all hearts and households. As in death of Egypt's firstborn. The primary meaning of Hebrew is to strike, as on the breast. (Luke 23:48)

12:11 — GREAT MOURNING AS A HADADRIMMON — For the death of King Josiah. (2 Chron. 35:24, 25; 2 Kings 23:29, 30)

HADADRIMMON — Appears to have been a city in the valley of Megiddo. Jerome speaks of it as still existing in his day, though he says its name changed to Maximinopolis.

12:12-14 — LAND SHALL MOURN — Nor merely the capital, Jerusalem, but the whole land shall mourn, not only as a whole but in every family apart, a personal grief and horror as being the worst thing they could have done, inexcusable, unimaginable — crucify their own Messiah, the Son of God.

DAVID AND LEVI — as heads of the royal and priestly families.

Luther—four families are mentioned—two of the royal line—David and Nathan (kingly and prophetic); and two of the priestly tribe—Levi and his grandson Shimei; then he embraces all together—one leading family and one subordinate branch, to show that grief pervades all, from highest to lowest.

ALL REMAINING FAMILIES — Beside those already mentioned.

WIVES APART — A further proof of the universal mourning.

MOURNING — The chief means of a genuine repentance — the realization of a crucified Savior. Men are convinced of sin and wrong in various ways. Natural conscience sometimes inflames remorse to a fearful pitch. Sudden judgment, or what are thought to be such, stimulate fear until reason is eclipsed. A keen sense of shame proves to be a sorrow of the world which worketh death. But the true, healthy conviction of guilt and wrong, permanent repentance is born at the Cross. There the guilty soul sees itself in all its blackness and all the vileness and inexcusableness of its past life and is thoroughly humbled and prostrated in contrition. It becomes conscious of its own share in the dark and bloody crime of Calvary.

As one of those for whom Christ died, each Jew had a part in driving the nails and pushing the spear, and is justly liable to the aggravated doom of those who with wicked hands crucified the Lord of glory. Hence all pleas in extenuation are given up, all excuses felt to be frivolous. Nothing is left but a fearful looking forward to judgment, so far as the soul's own merits are concerned. But this very conviction of total unworthiness soon has brought to its attention Christ's wondrous love in bearing the cross and thru it a hope in the efficacy of His atoning death, and so of deliverance — thus the arrow that kills bears with it the balm that makes alive.

True repentance is real, deep and hearty, but is not sullen, angry, or despairing. It grows keener and more comprehensive by experience; but faith and hope are growing in like measure and thus the balance in which the spiritual life began, is maintained even unto the end. Even at the height of his usefulness Paul felt that he was not worthy to be called an Apostle, and at the close of his life called himself chief of sinners; yet he knew whom he had believed, and expected a crown of righteousness which the Lord, the righteous Judge would give him "in that day."

APART — The penitential grief, awakened by the vision of a crucified Savior, is as real and pervading as that from any outward affliction, personal, domestic or national. Its theater is within. There are no outward manifestations, but the feeling for that very reason is more concentrated and intense. The soul renews the experience of David—"my sin is ever before me."

But the stricken soul mourns apart. As there is a joy so there is a sorrow into which a stranger cannot enter. The relations of the soul to God are so delicate that all shrink instinctively from exposing them to the view of others. Deep grief is necessarily solitary. In its depth neither sympathy nor fellowship is sought or allowed. Much more when the grief is spiritual, for the hand of God, which causes the pain, alone can cure it and the soul nauseates all other comforters. The immediate prompting of all who become convicted of sin is to fly to some solitary place alone and be alone with God; unless indeed the absorption of the mind is so complete that each one is insensible of the presence of others. "Each heart knoweth its own bitterness" and a godly sorrow (2 Cor. 7:10) shuns companions until it has "wrought repentance unto salvation."

Repentance of itself, however deep and thorough, is of no avail toward justification. It does not repair the evils of wrong doing even in common life, any more than in the sphere of religion. The spendthrift may bitterly mourn the extravagance which ate up his estate; or the debauchee the excesses which ruined his constitution, but in either case does the repentance restore what has been lost. Tears and penitence are no compensation for the wrong. Sin is a debt (Matt. 6:12) and a debt is satisfied only by payment. The payment must be made, or sin remains with its legal and endless consequences.

Hence the fullness of this prophecy which to a most elaborate painting of the distress of sin caused by a believing understanding of the Cross appends the true and only relief for that distress—the fountain set flowing on Calvary. There must be aid from without. A continuous baptism of tears is of itself impotent—nothing avails but a provision by the Father whom sin has offended and just this is furnished in that blood of sprinkling symbolized in so many ways in the sacrifices of the Tabernacle and Temple. See for like effect Matt. 24:30 and Rev. 1:7.

True repentance arises from a vision of a dying Savior, one who has died for us. It is love weeping at the foot of the cross, the soul sorrowing for sins that are so freely forgiven. True religion is a personal thing and when it takes hold of the heart will lead the soul apart to solitary communion (wrestling?) with God and acts of personal humbling before Him.

There were ceremonial cleanings under the Mosaic Law—brazen sea for the Priests, ten layers for things offered in sacrifice; fountains for bodily diseases, pool of Siloam, Pool of Bethesda; but Christ fulfilled and amplified all these—a fountain for moral and spiritual defilement—“for sin and uncleanness.”

13: — This chapter foretells the complete wiping out and destruction of idolatry and false prophecy, which includes all forms of ungodliness and immorality—the erasing finally of every tendency toward evil out of the human mind and rewriting in the hearts of men the image and likeness of God. So thoroughly will this be done that the hatred of evil will be so great that the people will shudder at the mere name.

The gross idolatry of the past, worship of stocks and stones, images, has disappeared from Christendom never to return. But its place is taken by a more refined and dangerous error. There is a devotion given to wealth, to pleasure, to position, power, to genius, wholly inconsistent with the just claims of our Creator—a materialism which glossed over with high sounding names is as repulsive to the true honor of God as the worship of Baal or Astarte. It dwells on great physical achievements, discoveries in nature or inventions in art, scientific triumphs, or even multiplication of home or social conveniences, as if these were the all-in-all of life and man.

The Kingdom of God and his purposes for man are ignored and God is become to many a mere name. He is not even thought of to be actively opposed, and men say as did Gibbon—“All religions are equally true in the eyes of the people, equally false in the eyes of the philosopher, and equally useful in the eyes of the statesman.” This cool indifference, this pervading earthliness of character is not merely the rejection of God, but is the enthronement of something else in His place—idolatry.

It needs all the energy of a true spiritual faith to overcome it. “The life is more than meat and the body than raiment,” means are not ends. Man is not merely an animal of the better class, more highly organized and of larger intelligence; but was made a material image and likeness of his Creator, and able to reach the perfection of his existence only in glad and willing obedience to his Creator. Anything else than this, whether it be worship of wealth or of science, is treason to the Creator. It puts the creature in the place of the Creator and so prepares the way for all unrighteousness. Men who begin by denying the rights of their Maker will sooner or later end by denying the rights of their fellow men.

13:2 — REMOVE FROM THE LAND THE (FALSE) PROPHETS AND THE UNCLEAN SPIRIT —The prophets must be the false prophets who spoke without authority, as shown by their association not only with idols, but with unclean spirits.

Men sometimes flatter themselves that the false prophet and unclean spirits have completely passed away—that science has effectually disposed of superstition and education has put an end to soothsaying, and necromancy. Yet our own generation has completely exploded this flattering dream. The heart of our own enlightened land, where education has been at work for generations, has witnessed the resurrection and diffusion of errors which are usually considered as belonging to the twilight of civilization. The miserable first king of Israel resorted to the witch of Endor only after every other door of knowledge had been hopelessly closed against him; but now under the blaze of a completed revelation, with the Second Presence of Christ a fact, and enlightened minds as never before, men are reviving an antiquated delusion, and seek for the living to the dead. Many who reject and scoff at the Scriptures, receive with implicit faith what is claimed to be messages from the spirits of the departed. Paul’s declaration to Timothy (2 Tim. 4:4) “They shall turn away their ears from the Truth and be turned unto fables.”

CUT OFF NAMES OF IDOLS FROM THE LAND . . .

REMEMBERED NO MORE — (Hosea 2:16, 17; Ex. 23:13, Josh. 23:7) Even to mention them is honoring them that much and leaves a mark in the mind, which should be erased. They all lead to disobedience and away from God into darkness.

13:3 — IF ANY ONE AGAIN APPEAR AS A PROPHET — R.S.V.: False, as before, in present age. As may happen as men come from the grave.

FATHER AND MOTHER, WHO BEGAT HIM — They be first to stop him and if he insists thrust him thru, lest the evil should take root. All those who have entered into New Covenant will be on the alert and watchful. No opening will be allowed for evil to enter.

SPEAK LIES IN THE NAME OF THE LORD — As many ministers do now, as they teach false doctrines.

PIERCE HIM THRU — Mete out immediate punishment.

13:4 — PROPHETS SHALL BE ASHAMED — As they will have to confess that they have taught lies, as prophets of Satan, ashamed of their creeds.

NOT WEAR HAIRY MANTLE TO DECEIVE — Clergy garments, collars backwards, solemn expressions and tones. No clergy class. The hairy mantle, etc. worn by the prophets was not for ascetic discipline (2 Kings 1:8), but to indicate the nations need for repentance in sackcloth and ashes and a rebuke of those who made fine clothes a main aim in life.

13:5 — HE WILL SAY I AM NO PROPHET, BUT A (FARMER) HUSBANDMAN — Try to hide and avoid the penalty of his lying teachings but he has left a record and the evidences are too strong.

13:6 — WHAT ARE THESE WOUNDS IN THINE HANDS? — That is upon the breast. The questioner considers these gashes as evidences that the man has wounded himself in connection with idolatrous worship. (1 Kings 18:28) To us it is the mark of the Beast or his Image. Every secret thing will be brought to light.

HOUSE OF MY FRIENDS — Hebrews should be rendered “Lovers” the immoral practice of idol worshippers. Now the denominations preaching for popularity. (Isa. 65:11, 12)

13:7 — SMITE THE SHEPHERD, SHEEP SHALL BE SCATTERED — As occurred with Jesus at first advent and to Bro. C. T. Russell as the Harvest Messenger. Sheep were widely scattered and separated into groups.

TURN MY HAND UPON THE LITTLE ONES — Most translators so, but Rotherham “Howbeit I will turn back my hand over the little ones.”

In verses 6 and 7 the relation is one of contrast rather than likeness. Zechariah had been speaking of a miserable pretender to prophecy—a man marked with the scars of his reasonless wounds received in idol worship and vainly attempting to deny their origin. Now he says to the true prophet and teacher, whose scars are real and significant (Isa. 53:5), who was not only wounded but slain and whose death was the salvation of his flock, “My Shepherd, My Fellow.”

Note the direct agency of Jehovah. It is Jehovah who arouses the sword sleeping in its scabbard. He points it at his own fellow. He gives the command to thrust it home. (Acts 2:23; Rev. 13:8; 1 Pet. 1:19, 20; Zech. 11:11) It was necessary to mention the divine agency in the atoning death of the Good Shepherd, not merely to show the completeness and perpetuity of the sacrifice, but to show the suffering of both the Shepherd and his flock. The smiting of the leader involves the scattering of the sheep. (John 19:11) The poor of the flock. (Zech. 11:11)

Although Jehovah will turn His hand (verse 7 Hebrew = return my hand, stretch it out again) for good upon the little ones (the little flock, Luke 12:32) yet afterwards there will be severe and most destructive visitations, cutting off two parts out of three, even the third part is refined by fiery trouble, burning out all the selfishness and evil habits and perverted ideas. This furnace of trouble (like the furnace of Nebuchadnezzar, heated seven times more than before—purify completely and lastingly). The Presence of the Master, three Classes saved—Hananiah (Jah has favored); Mishael = who is God, or knowing the true God; Jah has helped = Azariah, is given intense heat and protracted (kept until the cleansing is perfected). Three classes—the bride class, the Great Company and the world.

The Hebrew word for fellow occurs 11 times only here and in Lev. 19:11, 15, 17.

Hebrew — two parts = a mouth of two — from Deut. 21:17, firstborn. See Ezek. 5:2-12, Isa. 6:13, John 16:32, Matt. 26:31.

13:9 — AND I WILL BRING THE THIRD PART — These three parts are not stated to be thirds or equal parts. We understand three classes to be referred to. The two classes that will be cut off and die we understand to be the Little Flock and the Great Company. All of both classes being consecrated to death: One class, the Little Flock “going into death voluntarily”—the other class, Great Company going into death under adverse conditions, circumstances, which would test their loyalty to the Lord and prove their willingness to serve Him, even at the cost of life itself, though they had not that consuming zeal which would lead them to self-sacrifice.

THIRD PART THROUGH THE FIRE — The third part which will be brought through the fire (left in the land.)

REFINED — The World of mankind which will pass from death to life conditions during the Millennium: quite probably also a large proportion of the living nations at the time of the establishment of the Kingdom, without going into the tomb. All such thus returned into harmony with God will indeed recognize him as such, and he will recognize them as his people. (Z'05-285; R.3633)

SILVER . . . GOLD IS TRIED — In like manner as the gold (class) and silver (class) were refined, i.e. by trouble.

14:2 — I WILL GATHER ALL NATIONS — The Hosts of Gog and Magog. (Ezek. 38; 39; Joel 2:2-11)

14:4 — AND HIS FEET — The previous verse shows that it is Jehovah's feet = the return of Divine favor and dominion to Earth. (D650)

IN THAT DAY — The same day as in verse 6. This will be at the close of Jacob's trouble, from which the Lord will be present to deliver them. Our thought is that this will be after the Church has passed into glory. This seems to be a part of the work of the glorified Church. (Z. '14-110; R.5437) We understand that the Ancient Worthies will then appear, that God's favor will have returned to the Jews and Israel's temporal blessings will then begin; this would imply the Jews under the New Covenant arrangement and hence the Church completed.

MOUNT OF OLIVES — Olive is a symbol full of meaning. In olden times it was the source of artificial light, its oil being generally used for this purpose. (Ex. 27:20) Indeed in the Hebrew the olive tree was called shemen or oil tree. Olive oil was also the basis of many of the precious ointments the Holy Spirit upon the antitypical Royal Priesthood. (Ex. 30:24) And from time immemorial the olive branch has been used as a symbol of peace. (Gen. 8:11; Neh. 8:15) If then the olive be the symbol of light, peace, and divine blessing through the Holy Spirit, and if "Mountain" be regarded as a symbol of kingdom then = the "Kingdom of Light, peace and divine blessing," and the standing or establishment or fixing of Jehovah's "feet" upon it = the divine favor and Law will be reestablished in the earth by and through the holy kingdom. (See Rom. 11:17, 24; Jer. 11:16, 17.) Fleshly Israel was for long the typical Kingdom of God; and Spiritual Israel is called to be the real Kingdom of God. (D651)

SHALL CLEAVE IN THE MIDST THEREOF — From the natural and the Spiritual Kingdom of God has proceeded (even before Jehovah's glory rests on them to make them his channels of blessing to all mankind) all the "light of the world" during all the darkness of the past for are not these the representatives of the Old and New Testaments, old and new Covenant? Do not these correspond to the Lord's two witnesses (Rev. 11:4) and to the two olive trees of Zech. 4:3, 11, 12? In that these two parts of the mountain symbolize the outcome of those two Covenants the results of the witnessing—the Kingdom in its heavenly and earthly phases. Hence the two halves of the Mountain represent the two parts of the Kingdom of God, distinctly separated according to a divine order and arrangement. The separation indicates no opposition between the two parts of the Kingdom. It is for the purpose of producing the “Valley of Blessing” into which all who desire divine aid may flee and find help under the blessed protection of both the heavenly and earthly phases of the Kingdom. See Psalms 84 and 85. (D652)

VALLEY — The valley thus produced would be one full of light, free from shadows, for the Sun would stream through it from East to West. This Truth and blessing scattering the shadows of sin, ignorance, superstition and death and healing and restoring the willing and obedient of mankind who will flee to the valley of blessing, the valley of mercy (the Hebrew word for mercy is elaos, derived from elaia = an olive). The valley of mercy between and under the care of the spiritual and human phases of the Kingdom of Light and Peace (the establishment of Jehovah’s feet) will surely be a valley of blessing to all who enter it with broken and contrite hearts. This will ultimately include all nations and people who will exercise the faith of Abraham, all mankind may become Israelites indeed. “Everyone that is called by my name.” (Isa. 43:7; Rom. 9:26, 33; 2:5-10; Jer. 12:14-17; Rom. 4:13; Deut. 32:8; Acts 17:26)

NORTH — The North is the direction of the group Pleiades, the celestial center of the Universe, the supposed seat of Divine empire (see C321). This would seem to indicate the change of the Gospel Church at the time from human to Spirit conditions, as partakers of the Divine nature; and the removal of the other half of the mountain would seem to signify the complete restitution to perfect human conditions, of the Ancient Worthies accounted worthy to constitute the earthly representatives of God’s Kingdom. (D653)

14:5 — AND THE LORD MY GOD SHALL COME, AND ALL THE SAINTS WITH THEE — And (thus) will Jehovah my God come in and all the Holy ones shall (thus) be (united) with Him. (D654)

14:6 — IN THAT DAY — Not the day of Vengeance. This is the Millennial Day, although in it the sun of righteousness will arise and shine to scatter earth’s miasma of sin and superstition and death. It will nevertheless be only partially bright, because it will throughout be dealing with generation after generation of the fallen race as brought from the tomb and in various stages of restitution toward perfection. But how refreshing it is to know that in that day of the re-establishment of Jehovah’s feet upon his footstool, there shall be no more “thick darkness”, and at the close, instead of growing darker the world will only have reached the high noon of its “light of the knowledge of the glory of Jehovah”; and its sun shall never set. “As truly as I live saith the Lord the earth shall be filled with the glory of Jehovah.”

(Num. 14:21; Isa. 11:9; Hab. 2:14) (D655)

14:8 — LIVING WATERS SHALL GO OUT FROM JERUSALEM — A picture of the restitution blessings. Corresponding to the river of Ezek. 47 and Rev. 22.

14:16 — AND TO KEEP THE FEAST OF TABERNACLES — After the time of trouble and after the Ancient Worthies shall have been established as the rulers of Natural Israel, and God’s blessing and the New Covenant shall have begun to operate toward them, the other nations of the world will begin to take notice. Sin and death will still be reigning amongst them — but they will behold in Israel the beginning of the reign of righteousness unto life eternal. (Mic. 4:2) (Z. '09-263; R.4464)

MALACHI

Malachi the prophet spoke for and represented Jehovah to the returned Israelites. His prophecy is supposed to have been written during the time of the absence of Nehemiah, the governor, at the court of the king of Persia. The interim of his absence is thought to have been one of religious decline, as the record shows a considerable stirring up and setting in order again after his return. (Neh. 13). Malachi’s prophecy, therefore, may have served a double purpose—first to reprove and stimulate the people of that time; and secondly and much more important, to give a general lesson applicable all the way down through the more than twenty centuries since. His prophecy is the last one of the canon of the Old Testament scriptures, and closes with exhortations and promises respecting the coming of Messiah, for whom the Jewish people had waited at that time for more than fifteen centuries. (Z. '15-376; R.3683)

1:6 — A SON HONoureth HIS FATHER — If they claimed God as their Father they should render to Him the love of children; if they claimed to be His servants they should render to Him a servant’s reverence—such love and reverence should be the greater toward God in proportion as God is great above all others. Phrenologists locate the organs of benevolence, reverence and spirituality in a row in the center of the top of the head. They are thus given places of prominence and nearness to God above all others. And it is certainly true that those who have these organs most largely developed are permitted to come nearest to God in their hearts, sentiments, in all their experiences in life. But our day is not the most favorable for the development of these organs. Ours is a money-making, and money-loving day, and the tendency is to concentrate thought and effort along the baser lines of acquisitiveness, combativeness, and in general the selfish propensities. (Z. '99-266; R.2540) As Christians taught of God through His Word and by its spirit, we are to realize for ourselves, families, and entire household of faith the necessity of curtailing our selfish avaricious tendencies and egotism, and cultivating the higher and nobler graces of benevolence, veneration, spirituality. This is the transformation of Rom. 12:2. (Z. '99-266)

AND YE SAY, WHEREIN HAVE WE DESPISED THY NAME? —

The prophet presupposed that those whom he addressed did not realize the true situation, and so in speaking to others today we should likewise presume that the majority do not realize how completely the spirit of selfishness dominates their hearts.

1:7 — His answer to the question is not that they had publicly and directly used profane and disrespectful language, but that they had failed to properly honor God by manifesting a proper reverence and devotion toward him and his holy things. They had become careless respecting the things offered to the Lord. These were not of the best they had, but if not the worst were at least inferior. Thus the Lord's table had lost its proper dignity and become contemptible common.

1:8 — AND IF YE OFFER THE BLIND FOR SACRIFICE, IS IT NOT EVIL? — Apparently they had grown irreverent to the extent that instead of bringing unblemished sacrifices to the Lord they brought the sick, lame, blind; they continued to have a form of godliness of worship, reverence, but had lost the power or spirit of it. So with some of spiritual Israel. They have consecrated themselves to the Lord, and in a formal manner at least desire to comply therewith; but as they have lost the spirit of devotion, the whole matter has become offensive in His sight. The spiritual Israelite offers unto the Lord the fruit of his lips in prayer and praise, but if these are offered in a merely perfunctory manner, as a duty, and not from the heart, they are blind, sick and lame offerings, which the Lord despises. He offers unto the Lord service or money, but if these be given grudgingly and not heartily with a loving appreciation which wishes they might be increased a thousand fold, then the offering is blind, lame and sick and not pleasing in the Lord's sight. (Z. '99-266; R.2540)

WILL HE BE PLEASED WITH THEE — If they were to entreat the favor of an earthly governor with such a mean gift.

1:9 — AND NOW, I PRAY YOU — And now I pray you that, in beseeching God for his mercies you consider what kind of a present you have brought to Him and whether you have any right to expect His favor. (Z. '99-267; R.2541)

1:10 — WHO IS THERE EVEN AMONG YOU — Leeser: “O that there were some one among you that would lock up the doors of the sanctuary, that ye might not light up my altar for naught.” etc. The thought is that from the Lord’s standpoint they might as well abandon all such formalistic worship devoid of reverence, love and heart worship; and this is true today of spiritual Israelites and our “better sacrifices” and devotions and offerings. (Z. '99-267; R.2541)

1:11 — INCENSE — From the same root as “Keturah.” This will be the condition under the New Covenant. See Gen. 25:1.

FOR MY NAME SHALL BE GREAT AMONG THE HEATHEN — This will finally be true in all the world. Verse 12 seems to give the thought that it was partly true at least in Malachi’s day. For such occasions of the heathen nations reverencing Jehovah see 1 Sam. 4:7, 8 and chapter 6; Dan. 4:37; 6:26, 27; Cyrus had revered also and sent back the Jews to build the temple. There were not wanting evidences that the surrounding nations realized even more clearly than did Israel that many of the Judgments which befell Israel were divine chastisements for their unfaithfulness to Jehovah. See Ezra 1:2; Num. 24. (Z. '99-267; R.2541) “I wish I could get away from the sounding brass and this cultural religion which spends itself in all kinds of service because it is the prevailing fad, but does nothing because it is a loving expression of a personal relation to the Lord. It is a form of religion sure enough, but as hopeless and helpless to save men as the outer darkness . . . Every pastor I know who has opened his heart to me is suffering from just the same thing. People are the very art of courtesy, but the Word fall like hail on an iron roof.” (Journal and Messenger). (Words of the Pastor of a large Baptist Church in Ohio.) Note that seven times over, in the prophecy of Malachi it is recorded that the people replied to the message of the prophet—“wherein.” Gray hairs are here and there upon men and they do not know it. Spiritual declination, moral deterioration, lowering of the standards, loosening of the high ideals of beauty and holiness and men do not see it, do not know it because they have lost the vision of the true ideal and have therefore set up false ideals. This loss of vision results in setting up false standards of life. Denying the spiritual results in the deification of the physical. (Morgan)

3:1 — I — Jehovah.

WILL SEND MY MESSENGER — Whoever will refer to this verse should have no difficulty in seeing that two messengers are referred to in the verse: first the antitypical Elijah to prepare the way and second Jehovah’s special servant, the Lord, “the Messenger of the Covenant,” the Christ Jesus. (Z. '01-231; R.2838) Not only the Man Christ Jesus, who was preeminently the divine Messenger, but inconclusively the whole Christ, the Church his body, the under associates, with Jesus the head. This (first) messenger appears in the two following capacities: First as the suffering one, the sacrificing one, and secondly, as the anointed glorified one, the King, the Restorer. (Z. '05-376; R.3683) Christ in the flesh, head and body, is the antitypical Elijah, which does a work preparing for and introducing the reign of glory, of the same class, on the spirit plane, as the Christ of glory. The Messenger of Jehovah is the same, though under two different conditions; first in the flesh, in weakness, in ignominy, in sorrow and pain and dying, despised and rejected of men; second in glory, crowned with all power in heaven and earth, establishing righteousness and forcefully subduing and bringing into the divine will every creature and every thing and triumphing, so that at the end of the Millennium this great Messenger—by the two parts of his service, first in suffering and second in glory—will accomplish all that the Great Jehovah purposed respecting our race.

AND HE SHALL PREPARE THE WAY BEFORE ME — By these two parts of his service this great and glorious messenger will have prepared the way of Jehovah, will have made straight all the paths, all the arrangements, all the affairs for the establishment of the everlasting reign of the kingdom of Heaven. (Z. '05-377; R.3683)

LORD — “Adon” = Jesus, not Jehovah. (Z. '05-377; R.3683) Jehovah is represented as the speaker, who evidently refers to Jesus, assuring those who have the ear to hear and understand that Messiah whom they seek shall suddenly come to his temple.

WHOM YE SEEK — Ye = Jews at the first advent, in a shadowy sense. Jesus at his first advent offered himself to the Jewish people—“he came unto his own and his own received him not”—and he said to them—“your house is left unto you desolate.” (Matt. 23:38) That entrance into Jerusalem, riding on an ass, hailed by the people with palm branches as the King, the Messiah, the Son of David, and his entering into the temple and scourging there from the money changers and merchants, was indeed a sudden matter, wholly unexpected by the people of that time, and to a certain extent it fulfilled this prophecy, because that people on that occasion were typical of the great presentation of himself as the King, due now to be accomplished on a plane of glory, Jesus the head now presenting himself, not merely as the King of Israel but as the King of the World—not merely as the man Christ Jesus, but as the glorified Christ, with his glorified body, which is the Church. (Z. '05-377; R.3684) Ye = Christendom now.

SHALL SUDDENLY — There is a difference between the significance of “quickly” and “suddenly.” The Messiah did not quickly come to his temple, for over 2000 years have elapsed since this prophecy was written and the temple itself (“which temple ye are”) is not yet complete. When the whole work shall be complete (of preparing the stones of this temple), and the glory of the Lord shall fill the temple the prediction of this scripture shall have its fulfillment. It will be a sudden matter, in that the Jews, and others outside the Temple Class will be in such complete ignorance respecting the whole procedure that the results will be wholly unexpected, a time to them most sudden. (Z. '05-377; R.3684)

COME TO HIS TEMPLE — In the type, the Jewish Temple; but completely, the Church.

EVEN THE MESSENGER — “Or Servant.”

OF THE COVENANT — The Abrahamic Covenant, the Oath Bound Covenant. It is the hope of Natural Israel and also the hope of Spiritual Israel. Also the Messenger of the New (Law) Covenant, (see Ephod of High Priest) who will make it effective to them in a manner such as Moses could not. (Z. '10-228; R.4646)

WHOM YE DELIGHT IN — The Jews had exulted and delighted in the promise of the Messiah for centuries. They were delighting in this promise and the hopes attached to it, at the very time the Redeemer was in their midst, and they knew him not and crucified him. They are still delighting in this promise—yea the whole world has caught the infection to a large extent and is hoping and waiting for the “desire of all nations,” that then shall come, although they associate with the gracious hope and promise many misconceptions and gross errors. (Z. '05-378; R.2541)

3:2 — DAY OF HIS COMING — This refers to the entire appearance of Messiah, at his first advent and through the Gospel Age. His appearance will culminate at his glorious revelation at his second Advent. Messiah, the head of this greater prophet than Moses, was raised up first. It requires the entire Gospel age to raise up the body of this greater Mediator. But the special testing times are in the two harvests. (Z. '09-345; R.4515)

WHO SHALL STAND — Stand the tests. In the first harvest only a few stood the test (the ax was laid to the root of the trees and every tree not bringing forth good fruit was cut down and cast into the fire), “He will thoroughly purge his floor and gather the wheat into his garner.” (Matt. 3:10, 12) So now, in this harvest more fully than throughout the age, there is a testing and proving and trying, of the Lord’s people. Who will stand the test to prove who are the people of God? The Lord is now determining who are the consecrated class.

REFINERS FIRE — The living members of the Royal Priesthood will be subjected to fiery trials, as the Apostle points out.

The fire of this day will try every man's work, to show of what sort it is, and shall prove whether they have built their faith with gold, silver, and precious stones (like faithfulness to Christ, Jewels), and which have built of wood, hay and stubble of profession and outward show the theories of men. The fire consumes the dross. All the gold class will be purified, the Little Flock. All of the silver class (Great Company) will be purified, that the offerings they made to the Lord may be fully accepted of Him. If it is our privilege to have a share in the fiery trials at the close of this age, let us rejoice in whatever brings us nearer to the Lord's service, purifying our hearts and arousing our faith and making us all that would be acceptable and pleasing in the sight of the Lord. (Z. '05-379; R.3684)

FULLER'S SOAP — In its attack upon grease and dirt.

3:3 — REFINER — As it melts and separates the dross of sin and iniquity. "Members of the refiner" = From the time of our consecration we are counted as members of the body, in a prospective manner, on its supposition that we will make our calling and election sure. Then Jesus uses these very ones whom he is refining as co-laborers with him, and gives to them a part of the ministry of reconciliation, some of the refining work—among them some are instructors of the brethren, until they all come to the full stature of a man in Christ.

SIT AS A REFINER — Not of literal silver and gold but refine the Lord's people, purge them of the dross of the old sinful nature.

SONS OF LEVI — The household of faith, and they have proposed that they will offer sacrifice to the Lord—"present their bodies living sacrifices." Such as do so fully present themselves, will be the priests and Jesus will be the High Priest. They will offer unto the Lord and acceptable sacrifice. This work has been in progress throughout this age; and because we are now in the end of the age, tests more crucial will be applied until the Lord shall have completed the development of the spiritual house of Levi, the antitypical Priests and the antitypical Levites (Great Company). We are not to forget the antitypical that the Gospel age is for the purpose of finding the Priests and Levites, to make them ready as ministers of the New Covenant, which is to be for all the people through them.

GOLD AND SILVER — Little Flock and Great Company (both precious, but one more than the other. The New Covenant has been in process of inauguration throughout this Gospel Age (the Mediator is being made ready and the blood prepared, and the people) this Mediator is primarily Jesus. Then in God's arrangement there was to be an under-priesthood, all these to be the antitypical Levites, ministers, servants of the New Covenant. The justified humanity of these constitute the better sacrifices, that are being offered, at the completion of which, in the end of this Gospel age, everything will be ready—the priesthood, Levites, blood of New Covenant, (and the people), to apply the blood to Justice, and bring the blessings to the people.

OFFERING IN RIGHTEOUSNESS — (Rom. 12:1) The High Priest purifies these members of his body by giving them the necessary experiences day by day that they may more and more learn the will of God—may more and more fully lay down earthly things and attain to the character likeness of our dear Lord. This purging does not come all at once and complete the offering, but in our daily experiences the chastisements of the Lord are to the end that his will may be accomplished more perfectly in us.

3:4 — THEN — After the Son's of Levi. The church of the First Born has been purified and perfected.

AND AS IN FORMER YEARS — The fiery trials of the great time of trouble will thoroughly purge and purify all who are truly the Lord's, all antitypical Israelites, and thenceforth they shall be in the Lord's favor and have his rich blessing, and only be willful sins will they ever take themselves out of that blessed condition; but they may grow from grace to grace, knowledge to knowledge, opportunity to opportunity, until at the end of the Millennium they will have attained to all the good things of Divine Provision, through this great Messenger of the Covenant. (Z. '05-379; R.3685) When the new mediator is fully ready and the sin offerings completed then the actual life rights will make the offerings of all who come to God acceptable.

3:5 — AND I WILL COME NEAR TO YOU TO JUDGMENT — In that time the Lord will come near in his judgments, they will be prompt, the people will learn distinctly and in a practical form, what is pleasing and what is displeasing to the Lord. he will be a swift witness against every evil thing and rebuke it, and thus all shall be taught of the Lord, and the knowledge of the Lord shall fill the whole earth. (Z. '05-379; R.3685) This judgment will commence on Babylon just before the time of trouble as now.

SWIFT WITNESS — (Isa. 50:16-22) It will be a surprise to Christendom. God's judgments will now be unto all the earth.

SORCERERS — Those who teach doctrines of devils in the name of Christ. (Isa. 65:4; Rev. 2:14; 9:21; Ezek. 8:3, 10-12) (Z. '93-173; R.1538)

ALDULTERERS — Those claiming to be the virgin Church of Christ and yet live in unholy alliance with the world. (Z. '93-173; R.1538)

FALSE SWEARERS — Those who have made a covenant of entire consecration to the Lord and have been unfaithful to it. (Z. '93-173; R.1538)

THOSE THAT OPPRESS — Many of such are in high standing in the churches, as in Jesus' day.

3:6 — I CHANGE NOT — The basis for all these hopes of Israel and others is in the fact that God is unchangeable. (See margin texts). He has promised and He will not fail—yea, He has sworn to this Covenant and it is therefore an Oath-Bound Covenant, and as a result all the families of the earth shall be blessed. There can be no failure, no miscarriage of this plan, for God has pledged himself in word and in oath to its certainty. What a confidence this gives us! (See Rom. 11:25, 29.) It is on this unchangeableness of the divine character that the apostle bases all his hopes respecting the restoration of Israel to divine favor and the blessing of all families of earth through natural Israel and the glorified Church. (Z. '05-370; R.3685)

3:7 — AND HAVE NOT KEPT THEM — The Lord reproves them showing his course toward them as a people fully conformed to the engagements of their Covenant at Sinai. Had they remained faithful to their Covenant they might have had a great blessing even in Malachi's time. This is an exhortation for them to return to the Lord and prove him that he would be as prompt and faithful in giving them blessings as he was prompt and faithful in giving them chastisements for their unfaithfulness. (Z. '05-379; R.3685)

3:8 — IN TITHES AND OFFERINGS — It is an important matter to see ourselves in the true light to get a proper view of our conduct as precedent to any reform. Israel was bemoaning its impoverished condition, its lack of divine favor and blessing. "Will a man rob God?" This is a startling question. We realize a responsibility to God to bring Him gifts and sacrifices and services, but who would refuse all this, and on the contrary would rob God? Who would be so profane, so irreverent? Surely none would do so intelligently, willfully. So the natural Israelite is represented as doubting the matter saying—"Wherein have we robbed God?" The Lord's answer was designed to show them that their leanness and poverty were the result of losing God's favor by reason of their irreverence and failure to show hearty appreciation and render true worship. Applying this to spiritual Israelites who find themselves lean of soul and starving spiritually, we find the difficulty has been either:

(a) they have been worshipping in a wrong direction, or

(b) if worshipping in a right direction they have failed to present to the Lord their very best.

Under (a) many are worshipping and sacrificing to human institutions and not to God—they are offering their devotions and sacrifices to build up “Churchianity” in some of its forms—Presbyterianism, Methodism, Lutheranism, Adventism, etc. This is worshipping idols and sacrificing to idols and not to God. (Isa. 65:3, 4) How can Spiritual blessings be expected of God when the reverence and service are rendered to men and to human institutions?

Under (b) others who are not thus deluded by human institutions, but who recognize the true God and know of their responsibilities toward Him, are lean of soul because they have not sufficient love and reverence for the Lord whom they do know. They serve Him much more meanly and sacrifice to Him more niggardly than do the devotees at the shrines of humanisms. Knowing the true God they have larger responsibilities and should be the more careful to present to Him the best offerings possible of their time, influence, means, talents. If they give to the Lord the fag ends of time, but the offals of influence, but a dribble of their talents; such sacrifices cannot be acceptable in His sight, nor could any reasonable person expect them to be so. (Z. '99-268; R.2541)

3:9 — YE ARE CURSED . . . THIS WHOLE NATION — Their poverty and leanness of soul is but a recompense for their course. (Z. '99-268; R.2541)

3:10 — When the Lord reproveth it is not to discourage his people, but for their reformation. When he chides it is not to dishearten but to stimulate and revive. And as here with natural Israel he exhorted to reformation and thus to prove his love and bounty and willingness to bless them so we may apply a similar exhortation to a similar class in Spiritual Israel. We exhort all Spiritual Israelites to thus prove the Lord, to awaken to a fresh realization of his goodness and bounty and of their own obligation to spend and be spent in his service according to their Covenant of self-sacrifice, walking in the footsteps of Jesus. To such it will mean a revival of Spiritual energy, health, vigor, joy. Looking unto Jesus their eyes will see him the more clearly, and see also the heavenly crown in reservation for them, and all the exceeding great and precious things which God hath in reservation for them that love Him and whose love is manifested to be of the genuine kind, which loves to sacrifice to Him and to His cause the very best of all they possess.

TITHES — With the Jews two tithes were obligatory. One-tenth of all their increase of flocks, herds, grain, etc., went for taxes, for the support of their government and was rendered to their governor. The other one-tenth of their increase was a tax for religious purposes and was rendered to the priests. The tithing obligation was commanded to fleshly Israel. But over the house of Sons the Lord has put no restrictions; because whoever has the Spirit of the Lord the mind of Christ, has a mind not merely to give one-tenth of all his possessions and income to the Lord, but to consecrate it all—without the reservation of a single item, mind, body, influence, talents, time, and means. (Z. '99-268; R.2541) We as Spiritual Israelites have vowed unto the Lord the first fruits, the very best, the very chiefest, the most valuable of all that we have and are, of time, influence, talents, money, all.

To what extent are we rendering unto the Lord our offerings and sacrifices in harmony with our Covenant? Is it not true respecting many spiritual Israelites that instead of bringing the best they have to the Lord and his service they bring him merely the tail ends, the imperfect things, offerings with which he is not well pleased? This is so of all who use the best they have in self-gratification, in providing chiefly and best for their own gratification, natural conditions and appetites, honors, dignities, leaving for the Lord the remnants, the fag ends of time, influence, reputation money. They fail to grasp the thought that they have given their all to the Lord, and that what they have, therefore, is his and they are merely the stewards, pledged to him to use time, money, influence, all that he has committed to our care, as his and for his glory to the best of their knowledge and ability. (Z.05-380; R.3685)

The argument the Lord used to natural Israel was that if they properly loved and respected him as their God, they would feel that they had nothing too good to offer him and his service, and that it was a privilege on their part to be permitted to lay their little all at his feet, the very best they had or could present. How much more true is this in respect to spiritual Israelites, whose eyes of understanding have to some extent been opened, who are enabled to see the Lord from the new standpoint, to realize what great things he has done for us, and what wonderful things he has proposed to give us if we show ourselves worthy of them by faithfulness to our covenant obligations. The Lord requires these not because he is needy, for all the gold and silver and cattle on a thousand hills are his, but that he seeks in us evidences of our sincerity, and our faithfulness to our Covenant engagement when we pledged all we possessed, yea life itself to be all subjected to and laid at the feet of our Redeemer and Master, that we might at any cost be permitted to render such services as he would accept, realizing that all would be a reasonable service and far too small an offering to be worthy of our King and Creator. (Z. '05-380; R.3685)

If any feel themselves poor, spiritually lean, not enjoying such fellowship with the Lord as they would desire—to all such the Lord says the fault is “You have neglected your covenant. Here are my words, prove me, fulfil the terms of your covenant and see if I will not be faithful and do for you exceedingly abundantly more than you could have reasonably asked or thought.” Let us see to what extent there are other things in our lives that we might render unto the Lord and which he will accept through the merit of Christ. Let us see if the days and hours as they pass are spent in a consecrated manner; let us note to what extent the moments and days are spent in some selfish manner, or wasted upon others beyond the reasonable requirement of duty as marked out in the divine Word. Let us see to what extent we perform our vows unto the Lord; let us take note of what of time or money or influence we are using in the divine service and what ratio this bears to the whole. (Z. '05-380; R.3685)

3:13 — Nominal Christendom is represented as restive out of harmony with the divine arrangement. The inquiry is—“What is the use? How will it profit us? What advantage will we have?” This view is from the purely selfish standpoint which bears the divine requirements as so much of penal servitude—not having the heart interest in the Lord, His Truth and His service.

STOUT — In direct opposition to his Word.

In the past it has walked mournfully, i.e. with an outward show of reverence, contrition, observing Lenten seasons, etc.; it brought lame, sick and blind gifts and sacrifices to the Lord’s altar, as duty, but not being prompted by the Spirit of Love. The sacrifices were meagre and inferior to those offered to themselves and to their families. The lesson represents that this condition, having continued for quite a while, toward the end of the age is measurably dropped—and this we see about us today. Many who once made a more or less hypocritical confession of sins and penitence and of an outward careful walk, are inclined to say—“What is the use? What is the profit? We might just as well have a good time.” (2 Tim. 3:4, 5) (Z. '99-270; R.2542)

3:15 — So many professors of today are inclined to look at the general world conditions and say to themselves—“Are not the proud happiest? Are not the workers of iniquity the most firmly established in the world? Do not even some outwardly profane opposers of the Truth get along well?” As a result we see a decrease of reverence and skepticism as respects there being any advantage to be gained by a godly life; doubts about any future rewards, or at least that they would compensate for any self denials in the present time. (Z. '99-270; R.2542)

3:16 — THEY THAT FEARED THE LORD — The prophet then points to the few, the “Little Flock,” exceptions to the nominal whole, who are taking the proper view of matters. The general attitude of the nominal system in rejecting the way of holiness and consecration will only tend to draw nearer to the Lord and to each other those who at heart love and reverence the Lord. So long as the nominal mass professedly walked in the same way of outward observance of Divine ordinances and with an outward manifestation of reverence, contrition and devotion, those having the spirit of the Lord that thinketh no evil felt a fellowship and companionship in the nominal church; but in the harvest under Divine providence circumstances tend to make manifest the true from the false and to separate them. Those who have not the matter at heart as they more and more neglect the outward forms will naturally hate the others, who having the matter at heart are as faithful as ever—because their faithfulness is a standing rebuke and evidence of the unfaithfulness of the other. And the faithful few as they realize that all were not Israel who were of Israel, will be drawn nearer to each other as they realize that after all the number of the faithful is extremely small. (Z. '99-270; R.2542)

SPAKE OFTEN ONE TO ANOTHER — This leads them to speak often one to another. Each finds his own need of help, counsel and encouragement and realizes that the others need the same, and this draws them together. The further the Nominal Church gets away from the Lord and the truth and even from outward signs of reverence, the great blessing it proves to this class because it separates them from fellowships which all along have been unfavorable, hindrances to their spiritual development. (Z. '99-270; R.2542)

THE LORD HEARKENED, AND HEARD IT — Thus He would represent to us His interest in our efforts to understand His plan, and to offer Him in loving sacrifice the best of everything that by His grace we possess. O that we could realize always as we meet (personally or through the printed page) our Heavenly Father's interest in us and his willingness to bless our efforts in the study of His Word and in the development of character. Such a realization would probably make all such meetings increasingly profitable. (Z. '99-270; R.2542)

AND A BOOK OF REMEMBRANCE — The Lord takes full knowledge of his true people. This class not only reverence Him but they “think upon His name,” His character, goodness, His infinity, His plan, His love; thinking upon these things they come to know Him more and more intimately and to realize His grand perfection, and thus more in His company and well acquainted with His character they become more like Him. (Z. '99-271; R.2543)

3:17 — AND THEY SHALL BE MINE — The Lord encourages these with the assurance that their love and devotion shall have its reward in the future, that a grand change is coming, and then every sigh, every tear, every sacrifice for righteousness sake and for love of the Lord, His cause, and His brethren shall be fully rewarded in the manner beyond our comprehension

now. They serve not for selfish reasons but from devotions, fidelity, love, and they shall find that these light afflictions of the present, which are but for a moment, will work out for them a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory. (2 Cor. 4:17, 18) (Z. '99-271; R.2543)

IN THAT DAY — The present harvest time. “Gathering his Elect.” (Matt. 13) (Z. '99-271; R.2543)

JEWELS — Two figures are used here to express the value God places on our earnest efforts—God’s jewels, and God’s faithful sons. These two suggest a full explanation of present experiences. The proper Father will “correct, instruct and discipline his Son, though he may pass by the greater faults and blemishes of others not his children. Then as respects Jewels we all know the necessity of cutting, trimming, polishing them to develop their real qualities. Thus we see ourselves in the school of discipline of our Father and in preparation to be his heirs, joint-heirs with Christ; we see the necessity for trials, perplexities of the present time that we may be polished and prepared for the glory time to come. (Z. '99-271; R.2543)

SPARETH HIS OWN SON — They will be spared from passing through the great time of trouble.

3:18 — THEN SHALL YE RETURN — Then there shall be a turning point (return) a change in the divine administration, though not in the divine plan. It contemplated and arranged for the great return (Psa. 90:3) of the rule of righteousness now about to take place, which will transfer the dominion of earth from Satan and the Kingdoms of this world to the Christ and his Church in glory and power. Then he that doeth righteousness shall be blessed and he that doeth evil shall be punished. No more deception possible. (Isa. 32:5, 6; Zech. 13:4)

DISCERN . . . BETWEEN HIM THAT SERVETH GOD AND HIM THAT SERVETH HIM NOT — The day that brings the glorification to the faithful “Jewel” class brings a different experience to the “tare” class. To them it will be a hot time of fiery trouble that will completely consume their hypocrisies and pretended devotions to the Lord; which were merely in form without the heart and without power, unacceptable to Him. In that time the pride, the ambition, world-love, and spirit of selfishness will meet a retribution, that will be terrible in the extreme, such as the world has never known. The Lord’s fierce anger will burn against their hypocrisies and shams, and will utterly consume these, but not consume the individuals. They will cease to be tares but not cease to be human beings; they will cease to profess consecration when at heart they are not in sympathy with the Lord or His Spirit. This fire of the Lord’s anger against hypocrisy and every evil thing will continue to burn throughout the Millennial age even down to the end in the final testing. (Rev. 20:9) Thus evil will eventually be destroyed root and branch. (Z. '99-271; R.2543)

See also Z. '10-355, 356; R.4708, 4709.

- 4:1 — LEAVE THEM NEITHER ROOT NOR BRANCH — For further development.
- 4:2 — Then the righteous shall rejoice in their liberty, and realize that the restraints of the present time have been blessings in disguise, for thereby they have been made spiritually fat—"stall fed" during the winter of the prevalence of sin, they shall go forth to liberty in the springtime of the Millennial age. (Z. '99-252; R.2544)
- 4:5 — The faithful in fleshly Israel were not to expect the gathering of the Jewel class immediately but would know that before that time the Lord would send the great anti-typical Elijah. (Z. '99-272; R.2544)
- 4:6 — The establishment in the earth of a spirit of reciprocal love. And further the turning of the minds of the ages so they would become as little children, humble, teachable, and had they become thus childlike they would have been ready to turn their hearts to the teachings and example of the early Father—Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and all the holy prophets and they would have been made ready divine favor and blessing and spared from the foretold curse or trouble. John the Baptist fulfilled this prediction as far as fleshly Israel is concerned, endeavoring to turn their hearts so they would be ready to receive Jesus in the flesh. But he failed to turn them to repentance and they crucified the Lord, and hence the foretold curse came upon them. But the prophecy relates still more to spiritual Israel and the antitypical Elijah sent to spiritual Israel than to natural Israel. (Z. '99-272; R.2544) See notes on Luke 3.

MATTHEW

1:11 — JOSIAS BEGAT JECHONIAS — There were just fourteen generations from Enoch to Abraham. (Luke 3) Thus making four periods of 14 generations each from Enoch to Christ. It was seven generations from Adam to Enoch.

Some read “Josias begat Jakim and Jakim begat Jechonias” (margin). So Adam Clark. There are several reasons for this: 1) Josias was not the father of Jechonias, but his grandfather, Gen. 3:14-16; 2) Jechonias had no brethren, at least none of record; 3) Josias died twenty years before the first Babylonian captivity and Jechonias and his brethren could not have been begotten about that time because they were carried away to Babylon. This makes only thirteen in this list. All these disappear with the above correction. Calmet makes this verse—Josias begat Joakim and his brethren and Joakim begat Jechonias at about the time of the Babylonian captivity. See note on Dan. 1.

1:16 — JOSEPH THE HUSBAND OF MARY — This is the genealogy of Joseph and Luke’s that of Mary. The silence of the enemies of the Gospel, both Gentile and Jewish, during even the first century is sufficient proof that both these are correct, neither inconsistency or corruption could be charged against them. (Adam Clark)

1:25 — FIRSTBORN SON — Jesus’ brethren—Matt. 13; Mark 6:3; Mark 15:40; Matt. 12:46; John 2:12; 7:3,5; Acts 1:14; 1 Cor. 9:5; Gal. 1:19. By Mark 15:40 probably not the Lord’s own brethren, but his cousins.

2:23 — A NAZARENE — See note in Diag., also in Isa. 11:1 Jesus is called a “Nasar” or Branch. See Jer. 23:5; 33:15; Zech. 3:8; 6:12; Acts 24:5.

3:1 — JOHN THE BAPTIST — John’s mission was to prepare for Messiah to arouse the people to that and thought on the subject, to renounce their sins against the Law and reform. He appealed to the sinner class, who, though baptized into Moses, as was the whole nation, in the sea and cloud; children of the promises and related to God through the Law Covenant, had been living carelessly. Numbers were influenced by his preaching.

3:2 — REPENT YE — John’s mission was to arouse the people of Israel to the fact that Messiah had come, that the time of the inauguration of the long-promised kingdom had come, and that if they as a people desired to share in it, in harmony with their long cherished hopes, they should at once begin preparation. Not as a whole would the favored nation be accepted but as individuals. All therefore should make a searching of their hearts and if they found evil therein, if they have been living in known violation of the Law, they should repent and turn from their sin and should symbolize their reformation in the presence of witnesses by a baptism which symbolically represented this putting away of sin. (Z. '10-7; R.4543)

3:5 — HIS MEAT WAS LOCUST AND WILD HONEY — God chose a strong rugged character to bear this message. His experiences in the wilderness specially qualified him. His peculiar raiment and food enabled him to be independent of all religious sects and parties among the Jews and gave him freedom of speech, which he might not otherwise have had. Besides, these peculiarities made his message all the more striking to the minds of the people. (Z. '10-7; R.4543)

3:7 — WHO WARNED YOU TO FLEE FROM THE WRATH TO COME — John challenged these, and declared that their repentance would not be considered genuine without certain proofs, and they might rid themselves of the delusion that they would inherit a share in the kingdom merely because they were the natural children of Abraham, for God was able to fulfill his promise to Abraham along other lines. (Z. '10-8; R.4543)

3:10 — THE AXE IS LAID UNTO THE ROOT — This testing time was an individual matter. (Z. '10-8; R.4543)

3:11 — I AM NOT WORTHY TO BEAR — The honor and dignity of Messiah were so great that in comparison John was not worthy to be his most menial servant.

BAPTIZE YOU WITH THE HOLY SPIRIT AND WITH FIRE — Messiah's baptism would be of two parts.

3:12 — PURGE HIS FLOOR — The entire mass, or nation would be tossed about by the great Winnower in order that every grain of wheat might be found and separated from the chaff.

THE GARNER — Gathered to a new state or condition at Pentecost. Garner = kingdom class.

UNQUENCHABLE FIRE — The chaff of the nation was cast into a fire of trouble, insurrection and anarchy which consumed them as a people, as a nation. A.D. 70. That fire was unquenchable in the sense that it was the divine intention that the nation should be consumed, and it was not in the power of the ablest of statesmen and rulers to prevent this, to quench the fire. It burned itself out as stated. “Wrath is come upon this people to the utmost.” (1 Thess. 2:16; Luke 21:23)

3:14 — I HAVE NEED TO BE BAPTIZED BY THEE — This shows that Jesus, though baptized by John was not baptized with John’s baptism, which was unto repentance and for the remission of sins against Mosaic Law. Jesus was holy, harmless, separate from sinners, hence had no sin. But it was proper that Jesus should set us an example who should follow in his steps.

3:15 — SUFFER IT TO BE SO NOW — His words to John show that Jesus’ baptism was the beginning of an entirely new institution. He could not then make John or others understand spiritual things, for the Holy Spirit was not yet given. His water baptism was a picture of his real baptism into death. (Matt. 20:22, 23; Luke 12:50; Rom. 6:3-5) He consecrated his life unto death, even by the cross. His outward baptism symbolized his full consecration of his will and all earthly rights and human nature even unto death, burial; and his coming up out of the water pictured his resurrection as a New Creature. This real death, baptism, was finished on the cross.

4:1 — TO BE TEMPTED — Matthew speaks here as if the Lord was tempted at the end of the forty days, while Mark (1:12,13) and Luke (4:1-13) speak as if he was tempted the whole period. Both correct. During the forty days he was tested, tried as respects his own mind, his own disposition to do the Father’s will, while these three tests at end of forty days were special conflicts with Satan himself. (Z. ’06-39; R.3716)

OF THE DEVIL — “Diabolus,” always used in the singular in the Greek means Satan. Word for devils in plural = devils.

4:2 — FASTED FORTY DAYS AND NIGHTS — Probably spent in meditation and prayer. Having received the begetting of the Holy Spirit, he now stood at the threshold of his great work and realizing its importance and that it was now due time for him to understand God’s plan (the heavens were opened) which he was to execute, that he might do it thoroughly and in full accord with divine will, he sought the wilderness, that in solitude he might know the proper course for him to follow, in announcing himself as Messiah to Israel and the world. He had no Bible or concordance, but had a perfect memory and eighteen years of hearing the Law read in the Synagogue. We may safely say he knew God’s Word by heart. He had exercised his own thought and asked of the most learned their views.

HE WAS AFTERWARD AN HUNGERED — Our Lord’s attention was it seems, so fully occupied in his meditations that he thought of nothing else. Probably he neither ate nor slept, for the record is that afterward he hungered. It absorbed all his vitality and energy for the time. (Luke 4:2)

(Z.'06-39; R.3716)

4:3 — THE TEMPTER CAME — It is Satan's usual course to come to us in our weakest moments. When our Lord was exhausted in mind and body and his perfect but overtaxed powers needed refreshment, that was the moment of Satan's assault. He was tempted in all points like as we are. (Heb. 4:15)

CAME TO HIM — Whether Satan appeared personally or not is not stated. If he did, he came probably as an angel of light to deceive, not in any vulgar form, for that would have disarmed the temptation. Heb. 4:15 might indicate that Satan did not appear personally. See Luke 4.

STONES BE MADE BREAD — The lust of the flesh.

4:5 — THE HOLY CITY — New Jerusalem.

TEMPLE — The church.

4:6 — CAST THYSELF DOWN — Below was the Valley of Gehenna represents second death.

THY FOOT AGAINST A STONE — The pride of life.

4:7 — THOU SHALT NOT TEMPT THE LORD THY GOD — So we are tempted to presume on the goodness of God and by words or acts place ourselves in such positions as would test or tempt God in respect to his providential care over us. Taking chances financially, going into debts which we see no clear chance of paying. Not showing ourselves as a favored child of God and our greatness in Him. (Isa. 30:15) (Z.'04-9; R.3298) Satan tempts us to show scoffers that we know a lot about the Bible and tell them deep things which only will make them scoff the more. Cast pearls before swine. Not possibly understand. Seeketh a sign; work the works of God, not of Satan. (Matt. 11:5, 6; John 9:4) Reading worldly matter, delving into earthly pleasures, going outside God's commands. Works of Evangelists to draw attention to selves as some great one. Jesus' voice not heard in streets.

4:8 — SHOWETH HIM ALL THE KINGDOMS — The lust of the eye. Jesus, like Eve and like us, was tempted along these three channels and he was victorious and got the satisfaction and great reward mentioned in Psa. 19:11; Isa. 53:11; 1 John 2:16; Gen. 3:6.

4:9 — FALL DOWN AND WORSHIP ME — Complete consecration absolutely necessary. Fortitude. Serve Satan? Compromise the Truth? Cooperate with him for sake of easier way to get life? (Z.'06-44; R.3719)

This temptation offered to the Church after Apostles fell asleep, and was accepted, and Church became a harlot. She got the world but lost her spiritual life. Satan himself worked along these lines in his fall. "If another shall come in his own name him ye will receive." (John 5:43) See (Z. '04-7-10; R.3296-3300; '06-39-44; R.3715-3720; '10-9,10; R.4544, 4545)

5:1 — HE WENT UP INTO A MOUNTAIN — This sermon given primarily to the disciples, the multitude watching with interest for any item that would specially enlighten them. It must have seemed strange to them that our Lord did not talk more about the kingdom and how it was to be established, but he knew that he must first suffer and that the first work of the kingdom would be the gathering of a Little Flock. He so directed his talk that it would divide his hearers into two classes—some would be disappointed because they were more interested in the glories and honors of the kingdom; others though disappointed found something in it which satisfied their longings as nothing else could do. (Z. '06-7; R.3733)

5:2-12 — Not a chronological sequence, that one trait can begin only after the previous one has been perfected, but a logical sequence. Each beatitude springs from the preceding one, all together making an ornament of grace upon the neck, a chain of jewels.

Blessedness not pleasant circumstances, nor worldly good fortune. Jesus did not set up happiness as a goal to strive for consciously, but as an inner spiritual consequence of possessing those qualities which fit one for companionship with God, fellowship with Him. They center not on happiness, not on pleasure, not on indulging the natural self, either in passion, or fleshly impulse, or intellectual pursuits, but on becoming the kind of self which will be at home with God. The essential elements of character that will make men fit to be companions of God. Not grand ideas, nor formal rectitude nor a knowledge of the language of Zion. This is outlined in eight short sentences.

POOR IS SPIRIT — A sense of utter dependence on God.

MOURN — Mourners in Zion because of their own imperfections, failures, sins and slowness to do or to understand; and because of the enslaving, encumbering power of sin all around them. A painful sense of the above, as cause of failure and helplessness of men before God.

COMFORTED — Given perfect bodies that never fail, and the privilege of helping all men to reach perfection as sons of God. (Rom. 8:19-21)

HUNGER FOR RIGHTEOUSNESS — A passionate desire that holds one in its grip, pervades our being, not permitting him to forget, commanding his efforts to attain. (MacClaren) blessed are the men and women who long to be good, and to do good perfectly, more than for anything else. Emphasis is on the hunger and thirst. Indifference has no place in God's Kingdom.

FILLED — be given, endowed, be with his own righteousness, attained by an increasing goodness until perfection is reached. (Psa. 90:12; Rev. 3:5,4; 19:8)

MERCY — A certain habitual way of looking at men and feeling toward them, allowing for their imperfections and our own imperfect understanding; especially to those in suffering and need and even to men who have proved to have qualities bad and blameworthy (MacClaren)—a gladness to allow for mistakes and to help in any way man to get on their feet again, and start anew.

PURE IN HEART — Wholly devoted to doing the will of God. These keep their inner houses swept every day, always ready for His presence. Purity is cleanliness and clearness, absence of everything that pollutes or muddles; single, not divided; simple, not compounded with anything else. It takes us deep into the inner recesses, caves, depths, of thoughts, motives and hopes. Those who love the things that God loves. Transparent characters. (Phil. 1:9, 10—Weymouth)

SEE GOD — Because they are like God in all their affections, they will be granted the privilege of being very close to Him, and see the King in his beauty. Dwell in His presence. (Mal. 3:17; Isa. 33:17) Understand Him.

PEACEMAKERS — Messengers of God's spirit and influence. His atmosphere strives to help others to live in and seek for peace and to promote mutual understanding—not peace at any price, but on the true base of truth and justice and fairness.

CALLED CHILDREN — Recognized as having his spirit.

POOR IN SPIRIT — So empty of conscious merit, so conscious of sin and imperfection that we have no argument, no plea except prayer for mercy—theirs the Kingdom, they can be trusted with it, have no great ambitions for self, will bless others properly, without stealing.

MEEK — Greeks used it about wild animals that had been tamed, about wild horses that had been made able to work with man. Nothing weak or spiritless here, but rather the description of energy which instead of exploding is now controlled and directed. The meek or tamed are not people who were born empty and have no inner source to master, no vitality to be taught control. The trained are those whose powerful impulses have been put into understanding service. They have learned the happiness of being directed, guided by God's Holy Spirit.

5:3 — BLESSED ARE THE POOR IN SPIRIT — Surely the world thinks little of those who do not think much of themselves. Surely they will make less progress in the world. Ah, yes. But, says the Master their blessedness consists in that they are of the Kingdom — of those from whom the kingdom class will be selected. Self-confidence, self-esteem may win for its possessor a high and honorable place in the present time, but is disesteemed of the Lord, and those who have such a spirit, will be the less prepared in the tests and conditions which the Lord will impose in selecting heirs of the Kingdom. There is a blessedness associated with being little in ones own estimation. It preserves them from many a false step into which egotism would lead. All who are seeking to follow Jesus' instructions, who naturally are poor in spirit, humble-minded, deficient in self-esteem, have much advantage every way over others as respects this element of character. Those not naturally humble should humble themselves under the mighty hand of God, that they may be exalted in due time.

5:4 — THAT MOURN — The general thought is that those who mourn are to be specially commiserated. But sin is in the world and death the wages of sin is being paid out to the entire human family, carrying into every home more or less of disappointment, sorrow or trouble. The world is sick and dying, with its 20,000,000,000 dead and 1,600,000,000 dying in sorrow, pain and disappointment, who but a foolish person could be merry in the shadow of such a charnel-house. On the contrary, those who mourn because of a realization of their imperfections, their own fallen condition, and who to any extent mourn in sympathy with the poor groaning creation have more advantages because of their saner conditions of mind; they are in that much more favorable condition to hear the voice of him that speaketh from heaven. So to these He will be pleased to make known something of the riches of his grace.

COMFORTED — strengthen together or added strength. The Lord does not propose to take away from us that noble quality of sympathy, but he does propose to give all his followers a blessing of strength to endure. He gives this through his Word. (2 Cor. 1:4; Psa. 119:75-77, 49, 50, 54, 92) Blessed are those who being comforted themselves shall be used of the Lord to bring comfort to earth and to others of his body now. (Z. '06-72; R.3734)

5:5 — INHERIT THE EARTH — When shall they inherit the earth? When God's kingdom shall come and his will be done on earth as it is done in heaven. So if we perceive that the rude and unjust and self-assertive are grasping the bounties of earth in the present time, and if we find ourselves rather crowded out because of meekness, let us remember our Lord's words that we are specially blessed, and let us cultivate this spirit of meekness more and more and not think to exchange it for a spirit of arrogance, self-assertion, to grasp earthly fame and honors and riches. Let us be content and wait for the time when this class shall inherit the earth.

5:6 — RIGHTEOUSNESS — Right in every matter, truth. God is the great standard of righteousness, and he communicates it through his Word, his exceeding great and precious promises communicated through Jesus and his apostles. The majority of the world, careful for the meat which perisheth, think little of the truth and get little of it. The few hungering and thirsting for it are filled, refreshed, sanctified by it and in word, deed, and thought are being prepared and fitted for still further blessing in God's due time to share with Jesus the work of blessing all families of earth. (Z.'06-73; R.3735)

SHALL BE FILLED — Nothing here implies a miraculous satisfying. The thought is that hungering and thirsting they will make use of their opportunities, time and knowledge in seeking the bread of eternal life, which satisfies, and the water of life which truly refreshes, and that in proportion as these are sought and found and used will be the blessing. We have the Lord's guarantee for the blessing of all who would seek and use the spiritual refreshment he provides.

5:7 — THE MERCIFUL — Mercy is akin to love and in proportion as the fall has effaced love from any heart, in that proportion mercy will be lacking. Of course we cannot always judge from the outward appearance, as there are forms and expressions of love without the heart. So sometimes mercy is extended without the real spirit of mercy prompting it. (1 Cor. 13:3) Mercy rejoices against the execution of justice. (James 2:13) Those who grow most in the Lord's Spirit grow proportionately merciful and compassionate. The thought should be continually before the minds of all that it is very unbecoming for those who themselves have need of divine mercy to be sticklers to the last degree in their requirements of justice for others, in their refusal to exercise much toward others. Our Lord emphasized this in Matt. 18:35. He teaches us that our mercy must be more than formal, more than outward forgiveness and reconciliation. It must be from the heart, sincere. In proportion as we realize our need of divine mercy through Jesus so let us be merciful to others especially to the brethren, and all who love righteousness.

5:8 — PURE IN HEART — Pure means without adulteration, sincere. No human being is thus by nature. (Jer. 17:9) As originally created man was in God's image, pure in heart, sincere, honest, truthful. But by disobedience sin and selfishness have developed in the heart and the original image considerably lost. Hence those who become the Lord's people are said to have a new mind, new heart, new will. It requires a powerful influence to cause such a change. Fear may have to do with the beginning of the change of heart, but it cannot produce the lasting, perfect, acceptable conditions.

(John 14:18) Hence the Scriptures set before us the conversion of heart resulting from a knowledge of God and love for him. (Mark 12:30) But purity of heart does not mean absolute perfection in thought, word and deed. To will right, perfectly, to be pure in heart is quite possible, yea, necessary to all who would have the divine approval; yet how to perform that will is sometimes beyond the ability of the Lord's most earnest followers. (Rom. 7:18) The new will, new heart must act and speak through the medium of the old body whose affections are continually in opposition and must be battled against. Hence so long as we are in the flesh, so long as we have to reason, speak and act through the medium of the fallen flesh, that long will we need the merit of Christ to cover its blemishes, (Our Advocate see 1 John 2:1; 3:6-9) that thus the new heart, new will and not the flesh is to be judged by Him and tested as to its worthiness of eternal life. How blessed the thought that such shall see God, that such have the clearest views of God's character and plan now, and shall see Him shortly when changed in the resurrection when awakened in the likeness of our Redeemer.

5:9 — PEACEMAKERS — Those who have the organ of combativeness large should seek to control it by love, so that they combat only evil things, so they will think generously, kindly of all who take a different view of matters; while standing always firm for principle, they should see the fact that principles enter into remarkably for their contentions. As the Lord's people come to realize more and more the selfishness and quarrelsomeness which the whole world has inherited through sin and depravity and how all this is opposed to the spirit of the Lord and of meekness, gentleness, patience, longsuffering, they should not only strive to develop peace in their own hearts and lives, but to be peacemakers among men. Truly the peace-lovers, peace promoters manifest in this particular that they have the Holy Spirit, the Spirit of God. Each of the Lord's followers should be learning day by day to cultivate the peace of the spirit; and prominent among these are patience, longsuffering, brotherly kindness, love. Abounding in these we shall be more pleasing to the Lord and more able to assist others in this direction.

5:10 — PERSECUTED FOR RIGHTEOUSNESS SAKE — Not all the persecutions for righteousness sake, many bring upon themselves persecutions for foolishness' sake, and for being busybodies in other men's matters. Let us heed the apostles words along this line. (1 Pet. 4:16) Also we should preserve in the matter, as in all other things the spirit of a sound mind. There are some who evidently imagine themselves persecuted when really they are very kindly treated, and are the victims of their own morbid imaginations. The Lord's people should be so filled with the spirit of thankfulness, gratitude, appreciation, so generous in their thoughts of the motives and intentions of their friends and neighbors, that they would be in no danger of misunderstanding them and feeling persecuted by those who really are their well wishers. As perfect love casts out fear, so it also casts out these false impressions of evil doing or intention toward us. The heart full of love for others will rather prefer to suppose that slights are unintentional oversights, or to put some similarly good construction upon the conduct of friends. Then it should think generously of the persecutor, realizing his share in the fall and be disposed to pray for those who despitefully use us and persecute us. Blessed are such as thus hold to the spirit of love for their enemies and persecutors, and who may therefore be sure that they are being persecuted for righteousness sake, and not for personal peculiarities. The Lord is looking for those who are so faithful to the principles of righteousness that they will exercise it toward their enemies, even when being persecuted by them on its account.

5:11 — REVILE YOU, AND PERSECUTE YOU — The Lord's people are not to revile each other or anybody under any circumstances but are to remember that they are pupils of him who when he was reviled, reviled not again. Whatever evil others may insinuate about us, we must be faithful to our teacher and not return evil for evil, reviling for reviling, or insinuation for insinuation; but speak evil of no man, and be pleased to notice any good points or qualities and mention them which even our enemies may possess. Our Lord's words warrant us, however, in expecting that those who will be faithful to him, will share his experiences of being evil spoken of. Hence we should not be surprised at false charges and false insinuations made against his true followers, and that in proportion to their prominence as his servants. His followers, like himself, honorable, moderate, having the spirit of a sound mind, honest, truthful, virtuous, would naturally be highly esteemed among the professed Christians, were it not for their faithfulness to the Lord and his Word, and to principles contradictory of popular errors; those prominent in churchianity. This condition makes a double test. It tests the adherents of churchianity along the golden rule, condemning those who speak evil of others when they well knew they would not wish any to speak evil of them. It tests also his followers as to their willingness to endure such persecution cheerfully for his sake, as part of the sufferings with him. If under pressure they yield and slander and backbite they are proving themselves unfit for the Kingdom. These have the greater reward in heaven. (Z. '06-75; R.3736)

5:13 — YE ARE THE SALT OF THE EARTH — As salt is useful in arresting decomposition, so the influence of these, though they be few in the world, is preservative. A good influence extended from the Law Covenant God made with Israel. As the Jews were scattered among the nations they carried with them more or less clear conceptions of the divine standards as represented in the Law, and these had a preservative and corrective influence among men, wherever they went. At the time of our Lord's first advent the world was in a condition in which it would have hastened to degeneracy and corruption, but the introduction of the body of Christ and the good influence extending from every member of that body, were potent for the arrest of the demoralizing tendency of the times. The light which shone out from Jesus, the light of the world, and from his followers had undoubtedly a beneficial effect upon the then center of the civilized world. That influence is still manifest in so-called Christendom. And even today when the truly consecrated believers in Jesus are very few, yet the general influence, the saltiness of Christ's teachings, is widespread throughout Christendom. Without this doubtless corruption and a complete collapse would have come long ago. In spite of it we see corrupting influences at work in every direction. Before very long we expect that all of the overcoming class, Christ's body members, will be changed, glorified, and the body completed on the other side of the veil, will be without members on this side. The lights will have gone and the darkness will hold fuller sway than ever. The salt will be gone and corruption will take hold swiftly and the result will be the great time of trouble. Meanwhile we are to let our light shine and thus glorify the Father, exercising our influence for righteousness and truth whether men hear or whether they forbear. (Z. '06-75; R.3736)

5:15 — HOUSE — Household of Faith. In this we are to let our light shine so as to light those there.

5:16 — THEY MAY SEE YOUR GOOD WORKS — We are not enjoined to make a great show of carrying our Bibles everywhere in an ostentatious manner, but to show forth in our daily lives the lessons we learn from its precious pages. (Z. '10-282; R.4675)

5:17 — DESTROY THE LAW . . . BUT TO FULFILL — The Jews had gradually lost sight of the Divine Law and had filled their minds with certain traditions which were more or less contrary to the Law. Jesus ignoring the Rabbis, might have been thought by some to be setting aside the Law, because the Pharisees and Scribes claimed to keep the Law perfectly, and the people regarded them as very religious and holy. But Jesus assured them that he, to the contrary, was merely setting aside human traditions and seeking to establish the Law and make it more manifest and more honorable. (Isa. 42:21; Rom. 3:31; 7:12)

5:18 — TILL HEAVEN AND EARTH PASS — Possibly implying that when heaven and earth (present evil world) do pass away at the beginning of the Millennium, then the Law will all be fulfilled in every feature and will pass away then. It is still binding on the Jew and so has not yet all passed away.

ONE JOT — The smallest letter in the Greek alphabet = one of the least of these commandments.

OR ONE TITTLE — Diag. = "Tip of a letter" showing that all must be fulfilled.

TILL ALL BE FULFILLED — Note that Jesus did not say that the Law shall not pass away, but that it should not pass away till it was fulfilled. Circumcision was not destroyed, but passed away when that to which it pointed—circumcision of the heart—was set forth and it is this higher circumcision is what we must observe. Jesus' perfect life fulfilled every requirement of the Law, as we imperfect creatures could not and so he became the inheritor of all the promises of God in the Law and the right to distribute what he inherited under the Law to all who would become his. The Law led to Christ and pointed him out as the one of whom Moses spake "Hear ye him." (Acts 7:37; Gal. 3:24, 25) Therefore to consider the Law binding upon the Christian is to doubt whether Christ has accomplished what he came for—"to fulfill the Law." (Rom. 10:4)

5:20 — SCRIBES AND PHARISEES — A hypocritical, self-righteousness. (Matt. 9:12,13)

5:21 — THOU SHALT NOT KILL — This was the plain Law itself. The next sentence was the application which the Jews made from it.

IN DANGER OF THE JUDGMENT — In danger of trial and punishment by the appointed Judges. The Jews had a common court of seven or twenty-three men which had power to sentence criminals to death by beheading or strangling. This was called the "Judgment" or Court of Judges. The Sanhedrin or High Council consisted of 70 men, being the Court of the Jews, before which the highest crimes were tried. This court alone had power to punish with death by stoning, thought to be a more terrible death than the former. (Diag.)

5:22 — WITHOUT A CAUSE — Jesus taught a still more rigid application, namely that anger against a brother (in the heart, unexpressed) (without a cause) would mean a murderous heart condition which would be reprehensible in God's sight even though the murder might never be actually committed. Anger without cause—this is the small beginning of a murderous heart condition, and is the nursing of bitterness and malice in the thoughts (as did Cain), leading from bad to worse, if not checked, in danger of doing some crime against your brother and so be brought before the Judges.

RACA — Jesus condemns unkind remarks here. Raca means blockhead. Here is the next step in the development of the poison—unkind remarks, something intended to hurt the brother or his name. Unless we watch ourselves we may not see that we say these words in order to hurt a brother, retaliate. Let us look behind our words, behind even our thoughts, to the very motives of our hearts, and if the thought is wrong, kill it, thrust it out.

IN DANGER — Greater than the first step, of doing a crime worthy of stoning.

THOU FOOL — A “moral degenerate.” Here bitter hatred is put into words.

DANGER OF HELL FIRE — In still greater danger, because the heart is still more poisoned, and in danger of outright murder if such opportunity offered, and of being cast as a malicious evil doer into the valley of Hinnom or Gehenna. Hell Fire = literally Gehenna fire, referring to fires kept burning in the Valley of Hinnom (Gehenna) for the destruction of offal and prevention of contagion. The carcasses of malicious evil doers might be thrown here for destruction. It thus symbolized the Second Death. (Z. '10-57; R.4559)

5:24 — OFFER THY GIFT — It would be useless for one to approach God's altar with a sacrificial gift, with enmity in his heart toward a brother. Hence before offering a gift to the Lord we should search our hearts and purge them from enmity, knowing that otherwise their sacrifices and praises would be vain. (Z. '10-57; R.4559)

5:25 — ADVERSARY — All Jews needed to learn that their Law Covenant which they supposed was their friend and assistant was really their adversary and condemned them all. (John 5:45) Because of imperfection of flesh they were unable to keep the Law and could not have its approval and hence had its condemnation. Seek as good a settlement as possible with the Law, confessing their imperfection.

WHILES THOU ART IN THE WAY WITH HIM —

While there is yet time; before special favor to the Jew ended nationally and individually. Those who heeded Jesus' advice, realized their imperfect condition and cried for help (Rom. 7:23-25, 9-13) and found forgiveness through Jesus by reason of his sacrifice for sin. These, by faith, were permitted to come into God's favor and got the Pentecostal blessing. (John 1:12; Matt. 3:12, 11) But the Pharisees, hypocritically claimed to keep the Law perfectly, did not come to terms with it, and confess their sins repentantly (as symbolized by John's baptism) (Matt. 3:5,11) did not accept Jesus, and so did not obtain the Pentecostal blessing.

@SECOND PAR = DELIVER THEE TO THE JUDGE — The Jews knew not the time of their visitation and so did not know at what time their favor would end. God is the Judge. The Law Covenant showed them up before the Father as Covenant breakers without any repentance. (See Jer. 31:32; Heb. 8:9 Diag.)

THE JUDGE DELIVER THEE — The Judge condemned them to destruction. This sentence was spoken by Jesus, “Behold your house is left unto you desolate.”

OFFICER — Some instrument of Justice. Titus and his army A.D. 70.

THOU BE CAST INTO — All that Jewish nation who rejected Jesus stumbled into prison nationally and wrath came upon that people to the utmost (1 Thess. 2:16; Luke 21:22-24; Matt. 23:31, 32), and until all things written in the Law and in the prophets concerning them is fulfilled they shall not come out of that prison house. They said “His blood be upon us and upon our children.

PRISON — Prison house of national death.

5:26 — PAID THE UTTERMOST FARTHING — By the end of the Millennium they will have “paid the utmost farthing,” and then the willing and obedient shall get free. It will require all of the Millennium for them to profit by the opportunities of the Millennium to rise up out of sin and death condition. (Z. '10-57; R.4559) Their national imprisonment will end at the beginning of the Millennium, but individually for all, the willing and obedient, freedom from all sin and death will be given at end of the Millennium.

5:30 — CAST IT FROM THEE — Satisfying our own conscience is not enough. We should be prompt to cut off any liberty (though cherished as a right hand) if thereby we might serve the more efficiently the flock of God, for whom Christ died.

5:33 — AGAIN, YE HAVE HEARD — Our Lord refers to the traditions of the ancients, which evidently had great control over the people of that time. These were not wholly erroneous but contained some elements of truth. Error alone is weak when compared with error mixed with a little truth.

5:34 — BUT I SAY UNTO YOU — Tradition had modified the Law and limited it to false swearing. Jesus called attention to the error, pointing out that the third commandment meant that God’s name should never be used in any irreverent manner, and not merely forbidding its use in connection with violating an oath in the Lord’s name.

5:37 — BUT LET YOUR COMMUNICATION — Others may feel the need of emphasizing their statements by oaths and expletives but Jesus’ followers are to so live, so act, so speak that their words pass for par anywhere and with anybody. Hence they must be absolutely truthful, so that whoever may hear them may know that their yea is yea and their nay is nay. Oaths, etc., in ordinary conversations imply that the truth of the speaker is questionable—that his yea is not always yea, and his nay not always nay. The tendency is to make him less careful in his oaths. The effect is also to make him less reverent toward the Lord, and the other holy things which he may call upon as witnesses of his truthfulness. As the word of such becomes common and liable to be broken so their oaths would soon become common (as in vs. 22) and liable to be broken. (They would begin to make nice distinctions between what oaths were binding and what were not.) On the contrary, when the world is held sacred the avenues of sin and error are measurably stopped. This cannot be properly understood to apply to an oath in a Court of Law. Such oaths commanded by the State are necessary because all have not the high standard of truth desired.

5:38 — AN EYE FOR AN EYE, AND A TOOTH FOR A TOOTH — The people had applied this to their individual relationships unwarrantedly, with the result that it cultivated hardness of heart, an exacting disposition, pitiless, merciless. Our Lord's teachings showed the error of this and pointed out the more excellent way—love. How much more proper it was for fellow-sufferers, both imperfect, should be lenient, tender-hearted toward each other. By their old standards and practices they were encouraging an improper spirit in their hearts. (Z. '10-57; R.4559) by exacting Justice from their imperfect fellows. (Matt. 9:13; Hosea 6:6; Mic. 6:8)

5:39 — TURN TO HIM THE OTHER ALSO — Not literally, but in your heart mentally. Do not retaliate in kind. For correct thought see our Lord, when on trial he was smitten he did not literally turn the other cheek, figuratively, did not retaliate. (See Acts 23:2-5)

5:40 — LET HIM HAVE THY CLOKE ALSO — If a man sue us at Law and legally get possession of our property we are to feel no grudge against him, but are to render up willingly all that the court might decree, rather more than less. We are to be law abiding to the extreme.

5:41 — GO WITH HIM TWAIN — If conscripted for government services after the manner of ancient times, and compelled to carry a burden for a mile, the Lord's followers were not to be too close or exacting, but evidence their good will by doing a little more, rendering help for another mile if expedient or necessary, rather than grumble at legal exactions.

5:42 — GIVE TO HIM THAT ASKETH — We should cultivate the spirit of generosity. Not necessarily mean extravagant gifts, but we should use judgment. Cultivate desire to give.

5:43 — HATE THINE ENEMY — Hate thine enemy was no part of the Law; but tradition. The cultivation of this spirit of love for enemies as well as for friends, would mark the followers of Jesus as children of God as having his Spirit—disposition.

5:44 — PRAY FOR THEM — This should be that whereas they might be justly entitled to stripes on account of the injury done us, we would be willing to forgive them that the trespass might not be laid to their charge. But this would not be asking the Lord for some miraculous power upon them for their conversion to be his disciples. See 1 Tim. 2:2. (N-6-27-09)

5:48 — BE YE THEREFORE PERFECT — With our fallen flesh it is not possible for us to be perfect as God is perfect—except in heart in intention. But this good heart intention is not enough to prove us worthy of the Kingdom. Such profession of God likeness and purity of heart must be tested, proved, endure faithfulness under stress, be developed to the point of fixity of character. Hence those accepted as disciples of Christ are required to be faithful under very trying circumstances. We are to take the highest standard of excellence for our pattern, our loving Creator, strive for perfection such as his, attain it in their hearts so far as possible, outwork it in every thought and word and deed of their fallen flesh. (Z. '10-58; R.4559)

6:1 — OTHERWISE YE HAVE NO REWARD OF YOUR FATHER — They may or may not get the desired reward from men, but they will surely get none from God. (Z. '10-58; R.4559)

6:2 — THEY HAVE THEIR REWARD — They were in reality praying to men, seeking human approval. They got the reward they sought in that many were deceived and thought them holy, pious. (N-6-27-09)

6:3 — LET NOT THY LEFT HAND KNOW WHAT THY RIGHT HAND DOETH — So quietly should this be done that even those close to us in life might only by accident discover our unselfish generosity. (Z. '10-58; R.4559)

6:5 — WHEN THOU PRAYEST — Whoever seeks his creator in prayer is proportionately amendable at heart to righteous influences. Whoever has no appreciation of prayer thereby shows that proportionately estranged from his Creator—out of fellowship with him. While such may at times, or perhaps for a considerable time, be outwardly moral and honest, we may be sure that their estrangement from God, might at any time lead off into sin. They are off the path of divine fellowship and on the path of carelessness and worldliness, which may at any moment lead off into the ways of unrighteousness. (N-8-27-09)

THOU SHALT NOT BE AS THE HYPOCRITES ARE — His warnings are not that we should undertake to correct those addicted to such practices, but rather that we should see to it in our own heart rather than that we are sincere in our lives and all our religious sentiments—to God and not done to man. For hypocrisy cannot be hid from the Lord, even if it is from our fellow men. So far from receiving a blessing, the hypocrite goes the more deeply into divine disfavor. (Z. '10-58; R.4559)

6:6 — IN SECRET — True prayer should always be to the Lord, never to the public. Individual prayer is specially commended by the Lord. Family prayer is also scripturally proper. Prayer in the Church is proper, because supposedly among those who constitute the Lord's family—this is not public prayer in the proper sense of that term. (Z. '10-58; R.4559)

6:7 — VAIN REPETITIONS, AS THE HEATHEN — Chinese praying wheels, Catholic Rosaries.

6:9 — OUR FATHER WHICH ART IN HEAVEN — The order of this prayer is beautiful. It opens by addressing "Our Father in Heaven" and by expressing desire that the great name of God be hallowed, revered, honored by all and hence by the petitioner also. A desire that the divine will may be accomplished on earth as in heaven.

6:10 — THY KINGDOM COME — The confidence that this can come about only through the establishment of God's Kingdom—Messiah's Kingdom, which will be enforced for the blessing and uplifting of men and bringing all willing and obedient from sin and death conditions to life everlasting. Thus the chief thing—the glory of God and the outworking of the divine plan should be the most prominent things in our hearts as we approach the throne of Grace.

6:11 — GIVE US THIS DAY OUR DAILY BREAD — Then we may remember our own needs, and ask for the bread of life. But it is not for us to specify, but rather the proper spiritual child delights in the Father's will and providence in all things, for we have not the wisdom which would warrant our specifying.

6:12 — FORGIVE US OUR DEBTS — Not original sin, but trespasses. (Z. '10-58; R.4559)

When we first come to the Lord it is not necessary to pray for forgiveness of original sin. These trespasses are the sins of omission or commission conflicting with their covenant of consecration and the Divine requirements. They do not include the original sin. That was forgiven freely for all those who all accept Christ and come under this covenant arrangement. The trespasses are our failures to come up to the standard of the Lord after his grace has freed us from the transgressions that are passed. (Z. '15-154; R.5690)

AS WE FORGIVE OUR DEBTORS — What an incentive to forgiveness, generosity, sympathy is here! Divine mercy is pleased to remit the guilt of all unintentional sins and to reckon them as covered with the precious blood as part of original sin (due to its results). These trespasses through imperfection and temptation, contrary to our better intentions and wishes, require acknowledgment and forgiveness. The Lord waits thus to be gracious, but desiring our blessing and development, he requires that we shall be similarly forgiving towards others. (Z. '10-58; R.4559)

“If thou canst not make thyself such an one as thou wouldst how canst thou expect to have another in all things to thy liking?” An old Spanish writer says “To return evil for good is devilish, to return good for good is human, but to return good for evil is Godlike” Archbishop Whately—“I have known a man to nurse the tiny cockatrice egg of unforgiveness till it has burst into the fiery serpent of crime.” Ferrar—The attitude of the unforgiving is well represented by Archbishop Hare’s words as implying their prayer to the Lord. “O Lord I have sinned against thee many times. I have been often forgetful of thy goodness; I have broken thy Law; I have committed many secret sins. Deal with me, I beseech thee, O Lord, even as I deal with my neighbor. He hath not offended me 1/100 part as much as I have offended thee, but I cannot forgive him. He has been very ungrateful to me, but not 1/100 part as ungrateful as I have been to thee, yet I cannot overlook such base ingratitude. Deal with me, O Lord, I beseech thee, as I deal with him. I remember and treasure up every little trifle which shows how ill he has behaved to me. Deal with me I beseech thee O Lord as I deal with him.” (Z. '06-200; R.3803) See Mark 11:25; Matt. 18:23-35; Luke 17:3, 4.

7:4 — Such should recognize that such a picking and nagging and faultfinding disposition toward the brethren is an evidence that we still have a large beam of impatience and lovelessness to contend with. (F189)

7:12 — DO YE EVEN SO TO THEM — God is first just—never anything less. His Wisdom, Power, Love, must all coordinate with and rest upon this quality of Justice. So it is with all those who would possess this character. They must be first just. We call this quality also conscientiousness, righteousness. Some indeed have this quality of justice in such slight degree that it is easily overbalanced by their other stronger qualities of mind, such as acquisitiveness, combativeness, etc. For this reason prisons are necessary to restrain all the stronger qualities of man’s mind and encourage their conscientiousness, their sense of justice.

FOR THIS IS THE LAW AND THE PROPHETS — The Golden rule marks the very lowest standard, which must measure our dealings with others in the Church and in the world—justice. Our Lord was not giving this as the Gospel, and love standard is shown by his statement: “This is the Law and the Prophets”; this is the teaching or demand of the Law and the Prophets, upon all who would seek to do righteousness—justice. (Sermon, 12-6-08)

7:17 — EVERY GOOD TREE BRINGETH FORTH GOOD FRUIT —

7:24 — This parable does not represent the Heathen in any sense, nor any who living in civilized lands have their understanding so clouded by ignorance and superstition and ears dulled by the god of this world that “they do not hear” distinctly what the Master says.

HEARETH THESE SAYINGS — Who understands my teachings? The parable finds its two classes among those who heard and received the good tidings and outwardly made consecration to the Lord and build their hopes upon his promises.

DOETH THEM — Hopes built on the Lord’s promises and unaccompanied by works (“doeth them”) are hopes built on the sand. When the great testing time comes such hopes will be shown to be worse than useless; to have deceived their possessor, who thought himself safe in the assurance of a share in the kingdom. Such hopes and faith as fail to obediently strive to do God’s will, as consider that obedience is not necessary or essential to a place in the Kingdom, are falsely founded and their overthrow will come with great disaster. Those who build with obedience, their hearts as well as tongues confessing and honoring the Lord, their deeds corroborating their faith and their faith bearing testimony of their vital relationship to the Lord—such shall pass through all the storms of life and never be moved, never be shaken—because they are on the foundation. (Z. ’04-46; R.3318)

8:29 — ART THOU COME HITHER TO TORMENT US BEFORE THE TIME? — The demons evidently had some information or premonition that the time for the manifestation of power through Messiah was still future. (Mark 1:24) (Z. ’06-58; R.3726)

9:17 — NEW WINE — New doctrines, truths.

OLD BOTTLES — Old systems. (C160; See Bible Helps)

9:18 — EVEN NOW DEAD — Or at the point of death, probably at the time Jairus left his home the child was very low and he surmised that by this time she was dead. (Mark 5:23)

9:23 — THE MINSTRELS — Hired mourners. (Mark 5:38)

10:1 — TWELVE DISCIPLES — These may be a picture of the Little Flock, also, gathered out first. See Luke 10:1; Matt. 10:23; Ex. 15:27.

10:2 — Probably guided by the correspondence which he saw must exist between fleshly and spiritual Israel, and seeing himself as the head of spiritual Israel as Jacob was the head of the tribes of natural Israel, he determined to call twelve disciples to be his apostles. Deeming this His Father's will he carried the matter to him in prayer for wisdom in selection. (Luke 6:12) (Z. '24-266)

10:2-4 — In the lists of the twelve apostles the first four are always the two pairs of brothers—Peter and Andrew, James and John. The second and third fours are always the same, but the names are not always given in the same order. Always Peter's name is first and Judas' last and in the four lists (Matt. 10:2-4; Mark 3:18, 10; Luke 6:14; Acts 1:13) Philip is always named first of the second division and James the son of Alphaeus the first of the third. (Z. '24-266)

10:4 — JUDAS ISCARIOT, WHO ALSO BETRAYED HIM — At the time of his choice, he was evidently a good man, so far as outward appearance at least was concerned. His name (Judas means praise) would seem to show that his parents were of a religious cast of mind and had wished of him that he would be a messenger of God to sound forth his praise. And what a privilege and opportunity he enjoyed in this direction! (Z. '11-403; R.4906)

Probably Judas made the same profession of consecration as did the other disciples, and with the others he had left all and perhaps in a certain way was very sincere and recognized that this was the Messiah. But Judas had a business turn of mind. He wished to be associated with such a great Kingdom as Messiah would set up. (Z. '11-403; R.4906)

10:5 — THESE TWELVE — The twelve are mentioned apparently in order of their being sent forth, two by two. As some one has said—"One of the ways Jesus took to overcome the imperfections of his followers and better to prepare them for a work which required perfection was by his grouping of the apostles whose imperfections were perhaps like our own of the nature of halfness. We too frequently see one side of a truth and not the other. We too frequently feel the greatness of some quality which seems contrary but is really complementary. Our Lord seems to have acted with special reference to this in sending out his apostles. Peter the bold, impetuous man is joined with Andrew the one chosen by the Scots as their national patron as far-seeing, careful, cautious. James and John were paired, the former elderly, the latter young. Philip the slow witted was paired with Bartholomew (Nathaniel) the quick witted. Thomas the doubting, skeptical intellect was joined with Matthew, one of the heroes of faith. James, the son of Alpheus, the advocate of works, was united with Jude, a man of doctrine. Simon, the zealot, a man of enthusiasm and independence was linked with Judas Iscariot, the conservative economist. So the Master made one full man out of two half men in each case." (Z.'98-45; R.2261)

10:19 — WHAT YE SHALL SPEAK — So now. But this does not mean that we are to expect to have miraculous powers of speech granted us, but that we are to be filled with the truth and its spirit. Then indeed it will be true that what we speak will not be our own wisdom not declare our plan, but the wisdom from above and God's plan.

10:20 — (See above comment on vs. 19)

10:23 — This would seem that the work of the church in this Gospel age (here pictured and begun) is to all nations, kindreds, peoples and tongues, to every hearing ear, with the assurance that we shall not more than have accomplished the work of declaring the good tidings to every nation until the Second Advent of Christ in the glory of his Kingdom. (This is now accomplished; the Bible has been translated into every language of earth and many dialects.) (Z.'07-184; R.4011)

10:26 — THERE IS NOTHING COVERED, THAT SHALL NOT BE REVEALED — We see this prophecy fulfilling now. Injustice in its every form is being brought to light as never before. Inequity in financial institutions and in politics and in private affairs is being remorselessly muckraked and brought to light. Expediency and policy might say "Hide these things from public gaze"; But under divine providence the light is being turned on everywhere and hidden things of darkness are being exposed, sometimes in the evil and sometimes in the good. Sometimes the adversary succeeds in making the good appear evil. We merely note the general tendency, the great fact so peculiar to our day. We are not saying that every charge of fraud is bonafide. (N-10-30-10)

10:28 — AND FEAR NOT THEM — Fear not them who take away the present life, which is already under sentence of death, anyway. But remember that you have been redeemed and that a future life is a possibility to you and that no man can rob you of that which God has provided for you through the redemption in Christ Jesus. (E332)

HELL — Gehenna represents the Second death.

10:37 — IS NOT WORTHY OF ME — God has purposely made the way so narrow that only the few, the choicest (very) of humanity in God's sight could find it, a very few walking in that way to its further end of glory, honor, and immortality. With this view before our minds eye, there is a reasonableness in the hard terms of discipleship. Only those willing to comply with those terms and thus demonstrate their love and loyalty to God, could properly be trusted with the great power, glory and honor which will be granted to the Kingdom class, in association with the Redeemer, as soon as it shall have been completed. Let us examine these words carefully, meanwhile measuring ourselves—not our flesh, but our spirit, our intention, our desires. This proposition means putting off, at the very start—so far as the will, the purpose is concerned—of every other love that would conflict with our love for the Lord and our obedience to his will. Our earthly loves are to be counted as nothing in comparison (as hate Luke 14:26). We are to be ready to sacrifice at the Lord's command every earthly hope, aim, object, and to lay down our lives willingly, gladly. Such as manifest a devotion of this kind can be trusted with anything. These shall be the Lord's jewels. (Mal. 3:17) The fact that Jesus was of this character himself and placed the Lord's will above all else, is an assurance that all his joint heirs in the Kingdom will have the same mind, the same spirit. He assures us that the Kingdom will not be a selfish one but the reverse, the Kings, Princes, and Judges will not only be irresistible in power, but incorruptible, unbribable. With them the divine standard will be first, absolutely. Such devotion to the Lord will necessarily at some time or other mean the severing of many earthly ties; that Jesus' followers will be thought a peculiar people, unnatural, insane. Hence, as says St. Paul, we are counted fools all the day long for Jesus' sake—because we preach the wisdom of God in preference to the wisdom of humanity and love of humanity. "As he was so are we in this world"—ostracized, misunderstood, reprov'd, slandered. Only those who can stand such an experience, can be winners of the crown. (Rev. 3:21) (Z. '14-91; R.5425)

10:38 — HE THAT TAKETH NOT HIS CROSS — Cross-bearing must be a daily matter. Our crosses are those oppositions of the world, the flesh, and the Devil which conflict with the divine will as laid down for us in the Lord's Word. The only proper sentiment is: "Not my will but thine." It is not enough that we should start out with a courageous intention, a bold acknowledgement of Jesus and a bold profession of discipleship. After we have been faithful in taking our stand on the Lord's side, we must be proven. Not merely those who have a little enthusiasm at the beginning, but those who shall prove their worthiness by their faithfulness will be accepted by the Lord. (Z. '14-91; R.5425)

11:15 — EAR — See note Acts 2:39. Undoubtedly this refers to an ear somewhat developed. (Rev. 2:7)

11:16 — THIS GENERATION — (See note Isa. 65:12)

11:17 — WE HAVE PIPED — Jesus and his disciples preached unto the Jews the Gospel (glad tidings, piped) of the Kingdom, the good news that their long hoped for deliverer had come. “The time is fulfilled.” (Mark 1:15) But the Jews would not accept or believe him, nor respond to him. (Dance)

YE HAVE NOT LAMENTED — These also preached of the calamities to come upon Israel but the Jews would not mourn (As did the people of Nineveh, at Jonah’s warning) or lament. They chose their own ways in which God had no delight.

11:19 — PUBLICANS AND SINNERS — Their evil heart condition made them jealous and sour and bound to find fault no matter what was done.

11:23 — THOU, CAPERNAUM, WHICH ART EXALTED UNTO HEAVEN — Capernaum was exalted to heaven in that it was granted wonderful blessings and privileges, opportunities, and favors above other cities and this largely through so general a healing of its sick and devil-possessed ones. (Mark 1:34) Nevertheless, few there accepted him as the Messiah, and as he predicted it was brought down to the grave (hell, hades, death condition). The city so completely disappeared that its location is not definitely known now. A certain pile of stones is credited with being its former site. (Z. '06-59; R.3727)

HAD BEEN DONE IN SODOM — It was temporarily destroyed as an example or illustration of the absolute annihilation, utter destruction, which ultimately will come upon all wilful sinners, the second death. (Z. '10-133; R.4599)

11:24 — MORE TOLERABLE FOR THE LAND OF SODOM IN THE DAY OF JUDGMENT — The reason is clear. The people of Capernaum were evidently harder-hearted than the people of Sodom, and, from the Lord’s standpoint, were more blameworthy. What shall we say then of our day of still greater privileges in many respects—Bibles in every home, preaching in every city, education in every family? What might not the Lord reasonably expect of us? (Z. '10-133; R.4599) See Adam Clark’s note on this for inconsistency in back supplement)

11:25 — AND HAST REVEALED THEM UNTO BABES — Jesus did not mean that he was glad his message was hidden from the majority, that they might slide down into eternal torture in darkness. Surely not! He did mean that he appreciated the Father’s wisdom in not allowing any but those of proper condition of heart to see and clearly understand the present call of the Church. For the uncontrite of heart to see, to understand, would mean two things: (1) they would oppose God’s plan the more (2) They themselves would come under greater responsibility. “The secret (mystery) of the Lord is with them that fear (reverence) him.” (Psa. 25:14)

11:27 — TO WHOMSOEVER THE SON WILL REVEAL HIM — The Father had delivered all his great work into the hands of the Lord Jesus, and only by knowing him can we know the Father in the true sense, intimately, because the son as the Great Teacher reveals the Father to all who are pupils in his school. (Z. '10-133; R.4599)

11:28 — COME UNTO ME, ALL YE THAT . . . ARE HEAVY LADEN — Justification, the Court.

11:29 — TAKE MY YOKE UPON YOU — Consecration, the Holy.

FIND REST UNTO YOUR SOULS — Rest by faith now, sabbath keeping, and the rest that remaineth.

12:1 — TIME — Luke 6:1.

JESUS — Jesus as a Jew was as much under the obligations of the Law Covenant and its every feature as any other Jew. We may be sure that he did not violate any feature of it. (James 2:10) He was obliged to keep it in a sense and degree which he has not commanded us, his followers. (Z. '10-134; R.4600)

DISCIPLES WERE AN HUNGERED — The Pharisees had a rule that no food could be eaten by any true Jew until after he had gone to the synagogue and worshipped, and this may have been the reason of the disciples' hunger. (Z. '04-43; R.3316)

PLUCK THE EARS OF CORN, AND TO EAT — This was not stealing according to the Law, but was permissible, they could eat what they needed but could not carry any away, nor reap any of it. (Deut. 23:24, 25)

12:2 — IS NOT LAWFUL TO DO UPON THE SABBATH DAY — The Pharisees exaggerated some features and entirely underestimated other features of the Law. In their theory there was no harm in eating the corn on the Sabbath day, but to pluck an ear they construed to be reaping, and to rub it out of the chaff they considered threshing and winnowing. To scratch or look for a flea was estimated to be hunting, and thus God's reasonable law was made to appear absurd.

12:3 — DAVID . . . WHEN HE WAS AN HUNGERED — Jesus showed that one had a right to satisfy his hunger.

12:6 — THAT IN THIS PLACE — The disciples with him were doing still more consecrated work than the Priests and Levites in the Temple, because he—the Father’s representative—was greater than the temple. (Z. '04-42; R.3316)

IS ONE GREATER THAN THE TEMPLE — If the rites of the Temple were more important than keeping the letter of the Law, how much more was he worthy of respect and reverence who was greater than the Temple. Because he is the corner stone of the spiritual Temple of which Solomon’s temple was only typical.

12:7 — I WILL HAVE MERCY, AND NOT SACRIFICE — God was desirous of seeing in his creatures the quality of mercy toward one another, rather than merely the sacrificing of their comforts.

YE WOULD NOT HAVE CONDEMNED THE GUILTLESS — If their hearts had been merciful and loving rather than exacting of their fellow men the letter of the Law which they themselves did not keep, they would have gladly received Jesus and the Apostles.

12:8 — SON OF MAN IS LORD EVEN OF THE SABBATH DAY — “He is Lord of all.” (Acts 10:36) Not that he had authority to set aside the Sabbath, but that as the Father’s representative and the great teacher, he was competent to expound what constituted the proper observance of the Sabbath. To as many as received him, his word on the subject would be the highest interpretation of the divine law, far exceeding any rules and regulations which the Jewish Talmud gave. It is by him we have learned that the whole divine law is included in the one word Love—Love to God supremely and love to our fellowmen. (Z. '04-43; R.3316) See Luke 6:1; Mark 2:23.

LORD OF THE SABBATH — Lord of the Millennium, the Sabbath for the world.

12:11 — SHEEP . . . FALL INTO A PIT ON THE SABBATH DAY — They knew well enough that nothing in the Mosaic Law could be construed by them to interfere with this saving the ox or ass, even though it might require considerable exertion—a good deal of labor for several persons. How foolish to find fault with our Lord who could by one word rebuke the disease and help one of their brethren of the seed of Abraham. (Z. '10-134; R.4600)

LIFT IT OUT — Not for love of the sheep, but for loss of its value. (Z. '06-108; R.3754)

12:12 — WHEREFORE IS LAWFUL TO DO WELL ON THE SABBATH

— Here again, the predominance of love above any law was manifested. (Z. '06-108; R.3754)

12:13 — AND IT WAS RESTORED WHOLE

— Thus proving his position and that he had the divine favor and that his teachings on the subject had this evidence of its truthfulness. (Z. '10-134; R.4600)

12:14 — HOW THEY MIGHT DESTROY HIM

— Showing they did not want the Truth, but their own plans.

12:27 — YOUR CHILDREN

— Jewish exorcists like Acts 19:13. “In the schools of the Pharisees a so-called higher magic was taught by which demons were to be expelled and drawn out of the noses of persons possessed, by means of certain roots, by exorcism and by magic formulas, supposed to have been derived from King Solomon.” (Lang) Compare Moses and the Egyptian magicians. See 2 Kings 2:3 were real or pretended exorcisms. Luke 9:49 was an instance where Jesus’ name and authority were evidently used successfully. See Josephus Ant. 8:2,5. In Matt. 9:33 the multitudes said “It was never so seen in Israel”—meaning that this was a more complete healing than they had ever seen before. (Alford) The difficulty is that people forget that miracles as such are no test of truth, but have permitted to, and prophesied of false religions and teachers. See Exod. 7:22; 8:7; Matt. 24:24; Deut. 13:1-5. (Alford)

12:36 — EVERY IDLE WORD — Every unprofitable utterance must be accounted for in a day of reckoning.

GIVE ACCOUNT THEREOF IN THE DAY OF JUDGMENT — Daily we are to go to our Heavenly Father and say “Forgive us our trespasses, etc.” Not only must we render up our accounts daily but at the end of our course there will be a general summing up. By this we do not understand that we at the end of our course shall be lined up and questioned about every word of our experience, but that each one who comes in contact with the Truth is either building up character or else breaking it down and that his character at the end of his probation will determine his reward. As a pupil daily learns his lessons and prepares himself for the final examination at the end of the year when there is a general testing of his knowledge, so in the School of Christ. Day by day our Master deals with us but at the end of our course there is to be a summing up. (Z. '14-245; R.5517) @THIRD PAR = The context shows that the “pernicious” words to which Jesus referred were words of wilful and malicious opposition against manifest light. In the very nature of things we see that the punishments of that age will be in proportion to past guilt. Every sin indulged, every evil propensity cultivated hardens the heart and makes the way back to purity and virtue more difficult. Consequently sins wilfully indulged now will require punishment and discipline in the age to come, and the more deeply the soul is dyed in willing sin the more severe will be the measures required to correct it. As a wise parent would punish a wayward child so Christ will punish the wicked for their good. (Z. '10-47)

13:2 — See Mark 4:1-14 comments.

13:19 — WAY SIDE — See Luke 8.

13:20 — SEED INTO STONY PLACES — To this class the Word sounds good, they are interested, but lack depth of character, necessary to a character development suitable for the Lord's use in the work of the kingdom. (Z. '10-202; R.4634)

WITH JOY RECEIVETH IT — These give evidence of bringing forth much fruit. But we cannot see as God sees, we know not the heart, the shallowness of the nature is not disclosed until opposition being aroused, the sun of persecution withers the results. We may feel a little discouraged, especially if we had helped plant the seed, and expected great results. The Lord here cautions us against discouragement by assuring us that he knows in advance that much of the seed will fall on stony ground, where having little nourishment, it backed up by little character, it will bring no fruit to maturity or perfection. (Z. '06-125; R.3764)

13:21 — HIMSELF — See comment of vs. 20 on "stony places."

OR PERSECUTION ARISETH BECAUSE OF THE WORD — When he sees that to be faithful follower of Jesus means persecution and suffering and loss, and to be cast out from among men.

BY AND BY HE IS OFFENDED — They thought they might be carried to the kingdom on "flowery beds of ease" while others fought to win the prize and sailed through bloody seas. There is no easy road to the Kingdom. "Through much tribulation shall ye enter the Kingdom." (Acts 14:22; John 15:20; 16:33) If any of the Lord's people who have received the truth, find in themselves any of this shallowness of nature, this superficiality, he or she should at once appeal to the Lord for such a deepening of the soil of their hearts as would enable them to bring forth fruitage to his praise.

13:22 — RECEIVE SEED AMONG THE THORNS — The soil that brings forth great thorns is rich, and if devoted wholly to the production of wheat, would bring forth large crops.

THE DECEITFULNESS OF RICHES — So with some who hear the message of the kingdom, they are good, strong, deep characters, they would make noble Christians, and bring forth much fruitage to the Master's praise and to their own honor if they were fully devoted to the Lord. But alas! their talents, influence, means, time—the strength of their hearts (soil) is absorbed in another direction, in bringing forth earthly projects and ambitions whose interests conflict with the interests of the Kingdom. Where thorns are permitted to remain, the Kingdom interests will suffer. We cannot bring forth two crops successfully, both thorns and wheat. Our hearts must be single, wholly given to the Lord, we must love him with all our heart, soul, mind, strength, else we cannot bring forth the fruitage which he requires of his disciples. The Lord seeks not the double minded to be joint heirs in his kingdom. Not much could be expected from the wayside class, or the shallow hearted, but great possibilities are lost in those in whom the seed of truth is choked by cares of this life and deceitfulness of riches—the thorns. (Z.'06-126; R.3764) Our Lord warns us to take heed that we do not permit our fruitage to be spoiled by these thorns. (Luke 21:34) The thorns are as given, not sensual vices and criminal appetites. Such are not included in the parable. (Z.'10-203; R.4635; Z.'12-183; R.5039)

HE BECOMETH UNFRUITFUL — See Luke 8:14.

13:23 — RECEIVETH SEED INTO THE GOOD GROUND — Thank God if some of our hearts have been plowed deeply by the plough-share of trouble, experience, disappointment in respect to earthly affairs, and that we have learned the vanity of all earthly riches and hopes and ambitions and have learned to set high value on the kingdom reward, on doing God's pleasure. Thank him if our hearts are deep and able to receive and appreciate the truth, the Word; and that our hearts have been in the attitude to respond to these things and are not infested with other ambitions. O, may we receive the seed in such abundant measure as to choke out the thorns and separate us fully from the world, its spirit and aims and sanctify us wholly to the love and service of him who hath called us out of darkness into his marvelous light. (Z.'06-126; R.3764)

IS HE THAT HEARETH THE WORD, AND UNDERSTANDETH IT — This parable implies that the responsibility for the fruitfulness of heart and life and character depends very greatly upon the individual, and how he receives the kingdom message. Those in whom the fruits will be most abundant will be such as grasp the invitation most intelligently and earnestly. He that heareth the Word and understandeth it and whose heart is in a condition of loyalty to God and who frees himself from hindrances and worldly ambitions and hopes and like the Apostle Paul can say—“This one thing I do.”

BEARETH FRUIT, AND BRINGETH FORTH — It is not sufficient that we hear the message of the kingdom; nor that we have good hearts or good intentions in respect to it; we must understand the message, and hence the need of Bible study. If men see it necessary to devote years of study to prepare for earthly things, how much more it is proper to study for eternal life and the kingdom blessings. The time and effort so spent are wisely spent. The difference in yield illustrates the intensity of our efforts and our earnestness, like the parable of the talents. The rewards of the Kingdom will be proportionate. “Star differeth from star in glory.” (Z. '10-203; R.4635) How may we increase our faithfulness? By increasing honesty of heart, which prepares us for increased measure of the seed and enables us to bring this forward to perfection. Let us have diligence therefore, that the Master may find us fruit bearing to the very largest degree of our possibilities of nature, surroundings and opportunities. (Z. '06-125; R.3764) The “well done” will never be pronounced if not merited.

13:24 — KINGDOM OF HEAVEN — In its embryotic or begotten condition, in process of development. This parable ignores all but the “good ground seed,” showing that Jesus foreknew the history of the Gospel Age. (Z. '10-203; R.4635) Showing some of the difficulties which interfere with the best hearers, while the parable of the sower represents the four classes willing to hear at all, showing that only one class of hearers could possibly bring forth the good fruit. (Z. '06-138; R.3769)

A MAN . . . GOOD SEED — The Lord and the apostles sowed only good seed.

13:25 — WHILE MEN SLEPT — While the Lord and the Apostles lived the enemy did not have the opportunity for introducing the tare element, it was done after their death, when they had fallen asleep. (Acts 20:29, 30) Also while the entire church slept, in the sense of not being wide awake to their duties and privileges. Such a period of drowsiness, slumber, non-alertness as respects the truth, prevailed among the Lord's people during the Dark Ages. Even yet the same thing is true in large measure. (1 Thess. 5:6) Many of the Lord's true followers have been dreaming about the conversion of the world, while the great enemy Satan has been sowing tares with a liberal hand in their very midst. (2 Pet. 2:1)

SOWED TARES — “Bearded Darnels.” It looks exactly like the wheat when springing up, and not until the maturity of the head is the difference discernable. Then the wheat, weighted with golden grains, humbly bows its head, while tares stand straight, the heads having little weight, and the seeds being black. This darnel seed is poisonous. (Z. '96-138; R.3770)

13:26 — THEN APPEARED THE TARES ALSO — This enemy was Satan (see vs. 39). Why should he plant any teachings that would bring forth imitation Christians, those who are outwardly godly? Would he not rather plant seeds of immorality. The answer—He already has a large part of the field, the world, under cultivation along the lines of ignorance, superstition (1 Cor. 10:20) the heathen. He is not so anxious for the development of the tare class as he is to choke the wheat; and this can better be accomplished by sowing tares than by other sowings, which from the first would show widely in contrast and could be exterminated. It is the fact that the darnel-tare exactly resembles the true wheat for a considerable time, which makes it all the more dangerous, more troublesome to root out. So with the tare class in Christendom; respectable, educated, influential in outward morals and demeanor, closely resembling the Lord's consecrated ones—there is no means of discerning their real character at first.

13:27 — SERVANTS OF THE HOUSEHOLDER — Jesus, the son over his own house. (Heb. 3:6)

13:29 — BUT HE SAID, NAY — In Eastern countries a certain amount of tares springs up with the wheat anyway, and these the servants gather out as soon as discerned, because the darnel seed is poisonous. So naturally there would be some imitation Christians among the true anyway. But the Lord wishes to show an abnormal condition—that the tare seed was specially sown for the very purpose of choking out the wheat. (So Eph. 6:12.) We have not today merely the downward tendency of the human heart but Satan and his associates, fallen angels, have been trying to thwart the divine plan in every direction. But the Master shows by the parable that he foreknew all this, that it was part of the divine plan to permit it. But in permitting it the Lord does not make himself responsible for it nor endorse it. He shall eventually so overthrow it as to bring out the valuable lessons from it for all eternity. As men see the wheat field overrun with tares, they are inclined to think that the majority must be wheat, and the comparatively few stalks (that are true wheat) they are inclined to think fanatical extremists. (Z. '06-139: R.3770)

So Satan has all along tried to misrepresent God and God's people. He has raised up this large false class who are outwardly good, and who claim to be Christians, and who call the true wheat fanatics or heretics, and the world has accepted the delusion and think the tares are the true wheat and are right and persecute the true wheat. (See Tabernacle curtain on goats hair and seal skin.) It was impossible for Satan to corrupt the seed of truth which Jesus and the apostles sowed; neither was he allowed to interfere with the sowing of it; but he was permitted to over-sow it with tares and if possible to choke the wheat, and in a general way to deceive the outward world respecting the true character of the wheat, the children of the Kingdom. (Z. '10-203: R.4635)

LEST . . . YE ROOT UP ALSO THE WHEAT WITH THEM — By them rooting up the tares there would be such a commotion in the wheat field as to disturb all the wheat, so intimately were the true and false associated—their roots intertwining in the society, in the home, etc. It would unsettle everything as respects the interests of the true wheat during this age. (Z. '10-203; R.4635)

13:30 — LET BOTH GROW TOGETHER UNTIL THE HARVEST —

During the Gospel age our Lord's instructions have been not to attempt a separation of the true from the imitation children of the Kingdom, because to accomplish a complete separation would occasion a general turning of the world (field) upside down, unsettling the wheat as well as the tares. (And the Lord does not want this shaking of the world to take place until the time of trouble in the end of the harvest.) This judging of hearts (Between the professors and the true), and which Jesus commanded us to entirely avoid, is the very thing which the various sects have all along endeavored to accomplish—to separate, to test the wheat and keep out as tares or heretics, by rigorous creeds of human manufacture, all professors of Christianity whose faith did not exactly fit their various false measurements. How unsuccessful they have all been! They have set up false, unscriptural standards (dress, forms, etc.) and doctrines, which have really developed many tares and choked and separated the wheat. So their theological fences are without excuse for, since they do not separate wheat and tares. The Lord's way alone can do this in the Harvest time. (C138)—In the field (Christendom, civilized world) during the Reformation, the winds of doctrinal strife, from one quarter and another, threw wheat and tares into great batches (denominations), inclining some in one direction (doctrinally) and some in another and huddled them closely together, and took away much of the individuality of all. (C140)

AND IN THE TIME OF HARVEST I — A proof of the presence of Christ in the Harvest time—directing the reaping. (B150)

REAPERS — Angels, messengers (see vs. 41 and note).

GATHER . . . TARES, AND BIND THEM IN BUNDLES — This shows the overwhelming majority of the tares, for it is these and not the wheat that are bundled. So the results will be a tremendous harvest of tares and a comparatively small gathering of the precious wheat. (Z. '06-139; R.3770)

GATHER THE WHEAT INTO MY BARN — To the heavenly state, by the first resurrection. (N-4-7-09) The tares and not the wheat are bundles, the wheat evidently in smaller quantity being taken directly to the barns unbundled—precious, scarce. The time of separation has come, and the Lord will make no mistake; not a single tare will be gathered into the barn—beyond the Veil into the heavenly condition and glory. As respects the wheat, the harvest is to ripen, and not a ripe head of wheat, whether it bare 30, 60, or 100 fold, will be left in the field or burned with the tares, but all will be safely garnered, gathered to the Lord. (Z. '06-139; R.3770)

13:31 — See Mark 4:30; also. (Z. '19-237)

13:33 — KINGDOM OF HEAVEN — In its embryotic state, during the Gospel Age.

IS LIKE UNTO LEAVEN — False doctrine, evil, sin, corruption. (Ex. 13:7; Matt. 16:11,12; 1 Cor. 5:7)

WHICH A WOMAN — Papacy, “that woman Jezebel” (Rev. 2:20), a false woman, a harlot, mixed with the meal, the leaven of her own impurity.

MEASURE — Seah = 1/3 ephah. (Gen. 18:6; 1 Sam. 25:18; 1 Kings 18:32; 2 Kings 7:1,16,18) The general family measure.

THREE MEASURES OF MEAL — The three measures of meal, equivalent to one ephah, constituted a good liberal household supply of food left for nourishment of the Church by her Lord, and like all his provisions was pure and good. The three measures are: 1) Faith once delivered to the saints; 2) Hope set before us in the Gospel; 3) Love, the bond of perfectness. In partaking of these they would become strong in the Lord and the power of his might. Papacy obtained great power over these three measures of meal provided for God’s household and mixed with them her own impurity, resulting in the contamination of every doctrine, not one doctrine that has come down to us through the dark ages has reached us without having been contaminated by evil.

TILL THE WHOLE WAS LEAVENED — The whole of Christendom is rapidly approaching a state of sourness and putrefaction, selfishness is preparing it for rapid disintegration, where “every man’s hand will be against his brother,” the time of trouble. As in practice the housewife to stop the progress of the leaven, bakes the dough in an oven, which completely destroys and arrests the impurity. So God will not let evil in the race go to the extreme (Psa. 76:10) but will arrest its action by putting society in the oven of the time of trouble (Mal. 4:1) which will effectually stop the course of sin. (Z. '00-154; R.2635; Sermon, Lynn 12-13-08) See Hos. 7:4.

13:38 — CHILDREN OF THE KINGDOM — True Christians, who appreciate the kingdom, who, thankfully accept the Lord’s proposition of heirship in the Kingdom and heartily lay hold on the terms of joint-heirship, to suffer with him that they might reign with him. (Rom. 8:17) Consecrated, begotten of God through the Word of truth. (Jas. 1:18; Eph. 2:10; Isa. 56:4)

CHILDREN OF THE WICKED ONE — Strangers (Ezek. 44:7) begotten of error, misled into forms of godliness without its real power. Evil seed, false doctrines, misrepresenting God's character and plan and making them appear adverse. Those influenced by the errors are begotten of fear and not of love, not of the spirit of the truth, developing merely outward forms, of church going, decency, morality, but does not affect the heart, so as to bring forth fruitage of consecration. (Z. '06-139; R.3770) It would be a mistake to suppose there were thieves and murderers of the baser sort among these offenders; but they include some whom the apostle describes as doing the works of the flesh and the devil—anger, malice, hatred, envy, strife, etc. However many “tares” are fine people of generous disposition, but not New Creatures. They are blameworthy, not because not spirit begotten, but because they are in the nominal church and posing as Christians. In this sense they are offensive in the Master's sight. They are not wholly to be blamed for thinking themselves Christians, for they were and are taught to so think and act by preachers and teachers, many of whom, like their congregations, have no knowledge of the kingdom, nor of the spirit-begetting power which initiates into membership in it. (Z. '10-204; R.4635) The tares are the class who call him Lord but do not obey him. (C137)

13:39 — WORLD — age, Gospel age. See 2 Peter 3.

13:40 — TARES ARE GATHERED AND BURNED IN THE FIRE — The gathering of these into “bundles”—lodges, societies, clubs, sects, churches, parties—will especially be an evidence of the “Harvest” work in progress. (Z. '10-204; R.4635) Never was there a time like it for Labor unions, trusts, societies, etc. (C140) The truth now due is the sickle in this harvest, just as a similar sickle was used in the Jewish harvest. (C139) The sickle of truth prepares the wheat for the freedom wherewith Christ originally made us free, though the same sickle has an opposite influence upon the tares. The spirit of the tares is toward sectarian greatness and show, rather than toward individual obedience to God. (C141) Each of the tare class seems aware that, if examined individually, he would have no claim to the kingdom promised to the close followers of the Lamb. The tares would prefer to have the sects judged as so many corporations, in comparison one with another, hoping thus to glide into the kingdom on the merits of the wheat (vs. 21 and note) with whom they are associated. But this they cannot do, for the test of worthiness for Kingdom honors will be an individual one, not a trial of sects. Forced to admit that other sects have as good (and as little) right as themselves to claim to be the one true church, they seek to bind all by the impression that it is essential to salvation to be joined to some one of their sects, it matters little to which one. Thus they combine the idea of individual responsibility with sectarian bondage. (C141)

The true wheat are exhorted to stand fast in the liberty wherewith Christ has made them free, and come not into bondage to sects and parties, to avoid membership in bundles, but stand in the full fellowship of all who are of the wheat class. (Z. '10-204; R.4635)

13:41 — ANGELS — Messengers—pilgrims and colporteurs, etc. (Z. '10-5; R.4541) See Mark 13:27. These do a double work. To the true disciple the truth will gather them in closer and bless them, while to the disobedient it will drive them out of the truth into outer darkness.

SHALL GATHER OUT OF HIS KINGDOM ALL THINGS THAT OFFEND — The line of distinction, before the close of the Harvest time, will become so plain that it will leave no question as to who are and who are not of the Church. There will be two classes among the tares - one class “doers of iniquity (inequity, unrighteousness), the other class—those who have caused others to stumble (Z. '12-200; R.5048)

The presence of the tare class among the wheat has been out of order. It is really a wheat field, not a tare field. The wheat has the place by right, the tares are out of place and need to be removed. The world belongs to the wheat by promise, and hence it is really the tares that are gathered out and burned, leaving the field and all in it to the wheat. The first-fruits of the wheat are gathered into the garner; that the earth may bring forth another crop, (in the Millennium—the later fruit). (C140) A double work is done: separating the wheat and gathering to the garner; and separating out the tares and binding them in bundles to burn. Here is seen God’s wisdom in economy. It will take less trouble to burn the bundles of tares than to burn each grain separately and the same agent—the truth and its spirit—accomplishes both.

13:42 — FURNACE OF FIRE — Notice that this furnace time is limited to the harvest of the age. There is no such furnace for the tares all down the Gospel age. This certainly is contrary to the common belief that the wicked go to torment at death. No! It is not a literal fire but a consuming trial and testing, trouble. When the farmer gathered his crop to the barn it was his custom to burn the tares so the seed might not propagate further and thus cause additional trouble (so that none of the bad seed might affect the future crop. (Z. '10-204; R.4635) Hence it was his usage to burn the tares as fuel for heating baking ovens. Everything in the figure therefore would simply illustrate destruction, nothing like torment. When the tares are burned they are reduced to dust (ashes) and become again part of the world. This fire is the time of trouble (Dan. 12:1) and the furnace is so-called Christendom. True, there will be trouble in the outside heathen nations also, but the trouble will specially affect Christendom. (Isa. 19:1, 3) By the time that trouble is ended, imitation Christians will be no more. The true Christians will have been changed to the heavenly conditions by the First Resurrection, but the remainder of mankind will all be of the earth, earthy, and will make no pretensions whatever to be called out ones of the heavenly order. (Z. '06-140; R.3771) In the time of trouble the delusions which now make the tares think themselves to be Christians —the true Church—will all be dissolved—they will all be reduced to their proper plane—earthly plane—and recognize themselves as merely of the earth, and not in any sense members of the elect, spirit begotten church. (Z. '10-204; R.4635) The destruction of the tares does not mean the destruction of the individuals, but rather a destruction of the false pretensions of this class, their false standing before the world. Their profession is that they are Christians, whereas they are still children of this world. When burned or destroyed as tares, they will be recognized in their true character, as members of the world and will no longer imitate Christians. (C146)

THERE SHALL BE WAILING AND GNASHING OF TEETH — Great disappointment, pain, trouble, anguish; but when the trouble shall have done its work of melting society and preparing man for the Millennium Kingdom, (Isa. 40:4), when it shall have burned itself out (unquenchable fire), blessings will come. (Zeph. 3:9)

13:43 — THEN — What better testimony than this can we have that the Church is not yet seen in power, as God's Kingdom, and that it will be thus exalted until the harvest is ended. (C149)

THE RIGHTEOUS SHINE FORTH AS THE SUN — See Dan. 13:3.

WHO HATH EARS TO HEAR, LET HIM HEAR — Not all can understand, or appreciate or receive this message. Neither should we despise those who cannot hear, but rather we may sympathize with them and be thankful that God has given us this hearing ear (that is, we have not fallen so much as some) which permits us to appreciate these favors. See Matt. 13:16, 17; John 8:42, 43, 47; Matt. 11.

13:44 — KINGDOM OF HEAVEN — Jesus and his church, true followers. So this parable has two applications first to head and then to body.

TREASURE — Race of man. The result of the Ransom work Jesus here foresaw would be the deliverance of many from the bondage of corruption to the glorious liberty of the sons of God (The Church in this age and the world in the next age). Jesus would see of the travail of his soul and be satisfied. (Isa. 53:11)

FIELD — World of men and earth itself.

A MAN — Jesus.

BUYETH THAT FIELD — Jesus sacrificed all that he had. (Matt. 8:20; Luke 9:58; 2 Cor. 8:9) to purchase it, he foresaw the result. [He purchased the whole field to get the treasure. So Jesus had to purchase Adam and all his race and the earth as Adam's possession, in order to get all the willing and obedient of the race. It was the treasure (Church and obedient of world) he was after.] (E441)

SECOND APPLICATION OF 13:44:

TREASURE — The desirability of obtaining joint heirship with Jesus in the kingdom to save mankind, to share with him its purchase (and work) and the unearthing of the treasure.

FIELD — The field belongs to God. He has put the treasure there; he offers it for sale to the willing to pay the price.

MAN — The buyer is the Lord Jesus and those who accept his invitation to join with him in the sacrifice of their earthly interests that they may be sharers with him in the heavenly glories—to unearth all that treasure (and polish and brighten it) in the blessings of the world of mankind.

HE HIDETH — The hiding of the treasure is necessary as Jesus said “cast not your pearls before swine,” they will not understand, they will think you foolish and in their disappointment may injure you. Make your sacrifice of earthly things to him and he who seeth in secret, he will reward you openly. (Z. '10-205; R.4635)

BUYETH THAT FIELD — The finder, realizing its value, desires it for himself and has such faith in it that he disposes of all his property in order to buy the field which he believes to contain the hidden treasure. If we love the present life, its joys and prospects, its hopes and ambitions, then we will labor for these; but if we intelligently hear and believe the Gospel offer of this age—a share in the kingdom with Christ—then in proportion to our faith and appreciation will be our self-sacrificing zeal to obtain that prize. Whoever believes the message will find his faith an inspiration, a necessary inspiration to the attainment of the prize, for it will cost all that he has of earthly blessings; and unless he has faith that he will find the prize, he will surely be unwilling to sacrifice all that he has to get it.

13:45 — A MERCHANT MAN, SEEKING GOODLY PEARLS — In olden times the methods and opportunities for barter and trade being inferior to those now, pearl dealers went throughout the regions where pearls would likely be found, inquiring for choice pearls and buying them. Such a pearl dealer is here used to represent the kingdom class.

13:46 — PEARL OF GREAT PRICE — The High Calling and its reward.

PEARL MERCHANT — God's people are like pearl merchants seeking imperishable values, not frittering away life and its opportunities. Only a few in the world seek some noble purpose, to use money well to help fellowmen, to be physicians, teachers, statesmen, etc. (Pearls) Such of these as come in contact with the true Gospel are thereby tested. They find in it the more they investigate it, the grandest of all pearls, the most priceless one.

SOLD ALL THAT HE HAD, AND BOUGHT IT — But to obtain it they find they must part with all other pearls they possess, at once, all other ambitions, aims in life, surrender all to obtain this one pearl of supreme value. Very few appreciate this pearl to the proper degree, so as to make them willing, nay glad to obtain it at any cost, at cost of all earth's blessings and privileges. The forsaking all to follow Jesus is the merchant selling all to buy the pearl of great price. (Bro. Russell, Sermon) The other pearls are indeed desirable (Prov. 22:1; Eccl. 7:1) name, fame, honor, position, wealth, but the pearl of Great Price is a priceless thing, better and worth more by far than all honors and dignities and pleasures of the world. Those worthy to buy this pearl will gladly exchange all earthly things for it, even their good name, and this will be necessary. (Matt. 5:11, 12; 10:24, 25) He that is not willing to have the kingdom at such a cost is not worthy of the kingdom. (Luke 14:33; Matt. 10:37) Only those who willingly endure tribulations for righteousness sake are overcomers and only they will get the reward. (Rev. 3:21) (Z.'10-205; R.4636)

13:47 — NET — Gospel message through the Church.

SEA — World.

FISH — Men (Matt. 4:19)

EVERY KIND — Real Christians, half deceived and deluded Christians, and multitudes of hypocrites. The net was not intended to catch all the fish of the sea. The great chief fisherman, Our Lord, designed to catch a particular number of fish of a particular kind, no matter how many of other varieties went into the net with them.

13:48 — WHEN IT WAS FULL — In the fullness of God's time, the due time. This complete number was obtained in 1881. (But the parable may not intend to be as exact as that). In the Harvest.

THEY — The fishermen, the kingdom class. The drawing to shore would represent that the general call or invitation to a place in the kingdom would cease by God's arrangement, and that then a different work would be commenced by the fishermen. Here the commission given at the beginning of the age, to cast the net into the sea (Matt. 28:19; 24:14) should be understood as at an end.

BUT CAST THE BAD AWAY — Thus we should expect a discontinuance of the general fishing, as in the parable of the wheat and tares, and all who would continue to be co-workers with the Lord must give heed to his directions and no longer give their time to general fishing but to the present work of selecting, separating, dividing. As the truth then due was the agency for calling, so “present truth,” harvest truth, is now the Lord’s agency for testing and dividing. This work will accomplish the gathering of the desired sort and the rejection of others who are unworthy the favor to which they were called. When, therefore, the Lord’s servants hear his voice through his Word, declaring that the time has come to stop sowing and begin reaping, stop catching, and go to sorting the fish, stop calling and go to preaching the harvest message now due, to those already called, they will, if faithful, gladly and promptly obey; such should no longer be seeking to sow the good seed of the Kingdom in the field or world, but giving the meat in due season.

13:49 — END OF THE WORLD — End of the age, Harvest.

ANGELS — Messenger, the Lord’s servants, special messengers, faithful disciples, walking very humbly, very near to the Lord, very earnestly seeking to know his plan and cooperate in his work, are not left in darkness concerning his times and seasons. (Matt. 13:11; 1 Thess. 5:4; Jer. 8:7-12)

THE WICKED FROM AMONG THE JUST — The wicked slothful servants from among the faithful zealous ones. Strange to say it is the message of God’s loving grace, in the Ransom (which should rejoice and refresh and unite all loving Christian hearts) which will develop and draw into heart union the true class only, test and separate them from the nominal mass. [As the unworthy fish were cast back into the sea, so those not fit for the kingdom will be cast back into the world to share with the world the time of trouble.]

13:50 — FURNACE OF FIRE — The great time of trouble with which this age will end.

SHALL BE WAILING AND GNASHING OF TEETH — Bitter disappointment and the angry play of men’s passions. The Great Company will share in this.

13:52 — SCRIBE — Bible Students, to write God’s law of love in the hearts of the sheep. (2 Cor. 3:2, 3)

14:15-21 — Here was a miracle which astonished not only the disciples, but also the thousands that partook of the food. It was what John calls a sign (John 20:30,31) an evidence of our Lord's supernatural power and authority—a proof that he was indeed the Son of God, the Messiah. This was the object of the miracle, not the feeding of the 5,000. At the same time there were doubtless in many parts of the world hungry ones whom the Lord could have fed without any trouble to himself, but he came not then to feed the world. He came not then to stop the pain, sorrow and dying but to redeem the world and to give evidence which will enable all Israelites indeed to accept him by faith as the Messiah. Evidence which coming down to us of the Gospel age has been the basis for our faith.

Some have said, "O that we could have been there and witnessed the miracle of the loaves and fishes; our faith would have been so strengthened that we would have been Jesus' disciples under any and all circumstances. How could any of those 5,000 ever have doubted Jesus' Messiahship?" Those who are truly the Lord's people have similar miracles today. He communicates to us through his word, in eating which we partake of his spirit, the spirit of the Truth. Who can deny that a miracle is being performed in his own experiences and those of other Christians which is greater (more lasting, more beneficial) than the one recorded here. Which of the Lord's people, who have tasted that he is gracious, who have hungered and thirsted after righteousness (Truth), and who have had its assisting comfort time and again, could any longer feel that their preference would be to have lived then and witnessed the miracle there performed. Rather we have in these higher miracles a stronger basis of faith than the poor Jews could have had in all their favors. (Z. '17-60)

Although our Lord was rich before he came into the world and though he realized that through the power of God in him he could still have all that was necessary for his well-being and could provide for his followers, yet our Lord was a great economist. From his standpoint nothing should be wasted. It was in harmony with this principle of his character that after the multitude had been thoroughly fed he instructed the disciples to gather up the fragments that nothing be wasted. Each one gathered the full of his bag or satchel or haversack, called basket here. Here are two lessons—one of generosity and one of economy. See Luke 9.

14:28 — IF IT BE THOU, BID ME COME — It would have been credulity for him to suppose himself able to walk on the water without the Lord's sanction. We are not to encourage credulity in ourselves and others, but to remember that the faith which has a true foundation is very precious in the Lord's sight. Like Peter all God's people would like to do some wonderful thing to show their faith. And how like him often they would utterly fail did not the Lord interpose for their rescue. Although Peter was one of the oldest of the Apostles he was evidently one of the most meek and teachable of them. Of his mistakes he made a mirror and thus learning to know himself more particularly he was safe-guarded through the many dangers natural to his temperament. (Z.'12-281; R.5095)

16:13 — WHOM DO MEN SAY — Jesus knew what they said of course, but he wanted to put a certain question in and tactfully led up to it. He judged it now to be the right time to put such a question, that it would be God's will and also he desired to know how the Father's plans were developing in his Apostles, if they yet appreciated him. He eagerly watched the progress of the Father's plans.

16:14 — SOME SAY THAT THOU ART JOHN THE BAPTIST — Herod.

16:15 — BUT WHOM SAY YE THAT I AM? — This was the question he longed to put, and how eagerly must he have waited the answer! for it would show how far the apostles caught his spirit and understood him.

16:16 — SON OF THE LIVING GOD — Diag. = Son of God, the living (one). Peter may have meant that Jesus was the "living one" of the race, i.e. he alone of all mankind had the right to life, according to Law, for Jesus had obeyed it, while all others were under condemnation of the Law, or of the curse, and had no right to life. (Z.'00-199; R.2656) Jesus here shows he is not the Father.

16:17 — BUT MY FATHER WHICH IS IN HEAVEN — No man can say Jesus is Lord but by the Holy Spirit. Flesh and blood (mankind) do not so believe, and could not have told you, nor convinced you; you have been drawn of my Father in heaven. (Z.'00-199; R.2656)

16:18 — PETER — "Petros" means a stone; word used of slingstones. Peter was one of the living stones of the temple. As are all of the little flock. (Z.'00-199; R.2656)

ROCK — A rocky mass, ledge. The great foundation truth that Jesus was the Son of God, the redeemer, and upon which truth the Church is built.

PREVAIL — The gates of death will not be forever closed upon it. The church will triumph over death in the first resurrection. (1 Cor. 15)

16:19 — KEYS — Jesus himself did not open the door of the Kingdom fully. He first had to die and then be resurrected and appear in God's presence for us before any could have part in the Kingdom. Then at Pentecost came the seal of the acceptance of his sacrifice and theirs, the Holy Spirit. Here Peter used one of the keys to open the door to Israel. He took the leading part. (Acts 2:14-20) 3-1/2 years after, Peter used the other key to open the door to the Gentiles (Acts 10; 15:6, 7, 14) Peter was used of the Lord to open both of these doors, and hence it was properly stated of him that he had the keys, the power, authority to do the work in both instances, and he did it. (Z. '00-201; R.2656)

BIND ON EARTH — This statement is made to all the apostles in Matt. 18:18. A similar one to them all in John 20:23. These words apply primarily to the apostles, not to the whole church, on the strength of our Lord's own words. (John 6:70; 15:6; Rev. 21:14) This investment of Peter and the other apostles with special authority to bind and to lose, to remit and to hold, signified that God would specially control their utterances, so that their decisions might properly be considered authoritative, not that God bound himself to decide according to the imperfect judgments of these men, but that he has guaranteed us that he would so guide and overrule in the affairs of these chosen few that his people might rely upon it that whatever the Apostles fixed had the divine approval. For instance, we learn from them that we are justified from all sin through faith in the redemption; they did not make it so but were guided by the Lord into stating it so. (Z. '00-202; R.2658; F220)

16:19-20 — The Apostolic inspiration was a three fold character as shown in John 14:26; 16:13. (1) Refreshment of memory enabling them to recall and reproduce the personal teachings of Jesus. (2) Guidance into an appreciation of the truth pertaining to the divine plan of the ages. (3) Special revelation of things to come.

The refreshment of memory did not imply a dictation of the exact phraseology or of the exact order of our Lord's words; nor do their writings give evidence of such a dictation. In each of the four Gospels we have the history of our Lord's early life and ministry; yet in each the individuality of the writer is manifest. Each in his own style records those items which seem to him most important and under the Lord's supervision these various accounts furnish altogether as complete a history as is necessary for the establishment of the faith of the Church, of the identity of Jesus as the Messiah of the prophets, of the fulfilment of the prophecies concerning him, of the facts of his life and teachings. Had the inspiration been a verbal one (a word for word dictation) it would not have been necessary for several men to rephrase the narrative. But while each writer exercised his individual freedom of expression and made his own choice of the events most important and worthy of record, the Lord by his Holy Spirit so supervised the matter that nothing of importance was omitted, all that is needed is faithfully recorded. (2 Tim. 3:16, 17) The Apostle John's record supplements the other three, and he chiefly speaks of circumstances and incidents of importance omitted by the others. The guidance of the Holy Spirit was to be a general one rather than a personal inspiration. The apostles (except Paul) were plain, unlearned men but their clear sighted view was an illumination of the mind, enabling them to see and state clearly the divine purposes and confound the wisdom of the wise theologians of their day. However eloquent the error, it cannot stand before their logical deductions from the Law and prophets and Jesus' teachings. (F218, 219)

16:20 — THEY SHOULD TELL NO MAN — So we should not go about publishing that we are members of Christ. Jesus would let the others, the world, believe him to be John the Baptist, etc. if they would, it was not for those unregenerate in heart to know these precious truths. If brought to the question we should then avow it and suffer for it if need be.

16:22 — THEN PETER TOOK HIM — Grasped perhaps his shoulder familiarly. Peter had been unduly elated over the Master's approval of his words. He presumed to know better than the Master.

AND BEGAN — Jesus did not let him go on; he only began. Our Lord would not listen to it.

BE IT FAR FROM THEE, LORD — Literally: Be gracious to thyself, "Pity thyself."

16:23 — BUT HE TURNED — Jesus had "set his face like a flint" to do the Father's will. (Isa. 50:7)

16:24 — DENY HIMSELF — This is the same Greek word for deny, as used when Peter denied the Lord. He utterly repudiated him, denied knowing him. So we should utterly repudiate our old justified man and not admit nay recognition of him—the old "ego." If one goes out of the truth it is not because he is so constituted he cannot see a point as we see it, for God's Holy Spirit does not reveal one way to one and another way to another, the Holy Spirit is not self-contradictory; and if division in manifested and one goes out of the truth it is because he has not properly kept "ego" down, destroyed him. There is no Saint Vitus dance in the Body of Christ. There must be no self-will in any member of that body, who will ultimately attain a position in it.

TAKE UP HIS CROSS — Not merely deny oneself luxuries or little individual things, but a daily crucifying of the old man, the will of the flesh. When the Roman soldiers caught a thief, they cut wood off a near tree and made the thief bear his cross to crucifixion; so with us. Old man is dead as a sin offering.

AND FOLLOW ME — Not only must I follow this but you also must likewise suffer if you would be my disciple. There is no command to consecrate; but if any will. The Lord wants only willing sacrifices.

16:26 — AND LOSE HIS OWN SOUL? — Jesus was the only one who had a soul to lose; he alone of all the race had the right to life; and what profit if he should deny the Father's will, accept Satan's offer of the world, and then lose his own soul at the end, as not an obedient son. See corn of wheat.

16:28 — TILL THEY SEE THE SON OF MAN — That Jesus here meant the vision of the kingdom given in the transfiguration is conclusively shown by the fact that in the three Gospels where the record appears, this verse is each time succeeded immediately by an account of the transfiguration and so Peter understood it. (2 Peter 1:19)

17:1 — AFTER SIX DAYS — As in Mark 9:2 thus agreeing with Luke 9:29. verse 5, this is six or eight days after the words of the preceding verse were spoken, a fulfillment of them, and these three were present when those words were spoken. See previous verse of 2 Pet. 1:10.

PETER, JAMES, AND JOHN — These accompanied Jesus on several other occasions: Jairus' daughter, Gethsemane. We must suppose there was something about these men that made them specially companionable to the Lord. One thing that impresses every New Testament reader is their faith in the Lord and zeal for his cause. It was James and John who in their zeal (but not according to knowledge) wanted to call down fire from heaven upon the Samaritans because they did not promptly recognize and cordially receive the Master. It was Peter who first promptly confessed Jesus as the Christ and who drew his sword in the Master's defence. Jesus himself was a zealous temperament and naturally and properly was more drawn toward those of similar temperament, fervent. There is a lesson here for us: if we would be closest to the Master, if most frequently privileged to have fellowship with him; we must cultivate this earnest, zealous spirit. Cold, calculating people may have other good qualities, but there is no room for coldness or even lukewarmness on the part of those who have once tasted that the Lord is gracious. The love enkindled should lead to a consuming zeal. Thus it was with Jesus and this was one of the reasons why he was beloved of the Father. "The zeal of thine house hath consumed me." (Psa. 69:9; John 2:17; Psa. 119:139; Jer. 20:9) Let all who desire to be pleasing in the Lord's sight become so filled with the same spirit of zeal for righteousness and truth that it will consume them as sacrifices upon the Lord's altar. Thus they will be most pleasing in God's sight through Jesus. As a rule, only the warm and zealous ever get free from Babylon. (Z. '98-112; R.2289)

As it was the three most advanced ones of the Lord's followers who were granted that vision of the kingdom, so since then it is the most advanced, most humble, zealous, faithful who are granted the clearest visions, the clearest perceptions of the glories of the kingdom, and these are permitted to reveal to others of the elect little flock more and more of the grandeurs of the divine arrangement as each may be able to hear and appreciate and understand the same. (Z. '06-183; R.3793)

HIGH MOUNTAIN — The idea that this was Mt. Tabor prevailed extensively among the early Christians. However, some find it impossible to acquiesce in this opinion as correct, claiming that it can be proven from the Old Testament and from later history that a fortress or town existed on Tabor from very early times down to B.C. 53 or 50, and that as Josephus says that he strengthened the fortifications there in about A.D. 60, it is morally certain that Tabor must have been inhabited during the intervening period in Christ's time. "Apart" would seem to show that they were alone. (See S.B.D. p. 931) However, we believe that the opinions of the early Christians should be given as much weight or more than such deductions that are only "morally certain." The location accepted by many is Mt. Hermon. (See Z. '06-182; R.3793; and Z. '10-232; R.4649)

17:1-6 — This was a vision, not an actual change. A vision was just as useful to the purpose as the reality could have been. Similarly John had a vision on the isle of Patmos. He did not see literal crown, thrones, multitude, dragons, etc., but was shown them in a vision, in a manner which served the purpose equally well as if all these had been created for the purpose (and better for some of these would have been exceedingly out of place in the real heavens, and would have needed to be destroyed afterward.) So the transfiguration was merely an appearance; actually he had undergone no change. He appeared like as spirit beings are described, bright shining like the sun, but he was not yet a spirit being, and did not become such until his resurrection from the dead. He was still "the man Christ Jesus." His countenance and garments were caused to appear to be bright and the appearance served every purpose. (Z. '00-204; R.2659)

17:7 — ARISE, AND BE NOT AFRAID — Thus often, while it is good for us to remember and think of our own littleness and imperfections and unworthiness of divine favor, the fears that we will not be able to attain, that high character, that it is impossible, are apt to grasp and torture us. Then the Lord speaks to us, reminds us of his promises saying—"Arise (take up your work, your cross, be up and doing) and be not afraid" (fear not, remember I am with you and am stronger than all). "No man is able to pluck them out of my Father's hand." Our fears are because we do not know our Heavenly Father. The more we learn of him the more does the love of God cast our fear from our hearts, and assures us that he who created us is sympathetic towards all who are striving for righteousness.

He is a great God, not a little one. But he gives his chief blessings only to those in harmony with him. (Z. '10-233; R.4650)

May the Master's touch ever keep us more and more awake to the privileges of our position, to the glorious opportunities that are granted us of participation in his kingdom. (Z.'06-185; R.3795)

17:8 — AND WHEN THEY HAD LIFTED UP THEIR EYES — When we have seen a blessed picture of the kingdom, a vision, either at a convention or in personal Bible study, and have seen the wondrous glory of God's and Jesus' character and the brightness of their perfection and the wonderful glories we are promised to share with him if faithful; and after the glorious picture is passed, we think what shall we do to win this prize, how shall we attain it, how suffer with him? Then as we look up we see Jesus only, our Advocate and Redeemer, and we are shown that in him alone is our help, that God hath laid help upon one that is mighty to save, to deliver; and realizing that all our help is in Christ Jesus we should hold fast to our relationship to him, secured through the merit of his blood by faith, and through consecration to him. Thus holding fast and harkening to him and obeying we shall by and by realize this vision in glory with our Lord. (Z.'06-184; R.3794) Keep our eyes on him.

17:21-22 — See notes on Mark 9:28 and 29.

18:1-3 — See notes on Mark 9:33-37.

18:3 — LITTLE CHILDREN — Such a childlike spirit has nothing to do with the false standards of excellence which the world sets up, but measuring itself by the divine standard, it lives apart from the spirit of the world, far above its strifes, ambitions, bickerings, envy, and selfishness. They do not think of self too highly, but soberly. (Phil. 4:8) He who cultivates this spirit most will be greatest. Humility leads to greatness and of itself is a great achievement. It is just such loving generosity and meekness as this that will be necessary so the Royal Priesthood of the Millennial age can cooperate with Christ in the great work of uplifting the fallen to the high privileges of perfect manhood. (Z.'18-76) As we see the great value our Lord places on humility, it should encourage all true disciples to cultivate this quality daily in order to grow more guileless, honest, truly humble, and so become in the sight of the great King more and more great, and more and more fit for the high exaltations of the Kingdom to come. May all study well this lesson and learn from it how to advance themselves in the Lord's favor and how to be truly great according to this standard which alone shall prevail. (Z.'18-76 from Z.'00-206; R.2660 and Z.'95-33; R.1766)

18:6 — OFFEND — To stumble.

18:15 — IF THY BROTHER SHALL TRESPASS AGAINST THEE — "A" must not judge "B" in the sense of condemning him. He may only say "There is a difference between us and I feel sure that I am right"; though

“B” may feel equally confident that he is right and that “A” has not been wronged. “A” may not disfellowship “B” on this account, for to do so would be to condemn him. He may also count it a trivial matter. (F414)

GO AND TELL HIM HIS FAULT . . . ALONE — This would require great humility on the part of the one who felt himself aggrieved, for it is much easier for the fallen nature to resent and avoid the injurer than to go to him according to this rule. (Z.'00-216; R.2665)

IF HE SHALL HEAR THEE — “A” should thus forgive him and that most heartily. He may not even exact a penalty from “B,” but remember that God likewise have often forgiven “A,” and he should be like his Heavenly Father. He should not think of vengeance; but of love for his brother, seventy times seven. (F417)

THOU HAST GAINED THY BROTHER — Won his heart and affections and as a brother, a vast gain.

18:16 — BUT IF HE WILL NOT HEAR THEE — Even here “A” must not decide “B” is wrong, judge him. Perhaps mutual concessions may help.

THEN TAKE WITH THEE ONE OR TWO MORE — Brethren in whose sincerity “B” as well as “A” would have confidence. (F417) These should be without previous prejudice. (F289) “A” has no right to tell the trouble to these before bringing them to “B.” Then both sides should be told before them. These brethren are brought not to condemn “B,” for even “A” himself must not have judged. This should result satisfactorily to all especially if all have the spirit of love one for the other and the desire to do right toward one another as members of the anointed body. But if peace is not established there is still to be no judging, no condemning, for two or three brethren cannot judge but only the Church. (F415)

IN THE MOUTH OF TWO OR THREE WITNESSES — If the opinion of “C” and “D” were against “A” and in favor of “B,” that should end the matter. Then “A” could not take the question to the church. He evidently would be self-opinionated and heady to carry the matter further. The Lord’s instructions give him one further privilege. But we know of no principle that would be violated if he took two or three able and unprejudiced brethren, “E,” “F,” “G,” to “B” and had a fresh hearing of the case. (F145)

18:17 — AND IF HE SHALL NEGLECT TO HEAR THEM — If “B,” after a reasonable time refused to right the wrong.

TELL IT UNTO THE CHURCH — The whole matter should be rehearsed by “A” and “B” before the church (the fully consecrated only) for these are to sit in judgment in the name of the Lord, to deliver His judgment. (F416) The decision should be unanimous, or nearly so, even though this should require some modification of the extremes of sentiment. The matter is not to make a factional fight in the church, but to preserve its unity in the bonds of peace. "A" and "B" of course should not vote, nor should any who felt any other than a desire to express the Lord's judgment in the matter.

BUT IF HE NEGLECT TO HEAR THE CHURCH — The decision of the church should be final, accepted by all, even if it goes against the one who brought it before them, and whoever refuses to be conformed to its requirements in such a matter of morals (not of conscience) is to be regarded as a heathen.

LET HIM BE UNTO THEE AS AN HEATHEN — This does not mean to slander him. The Lord's people are not to be slanderers or backbiters under any circumstances. We are neither to speak ill of, nor look cross at publicans and sinners, nor to refuse to do business with them; but we are to withhold from them the special privileges, fellowship, and courtesy appropriate to the New Creation. The object is not to cast the brother off utterly but merely to show disfavor toward his wrong course, with a view to assist him to its correction. (F416) (See notes on 1 Cor. 5:5)

18:18 — WHATSOEVER YE SHALL LOOSE ON EARTH SHALL BE LOOSED IN HEAVEN — See notes on Matt. 16:19. The infallibility of the apostles did not make their actions perfect (Gal. 2:11-14) but merely over-ruled these so that their public utterances, teachings are infallible—the Word of God. (Luke 21:14,15; 12:11,12) This is the same infallibility that is claimed for the Popes—that when the Pope speaks officially (ex Cathedra) he is overruled of God and not permitted to err. This inerrancy of the Popes is claimed for them on the basis that they also are apostles, over-looking the fact that there are but twelve apostles of the Lamb. (Matt. 10:1-5; Mark 3:13-15; Luke 6:13-16; 9:1; Acts 1:2,13,17; 2:14; Rev. 21:14) (F224) As arguments which some use against the Apostles' infallibility see Peter's denial of Jesus; Gal. 2:11-14; Apostles expecting second Advent quickly (2 Pet. 1:15; Acts 16:3; 21:20-26)

18:21 — THEN CAME PETER TO HIM — The teaching of the Jewish rabbis on the subject of forgiveness was that if the wrongdoer repented of his evil words or actions and came to the aggrieved person, acknowledging his wrong and asking forgiveness, he should be forgiven as often as three times, basing their teaching on Job 33:27-30 (Margin) and Amos 2:4. (Z.'00-216; R.2666) Peter evidently recognized this principle in general; he saw it was his duty to forgive the trespasses of his repentant brother. But he was doubtful how far this principle should go. Early in his ministry our Lord had instructed them in the matter in the Lord's prayer. (Matt. 6:9-15) Peter was probably turning over in his mind the broad teachings he had received on general principles to ascertain of the Lord definitely how far this rule of forgiveness was to be applied in daily life. (Z. '98-124; R.2295)

TILL SEVEN TIMES? — Peter seems to have gotten the impression that the Lord's rule being different from that of the Rabbis in this respect, would probably be more generous and require that forgiveness be granted a larger number of times; hence Peter adds together the three and four times of Amos, seven in all, and asks if the Lord would have his followers be generous to that extent—seven times. The astonishment of the apostles must have been great to learn that forgiveness must be accorded times without number, practically. (Z. '00-216; R.2666) He no doubt thought he was making a very liberal suggestion seven times, but our Lord's answer must have given him still broader and deeper views. (Z. '98-124; R.2295)

18:22 — UNTIL SEVENTY TIMES SEVEN — This would signify not a limited number of times but an unlimited number. (It would manifest a wrong spirit in us to arbitrarily set a limit.) (Z. '00-216; R.2666) Peter no doubt may have had in mind the thought that seven is a symbol of perfection and that this might mark the reasonable limit of mercy and forgiveness. He did not, of course, consider that if that were a divine law it would mean that he himself might be forgiven of the Lord not more than seven times for imperfections, short comings. Evidently our Lord's thought was that forgiveness is to be granted as often as it is sought with any manifestation whatever of sincerity. This is not merely advice from the Master to his followers—it is a command. (Z. '06-198; R.3801)

18:23 — THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN — This shows that the parable is not of general application—to the world—but only to the Kingdom of heaven class—the Church, called to the High Calling. (Z. '98-125; R.2295) This declaration lifts the parable entirely out of connection with the world in general, which is not either in embryo or otherwise, the Kingdom of Heaven. It definitely locates the parable in the Church. The one thus dealt with does not represent the race of sinners, Adam and his race, for whose deliverance from the penalty a Ransom price is demanded by Justice. The parable is often thus used improperly against the Bible argument that the penalty against Adam and the race could not be lifted except someone should pay it in their stead—give himself a Ransom. (Z. '06-198; R.3801)

HIS SERVANTS — Those who already have been justified through faith in Christ and made a thorough consecration of themselves to the Lord and become thus His servants entrusted with his goods. (Z. '06-198; R.3801; Z. '10-234; R.4650)

18:24 — These officers entrusted with the collection of taxes.

TEN THOUSAND TALENTS — $9,375,000 about. This would represent a steward (Christian) who had come greatly short in his use of opportunities, time talents.

18:25 — Justice laid hold upon the debtor and was about to execute the penalty. So it would be with us if we did not have our Advocate.

18:26 — LORD, HAVE PATIENCE WITH ME, AND I WILL PAY THEE ALL — This would signify that if any of the Lord's people come short they have a throne of grace and mercy to come to and "obtain mercy and grace to help in time of need." (Heb. 4:16) (Z.'06-198; R.3802)

18:27 — FORGAVE HIM THE DEBT — This does not refer to original sin. It was not and cannot be cancelled on account of prayer, but must be satisfied not by the prayer of saints, but by the precious blood of Christ. (Z.'10-234; R.4650) That he might do what he could toward the payment of the debt. (Z.'00-218; R.2667) This suggestion to us that our sins are not blotted out, but merely covered. (Psa. 31:1, 2) Our sins are covered from the Lord's sight, and we were treated as though we owed him nothing, by his grace exercised through Christ and his imputed merit, atoning sacrifice; This reckoned forgiveness will be made actual by and by and the debt cancelled entirely, if according to our Covenant of Sacrifice we have made with the Lord, we shall prove faithful in cultivating his Spirit of Love and become copies of Jesus, forgiving others as we would be forgiven by the Lord, loving, sympathizing, helpful to others, as we have been treated by the Lord. (Z.'00-218; R.2667) The generosity of the king represents God's generosity toward us through Christ.

18:28 — AN HUNDRED PENCE — A very trifling amount, as compared to his own debt to the king. Literally about $15.00, but proportionately to our time and money not more than $100. (Penny = a day's wage.)

TOOK HIM BY THE THROAT, SAYING, PAY ME THAT THOU OWEST — He went forth from the King's presence with his kind words ringing in his ears and in the exercise of his unmerited freedom, and used these harsh methods with a fellow servant. (Z.'06-198; R.3802)

18:29 — HAVE PATIENCE WITH ME, AND I WILL PAY THEE ALL — The fellowservant used the very same words he had used to the King and this should have reminded him of his own debt and his Lord's mercy.

18:30 — CAST HIM INTO PRISON — He was hard hearted, not at all after the likeness of his King.

18:31 — HIS FELLOWSERVANTS . . . TOLD UNTO THEIR LORD ALL THAT WAS DONE — Even his fellow servants recognized the evil. They felt a pity for the unfortunate one. They knew well enough the king's generous disposition to be sure that he would not favor such an intemperate exercise of Justice.

18:32 — WICKED SERVANT — This forgiven but unforgiving servant, “wicked,” not fit to be the King's servant.

I FORGAVE THEE ALL THAT DEBT, BECAUSE THOU DESIREDST ME — The attitude of God toward his servants now. (See notes on 1 John 2:1; Luke 17:3,4)

18:33 — EVEN AS I HAD PITY ON THEE? — The question was left without an answer, the answer was clearly enough implied. He who had received so great mercy should have had compassion toward a fellow servant in a small affair. (Z. '06-199; R.3802)

18:34 — HIS LORD WAS WROTH — He had proven himself unworthy of the mercy bestowed upon him. Nor was it too late yet to punish him, for his debt had merely been set aside, and not blotted out. Thus it is with all the Lord's people; we are dealt with on the basis of faith. God is in earnest if we are in earnest. Our blemishes and shortcomings will not be permitted to stand between us and the glorious things to which we have been called; if we are faithful to the extent of our ability. But if we have not the Spirit of Christ, we are none of his. (Z. '06-199; R.3802)

TORMENTORS — So was the custom in those days; not that the Lord had sympathy with such barbarous customs, but he was speaking to the disciples from the standpoint of custom which they would understand. The Scriptures assure us that any who are the true servants of the Lord, and who fail to come into accord with his spirit willingly, will be turned over to Satan, to tribulation, hard experiences that by these they may be profited and learn to appreciate things from the Lord's standpoint. (1 Cor. 5:4,6; 1 Tim. 1:20) The “great tribulation” of the Great Company (Rev. 7:14) corresponds to the torments here of this parable; also the weeping, wailing, and gnashing of teeth in Matt. 25:30. (Z. '06-199; R.3802) This might mean financial difficulties or losses, physical ailments, disease or what not. Not infrequently, we believe the Lord sometimes uses these agencies to teach his servants important lessons respecting their own weaknesses and introduces and develops in them patience with others and more of his own Holy Spirit—meekness, patience, gentleness, brotherly kindness, love. (Z. '98-126; R.2295) If the debt be understood as representing the whole or in part the obligations of his servant as a New Creature, then the penalty on him for failure to develop and manifest his characteristics of the New Creature during the time of trial [or the failure to use properly the opportunities and talents entrusted to his care, his abuse or misuse of them; for the servant seems to have used for his own benefit (serve the flesh or ambition, etc.) the things which belonged to his King]. May mean that such an one would be required to comply with the full details of his consecration vow, by going into the great time of trouble and there meeting the full demands of his covenant, and learning effectually the lesson of love and sympathy and appreciate the grace of God in the forgiveness of sins, as he never before appreciated it. (Z. '00-219; R.2667)

TILL HE SHOULD PAY ALL THAT WAS DUE UNTO HIM — Until he should pay all that he had vowed in consecration to the Father, the destruction of the flesh. Those who will not learn to exercise mercy and forgiveness will suffer the Second Death. (Z. '00-219; R.2667; Z. '10-234; R.4650) How solemn these words! How clear cut! and how unmistakable their import! In no uncertain terms they assure us that whatever our faith, whatever our works, they all amount to nothing if we do not attain to that spirit of love which is merciful, generous, patient, long-suffering toward those who do injury to us; whether they be brethren of whom we might expect the more, or enemies of the world, of whom we expect less consideration. Mercy is an element of love, (1 Cor. 13:4-8) and love is the fulfilling of the whole Law of God. The propriety of the Lord's dealing thus is evident. He is seeking a special class for the kingdom—to be Jesus' associates in the great work of ruling and blessing the world. Only those who possess the divine character of patience, forbearance, sympathy, compassion, mercy, love could possibly be suited to the divine purpose in respect to the great work of blessing all the families of the earth. We are accepted in Christ because of our profession that we love these qualities in him and desire to be copies of God's dear Son. If we fail to improve the various lessons and opportunities afforded by the Lord to cultivate this character, then in the same proportion we fail to make our calling and election sure. (Z. '06-199; R.3802)

There is a general tendency to require others to measure up to our standard of justice, by some sort of penance, before we forgive them. It is against this very spirit that our Lord was teaching and to counteract which he gave this parable. We are to remember that the Lord will require us to live up to the standard we set for others. If our standard in dealing with others be exact justice we may expect no mercy of the Lord. (James 2:13) And what would this mean as to the sins that are past through the forbearance of God, and what it means as to the obligations upon us every day and hour to whose full requirements we are unable to measure? As we cannot come to the Lord ourselves on the score of Justice so we are not to exact it of others. As we must ask of the Lord mercy, grace, forgiveness, so we must be willing to extend to others the same when they trespass against us; and as heartily, quickly and freely as we hope for ourselves. (See Luke 17:3, 4)

God has not laid down this rule in an arbitrary fashion, as simply saying if you do not forgive others, I will not forgive you. There is a deeper reason.

He wishes to develop in us his own spirit, his own character, a likeness or copy of which was exhibited to us in the person and life of his dear Son, our Lord Jesus. It is absolutely essential therefore, that we shall have the character he desires, or else we can never attain to the joint-heirship in the Kingdom which he is pleased to extend. Hence we are to understand that this requirement and command is with a view to develop us as copies of his dear Son, in order that He may bestow upon us, in due time, all the riches of his grace, contained in the exceeding great and precious promises of his Word. (Z. '00-219; R.2667)

If we do not forgive our fellow creatures and that not merely in word, but in deed and from the heart, neither will our Heavenly Father forgive our trespasses, and though he has covered them generously from his sight and treated us as justified by faith, yet he would remember our trespasses against him and thus our justification would lapse. (Z. '00-219; R.2667)

18:35 — IF YE FROM YOUR HEARTS FORGIVE NOT EVERY ONE HIS BROTHER THEIR TRESPASSES —

From a heart filled with malice, hatred, strife and the spirit of selfishness, merely topped off with a coat of benevolence and generosity, one could not dip much of the spirit of forgiveness without dipping out some of the bitterness and hatred. But a heart emptied of these, and filled with brotherly kindness we may dip a cup of forgiveness on every occasion and as often as applied for and it will be without a mixture of evil, bitterness, sarcasm, etc. But this Holy Spirit did not at first abound richly in our hearts, it gradually displaced a wrong spirit as the Holy Spirit increased in our hearts. So those who are able from their hearts to dip the cup of forgiveness repeatedly and without mixture of evil, thereby give evidence that they have been with Jesus and learned of him, drunk deeply of his spirit, purged out the old leaven of malice, and are being sanctified by the truth and being made meet for the inheritance of the Saints in light. But this is a gradual work, requiring patience and perseverance in well doing, mortifying the old nature and its evil disposition, so that our minds may be renewed under the transforming influence of the truth and its spirit in which we are to grow daily. (Z. '00-216; R.2666)

The formal outward forgiveness with smooth words is only lip-deep, and means that a wrangling of an evil, unforgiving spirit is within, and that it will only be a matter of time till the pent up force of malice and hatred will break forth in words of slander. (Z. '98-125; R.2295)

It is not that God wishes to retaliate saying, "If you are mean toward others I will be mean toward you." But rather the lesson is—"I am kind to the unthankful. I have been very gracious to you in the forgiveness of your original sins, and in accepting your consecration to be my servant, and in bringing you into my family, but I have called you to this position for a special purpose and you will not be fit nor prepared for the service I desire of you unless you learn the lesson of forgiveness and generosity. For your sake I make the rule that I will be no more generous to you and your imperfection than you are generous toward your brethren in their imperfections. I do this to teach you a great lesson that you cannot learn so well in any other way. I seek in you as my servant, perfection in my character likeness. Because I desire you progress in this character-likeness and so come to the position where I can use you in my service more abundantly." (Z. '10-234; R.4650)

The Christian is to have the loving, generous disposition of heart, a copy of the heavenly Father's disposition. In trivial affairs he is to have so much sympathy and love that will take no notice, just as God for Christ's sake deals with us, and does not impute sin to us, except as it represents knowledge and willfulness. With such a rule operating among Christians, a determination not to recognize as an offence anything that is not purposely done, or intended as an offence, would be a great blessing to all, and the proper God-like course. The disposition to forgive should be with us always and manifested at all times. Our loving generosity and kindness and desire to think no evil, or as little evil as possible, should be manifest by all the words and acts of life. Our hearts should be full of this loving disposition toward forgiveness that our faces would not have a hard look nor our words a bitter sting. We will be longing and anxious to exercise the forgiveness outwardly and express it to the repentant ones. (Z. '98-126; R.2295)

If a brother trespass against us it should be our first thought that this wrong done us is not by the brother, the New Creature in Christ, but by his mortal flesh, which for the moment has gotten the upper hand with him, or to some extent blinded. Accordingly, instead of feeling angry with the brother, our hearts should go out to him in sympathy, and our desire be strong to do him good and help him overcome the weakness of his earthly vessel. (Z. '00-216; R.2666) Also see Z. '12-67; R.4976.

19:22 — HE HAD GREAT POSSESSIONS — Some of his money, time, talent might have been expended at once for the Lord and his apostles, and thus the young man might at once have had a share in the Harvest work. Were our Lord and his apostles in need? No. The Father saw to it that sufficient means were provided for the work, and so always. God is not dependent upon human generosity. While he is pleased to use it, and thus to grant a blessing to those who seek to render service to his cause, yet his cause would not be left destitute if no one appreciated the privilege.

19:24 — In olden times the city was enclosed by a wall with gates, which were shut at sun-down for fear of robbers, etc. In the city gate was a small door called the needle's eye. When the gates were closed the Watchman guarded merely the needle's eye, and admission to it was designedly tedious to prevent the intrusion of enemies. It was said to be possible for a camel to squeeze its way through on its knees, if its load be first removed. (Z. '18-89; See Luke 18:25)

19:28 — IN THE REGENERATION — The times of Restitution (Acts 3:19-21) and of resurrection by judgment. (John 5:29—R.V.) The time when the second Adam and Eve (Jesus and the Church, glorified) will regenerate (give life anew) the race of man. (1 Cor. 15:22, 47)

SIT IN THE THRONE OF HIS GLORY — The throne of the Millennial Kingdom.

JUDGING THE TWELVE TRIBES OF ISRAEL — This shows that the human race will be grouped under Israel's twelve tribes (see Acts 17:26; Deut. 32:8) "Know ye not that the Saints shall judge the world?" (1 Cor. 6:2; Dan. 7:22) (Z. '10-54; R.4556)

20:21 — SIT . . . ON THY RIGHT HAND . . . THE LEFT — It would not surprise us to find the Apostle Paul in one of these.

20:22 — ARE YE ABLE TO DRINK OF THE CUP — Are you able to lay down your lives completely, even though this shall mean to you injustice in the taking away of your lives? There will be disgrace and ignominy connected with it all. Are ye willing to share with Me in this, My Cup? They were willing. This we see is the same cup represented in the Communion service. The bread represented the body and the wine the blood of our Lord. The Cup specially represented the shame and ignominy connected with his death, and the two disciples said they were willing to share his cup—they had no hesitance. At any cost they would be faithful, comply with any conditions he should make. They did not, of course, yet know the full import of the word "Baptism," or of the word "Cup." These were things all His disciples were feeling after. When Pentecost would come these things Jesus had spoken to them would come to their remembrance as he had foretold. But they were willing and anxious. Jesus guaranteed that, being willing, they should have these experiences; that continuing willing, continuing to suffer with him here, they should reign with him in His Throne. But as to the particular place for each in the Throne, that was not for him to say, but for the Father. The courage, the fortitude of our dear Redeemer in walking the narrow way fills us with admiration. How strong and brave was His character! He had no thought of looking back; His whole being was intent upon accomplishing the will of his Father in Heaven, upon sacrificing himself in the interest of the world. What a noble example was set before the Apostles! Greatness in humility, victory through entire self-surrender! The drinking of our Lord's cup by the Church represents our participation in the sufferings of Christ in the present time. All must drink, and the entire cup must be drained during this age. (Z. '14-85: R.5421) See Note on Mark 14:36.

BE BAPTIZED WITH THE BAPTISM THAT I AM BAPTIZED

WITH? — We also are desirous of sharing the Kingdom with our Lord, not from a desire to have exaltation above others, but from a desire to have this evidence that we please our Heavenly Father, to have this closeness of relationship to Him and to participate with our dear Redeemer in the work of blessing of all the families of the earth. It is well to have in mind our Lord's answer, and know that unless we partake of his cup and are immersed into his death, we can have no share in his glorious kingdom. Let us count all else as loss and dross to obtain this necessary experience. As it comes to us, let us not be fearful, not think strange of the fiery trials that shall try us, as though some strange thing happened unto us. (1 Pet. 2:21) On the contrary, even hereunto were we called, that now we might suffer with our Lord and soon be glorified with him.

20:23 — YE SHALL DRINK INDEED OF MY CUP — This cup is sweet and precious in many senses of the word, to be privileged to participate in the sufferings of the Christ, in any sacrifice or services for the Lord and His cause. The sweet mingles freely with the bitter. But the Lord promises that in the future the cup of new wine in the Kingdom will more than compensate for any bitterness of the present time. (Z. '14-91; R.5426)

PREPARED OF MY FATHER — The placing of the members in the Body of is in the Father's hands. Not that God arbitrarily appoints them, but that the Father's prearranged plan is that each of the followers of Jesus shall have places of honor in the Kingdom proportionate to their zeal of faithfulness in the present time. (See Luke 19:12-26)

20:28 — THE SON OF MAN CAME NOT TO BE MINISTERED UNTO, BUT TO MINISTER — Before coming into the world our Savior had perceived man's need of a Savior, and no doubt this had to do with his gladly accepting the Divine arrangement. He saw something of the Father's purpose, and when during his earthly life he saw these poor creatures in sin, degradation and weakness, he did not try to make them slaves. He did not try to use his power, his intelligence selfishly, for his own comfort; but he laid down his life unselfishly. He set himself to work out the plan which the Father had arranged. He did not come into the world to have servants and to get all that he could in return for the expenditure a small amount of his own energy. He came not from any selfish motive whatever, but to serve others, to do good. "Greater love hath no man than this that he lay down his life for his friends." Not that Jesus refused to have anyone serve him, but his purpose in coming was not to be served but to render a service, and to carry out his purpose he had to become a servant. Had there been no need for that service, we cannot think the Lord would have humbled himself, taken a bondman's form and undergone the severe trials of his earthly life. But he came to render a service that was necessary to the well-being and happiness, yea the very life of the entire human family. According to the Divine plan and Law there must be a Ransom price for the first perfect man, who had sinned. The only begotten was willing to meet this necessity; He rejoiced to be the servant of God for this purpose; to do this work, because of the need of the service, because it would bring blessings to others. This is the Spirit which should activate every one of us. We should desire to incorporate into our character this principle of service. We should not serve merely because we like to work, like to be busy, but because we perceive there is a work necessary, and we are glad to lay down our lives in this blessed service. (Z.'14-6; R.5375) (See Mark 10:43 notes)

21:1 — THEY DREW NIGH UNTO JERUSALEM — This was Sunday morning. The Sabbath (Saturday) had been spent in Bethany. (N-3-20-10)

21:9 — THE MULTITUDES . . . CRIED, SAYING — On previous occasions, when they sought to make Jesus a king, after witnessing his marvellous works, he withdrew himself from them to wait for their ardor to cool, knowing that the Father's time was not yet due. But now he knew that his hour was come, and hence instead of hindering he helped on the enthusiasm by sending for the ass. (N-3-20-10)

21:16 — YEA; HAVE YE NEVER READ, OUT OF THE MOUTH OF BABES AND SUCKLINGS THOU HAST PERFECTED PRAISE? — Indeed everywhere we find that earthly wisdom is apt to misinterpret divine purposes. Very frequently therefore, the Lord makes use of the weak, the poor, the meek, the ignorant instead. (Z.'06-283; R.3852)

21:19 — HE CAME TO IT, AND FOUND NOTHING THEREON, BUT LEAVES ONLY — Mark points out that this was not the season for figs. Winter figs remain on from the autumn and ripen early the next season, and these would have been ripe at this time, the "first ripe figs," not the summer fruit, but the winter crop. These first ripe or early figs are not as luscious as the later crop but are edible and good food to the hungry. The fact that there were not even winter figs on it showed the tree to be barren. Jesus used this tree as a type of the Jewish nation. This time was the 11th of Nisan. (See Dean Alford, and Diag.)

21:22 — ASK IN PRAYER, BELIEVING, YE SHALL RECEIVE — As Jesus was addressing his consecrated disciples it must of course be understood that all their petitions would be subject to Divine Wisdom, and hence the answer to their prayers, though always sure, might not always be in the way expected, but they would always be considered and answered in some way for their highest good. (Z.'10-140; R.4603)

21:28 — A CERTAIN MAN — Representing Jehovah.

HAD TWO SONS — The Jewish nation who were called of God and professed to be his people, willing to do his bidding. God treated them not like slaves but more like sons. They were divided into two classes. This and verse 32 defines the two classes.

21:29 — BUT AFTERWARD HE REPENTED, AND WENT — The other class were making no pretence of serving God, and were branded as publicans and sinners (practicers of sin willingly) by the first class. But when Jesus came and John's message went forth, followed by the teachings of Jesus and the Apostles, these same publicans were the ones ready to receive him.

21:30 — AND HE ANSWERED AND SAID, I GO SIR: AND WENT NOT — These were the outwardly pious and religious Scribes and Pharisees, who said—"Yes, we will serve God," but really they sought not the divine service, but the service of their parties, sects, and their own personal aims, honor, fame. These finding that Jesus' message was in conflict with their teachings, repudiated Jesus, refused to do work in the vineyard, in any but their own way.

21:32 — REPENTED NOT AFTERWARD, THAT YE MIGHT BELIEVE HIM — One of the charges against Jesus was that he received and ate with publicans and sinners. (Matt. 9:10; 11:18; Luke 7:33-35) (Z. '10-285; R.4678) Matthew was a publican. (Chap. 10:3; 9:9)

21:33 — HOUSEHOLDER — Jehovah.

WHICH PLANTED A VINEYARD — The vineyard of the Lord of hosts is the house of Israel. (Isa. 5:1-7; Jer. 2:21; John 15)

AND HEDGED IT ROUND ABOUT — With his protecting power and his promises and special supervision. (Isa. 5:4) This may be also the "middle wall of partition" Eph. 2:14 at the gate of which the Lazarus class sat. See Isa.5.

DIGGED A WINEPRESS IN IT — Something to bring out the sweetness of the ripe fruits of character, his arrangements of worship and instruction and blessings for good and punishments for evil.

AND BUILT A TOWER — A place for watchers, the prophets. (Jer. 25:3, 4; 35:14, 15; 7:13, 25; 11:7, 8; 6:17) @SECOND PAR = AND LET IT OUT TO HUSBANDMEN — The prominent religionists, "the scribes and Pharisees sit in Moses' seat, etc." (Matt. 23:2, 3) Their duty was to care for the vines and fruitage and render to the owner the results, except a small portion which they kept for themselves.

WENT INTO A FAR COUNTRY — Signifying that a long time would elapse between the making of these Law arrangements until the time when full fruitage and the harvest would be required.

21:34 — TIME FOR THE FRUIT DREW NEAR — When the Lord had a right to expect some fruitage, and when there should have been if his lessons and teachings had been rightly received. (see notes Matt. 23:32-35)

21:35 — TOOK HIS SERVANTS — The prophets. See Heb. 11:36, 37.

21:36 — HE SENT OTHER SERVANTS MORE THAN THE FIRST — Perhaps the later prophets during and after the captivity down to John.

21:37 — HE SENT UNTO THEM HIS SON — At the time of the harvest. All the previous prophets should have received the kindest treatment and abundance of fruitage of meekness, gentleness, patience, etc. and the Son should have been joyfully received as such.

21:38 — THIS IS THE HEIR — “Whom he hath appointed heir of all things.” (Heb. 1:2)

LET US KILL HIM, AND LET US SEIZE ON HIS INHERITANCE — They somehow got the impression that they could Lord it over God’s heritage, that they were divinely appointed to do so (John 7:45-49) and that anyone reproving them or showing their hypocrisies or liberating the people from subservience to them, whoever he might be, even the heir, they were at liberty to kill. (Z. ’10-285; R.4678)

21:41 — WHICH SHALL RENDER HIM THE FRUITS IN THEIR SEASONS — The Scribes and Pharisees and Law Doctors, who were using God’s promises and blessings and their opportunities selfishly and in disregard of the Almighty—were dispossessed. Their government was destroyed (by Titus in A.D. 70) and the divine favor and privileges as God’s mouthpieces, which they once enjoyed were taken from them (A.D. 33-1/2 “House left desolate”) and given to others, the Apostles and their associates (A.D. 33 Pentecost) all down the Gospel age. (Z. ’10-285; R.4678) See Mark 12:1-12; Luke 20:9-18 (Z. ’14-221; R.5504)

21:43 — TO A NATION BRINGING FORTH THE FRUITS THEREOF — So now the kingdom of God will be taken away from the unfaithful husbandmen and given to Jesus and the Church glorified, taken from the earth entirely, to the heavenly plane and power and glory. (Z. ’10-285; R.4678)

21:44 — STONE SHALL BE BROKEN — Stumble over it, while as the headstone of the great pyramid (God's Kingdom) it is not yet in place. (Zech. 4:7) The building is not fully set up, before He is made manifest as the head overall; hence during the Jewish Harvest and Gospel ages. Such a one who stumbles will suffer loss in the sense of being broken but not beyond repair. (Z. '10-285; R.4678)

IT WILL GRIND HIM TO POWDER — In the Millennial Age when He shall rule and execute judgment. Grind to Powder means the Second Death. (Z. '10-285; R.4678; Z. '14-223; R.5505) See Luke 10:9-18.

22:2 — THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN — In its embryotic condition.

A CERTAIN KING — Jehovah.

MADE A MARRIAGE FOR HIS SON — Jesus Christ, the marriage of the Lamb.

22:3 — SENT FORTH HIS SERVANTS — During the 3-1/2 years of Jesus ministry. (Luke 9:60; 21:31; Matt. 10:7)

TO CALL THEM THAT WERE BIDDEN — The Jewish people, children of Abraham, had been invited to this high honor since the giving of the Law Covenant at Sinai. Century after century they waited for the announcement to be made to them, that the nuptial feast was ready. Finally when Jesus came the announcement went to them "All things are now ready come to the feast!" (Z. '10-286; R.2678)

AND THEY WOULD NOT COME — They were too busy going about to establish their own righteousness. (Rom. 10:1-3) Too busy with own affairs to bother about the Kingdom. This was the attitude of the rulers overcharged with cares of this life—business, politics, and religious schemes of own concocting.

22:4 — I HAVE PREPARED MY DINNER — During the 3-1/2 years after the death of Christ up to the conversion of Cornelius. This corresponds with Luke 14:21. The call was still confined to the Jews, till the 70 weeks were up.

MY OXEN AND MY FATLINGS ARE KILLED — The Ransom is paid. Jesus was the bullock slain. The dinner was the feast of good things pertaining to the spiritual phase of the kingdom.

22:5 — BUT THEY MADE LIGHT OF IT — Their eyes were blinded by pride so that they could not see "in Him anything such as they would desire" and "they hid their faces from Him." (Rom. 11:7-10)

ANOTHER TO HIS MERCHANDISE — Their heads bowed down, seeing only the earthly things.

22:6 — AND THE REMNANT — The Jews who would not accept Christ as did Paul before he was converted.

22:7 — AND BURNED UP THEIR CITY — With Titus' army in A.D. 70. City represents government. Murderers—they were murderers of Jesus and His disciples “His blood be upon our head and the heads of our children” (Matt. 27:25) and they had the spirit of murderers.

22:9 — GO YE THEREFORE INTO THE HIGHWAYS — Among the nations, Gentiles, outside the city of Israel, to those who previously were “strangers from the Covenants of Promise and aliens, from the Commonwealth of Israel.” (Eph. 2:12)

22:10 — BOTH BAD AND GOOD — Both genuine Christians and imitation Christians, or some from both bad people and good people. See Matt. 13:47, 48.

AND THE WEDDING WAS FURNISHED WITH GUESTS — Ultimately, by 1881. The call has attracted some naturally very fallen as well as some better favored by nature. But the arrangements of the great king provides the “wedding garment” to cover all the blemishes of the most imperfect as well as those of the least imperfect. (Z. '10-286; R.2678)

22:11 — WHEN THE KING CAME IN — A.D. 1878 the parallel of Jesus' ride to Jerusalem and presenting Himself as King in A.D. 33. This shows an inspection of each individual which shall reject some and accept others. (C198)

WHICH HAD NOT ON A WEDDING GARMENT — The imputed righteousness of Christ, provided by our host, Jehovah (Rom. 8:30-34) imputed to everyone believing and trusting in Him and consecrated, without which no one is acceptable at the marriage of the Lamb, and without which no guest is admitted. The invitation and wedding robe are both necessary and the parable shows that only those so clothed will be admitted to the antechamber of special preparation (into the light of present truth where the bride makes herself finally ready.) (Rev. 19:7) These guests spend the short time previous to the Marriage feast (the harvest time) in adjusting their robes and giving to themselves and each other the finishing touches of preparation and meanwhile are feasting already by faith on the prospect before them. The Bridegroom, the grand future work, the glorious inheritance, and the present work of preparation are the special and constant themes of their thoughts and conversation. (C199) For the rest see Luke 14:15.

22:12 — NOT HAVING A WEDDING GARMENT? — A gentle but forcible reminder that the wearing of the robe was the very condition of his admission to the favors enjoyed. That he had on the robe when he came in, or else he could not have come in, and that he must have taken it off afterwards.

AND HE WAS SPEECHLESS — He could not answer without condemning himself. Such cannot deny that it was while wearing the robe that they were admitted and they do not like to acknowledge it. (C203)

22:13 — THEN SAID THE KING TO THE SERVANTS — The servants who are directed to do the binding are those who have the truth on the subject, and who can bind the influence of such with scriptural testimonies on the value and necessities of the precious blood and its applied merit (the robe). These bound ones are restrained from making any further progress toward the truth, and from deceiving others of those in the truth. See Barbour. (Zech. 11:17)

BIND HIM HAND AND FOOT — The binding or restraining makes an example of such before the consecrated and helps all the truly loyal ones to see most clearly the necessity and value of the robe in the King's estimation.

CAST HIM INTO OUTER DARKNESS — The outer darkness is the darkness of the worldly wise, the darkness of human reasoning undirected by God's word and unsquared by His revealed plan of the ransom and restitution. In struggling against these arguments of Scripture, the disrobed ones are forced by their own arguments and efforts to justify themselves, out of the light into outer darkness. Their appreciation of present Truth—the Lord's presence and present and future work—begins to grow more and more dim and borne along by false reasonings upon false premises, they gradually or rapidly according to temperament drift toward worldly views of things, outer darkness. (C205) The light that was in them is become darkness. (Matt. 6:22, 23)

WEEPING AND GNASHING OF TEETH — See Matt. 13:42 and notes.

22:14 — MANY ARE CALLED, BUT FEW ARE CHOSEN — The text might imply that many are called to the divine nature, but few make their calling and election sure. But also justified believers are called to this high calling by God. If we assume that throughout the age all the justified were granted that privilege in order that they might be ready, it would show the force of the declaration here, for few accept the call. The Scriptures show a wide distinction between merely a position of tentative justification and one of acceptance with God. (Rom. 8:28) Only such called ones as accept the call by making a full consecration of themselves belong to this "chosen" class. (Z.'07-315; R.4077)

These chosen ones are begotten of the holy Spirit and adopted as Spirit begotten sons of God and are now in the school of Christ to develop in grace, knowledge, love, etc., and to test the thoroughness of their consecration. (Z. '07-315; R.4077)

22:37 — THOU SHALT LOVE THE LORD THY GOD WITH ALL THY HEART . . . SOUL . . . MIND — Our Covenant with the Lord is to love Him with all our heart, mind, soul, and strength, and our neighbor as ourselves. We are to live up to this standard in the spirit of our minds so far as we are able by Divine assistance, true to the merit of the precious blood to cover our unavoidable deficiencies. Yea, we are to lay down our lives for the brethren. The temptation comes to love other things more, to love self more than we love God, and the brethren. The Lord permits these trials and temptations and difficulties to come to us. The way we meet these we think will have much to do in deciding whether we shall be worthy of the highest crown of life. Those who do not love the Lord with all their hearts in whom self or some other idol has first place, will be seduced by the world, the flesh, or the Devil into some form of rebellion against the divine Word or divine providences. They will have schemes, theories, plans, or desires which they will prefer to the Lord's Plan and way; and their own theories, plans, and ways will be found when analyzed to be based on selfishness and ambition or an evil spirit of hatred, jealousy, or pride. (Z. '15-150; R.5687)

22:40 — THESE TWO COMMANDMENTS HANG ALL THE LAW AND THE PROPHETS — The Law of Love, of the Spirit of life, as the Law of the New Creation, fulfills nine out of ten of these Commandments.

- (1) Thou shalt have no other gods before me. (John 4:24) Our heart must bow to Him intelligently if we offer acceptable worship. Also Mark 12:30. If we love Him with all our heart, soul, mind, strength, we could not have any other gods before Him.
- (2) Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, any likeness, idol. (1 John 5:20, 21)
- (3) Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain. (James 5:12; Matt. 5:33-37)
- (5) Honor thy father and thy mother. (Eph. 6:1)
- (6) (7) (8) (9) (10) (Rom. 13:8-10)

As to the fourth Commandment, the Sabbath, we are released from its literal observation, (Col. 2:16, 17 q.v.) (Bro. Hollister)

23:15 — HELL — Fit for destruction. (Gehenna, second death.)

THAN YOURSELVES — Here the proselyte was originally a Gentile, already under condemnation because he did not live up to his conscience light. (Rom. 2:14, 15; 3:9-12; A101) Then when he became a Jew he was under the Law and condemned because he could not keep it. (Jas. 2:10; Rom. 3:20) And when he became like the Pharisees, hypocrites, there was a worse condemnation added. Besides this hypocrisy might be carried to a still worse extent of licentiousness by the proselyte (C178) Similar case to (Matt. 12:43-45)

STRAIN AT A GNAT — An allusion to the custom of the Jews (also Greeks and Romans) of passing their wines through a strainer. The Jews did it from religious scruples, but the Gentiles from cleanliness. (Diag.)

23:32 — FILL YE UP THEN THE MEASURE OF YOUR FATHERS —
“Fill up the cup of iniquity which your fathers began,” until it is full and then retribution will be poured upon you. “The sins of the fathers visited on the children unto the third and fourth generation,” and each generation adding its own iniquity to its fathers, the cup was heaped and filled to the brim. Truth and light had been given from time to time through prophets, etc., to the ancestors of the Jews. If this light had been heeded it would have made the Jews ready by Christ’s time, to receive Him with open arms. God had evidently arranged to send Jesus at about 4000 years after the fall, and evidently saw to it that enough light and truth and even time prophecy were given to make it possible, if it were rightly received, for man (the Jewish people) to receive Christ in full. Yet He knew beforehand the result. At the time set, Jesus came, at the time of reckoning, when the light given should have ripened fruit. But the light had ever been rejected, the prophets slain, and each generation had added its quota of iniquity, until the condition of heart was reached (as the logical result, and by God’s Law of cause and effect the only, inevitable result) which slew the Son of God, who always did good, and whose every act was love. Just it was, therefore, that retribution should be poured out on that generation, for its cup of iniquity was full, the last great finale being the murder, the crucifixion of Christ, and at their hand was required the blood of all that had been slain of God’s messengers (the general penalty was demanded of them), for they had developed the spirit of murder and hatred which their fathers’ had shown and completed it. They had filled up the measure of their Fathers. (See Gen. 15:16) As the Jewish nation was a type of Christendom—see Rev. 18:24; Jer. 51:49 for the parallel—this was the wrath to the uttermost which came upon Jerusalem and that seems to have squared up the account so far as the past was concerned (for the Jews). (Z. ’10-235; R.4651)

23:35 — THAT UPON YOU MAY COME ALL THE RIGHTEOUS BLOOD SHED UPON THE EARTH — Murder is evidently one of the most serious of crimes from the divine standpoint, whether it be murder actually or only hatred of another, which Jesus said was indicative of a murderous heart. “Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints.” (Psa. 116:15) This means that He takes special note of their death. Justice cries for vengeance. The merit of Christ, ultimately to be applied as the redemption price for the sins of the world, would not, apparently, cover such transgression to the full (not the willful part of it). It would cover such portion as belonged to Adamic weakness or heredity, but a certain portion would be uncovered. Hence we may suppose that a certain amount of obligation would attach to those individuals who committed the murders, and more or less retribution due them for their misdeeds. But apparently the Lord has purposed that since some needed to suffer, he would allow a certain liquidation of this murder account, to be visited upon the Jews at the end of the Jewish Age. (Z. '10-235; R.4651)

THE BLOOD OF ZACHARIAS — Jesus here spoke prophetically of that Zacharias who was massacred “in the middle of the holy place” three years before the final destruction of Jerusalem. Josephus says he was a just man. (Diag. note) See 2 Chron. 24:20. Possibly refers to Zechariah, son of Jehoiacha, as a particularly flagrant case. The objection here is that this leaves the Jews innocent of the blood shed during 900 years of the most scandalous period of their history. Others think it was the Zacharias mentioned above. Thus a prophecy. Abel the first, and Zecharias the last. A Greek verb is in first Aorist tense, but looking into future. (Diag.) Luke 11:49 does not give the name of the father.

24:1 — WENT OUT — “Being come out.”

DEPARTED — “Was going”

CAME TO — “Came in front of him”

SHEW HIM — “To point out”

24:2 — SAID — “Said, spoke” Aorist from another word meaning “just a speech or statement.”

SEE YE — “Notice, see particularly; more definite than “opaw” meaning see in its widest sense”

SAY — I declare, lay out before you—from root meaning to lay, derived — to recount, tell, relate; hence-speak, say (Liddell and Scott) lay out.

THROW DOWN — It is said the heat of the burning melted the silver and gold and the Romans pried the stones apart to get the treasure.

24:3 — PRIVATELY — Came in front of him. Privately—when he was alone, the public gone away.

SAYING — Speaking earnestly.

TELL US — Tell.

WHEN — When.

COMING — Presence.

END — Ending together, completing together.

WORLD — Age.

24:4 — TAKE HEED — Look carefully, not believe everything you hear. This prophecy is given so the church may know.

24:5 — IN MY NAME, SAYING, I AM CHRIST — “I am the anointed one” not necessarily claiming to be the Messiah, but possibly so. Those not carefully discerning would be led astray.

24:6 — TROUBLED — Do not get excited or over anxious or fearful, for these things are part of the development, incidents, but do not indicate the end, must occur.

24:8 — BEGINNING OF SORROWS — Beginning of birth pangs.

24:9 — This refers to papal persecutions, the Inquisition.

24:10 — This is through fear of torture. (Rev. 6:8; 13:1-8)

24:12 — BECAUSE INIQUITY SHALL ABOUND . . . LOVE OF MANY SHALL WAX COLD — The Sardis condition. The true church grow few in number.

24:13 — SHALL ENDURE . . . SAME SHALL BE SAVED — Hold on to the Truth.

24:14 — THIS GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM — The Bible, at least the Gospels was translated into the language of every nation by 1850 according to the report of British and Foreign Bible Society. But may refer to the radio message. (Rev. 16:17) The first section of this chapter ends here. It is a view of the whole Gospel Age.

24:15-28 — These emphasize the urgency of the situation and severity (growing) of the time of trouble incident to the fall of Babylon and breaking up of the religious restraints and law and order in the world. Dark night settles down on the world.

24:15 — SHALL SEE — Not when it takes place, but when some recognize and understand that it is Papacy's doctrine of the mass, which takes away the continual sacrifice and substitutes another offering, replace the sprinkling of the blood for us.

STAND — Having stood, looking back.

LET HIM UNDERSTAND — This shows the real reference is not to Antiochus Epiphanes but to a spiritual event. It was still future when Jesus spoke.

24:16 — FLEE INTO THE MOUNTAINS — Not refer to destruction of Jerusalem as in Luke 21:20-22, but to their antitype. Flee to the two phases Kingdom of God. Come out of Babylon. (Rev. 18:4)

24:17 — ON THE ROOFTOP — The watchers, rooftop saints, who see the conditions and hear the call, not try to keep or save this world's goods.

24:18 — HIM WHICH IS IN THE FIELD — Those who have come into the Truth out of the world, not try to save his possessions nor bring with him any worldly ideas.

24:19 — THEM THAT ARE WITH CHILD — Trouble and perplexity upon church workers trying to save souls and also difficulty in bringing up literal children, because of prevalence of evil.

24:20 — YOUR FLIGHT — Flight from world and Babylon. From systems of false theology and evil practice (vs. 16), some in Babylon (vs. 17), some in the world (vs. 18).

NOT IN WINTER — In severity of dark night of trouble, flee as soon as you see the Truth, not go back into Babylon.

NEITHER ON THE SABBATH DAY — Gates shut on sabbath, greater difficulty to get out. Babylon tries to hold them. "Go to church" movements. (Jer. 51:58) (Sabbath day, Kingdom day), late in the harvest time.

24:21 — GREAT TRIBULATION — Distress.

24:22 — DAYS SHALL BE SHORTENED — Shortened by Jesus and Church stepping in and taking control, "because of the elect."

24:24 — VERY ELECT — This does not mean that the very elect will have superior mental ability, by which they will be able to discuss the various subtleties of the adversary in this evil day, nor that they will have obtained perfection in the control of their earthen vessel so they cannot err—but that to those who abide in Christ, grace sufficient, wisdom sufficient, aid sufficient will be granted for their time of need! What a consolation, what a confidence this gives us! (F192) Not the specially elect, but even the elect themselves.

24:26 — BELIEVE IT NOT — Because he will not come that way. He will be invisible.

24:27 — THE LIGHTNING — Bright shining

COMETH OUT OF THE EAST — The Sun, the only bright shining one that always comes out of the east. In Palestine the lightning comes from the west, the Mediterranean.

COMING — Presence.

24:28 — CARCASE — The food, the Truth.

EAGLES — The Lord's people, the Spirit begotten ones.

24:29 — If we accept this as referring to the dire events of the time of trouble (vs. 21) this sign would be for the world. They see the break up of religious systems and law and order, perplexity and despair and fear (see Amos 6:9,10; Ezek. 7:15; Isa. 24:17,18,19) and this would be the revealing or uncovering to the world. The saints have the advance knowledge that they do not share in this deepest trouble. (Luke 21:34-26) But this may be 1260 years Papacy, trouble. (D585)

24:31 — The harvest work and message. The seventh trumpet—the proclamation of the harvest message, gathers the elect from all over the earth. Not necessarily after verse 29.

24:32 — The winter time, the blight time of the nation of Israel and of the world is at an end. One of the signs of the new dispensation would be the sprouting or indications of life, hope, promise among the Jews. See Isa. 40:12; Ezek. 37:11; Gal. 4:22-31. (Z.'14-219; R.5503)

24:34 — THIS GENERATION — This generation, that seeth these signs. Psa. 90:10—70 years after 1878 = 1948 when Israel became a nation.

24:39 — KNEW NOT — Noah knew but none of the world. So now at the 2nd advent, the church will know, and the world be in darkness. So also Lot was warned sufficiently in advance of the destruction of Sodom to escape. (Luke 17:28-30) (Z.'10-347; R.4706)

24:45 — FAITHFUL AND WISE SERVANT — Jesus has now girded himself and has come forth to serve us all. C.T. Russell is made the ruler (overseer) over the goods (vs. 47) and household. We get meat in due season. There is far more on the table now than we can possibly assimilate (Mal. 3:10) even if we give our whole time to it. This is evidence that the Servant has been faithful. He lays down his life, in not robbing God's family. (Mal. 3:8) But some are very unthankful, and say the Servant is not faithful, and leaving the table, go to the pantry and help themselves to food not yet due (not prepared yet). Thus they lose valuable time, and do not get nourishment enough to get strength to endure. Very soon they are apt to get sick (have spiritual indigestion) and may throw up all they have previously received and go out of the truth. They dig unduly into improper things. Let us be satisfied and content and eat what the Lord gives us. Do we want anybody walking about this table, who has left his own seat to place on our plate something different from the food on the table?

24:51 — WEEPING AND GNASHING OF TEETH — The Great Company will have their portion in this also though they are not hypocrites, yet their portion will be with the hypocrites. (Z. '10-245; R.4654)

25:1 — THEN — At the time of the events of the last verses 29-51 of the last chapter. In the "time of the end." This shows that the parable did not apply in Jesus' day, nor during the whole Gospel age, but only at a specified time. (C91)

KINGDOM OF HEAVEN — The Kingdom class, the consecrated, not the world at all. In its embryo condition represented by living members of the church at the time. (C91)

LIKENED UNTO — Be somewhat similar to, represented by.

VIRGIN — The word Virgin = pure, and so these represented in the parable, both the wise and foolish virgins represent holy people. In fact no lovers of the bridegroom, longing to meet him, can be lovers of sin, even though many of them are foolish. The entire ten virgins are the Kingdom of Heaven, the church, see verse 10.

LAMP — God's word. (Psa. 110) They took their Bibles.

WENT FORTH TO MEET THE BRIDEGROOM — The parable teaches a movement among the heirs of the Kingdom, in expectation of meeting the bridegroom (Jesus). A movement in which two classes would be manifested (but not at the first stage so plainly as at the second). This was the "Miller movement," corresponding exactly to it. (C91)—This was begun about 1829 (C84-91) and culminated in 1844, just thirty years before our Lord's second presence in 1874 and this was typified by the fact that

“all men were in expectation of Christ” at the time of his birth in B.C.2, Oct. (Luke 3:15; Matt. 2:1, 2) This was led mainly by William Miller in America and the celebrated Missionary movement of Mr. Wolff in Asia, Prof. Bengel in Tubingen, Germany. In both cases (1844, B.C. 2) there was a disappointment and a waiting time of 30 years (B240; C84)

“That movement though begun by a Baptist was an undenominational one, joined in by the most devout and faithful of all denominations. Accounts of those times, show great fervency and zeal. Such a trimming of lamps by all classes of Christians probably never before took place. Money was poured out like water in printing tracts and papers in various languages and sending them the world over. It is said that in the churches of all denominations a revival spirit spread and that in some congregations where all were under the influence of these teachings, those who had money to spare piled it upon a table in front of the pulpit, where it was free to all needing it, and the sincerity and zeal of believers at that time were such, that it is said that the money thus consecrated to the Lord, needed no guarding, as those who did not need it would not touch it. (C91,92)

This brought an individual blessing to the holy people who participated in it. It led to a careful searching of the Scriptures and to confidence in God’s word above the traditions of men. It warmed and fed and united the hearts of God’s children in unsectarian fellowship, for those interested were of all denominations, though principally Baptists. (C85)

Mr. Miller was an earnest and esteemed member of the Baptist Church; and being a careful student, the Scriptures began to open up before him. After becoming thoroughly convinced himself, as to the correctness of his applications, he began to disseminate his views among ministers, chiefly Baptists at first, but later among all classes and all denominations. As the work spread, he and many co-laborers travelled and preached extensively. Elder Fuller of the Baptist Church at Poultney, Vt., was the first minister convert to preach his views in public. (C87)

The center of this work was America, where social, political and religious conditions have favored more than elsewhere, independence in Bible Study as well as in other matters; just as at the first advent the movement was confined to Judea, though all the devout Israelites everywhere heard of it. (Judea would now correspond to Christendom) (C85)

We recognize that movement as being of God’s order, as doing a very important work in the separating and purifying and refining and thus making ready a waiting people prepared for the Lord. Not only did it do a purifying and testing work in its own day, but by casting reproach upon the study of prophecy and upon the doctrine of the second advent, it has ever since served to test and prove the consecrated. The very mention of the subject of prophecy, the Lord's coming, and the Millennial Kingdom now excites the contempt of the worldly wise, especially of the nominal church. This was undoubtedly of the Lord's providence and for a purpose very similar to the sending of Jesus (the infant) for a time to Nazareth, "that he might be called a Nazarene" though really born in the honorable city of Bethlehem. This evidently was in order that the truth might separate the Israelites indeed from the chaff of God's chosen nation. The chaff was driven off by the statement that our Lord was a Nazarene, for they reasoned—"Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?" Just so some now contemptuously inquire—"Can anything good come out of Adventism?" and dismiss unconsidered the testimony of the Lord, apostles, and prophets. But the humble, holy, wise ones in God's sight, though foolish in the world's estimation, take no such attitude. This was the beginning of a correct understanding of the visions of Daniel, and at the right time to fit the prophecy.

25:10 — SHUT — A part of the Church is thus shut out when the door is closed. Not only the world, but the foolish virgins are shut out, they however are not to be counted with the world because they are still virgins. They have been associated with the wise virgins, and for a time without any distinction being apparent, but who in the testing time are not found worthy to be of the Bride class. (Z. '10-244; R.4654)

25:12 — I KNOW YOU NOT — "I do not recognize you (you have not the likeness of God's dear Son). I recognize only one bride. My Bride class has already entered in, and I cannot recognize others as the Bride." (Z. '10-245; R.4654) But these are still virgins (Psa. 45); they are not shown as having become corrupt at all, or lovers of sin. They were drowsy, overcharged with the cares of this life, and did not show proper spirit or alertness in connection with the interests of their master, the bridegroom. Hence they did not at the time have the proper oil in their vessels, nor in their lamps and hence were not ready, nor of the finally accepted elect class. (Z. '07-316; R.4078)

25:24 — AND I WAS AFRAID — His language intimates that he had a bad theology, that his heart toward the Lord was full of fear instead of love, who thought of his Lord as unjust, unmerciful, unloving, exacting.

HID THY TALENT IN THE EARTH — This implies that the talent and opportunities consecrated to the Lord are being buried in earthly interests, earthly affairs, business, or pleasure, family, society or what-not to the neglect of his stewardship, and hence repudiating to that extent, his consecration.

25:26 — THOU WICKED AND SLOTHFUL SERVANT — The Lord does not deny him the honor of being a servant, does not charge him with becoming an enemy; the entire parable shows no such attitude toward the reproved. He is counted slothful and wicked because, having undertaken certain responsibilities as a servant, having certain talents committed to his care as a steward, he had failed to manifest the proper spirit of earnest devotion which he had professed at the time of his acceptance when the talent was entrusted to him. (Z.'07-216; R.4028)

25:28 — TAKE THEREFORE THE TALENT FROM HIM — The first part of the punishment is the loss of the talent (opportunities), loss of the privilege of service as a co-laborer with the Lord. This implies that the unfaithful one can have no part in the kingdom, cannot be accepted as a member of the body of Christ in glory. His failure to use his consecrated talent signifies his failure to make his calling and election sure.

25:30 — CAST YE THE UNPROFITABLE SERVANT INTO OUTER DARKNESS — The second feature of the punishment is to be an outcast from the light and privilege of those who are the Lord's faithful ones, to be thrust into the outer darkness of the world, to lose what light and privilege, and appreciation of matters spiritual that had previously been enjoyed.

THERE SHALL BE WEeping AND GNASHING OF TEETH — The third feature of the punishment is that such a servant shall share in the great time of trouble with which this age will end, the time of anarchy and confusion which the faithful of the Lord's people shall be accounted worthy to escape. (Sermon. C.T.R. Buffalo, 6/23/07) For the further course of some of this class see (Rev. 7:9, 10, 14-17)

25:31 — SON OF MAN SHALL COME IN HIS GLORY — In the glory of His Kingdom, take His great power to reign. This means His second advent, for He came in humiliation at the first advent. See Z.'14-266; R.5530.

AND ALL THE HOLY ANGELS WITH HIM — "The Lord cometh with myriads of His saints." (Jude 14, 15)

THEN SHALL HE SIT UPON THE THRONE OF HIS GLORY — The Church will be with Him in this throne. (Col. 3:4; Rev. 3:21; 1 Cor. 6:2; Rev. 20:4) These have passed their trial for life or death everlasting in the present time, and all the faithful ones will share His throne with Him; the worthy ones, with characters formed pleasing and acceptable to God will be quite ready to be Messiah's Bride class. (Z.'14-267; R.5530)

25:32 — BEFORE HIM SHALL BE GATHERED ALL NATIONS — This means all the people of the world outside of the Lord's holy nation, His peculiar people, the Church. Everybody except the Church will be before this great white throne of justice, mercy, and love, that will be their judgment time. (Z.'14-267; R.5530) See Rev. 20:11-15 for the same scene.

DIVIDETH HIS SHEEP FROM THE GOATS — This separating work will require all the Millennial Age. The gathering before the Throne will be the result of knowledge. The time of trouble will lead on to great enlightenment, in which all the blind eyes shall be opened, deaf ears unstopped, and the knowledge of God's glorious character fill the whole earth. Some will resist this knowledge, decline to accept Christ and will not come into this judgement, but after 100 years of resistance will be destroyed (Isa. 65:20; Isa. 26:9, 10, 11; Acts 3:23) Those in the parable are such as have accepted Christ's terms and desire to be on judgment or trial, for everlasting life. This will include all in their graves, who will come forth not all at once but every man in his own order (1 Cor. 15:20-22) Messiah's Kingdom will exercise its power and spread the knowledge of God and of righteousness to encourage, help, uplift all the willing and obedient. All such may rise more and more out of sin and death conditions, out of imperfections of mind and body, out of immoral conduct to the full image of God, as possessed by Adam in the beginning, Right will then rule and whoever will sin will suffer promptly. Hence all nations will be avoiding sin. See meaning of camp class. (Z.'14-267; R.5530)

25:36 — IN PRISON — The prison referred to is undoubtedly the great prison house of death, into which approximately 20,000,000,000 already have gone. All these are to come forth, every man in his own order, not all at once. During the Millennium the awakening from the sleep of death will come about by Divine Power of course, but we believe in answer to prayer. Each family circle as it can prepare for another and another member, will be glad to do so and will make request for his return. Thus the race will come out of the "prison house" in reverse order to that in which they entered, and will be acquainted with, identified by, and prepared for by their friends, their relatives.

(Visited in Prison—praying for their return to life) While the blessing of the Lord will provide an abundance for all, yet we may safely assume that the provision will be in the hands of their fellows. It will be the "sheep" class that will be specially interested in, praying for, and preparing for those who are in the great prison house of death. And by so engaging their time and energy these sheep will be manifesting a purpose and will in harmony with that of their Creator. God has willed that all who are in their graves shall come forth at the command of Jesus (John 5:28, 29) and those in sympathy with God and Christ will be co-laborers with God in accomplishing this work for which Christ died. Any not interested in that work will be lacking in God's Spirit—and that is exactly what is charged against the goat class. He who sits upon the Throne having redeemed the world of mankind and having provided for the resurrection of the redeemed ones, counts them as in a certain sense representing Himself.

25:38 — Who are these respecting whom there will be a test upon both the sheep and the goat classes? Will there be people sick, hungry and in prison in the Millennium? We have supposed that sickness, poverty, hunger, and prisons will then be gone forever. What does it all mean? The meaning is plain. During the Millennial Kingdom all who come into harmony with it will have the great privilege of doing something to help others. The world is blind and starved now for lack of spiritual food and the anointing eye salve of the Truth. While the Millennial blessings will be showered upon those who accept the Lord's terms, there will be others who will need assistance. Those who have the spirit of God, and of Love will be glad to carry the heavenly message of reconciliation to all humanity; glad to apply the eye-salve to the blind, glad to unstop the ears of the deaf, glad to help the sin sick back to harmony with God—to the blessings of Messiah's Kingdom, to the way in which these may be obtained. They will help them to cover their nakedness with the merit of Christ. All who delight in this work will thus be manifesting that they have God's spirit and will thus be co-laborers with Him. All these will be the sheep. On the other hand those who will be careless in respect to their vow, and merely enjoy the blessings themselves will be of the goat class and will thus be marking themselves as goats, and correspondingly will be out of favor with the Great King of Kings, their judge, the Lord of glory.

25:41 — EVERLASTING FIRE — The eternal fire is the fire of God's jealousy or anger which burns against and destroys everything antagonistic to His righteousness. (Zeph. 1:18; 3:8) It is merely a figurative expression representing complete destruction. (Z.'14-268; R.5531)

25:45 — “You were not interested in the things of God. Your interest was merely personal, a selfish one. You have enjoyed the blessings of these glorious thousand years, and that is all that God has provided for you. You are not of the kind to whom He is pleased to grant everlasting life. You will therefore die. You have more or less of the selfish spirit, which is the spirit of Satan, and as God's provision for all who will not be in fellowship with Him in spirit is destruction, this is to be your portion—the second death.” (Z.'14-268; R.5531)

25:46 — EVERLASTING PUNISHMENT — Cutting off (Punishment), that is, in the fire of vs. 41. The common version and many modern ones render everlasting punishment, conveying the idea as generally interpreted, of torment. In its various forms it occurs only in three other places in the New Testament. (Acts 4:21; 2 Pet. 2:9; 1 John 4:18) It is derived from a word meaning: 1) To cut off; as lopping off branches of trees, to prune. 2) To restrain, to repress. The Greeks write, “The charioteer restrains his fiery steeds.” 3) To chastise, to punish. To cut off an individual from life, or society, or even to restrain is esteemed as punishment. Hence has arisen this third metaphorical use of the word. The primary significance has been adopted, because it agrees better with the second member of the sentence, thus preserving the force and beauty of the antithesis. The righteous go to life, the wicked to the cutting off from life, or death. See 2 Thess. 1:9; Diag. note.

26:6 — SIMON THE LEPER — Simon is not mentioned in connection with the narrative, and it is quite probable that he was then dead.

A VERY PRECIOUS OINTMENT — Mary had either purchased the vase and made the perfume herself, at great expense of time, etc., or had spent for its purchase a considerable sum of money. The heart of each truly consecrated child of God is like the alabaster vase—a receptacle for the Holy Spirit, the Spirit of love, the choicest perfume and most precious to the Lord and to men. It is expensive because it cannot be gathered rapidly, but requires patient perseverance in well doing to be “filled with all the fullness of God.” Again it is like Mary’s vase in that it gives forth its odor not before but after the seal is broken and the contents poured forth. It differs from hers in the fact that it may be continually poured out and yet its fullness all the while increase. (Z. '00-378; R.2744)

AND Poured IT ON HIS HEAD — Our hearts and holy love are like Mary’s vase in that they should be poured upon the Lord Himself, upon the head first but subsequently upon the members of His body, even the humblest, the lowliest, the feet. (See John 12:1-9) And this should be our service, even though it be unappreciated by others, who instead would think that we should pour out our love and devotion to sinners, or upon the poor heathen world. They realize not what abundant opportunities there will be for blessing the poor heathen world in the Millennial age, which God has set apart for their blessing, and in which His disciples will have abundant opportunity for co-working with Him in the general uplifting of mankind. Those who upbraid us for pouring out our heart-treasures upon the members of Christ, the Church, do so through ignorance, and if at times it has caused discouragement to us, let us hearken to the words of the Master, declaring that such is a noble course that has His approval, and that it is proper as a prelude to the burial of the entire Church, the body; that it will be appropriate that this shall be done to the Church rather than for the poor world, up to the time when the Church shall have finished the earthly pilgrimage up to the time when, the suffering of Christ having been fulfilled, there shall be no longer opportunity to bless and refresh and comfort the body of Christ, respecting whom our Lord declares that what is done to them is done to Him. (Z. '00-378; R.2744)

As no alabaster vase could pour forth perfumes upon others without itself being involved thoroughly in the perfume, so our hearts, as they pour forth upon others of the members of the body, will be sure to bring a blessing to ourselves even in the present life — our Lord's approval and benediction now and everlastingly. (Z. '00-378; R.2744)

26:8 — TO WHAT PURPOSE IS THIS WASTE? — Judas as their mouth-piece, incited the fault-finding spirit among them, whose disappointment was great that the value of this ointment did not find its way into his money-bag and thus a part of it at least into his own private use, for "he was a thief and carried the bag." His objection seems to favor the thought that Mary may have prepared the perfume herself, for he does not object to its having been purchased for a large sum, but that it might have been sold for 300 pence. (Mark 14:5) (Z. '00-378; R.2744)

26:9 — SOLD . . . AND GIVEN TO THE POOR — Fellow-disciples tell us we should not be handing the meat in due season to the household of faith, but to sinners; that we should not be seeking to anoint the saints with the sweet perfume of present truth, but should, on the contrary, be going to the outcasts of society, engaged in slum work, or in foreign mission work. The real difficulty with the Judas class, however, is that they fear that the circulation of the truth among the Lord's people would cut off the revenue which otherwise might flow into their coffers; they fear the loss of numbers and influence in sectarianism. (Z. '00-379; R.2744)

26:11 — BUT ME YE HAVE NOT ALWAYS — See note on vs. 7.

26:12 — SHE DID IT FOR MY BURIAL — Some of the methods employed in present endeavor to anoint the members of the Lord's body for burial, call down the condemnation of fellow disciples, as for instance the volunteer work, which is bitterly opposed by those of the Judas stripe, for the expenditure of time, energy, money therein. Yet realizing the Lord's approval we have quite sufficient to make our cup overflow. (Also see note on vs. 9)

26:13 — WHERESOEVER THIS GOSPEL SHALL BE PREACHED — This gospel is preached in more than 350 languages, to every important nation in the world. But evidently it was not merely Mary that our Lord wished to memorialize, but specially her deed. He wished that all who should know the good tidings should know also of his appreciation of such devotion to him, to his body, and that the more it costs us the more he appreciates it. (Z. '00-379; R.2744)

26:14 — JUDAS ISCARIOT, WENT UNTO THE CHIEF PRIESTS — The devotion of one seemed not to impress the other favorably, but rather the reverse, to have aroused the opposite spirit in Judas.

26:15 — WHAT WILL YE GIVE ME, AND I WILL DELIVER HIM UNTO YOU — Here is exemplified the wide difference between love and selfishness. Mary, full of burning devotion, was willing to sacrifice much to honor, comfort, and please her Lord. Judas not only was unwilling to sacrifice on his behalf, but on the contrary was willing to sell him to his enemies for thirty shekels—the price of a slave. (Z. '00-379; R.2744)

THIRTY PIECES OF SILVER — It would appear from the Greek text, and its rendering in the R. V., that Judas received the money for his work in advance—“They weighed unto him 30 pieces of silver.” (Z. '00-379; R.2744)

26:16 — AND FROM THAT TIME HE SOUGHT OPPORTUNITY TO BETRAY HIM — No doubt he had a way of reasoning the matter to himself which made his crime appear less heinous to him than to us. He was fully conversant with the Lord's power, indeed he had received it so abundantly that he himself had been enabled to heal the sick and cast out devils. (Z. '00-279; R.2745)

These climaxes of character are not reached suddenly. Mary's love had been growing from the first; it was greatly strengthened by her course in sitting at the Master's feet, and receiving from him spiritual nourishment, which our Lord declared to be a still better part or course than that pursued by her sister, though the latter was not disapproved. Mary's faith and love had been still further increased as she witnessed the Lord's power in various ways, and especially at her brother's awakening from the tomb. She had cultivated this love and appreciation for the Lord until it filled her entire heart, and found its expression in the costly libation which she had just poured upon his head and feet. Judas on the other hand had long been permitting the spirit of selfishness to more and more intrude upon his heart; he had permitted himself to think of what money would do and had given his thought largely toward its accumulation. It had fettered his soul, so that he was unable to appreciate the Lord's character, even though he knew him intimately, from daily association, so that he was unable to measure anything except from a monetary standpoint. And these bands of selfishness grew gradually so hard and tight about his heart, that they squeezed out everything of character, of love, devotion and friendship, and thus gradually he became the representative of, and his name the synonym for, the grossest of ingratitude and meanness, selfishness, and treachery. One lesson for us here is to cultivate love and the appreciation of whatsoever things are just, good, lovely and pure; and to fight down and eradicate so far as is possible (especially in our own hearts and lives) everything selfish, mean, ignoble, dishonorable. (Z. '00-380; R.2745)

26:25 — THOU HAST SAID — Formula of affirmation among Jews, Greeks and Romans.

26:26 — AND AS THEY WERE EATING — The company at table might not usually be less than ten persons, generally ten to twenty. The rites of the feast were regulated by the succession of the cups filled with red wine commonly mixed with water. The head of the house uttered the thanksgiving over the wine and the feast drinking the first cup. They then ate the bitter herbs dipped in vinegar or salt water, in remembrance of the sorrows which their fathers underwent in Egypt. Meanwhile the Paschal dishes were brought in—the well seasoned broth (charoseth) the unleavened loaves, festal offerings and the lamb. All these were then explained, saying the first part of the Hallel or song of praise (Psa. 113, 114) and the second cup was drunk. Then began the feast proper at which they reclined (vs. 20—see Lange), the householder took two loaves, broke one in two, laid it upon the whole loaf, gave thanks for it, wrapped it with bitter herbs, dipped it, ate of it, and handed it round, with the words “This is the bread of affliction which our Fathers ate in Egypt.” He then gave thanks for the Paschal lamb, and ate of it. The festal offerings were eaten with the bread dipped in the broth, and finally the lamb. The thanksgiving for the meal followed the blessing and the third cup was drunk. This third cup was the one used by Jesus and passed around. Then usually the remainder of the Hallel was sung (Psa. 115-118) and the fourth cup was drunk. Sometimes a fifth cup was added and Psa. 120-127 sung, but no more. The first cup was thus devoted to the announcement of the feast. The second was devoted to the interpretation of the feast. (See Lange’s Commentary) See Luke 22.

26:29 — DRINK IT NEW WITH YOU — The New Wine, red wine of Isa. 27:2. The joys and grand blessings of the kingdom, we now are getting a taste of this new wine, grand spiritual truths opening up on God’s plan. Jesus now had girded himself and is serving us this new wine. (Rev. 3)

26:31 — THE FLOCK SHALL BE SCATTERED ABROAD — The hour of temptation for the apostles drew nigh, and Jesus’ interest in and efforts for the apostles increased. The 14-17th chapters of John were intended to strengthen them. Also in the end of this Gospel age cometh the hour of temptation that shall try the whole world, in which a thousand will fall to one who will stand. As Peter had a special favor of prayer, so we now have his intercessions and the warnings of Scripture. (Z.’08-140; R.4167)

26:37 — PETER AND THE TWO SONS OF ZEBEDEE . . . BEGAN TO BE SORROWFUL AND VERY HEAVY — His great hour of trial was upon him; he realized it to the full. It meant not only that his faithfulness past, present, and the day following would decide respecting his loyalty to the Father and his right to obtain the high reward of glory, honor, and immortality, but additionally that the interests of the whole world of mankind were in the balance. Victory would mean eventually the deliverance of all the prisoners in bondage to sin and death. Failure would mean the loss of everything. No wonder his feelings were intense!

26:39 — LET THIS CUP PASS FROM ME — We are not to suppose that he meant the cup of death, for he had already explained to the Apostles that his death was necessary, and that he had come for this very purpose. (John 12:27) Quite probably he referred to the particular ignominy of his death—his crucifixion as a blasphemer against God, and between two thieves. (Psa. 22:1-21; Isa. 50:6; Psa. 41:9) (Z. '08-142; R.4168)

26:41 — THE SPIRIT — In us the Spirit - New will, New Creature.

BUT THE FLESH — Old nature, mental and physical. (Z. '07-135; R.3985)

26:45 — SLEEP ON NOW, AND TAKE YOUR REST — Your opportunity of watching with me and speaking a word of comfort has passed. God has comforted me. He gave you the opportunity but you missed it, were too sleepy. Your opportunities of waking your own minds and hearts to prayer as a safeguard against coming trials, has passed.

27:14 — GOVERNOR MARVELLED GREATLY — Pilate marvelled at his quietness, self-position, and non-resistance, even though he was a person manifestly able to plead his own cause.

27:51 — THE VEIL OF THE TEMPLE — 2nd veil. Showing the way into the holiest of all was opened up by Jesus' death. (Heb. 10:20) Way, to heaven not opened up before. (John 3:13; Heb. 2:3)

TOP TO THE BOTTOM — Showing it was done by the Lord. If man had done it, it would be rent from bottom to top. Power from above.

QUAKE — Aorist passive, was shaken, from a word meaning vibrate, shake to and fro.

RENT — Aorist passive meaning to split, rend. By the earthquake.

27:52 — AND THE GRAVES WERE OPENED — This line is in Vat. MS. and in Alford, although spurious in some.

GRAVES — Plural of tomb, grave, sepulchre.

OPENED — Aorist passive of open up.

SLEPT — Put to sleep, pass. to slumber.

AROSE — Singular, should be plural. Aorist passive of waken or rouse from sleep, hence "were raised."

27:53 — CAME OUT — Aorist participle of come forth; hence, coming forth.

APPEARED — Aorist passive of were seen by many, appeared to many, that is, the bodies were seen by many who came into the city after his resurrection. (Gates of the city were closed on the Sabbath day.)

UNTO MANY — The persons mentioned could not have been the Ancient Worthies, perfected. “For they without us shall not be made perfect.” (Heb. 11:39, 40) (1) Their resurrection will not be due till after the church’s resurrection is complete. (2) They cannot have been the saints of the Gospel Church, because the church had not been selected, even the beginning of its acceptance with God had not yet taken place, and did not occur till Pentecost, nearly fifty days later. (3) The record seems to imply that the earthquake which occurred at the time of Jesus’ death, opened these graves but that the awakened ones tarried, and did not show themselves in Jerusalem until after Jesus’ resurrection. At very most it was an awakening such as Lazarus received, to die again later on. For (1 Cor. 15:20) Jesus was to be the first that should rise from the dead to perfection of being. These persons could have been no more than aroused from the sleep of death, temporarily and for some purpose of which we have no knowledge. A portion, at least, of the verse appears in the oldest Greek manuscript yet discovered. (Z. '01-156; R.2811) (See Acts 26:23)

MARK

1:9 — AND WAS BAPTIZED OF JOHN IN JORDAN — Notice the quiet, meek, unostentatious manner in which our Lord began his ministry. Quietly he presented himself to John for baptism and after receiving the anointing of the Holy Spirit went into absolute seclusion in the wilderness for more than a month.

1:12 — THE SPIRIT DRIVETH HIM INTO THE WILDERNESS — Here he studied for forty days what the divine plan had arranged to be his course. True he did not have the Bible, but he had a perfect memory and for thirty years had heard the reading of the Law in the Synagogues and was thoroughly familiar with them. He had the entire matter before his mind, and under the illumination of the Holy Spirit he weighed the various declarations of the Law and the prophets and noted the course of sacrifice which these meant. His temptation lying in the suggestion that easier, less sacrificing courses presented themselves as feasible. Our Lord triumphed over all the Adversary’s allurements and determined not to do Satan’s will nor to follow even his own judgment but strictly to obey the outlined program which the Father had outlined in His word.

1:19, 20 — AND WENT AFTER HIM — See Luke 5:8-11. We need not suppose that these four left the vicinity that same day. There may have been time needed to make proper arrangements for the fish and for dissolving the partnership. They did not leave their boats and nets instantly without disposing of them or making provision for their proper care. The important thing decided then and there positively was to accept Jesus' invitation, to serve the Father with him and to leave all else. All the consecrated are not called in the same way but some are left in the avocation wherein they were called. (1 Cor. 7:20-22) (Z. '06-46; R.3720)

1:21 — ON THE SABBATH — On the Sabbath immediately after the miraculous draft of fishes.

ENTERED INTO THE SYNAGOGUE — Jewish synagogues were very liberally governed, and afforded an opportunity for nearly everyone of reverent manner to present his view respecting the Law and the prophets. Jesus availed himself of this opportunity and taught the people. (Z. '06-57; R.3726)

1:22 — AND THEY WERE ASTONISHED AT HIS DOCTRINE — The people were accustomed to hear the Scribes and Pharisees haggle over the Scriptures, guessing and confusing their meaning, and generally mystifying them; but Jesus taught as a Master who thoroughly understood his subject — as one having authority. (Z. '06-57; R.3726)

1:24 — I KNOW THEE WHO THOU ART — The demon here seems to have thought that at the coming of Messiah all evil was to be abolished and destroyed. See Matt. 8:29.

1:26 — HE CAME OUT OF HIM — Thus and in every way the malignity of these evil spirits was shown. There are no such obsessions or possessions by holy spirits. God recognizes the individuality of each member of the race, and does not intrude upon it, nor do the holiest angels thus intrude. God through his holy Spirit operates not as do the demons—to the overthrow of reason and the subjugation of the will; but operates only in accord with the reason and the will. The fully consecrated may receive the holy Spirit more abundantly as they come into greater harmony with him. But any neglect of God's word and teaching in the exercise of self-will in opposition to the will of God, is sure to that extent to quench the holy Spirit, which is in no wise forced, but must be entertained, held onto, be desired, if it would be retained and increased. (Z. '06-58; R.3727)

1:31 — AND IMMEDIATELY THE FEVER LEFT HER — She was not weak and enervated, as fever patients usually are when the fever is stopped. She had her wonted strength and was able to minister to the guests of the home.

1:32 — AND AT EVEN — Not only because it was the end of the day but because according to the Jewish custom, the sabbath ending at sunset made it in the eyes of the people the more proper time.

1:34 — AND HE HEALED MANY — He expended in this service his own vitality. This is intimated in the apostle's declaration that "himself bore our infirmities and carried our sorrow." (Matt. 8:17; Isa. 53:4) But it is directly stated that "Virtue" (vitality, power, strength) "went out of him and healed them all." (Luke 6:19) Thus our Lord continued laying down his life for others, using his strength in assisting others, fulfilling his consecration. (Z. '06-59; R.3727)

NOT THE DEVILS TO SPEAK, BECAUSE THEY KNEW HIM —

How evident from this and from Paul's rebuke of the spirit of divination (Acts 16:17,18) that the Lord does not desire the testimony of demons respecting himself or his plan. The same is true of all the unregenerate (Psa. 50:18) (Z. '06-59; R.3727) That privilege is reserved for those in harmony with God, who have his spirit. For only those having God's spirit and in harmony with his will can understand and see things from God's standpoint, and can declare matters rightly. All others would do more harm than good, and then also it would be possible for the Adversary to say, "It was because of my help that God's plan succeeded, he could not have done so well had not I helped him!"

1:38 — THAT I MAY PREACH — Evidently our Lord's purpose was to give only such evidences of divine power and favor as would convince all the "Israelites indeed" respecting his true character, as the Messiah; then leaving so that those not in a proper condition of heart might cool their ardor, while only the "Israelites indeed," waiting for the consolation of God promised through the Law and the prophets, would continue to watch and hope and pray and wait for the Kingdom he had announced. (Z. '06-59; R.3727) His mission was first to preach the gospel and give himself a ransom, healing being a means used to accomplish this.

2:14 — AS THE RECEIPT OF CUSTOM — Hence, a Customs House officer.

AND HE AROSE AND FOLLOWED HIM — Perhaps the quality of independence and humble mindedness which influenced Matthew to become a tax-collector and to brave the scorn of his fellow countrymen, were qualities which really favored him in respect to the divine invitation to become a disciple of Jesus. (Z. '12-84; R.4986) He was in the heart condition to forsake all his goods and become a follower of Jesus. We cannot suppose that the Master would call to discipleship any but a noble character, and we cannot suppose that any others would accept the call as did Matthew. (Z. '12-84; R.4986)

2:16 — PUBLICANS — The Roman Senate found it convenient as early as the Second Punic War to farm the Vectigalia (direct taxes) and the Portoria (customs) to capitalists who undertook to pay a given sum into the treasury (in publicum) and so received the name Publicani. Contracts of the kind fell naturally into the hands of the richest of the Romans (equites). Sometimes a joint stock company (societas) was formed with a managing director (magister). This officer usually resided at Rome, transacting the business of the company, paying the profits to the partners; and under these were Sub-magistri, living in the province; and under them, doing the work were the “Portitores,” commonly natives. The name was popularly used of the Portitores. These agents were encouraged in the most vexatious or fraudulent exactions and they overcharged whenever they had an opportunity (Luke 3:13); brought false charges of smuggling in hope of extorting hush money. (Luke 19:8) They detained and opened letters on mere suspicion. It was the basest of all livelihoods, and enough to bring the class in ill favor anywhere. It brought out all the besetting vices of the Jewish character. The strong feeling of many Jews as to the absolute unlawfulness of paying tribute at all made matters worse. (S.B.D.)

HOW IS IT THAT HE EATETH AND DRINKETH WITH PUBLICANS AND SINNERS? —

The Pharisees would tolerate and eat with the Sadducees, though the latter were practically unbelievers, because they were of the wealthier and therefore more respectable class; but they entirely ignored and would not eat with their less particular brethren, whom they in general styled sinners, regardless of their having true moral status. (Z. '12-84; R.4986)

2:17 — I CAME NOT TO CALL THE RIGHTEOUS, BUT SINNERS —

This gave Jesus the opportunity to teach a great lesson in a few words. It is the key to much of the misunderstanding of the Gospel in that day and this. The first lesson all must learn is that all sin is condemned of God—the little and the large—and that all unrighteousness is sin, and that there is none righteous no not one. (Rom. 3:26) There were none righteous to call, and those who thought themselves righteous had a barrier before them which hindered their coming to the Lord under the call of this age. (Z. '12-85; R.4987)

2:20 — AND THEN SHALL THEY FAST IN THOSE DAYS — In the long period after he would be gone and while waiting for this return, as in the Jewish marriage, a year between the betrothal and marriage. (Z. '12-85; R.4987)

2:21 — AND THE RENT IS MADE WORSE — So the Gospel is not a patch on the Jewish Law Covenant but is a new proposition. (N-1-17-12) The shrinking of the new piece would pull away from the old.

2:22 — NEW WINE INTO OLD BOTTLES — From which all the elasticity has gone.

ELSE THE NEW WINE DOTHT BURST THE BOTTLES — By its fermentation. The new wine (doctrine) of the Gospel age must be put into new wineskins which will be able to stand the stress of the fermentation sure to come. Our Lord did not attempt to engraft his teachings upon the Judaism, but call out of Judaism a special class, New Creatures in Christ. It is to these that the New Wine of the Gospel message is committed and these must experience the fermentation in preparing for the Kingdom. (N-1-17-12; Z.'12-85; R.4987)

2:24 — WHY DO THEY ON THE SABBATH DAY THAT WHICH IS NOT LAWFUL? — The Pharisees appreciated merely the shell rather than the meat of the divine Law. They thought they saw here an opportunity of showing off their religious devotion by calling attention to Jesus' disciples as Law breakers, and Jesus himself as no better in that he as their teacher did not reprove them. We frequently see this same spirit in our day. Some today would be scrupulously careful not to ride in a street car on a Sabbath, who would think nothing of allowing their minds to rove not only on worldly things but even on evil subjects, or perhaps meditate how they could take advantage of their neighbor the day following. This is hypocrisy, one of the worst sins from the divine standpoint. (Z.'06-107; R.3753)

2:27 — THE SABBATH — The Sabbath was made for man for his physical, mental, and moral recuperation and rest and strengthening. The pharisees viewed the day as though God specially desired to have the Sabbath day observed and had created man for that particular purpose. (Z.'04-42; R.3316) It was not made to hinder any good or necessary work but to benefit the people. According to those Doctors of the Law to search for a biting flea on the Sabbath Day would be a sin, for it would be "hunting." Thus in various ways they made the reasonable Law of God to appear very unreasonable to the people; and while thus particular in trifles they ignored the weightier matters of the Law, which pertained to justice, love, mercy. (Z.'14-56; R.5405)

2:28 — THE SON OF MAN IS LORD ALSO OF THE SABBATH — The only way Jesus could abolish the Law was by fulfilling it. (2 Cor. 3:13; Eph. 2:15) "Christ is the end (completion, fulfillment, consummation of its purpose) of the Law for righteousness to every one that believeth." (Rom. 10:4) To those who believe his merit is imputed, so that they are accounted as fulfilling the righteousness of the Law by faith in Christ. (Z.'06-105,106; R.3753) Jesus according to the flesh was a Jew and hence bound by all the Commandments of the Jewish Law, and it follows that he could do nothing contrary to that Law. He could not set it aside nor was it proper for him to explain to the Jews the real meaning of the Law—All that instruction would come later under the holy Spirit after Pentecost. But he could and did correct certain misapprehensions of the Law which had crept in through the teachings of the Rabbis. (Z. '14-57; R.5405)

3:2 — HEAL HIM ON THE SABBATH DAY — Quite probably Jesus did so many of his miracles on the Sabbath day as a type of the great Sabbath Day or Millennium. (Z. '10-134; R.4599)

3:6 — TOOK COUNSEL — The evil heart is not amendable to reason. The very fact that he proved his teachings to be superior to theirs excited the Pharisees to envy, malice and the very spirit of murder. Thus they lacked the quality of mercy, love, which God would specially approve in his children, and without which we cannot be his children. "If any man have not the spirit of Christ he is none of his." (Z. '10-134; R.4599)

4:2 — PARABLES — These different parable pictures represent the same subject from different standpoints, just as we take a photograph of a building from the north, south, east, west, internally and externally. (Z. '10-204; R.4634)

AND SAID UNTO THEM IN HIS DOCTRINE — The prophet foretold that Jesus would speak in parables and dark sayings. (Psa. 78:2)

4:3 — HEARKEN — This implies that an important lesson is contained in the parable. Nevertheless the world gives little heed, and even his professed followers rarely give the Master's words that deeper, attentive thought necessary to their appreciation, and only he that seeketh findeth the true meaning, the true lessons. (R.3763)

BEHOLD, THERE WENT OUT A SOWER — Our Lord was the great sower of this good seed of the Kingdom, and after him came the apostles. Since then he has used all of his faithful people more or less in this seed sowing.

TO SOW — The fact that most of the seed of the divine message seems wasted is no proof that the message is not good and desirable. The parable shows that the real fault lies in the heart—the soil. If all hearts were right the messenger or seed would bring forth much fruit everywhere. (Z. '10-202; R4634) This parable might more accurately perhaps be described as the parable of the four kinds of soil, representing the four kinds of human hearts. (Z. '06-123; R3763)

4:4 — WAY SIDE — The fields of that land are not fenced and the paths of travel frequently cross them.

FOWLS OF THE AIR CAME AND DEVOURED IT UP — The birds of Syria, including Palestine, are much more numerous, seemingly, than elsewhere, probably on account of the climate; they are said to be one of the special pests of the farmer of that region.

4:5 — STONY GROUND — Palestine abounds with limestone, which renders the soil very rich but when shallow, very hot.

4:7 — FELL AMONG THORNS — Thorns abound in Palestine, a writer says there are no less than 50 genera and 200 species of plants in Syria and Palestine furnished with thorns and prickles. There is probably no country on earth of the same extent which has so many. Thistles grow to a height of 10 to 15 feet.

4:8 — SOME AN HUNDRED — This is not an exaggerated statement. One writer says that at Geneva in 1855 he got from the field a single ear of barley containing 276 grains. (Z. '06-123,124; R.3763)

4:9 — HE THAT HATH EARS TO HEAR, LET HIM HEAR — Hearts in which sensuality dominate have no ear whatever for the kingdom message and are not mentioned in this parable. The majority of the multitude heard, wondered at the gracious words, thought of him as a wonderful teacher sent from God, but took no deeper interest. They had not ears to hear, they were not hungry for the truth, their hearts were not prepared. But there were some there who had hearing ears, the twelve and a considerable number of disciples. They had ears not only for the story but for its meaning, the lesson, they desired to know the will of God that they might do it, they were consecrated to know and do the Father's will. (Z. '06-124; R.3763)

4:10 See comment on verse 9.

4:13 — AND HOW THEN WILL YE KNOW ALL PARABLES? — i.e. It is proper for you to know this parable as it will prove a key valuable in the interpretation of all parables. (Z. '06-125; R.3764)

4:14 — THE SOWER SOWETH THE WORD — The seed is the Word of God (Luke 8:11)—the entire Revelation God has made to us, the Bible, includes (1) the word spoken by angels (God's direct messages in the past to Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Moses, etc. including the giving of the Law.) Those angels represented God as his mouthpieces. (2) The messages sent through the prophets. (3) The teachings of Jesus and the apostles. (Heb. 1:2; Matt. 10:40) This is the only proper seed. Other writings are good seed only as they are thoroughly loyal to the divine word. To whatever extent they present human philosophy instead of or mixed with the Divine plan and philosophy, to that extent they are not the good seed. Nearly all the theological works outside the Bible are so mixed as to be untrue, misleading. How careful then we should be respecting the seed which we receive into our own hearts from day to day, and also of that we give out to others. (Z.'06-125; R.3764)

4:31 — GRAIN OF MUSTARD SEED — This illustrates how the Gospel of the Kingdom would from a small beginning attain to a considerable size.

4:32 — GREATER THAN ALL HERBS — Not great among the trees, but great among bushes or herbage, largest of its class.

AND SHOOTETH OUT GREAT BRANCHES — Branches of the Church, and denominations.

SO THAT THE FOWLS OF THE AIR — According to our Lord's interpretation of the previous parable (vss. 4,15) "Fowls of the air" represent Satan and the servants of Satan. (Rev. 18:2)

MAY LODGE UNDER THE SHADOW OF IT — The message of Christ, received at first only by the poor and few of Israel has finally grown to such important dimensions that the fowls of the air like to gather in its branches. The church was so unimportant in the world at one time that it was a shame and dishonor to belong to it, but that ultimately it would become honorable and great and the Adversary's servants would have pleasure in its shade. The fowls came in, not for the benefit of the shrub, but for their own convenience, (Z.'00-153; R.2634) They have been lodging there these many centuries (until now they claim it is their tree) and are still to be found in it, a defiling element. This development the Scriptures declare Babylon, and that as a whole, with its various branches and denominations the nominal church of Christ is Babylonish. The intimation is that there is a large outward development of the church, which is not to her advantage and glory, but contrariwise. Nevertheless, this is nominally, the church of Christ, and however his spirit may have been represented and an improper development existed, ultimately he will bring order out of chaos and glorify and use his "elect." (Z.'10-204, 205; R.4636; Z.'00-153; R.2634; Z.'14-58; R.5406)

4:37 — THERE AROSE A GREAT STORM OF WIND — This must have been a remarkably severe storm. Some of the disciples were experienced fishermen, accustomed to the sudden squalls from which that sea is noted. For such courageous men as Peter, James and John to appeal to Jesus for super-human aid implies that the conditions were critical. The sea of Galilee is subject to such sudden wind storms. To understand the causes of these sudden tempests; the lake lies low—600 feet below sea level. The vast and naked plateaus of the Jaulan rise to a great height, spreading backward to the wilds of Hauran and upward to snowy Mt. Hermon. The watercourses have cut out deep ravines and wide gorges converging to the head of the Lake, and these act like gigantic funnels to draw down the cold winds from the mountains. It is probable that Satan had something to do in the development of this storm, that it had more than natural causes, though the latter might have assisted, or even been sufficient. We remember that the Adversary had already endeavored to induce our Lord to leap from the pinnacle of the temple, but had failed. Apparently now he would drown him in the sea. Again it is peculiar that the Greek word used for "Be Still" in this text is the same as used by our Lord to the demon in Mark 1:25. This corroborates the thought that the storm was the work of the Adversary. This miracle shows that storms should not be accredited as they are frequently, to divine malevolence; for if the Father had caused the storm the Son would not have interfered with it. We do not wish to intimate, either, that every storm is of Satanic origin; we do not dispute that many of them arise from natural causes; but we do hold that some of them are supernatural and of the Adversary. Note the whirlwind raised up by Satan which smote the house in which Job's children were feasting. (Job 1:13, 19) But the Lord who declares himself able to make the wrath of man to praise him, caused the wrath of Satan or the wildness of the storm, to praise him, to show forth his mighty power. (Z. '04-59; R.3324)

AND THE WAVES BEAT INTO THE SHIP, SO THAT IT WAS NOW FULL — This prefigures the experiences of the Church. For 1800 years his dear ones have been tempest tossed by the Adversary, persecuted, afflicted, buffeted—all through this dark night in which the only light has been God's Word. (Z. '04-60; R.3325) Evidences are thickening all about us that the severest and darkest hour, the most stormy period of her entire career is just ahead of her—just upon her. The sea, the world, is all about her seeking to enter into her, seeking to swamp her, seeking to swallow her up and many cry out in their fear, cry out in terror: "Master, carest thou not that we perish? Seest thou not how agnosticism under the new name of Higher Criticism, is seeking to capsize us, to overwhelm us, to break the cable of faith by which we are anchored to the sure promises of thy Word! Master, seest thou not that the very mention of thy precious blood as the ransom price for sinners, the purchase price of our release from sin and death, is reviled, belittled, esteemed a common thing by those who name thy name! Master, carest thou not that thy Word has been so misrepresented during the dark ages of the past that today the intellectuals of the world disdain it as the teaching of doctrines unworthy of a noble intellect! Master, carest thou not that these have no reverence for thy book and for thine own holy name? Master, carest thou not that thy people, thy saintly ones, are perishing in infidelity, in agnosticism; that they are losing their faith in the precious blood and in all the wonderful promises of thy Word, because they see not, neither do they understand the height and depth, the length and breadth of the love of God which passeth all understanding! Master, thy church is about to be swallowed up in the overwhelming tide of worldliness, of sin, superstition, and ignorance and deceptions of evil spirits! Master, save or we perish!" (N-6-6-09)

4:38 — HE WAS...ASLEEP ON A PILLOW — Probably from exhaustion—speaking to so large multitudes and the labors of his journey. But it is possible that our Lord feigned sleep for the very purpose of permitting his disciples to reach the point of extremity which led them to call for his aid, because man's extremity is God's opportunity. (N-6-6-09)

CAREST THOU NOT THAT WE PERISH? — The slightly different accounts of the event given by Matthew, Mark and Luke are all correct, some disciple cried one way and others in different words. (Matt. 8:23-27; Luke 8:22-25) One has put it thus: "Little faith prayed 'Save us;' Much fear cries 'We perish.' Distrust urges 'Carest thou not?' More faith said 'Lord;' Discipleship cried out 'Teacher;' Faint hope cried out 'Master, thou with authority.'" (Z.'04-59; R.3324)

4:39 — PEACE, BE STILL. — See note on verse 37.

AND THE WIND CEASED, AND THERE WAS A GREAT CALM — Someone might claim that a storm which came up suddenly might happen to stop with equal suddenness, but this would not account for the calming of the sea. Waters thus lashed to a fury could not be calmed quickly except by superhuman power. (Z.'04-59; R.3324) We of today represent the Lord's cause in the midst of the raging elements of human passions. The storms may seem to come from the world but behind the world is Satan and we are not ignorant of his devices. The raging sea here pictures the raging masses of men in the time of trouble. (See Psa. 46:2, 3; 107:25-27) Those in the boat, the Lord's people. Our Lord's words typify his speaking peace to the people at the end of the time of trouble when he will take full control and Satan shall be bound. (Psa. 46:10; 1 Kings 19:12) The great calm pictures the great rest from the evil one for a 1000 years, for the whole world. Then also will come the eternal rest of heart to all those now in the boat with the Lord (see 1 Peter 3:20) and then will come the opportunities for all these to be collaborators with him in uplifting and blessing the world. (Z.'04-60; R.3325)

4:40 — HOW IS IT THAT YE HAVE NO FAITH? — We believe that Jesus was not specially condemning the apostles for fearing the storm and awakening him to quell it. Indeed their action indicates that they had faith; that they believed that the Master had the power which could save them. The Lord would have them exercise a still broader faith than this. He would have them realize the Father's care, as illustrated by the sparrows. (Matt. 10:29-31) Such experiences are tests of our faith as this was to the apostles. If our faith be strong enough under such circumstances, we would keep on with our proper endeavors to adjust matters, corresponding to the bailing of the boat and working of the oars; but meantime with an implicit faith in the Lord's promise that all things shall work together for our good and thus we will be able to sing and rejoice. (Z.'04-60; R.3325) The message this lesson brings to us is that he who is able to control the storms and the sea is likewise able to govern all the affairs of life in the interests of his consecrated followers. To become terrified implies a doubt in God's promises, or a lack of faith. (N-6-6-09)

Each experience of this kind should be helpful to us. If at first we were fearful and cried aloud, by and by we received succor, with perhaps the reprimand "O, thou of little faith;" but as lesson after lesson has come to us, the Master will expect and we should expect of ourselves, greater faith, greater trust, greater peace, greater joy in the Lord, greater confidence in his presence with us, and his care over us, in his power to deliver us from Satan and from every evil thing, and bring us safely to the port we seek, the heavenly kingdom. (Z.'04-60; R.3325)

5:2 — IMMEDIATELY — He must have seen the boat crossing the lake and heading for the coast where he was, for he met Jesus immediately on landing.

UNCLEAN SPIRIT — The Scriptures clearly set forth a Prince of Devils, Satan, and his subordinates, distinctly referred to as individuals possessing intelligence and reason. We are aware of the subtle arguments by which those who do not believe in spirit beings invisible to men, deny intelligences that cannot be recognized by the five human senses. But surely they find it hard to deal honestly with the word of God and yet hold to their positions on the subject.

5:7 — WHAT HAVE I TO DO WITH THEE — Or "What have we in common?" (You go your way and we go ours.) Truly there is nothing in common between the Son of God and the Demons, and between his mission and their work. Therefore all Christian people who recognize the work of these demons through spirit mediums, theosophy, hypnotism, mental-science, Christian Science, should be on guard and have nothing whatever to do with them. To do so would be to neglect the divine counsel and jeopardize one's peace of mind and the best interests of the New Creature.

I ADJURE THEE BY GOD, THAT THOU TORMENT ME NOT — See Matt. 8:29. Apparently the demons understood that God had a time appointed which would mark the limit of their opportunities to torment mankind by obsession. The false reasoning exhibited is this expression in peculiar—this implication that an interference with their tormenting mankind would be an injury to their rights and liberties. Yet we know that there are many among men who have similar perverted notions of what constitute their liberties, their rights—to impose upon the rights of others, to defraud, and mislead others to their injury. It is common today for men to claim that their rights and liberties are interfered with when they are stopped from pillaging and variously injuring their fellow creatures. When great corporations affecting to be public servants and chartered by the commonwealth use their opportunities to the public injury, they also cry out “Let us alone, you are interfering with our vested rights.”

5:9 — FOR WE ARE MANY — We may suppose, not unreasonably, that our Lord knew the man was possessed of a great number of fallen spirits and took this method of bringing out the answer for the sake of his disciples and others gathered around. Everything we know on the subject convinces us that the evil spirits have no special pleasure in their own company and therefore are specially desirous of being in contact with human beings whom they may use as their agents and through whom they may operate and come in contact with others, being debarred from intercourse with the holy angels. It seems that these demons so little like their own company, that if they could not fellowship with human beings they would rather have the swine than their own company. Jesus evidently knew what the result would be and as swine were forbidden food to the Jew, Jesus let them go.

5:13 — AND WERE CHOKED IN THE SEA — If there were demons enough to craze 2000 swine, it is no wonder the demoniac was so wild and insane, acted upon by the contrary suggestions of such a host. The demons by the drowning of the swine lost obsession of even them. They gave a public example of their own destructiveness.

5:17 — TO DEPART OUT OF THEIR COASTS — Of all the people in that country the healed man alone appreciated our Lord Jesus. The rest urged him to depart; but this poor man entreated that he might go with our Lord, become one of his disciples, the man may have been fearful of being left behind lest the demons should again take possession of him, or he may have been ashamed of his previous course in life and of his old associates and may have thought to find new ones. More probably he desired to be a witness of the blessings he had received.

5:20 — AND ALL MEN DID MARVEL — See notes Luke 8:37-39.

5:22 — RULERS OF THE SYNAGOGUE — In the custom of that time this meant a man of considerable influence in his community; also a number of the local court which tried petty offenses, preserved general order, convened the assembly; etc. He had in charge the Synagogue's affairs, invited its readers and speakers, managed the schools in connection with it—looked after its general welfare. Jairus was doubtless acquainted with the nobleman whose son our Lord had previously healed. (John 4:46-53) Possibly his knowledge of that case helped to increase his own faith in the Lord.

5:24 — AND JESUS WENT WITH HIM — Evidently Jesus was at the home of Matthew Levi, the publican. (Matt. 8:9-18)

5:35 — WHY TROUBLEST THOU THE MASTER ANY FURTHER? — What a test this delay was to the faith of Jairus. While the miracle added to his faith respecting our Lord's power, at the same time it tested his faith about the recovery of his child. The test became even more severe on the arrival of messengers saying the child was dead. Similar our Lord's dealings with many of his people. Through various providences he gives us ground for faith. Then, as we exercise the faith by acting in harmony with it he gives fresh corroboration, meanwhile testing it by permitting various difficulties, contrary suggestions, doubts and fears, not only such as would arise in our minds, but such as would be brought to us through others, sometimes those nearest to us. Yet in all such trials the Lord has been ready to speak comfort and full assurance to our hearts if we would but listen to his words.

5:36 — BE NOT AFRAID, ONLY BELIEVE — O! how much there is in faith. God desires his people shall walk by faith, not by sight.

5:38 — THE TUMULT — The hired mourners, whom Matthew calls minstrels, were already there; and the usual unseemly tumult of the time was in progress.

5:39 — SLEEPETH — The use of the word "sleep" for "death" is very frequent in the Scriptures. (1 Kings 2:10; Acts 7:60; 1 Thess. 4:14; 1 Cor. 15:51) The Jewish Talmud so uses it. Our word "cemetery" means literally "sleeping place." Dr. Trench, a noted scholar, says of this word "sleep"; "Thereby the reality of death is not denied but only the fact implicitly assumed that the death will be followed by a resurrection, as sleep is followed by an awakening."

5:41 — TALITHA CUMI — These words are in the Aramaic language spoken by the common people of that time. In the ordinary dialect of the people "talitha" is a term of endearment to a young girl, so the words are equivalent to "arise, my child."

DAMSEL, I SAY UNTO THEE, ARISE — Such an awakening of the life forces temporarily suspended is of the nature of a resurrection, but is not a resurrection. To have resurrected her would mean to have lifted her completely out of death in every sense of the word. Out of mental, moral and physical degradation up to the grand heights of perfection of mind and body represented in the person of father Adam before he fell. He merely awakened her, leaving her on the same plane of death where she had been born and lived for twelve years. The maiden will still have her opportunity of sharing in the general "resurrection by judgment" in the Millennial age; unless later she accepted the Gospel and became of his followers, a member of the church of this gospel age, in which case she would, if faithful have a part in the first resurrection.

6:2 — HE BEGAN TO TEACH IN THE SYNAGOGUE — It is a great tribute to the spirit of liberty which prevailed among the Jews that our Lord could preach the Gospel of the Kingdom from city to city in their synagogues without molestation. In contrast we may be sure that if he were to attempt to teach in any of the churches of today of any denomination, he would be refused the privilege, no matter how faithfully he should adhere to the Scriptural declarations. Indeed the more explicit his teachings, the more unsatisfactory would they be to those now in charge; for they have a theory of their own respecting the Kingdom which will not stand investigation, and the weakness of which they would not wish to have exposed. This loss of liberty among Christians is to their injury and makes it much more difficult for them to hear the joyful sound of the present harvest message.

6:7 — AND BEGAN TO SEND THEM FORTH — In order to prepare the disciples for this he suggested that they pray; the harvest was plenteous, but the laborers few and they should offer prayer on the subject. The substance of the prayer would be—“Lord send me forth as a reaper.” Evidently the Apostles quickly caught his thought and spirit respecting the increase of the harvest workers.

GAVE THEM POWER OVER UNCLEAN SPIRITS — As the curing of disease caused vitality to go out of the Lord Jesus to effect the cure, and thus every cure meant the robbing of himself of his own life powers, vitality, so in this case we would understand that the power for healing the sick, was Jesus own power, that the disciples did not use their own vitality, but his which he communicated to them and authorized them to use saying—“freely ye have received, freely give.” They were giving what cost them nothing but what was costing Jesus much every day and every hour. It is when we get this thought of our Lord’s yielding up his life daily in doing good to others that we can best appreciate how his perfect life was so thoroughly used up in the short space of 3-1/2 years.

6:13 — ANOINTED WITH OIL — The healing of the sick and casting out of devils was but a part of the mission of the Apostles. They were to preach the good news that the Kingdom of God was at hand. The influence of the miracles should properly attract attention to the message, and make people ready, anxious for the Kingdom. But as far as the records show the people were anxious for the miracles, the healing, but indifferent yet to the Kingdom. Although they would take the cures from our Lord and His disciples, yet when they wanted information about how and when the Kingdom would come, they would follow their blind guides as usual. However the influence of this mission work throughout Israel was not entirely lost, but was manifest after our Lord's crucifixion and after Pentecost. After Pentecost the Apostles preached the kingdom from a different standpoint, and then many who previously heard the Gospel and witnessed the miracles were thus much better prepared to enter the embryotic kingdom through consecration. Our Lord and John the Baptist had different missions, and each fulfilled his own according to divine arrangement. John's mission was preeminently that of a reprover and reformer and as a prophet he was supernaturally guided in respect to the various features of the course he took. We who are called to be of the Body of Christ are called to be copies of God's dear Son, not of John the Baptist. We are not sent forth as was John, to live and dress uncouthly and to criticize and denounce everything and everybody. Some of the Lord's dear people fail to notice that such commissions are very rare, and sometimes in following the wrong copy they undesignedly bring reproach upon the Lord's cause. We are not to try to stir up strife by minding other peoples business, nor to seek to govern all the affairs of this world by reprovng kings, etc. but on the contrary we are exhorted by the apostles to remember that what God sees fit to permit we can see fit to endure. (Matt. 5:9; Rom. 12:18) (Z. '12-68; R.4978)

6:26 — FOR HIS OATH'S SAKE, AND FOR THEIR SAKES WHICH SAT WITH HIM, HE WOULD NOT REJECT HER — See Matt. 14. Under the pressure of profiteering, financiers, merchants and manufacturers the politicians surrendered to the demands of the clergy and did what had never before been attempted in America, interfered in religious worship and suppressed religious books and periodicals, forbidding religious worship and imprisoning people for religious views. (Golden Age. #48 p.638)

6:31 — FOR THERE WERE MANY COMING AND GOING — At this particular season many had made arrangements to go up to Jerusalem to the feast (of the Passover—John 6:4) and therefore were on a holiday journey. On such occasions there was an unusual concourse on all the roads leading to Jerusalem, and now the people excited by Herod's conduct, bewildered and wondering as to the Messiah, turned aside from their journey to hear more from the lips of this great prophet, Jesus of Nazareth, and to see for themselves whether he possessed the qualifications for Messiahship for the deliverance of their nation and for the establishment of the Kingdom of God.

AND THEY HAD NO LEISURE SO MUCH AS TO EAT — Jesus was departing from Galilee at this time for several reasons. His disciples had returned, whom he had sent forth two by two, and he doubtless desired for them a time of privacy and rest and measure of quiet, in which he could hear their reports and instruct them about their work. Then the news had just reached them that Herod had beheaded John the Baptist, and that Herod's army had been defeated by Aretas. Unquestionably the news had stirred the people, aroused their apprehensions for the future and to some extent unfitted them for further hearing our Lord's message. Still another reason was to give occasions for this miracle. (Then he would also soon be going up to keep the Passover.)

6:33 — AND THE PEOPLE SAW THEM DEPARTING...AND RAN

AFOOT THITHER — Was the Master angry that his endeavor for privacy and rest should thus be intruded upon? by people for whom he had done so much? No indeed! His great loving heart was full of sympathy, too full to entertain any such anger. Although desiring rest our Lord could not forbear to teach the people. He was the true shepherd and ready at all times to fulfill his mission, lay down his life for the sheep, not merely at calvary, but hourly during the years of his ministry while he was approaching the grand climax of his ministry and sacrifice. This must be the spirit of all who are the Lord's true disciples, increasingly so as they become partakers of the Master's holy spirit by feeding on his Word, by following his directions and growing in grace and knowledge and love.

AND CAME TOGETHER UNTO HIM — The Master was sitting on the mountainside when the people came unto him. It is quite probable that he and the apostles taught the people some time before the miracle of feeding was performed. (John 6:3) The sail across the sea brought our Lord and his apostles to a quiet, secluded place, where they probably spent a day or two in rest and comparative privacy. Thus to camp out of doors, without tents, etc. seems to have been not unusual in that climate then. Even today one may find the Arabs in Palestine sleeping along the roadside at night, wrapped in their outer coats or garments, like Jacob, with a stone for a pillow.

6:34 — AND WAS MOVED WITH COMPASSION TOWARD THEM —

This gives us a deeper appreciation of his kindness, his love and mercy. When we think of our Lord as still possessed of the same compassion it gives us fresh confidence that notwithstanding our imperfections and those of the whole world, "the groaning creation," not only has He the same compassion upon His people, but in due time He will have compassion on all the families of the earth, and grant all a full opportunity to return to perfection, mental, moral, and physical from the blight of sin. Compassion will be an exercised element of our Lord's character as long as there are any who need help and desire it.

BECAUSE THEY WERE AS SHEEP NOT HAVING A SHEPHERD

— So now many of the Lord's people in Babylon, are in a similar condition, easily persuaded we are living in remarkable times and some great dispensational change is at hand. They note the terrible world war and long for information and guidance as to the proper course. They are like sheep without a shepherd. True there are many shepherds in Babylon, but as the people note that these are leading toward infidelity, destructive criticism of the Bible and toward evolutionary theories, they fear such leadings and have no confidence in it. They know not to whom to look. The most satisfying portion that reaches their ears is the message of the kingdom, as we proclaim it. Yet in the face of the denunciations of their shepherds they fear to accept this message. They are largely controlled through superstition, priestcraft, and fear. Every member of the Body of Christ should remember that he is privileged to proclaim the tidings of great joy which shall be unto all people and help lead the people in the right way to the true shepherd.

6:37 — GIVE YE THEM TO EAT — Our Lord had in view a purpose. They knew not, one of the greatest miracles of his ministry. However instead of telling them of it, he permitted the matter to come about in the most natural way possible, suggesting to his disciples that they should seat the multitude and he would assist them to feed the multitude.

6:38 — FIVE, AND TWO FISHES — The greatest miracles are of a quiet and unostentatious kind. In nature we see these miracles in the growing grain which under divine providence supplies our needs in response to our labor. The increase of the five barley loaves and two fishes we may be sure was not more of a miracle than what is constantly going on in nature. It is merely of a different kind to which we are now accustomed. But as he used the loaves and fishes so he uses the seed wheat as the basis for the miracle crop which is gathered in the time of harvest. In other words, He always uses means to an end. And the fact that we may see and understand the means does not make the miracle either greater or less. A proper view connects the Lord with all the affairs of this life as well as of that to come.

6:39 — SIT DOWN BY COMPANIES UPON THE GREEN GRASS — The disciples had learned to be obedient to whatever the Master proposed. Hence we find no objection offered to our Lord's command, each to prepare for a meal when apparently no food could be obtained for so great a number. They were beginning to learn that he who could fill their nets with fish, who could restore withered hands, heal by a word, and awaken from the sleep of death, was so different from themselves as to be beyond judgment or criticism.

6:41 — WHEN HE HAD TAKEN THE FIVE LOAVES — So Jesus illustrated a feature of his dealings with the people of God, and with the world. He takes our time and talents, little and unworthy as these are, and blessing them, uses them in His service for the accomplishment of his purposes. He thus associates His people with Himself, and blesses them through these experiences and lessons even more than He blesses those to whom His people are sent.

AND BLESSED — John says "He gave thanks." If it was appropriate for the only begotten of the Father to render thanks for that frugal meal, it is certainly becoming that those who profess to be his followers should copy His example here as well as in other things. Recognizing our food as of God's bounty and provision how can we partake of it without returning thanks? We feel sure that all who render thanks receive a special blessing with their food and upon it, and a special wisdom in respecting the use of it which others fail to get. The very peace and rest which come as a result of looking to the Lord in gratitude and accepting his provision with thankfulness insures by a natural law, a tranquility favorable to digestion. Undoubtedly, food eaten in a pleasant, thankful attitude of mind is more nourishing, more refreshing, than the same food would be if eaten in unthankfulness or anger or dissatisfaction. The food was not served on elegant ware, it was not fine food, but plain barley bread and dried fish. Plainness and simplicity of food would be more helpful for us, and would leave more time for spiritual refreshment and the service of the Truth to others. Of course it would be inappropriate to manifest openly our thanks to the Lord when at public places, hotels, etc. While we might be pleased thus to acknowledge the Lord, yet we might well refrain if our conduct would be misunderstood as Phariseism. But the heart should always render thanks.

AND THE TWO FISHES DIVIDED HE AMONG THEM ALL —

These apparently grew as they were broken, like the widows cruse of oil. As the oil flowed incessantly till the pots were filled, so the food under the Lord's blessing, increased till all the multitude were satisfied, filled and wanted no more.

6:46 — HE DEPARTED INTO A MOUNTAIN TO PRAY — Nearly all, of the Lord's prayers that are recorded are simple and brief; whenever he wished to make long prayers he went to the Father alone by himself. This would be a good example for us. Long prayers are frequently a weariness to the flesh and so far as we can discern are likely to contain many vain repetitions, or attempts to instruct the Lord. (Z. '12-281; R.5096)

6:50 — BE OF GOOD CHEER: IT IS I: BE NOT AFRAID — Doubtless in after years the disciples felt themselves alone in the midst of a contrary people and found progress difficult and all their experiences stormy. No doubt it helped them to look back on this occasion and remember the Master's ability to come to them on the troubles seas, and how his coming brought peace and quiet. (Z. '12-281; R.5095) See comments on Matt. 14:22, 23.

6:56 — AND AS MANY AS TOUCHED HIM WERE MADE WHOLE —

There was a great strain continually upon the great teacher and healer, for he was continually expending his vitality in both directions at once. In healing the sick vitality went out of him; and all his public teaching cost considerable vitality, especially when he addressed large multitudes. "Himself took on infirmities." So God's consecrated people have through the past 18 centuries realized a spiritual blessing as Jesus passed their way—as they came to a knowledge of Him, as by faith they reached out and touched the hem of his garment, realizing him to be the Son of the Highest, the Redeemer of the world. (Z.'12-282; R.5096)

7:2 — WITH UNWASHED, HANDS, THEY FOUND FAULT — We may be sure Jesus set his followers no example of filthiness or impurity. Indeed the Truth has a cleansing and purifying effect on entire life, mental, moral and physical. What the Pharisees meant was a ceremonial washing whether the hands were clean or unclean, to make a formal washing a part of their religion. This Jesus objected to. He could not so teach for it would have been ceremonial hypocrisy. (Z.'12-282; R.5096)

7:3 — HOLDING THE TRADITION OF THE ELDERS — Jesus suited no class of his time. To the impure he was too pure. To those of loud hypocritical profession he was too sincere. To the worldly wise, he was too frank, too truthful. (Z.'12-282; R.5096)

7:11 — CORBAN — An offering to God of any sort, bloody or bloodless, but particularly in fulfilment of a vow. The Law laid down rules for vows. (1, affirmative; 2, negative—Lev. 27; Num. 30) Upon these rules the traditionists enlarged, and laid down that a man might interdict himself by a vow, not only from using for him some particular object, whether of food or any other kind whatsoever. The thing thus interdicted was considered as Corban. A person might thus exempt himself from any inconvenient obligation under plea of Corban. It was practices of this sort which our Lord condemned. (Matt. 15:5; Mark 7:11) as annulling the Spirit of the Law. (S.B.D.)

MIGHTEST BE PROFITED BY ME — See Diag. Matt. 15:5, and note in Mark 7:11. Matt.—“An offering is that by which thou mightest derive assistance from me.” Thus any man might be free from his parents by consecrating himself and his substance to God, and religious uses. (Z.'12-283; R.5096)

8:27 — TOWNS OF CAESAREA PHILIPPI — This was Jesus' most northerly journey in Palestine just at the headwaters of the Jordan where it issues in great volume from a cave.

WHOM DO MEN SAY THAT I AM? — Although Jesus had frequently referred to himself as the Son of Man, a title recognized among the Jews as appropriate to the Messiah, and applied to him by Daniel, our Lord had never positively stated that he was the Messiah. He had permitted his works to testify of him. (Matt. 11:1-6) If his character and works would not testify to the hearts of his disciples any words on the subject would be vain, empty and powerless.

8:29 — BUT WHOM SAY YE THAT I AM? — What view of me do you, my followers have, you who know me most intimately, who have heard my daily teachings and seen my daily life?

THOU ART THE CHRIST — Matthew puts it “Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.” It should be noticed that the Scriptures are everywhere consistent with themselves, that nowhere is Jesus spoken of as his own Father, the Almighty God, Jehovah, but appropriately as the Son of God, offspring of the Almighty as God manifest in the flesh, the best possible manifestation of the Father among men. “Thou art the Messiah” means, Thou art the one in whom center all the promises to the Fathers, who as the seed of Abraham is to bless all the families of the earth. How we wish that all the Lord’s people might clearly discern what is implied by Peter’s good confession! It implies faith in Jesus, not merely as the Savior of the Church, his Body, his Bride, but as the Savior of the world—through whom all the families of the earth shall be blest with gracious opportunities for escape from the thralldom of sin and death unto the liberties of the Sons of God. (Rom. 8:19-23) What think ye of Christ? This question which came to the Apostles has been rung down through the ages from that time till no wherever the knowledge of the Lord has come. It is a question which each one must answer for himself. It has come to each of us who have been the Lord’s followers, and like Peter and the other Apostles, we have accepted Jesus as our Savior, realizing that he bought us with his precious blood, and that we have peace with God through a consciousness that the divine sentence has been met and that God can now justly accept us to himself, forgiving our sins, accepting satisfaction through our surety and his precious sacrifice for sins. On the strength of this faith that our Savior is the Son of God and died for our sins, we accepted him as the Great King whose Millennial reign will bless the world by establishing a rule of righteousness by binding Satan and all the powers of evil; by causing the knowledge of the glory of God to fill the whole earth and by establishing in the world a great reign of righteousness, judgment, justice, under which every righteous deed will receive a just reward and every good endeavor receive encouragement and blessing, and bring a corresponding uplift, mental, moral and physical. (Rom. 2:6-11; Acts. 3:21) By faith we believe that those who hear in advance of the world have a special call to joint-heirship with their Redeemer in his glorious kingdom and share with him his grand work of blessing and restoring all the willing and obedient of mankind. What joy follows in the wake of this knowledge and good confession only the elect can fully appreciate. As they confess their faith it grows, as do the blessings and privileges; and gradually their joys become full to overflowing of their earthly vessels and to their preparing the more for the glorious fulness of joy into which they will enter in their resurrection change.

8:30 — TELL NO MAN OF HIM — This measure of secrecy was enjoined because it was not yet due time for it to be generally known. Its publication by Jesus and his disciples would have stirred up the public mind and interfered, hastening or hindering his crucifixion.

8:31, 32 — The noble Peter had scored a great success in his faithful and prompt acknowledgement of the Master, and as a result received special favors and blessings and promises.

Perhaps somewhat intoxicated with the honors received, he undertook to be the teacher, and did not hold the head in proper reverence. Alas how many today treat the Lord's Word in the same manner, ignoring his own statements and distorting his works in a manner which they are pleased to consider better than his, more honoring to him and the Father. Let us always remember that we are to listen to his words and not attempt to correct them, or substitute ideas of our own as better than his or as good. If we consider him worthy of the Father's honor and confidence, let us consider him also worthy to be our teacher, and let us take carefully, seriously, implicitly.

Though Peter did not so intend the matter, his efforts were in the direction of turning the Master aside from his covenant. So it is with some now who do not give sufficient heed to the Master's teachings; at times their influence upon their brethren and the church is rather to hinder than to help the sacrificing in the good way. They are stumbling blocks instead of stepping stones, and it is the duty of all who would be faithful footstep followers of Jesus, to treat kindly but emphatically the advice of such, as did our Master—to ignore it and press along the lines according to our covenant. Peter was an adversary, a hinderer of the work for the time. We see how those who are good and well intentioned may unwisely become hinderers of that which they desire to assist.

Happy would Peter have been had he taken this lesson very thoroughly to heart; but through failure to do so was unprepared for the later testing, when he denied the Lord and brought upon himself bitter weeping.

8:34-38 Discipleship meant the very reverse of what the disciples had naturally expected. Now the disciples were learning what the attainment of their desires meant, severe disciplines, testings, trials, to demonstrate their worthiness or unworthiness of a place in the Kingdom. Self-love and earthly loves, outweighing devotion to the Lord, would mean unfitness for a share with the Lord in the Kingdom. But such a love for the Lord, the Truth, and for the privileges of service, as would lead to self-denials, earthly sacrifices, even unto death, would imply the possession of the character which Jesus sought in those whom he would make joint heirs in the Kingdom.

A selfish love of life under present sinful conditions would signify the loss of life eternal and ultimately the second death. This in the present time applies to the Church. Yes! it is a case of losing our earthly lives and gaining the heavenly, and no amount of earthly gain can compensate for the loss of life eternally. Somewhat similar principles will apply to the world in the Millennial age. They also will be required to break away from sin and cultivate righteousness if they would attain to life. And those who will not forego the sins and battle against the weaknesses will never attain to restitution perfection and everlasting life.

8:38 — SHALL BE ASHAMED OF ME — The most humble, zealous and faithful are granted the clearest visions of the glories of the kingdom and these reveal them to others.

9:3 — WHITE AS SNOW — The heavenly glory fairly shining in his entire person. He was not actually changed. That change from human to divine, beginning at his baptism did indeed develop, change him from glory to glory, shining out in all the conduct of life; but this actual change did not occur till three days after Calvary. Paul saw Christ after his glorification, an intense brightness, above that of the noon day sun. In Acts 26:16 he called it a vision. Something of this brightness and grandeur were pictured before the three apostles in the holy mount, and no wonder that they fell on their faces with fear in the presence of such glorious grandeur. (Z.'06-183; R.3793) So far as the apostles were concerned, everything appeared so real, actual, that they at the time supposed it to be real. Paul says that in one of his visions, all was so real that he could not tell whether he was in the body or out of it, whether he was still on earth having a vision or actually had been carried away for a time.

9:4 — ELIAS WITH MOSES — These were not actually there, but merely “appeared” to be, represented. We know this not only from Jesus’ statement that it was a vision, but also from “no man hath ascended up to heaven.” (John 3:13; Acts 2:34) Although they could not have been there because they are not yet resurrected from the dead, because our Lord Jesus was the first born from the dead. (Acts 26:23; 1 Cor. 15:20; Col. 1:18) And Paul in Hebrews mentions Moses and the prophets (which would include Elijah) and their faithfulness and acceptance with God. But he points out that they have not yet received their reward, and will not until after the Gospel Church have received theirs with Christ in the Kingdom. (Heb. 11:39, 40)

9:5 — AND PETER ANSWERED — Peter was bewildered, confused, but in harmony with his natural temperament he wished to say something. The voice from heaven, however, seemed to say: “Be still, hearken rather to the words of my beloved Son.” Now a few need to learn the lesson of quietness, to hear and learn and be taught of God, before they have much to say. Peter evidently, as we may judge from his after conduct, learned to be slower to speak and swifter to hear (Jas. 1:19)—an important lesson to all who would be servants of the Lord. We must learn that of ourselves we can know or do nothing aright—a lesson of humility and patience; of our own nothingness and that our sufficiency is of God. Those who reach this condition become apt students in the school of Christ—not forgetful hearers, but doers of the word (Jas. 1:21-25; Matt. 7:21) and only such are prepared to teach the truth to others. Those who are too forward and ready to teach, before they have received instruction from the Lord, are very apt not to know what they say, as was Peter’s case (vs. 6; Luke 9:33); and if such be true hearted and worthy of being used of the Lord as his servants, they are very apt to receive numerous reproofs from time to time. The first lesson for us to learn is “The reverence of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom.” Thus Peter’s rash expression, found a reproof in the voice from heaven “Hear ye Him.” And fear fell upon the disciples. (Z. ’98-112; R.2289) See also note Luke 9:27 and 2 Pet. 1:16-18.

9:6 — FOR THEY WERE SORE AFRAID — It is well that we realize our own littleness and unworthiness, and to see that the whole matter is of the divine arrangement. (Z. ’06-184; R.3793)

9:7 — THIS IS MY BELOVED SON: HEAR HIM — The essence of the entire vision was to impress on the minds of the apostles that Jesus was the Messiah, that he was worthy of being heard, that he was the mouthpiece of God, he that honored him honored the Father also. This is God’s testimony. If we would be pleasing to the Father as was the beloved Son, we must give very earnest heed to his words (John 15:5, 7, 9, 10, 12) and live them, then we shall please Him. (Heb. 13:15,16) (Z. ’06-184; R.3793) We cannot build tabernacles on the mountain heights of faith and hope, and expect to dwell there in enraptured vision always. We must remember that the duties and trials of present experiences in conflict with sin and self and the Devil are essential to our development and part of our covenant, but like our Master we should frequently seek the Father’s blessing in prayer, and in proportion as we use this privilege will our hearts and faces shine and proportionately we will be enabled to show forth the praises of him who hath called us out of darkness into his marvelous light. (2 Cor. 4:6)

9:9 — AND AS THEY CAME DOWN FROM THE MOUNTAIN — Jesus and his disciples descended from the mount to engage in the duties of life—to complete the lessons of faith and obedience, battling against the world, flesh and devil. Yet the influence of the vision continued with the Apostles through coming days, as it still encourages us today. (Z. ’00-204,205; R.2659)

9:17 — WHICH HATH A DUMB SPIRIT — While this vision was taking place, or near its end, the disciples at the foot of the mountain were contending with the Adversary, seeking to cast out the demon from a young man. Thus the Lord's people of the present time are still in the valley of conflict, still contending with the will of the flesh and the devil; yet their eyes of faith behold at the top of the mountain the glorious Lord with all power in heaven and in earth, their friend and teacher, soon to be their deliverer, who will cause them to share in the glories of the Kingdom, into which we soon shall enter. (Z. '00-204; R.2659; Z. '12-344; R.5130) See Luke 9.

9:25 — AND ENTER NO MORE INTO HIM — Many claim that this was merely an epileptic. It is a common saying today that what Jesus and the Apostles mistook for demon possession was merely insanity, epilepsy. However, we have more confidence in the wisdom of the Lord and his chosen Apostles and mouthpieces than we have in all the doctors of theology and doctors of medicine in the whole earth. We therefore accept this narrative just as it reads—that Jesus rebuked the “demon” and cast him out and the boy was healed from that hour.

9:28 — WHY COULD NOT WE CAST HIM OUT? — Matt. 17:20 says “because of your unbelief” (little faith). They surely exercised considerable faith in making the attempt to cast him out. Faith deep and strong was needed, enduring faith. Faith as a grain of mustard seed is faith such as is illustrated in the course of the mustard seed. (See Matt. 13:32; Mark 4:31; also Matt. 21:21; Mark 11:23; Luke 17:6.) It is one of the least of seeds, yet it does not stop in doubt that it can grow up to take its place among the herbs of the field; does not question its creator's power, nor get discouraged and stop growing because it is small and seems of little account, and because it is not great and powerful; but in full confidence it absorbs the moisture and warmth and the nourishment of the soil and by obedience to the will of God it becomes the greatest of herbs. So we, even if we are little among men and lowly in position, may by faith and trust and obedience become great in the Lord's vineyard, in the Kingdom.

Remove mountains—We are not to suppose that our Lord meant that his followers should try to remove mountains as a diversion nor as a proof of their faith (for show, Jesus would not do so, he would not give the people a sign, or do miracles to please them, but only as God pleased—Luke 4:23) for by so doing they would seriously interfere with the rights and interests of others who would be more satisfied to have the mount remain. This they would have no right to do. We assume therefore, that the thought must be that if in the fulfilment of the divine command it should be necessary to have a mountain removed and if the commission had been given to one of the Lord's followers to remove the mount, and if he could exercise the faith to obey the command, the result would correspond to the faith exercised. (Z. '10-233; R.4650) Mark 11:23,24; John 15:7; 14:21; 1 Tim. 2:8 show that these words are true of only those who are fully consecrated, spirit begotten, and up to the mark of perfect love, having God's character written in their new wills, deep in a faith that is strong and enduring, obedient. Only these would God trust with such commissions. This fact shows that Mark 16:17, 18 is not genuine; also it shows untrue those senseless and foolish miracles attributed by legend to Jesus in his boyhood.

9:29 — BUT BY PRAYER AND FASTING — The lesson to the Apostles was that their greatest power would result from their living very close to God, living lives of self-denial and prayer. Fasting to be seen of men is not here indicated, not do we suggest that the works of penance on the part of disciples would make them more efficient in the understanding of the Lord's mystery, but rather the thought is, the nearer one lives to God the more of the divine power may be exercised by and through him. (Z. '10-233; R.4650) So God's people have many times asked why cannot we do more in the way of opposing Satan and sin and their reign of evil? The answer of Jesus applies here—doubtless God's people could accomplish much more in their own conflicts with sin and Satan, and in helping others to get free from its power if we would always exercise full faith in the Lord, and if we would continually live more in the spirit and less according to the flesh. This would mean fasting (self-denial) and prayer (fellowship with God). (Z. '12-345; R.5129)

9:37 — CHILDREN IN MY NAME — The special characteristics of a little child are simplicity of heart, meekness, truthfulness, freedom from rivalry and ambition, faith, confiding trust, love, obedience, teachableness, indifference to social distinctions and popular opinions, and guilelessness. The maintenance of such a spirit after the dominant powers of childhood have expanded and brought the world with all its attractions, allurements, ambitions, hopes, etc. within the mental grasp of the man, after the intellect has been quickened by the pulsations of life until he begins to realize that he is the peer of his fellows and that he has advanced in the acquirement of knowledge and in the development of skill and ability even beyond many other men—the maintenance of the childlike spirit is indeed the evidence of that self-control and self-discipline which invariably bespeak a noble character. The possession of such a spirit indicates: 1) That the man is not overestimating himself. Although in comparison to the ignorance of his childhood he may have made considerable progress in the acquirement of knowledge and development of his faculties, perhaps beyond the majority of his fellow men, yet he sensibly considers that he is still on the shore of a boundless sea of truth, and if he has outstripped some of his fellows it is merely because of some superior advantages of birth or of education of which his benevolent soul would gladly see all partake. He views himself as God sees him, a very imperfect man, striving in such weakness to measure up to the standard of a perfect man, but realizing that his best efforts still leave him far short of the mark of perfection. So he is humbled in consideration of his failures rather than puffed up by comparing himself with those of still lower attainments. 2) A tender consideration and love for other men which cannot vaunt itself nor behave unseemly toward them. It regards inferior learning and lack of intellectual development with that gracious sympathy and helpfulness, which seek to supplement what the illiterate have to conceal their lack or deformity rather than expose their ignorance while it cheerfully recognizes moral and intellectual equals, and pays due reverence to superior attainments. See Matt. 18:1-5 notes.

10:18 — THERE IS NONE GOOD BUT ONE, THAT IS, GOD —

Paraphrased this answer would mean: “Is this merely a mark of courtesy? Or do you recognize the fact that there is only one standard of goodness, which is represented by God the Father, and that therefore in calling me good you are recognizing not only this divine standard but me as a teacher whom God approves.” Doubtless our Lord’s words were calculated to set the young man thinking—“This teacher claims to be of God, his claim is either true or false; he is therefore a true prophet or a false one. I have called him Good Master. If I have been sincere, if this is the result of my previous investigation of his teachings, I ought to be willing to accept whatever answer he gives me as of divine direction, and obey promptly.”

10:19 — THOU KNOWEST THE COMMANDMENTS — Not waiting for a reply to his question, but content to leave the suggestion before the young man’s mind. @SECOND PAR = DEFRAUD NOT, HONOUR THY FATHER AND MOTHER — Matthew adds (Matt. 19:19) “Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.” Some may wonder why Jesus did not say as we would today—“Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ. Confess your inability to keep the Divine Law perfectly, and believe on the Lord Jesus as the one who has redeemed you and whose robe of righteousness you may receive by faith and become thus acceptable to the Father and then consecrate your life to the Lord.” Such a statement was not then due to be given out for Jesus had not yet finished his sacrifice, and hence it was not yet possible for any to have access to the Father through Him. Before any could come to God thus, it was necessary for Jesus to finish his sacrifice and ascend on high and appear in the presence of God for us. The Law Covenant was still in force for our Lord had not yet nailed it to his cross. (Col. 2:14) Our Lord’s answer must therefore be in line with the Law, so he directed the young man’s attention to the Law and its promise. (Lev. 18:5; Rom. 10:5)

10:20 — MASTER, ALL THESE HAVE I OBSERVED FROM MY

YOUTH — Quite probably he felt satisfied fairly; but perceiving the deep spirituality of the teachings of Jesus and he thought he would like to have the confirmation of the great teacher, our Lord’s assurance that the keeping of the Law was all sufficient and his obedience to it was claimed guaranteed life everlasting. But he seems to have felt that something was lacking in his life as Matthew adds “What lack I yet?” He knew he was not perfect, and something was the matter.

10:21 — THEN JESUS BEHOLDING HIM LOVED HIM — He was a model young man, one such as all lovers of truth and righteousness delight in. Our Lord loved him, loved his endeavors to keep the Law, loved his humility and earnestness manifested in coming in a public manner to ask the way to life eternal. (Evidently the young ruler had his misgivings whether he was up to the Divine standards, even though outwardly obeying the requirements of the Law.)

ONE THING THOU LACKEST — Our Lord, always gentle towards those who manifested a right attitude of heart, sincerely inquiring the way to eternal life, did not rudely call attention to his defects. Jesus realized that selfishness had become ingrained in fallen human nature, and this young man was really far above the average in nobility of character, and his desire to be just towards his fellows.

TAKE UP THE CROSS, AND FOLLOW ME — Sinaitic and Vatican (1209) MSS omit the words "Take up the cross." Here was the crucial test. Every Jew ready and willing to sacrifice his earthly belongings and become a follower of Jesus would be accounted worthy of a transfer from the house of servants under Moses to the house of sons under Christ. The actual transfer of all such took place at Pentecost (Dan. 9:24; Matt. 2:11,12) when the Father acknowledged them as no longer of the house of servants under the Law, but of the body of Christ, Sons, begotten of the Holy Spirit to life eternal and heavenly life. During the past 1800 years the same test has proven many good, honorable, wise people to be unfit for the Kingdom. The tests for joint heirship in the Messianic Kingdom, are so exacting that the majority of mankind, even among the most moral, the most enlightened, the most reverent fall under the test and miss the prize.

10:22 — FOR HE HAD GREAT POSSESSIONS — The Great Teacher, whom he had acknowledged to be the Good Master or teacher had showed him in a few words from the Law just where he stood, and had showed him the utter futility of trying to justify himself under the terms of the Law Covenant. What he needed to know but did not stop to inquire was how he could do this. Had he asked, our Lord would probably have told him not to sell all his possessions immediately, but begin by doing all the good he could find to do using time, intelligence, judgment, to find the best ways of dispensing the wealth he had consecrated to God. (See Matt. 19:16-26)

10:32 — THEY WERE AMAZED: AND AS THEY FOLLOWED, THEY WERE AFRAID — They could not grasp the meaning of his words, for the thoughts he presented were so different from what they had expected.

10:37 — AND THE OTHER ON THY LEFT HAND IN THY GLORY — Our Lord did not reprove the two, for doubtless he read in their hearts a great love and loyalty toward himself. Their desire for the positions indicated not a mere desire for the honors and authority implied but especially an eagerness to be near him. Had the Master seen in their hearts an evil form of ambition, doubtless he would have reproved it on the spot. His answer was so framed as to impress these brothers with what is implied in joint-heirship with him in the kingdom.

10:38 — CAN YE DRINK — How heart searching was this question. It meant “Are ye willing?” They said—God helping us we will sacrifice everything to walk in thy footsteps. We will count nothing dear to us.

OF THE CUP — This is the Lord’s communion cup. It is offered not to the world, but to his disciples. They will “drink all of it,” and it must all be drunk before the world can get their share of the intended blessings. (N-2-20-10) This cup is not the memorial cup but the experiences it symbolized, even as he did not refer to water baptism but to the baptism into death which it symbolized. He wished his disciples to see clearly that the Father had poured for him a special cup of experiences and required a special baptism into death as conditions precedent to his glory and kingdom; and whoever would become his associates in the Kingdom must also become his associates in the sufferings of the present time, in the ignominy and in whatever experiences the Father might see best to permit as tests of faith, devotion and character.

10:43 — SHALL BE YOUR MINISTER — What a beauty there is in the Divine order of things! How thoroughly all who are right minded can sympathize with the principles here laid down. How reasonable they are and how contrary to the spirit of the world! Truly the Lord’s followers will be a peculiar people in their zeal for good works, serving one another and doing good to all men as they have opportunity.

10:46 — BLIND BARTIMAEUS — There were many blind men in Palestine, yet only comparatively few received such blessings. Undoubtedly because few had the requisite faith. Note the evidence of Bartimaeus’ faith as soon as he heard, the persistency which belongs to true faith. He was also sincere of heart, for after receiving his sight he followed Jesus glorifying God. He might have said to himself “Yes I have heard a great deal about modern salves and about a prophet who could speak the word and restore the sight. But in my opinion all these are deceptions. In any case they are not for me. I suppose that if I were rich and influential this prophet of Nazareth would be pleased to heal me, if I paid him a good fee. Israel has been looking for a long time for the Messiah, anyway. It is not at all probable that he will come in my day, or that he will pass by just while I am sitting here, and it would hardly be of any use for me to cry out for mercy to him.” Had he reasoned thus, without faith, the procession would probably have passed by and left him blind. (Z. ’06-278; R.3848)

11:1 — TWO OF HIS DISCIPLES — This was the first time Jesus had formally put himself forward. Previously he had withdrawn himself realizing that the time had not yet come, when they sought to take him by force and make him King. Now so far from withdrawing, he was taking the active part, sending for the colt, preparing for the triumphal ride to the capital of the nation as its king. (Z. '14-205; R.5494)

11:6 — AND THEY LET THEM GO — By the time the colt arrived, a considerable multitude had gathered, people of the village of Bethany and others who had come from Jerusalem, about two miles distant, to see Jesus and Lazarus, upon whom such a notable miracle had been wrought. It had long been the custom of the kings of Israel to ride to their coronation upon an ass. And the multitudes seemed to enter into the spirit of the occasion and to realize what it meant. Jesus was about to ride into Jerusalem on this colt. It meant that finally he was ready to assume the office of King. For some time the disciples had recognized him as the Messiah, the glories of whose reign they were to share; and the multitude in general had learned to so regard him. "When Messiah cometh will he do greater works than this man?" We may be sure that the hearts of the Apostles thrilled with excitement as they thought of the nearness of their Messiah's glory and of their own share in it; for as yet they did not realize the full import of his words, that he must be crucified and depart to a far country to receive his Kingdom. (Z. '14-205; R.5494)

11:9 — BLESSED IS HE THAT COMETH IN THE NAME OF THE LORD — The people were familiar with the prophecy relating to Messiah's coming. (Zech. 9) They were familiar with the shout the prophets had foretold and the responses as in the texts. (Z. '14-205; R.5494)

11:13 — THE TIME OF FIGS WAS NOT YET — See Matt. 21:19 note. That some ripe figs might be expected on fig trees at this time of year will appear from the following considerations says Pearce: "Jesus went up to this fig tree on Nisan 11, i.e. three days before the Passover (on the 14th). On the morrow after the Sabbath which followed the Passover the first fruits were to be offered to God in the Temple." (Lev. 23:11) The leaves indicated that summer was nigh (Matt. 24:32) and fruit might be expected, especially as the fig tree shoots forth its fruit before the leaves. (Diag. note.)

11:14 — NO MAN EAT FRUIT OF THEE HEREAFTER FOR EVER — "Eistor aiwra" to the age. This blight upon the tree because of its barrenness corresponded exactly with the blight pronounced on the Jewish nation the day before because of its unfruitfulness, that it should be blighted to the end of the age ("aiwr"). One of the signs of the New Dispensation would be the putting forth of leaves by the fig tree. (See Matt. 24:32,33) (Z. '14-219; R.5503)

11:15 — AND THE SEATS OF THEM THAT SOLD DOVES — Every Jew was privileged to enforce the divine law as to blasphemy or any sacrilege. Parents were even required by divine law to stone their own children to death for blasphemy. Jesus therefore did only what every Jew had a right to do, in upsetting the trading apparatus of those who were defiling the temple of the Lord, doing violence to its sanctity. [We now are doing the same overthrowing the creeds, images, and striking against the suppers, grab bags.] As much of their Scribes and Pharisees desired to find occasion against Jesus they made no objection to this high-handed proceeding. Jesus was within his rights. He was championing the cause and how or of God and his Temple, as he had a perfect right to do. John 2:15 says Jesus made a scourge of small cords. (Z. '14-220; R.5503)

11:17 — BUT YE HAVE MADE IT A DEN OF THIEVES — Jesus intimated that the responsibility for this condition rested on those in authority—the Scribes and Pharisees. For graft and other considerations they had permitted the specially consecrated House of God to become a place of merchandise. It is claimed by some that the temple was frequently used on a larger scale as a place for barter; here money-sharks found opportunity for meeting people in distress who came to the temple for prayer. Such were referred to by Jesus as those who robbed widows' houses while for pretense they made long prayers. He judged that some in his day made a cloak or pretense of their religion in order to take advantage and reap a money benefit. Hence the Temple had become a “den of thieves.” Loan-sharks infected the temple, pretending sympathy for those in trouble and loaned money on exacting terms which finally devoured the property of the widow and orphan in a legal manner. We fear the same is true today, that religion is still used as a cloak to cover selfishness. People who do not think of literally committing theft or robbery often succumb to the arguments of warped consciences. The Master who was specially indignant at such misuse of the House of God of old, holds the same views today. It is in vain that any claim to be His followers who at the same time use religion hypocritically. (Z. '14-220; R.5503) See notes in Matt. 21; Luke 19; and John 2. It was because the Temple at Jerusalem was such a beautiful picture of that glorious Temple of perfection that all business of every kind done in it was a profanation—was spoiling the beautiful perfection of the type—was misrepresenting the future, the reality—God's intention in giving it. (Z. '14-220; R. 5503)

11:25, 26 See notes on Luke 17:3 and 4.

TRESPASSES — These trespasses do not refer to the one original sin, for which condemnation came upon the whole race and on which account Jesus died so that the curse may ultimately be rolled from every member of the race. (Rev. 22:3) But these are our own individual shortcomings and blemishes which we have inherited and which the Lord is very willing to overlook and excuse for those who will comply with the conditions of their covenant and be followers of the Lord Jesus, filled with his spirit and striving to walk in his steps. (Z. '06-200; R.3803)

12:7 — AND THE INHERITANCE SHALL BE OURS — (From Luke 20) out of human tradition which made void the Word of God should all fade away. To them it seemed that to surrender their plans to Jesus and for him to carry out the plans he preached would mean the ruin of the vineyard. They did not realize that they were taking the very course which would lead to the destruction of the typical vineyard and kingdom. (Z. '14-222; R.5505)

12:9 — WILL GIVE THE VINEYARD UNTO OTHERS — There is a parallel to this now. Some in high official position as representatives of God using their positions to entrench themselves, to hold power over the people and carry out their own schemes. Such are inclined to speak harshly, yea to murder (ostracize, kill their character and reputation) those who come amongst them meekly, in the name of the Lord. As in the Jewish harvest, so now “the things that I have given them shall pass away from them.” (Jer. 8:13) Matters soon will no longer be trusted to any but the tried, proven, faithful. (Z. '10-285; R.4678)

OTHERS — The twelve apostles. Moreover he started a new vineyard and put in it only the true vine, inspired with faith and loyalty toward God. These faithful servants though they long ago fell asleep continue teaching through their words to influence, guard, and keep the true vine of the Lord, the Church. (John 15) The vine has been growing and bringing forth fruits, and ere long this fruitage will be gathered and transplanted to the heavenly condition. Meantime the same spirit shown by the vine dressers of Jewish age has manifested itself again. Other vineyards have been started. (Cant. 1:6) In numbers, wealth, and influence these quite outrank and outshine the Lord's vineyard, which alone bears the precious fruits he desires. One is the “true vine of my Father's right hand and planting,” the others compose the “vine of the earth.” The fruitage of one is the character likeness of Christ; of the other is boastfulness, pride, show, form of godliness without the power. (Thorns and briers. The vine of the earth will be gathered and its fruit pressed out in the winepress of the wrath of God.) (Z. '14-222; R.5505)

12:10 — HEAD OF THE CORNER — The Church of Christ is represented by a pyramid, having five corner stones, the chief being the top stone, a perfect pyramid in itself, the lines of which control the entire structure. Jesus, rejected and crucified by the Jews is the chief corner stone of this great Temple. During this age his footstep followers are being shaped and in harmony with his likeness of character, will be prepared to be united with Him in glory. He is a stone of stumbling to many of both houses of Israel. By stumbling over him they injure themselves, but if he should fall on them in the sense of condemning them it would mean their utter destruction in the Second Death. (Z. '14-222; R.5505)

12:14 — IS IT LAWFUL TO GIVE TRIBUTE TO CAESAR, OR NOT? —

The Pharisees in a general way thought the Jews as God's people were to be the rulers of all other people and should never pay tribute to other rulers. Their teachings on this line were privately given for fear of being apprehended as traitors to Rome. The Herodians were Jews who took sides with Herod, and stood firmly and publicly for their suzerainty of the Roman Empire, claiming that it was to the advantage of the people of Israel to be under the Roman power and the payment of tribute was right. The common people were understood to favor the view held by the Pharisees and oppose that of the Herodians. Representatives of these two classes came to Jesus in public where he was teaching and where the common people could note his answer. They hoped our Lord would do one of two things: either declare with the Herodians that the tax was right and proper, and thus break his influence with the common people, denounce the tax as improper, and hence declare that under no conditions then prevailing could the instigation of insurrection among the Jews in opposition to the tribute be construed as traitorous. They fully believed his answer would convict him of treason. (Z.'06-285; R.3853)

12:17 — RENDER TO CAESAR THE THINGS THAT ARE CAESAR'S —

This was not an evasive answer, but an answer in a full sense, probably far beyond their comprehension—"If Caesar has some just claims upon you, render to him accordingly. This will not interfere with God's just claims upon you which you should be equally ready to meet." They did understand that they had failed to entrap him. (Z.'06-285; R.3853)

12:18 — SADDUCEES — These were a class of well educated Jews, intelligent, but utterly lacking in any faith respecting a future life. (Z.'06-285; R.3853)

12:24 — DO YE NOT THEREFORE ERR, BECAUSE YE KNOW NOT THE SCRIPTURES, NEITHER THE POWER OF GOD? — If you sufficiently appreciated his power, you would know that he who was able to raise the dead is also able to order and direct all the incidents connected with the resurrection. If you had a proper appreciation of God's character you would not stumble over so trivial a matter as this. (Z.'06-285; R.3853)

12:26 — THE DEAD, THAT THEY RISE — Notice that he does not say "that these men are alive," but that "They are dead, but will rise." See Matt. 22, Luke 20.

AND THE GOD OF JACOB? — They had reasoned that the Old Testament had said very little about the resurrection. Jesus showed them that various features of the scriptures indirectly taught the resurrection without mentioning it in so many words. (Z.'06-285; R.3853)

12:27 — HE IS NOT THE GOD OF THE DEAD — Abraham, Isaac and Jacob had long been dead and for God thus to speak of them meant they were not extinct. (Z. '06-285; R.3853)

12:30 — THIS IS THE FIRST COMMANDMENT — Those who do not love the Lord with all their hearts, in whom self or some other idol has first place, will be seduced by the world, the flesh, or the Devil into some form of rebellion against the Divine word or the Divine providences. They will have schemes and theories and desires, which they will prefer to the Lord's plan and way, and their schemes when analyzed will usually be found based either upon selfishness or ambition or an evil spirit of envy, hatred, jealousy. (Z. '14-215; R.5499) The Lord's leading and the Lord's words lose their attractions to such as they lose their interest correspondingly and "walk no more with Him."

12:34 — THOU ART NOT FAR FROM THE KINGDOM OF GOD — One sincerely recognizing the Truths just stated must surely have been of honest heart and hence of the kind whom the Lord would be pleased to have enter the kingdom class, by a full consecration of their every power and talent to his service. This would be the practical outworking of this great commandment, fulness of love for God would lead to endeavors to serve and please him in every possible manner, and love for their fellow men would delight in telling the great tidings of great joy which shall be unto all people. (Z. '06-302; R.3862)

AND NO MAN AFTER THAT DURST ASK HIM ANY QUESTION

— Probably all classes of religious opponents feared to attempt further questioning, which could only result disastrously for themselves, showing their own deficiencies, and making him the more prominent as a teacher. (Z. '06-302; R.3862)

13:25 — AND THE POWERS THAT ARE IN HEAVEN SHALL BE SHAKEN — Many of these are already fallen from influence, and hence cease to be light bearers, and the number falling increase daily. The public no longer regard the ministers of Christ as unselfishly sacrificing their time and energy in order to carry blessings to the minds and hearts of the people, they now regard them as laborers, striving like men of other professions, for the emoluments and honors of their profession. Proportionately their influence and power are far from what they once were, they are shaken. (N-4-12-08)

13:27 — SEND HIS ANGELS — Messengers—the pilgrims and colporteurs. (Z. '10-5; R.4541) See note Matt. 13:41.

14:3 — THERE CAME A WOMAN — At first Mary recognized Jesus as the most wonderful of men, speaking as never man spake. Later she had come to understand that he was a great teacher specially sent of God at a special time. Finally, through the awakening of Lazarus, her brother, from the dead, she had evidence that the power of God was in Jesus, and he was none other than the Son of God, and she did him reverence due his exalted station. (Z.'05-104; R.3535)

HAVING AN ALABASTER BOX...VERY PRECIOUS — The use of such costly perfumes was very rare indeed. Even emperors used them sparingly. It is said that Nero was the first of the emperors to use costly perfumes for his anointing. How much more worthy of tribute, homage, and anointing with sweet perfume was the prince of the kings of the earth! There was nearly a pint of the perfume, a Roman pound being about 12 ounces. Nor need we question the possibility of perfumes being so expensive, for even today we have a counterpart in value in the Attar of Roses made in the far East. It is claimed that 400,000 full grown roses are used to produce 1 oz. of this perfume, which in its purity sells as high as $100 per oz., or $1200 for the quantity used by Mary. (John 12:3)

AND SHE BRAKE THE BOX, AND POURED IT ON HIS HEAD — Mary could not put our Lord on the throne of earth but she could show that she was his devoted servant forever; she could not glorify him before all the people, but she could glorify and honor him in her own heart; she could not sing his praises and tell his worth publicly, but she could make melody in her own heart, and pour upon him a perfume which not only filled her home with its sweet savor, but has yielded a tender fragrance to the honor of womanhood in general, from that time to this. A sweet memorial has it been of a beautiful character and a loving heart. Considered in the light of the fragrance, blessing and refreshment which it has shed upon all the Lord's people throughout this Gospel age, Mary's costly alabaster jar of perfume has proved to be extremely cheap. (Z.'05-104; R.3535)

14:6 — SHE HATH WROUGHT A GOOD WORK ON ME — Woman's intuition had guided Mary in doing the proper thing at the proper time. She realized that she owed the Master a debt which she could never pay, and this costly offering of perfume would be a small tribute, a small expression of her gratitude. (Z.'05-104; R.3535)

14:7 — BUT ME YE HAVE NOT ALWAYS — He who is economical and penurious in his dealing with the Lord is sure to be the loser thereby. (Prov. 11:24, 25) It is a different matter for us to learn to be economical in our own affairs, but to be liberal to extravagant in the Lord's. We sometimes sing: "Thou art coming to a King, large petitions with thee bring." But whoever brings large petitions should be sure also to bring a large alabaster box of perfume for the Lord, not hoping thereby to merit divine favor or perfume his requests but as a mark of appreciation and thankfulness for blessings already received. Those who bring alabaster boxes of perfume of praise and thankfulness have very little to ask generally. Rather they realize they are debtors already to such an extent that they can never show properly their appreciation of divine favor. They recognize that daily they are receiving more than they could ask or think, and that in the spiritual blessings alone they find satisfaction for their longings as in nothing else. Asking nothing, but giving thanks for all things, they receive from the Master such an outpour of blessing, that they are not able to receive it. Those who view the matter rightly must certainly feel that none of us have anything worthy to present to our Lord, that our very best is not worthy of him, even our most costly gifts and sacrifices, and but feeble express the real sentiments of our hearts. How glad we are when our humble efforts are accepted by the Lord, and how we hope that ultimately we shall hear the same sweet voice saying "He (or she) hath done what she could." (Z. '05-104; R.3535)

14:8 — SHE IS COME AFOREHAND TO ANOINT MY BODY TO THE BURYING — It was appropriate she should spend a great sum on the Lord—that the head upon which fell the slanders and anathemas of the chief priests and doctors of divinity of that day, and on which shortly the crown of thorns would be placed should now be honored by one among the few who realized his true worth, grandeur, kingship, who recognized he was the son of God. Also that those feet which had trodden the valleys and hillsides of Palestine, which were so weary at times, and which so soon would be pierced with nails on the cross, should now be highly honored by one who appreciated, loved, trusted, and who was seeking to walk in the Master's footsteps. (Z. '05-104; R.3535)

14:15 — UPPER ROOM — This upper room is supposed to be the one in which the apostles and others were gathered to await the Pentecostal blessing.

14:20 — IT IS ONE OF THE TWELVE, THAT DIPPETH WITH ME IN THE DISH — The eating of a meal together was a pledge of faithfulness and goodwill and this shows the despicable character and deceit of Judas. We can imagine the look of our Lord's eye as he gave Judas the sop, a mark of favor, saying in word and look; "Why do you resist my lovingkindnesses? You have professed to be my disciple, a friend; I surely have done the part of a friend to you." That look and that sop should have overwhelmed the selfish Judas, but as the mercy of the Lord in taking away the plagues from Pharaoh, had so much the more hardened Pharaoh's heart, so every additional manifestation of our Lord's humility and kindness, seems to have hardened the heart of Judas. So far from repenting he was more embittered, more determined to carry out his program. It shone in his eye. Our Lord read his thoughts and said; "That thou doest do quickly." (John 15:27)

14:21 — GOOD WERE IT FOR THAT MAN IF HE HAD NEVER BEEN BORN — This would seem to show that Judas' sin was unto second death, that there is no hope for him. (See Matt. 26:21-25; Mark 14:18-21; John 13:21-30)

14:36 — NEVERTHELESS NOT WHAT I WILL, BUT WHAT THOU WILT — In the matter of our Lord's baptism into death, there was no hesitation on his part. From the very beginning he voluntarily participated in it. The ignominious death was the thing which he prayed might pass, if it were possible. But this he learned was the Father's will for Him and he was content to have it so. There was nothing in the Law upon which our Lord could be executed as a blasphemer of the divine Law. Yet blasphemy was the charge preferred against him. (Matt. 26:63-65; Mark 14:61-64) Apparently then the thing which was weighing on his mind and from which he would have liked to be relieved, was the ignominy and shame of being crucified as a criminal, as a blasphemer of the Father he loved so well. Jesus knew he had come into the world to die and that he must suffer. But this part of his experience he had not fully understood. Evidently he knew that "As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness even so must the Son of Man be lifted up" for comparatively early in his ministry he had stated this in his conversation with Nicodemus. (John 3:14) But as he came down nearer to the time of his humiliation, his degradation, and realized all that it meant, he felt a great shrinking from it, and poured out his heart in the cry—"If it be possible let this cup pass from me." But immediately, proving that his words at the time of his consecration: "Lo I come to do thy will, O, God" were not empty words—He added: "Nevertheless, not as I will, but as thou wilt." (Matt. 26:39) We are not to suppose that he prayed for the cup of death to pass away; but he wondered whether or not the ignominious experiences of the crucifixion might pass. Yet we find that he did not murmur nor rebel. (Z. '14-85; R.5421)

14:52 — AND FLED FROM THEM NAKED — Supposedly John Mark, the writer of this Gospel, and that he lived on the premises of which the Gethsemane Garden was a part. (Z. '08-142; R.4168)

16:9-20 The Vatican (#1209) and the Sinaitic MSS. (written about 350 A.D.) omit all verses from 9-20 inclusive. Alex. MS. contains them.

16:18 — AND THEY SHALL RECOVER — That our Lord ever spoke in unknown tongues is not stated. But it is recorded that he did cast out demons, raise the dead, heal the sick, and also he sent out his disciples clothed with power and authority to do the same. We should notice, however, that though Jesus did many wonderful works, they are expressly stated to have been for signs—"These things did Jesus and manifested forth his glory"—the glorious work of the Millennium. We are not then to understand that it was God's will in Jesus' day that all sick should be cured by divine power, all demons cast out, etc., but that just a sufficiency of this kind of work was to be done to give evidence of the change of dispensation—to testify of Jesus and his Apostles—to authenticate their teachings and ministry as divine. Nor were these healings merely performed on those who were converts to the Lord, his disciples. On the contrary many of the miracles recorded were done, not to disciples but to pronounced sinners, as illustrated see John 5:2-9 and note.

As an evidence of witness to the baptism of the Spirit at Pentecost, but not a part of it, were gifts similar to those Jesus had, and these were generally distributed amongst all believers at that time, as we read that a measure of the Spirit was granted to every man to profit withal—for the general advantage of the cause with which all were identified—the establishment of the Church. In writing to the Corinthians (1 Cor. 12:4-11) Paul shows that the Holy Spirit thus operated in the early church. But some will say that as our Lord gave much of his time to working miracles, and comparatively little of it to doctrinal teachings, we should follow his example rather than that of the Apostles. But not so—“Of the people there was none with Him.” (Isa. 63:3) The Lord was begotten of the Holy Spirit at the time of his baptism, but no others were so begotten till Pentecost. Hence neither the Jews nor even the Lord’s favorite followers and disciples could enter into or properly sympathize with him, because they were not like him begotten of the Holy Spirit. He could not therefore teach them spiritual things, as would have been his preference (1 Cor. 2:14), and he so stated in John 16:13,12. As he said to Nicodemus, “If I have told you earthly things and ye believe not, how shall ye believe if I tell you heavenly things.” (John 3:12) Therefore he gave his time and attentions to such things as could be appreciated by natural men to some extent, and to parables and dark sayings and typical miracles which would be understood by his apostles and followers after the descent of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost. Hence it is since Pentecost that enlightenment has come to the Church, opening the eyes of our understanding and causing us more and more to appreciate the greatness of God’s love. (N-2-4-07)

LUKE

1:11 — ANGEL OF THE LORD STANDING ON THE RIGHT SIDE OF THE ALTAR OF INCENSE — It was necessary that two children should be born in Israel, one to be the precursor of the other. Exactly on time (foretold by Daniel) the angel Gabriel appeared to Zecharias.

1:72 — HOLY COVENANT — Here it is stated that God's oath to Abraham was his holy Covenant. (Acts 3:25; Heb. 6:13-20)

2:2 — CYRENIUS — Cyrenius, the literal English in the A.V. of the Greek name which itself is the Greek form of the Roman "Quirinius." (Publius Sulpicius Quirinius) He was Consul A.U.C. 742; B.C.12, and made Governor of Syria after the banishment of Archilans in A.D. 6. He was sent to make an enrollment of property in Syria, and made accordingly both there and in Judea a census. But this census (vs. 2) seems to be identified with one that took place at the birth of Christ when Sentius Saturninus was governor of Syria. Hence a considerable difficulty has arisen which has been variously solved, either by supposing some corruption in Luke's text, or by an unusual sense to his words. But A. W. Zunipht of Berlin, has shown it to be probable that Quirinius was twice governor of Syria and by arguments long, but very striking and satisfactory, fixes the time of his first governorship at from B.C. 4 to B.C. 1 when he was succeeded by M. Lollius. (S.B.D.)

2:14 — AND ON EARTH PEACE, GOOD WILL TOWARD MEN — The song which the angels sung has been seized upon and misapplied by some who do not see the Plan of God for the salvation of the world. Becoming discouraged by the seemingly poor prospect for the world's conversion these have put forth a version of this passage more in harmony with their own doubts and misconceptions. R.V.: "Peace on earth among men of Good will." A.R.V.: "Peace on earth among men in whom he is well pleased," we do not believe to be the thought of the original. Such a translation eliminates the thought of God's eventual good will toward all the world and greatly minimizes the scope of the glorious song. It implies that merely men who have a feeling of good will are or will be at peace among themselves. How utterly barren of hope for all men would such an expression be! But this song was a prophecy of God's purpose to bring about through the newly born child the abrogation of the curse and the establishment of peace and sinlessness among mankind, in which God and man would become at one. It was an expression of God's good will. His good purpose to bring man back to the image and likeness of himself in which Adam was created. When this shall have been accomplished then peace will dwell in all the earth, for the causes of inharmony will have been eliminated. (Z. '14-342; R.5575)

3:2 — JOHN — John the Baptist had the great distinction of being the first of God's witnesses among men regarding the only begotten Son of God. John as a grand character from whatever standpoint we view him, and all of God's people now seeking to witness faithfully may draw some valuable lessons from his course. Additionally he was a type of all the faithful witnesses of the Gospel age. Although he was not an example to us in his manner of speech or dress or general methods, yet his peculiarities in these things specially adapted him to the witnessing the Lord designed him to do. Living in a time of increase of wealth and luxury, John was all the more attractive as the conventionalities of his time, and of the evidences which these gave of his complete separation from the world, and complete devotion to his special ministry. The people of Israel, as our Lord said, carefully cherished the memories of their great prophets and garnished their sepulchres, although they were not sufficiently careful to heed the teachings of these prophets. Among the ancient prophets Elijah was one of the most revered and the fact that John simulated him in dress and general demeanor and in forceful teaching attracted the people much more than would have been the case. (Z. '04-380; R.3477)

3:8 — REPENTANCE — John called on the people to repent because the kingdom of God was about to be established, and urging them that they would not be fit for a share in it unless their hearts were fully turned to the Lord and away from sin. (Z. '04-380; R.3477) Elijah (from John 1:21) as John was the forerunner of one greater than himself, a more important witness composed of many members preparing the way for Messiah's kingdom and announcing it to all who have ears to hear. John introduced Jesus in the flesh, but the greater than John, the Elijah of many members will introduce the greater, the glorious Christ of many members. The real Elijah, who for 1900 years has been fulfilling the predictions of the prophet Malachi, has been composed of many members, witnesses for Christ throughout this Gospel age. (Z. '04-380; R.3477) (Matt. 17:10-13) So the words of Jesus and of John are in full accord. John was not the Elijah mentioned by the prophet Malachi and yet he did a work of Elijah among the Jews who received his message. As it is the work of the greater Elijah to draw attention to the great Christ and the work accomplished by Him, so it was John's mission in the Jewish nation to call attention to Jesus in the flesh. In this sense he was the Elijah to those who received it, for to such he did the work of Elijah. (Z. '04-380; R.3477)

The Prophet Malachi declared that one of two results would follow the work of the true Elijah. Either it would turn the hearts of the fathers to the children and the hearts of the children to the fathers—i.e. would bring the people into full accord and loving harmony; or else it would result in a great curse of great tribulation upon the people. The world must be made ready for Messiah's kingdom either by repentance and true conversion to the Lord or else by judgments of the Lord. Malachi does not state by which way the results will be accomplished, but other scriptures indicate that the work of the antitypical Elijah would not succeed, would not convert the world, and as a result the establishment of Messiah's kingdom will come with a time of trouble as was not since there was a nation. (Z.'04-380; R.3477)

3:16 — WITH FIRE — See note on John 1:27.

3:20 — SHUT UP JOHN IN PRISON — John's ministry probably continued a year after Jesus' baptism. Then he was shut up in prison for about a year before he was beheaded. (Z.'17-23)

3:21 — PRAYING — Luke does not say here what words Jesus used in praying, but Paul, under inspiration tells us in Heb. 10:4-9; it was the expression of Jesus' consecration to do his Father's will. From then on he began to see a depth of meaning in the written words of God, which hitherto he had not fully discerned. Let no one suppose that he can enjoy a knowledge of the deep things of God, unless he is prepared to do the will of God. The heavenly way was also opened up to him, that 3-1/2 year journey. By his resolute determination to do the will of God, submit to the molding influences of God's words, his place in the new heavens became accessible to him.

3:23 — AND JESUS HIMSELF— The public were expecting a personage of high rank, of great influence, of striking and commanding appearance, and if our Lord had been an impostor he would have tried to fulfill the public expectation. Either he would have given them to believe that he controlled wealth and influence, or else he would at least have been boastful and heady, thereby making up for any deficiency along the line of their expectation. By a studied exclusiveness of manner and haughty disdain of the poor and the sinful an impostor would have sought to rank himself in public estimation by claiming the possession of every noble and lofty sentiment above others. Our Lord was of the royal tribe of Judah, and the royal family of David. Had he been an impostor this relationship to the kingly line and the references to divine prophecy regarding God's promise to David would have been flaunted on every possible occasion. Yet we find him meek and lowly of heart, not bombastic, not boastful or self obtrusive. So we see all the more clearly why he attracted special characters for his disciples and why he failed to attract the masses. We see it was the Father's design that our Lord should attract to himself as disciples, the meek and lowly of heart, the reverential, the sincere, and that he should more or less repel the worldly wise rulers, and the masses who later crucified him.

Let us note that these same principles of attraction and repulsion have persisted through this gospel age and are still operative. The masses may be influenced temporarily and even say “Never man spake like this man,” or “When Messiah cometh will he do greater works than this man doeth?” But the masses will not be attracted permanently, for the Lord does not wish to attract those whose hearts are not in the proper attitude of consecration and faith. (Z. '04-382; R.3478)

4:3 — STONE THAT IT BE MADE BREAD — After the fast he was very hungry and Satan reminded him that his hunger was a legitimate craving of nature, that if he were God’s Son he had every right to all the favors of God (not having forfeited his life by disobedience) and that he had the power to perform miracles. Then why not use that power to satisfy his own proper needs. Christ may also have been thus tempted to prove that he was the Son of God.

4:4 — BUT BY EVERY WORD OF GOD — Jesus at once, with his keen mind, detected at once the one flaw in all this. He had received the holy spirit in his anointing in order that he might lay down his life as a human being, sacrificing himself as a Ransom for the race of mankind. he may have thought—“If now I use this holy power, given to me for sacrificing myself, in an opposite way—to restore and strengthen my mortal body, which I have just given to die, it would be wrong, contrary to divine intention. However hungry I feel, I cannot do this.” We also cannot use our privileges as New Creatures to gratify earthly desires or earthly advantage. We should not pray for earthly advantage, nor preach for gain. (Z. '06-41,42; R.3717) Every word of God is a word of life for the New Creature. Our life is more than material food. We are not to use time for earthly advantages.

4:5-8 — This temptation was along the lines of the Devil, the one by which he had fallen. Christ taken in mental view. The very high mountain was Satan’s dominion of earth. He would have Jesus believe that he was willing to assist in the uplifting and blessing of man, if only he could be recognized as Master; that he would withdraw the blindness and evil influence and sorrow he had put upon men to keep them his own; and to exert all his power to help Jesus if he (Jesus) would serve and obey Satan. Also it may have appeared that Satan was tired and how great a step in the uplift of mankind it would be to convert and gain over Satan and thus start the work with his cooperation! Jesus’ answer settled the question, he was not consecrated to the work but to the Father. “Get thee behind me, Satan.” I will not recognize you. You are not only God’s opponent but mine also in that you try to alienate my affections from him. You oppose me in my work in every way in your power so far as the Almighty will permit you. No more can you do and if in the Lord’s providence this should cause me pain, trials, disappointments, suffering, death, I have already pledged myself to the Father to the full extent. Jesus knew that thereafter Satan would oppose him bitterly at every point. (Z. '06-44; R.3719)

4:9-12 — Brought him in mind to the temple of Jerusalem. This temptation is of the world and is given as the second in Matthew. This was a misapplication of Scripture to deceive—a suggestion that if Jesus would leap from that height it would attract the attention of the people and the Scripture would undoubtedly be fulfilled in this way. It would be a wonderful manifestation of his divine power and all the people would give attention to him as the Messiah and thus his mission would be fully launched in one day. Our Lord's meditation of Scripture told him that such an act would not be in accordance with the divine will and would be tempting God, as it would be going against the established Law of gravitation. We should copy our Lord in this respect. The world wants signs of our Spirit adoption—magic, magnetic healing, outward show of piety. These accepted by Romanists, Dowie, Christian Science, etc. We should avoid all spectacular actions, unreasonable procedure. (Z. '06-43; R.3719)

4:22 — WITNESS — Means bear testimony or evidence. They heard him with their own ears.

WONDERED — From a word meaning to look closely.

GRACIOUS WORDS — The words of the graciousness.

PROCEEDED — Those proceeding out of; from a word meaning traverse, travel, make a journey; from travel by land, proceedings, ways.

4:26 — A WOMAN THAT WAS A WIDOW — Our Lord points out that there was a difference in the heart condition as between some of these lepers of Israel and the Syrian leper. These “many lepers” had probably heard of Elisha, as well as had the little maid. The lepers of Israel had not faith enough to think it worth while to seek Elisha, even though he was in their own country; while this Syrian leper, a Gentile, outside of Israel's covenant and a stranger to God, journeyed many miles and brought many presents, for his faith and hope were strong. So also there was faith found in the widow, and probably on this account Elijah was sent to her. The lesson Jesus was teaching was that only those who exercised faith would get the blessing. That Israel was just as lacking in faith now as in the days of Elijah and Elisha, and that “without faith it is impossible to please God,” so they would receive no blessing from him until they could exercise faith. So God tells of his love and his willingness to forgive sins, yet only those who have faith in Christ and come to have their sins forgiven, can get the blessing. (Z. '98-236; R.2348) The Nazarenes were angered at this reproof.

4:27 — NAAMAN THE SYRIAN — See note on verse 26 above.

4:34 — ART THOU COME TO DESTROY US? — These demons were not in some far off place of torture, but were prowling around amongst mankind seeking whom they might ensnare. They evidently understood full well, too, that their end would be destruction that—“the wages of sin is death.” These seemed to know that the due time of their test was some time in the future. (Sermon, 1-17-'09)

5:1 — GENNESARET — The sea of Galilee, Gennesaret = same as Chimmereth = a lyre. Called also in Old Testament the “Sea of Chinnereth” or “Cinneroth” (Num. 24:11; Josh. 12:3) from a town of that name near its shore. (Josh. 19:35) At its northwest angle was a beautiful and fertile plain called “Gennesaret” from which the Lake took its later name. (See 1 Macc. 11:67) Province of Galilee on its eastern border, so got name; also “Sea of Tiberias” from the celebrated city. (John 6:1)

5:3 — TAUGHT THE PEOPLE OUT OF THE SHIP — The two ships may represent two phases of the kingdom. Jesus entered into Simon’s (Peter’s) which may represent the heavenly phase (Peter given two keys of Kingdom). All the families of the earth will be taught out of this ship during the Millennium.

5:4 — LET DOWN YOUR NETS FOR A DRAUGHT — Picturing the fishing of men in the Millennium. (Rev. 14:6)

5:5 — AND HAVE TAKEN NOTHING — All the night of the Gospel age, caught but a “little flock” (See John 21:1-12)

5:6 — AND THEIR NET BRAKE — The Sea of Galilee was always famed for the number and variety of its fish, over 50 kinds. The shoal of fish often more than an acre, and when the fish are moving slowly forward in a mass and are rising out of the water they are packed so close together that it looks as if a heavy rain were beating down upon the surface of the water. (Z. '06-45; R.3720)

5:7 — SO THAT THEY BEGAN TO SINK — It will take the combined efforts of both phases of the kingdom to accomplish the Restitution. (Elder Bro. Edwin Bundy, Boston, 8-19-06) The object of the miracle was to convince finally and fully Peter, Andrew, James and John as to the Lord’s relationship to the Father, and his power of control over things temporal as well as spiritual and it had its designed effect. (vss. 8, 9)

5:8 — FOR I AM A SINFUL MAN, O LORD — Because Jesus was perfect and holy and had direct intercourse with the Father and the heavenly powers, while they (the four) were weak and sinful and imperfect through the fall.

5:11 — THEY FORSOOK ALL, AND FOLLOWED HIM — Not without making due provision for the boats and fish. They here decided, positively and for good, to enter the Father's service with Jesus. Let us each remember the importance of a positive decision concerning our consecration to the Father and Jesus. Let us as wisely as possible arrange life's affairs so as to be without anxiety re earthly things, that we may the more completely give all our time and energy to the service of God. (Z. '06-46; R.3720) Let us once for all as wisely as possible arrange our temporary in accordance with the reasonable demands of others concerning them and then faithfully persevere to the end of the race. See Mark 1:20.

6:5 — LORD ALSO OF THE SABBATH — What a personality our Lord must have had that he could make such a statement before his enemies without being challenged! We are convinced that he not only spake as never man spake, but that his appearance must have been superior to that of members of the fallen race. (Z. '06-107; R.3754)

6:7 — THAT THEY MIGHT FIND AN ACCUSATION AGAINST HIM — As our Lord's healing was done not by manual labor, but by the word of his mouth, the captiousness of his adversaries is most evident. They fain would condemn his on some score. His defense of his disciples was complete—would he now commit himself to a matter of healing on the Sabbath. (Z. '06-108; R.3754)

6:11 — WHAT THEY MIGHT DO TO JESUS — The Pharisees were answered at every point, and less popular in Galilee than in Judea anyway, they felt that their influence before the people had been lessened by their conflict with the Lord, the Great Teacher. They were rabid sectarians fully convinced of their own importance. They felt that anything that discredited them, must be injurious to the Lord and to his cause, that they were the orthodox body, and that they would be fully justified in murdering anyone whose words and conduct so overmatched them as to hinder their influence from spreading more and more over all the people of Israel.

A similar spirit prevails today, among many outwardly zealous for religion. They are so deficient in mercy, love, so bound by the sectarian systems with which they are identified, that they would be willing to persecute as thoroughly as opportunity would permit, any of the members of the Master's body, whose presentations of the Truth today would seem to diminish their honor and standing before the world. Let us, understanding and appreciating our relationship to the Lord, be obedient to the very Spirit of it. (Z. '06-108; R.3754)

6:12 — CONTINUED ALL NIGHT IN PRAYER TO GOD — Evidently to take counsel with the Father in respect to his work and his colaborers in it. It is probable that Jesus knew the greater number of those who would form the twelve; for the most of them had been with him from the first. The problem which gave him most concern was almost certainly respecting Judas, as to whether he should be called to be one of the twelve. Jesus knew what was in man (John 2:25) and it could hardly be other than that he knew the limitations of Judas' character.

6:29 — ON THE ONE CHEEK OFFER ALSO THE OTHER — When Jesus was evilly entreated and carried to the brow of a hill to be cast headlong, he did not use his superior power to injure his enemies, but passed through the midst, directly or indirectly exercising a restraining influence over them. (Luke 4:29, 30) So, Paul, learning of the threats of the Jews against his life, did not threaten nor pray evil on their heads, but he did use such steps as he could to thwart their evil designs, sending word to the governor, invoking the power of the civil authorities as at another time he appealed to the people. (Acts 23:1-5, 17) The lesson for us is that we may use all lawful or legal means in self defense, and may even wisely run away from dangers and persecutors, as the Lord directed, and the apostles did. (Matt. 10:23; 2 Cor. 11:33) But we are not authorized to retaliate.

FORBID NOT TO TAKE THY COAT ALSO — The Revisors translated this to mean that if anyone is disposed to go to Law with you and take away your coat, you should settle with him, even if it deprive you of both coat and cloak. This lesson of submission is a very hard one to learn, and many would take advantage of us and we would get the bad end in many a bargain. The lesson upon ourselves would be valuable to the development of the Master's graces in us, and who could tell but that the example might be very potent upon those who would fraudulently, violently, take advantage of our obedience to Jesus. (Z. '06-77; R.3738)

6:30 — AND OF HIM THAT TAKETH AWAY THY GOODS ASK THEM NOT AGAIN — We cannot think that the Lord meant that we should neglect the interests of our own homes and families in giving to others or loaning to them. Our Lord in this as in all things wished his followers to be wise as serpents and harmless as doves. What he wished to impress was that spirit or disposition which would have pleasure in giving to the needy, and which is so circumstanced as to be able to comply with such requests and would gladly do so, using proper discretion and judgment as to time, place, person. The spirit of Christ is a benevolent one, not a stingy one. Takes delight in giving wisely.

6:31 — AS YE WOULD THAT MEN SHOULD DO TO YOU, DO YE ALSO TO THEM LIKEWISE — Love for the neighbor was a feature of the Law, and in enjoining this the traditions of the elders were quite right; but they added to it that an enemy should be hated, though the law said nothing of the kind, but urged that if an enemy's ox, ass or property of any kind were seen going astray or about to be injured, it should be protected and assisted and help for the owner. Jesus thus pointed out the real meaning of the Law (Matt. 5:44—R.V. which is in harmony with the oldest Greek MSS.)

This does not mean that the Lord treats his enemies with the same degree of blessing he grants to his children, and friends, nor that we are to love our enemies in the same sense as we love our friends and companions. The Lord gives special blessing to those who are specially his, and so we may properly give more of love and favor to those in accord with the truth and us. The lesson is large heartedness, generosity. Similarly, our greeting, civilities of life, are to be extended not merely to our brethren, natural or spiritual. We are to have kind intentions toward all, enjoying the privilege of extending these, thus comforting and refreshing all with whom we come in contact, generosity, breadth of character. (Z.'06-78; R.3738)

6:36 — BE YE THEREFORE MERCIFUL, AS YOUR FATHER ALSO IS MERCIFUL — It would have been impossible for our great teacher to set us any other example than the perfect one, though he knew we would fall short of it. The fact that our endeavors would not bring perfect results could only bring a blessing to us, for it would make us realize our own imperfections and our need of the covering of our dear Redeemer's robe of righteousness, until in the First Resurrection we are made perfect like him, share his glory, see him as he is and perfectly reflect, as he does, the Heavenly Father's perfection. Meanwhile all our unintentional shortcomings are graciously covered from the Father's sight by the merit of our dear Redeemer. The Lord will judge us worthy or unworthy of a resurrection—not according to the flesh but according to the endeavors of our hearts as New Creatures. (Z.'06-79; R.3739)

7:36 — ONE OF THE PHARISEES — Simon a very common name among the Jews, and hence it is not so remarkable that there were two Simons. It is a little peculiar that there are so many similar features connected with the two entertainments that at both of them our Lord's feet were anointed. (See Matt. 26:6-13 and John 12:1-9) It is supposed that about 1-1/2 years elapsed between the two events, that in Matt. and John being just prior to Jesus' death. (Z.'00-138; R.2625)

DESIRED HIM THAT HE WOULD EAT WITH HIM — Simon evidently considerably impressed with our Lord's character and teachings. He thought it would be pleasant to invite our Lord to dinner, thus to honor him and possibly have a little notoriety himself in connection with the noted Nazarene. Simon treated him kindly and politely but did not go to any extremes of politeness, perhaps figuring he was not used to such entertainments but was rather the companion of fishermen and common people, generally.

8:12 — HEAR — Jesus elsewhere (Matt. 13:38) states that the field is the world, but not all the field or world is being planted now. Vast areas of the world are already sown thickly with various human doctrines and are growing great crops after their kind. The field was first a Jewish field, already prepared by divine instruction and disciplines. The middle wall of partition was broken down so that no distinction is now made between Jew and Gentile, but yet only a small, limited portion of the Gentile field is sown, being only the comparatively few among whom the Gospel has been declared. So the field (wheat) in which the word is sown may be said to be Christendom, and not in Heathendom where the word has never gone, and here we are to look for the four kinds of hearts. In Christendom are like the wayside, hard trodden by life's experiences; sometimes by too great property, unprepared to receive God's word, do not appreciate it. Though such hear the message it enters not into their heart (they do not understand it). (Matt. 13:19) It is to them merely a mental hearing, they take little interest in it. At first they may see some of its beauties but it never enters in, becomes theirs, they are not specially to be blamed, though we may sympathize with them. (Z.'06-125; R.3764) These constitute the most numerous class in every congregation of the nominal church. They are merely formalities. (Z.'10-202; R.4634)

AND TAKETH AWAY THE WORD OUT OF THEIR HEARTS — Ere long the Adversary steals away from them every element of truth which they once had seen or appreciated.

LEST THEY SHOULD BELIEVE AND BE SAVED — Blinds their eyes. (2 Cor. 4:4) Satan does not want anyone to know the Lord or see how good He is, and uses all his power to prevent it, he wants all to be his subjects, as he tempted Jesus to be. While all the soil is not suitable, the intimation is that it is within the power of many to correct and offset the unfavorable conditions in themselves. (Z.'10-203; R.4634) The Lord may through trials and sufferings and disappointments in the present life plow them up, "plow up the subsoil of the stagnant heart" and make them ready for the truth. (Z.'06-125; R.3764)

8:13 — AND IN TIME OF TEMPTATION FALL AWAY — Here it is shown that if we would be of the Kingdom class we must do more than receive the word of His testimony (Rev. 3:10), even though we receive it with joy. The stony shallow ground represents a class of hearers who rejoice greatly in the truth, but do not endure. Patient endurance is necessary to develop the grain and thoroughly ripen it and make it fit for the garner. How important cheerful endurance seems to be in the light of God's Word! He who judges the thoughts would not be pleased with his children, even if he saw them enduring much for his sake if they endured it in an impatient and unhappy frame of mind. They would not thus be a copy of God's dear Son whose attitude is “I delight to do thy will, Oh, my God.” (Z. '11-409; R.4910) (Mal. 2:13)

8:14 — AND BRING NO FRUIT TO PERFECTION — “I have not found thy works complete (finished, perfect) before my God” (Rev. 3:2) This class is the most disappointing of all. (Z. '06-126; R.3764) What a sad report to be made. Let us seek diligently that our hearts are true and loyal and single to God. You cannot give your time and strength to worldly matters and at the same time make your calling and election sure to a place with me in my kingdom. “Whosoever would be my disciple let him take up his cross and follow me.” (Luke 9:23) (Z. '10-203; R.4634)

8:15 — HONEST AND GOOD HEART — Under present conditions God can do nothing with a dishonest heart. During the Millennial Age this class will receive the necessary stripes; just exactly what they need; to bring them into accord with righteousness. But for the time being God appeals only to the honest hearted. It is a wonderful privilege to become a member of the body of Christ. God is not forcing anyone to become a member. How strange it would be if he should say: If you will not become a member of the Bride class, you shall go to eternal torture! Nay, dear brethren, He lays before us the grandeur of the Divine Plan that seeing it we may be eager to become heirs of God and joint heirs with Christ our Lord. This is set before us in the Bible as a “pearl of great price.” If we do not care to come in under the invitation given we need not come at all. It is a great honor to hear and understand this message. The one thing that is the basis of God’s favor is sincerity. There are people who are born dishonest, insincere, self-sufficient that would surely lead them to take a wrong course.

HONEST HEART — One that admits its sin and weakness, its inability to do of itself anything that would make it worthy of God’s attention, and its need of a Redeemer.

GOOD HEART — One longing for, hungering after righteousness and fellowship with God. (Z. '14-375; R.5594)

BRING FORTH FRUIT WITH PATIENCE — In looking for the members of the kingdom, the Lord is looking for a depth of soil (heart, character) that will be patient to endure. Those who lack this one quality will not be fit for the Kingdom. Patience is necessary as an element of character on any plane of being, but with the Christian it is specially important to have it developed from the beginning of the race. We need it at the first quarter, and at the second quarter and at the third and at the mark of the fourth, perfect love, and when we have reached this mark where we love not only our friends but our enemies, it is required of us that we stand up to the mark faithfully, cheerfully, patiently, enduring the tests which the Lord will see fit even then to have come upon us. (Deut. 13:3) The Lord will prove us. (Z. '11-409; R.4910)

8:27 — TOMBS — See notes on Mark 5.

8:37 — It seems they cared more about the loss of the swine than they did that a fellow man was released from demons.

8:39 — Our Lord's journey on that occasion seems to have resulted in the conversion of but one person, the demoniac, all subsequent work being done through him. If we cannot be apostles we can at least follow the example of the one freed from demons; we can go to our homes and friends and there confess the Lord and his mighty power in us. We can thus sound forth the praises of Him who called us out of darkness into his marvellous light, and thus colabor with God in the ministry of truth.

9:16 — GAVE TO THE DISCIPLES TO SET BEFORE THE MULTITUDE

— How gracious of our Lord to arrange matters so! The disciples were thus better witnesses to the power of the miracle, and the people were more or less made acquainted with the Apostles, who perhaps after Pentecost met many of them and as the Master's representatives bore to them the heavenly food. It is still the same for the Lord will find, feed, and strengthen his people. He is not at all dependent on us to carry Present Truth to the hungry multitude, but for their own advantage he has given us the privilege of laboring with Him. How eager we should be that any little barley loaves we may have, or any little fishes we possess—any dollars and dimes, any time, and influence, might be used of the Lord in His blessed work!

While such a course is in the Scriptures dignified with the name of sacrifice, yet those who appreciate the situation properly, it is the very reverse. We are glad to note this privilege is so highly esteemed by those who are now rejoicing in present truth. It is a matter of continual wonder to the enemies of the Truth, as well as to the slightly interested that means never seem lacking for sending out the harvest message, and that without resorting to appeals to the world through fairs, etc., the spirit of the Lord seems to accompany the Truth, so that those who have the truth and talents of any kind for the Lord's service rejoice with joy, unspeakable to have these talents used, giving thanks to the Master for the privilege they enjoy. (Z. '06-158; R.3781)

9:17 — AND WERE ALL FILLED — Not merely a taste but a satisfying portion. All had sufficient. (Z. '06-158; R.3781)

FRAGMENTS THAT REMAINED TO THEM TWELVE BASKETS

— Quite probably some of the Lord's dear disciples of the present, need to learn the lesson of economy as much as did the disciples, and the multitude.

To some this lesson may come more easily than to others, but it is a usual experience in life that wilful waste brings woeful want. This does not mean we should be miserly. (See Prov. 11:24) Those who had scattered to others had their haversacks full and gained a supply for themselves.

We can apply this lesson to spiritual things. The Lord's people are to be distributors. Having freely received of his bounty, grace and truth, we are to distribute freely. Those who distribute will have the privilege of gathering for themselves, that each may have more than he gave away. How true it is that those who are most intent upon feeding others with the bread of life are themselves most bountifully supplied! Let us see to it then that we have generosity re the spiritual food as well as the natural. Let us give forth the word of Life and water of Life. While we do so from good, honest, sincere hearts with a desire to honor the Lord and bless his people, and without pride or selfishness on our part, we may rest assured that he will give us more and more of a rich supply for our own spiritual growth and sustenance. (Z. '05-45; R.3504)

The fragments gathered were not those left by the multitude, but these probably were permitted to go to the birds and squirrels. The fragments gathered by our Lord were those broken by the Apostles—food that was clean and good and in every way suitable for further use. (Z. '06-158; R.3781) So there was a full basket for each Apostle. Am I realizing that the Lord fills my basket (heart) with the blessings similar to those I give to others?

Jesus desires to give us each opportunities for sacrificing in connection with His service, thus to bless and enable us to appreciate our privileges more. If the harvest work were blessed with many wealthy friends and abundance of money, perhaps this would foster more of a worldly spirit of pride and outward display which would be disadvantageous to the cause and unfavorable to us. Let us be content and take heed to the fragments. (Z. '06-158; R.3781)

9:27 — See Matt. 16:28.

9:28 — EIGHT DAYS — See John 20:26. Notice the expression “about an eight days,” i.e. little more than a week. This harmonizes with Matt. 17:1 and Mark 9:2 if we count the one in which these words (vs. 27) were uttered as one, then six days and now the fulfilment came on the eighth day. See eighth day in Lev. 9:1.

SAYING — (Diag.): “about eight days after these words,” proving this scene to be the fulfilment of vs. 27. (See Z. '10-232; R.4649)

TOOK PETER AND JOHN AND JAMES — These three disciples formed no part of this picture, they were merely witnesses. (2 Pet. 1:16)

AND WENT UP INTO A MOUNTAIN TO PRAY — As this vision was granted while Jesus and the apostles were at prayer (for it started as a prayer meeting) so all who seek God in prayer, may, to a large extent, realize this same blessed vision of the Kingdom (glories to come) and may to some extent with the hearing of faith recognize the voice of God saying “This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.” realize that as members of the body of Christ their sacrifice must also be finished in actual death before entering glory. (Rom. 8:17) (Z. '00-205, 203; R.2659)

9:30 — MOSES AND ELIAS — Both Moses and Elijah had fasted for 40 days. Not only the ancient one trusted in a sacrifice to come, but the Gospel Church trusts in the same sacrifice already accomplished for her, and there is full communion or fellowship between the two. Also when the kingdom is established, surely all of the Lord's faithful will look to Calvary and its great sacrifice for sins as being the very center of the divine program on which hangs all the blessings both for the Church and for the world through the Kingdom of God's dear Son. (Z. '06-184; R.3794)

Are three possible pictures here:

(1) Moses representing the faithful overcomers who preceded Jesus our Lord. (Heb. 11) who cannot be made perfect until the kingdom is established. (Heb. 11:39,40; Psa. 45:16) Elijah representing the overcomers of the Gospel age. Jesus—being as now a glorified spirit being. (Z. '98-111; R.2289; Z. '00-204; R.2659)

(2) Or, this picture the two classes to be associated with Jesus in the Kingdom. Moses—Ancient Worthy class (Heb. 11) who will be the earthly representatives of the Kingdom. “Ye shall see Abraham, Isaac and Jacob in the Kingdom” (Luke 13:28) “Moses verily was faithful as a servant over his own house.” (Heb. 3:5) Elijah—the body of Christ, the bride of Christ who shall be with him and see his glory, invisible to men but be spirit beings of the divine nature, the heavenly phase. Jesus—the head and center of all. (This view seems the one most intended.) (Z. '98-111; R.2289; Z. '06-184; R.3794)

(3) Moses—The Law testimony; Elias—the prophets with their testimony.

9:31 — AND SPAKE OF HIS DECEASE — The Law and the prophets thus testified beforehand of the sufferings of Christ. (1 Pet. 1:11; Luke 24:25-27) (Z. '00-204; R.2659) This conversation was no doubt intended for the ears of the disciples to convince them that the events soon to occur in Jerusalem and on Calvary would all be features of the divine plan, harmoniously working out the blessed results promised and longed for, (Z. '00-203; R.2659) that they might not be discouraged and lose their faith. The whole vision was intended to assure the apostles of the certainty of the kingdom, notwithstanding the apparent failure of all the kingdom hopes in our Lord's crucifixion; and as essential to their faith in Jesus as the promised Messiah, since the events to follow in the next few months would be so different from everything they had expected. (Z. '00-203; R.2659)

9:32 — AND WHEN THEY WERE AWAKE — The Apostles fell asleep during the prayer. From a comparison of the accounts some have thought that possibly the Lord and the Apostles remained all night in the mountain (vs. 37) as Jesus sometime did, away from the multitude in quiet and prayer. The apostles were heavy with sleep and the inference seems to be that they were awakened at the proper time for them to see the vision. The flesh was weak. (Z. '06-182; R.3793)

9:33 — LET US MAKE THREE TABERNACLES — How many there are, who, Peter-like want to be rearing earthly tabernacles. How few catch the real spirit of the vision and realize that it represents not things of the present time of temporary tabernacles. All about us we see the disposition to rear costly temples of an earthly kind to the Lord, and a neglect of the real meaning of the vision, that it points to the future enduring temple (and indicates that our thoughts and hearts should be there) when everything imperfect and temporary shall have passed away, and God's kingdom established fully. Jesus did not accept the suggestion of Peter, but directed the minds of his followers to the eternal things of the Kingdom. (Z. '06-185; R.3795)

9:34 — AS THEY ENTERED INTO THE CLOUD — This voice was heard from the cloud, which represented the darkness and trouble which would be permitted to come upon the Lord's followers in the midst of the trials of the dark days coming upon them in connection with Jesus' rejection by the Jews, his scourging, dishonor, crucifixion, death and burial. In all this they were to remember the voice of the Father and not be discouraged nor allow their faith to grow faint. Similarly the Lord has permitted a dark cloud to come over his faithful ones, that they might be the better prepared to listen to his word, his message. It is well for us, under the circumstances that the dark cloud of trouble and opposition is permitted to keep us very humble, that we may indeed fall on our faces in the dust and listen to the voice from heaven and to our Master's words. (Z. '06-184; R.3794)

But notice that Matthew calls this a bright cloud (literally "a cloud of light"—Diag.). This cloud of light might be understood as saying to the Apostles and to us—Although the glory and majesty of the Lord are unquestionably his (as testified to by Law and prophets) (and as a result of his faithfulness unto death) yet that glory will in a considerable measure be hidden, obscured for a time, so that you will see your glorious Lord and King only by the eye of faith, which although more or less cloudy will still be bright to those who look unto him (and are with him in the mountain). God's voice out of the cloud would seem, as it testified to Jesus as the Son of God and instructed us to obey his word, to represent how all through this Gospel age, while the misty cloud surrounds the glory of the Lord, we will have great need to continually hearken to the word of the Lord, and to repose faith in its declaration that Jesus is the Son of God our Redeemer, and that in Him God is well pleased. (Z. '00-204; R.2659)

9:37 — THAT ON THE NEXT DAY — So with some of the Lord's people, occasionally by faith they go up into a mountain; by faith see the glory of the Lord revealed, and hear afresh that they must suffer with the Lord if they would enter into his glory. Then, coming down from the exalted heights of contemplation of things glorious, they face the realities of the present time—the Adversary is in possession of the world still, many are his slaves and dupes; no earthly power seems sufficient to cast him out, they are back with the remainder of the church. But if the Master be with them, victory will ultimately be achieved. (Z. '12-344; R.5128) See notes on Mark 9:17-29.

9:39 — AND, LO, A SPIRIT TAKETH HIM — This case was one of occasional obsession, whereas many of the others were continuous.

9:41 — BRING THY SON HITHER — While the demon was causing this fit Mark says Jesus asked the father about the case, and the father pleaded for help. Jesus made it clear that the cure depended on the father's faith. How great stress the Lord lays everywhere upon the exercise of faith in the divine power. Those who cannot exercise the faith cannot have the blessing which others may have who do exercise faith, and our blessings increase as we exercise our faith, and follow it with obedience to the extent of our ability. The poor father realized from Jesus' words that the difficulty rested with him, that he must exercise faith else his son could not be recovered. With tears he cried out—"Lord I believe, help thou mine unbelief." His faith got its reward. (Z. '12-345; R.5129) "Enter no more into him." This was the special point of this cure. The evil spirit had frequently left the boy, but only to return. The Lord's command was that he should leave and never return. (Z. '12-345; R.5129)

9:42 — THE DEVIL THREW HIM DOWN, AND TARE HIM — It may be wondered why the Master permitted the spirit to tear the boy and cause him pain, in leaving him. If he had power to cast him out, he undoubtedly had power to control the manner of his coming out. We can only surmise that Jesus allowed the evil spirit a measure of liberty in the method of leaving the victims, and that this was for the very purpose of proving how malicious and evil the spirit was which had control and thus the miracle was more clearly seen, and thus the more would God be praised by those interested.

(Z. '12-345; R.5129)

HEALED THE CHILD — The boy was left in an apparently dead condition but Jesus took him by the hand and raised him up. The lesson for us in this is that it is not only necessary that the Adversary and his power be cast out of humanity, but the poor world needs divine aid, the hand of divine power for their uplift out of sin and death. According to the Scriptures we are nearing the time when Satan will be bound and all the influences of evil among mankind will be restrained; and also this binding will be accompanied by a great time of trouble such as was not since there was a nation, and humanity will be left in an almost dead condition.

The pride, the hopes, the ambition of men will perish in that awful trouble, but the Master will be present in Kingdom power to uplift them. Messiah's Kingdom will not only bind the Adversary and forbid him to re-enter humanity and interfere with their affairs, but the power of the Kingdom will for 1000 years be doing an uplifting work among the fallen, degraded members of our race, up, up till they are fully up to the divine standard, as represented in father Adam. (Z. '12-345; R.5129)

AND DELIVERED HIM AGAIN TO HIS FATHER — So Jesus, when the restoring work of the Millennial age is accomplished will hand over humanity alive and well to the Father and great will be the rejoicing.

9:49 — AND WE FORBAD HIM, BECAUSE HE FOLLOWETH NOT WITH US — The apostles evidently had similar sentiments to those which prevail today, Catholics, Episcopalians, and a little in every denomination to say—"What authority have you?" So the disciples said. Jesus showed them they had a mistaken idea. While they were specially commissioned to do miracles, yet if anyone could do the same thing it was not their province to hinder or object in any sense, but rather to take a broad sympathetic view—"We see you are doing a good work. The fact that you do not follow with us shows that you do not know our Master, and we should be glad to have you come and get acquainted with him too."

So we if we see anyone doing a good work helping the world in any sense, whether by keeping a mission, or helping the heathen, to oppose sin or relieve suffering, we should be sympathetic to the extent that we see they have good hearts, good intentions. Instead of working against them in any manner or hindering them, we should speak an encouraging word and endeavor to lead them to fuller light. This does not mean that we should follow with them and leave our special commission of teaching the Truth, which the Lord has given us. We should not object to the Lord's using various agents to accomplish his work. We should not think that we alone have the privilege of engaging in his work; that we have patent rights on his work and can hinder others from doing what they may be able to do and take pleasure in doing. (Z. '10-269; R.4667)

9:62 — PUT HIS HAND TO THE PLOUGH — Make consecration of his all to God.

AND LOOKING BACK — Desiring and longing for some of the things left behind, earthly pleasures and fleshly ones. Their heart is not fully resigned to the Lord's will. When we consecrate we are still not bound except by our own will and might at times "draw back unto death."

IS FIT FOR THE KINGDOM OF GOD — This expression "kingdom of God" has a two fold meaning: (1) The Millennium kingdom or reign of Christ for 1000 years, and also forever after that; (2) The Kingdom class, the church, the body of Christ, now in process of training and development, testing and polishing.

"Fit for the Kingdom"—this implies a great deal. First of all we were thoroughly unfit for any favor of God, when we were sinners, much less this highest favor of the Divine nature and joint heirship with Christ. But that difficulty has been overcome by our justification by faith in Christ. But this was not enough. If we were perfect actually instead of reckonedly we would not be fit for the Kingdom, fit to govern others as kings and priests of God (Rev. 20:6) or judges of the world (1 Cor. 6:2).

Jesus, though perfect as a man, was made perfect through suffering and is it strange that we, his younger brethren, justified through his blood should be required not merely to make a profession of godliness, but also prove that sentiment to be a part of our character. Who would be prepared to teach the world meekness, patience, brotherly kindness, long suffering, love, without first of all developing all these qualities in himself? And how could he develop these without testing and schooling and disciplining in the school of Christ. "They are Worthy." (Rev. 3:4) This worthiness and fitness does not mean that this class was originally so, but that by God's grace through Christ, a transforming work (Rom. 12:2) in them will eventually bring some to this glorious position where God himself will esteem them worthy to be called his children, and to be joint heirs with his Son, the great King.

There is one standard of fitness for the kingdom and none other will do. There are varieties of condition which would make one unfit for the kingdom—"No murderer (1 John 3:15; 2:11) or brother-hater; no drunkard" (1 Cor. 6:10); a proud spirit (1 Peter 5:5). But this does not mean that any such if they repented and turned from their condition could not be washed and cleaned and made fit for the Kingdom, for God is able and willing to do this. (Matt. 21:31, 32)

“Looking backward”—regretfully desiring to abandon the plow and really doing it, for he stops making progress in the furrow while he looks back. “If any man draw back my soul shall have no pleasure in him.” (Heb. 10:38, 39) “Remember Lot’s wife.” (Luke 17:31, 32) This shows that any of us who now hear the Truth and the grace of God, and who now accept the terms of his call and make a full consecration to the Lord will lose the promised blessing if we in heart look back, in the sense of declining to go forward, in harmony with the consecration of their lives unto death. The Lord wishes us to see that the Heavenly Father is not calling merely those who have generally good intentions and who would rather do right than wrong.

Unless our love for Truth, for God and his will, be so firmly established that they are ready and willing to endure hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ and to fight a good fight to the end of the course, laying hold on eternal life and glory and immortality, they or we will not be fit for the kingdom. Indeed one of God’s reasons for permitting the world, the flesh and the Devil to have the power they now possess to counteract and fight against our good resolutions and intentions is Scripturally given as: “The Lord your God doth prove you, etc.” (Deut. 13:3) If love of sin and or love of self or love of any earthly thing can over balance our love for the Lord and his Truth and his people, we are not worthy, not fit for the Kingdom. Not merely good professions, but faithfulness unto death, fixity of character, are required by the Lord of such as he would honor with a share in his kingdom. See Jas. 5:20. (N-12-5-09)

10:1 — APPOINTED OTHER SEVENTY ALSO — These (in connection with the twelve) may picture the Great Company. See Exod. 15:27; Matt. 10:1.

10:29 — AND WHO IS MY NEIGHBOR? — See Zech. 3:10.

10:34 — AND BROUGHT HIM TO AN INN — Jesus had no patience with the failure to make an effort, with the lazy, piety that would substitute words for deeds, with the false religion that would take refuge in sanctimonious phrases and ignore the hungry and friendless. In this story the two who passed by did the victim no harm, they neither robbed nor hurt him. Yet we who listen to the story find ourselves condemning them as harshly as we do the robbers.

11:1 — WAS PRAYING IN A CERTAIN PLACE — Jesus often spent whole nights in prayer, and he prayed often and with many tears. (Matt. 14:23; Luke 6:12; 5:16; Mark 6:46; 1:35; Heb. 5:7) All night till break of day Jacob wrestled in prayer, saying “I will not let thee go unless thou bless me.” Paul thrice besought the Lord until he was assured his grace would be sufficient for him. “In everything by prayer and supplication (earnest pleading) with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known unto God.” (Z. '98-213; R.1864) “After this manner.” (Matt. 6:9) This is the model prayer. We believers in Christ may consider ourselves as in God’s estimation reinstated (through faith in Christ to the original position of sons of God, and that we may therefore address him “Our Father.” It indicates on our part worshipful adoration of the High and Holy one, and profound reverence for the glorious character and attributes of our God. It expresses full sympathy with his revealed plan for a coming Kingdom of Righteousness, which will be according to his will. This shows the attitude of heart to be toward righteousness, and fully submitted to the divine will and purpose that God may work in it to will and to do his good pleasure. It expresses in plain and simple language its dependence on God for daily needs, and the confidence of a child in the Father for the supply of those needs out of his abundant fulness. It seeks forgiveness for trespasses, and recognized also the obligation thus incurred to render the same to those trespassing against us. It seeks to be guarded against temptation and to be fortified by God’s abounding grace against all the wiles of the Adversary. (Z. '95-213; R.1864)

11:24 — SPIRIT IS GONE OUT OF A MAN — Jesus likened the world to the poor demoniac whom he had released from Satan’s grasp. Similarly all who accept the Lord and are delivered from the power of Satan.

I WILL RETURN UNTO MY HOUSE — If Satan be not resisted the danger is that the light and the blessing received through the knowledge of God will become a curse and an injury, and the result with such a person will be worse than before he came into relationship to Christ. (Z. '14-11; R.5378)

11:25 — IS SWEEPED AND GARNISHED — Jesus represents such hearts as swept and garnished—sin forgiven and grace of God received. The condition of a heart justified from sin but not yet occupied, the Lord not there enthroned by a full consecration to him, so that it is in great danger of being occupied by the Adversary, through some of his great deceptions. All such justified ones should hasten to accept the Lord and fill their hearts with Him so that no one can creep in unawares.

11:26 — IS WORSE THAN THE FIRST — See note on verse 24.

12:5 — FEAR HIM — Reverence; fear to disobey. The fear (reverence) of the Lord is valuable all our journey through. One tendency among those who have received the light of present truth and who lose thereby the terrible and slavish fear inspired by misrepresentations of the divine character and plan, is to lose all fear. And according to the Scriptures this is a very dangerous condition, an ultra freedom that is apt to lead to license, under our present imperfect conditions. It is true that perfect love casteth out fear, but it is also true that perfect love is a very scarce commodity on earth, even among the saints. Hence, the Apostle urges "Let us fear, lest, a promise being left us of entering into his rest, any of you should seem to come short of it." (Heb. 4:1) The fear which we are to lose entirely is "the fear of man, which bringeth a snare."

He who loses the fear of God and the fear of losing the great prize which God has held out before us is in a very dangerous position. He is likely to become self-conscious and self-satisfied, and readily drops into a condition where he does not believe in the just sentence against wilful sinners—the second death, and where he is proportionately careless respecting the keeping of his own words and thoughts and deeds in strictest alignment with the principles laid down in the Word of God. Having lost his fear of the Lord, he soon loses care respecting the Word of God and inclines more and more to lean to his own understanding and becomes blinded to his own faults.

The lesson is that to lose the fear of God, in the sense of losing fear of his displeasure or fearing to come short of the grand possibilities which he has so graciously put within our grasp would be a most serious loss, as it would probably cost us our eternal life. For those who have lost this fear are like steam engines which have lost their governors and are apt to run with too much liberty of self-destruction and unfitness of service. So as pilgrims, the heavenly country—"If ye call on him as Father—pass the time of your sojourning here in fear." (1 Pet. 1:12) (Z. '98-112; R.2289) See Psa. 34:9; 22:23; 118:4; 103:13, 17; 145:19; 147:11; Luke 12:5; Rom. 11:20; Heb. 4:1; 1 Pet. 2:17; Acts 10:35; Mal. 3:16; 4:2; Heb. 5:7.

12:21 — AND IS NOT RICH TOWARD GOD — The very chiefest of all treasures is the personal love and friendship of God and Jesus Christ. Pleasure, delight, joy, comfort, all these things are suggested by the word—"Treasure." Our treasure is the inspiration of our hearts, lives, the incentive to energy, perseverance, and endurance for the hope that it enkindles. Most people have treasures but they are generally such as yield very slight satisfaction, because they are transitory and disappointing. How many have built their hopes upon earthly things only to find them but illusive bubbles, mocking delusions, leaving the heart at last broken, crushed, barren.

The treasures of wealth, fame social distinction of houses, lands, friends, home and family, of power and influence are subject to change and decay and if the heart be centered in them, they are liable in a moment to be swept away, leaving the life desolate and despairing, all the more so because of the high hopes inspired. The wealth laboriously gathered and husbanded with great care, may vanish in a night. The fame so dearly won may change to censure and reproach at the caprice of fickle public sentiment. The social prestige which bade you to the uppermost seats may a little later relegate you to the lowest seat and your name may be cast out as evil and you be ostracized. Houses and lands and carefully hoarded belongings may disappear under the sheriffs hammer. Friends long trusted may suddenly grow cold and turn their backs upon you and even become your enemies. The home you love may sometime break up, the family be scattered or invaded by death. The love that glows upon the home altar may flicker and become dim or extinct. How many have found the high hopes of youth and early life turn to ashes in a few short years or months.

God's love and his precious promises come like the sweet balm of Gilead to those, who sad and disappointed in the struggle of life come to Christ for rest and comfort, for life and healing. Many a storm-tossed mariner upon life's ocean discouraged and despairing, bereft of all hope, have found that these very experiences were the means of leading them to the haven of eternal refuge. There alone true blessings and safety can be found. There alone is the real treasure, far exceeding the choicest treasures of earth. (Z.'16-69; R.5862)

12:38 — OR COME IN THE THIRD WATCH — He has come in the fourth watch. See Matt. 14:22-23; Mark 6:2, 8 and comments.

13:14 — NOT ON THE SABBATH DAY — Jesus did many of his miracles on the Sabbath Day, partly no doubt to emphasize the fact that the great Sabbath, the seventh 1000 year day of earth's history will be the time of His Kingdom, in which all of mankind will be privileged to be healed from sin, sorrow, pain, sickness and be brought to the full perfection of human nature, to all that Adam lost. This was intended as a special rebuke to Jesus, intimating that he was not so holy and so careful of the Sabbath as he should be, but was a violator of the Law. (Z.'14-57; R.5856) These Pharisees for show exaggerated the letter of the Law in some respects, while they entirely ignored its Spirit.

13:32 — AND THE THIRD DAY I SHALL BE PERFECTED — See Joshua 1:11 and John 2:19.

14:14 — FOR THOU SHALT BE RECOMPENSED — Notice: 1) No recompense is suggested as taking place at death. 2) Those recompensed are to get their reward or blessing for good works, not for faith and not because they took up their cross and followed Jesus and were his disciples. 3) The reward of such good works will not necessarily be a share in the resurrection of the just, but when the just are resurrected, and God's kingdom established among men and the new order of things begun, these will have a blessing for kindness to the poor, lame and blind, who could not return the kindness. In God's accounting every act of kindness is a credit, and every unkind act a debit as respects the world and signified blessings or stripes to be received then.

JUST — Justified (by faith)—the Church and Ancient Worthies. (Dan. 12:1, 2)

14:15-24 — See notes from Matt. 22. Those thus inspected are represented as already in the guest chamber. (vs. 16) They are the wheat reaped from the tares, separated from them, the wise virgins separated from the foolish. They have heard and received the harvest truth and are rejoicing by faith in anticipation of the glory and blessing to follow their full union with the Lord. Hitherto they have all run well, but until each reach the end of his course let he that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall. (C198)

It was a custom at Jewish weddings for the host to provide dresses of ceremony—wedding robes—for all the guests, and for any guest to discard the wedding robe and appear in his own clothing would have been considered a shameful impropriety, significant of pride and of disrespect for the entertainer. (C198)

The parable shows that even under these favored conditions, some will insult the host by despising and taking off the wedding garment. The teaching of the parable is that the final general test of the wise virgins will be a test of their appreciation of the fact that they are accepted to the feast not in their own merit but because their nakedness and imperfections are covered by Jesus' merit, who gave his life as their ransom price, all must wear the robe. Each may embroider his own with the good character and works. Our Heavenly Father is determined that none shall be of the Bride class except those who realize their own nothingness. (C199)

The very abundance of God's favors and the very clearness of the unfoldings of God's plans, instead of leading to humility and a greater appreciation of the wonderful ransom price by which we are released from condemnation and our call to the divine nature and joint-heirship with Christ is secured, seems to have the opposite effect upon some. Such seem to lose sight of their own personal unworthiness as well as of the Lord's unblemished perfection, and instead of realizing themselves unprofitable servants they seem to see in their own little self-denials for the truth's sake something wonderful—the equivalent of what our Lord Jesus did, and feel that they as much as he are indispensable to the execution of the great plan of the ages which the scriptures reveal. Such are guilty of "not holding the Head," and his great work of redemption in proper respect. (Col. 2:19) They count the blood of the Covenant wherewith they were sanctified a common thing. (Heb. 10:29) (C200)

To these therefore the very truths which now rejoice our hearts, now unfolding, designed for our good and development, become an occasion of stumbling, because they are not rightly exercised by them. And as Israel, so long specially favored of God, became proud and began to think themselves actually worthy of those favors and indispensable to the divine plan, so that God cast them off from all favor, so with those now who fail to keep humble and begin to think themselves worthy to stand before God in their own righteousness, and who assume a right to partake of the feast without the wedding robe of Jesus' imputed merit. (C201)

Though still speaking of Christ as Lord they despise and deny the importance and efficacy of the very transaction by which he became Lord, and by which they were counted worthy of an invitation to the marriage. (Rom. 14:9; 5:2) They boldly claim they need no Redeemer, and with subtle sophistries and misapplications of scripture they convince themselves and others that they got into the sheepfold by another way without being ransomed—in their own righteousness, filthy rags. (C202)

14:18 — AND THEY ALL — The Jewish rulers who rejected Christ.

14:21 — AND THE BLIND — The common Jewish people, many of whom gladly heard Christ, who were misled by the Pharisees but who afterwards repented and were converted, at one time 3,000 in a single day. Perhaps about 10,000 in all.

14:23 — GO OUT INTO THE HIGHWAYS— As the city equals the Jewish nation so the highways would equal the world, Gentiles. (Z.'10-286; R.4679)

14:26 — HATE NOT HIS FATHER— Jesus did not say that only his disciples could ever gain everlasting life. To hate here means to love supremely the Lord and the principles for which he stands, so that our love for others would in comparison be like hatred. (Z.'14-91; R.5425) That is, we would be so occupied in doing the Lord's will that we would have so little time for things not related to it, and for others who did not want His will, that it would seem to them that we hated them. See Note Matt. 10:37-39.

CANNOT BE MY DISCIPLE — The terms of discipleship which Jesus set forth are very different from those proclaimed by some who profess to be his mouthpieces, his ministers. They sometimes proclaim that it is a sufficient sign of discipleship to rise in a congregation and declare that they desire the prayers of God's people. Such are counted converts. To get them to take even this step requires the holding out of inducements. Sometimes the inducements are greater business prosperity for the merchant, greater favor with the employer for the clerk, and entrance into society or a better prospect of political preferment. If we contrast these methods with the words of Jesus we perceive that a vast number of nominal Christians are inveigled into professing something that they never intended to profess. Many are entrapped into professing Christianity who never became Christians, according to the Master's definition of the conditions of discipleship, and who hearken not to his word. (Z. '14-91; R.5425) (See note Rom. 12:1)

14:33 — HE CANNOT BE MY DISCIPLE — We should count the cost, but not delay too long over it, count carefully and quickly. The Adversary will enlarge upon the cost to us, and have us refuse to consecrate. We should ask God for more faith and take him at his Word.

14:34 — WHEREWITH SHALL IT BE SEASONED? — Salt has preservative qualities in connection with whatever it touches. It also serves to bring out the flavor of our food. In olden times it was used as a symbol of faithfulness and loyalty (Lev. 2:13), and it is said that even yet some of the Arabs would be faithful to death to any person in whose house they had eaten salt. To them it seemed a pledge of loyalty. Jesus used salt as a symbol representing his own loyalty to God, and the loyalty which all of his followers must have, and more—must maintain. If salt lose its value for seasoning purposes it is useless for anything else. It cannot be used for fertilizer, for it has an opposite effect. It is absolutely useless except for its intended purpose. So the Christian has a special purpose in the world—to be a preservative power, to have, as it were, antiseptic qualities, and to draw out all the good qualities of those with whom he is connected. This is the mission of the Christian in respect to the world. If he fail in this he has failed in the purpose for which he was called, and is of no particular value in the Lord's work. (Z. '14-92; R.5426)

15:11 — A CERTAIN MAN — The Heavenly Father.

TWO SONS — Two classes of the Jewish nation. "Elder Son" represents those who sat in Moses' seat and who remained loyal to God in their outward profession, and in their endeavours outwardly to keep the Law.

General Application: There are noble characters in the world who love to do right; people who are well born and who are well environed after birth, and who apparently would be the very first ones who would be chosen of God to be the joint heirs with His son in the great Kingdom that is to bless mankind in general. But the scriptures make clear that not many of this class may be expected to be of the Kingdom class, not that God is unwilling to have them because of the education, wealth, and good morals, but those very qualities make them less ready to accept the terms. (Z. '14-107; R.5435)

15:11-32 — "One of the Masterpieces of the great Teacher." (David Gregg, D.D.) "This has been fitly called the crown and pearl of all the parables—the Gospel within the Gospel.” (D.S. Clark, D.D.) “Its beauty and pathos are unequalled in the realm of fiction.” (R.H. McKim) “No other parable has touched so many hearts.” (W.E. Burton, D.D.)—The setting of the parable shows the Master’s object in giving it. He was seeking to show the Pharisees that their position respecting the publicans and sinners was wrong, that their wrong attitude was likely to cost them their share in the Kingdom. (Z. ’14-106,107; R.5434, 5435)

This is one of three parables given to illustrate God’s love and sympathy toward the poor and fallen and degraded and lost. 1) Parable of the lost sheep, 2) Of the lost piece of silver, 3) Prodigal Son. (Z. ’06-252; R.3835) “The Pharisees trusted in themselves that they were righteous and despised others.” They had forms of righteousness, ceremonies, outward obedience to God and his laws. We may assume that with some these matters were genuine—of the heart and not merely of formality. But the evidences are strong that there were few of this professed “Holiness People” who were really at heart holy, as judged by the Lord’s standard. Our Lord wished to show them that they took a wrong attitude in the matter.

Instead of holding aloof from their fellow Jews, their brethren, they should have been greatly interested in them, and ready to do anything in their power to help them back to harmony with God and fellowship with themselves. Instead the Pharisaical class rather delighted to proclaim that they were the heirs of God’s favor and the others were estranged from God. These estranged ones were called publicans and sinners. The sinners were the more or less immoral who made no profession of keeping the Mosaic Law, rites, holy days, etc. True, they took some part in the festivals but largely from the standpoint of merchants and traders and sightseers than from the standpoint of worshippers. The publicans were Jews who had become somewhat estranged of their laws and from the patriotic sentiments of the nation, and accepted service under the Romans as tax-gatherers. They were looked down upon by those who held that the seed of Abraham, heirs of the great Oath Bound Covenant, should never in any sense of the word become servants to any foreign Master, and particularly not serve in collecting taxes from his brothers.

Our Lord was out of touch with such Phariseism and instead of holding aloof from the Publicans and Sinners, “the Common People,” He preached the message to every one who had ears to hear making no distinction between Pharisee and Scribe, and Publicans and Sinners. For this the Pharisees scorned him considering that thus he acknowledged himself and his teachings to be on a lower plane, more closely allied with the sinner class. The Lord did not deny that the publicans and sinners were in the wrong, were in some respects further estranged from God than the Pharisees; but he wished the latter to see that their hearts were not in accord with the mind of the Lord, else they would not feel so indifferent toward their brethren. (Z. '04-135; R.3360)

15:12 — THE YOUNGER — The younger son = those of the nation of Israel who, though aware of the Oath Bound Covenant and the blessings and privileges of relationship with God, had nevertheless wandered off into the ways of sin as publicans and sinners and careless ones. (Z. '04-135; R.3360) The younger son represented the common people, not so religiously strict as to their ideals. (Z. '14-106; R.1434)

AND HE DIVIDED UNTO THEM HIS LIVING — It was the custom of that time and country that the elder son should inherit the principal part of the estate if he chose to remain at home with his father. The younger sons were usually given some portion and allowed to embark if they would in some other business or profession. We do not understand the parable to teach that the father unwisely retained nothing to himself, but contrariwise, that he merely gave a reasonable portion to each son, retaining the remainder, which was however intended for the elder son, if faithful, at the father's death. It would be unwise for a father to take any other course than the one here suggested. (Z. '04-135; R.3360)

15:13 — A FAR COUNTRY — The wrong course of the publicans and sinners is graphically illustrated; they had been in God's favor under the Mosaic Covenant, but feeling released from the restraints of home (the Law of Moses) they had wandered from God into the ways of sin and suffering. (Z. '04-136; R.3360)

15:14 — AND HE BEGAN TO BE IN WANT — They looked for pleasure and prosperity in the wrong direction. They should have been glad to remain under divine protection and care; to have enjoyed the father's house and all its blessings. They should have realized the blessed privilege they had enjoyed of being separated by the Lord from the world in general. But they did not appreciate this and had gone off into sin, and though really Israelites had been living like Gentiles and worse than some of them. They had been serving Satan and many of their sick vices were the result, as well as much of their destitution and especially their moral degradation. (Z. '04-136; R.3360)

The younger son class misused their privileges and opportunities as members of the nation of Israel, having the Divine promises. They wasted their opportunities in self-gratification, they were known to others and acknowledged by selves as publicans and sinners—not attempting to live Godly lives. (Z. '14-107; R.1435)

15:15 — FIELDS TO FEED SWINE — Satan is the master of this far country, afar from God and his love, protection and care. He it was who degraded them to the level of swine, and in his service they strove for any satisfying portion. The swine represent the worldly, engrossed in the things of the present time and wholly indifferent to spiritual matters, and this prodigal is represented as having nothing more for His sustenance than have the worldly; yet there was a difference between him and the swine, for the swine could fill their bellies and grow fat on the bean pods of the locust or carob tree, but the prodigal found it hard to subsist on that diet. He realized his degradation. He “came to himself,” and realized he had been insane, stupid, dreaming when he left so gracious a father’s house and so great blessings as he had once enjoyed and come down to this degraded position where his whole being hungered and thirsted for the blessings of the home he had left. The first thing he did was to will, and then he proceeded to do. The willing would have amounted to nothing had it not been followed by the doing, but the doing could not have preceded the willing.

(Z. '04-136; R.3360)

15:16 — AND NO MAN GAVE UNTO HIM — These felt their degradation, were spiritually hungry. They were ragged. They felt a longing to be back in the father’s house but they hesitated to go back. It was just such character that Jesus encouraged “Come unto me, etc.” Jesus represented the father’s house and prompted the younger son class of Jews to have confidence that the Father would receive them when they had come to Him penitently.
(Z. '14-107; R.1435)

15:17 — CAME TO HIMSELF — There is a part in all such reformation which belongs in some measure to divine providence. Sin and degradation have brought unreason, unbalanced judgment, have made the good to appear bad and the light to appear darkness, the true to appear false and vice versa. It is of divine providence that the eyes of our understanding open to see just where we are, to realize our need and our loss. (Z. '04-138; R.3361)

I PERISH WITH HUNGER — See note on verse 16.

15:18 — FATHER, I HAVE SINNED AGAINST HEAVEN— The picture is drawn by the Lord, of the beggared and tattered prodigal, with a look of shame and fearful forebodings of what reception he might have from his father and his brother. He would claim nothing further as a son, realizing he had dishonored the relationship, he would seek to be only a servant.
(Z. '04-136; R.3360)

15:19 — MAKE ME AS ONE OF THY HIRED SERVANTS — Some of the younger son class, repentant, came back to God and were abundantly pardoned. And not only pardoned but because of their penitence they were granted special manifestations of God’s favor. (Z. '14-107; R.1435)

15:20 — AND RAN, AND FELL ON HIS NECK, AND KISSED HIM —

Our Lord shows how God views the returning of these publicans and sinners who were hearing the Gospel message and coming back to lives of righteousness and harmony with God. His elder brother was not on the look-out for him (elder brother represents the Pharisees); but the father represents God; saw him a long way off, was looking for him, was compassionate toward him, and lest he should be discouraged in his fearfulness, the father ran to meet him to welcome him. His reception was as though he had never sinned. (Ezek. 18:21,22) The best robe, the best shoes, all were his, and the feast proclaimed the Father's joy to the entire household. (Z. '04-136; R.3360)

Parallel now—In a broad sense the whole world may be viewed in the light of this Parable. Those who have sought to remain in harmony with the Heavenly Father, striven to walk in holiness of life and obedience to the divine will, may be considered the Elder Brother; while the younger brother represents those described in Rom. 1. From this standpoint nearly the whole of mankind is in a far country, in the land of the enemy under the blinding influences of the god of this world. And now by the grace of God we learn in advance that ultimately an opportunity is to be given to all of these everywhere to come to themselves, to realize what they have lost, and come to realize the Father's willingness to receive them back again—an opportunity for reformation during the Millennial age under the ministry of Jesus.

To those who are in the right attitude of heart, this message gives rejoicing, while to another class today the very thought of these estranged ones being granted an opportunity for returning to the Heavenly Father and have the Robe of Christ's Righteousness placed on them and be accepted to sonship to God again, is a repulsive thought; just as the thought of the favor of God going to the publicans and sinners was repulsive to most of the Pharisees of our Lord's day. (Z. '04-136; R.3360)

15:23 — AND LET US EAT, AND BE MERRY — Our Lord representing the Father, was willing to speak to these, willing to receive them, told them of the Father's love, of his provision to give them the Robe of Christ's Righteousness, Justification; of his willingness to make them participants in the great feast of fat things—The Kingdom Blessings; of his willingness to give them the ring—a signet of his everlasting mercy, forgiveness and love, the Pentecostal blessings. (Z. '06-253; R.3835)

This is the Marriage Feast (Matt. 22:1-14) and in Luke 14:16-24.

15:28 — THEREFORE CAME HIS FATHER OUT, AND ENTREATED HIM — The Pharisees, as the elder son, noting this divine favor to the poor common people, publicans and sinners, were angry. They rejected the message of the father through the son, they would not go to the same feast. Thus they showed that they lacked a very important quality of heart—the spirit of lovingkindness, and hence were not at all prepared for the feast. They left the Father's house, left their share of the Oath Bound Covenant and the wonderful favors connected therewith, because they had not the Father's Spirit, spirit of brotherly kindness, love. The Lord as a result cast them off as a nation and they lost the privilege of the chief blessing and were blinded. (Z. '06-254; R.3836)

The Lord showed the Pharisees that they were angry with the Father because of His goodness, and were refusing to go into the feast to which they were made welcome by the Father and prodigals. The loss would be theirs, the gain would be for the more humble minded. The Father, who was pleased to give them his blessing in every way and to continue with them, would not force them to have his favors, even though by nature they were his chosen ones. If they would not come in to share the Father's hospitalities with the returned Prodigal they could not share them at all. The Gospel feast is but one feast and all who participate in it must come in under the Father's terms and arrangements. (Z. '04-136; R.3360)

The elder brother was indeed bidden, but he refused. He was jealous that the father should receive the young spendthrift. This jealous spirit on the part of the Pharisees apparently kept many of them from appreciating the gift of God in Christ. They refused to enter in. (Z. '14-107; R.1435)

God often tests his tried ones to see if they are like Him in all things, to see if they have developed humility with the rest or if their blessings have made them proud and self-righteous. God wants his people to be meek, gentle, copies of His Son in their generous good will toward all who desire to come to Him. All are sinners, whether they know it or not. All should be honest enough to confess it, and God requires this very honesty, this very confession of our need before the merit of Christ can be imputed to us as covering our blemishes. This better class, represented by the elder brother seem to feel that in contrast with the lower strata of society they are perfection itself, and God would be sure to desire them. God evidently wishes to have a class honest enough to acknowledge their own imperfections and their own unworthiness of his favors. (Z. '14-107; R.1435)

It is passing strange that now in the dawning of the New Dispensation, as the Lord brings to our attention the glorious features of his plan which shall surely make for the uplift of the world of mankind and their complete restitution, if they are willing, back to all that was lost in Eden—these blessings should arouse the opposition and anger of any who have ever named the name of Christ, or have ever been in any measure partakers of the Father's Spirit, refuse to believe the angel's message on the plains of Bethlehem. (Z. '04-137; R.3361)

15:29 — THAT I MIGHT MAKE MERRY WITH MY FRIENDS — The due time had not come, the father expected the return of the prodigal and the feast then would be a test to the son to show if he were of the same spirit as the father. "Wait ye upon the Lord." The feast without the returned prodigal would have been selfish.

15:32 — See notes on verse 28.

16:1 — A STEWARD — In olden times it was the custom for rich men to appoint stewards. Such had an absolute control of the Master's goods as had the Master himself. The steward here was extravagant. His master had concluded to dispense with his services, and asked him to render his accounts. (Z. '14-108; R.5436)

16:2 — GIVE AN ACCOUNT OF THY STEWARDSHIP — Jesus was here condemning the Pharisees. He declared that the Scribes and Pharisees sat in Moses' Seat, as interpreters of the Mosaic Law (and stewards of the oracles of God. (Rom. 9:4, 5; 3:2) and had they followed the course of the Steward they would have made friends of the poor publicans and sinners, by trying to minimize their shortcomings, and to encourage them to do the best they could, to comply with the demands of the Law. Instead they bound heavy burdens upon the people and discouraged them. All this was hypocrisy for they could not help but know that themselves were unable to comply with the requirements of the Law, which is the full measure of a perfect man's ability. Their proper attitude would have been to confess their own shortcomings, to strive to do their best, to appeal to God for mercy and to teach the common people to do similarly. So, they would have been better prepared to be received into the Gospel favor in the end of their age. As it was, by their hypocrisies they were hindering themselves from becoming disciples of Jesus and from seeking grace and forgiveness of sins. They were hindering others from becoming disciples by claiming that it was possible to have God's favor through keeping the Law. (Z. '14-108; R.5436)

16:9 — WHEN YE FAIL — At the end of your stewardship, at death; the results of your benevolence may cause you to be received, in the resurrection, into the everlasting habitations. (Z. '14-108; R.5436) There is room for dispute in respect to the teaching of this parable, but it seems clear to us that Jesus meant that the wisdom of the unjust steward should be exercised by his disciples in their dealings with the mammon, or riches in the present life. From the moment God's people give themselves to him, they give also all their earthly rights and interests and become merely stewards of their time, talents, influences, wealth. (1 Cor. 6:19, 20) Use all you have energetically in the divine service.

16:10 — HE THAT IS UNJUST IN THE LEAST IS UNJUST ALSO IN MUCH — (1 Cor. 4:1, 2) These stewards of the mercies of God have his approval in the use of all earthly things to the forwarding of their spiritual interests. They will not be counted unjust, squanderers as they use their earthly opportunities for advancing their spiritual interests, on the contrary, this will be reckoned to them for wise stewardship, and being found faithful in the use of earthly things in God's service they can safely be entrusted with the greater things of the future. They will be received into the everlasting habitations and be granted a share with Messiah in his glorious Kingdom. They will be entrusted with all of God's favors to be bestowed upon mankind. Their unselfishness in the present time, their willingness to sacrifice will be the basis of the divine approval and glory to follow.

Unfaithfulness in the present time respecting things of trifling value in comparison would mean unfaithfulness in the future great things. Whoever therefore selfishly appropriates to himself the things of which he is steward will not be trusted with the future great things; and whoever is sacrificing will thus demonstrate his faithfulness, his loyalty to God, and to such the greater things will be entrusted. (Z. '14-108; R.5436)

17:1 — OFFENCES — snares, traps.

17:2 — CAST INTO THE SEA — A person thus drowned would lose merely the present life and not the future life. In Millennium after he had awakened he would have full opportunity for enlightenment through and recovery from sin and death. But those who intelligently persecute the followers of Jesus and seek to turn them aside from the way of right, pervert their own conscience and so degrade themselves, that it will be much more difficult for them to come into accord with God. Endanger their own opportunity for lasting life. (Z. '14-125; R.5445)

LITTLE ONES — "One of these little ones which believe in me." We may not suppose that Jesus would unjustly condemn or punish anyone for ignorantly or unintentionally offending his followers, his little ones. We must suppose that he meant to caution those who would deliberately attempt to deceive and ensnare, entrap, discourage his followers. We all have heard instances of deliberate, intentional plotting against the followers of Christ and to whatever extent this may prevail it has indicated the Satanic spirit. Saul of Tarsus was thus ensnared and used for a time, by Satan, and he explains that God had mercy upon him because he did it ignorantly. Had he done it with wilful intelligence we may assume that God would not have had mercy upon him to the extent of a miracle, but he would have continued in his wicked way. (Z. '14-125; R.5445)

17:3 — AND IF HE REPENT, FORGIVE HIM — From this it is evident that some of God's people make the mistake of forgiving transgressions before they repent. It is as much the Lord's command that we rebuke the transgressor, and that we do not forgive him until he turns and repents, as it is his command that we do forgive from the heart when he does turn and repent and if he trespass seventy times seven he should be rebuked as often (either by word or conduct or both), and should repent in words and turn in conduct just as often.

17:4 — THOU SHALT FORGIVE HIM — Our spirit or disposition to forgive anyone should be of the heart, prompted by the spirit of love and brotherly kindness. It should not be forgiveness forced out of us by importunity, nor by the appeals of many nor by pity for the wrongdoer's sufferings or sorrow. It should be there pent up in our hearts, ready to pour forth upon the offender as soon as he repents and gives reasonable evidence of sincerity. God waits to be gracious, desires to pardon sinners (Ezek. 38:11) and such should be our attitude. But God always waits for repentance and never grants his pardon to those who are unrepentant, nor receives them into fellowship as friends. (Psa. 50:16-22)

True God loved us while we were yet sinners (John 3:16; Rom. 5:8) and he does good even to the unthankful, giving sunshine and rain and food to all; but that is a pitying love not a fellowship love, it is the sympathetic love of a benefactor and while we also are to have this pity love, even to our enemies, yet with us, as with God, this can be no more than a pity-love; it cannot be fellowship love—"for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness, and what communion hath light with darkness." (2 Cor. 6:14) "Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness but rather reprove them." (Eph. 5:11) We can still have that benevolence of heart that would not permit even an enemy to die of hunger. "If thine enemy hunger, feed him" (Rom. 12:20)

God's readiness or quickness to forgive and receive into fellowship depends upon the amount of light and favor sinned against. To the ignorant, who know not God's character, he sends his children as ambassadors (colporteurs, evangelists) to tell them of his love and his willingness to forgive their sins through Christ. But in proportion as any have tasted the good Word of God and been made partakers of the Holy Spirit, etc. and have sinned willfully against light and knowledge (Heb. 6:4-6; 10:26-31) in that same proportion God is slow to forgive and will not receive such back into fellowship, except they bring forth works proving their professed repentance to be sincere and God assures us that there is a degree of wilful sin, against full light and ability, that he will never forgive. (1 John 5:16) In this also we should copy our Father. We should be very ready to forgive blunders and errors of either natural or spiritual childhood, and to all the weak and inexperienced, even before they ask we should manifest our willingness to forgive. And this should be proportionate to the ignorance and lack of wilfulness and malice on the part of the transgressor. Where malice, wilfulness and knowledge have been factors in the transgression it is our duty to be proportionately slow to forgive and to require proportionately longer and stronger proofs of repentance. To require less than this is to disobey our Teacher's instructions, and do injury to the transgressor by giving him lax ideas as to his duty. But this is as far as we may go.

Although we may be able to decide what would be a sin unto death against God (1 John 5:16) we may not decide that any transgression against us would be unforgivable, against us there are to be no unpardonable sins. Our imperfect knowledge, as well as our imperfect judgments forbids such a decision. Jesus paid all their debts to us as well as to God (See 1 John 1:9) Jesus by the grace of God tasted death for all (paid the price of every man's natural or inherited imperfections). So let us consider that if God can accept that ransom price as the full satisfaction for all except wilful sins, or the wilful portion of sins, then we can and should do so also. All who have God's Spirit will hold wrong doers responsible only for their wilful share in sins and be ready to forgive and pass over quickly whatever is of Adamic depravity and truly repented of and thereafter shunned.

The length of time we may hold aloof from the erring one must be measured by our willingness to have our Heavenly Father hold aloof from us when we trespass against Him. This is the divine rule of the Lord's prayer. But even then though fully and heartily forgiven, we may not put such an one into a place of the same responsibility as the one from which he fell until we have seen a stronger and truer character developed in him. This would not imply a lack of full forgiveness, but merely a proper caution, not only for our own protection, but also for the good of the one who transgressed and his protection from too strong a temptation of the same kind. (Z. '94-267, 268; R.1693, 1694) See also Matt. 18:21-35 and Mark 11:35, 36.

We should however live above trifles, having the loving generous disposition of heart, a copy of the Father's disposition. In trivial affairs he is to have so much sympathy and love that he will take no notice of the little wrongs, just as God for Christ's sake deals with us, unless it represents knowledge and wilfulness. Such a rule operating among Christians—a determination not to recognize as offense anything not purposely done or intended as offense—would be a great blessing to all—the proper God-like course.

The things meant in Luke 17:3, 4 are not trivial affairs, things of no consequence, are not our evil surmisings of what others meant, not fancied insults, but positive wrongs done us, susceptible of proof on account of which it is our duty kindly, lovingly, wisely to give some proper rebuke, some intimation that we recognize the wrong and that it has grieved us. Then our proper course in Matt. 18:15-17 to rebuke. Our Lord intimates

(John 15:10-14) that disobedience of his commands shows a lack in discipleship. (John 8:31) (Z. '12-67; R.4978)

17:6 — GRAIN OF MUSTARD SEED — See Mark 9 and note.

17:11 — PASSED THROUGH THE MIDST OF SAMARIA AND

GALILEE — It is surmised that this was his last journey toward Jerusalem which ended in his death. His fame had spread abroad. (Z. '14-139; R.5454) The lesson of this incident is gratitude. It is a most reasonable trait of character and is frequently found even in the brute creation. It is impossible to imagine a perfect human being or an angel acceptable to God without this quality. We might almost say the degree of our acceptance with God is measured by our gratitude. It leads to obedience to the divine laws, to self-sacrificing labors in the service of God and automatically has its reward. (Z. '14-139; R.5454)

17:12 — LEPERS — A class greatly to be pitied. Their disease long been considered incurable, and in the Bible is used to symbolize sin. It is an affliction which seems to corrupt the blood. The joints twist, decay and slough off. (Z. '14-139; R.5454)

AFAR OFF — Under the regulations prevailing at the time of Jesus, lepers were forbidden to enter the cities under penalty of 39 strokes of the rod. They had no means of earning a living and were always dependent on the charity of their friends or the public. Nor were they allowed to approach others nearer than about 150 feet for fear of contamination. Theirs was a living death. (Z. '14-139; R.5454)

17:14 — SHOW TO PRIESTS — Jesus though full of compassion, seemed to treat them coldly. According to God's arrangements with the Jews under their Law Covenant they were to have no sickness except as these should represent sins. (Ex. 23:25; 15:26) The priests were to pass judgment upon cases of leprosy to determine whether or not the disease was indeed leprosy. (Lev. 13:14) Our Lord's direction to go show themselves to the Priests implied a healing and suggested that by the time they should reach the priest they would be ready to have him pronounce them clean. They must have had considerable knowledge of the power of Jesus and exercised great faith. (Z. '14-139; R.5454)

So all sinners are afar off from God, by his just Law, decaying and slowly dying. When they cry unto him for mercy, in faith and earnestness, fully convinced that sin is wholly injurious He graciously hears them and points them to his one sufficient means for their cleansing—to Jesus the great High Priest who will judge their case and if honest will heal them.

CLEANSSED AS THEY WENT — We can well imagine with what joy they hastened to have the Priest approve them in order to return to their families and business. Surely they almost ran as they felt the exhilaration of the cleansed blood! (Z. '14-139; R.5454) So when in obedience to the command of God, men go to the Great High Priest, as they obey they are cleansed and they feel and know it and praise the Lord.

17:16 — SAMARITAN — This was a “crumb from the children’s table,” for the “rich man” had not yet died. God’s favor had not yet departed from Israel, either nationally or figuratively. Had the returning one been a Jew instead of a Samaritan no doubt Jesus would have invited him to become one of his disciples. But because he was a Samaritan he said to him “Arise and go thy way thy faith hath made thee whole.” We cannot doubt however that the Lord’s providence followed this grateful Samaritan, and that when the time came for the opening of the door to the Gentiles, he was among those who gladly received the message, and consecrated to become a joint heir with Jesus, (Z. '14-139; R.5454)

The Lepers represent sinners who coming to realize themselves unclean, cry out to the Lord for cleansing, thus acknowledging his greatness and power as the Son of God, through whom alone is forgiveness of sin, and declaring their desire to follow him, persuaded that sin is injurious and resolving thereafter to do the will of God, fighting against sin in themselves.

How many of the tens of thousands whose devotion and faith the Lord has accepted—how many whom he has forgiven, healed, and received according to their profession of discipleship really have become his true followers? How many who have declared to the Lord their desire for forgiveness of sins and promised life long gratitude and devotion to Him, to have his favor, have forgotten their privileges after receiving a blessing have gone, one to his field, another to his merchandise, another to his pleasure, another to formalism! How few have remembered their prayers to the Lord for mercy, their resolutions as to what they would do if their prayers were answered? (Z. '14-140; R.5454)

The Samaritan represented a class of grateful followers of the Lord who seek to give him glory in their thoughts, words and doings, while the majority of those who have similarly received his favor are disposed to pursue the ambitions and pleasures of the present life. (Z. '14-140; R.5454) How many of those whose sins are covered ever come to full consecration; and how many of these stick to their covenant and show their gratitude by their obedience even unto death?

17:20 — WHEN THE KINGDOM OF GOD SHOULD COME — “When will your kingdom appear? How long before you will sit on your throne and your rule be extended to the ends of the earth? After you have answered this question we will ask you others respecting your finances and resources, your own qualifications, subordinate officers, arms supplies, etc. necessary for a world campaign such as you are about to begin.”

THE KINGDOM OF GOD COMETH NOT WITH OBSERVATION —

It will not appear (to the natural eye) at all. It will be an invisible kingdom, it will be everywhere in your midst invisible but all powerful. (N-11-13-10)

17:21 — THE KINGDOM OF GOD IS WITHIN YOU — The kingdom was almost the sole topic of Jesus’ talks. Jews had long expected a time to come when evil would cease because God would take control of earth’s government, that then Israel would be the chief nation and channel for blessing all families of earth. They were waiting for Messiah to come and establish the Kingdom. Hence when Jesus declared the Kingdom was at hand it was a modest way of saying he was the Messiah, ready to begin the kingdom. The Pharisees had no sympathy with him, nor faith in his proclamation. They believed his claim a fraud, and that people were being deceived. So they thought they could get him to commit himself to some set time, they would ask about his soldiers, how train them, how his raw recruits would meet the Roman Veterans, etc. and thus show the people the falsity of his claims. This could not mean that the Kingdom of God was within them, the Pharisees etc. about him. For of them Jesus said Matt. 23:3-33.

17:22 — AND YE SHALL NOT SEE IT — A warning that even when they would long to see their Lord, that they should not expect to see him again with the natural eye, but to look in the Word, and be beware and watch for many would try to deceive them; Satan through his agents.

17:24 — FOR AS THE LIGHTNING — For his presence would be like that of the sun (Sun of Righteousness), which rises in the east and falls first on the mountain tops (and hence will be first recognized by the true Church, who will be ascending Mount Zion and will be housetop saints) and later on the plains and then in all the valleys driving out every gloom and foulness. His presence would not come as expected. It will bring to light all the hidden things of darkness.

SO SHALL ALSO THE SON OF MAN BE IN HIS DAY — So Christ will rise as the sun of righteousness.

17:26 — IN THE DAYS OF THE SON OF MAN — Whatever portion of spiritual truth has entered into an evilly disposed human mind, evils on a gigantic scale have often resulted. Where else in the world can we find more intellectual power than among those who have come in contact with the spirit of the Lord, of the truth. When this spirit of knowledge enters an evil heart evil will result. This now has produced men of renown, men of mental acumen, able to do wonderful things. The remarkable work, inventions of our time, would not have been possible, except for the spirit of the Lord being abroad in the earth. But the general tendency of this evil combination (the spirit of knowledge in an evil heart) has been to produce giants, who walk up and down the land, trusts. As in the days of Noah, so now the giants are getting the control; but now, as then, these giants will be destroyed in the great time of trouble, utterly destroyed. (Mal. 4:1) (Z. '11-109; R.4797) (See Gen. 6, note)

17:27-37 — See Matt. 24.

18:1 — MEN OUGHT ALWAYS TO PRAY, AND NOT TO FAINT — See Luke 11. Do not faint, from lack of zeal or faith when the answer is long delayed, as often it must necessarily be since time is an important element in all God's work, the deep designs of an all-wise and loving Providence. (Z. '10-140, 141; R.4603)

18:25 — FOR A RICH MAN TO ENTER INTO THE KINGDOM OF GOD — That is no rich man, as such, can enter the Kingdom. He must first become poor, sacrificing everything. This would include riches, social, political, financial. Thus whatever his previous condition, he must cease to be rich in his own name, ere he could be accepted by the Lord as fit for the Kingdom. The spirit of the Royal Priesthood must be one of self-sacrifice and not one of self-aggrandizement. Their possessions, whether of knowledge, money, houses or lands must all be consecrated to the Lord, to be used in the divine service, sacrificed as personal belongings if they would have a share with him in the Kingdom. (Z. '06-267; R.3843) (See Mark and Matt.)

18:27 — THE THINGS WHICH ARE IMPOSSIBLE WITH MEN ARE POSSIBLE WITH GOD — For those who have not the faith now, the Lord has arranged the Kingdom opportunities, when the earthly life may be attained without so much sacrifice and sufferings. (Z. '06-267; R.3843)

18:32 — AND SPITEFULLY ENTREATED, AND SPITTED ON — Evidently our Lord realized what a great storm of opposition the awakening of Lazarus had aroused, especially among the Scribes and Pharisees, who sought to put him to death. (Z. '06-268; R.3843)

18:35 — AND IT CAME TO PASS— The feast of the Passover was nigh and the roads leading to Jerusalem had many travellers, who usually went in companies. The blind man sat begging, hoping to excite the sympathy of passers by. In those days there was no special provision for the blind.

18:36 — HE ASKED WHAT IT MEANT — Something evidently attracted his attention to this group, probably its size and the noise of the company.

18:39 — THAT HE SHOULD HOLD HIS PEACE — Thinking perhaps the Great Teacher ought not to be disturbed by a beggar.

THOU SON OF DAVID, HAVE MERCY ON ME — Man had evidently heard of Jesus before, possibly of other blind men healed by him.

18:40 — AND COMMANDED HIM TO BE BROUGHT UNTO HIM — He did not shout for him to come but quietly commanded him to be brought. (Mark 10:46) The incident prefigures how some of the blind class now are brought to the Lord and graciously receive the opening of the eyes of their understanding. Such, in the Lord's provision, hear that Jesus passeth by, and hear something of eternal life, and the opening of eyes which he effects. They seize the opportunity and in faith cry unto the Lord. They think there are many more worthy than themselves of Jesus' attention, but faith holds on till he bids them come. (Z. '06-278,279; R.3847, 3848)

19:17 — HAVE THOU AUTHORITY OVER TEN CITIES — This giving of dominion to his faithful servants, signifies their sharing with him in his Kingdom at the time of its establishment at his second coming. (N-4-7-09)

19:27 — AND SLAY THEM BEFORE ME — Not a literal carnage, but such as we would expect of a God of Love, a slaying of them as enemies. They will not longer be his enemies, for his words as a sharp arrow, as a two-edged sword, as a hammer, will smite and cut them to the heart, and break their stony heart in the time of trouble, and by the just and swift punishments meted out to them all down the Millennium with a view to their correction and development, for he wounds to heal. (Hos. 6:1; also Psa. 45:5 note and Isa. 65:12)

19:38 — AND GLORY IN THE HIGHEST — How different was this entry of Jesus, the Prince of Peace, from the triumphal marches of earthly conquerors and kings! In the excitement of human passion and the prejudice of human minds a special halo of glory has surrounded the world's conquerors. Heroic deeds, valiant conquests, as pictured by historians have a charm. The rising generation reads with thrilling interest of the prowess of Alexander the Great, of the Spartans of Greece, of the Caesars of Rome, and in more modern times of Robert Bruce, Napoleon, Wellington, Generals Grant, Lee, Sherman, Johnson, Sheridan, Stewart. The home comings of all these were triumphal marches, in many cases rendering honor where honor was due.

Nevertheless, the mind's eye necessarily closes against the scenes which led up to such triumphs. We try to forget the millions slain and wounded and other millions of mourning widows and orphans; smoking ruins of homes behind these victorious armies. However necessary war may be at times for the maintenance justice, yet all must concede that the blessings purchased with the sword are procured at terrible cost. From this viewpoint, Jesus the Prince of Peace, followed by an army of saints who are walking in His footsteps, presents a beautiful picture, even to the worldly. These victors, leader and followers, conquer by dying. Thus Jesus said to his followers—“Whosoever will save his life shall lose it; and whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the Gospel’s shall find it,” and also Rom. 12:1. Such a victory through death is difficult for the majority of the people to understand! (Z. '14-206; R.5495)

19:39 — MASTER, REBUKE THY DISCIPLES — Not all were enthusiastic acclaimers of Jesus, a discordant note was heard. Some of those who had come from the city through curiosity criticized the shouting and wondered why Jesus did not rebuke the people for ascribing so great honor to him.

20:9 — A CERTAIN MAN — God, Jehovah (Z. '14-221; R.5505)

PLANTED A VINEYARD — In the world, the Jewish nation was the vineyard, a special and peculiar people bound to him and he to them by the Law Covenant. (Z. '14-221; R.5504) The divine hedge (Matt. 21:33) was the divine promise that as long as the Israelites would be faithful and loyal to God they would be thoroughly protected against their enemies. (Law Covenant) Watch Tower—from this tower watchmen might guard against robbers. So the Lord declared himself to be Israel’s high tower. (2 Sam. 22:3, 51; Psa. 18:2; 61:3; 144:2; Prov. 18:10; Jer. 6:27; Mic. 4:9) Watchmen—the prophets who cried aloud and warned the people from time to time in respect to any and every breaking down of the wall (or Covenant) or partition; for this protection could be broken down only by disloyalty, carelessness, sin on the part of Israel. (Z. '14-221; R.5504)

HUSBANDMEN — The caretakers, the religious leaders. “The Scribes and Pharisees sit in Moses’ seat, all therefore whatsoever they bid you observe, that observe and do.” (Matt. 23:2, 3)

WENT INTO A FAR COUNTRY FOR A LONG TIME — This implies that the arrangement was intended to stand for a long time. (Z. '14-221; R.5505)

20:10 — AND AT THE SEASON — It was only proper to expect that the operation of the Law Covenant would bring good fruitage among the people that through their inability to keep the Law, they would become stronger in character, that these united experiences would make them more reverential, more loyal to God, more earnestly desirous that the typical kingdom should give place to the antitypical one, when the owner would be present, either directly or through some special representatives. (Z. '14-221; R.5505)

AND SENT HIM AWAY EMPTY — These vine-dressers became conceited, got to feeling a proprietary right in the vineyard, acted as though they were the real owners and not merely the owner's servants. Even in their speech they got accustomed to refer to the masses of Israel as the laity and to themselves as the clergy. They referred to the people as "our people," "my people." In others words they failed to glorify God properly and therefore in taking this honor to themselves felt themselves more than the servants of God, honored in being permitted to be vine dressers in his vineyard. (Z.'14-221; R.5505)

20:11 — AND AGAIN HE SENT ANOTHER SERVANT — The prophets. These servants and their messages became tests as respected the love, devotion and loyalty of the vinedressers, and tests of the character development of the people of Israel. (Z.'14-221; R.5505)

AND SENT HIM AWAY EMPTY — Alas, the very ones who should have been glad to welcome the owner's representatives and glad to have manifested to them the fruits of holiness among the people, showed their own disloyalty by mistreating the servants. They reasoned that to acknowledge these servants and their reproofs would mean an acknowledgment that they were only vinedressers, and not in any sense owners, nor a specially preferred class not held responsible under the general law governing all. Their pride and desire to show off before the people led them to mistreat the prophets. (Psa. 105:16) (Z.'14-22; R.5505)

20:13 — THEY WILL REVERENCE HIM WHEN THEY SEE HIM — "Surely they have honesty enough left, they are not yet so wicked and degraded." "Whatever arguments they had against the prophets, such would not hold against the Son." But the spirit of selfishness and conceit is powerful and often leads its dupes to monstrous acts which afterwards appal even themselves. The clerical class reasoned that to whatever extent his cause would prevail, their power over the people, their influence and titles, honors of men, would cease. (Z.'14-122; R.5505)

20:14 — COME, LET US KILL HIM, THAT THE INHERITANCE MAY BE OURS — The prophets declared that eventually the King would send his Son with great blessings and power for the glorification of the vineyard and the widening of its influence in the whole world. The Saducees and some of the Scribes were agnostics, disbelievers in the inspiration of the promises and prophecies. The Pharisees were self-seeking and all were. Jesus styled them money-lovers, and sought chiefly the honors of men instead of God. They saw Jesus' victory would mean the defeat of all the institutions which represented their wisdom and teachings, and determined he must die. His death they thought necessary for the success of their theories and plans because his teachings were so different from theirs. They could not endure the thought that the great institutions which they had so laboriously made would end. (See Mark 12:1-12)

21:19 — IN YOUR PATIENCE — Cheerful endurance, constancy. (Z. '11-409; R.4910) In proportion as we are enabled to realize our own imperfections, and the perfect will of God concerning us, we shall be enabled to bear patiently, and even with a certain kind of rejoicing, all the tribulations which the Master may see best to let come upon us. (Z. '11-409; R.4910)

POSSESS YE YOUR SOULS — Own, control our beings, keep under our bodies and bring every thought into subjection to the will of God in Christ. Possess ourselves. Patiently endure to the end in perfect trust of God.

21:20 — THAT THE DESOLATION THEREOF IS NIGH — The Harvest of the Jewish age commenced in the fall of A.D. 29 and being a period of forty years, ended fall of A.D. 69. In spring of A.D. 70, at time of Passover the Roman Army besieged Jerusalem. The siege lasted about six months and ended in the fall of A.D.70. Thus the great calamity our Lord foretold to Jerusalem did not reach its worst till six months after the end of the Jewish Harvest and continued about six months thereafter, or one whole year after the end of the Jewish Harvest. (Z. '14-207; R.5496)

21:25 — THE SEA AND THE WAVES ROARING — The rich, great, influential are all peering into the future as respects the things coming upon the earth (society) realizing the breaking of the religious influence which hitherto has held mankind and realizing also the growing storm on the sea among the restless of mankind, as represented in Socialism day by day the storm increases; the waves of the sea roll higher in their encroachments on the land (society) and roar louder in their threats and demands. (N-4-12-08)

21:36 — ALL THESE THINGS THAT SHALL COME TO PASS — The Great Company will not be accounted worthy to escape, but will be forced into it. The Little Flock watches and escapes and will stand before the Son of Man and be received as the Bride Class. The Great Company have not shown the proper zeal and spirit of self-sacrifice to enter in with the Bride Class. (Z. '10-245; R.4655)

22:14 — HE SAT DOWN — Matthew uses another word meaning recline at table, from fall back, or rest at table or seat. According to the oriental fashion of eating with the left hand resting on couch. It is remarkable that the Jews themselves ventured to modify the express command to eat the Passover standing with staff in hand. (Ex. 12:11) God had commanded the attitude of standing. The Jewish church, having reached the land of promise, and being there at rest, reclined at the festival, and our Lord conformed to that practice, as proof that positive commands of a ceremonial kind were changed as the ages went on.

22:17 — AND HE TOOK THE CUP — According to Lange this was probably the first cup. The second cup was devoted to the interpretation of the feast. With it Paul connects the exhortation—“As oft as ye drink—ye do show forth the Lord’s death till he come.” The third cup followed the breaking of the loaves and was the cup of thanksgiving. This third cup the Lord used in “this cup is the New Covenant in my blood.” (vs. 20)

22:18 — UNTIL THE KINGDOM OF GOD SHALL COME — It seems that the fourth cup was thus reserved, as the cup of praise, until the kingdom blessings were reached in glory. (See notes in Matt. 27)

22:19 — THIS IS MY BODY — The form of expression here is important, as in Matthew not being the Greek “auros o aptos,” nor “auros o oivos,” but the neuter “touto” in both cases. Not that the bread was his body, but represented his body. (Alford)

22:20 — THIS CUP — See note on verse 19.

22:43 — AN ANGEL UNTO HIM FROM HEAVEN, STRENGTHENING HIM — None of the disciples were there to assure him that he had been without spot or blemish or that every act of his life had been in full conformity to the divine will. Yet God more than made up for this lack. The angel served him in respect to the thing which he feared, therefore had given him assurance from the Father that he had been faithful, that he was approved. (Z. '08-142; R.4168)

22:44 — DROPS OF BLOOD FALLING DOWN TO THE GROUND — Our Lord’s anguish was probably in respect to his own faithfulness, upon which depended his resurrection. If he failed in one little item, one jot or tittle of the Law, his own life would have been condemned and forfeited as much as was Adam’s, and as a result he would have had no resurrection and no future life and the whole work for which he had come into the world had been a failure; he feared that in his weakness of late he might have failed. (See Matt. 26:36-46)

23:1 — AND THE WHOLE MULTITUDE — Another of Jesus’ sayings was now illustrated: “If the light that is in thee become darkness, how great is that darkness!” The Jews had a certain amount of light (much advantage). (Rom. 3:2) Yet the most rabid of the Lord’s foes were the chief priests and rulers, legalized by their learning and official position as those who sat in Moses’ seat. (Matt. 23:2) They thus showed the wisdom of God’s decision that they were not worthy of the kingdom. (Matt. 22:8; Acts. 13:45; 28:25-28) Yet they had not a sufficiency of light to be guilty to the least degree. (Acts 3:17) (Z. '06-363; R.3895)

PILATE — This was early in the morning of the crucifixion day, about 8:00 A.M. The Sanhedrin had met still earlier, and had decided that Jesus was guilty of blasphemy, and of treason to God and to country. This was heard to be proven by his admission before the High Priest that he was God's Son. They were ashamed of him and desired no such king and Savior or Messiah. (vs. 18) They went early to the Judgment Hall, before the news of Jesus' arrest could reach the people, and cause commotion and some of Jesus' friends be roused.

23:2 — SAYING THAT HE HIMSELF IS CHRIST A KING — Notice that these charges are totally different from those made before the Sanhedrin. Their falsity was so evident that Pilate speedily discerned the mind of the Jewish rulers. It was their religious power which seemed in danger, not the civil power of Rome. The multitude, incited by their leaders, shouted the accusations outside. (Z.'06-364; R.3895)

23:4 — THEN SAID PILATE— The chief priests did not go into the Judgment Hall, but remained outside, lest they should be defiled. (John 18:28)

23:8 — SOME MIRACLE DONE BY HIM — Herod thought he might be John the Baptist risen from the dead. (Matt. 14:1, 2)

23:9 — BUT HE ANSWERED NOTHING — There is a time to speak and a time to keep silent, and our Lord was master of the situation. Undoubtedly his silence was more forceful than anything he could have said. Herod was provoked by his silence but dared not belittle himself by showing it.

23:11 — ARRAYED HIM IN A GORGEOUS ROBE — Herod probably regarded Jesus as a pretender and no doubt thought it a stroke of wit to parody his claims of royalty. (Z.'06-364; R.3895)

24:21 — REDEEMED — in Greek meaning to loose by a price. See Titus 2:14; 2 Pet. 1:18,19.

24:43 — AND DID EAT BEFORE THEM — Not because he was hungry but to reassure and quiet them.

24:49 — ENDUED WITH POWER FROM ON HIGH — To many the ten days of tarrying would seem a waste of valuable time. Think of it! 120 of the Lord's people idle for ten days! not preaching or healing nor engaged in any special religious work—neglecting business and money making and all earthly interests as well! What were they doing? In prayer and supplication. What did they want? They already were in relationship to God through faith and permitted to pray to him as their Father. They already knew Jesus and been blessed of him in various ways, and some had been his mouth-pieces. Why tarry? Why pray? Why not go out at once into the vineyard and labor?

If left to themselves they probably would be at work, but they obeyed the Master's Word and "Obedience is better than Sacrifice." They needed to tarry for three reasons: 1) They were incompetent for the work until empowered for it. 2) They could not receive the blessed anointing until first the Redeemer had ascended into heaven "there to appear in the presence of God for us." They were already justified by faith as was Abraham, yet before divine justice could accept them as living sacrifices upon the Lord's altar, it was necessary that the Ransom price should be definitely set over to justice by the Redeemer. This was done during the 10 days of waiting. The outpouring of the Spirit proved the divine acceptance of the merit of Christ presented on their behalf. This permitted their recognition as New Creatures, as sons of God. 3) These ten days of prayer were necessary also to fit and prepare the Lord's disciples for the reception of the Holy Spirit. The human mind resembles a room, the door of which must be opened before any treasures can be put therein. The door symbolizes the will, which must first give consent to whatever enters the mind. And a room that is overstocked has little place for new valuables—the old must be removed that place may be found for the new. Our hearts need to be emptied of their earthly hopes and ambitions, to make room for new riches of God's grace. Ten days were probably none too long for the testing of faith and loving obedience and zeal for the Lord and his cause. As they prayed and fasted doubtless worldly ambitions and hopes and aims vanished from their hearts, leaving them ready for the blessing. (Z. '09-7; R.4306)

JOHN

This is the Gospel of the Flying Eagle (Spirit beings and Spirit begotten) See Prov. 30:18; Isa. 40:31; Exod. 19:4; Matt. 24:28; Job 39:27-30. God's Wisdom and Character revealed.

The idols of the heathen are their conception of God. Their mythology is the passions of men deified. The pagan, though educated, cannot rise above his own level.

To the scientist God is a great first cause, a material God controlling matter. The fanatic has extreme ideas of God. The Pharisee has a narrow view that God will save only a few. (Baxter and Johnathan Edwards)

Reverence of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, His secret is with them that reverence him. There is only one way of approaching God—through the Word. We must come through Jesus to learn God's true character.

(John 6:45) The message of the Son of God was to declare the Love of God. (Acts 15:14; Psa. 22:22; Isa. 43:21; Jer. 23:6; 33:16.)

Chapter 1 — God was expressing himself through the living Word. (2 Cor. 5:18) The Word was the beginning of the creation of God (Rev. 3), the only Begotten, the only direct creation of God. Jesus came bringing a message concerning heavenly things, of things seen before in his pre-existent state. (Prov. 8:30, John 8:38) He came to know the Father perfectly for he was with Him thousands of Years. The power of speech is a great one for evil or good. Jesus' words were Spirit and life (6:63). He spake as never man spake because he was the "Logos." (John 14:9)

"Verily" is much used in John. Jesus is the faithful witness. "The Father showeth the Son all things that himself doeth." John caught some of the Master's manner. See John 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, etc.

Chapter 5 — The Law was centered and fulfilled in Jesus. He is Lord of the Sabbath. Pharisees very strict but did not realize the true Sabbath. In Him is the true rest.

Chapter 6 — Time of the Passover. Jesus the Bread from Heaven. How understand? We must enter the Sanctuary and behold his perfection and assimilate, eat, appropriate to ourselves the merit of his sacrifice as our Redeemer and the satisfaction for our sins.

Chapter 7 — Time of the Feast of Tabernacles. On the Last great day of the feast, eighth day, Jesus stood and cried—"if any man thirst let him come unto me and drink." The Millennium is the seventh 1000-year day and on the eighth the world will enter perfect joy. This was the great day of the feast. The wells of living water (Jesus' true followers, begotten of the Holy Spirit and quickened and developed by its indwelling.)

There are three principal thoughts in John. It is the Gospel of sanctification. Jesus is made unto us wisdom, righteousness, sanctification and deliverance. These three are all given in John's first Epistle 1) God is light (1 John 1:5) (Represented by the candlestick in the Holy); 2) God is life (1 John 1:2) (Represented by the Shew Bread in the Holy); 3) God is love (1 John 4:7, 8) (represented by the Golden Altar in the Holy). q.v. Jesus is the Light of the world. In the sanctified condition we have the light of the candlestick—the light of the Holy Spirit and of the Word. Whosoever discerns that God is light can have no further fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness.

God is life. We have life in us if we eat, appropriate to ourselves, the bread of life. (1 John 5:12, John 7:53,54)

God is love. (1 John 4:16) We can make an atmosphere of love about ourselves, one of pleasure and joy. Our service on the Golden Altar shows our love. We manifest our love in service to all as we have opportunity.

John's Gospel was written after the other three, and to set forth matters not given in the other Gospels. It does not attempt to give a full history of our Lord's ministry in all particulars, but deals chiefly either with matters omitted or details not given by the others.

1:1-14 — These verses are an epitomized statement of the entire plan of God in most comprehensive form, wide enough, deep enough, to furnish food for thought for a score of lessons. (Z. '04-376; R.3474)

1:1 — In Abyssinia there is an officer named Kal Hatze, the word or voice of the king, who stands always upon the steps of the throne, at the side of a lattice window, where there is a hole, covered in the inside with a curtain of green taffeta. Behind this curtain the King sits, and speaks through the aperture to the Kal Hatze, who communicates his command to the officers, judges and attendants. (Bruce's Travels; Diag.; E85) Whether or not this legend be true, it well illustrates the use of this word "Logos" in connection with the prehuman existence of our Lord and Master, and his very grand office as the Father's representative. (E85)

IN THE BEGINNING — Diag.: "In a beginning was the Logos, and the Logos was with God, and a god was the Logos; This was in a beginning with the God."

WAS THE WORD — "This term 'Logos' should be left untranslated for the same reason as the names 'Jesus' and 'Christ' are left untranslated. As every appellation of the Savior of the world was descriptive of some excellencies in his person, nature, or work, so the epithet—Logos—which signifies a word, a spoken word, speech, eloquence, doctrine, reason, or the faculty of reason, is very properly applied to Him. (See 1 John 1:1) This title is a very fitting one by which to describe the very important work or office of our Master, prior to his coming into the world. The Logos was the Heavenly Father's direct expression of creation, while all subsequent expressions of divine wisdom, power and goodness were made through the Logos."

1:4 — IN HIM WAS LIFE — Is not life in every man? No. A death sentence passed upon Adam and was inherited by all his race so from the divine and legal standpoint, the whole race is dead. (2 Cor. 5:14) This statement implies much that Jesus did not receive his life from an earthly father, as did other men, but that his life was transferred from a higher plane, that he left the glory which he had with the Father before the world was, humbled himself, took a bondman's form, was made in the likeness of sinful flesh and found in fashion as a man. (Phil. 2:8) Hence because of this life he alone could be man's redeemer. (Job 33:24) as foretold, all others were under condemnation and one condemned life could not be substituted for another. Hence the necessity that Jesus die for all.

Also at baptism Jesus received a begetting to a spirit life, to the divine nature which was born at his Resurrection, and this divine nature Jesus will be used of the Father to give to as many as is the Father's good pleasure. (2 Cor. 3:17; Col. 3:4; John 5:26; 10:28; 17:2) (Z. '08-89; R.4155)

THE LIGHT OF MEN — This refers to both the lives of Jesus, his perfect human life and his spirit begotten life. The perfection of manhood was the light of men in his day. Doubtless it had much to do with his popularity with the common people, full of grace in form, manner and speech. He was full of truth in the sense that his life was not biased, warped; he was not born in sin nor shapen in iniquity. But the New Creature, shining through Jesus in perfect accord with his perfect flesh made him a most wonderful one. It shone forth as a burning lamp, reflecting the divine character in all Jesus' thoughts, words, and doings, and enabled him to speak out to his fellow men who had ears to hear the wonderful words of life. (John 6:63) It enabled him to grasp the divine plan and appreciate the pathway leading unto glory, honor, and immortality, and to point it out to his followers. In him was fulfilled the prophecy—"Thou wilt show him the path of life." (Psa. 16:11) In full harmony with this double application we read (2 Tim. 1:10) "Jesus brought life and immortality to life through the Gospel." He personally represented and illustrated the perfection of human life to be restored to the race; and also immortality, the divine nature for the church. (Z. '08-89,90; R.4154, 4155)

LIGHT — Hope, intelligence, instruction. His holiness of heart, full obedience to the Father's will, loyalty to every principle of righteousness. His manifestation of divine character, no less than the words of instruction which he spake "as never man spake" all attest that he was a great light amongst men, a light which has ever since been shining not only through his recorded words but through the lives of his disciples. (Z. '04-376; R.3474)

1:5 — LIGHT SHINETH IN DARKNESS — The whole world lieth in darkness. (Eph. 6:12)

AND THE DARKNESS COMPREHENDED IT NOT — Because their eyes were blinded. Darkness cannot appreciate the light, a darkened mind cannot understand the ways of righteousness.

1:9 — TRUE LIGHT — The Church in the flesh will be no more successful in converting the world than was our Master.

1:12 — EVEN TO THEM THAT BELIEVE ON HIS NAME — The Jews never claimed to be Sons of God, nor are they referred to in Scripture as such. No greater dignity than servants of God, Most High, could possibly have been dreamed of up to the time when the Lord himself announced the privilege of Sonship, to the new nature. We remember the Jews sought to stone Jesus simply because he claimed to be a Son of God. (Z. '04-377; R.3475)

1:13 — BORN — Should be begotten, the word born is here erroneous and misleading. Wescott says "Literally begotten, as in 1 John 2:29 and 3:9." The begetting power is not of heredity, not of blood, not of the will of the flesh directly or indirectly. God alone does this begetting. (Z. '04-377; R.3475)

1:14 — MADE FLESH — A totally different thought from that expressed in the creeds when they speak of Jesus as "incarnate." To be incarnate would be to get into flesh, as though the flesh were merely a garment or covering. He was made flesh, or (R.V.) became flesh; see Rom. 1:3; Gal. 4:4. (Z. '04-377; R.3475)

DWELT — Tabernacled or tented, only a temporary dwelling, Jesus was made flesh, not that he forever might remain a human being, but for a time. (1 Cor. 15:50) (Z. '04-377; R.3475)

GLORY — Means dignity, honor. The grandeur, perfection, nobility of the "man Christ Jesus"—a perfection and glory seen in no other human being, because all others were sinners, while He by virtue of special birth, as "holy, harmless, and undefiled, separate from sinners." The word glory here represents the same thought as in Psa.8:5 and Heb. 2:6-8. Jesus was crowned with glory and honor and Human perfection in the days of His flesh; and his disciples beheld this dignity of human perfection which marked our Lord as separate and distinct from all others and they recognized it as differentiating him from the world of sinners, marking him as the "Only Begotten of the Father" abounding in every desirable quality and characteristic. (Z. '04-377; R.3475)

1:19 — WHO ART THOU? — As all were expecting the Messiah (Luke 3:15) and false Messiahs had arisen. (Acts 5:35-37) Seeing this it is not surprising that the Jews urged the leaders of the nation to interview John and advise them respecting his message. (Z. '04-377; R.3475)

1:20 — I AM NOT THE CHRIST — John's work was to call attention to Christ and give the Jews a ground for faith in Jesus as the light and life of the world. (Z. '04-377; R.3475)

1:21 — AND HE SAITH, I AM NOT — Note that our Lord stated that John was the Elijah. The explanation is that John was a finishing out in a measure of the type begun in Elijah in person and work. (Z. '04-380; R.3477)

THAT PROPHET — Foretold by Moses in Deut. 18:15-19. Lessons of humility as well as zeal and faithfulness. Not only did he make the preaching of the Gospel the chief object of life, to the extent of carelessness re all the interests of this life, but he boasted nothing of himself. His main mission was to prepare the people for the Messiah and point them to Him and our success as members of the antitypical Elijah will be in proportion as self is ignored and Christ made the theme of our discourses, the center of our teaching. (Z. '04-380; R.3477)

1:23 — I AM THE VOICE — John was very particular not to take to himself any honor regarding these matters, but declared plainly that his mission was to introduce the Messiah, and as soon as he received from God the witness that Jesus was the expectant one, John made haste to proclaim the Lord, saying he himself was unworthy even to unfasten the Master's shoes. So faithful was John's testimony that many of his disciples forsook him and became followers of Jesus. (Z. '04-380; R.3744) Humbly and faithfully John declared he was a nameless voice calling attention to the great Messiah and heralding his coming, declaring that a way must be prepared for the coming of the Kingdom for which Israel had been hoping and praying for centuries. (See Luke 3)

1:25 — NEITHER THAT PROPHET? — It is the worldly idea and also the Nominal church idea that all associated with religious teaching should make some great boast or claim that they are wonderful prophets, or doctors of divinity or something else above the ordinary. The Priests and Levites, accustomed to that sort of thing were surprised that John made no such claim and based his preaching on no such claim. They inquired what right then he had to baptize at all if he were merely a servant and not a lord over God's heritage. The same thought prevails today, unless some boastful title or position of authority is claimed the right to preach, to witness in public for the Lord is questioned by many. Let us who have followed carefully the Scriptural proprieties in such matters boast nothing, but rather as John and Jesus, let our boasts be that we are merely servants and not lords, merely witnesses, not great or honorable or reverend. By and by when the Master's view shall be expressed, He will show that those who sought to exalt themselves failed to receive his approval while those who humbled themselves seeking only privileges of service have his commendation. (Luke 22:24-26; Matt. 20:25-28) (Z. '04-380; R.3477) Our faithfulness in witnessing to the Lord will be the test of our worthiness as members of his glorified Body.

1:27 — WHOSE SHOE'S LATCHET I AM NOT WORTHY TO

UNLOOSE — What John did in the way of baptism was insignificant in comparison with the Messiah's work and baptism with the Holy Spirit.

1:29 — BEHOLD THE LAMB OF GOD — This was John's formal proclamation of Jesus. It occurred at least 42 days after our Lord's baptism, for immediately following Jesus' baptism, Jesus went into the wilderness for 40 days. Shortly after this (2:1) Jesus left the vicinity so that for a time a simultaneous work by John and Jesus was going on in different localities. (Z. '04-380; R.3477)

LAMB OF GOD — In the ears of the unregenerate such a title as a lamb would not sound very dignified. Among the coats of arms of chivalry such emblems as wolves, bulls lions, etc. are freely used to represent the strength of the families in power. So we must point the world to the great sacrifice for sins, not to Christ as merely a teacher. No instruction can be rightly received until first our Lord is accepted as the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world that taketh away the sin of the world.

WHICH TAKETH AWAY — Not which took away. The entire sacrifice of Christ was necessary as the offset price for the sins of the world to justice. (Z. '04-381; R.3477)

SINS OF THE WORLD — Not merely sins of the church. Jesus returned to John, seeking companionship with those nearest to God and waiting for divine providence to guide in his affairs. (Z. '04-381; R.3478)

1:33 — KNEW HIM NOT — Should not be understood to mean that he did not know that Jesus was his own cousin, or that the two were not acquainted previously, but that John knew Jesus not as the Messiah previously. (Z. '04-381; R.3478)

1:34 — BARE RECORD — John probably bore this record before his disciples.

1:35 — TWO OF HIS DISCIPLES — These were Andrew and John. John does not mention the other disciple, but this seems to have been his modest style of omitting any mention of himself.

1:36 — BEHOLD THE LAMB OF GOD — Even John did not know in what sense Jesus was the Lamb of God. The Jews were unable to appreciate what he meant. Though the Jews offered the typical sacrifices every year, no Jew had the least idea what it meant. John was a prophet and one of the greatest of the prophets. This verse shows John's faithfulness.

1:37 — AND THEY FOLLOWED JESUS — They sought Jesus and inquired where he lived (vs. 38). They had been with John because he was a reformer. But when he declared there was one among them greater than he they wondered who this great one was. So they kept on the lookout. They began to discern in some sense of the word that this gentle one, unapproved one, uncombative one was he who would take away the sins of the people. There was merely John's word for it, but they believed him to be a prophet of the Lord; and as soon as they had this intimation that Jesus was the Lamb of God, greater than John, they left John and became disciples of Jesus. Others did not appreciate these things so much and remained with John, perhaps becoming the disciples of Jesus after John was dead. This was not at the Passover season, and so did not allude to the passover lamb. (Luke 3:23) (Z. '11-29; R.4750)

1:38 — RABBI . . . WHERE DWELLEST THOU? — Their object was to learn of him, to learn what further blessings the Lord had and what further service than what they had under John the Baptist. They desired the best that could be had. They had not the partisan spirit to say—“We belong to John the Baptist and must stand up for him” as some of the Lord's dear people are inclined to do in respect to the various denominations. There were some of John's disciples who heard the testimony about Jesus, but who did not seek to become followers of the Lamb of God, being content to remain John's disciples. We may properly suppose that being content with the lesser privileges and blessings they were not so worthy of the higher ones. Doubtless they never became Apostles, but some of them probably became Jesus' disciples after John's imprisonment. (Z. '05-7; R.3482)

1:39 — ABODE WITH HIM — The two spent the remainder of the day with Jesus and doubtless learned much to their comfort and joy and to establish their faith. They abode with him. This may mean a temporary stay of one day but they evidently remained with the Lord as his disciples to the very end of life. (Z. '05-7; R.3482)

1:41 — HE FIRST FINDETH HIS OWN BROTHER — On the basis of that brief acquaintance John and Andrew started forthwith to bring others to the Master. The Greek text intimated that both started out to find each his own brother and bring him to the Lord; that Andrew found his brother first which implies that John found his brother later. Several points here are worth noting. 1) Andrew and John were not content to have the Lord's blessing alone, but they wanted to make it known. 2) They did not attempt to influence others until they were fully satisfied themselves and could give a definite, positive message saying “We have found the Messiah, the Christ.” 3) They did not go to benighted heathen speaking a different language from their own, but thought first of all about their own brethren—according to the flesh and here brethren also in religious effort. Our lesson is that our first duties lie toward those who are near to us as neighbors, friends, and especially members of our own family circles. With these we should begin the proclamation of the Messiah, whom we have found and then after they have heard or failed to hear, we should proclaim the message to the next in turn and so on.

This is the very method we are using now, and to which some of our dear friends in the various denominations object. They say—Take your tracts and book to the heathen. We reply the message should go first of all to those who ought to be most ready for it. They answer they have Moses and the Prophets and the creeds of the dark ages. But the doctrines of the dark ages disclose but obscurely the real plan of God and his character, the real Messiah and his work. We would help all who have ears to hear and hearts to appreciate the love of God with us. We seek to cultivate the best fields and find them near at home. But as the numbers and implements increase we extend operations in the name of the Lord, with the firm conviction that during this harvest time he will ultimately find every one fitted to be a disciple. Remarkably few Christians know our Lord to be the Messiah at all—the greatest prophet, priest and king who was to bless all the families of earth. (Z. '05-7; R.3481)

Note the various methods of bringing blessings to different persons—John the Baptist announced Jesus as the Messiah, Andrew and John heard him and sought our Lord. In turn they sought Peter and James, and note the third method in Philip's case, whom the Lord himself found. (Z. '05-9: R.3483)

1:43 — JESUS . . . FINDETH PHILIP — Particulars are not given, but we may be sure that in all these various findings our Lord himself supervised. We are not to imagine the Gospel work left to chance. The Lord knoweth the heart. The truth is specially sent to the truth hungry. All of us may safely say the Lord found us, else we would not be where we are or what we are. (Z. '05-7; R.3483)

1:45 — PHILIP FINDETH NATHANAEL — Nathanael's case was still different, but being naturally skeptical he feared that his friend was being led astray by a false hope to follow a false Messiah. Briefly, Philip's message to him was—"We have found him of whom Moses and the Prophets wrote, Jesus of Nazareth." Since Nazareth did not have a savory reputation for wisdom and piety, Nathanael skeptically replied—"Can . . ." (Z. '05-7; R.3483)

1:46 — CAN THERE ANY GOOD THING COME OUT OF NAZARETH?
— All along in every sense of the word, the Lord has permitted his Truth and plan to come through channels more or less impaired. (See Luke 10:21.) The Lord hides his truth in the sense of permitting it to come through unpopular channels. Sometimes the unpopularity is deserved and sometimes undeserved. But it always serves to keep away the ones not in the right attitude of heart. The pure in heart are never stumbled by these matters, for the Lord will help them over these difficulties as he did Nathanael. (Z. '05-9; R.3483)

COME AND SEE — Test the matter for yourself if you are not satisfied, I have nothing more to say. From this we may reasonably assume that Philip was a man whose word and general character had weight, one not given to foolishness of thought, word, or conduct; otherwise Nathanael would have thought—"I knew you to be rather flighty always going off on a tangent," or "You are a man of poor moral character, and whatever would commend itself to you would be discredited in my judgment in advance." Alas that such arguments should be forceful against some of the Lord's followers who presume to invite others to Him. In several instances the present truth has been much injured by being advocated by some who were not of good character, as well as by some who were not wise. It would be in the interest of the Truth that any such who have given their hearts to the Lord, and who therefore have passed from the foolish and sinful condition into the justified relationships, should make well known the fact of their thorough conversion from sin to righteousness, folly to wisdom, before beginning to invite their neighbors and friends to the Lord. Repentance and reformation are therefore placed in the forefront of the instructions given us in the word about our discipleship and service. (Psa. 50:16-18) (Z. '05-9; R.3483)

1:47 — IN WHOM IS NO GUILF — Jesus made the way very clear for faith to accept. This suggests that at proper times it is entirely right for us to explain our appreciation and confidence in the religious character of those with whom we are conversing. We are neither to think nor manifest any doubt of the sincerity of those who are not fully with us in every point of faith. Contrariwise, we are to expect that anyone whom we may expect to find interested in God's message must beforehand be an Israelite in whom is no guile; otherwise the truth would not appeal to his heart and the Lord would not bless him in connection with our service and message. (Z. '05-9; R.3483)

1:48 — NATHANAEL SAID — Evidently Nathanael thought our Lord was flattering him; for at first he rather repelled this forwardness of Jesus to speak of him in such praise without a knowledge of him. (Z. '05-9; R.3483)

BEFORE THAT PHILIP CALLED THEE . . . I SAW THEE — Showing the divine care over all in the right attitude of heart, and indicates that the Lord himself has the direction of His message and ministers, that they may find all the true wheat. So we have every assurance that not even one grain will be left with the tares of the field, but all will be gathered into the barn condition of glory. (Matt. 13:30) (Z. '05-9; R.3483)

1:49 — THOU ART THE KING OF ISRAEL — Doubtless Nathanael had already heard that Philip had accepted the one proclaimed to be the Messiah. Doubtless he was fearful for himself as well as for Philip and had gone to a fig tree as a closet for prayer; the fig tree has foliage which hangs low making it a very suitable place for privacy. Evidently Nathanael prayed for wisdom and guidance, protection from deception that he might not be misled into following a false Messiah; and now to hear Jesus refer to his very prayer of which not a soul in the world had any knowledge, meant to Nathanael that the Lord had supervised the matter and had full knowledge of all his affairs. Therefore he had an assurance that Jesus was none other than the Son of God, the King of Israel. (Z.'05-10; R.3483)

1:51 — ANGELS OF GOD ASCENDING AND DESCENDING UPON THE SON OF MAN — See D629. Was not Jacob's dream of the ladder, a prophecy foreshowing the close communion between the Heavenly Kingdom and the world, in which work, as one of the communicating messengers, Jacob himself was to have a share in the blessing of the world? We believe it was so intended.

Jesus himself was the ladder upon which communication between heaven and earth will be re-established. As our understanding opens we see this angel of divine love and mercy, forgiveness; and upon this same ladder are messages returned to our Father—our prayers. We receive the incoming message and messengers and send back the outgoing, upon the Son of Man, through whom alone we have access to the Father and receive through him the exceeding great and precious things. (Z.'05-10; R.3483)

2:1 — AND THE THIRD DAY — The marriage of Jesus and the Church will be on the third thousand-year day from the time of the first advent. This marriage was a picture of the marriage of the Lamb and the feast.

2:3 — THEY HAVE NO WINE — When Man's feast fails the Son of God will bring forth the better wine.

2:7 — AND THEY FILLED THEM UP TO THE BRIM — Many vessels were filled with water (truth). The water was turned into wine representing the fullness of joy for the church and the world.

2:19 — DESTROY THIS TEMPLE, AND IN THREE DAYS I WILL RAISE IT UP — The Apostle assures us that the Church is the temple of the living God, and that it is the body of Christ under Jesus its head. (1 Cor. 3:16, 17; 2 Cor. 6:16; Eph. 1:22, 23; 1 Peter 2:5) Various agencies have been in antagonism with the Church, and her Lord for the two days mentioned, the fifth 1000-year period and the sixth 1000-year period and it still continues while we are in the seventh 1000-year period. But the Lord's promise is that now shortly the temple, the Church, his body, shall be complete, and he will raise it up, raise it from ruin, raise it to the perfection and glory of the Millennial Kingdom. (Z.'02-287; R.3079) See Josh. 1:1-11.

2:21 — TEMPLE OF HIS BODY — See note on verse 19.

3:16 — FOR GOD SO LOVED THE WORLD — God's love for sinners was so great that he would not allow them to have everlasting life, because that would mean to them everlasting imperfection, sorrow, etc. He not only had the passive love for sinners which would not arrange for their eternal suffering through a perpetuation of life out of harmony with himself, but he had the active love which arranged for their recovery out of sin and death conditions.

HE GAVE HIS ONLY BEGOTTEN SON — God did not compel his Son to die for us, but rather he set before him a great prize, so that Jesus counted it all joy (Heb. 12:2) to lay down his life, that he might be the Heavenly bridegroom to the Church and the Mediator of the New Covenant for Israel and the world, and thus be the Savior and owner of the race. How wise, how just are God's arrangements! Though he possesses all power, yet he would not infract the rights or liberties of even the most humble of his creatures, much less the rights of his only begotten son, our Lord.

THAT WHOSOEVER BELIEVETH IN HIM — He proposes the largest possible blessing in the wisest way. He will not justify the Heathen through ignorance, nor justify wilful rebels; but he limits his favor to two conditions (1) The blessing through his Son shall go only to those who desire to come into harmony with divine laws as obedient children. (2) It shall go only to those who intelligently know of it and by faith accept it.

SHOULD NOT PERISH — Perishing means perishing, to lose life, to become extinct. Man originally made in God's image was prepared for eternal life, but sinning, he forfeited those God-given rights. He came under a sentence of death—that he should perish as the brute beasts. Hence his only hope of a future life was and is in a Redeemer and the resurrection which his sacrifice has secured. The text shows that God saw that in the race of Adam there would be many who, if they understood the light and truth and had it in contrast with the wrong, would be glad to return to harmony with God—glad to accept of Christ and the restitution privileges and blessings, to come into full accord with the Almighty and with Jesus, and to have back the life rights forfeited by father Adam. Hence God's provision for the race as a whole—that they might not perish as the brute beast, but attain to eternal life again. But God wants none who will not come into harmony with him and have a fixity of character, that there should be no further outbreak of sin throughout all eternity. When this arrangement is completed it will mean the highest possible blessing for every creature—eternal life, eternal joy for all in harmony with God; and death eternal, “everlasting destruction” for all the enemies of God. (N-4-25-09)

3:29 — THE FRIEND OF THE BRIDEGROOM — John realized that he himself was not eligible to this bride class, yet rejoiced in the privilege of announcing the Bridegroom. (Z. '10-7; R.4543)

4:14 — INTO EVERLASTING LIFE — Jesus refers here not merely to a begetting but to an indwelling of the Spirit, as possible and necessary. The Word must dwell, abide in us. “Over the freshest and purest of earthly fountains, the hand that never makes a mistake has written—He that drinketh of these waters shall thirst again. “The inevitable thirst and weariness in life can only be satisfied and rested in full consecration to God.”

5:2 — NOW THERE IS AT JERUSALEM — It is noticeable here that it was to only one of the many halt, maimed, and blind which thronged the porches that Jesus said words like these and healed him; that the man was not a believer is shown by verse 13, that he was not a saint is shown by verse 14.

5:4 — WAS MADE WHOLE — Such a phenomenon as this troubling of the waters is seen daily at the Virgin’s Fountain and at the Pool of Siloam. Somewhere far underground beneath Jerusalem, where the water which supplies these fountains collects there is probably a great reservoir shaped by nature into the form of a siphon. Periodically, generally two or three times a day, the water comes gushing into the Virgin’s Fountain and thence through the tunnel into the pool of Siloam, as though as hidden store had suddenly let loose. This break of nature has never been discovered, but the signs are conclusive that the waters build up slowly until it overtops some bend in the outlet and then the whole accumulation siphons away. The situation of the pool of Bethesda is not established with certainty, even though it proves to have been in some other part of the city the probabilities are that its supply is from the same source as Hezekiah’s pools, and the “troubling of the waters” occur there, just as today it still occurs while the villagers of Siloam satisfy their needs at the place made famous by Judah’s pious king. (B.S.M.)

5:25 — THE HOUR IS COMING — The time for the majority of the world to hear this voice is in the Millennium, when all the blind eyes shall be opened, shall see out of obscurity, and the deaf ears be unstopped, when the knowledge of God’s glory shall fill the earth.

THE HOUR IS COMING, AND NOW IS — This hour is not only a coming one, it began in the beginning of the Gospel age in a very limited measure. Some hear now, though very few, and to these a special blessing comes, the privilege of becoming members of Jesus. (Sermon)

WHEN THE DEAD — Dead world of men, (2 Cor. 5:14), some hear now, others later.

5:28 — FOR THE HOUR IS COMING — See note in verse 25 on the phrase—“The hour is coming, and now is.”

5:29 — THEY THAT HAVE DONE GOOD, UNTO THE RESURRECTION OF LIFE; AND THEY THAT HAVE DONE EVIL, UNTO THE RESURRECTION OF DAMNATION — By Judgments (R.V. and Diag.) They will come forth free from the Adamic condemnation in a judicial sense, but nevertheless with the weaknesses of the fall still upon them, and they will be required to cooperate with the Lord in their own uplifting during the Millennium. The Great King of Glory, with all power in heaven and earth, could not, if he chose, lift them at once from their degradation and all that was lost, because the gradual uplifting and their own cooperation in the Divine program so arranged, will be the most helpful way way—because the learning of righteousness by the process of climbing up out of conditions of imperfection will impress its principles the more thoroughly. (N-5-9-09)

6:1 — WHICH IS THE SEA OF TIBERIAS — Philip lived not far distant (John 1:44) He was the proper person on that account. But probably our Lord had another reason for questioning him. Philip seems to have been of a business turn of mind, and although this is an excellent disposition to have among the Lord’s followers, nevertheless it is inclined to think of earthly means rather than to exercise faith in the Lord. Probably the Master wished to awaken Philip’s thought and especially to bring him profitable instruction and faith through this miracle. (Z. ’05-43; R.3502)

6:3 —THERE HE SAT WITH HIS DISCIPLES — Jesus’ preaching, teaching, and travelling were practically continuous. His hearers, going and coming from morning till night left him little opportunity for privacy and rest. He was quite willing thus to lay down his life in feeding the sheep, not only exhausting his vitality through healing the diseases of the people, but also through the exhortations and public speaking, which are particularly enervating when done in the open air, and when prolonged.

6:5 — WHEN JESUS THEN LIFTED UP HIS EYES — This is the only miracle that is recorded and particularly described in all four of the Gospels. This act brings out some features not so clearly presented in the other three. (Z. ’05-43; R.3502) Jesus was leaving Galilee at this time (See Matt. 14:1-22; Luke 9:10-17; Mark 6:30-45) for several reasons. (See notes Mark 6)

6:6 — AND THIS HE SAID TO PROVE HIM — How did Jesus thus prove Philip?

6:7 — TWO HUNDRED PENNYWORTH OF BREAD — His answer shows a business trait. While all the various casts of mind are found among the Lord's people, the business head is among the most useful if kept under proper restraints of love and faith—love that it may not permit business instincts to take sole charge of spiritual affairs; and faith that it may be able to realize that although business methods are excellent in all the affairs of life, yet they must on no account be permitted to ignore faith in the Lord and in the power of his might, and in the loving interest he takes in all the affairs of His Church. (Z. '05-44; R.3503)

6:9 — BUT WHAT ARE THEY AMONG SO MANY — Andrew's mind seems to have been less practical than Philip's. Hardly had he made the remark when he felt ashamed of it and so he added "But what are they among so many?" Philip's mind was too practical to have even thought of such a morsel of food in connection with so large a company. (Z. '04-44; R.3503)

6:10 — AND JESUS SAID, MAKE THE MEN SIT DOWN — Jesus had use not only for the broader mind of Philip, but also the more simple and less logical mind of Andrew. The lesson—all the good suggestions, all the helpful ones which make for the interests of the church do not always come from one quarter; but often our Lord uses the stammering lips and illogical reasoning of some of his followers as the basis of blessing to themselves and others. Just as he used Andrew's seemingly foolish remark. Again—our Lord seems always to have made use of whatever was at hand. He could have turned stones into bread and therewith fed the multitude. He could have ignored the little supply on hand as insufficient. But this was not his method. So we should learn not to despise the little things but to use them as far as possible. (Zech. 4:10) "He that is faithful in that which is least, is faithful also in much." (Luke 16:10) Again—miracles are to be expected only after we have done all in our power with the means at hand. The old sailor had the right idea who said that if he were certain that the Lord had commanded him to jump through a stone wall, he would jump at the wall, and leave to the Lord all that was beyond his power. So with us. We are to make sure we are in the Lord's way, then we are to follow his directions and to leave all the results with him, assured of his ability to work any miracle. (Z. '05-44; R.3503) See Mark 6 and Matt. 14.

6:14 — THAT PROPHET — The Prophet that Moses spoke of. (Deut. 18:18, 19, 15) They did not seem to connect this with the Christ. (See John 7:40, 41, 42) By many however the miracle was only partially appreciated. Doubtless they viewed it as an indication that if Jesus was proclaimed King he could supply his soldiers without a commissary dept.; and that if he could do so, he could also give them victory under all circumstances and conditions. This was true but not as the natural Israelites supposed. Our Lord gives us the victory now over sin and selfishness (the root of our troubles and hunger). As we seek to walk in his steps he leads us on from one achievement to another, and all along the way he feeds us with the bread of Heaven. In due time he will become the great King of the world, and his ability to feed (Micah 5:4) and to subjugate Satan and all the powers of evil will be fully manifest. (1 Cor. 15:25) Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened, the eyes which cannot see the things of faith; and the ears of the deaf be unstopped, the ears which cannot hear the message of faith. (Z. '05-44; R.3503)

6:44 — I WILL RAISE HIM UP AT THE LAST DAY — Yet that our Redeemer is not our Father or giver of our spiritual life is evident both from reason and scripture. Our Lord left his prehuman Spirit nature and its glory and all when he became a man. He did not give that Spirit nature to us or to others, but merely was transferred or transformed to a lower nature (human) for the suffering of death. It was earthly life rights only that Jesus had to give away when he ascended. On this subject see (old) E229, 230, 159, 467; (new) E210-212, 143, 144, 456. (Z. '09-364; Z. '10-54; R.4528; R.4556)

Begotten of God: 1 Pet. 1:3; 1 John 5:18; 1 Cor. 8:6; Rom. 8:15,16; John 20:17; John 1:13; James 1:18.

Begotten through Christ: Titus 3:6; Rom. 6:23; John 14:6; 6:40,44,39,54; John 5:21,26; 16:2; 10:28.

6:51 — THE BREAD THAT I WILL GIVE IS MY FLESH — Jesus had to convert his humanity into negotiable bonds—merit. We now have that merit to our credit, imputed to us; and as we convert these we will by and by when faithful receive the divine nature and the perfect human rights of Jesus will again be free to be given, this time for the world.

6:66 — AND WALKED NO MORE WITH HIM — We are assured in the infallible word of God, that those who love the Lord and who are to receive the Kingdom will have their love tested by trials and temptations on the way to that Kingdom. Those who do not love the Lord with all their hearts, in whom self or some other idol has first place, will be seduced by the world, the flesh or the Devil into some form of rebellion against the divine Word or the divine providences. They will have schemes and theories, desires which they will prefer to the Lord's plan and way, and their schemes when analyzed will usually be found to be based either upon selfishness or ambition or upon an evil spirit of envy, hatred, or jealousy, etc. The Lord's leading and the Lord's words lose their attraction to such and they lose their interest correspondingly. (Z. '14-149,215; R.5459; 5499)

6:68 — THOU HAST THE WORDS OF ETERNAL LIFE — These have learned that the call of the world, the promptings of the flesh and the arts of the Adversary are all snares and traps and pitfalls to drag them down to death. They have learned the sound of the true shepherd's voice, and cannot be enticed by the voice of strangers.

7:1 — BECAUSE THE JEWS SOUGHT TO KILL HIM — While our Lord realized that his life was under divine protection until his hour should come, nevertheless it would appear that He did not tempt providence by going unnecessarily in the way of danger, but rather shaped his course according to conditions he found. Thus too he told his disciples. (Z. '05-56; R.3509)

7:2 — FEAST OF TABERNACLES WAS AT HAND — This was the last feast of Tabernacles attended by our Lord, just six months before his crucifixion, probably six months or a year and six months later than the feeding of the 5000 at a time when many of them were on their way to Jerusalem to keep the Passover. (Z. '05-56; R.3509)

7:5 — HIS BRETHREN — (Relatives, probably his cousins for cousins at that time were called brethren) seemed to doubt his Messiahship and urged him to go up to Jerusalem and perform his mighty works there where the most learned men of the nation would have the opportunity of criticizing and faultfinding and if possible refuting his claims and miracles. (Z. '05-56; R.3509)

7:8 — FOR MY TIME IS NOT YET FULL COME — For our Lord to have gone up to the feast early might have provoked the animosity of the religious teachers the more. (Z. '05-56; R.3509)

7:14 — JESUS WENT UP INTO THE TEMPLE, AND TAUGHT — Probably about or a little after mid-week. (Z. '05-56; R.3509)

7:37 — THAT GREAT DAY OF THE FEAST — The last of these seven days of the feast of Tabernacles. It was in it that the entire festival ceremony and rejoicing reached its climax. From Edersheim and others: "According to Jewish tradition the pillar of cloud by day and of fire by night, symbol of God's presence and guidance, at first appeared to Israel on the 15th of Tisri, the first day of the feast. On that day Moses was said to have come down from the mount and announced to the people that the tabernacle of God was to be reared among them. The dedication of Solomon's Temple and the descent of the Shekinah glory upon it took place at this feast. (1 Kings 8; 2 Chron. 7) The last great day of the feast was the climax of all this symbolization. Early in the morning the people, with the Paradise apple (orange) in their left hands and branches in their right hands, marched to the sound of music in a procession headed by the priest who bore a golden pitcher to draw water from the pool of Siloam, south of the Temple. The priest having filled the golden pitcher at this fountain, brought it back into the courts of the Temple amid the shouts of the people and the sound of cymbals and trumpets. The return was so timed that the procession should arrive just as other priests were laying the pieces of the sacrifices on the altar of burnt offering toward the close of the ordinary sacrifice-service. On each of the seven days the priest made a circuit of the Altar, saying—‘O, then, now work Salvation, Jah! O, Jah, give prosperity.’ But on the seventh day they made the circuit seven times remembering the walls of Jericho had fallen in circumstances and anticipating that by the direct interposition of God the walls of Heathendom would fall before Jehovah and the world lie open before his people to go in and possess it. The golden pitcher full of water was then poured on the altar. The ceremony was considered of vital importance and apparently symbolized the out-pouring of the Holy Spirit. Immediately following the pouring of this water the Hallel was sung. This consists of Psalms 113-118. These were chanted, with responses to the accompaniment of the flute. As the Levites intoned the first line of the Psalm, the people repeated it. While to each of the other lines they responded—Halleluyah (praise ye the Lord). Then the priests blew a three-fold blast on their silver trumpets.” (Z. '05-56; R.3509)

JESUS STOOD AND CRIED, SAYING — It is supposed that it is just at the close of the pouring of the golden pitcher full of water on the altar a libation to the Lord, and while the multitude in the warm climate and had their thirst aggravated by the sight of water, that Jesus made the announcements here. (Z. '05-56; R.3509)

IF ANY MAN THIRST, LET HIM COME UNTO ME, AND DRINK — All have some conception of what natural thirst is and the refreshment which comes through partaking of literal water. There are other thirsts and cravings of the human nature which need satisfaction and which without satisfaction cause unrest, distress. These cravings of the heart we call thirst for rest, peace, joy and fellowship. Many of our race are so depraved at present mentally and physically that they have no hunger or thirst for better things than they now enjoy. They already are full and satisfied with the imperfect things possessed. The Lord’s appeal to the present time is not for these but to those who hunger and thirst. This is the appeal of the Gospel age, seeking for the thirsting ones and finding them and if they will drink at this fountain of grace and truth they will find the satisfaction, the peace, comfort, joy and rest, which the world can neither give nor take away. (Z. '05-56; R.3509)

7:38 — SHALL FLOW RIVERS OF LIVING WATER — This was not fulfilled at Pentecost where the Lord’s followers merely began to drink of the spiritual truths and by them to be united into one body of many members of which Jesus is the head. It is from this one body that the river of the water of life shall flow during the Millennial age for to bless all the world. The water of life represents the truth, and the amount of this water of life or truth that shall proceed from the mouth of the Lord from the mouth of the glorified Church shall be such a stream, such a flow as will reach to every part of the earth. This river is mentioned in Rev. 21. See John 4:14. The Lord briefly pictured the blessings coming to his followers during this Gospel age, and the blessings that shall in the next age proceed from them for the comfort, uplifting, restitution of all families of the earth, of whosoever wills to take of the water of life, which will then flow freely, and to which all will be clearly and distinctly invited by the Spirit and the Bride. (Z. '05-57; R.3510)

7:39 — BECAUSE THAT JESUS WAS NOT YET GLORIFIED — It was not possible for any to be begotten of the Spirit as Sons of God until the Ransom Sacrifice of Jesus on our behalf had been accomplished, not until he had ascended on high and presented the merit of that sacrifice on our behalf to the Father, not until it had been accepted of the Father. (Z. '05-57; R.3510)

7:45 — WHY HAD YE NOT BROUGHT HIM? — What a sad commentary it is upon the deceitfulness of the human heart that these men, who were thus seeking the apprehension and death of Jesus were the most influential men in this the holiest nation of earth. They were Doctors of the Law—men supposedly the best versed in the Mosaic Law, its letter and spirit—men whose position in Judaism corresponded to Doctors of Divinity in Christendom today. We may well ask with Pilate—“Why? What evil hath he done?” There was no evil except in the hearts of those most talented, educated, and nominally most religious men in the world. (Z. '05-58; R.3510)

The Lord's view of their case would be that they were hypocritical, pretending to be what they were, not in reality, that much of their praise and service toward the Lord was formalistic lip service and that pride lay at the bottom of their endeavors and professions and that this pride was touched by the success of our Lord and his wisdom and the fact that the multitudes heeded his message. They were envious, malice burned in their heart, they hated him without a cause, simply because he was better, holier, wiser than they and because the people were recognizing this fact. (Z. '05-58; R.3510)

7:46 — NEVER MAN SPAKE LIKE THIS MAN — “Grace was poured upon his lips” (Psa. 45) The Lord's people, seeking to walk in his footsteps, continually find the world still full of envy, hatred, malice. Their only course is to set a guard before their lips, that they sin not with their tongue. They should not only pray, but strive that the meditations of their hearts and the words of their mouths be acceptable in the Lord, and in ratio as this is true of them they will be wiser and more discreet in their language to others. (Z. '05-58; R.3510)

7:47 — ARE YE ALSO DECEIVED — “Is it possible that any man could speak in public and that keen minded men such as you, would be unable to entrap him in anything he might say, so you could form a charge against him as a teacher of what would be injurious to the people; that he said nothing you could construe to be a violation of the Law of Moses and of the Law of the Romans?”

8:29 — FOR I DO ALWAYS THOSE THINGS THAT PLEASE HIM —
See Heb. 3:2.

8:34 — WHOSOEVER COMMITTETH SIN IS THE SERVANT OF SIN —
He who knowingly does wrong. According to Jewish Law for a debt unpaid one became sold to his creditor and had to work out the debt by service. So one who knowingly commits sin, is sold under it and has by stripes and chastisements (for the Church now, for the world in the Millennium) to pay the penalty, according to the degree of wilfulness. If the sin continues the debt increases until it may reach the full penalty for totally wilful sin—second death. Satan is now used by God as a taskmaster for sold ones, or as an executioner. See Lev. 25:39; 1 Kings 21:20, 25; Matt. 18:34; 5:25, 26.

8:56 — AND HE SAW IT, AND WAS GLAD — His eye of faith looked down and beheld Messiah and the exaltation of Israel and the blessing through it of all the families of the earth in the Millennial day. The Jews misunderstood Jesus to mean that he had been with Abraham, others misunderstood him to mean that Abraham saw by faith Christ’s work of sacrifice. It is true that our Lord did appear to Abraham, and that in a sense Abraham foresaw Jesus’ sacrifice in the typical sacrifice of Isaac; but it is also true that the “Day of Christ” is the Millennial day for the world’s blessing and that it was that which Abraham saw and which gladdened his heart. We see the same, and sharing the same faith, we share the same joy and gladness of hope and expectancy. (Z. '09-136; R.4387)

10:1 — THE DOOR — The door was the Law (better Law Covenant as Z. '00-230; R.2672 for that would be a means of entrance) to the Law (Porter). Those who were unable to keep the Law (and so get in by the door) tried to attract the attention of the sheep by climbing up some other way, were false Messiahs, fraudulent, thieves and robbers, who were merely assisting to steal the sheep (vs. 10), and were not actuated by a desire to profit the sheep but by personal, selfish ambition.

THIEF AND A ROBBER — There was but one way to become the true shepherd of Jehovah’s flock and to have a right to lead it. That was the way of the cross, to give himself a ransom for all. This Jesus did and became the door to the sheepfold, opening up a new way to life. (Heb. 10:20) But this was not the making of a new door, but the opening up of a door previously closed.

10:2 — ENTERETH IN BY THE DOOR — He who keeps the Law perfectly; Jesus did, and has made it possible for all his true sheep to enter by the same way—by keeping the Law—not its letter (impossible to us), but its spirit (Rom. 8:4), because he has made an appropriation on our behalf, which makes up for all our lack. So long as we are his and strive to walk in his ways, every deficiency is made up out of his abundance. So he becomes our door. (Z. '08-93; R.4157)

10:3 — PORTER — Law Covenant (better Law, as the standard). Those who could not answer to the Law, who could not fulfill its demands could not prove their claims to be the Messiah. Jesus did meet fully the demands of the Law. “In him was no sin, neither was guile found in his mouth.” He was holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners. Thus he proved his claim to be the Messiah. To him the Porter openeth, to him the Law and the prophets bear testimony.

OPENETH — to the privileges beyond, to taking the book with seven seals.

HIS VOICE — The voice of Jesus is the voice of justice, of truth, love, and all who are his sheep are expected to be able to discriminate between his message and the various false messages which more or less particularly represent the Adversary who seeks to mislead the flock through human agents. We have Jesus’ assurance that none of the true sheep will be satisfied with the false Gospel. It will not appeal to their hearts, and likewise the true sheep will be satisfied with the true Gospel because it will satisfy their longings as nothing else can do. This shows the importance of becoming truly, fully, emphatically the Lord’s, making our covenant with him and making sure of his protecting care and instruction. (Z. '08-94; R.4157)

LEADETH THEM OUT — In Eastern countries each sheep of a flock of thousands has a name, knows it and is known by it. These names often correspond to certain peculiarities as “Torn”, “Bald head,” “Curly horn,” etc. As lambs they are taught to answer to their names. So the Lord knoweth them that are his. (Z. '08-94; R.4157) He leads them out into the knowledge of the truth, the rest and peace of God, and ultimately to the heavenly fold—“the rest that remaineth” for the people of God.

10:4 — THE SHEEP FOLLOW HIM — In the east the shepherd never drives his sheep, they always follow him. They run after him if he seems to be escaping and are terrified if he is out of their sight, or if any stranger comes instead of him. So Jesus’ sheep follow in his footsteps, and heed his instruction and guidance.

HIS VOICE — See note verse 3 on “His Voice.”

10:5 — VOICE OF STRANGERS — See note verse 3 on “His Voice.”

10:9 — I AM THE DOOR — We enter in him and his imputed merit.

AND FIND PASTURE — Out to the green pastures and still waters of truth and grace and into the rest and security of the fold.

10:10 —MIGHT HAVE IT MORE ABUNDANTLY — Life for the fallen race, all that was lost in Adam; and for the church more abundant life than that lost, immortality.

10:11 — GOOD SHEPHERD GIVETH HIS LIFE FOR HIS SHEEP — Many would have liked to become the shepherd, but the cost was too great for them. Many among the angels would probably have been glad of such a position, but would they undertake it at such a cost? Many among men would have coveted it, but though none could have bought the sheep, since all were under condemnation. Yet would any have been willing to purchase them at the cost of his all? Our Lord’s words imply that only the true shepherd was willing to lay down his life for the sheep. The great over-shepherd is willing to receive all the straying sheep that long to come back to the fold. (Ezek. 34) He has appointed as the under-Shepherd the one who died for us, that He might fully deliver all the sheep from the evil one who walketh about seeking whom he may devour. Our gracious Savior left the courts of glory and came down to earth and for 33 years he traversed with weary feet this vale of tears. He mingled with the poor and lowly; He wept with the sorrowing and sinful. He had not place to lay his head. He bore the griefs and sicknesses of those about him. He suffered and sorrowed; He bore shame and ignominy and all this even unto death. And why? that He might save the “lost sheep”—mankind. His blessed fellowship with the shining hosts of Heaven was all relinquished during those years of earthly pilgrimage that the wandering sheep might be found and brought back to the fold. We never can know this side the veil, “How dark was the night that the Lord passed through,” that he might redeem us to God. How can we sufficiently show forth his praises! (Z. ’14-199; R.5490)

10:12 — SCATTERETH THE SHEEP — See note verse 27.

10:14 — AND AM KNOWN OF MINE — See R. V. There is here a beautiful comparison—“I know mine own and mine own know me, even as the Father knoweth me and I know the Father.” They who know not him know not the Father. How important is knowledge, not merely head knowledge, but heart knowledge, intimate acquaintance with the Lord and his plan.

10:15 — LAY DOWN MY LIFE FOR THE SHEEP — See note verse 11.

10:16 — FOLD — There is now only the one fold for the Lord's people and in it all his true ones of this Gospel age find rest and shelter and peace in faith and obedience. This is the Little Flock. (Luke 12:32) The other sheep not of this fold are the world of mankind. The gathering of these will begin with the setting up of the Kingdom. At that time the Little Flock will have passed beyond the veil. In R. V. and Diag. "One flock and one Shepherd." One flock, but many folds, many mansions, various natures on different planes of being. See Eph. 1:10; 1 Cor. 15:28. Jesus will have headship over all God's creation. (Z. '08-95; R.4158) After Millennial age God will be the great Shepherd. (1 Cor. 15:28) Same flock as in Matt. 25:31-46. (Z. '11-87; R.4784) All who then obey the rules and regulations of the Lord's kingdom, doing their best will be brought into the sheepfold. In proportion as they are obedient they will be raised up out of degradation to perfection. Thus all who become sheep in the next age will be cared for. Nothing shall offend them. The Lord will not permit anything to harm them. They shall feed in green pastures and drink of the pure, refreshing water of truth. They shall have a goodly heritage. (Z. '14-199; R.5490)

OTHER SHEEP NOT OF THIS FOLD — In Greek fold means a yard (as open to the wind); by implication, a mansion. Translated court, fold, hall, palace; from a word meaning to breath unconsciously, to respire; by anal. to blow. Is in contrast to the word for flock, contracted from a word meaning to tend as a shepherd. (See Strong's Conc.)

10:27 — MY SHEEP HEAR MY VOICE — These are the Little Flock, the sheep of the highest order. They are only a small portion of mankind, those who have the special qualities of earnestness, humility, and love of right. Having come into this fold of God, we have every reason for confidence in the Great Shepherd, and should recognize his constant care over us. His supreme interest in our spiritual welfare. Let us be good sheep. Let us not stray away from the fold, to the right or left, nor be attracted away from the green pastures and pure waters to go browsing on the thistles and poisonous weeds of some by-path, or to drink of the muddy, polluted waters of human speculation and delusive theories of men. The sheep characteristics are meekness, docility, lack of self-confidence, obedience to the shepherd in whom they fully trust. The true sheep will listen intently for the faintest sound of the shepherd's voice, and respond quickly to his call, watch for his guidance. Let us manifest all these desirable traits of character, and ever keep close to our heavenly shepherd and guide. See notes verse 4. (Z. '14-200; R.5491)

10:29 — GAVE THEM ME — The elect are frequently, as here, spoken of as being specially given to Jesus, while the whole of mankind are referred to as his because bought with his own precious blood. (Z. '00-189; R.2652)

11:4 — THIS SICKNESS IS NOT UNTO DEATH — This and verse 14 do not contradict. This sickness was not merely the working of the death penalty or that Lazarus was to die for ever by it but rather arranged of God to show forth the power of God to raise even the decomposed dead.

11:14 — LAZARUS IS DEAD — See verse 4 note.

12:1 — JESUS . . . CAME TO BETHANY — This was on the Jewish Sabbath which Jesus spent in rest at Bethany. The supper was on the Sabbath evening, and at that time Mary broke the box of perfume. (N-3-20-10)

12:2 — MARTHA SERVED — The two sisters evidently had the matter planned between them: Martha served at the table and Mary served in a special manner with the ointment. (Z.'05-103; R.3534)

12:3 — VERY COSTLY — These silver pence represent about 16 cents each, making about $48, but counting each penny as a day's wages at that time, the 300 pence (vs. 5) would be equivalent to a year's wages of a working man, or about $300 to $600 in our day. (Z.'05-103; R.3534)

WIPED HIS FEET WITH HER HAIR — The feet, always recognized as the humblest and lowest members of the human frame — the hair of the head, especially of woman, always recognized as a special treasure and glory to her, here thus brought together in a way that signified that Mary esteemed her Lord and Master as infinitely above and beyond her. (Z.'05-104; R.3535)

THE HOUSE WAS FILLED WITH THE ODOUR OF THE OINTMENT — Antotypically the church.

12:4 — THEN SAITH ONE OF HIS DISCIPLES — He was angry, his selfishness hindered his appreciation of the honor due to the Lord; he could think only of himself and what he had hoped to get out of the transaction, and how, so far as he was concerned, the whole matter was a waste. The sourness that came to his heart because of its wrong attitude is indicated by the testimony that he straightway went to the chief priests to bargain with them for the betrayal of Jesus.

12:6 — HAD THE BAG, AND BARE WHAT WAS PUT THEREIN — We may esteem that in many instances like the one here recorded, the persons who are so careful lost money should be spent except for the poor are often like Judas, so avaricious that whatever money gets into their possession, very little of it gets to the poor. (Z.'99-77; R.2448) If Judas had been sufficiently alive to his own weaknesses, he would have refused the office of treasurer, seeing he already had too much love of money and it would be a temptation to him in handling the funds.

This passion for money, like all other propensities of the fallen nature, grew stronger as it was encouraged, until finally it knew no bounds and he was ready to sell his Master for thirty pieces of silver! (Z. '11-403; R.4906)

12:7 — LET HER ALONE — Trouble her not, take it not from her — as though when the first motion was made to use the spikenard the apostles had wished to have it spared that they might sell it, and as though the Lord had hindered them from using persuasion to that end saying “let her alone.”

AGAINST THE DAY OF MY BURYING HATH SHE KEPT THIS — Mary, if she had waited another week, might have used the perfume upon herself but not upon the Lord. Wisdom tells us that we should not delay in bringing our alabaster boxes of ointment and pouring their contents upon our dear ones of the body of Christ, the feet of Christ. No matter if they do not notice us, or think of us, or pour any upon us as members of the feet; let us do our part, let us be of the Mary class, let us pour out the sweet perfume upon others and the house, the church of Lord, will be filled with the sweet odor. (Z. '05-106; R.3536)

12:24 — FALL INTO THE GROUND AND DIE — Jesus was this corn of wheat, the only one who had a soul to lose, had a life to give, one grain of corn. This was all God had to plant, he risked this grain to obtain his harvest. Jesus was the only one God could trust, but God knew his son, knew his character and what he could endure. God directly created Jesus, all others were indirect creations. Jesus and the Father had a long acquaintance.

IT ABIDETH ALONE — If Jesus had not died in obedience to the Father's plan, he would have remained alone, he could not have given life to the race, and he himself would have withered and died as one not obedient to God's will, not in full sympathy with him. He was the only man who could save the race.

BUT IF IT DIE, IT BRINGETH FORTH MUCH FRUIT — Jesus brought forth 144,000 fold and each of these has the spirit of the Master and is anxious to be planted in the likeness of his death, that they may yield fruit. Each of these grains may yield 144,000 of world (save them in Millennium) and this would about be number in “Millennial Hopes and Prospects examined.” Bro. Hemery has grain at home said to be as old as Moses' time, but it is long since shrivelled and dead. It abides alone. What a harvest might have resulted from it had it been planted!

12:31 — NOW IS THE JUDGMENT OF THIS WORLD — Satan and his rulership of disorder and sin had received no particular sentence or rebuke from God up to this time. It appeared that either God's Law or his creatures were imperfect, and that sin was unavoidable. But when our Lord Jesus, by his obedience and sacrifice upheld the Law and made it honorable, and proved that it was within the range of a perfect man's ability to keep it, he thereby condemned (Rom. 8:3) sin in the flesh and incidentally condemned Satan's entire rule. Also by the purchase of the race with his own life, he gained legal control of the world, or the right to bring it back from sin and Satan, back into harmony with God. In this sense, this world, or order of things, was condemned (then and still in vogue), sentenced to overthrow from the time of Jesus was lifted up and was accepted of the Father as the purchaser and king of earth. (Z. '02-191; R.3032)

NOW SHALL THE PRINCE OF THIS WORLD — Prince because he deceives the minds and hearts of the majority of the race. (N-4-10-10)

BE CAST OUT — The casting out of Satan followed the redemptive work of Christ, first for the Church. For we are not to allow sin or Satan to rule in our hearts, but to esteem ourselves freed from them and to serve the Lord. Also the influence of the truth has been liberating the world from superstition. But Satan's great overthrow and the great liberation of mankind has been delayed for the gathering of the elect. Then Satan will be bound and his house spoiled. (Z. '02-191; R.3032)

12:32 — LIFTED UP — The primary thought is our Lord's crucifixion (vs. 33) his lifting up on the cross (see vs. 34) as the great sin offering on behalf of the world. Until the atonement for sin had been made nothing could be done for man's release, for the sentence upon him was a death sentence.

A secondary thought would be that our Lord's obedience in laying down his life as our sin offering led directly to his own exaltation to power and great glory. (Phil. 2:10, 11) His lifting up as the sin offering was our purchase price. His lifting up in exaltation is equally necessary to the drawing of the world of mankind and the resultant blessings upon all who yield to the drawing influence. It is by reason of our Lord's lifting up in both of these senses, that the blessing is to come to the world.

It has required this entire Gospel age to lift up first the head and afterwards the members of the body, joint sacrificers with him (the body share in the sin offering for the world, and then in the glory to follow, hence in both senses of the lifting up). When all the sufferings of Christ are ended and the last member of the body has finished his course in death, then through the power of the first resurrection, (which began with our Lord and will finish with the change of the last members of his body) the entire church will be lifted up in the secondary sense of exaltation, and then will begin the work of drawing the world—pointing all to the great sin offering finished at Calvary.

That our Lord meant by "lifted up," more than his own crucifixion is evident from his words in John 8:28, "When ye have lifted up the son of man then shall ye know that I am he. "The Jews do not yet know that Christ is the Messiah, and this is an additional proof that his words include the lifting up, the crucifixion of all the members of the body—the Church. (Z. '99-218; R.2519)

WILL DRAW ALL MEN UNTO ME — That our Lord is not drawing all men to himself now is evident to every one, and so the Scriptures assure us, for Jesus' own words are—"No man cometh unto me except the Father which hath sent me draw him." The drawing by the Son will not begin until the drawing by the Father has accomplished its intended purpose viz: "to take out of them a people for his name"—to gather out of the world an elect Church to be the bride for his Son, to bear the name of Christ, to be His Bride and joint heir, "Members in particular of his body." (Z. '99-218; R.2519)

While all of Adam's race are "sinners, children of wrath" yet there are of two classes (1) Those who have eyes and ears to discern the Lord's provision of mercy in Christ, and whose hearts are obedient to the same and (2) Others whose ears and eyes are closed to the message of grace and whose hearts are rebellious. The first of these amenable to God's grace are drawn now by the Father "even as many as the Lord your God shall call;" these because not rebellious are drawn to Jesus for faith justification. He becomes their Advocate, and they begotten of the Holy Spirit are at once sons of God. The second class, "carnally minded" "Rebellious," not subject to the Law of God (Rom. 8:7,8; Jas. 4:4) cannot be dealt with in the same manner. For them God has provided the Millennial Kingdom of Christ, which shall put down rebellion by force, (Rev. 2:26,27; Psa. 149:7-9) bind Satan and scatter the powers of darkness and flood the world with the true knowledge of the Lord. The world for 1000 years will be under what is termed "Martial Law." The world will require 1000 years to reach that peace with God which the elect class of this age reaches almost instantly, by a faith similar to Abraham's.

All the drawing that has been done from Jesus' time to the present has been done by the Heavenly Father himself—not by a Mediator nor by an Advocate. (John 6:44, 37) Shown by—"I am the true vine and my Father is the Husbandman" (John 15:1), and that this vine (the Christ) is of the Father's own right hand planting. (Isa. 61:3; Psa. 80:15; Isa. 60:21) separate and distinct from the world. (Matt. 15:23) Also: in the parable where the Heavenly Father makes a Marriage Supper for his son and sending forth his servants to invite the bidden ones etc. Also—"My Father which gave them me is greater than all and no man is able to pluck them out of my Father's hand." (John 10:29) Also—Same lesson typically taught in Abraham's sending his servant Eleazar to select a bride for Isaac. Rebecca needed no mediator between herself and Abraham for she came at his call and was guided by his servant. She was related to Abraham before her invitation to become the bride of Isaac, just as all those invited to become the bride of Christ, by the Father's invitation were previously related to him as members of the household of faith. The marriage took place after Abraham's agencies for the selection of the Bride had accomplished their work. So now with the completion of the divine selection of the church, will come the Heavenly Bridegroom to receive her to himself, in the field near the antitypical well—Lahairoi. Later she will be presented to the Heavenly Father and the holy angels and will become the Bride consort of her Lord, her head, (Matt. 10:32,33; Rev. 3:5), her Redeemer.

Then the lifting up of Christ will be complete. "Unto him every knee shall bow of things in Heaven and things in earth" the church also acknowledging him as her head. Then will come the drawing of Christ. The drawing will continue throughout the Millennial age, until every member of the race shall have felt its influence and impetus and all the willing and obedient shall have been blessed, uplifted, restored to perfection. (Z. '09-281; R.4476)

In this work of drawing all men the Church will be associated with her Lord as members of his body, of which he is the head over all, God blessed forever. (Z. '99-219; R.2519)

Nevertheless this drawing will not mean compulsion, for just as it is possible for the Father's drawing to be resisted in the present age, so that many are called but few will be chosen, so also it will be possible for the drawing of Christ to be resisted in the next age. However, the Scriptures assure us that the way will be made so plain, and the conditions so reasonable, that only those who love sin, and deliberately choose it, after they have come to a knowledge of righteousness and of truth, will be among the resisters of that Prophet, and be destroyed by him in the Second Death. (E415)

12:33 — SIGNIFYING WHAT DEATH HE SHOULD DIE — The Jews never crucified anybody but sometimes hanged criminals after death as a special curse. See Deut. 21:23; Gal. 3:13; Josh. 8:29; 10:26, 27. The privilege of putting to death had been taken away from the Jews shortly before this and the penalty of death could be inflicted only by the Roman Government. So by this arrangement Jesus was not stoned to death but was crucified. (Z. '05-141; R.3554)

13:2 — TO BETRAY HIM — Judas had already bargained with the chief priest to betray him.

13:5 — TO WIPE THEM WITH THE TOWEL — Jesus had noted with regret that the disciples whom he had been three years instructing and warning, teaching them lessons of humility, meekness, love, had still the spirit of rivalry amongst them and had neglected the usual hospitalities of the time, both among themselves and toward him whom they professed to believe to be the Son of God. Forgetful of his own weight of care and sorrow, and anxious for the welfare of his followers, he improved that opportunity to teach them a lesson of humility. The disciples were ashamed and confused.

13:10 — JESUS SAITH TO HIM, HE THAT IS WASHED — R.V. says bathed. The disciples had bathed in accordance with the Jewish requirement of the putting away of all filth at the beginning of the Passover season, they merely needed now the rinsing of their feet, the cleansing of the members that had come in contact with the earth. He had in mind a higher cleansing of which the washing of feet and bathing were only figures. (vs. 10) (Z. '11-404; R.4907)

13:11 — YE ARE NOT ALL CLEAN — Judas was evidently turning the betrayal over in his mind and his mind was distracted, and he sat quietly watching what the others were doing. The Lord knew that the hearts of his disciples were loyal. His words though not understood by the disciples, must have been appreciated by Judas.

13:12 — AFTER HE HAD WASHED THEIR FEET — He did not skip Judas, though he knew of his perfidy but washed his feet with the rest. None of these things moved Judas, nor appealed to his heart so as to change his conduct. We have thus strong evidence of his wilful intention and shows the meaning of the Son of perdition. (Z. '11-404; R.4906)

13:21 — ONE OF YOU SHALL BETRAY ME — See note on Matt. 26; (also Z. '08-139; R.4166) Judas here illustrates a class at the harvest time who cultivate the spirit of selfishness and personal ambition, and which will lead to a similar end of these. They will be ready to sell the truth for a little personal advantage. When such a condition of heart has been reached by those who have once been enlightened and have tasted of the good word of God and the powers of the age to come, being begotten of the Spirit, no power will hinder them from going to the limit of their evil course. Their minds become so poisoned against the truth that the very sops of favor animate them the more towards evil. As Satan entered into Judas so we may expect the Adversary to get fully control and power over this class. (Z. '08-141; R.4167)

13:27 — AND AFTER THE SOP SATAN ENTERED INTO HIM — Judas began to see that things were not reaching the culmination he had hoped for. Probably he was one of those who said at least in his heart—“If thou do these things, do them publicly, so that others may see. Ask some thousands to come and see the raising of some one from the dead, and have a good demonstration.” But each miracle was performed by our Lord in a quiet way. Probably Judas began to think that Jesus could not manage affairs nearly as well as if he would allow Judas to “coach” him a little. Then he began to keep some of the money. Perhaps he thought—“Now things are not coming out very well. I will keep some of this money for the disciples and Jesus for a rainy day.” But he was really thinking about Judas. (Z. '11-403; R.4168)

THAT THOU DOEST, DO QUICKLY — Judas may have understood betray him. I had not intended to do this, but now I will show him. I know of course that he can get away from these officers; but I am the treasurer of this company, and I will show him something. While I do not believe they could ever take him, yet the experience will be a good lesson. This thing has been dallying too long. He will see henceforth that it will be better for him to go ahead. It needs a business push behind it so here goes!” Not for a moment did he think that Jesus would suffer. (Z. '11-404; R.4168)

13:35 — IF YE HAVE LOVE ON TO ANOTHER — Because the world will not find any other men, working for others, with this spirit of the Lord, if you possess this Sabbath spirit, if you have entered into this rest of working for others. See 1 John 3:16.

14:1 — LET NOT YOUR HEART BE TROUBLED — The Apostles were already consecrated to God as his servants, before they met Jesus. They already believed in God, were Israelites indeed without guile. (See John 17:6) The trouble in their hearts was not in respect to the foundations of their hopes, for these were all established. They knew and trusted God, and also his promises of the kingdom, and the blessings of all the families of the earth through it. The whole question before their minds was about Jesus, was he indeed the Messiah? or had they built some false expectations upon his wonderful words and deeds? How should they understand it if now after 3-1/2 years’ ministry he should die at the hands of his enemies, instead of establishing his kingdom and subduing all things unto himself? Jesus could not tell them spiritual truths, for they could not bear them yet, but they did need some comfort. (Z. '08-133; R.4164)

YE BELIEVE IN GOD, BELIEVE ALSO IN ME — Jesus gave them the strongest spiritual food they could receive. He began by reviving in them their faith in the Father and his plan. “Recognize the fact that all God’s plans will be accomplished, and as you have seen my loyalty to the Father in word and deed, and the Father’s power unto good works manifested in me, let faith’s anchor hold. Continue to trust me and you will have a blessing. Wait for the development of the divine plan and it will more than satisfy your expectations.” (Z. '08-133; R.4164)

14:2 — IN MY FATHER’S HOUSE — The Universe.

ARE MANY MANSIONS — Many abodes, planes of being, each perfect in itself, “much diversified wisdom of God.” (F62, 64)

I GO TO PREPARE A PLACE FOR YOU — He was going to present the merit of his perfect sacrifice, to appear in the presence of God for us, (Heb. 9:24) and thus make us acceptable to God by his imputed merit so we could receive the Holy Spirit at Pentecost. He opened up for us a new way of life. (Heb. 10:20) Not one of all these is of sufficient glory for my Bride.

14:3 — WHERE I AM THERE YE MAY BE ALSO — At his second advent.

14:7 — I AM THE WAY — In that only through his sacrifice, the Ransom, imputing his merit to the justified, could any be acceptable to the Father, or come back into fellowship with him.

THE TRUTH — In that only through his words, his instructions, his guidance, could there be any hope of coming into harmony with the spirit of God, the spirit of truth, his words were truth and righteousness.

AND THE LIFE — In that all the race was dead, under divine sentence, had forfeited the right to life, and none could come again into life conditions except through him, through the life which he gave for ours.

NO MAN COMETH UNTO THE FATHER, BUT BY ME — No man need hope for any place in any of the mansions of the Father’s house, by any other way, by any other truth, by any other life. So he will be in the Millennium to the world, to fit them for the earthly mansions.

14:9 — SHEW US THE FATHER? — It was difficult for them to grasp the thought that Jesus was the very image of God in the flesh. In seeing Jesus they saw the most that was possible for a human being to see of the Father, his divine character, its likeness, its perfect image in the flesh. He did not mean that he was the Father, for this he repeatedly disclaimed. (John 14:10, 28; 8:17, 18; 5:37), nor that in seeing him they saw an invisible being, as God is invisible, but that in seeing his character, his motives, his love, they had seen a true expression, most faithfully representing the Father in all these particulars. (Z. '08-134; R.4164; E76)

14:11 —OR ELSE BELIVE ME FOR THE VERY WORK’S SAKE — The Father by his power and Spirit dwelt in him also, so that his words and works fully and completely represented the Father. His works fully attested this power of the highest resting upon him and operating through him. This seems to have fully satisfied the Apostles and brought rest to their hearts.

14:12 —GREATER WORKS — May be in two senses: a) Greater works in Millennial age—the awakening of world from death and restoring them to perfect life. This greater because Jesus merely awakened, but did not raise to perfect life any of the dead or sick. b) the Holy Spirit had not yet come, so none could appreciate spiritual things. (1 Cor. 2:10,14) Their ears were heavy as respected the earthly truths, but of spiritual things they knew nothing, nor could understand. So Jesus could do and teach on no higher than an earthly plane, except the parables and dark sayings to be understood later when the Spirit was come. So his miracles and plain teachings were on a plane appreciable to the natural man. But when the Spirit was come, the Lord's people in his name did mightier works. Did Jesus open blind eyes? His followers were privileged to open the eyes of the understanding. Jesus heal physically sick? His disciples were permitted to heal the spiritually diseased. He cure physical leprosy? They might heal spiritual leprosy—sin. He revive the dead? They might preach the Gospel to them that are dead, by which many “passed from death unto life.” This privilege still with us. (Z.'08-134; R.4164)

14:15 — IF YE LOVE ME, KEEP MY COMMANDMENTS — In proportion as we love Him we will be desirous of doing those things which please him, thus living in his smile, under his approval. To this class the mere withdrawal of the Lord's face a favor would be a sufficiently severe punishment. See Jesus on cross. See Psa. 63:3; 32:8, 9.

14:16 — AND I WILL PRAY THE FATHER— This is in harmony with all the other scriptures on this point declaring that the Holy Spirit came not from the Son, but from the Father, as the Son prayed the Father for it, and that this special power or spirit of the Father would be another Comforter instead of our Lord Jesus himself. Had our Lord remained as a person in the flesh, he would have been hampered by the fleshly and earthly conditions, because he could not be everywhere at once. But the Holy Spirit would represent to them the Father and Son and all Truth and be a channel for everyone that needed blessing. (Z.'09-8; R.4307)

14:21 — HE IT IS THAT LOVETH ME — See note on verse 15.

14:23 — AND MAKE OUR ABODE WITH HIM — This thought which this promise of the abiding presence of the Father and Son conveys is their thought and care and interest will be constantly upon us and that at any instant we may engage the special attention of either or both. (1 Pet. 1:12, Rom. 12:12; Luke 18:1; 1 Thes. 5:17; Psa. 103:13, 14, 11, 12, 17, 18; 139:1-12) Those who thus come to God (as in the Lord's prayer) are privileged always to have their interests considered at the throne of grace, and the welcome we shall always find there may be judged of by the cordial invitations to come often and tarry long. Well might we hesitate to avail ourselves of such privileges were we not thus assured, but having this assurance we may come with confidence to the throne of grace. (Heb. 4:14-16) With such urgent and loving invitations, let no child of God hesitate to come to him often or to tarry long in communion and fellowship with him. It is our privilege to enter into our closets and close the door and pray to our Father which seeth in secret, who will reward us openly. (Matt. 6:6)

He will go with us through all the business and hurry and commotion of the day, and at any instant in the midst of cares and perplexities we may turn our prayerful thoughts to him for wisdom, strength, and Christian fortitude, or for comfort and consolation for ourselves or others. And though we hear no responding voice, if we are attentive to the course of his providence we will shortly see the shaping of events and circumstances for our good and the good of others in answer to such prayers. Beloved, have we not many times proved this?

Let us live in the presence of the Father and Son who have promised to abide with us. It will sweeten our days and comfort our nights, and ease our burdens, and lighten our cares, and brighten our hopes, and in a word, will lift us up above the world into a higher and purer atmosphere. Such is the will of heaven concerning us. Let us appreciate and avail ourselves of the privilege. (Z. '95-214; R.1865)

14:26 — WHATSOEVER I HAVE SAID UNTO YOU — See Matt. 18:18; 16:19. Also see note on Matt. 16:19. The apostles were also prophets and seers making known future events to the Church. (Eph. 2:20; 3:5; 2 Thes. 2:3-12; 1 Thes. 4:15-17; Acts 20:29,30; 1 Tim. 4:1-3; 2 Tim. 3:1-9; 4:3,4; Jas. 5:1-6) The Apostle John was the most remarkable seer or prophet of all the apostles. See Revelation. (F222, 223)

14:27 — LET NOT YOUR HEART BE TROUBLED, NEITHER LET IT BE AFRAID — What a precious legacy our dear Lord left with the disciples when he went away from them. Truly a legacy of priceless value, and it is the inheritance of the entire church throughout the age. To the world it may seem that the course of the Christian is far from peaceful, for the Lord's saints often have a stormy voyage. But if our hearts continue to be stayed on Christ by faith, and we do not let go our anchor, we shall be kept through all the storms of life, however severely we may be tossed, however fiercely the storm may rage. (Isa. 50:7) The language of our Master is "O Righteous Father, the world hath not known Thee, but I have known Thee." He had been with the Father from the beginning and he knew His love and goodness. He had seen the manifestation of His power, He had marked His loving-kindness. So we who have come into similar relation with God have come to thus know and trust His love and faithfulness. This peace of God which Jesus had and which he gives us is an inward tranquility and rest which is the direct result of a close personal relationship to God of the soul. It is the peace of God because it is a peace that God only can give, a peace which only his very own can fully know. (Z. '14-103; R.5432) See note on Phil. 4:7.

15:2 — HE PURGETH IT — By trials and chastisements and chastenings to purify our minds and cause us to set them wholly on the spiritual things. Storms bend the vines and make the sap run. (Holy Spirit through us.)

15:16 — ORDAINED — From a Greek word meaning “place.” This is the same Greek word used in 1 Tim. 2:7 where Paul speaks of his ordination to be a preacher and an Apostle, but this ordination he says was not by man, nor of man, but by Jesus Christ and God the Father (Gal. 1:1) All of the members of the anointed body are similarly ordained (placed), not indeed to be Apostles (for there were only twelve of these) but to be a minister of the truth (servants) each according to his talents and opportunities. (Isa. 61:1) When the Church elects anyone another word is used. See Acts 14:23.

15:18 — IF THE WORLD HATE YOU — The world that hated Jesus and crucified Him was the Jewish world, or Nominal Israel, and the world from which we may look for persecution, would similarly be the so-called Christian world. Sometimes the persecution comes from those who once were brethren in the truth, those who once dipped with us in the dish of Divine nourishments from the table of the Lord. The trial is all the more severe when it comes from this quarter. Yet it was so with our Lord and does it not seem to have cut him to the quick that Judas kissed him at the moment that he betrayed Him? (Z. '09-39; R.4326)

BEFORE IT HATED YOU — We, the Church in the flesh, will be no more successful in converting the world than was Jesus. (Z. '10-282; R.4675)

16:1 — THAT YE SHOULD NOT BE OFFENDED — That when the trials and testings come, that they must not be surprised, that they would not think that God had forsaken them and get discouraged, and lay their troubles to God, and give up their hopes—“Not be offended.” (1 Pet. 4:12,13)

16:3 — See John 17:25.

16:4 — I SAID NOT . . . AT THE BEGINNING, BECAUSE I WAS WITH YOU — He had not told them of all they might expect (vs. 12). The same is true of all Jesus' disciples. They see a sufficiency of light for one step at a time, for the trials and difficulties future are graciously withheld from them that they be not overwhelmed by them—“Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof.” (Matt. 6:34) This was not deception, not alluring the disciples into doing something contrary to their wills. At the very start Jesus assures us that unless we take up our cross daily and follow him we cannot be his disciples. If we take this step we see plenty of difficulty in connection with it, without knowing particulars of the troubles to come. If we knew our future trials we would be unjustly overwhelmed thereby, because we could but imperfectly appreciate our Lord's assurance of help. (2 Cor. 12:9; 1 Cor. 10:13) Hence as we take step by step we find these promises true, we are sustained, we have no more than we can bear; and though the trials become greater, severer than at the beginning, yet these may be overcome because of growth in grace and knowledge.

16:5 — WHITHER GOEST THOU? — Because they believed his word that he came forth from the Father and would return to him.

16:7 — IF I DEPART, I WILL SEND HIM UNTO YOU — If they could understand matters properly it would relieve them of much of their distress. It was really to their advantage, their interest, that he should go away. Had he not gone it would have been impossible for the Father to beget them of the spirit and recognize them as Sons of God; hence they could never have been more than human beings, never become spirit beings, partakers of the Divine nature, with its glories and honors. Indeed they could never even attain to human restitution; for the entire work of salvation, for the church as well as the world depended on our Lord's fulfilling the demands of Justice. On the following day he gave himself a ransom for all and on the third day he was raised by the Father's power. But the benefits of this work to either the Church or the world until Jesus had ascended on high, appeared in the presence of the Father and presented the merit of his sacrifice on behalf of them. Had Jesus remained with his followers all through the age, even as a Spirit being (as he was during the forty days) no one could have been begotten of the Spirit. The merit of his sacrifice must first be accepted (presented) before we could receive the Holy Spirit and be adopted. (Z. '08-137; R.4165)

16:9 — OF SIN — It will make the world conscious of its sinful condition, showing it more and more the exceeding sinfulness of sin. Many of the world have so lost the image of God and so devoid of conscience that they cannot with great distinctness discriminate between honesty and dishonesty, truth and falsity, righteousness and sin. The world has been in the habit of measuring itself by itself. But now in Christ and the Church a new standard is set up and by words and actions the Church is to uphold the standard of the Lord's word.

BECAUSE THEY BELIEVE NOT ON ME — See John 15:22, 24. God's Holy Spirit in the Church will make known to the world that its continuance in the attitude of sinners, "children of wrath," is because they do not believe in and accept of Christ, and his meritorious sacrifice for sin.

16:10 — OF RIGHTEOUSNESS — It is not enough that the world be convicted of sin; but it needs to know something of righteousness, sin's opposite, that a considerable measure of righteousness is possible, and that the difficulty in attaining it is due to the fallen nature. The world is to be convinced that righteousness is the proper standard, the only one God could recognize and that eternal life is to be granted only to the righteous.

BECAUSE I GO TO MY FATHER, AND YE SEE ME NO MORE —

Those who give instruction to others will find it necessary to make clear that none can come into accord with the Father through any righteous works of their own, but that the forgiveness and covering for sins provided through the merit of Christ's sacrifice is necessary. This imputed righteousness has been secured by Christ through his sacrifice which he presented before the Father. It was available by this Ransom justice was satisfied for believers of this was.

16:11 — OF JUDGMENT — The Holy Spirit in His people will convince their neighbors and all who come within the scope of their light and message, that the present life is not all there is, that a trial is purposed in God's plan for the whole world of men, a judgment, test. In proportion as they have light or knowledge, they have responsibility. The church is now having its judgment day, its testing; and the world afterwards. The conduct of each one of the world now has to do with that future judgment. In proportion as they disobey the light of conscience and fail to follow the leadings of the truth in the present time, they will have stripes and difficulties to overcome in the future; and to whatever extent they now seek to live in accord with righteousness, they lay up for themselves a blessing which shall assist them in that day of judgment.

BECAUSE THE PRINCE OF THIS WORLD IS JUDGED — Because the present order of things cannot continue, a new order of things will be ushered in at the second advent of Christ, since he already has the redemption price for the whole world and secured the legal right to dispossess Satan, the God of this world. By his opposition to Jesus and the Church and to all righteousness, he is heaping up condemnation to himself and will be overthrown.

16:12 — BUT YE CANNOT BEAR THEM NOW — Jesus prepared his disciples for a still larger amount of knowledge after his ascension, than they had received from him during his presence. He explains that the necessity for this was in the unpreparedness until they should be endued with power from on high. Until this they would be natural men and as such could not receive the things of the spirit. (1 Cor. 2:14) This then explains why our Lord did not present as deep teachings along spiritual lines as did the Apostles. It was not inability on his part, but those truths would have been meat out of due season to his disciples which might have choked, injured them. Hence the deeper things of our Lord's teachings were stated considerably in parabolic form, which would not hurt them at the time, and which later they could understand and appreciate. Thus as he told Nicodemus, “I have told you of earthly things and ye believe not (are unable to receive them). How would you believe if I told you heavenly things? ”

(John 3:12)

16:13 — AND HE WILL SHEW YOU THINGS TO COME — See Matt. 18:18; John 14:26. The power by which Jesus would send his aid to his persecuted disciples during his personal absence was something difficult for them to understand. Jesus makes it as plain as possible, calling it the holy Spirit, Spirit of God, Spirit of Christ, Spirit of the truth. As the power would be sustaining and comforting he called it a Comforter (sustainer, helper.) He did not say he would send them another person to deal with them, for no other person could deal with them better than himself. It was a spirit, an influence, a power which he would send, and this would full represent the Father and himself, so they would have the fellowship of the Father and Son. The holy Spirit is properly spoken of in the masculine gender, even as the Father and Son are spoken of in the masculine gender. As it stands the propriety is obvious.

16:14 — AND SHALL SHEW IT UNTO YOU — The Holy Spirit would be only a channel, not an authority, merely the divine channel or agency for sending blessings, instructions. (Z. '08-138; R.4166)

16:27 — LOVED — Love both times is from a word meaning warm family love; we are part of God's family.

16:33 — IN ME YE MIGHT HAVE PEACE — How beautiful, how consoling, how refreshing is the legacy of peace and love left us by our dear Redeemer! This peace and joy which passes human understanding, was not given to the world, nor to the nominal Christian, nor to the formalist or ritualist, however zealous they may be. It is designed for those who receive riches of grace through the Holy Spirit and who by obedience to the Truth and its Spirit, grow up into Christ, their living head. None other can receive it. Such have peace, deep and abiding and ever increasing as they come to comprehend with all saints the riches of grace divine—lengths, breadths, heights, and depths of the love of God. (Z. '99-93; R.2456)

IN THE WORLD YE SHALL HAVE TRIBULATION — From the Latin “tribulum,” the name of a roller or threshing machine used in olden times for cleaning wheat, removing the outer husk. How appropriate the term for the Lord's people! who are symbolized by wheat. Our new natures are the real grain, the kernel. Yet this treasure is covered with the husk of imperfect, earthly conditions. In order that the wheat may be properly ready for the garner and usefulness, each grain must pass through the tribulation necessary to remove those qualities which, until separated, unfit us for the service to which we are called of the Lord. The object of the test is that we may become strong in the Lord, not merely the character but its firmness and gentleness. (Z.'11-409; R.4910)

17:3 — AND THIS IS LIFE ETERNAL, THAT THEY MIGHT KNOW

THEE — An intimate acquaintance with the Father and with the Son, a knowledge of the mind of Christ which is a full and clear representation of the mind of the Father. We grow in this knowledge by studying God's word, by discerning through that word the principles which govern the divine conduct, as to how divine justice, wisdom, love, and power operate. These are progressive studies. Something may be learned the first day of our Christian experience, but the end of the first year should show considerable progress in the knowledge of the divine mind, and the second year still more, etc. It is only as we realize something of this greatness and perfection of the divine character that we are properly able to estimate our own littleness and imperfection; only as we see the beauties of his gracious character can we become intimately acquainted with God, familiar with his graces and virtues, his way of doing things. (Z.'97-115; R.2137)

THE ONLY TRUE GOD, AND JESUS CHRIST, WHOM THOU

HAST SENT — Life eternal is not gained by a knowledge of astronomy or chemistry, etc., but by the knowledge of God. Because God himself is the very personification of all those glorious elements of character, which he demands we shall emulate, copy, pattern after. "Be ye like unto your Father which is in heaven." The thought is that as we copy our heavenly Father's character, each additional step of character progress means a clearer knowledge of the Father and only those who attain to the very perfection of love in their hearts, will be able to rightly know the Father and his Son. Hence to know him in the full, proper sense of the word would imply that we had attained his likeness in our hearts, and this would imply that we had attained his likeness in our hearts, and this would imply preparation for life eternal on the Divine terms. So ultimately all mankind will be in that condition of the knowledge of God which will imply the perfection of their hearts, imply their acceptance of eternal life; all except the disobedient who will be destroyed in the second death. (Acts 3:23; Rev. 21:8) (N-5-9-09)

17:9 — I PRAY FOR THEM: I PRAY NOT FOR THE WORLD — Our

Lord was the great exemplar for all his followers, who are exhorted to walk in his footsteps. If he prayed not for the world, neither should we. Why? Did not Jesus love the world? Yes, verily he so loved it as to die for it (John 15:13) while we were yet sinners. Why then did he not pray for those whom he loved and for whom he died? Because it is not the divine plan to save people by praying for them, but as Paul declared; it pleased God that through the preaching of the cross of Christ believers should be saved, though this course may seem foolish to the world. God has made a great plan of salvation which eventually will reach the whole world of mankind, every creature. He does not need, therefore that either our Lord Jesus or we should pray for the world, for he has made every arrangement on their behalf that justice and love could provide. The time for blessing the world has not yet come. We may tell the good tidings to our neighbors, etc., we may exemplify the gospel in our daily lives and thus bring to near upon our friends the things of the truth, which God has ordained shall be the sanctifying power. (vs. 17) (N-6-27-09)

17:14 — See John 15:19.

18:6 — AND FELL TO THE GROUND — This was doubtless the result of a power our Lord exercised over them, a power by which he might have resisted them entirely had he been so disposed. What he did was sufficient to show them and his apostles that his surrender was not of necessity, but that the Father's will might be done. He knew he could have all the protection he needed. (Matt. 26:53) (Z.'08-142; R.4168)

18:10 — THE SERVANT'S NAME WAS MALCHUS — A while before, Jesus had said that should have some swords (Luke 22:36-38) and said that two were enough. Peter evidently was the bearer of one of these and used it. This incident was evidently of the Lord's intention to show that his surrender was not because of cowardice on the part of his disciples or himself. It was to be a free will offering.

18:11 — SHALL I NOT DRINK IT? — This furnished Jesus an opportunity of healing an enemy, of showing Peter that Jesus' followers were not to fight with carnal weapons that his kingdom was not to be established in that manner. The disciples must have wondered much at what it all meant, that Jesus refused to be defended, and probably forsook him in despair of helping him, and utterly at a loss to understand his conduct. But Peter and John followed to see what Jesus might mean and what would be done with him. (Z.'98-143; R.4169) Adam owed a debt to God, all have since sinned and there was this vast cup of the world's iniquity. Who would drink it?

This referred evidently to his dying experiences which were severe in the extreme. He was dishonored of men and reckoned an enemy of God—a blasphemer. His physical sufferings he knew would be intense, but to his perfect mind, the shame and disesteem, the opprobrium added greatly to the poignancy of his address. Yet this was the cup the Father had given him—it was the divine purpose respecting him. (Z.'14-85; R.5421)

19:11 — JESUS ANSWERED — Our Lord's answer was serene. This was the secret of his composure. He had given his life, his all, his energy, interest to the Father. He had confidence in the Father's wisdom and love, and was willing therefore to drink of the cup the Father had poured, rejoicing to do the will of God, and finish the work. So with Jesus' followers, in proportion as they, like him, realize the fulness of their consecration and have at heart been filled with his spirit, in the same proportion they have been able to be calm under most severe and trying ordeals, so that even the world has marvelled at their composure; the peace of God ruled in their hearts. (Z. '06-364; R.3895)

20:26 — AFTER EIGHT DAYS — On what we would call the seventh day afterward (Sunday) the Jewish method counting both days. (See Luke 9:28) (Z. '01-140; R.2803)

21:1 — JESUS SHEWED HIMSELF AGAIN — The forty days of Jesus' spiritual presence at the first advent type partially of forty years of spiritual presence now; both unknown to the world.

21:2 — AND TWO OTHER OF HIS DISCIPLES — Seven in all, and all fishers by trade, picturing the full harvest Church.

21:3 — SIMON PETER SAITH UNTO THEM — During those thirty days the attitude of the apostles and other disciples can be better imagined than described. They were perplexed. They had indeed evidences of Jesus' resurrection; they had the Scriptures called to their attention which proved this was necessary and God had previously so arranged. They had hoped for further conferences with Jesus and that he would have told them definitely what to do. Instead, left to themselves they were thoroughly disheartened. They had left all to follow him and to tell the people he was the promised Messiah, and that He would soon set up his kingdom to bless Israel and all the nations through it. Now apparently all these hopes were dashed. How foolish it would seem for them to try to convince the people that a man crucified as a malefactor, as a blasphemer, was indeed the Messiah! How foolish, it would seem, to tell of his resurrection. They felt they could do nothing else than abandon the ministry as a lost cause; and the return to fishing was the logical conclusion.

AND THAT NIGHT THEY CAUGHT NOTHING — The Church has toiled all the night of the Gospel age and has only a Little Flock as a result. It may indeed have looked as though God was punishing them for their course in becoming followers of Jesus—that everything was going wrong. But not so, they were merely being taught needed lessons. (N-12-5-12)

21:4 — BUT WHEN THE MORNING — The Millennial morning.

JESUS STOOD ON THE SHORE — Present on the other side of the veil, the heavenly shore.

21:5 — HAVE YE ANY MEAT — By the Harvest time God's people were hungry for spiritual food, since the doctrines had become so corrupt as to be not nourishing; their pastors did not feed them.

THEY ANSWERED HIM, NO — “Have ye caught anything? No!” They must acknowledge that they have fished all night, all through this dark night of the Gospel age, and caught nothing. Jesus had not instructed his disciples to go fishing, but to follow his instructions. So the Church in the Gospel age have gathered but few to the Lord, and some got the thought that the Master wanted them to convert the world!

21:6 — CAST THE NET ON THE RIGHT SIDE OF THE SHIP — Other side of vail.

21:7 — THAT DISCIPLE WHOM JESUS LOVED — John knew Jesus, not by sight, but knew that none but Jesus could perform such a miracle as that. He knew him by the signs of his presence, his words.

SAITH UNTO PETER, IT IS THE LORD — The beloved disciples knew Jesus first. This equals the John class, the feet members, house-top saints. These first recognize the Master’s presence. World and nominal Church not yet know.

FISHER’S COAT — Immortality, so the Church will put on in the first resurrection. (1 Cor. 15:54; 2 Cor. 5:2-4)

21:9 — AND FISH LAID THEREON, AND BREAD — So Jesus at his second presence is girding himself and making all the faithful, watching Johns, the discerners of the signs of the times, sit down to a feast and elsewhere he tells us how he is going to serve it. (Matt. 24:45-47) He is going to have a steward, not a little flock of stewards. That steward is a wise steward. (Luke 12:42)

21:14 — THIS IS NOW THE THIRD TIME — This seems to refer to the manifestations to his disciples collectively. This was perhaps three or four weeks after Jesus’ resurrection. His appearance to the women on the morning of the resurrection and then later to the two on the way to Emmaus are evidently not counted; but the one in John 20:19-23 the same evening is counted as the first, the one a week later (vss. 26-29) is counted as the second. So far as we can understand the record, at least two Sundays went by without any further manifestations of Jesus to his disciples. The delay in giving this further or third one was evidently to test the faith of the Apostles and of leading them to reach a conclusion respecting their future course which Jesus wished to correct.

21:15 — LOVEST THOU ME MORE THAN THESE? — These things of fishing business, boats, nets.

21:16 — LOVEST THOU ME? — Jesus addressed Peter by his old name, as if recently Peter had not shown much rock like quality. Where is your heart? With me or in the fishing business?

21:17 — LOVEST THOU ME — A different word, the same one Peter had used, as though Jesus questioned the affection and depth of St. Peter's love. Peter's word expressed fondness of love. At the second question Peter must have felt a great pressure. Why did the Master so particularly question his love? Why did he put this question more to him than to the others? Was it because he had been the first of the disciples to suggest the return to fishing? Was he to blame for this? But the third time must have sent Peter's memory back to the scene in Caiaphas' Judgment hall, when he denied his Master the third time! Even with cursing! And now Jesus for the third time had asked him respecting his love and whether it was really his love of affection? Still Peter's reply must have been a choking one. (N-12-5-12) There is a wonderfully instructive lesson here for us concerning the proper way to rebuke our brethren when it is necessary. So far as the record shows the three inquiries which our Lord made of St. Peter respecting his love for him were the only rebukes ever given him as an offset or punishment for his shameful denial of the master on the night he was betrayed. Had many of us been in the Master's place we would have felt it necessary to make St. Peter very humbly apologize before we would have anything further to do with him. We would have been inclined to speak of his weakness, and ingratitude, of how he knew better, etc. Our sense of justice would in many instances have entirely overshadowed our sense of mercy and sympathy. But not so with the Master. He knew the loyalty of Peter's heart. He knew he already had gone out and wept bitterly over it. He knew what a sense of shame would be upon him and how much courage it would mean for him to think at all of meeting the Master whom he had denied. Surely it was his sympathy for Peter and his appreciation of the tendency Peter would have to become entirely discouraged that led our Lord to mention St. Peter first among the Apostles on the morning of his resurrection—"Go and tell my disciples and Peter." Don't let Peter think he is an outcast because I know he did it under stress. If our Master has set us such an example of benevolence and forgiveness without request, How are we learning this lesson? (N-12-5-12)

FEED MY SHEEP — With this third confession Jesus restored him fully as bishop or shepherd.

21:22 — TILL I COME — This would seem to refer to the John class, loving, faithful, clinging close to the Master all down the Gospel age until our Lord returned.

21:23 — St. John, the beloved disciple, in some measure represented the last members of the body of Christ. Doubtless this was the meaning of our Lord's words here. John did not tarry but a class whom, in some respects he illustrated are represented as tarrying—a class that see with the eyes of their understanding the visions and revelations which John saw in a trance. If then, John's exile in any degree represent ostracism which the Lord's followers may expect in the end of the age, a complete isolation from others and a treatment implying they are prisoners, they may take comfort that as our Lord's favor and revelations more than offset his persecutions, so the opening of the eyes of our understanding and granting to us greater knowledge and appreciation of our Lord and the divine plan will far more than offset the various experiences which in his providence God may permit to come upon us.

ACTS

1:1 — THEOPHILUS — Theophilus, then a common name was evidently a friend, and is supposed to have been a person of considerable dignity and influence, as he is elsewhere styled “most excellent,” a title which implied a considerable social or political rank. Luke was not one of the apostles and his records are not therefore of Apostolic authority. Such authority or plenary inspiration was not necessary, however, in the recording of plain, simple, facts such as Luke's Gospel and Acts present. It required no inspiration to record a fact, though it does require some ability, and it is reasonable to suppose that since the Lord used Luke's abilities in connection with the work of recording the facts of that time he was guided of the Holy Spirit in the ascertainment of the facts, which his education and natural talents eminently qualified him to state succinctly. Luke was guided of the Holy Spirit in the same sense that all of the Lord's consecrated people are guided by his spirit which is a different degree from that plenary inspiration granted to the twelve apostles, Paul taking Judas' place. (Z. '01-392; R.2924)

OF ALL THAT JESUS BEGAN BOTH TO DO AND TEACH — This “began” would suggest that Luke had in mind that the present treatise related to a continuation of our Lord's work by his holy spirit through his apostles and followers. The standpoint of view given is a glorious sweep or vista and connects up the work which Jesus began at Jordan and finished at Calvary, and has since been carrying on by his spirit and through his church, and will continue to the consummation of the Church, his body, and its glorification in the Kingdom and the Kingdom blessings will then go forth.

1:3 — SEEN OF THEM FORTY DAYS — First to show that he was no longer dead; and second that he was no longer the man Jesus, but the glorified Christ Jesus, a spirit being. (Z. '09-202; R.4427)

THINGS PERTAINING TO THE KINGDOM OF GOD — This central thought needs to be kept in mind. God's Kingdom has been promised to overthrow the Kingdom of Satan and deliver men from the bondage of sin and death. Messiah was to be the King and Israel, the seed of Abraham, to be his joint heirs and assistants in the Kingdom and its work. Natural Israel had proven unworthy of the favor, as God had foretold through the prophets, and the privileges taken from them were to be given to the remnant of Israelites indeed, and a sufficient number from among the Gentiles to complete the foreordained number. Properly therefore all said and done pertained to the kingdom. (Z. '09-5; R.4304)

1:5 — JOHN TRULY BAPTIZED WITH WATER — Notice he does not say "and with fire," Showing that the baptisms of Matt. 3:11 are two baptisms.

BAPTIZED WITH THE HOLY GHOST NOT MANY DAYS HENCE — This was pictured to them as our immersion or baptism with the Holy Spirit, and contrasted with John's baptism in water. This would represent to them the fact that Jesus died for human sin, had been received into the Father's presence and offered his merit on behalf of those who believed in him. It would be the sign or mark not only that their sins were forgiven but that their consecration had been accepted and they adopted into God's family, begotten of him as spiritual sons, who if they would develop in harmony with their covenant, in the school of Christ, would in due time be born of the spirit to the divine nature, like Jesus.

1:6 — LORD, WILT THOU AT THIS TIME RESTORE AGAIN THE KINGDOM TO ISRAEL — The disciples understood well enough that the restoration of Israel to a place of influence and power would be an incident of our Lord's great triumph in taking the dominion of earth; but they did not fully understand for this Gospel age has been, as it were, a parenthesis for the selection of the seed, the bride class. They perceived that the master was leaving them, and were anxious for information. (Z. '09-6; R.4305)

1:7 — WHICH THE FATHER HATH PUT IN HIS OWN POWER — They could see but one step in advance and must walk by faith and not by sight. See Matt. 24:36. This thought of God keeping these things in his own hand for the present is shown also in Rev. 5.

1:8 — WITNESSES — The Greek word here rendered witnesses is one from which we get our word martyr. It may have seemed strange to the Apostles that the telling of the good tidings would cost them suffering or death, and it may seem more strange to us today that the preaching of the true Gospel should bring persecution and call for martyrdom. But it is true and the master explained the reason—“The darkness hateth the light.” The world and Christendom is still more or less under the delusions of Satan, and whoever is faithful in telling the message of the Lord in its length and breadth will speedily find opposition where he might least expect it. The goodness of God, his love and the length and breadth of the divine plan of salvation is so foreign to the benighted mind that it induces persecution, because truth is stranger than fiction. (Z. '09-6; R.4305)

AND UNTO THE UTTERMOST PART OF THE EARTH — While the due time had not come for the apostles to understand the particulars of the restitution of Israel, other knowledge and work were awaiting as soon as God had marked and ordained them by the Holy Spirit. It was not due time then to discuss matters that were a long way in advance. The thing immediately in hand was their work of witnessing for Jesus, of telling out all that they knew about him, that others might know and be blessed through their ministry. In due time they would not be confined to Jerusalem and Judea, but might go to Samaria and to all the earth, for eventually the message would be for every creature. (Z. '09-6; R.4305)

1:11 — MANNER — Quietly, not with literal shouts and voices and trumpet blast, but like a thief, unknown to any but the watchers. Second known only to his disciples, not to the whole world at first. The statement does not say in same form or shape.

1:14 — AND WITH HIS BRETHREN — Even though one by inflamed with a desire to serve the Lord, the truth and the brethren, he will do wisely to follow the course of the early church and tarry and study and pray, that he may himself be filled with the Spirit, before he attempts to act as God’s ambassador to others. Indeed no one is authorized to preach the Gospel much or little except he have received this anointing and authorization of the Spirit. (Z. '09-9; R.4307)

1:15 — ABOUT AN HUNDRED AND TWENTY — A greater work was being accomplished by our Lord’s miracles than was apparent at the time. We are inclined to be surprised that only about 400 brethren were gathered during the Lord’s ministry, only that number counted worthy of the name brethren and of the privilege of meeting our Lord after his resurrection, during the 40 days. One lesson we may learn from this is that we must not look for the full fruitage of our efforts in the Lord’s service. We must be content to labor and wait, and realize the Lord Himself is behind his work, his message, making the selections of those he esteems worthy of his kingdom. Again, there may be worldly persons who may now come to a knowledge of the truth and yet not be blessed fully by it—who will, by and by, under the trials and difficulties of the time of trouble, or later, during the Millennial Age be profited by our ministries of the Truth and our present endeavours to glorify the Lord in our bodies and spirits which are His. Let us then scatter the good seed everywhere, as we have opportunity, for we know not which shall prosper this or that. Sometimes that on which we bestowed much labor, greatest zeal and effort proves fruitless, and that from which we expected the least proves very fruitful. Let us remember that the Lord will reward us according to our zeal or efforts and not according to results. Indeed the chief results He seeks are in ourselves, development of the graces and fruits of the Spirit, which will manifest themselves in so many ways in connection with our love for Him.

2:1 — PENTECOST — Repeated Pentecosts and Spirit Baptisms are not properly to be prayed for. There was but one Pentecost, and never will be another so far as the church is concerned. The Holy Spirit which there came upon the church abides with us still, and its blessing is the privilege of all the consecrated whom the Lord accepts and adopts into his family. (Z. '09-9; R.4307)

WITH ONE ACCORD IN ONE PLACE — Obedient to Jesus' instructions. (Luke 24:49) This may have been one of the numerous apartments connected with the temple, and that the quick gathering of 3000 people might thus be accounted for. (Z. '09-8; R.4306)

2:2 — AS OF A RUSHING MIGHTY WIND — Not that there was a mighty wind, but merely the sound like one. (Z. '09-7; R.4306)

2:3 — AND IT SAT UPON EACH OF THEM — From the reading of the Greek it is inferable that the tongues of fire or blaze of light which appeared over the head of each were not split or cloven tongues of fire or flames, but that the expression "cloven tongues of fire" implies that a large flame was at first manifested, which was cloven or split or divided into these smaller flames, which appeared over the head of each. (Z. '09-7; R.4306)

2:4 — FILLED WITH THE HOLY SPIRIT — The term Holy Spirit stands for the divine will and divine power, and divine truth exercised how and when and where the divine will purposes. (Z. '09-7; R.4306) (See note Isa. 61:1)

BEGAN TO SPEAK WITH OTHER TONGUES, AS THE SPIRIT GAVE THEM UTTERANCE — We are not to understand that the multitude being of one mind produced these manifestations, but rather that the Lord by his providence, brought them into the condition of full accord preparatory to the giving of this blessing. Similarly he says that special blessings may be expected when two or three are gathered in his name or in a petition—not that their uniting effects anything, but that God is pleased to reward the united efforts of his efforts of his people and thus encourage them not to forsake the assembling of themselves together. (Z. '09-7; R.4306) We are not sure now, but it is our opinion that this special sign (tongues of fire) was to the eleven apostles only, as the record is that Peter and the others of the eleven addressed the multitude in these foreign tongues. We know no evidence that others of the 120 preached in the unknown tongues on the occasion nor that they had the power to do so. (Z. '09-8; R.4306) But see 15 languages in vss. 9-11 and vs. 7. "All these which speak" showing that only certain ones of the company spoke, and that these were easily distinguished as being Galileans. (F214)

The flames of fire beautifully represent the light of truth, the enlightenment of the mind, which comes through the begetting of the Holy Spirit. This divine power was remarkable manifested in the eleven apostles, who though still recognized by the multitude as ignorant and unlearned men, they perceived that they had been with Jesus and learned of him, that they had a certain kind of enlightenment of heart and mind which could come from no other greater. It is noticeable that those deeply interested in Present truth, who study it, who love it, under the guidance and instruction of God's holy spirit and the helps provided are above the average of their fellow laborers in general intelligence. (Z. '09-8; R.4306)

2:7 — BEHOLD, ARE NOT ALL THESE WHICH SPEAK

GALILAEANS? — "All these which speak" showing that only certain ones of the company spoke, and that these were easily distinguished as being Galileans. (F214) Why did Peter, speaking under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit. Peter believed these the time of the Kingdom to be immediately at hand. (See Mark 1:14,15; Gal. 4:4; Matt. 4:23) If Israel had as a nation accepted the invitation of the high calling the Kingdom could have started then and there. But they rejected it. From there on the prophecy had been deferred and is still waiting for the full end of this age.

2:14 — BUT PETER — How marvellous is the change from weakness to strength which may come to those who are rightly exercised by life's experiences, as Peter was! Less than two months ago he had denied his Lord with cursing and now he was the leader of the Apostles, and the special mouthpiece of the Lord in the opening work of the New Age. His very stumbling strengthened his character by arousing him to the necessity of taking the right stand at any cost. Each of God's children should learn this lesson—and should be helped by his defeats as well as by his victories. (Z. '09-9; R.4307)

STANDING UP WITH THE ELEVEN — See note verse 7.

2:18 — POUR OUT — This spirit was poured out, as anointing oil, but not as a person would be said to be sent. This miraculous power or influence which manifests itself in quickening thoughts, tongues of flame, and divers languages uttered by unlearned men. Would this be appropriate language to use of a person—that he was given by the Father to the Son, and poured forth or shed forth and seen and heard as this? Surely not. Such language would be disrespectful if applied to a third person of a trinity of God’s “equal in power and glory.” (E282)

AND THEY SHALL PROPHECY — See note verse 7.

2:21 — SHALL CALL ON THE NAME OF THE LORD SHALL BE SAVED — It was not their meat in due season to show that there are two parts of that prophecy. A portion of it foretold this Pentecostal blessing, and the other part to be fulfilled afterward.

2:33 — HOLY SPIRIT, HE HATH SHED FORTH THIS — See note verse 18.

2:37 — MEN AND BRETHREN, WHAT SHALL WE DO? — They saw themselves as members of their nation, red-handed murderers of the Messiah, for whom they had been looking for centuries. The great trouble foretold by the prophets would certainly come upon their nation, and would be a reasonable penalty for their sin. What must they do? (Z. '09-10; R.4308)

2:38 — THEN PETER SAID UNTO THEM, REPENT — Contrition and repentance must necessarily precede any thorough reformation of character. If therefore any have been living carelessly, let him awake from his lethargy with a start, knowing that such a careless course will not have the divine approval. (Z. '09-10; R.4308)

NAME OF JESUS CHRIST — Christ’s sacrifice was not intended to justify people living in sin, but only the repentant ones who renounce sin and seek to live separate from it, and to come into harmony with God. (Z. '09-10; R.4308)

2:39 — FOR THE PROMISE — Though delayed so long the promise had not yet lost its vitality, not lapsed, but sure to be fulfilled, oath bound. (Heb. 6:13-18)

AND TO YOUR CHILDREN — Without a reservation for all the Jews as a nation had the promises (Rom. 9:4, 5) and this offer was promised to them.

AND TO ALL THAT ARE AFAR OFF — With a reservation “as many as called.”

EVEN AS MANY AS THE LORD OUR GOD SHALL CALL — We understand that the Lord exercised a favorable influence upon a certain class of people only, and it is an enlightening influence to the extent of bringing this class to a knowledge of Christ—to a knowledge of the fact that forgiveness of sins may be attained through faith in Christ. Thenceforth that class having been brought in touch with the Redeemer can make further progress only through faith in him and submission to his guidance into all truth and into fellowship with the Father. This class we believe is small when compared to humanity as a whole—only that portion which in honesty of heart deplores sin and longs for righteousness and fellowship with God. These like the remainder of the race, are by nature fallen, imperfect, sinful, condemned, but in these still persists some trace of the image of God, in the perfection of which Father Adam was created. It is this trace or strain of divine character represented by conscience and faith which leads them to recognize their fallen and sinful condition as compared with the divine standard of perfection, and this becomes the basis of their calling or drawing of God, their “ear.” “He that hath an ear to hear let him hear.” (Rev. 2:7; Matt. 11:15) (N-12-5-09; Z. '09-10; R.4308)

2:40 — SAVE YOURSELVES FROM THIS UNTOWARD GENERATION

— So now. Do not wait to try to save Christendom. Let each one get his own heart right with God. It is an individual matter—who will stand and who will fall. (Z. '09-11; R.4309)

3:1 — INTO THE TEMPLE AT THE HOUR OF PRAYER

— Not because they any longer thought the Temple to be the only proper place where prayer could be offered to God, but because they knew it would be a good place to meet the people. Probably they expected that the Lord would bring them in contact with the most devout Jews, so as to give them an opportunity to testify the good tidings to these. The opportunity was soon found. (Z. '16-27; R.5838)

3:2 — TO ASK ALMS OF THEM THAT ENTERED INTO THE TEMPLE

— As the Apostles evidently went frequently to the Temple and probably often by the same route, the “Beautiful Gate” it is more than likely that the lame beggar who had long been accustomed to that locality in seeking alms had seen them almost daily; possibly a knowledge of the Pentecostal wonders which had been noised abroad had reached the poor beggar. Quite possibly therefore the beggar knew Peter and John. In vs. 10 the people knew him. This might account some for his ready faith.

3:4 — JOHN, SAID, LOOK ON US

—Probably Peter and John saw that he was a man of faith and trust in God. (Z. '16-27; R.5838)

3:6 — IN THE NAME OF JESUS CHRIST OF NAZARETH

— Peter did not say “in the name of Jesus the greatest of all Jews, the highly esteemed friend of Joseph of Arimathea, and of Nicodemus one of your influential rulers.” But ignoring all such human weaknesses he plainly declared that it was Jesus the Nazarene, the despised one, whose power had healed. Some today are far less courageous than Peter; inclined to feel ashamed of the agencies God had used in spreading the Truth—for fear these would reflect against it. Whatever agencies God may use we may be sure he has some purpose or object in view and this will best be accomplished by plain, candid truthful statements like Peters. (Z. '02-9,10; R.2933)

3:7 — AND HE TOOK HIM BY THE RIGHT HAND — The lame man astonished at such an offer of blessing made an effort to obey the command because he had faith. As he struggled to obey St. Peter took him by the hand and assisted his faith. God's blessing attended. (Z. '16-27; R.5838) So spiritually, God gives us the promise and call to do his command and be led to health and glory and honor and immortality but if we have not faith enough to try to obey we cannot expect to get the blessings offered. God requires effort on our part as this is necessary to bring out the best that is in us and strengthen us to execute his will. So with our individual daily efforts. When God makes his will known to us he expects an effort to obey and as we make the effort God extends his power to us and assists our weakness and blesses the effort and we are able to do more than we could have believed. "I can do all thing through Christ who strengtheneth me."

3:8 — ENTERED WITH THEM INTO THE TEMPLE, WALKING, AND LEAPING, AND PRAISING GOD — The only power exercised was the power of faith on the part of the Apostles, for the lame man healed, had, so far as we know, no knowledge of Jesus or that the Apostles were his representatives (yet he may have, for he was carried there daily and the Apostles were often at the temple, and he may have known them and heard of other healings). The power by which he was healed was the same by which Jesus had healed. (Z. '09-20; R.4313) This was not the power of hypnotism, as in the Immanuel movement.

3:11 — ALL THE PEOPLE — Pharisees, doctors of divinity and Sadducees teaching their respective theories to inquiring crowds, were left without hearers. (Z. '09-24; R.4316)

3:12 — AND WHEN PETER SAW IT — Peter saw an opportunity to preach Christ.

BY OUR OWN POWER . . . WE HAD MADE THIS MAN TO WALK — When we obtain the attention of men it is not to be frittered away either in discussing unprofitable topics, or personal boastfulness, but is to be turned directly to the Lord's glory to the preaching of the good tidings. (Z. '02-10; R.2933)

3:19 — REPENT YE THEREFORE, AND BE CONVERTED — Receive now the covering of your sins through faith in Christ Jesus, and have as a result the divine favor and instruction in righteousness. (Z. '98-125; R.2295)

THAT YOUR SINS MAY BE BLOTTED OUT — Our sins now are covered (Psa. 32:1, 2) not blotted out. So far as the Church is concerned the blotting out of every vestige of their sins, to be remembered no more, comes with the destruction of the flesh in death and the resurrection to a new nature. In our flesh (in our imperfections, mental, moral, and physical) is the record, and this which God so graciously covers from his sight will entirely disappear in the grave. In the resurrection these overcomers will be granted new bodies, free from all the marks or blemishes of sin, perfect, likenesses of their Lord, not only free from sin reckonedly, but free from sin actually, and without a trace or mar thereof. Oh! How we long for the blotting out of sin! The blotting out of sins with the world will be different than with us. Ours is by an instantaneous resurrection, “in a moment, in a twinkling of an eye.” but theirs will be a gradual blotting out—a work of restitution. The restoring of the original nature of man in its perfection will mean the blotting out of mankind’s mental, moral and physical blemishes and their gradual restoration to that perfect condition in which father Adam was before he sinned, in the image of God, with which God was well pleased. (Z. '98-124; R.2295)

3:23 — SHALL BE DESTROYED FROM AMONG THE PEOPLE — That prophet (Christ, head and body) has been so trained that God knows he will apply the laws just as the Father himself would wish, and every member of the body is a copy of the Heavenly Father in character.

3:25 — CHILDREN . . . OF THE COVENANT — Here the Abrahamic promise is called a covenant for it was sealed by his oath. (Heb. 6:13-20; Luke 1:72, 73)

THE KINDREDS OF THE EARTH BE BLESSED — This is a covenant of liberty, unconditional, for God told what he would do according to that covenant and then left it to the liberty of all those who might come to an understanding of His promise to decide what they would do, in view of what God had promised to do. Because he wanted now only a people who so loved God that they would die to please him, and sacrifice all for his sake, and keep their covenant of sacrifice. In this it differed from the Law Covenant, which was a covenant of bondage, which did not leave it to the people what they would or would not do, but stated “Thou shalt—thou shalt not.” (See Gal. 4:25, 26)

4:1 — AND THE SADDUCEES CAME UPON THEM — Who were the accusers? Surely not the lame man who was healed, nor the common people who witnessed the miracle and gave God glory! Who, then? Alas! it was the professedly most religious, most holy, most pious teachers of the people, who beholding what would draw away the people from their own teachings, were angry at the Apostles, the more so as it was publicly charged against them that they had really crucified the Messiah a few weeks before!

(Z. '09-24; R.4316)

4:3 — FOR IT WAS NOW EVENTIDE — Too late for the Sanhedrin to meet, as they could try a case only in the day time. (Z. '09-24; R.4316)

4:6 — AND ANNAS THE HIGH PRIEST, AND CAIAPHAS — The very ones who had condemned Jesus. If the apostles wondered why the Lord had permitted them to be stopped preaching, and be imprisoned for the night, they probably saw when they were before the Sanhedrin the good reason for it all. God thus provided that the most learned and most influential, red handed with the blood of Jesus should be brought face to face with the truth of the same. As the Apostles answered the questions, these clerics must have perceived that the spirit of Christ in his followers, was able not only to perform miracles, but to endow those humble fishermen with eloquence and courage to fully defend their position and voice the truth. (Z. '09-24; R.4316)

4:11 — WHICH IS BECOME THE HEAD OF THE CORNER — What astounding boldness, courage, ability. No wonder that they marvelled at the boldness and courage of the Apostles, whom they saw as unlearned and ignorant men! (Z. '09-24; R.4316) The same principle still holds good. Whoever the Lord may use as his mouthpiece will be endowed with corresponding ability to render the service for which the Lord has called, if he abide faithful, as did the Apostles. But notice that while the Apostle manifested such courage in speaking of the truth, there was nothing proud, domineering or boastful or slanderous in his utterances. He told the truth in a simple manner. Let our course be similar. (Z. '09-24; R.4316)

4:13 — THAT THEY HAD BEEN WITH JESUS — Though unlearned they were strong characters and their lack of worldly wisdom and education was more than compensated for in the spirit of a sound mind. (F213)

4:16 — AND WE CANNOT DENY IT — It was not with them a question of right or wrong, truth or falsity, God or Satan, but the matter of the spread of religious views which would nullify their influence. (Z. '09-25; R.4317)

4:19 — WHETHER IT BE RIGHT IN THE SIGHT OF GOD . . . JUDGE YE — The apostles answered modestly, courteously, but very boldly. How much courage it must have required for men without any education and without much wisdom to have to stand before magistrates and those of high estate. Why could they not cease? Why not "be subject to the powers that be?" Ah—while we are to be subject to earthly powers as to earthly, we have a still higher responsibility in regard to spiritual things to our Heavenly Father, (He is to be first.) So long therefore as the apostles could reasonably and properly find hearers for their Master's word they preached it. So it must be with us. We must not be intimidated. To keep the message secret, to put our light under a bushel would mean our own failure to progress, the dwarfing of our new nature and ultimately disobedience to our Master, and obedience to earthly powers along this line would be the loss of our place with Jesus on his throne. It is overcomers whom the Lord is now seeking. Let us, then, while obedient to every earthly law and regulation, feel perfectly free to do the Lord's will in every matter, even the smallest, even to the extent of bringing on ourselves the disapproval of the world and the worldly, even though it bring us stripes. We have not the crown yet but the cross and whatever will help us to take it up and bear it faithfully will be a cause for thanksgiving. (Z. '09-25; R.4317) This may be a question in your minds. (Overland Monthly, 9-11)

4:32 — THE MULTITUDE . . . THAT BELIEVED WERE OF ONE HEART AND OF ONE SOUL — Only Israelites indeed stood loyally with the Redeemer during his trials and revilings, and a similar class of Israelites indeed proved amendable to the lessons and proofs and preaching of Pentecost. These were devout men out of all the country around Judea. Among these few was the love and fervor and fellowship of kindred minds. They realized themselves children of God and brethren of the Lord Jesus Christ and of each other. The experience was a new one, and the Holy Spirit ruling in their hearts, their sympathies flowed together in one common stream. They were brethren in the fullest deepest sense. How blessed this relationship, none can really know, except those who have experienced it. (Z. '09-25; R.4317)

4:36 — JOSES — Joseph, the uncle of John Mark. (Col. 4:10) Mark was supposed to be of a wealthy family residing in the mount of Olives, in the house the garden of which was our Lord's Gethsemane. For other texts about Barnabas see Acts 9:27; 11:22, 25, 30; 12:24; 13-15; 1 Cor. 9:6; Gal. 2:1, 9, 13; Col. 4:10. Evidently a man of great sympathy and beautiful character as shown by his name given him in the early church. Let us be sons and daughters of consolation, sympathetic, loving, kind, helpful. Barnabas was a Levite and hence trained to be a teacher among his people. Tradition says he became acquainted with Saul of Tarsus in Gamaliel's school. But the bonds of union were not the earthly but the spiritual ones, which led them forth as messengers. The more we possess of the spirit of holiness, devotion to God and to righteousness, the spirit of love and devotion to the brethren, the more may we be sons and daughters of consolation, pouring forth upon all with whom we come in contact the anointing from the Holy One, the perfume of love. Let us each strive to be worthy of this name Barnabas, in our home relationships, especially in the Church. (Z. '09-26; R.4317)

5:1 — ANANIAS — Here we have contrasted a true and false brotherhood in the church. Barnabas represents the true and Ananias represents the false.

SOLD A POSSESSION — Peter evidently possessed the gift of discerning the Spirits. (Z. '09-26; R.4317)

5:5 — ANANIAS . . . GAVE UP THE GHOST — We doubt if they ever had full consecration of heart, or even really came to the full knowledge of the Truth which would make them responsible for their conduct and liable to Second Death. Our surmise is that they were well intentioned, but not begotten of the Holy Spirit, and that the Lord made an illustration of them, without special injury to themselves, but for the advantage of his consecrated people at that time and ever since, illustrating the fact that the Lord knoweth them that are His, that nothing is hidden from his sight and that it is in vain that any would attempt to deceive Him. (Z. '07-220; R.4031) See Lev. 10, Nadab and Abihu.

This was a sin unpardonable, for both are still dead. Though there was nothing compulsory about this selling of property and giving to the common treasury, yet the very fact that those who did so were highly esteemed in the Church would become a snare to some; who, not having the real spirit of helpfulness and self-sacrifice, would desire to have the esteem of the brethren. So they desired the approval of the Church, but were deficient in the real spirit of self-sacrifice. In order to pose before the believers as saints of a high order, they pretended to give to the general fund the full amount received from the property. The wrong of their course was manifest. The property was their own and after they had sold it they had a right to do as they pleased with the proceeds. But they should have been honest about the transaction and if they wished to give one-tenth or half or all, it was a matter of their own business alone, and no one would have the least right to criticize them. The entire wrong consisted in the deception practised, for the purpose of deceiving the church and gaining applause for an amount of sacrifice more than they made. They lied not to man, but to the Holy Spirit of God. In this and this alone consisted the sin for which they died. (Z. '14-138; R.5453)

GREAT FEAR CAME ON ALL THEM THAT HEARD THESE THINGS — Great reverence for God and for the Apostles, his representatives. It brought a realization that consecrations to the Lord were far from meaningless forms. This meant, not only to those who had already espoused the Lord's cause, but to all who for sometime thereafter would identify themselves with the church, that any who were not sincere would best make no pretensions to discipleship. Quite probably the influence of the lesson lasted for a considerable time, during the lives of the apostles. (Z. '14-138; R.5453)

5:9 — THEN PETER SAID UNTO HER, HOW IS IT — The lesson is that God desires "truth in the inward parts" in the heart and that any who have not this quality—candor, honesty, truthfulness—cannot be pleasing to God, and therefore cannot share in the glories shortly to be given to the elect class of this Gospel Age. As we look at ourselves we come to realize how imperfect are all the members of the fallen race; and as we consider God's perfection we can conceive of only one quality that the fallen creature could possibly possess that would meet with divine approval. That one is honesty! The true Christian must in honesty confess his own shortcomings, his own deficiencies. He must in honesty acknowledge that his sufficiency is of God through Christ and not of himself. He must honestly strive for the standard set before him in the Gospel; honestly admit that he cannot do the things that he would; candidly and fully accept the righteousness of God in Christ Jesus as the covering for his blemishes. We are inclined to believe that the greatest sin in the Church—even among consecrated believers—is the sin of dishonesty; the sin of which divine disapproval is so excellently illustrated here in the case of Ananias and Sapphira. (Z. '02-29; R.2944) The nominal church of today teems and overflows with just such hypocrites, self-deceivers to some extent. They are the tares or imitation wheat.

5:11 — AND UPON AS MANY AS HEARD THESE THINGS — Not the fear which hath torment, nor the fear which comes from lacking of faith, but reverence, the fear of trifling or offending our gracious Father from whom we have already received so many blessings and from whom we have already received so many blessings and from whom we are expecting to receive the crowning blessing of glory, honor, and immortality. (Heb. 4:1) (Z. '09-27; R.4317)

5:17 — WHICH IS THE SECT OF THE SADDUCEES — This seems to show that Annas was a Sadducee, which signifies that they were higher critics. Josephus informs us that most of the upper class of his day were skeptics, Sadducees, though the mass of the people were Pharisees. (Z. '09-38; R.4321)

AND WERE FILLED WITH INDIGNATION — Thus the truth in whatever way presented has either a savor of life unto life or death unto death according to the heart condition of those coming under its influence. The simplicity of the Apostles, their earnestness in presenting the message, their power and kindness in respect to the healing of disease and casting out of devils and their evident sincerity had a right influence upon all "Israelites indeed." But the formal perfunctory Israelites in favored positions of honor and affluence, were provoked to hatred and envy; envy because of a power over the people which they could not exercise, hatred because of a feeling that these teachings were assailing and weakening their influence and tending to break down the religious system which they represented. So now, the spirit of sectarianism is jealous and envious and resents and opposes whatever is not in accord with it; fearful of its own fall, realizing continually the weakness of its own position. But the Truth presented in simplicity and under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, now as ever will appeal to all who are in the right attitude of heart. (Z. '02-38; R.2947)

5:21 — SENATE — Sanhedrin.

5:27 — AND THE HIGH PRIEST ASKED THEM — Thus another opportunity was afforded God's servants to testify and to the chief priests and rulers to hear a Gospel sermon (strictly) and the speaker failed not to impress the same points as on the previous occasion. (Z. '02-39; R.2948) What an opportunity this would have been to honest men, Israelites indeed! What a blessing it might have brought them. But being in an evil condition of heart they were merely angered, embittered, "cut to the heart." (Z. '02-39; R.2948)

5:28 — AND INTEND TO BRING THIS MAN'S BLOOD UPON US — Their words betray the source of their fear. They feared not only for the sectarian systems by they had a personal fear as well. And so we believe it is with the chief priest, scribes, and pharisees of today; they not only feel a necessity for supporting their various denominational structures, but additionally they realize their personal standing is at stake. In proof, what we present as the truth is accepted by the people, the ministers of the nominal churches are seen to be false teachers, false prophets, who ignorantly or wilfully have misrepresented the divine plan. However if the chief priests had only understood matters better they would not have been so alarmed. They would have realized that the apostles and their teachings would influence only a comparatively small member. (Z. '02-39; R.2948)

5:29 — WE OUGHT TO OBEY GOD RATHER THAN MEN — Note the boldness and meekness of the apostles. They knew well the Lord's regulations, "to be subject to the powers that be," and "not to speak evil of the ruler of the people," and following this instruction we find that while stating the truth very plainly their words contain nothing of venom or bitterness or threat. No wonder that the people took note of them that they had been with Jesus; and at the same time in respect to religious matters they recognized a higher law, and that the same God who had directed them to be subject to the powers that be, had given them a message of peace and joy to be declared everywhere. They could not permit the civil or religious power of their time to hinder their obedience to God in this matter. So it should be with us today. We should be strictly law-abiding, speaking no evil of the government or of its servants. If God sees fit to permit them, that is reason enough why we should submit to them. We can have no part nor lot with those who defame the laws or rulers. We are to use our time, talents, tongues, pen, in the service of the truth in making known the good tidings of great joy, wholly regardless of what this obedience to God shall cost us in earthly things. (Z. '02-40; R.2948)

5:32 — WHOM GOD HATH GIVEN TO THEM THAT OBEY HIM —

Note their quiet forceful speaking of the Truth. Rarely have we found much good to result from boisterous argument, and frequently it has to our knowledge resulted in evil. Those who seem to need boisterous argument evidently have not an ear for the truth, and should be let alone.

5:39 — LEST HAPLY YE BE FOUND EVEN TO FIGHT AGAINST GOD

— We must esteem these words as merely worldly wisdom and Gamaliel not an Israelite Indeed but simply prudent and possibly a just man. So today we find men in the councils of the nominal church and in the civil councils who are broad minded, wise and liberally disposed. This does not mean however that these any more than Gamaliel have our respect accordingly, but we are not to be surprised if we find they do not accept the Truth, and are not of the little flock. We are to remember the inspired word, “not many great or wise, or learned.” (1 Cor. 1:26-29; James 2:5). The number of wise, learned people who are willing to become fools in the estimation of men, for Christ’s sake, is exceedingly small, now as ever. (Z. ’02-39; R.2948)

5:40 — AND BEATEN THEM — Thirteen strokes of a three-tailed whip (forty stripes save one, 2 Cor. 11:24).

5:41 — WERE COUNTED WORTHY TO SUFFER SHAME FOR HIS

NAME — “Blessed are ye when men shall revile you, and say all manner of evil against you falsely for my sake.” So far from being cast down, their experiences because rightly received made them stronger in the Lord. They went again before the people to teach, but in no wrong attitude. They did not threaten the scribes and pharisees, reviling them as corrupt, nor did they bemoan their fate, thinking it strange that the Lord should permit these fiery trials to come upon them. No, they knew they had enlisted in the Lord’s army for service and not for dress parade. They were true soldiers of the cross. They suffered pain; we are not to suppose that a miracle was performed to hinder their feeling the lashes else there would have been no merit in endurance. (Z. ’02-40; R.2948)

5:42 — THEY CEASED NOT TO TEACH AND PREACH JESUS CHRIST

— The world is full of grumblers and often with good cause, “The whole creation groaneth.” “But we who have the first fruits of the Spirit groan within ourselves.” The Lord’s people are not to parade their difficulties bemoaning their lot; they have the throne of grace, the instruction of God’s word teaching them why present evil conditions are permitted at all. And how and when and why the time is nearing in which all tears shall be wiped off all faces and there shall be no more sighing and crying and dying. Instead, therefore of groaning they should show forth praises of him who hath called us out of darkness into such marvellous light. Our sympathy for the poor world without these advantages should so bestir us to tell them the gospel that our own woes would be smothered—partially forgotten. We may have a natural tendency to repine, grumble, bemoan afflictions which come to us even in the service of the truth. But as we become more and more developed in the heavenly character, surely the Lord will expect of us that we shall gradually attain more and more to that standard he sets for us; in which the trials and difficulties of the present will be more than offset, overbalanced by his gracious promises and by the witness of the Spirit that all these things are working together for good to us, working out for us the greater glory by preparing us therefore. The developed Christian will surely find himself counting present trials and difficulties even though severe to the natural man, to be “but light afflictions not worthy to be compared to the glory which shall be revealed in us.” (Z. '02-40; R.2948)

8:1 — EXCEPT THE APOSTLES — The apostles bravely stood their ground, willing to do whatever might come, because in this trying time the church abroad would look to them at Jerusalem for encouragement and help. Had they fled the whole church would have felt dismayed and panic stricken. (F231)

8:4 — WERE SCATTERED ABROAD . . . PREACHING THE WORD — This case of Samaria and the eunuch and the one of Cornelius, indicates that this occurrence was after the close of Israel's seventy weeks of special favor. (Z. '02-70; R.2964) Perhaps this dispersion of the saints was just about at the close of the seventy weeks. 8:5 — AND PREACHED CHRIST UNTO THEM — Having proven himself faithful in the inferior work of serving tables, he had been advanced and been made an ambassador for God in the preaching of the Gospel at Samaria. The present lesson shows him still further guided and used of the Lord in his blessed service. There is an encouraging lesson here for all who have the same spirit, the same desire, to serve the Lord and his cause. Faithfulness in little things is sure to bring larger opportunities. (Z. '02-70; R.2964)

8:26 — AND THE ANGEL OF THE LORD SPAKE UNTO PHILIP — Just how the angel spake to Philip we are not informed. We may be sure however that the indication was sufficiently clear to Philip to be more than a mere guess or impression. (Z. '02-71; R.2965)

8:27 — A MAN OF ETHIOPIA, AN EUNUCH — This eunuch belonged then, to the Kingdom of Meroe which lay on the right bank of the Nile River, from its junction with the Atbara as far south as Khartoum, and thence to the east of the Blue Nile to the mountains of Abyssinia. He was a court officer of evidently deeply religious and in his religious fervor he had gone up to Jerusalem to worship, to gain additional knowledge of the true God. This eunuch was not a Jew in the fullest sense, eunuchs not being accepted as proselytes nor granted the privileges of the congregation. (Deut. 23:1) (Z. '02-71; R.2965)

Evidently there was something in the character of this eunuch, something in his heart attitude toward God that was pleasing and acceptable to the Lord, and caused the working of this miracle in his behalf. He probably introduced the “Good Tidings” into Africa.

8:28 — SITTING IN HIS CHARIOT READ ESAIAS THE PROPHET —

He had been at the head center of the religion which he esteemed the true one and come away from Jerusalem with a manuscript copy of Isaiah, a treasure in those days, very costly. He was hungering and thirsting for the Truth and making his best possible endeavor to obtain it, as is shown by his purchase of the manuscript, and his long journey and his reading. That he was doing more than simply reading, that he was studying is shown by his language to Philip. Can we wonder that God’s special providence was manifested toward such an one, with such a condition of heart, hungering and thirsting for the Truth? We cannot wonder at it. It is in full accord with the Lord’s promise that such shall be filled, such seekers shall find, such knockers shall have the door of truth opened to them. Let us remember that we are under the care of the same God, and that he changes not, and let us learn the lesson that he is today as well able as ever to assist the sincere truth seeker. (Z. '02-71; R.2965)

Another lesson: God could have directed the eunuch to the meeting of the church at Jerusalem and to the instructions of the apostles there. But this probably would not have been so favorable for the eunuch. After receiving the Apostolic instructions he might have referred the matter to the Scribes and Pharisees, and have received explanations more or less confusing. In the Lord’s providence he quite likely heard something of the Christians and their claims that Messiah had come and had been crucified, and he quite probably knew the other side of the story,—that the Chief Priests and teachers claimed that the whole matter was a fraud. Possibly these very thoughts had led him to procure the manuscript he was reading and had brought him into the attitude of mind favorable for receiving the Truth when Philip expounded it. Let us learn from this to trust implicitly in divine wisdom and power—to remember that the Lord knoweth them that are His, and he knows best how to bring them in contact with the truth. Properly learned this lesson will not slack our hands in the divine service, for true servants will be anxious and ready to serve, as was Philip, but it will serve to strengthen our hearts and take from us that fearfulness that is a hindrance to the peace of many of God’s children. (Z. '02-71; R.2965)

8:29 — AND JOIN THYSELF TO THE CHARIOT — Philip was probably on the lookout for the object of his mission and hearing the eunuch reading from the prophecy, he may have understood at once that this was a favored person and a favorable time for the message to the service of which he had been consecrated. So we should be continually on the alert to note opportunities for service and should expect to be guided and used of the Lord. Each should seek to use every opportunity presenting itself knowing not which may be specially prospered of the Lord. (Eccl. 11:6)

Wherever we see evidences of devotion to the Lord and to his Word we should be continually on the alert to extend a helping hand. We should as did Philip seek an opportunity for conversing with such, with a view of giving them the help which they need—the very assistance which the Lord has extended to us through some channel. We are to be on the alert to pass on the blessing which we have received and to esteem that this is the chief business of life with those who have consecrated themselves to the service of the King of Kings. (Z. '02-71; R.2965)

8:30 — UNDERSTANDEST THOU WHAT THOU READEST? — Such an inquiry may not always be well received. But it was a very direct way of approaching his errand. It is well to use tact, but we have the thought that many of the Lord's people are inclined to use too much tact and are not sufficiently direct in their endeavours to present the Gospel message. Had Philip been too much under the control of this wrong sentiment respecting tact, he might have talked to the eunuch quite a while about the weather, the crops, his home in Ethiopia, the peace and prosperity of that country, etc. Thus he might gradually have gotten his hearers mind quite off the most important of all subjects, considering that he heard him and knew the subject of his study, this was the best introduction. (Z. '02-71; R.2965)

This was a test question, so to speak. If the eunuch did understand what he was reading he would take no offense at this, but he would gladly have said—“Yes, friend, I thank God that I do, and the knowledge is very precious to me. Do you also understand it?” Had he been of the wrong condition of heart, his answer might have been with more or less manifestation of offense—“What is that to you? Mind your own business.” Or had he been hypocritical cast of mind, like the Pharisees to whom Jesus spoke, he would have professed a knowledge of the subject, and then to cover his own ignorance of it would have made some general remarks and turned the conversation into another channel.

8:33 — FOR HIS LIFE IS TAKEN FROM THE EARTH — It was evidently not of chance but of providence that the eunuch had under consideration the particular part of Isaiah's prophecy which refers to our Lord Jesus as the Lamb before her shearers opening not his mouth.

9:15 — HE IS A CHOSEN VESSEL — It should not be thought strange that the Lord used this great but humble man, St. Paul, as his mouthpiece in presenting many of the deep things of the divine plan. His early education and his association with the Gentiles combined with his deep spirituality, and fulness of consecration to the Lord well qualified him to be a “chosen vessel.” (Z. '09-134; R.5486)

TO BEAR MY NAME BEFORE THE GENTILES — Notice the order. St. Paul's missionary efforts were first directed of the Lord to the Gentiles. It was later on that he stood before King Agrippa and other notables of Palestine.—Still later that he was sent a prisoner to Rome, and to some extent doubtless bore witness there before the court. (2 Tim. 4:16-18). Later through the epistle to the Hebrews God's message through this prince of the Apostles did much for the "Israelites indeed" who were trammelled by the things of the Law Covenant and unable to disentangle themselves so as to rightly discern between the shadows in the types and the eternal verities antityped in the Christ head and body, and his great work as the antitypical priest, prophet, judge, mediator of the New Law Covenant. (Z. '09-134; R.4386)

9:31 — THEN HAD THE CHURCHES REST — While Saul's changed course may have had something to do with this, in all probability, a trouble which arose about that time between the Jews and their Roman rulers had more to do with it. About the year 38 A.D., the Emperor Caligula, who had but recently come into office sent out an edict that his statue should be set up in various quarters of the empire and worshipped.

When the Jews learned that it was the intention to put these statues in Jerusalem and even in the Temple itself, as well as elsewhere, their indignation and trouble knew no bounds. They gathered in great masses, young and old to entreat the local governor to intercede for them that such a desecration of their Holy Temple and Holy City and Holy Land should not be permitted. While the governor made every effort to have the emperor change the edict the most he could accomplish was a command to leave the temple untouched. But many altars were raised to the emperor outside its gates. The news came that all the Synagogues of Alexandria had been turned into temples to Caesar. This state of affairs lasted till Jan. 24, A.D. 41 when Caligula was assassinated. It is not surprizing that such outside persecution and interference with their own religious rights and liberties caused the Jews to relax their persecutions of the Christians, and thus brought about this period of rest. (Z. '97-72; R.2117)

WALKING IN THE FEAR OF THE LORD — "The reverence of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." (Psa. 111:10; Prov. 15:33; 1:7; Job 28:28) Not a selfish fear nor a fear that the Lord will eternally torment us or otherwise unjustly deal with his creatures, but a reverence of the Lord which recognizes his greatness and His goodness, and fears to do aught that would be displeasing to Him or that would separate from His love and favor. This proper kind of fear which is the beginning of wisdom will never be lost as long as the wisdom is maintained.

AND IN THE COMFORT OF THE HOLY SPIRIT — This is the spirit or mind or disposition of God. This is the primitive church was cultivating, developing in their hearts, walking in it, living it. Comfort = con (= together or with) + fort (= strong), hence strengthened together, united. The thought is that not only was the church multiplying in numbers and being build up together as God's Holy Temple, but that its various living stones were being cemented or bound together by the Holy Spirit. (Comforts of God—Psa. 94:17-22; 119:75-77; 5:11, 12; 2 Cor. 1:1-4; Isa. 61:2; 66:10-14; 2 Cor. 7:6; John 14:16, 26; 15:26; 16:7)

9:32 — PETER PASSED THROUGHOUT ALL QUARTERS — Though the apostles made Jerusalem their headquarters, yet they went hither and thither throughout Judea meeting with the Lord's people scattered by the previous persecution and forming little congregations everywhere.

9:33 — A CERTAIN MAN NAMED AENEAS — Evidently he was not one of the saints. Rarely were miracles of healing performed upon believers. If sickness comes to those of the household of faith it is to be considered as of divine permission with a view to correction or to opportunities for growth in grace—among the “all things” which shall work together for good to those rightly exercised by them.

9:34 — PETER SAID . . . JESUS CHRIST MAKETH THEE WHOLE — Peter was making sure that none should think that the power he exercised was his own.

9:36 — A CERTAIN DISCIPLE NAMED TABITHA — Tabitha = Dorcas = Gazelle. The gentleness, timidity, and bright sparkling eye of the gazelle are the characteristics meant and beauty. We know not if she was beautiful of face but the account shows her beautiful of character. (Z. '09-56; R.4335)

9:38 — DESIRING HIM THAT HE WOULD NOT DELAY TO COME TO THEM — Doubtless in their grief they hoped for comfort but hardly expected Dorcas' awakening. 9:41 — THE SAINTS AND WIDOWS — Probably not all these widows were saints. We should do good unto all men as we have opportunity. (Z. '09-56; R.4335)

10:2 — AND PRAYED TO GOD ALWAY — Seventy weeks of favor had been set apart (490 years) as a period of favor to the Jewish nation. (Dan. 9) The end of this period was marked by the sending of the Gospel message to Cornelius, and by his begetting of the Holy Spirit after he had believed the message. Cornelius was a just, reverential, benevolent man, one in every way fitted to be a Christian, the only obstacle being that he was not a Jew. That obstacle was not Jewish prejudice, but an insurmountable one—God's unwillingness to deal with any others than his covenanted people of the seed of Abraham. So soon as the covenant agreement with Israel ended, and God's due time came for dealing with such Gentiles as were in proper condition of heart, he had no difficulty in finding messengers to carry it. (Z. '09-70; R.4344) (The Gospel)

10:3 — HE SAW IN A VISION EVIDENTLY — “Openly,” not in a dream.

10:4 — THINE ALMS ARE COME UP FOR A MEMORIAL BEFORE GOD — Because the “due time” had come. His prayers and alms of years had been received of the Lord. We may be sure that the alms and prayers of all other Gentiles ascended up as incense to the Lord. We may be sure that blessings were arranged also for all such, and the Gospel sent to them (see Ethiopian eunuch), though not in so marked a manner as to Cornelius, because the Lord would make of his case a special lesson for the benefit of the apostles and all of us who have lived since.

10:6 — HE SHALL TELL THEE WHAT THOU OUGHTEST TO DO — Cornelius’ alms and prayers had not saved him. The death of Christ had not saved him, though it was necessary to his salvation, and his good works and prayers had been necessary to his preparation for a blessing. The blessing could not come to him except through a knowledge of the Truth, just as the apostle assures us it will ultimately reach all mankind. (1 Tim. 2:4) Peter recounting the incident elsewhere said that the angel told Cornelius, “When he is come, he shall tell thee words which shall be to the saving of thyself and house.” (Acts 11:14)

10:8 — HE SENT THEM TO JOPPA — Cornelius thus showed his faith by sending immediately.

10:9 — HOusetop TO PRAY ABOUT THE SIXTH HOUR — Perhaps seeking special guidance as to what should be his next move in Christian work.

10:23 — CERTAIN BRETHREN — Six men. (Acts 11:6)

10:28 — GOD HATH SHEWED ME THAT I SHOULD NOT CALL ANY MAN COMMON OR UNCLEAN — The disciples had in common with other Jews no thought of the Gospel invitation being extended to the Gentiles. They considered that like all the preceding favors of God, it would go to the Jews only. It was not bigotry and not prejudice that lay at the bottom of this, but due to the divine dealings of the past. They had not yet learned that the Gospel dispensation, with its spiritual Israel, is, as it were, a kind of parenthesis in the divine plan, with Israel dropped at its beginning and restored to position at its conclusion. (Z. '09-70; R.4344)

10:29 — I ASK THEREFORE FOR WHAT INTENT YE HAVE SENT FOR ME — Peter had not presupposed what was actually to occur.

10:32 — WHEN HE COMETH, SHALL SPEAK UNTO THEE — There was but one way for the truth to reach Cornelius. “Faith cometh by hearing and hearing by the word of God.” It came not to him by impression. Just so today, the knowledge of the truth goes not to people, however ready for it, by mental impression, but still as then God honors and uses his faithful ones as his mouthpieces. (Z. '09-71; R.4345)

10:35 — IS ACCEPTED WITH HIM — Peter did not mean by these words that he had previously been mistaken in supposing that the divine favors were all confined to the Jewish nation. He was right in that. But he meant that he perceived that now God was no longer a respecter of persons and nationality, that now henceforth, the righteous, God-fearing, in every nation were to be acceptable. He now perceived the meaning of the vision-dream, and the words “What God hath cleansed (by the blood of Christ, typified by the blood of bulls and goats for the typical cleansing of Israel), that call thou not common or unclean.”

12 — Divine providence often contrasts the experiences of different members of the Church and also experiences in our own lives so we may learn to trust him in all conditions.

12:1 — HEROD THE KING — Herod was a family name. There were several kings over Israel by that name.

1) Herod the Great, who flourished about the time of Jesus' birth and who murdered the babes at Bethlehem.

2) Herod Archelaus, son and successor to (1)—deposed A.D.6.

3) Herod Antipas, another son of (1), murderer of John the Baptist, who later with his men of war mocked Jesus— deposed A.D. 40.

4) Herod Agrippa I, grandson of (1) murderer of James.

5) Herod Agrippa II, the last of the Herods, before whom Paul defended himself. This Herod was given his Kingdom by Claudius Caesar whom he saved from a violent death. He was a descendent of Esau. He curried favor with the Jews in every way. He hung in the temple as a votive offering, the gold chain which Caligula had given him; he lived in Jerusalem and punctiliously observed the traditions of the Fathers and secured the fervent loyalty of the Pharisees. At the Feast of Tabernacles (A.D. 41) he took the reader's stand and read the whole book of Deut. aloud, bursting into tears as if quite overcome, when he reached the words, “Thou mayest not set a stranger over thee, who is not thy brother.” He feared that because of his Edomite blood he might incur the hatred which his grandfather Herod the Great, had born and took this way of gaining favor. (Z. '02-35; R.3002)

12:2 — HE KILLED JAMES THE BROTHER OF JOHN WITH THE SWORD — Sons of Zebedee. This James was one of the most noble and notable of the Apostles. He was one of the three who usually accompanied our Lord in the most confidential capacity, at transfiguration (Mark 9:28);

Jairus daughter (Luke 8:51); Gethsemane (Matt. 26:37). He and John were called Boanerges (“sons of thunder”). This James mentioned: Mark 1:20; Matt. 10:2; Mark 3:14; Luke 6:13; Acts 1:13; Luke 9:28, 54; Mark 10:37. He was among the early martyrs for the truth, while his brother lived to old age, probably the last of the Apostles. (Z. '02-135; R.3003)

God, while pleased to use the Apostles and others in his work, is not at all dependent on them, but that one or all could be dropped out, and yet the Lord be thoroughly competent to manage his own work and accomplish all his gracious promises.

12:4 — AND DELIVERED HIM TO FOUR QUATERNIONS OF SOLDIERS — Quarternion, which is four soldiers to guard a prisoner, two chained to him, one on each side, by the wrists; two doing sentinel duty, one at the door of the cell and the other in an outer court (vs. 6). The four quaternions were in the nature of relief guards, so that each quaternion would have charge of the prisoner for six hours out of the 24. (Z. '02-135; R.3003)

EASTER — Passover.

12:5 — PRAYER WAS MADE WITHOUT CEASING OF THE CHURCH UNTO GOD FOR HIM — Meantime the infant church at Jerusalem was sadly perplexed by the trend of affairs, to know how to interpret the Lord’s providences. Doubtless they held the memorial of Jesus’ death at this time, as we now do, and their hearts were sadly stricken, realizing the Lord’s faithful must all drink of his cup of ignominy and death. Well instructed by the apostles we may be sure they strove not to ask amiss, that they copied the Master’s petition—“Thy will be done, not mine.” Probably James’ death was sudden, before there was time for much prayer, but Peter was held over in bonds. (Z. '02-135; R.3003) No doubt they reasoned they had already sustained a great loss, and no doubt Peter’s life and his service seemed the much more precious since the loss of James. (Z. '02-236; R.3004)

12:6 — THE SAME NIGHT PETER WAS SLEEPING — His heart was filled with the peace of God which passeth all understanding, and could sleep peacefully in spite of the unfavorable conditions, and his expectation that on the morrow he would be called before the King and publicly executed. (Z. '02-136; R.3004)

12:10 — THE ANGEL DEPARTED FROM HIM — There is a simplicity about this story that stamps it as true. Were it fiction, the angel would doubtless be represented as doing homage to Peter, putting on his shoes, or mantle, or girding him. But the angel did for him only what he could not do for himself.

12:12 — JOHN, WHOSE SURNAME WAS MARK — Cousin of Barnabas. (Col. 4:10) John was his Hebrew name and Marcus his Latin name; author of Mark's Gospel, with Paul and Barnabas on their missionary journey.

WHERE MANY WERE GATHERED TOGETHER PRAYING — The majority of the believers were scattered abroad, apparently, the few residing in Jerusalem, it seems, met in little groups in private houses, for prayer and praise, for study of the word, and mutual upbuilding in the most holy faith. Such a meeting was evidently here, perhaps all the time nearly since his imprisonment.

12:14 — AND WHEN SHE KNEW PETER'S VOICE — It was customary to make inquiries before opening, especially in this persecution.

12:15 — THOU ART MAD — This does not prove they had not faith in their own prayers, for their continuance showed they did, but knowing something of the prison and the 4 quaternion soldiers, they probably did not expect the release from prison, but thought the answer to their prayer might be some interference at the trial to change the King's mind. (Z. '02-136; R.3004)

12:17 — TO HOLD THEIR PEACE — They were so excited that they would probably have created quite a commotion.

GO SHEW THESE THINGS UNTO JAMES — Not confound this with the James of v. 2. This was "James the Less," son of Alphaeus (Cleopas Mark 3:18, husband of Mary) supposed to be second cousin of our Lord and so called the Lord's brother, according to Jewish custom (Gal. 1:19). This James mentioned: Matt. 10:3; Mark 3:18; Luke 6:15; Acts 1:13; Matt. 13:55; Mark 6:3; Gal. 1:19; Matt. 27:56; Luke 24:10; Mark 15:40; Jude 1; Luke 6:16; Acts 1:13; 15:13; 21:18; 1 Cor. 15:7; Gal. 2:9, 12; James 1:1. The author of the Epistle of James. (Z. '02-135; R.3003) (S.B.D.)

HE DEPARTED, AND WENT INTO ANOTHER PLACE — Some in Peter's place would have been inclined to boast that prison walls and Roman soldiers were powerless against the Lord, and make a great hurrah about the escape, and would perhaps have gone the length of daring the King to arrest them again. But we believe such a course would not be the Lord's will. This is the time of Satan's power, and we are to expect miraculous deliverances to be the exception, not the rule. When Peter and John were delivered, it was by the Lord's instruction that they went back to the temple and continued to proclaim. But now in the absence of any instruction, the apostle wisely understood it proper to follow the Lord's advice—"When they persecute you in one city flee to another." (Z. '02-137; R.3004) In James' case the escape was final, in Peter's it was temporary.

12:23 — AND GAVE UP THE GHOST — This was a magnificent festival in honor of Claudius Caesar. Vast multitudes assembled to see the games, and before these the King, in all the pride of high estate, appeared in robes inwrought with silver threads. Time chosen—daybreak, so that the rising sun, shining on his grand mantle lighted it into dazzling splendor. Some flatterers raised the cry—“Deign to be gracious to us thou divine one! Hitherto we have honored thee as a man, henceforth we own thee as more than mortal.” (echoing a reminiscence of the days of Caligula). Instead of rebuking such lying servility, he drank it in with high pleasure. Next moment a great pain racked his bowels. Conscience-stricken at this blasphemous folly, the poor wretch felt the wrath of God had struck him down, and the cry arose from him in his agony—“See your God must now give up life, and hasten into the arms of corruption.” (Z. '02-135; R.3002)

14:23 — ORDAINED — From a Greek word root meaning hand and stretch. The meaning is to elect by stretching forth the hand.

ELDERS — From a Greek word meaning older, senior; comparative degree. This statement implies that this was the invariable custom in the early Church. A totally different Greek word is used for ordain when our Lord ordained the apostles. (F276) (See John 15:16)

15:1 — AFTER THE MANNER OF MOSES, YE CANNOT BE SAVED — To the Jews who had been under the Mosaic ritual with its washings, fastings, feasts, new moons, sabbaths, and holy days, Christian liberty meant a release from a considerable measure of this institution, many of which were typical and educational—suited to the house of servants, but not appropriate to the house of sons. To the Gentiles, to whom God had never given the Law, and who were therefore not under any of its provisions or conditions or requirements, but who were under certain superstitions, and additionally the imposing of a law—not the Mosaic Law and its institutions and ceremonies, but the “perfect law of liberty” (Jas. 1:25) “the law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus”—restraints of the will, of the flesh under the Law of Love. (R.3018)

15:2 — APOSTLES AND ELDERS ABOUT THIS QUESTION — It was nearly twenty years after Pentecost that this conference took place in Jerusalem. Its purpose was this very subject—the Law of Christ, its bearing upon Jew and Gentile converts to what extent the Mosaic requirements were abolished for the Jew, and to what extent the Law of Christ put restraints upon Gentile converts, and to what extent these two classes, previously separated socially and religiously by the Mosaic Law might now come together with full brotherly fellowship and affinity, without the violation of the conscience of any and without the unnecessary restraint of the liberties of any. The Antioch brethren had full confidence that God had appointed the Apostles, and that their conclusion on the matter would be the correct one—that thus the entire subject might be fully, fairly, thoroughly investigated and the mind of the Lord determined as accurately as possible. (R.3018)

15:3 — CONVERSION OF THE GENTILES — The journey brought these two into contact with many of the household of faith, a few here and there, in almost every city through which they passed. The brethren were glad to hear of God's blessing upon their labors and though the brethren reached were mostly Jewish converts the report caused great joy. This shows they had the true Christian spirit, they had largely, if not completely, lost the Jewish prejudice and jealousy. It shows that the majority of the Jewish brethren in contending for the Mosaic Law and its ceremonies implied no opposition to the Gentiles themselves, by merely a confusion of mind about the Lord's will on the matter. (R.3018) They had not yet learned the breadth and height and depth of God's plan.

15:4 — RECEIVED — from a Greek word aorist pass., receive from without, approve, receive unto fellowship. Note the whole church with the apostles and elders.

15:5 — KEEP THE LAW OF MOSES — These were allowed to present their side of the subject, their understanding. A full, fair discussion.

15:6 — TO CONSIDER — They had the responsibility of leadership to feed the flock of God. (John 21:15, 16, 17; Acts 21:28; 1 Cor. 4:1, 2; Heb. 13:17). This subject had been left for some years for gradual development and enlargement of heart and mind among the believers, but now it was necessary to decide it.

15:7 — WHEN THERE HAD BEEN MUCH DISPUTING — Evidently much discussion among the apostles and elders. The Lord impressed Peter to speak. The word means — discuss together, seek together, not quarreling, but seeking the complete answer. Among those truly the Lord's, opportunity for discussion in freedom within reasonable limits is absolutely necessary to spiritual health and progress. To shut it off means to crush proper opportunities of thought and expression, and in many cases means to accumulate a force which would ultimately result in an explosion, damaging to many. (R.3019)

15:9 — PURIFYING THEIR HEARTS BY FAITH — Note the important points Peter is stating (six or seven). See other books.

16:3 — AND CIRCUMCISED HIM — Some hold that Paul here contradicted his statement (Gal. 5:2) "if ye be circumcised Christ shall profit you nothing." But Timothy was a Jew, because his mother was a Jewess (vs. 1) and circumcision was a national custom among the Jews, which began before the Law of Moses, and which was continued after Christ “had made an end of the Law (Covenant), nailing it to its cross.” (Col. 2:14). Circumcision was given to Abraham and his seed 430 years before the Law was given to Israel as a nation at Mt. Sinai. (Gal. 3:17; Gen. 17:10-14, 23-27). Not that it was necessary for Timothy or any other (Christian) Jew to be circumcised but that it was not improper; and as he was going among Jews to a considerable extent, it would be to his advantage—giving him the confidence of the Jews. (F226, 227) (See 1 Cor. 7:18, 19; Gal. 5:2; 2:3-5). Timothy’s parentage would become known to the Jews in general with whom they came in contact while traveling. Inquiry might be made as to whether Timothy had been circumcised. If not, the implication would be that he had been a renegade Jew. If he had been circumcised this would grant him correspondingly greater influence with them; a closer access to their hearts. (Z. ’16-151; Z. ’02-174; R.5898; 3022)

16:6-9 — In these verses we have three positive and distinct statements showing the Lord’s supervision of his cause and his servants. “Asia” = Lesser Asia or Asia Minor; the region where the seven churches of Revelation were located. “Spirit”—God’s power or influence. Things went unfavorable and Paul concluded that the Lord was hindering their efforts. In his perplexity and uncertainty was the Lord’s opportunity. God was not averse to the message going to Asia Minor, for it did go there later, and possibly at a more opportune time. But this was the time for sending the message to Europe. The Lord could have directed his message southward to Africa from Europe, but there is a due time connected with every feature of the divine plan and now by divine arrangement the message of God’s grace in Christ was to go to the Greeks, who at this time were recognized as the foremost people of the world in literature and arts. (Z. ’09-156; R.4399)

16:11 — WE — Note the change of pronoun. Silas may have found it necessary to go home to Jerusalem to close up his affairs before starting on the tour; and joined Paul in Asia Minor. This inference is based on the fact that Luke, the historian, says “he” instead of “they” at the beginning of Paul’s journey, then uses “they” after Paul had been joined by Silas and Timothy at Lystra, and finally uses the word “we” when he would include himself. Luke probably joining the company at Troas. (Z. ’02-173; R.3022) A man of education, a Scribe as well as a physician, the Lord evidently provided Luke as St. Paul’s secretary that thereby the Apostle’s letters should reach many of the churches of that time as well as the Lord’s people from then until now. Here we have another illustration of the privileges of the various members of the Body of Christ. Luke could not be the Apostle Paul, nor do Paul’s work. But he could be used of the Lord honorably and efficiently in a greater spread of the Truth. So it is with us. We cannot be apostles, we cannot do anything very great. But if we are filled with the Spirit of the Lord it is our privilege to be used to some extent in some service of the Truth. (Z. ’16-152; R.5898)

16:12 — AND A COLONY — A Roman Colony, founded by Augustus. The establishment of Philip of Macedonia was probably not exactly on the same site. Philip found there a town named Datus or Datum, probably in its origin a factory of the Phoenicians who were the first that worked the gold mines in the mountains here. The proximity of the gold mines was of course the origin of so large a city as Philippi. But its plain is of extraordinary fertility. Its position was on the main road from Rome to Asia, the Via Egnatia which from Thessalonika to Constantinople followed the same course as the existing Post road. (S.B.D.)

16:13 — AND SPAKE UNTO THE WOMAN WHICH RESORTED

THITHER — Apparently there was no synagogue in Philippi, and matters may have looked very unfavorable to Paul and his companions. However they heard of a little religious meeting held every Sabbath by the river side, outside the city gate. It was a prayer meeting principally and place of divine worship. Not having the facilities of a synagogue they probably had no Scripture parchments, and hence no reading of the Law, but merely prayer and worship. All was favorable to the Gospel message. (Z. '09-157; R.4400) The Apostle did not look for Shrine or inquire for the most degraded section of the city, but evidently made inquiries about people who already knew God and revered and worshipped him. He knew that God's work now is not that of reforming the world, but a seeking and gathering of jewels, a hunt for those whose hearts are tender and broken and therefore ready for the balm of Gilead, the Gospel message of Redemption and deliverance from sin and its penalty. (Z. '02-175; R.3022)

16:14 — THYATIRA — A city of Asia Minor, the very province into which the Apostle had not been permitted to preach. (Z. '02-175; R.3022)

WHOSE HEART THE LORD OPENED — Not that the Lord had performed a miracle in her case, but rather as with all the Lord's people none are ready for the Truth unless the Lord has prepared their hearts. O how much this preparation of heart means! Often trials, disappointments, difficulties—the processes by which the Lord breaks up and mellows and makes the soil of our heart fit to receive his truth and grace. No doubt Lydia could look back, after she had received the truth, and praise God for the leadings of His providence by which her heart had been broken, and humbled and made ready to appreciate the Truth. (Z. '02-175; R.3022)

16:15 — BAPTIZED, AND HER HOUSEHOLD — Baptized probably that very Sabbath. Implying that she was the mother of adult children and that these were so thoroughly under her influence that with her they worshipped the true God, neglecting the idolatries prevalent in Philippi. (Z. '09-156; R.4400) Where the heart is in readiness, obedience does not need to be delayed, nor does it require long to decide to be on the Lord's side, and obedient to the voice of the good message he sent us. Lydia was prompt to obey the message in full consecration. (Z. '02-175; '09-157; R.3022; 4400)

IF YE HAVE JUDGED ME TO BE FAITHFUL — Showing humility, Lydia not only confessed the Lord but sought means to serve Him. She could not join Paul's company as an evangelist of the good tidings but she could entertain and serve Paul and his associates and did so. Apparently her sole desire was to serve the Lord, though no doubt she received more than compensation for the expense and trouble in spiritual riches and refreshment. Her whole question was whether the Apostle and his companions would honor her dwelling with their presence. Such conduct is to be considered a favorable sign indicating deep love for the Lord and for the good tidings. (Z. '02-175; R.3022)

SHE CONSTRAINED US — Implies that the Apostle was not too ready to force himself upon anybody. Her suggestion apparently was not too quickly accepted, but with indication that the disciples of Jesus had no desire to intrude upon others. How beautiful it is to see God's children wisely exercised in such matters. How much more is their influence upon another for good. (Z. '06-152; R.3777)

16:16 — A SPIRIT OF DIVINATION — Literally "a spirit of Python" (Diag.) Python, from the Greek verb "to rot" was the great serpent which Apollo killed on Mt. Parnassus and left to rot. Hence Apollo was called the Pythian; and soothsayers who were supposed to be inspired by Apollo with wild cries and convulsive movements were said to have a Python. (Peloubet) See Diag. note. Actually obsessed by an evil demon.

MASTERS — Her owners were probably a syndicate of influential men. (Z. '09-157; R.4400)

16:25 — AND SANG PRAISES UNTO GOD — The world cannot understand the power which, operating in these men, enabled them to rejoice in persecution. With their backs bleeding from the whips of torture, and hands and feet fast in the stocks, most uncomfortable, they were yet able to sing praises to God for the privilege they enjoyed of suffering with Christ, for righteousness sake, thus filling up that which is behind of the afflictions of Christ. Such characters we are to emulate. Such joy and peace in the midst of sorrow and persecution can come only from the Lord. But to be worthy of this blessing, and to receive it, means to develop and possess a character which the enemies of righteousness would deem worthy of persecution. To be a hero in the strife, a defender of the right and an opposer of the wrong, a servant of righteousness, a soldier of the Cross. (Z. '11-236; R.4865)

17:12 — THEREFORE — Because they studied and proved. (See note 1 John 4:1)

17:18 — THIS BABBLER SAY — The Greek word here means properly a bird that picks up seeds from the ground and is so used in the “Birds” by Aristophanes. Hence, secondarily it may mean a pauper who prowls around the market place, or a parasite who lives by his wits, or “a contemptible and worthless person,” or from the perpetual chattering of such birds, the word may denote an idle babbler. (Life of Paul, by Conybeare and Howson.)

17:21 — BUT EITHER TO TELL, OR TO HEAR SOME NEW THING — It was a period in the history of the world, when conquest and discovery, facilities of travel, and the mixture of races had produced a general fusion of opinions, resulting in an indifference to moral distinctions and at the same time encouraging the most abject credulity. (Conybeare and Howson)

17:26 — APPOINTED — The times when these nations should be brought in contact with the truth, so that the reverential quality, inherent in the race, might be exercised and they feel after the true God and haply find him. (N-3-17-12) The calling out of the Holy Nation, the elect, to bless Israel and all nations, is now under way. “Now is the acceptable time” for the great salvation.

18:19 — HE CAME TO EPHESUS — Paul here was completing his second missionary tour.

AND LEFT THEM THERE — Aquila and Priscilla went with him as far as Ephesus (vs. 26). The vessel on which he sailed remaining at port over the sabbath, St. Paul improved the opportunity to speak for Christ in the Synagogue at Ephesus. His discourse was on the nature of a preparation for a future work which he hoped to do there. Doubtless he spoke about first principles, respecting the glorious Messiah prophecies, the fulfilment of which should now be expected. His discourse was well received and he was urged to remain longer, so he gave a promise of a later return. (Z. '16-232; R.5935)

18:20 — HE CONSENTED NOT — See comment verse 19, Second comment.

18:22 — SALUTED THE CHURCH — En route Paul stopped at Jerusalem to keep the feast and doubtless gave them an account of the Lord’s blessings upon his recent ministry in Europe. (Z. '03-60; R.3152)

HE WENT DOWN TO ANTIOCH — Thus ended Paul’s second missionary tour. We are not told how long he remained there.

18:23 — STRENGTHENING ALL THE DISCIPLES — While Paul was energetic in the establishment of new companies of the Lord’s people he was not slack in looking out for the spiritual welfare and growth of those which he had already established, as is shown by the fact that this was his third visit to these churches. a) Acts 13:14; b) Acts 15:36-41; c) Acts 18:23.

- 18:24 — CAME TO EPHESUS — Alexandria was noted for its books and extensive libraries, and for its great light house (Pharos). Apollos was a Christian brother and used such close, logical and convincing arguments that he obtained twelve converts to Christianity. (ch. 19:7) (Z. '03-60; R.3152)
- 18:26 — THE WAY OF GOD MORE PERFECTLY — Apollos was not so far advanced in the knowledge of the truth as Aquila and Priscilla who had been with St. Paul. As soon as these heard Apollos they recognized him as a Christian brother and invited him to their own home where they had a good opportunity to tell him “the way of God more perfectly.” (Z. '03-60; R.3152)
- 18:27 — TO PASS INTO ACHAIA — Having heard of the glorious work of St. Paul at Corinth, Apollos went there with the letter of introduction. His going to Corinth proved a blessing to the church there. That the Corinthian brethren were greatly pleased with his masterful ability to present the truth is shown in that some of the brethren were disposed to say they were followers of Apollos. (1 Cor. 1:10-17; 3:3-7) (Z. '03-60; R.3152)
- 19:1 — AND FINDING CERTAIN DISCIPLES — Evidently Gentiles. These were the twelve converted by Apollos. Ch. 18:24-26; 19:7.
- 19:2 — WHETHER THERE BE ANY HOLY GHOST — There are many such today, who have gone as far as a baptism of repentance and reformation and faith in the Redeemer, but who have not been instructed about the great privileges which belong to the Gospel age. They know not that we may become heirs of God, jointheirs with Christ if we suffer with him. (Rom. 8:17; 2 Tim. 2:11, 12) (Z. '03-60; R.3152)
- 19:3 — UNTO JOHN’S BAPTISM — This record shows that John’s baptism and Jesus’ baptism were not the same but different. Apollos evidently had explained to these Ephesians the Gospel merely to the extent of repentance from sin and faith in Christ as the Redeemer. He had no knowledge of the deeper meaning of baptism as explained by St. Paul. (Rom. 6:3-5) A baptism of consecration to suffer with Christ, to be dead with him, to participate in his resurrection to the new nature and ultimately to be sharers with Him in the Heavenly Kingdom. The Apostle explained to them this “mystery” of fellowship with Christ—participation in his sufferings now and by and by in his glory. (Col. 1:26, 27; Phil. 3:8-11) (Z. '03-60; R.3152)
- 19:4 — WITH THE BAPTISM OF REPENTANCE — The sins thus figuratively washed away did not include original (Adamic) sin, with its death penalty, but merely transgressions against the Mosaic Law Covenant.

The symbolic washing represents a return to loyalty and obedience to God, to the extent of their ability, so far as their hearts were concerned. Thus coming into accord with Moses they would by faith be transferred to his antitype, Christ. This continued till the middle wall of partition was broken down, and the unbelieving natural branches were broken off. Since then, baptism for the remission of sins is entirely wrong. (Z.'03-60; R.3152)

19:6 — WHEN PAUL HAD LAID HIS HANDS — Only an apostle could confer these gifts of the Holy Spirit by laying on of hands. (Heb. 6:2; Acts 8:14-17) (Z.'03-60; R.3152)

THEY SPAKE WITH TONGUES, AND PROPHESED — Wherever we go let us each seek by the grace of God to explain the way of the Lord more perfectly to those already partially indoctrinated ones. So long as there are any such with whom to labor, it would be unwise, yea contrary to our commission for us to devote our lives and energy to the world. Let us be diligent in this highest department of the Lord's work, feeding, instructing the Lord's flock. (Z.'03-60; R.3152)

19:9 — BUT WHEN DIVERS WERE HARDENED — The opposition became quite marked and the certain Jewish adherents began to speak evil of both the teachings and the believers. Then the apostle withdrew.

DISPUTING DAILY IN THE SCHOOL OF ONE TYRANNUS — St. Paul probably labored at his trade in the forenoon and during the afternoon preached the message to such as had hearing ears not only in the public hall, but also by visiting those who he had reason to expect would be amendable to the truth. (Acts 20:20) Apparently this was his usual manner of life. (1 Thes. 2:9)

19:11 — GOD WROUGHT SPECIAL MIRACLES BY THE HANDS OF PAUL — We may reason that the manifestation of divine power here was necessary to the establishment of the church and to the general influence of the Gospel in that region, as an offset to the blinding influences of Satan's agents and power, magicians.

19:13 — EXORCISTS — Perceiving the Apostle's power to be greater than their own, certain magicians essayed to use the name of Jesus as a charm or magic word just as they were in the habit of using other magic words in their incantations. (Z.'03-72; R.3157)

19:17 — THE LORD JESUS WAS MAGNIFIED — Many who had long had confidence in these wonder workers became convinced that the Apostles' teachings were correct.

19:19 — AND FOUND IT FIFTY THOUSAND PIECES OF SILVER —

Thus showing their sincerity. These books had records of the various magic words and recipes by which incantations could be made affecting and counteracting various of the ills of life. At that time all books were precious, for they were made of skins instead of paper and were pen printed instead of by type. These books of magic were specially high priced because each possessor of a copy was interested in restricting the information, and hence was unwilling to permit anyone to make a copy of his book. So the number of books need not be very great to amount to 40,000 pieces of silver (about $8,500, a piece of silver representing about 17 cents of our money). But when we remember that each piece of silver = a day's wages it might be considered equivalent to at least $1 in our day. Thus the total value of the books would be about $50,000. Everything about the Scriptures indicated that the Lord specially loves and appreciates those who are thorough going, not only in their zeal for righteousness and truth, but in their opposition to unrighteousness and error. We believe that the same principle applies to the sale of books which inculcate Satan's lies and we recommend that if the Lord's people have books of this kind, black with false doctrines, misrepresenting the Divine character and plan, that they would do far better to burn them than to sell them and give the money to the Lord's work. (Z.'03-73; R.3158)

19:23 — THE SAME TIME THERE AROSE NO SMALL STIR —

Very evidently the way of the Lord's people differed decidedly from the way of others, not only as to future hopes, but also their course in the present life. And the way is the same to this day with those who are walking faithfully close to the Lord and to the teachings of his Word. The difficulty with many professed Christians is they have gotten out of the way. As a result nominal Church ways are, alas, too much like those of the world, with very similar hopes and endeavors.

19:24 — WHICH MADE SILVER SHRINES FOR DIANA —

Just at the head of the Harbor stood one of the seven wonders of the world, an immense temple of Diana of the Ephesians, the deity of Asia Minor. It attracted general attention. Those who could not go to worship at this shrine were pleased to purchase from merchants certain charms or amulets which were small copies of her shrine wrought in silver. (Z.'09-213; R.4432) (S.B.D.)

19:25 — WITH THE WORKMEN OF LIKE OCCUPATION — He seems to have been a representative of the silversmith's guild or union.

SIRS, YE KNOW THAT BY THIS CRAFT WE HAVE OUR

WEALTH — He painted a black picture of the business depression that would result if this man Paul were permitted to preach any longer in their city. With a wonderful cunning he combined the thought of their duty of supporting the religion of their city with that of looking out after their pocketbooks. (Z. '03-75; R.3159)

19:28 — WHEN THEY HEARD THESE SAYINGS, THEY WERE FULL OF WRATH . . . SAYING, GREAT IS DIANA — Note the contrast between these two groups whose acts are recorded in this chapter. In the first case many people realizing they were working in conjunction with the powers of evil—demons—burned their books of magic as a result of the influence of the Gospel Message upon their hearts. After they had come to a knowledge of the situation they were willing and glad to suffer financial loss and be thought foolish by their neighbors rather than do injury to others by the sale of their books of magic. But the chief actors of the second group were moved to frenzy and riotous conduct by their love of money—fear of financial loss. Evidently it was not their respect for religion, but their love for filthy lucre which prompted their actions. Moreover the worship of Diana was demoralizing. Here we see the strong contrast between those who raised a riot to perpetuate idolatry, and bring money into their own purses and those who on the contrary were willing to sacrifice their earthly interests rather than do harm and in order to do more good. Verily there is a wonderful power in the religion of Jesus Christ our Redeemer! (Z. '03-75; R.3159)

19:29 — AND THE WHOLE CITY WAS FILLED WITH CONFUSION — They were touched to the quick on humanity's tenderest spots, religion and worldly prosperity. Doubtless the Adversary helped on the matter with the result that shortly the people were in a frenzy of despair, as though the anticipated collapse of their religion and their business were already upon them. (Z. '03-75; R.3159)

AND HAVING CAUGHT GAIUS AND ARISTARCHUS — St. Paul's home was known, but in the Lord's providence he was absent. Aquila and Priscilla as working people and home-keepers, were not molested. (Z. '09-213; R.4432)

THEY RUSHED WITH ONE ACCORD INTO THE THEATRE — The capacity of this theatre (open air) we are told was about 56,000.

19:30 — THE DISCIPLES SUFFERED HIM NOT — St. Paul would have courageously entered into the thick of the trouble in defence of his friends and above all for his Master and His Message. But wiser counsels prevailed and he remained away. The brethren suffered him not; for they concluded that his presence would have accomplished nothing with people in so unreasoning a state of mind. (Z. '09-213; R.4432)

19:32 — ASSEMBLY — From a Greek Word meaning crowd or mob (from a word meaning hold or have).

19:33 — THE MULTITUDE — From a Greek word meaning “called out ones.”

19:35 — TOWNCLERK — This official was not interested in the Gospel of Christ and its service. But he was interested in doing his duty as an officer of the city. (Z. '09-213; R.4432)

19:37 — NOR YET BLASPHEMERS OF YOUR GODDESS — Paul had not blasphemed the Goddess of Ephesus. Here we have a point of importance and a valuable lesson. St. Paul’s commission was to preach the Gospel, not to quarrel with false gods or their worship. The persecution was therefore for right doing. So with us. It is not necessary for us to do or say anything unkind toward our friends in Babylon, nor is it necessary for us to tirade against their systems or doctrines. We have plenty to do in setting forth the Gospel.

Of course St. Paul did not fail to call attention to the fact that Diana was the work of men’s hands and not, as claimed, a divinity. So we may properly set before our friends the fact that there is but the one true Church, organized by our Lord and established at Pentecost; and that all other churches are therefore merely human systems. But we are not commissioned to tirade against these churches. The command “Speak evil of no man” may properly be applied also to religious systems, particularly those which recognize the redeeming merit of Christ’s death as the foundation of Christianity and which teach morality. Undoubtedly the Lord has permitted sectarianism for some wise purpose, even as he has permitted the Gentile governments to hold sway until the end of the “Times of the Gentiles.” Let us not interfere with the fulfilment of the divine purposes. Let us be content to fulfill our mission of assisting the brethren by building them up in the most Holy Faith and telling the good tidings to whomever may have an ear to hear. (Z. '09-213; R.4432)

19:39 — ASSEMBLY — See note on verse 32.

19:40 — CONCOURSE — From a Greek word meaning “a twisting together,” “a riotous crowd.” He showed that this was nothing short of a riot and that if it were to be reported to the Imperial Government at Rome it would greatly discredit Ephesus.

19:41 — ASSEMBLY — See note verse 33.

20:1 — DEPARTED FOR TO GO INTO MACEDONIA — The Holy Spirit manifested that St. Paul’s work here was done. When the persecution became too bitter he left the city.

20:18 — HE SAID UNTO THEM — This was not a boastful statement but a plain rehearsal of facts which his hearers would fully concede. (Z. '09-251; R.4458)

20:19 — SERVING THE LORD WITH ALL HUMILITY — He reminded them that his conduct had not been haughty or overbearing, nor had he sought to lord it over the church, but had endured many trials. The apostle had become more intimately acquainted with the Ephesian Church than with any of the others. By the Lord's providence he had spent more time with them, and apparently the results secured had justified his long stay. Partings between friends are always grievous and with no hope of seeing each other on this side the veil is doubly severe.

20:20 — AND HAVE TAUGHT YOU PUBLICLY, AND FROM HOUSE TO HOUSE — In his Epistles we now perceive that St. Paul was very patient in reproving and instructing and encouraging the Lord's dear people.

20:22 — BOUND IN THE SPIRIT — Though having his physical liberty he felt a mental restraint which he could not shake off. (Z. '09-251; R.4458)

20:28 — TAKE HEED THEREFORE UNTO YOURSELVES — The elders need first of all to watch themselves, lest the little honor of their position make them proud and lordly, lest they assume to themselves authority and honors belonging to the Head. F283. (See 1 Peter 5:1-3). Whoever attempts to do shepherding in the church will need first of all to watch lest he fall into temptation, for those who accept the position of elders in the church are exposed to special trials and difficulties. They need primarily to take heed to themselves lest having preached to others they themselves become castaways. (Z. '09-251; R.4458)

AND TO ALL THE FLOCK — The Apostle's thought in calling the elders was to impress upon them the fact that like himself not only were they consecrated to the Lord, but as teachers in the Church they had a double responsibility in respect to themselves and in respect to the Church of Christ over which the Lord had made them overseers. (Z. '09-251; R.4458) They should realize that as elder brothers under the divine regulation, they had assumed a weighty responsibility, respecting which they must give an account to God. This does not mean fault finding with the brethren. It does not mean merely preaching to them nor merely visiting the sick and counselling the troubled. It means a spiritual oversight, a care of all the interests of both the congregations and the individuals composing it. Those who are overcharged with the cares of this life are not in a condition in any sense of the word to accept the responsibilities of this service in the Church of the Living God. Only those who seek first the Kingdom interests and the righteousness which it inculcated are in any sense or degree properly suited to such service. (Z. '09-251; R.4458; Z. '16-235; R.5935)

OVERSEERS — From a Greek word meaning “bishops.” Not over the church in the sense of being a superior class, a “clergy,” but are in the sense of being in the church—members of it—overseeing members, assisting members, by the appointment of the Lord through the channel of the church. They should consider it a part of their responsibility to notice how the other members are progressing, especially in their spiritual interests. They should feel it a part of their duty to warn, to encourage, to assist all the other members, as opportunity offers. It is not the prerogative of all the brethren in the Church to endeavour to set each other right, unless it is in some personal matter, especially related to themselves. Matt. 18:15-18 should be strictly followed. An Elder however by his very election to office has been asked to take such an oversight of the affairs of the Congregation, to give such advice, administer such reproofs as the nature demands—in meekness, remembering himself also, lest he should be tempted, if not along the same lines, then possibly along some other. He too of course should practice Matt. 18:15-18. (Z. '16-235; R.5935; Z. '09-253; R.4459)

HIS OWN BLOOD — Greek: “blood of His own (son).” See Diag. note. By way of impressing this duty of oversight upon them St. Paul reminded them that God had purchased this flock with the precious blood of the Lamb of God, and that this value in the Lord’s sight should be so deeply impressed upon their minds that they would be willing to lay down their lives for the brethren in any service which they could render. (Z. '09-253; R.4459)

20:29 — GRIEVOUS WOLVES — Ferocious wolves. For a time they may deceive the sheep by an outward manner and profession covering their wolfish nature. The shepherd knows their true character long before it becomes manifest to the sheep. But the docile, innocent sheep are deceived until these wolves begin to bite and devour and scatter the Flock. The howls of anger, malice, hatred, and envy and strife are noted in the Scriptures as works of the Devil. The wolf does injury with his mouth, and so do these grievous wolves—slandering, back-biting and doing every evil work.

20:29, 30 — Desirous of being leaders they would not hesitate to produce a schism or division in the Church in order to help along their ambitions. (Beware of the concision. Phil. 3:2) The word rendered perverse—in the original, distorted, twisted. The thought is that those who begin to lose the spirit of the Lord, begin also to lose their clear appreciation of the truth. As personal ambitions cloud their vision they see the Scriptures more and more vaguely and feel free to distort these to support their own ambitious sentiments. How important it is then that all of the Lord’s Flock, especially the elders take heed to themselves and scrutinize their conduct and particularly the motives lying behind their deeds. Let us remember that absolute purity of the will is essential. Every admixture of selfishness however little is a poisonous virus which if unchecked would lead to the second death.

20:30 — PERVERSE THINGS — Perverting the truth.

20:31 — THEREFORE WATCH — They are to warn the sheep lest any of them, becoming inoculated with the rabies of the wolves, should display signs of Hydrophobia and begin to backbite one another, with the usual symptom of Hydrophobia—an apparent thirst for water (truth) yet refusing to drink it. Secondly they are to watch even their own selves. Proper watching begins with our own hearts. (Z. '09-254; R.4459)

WITH TEARS — Showing us clearly that he felt the proper weight of responsibility resting on him as a servant of God, an ambassador of the King of Kings, an overshepherd, of the Lord's flock. He desired to lead them to enquire what defenses could be depended on for such a crises. God is for us.

20:32 — ALL THEM WHICH ARE SANCTIFIED — He points out that the Word of God is able to give us the necessary development of character and give us ultimately a share in the great inheritance which God has in reservation for those who are sanctified by his message. (Z. '09-254; R.4459) Neglect of God's word, of his promises, means a deficiency of strength to bear the trial which is our portion.

20:34 — AND TO THEM THAT WERE WITH ME — He had used his trade of tent making not only for his own support but for the financial assistance of those with him. (Z. '16-236; R.5935)

20:35 — I HAVE SHEWED YOU ALL THINGS — The art of giving oneself is one of the secrets of a happy life. He first gives his will to the Lord, then his time, energy, talents to the Lord's service. He has pleasure in the giving whether others know it or not. (Z. '16-236; R.5935)

21 — This chapter further indicates how the Apostle and others of the early church had difficulties, disappointments, etc. as we of today have. (Z. '09-265; R.4466)

21:1 — AND IT CAME TO PASS, THAT AFTER WE — Paul had with him: Luke (uses "we") the writer of the account, Trophimus (vs. 29), Aristarchus (Acts 27:2). (See note vs. 17) (Z. '97-281; R.2222)

WERE GOTTEN FROM THEM — This expression seems to refer to the affectionate parting between Paul and those with him and the elders of Ephesus. "They all wept sore (20:37) and fell on Paul's neck and kissed him, sorrowing,” so that they were finally obliged to break away from them, to get aboard the vessel. (Z. '97-281; R.2222)

21:3 — THE SHIP WAS TO UNLADE HER BURDEN — No swift yacht happened to meet them and carry them to their destination. Instead they had to take a cargo sailboat which stopped here and there in the interests of its business quite regardless of the important Jew and his companions. Truly surprised will these sailors be, when in the Millennium they come to a knowledge of the Truth and learn that once they had the privilege of carrying the noble St. Paul. We may be sure that any acts of kindness performed to him and his companions will be duly remembered and rewarded. (Z. '09-266; R.4467)

21:4 — AND FINDING DISCIPLES — As the Lord's followers now love to meet the pilgrims on their journeys and how the pilgrims with yearning hearts seek for those who know and love their Redeemer.

WE TARRIED THERE SEVEN DAYS — Perhaps Paul and those with him were unaware that there were any disciples here.

21:5 — WE HAD ACCOMPLISHED THOSE DAYS — We may be sure Paul and his companions did not spend these seven days in telling about his travels and scenes in foreign lands; nor in gossiping about the brethren in the various places. He had a grander mission, a more important business: the Father's business. They were spent in talking of God's plan, and his promises and precepts for those who love him. (Z. '97-282; R.2222)

WE KNEELED DOWN ON THE SHORE, AND PRAYED — The impression made indicates that the Apostle had become a lifelong friend of the Tyre believers, so much so that they all were loath to part. In communion with the Lord and each other they asked a blessing upon those who went and those who stayed. How this reminds us further of present experiences and the love, fellowship, interest we have in one another—stronger than any earthly tie. (Z. '09-266; R.4467; Z. '97-282; R.2222)

21:7 — AND ABODE WITH THEM ONE DAY — Another one day convention we may be sure!

21:8 — CAME UNTO CAESAREA — We are not surprised to find a Church at Caesarea, for it was here that the Gospel first was preached to the Gentiles, this being the residence of Cornelius, the first gentile convert. (Acts 10:1). We may reasonably suppose that a man like Cornelius, who before receiving the Gospel “feared God with all his house” and gave much alms to the people, and prayed to God always, on receiving the glad tidings of great Joy would become ten-fold more zealous than he had ever been.

That this church at Caesarea was large is evident from the fact that Philip made it his headquarters and this was St. Paul's third visit to this city during his travels. (Acts 9:30; 18:22)

21:9 — WHICH DID PROPHECY — Just what is signified by “prophecy” we may not surely know. We are not to assume hastily that these four young women were public teachers in the church, in the face of the Apostle's clear statement on the subject. They may have had some public occupation along the lines of public speaking and teaching—possibly they were school teachers. The teaching of that time was not by books as now, but by oral presentation or prophecy. (Z. '09-266; R.4467) Or they may have been prophetesses like Anna the prophetess. (Luke 1:36) (See Syriac)—We have no sympathy with the sentiment apparently held by some brethren that the sisters of the Church are to be entirely ignored and that any suggestions which they may offer respecting the Lord's word should be despised. While recognizing certain facts and principles on this subject laid down in the Scriptures, we should be kind and courteous toward all. (Gal. 3:28) (Z. '97-282; R.2222)

21:11 — SHALL DELIVER HIM INTO THE HANDS OF THE GENTILES
— Agabus was well known to the church; it was he who had prophesied the great famine throughout the world which came to pass in the days of Claudius Caesar. (Acts 11:28) (Z. '09-266; R.4467) His prophecy, therefore, of bonds and imprisonment awaiting Paul at Jerusalem would have great weight with all the Church. Ordinarily we would have supposed the advice of the friends was good, that it was not wise to go into difficulty; but St. Paul probably, apparently, had some other advice from the Lord under which he was operating.—something compulsory upon him, which led him to brave anything to fulfill his duty. We are not to think of him as going coldly, stoically into this trouble, such a thought is dismissed when we notice his reply. (Z. '09-267; R.4467)

21:13 — TO DIE AT JERUSALEM FOR THE NAME OF THE LORD JESUS —Evidently the Lord was testing the Apostle, developing in him character, stability, faithfulness. Not that he did not have these qualities before, but that all these experiences would tend to deepen and fix that character. He intimates to us that he went to Jerusalem under a vow, some solemn pledge to the Lord, in faithful performance of some duty. The question was would he keep it, or would he be turned aside from it by fear of what man might do to him, or by the entreaties of friends?

21:14 — THE WILL OF THE LORD BE DONE — They did not say Paul's will be done, but recognizing that Paul was faithfully carrying out the Divine plan they said; “The Lord's will be done.” (Z. '97-282; R.2222) Apparently his visit to Jerusalem was opportune, we might say necessary, to the cementing of the “household of faith,” and to the assisting of some of them to a clearer position in regard to the obligations of the Law and the liberty from the Law to those who accept Christ.

21:16 — WITH WHOM WE SHOULD LODGE — Mnason was highly honored to have the Apostle at his home. It was probably at Mnason's home that still other brethren welcomed them and had the reception of vs. 17. The regular official meeting coming later, with James and the elders. (Z. '09-267; R.4467)

21:17 — AND WHEN WE WERE COME — It was now twelve years before the destruction of Jerusalem and less than half that time before the beginning of the factionalism and anarchy which led up to that destruction. The apostles quite probably bethought themselves in due time about the Lord's injunction that they must ultimately flee out of Jerusalem before it would be encompassed with armies and escape be impossible. We are now living within a corresponding time of utter overthrow of Churchianity and must not be surprised if in the Lord's providence the bitterness and opposition against the present truth should become more and more violent and open, thus hindering our efforts amongst the professed people of God today, and compelling us to go more particularly to those who make less boast of their loyalty to God. (Z. '03-137; R.3188)

TO JERUSALEM — He had been gone seven years, on the third missionary journey, and he brought with him the brethren mentioned in Acts 20:4; 16:1, 2. This was about May 17th or 27th A.D. 57. (Z. '09-295; R.4484; Z. '97-281; R.2222)

THE BRETHREN RECEIVED US GLADLY — The reception on this day was probably of a personal character.

21:18 — AND THE DAY FOLLOWING — This was probably the day of Pentecost (Acts 20:16).

PAUL WENT IN WITH US UNTO JAMES — The Lord's brother (or cousin). (Gal. 1:18, 19), who seems to have been the recognized leader in the Jerusalem Church.

21:19 — HE DECLARED PARTICULARLY — In detail.

HAD WROUGHT AMONG THE GENTILES BY HIS MINISTRY —Probably at the same time the collections from Asia Minor were turned over. (Z. '09-295; R.4484)

21:21 — NEITHER TO WALK AFTER THE CUSTOMS — Paul had not taught that Jewish converts should not circumcise their children, nor did he repudiate the Mosaic Law—rather he honored it, by pointing out the greater and grander realities which Moses' Law so forcibly typified. (Rom. 3:31) So far then from repudiating Moses he honored Moses and the Law saying: "The Law is just and holy and good," and he pointed out that the knowledge of the heinousness of sin had been increased (Rom. 7:12, 13). That the Law was so grand and so perfect that no imperfect man could obey it fully, and that Christ by keeping it had won its rewards (Gal. 3:10-12; Rom. 3:9-12, 20, 23; John 8:29, 46, 9; 7:19), and now under a Faith Covenant was offering everlasting life and blessings as a gift to those unable to keep it, who by faith, accepted as the covering of their imperfections his perfect obedience and sacrifice, and who became his followers in the path of righteousness. (Rom. 3:21-26) (F229)

21:22 — THEY WILL HEAR THAT THOU ART COME — This would indicate that the brethren at Jerusalem were quite perturbed by St. Paul's presence. Not only did they fear for his personal safety, but also lest his coming might stir up persecution against them all. His activity and persistency made him well known to the Jews in the influential part of the world where he had been laboring. The Jewish custom that the zealously religious came frequently to Jerusalem to celebrate religious festivals, kept the Jerusalem Jews in touch with the religious interests of the whole world. St. James and his associates realized that in all probability, Jews from Ephesus, Athens, Thessalonica, Berea, etc., might be present celebrating the Pentecostal feast. They knew that St. Paul's activities had already been reported and that some even of the Christian believers were troubled at his reported teaching—that the Law was dead and no one needed to pay any further attention to it. This was a partial misconception. (Z. '09-295; R.4484)

21:23 — WE HAVE FOUR MEN WHICH HAVE A VOW ON THEM — Evidently the Nazarite Vow. (vs. 24)

21:24 — THEM TAKE, AND PURIFY THYSELF WITH THEM — Not that Paul should take this vow, but that he should be present with these brethren as a recognition of the propriety of what they did.

AND BE AT CHARGES WITH THEM — Bear their expenses, which included not only the shaving of their heads and burning of the hair, but also the cost of sacrificing for them four animals each.

21:25 — AND FROM FORNICATION — This shows that St. James and the leaders (elders) of the Church evidently understood Paul's position properly enough (Gal. 2:7-9). He taught the Gentiles that it was not necessary for them to become Jews, nor to obey the Jewish ritual, but that instead of looking for God's favor through the types and shadows, they should look to Christ and his antitypical fulfillments of the requirements of the Law. He taught that the Law could not save either Jew or Gentile, but only faith in Christ could bring the soul into relationship to God. He taught that while certain blessings of God yet remained for the Jew (Rom. 11:37), God during this Gospel age is selecting a spiritual seed of Abraham from both Jews and Gentiles. He taught also that if anyone, Jew or Gentile, attempted to keep the Law, with a view to thus meriting eternal life, such would surely lose it (Gal. 5:2,3); because “by the deeds of the Law shall no flesh be justified in God’s sight.” (Z. ’09-295; R.4485) The Apostle never taught the Jews that they were free from the Law, but on the contrary that the Law had dominion over each of them so long as he lived. (Rom. 7:1-7) He showed however that if a Jew accepted Christ and became dead with him, it settled the claims of the Law Covenant upon such a Jew, and made him God’s freeman in Christ. But he did teach the Gentile converts that they had never been under the Jewish Law Covenant, and that for them to attempt the practice of Jewish Law ceremonies and rites would imply that they were trusting in those symbols for their merit of Christ’s sacrifice. And to all this the Apostles assented. (Acts 21:25; 15:23-29) (F229)

21:26 — UNTIL THAT AN OFFERING — These symbolic ceremonies cost something, and the charges presumably made up the “offerings” of money—so much for each, to defray the expenses of the Temple. (F228) A more courageous course might have been pursued. Apparently the very method taken to ward off public opposition merely served to arouse it. Let us not forget however, that the Lord could have overruled the matter differently, had he chosen. The Lord foreknew that tribulations would assail the Apostle and had foretold them (Acts 21:11; 20:23) This account does not indicate a wrong course by the Apostle. Throughout the entire experience Paul had the sympathy and approval of all the other Apostle and above all, the Lord’s continued favor. His course was at the instance of the other Apostles. It was testified to him by prophecy before he went to Jerusalem (Acts 21:10-14) that bonds and imprisonment awaited him, and it was in obedience to his convictions of duty that he braved all those predicted adversities. And we read (Acts 23:11) “The Lord stood by him and said, Be of good cheer, Paul; for as thou hast testified of me in Jerusalem, so must thou bear witness also in Rome.” And later we read of the Lord showing him favor again: (Acts 27:23, 24) “There stood by me the angel of God, whose I am and whom I serve, saying: fear not, Paul; thou must be brought before Caesar: and lo, God hath given thee all that sail with thee.”

SHOULD BE OFFERED FOR EVERY ONE OF THEM — Nothing in all this, however really interfered with St. Paul’s doing just what St. James and the others urged him to do for the four men under the Nazarite Vow. Certain ceremonies of the Jewish dispensation—such as the sabbath days and feasts, fasts, celebrations of new moons—were typical of spiritual truths belonging to the Gospel Age. The Apostle of the Faith Covenant neither enjoins nor forbids these (the Lord’s supper and baptism being the only injunctions of a symbolic character commanded us—and they new ones).

(Col. 2:16, 17). One of these Jewish symbolic rites termed “purifying” was that observed by Paul and the four Jews. Being Jews they had a right, if they chose, not only to consecrate themselves to God in Christ, but also to perform the symbol of this purification and this is what they did—the men with Paul having made additionally a vow to humiliate themselves before the Lord and the people, by having their heads shaven. (F228)

21:28 — BROUGHT GREEKS ALSO INTO THE TEMPLE — Thus their concession to Jewish prejudice was unsuccessful. Only Jews were allowed within the sacred precincts of the Temple, outside of which was a Woman’s Court and also a Court of the Gentiles. A stone fence separated these two apartments and constituted what the Apostle elsewhere alluded to as the “middle wall of partition.” (Eph. 2:14). This wall was 4-1/2 feet high and on it was a tablet which has recently been found by the Palestine Exploration Society, and which reads: “No man of alien race is to enter within the balustrade and fence that goes around the Temple. If anyone is taken in the act let him know that he has himself to blame for the penalty of death that follows.” St. Paul was charged with this offence and not the Greek who was supposed to have been misled by the apostle. It was on this score that his life was in danger from the mob which speedily gathered at the cry of the Asiatic Jew that the Temple had been profaned. (Z.’09-295; R.4484)

21:29 — WHOM THEY SUPPOSED THAT PAUL HAD BROUGHT INTO THE TEMPLE — From the Jewish standpoint this would have been a grievous offence, for only Jews were permitted to come within the sacred precincts of the Temple, outside of which were the Court of the Women and the Court of the Gentiles. (See note on verse 28)

21:30 — AND FORTH WITH THE DOORS WERE SHUT — The doors of the Beautiful Gate, so that no bloodshed or rioting could occur within the sacred enclosure. (Z.’03-138; R.3188)

21:32 — THEY LEFT BEATING OF PAUL — The people, who had not yet learned to respect the Majesty of the Roman Law, had become amenable to its military forces. (Z.’09-295; R.4484)

21:33 — TO BE BOUND WITH TWO CHAINS — Thus fulfilling Agabus’ prophecy.

21:35 — THAT HE WAS BORNE OF THE SOLDIERS — The oncoming of the mob led the soldiers to press one against the other so as not to lose their prisoner and thus the Apostle was lifted off his feet and carried by the soldiers up the stairway.

FOR THE VIOLENCE OF THE PEOPLE — The mob, disappointed that they had lost the opportunity of taking his life, made a mad rush to get him from the soldiers or kill him while under their charge. What a spirit of murder can be aroused and, suddenly too, in the hearts of not only Jews, but Gentiles! And how often we find on the pages of history that such violence and unreason have been manifested in the name and in the defense of various religions! How utterly foreign to this all is what St. Paul calls “the Spirit of a sound mind”—the spirit of reason, justice, not to mention the spirit of generosity, loving kindness and tender mercy! As the seeing of the foolishness and the brutishness of a drunken person should act as a great temperance lesson in every right minded man and woman, so such a scene as this whether seen by our natural eyes or mentally seen through the printed page, should be a lasting lesson against anything so brutish and unreasonable. Let every instance of religious bigotry and fanatical violence speak to our hearts a lesson in the opposite direction, and fix in us resolutions that by the grace of God we will never be thus foolish, thus wicked; but contrariwise will become the more gentle and kind and Christlike as the days go by.

21:37 — MAY I SPEAK UNTO THEE — The courage of this ambassador of Christ and his readiness to take advantage of every opportunity to tell the message of his Messiah was here wonderfully exemplified. We might have supposed that from the beating received from the mob and the more or less rough treatment in getting to the castle door any ordinary man would have been cowed with fear and excitement. But he was cool and collected.

21:38 — ART NOT THOU THAT EGYPTIAN — Mentioned by Josephus. He had gathered a large body of discontented Jews to whom he represented himself to be the Messiah, and gave the Roman authorities considerable trouble.

21:39 — SUFFER ME TO SPEAK UNTO THE PEOPLE — Intimating, no doubt, that they misunderstood what he was doing and that in a few words he might be able to pacify them. The majority of us would have been so affected by the excitement of such an incident and by the bruises resulting from such a beating, that we would perhaps have forgotten all about the greatest and most important work of all committed to our care and might have been much less prompt than the Apostle to seek an opportunity to testify to the Lord’s praise and for the opening of the eyes of any who might be his people among our assailants. Let us learn this lesson, to be instant in season and out of season so far as our own convenience and feelings are concerned, if only we can find opportune seasons for others. The Apostle here illustrated his advice to Timothy. It was in season for the multitude, because they were gathered there and their attention was riveted on him. Had he consulted his own convenience he would have said that it was very much out of season for himself, that he was in no condition to speak, his nerves were excited and his body bruised. But thinking of the convenient opportunity he spared not himself. (Z. '03-139; R.3188)

21:40 — BECKONED WITH THE HAND UNTO THE PEOPLE — No doubt Paul considered his thrilling experiences well repaid by the privileges of that moment—of telling a considerable concourse of people about Jesus.

22:1 — HEAR YE MY DEFENCE WHICH I MAKE NOW UNTO YOU — Doubtless Paul felt his thrilling experiences well compensated for the privilege of telling a large concourse of his countrymen about Jesus. Promptly the Apostle preached Christ;—that Jesus of Nazareth was the Messiah promised in the Law and the prophets, that his sacrificial death was the redemption sacrifice for Father Adam's forfeited life and for all of Adam's children who died under the curse. (Z. '03-139; R.3189)

22:16 — AND NOW WHY TARRIEST THOU? — There is a directness about this address that is worthy of being copied by all who have an influence upon others and seeking to bring them along in the right way. Urge them to promptness to full and complete obedience, to a full confession of the Lord and the Truth. If they are not inclined to obey after their eyes of faith have seen the Lord and after their ears have heard his voice, they will be much less likely to make a consecration after a while when the world and the Adversary get in their arguments. (Z. '01-186; R.2825)

AND WASH AWAY THE SINS — This was John's Baptism unto repentance and remission of sins—not original sins, but sins against the Jewish Covenant. Every Jew who was in harmony with God and with his covenant had his original sin covered by the arrangement of the Mosaic Law in the sacrifices which took place yearly, (Atonement means "covering") until the great sacrifice came, then the typical covering from original sin became actual in Christ. Therefore the Jews were everywhere called upon to repent and be baptized for the remission of their sins against their Covenant that thus they might be in full accord with the Lord and then step into Christ. (Z. '01-168; R.2825)

22:22 — FOR IT IS NOT FIT THAT HE SHOULD LIVE — So strong was the Jewish prejudice that the mere mention of the going of this great blessing upon equal terms to the Gentiles rekindled the flame of hatred and violence. (Z. '09-296; R.4485)

22:23 — AND THREW DUST INTO THE AIR — While not condemning the Jews harshly for their selfish, bitter felling toward the Gentiles, let us notice how much injury this bitterness and selfishness worked to the Jews themselves. Had it not been for this wrong spirit doubtless many others of that time might have been quite ready to hear the Gospel. The lesson for us is that we should put away meanness, selfishness, enmities, bitterness out of our hearts, minds, conduct and words; and instead to put on the Spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ—meekness, gentleness, patience, longsuffering, brotherly kindness, love.

22:24 — THAT HE MIGHT KNOW WHEREFORE THEY CRIED SO

AGAINST HIM — The Roman commander, not understanding Hebrew, had not been able to follow the Apostle's discourse, and thought it evident that after he had had so quiet and orderly a hearing for a time, and now such wild burst of indignation at what he said, it implied something very deep and evil in the man, else his words would not so arouse religious people to malice. It is like that today; a stranger or worldly person hearing some sectarian Christian speak against one who was preaching the Truth, would be inclined to suppose that the message contained something very vicious else it would not so arouse those who have outwardly so much "form of Godliness." And if as in the case of the Roman officer, an audience be granted and the truth be presented in their hearing they cannot understand it (the world by wisdom knows not God), knows little of his plan, understands little of the language of his Word—it being a different language from that to which they are accustomed. And when they see bitter opposition to the truth by religious teachers, we must not be surprised if they side with popular theology. (Z. '03-140; R.3189) A lesson we may learn is that it is not wise to trust too implicitly the voice of the multitude. If we find the rabble shouting against anyone, verbally or through the press we should not unquestionably accept their verdict. Still another lesson is that when undergoing trials and difficulties, however much we realize that they could not come to us without the Lord's permission yet we are at liberty to use any legitimate means for our deliverance, even as St. Paul took advantage of his Roman Citizenship. God had provided him in advance with that measure of protection and it would have been culpable negligence on his part not to use it, and to expect the Lord to deliver him in some miraculous way. Let every instance of religious bigotry and fanciful violence speak to our hearts a lesson in the opposite direction and fix in us resolutions that by the grace of God we will never be thus foolish, thus wicked, but contrariwise more gentle, kind, Christlike as the days go by. (Z. '03-140; R.3189; Z. '09-295; R.4484)

22:25 — IS IT LAWFUL FOR YOU TO SCOURGE A MAN THAT IS A

ROMAN, AND UNCONDEMNED — So we are at liberty to use any legitimate means for our own assistance and deliverance. God had provided him beforehand with that measure of protection and it would have been culpable negligence on his part not to have used it and to have expected the Lord to deliver him in some miraculous manner. (Z. '09-296; R.4485)

23:1 — "AND PAUL — Thus Paul was afforded opportunity to witness the Gospel to the Jews, their most learned body of men, their most influential court of seventy. Perhaps by this time the Apostle began to realize that his trying experiences were giving him superior opportunities as a herald of the Gospel. (Z. '16-266; R.5952)

EARNESTLY BEHOLDING — St. Paul realized the opportunity granted him of addressing the leaders of the nation, he sought to make wise use of it. Hence the earnestness of his countenance, “earnestly beholding” his audience. (Z. '16-266; R.5952)

GOOD CONSCIENCE BEFORE GOD UNTIL THIS DAY — Paul began by reminding them of his faithfulness as a Jew. He had ever been a model citizen, never lawless. He addressed the council as brethren thus putting himself on an equality with them as to both religious zeal and general learning. Indeed it is quite generally supposed that at the time of the stoning of Stephen, Saul of Tarsus (afterwards St. Paul) was a member of the Sanhedrin. (Z. '16-266; R.5952)

23:2 — TO SMITE HIM ON THE MOUTH — It is not unfair to assume that the High Priest felt his own course in life specially condemned by St. Paul's words, for the “darkness hateth the Light.” Josephus charges Ananias with having been a hypocritical grafter of the baser sort, but so crafty that the public in general esteemed him. (Z. '16-266; R.5952)

23:3 — GOD SHALL SMITE THEE, THOU WHITED WALL — This prophecy came true. Within two years Ananias was deposed. Within six years he met a horrible death, his own son being associated with his assassins, and slew him.

WHITED WALL — a term applied to ordinary graves, covered with a stone slab bearing the inscription. These were frequently whitewashed, so as to be easily discernible, lest any traveller tread upon them, and according to the Jewish ritual, be defiled. (Num. 19:11-16). The pure glistening white stone was very beautiful, but beneath it was corruption. The strength of the symbol as representing hypocrisy is evident. (Z. '16-266; R.5952)

COMMANDEST ME TO BE SMITTEN CONTRARY TO THE LAW?
—Paul must have had good cause to speak thus hotly.

23:5 — THEN SAID PAUL, I WIST NOT — It is claimed by some that Ananias had usurped the office and hence Paul's words may have meant that he did not recognize that the true High Priest was present. This view is suggested by the fact that Paul did not apologize for his words but showed that he fully recognized the propriety of the Divine Law that rulers should not be slandered. (Z. '16-267; R.5952)

THAT HE WAS THE HIGH PRIEST — It will be remembered that the Apostle never fully recovered his eyesight after being struck blind on the way to Damascus. (Acts 9:8, 9) Of his imperfect vision, his thorn in the flesh. (2 Cor. 12:7-10) the Lord refused to relieve him, but assured him that in compensation he would have the more of the Divine grace. The Apostle gladly accepted this answer. So it is possible that he did not discern the High Priest, or did not know the indignity was suggested by the High Priest, Ananias. (Z. '16-267; R.5952)

THOU SHALT NOT SPEAK EVIL OF THE RULER OF THY PEOPLE — This is a good rule for everyone today. The tendency to speak evil of dignitaries, to belittle and caricature them, is a prevalent sin which is doing more to undermine good government than the funmakers seem to realize. Undoubtedly there are times and methods for protesting against things and methods with which we do not fully agree. But the people of God should preeminently stand for law and order with as much justice as may be obtainable, waiting for absolute justice until the King of Kings shall take his Millennial Throne. Meanwhile his commands to us are that we be “subject to the powers that be,” and “follow peace with all men” so far as possible. (Rom. 13:1; Heb. 12:14). Neither should we speak jestingly of the Lord or His Word, for that is a dangerous practice. (Z. '16-267; R.5952)

23:6 — A PHARISEE OF THE HOPE AND RESURRECTION OF THE DEAD — This statement was strictly true. The word Pharisee signifies a person who professes entire sanctification unto God. St. Paul had never ceased to maintain this attitude.

23:7 — AND THE MULTITUDE WAS DIVIDED — St. Paul perceived that the prejudice against him was so great that no speech of his could affect his hearers, for they were dominated by the High Priest whose lack of justice had found so early a manifestation. Like a general, who, finding his front attack useless, wheels his forces, and by a flank movement captures the enemy, so St. Paul captured the sympathies of fully half his audience. At the same time he secured an opportunity for showing that the doctrine he preached was the logical outcome of the faith of the large sect of the Pharisees. St. Paul well knew that the Sanhedrin was about equally divided between the ultra-orthodox, holiness professing Pharisees and the agnostic, higher critical Sadducees, who numbered among them many of the most prominent Jews. The Pharisees took his part as one who in some respects believed as they did, though they could not endorse all his teachings. As between the infidel Sadducees and an out of the way Pharisee, they promptly espoused the cause of the latter. (Z. '16-267; R.5952)

23:10 — AND TO BRING HIM INTO THE CASTLE — How pitiable that those who possessed much advantage every way, as did the Jews under Divine instruction, should so sadly neglect the lessons of the Divine Law in respect to justice and to one another's rights, not to mention the divine instruction: “Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.” (Lev. 19:18) How pitiable it is that this is sometimes true of Christians possessed of still higher appreciation of divine standards, and under covenant vows to lay down their lives for the brethren, and indeed exhorted that they cannot win the prize unless they reach the point of loving their enemies. (Z. '16-267; R.5952)

The Apostle doubtless wondered in what manner the Lord has been glorified by this, his latest experience. Often it is thus with ourselves. But where we cannot trace the Lord's providence and see the outcome we have all the better opportunity for cultivating the faith which can firmly trust him, come what may. (Z. '16-267; R.5952)

23:19 — WHAT IS THAT THOU HAST TO TELL ME? — Colonel Lysias was evidently learning that his prisoner was no common man; for one who could remain calm, alert, dignified, humble and self-possessed, while his opponents were the reverse of these, evidenced to an unprejudiced mind that he was probably in the right of the controversy. (Z. '16-267; R.5953)

24:1 — WHO INFORMED THE GOVERNOR AGAINST PAUL — What a lesson we have here:—A Roman Governor and Judge of not too savory a reputation; a prosecuting attorney willing to sell his talents for money, regardless of the principles of Justice; the Jewish High Priest (typical of the great Messiah) associating himself with those who were endeavouring to prevent justice, and to destroy one of the “salt of the earth!” (Z. '09-316; R.4499)

24:2 — WORTHY DEEDS ARE DONE UNTO THIS NATION — Shrewdly the Roman attorney complimented the Governor along the lines of his hitherto efficiency in preserving the peace, in putting down every form of insurrection and maintaining quiet and order. This very completely paved the way for the lawyer's request that the Governor should continue this praiseworthy course and rid the land of an obnoxious trouble maker—the Apostle. (Z. '09-316; R.4499)

24:10 — THEN PAUL — The Apostle's answer was both logical and complete. Still the governor could not understand why there should be a commotion. Hence the Apostle explained that the Jew's antipathy against him was because of his different religious belief and not because of any wrong doing on his part.

24:14 — THE LAW AND IN THE PROPHETS — St. Paul showed that he had experienced no change in his Jewish belief, that he still believed the teachings of the Law and the Prophets, that he still held to the fundamental Jewish doctrine of a necessity for the Resurrection of the dead; and that through the resurrection of the dead God's blessing would finally come to Israel and through Israel to all the families of the earth. (Z. '09-316; R.4499)

24:16 — A CONSCIENCE VOID OF OFFENCE — We should seek to have our every word and deed such that every one can approve, or at least can find no fault in. (Z. '10-13; R.4548) He exercised, trained himself, disciplined himself to keep his conscience pure, free from violation of Divine and human laws.

24:21 — I AM CALLED IN QUESTION BY YOU — This was the only real charge they could make (and they did not think of this). Surely the governor could not think that in this was anything akin to rioting and anarchy. The prisoner was in the right, but his accusers in the wrong. (Z. '09-316; R.4499)

24:22 — I WILL KNOW THE UTTERMOST OF YOUR MATTER — Our Lord foretold that some of his disciples would stand before Kings and Princes, but that they should not be dismayed. He would stand by them to give them assistance (Matt. 10:17-22). How literally this was fulfilled in St. Paul's case. How evidently the Lord stood by him and gave him the suitable words.

24:25 — I WILL CALL FOR THEE — The real status of his case was probably well understood by Governor Felix. Probably Governor Felix wished his wife to hear the Gospel message which seemed to have appealed to him as reasonable—The vicious, the hypocritical, the self-righteous, the wanton, the profligate, degrade themselves and increase the number of steps which they must retrace during the Millennium. But every good deed, every victory gained, every practice of moderation will make the individual correspondingly the better prepared for the next life. Every generous deed of the present life makes its impress upon the character and will bring proportionate blessings in Millennial judgment day. Every evil deed, every violation of conscience will receive its stripes or just punishment. As Felix listened to the Apostle he was conscience stricken; according to this teaching he would have much to account for as one of the unjust in the resurrection. Paul said nothing about fiery tortures, which an intelligent mind must repudiate as unreasonable. His argument was all the stronger without such assertions. (Z. '09-317; R.4500)

24:26 — HE SENT FOR HIM THE OFTENER, AND COMMUNED WITH HIM — Apparently never did Felix find his heart in a sufficiently mellow condition to accept the Apostle's message and surrender to the Lord. For two years the Apostle remained a prisoner at Caesarea, comfortably provided for, preparing for the further services of his life and writing several epistles to the various churches. (Z. '09-317; R.4500)

24:27 — AFTER TWO YEARS — These two years afforded excellent opportunities for the mature study of the Divine plan set forth in the Scriptures. It would be impossible for us at this distance to surmise with any accuracy what may have been the Lord's object in permitting his faithful representative to be thus isolated and debarred from the privileges of service. It may have been to give the Apostle rest, quiet, opportunity for further study of the truth. Or, it may have been to teach him a lesson of patience, submission and confidence in God—that his services were not indispensable, that while the Lord had not let go of him and would ultimately deliver him, yet he was not indispensable to the divine plan. These are important lessons for all the Lord's people to learn, particularly all who are in any prominent way identified with His service. Or the Lord may have had a work for the Apostle to do at Caesarea, where possibly he had contact with the officers of the garrison and where they would have opportunities of observing the man and for appreciating the power of God to uphold him in his adversities. We may be sure the Apostle let his light shine on every proper occasion, and we may be sure also that his labor was not in vain in the Lord, whatever it was and however it was made useful in the interests of others. Even if he had no opportunity for serving others, and if the work of grace was accomplished in his own heart, it was not in vain, and faith commands us to accept the matter without the wisdom of the arrangements. (Z.'03-156; R.3196)

LEFT PAUL BOUND — Though he had found Paul not guilty of any infraction of any Roman Law, and was persuaded that his enemies were frantically jealous of him.

25:1 — AFTER THREE DAYS ASCENDED FROM CAESAREA TO JERUSALEM —Festus, the new governor went at once to Jerusalem, the center of the province, there to become acquainted with the chief men of the people over whom he must preside as governor and judge. He was of a totally different character from his predecessor. Paul called him “noble Festus” and history confirms the appellation. (Z'03-156; R.3196)

25:3 — LAYING WAIT IN THE WAY TO KILL HIM — Alas that such criminal injustice cannot be charged against the Jews of that age alone; but in every age and in almost every religious system the mental unbalance is such that in the heat of the moment atrocious crimes have been advocated and done in the name of God and of Holiness. What lessons we may learn from history! When will mankind learn that as justice is the foundation of the Divine government, (Psa. 97:2) so everything contrary thereto must be displeasing to God? When shall we learn that the results of injustice will ultimately be more injurious to the doer than to the injured? (Z.'09-318; R.4500)

25:11 — I APPEAL UNTO CAESAR — It is a mistake made by some well-meaning members of the Lord's family to suppose that the Master's teaching of non-resistance means that his followers should put forth no efforts on their own behalf. It is our privilege to avail ourselves of every right granted to us under the laws of the country in which we live. It is proper for us to appeal to higher or better courts to obtain that justice to which might not be obtainable in lower courts. But having exhausted all such legal resources and remedies the Lord's people are to be submissive to the results, not grumblers, not resisters of the decisions of the Law.

25:13 — KING AGRIPPA AND BERNICE CAME UNTO CAESAREA TO SALUTE FESTUS — At the ceremonies of inauguration of Festus.

25:26 — OF WHOM I HAVE NO CERTAIN THING TO WRITE UNTO MY LORD — Festus was placed in a peculiar position In sending the Apostle to Rome, as he was obliged to do in the case of appeal by a Roman citizen, he must of necessity send some charges, and being a just man he desired that the charges be truthfully stated. Therefore he was puzzled to know what charges, if any, he could formulate against the Apostle. (Z. '09-318; R.4500; Z. '03-157; R.3197)

26:14 — HARD FOR THEE TO KICK AGAINST THE PRICKS — Moffatt's translation seems to get the right thought—"You hurt yourself by kicking against the goads."

ROMANS

1:1 — PAUL, A SERVANT OF JESUS CHRIST — Acts 9:3-9; 22:6-16; 26:12-18.

CALLED TO BE AN APOSTLE, SEPARATED UNTO THE GOSPEL OF GOD — Acts 22:14; 9:15; 13:2; Gal. 1:15; Acts 28:16, 17.

1:2 — BY HIS PROPHETS IN THE HOLY SCRIPTURES — Isa. 9:6,7; Jer. 23:5, 6; 33:14-16.

1:3 — SEED OF DAVID ACCORDING TO THE FLESH — Contrast in verses 3 and 4 birth to flesh and birth to spirit.

1:7 — CALLED TO BE SAINTS — Paul is addressing this epistle not to the world but to believers. These words indicate that it is addressed specially to the consecrated. But evidently some connected with the Church at Rome had not made a consecration yet. (Z. '14-86; R.5422)

1:8 — WHOLE WORLD — Known world.

1:10 — BY THE WILL OF GOD TO COME UNTO YOU — Was going to Jerusalem at this time to bring to the saints these gifts from Achaia, then he left for Rome for trial.

1:13 — LET — Hindered. See 2 Thess. 2:7; Isa. 43:13.

1:14 — DEBTOR — I owe the Gospel to the Gentiles.

1:16 — GOSPEL OF CHRIST — Not being ashamed of the Lord and his message implies that they will be faithful in the presentation of the same when convenient to themselves or when inconvenient. To the best of their knowledge and ability they will speak forth the words of truth and soberness—as wisely as possible, as inoffensively as possible, but they must speak. (Acts 4:20) But it is only those who have heard something and seen something who have any testimony to give. Those who know nothing may as well keep quiet. Until by the Lord's grace our eyes have been opened, and we have seen something of his grace as shown in his divine plan, we are not qualified to tell others. We must first receive the living bread before we can dispense it. We must first know the truth and be set free by it before we can become its bondservants, before it can be true of us—"Woe is me if I preach not the Gospel."

1:18 — FOR THE WRATH OF GOD IS REVEALED — This shows a present revelation of divine wrath. We see it all about us, every hearse, doctors sign, etc. Pain, suffering speaks of disease, disease of decay, decay of death; working in the human family and bringing all, rich and poor to the grave, the great prison house. If we can see what has been the revelation of God's wrath in the past 6000 years we will be better able to understand the "wrath to come." We must distinguish between the wrath of a good man and the wrath of a bad man, the wrath of God and the wrath of the Devil. The wrath of God has been a just dealing, the abandonment to destruction of all not worthy of everlasting life. But there has been a redemption provided. (N-12-10-11)

FROM HEAVEN AGAINST ALL — Not merely against great sin and gross violence, but against every form of sin, even the slightest. The Scriptures assert that God's law is one and that a violation of one point is a violation of the entire law. God is thus giving us a great lesson on the exceeding sinfulness of sin, its pernicious, injurious influence and results. He wishes this lesson to be so thoroughly learned and impressed upon our race that when in the due time He shall bring in relief we will never forget the lesson to all eternity but will hate it as our worst foe. (N-12-10-11)

1:20 — EVEN HIS ETERNAL POWER AND GODHEAD — The headship of the Almighty over all his creatures and his unlimited power are clearly manifested in the things of nature. (Psa. 19)

1:21 — NEITHER WERE THANKFUL — Much of the degradation of the heathen may be traced directly to unthankfulness.

2:7 — PATIENT CONTINUANCE IN WELL DOING SEEK FOR GLORY — The word “glory” expresses the personal qualities, the glorious character, glory of person, brightness above the sun, glorious body like Christ’s, the glory of the divine nature. Of man we read “Thou crownest him with glory and honor.” That was the glory of the perfect human nature as in Rom. 3:23.

AND HONOUR — Honor is something given by another and refers to the qualities of office which the church with Christ will have, as kings and priests unto God, as the Everlasting Father, Seed of Abraham. See Rev. 5:12, 13; Psa. 91:15.

AND IMMORTALITY, ETERNAL LIFE — Including both “little flock” and great company for both seek the same reward, but get different rewards because the latter fail to make sure their calling and election; both will have eternal life.

2:24 — BLASPHEMED — It is not likely that the grosser meaning of the word blasphemy was the Apostle’s thought. Blasphemy was a terrible thought among the Jews. Even a parent who heard his own child blaspheme was instructed to stone that child to death for so doing. We suppose the Apostle meant that the kind of living practised among the Jews really blasphemed God’s name before the whole world. They were professedly God’s people. And if under divine care, instruction, recognition they did the things dishonoring God, they were blaspheming His name. While the ten Commandments were not given to the church, by the character of our consecration we are bound to seek to know God’s will, even beyond the letter of the Word. While the Church is not under the Law Covenant yet we are under the general instruction (Spirit) of the ten Commandments. As the Jews profaned the name of the Lord by careless living amongst the Gentiles, so there is great danger of Christians profaning his name by careless living. Let us not take His name in vain. (Z. ’14-55; R.5404)

3:27 — BUT BY THE LAW OF FAITH — The very nature of true, pure faith is opposed to boastfulness. It is sincere and too humbly mindful of personal weakness and necessary dependance on God to be boastful. In fact a humble, faithful walk with God excludes every mean disposition, and elevates the character far beyond this. Many of these boasters have their faith so strong, so rooted and grounded in what God did not say that they have no inclination to hear or heed what he did say. (Z. ’07-165; R.2163)

3:31 — ESTABLISHED BY THE LAW — See note Isa. 42:21; Rom. 8:3; 7:12.

4:3 — COUNTED UNTO HIM FOR RIGHTEOUSNESS — Abraham needed no mediator to justify him. He was “justified by faith,” and so are we. (Rom. 5:1) But Abraham did need a Redeemer (John 8:56) and so do we—Jesus Christ the righteous (vs. 5) who died for our sins and through faith in whose blood we have remission of sins. (Matt. 26:28; Acts 10:43) Abraham needed no Advocate, but we need one: not to secure forgiveness of original sins, but as our Head to represent our every interest as New Creatures. Because of ignorance and weakness and having this treasure of our spirit begetting in earthly vessels, we as sons of God could not hope to make our consecration vows. We needed an Advocate and have been provided one, “Jesus Christ the righteous,” “who ever liveth to make intercession for us,” as New Creatures, his members. (Z. '09-281; '10-52; R.4476; 4554) We need no mediator any more than Adam did, because through the imputed merit of Christ we stand before God, perfect as he.

4:13 — HEIR OF THE WORLD — All nations, peoples, kingdoms of earth will be permitted to become members of Israel and thus become members of the earthly seed of Abraham and sharers of the blessings of Israel’s New Covenant. In the end of the Millennium all the perfect race will be the “seed of Abraham,” and when Satan is loosed to test them all, it will be Abraham’s seed of all nations that will be tested as to worthiness or unworthiness of eternal life, “as the sands of the sea shore” for multitude. (Z. '10-227; R.4646)

4:17 — FATHER OF MANY NATIONS — See note verse 13.

5:1 — JUSTIFIED — Before justification we had a feeling toward God of fear of impending judgment.

BY FAITH — The Lord’s calling and drawing now seem to be along the lines of justice, love of righteousness, faith, humility and obedience. These qualities all belong to the perfect man. But all have lost them in varying degrees. Such as respond to the Lord’s call now are accepted as being in the right heart attitude which if they had perfect bodies would constitute them perfect men. They have qualities of heart which if they be brought to the truth would prove some of them to be pure in heart and such as the Lord would desire should have eternal life and all of his favors. (N-2-20-10)

5:7 — SOME WOULD EVEN DARE TO DIE — The Apostle is here contrasting the most that man will do, with the unheard of kindness of God. Very rarely indeed will any one be found willing to die for even a righteous man. Though it has occurred rarely. But God’s love was so great that he was willing even while we were yet sinners, to give His Son for us.

5:12 — See Psa. 49:7; Rom. 3:23; Gal. 3:22.

5:20 — THAT THE OFFENCE MIGHT ABOUND — That sin might be made clearly manifest by contrast with the perfect righteousness of the Law. That it might be seen to be exceeding bad and worthless, and that it might be made clear that all were sinners and that as such they could not keep the Law. (See Rom. 7:13; Gal. 3:19; John 7:19)

GRACE DID MUCH MORE ABOUND — In an individual where sin abounded to such an extent as to destroy 80% of his character sin abounded more than in one in whom sin had destroyed 50% and left 50%. God's grace in Christ abounds in like proportion, i.e; the former has 80% of grace abounding in him, by reason of faith in Christ, and the latter 50% of grace. So both are brought up to 100% of perfect character required in God's sight, by the imputed merit of Christ. Of both is required 100% of intention, attempting nothing less than perfection. (Sermon)

6:15 — UNDER THE LAW — Law Covenant.

BUT UNDER GRACE — Grace Covenant or Abrahamic Covenant.

7:4 — DEAD TO THE LAW BY THE BODY OF CHRIST — By becoming members of the body of Christ.

7:5 — WE WERE IN THE FLESH — Before we were begotten, when we followed the desires of our flesh, giving them more or less free rein.

THE MOTIONS OF SIN — R.V.: "sinful passions," The desires of sin in our fallen flesh, these may still remain after we are begotten, but then we keep them under, do not give them free rein. (See 1 John 3:9)

WHICH WERE BY THE LAW — Made manifest, as sinful by the Law. (vss. 12, 13)

FRUIT — Fruits worthy of death, "Wages of sin is Death." (Rom. 6:23; 6:21)

7:6 — NOW WE ARE DELIVERED FROM THE LAW — Paul shows here that we are delivered from the whole Law (we Jews), the decalogue included, for he quotes the tenth Commandment. We are no longer under the letter but under the Spirit. The letter was that written on the stones. (Gal. 3:24)

7:7 — THOU SHALT NOT COVET — See verse 6 note.

7:10 — I FOUND TO BE UNTO DEATH — This lesson of the Jewish Age was a part of the lessons that God is giving mankind, for the purpose of bringing them to an exact knowledge of the truth, so that they may choose intelligently between obedience, with life; and disobedience, with death.

(John 5:45)

7:11 — DECEIVED ME — How did sin deceive him and all Jews. Paul here uses himself as a sample of the whole Jewish people. The Jew said “certainly I will keep those commandments; they are simply a statement of what I ought to do anyway. Certainly I will, and then I shall live on and enjoy the beautiful land of Palestine. But when he found he could not keep it, he found himself under a double condemnation. He thought it was going to give him life, but found it gave him only death. (see verse 10)

7:12 — AND GOOD — See note Isa. 42:21.

7:25 — SERVE THE LAW OF GOD — With the intention, will, and we must not fall short of perfection of will by one jot or tittle. From the heart we must love righteousness and hate iniquity. Otherwise we are not worthy of the Kingdom. (Sermon)

8:1 — BUT AFTER THE SPIRIT — Christ’s merit thus cleanses us from a consciousness of sin (of condemnation for our sins). We realize that this is not a covering for a moment, day or year, (as in the type of Day of Atonement) but is a permanent covering, through faith, of all our sins that are past. We have the basis for this in the fact that we are drawn of the Father and invited to approach him. When we do this and believe in Christ, God approaches us and thus he recognized our step of justification. And when we come fully to him and give him our hearts, Christ appears as our Advocate, to the intent that we may be accepted of the Father as members of Christ’s body—the Bride class. He then applies the merit of his sacrifice on our behalf to make up for our Adamic sin and imperfection, that we may be acceptable sacrifices. Thenceforth our flesh, which is reckoned justified fully and freely through faith in Christ and consecration, is considered dead (buried with him in baptism). (Col. 3:3) The new creature alone is thenceforth recognized by God; this is not the old creature. It has a new standing and is not responsible for the sins that are past, because those were all cancelled when the old creature was accepted as a living sacrifice in conjunction with the merit of the Advocate. Hence the new creature has a consciousness of absolute forgiveness of sins of his mortal flesh reckoned dead. (Z. ’10-247, 248; R.4656) These are privileged to know that their sins are forgiven and that nothing in the past can in any sense stand against them. (Rom. 8:33-34 Diag.) (Z. ’10-248; R.4656)

8:3 — CONDEMNED SIN IN THE FLESH — See note John 12:31 and Isa. 42:21.

8:4 — BUT AFTER THE SPIRIT — Love is the fulfilling of the Law and to us God counts this service of the heart and intention, as a perfect keeping of the divine Law (since Jesus' merit is applied to cover all our unwilling weaknesses and imperfections). However short we may come of the full spirit of the divine Law, we are counted as fulfillers of it so long as our daily walk is in that direction to the extent of our ability. (Z. '06-106; R.3753)

8:11 — BY HIS SPIRIT THAT DWELLETH IN YOU — If the power of God was sufficient to energize and quicken the dead Jesus, surely he is able as well as willing to make it sufficient for us—to give us the victory over our flesh to the extent that sin need not reign in our mortal bodies (dominate them), but instead we as New Creatures will be able to use them more and more efficiently in the service of our Lord, to whom we have pledged our all. (Z. '07-4; R.3914)

This does not refer to future resurrections, but to energizing of our mortal body. The resurrection power is now working in the lives of the saints. We were alive unto sin once, but when we made our full surrender to the Lord we became dead with sin; and when begotten of the Holy Spirit we became New Creatures and the body is reckoned dead to sin and the New Creature alive to God. Now, the Spirit of God is able to so quicken our mortal body that instead of being a servant of sin, as it once was, it will be a servant of righteousness; quickened by the Spirit of God which dwells in us, and by degrees this resurrection process in which the New Creature is engaged becomes stronger and stronger. If this continues our resurrection progresses and the time will come at the end of our course when the Lord will count us worthy of the glorious change, to be like Him and share His glory, on the high spirit plane. (Z. '12-219; R.5060)

8:16 — CHILDREN OF GOD — This witness is most complete with those who have reached the “mark of perfect love,” and are sealed with this holy Spirit. Before that the Spirit does not fully witness because we are not developed enough.

8:21 — LIBERTY OF THE CHILDREN OF GOD — Not until the end of the Millennium will any of the world under the New Covenant arrangement, reach sonship. But if then they have been perfected as sons and will endure the tests then given, the Father will accept them and give them the blessings of Eternal life as sons. (Z. '10-393; R.4729)

8:23 — GROAN WITHIN OURSELVES — “Eternal life is promised to us, but after death. We are told of a blessed resurrection, but we meantime become the prey of decay; we are promised righteousness and yet sin dwells in us; we hear ourselves called blessed and meantime are overwhelmed in infinite miseries; we are promised affluence of all good things, but are all our days in hunger and thirst; God proclaims that he will be ever present to help us, but seems deaf to our cries. What would become of us, if we leaned not to hope, and unless our mind, guided by the word and Spirit of God, emerged through the midst of the shades, above this present world." John Calvin. (Z. '09-134; R.4386)

8:26 & 27 — SPIRIT — Our new holy mind.

HELPETH — Maketh up for.

OUR INFIRMITIES — Our bodily infirmities.

KNOWETH NOT — Know not (even) what we should pray for as we ought (much less are we able to do as we would like, always.)

SPIRIT ITSELF — Our holy mind.

FOR US — Omitted by oldest manuscripts.

HE THAT SEARCHETH — God.

MIND — From a Greek word meaning "inclination, intention of our spirit."

HE — (Our spirit) maketh intercession (He should be it, is in the verb ending.) God is pleased to accept the heart desires of his people, both in prayer and service notwithstanding the imperfection of their flesh. (E287, 288)

8:27 — HE — Our imperfect incense at the Golden Altar.

ACCORDING TO THE WILL OF GOD — This expression, intended to convey to God's people the heavenly Father's Love and care for them has been sadly misunderstood. They tell us the Holy Spirit groans for them to the Father; and some attempts to give audible utterances to the groans; and by some it is supposed that the amount of groaning which they do somehow helps the Holy Spirit in the matter, compensating for the groans it cannot utter. It would indeed be strange, if the Holy Spirit were a person equal in Power with the Father and the Son as the catechisms assert, that he should find it necessary to address the Father and Son on behalf of the Lord's people, with unutterable groans. Jesus tells us "The Father himself loveth you," (John 16:27) yet some have the thought that we should go to the Father and the Son through the Holy Spirit as a mediator, who would groan for us and intercede for us, that we might be accepted. This verse would appear equally inconsistent if we interpret it to mean that the Holy Spirit—the influence and Power of Jehovah is unable to express itself intelligently. The Spirit which maketh intercession for us, is our own Spirit, the Spirit of the Saint, which supplicates God, but often fails to express itself properly.

8:28 — WORK TOGETHER FOR GOOD — The Little Flock, these have kept nothing back of their love and devotion; things may happen, disastrous for their fleshly interests; but they remember they are not in the flesh but in the spirit and realize that no outside influence can mar their real interests as New Creatures, nor hinder them if faithful from attaining to the glories of the Kingdom with their Lord and Head; they have entered into the Holy by the blood of Jesus and do not withdraw, they “abide in the secret place of the Most High,” and will continue unto the very end. (Z. '11-58; R.4767) (Psa. 91:10; Heb. 2:10)

CALLED ACCORDING TO HIS PURPOSE — But if we rebel against him, and thus cease to love him supremely, we will no longer be of the class to whom this promise applies, for we would have lost that fulness of love.

8:31 — Diag. (F183-184)

8:32 — WITH HIM ALSO FREELY GIVE US ALL THINGS — Surely if he loved us while yet sinners, he loves us still more tenderly now that he has adopted us into his family—now that he sees in our hearts an earnest desire to do his will. (F411)

8:33 — IT IS GOD THAT JUSTIFIETH — Jehovah provided the robe of Christ’s merit for us, it was of his planning, and we can be as handsomely clothed as we like, in the gorgeous fruits of the Spirit.

8:34 — WHO ALSO MAKETH INTERCESSION FOR US — Jesus’ incense altar work for us in Heaven. (Rev. 8:3, 4)

8:37 — THROUGH HIM THAT LOVED US — The Great Company are conquerors, but the Little Flock are more than conquerors. (Z. '10-243; R.4653)

8:38 — NEITHER DEATH — Fear of death which hinders the Great Company. (Heb. 2:15)

NOR LIFE — Love of life.

9:1 — MY CONSCIENCE — “My conscience co-attesting with me in a holy spirit” (Diag.) Paul assures the Jews that he speaks thus in the spirit of truth and honesty.

9:3 — FOR I COULD WISH THAT MYSELF WERE ACCURSED FROM CHRIST — This is a misleading translation; the Diag. is better—“That I have great grief and unceasing anguish in my heart, on account of my brethren, my kinsmen according to the flesh (for I myself was wishing to be accursed from the anointed one).” That is, Paul had great sorrow of heart for the Jews, his kinsmen according to the flesh, and could sympathize with them in their blindness for he himself had once been in their position, wishing to be accursed from Christ, to have nothing to do with him; and he too had once persecuted the Church. (See Acts 9:1, 5.) Not that he would wish to suffer eternal torture for them, nor yet that he would wish to be cut off in the second death for them but he was willing to be cut off from participation in the glories of the Kingdom, as a member of the body of Christ, if thereby he could have brought his nation into that glorious position, the first right to which belonged to them as a people. (R.3182)

9:18 — AND WHOM HE WILL BE HARDENETH — If God's reproofs are not rightly received, if they do not have a corrective influence, they will have the opposite affect, the sinner will be the more obstinate and opposed to God. (Z.'11-153; R.4820)

9:27 — A REMNANT SHALL BE SAVED — That only a remnant was saved was not surprizing. Those "Hypocrites," "of their father, the Devil" surely were not among the remnant. And even of the Israelites indeed we cannot suppose that many of them were without guile, pure in heart just ready for faith and obedience under the Gospel Age call. By the divine arrangement the preaching of the Gospel of the Cross skimmed off into the Gospel Church the cream of that people, and the rest were blinded and God permitted it.

9:32 — FOR THEY STUMBLLED AT THAT STUMBLING-STONE — Their pride of heart built upon those promises (with untempered mortar) led them to look only at the promises of glory, honor and power to accompany the exaltation of Israel, and to ignore the passages telling of Messiah's sufferings, "led as a lamb to the slaughter, the chastisement of our peace upon him." (Isa. 53) Similarly they overlooked the prophecies that they should first be scattered among all nations, where God would show them no favor and their blessing be in connection with their regathering. (Jer. 16:13-17; Deut. 4:26-31; 28:36, 37, 63-65; Zech. 12:10) (Z.'11-84; R.4782)

10:5 — THOSE THINGS SHALL LIVE BY THEM — The Lord did not leave it to the people as to what they would or would not do. It was a Covenant of bondage, not of liberty.

10:6 — SPEAKETH ON THIS WISE — The Abrahamic Covenant is one of liberty. God told what he would do according to this Covenant, and then left it to the liberty of all those who might come to an understanding of his promise to decide as to what they would do in view of what he had promised to do.

10:8 — EVEN IN THY MOUTH — Public confession (vs. 9)

AND IN THY HEART — Heart belief.

10:9 — AND SHALL BELIEVE — If we believe in our heart. If we should say to you that on your way home today, if you would stop at a certain house, you would find in a particular corner upon the steps a little bag of valuable treasure which would be yours—if you believed you would go and get this bag. If you said that you believed us and then went another way altogether, we would be sure that you did not believe us. Your actions would prove it. Now the Lord has offered us the opportunity of being joint-heirs with Jesus Christ our Lord, in our inheritance incorruptible, undefiled, and that fadeth not away. If we believe this fact we will seek to know just what the conditions are. Whoever really believes will find that the conditions are very easy in comparison with the great reward. But if he fails to put forth his greatest effort to win this great prize he will show that he has not believed the message. For if he recognizes the offer and believes it, he will surely be eager to lay aside every weight and encumbrance and run with patience the race that is set before us patiently to the end to obtain the crown. (Heb. 12:1, 2) (Z. '14-88; R.5423)

11:2 — INTERCESSION — Complaineth (so Syriac, Diag. R.V.)

11:6 — AND IF BY GRACE, THEN IS NO MORE — “If by grace then it cannot be by works; if it were still by works then the grace or favor would not be much of a favor. Or if in works then it cannot be of works, for such works which necessitate the help of favor are no works at all, not worthy to be called such.” (See B215)

11:9 — AND A RECOMPENCE UNTO THEM — That their table of divine mercies and promises (the rich man’s table, Luke 16:19-21) would become a trap and a snare to them making them proud and arrogant, instead of humble, and thus showing the unfitness of the majority of them for a share with Messiah in the spiritual part of the Kingdom. (N-4-7-09)

TABLE — The special favors and promises of God to them as his chosen people. It was God’s goodness and favor toward them, that stumbled and trapped and prejudiced their unconsecrated hearts. They presumed upon God’s favor. They said: We have Abraham to our Father. (Matt. 3:9) They concluded that God must keep his promises to Abraham, and they being his children, the kingdom to bless the world must sooner or later be themselves. They trusted in themselves and despised others, became haughty, proud, self-confident, and so the less the humble spirited, sought by the Lord for Spiritual Israel. The Table was all right; the trouble was that Israel’s consecration was not complete. (Z. '11-84; R.4782) For our lesson see Rom. 9:27.

11:11 — THAT THEY SHOULD FALL — Did they stumble to such a degree as to fall irrevocably from favor? No. (See vs. 2)

PROVOKE — As in Heb. 10:24 to incite to good works to call forth love in others, to exert an influence favorable to righteousness. (Z. '15-5; R.5603)
Syr. = “Emulation in the children of my flesh.” Diag. = “My kindred.” (= Jews)

11:14 — PROVOKE — See verse 11 note.

11:16 — FIRSTFRUIT — The Christ.

BE HOLY, THE LUMP — All the obedient of the world, the after fruits.

AND IF THE ROOT — The Abrahamic promise.

BE HOLY, SO ARE THE BRANCHES — The olive tree originally was the Jewish nation, the branches the individual Jews. It was to these that John preached the baptism of repentance for remission of sins. Many were living in sin, defiled, and he urged them to repent, be cleansed, or otherwise they would be broken off. (Matt. 3:10) When Messiah came, the prepared ones (Israelites Indeed) received him and continued to be branches in that tree. In the Harvest the Jewish nation was transferred from Moses into Christ and those branches which were permitted to remain were thenceforth branches of Christ, or members of Christ and did not need to be engrafted into the tree, for they were in it already and were merely transferred into Christ. But the great mass of branches were broken off—Only a remnant saved—because they did not receive Christ. (Debates, White-Russell) All Jews not believing were broken off with the end of their harvest in A.D. 70.

11:17 — WILD OLIVE TREE — Syr. = “Though an olive from the desert” (Outside the Lord’s vineyard).

AMONG — Greek word meaning “instead of them.”

THE ROOT — The Root of the tree is the promise of God—Abrahamic promise that his seed should eventually bless all the families of the earth. (D651)

11:19 — GRAFTED IN — “Very True. They were plucked off because they believed not and thou standest by faith.” (Syr., Diag.)

11:23 — GRAFT THEM IN AGAIN — Eventually the same root will bear two kinds of branches, the ingrafted wild olive branches, and the reingrafted natural branches, when fleshly Israel shall have its blindness turned away. (2 Cor. 3:16; Isa. 27:6) and shall look with the eye of faith upon the Saviour crucified and pierced 1800 years ago—a sacrifice for sin. Fleshly Israel was God's typical Kingdom for a long time. (D651)

11:25 — BLINDNESS IN PART — “In some measure” (Syr., Diag.)

11:26 — ALL ISRAEL SHALL BE SAVED — From the blindness which God sent upon them at the beginning of this age. Not saved to heavenly glory, nor to eternal life.

OUT OF SION THE DELIVERER — The Head, our Lord Jesus was brought to the birth more than 1800 years ago. His body the Church is now being born in the end of this Gospel age, by having share in his resurrection. (Z. '09-262; R.4464)

11:27 — FOR THIS IS MY COVENANT — The apostle says here that Jacob (fleshly Israel) will be blessed under a Covenant and that it will mean the cancellation of their sins. He cannot mean the Abrahamic Covenant because the spiritual seed inherited it and took the place of the natural seed (vs. 7), neither can he mean the Law Covenant, for it passed away, the bondwoman and her son were cast out at the end of the Jewish age. (Gal. 4:30 and note) He must therefore refer to the New Covenant and this is in exact accord with Jer. 31:33, 34. (Z. '07-9; R.3916)

WHEN I SHALL TAKE AWAY THEIR SINS — Roth.—“As soon as I shall take away their sins.” (See B211)

11:29 — WITHOUT REPENTANCE — Things from which God will never change, nor need to change. He knew the end from the beginning and promised nothing out of accord with the divine purpose. (N-4-8-09)

Every covenant, and promise that God has ever made and everything that he has ever done he has foreknown its full import and its results, and he has done nothing hastily. (Z. '10-183; R.4624)

11:31 — See Z. '10-185; Z. '10-228; R.4625; R.4646

12:1 — The Apostle is addressing those who had been Gentiles. In view of these mercies of God (his plan of salvation and the call of some of the Gentiles to take the places in the body of Christ lost by natural Israel.) But whom is Paul addressing? He is evidently using these words as an exhortation, not to the world but to believers. The introduction shows that (1:7) it is addressed to the consecrated already. But evidently some connected with the Church at Rome had not made yet a consecration. Some who were believers, who had come to a knowledge of the Lord, and counted the cost of self-sacrifices, but who had not given themselves fully to the Lord, might yet become brethren in the truth in a full sense. The Apostles words would apply equally to both classes—those who had presented their bodies living sacrifices and those contemplating doing so.

To the consecrated the thought would be—you have entered into a covenant with God to follow Jesus. You have given up your own human will. Remember that this includes your mortal body. Continue the work of presenting your body in dying daily. Keep before your minds this Covenant of Sacrifice, for it is not yet fulfilled. The mere promise to fulfill a covenant is not fulfilling it. Lay down your lives daily. Remember it is your mortal bodies which you are to sacrifice in the Lord's service. It is yourself as an old creature, and not as a New Creature, that is being sacrificed. Yours is a living sacrifice in the sense that this body reckonedly passed out of sin, is being continually sacrificed. It is not given you to preserve, or to be your everlasting possession, but it is your covenant and privilege to accomplish the sacrifice of your flesh. Therefore I beseech you to do this.

To those whose justification has not been vitalized:—You are desirous of serving God. This is shown in your attending the meetings of the church. The fact that you assemble with the Saints of this congregation signifies that you love holy things and that you desire to know the will of God. Now then, brethren I beseech you to make a full consecration of yourselves to God. Consider your body as a living sacrifice—not that you are to commit suicide and destroy your body, but that you are to esteem your body a living sacrifice, day by day, using your strength and life in the Lord's service. (Z. '14-86, 87; R.5422)

I BESEECH — This is not a command. It is a promise or covenant with God, respecting a matter, not called for strictly by divine law. Whatever is demanded of us by justice is an obligation, and could not properly be considered a sacrifice or consecration. The divine law which commands that the human nature be restrained from sin and be obedient to every law of righteousness, does not command that we shall consecrate our lives to the extent of sacrificing them, even in the divine service. So here the apostle while urging consecration does not command it, nor even hint at a penalty upon those who do not consecrate. (N-5-2-09) See Deut. 23:21-23.

The heavenly Father never forces anybody. He sets forth the fact that self-denial and sacrifice are the only terms upon which one can come into fellowship with Him. He tells them that he is willing to accept sacrifices, and now is the time to make them. Nowhere does he command anyone to make a consecration. To do so would be to change the matter from sacrifice to obligation; and the very thought of sacrifice is in opposition to requirement. Our Lord did not seek to entrap anyone into his service—as we see done today. On the contrary he proceeded along high and noble lines. He said “Come unto me all ye that are oppressed and heavy laden.” This is an appeal to reason. If you have found you are sin sick, come unto me—I have the will and the way to help you to the Father. We should not try to entrap anyone or resort to hocus-pocus to convince anyone. We should tell people that there is no other way to come into Christ but by the way of the cross. We should not plead what there is to be gained in a material way by becoming a Christian. It is the Lord's way or no way. We must bear the cross as he bore it. We believe that we do the people more good by setting forth the message with no uncertain sound, than by trying to entrap them. Nevertheless in putting before them the trials and the cross, we should also put before them the glory to follow. (2 Cor. 6:1, 2) (Z.'14-87; R.5422)

THEREFORE — This exhortation is based upon the preceding statements of the 11th chapter—because of those things cited in chap. 11. The 11th chapter tells of the mercies of God toward both natural and spiritual Israel, not so much to the world. Chapter 10 takes up in elaborate form God's mercies toward all his creatures. (Z.'14-86; R.5422)

THAT YE — What does the church sacrifice? In the scriptures “sacrifice” is used in two different ways, and properly—first to describe the surrender of our will in order to have God's will done in us; second to indicate the work of our great High Priest to whom we give up ourselves and who makes that consecration acceptable to God. Primarily we sacrifice what we possess and the present earthly rights, privileges, opportunities. Additionally we give up something by faith—our share of Restitution privileges. It is not, however, necessary to understand the Restitution blessings to give them up.

Those consecrated ones in the past of the Gospel age did not know of these things, yet as they consecrated to give up everything they had, this would mean Restitution privileges too, so they made an acceptable sacrifice through their Redeemer. When we read that the High Priest offered the sacrifices and again that we offer our bodies living sacrifices, these are different uses of the word “offer,” and we really devote for sacrifice, when we present our bodies. We can do no more than present our bodies. This is shown by the bringing of the two goats to the door of the Tabernacle and tying them there. In this sense we sacrifice, i.e. we give up our own will and our own rights to everything. But the Heavenly Father does not accept the sacrifice from us except through the Redeemer. Our great Advocate imputed his merit, and as the High Priest, representative of God, he sacrificed it. But our work is not then completed, we must continually keep our wills dead, sacrifice them. At any moment we may cease to present ourselves, cease to have the new will rule and “take our ease.” As the sacrifice of the Lord's goat required time (though dead in one sense when the knife was thrust into it, yet the sacrifice was not complete till the blood was brought into the Most Holy); so the sacrificing of the Church (while it began at Pentecost) continues all the Gospel Age. (Z.'11-390; Z.'14-88; R.4900; R.5423)

PRESENT YOUR BODIES — By the body is meant also the earthly interests, both present, past, and future, every earthly interest we ever had or might ever have. Such a one gives up all the hope or right he might otherwise have had in a future Restitution. The covenant is a complete one. (Z. '14-88; R.5423)

A LIVING SACRIFICE, HOLY, ACCEPTABLE — To the consecrated: his vitalizing of your justification, which the Lord has granted you has made you holy. And because the Lord counts you holy, and yourselves wholly acceptable to Him, you should continue to do good works, complete the work which you have begun. (Heb. 6:1) The sacrifice being esteemed of God holy and acceptable the results will be grand and glorious. To one who has not completed his consecration:—If you take this step of consecration, remember that then the merit of Christ will be imputed to you, and that through this arrangement which he has made in Christ, God is willing to accept you. (Z. '14-87; R.5422)

With the consecrated there is a daily continual presentation, day by day, hour by hour. It is a constant surrender of self-will in this or that way, a daily waving of our offering before the Lord. So with our Lord Jesus. He not only made the full consecration at the beginning but day by day He laid down his life, until the sacrifice was complete on Calvary.

REASONABLE SERVICE — As many as see and hear and have the eyes of their understanding opened, should consider this (God's mercies) a reason for a full consecration, a full surrender to the Lord. It would be very unreasonable to accept God's marvellous favors and then neglect to the conditions attached to them. It is truly a most reasonable service, and the prize which He attaches to it makes it unspeakably desirable and precious.

If it was a reasonable service for Jesus to leave the heavenly glory to become a man and sacrifice himself unto death, then surely ours is most reasonable. We being imperfect have very little to give; and where there is an opportunity for showing our appreciation of the Heavenly Father, then we should make haste to use it. It is an offering far too small. It is far less than we would gladly render to Him who has manifested toward us such wondrous compassion and grace.

When God has offered us so great a reward and blessing in return for our poor lives, we should feel that a refusal to accept this offer would be indication not only of a pitiful lack of appreciation of infinite goodness, but also a weakness of mind. It would show a puerility of judgment which is unable to weigh and compare the trifling and transitory pleasures of self-will for the brief life with an eternity of joy and blessing and glory on the divine plane, far above angels and principalities and powers and every name that is named, next to our glorious Lord and Head—a station so glorious, so exalted that no human mind can grasp its infinity. Let us be faithful, even unto death. (Z. '14-88; R.5423, 5424)

12:3 — TO EVERY MAN THE MEASURE OF FAITH — Seek to determine for himself the measure of God's gifts possessed, and hence the measure of his stewardship and responsibility. (F243)

12:7 — OR HE THAT TEACHETH, ON TEACHING — Who has a talent for exposition—for making the truth plain, should give his attention to the teaching. (F251) The point is—the complete liberty of each individual to use his talents as he may be able, as an evangelist, whether by direct appointment of the ecclesia of the New Creation or not (As Stephen would not have been competent to teach in the Church, unless chosen by the church to that service.) (F254)

12:8 — OR HE THAT EXHORTETH, ON EXHORTATION — He who finds himself possessed of a good talent of exhorting should exercise it rather than let it lie dormant while endeavoring to exercise a talent he does not possess, in any special degree. Such, perhaps not so able to teach may be just in their element in prayer and testimony meetings, which should be a feature among the various gatherings of the Lord's people. (F250)

12:9 — LET LOVE BE WITHOUT DISSIMULATION — Having shown the necessity of love he now warns us against a merely feigned love, which would only outwardly appear kind and polite, love must be genuine, heart-felt as well as mouth expressed. This love is to be toward God and toward all in proportion as they are God-like or striving to be so. A love of that which is pure, good, true. (Titus 1:8) (Z. '11-382; R.4895)

ABHOR THAT WHICH IS EVIL — Not merely to avoid doing that which is evil, not merely to have no love for that which is evil, but more we are to hate evil, abhor, detest it. As the love for God and for all things pure and true and right is to be cultivated so the abhorrence of sin and every impurity is to be cultivated. Thus the stronger we become in Christian character the more intense will become our love for the good and the pure and true, and the more intense will be our opposition to the untrue, impure, sinful. The more we learn of the beautiful harmonies of this heavenly grace—love, and the more they become the melodies of our own hearts, the more distressing and repugnant and abhorrent will be sin and selfishness as discords in music grate upon our ears in proportion to our appreciation and knowledge of musical harmonies. Let us therefore cultivate in ourselves hatred for sin, selfishness, impurity and every evil way, that we may find it the easier to cultivate in our hearts the beautiful graces of the Spirit. Only in our minds have the old things passed away and all things become new. Actually this change will be accomplished when we become Spirit beings. (Z. '11-382; R.4895) If we would prove our earnest desire to be all the Lord would have us be, we can show it in no better way than by a strict surveillance of all our thoughts and motives.

13:1 — THE POWERS THAT BE ARE ORDAINED OF GOD — See note on Dan. 2:37. In Nebuchadnezzar's case God's dealing with him was prophetic. In Israel's case God had very particular oversight of their affairs. David was anointed when a youth to be king in due time instead of Saul. It might be said that whoever sat upon the throne was there as God's representative. Once the Prophet of God was sent to anoint one of the Kings of Syria and to give him a prophecy respecting himself. Of Pharaoh God said "for this very purpose have I raised thee up, that I might show forth my power in thee." God did not approve of Pharaoh but used him to show forth His own glory. God also used Cyrus, King of Persia, as a servant to perform his bidding. All these recorded instances show a vital interest on God's part as to who shall come forward and who be retarded when these matters would effect his own plan.

We are not to understand that these different kings were God's choice as respects their loyalty to him but that these were the ones through whom the Divine Plan in operation could be signally manifested and outworked. And so today. The Lord knew which of the men running for office of President of the U.S. in the fall of 1912 would be the most suitable—the one who would most fully cooperate in the carrying out of the very conditions which He is pleased to permit to happen at this time. Kings do not reign "by the grace of God." They do not reign in God's Kingdoms, but God does exercise a supervisory oversight in respect to them—not that he has authorized them to represent Him, or that he is responsible for their deed and acts, but that he is controlling matters that as to cause them to outwork his own arrangements. God will not convert a King in order to do this; He will not make him a saint. But he can allow or hinder events without interfering with the free will of any individual, without being responsible for his government. We may assume that this supervision of divine power is for the ultimate interest of mankind. We remember that there is a Prince of Darkness, who is seeking to do violence to humanity. Our thought is that the divine power hinders or restrains, so that the worst things cannot come to pass until the due time, and He overrules to bring those into power who will have the disposition to do what he purposes to permit when his due time has arrived. (Z. '14-159; R.5467)

14:17 — AND JOY IN THE HOLY GHOST — See A284. Some misunderstand this to mean that the Kingdom consists in righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit. The context shows this a wrong thought. Paul urges that these liberties as to what they might eat and drink were not to be esteemed as the real blessings of this embryo kingdom of God class in the present life. Far from it, the real blessings of this class consist in the enjoyment of righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit. Our heavenly peace and confidence are the result of our union with Christ as members of His Kingdom class. This we prize and not specially the privilege of eating pork. Fellowship with the Father and Son (joy in the Holy Spirit) and with all who possess the spirit of righteousness is the blessed privilege of every member of the Church—the Body of Christ. If the Lord's work's interest required self-denials as to food and drink, foregoing of liberties as to such we can count them as joyous sacrifices for Christ's sake. (Z. '12-283; R.5096)

14:22 — HAST THOU FAITH? HAVE IT TO THYSELF BEFORE GOD

— If we advertise our faith and our needs and thus make capital out of them by eliciting the sympathies and assistances of men we are in great danger of seeking to be pleasers of men. (Z. '97-165; R.2163)

15:1 — AND NOT TO PLEASE OURSELVES — Note Gal. 6:1; Rom. 14:1.

15:2 — FOR HIS GOOD TO EDIFICATION — Diag.—“So far as is good for edification.”

15:3 — FOR EVEN CHRIST PLEASED NOT HIMSELF — On the contrary he was so unselfish that he was willing to bear the sins of all the race, to be “bruised for our iniquities.” “The Lord hath laid on him the iniquities of us all.” (Isa. 53:6) in harmony with the Father's will.

15:4 — WERE WRITTEN FOR OUR LEARNING — The larger part of the Old Testament had a typical and allegorical significance. The things recorded actually happened, but they are not recorded because there was any real worth in them as history, but because there was a hidden cause or meaning underneath them which the Lord realized would be for our edification.

THROUGH PATIENCE AND COMFORT — Diag.: “Through the patience and the comfort of the Scriptures might possess the Hope.”

15:5 — OF PATIENCE — “God of that patience and that consolation.” i.e. the particular patience and comfort given by the Scriptures. (Psa. 119:75-77; 2 Cor. 1:3, 4)

AND CONSOLATION — Roth.: the endurance and encouragement.

ACCORDING TO CHRIST JESUS — i.e. The same disposition of unselfishness as in vs. 3.

15:7 — RECEIVED US TO THE GLORY OF GOD — And if Christ received another who are we that we should refuse to recognize him. Receive them as lovingly, kindly, and generously as Jesus received us. Cast over their imperfections the mantle of love, looking only at the New Creature, not at the old man.

15:8 — JESUS CHRIST WAS A MINISTER — Diag. servant.

OF THE CIRCUMCISION FOR THE TRUTH OF GOD — God thus arranged so that his word might be seen to be truth, sure, reliable, and through this arrangement he would fulfill all his promises made to the Fathers, which included a blessing upon all nations (Gentiles.)

TO CONFIRM THE PROMISES MADE UNTO THE FATHERS — He had to be born under the Law to redeem the Jews, who were under the Law (Gal. 4:4, 5) Thus by fulfilling the Law and in no other way, could he redeem those under it. Thus fulfilling all righteousness (Matt. 3:15), he confirmed (certified, made sure as in Dan. 9:24) the promises.

15:9 — FOR HIS MERCY — Because God's promises were sure that the Gentiles could be blessed only through the Jews, by becoming Israelites indeed, first now by becoming members of Christ (as in Rom. 11:12), second under the New Covenant. Thus the promises may be sure to all the seed (Rom. 4:16), and all God's purposes be accomplished.

15:12 — AND HE THAT — “Even he that”

15:13 — NOW THE GOD OF HOPE — Diag.: “That hope.”—the hope of vs. 4, that which the Scriptures shows for us—“the hope of immortality.”

15:19 — AND ROUND ABOUT — Diag.: “In a circuit as far as Illyricum.” Also the same in Roth. and Syr.

15:24 — I TRUST TO SEE YOU IN MY JOURNEY — “I hope in fact, when journeying through, to get sight of you.”— Roth.

IF FIRST I BE SOMEWHAT FILLED — Syr. “When I shall have been satisfied in some measure with visiting you.”

16:3 — AQUILLA — “Helpers in Christ Jesus” means more than merely entertainers who had received the apostles at their home; it meant that they had worked with him, not merely in tent making, but in his chief work as a Gospel minister. Priscilla is mentioned first here, before her husband, implying probably that she was the more efficient helper. Priscilla and Urbane are similarly mentioned, in the same language. The next verse gives mention of some of her services. (Vs. 4)

16:6 — GREET MARY, WHO BESTOWED MUCH LABOUR ON US — “Bestowed much labor on us,” evidently not as a fellow worker, but personal service, perhaps washing or mending. (F268) See 1 Tim. 2:9-15; Eph. 4:11, 12.

16:17 — AND AVOID THEM — Reprove them by avoiding them. Show them that you do not sympathize with such a strifeful, unholy Spirit. We are not to smite them or speak evil of them, nor to revile them in turn again, but simply to give our attention and smiles and cheering words to others, to such as manifest more of the Lord's spirit. To those who can be helped at all, such a course would be very helpful, far more so than fellowshiping with them, which might encourage them to feel that they had the approval of the pure in heart and noble in mind. We are to distinguish between such an avoidance and the totally different disfellowshipping and cutting off from the Body of Christ, by the Church, the latter can be done only in accord with Matt. 18:15-18. (Z. '09-26; R.4318)

I CORINTHIANS

The Church at Corinth had been founded for nearly five years (Date of this Epistle about A.D. 59, while Acts 18 was about A.D. 54.) and had enjoyed a wide range of divine providences. (Z. '16-212; R.5923)

1:26 — NOT MANY NOBLE, ARE CALLED — Pride is an important element in the fallen nature and must continually be reckoned with. Those who are less fallen than the majority of their fellows and who are therefore more noble by nature than the average of their fellows, are apt to realize this and to feel a certain amount of superiority and to pride themselves on it. Such, even if they are seeking the Lord, and aspiring to his blessing and favor, would be inclined to expect that they would be received by the Lord on some different basis from their more fallen, less noble, fellows. God's standard however is perfection, and he declares that everything not up to that standard is condemned; and every condemned one is pointed to the same Redeemer and to the same sacrifice for sins, whether he has suffered much, or comparatively less from the fall. These conditions of acceptance were sure to be more attractive to the mean and more fallen members of the race than to the more noble ones—the weak, the fallen ones feeling more keenly their need of a Savior, because they appreciate much more their own imperfections; while the less fallen, with a measure of self-satisfaction, are not much inclined to bow low before the cross of Christ, to accept justification as a free gift, and to approach on this basis solely, to the throne of heavenly grace to obtain mercy and find grace to help. They are more inclined to lean to their own understanding, and to have that well-satisfied feeling which will hinder them coming by the low gate and the narrow way. (F89)

1:28 — TO BRING TO NAUGHT THINGS THAT ARE — Both to angels and man an illustration of the power of God to transform characters from base and despised to noble and pure, not by force, but by the transforming power of the truth, working in the called ones through the promises and hopes set before them both to will and to do of his good pleasure. (F89)

1:29 — SHOULD GLORY IN HIS PRESENCE — That no man should be able to boast that he had in any sense or degree merited the great blessings to be conferred.

1:30 — WISDOM, AND RIGHTEOUSNESS, AND SANCTIFICATION, AND REDEMPTION — These four illustrated in the Tabernacle: wisdom (leave Camp and approach Court); righteousness (justice) in court; sanctification (love) in Holy; redemption (deliverance, power to resurrect) in the Most Holy. (Put in Bay, p. 78). In the Court we get acquainted with divine justice, as unchanging, perfect. (Rom. 3:26)

2:2 — SAVE JESUS CHRIST AND HIM CRUCIFIED — Paul was a learned man, and many might ask him his opinion about music, art, or literature, but Paul says “I am not used to discussing those things; I have no message along that line. I speak only God’s messages, you will have to seek elsewhere for the information you ask.”

2:4 — OF THE SPIRIT AND OF POWER — The apostles did not cultivate a blind and superstitious reverence for themselves. (F232) The church did not sit at the feet of the Apostles with blank unreasoning minds, but with a disposition to try the spirits to prove their testimony.

2:8 — WOULD NOT HAVE CRUCIFIED THE LORD OF GLORY — Not Jehovah, but Christ. He will be in the Millennial age majestic, a king of Glory, and he will then rule in Jehovah’s name and power. (Mic. 5:4)

2:9 — PREPARED FOR THEM THAT LOVE HIM — The high condition to which the church is to be elevated is not described in the Scriptures because it is beyond the power of the human mind to appreciate.

2:10 — THE DEEP THINGS OF GOD — This would apply most to the Church.

2:16 — BUT WE HAVE THE MIND OF CHRIST — We are striving to lose and kill our own minds and have the mind (will) of Christ in us ruling. “This one thing I do.” “I am determined to know nothing among you but Jesus Christ and him crucified.”

3:13 — IT SHALL BE REVEALED BY FIRE — Fiery trials and false doctrines (winds). The only things which will stand will be those based on what God said and developed character in line with His will (metal and precious stones), and not human traditions (wood, etc.) and characters in line with them. Crystallized character requires zeal and labor to build, but hay and stubble can be stuffed in anywhere.

4:3 — I JUDGE NOT MINE OWN SELF — Some judge themselves too harshly. They forget that the Lord is not judging us according to the flesh, and that if we were or could be perfect we would need no Savior or Advocate. (F410)

4:4 — FOR I KNOW NOTHING BY MYSELF — “I myself can see nothing amiss in me as a steward.” (F410)

4:5 — UNTIL THE LORD COME — Here the Apostle shows that same thought as Jesus in the parable of Matt. 13:24-30; 36:43. “Let both grow together till the harvest” and in the harvest a different work will be done—separation of wheat and tares. The day of the Lord has now come, and in his hand the sharp sickle of present truth, which is doing the separating work. How could we have judged before this time as to whose hearts were loyal and true? But now in the Master’s presence, it becomes our duty as well as our privilege, to judge who is on the Lord’s side and who is against him. (Matt. 12:30 See Rev. 14:14 and Matt. 13) “Judge nothing before the time,” but then let your spiritual senses be exercised in observing and marking the heretofore hidden things, which the Truth in its effects is bringing to light

WILL BRING TO LIGHT THE HIDDEN THINGS OF DARKNESS

— The covered deformities of the creeds, etc. Where is the intelligent Calvinist today who would not like to bury his creed sea deep, and forever hush this wrangle that has been exposing its deformities for a few years past; and also where is the intelligent Arminian that is not trembling lest his turn may come next. (Z. ’11-120; R.4802) Everything is being dragged to the light whether men are willing or not, systems, business, government, etc.

AND WILL MAKE MANIFEST THE COUNSELS OF THE HEARTS

— Not merely the hidden darkness of creeds and systems of error, but also the hidden things, of individual character. (Luke 12:2, 3) It is the day of reckoning with the individuals of the church. We who have received the truth, before whose mental vision the plan of God has been spread out and carefully explained, now stand on trial, yea under the final tests of this trial, which is either to prove or disprove our worthiness of the promised reward; and many are falling and some stand. (Psa. 91:7) (Z. ’11-120; R.4802)

5:3 — THOUGH I WERE PRESENT — None but an Apostle would have the right so to judge. See Peter and Ananias and Sapphira in Acts 5:1-11. (F412)

5:4 — WITH THE POWER OF OUR LORD — Note that Paul did not act independent of the Church but in accordance with its powers delegated by Christ. “In the name (authority) of our Lord Jesus Christ, ye being gathered together (i.e. the church being assembled for a church trial), with my spirit (Paul’s mind or his judgment expressed in this letter; his advice, spirit—mind) with the power of our Lord Jesus Christ (i.e. the powers conferred on the church by Jesus, as expressed through Paul’s letters). So Paul was waking up the Church to its privileges.

5:5 — TO DELIVER SUCH AN ONE UNTO SATAN — To deprive them of fellowship of the brethren and the uplifting and strengthening influence of the meetings and the smiles and handshakes of the brethren, would leave them more exposed to the shafts and persecution of Satan and without the helps from the brethren, that he could in a measure work his will upon them, and such would soon (if good at heart) see the error of their course, miss the fellowship and long to return and have their help and fellowship. This would be figuratively delivering them to Satan.

FOR THE DESTRUCTION OF THE FLESH — Their human nature, consecrated to death, but withheld from sacrifice. Those who will not sacrifice themselves the Lord will be compelled to see to their sacrificing, in order to save their life (spiritual), and it will not be under joyous conditions, but bitter anguish.

THAT THE SPIRIT MAY BE SAVED IN THE DAY OF THE LORD JESUS — Though “castaways” (1 Cor. 9:27) as regards the prize, yet the Lord loves them for at heart they are friends of right and not of sin. Hence he will deliver them from second death by the great tribulation, that they may live. (T69)

5:6 — LITTLE LEAVEN — Leaven here represents sin, selfishness, error. Just as a bit of leaven put into dough will gradually permeate the whole mass, and if left to itself would sour and putrefy the whole mass; so also will a little sin, of selfishness, if allowed to remain in the church, or in the mind of a Christian, gradually poison the whole character.

5:7 — PURGE OUT THEREFORE THE OLD LEAVEN — The sinful tendencies of the old nature (Eph. 2:3), he gives some of the sins, represented by leaven in vs. 10, 11. This old leaven, the sinful tendencies of the old nature, was symbolized by the leaven of the wave loaves on Pentecost. (Lev. 23) We are to purge out the last remaining influences on our characters, put away all the desires, and sinful habits and thoughts of the old nature, which are corrupt. (Gal. 5:7-9) The difference between the little flock and the great company is that one uses more zeal than the other to purge out the old leaven; their love for righteousness is greater.

Not merely working down the leavened mass occasionally and allowing it again and again to ferment, but are “casting it out” by constantly resisting sin, by cleansing our thoughts, words and deeds by the truth; and cultivating the blessed fruits of the spirit; love, joy, peace, etc. (Z. '11-184; R.4838)

THAT YE MAY BE A NEW LUMP, AS YE ARE UNLEAVENED — Paul here addressed the church as unleavened, pure, cleansed through acceptance of Christ and the merit of his sacrifice. (1 John 3:3)

FOR EVEN CHRIST OUR PASSOVER IS SACRIFICED FOR US — The church is no part of the Passover sacrifice. That was fulfilled by Jesus alone. The passover lamb was prepared whole, not a bone being broken, thus representing Jesus alone and not his “members” for in one of the Atonement Day sacrifices, the ram of burnt offering was cut in pieces and the parts washed, then laid with the head on the altar, thus representing Christ and his members separately, yet united, offered up to God—the members upon the merit of the head. The passover was not for all the people but only for the first born, though all partook of it. This symbolized therefore the work of Christ for the Church of the Gospel age, elsewhere called “the church of the first born.” The church has no share in her own deliverance, which is entirely a work of grace and love Divine. As the passing over of the first born of Israel led to the making of the Law Covenant, so this Gospel age leads to the inauguration of the New Covenant for the blessing of Natural Israel and the World; Moses typifying the Christ. (Z. '09-55; R.4334)

5:8 — LET US KEEP THE FEAST — The night time of the Gospel age is the antitypical passover night, in which the firstborn are in danger. The feast—feeding on the merit of Christ’s sacrifice, his blood drink, and eat his flesh (John 6:53, 54), as the antitypical passover lamb.

BREAD — Unleavened principles. (Diag.)

5:10 — YET NOT ALTOGETHER — Not altogether forbidding dealings. He would have them see it is one thing to have business dealings with the unsanctified and entirely different to recognize such as fellow members of the Body. The lowering of the moral standard would be no help to the transgressor. He would be more helped by seeing that his uncleanness separated him from the Lord’s people and if really spirit begotten he would more quickly and keenly realize his true position and repent. (F413)

5:10-12 — Syr. and Roth.—“But I say not with the whoremongers who are in the World nor (speak I) of the avaricious . . . otherwise ye would be obliged to go out of the world. But this is what I wrote unto you. that ye commingle not, if anyone is called a brother and is a whoremonger etc., . . . For what business have I to judge them who are without? . . . those within the body judge ye, and those without God judgeth.” (Sermon, Lynn 12-13-08)

6:5 — JUDGE BETWEEN HIS BRETHREN? — “I perceive that not only are you unwilling to suffer injustice for the sake of peace and harmony in the body of Christ but worse, there are some among you will to do wrong and defraud—even their brethren.” (F414)

If God is selecting the church to be the future judges of the world, its members should certainly be no less fair and honorable and just in their decisions than the world, even now. (F415)

6:7 — TO BE DEFRAUDED — If you consider the decision unfair, rather than perpetuate the quarrels. (F415)

6:10 — NOR THIEVES, NOR COVETOUS, NOR DRUNKARDS — Only “overcomers” are promised a share in Christ’s Millennial throne. He who loses the mastery of his flesh to the extent of being a drunkard is certainly not an overcomer and not at that time in line for joint-heirship with Christ. (Z. ’10-135; R.4600)

SHALL INHERIT THE KINGDOM OF GOD — If ye do these things ye shall surely fall and no entrance will be granted you into the everlasting Kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. (F408)

6:19 — IS THE TEMPLE OF THE HOLY GHOST — As in the future the Church will be the Temple of God, so each individual member of the Church of Christ who has been begotten of the Holy Spirit as a new creature, has to that extent God dwelling in his mortal body. The world in general are not temples of the Holy Spirit, however good or moral or kind or generous. No one becomes a temple of the Holy Spirit. That Spirit begetting constitutes him a New Creature, a son of God, even though only the will, the mind has been begotten again—even though the body is still an imperfect body of flesh. The new mind dwelling in the old body and using it, constitutes that old body thenceforth a temple of God and gives to that body a holiness or sanctity it did not have before. Now as the New Creature dwells in this mortal body, it is styled a tabernacle rather than a temple, because through sin and degradation it is impaired and not glorious. The word Tabernacles = that which is temporary, not permanent, not eternal. Our heavenly house, our spirit body will be the temple, but none can enter that perfect temple condition except by a share in the first resurrection. (Z. ’14-220; R.5503)

6:20 — AND IN YOUR SPIRIT, WHICH ARE GOD'S — The Siniatic, Vat. and Alex. MSS. omit these words (Tisch.). They are not found in the Diag. or Roth., but are in Youngs, the Syr., and the K.J.V. The R.V. omits them.

7:19 — KEEPING THE COMMANDMENTS OF GOD — Paul found no objection to Jews continuing their national custom of circumcision. Evident also from his course with Timothy. (Acts 16:3) (See Gal. 2:3-5; 5:2; Acts 21:20-26) With many of us, it is the Lord's will that we should abide in the vocation in which we were when the message of grace first reached us. The majority of the called the Lord evidently intends to instruct as his disciples while they are about their ordinary business. (Z.'06-46; R.3720)

7:25 — THAT HATH OBTAINED MERCY OF THE LORD TO BE FAITHFUL — “Mercy to be faithful.” (Luke 17:7-10)

7:29 — THE TIME IS SHORT — “The day will soon come when you also will be stricken in years. (Josh. 13:1) Time is rushing by. God has not given you a day too many. They are going fast. Suppose they should stop tomorrow and you never had another opportunity to gain a victory for him. You would give all the world for a chance to resist temptation or for another hard place in which to glorify God, as before you had dishonored him. The days once gone will never come back. You will not pass this way again. There will be no chance in heaven to learn holiness, to have patience with unholy people, or to love your enemies (there will be no enemies to love!). If you have not grace enough now to learn these lessons there will be no other chance for it. This is the only place in which you can be a soldier, or endure suffering, or show forth the graces of the spirit in trial. You will find abundant opportunities for that now in your homes. If there were no giants on the hill there would be no inheritance for you to gain and develop strength and confidence in God. Caleb conquered the Anaklin; he met them in the name of the Lord, and Hebron became significant of the place of friendship with God. If you find difficulties in your home, or enemies in your own hearts, or troubles anywhere in your life, God has given these to you as opportunities for victory. There you will find the crown of glory through victory, and through it the Land of Promise. It is always thus that God plants for you your paradise.”

9:26 — BEATETH — From a Greek word meaning to hit under the eye, the old time knockout blow, before Fitzinoumous brought out the solar plexus blow. The thought is that of a struggle to the death or disablement between the new will and the old will depraved; Paul does not parley but means to win and keeps giving the old will repeated knockout blows, whenever it regained consciousness. See Strong's Conc.

9:27 — KEEP UNDER MY BODY — Our keenest fight is against the old nature with its perverted tastes, appetite, and will. As New Creatures we are to fight the good fight of faith against our natural tendencies, to keep ourselves in the love of God, fully submissive to His will. (Z. '10-229; R.4443)

AND BRING IT INTO SUBJECTION — That it might become an efficient servant to the new will. Deal with it in a firm manner. As with a horse, not continue to break him every day but once for all that he might be put to some service. That it, the old body, be taught this lesson of submission, so that it may be a good useful servant to the New Will. (Z. '12-111; R.5001)

10:2 — BAPTIZED UNTO MOSES — Not unto Jehovah. So the world will be dealing with the Mediator of the New Covenant and not with Jehovah.

IN THE CLOUD AND IN THE SEA — This text shows that the right mode of baptism is immersion. The water was all around them and the cloud (also water) was over them, thus they were typically buried under water. No thought of sprinkling or pouring. (Z. '09-315; R.4497)

10:3 — SPIRITUAL MEAT — The manna, typical of the merit of Christ. (John 6:48-51)

10:4 — THAT ROCK WAS CHRIST — Showing how from Christ will flow a life giving stream.

10:6 — AS THEY ALSO LUSTED — The invasion of Darwinism among God's people may correspond with the invasion of quails, among the Israelites lusting after flesh as against the manna. Evolution ignores the Bible statements of the fall, the redeeming work of Jesus and ultimate blessing of world through his Kingdom and gives the people in their stead worldly doctrines for religious food; especially the view that man has evolved from the brute by natural inherent forces. This temptation on Christendom has resulted in many losing their spiritual hopes if not their spiritual lives. (Z. '13-198; R.5267)

Here as there, many in nominal spiritual Israel are not Israelites indeed but "hypocrites." Before us has been spread a richer table, but all do not digest and appropriate God's promises to the upbuilding of characters pleasing to God and fit for the Kingdom, and hence while feeding at the table, they receive the grace of God in vain. To these, as to those of old, the table which they delight in is sure to prove a snare, a trap, a stumbling block. These things are written for our admonition that we should be on guard as to how we receive and use the food now so abundantly supplied to us. Only those at least who have some hunger and thirst for righteousness and truth are at all welcomed at this table. It is the children's table and others than God's true children may gather and eat only the crumbs that fall from it. It is the table of consecrated believers at which others have no right to eat. (Heb. 13:10) Typified by the shew bread, lawful only for the Priests to eat, if we are eating here we are either one of the Royal Priesthood, or else getting only the crumbs, through contact with the true children. The giving of all truth, and specially present truth. That object is the sanctifying or setting apart to God and to his holy service. The crumbs of truth are to awaken a desire for and to lead to the act of consecration or sanctification. The full table of bounties is for those who have taken the step of fully consecrating themselves, their wills and their all to the Lord—and the exceeding great and precious promises granted to them is that by these they might be strengthened and enabled to carry out fully their consecration even till death. (Z. '11-84; R.4782)

The object of our consecration and subsequent disciplining under the guidance and power of the truth, is the formation of character, for perfecting holiness in the fear of the Lord. (2 Cor. 7:1) What effect has the truth upon our hearts? We should ask ourselves, has the considerable knowledge of God's character and plan had the effect of puffing me up and making me feel that I am somebody? Has it caused a self satisfied feeling which ignores my own weaknesses and feelings and merely relies on God's mercy and seeks to exaggerate that mercy and to ignore Scripture texts which clearly show that "God is angry with the wicked every day." (Psa. 7:11), that the "Wrath of God is revealed against all unrighteousness" (Rom. 1:18), "and all unrighteousness is sin" (1 John 5:17), that "whosoever committeth sin (willfully) is a child of the Devil" (1 John 3:8), and "all the (intelligently and willfully) wicked will God destroy." (Psa. 145:20) Or has it caused me to feel more humble and dependant on the giver of all good and has it properly caused me to feel divine approval and rest and security, only under the merit of the precious blood when I am using my best endeavors for righteousness, godliness, purity and truth. This latter is the only legitimate and proper use of the truth. If the true view of God's character seen in his plan, and the exceeding great and precious promises held out to overcomers reaching our ears and hearts, fails to awaken there a love for things that are true, pure, etc., and a desire to cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of flesh and mind and to become more and more perfected in holiness—we are receiving the grace (favor) of God in vain; for it was given for no other purpose. And if we are receiving his favor in vain we may be sure it will be but a little while until it will slip from us and replaced by misconceptions. Let us therefore take heed lest our table, so bountifully spread for us by our Master, become a snare, trap and a stumbling block into blindness, into the outer darkness of the world, because of a failure to properly use its blessings already received. (Z. '11-85; R.4782)

10:7 — AS WERE SOME OF THEM — See also notes on Num. 14, 15, and 16. This temptation types the worshipping of self and the works of self, especially as evidenced in Higher Criticism, wherein religious leaders, seemingly in self-love, set forth to the people the products of their own intellects as objects of worship instead of holding Jehovah, whom the Scriptures set forth as perfect is Wisdom, Justice, Love, and Power. The worship of money also. (Z. '13-198; R.5267) Also the Protestant Federation.

10:8 — NEITHER LET US COMMIT FORNICATION — This seems to represent improper combinations between spiritual and temporal things, as in the tendency to mix religion with pleasure and money getting, and religion with politics. This has caused much destruction of spirituality in Christendom. (Z. '13-198; R.5267)

10:9 — AND WERE DESTROYED OF SERPENTS — The fourth test called “tempting Christ” was a rebellion against Moses who typified Christ. The people desired to make a short cut through Edom, thus to enter the promised land, whereas Moses directed their course by a more circuitous route. So now there has arisen in all nominal churches an opposition to the narrow way of self-sacrifice—the wilderness journey toward Canaan of rest—a desire to make a short cut taking in the pleasures of this present world and its fellowship. This temptation is represented now in the official removal of restrictions upon Christian conduct, by which it has become popular for Christians to become theater goers, novel readers, game players, social and political reformers. There is a murmuring against the narrow way of discipleship, against the voice of the Lord through the Scriptures and against all those who walk in that wilderness. The fiery serpents have bitten many of these murmurers. Many are sick because of these bites, and only a recognition of the efficacy (the saving power) of Jesus’ blood can save them to everlasting life. (Z. '13-199; R.5267)

10:10 — AND WERE DESTROYED OF THE DESTROYER — The fulfillment of this is just upon us, and will be by far the most severe test and will mean the spiritual death of large numbers. It may be connected with the widespread murmurings against the Truth. See note Num. 15, 16.

10:11 — THESE THINGS — These things were actual occurrences, but they were recorded not from any real worth in them from a historical standpoint, or ethnological, but because there was a hidden meaning under them for us the church.

ENSAMPLES — (F206) In the Greek “ensamples” is “types.”

ENDS — Greek—“Harvests.”

COME — Greek—“Press down.” This would seem to indicate a special testing, pressure, connected with these Harvests. So we should have on the whole Armor of God in this evil day, that we may be able to stand. (Eph. 6:13) He suggests that in this harvest time some of us may feel too self-confident and hence not sufficiently watchful or careful. (Z. '13-198; R.5267)

10:12 — WHEREFORE — This connects the danger of falling with Israel's failures.

10:16 — COMMUNION — The Greek having the clean and pure thought of participation, partnership, and not the unclean thought of the Greek word used in Heb. 10:29. All the members of the body of Christ have participation in the blood of Christ, all drinking of the one cup; and in the body of Christ, the one loaf now being broken, that through the operation of the New (Law) Covenant sealed with his blood, Israel and the world may be fed with the bread of life.

10:23 — ALL THINGS — There is a limited and unlimited way of using language. Evidently the Apostle has no thought of using this expression unlimitedly. It would not have been lawful for him to murder or steal, or do other things which he recognized as contrary to the divine will. He is discussing the proper liberties of Christians. Their one supreme law is supreme love for God and consequently a love for all mankind. This comprehensive law is binding on them—it is the Law of their being to disregard which would mean the loss of the Holy Spirit, which persevered in would mean the second death. The Lord's children are not governed by "Thou shalt" and "Thou shalt not," in respect to all the little affairs of life. It is left to them to apply the principles of this law of love to life's general affairs, including its trivialities. The Jews were under laws respecting various little details and the Gentiles had their customs, usages, laws. The Christian stands free from all these bound only by the one law of love. He may do anything that would not conflict with that law, but many things that would not so conflict might be inexpedient, inadvisable, because of the mental and moral condition of those about him who might misunderstand his course. (Z. '05-347; R.3666)

ARE LAWFUL FOR ME — By divine arrangement the Christian has a great deal of liberty to do good, to do everything that is proper, everything that will not injure himself or a brother or neighbor. Our liberties while apparently absolute are really limited. All the 'thou shalt not's' of the Law are removed but the essence of that law still remains, briefly comprehended in the statement: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God and thy neighbor as thyself." The Christian is at liberty to do anything that does not conflict with this basic Law of the New Nature—the Law of Love. This appears at first sight to be a great liberty, but on closer examination it is found to give us much less liberty than others exercise, as they think, with propriety. Not only does the Law of Love so control us, because that is the divine standard of Justice, but additionally, God has invited and accepted us in Covenant relationship with himself under the Abrahamic Covenant, under Christ our head, the Mediator of the New (Law) Covenant. Under this Covenant agreement with the Lord we are firmly bound to more than the Law or justice requires; we are bound to sacrifice our rights and privileges in the interests of others. (Z. '09-284; R.4478)

10:24 — BUT EVERY MAN ANOTHER'S WEALTH — The Apostle shows the basic rule that we who are Christians, who are truly consecrated to the Lord, have given up our own wills and preferences in every matter with a view to honoring the Lord and doing all the good we can in the world in his name. He urges therefore: "Let no man seek his own but every man another's welfare." This might seem to mean that we are to be entirely regardless of our own welfare that we may accomplish all the good possible for others, yet we would not be doing violence to the general tenor of the Scriptures to suppose the Apostle means that we are not to seek our own welfare merely, but are to keep in view also the welfare, the interests of others; so that where these would conflict we would be ready to make any reasonable and proper sacrifice, especially on any matter which would relate to the Lord and his Gospel message, because we are God's ambassadors and representatives of the truth, his message in the world. (Z. '05-348; R.3666)

10:25 — ASKING NO QUESTION FOR CONSCIENCE SAKE — Those who are advanced enough in the knowledge of the truth to appreciate the fact that the idol is nothing and that the offering of meat to that idol would in no way affect it. Such might properly use their liberties and eat the meat, asking no questions but remembering that the earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof and accepting the food as part of the Lord's bounty, they may give thanks for it and eat it regardless of where it has been whether offered to an idol or not. (Z. '05-348; R.3666)

10:27 — ASKING NO QUESTION FOR CONSCIENCE SAKE — The Apostle Paul was thus in some degree stepping beyond the decree of the council at Jerusalem; but while standing up for all that the Jerusalem Council advocated, in so far as it would have any bearing or influence upon others, he nevertheless would recognize the liberty of God's people, that they are under no law except love. That Law would have a restraining influence along the lines of eating meat offered to idols. It would bid us be careful not to stumble the conscience of others, but otherwise it would not restrain us. The one discerning his liberty may eat food respecting which he may have his suspicions that it was offered to an idol, and ask no questions about it, so that no one else's conscience may be involved.

10:28, 29 — In Corinth nearly all the meats sold in the butchers' stalls (the "shambles") was meat that had been offered to idols. The people, not knowing the true God, in exercising their faculty of veneration had come to suppose that all meats should be first offered to heathen idols in order that the partaking of them might have a blessing and be to their health. Meat of any other kind was scarce. If Christians were invited to a feast by some of their unbelieving friends or relatives, such as a marriage supper, they would in all probability sit down to meat that had been offered to idols. What then should they do? "If my own conscience reproves me not, why should I put myself under bondage in the matter if it will in no wise affect the interest or conscience of another? But if the conscience of another were involved the Golden rule would immediately operate, and forbid us doing anything that would stumble or injure the conscience of a brother and break our influence over him. (Z. '05-348; R.3666)

The brother of strong mind, discerning the situation, might eat with impunity; while his neighbor, less strong in mind might be influenced by his example to eat to the injury of his conscience he might be led out of the way altogether, and so we would have destroyed him for whom Christ died. (Rom. 14:15)

10:29 — JUDGED OF ANOTHER MAN'S CONSCIENCE? — If it is not my own conscience which reproves me why need I put myself under bondage in the matter if it will in no wise effect the interests or conscience of another?

10:30 — FOR WHICH I GIVE THANKS? — Everything that we receive is a gift from the Lord, and anything that we can render him thanks for would be proper for us to use in a becoming manner; and none would have a right to condemn us for so doing. None should speak evil of us for doing a thing that we can do with good conscience and with prayer and thankfulness. (Rom. 14:3)

10:31 — DO ALL TO THE GLORY OF GOD — But on the other hand, however, while they have no right to criticize us, we have the right to judge our own conduct and to restrain ourselves and to determine, as the Apostle elsewhere explains, that if eating a certain kind of food would cause the stumbling of others we would gladly agree never to use that kind of food. We are to see our liberties and to use them according to our judgement of the Lord's will, because all things are given us richly to enjoy. (1 Tim. 6:17) Eating or drinking, whatever we do, do all to the glory of God. (Z. '05-349; R.3666)

10:32 — NOR TO THE CHURCH OF GOD — But when we see that anything in our lives, however right it may be of itself, would be a hindrance to the spread of the Lord's cause, a dishonour to the Truth in the sight of others, it is for us to sacrifice that thing, to deny ourselves that right or privilege or liberty, and give no occasion of stumbling to Jew or Gentile or to the Church of God.

10:33 — EVEN AS I PLEASE ALL MEN — He does not say that he succeeded in pleasing all men, for he was stoned, beaten, etc., for his loyalty to the Lord, and that loyalty meant the disapproval of men. He means that he sought, so far as loyalty to the Lord and to righteousness was concerned to do or be everything for the advancement and blessing of the people.

THAT THEY MAY BE SAVED — What a noble character was St. Paul! How willing to lay down his life for the brethren! Yea and in the hope of turning some from being aliens and strangers to make of them brethren through the grace of God! Let us cultivate this Spirit. (Z. '05-349; R.3667)

11:5 — HER HEAD UNCOVERED — Not in general meetings, but in the social meetings for prayer and testimony, and not for doctrinal teaching.

11:7 — BUT THE WOMAN IS THE GLORY OF THE MAN — This would intimate that the church is the glory of Christ (Eph. 1:12; 1 Thes. 2:19, 20) because she reflects his character and is the result of his work. (Z. '10-136; R.4601)

11:10 — ANGELS — Messengers—the chosen elders of the church; who specially represent the Lord as the head of the Ecclesia. (F272)

11:25 — WHEN HE HAD SUPPED — Showing they drank of the same cup as he. See Matt. 20:22, 23; Mark 10:38, 39.

11:26 — DRINK THIS CUP — The Lord gave this cup to us that we should all drink of it. Not that we should all have exactly the same experiences he had but we must all drink of the cup of suffering and death in the Father's own way. Jesus was the perfect one and the Father dealt with him in a very particular manner. In our cases the experiences would be different; because of our imperfection we could not be dealt with from the standpoint of perfection. We are therefore not to think of our cup as a definite, fixed program, as was the Master's, but rather that the Father permitted us to have a share in the cup of death with His Son. Our cup is supervised by our Saviour, although it is the cup poured by the Father; for it is the Father's program. In the Master's case the cup was necessary for the sins of the whole world. In our case it is not necessary, but it has pleased the Father to grant us a share in the sufferings and glory of our Lord. Jesus makes good our deficiencies and develops our characters, fashioning us into his own glorious image. Without this supervision of our cup by our Lord we might be very poorly developed in many qualities, therefore our cup needs to be specially supervised. And so he assures us that while the necessary experiences are coming to us at the same time his grace and his strength will be sufficient. (Z. '14-86; R.5422)

YE DO SHEW THE LORD'S DEATH — Because the flesh of the church is counted as the flesh of Christ, we bare about in our body the dying of the Lord Jesus. (2 Cor. 4:10) We show it forth as a spectacle unto angels and to men. His death and ours with Him.

TILL HE COME — While we believe our Lord has been present for a number of years, during the Harvest, yet this does not hinder us from continuing the blessed Memorial of His death. He meant that we were to continue to celebrate His death until at His second coming the full harvest work of the age be completed and the entire body of Christ be received into glory, then drink the new cup with Him. (Z. '14-83; R.5420)

11:28 — LET A MAN EXAMINE HIMSELF — See that his heart is perfect. Let him note the weaknesses and filthiness of his fallen fleshly nature and seek to cleanse himself, particularly his heart and outwardly as complete a cleansing of the flesh and tongue as is possible. (F409)

11:31 — IF WE WOULD JUDGE OURSELVES — The condition of those who fail to keep their record clean before the Lord is a very sad one. After, the first offence or second, they say—“I cannot go to the Lord again; I will go to sleep and forget it.” They awake in the morning out of harmony with God. But they think, “I cannot help it.” At night the thought that all is not right with the Lord comes again. “I know I have had plenty of difficulties today and more failures; but I cannot go to God. It is of no use.” So the breach widens. They forget the great mercy of God. They forget that “as a Father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear him.” (Psa. 103:13) We should clean up our records with the Lord every day. (See note on 1 Cor. 10:6) We should retire every night just as though we knew we would not wake up in the flesh. In the morning our first thought should be—“How can I please the Lord today and be helpful to others and especially how can I overcome myself.”

Some who fail to take advantage of the grace offered for every time of need gradually get so far off from the Lord that they scarcely think of it any longer. They have a reverence for God, but they do not love Him. He is not close to them and they know it. They know the right way but feel they cannot walk in it. They realize they have spots on their robe but they try to put the thought behind them. (Z. '16-212; R.5924)

12:7 — SPIRIT IS GIVEN TO EVERY MAN TO PROFIT WITHAL — We hereby see that the holy spirit operated in a special way upon the early Church. Some had the gift of tongues, others the gift of healing, etc., while some had several tongues or languages at their command. Some apparently, the apostles, enjoyed all of these gifts.

A little reflection will show almost the necessity of the gifts to the church in its infantile stage. The Apostle explains the character of some of their religious meetings: they met and one had a Psalm, another a prayer, another an unknown tongue, another its interpretation, another a gift of prophecy, etc. Their meetings were thus made interesting and profitable. The prospect of messages from the Lord in unknown tongues, and of getting an interpretation of these would draw the believers together, maintain their interest, and help to give food for thought and discussion. They had no Bibles at first. The New Testament was not yet written, the Old Testament only on parchments which were not only clumsy to handle, but very expensive and the synagogues which could afford a complete copy were very fortunate, and these copies were kept with great care, and merely read from on the Sabbath in the hearing of the people who attended. The apostle exhorted the church in general to not only covet and desire these gifts, but to recognize a distinction between them (vs. 31), some preferable to others. He suggests further that one who had the gift of tongues should pray that he might receive the gift of interpretation of tongues. (1 Cor. 14:5, 1, 13)

12:13 — BAPTIZED — This means “immersion.” The anointing or baptism of the Holy Spirit came first upon Our Lord Jesus, extended down to the church at Pentecost and has been with the church as an anointing ever since. Thus we come under the anointing. The result is two-fold. We become, first of all members of Christ in the flesh, and He accepts and treats us as such. We are first baptized or immersed into death—His death, his baptism. Then the figure changes and we are raised up out of this baptism into death, as New Creatures. Thereafter our flesh is counted as His Flesh. So our relationship to Christ is two-fold—one appertaining to the flesh and the other to the Spirit. See Acts 9:4, 5. (Z. '14-38; R.5393)

12:21 — I HAVE NO NEED OF YOU — The apostle is not taking the Great Company into account at all, but rather refers to the aim and hope set before each one, whether we make our calling and election sure to one of these places in the Body or not. There is only one call. (Z. '10-245; R.4654)

12:28 — HATH SET SOME IN THE CHURCH — These gifts are not forced upon the church, and those who neglect them, when offered, experience a corresponding loss. The Lord set these in the Church at the beginning and thus gave us the ideal Church arrangement, leaving it to his people to follow the pattern thus set them and to have proportionate blessings, or to ignore the pattern and to have corresponding difficulties and disappointments. (F241)

12:29 — ARE ALL WORKERS OF MIRACLES? — These gifts in the church had prevailed for several years at the time the Apostle addressed the saints at Corinth, whom he exhorted that they should desire the best gifts. (vs. 31) He found them like children interested most in speaking with tongues, and gently reproved them for considering these a high attainment and an evidence of great favor with God. Not that he discouraged the speaking with tongues, for as he explained (1 Cor. 14:18) he could thankfully say that he spoke with more tongues than they all. But he did wish them to realize that they might have these gifts and yet come very far short of being acceptable to the Lord. He would have them understand that the “fruits of the spirit” were a higher manifestation and better testimony than the gifts. The “gifts” were: miracles, tongues, interpretation, etc. (vs. 28); the fruits: faith, hope, joy, love. In vs. 31 he shows that while they should enjoy the best gifts, yet the fruits of the spirit were still better.

12:31 — SHEW I UNTO YOU A MORE EXCELLENT WAY. — This more excellent way should actuate every child of God, namely the acquisition of the fruits of the Spirit of Love, the Spirit of God and their development.

13:1 — A TINKLING CYMBAL — To better show the greater value of the “fruits of the Spirit,” he gave an illustration (vs. 1). As a brass horn will make a noise when blown, yet not have appreciation of itself, so some possessing the miracles, gifts of tongues, etc. might exercise these in a perfunctory manner, and be lacking of the real spirit of the Lord and his truth. The power to work miracles might be there and operate through them, and yet they may have no more relationship to it than have the cymbals to the power which strikes them.

13:2 — HAVE NOT CHARITY, I AM NOTHING — Taking the still higher gifts of prophecy and understanding of mysteries, and knowledge, and even the attainment to the position of mountain-moving, all these would amount to nothing unless the fruit of the Spirit were developed—love. These various gifts might serve a purpose, but without love the purpose would be only for others, and not a blessing to the individual himself.

13:3 — IT PROFITETH ME NOTHING — Continuing the comparison still further—even generosity is not sufficient. For though he gave all his goods to the poor and his body to be burned in his faithfulness to the Lord, yet if he did not develop the great fruit of the spirit—Love, he could have no lot nor part with the Lord in his kingdom. If the primary influence in these matters were not love, all the sacrifice, all the labor, all the self-denial, even the burning, would profit nothing.

13:4 — SUFFERETH LONG — Hence is not quickly tempered, irascible.

ENVIETH NOT — Does not covet the blessings and favors others are enjoying.

IS NOT PUFFED UP — Not boastful or proud.

13:5 — DOTH NOT BEHAVE ITSELF UNSEEMLY — Is not ungracious, unkind, rude, impure, improper.

SEEKETH NOT HER OWN — Is not selfish, grasping or neglectful of the interests of others.

IS NOT EASILY PROVOKED — Means excited or roused to anger. Love can be justly provoked as with God. (Jer. 8:19) God's love held in abeyance has bided its time to be revealed to astonished man when the due time has come. Let us be kind and forbearing one with another, seeking to put the kindest construction upon the words, the actions and natural tendencies of one another, remembering our own peculiarities and foibles. Let us remember that each of us is blemished by the fall and those of the brethren who try us most may have had hereditary tendencies and environments in early life of which we are not aware and which would make us very pitiful if we knew. Let us remember also that we may be altogether unaware of some of our own weaknesses and mannerisms which may grate upon others.

Love looks out and sees that the whole world is in much difficulty through the fall. And love says—be gentle toward all, be meek, be forbearing. We are ever to remember that we are in a world of sin, sickness, death. From this viewpoint love will not be easily provoked, but will think kindly and sympathetically of others. We note injustices. We ought to note it. But it is not our province to flay, to inflict punishment. We see acts committed that shock our moral sense. We ought to say to ourselves—I believe that act to be criminal, but it is not for me to settle with the wrongdoer. God knows to what extent the individual is to blame. I do not. It is my duty as far as possible to view him from the standpoint of sympathy. It is my duty to assist him if it is in my power and I have proper opportunity, but even in this I am to be wise as a serpent and harmless as a dove. (Z. '15-6,7; R.5603, 5604)

THINKETH NO EVIL — Does not imagine unkindness or rudeness, or seek to interpret the words or conduct of others unkindly.

13:6 — BUT REJOICETH IN THE TRUTH — Will have no satisfaction in the adversities coming upon even its enemies.

13:7 — BELIEVETH ALL THINGS — Disposed to believe everything that is favorable and all that is possible of good.

HOPETH ALL THINGS — Hopes for the best in everyone with whom they have to do.

ENDURETH ALL THINGS — Will submit to many unkindnesses and will credit these largely to weakness or poor judgment, or fallen nature.

13:8 — IT SHALL VANISH AWAY — The apostle here distinctly foretells the vanishing of these gifts. He clearly intimates that the reason for the discontinuance is that the church would gradually come into a more developed condition in which these gifts would no longer be necessary, but give place to a higher, nobler and more certain manifestation of the indwelling of the Holy Spirit—Love. (vs. 9) He illustrates this growth by the figure of a growing child. (vs. 11) We have not yet reached the standard of perfection and full membership in Christ, nor will we until our change in the First Resurrection, but as members of the Lord's body we properly have made progress from the infantile condition at the beginning of this age. This is in harmony with the apostle's statement that milk is for babes and strong meat for those more developed, and that we should grow in grace, knowledge, and love. (Heb. 5:14; 1 Pet. 3:18)

So gradually the New Testament grew—the four Gospels, Epistles of Paul, Peter, James, John, etc., and with this growth of written instruction, the necessity for the gifts proportionately died away. They were not necessary, as at first, for the establishment of the church nor for its instruction. In harmony with this the Epistles generally make comparatively little mention of the gifts, but persistently counsel the putting away of the filth of the flesh, and the cultivation of the fruits of the Holy Spirit.

13:13 — BUT THE GREATEST OF THESE IS CHARITY — So the Apostle concludes that love is the principal thing, far beyond all gifts, however honorable and useful they may be. While the gifts would depart, this grace, this fruit of the spirit, love, would continue down to the end of the age—yea and go far beyond into the eternal future; so in verse 13 he says that these fruits will abide, and the greatest of them all is love (placed last in 2 Peter 1:7). It will not only be the one essential quality without which we cannot gain an entrance into heaven and life eternal, but it will continue throughout eternity to be the quality or characteristic of all who shall enjoy divine favor forever. These fruits of the spirit represent a development of character under divine guidance and assistance and are therefore far superior to those miraculous gifts of the early church, which indicated no special character development, but were merely intended to be witnesses and encouragements. (N-2-4-07)

The church had faith even before it partook much of the spirit of love; then the work of faith became a labor of love; and they needed the patience of hope, to keep them going; they were not getting their rewards immediately, but were willing to go on and wait for reward. Thus it will continue until the works of faith and the labor of love meet their reward in the fulfilment of the Lord's promise. So all are linked together and all increase together.

(Z'11-28; R.4750)

14:10 — SO MANY KINDS OF VOICES — Languages, tongues. (Roth.)

WITHOUT SIGNIFICATION — Without meaning. (Diag.)

14:12 — EDIFYING OF THE CHURCH — Seek mostly those gifts which will upbuild the church.

14:16 — UNLEARNED SAY AMEN — Showing we should be careful to what we say "Amen."

14:24 — HE IS CONVINCED — Convicted of his sin through the influence and example of all. The influence of the Holy Spirit will have its effect on him.

OF ALL, HE IS JUDGED — "He is searched by all" (Roth.) i.e. all do their part by influence to make his heart condition become manifest to himself and show him his need of a Savior.

14:25 — MADE MANIFEST — "The secrets of his heart are being made manifest." (Roth.)

THAT GOD IS IN YOU OF A TRUTH — A wonderful testimony which should be true of our meetings.

14:26 — HOW IS IT THEN, BRETHREN — How is it with you? Is it as verses 24 and 25? Don't you know that when you come together etc. . . . and there is confusion? It should not be so. Let all be done orderly.

14:27 — AND LET ONE INTERPRET — The Apostle wished to show the necessity for order, and not have a babel and confusion, (vs. 33) speak by course (Diag. in succession) and let one interpret. By course—by turns. (Roth.)

14:29 — LET THE OTHER JUDGE — Not at a time, nor not more than two or three at one meeting, so as not to give too great diversity of sentiment at one session. Prophets—public speakers. "Let the others be discriminating" (Roth.) i.e. be testing what the speaker says, by the Bible.

14:35 — ASK THEIR HUSBANDS AT HOME — They could suggest their views or make queries through their own men, husbands or brethren with whom they were intimately acquainted, or with whom they talked on their way home from meeting. Home here means family or acquaintance (for one who has no family or home). Let them ask their questions through or of the males of their acquaintance.

14:36 — WHAT? — The Apostle reprimands their audacity in thinking to inaugurate a proceeding not recognized as proper by others of the Lord's people.

CAME THE WORD — Message. See Eph. 4:11, 12; Rom. 16; 1 Tim. 2:9-15. (F269)

OF GOD OUT FROM YOU — Originating with you.

OR CAME IT — From elsewhere (the Apostles).

14:38 — LET HIM BE IGNORANT — Confess that he is ignorant and not try to appear wise.

15:1 — PREACHED UNTO YOU — And which he received by inspiration and revelations from Christ. (Gal. 1:1)

15:2 — KEEP IN MEMORY — "Hold the beginning of our confidence steadfast unto the end." (Heb. 3:14; 1 Tim. 6:14; Heb. 2:1)

UNLESS YE HAVE BELIEVED IN VAIN — This shows us how important faith is to present salvation. Whoever cannot believe, whatever the reason, cannot be saved in the present time. Whoever has not heard this Gospel, as the heathen, is not saved in ignorance, and whoever has heard the Gospel and does not keep it in memory, and thus loses its power, will miss the present salvation. The Gospel might be kept in memory and act on the heart. Received God's grace in vain.

15:3 — I DELIVERED UNTO YOU FIRST OF ALL — As of primary importance. (Z.'08-181; R.4187)

15:4 — TO THE SCRIPTURES — This much of knowledge is necessary to anyone who would be a true believer, a Christian. Hence the heathen, who have not this knowledge, this faith which justifies, are not believers and are not saved yet, not justified. It recognized our sins and Jesus' death as our ransom price and his resurrection as evidencing the satisfaction of divine justice, and that the Redeemer lives to carry out the glorious features of our salvation. (Z.'08-181; R.4187)

15:5 — THEN OF THE TWELVE — He recounts the evidences of our Lord's resurrection, evidently confirming himself to the appearances to the Apostles. He leaves out Cleopas, one of the two with whom Jesus talked on the way to Emmaus, leaves out the appearance to Mary and to the other women on the day of the resurrection. The Apostles were among the 500 brethren. He is summing up the very strongest kind of evidence on the resurrection. (Z.'08-181; R.4187)

15:8 — AS OF ONE BORN OUT OF DUE TIME — One born of the spirit before the due time. Paul saw Jesus not as a natural man, but as a glorified spirit being, above the brightness of the sun at noonday (Acts 26:13) just as the church will see him, when they are born of the spirit in the resurrection change. Paul being only a man was blinded by a mere glimpse of his glory, and it required a miracle to restore him to even partial sight. He saw Jesus “as he is,” not as he was, he saw him as one would who was born of the spirit, but it was before the due time, before he was born from the dead, and therefore when he was unable to endure it. The church in their resurrection change will not be stricken down, blinded, as was Paul, for they will then have bodies like Jesus’ own glorious body. (B134)

15:12 — THAT THERE IS NO RESURRECTION OF THE DEAD? — The apostle is combating the heathen theory that there would be no resurrection of the dead. Some claimed they would never rise (like the Sadducees) and others that in the moment of death they became more alive than ever. Those to whom Paul wrote were short-sighted, claiming still to believe in Jesus’ resurrection, but had dropped the thought of the necessity for the resurrection of others. Paul seeks to reestablish them, showing that all hope they had received as Christians was dependent on Jesus’ resurrection, that a dead savior could not help us. How is it that you do not see the importance of the resurrection of the Church? If it was so important in respect to our Lord, is it not equally so for the church and the world? If as some claim, the doctrine of the resurrection is foolish, then Christ is not risen. (Z.'11-99; R.4791)

15:16 — THEN IS NOT CHRIST RAISED — “What matters it if he is not risen?” Then all our preaching and all your faith is vain. If the resurrection of Christ was necessary, then the resurrection of the Church and the world is also necessary. (Z.'08-182; R.4187)

15:18 — WHICH ARE FALLEN ASLEEP IN CHRIST — Christ is the title of our Lord as the new creature, and of his office; while Jesus is the name for the Redeemer, through whose sacrifice comes to all men an opportunity to share in a resurrection of the dead. (Z.11-103; R.4793)

15:23 — IN HIS OWN ORDER — Or class, thus intimating from the divine standpoint that there are numerous classes of the dead.

CHRIST THE FIRSTFRUITS — The Church as a whole, Head and body.

AFTERWARD THEY THAT ARE CHRIST'S AT HIS COMING —
During the Millennium, his second presence.

15:29 — WHY ARE THEY THEN BAPTIZED FOR THE DEAD? — The church is baptized into Christ's death, a sacrificial death, for the dead world. Hers is part of the sin-offering for the world. If the dead world in general rise not at all, why are the church baptized for them? If the dead rise not, all our sacrifice is of no avail to the world, we had better enjoy life while we can.

15:45 — ADAM WAS MADE A LIVING SOUL — A sentient being (see note Gen. 2:7) or a living, breathing creature. He was a picture of the second Adam. (Rom. 5:14)

THE LAST ADAM WAS MADE A QUICKENING SPIRIT — A life-giving spirit being. Jesus is scripturally and properly already styled the second Adam, not because he has already given life to Adam's race, but because he now is the one who in due time will do so. Just as at birth he as a man was called the "Savior" prophetically foretelling his future work, though he then had not saved anyone. (Z. '10-54; R.4556)

The subject of giving life may be viewed from various standpoints. To a certain extent, the mother, as well as the father of a child is the life-giver, in the sense that the father could not have given it life without the mother. And yet, strictly speaking the father alone is the life-giver. So the Bible uses this natural illustration of earthly life-giver to illustrate a great spiritual truth. The world is dead in Adam—under sentence to death. Jesus has given the ransom price. By virtue of so doing he has the right if he wishes to become the life-giver to Adam and his race. The life-rights which he will give to them will be those which he himself laid down. But as Jesus, by the will of God has associated the church with himself, both in the sufferings of the present time and in the glory to follow, she will have to do with the giving of life to the world. In representing this she is illustrated by Mother Eve and by woman-kind in general. It will be the work of the church to nourish the world of mankind—to nourish the spark of life which they will receive from the Redeemer. Under this nourishment and care the world will be permitted to rise up out of sin and death conditions to perfection. Thus the church will have to do with the life giving, but merely as the associates of Jesus. The Ransomer, Jesus, is the one, alone, who can dispense his own life rights. Any work which we may do in connection with it will be as his assistant.

15:47 — FIRST MAN . . . EARTHY — The natural man however well disposed is of the earth, earthly; this does not mean that he must be sensual, devilish, degraded, for on the contrary some natural men have very fine characters indeed, considering that they are sharers with all men in the degradation of the fall. Adam was thus a natural man, in his perfection, the image of God. He could not set his affections on things above, for he had no revelation respecting them, no hopes or prospects centered there. His interests in harmony with his nature, were earthly, so will it be also in the future age. (Z. '07-4; R.3914)

IS THE LORD FROM HEAVEN — Adam truly was the first man, but our Lord as the “Man Christ Jesus” was not the second Adam and did not do the work of the second Adam. The first Adam was the Father or life-giver to his race, Eve being associated in the generating; but the result was a dying race. The plan of God proposes that the second Adam shall take the first Adam’s place as the father or life-giver to a race of human beings who shall possess the earth and enjoy it. Not as the Redeemer but as the Father or life-giver to man does our Lord correspond to Adam—as the second Adam. This office will he hold during the Millennium. He waits till the church, his bride, as the second Eve shall be with him in glory and honor and power. Adam generated no children till the first Eve had been taken from his side. The second Adam will generate no children till the church, the second Eve, shall be perfected and presented to him as his joint-heir and help mate in the kingdom and its work of regeneration. (Z. '10-54; R.4556) This at the second advent.

15:48 — AS IS THE EARTHLY — “Like the earthly one” (Adam). (See vs. 47)

SUCH ARE — “Will be in the resurrection.” Paul is here talking, as in back verses, of the resurrection.

THAT ARE EARTHLY — “The earthly ones.”

AND AS IN THE HEAVENLY — “Like the heavenly one.” (Christ) (See vs. 47)

SUCH ARE — “Will be in the resurrection.”

THEY ALSO THAT ARE HEAVENLY — “The heavenly ones.”

15:49 — AND AS WE HAVE BORNE THE IMAGE OF THE EARTHLY
— “We” means the church.

EARTHLY ONE — Adam.

WE SHALL ALSO BEAR THE IMAGE OF THE HEAVENLY — “Heavenly one”—Christ. (Rom. 6:5) (Z. '10-54; R.4556)

15:50 — FLESH AND BLOOD — Flesh and blood is human nature. See e.g. Matt. 16:17; John 3:5, 6; 1 Cor. 15:50. (Z. '11-102; R.4793)

II CORINTHIANS

1:21 — NOW HE WHICH STABLISHETH — The Apostle is here addressing the church at Corinth, recognizing that this congregation are co-laborers with him, accepted of God as members of Christ, the anointed. This implies that God does the calling of those who come to him. (John 6:44) It implies a previous invitation—the Apostle says no man taketh this honor to himself. Even Jesus could not have taken to himself the honor of being a priest and king. He could not say (like Lucifer) “I will be a priest, I will be a King!” As God called Jesus to be the great head over this ecclesia or body, so through Jesus He had invited us to become its members. As we conform to the terms and are made acceptable through our great Advocate, we are then set in the body, anointed. It is not a happen-so, but we are set. And we shall continue in this position unless, because of unfaithfulness we shall be blotted out and the crown apportioned to us be taken away. He who sets us, establishes us, and has anointed us of the Holy Spirit and thus made us members of this holy company is God, the Heavenly Father. It is not the province of even our Redeemer to set us, and anoint us. “God hath set every member in the Body as it pleaseth Him. All things are of the Father and by the Son; hence this anointing comes from the Father. (Titus 3:6) Nevertheless the channel is the Lord Jesus; the Holy Spirit which the Father has given to Jesus, he has shed forth upon us. The Father authorizes it, the son sheds it forth. (Z. '14-213; R.5498)

2:16 — DEATH UNTO DEATH LIFE UNTO LIFE — To some the demands of our consecration appear onerous, burdensome. They have an odor of death that repels them, and leads on to Second Death. To others the ways of the Lord and the requirements of his holiness have a sweet odor, a life odor, bringing refreshment. Such an appreciation of the divine goodness and plan, the Apostle refers to as a sweet odor of life, and tending and leading up to the glorious life condition which they shall share in the Resurrection of the blessed. (Z. '09-72; R.4345)

AND WHO IS SUFFICIENT FOR THESE THINGS? — There is a tremendous strain of responsibility upon all who minister the Lord's truth. How can any of us fully grasp and comprehend the value of present opportunities? And how can those who, in the name of the Lord, present his message sufficiently realize the weight of responsibility attaching? (Z. '09-72; R.4345)

3:3 — IN TABLES OF STONE — The Decalogue, vss. 7, 6. The ministration of the Spirit of the Law is the more glorious. See Heb. 7.

BUT IN FLESHLY TABLES OF THE HEART — Letters which man will read in the Millennium. God's letters to men.

3:6 — ABLE MINISTERS OF THE NEW TESTAMENT — Christ and the Church now minister to or serve that New Covenant in various ways: 1) In gathering the members of the body of the great Mediator. 2) In learning and teaching to others the lessons necessary to qualify for the position. 3) In preparing the blood with which it is to be sealed—"his blood," "Jesus' blood;" appropriated first to the church and after having served its purpose in the justification of the church to be passed on for the blessing of the world through the sealing of the New Covenant with Israel. (Z. '09-312; R.4495)

3:12 — WE HAVE SUCH HOPE — Such a glorious hope, the High Calling, the anchor.

WE USE GREAT PLAINNESS OF SPEECH — For we speak to those also who have this hope, "we speak wisdom among them that are perfect" (1 Cor. 2:6) to those spiritually begotten, who can understand spiritual things, we need not speak in types. "The time cometh when I shall no more speak to you in proverbs but will show you plainly of the Father." (John 16:25)

3:13 — WHICH PUT A VAIL OVER HIS FACE — Typifying a veil between the natural and the spiritual. The Israelites being natural men, stiff-necked, without much faith, could not see the spiritual fulfilment of their Law in Christ. It was not then the due time. But if humble, the vail would be taken away when Christ came.

THAT THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL COULD NOT STEDFASTLY — Steadily, with clear vision. It was not time for spiritual things to be understood.

LOOK TO THE END — The consummation, the fulfilment, the antitype. They could not see that their Law and service merely pointed to the more glorious antitype.

OF THAT WHICH IS ABOLISHED — The Law Covenant arrangement. The Jew passed directly from Moses into Christ.

3:14 — BUT THEIR MINDS WERE BLINDED — Because of pride and self-will and prejudice and greed, they were blinded. What should have been for their blessing became a stumbling stone to them. (Rom. 11:8-10; Psa. 69:22, 23) They had not faith. (Heb. 3:19)

WHICH VAIL IS DONE AWAY IN CHRIST — Diag.: “not discovering that it is done away in Christ.” He has opened up a new way of life, enabling us to understand spiritual things.

3:15 — IT — Their heart, or as in Syr.: “but when any of them is turned unto the Lord the veil shall be taken away from him.” Or when at the second advent their heart is turned, their blindness will pass away.

3:17 — THERE IS LIBERTY — This spirit of liberty had a wonderful effect on the early church. It broke from them the shackles of superstition which firmly held their fellow men. It gave them broader, deeper views of human rights and human responsibilities. It taught them that all men are sinners and that the king and the peasant, the learned and the ignorant, are all responsible to the one God, and that he is no respecter of persons. As a consequence Christians came to be generally recognized because of the influence of Christ’s message of liberty, which affected their every interest with its enlightening influences. People took knowledge of them that they had been with Jesus. They learned no lessons of anarchy or strife, but those which taught the proper relationship of man to man. They were also taught to wait, to endure, to suffer, to wait for justice, until God’s time would come at Christ’s second advent to establish righteousness. Of the apostles it is written that the rulers were astonished at their courage in standing up for principle in faithfulness to the divine word. They marvelled at such courage in men whom they perceived to be ignorant and unlearned. The fact is that having learned in the school of Christ, the real principles of righteousness and the relationship of the things of the present time to the things eternal they were transformed men, whose balance of mind, of judgment was in accord with their knowledge—lessons in the school of Christ. (N-6-13-09)

It will either have the effect of bringing us to the Lord in appreciation and imitation of his goodness and love; or it will repel us from the Lord and bring us under a spirit of evil and selfishness. Let us take heed, lest being benefited by God’s grace we become hardened through covetousness and finally be esteemed willful sinners on our own account. (Z. ’98-238; R.2349)

3:18 — BUT WE ALL — All the church, consecrated class, the inference being strong that those not being so changed are not of the class addressed. This is a very solemn thought, and claims most careful consideration. The question here is not—have we made a full consecration unto God,—but having done so are we submitting ourselves fully to the transforming power of the Holy Spirit, to be changed daily and more fully to the glorious likeness of our God. (Col. 3:19; Rom. 12:2; Eph. 3:19)

WITH OPEN FACE — With no intervening veil of fear or prejudice. We could not be transformed if there is a veil between God and us, an earthborn cloud.

BEHOLDING AS IN A GLASS — The Lord's word, typified by the Laver which was made of the mirrors of the women of Levi. (Ex. 38:8) Jesus is the Word also, and as a mirror reflects the glorious character of Jehovah. (Z. '11-44; R.4759)

THE GLORY OF THE LORD — By the seeing and study of his wonderful perfect character. We behold it and desire to be like him, and the Lord shows us the way. (Rom. 12:2)

ARE CHANGED — As we get a glimpse of the wonderful things the Lord has in reservation for those who love him—earthly pleasures, self denials, self-sacrifices, all lose their earthly weight and power—and gradually we come to the place where we delight to know and do the Lord's will—to the mental attitude in which these divine regulations are not grievous to us, but really joyous. This means that our minds have been “transformed.” (Z. '09-72; R.4345)

INTO THE SAME IMAGE — In contemplating the model for our imitation the Word of God, Jesus, and the Bible, thinking about all that is lovely, as embodied in Him, all that is pure and holy and beautiful we are changed little by little in the course of years to the same blessed likeness, till every grace adorns our robe. Let us mark well the patience, love, faithfulness, zeal, personal integrity and self-sacrificing spirit of Jesus—imitate it. Into his likeness, made copies of him.

FROM GLORY TO GLORY — From one step of character development to a higher, growing in grace continually.

EVEN AS BY THE SPIRIT OF THE LORD — “The Lord is that Spirit.” (vs. 17) By yielding always to its influence. (Col. 3:1, 2; Phil. 4:8, 9)

4:2 — Note the beauty of this verse. Have we renounced the hidden things of darkness not only at our consecration but every day, whenever they are suggested to us, putting them behind our back?

DISHONESTY — Shame.

CRAFTINESS — Not walking with an outward show of righteousness and at the same time trying to satisfy selfish desires.

HANDLING WORD DECEITFULLY — Preaching error for profit.

MANIFESTATION OF TRUTH — The spirit of truth in word, thought, look and action, requires careful study of ourselves. Suggesting truth to others, letting its light and influence shine out in our lives.

COMMENDING OURSELVES TO EVERYMAN'S CONSCIENCE —

This truthful living would appeal to every honest heart, and commend us to such as true Christians, as ambassadors of truth.

IN THE SIGHT OF GOD — From God's standpoint. Those who are dishonest will not admit that we appeal to their sense of right, but God knows and he sees that we have done so. We will have nothing to hide.

4:3 — LOST — "Are perishing." The minds or hearts of men are the battleground on which the Holy Spirit of light, love, justice, truth, holiness, the Spirit of Jehovah and of his Son, contends with the evil spirit of Satan, sin, darkness, untruth, hatred, envy, malice, etc. Sold under sin by our first parent Adam, his family became "slave of sin" "through frailty," through the weakness of heredity. (Rom. 5:12, 21; 6:16-28; 7-14; 8:20, 21) In this captive condition they have been blinded by the god (ruler) of the present evil world ("aionos" = age) who puts evil before their minds as good and darkness for light. (Eph. 6:12; Isa. 5:20) and having thus perverted the vast majority and made it easy to do evil and difficult to do good, and having ranged all the advantages of the present time on the side of evil, and made it impossible to attain these except by conforming to this unholy spirit, he has general control, first of the masses through ignorance and secondly of the more intelligent through pride, selfishness. (E189) Satan's kingdom is one of darkness. He puts a mist or veil of error before the minds which will not let the light of truth shine in. For truth would reveal the evil and disease.

4:5 — FOR WE PREACH NOT OURSELVES — We do not so preach as to draw attention to our wit and brilliancy, but as did Jesus we say that whatever of beauty or reason or brilliancy is there, God put it there; it is His message and his wit and goodness that shines, that we did not originate these things. (See John 5:19, 20, 30; 12:49; 14:10, 24)

PREACH JESUS — So preach as to draw attention toward Jesus as Redeemer, as the agent and appointed teacher and Saviour. If after our preaching people only marvel at our smartness, we have measurably failed. Jesus as Lord of all, as the only one who can lead us to liberty and light and God.

OURSELVES YOUR SERVANTS — This is the Spirit of God, delightfulness in serving others and making them happy, not merely for reward but for the very delight of service. To help them be strong in righteousness and find the happiness in Christ and the knowledge of God.

FOR CHRIST'S SAKE — Because he did the same and more for us, and the way he wants us to show our thanks is to do the same for others.

5:1 — OUR EARTHLY HOUSE OF THIS TABERNACLE — This earthen vessel in which we who have the treasure of the New Mind, a “tabernacle” for the New Creature, not the glorious “temple.” This body must go into death. (Psa. 82:6-8; Rom. 6:1-4; 1 Cor. 15:37, 44, 50)

WE HAVE A BUILDING OF GOD — To be received at the Second Advent.

ETERNAL IN THE HEAVENS — We have a divine body, made by the Lord himself awaiting us at his second advent. When he comes he will change our vile body (Phil. 3:21) and we shall be like him then, immortal, eternal, in the heavenly phase.

5:2 — FOR IN THIS — While in this tabernacle we are burdened by its sinful tendencies and its imperfections. We cannot do as we would. (Rom. 7:15-20)

HOUSE WHICH IS FROM HEAVEN — We long for the better body which will be able to do the new will perfectly.

5:3 — NOT BE FOUND NAKED — When the time comes to put on that body, we shall not be judged unworthy of any body and go into second death.

5:4 — NOT FOR THAT WE WOULD BE UNCLOTHED — While not wishing for the long sweep in death awaiting the second Advent (that is not our aim), but to put on the glorious body so that mortality will end and we put on the glorious immortal body.

MIGHT BE SWALLOWED UP OF LIFE — Now God has purposed this very thing that we shall have this new body at the second advent.

5:5 — GIVEN UNTO US THE EARNEST OF THE SPIRIT — And has given us a proof of this by giving us his Spirit in a begetting sense. The new life is begun.

5:6 — THE BODY — While here in the flesh.

WE ARE ABSENT FROM THE LORD — We cannot see his face to face. We feel thus because of our faith.

5:7 — WALK BY FAITH, NOT BY SIGHT — In this respect the Gospel church is different from the Jewish Church of the preceding Age (Acts 7:38) and different from the Millennial church of the oncoming age. In the latter they will walk by sight. The sun of righteousness will shine forth and scatter all the darkness of superstition and prejudice and flood the world with the light of the knowledge of the glory of God. There will be no more walking by the light of the lamp, the Bible, so precious to us now, so necessary to our footsteps as a light, and lamp to our feet, to assist us in walking the narrow way (See Josh. 5:12 note)—The Jewish church was privileged to walk by sight considerably, not so clear and distinct a light as that which will illuminate the world in the Millennium, but nevertheless they walked by sight, because the divine terms were that if they obeyed God's Word and walked in his statutes he would bless them in basket and store and flock and herd, and in their families and hearts. And the assurance was that if there was any calamity it would be because of their departure from the Lord and would mark his disfavor. (N-6-6-09)

5:8 — TO BE PRESENT WITH THE LORD — Our courage is strong and also our determination to be acceptable to him whether we remain here in the Body or whether, as at his second presence, we be at home with Him. (If we keep ourselves acceptable we shall be so then.)

5:13 — WHETHER WE BE BESIDE OURSELVES — To some Paul's course seemed to indicate an unbalanced mind; but he explained this was not so, that he had a sounder mind than ever before. He felt himself drawn to Christ, constrained by the love of Christ to love him and all who were his with a pure heart.

IT IS FOR YOUR CAUSE — The reason for his devotion under all reports and circumstances is Christ's love, not our love of him so much as primarily Christ's love for men and for the Church, especially as shown in his death, the greatest proof of love. (Dean Alford) As we note this love it draws up to him and by a common pull of his love brings together those who have similar appreciation. The impelling power in every Christian should be his appreciation of Christ's love for him and his reflection and development in his own heart of this love. Love is the motive principle of God and all like him.

5:14 — CONSTRAINETH US — The idea of the Greek is that of forcible limitation, of confining to one object or within certain bounds—limits us to one great end and prohibits our taking into consideration any others—forcible compression of his energies into one line of action. (Dean Alford)

Why? How? Because as all are dead and need the service of the Redeemer, and as we have now obtained life through him, we should in gratitude and love, walk not after the flesh but should give up the flesh entirely and live the new life for Christ. (Z.'11-182; R.4836)

THAT IF ONE DIED FOR ALL, THEN WERE ALL DEAD — Because under sentence of death. More than this, through the fall our reasoning faculties are more or less unbalanced, some in one particular, others in another. Some have hope disproportionately large and are continually overestimating their possibilities. Others have hope proportionately small, and are continually discouraged and hindered from making the best use of their faculties. And thus it is with all our talents. None of them could be really too large. It is the mental balance, or poise, that constitutes a sound mind or judgment. Thus George Washington was great: "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."—not because of special or freak qualities, but because he had a remarkably well balanced brain. Similarly the great French Statesman, Cambetti was influential, notwithstanding the fact that he had a phenominally small brain; what he possessed was well balanced, giving him soundness of judgment. Viewed from the Creator's standpoint, our race is sadly unbalanced, greatly changed through the six thousand years of the fall. Originally in the divine likeness, many of its gracious qualities and much of its balance have departed and hence the scriptural assumption that the world is one-tenth dead as respects its best qualities of mind and heart. (N-6-20-09)

5:17 — THEREFORE IF ANY MAN BE IN CHRIST — A body member.

HE IS A NEW CREATURE — We as new creatures would not be able to recognize ourselves, were it not that the new will when it comes into office, finds the channels and ruts already made in the brain by previous successions of experiences which have stamped or molded the individuality, and the new will operating through these channels at first thus preserves the consciousness of self recognition. Immediately the new will begins to direct new impressions on the brain to dig new canals, and the old impressions, from disuse, become more and more dim, the old canals will, if left unused, by action of time and water become largely filled up and useless. Typified by the new and different light in the Holy and enclosing walls of gold, the world. (the Camp) and the Courts shut out forever, glorious barriers! (Put in Bay, p. 81) What part of the individual becomes the New Creatures? It is the will that becomes new. The will is the decision of the majority of those organs of the brain which form the mentality. the will considers—"Shall I continue to sin? No, I will abandon sin. Shall I go further and make a full consecration to God? Yes, I will." When he does so God accepts him and begets him, thus making him a New Creature. He makes up his mind, determines, he changes the direction of his will. At one time his will inclined to sin. That was wrong. Then his will turned toward right. That was right so far as it went, but it did not make him a New Creature. Then he said, "Lord, I consecrate my life to thee—myself with all my aims, hopes and ambitions." Thenceforth he is counted dead to the world and alive toward God as a spirit being. This new will, new mind with its heavenly hopes and ambitions constitutes the New Creature. (Z. '14-116; R.5439) The "Righteousness of Jehovah" (Jer. 23:6; 33:16)

7:1 — HAVING THEREFORE THESE PROMISES — This is the difference between the well intentioned worldly person and the thoroughly consecrated Christian. The latter has heard through the Word certain exceeding great and precious promises and believed them and made them their own. The world has not heard and appreciated these, not accepted them and made them their own. So these words are not addressed to the worldly, but to those only who have these promises. These promises constitute the power of God which works in us first to will and second to do of his good pleasure. (Phil. 2:13 see note) (N-7-17-10)

DEARLY BELOVED — These are dearly beloved because they have the mind of Christ, the mind of the Father. According to the flesh these are not all lovely or beautiful. (1 Cor. 1:26-29; James 2:5)

LET US CLEANSE OURSELVES — Not from the condemnation of original sin, for no flesh can be justified by works of the Law, in God's sight. (Gal. 2:16) The saints cannot fight Satan, they can merely by their wills resist him and rely on the promises of God to help and protect. They cannot conquer the world and convert it to God, for that is the work of the Millennial Age, and Christ has overcome the world for us, but they all must overcome the world in the sense of resisting its spirit and keeping their hearts loyal to God, loyal to their covenant of consecration to him, as did our Master. The heavenly promises, with the still greater rewards of glories are the greatest aids in this resistance of the worldly spirit. (N-7-17-10)

Whoever can comprehend what it is to be a member of God's holy Temple class, must realize the holiness, sacredness, purity that would properly attach to everything and anything connected with it. Whoever has such a hope in him will purify himself even as God is pure. (1 John 3:3) The thought of being accepted as the sons and daughters of the Lord Almighty must be impressive to every heart in proportion as it is appreciated. Few are so gross as to suppose that God would have any fellowship with that which is unclean and impure. And when we see the divine arrangement through Jesus' sacrifice covers all our unintentional blemishes and weaknesses, surely we cannot ask for more—that it should cover from divine sight intentional weaknesses, intentional blemishes, or even slackness on our part in putting away all filthiness of flesh and spirit. (Z.'07-137; R.3987)

FROM ALL FILTHINESS — Our text refers not to our resistance of the world or of the Devil, but to our dealings with ourselves. The Lord requires this demonstration on our part of activity against the notions of sin in our flesh, and in our minds, as a proof that the New Creature is alive and active to the responsibilities of its conduct as a soldier of the cross, and also because he has decreed that none shall be of that little flock of joint heirs with his Son who do not in these respects of loyalty to the Father and to righteousness, and opposition to sin show their heart likeness to Jesus.

(Rom. 8:29) Whoever refuses or neglects the development of such character-likeness or copy of Christ's mind, is refusing or neglecting the only terms and conditions on which he may hope to win. In view of this how zealously we should strive to heed this text, to demonstrate to increase fervency our love for righteousness, for truth, for all the ways of the Lord, by opposition to sin, especially in our own bodies. (Z. '07-135; R.3986)

Does it require great strength and power of will to cleanse our minds and flesh? Yes, and that is just what the Lord seeks to develop in us. All the joint heirs will be strong characters, and that because of the development of character in the present time in the conflicts with the flesh. Does someone suggest that with the cravings of the flesh, such a victory is impossible? (See 1 Cor. 15:57) The Apostle's words do not indicate that the flesh will be made absolutely perfect and pure. But that it may be cleansed of its filthiness—so that everything coarse and rude, slovenly, filthy, dirty, in thought or deed, mind or person would be offensive, abhorrent to us. This cleansing is not suddenly done; we gain this desirable and glorious condition gradually. The cleansing must begin at once, but it will continue till our last breath, for although we can and do quickly become pure in heart, intention, will, it certainly does require time to accomplish the purification of the mind and flesh. The power which begins this cleansing, and continues it acceptably in God's sight is the new will, and this very fight against sin and uncleanness strengthens the will so that each victory makes it more ready and capable for the next conflict. By use our wills grow stronger. Hence the necessity of keeping this in memory, that the will may always be firm, prompt, unflinching as respects loyalty to God, and righteousness. (Z. '07-136; R.3986)

Nor are we to suppose that God will do all this in us. It is his, to forgive the sins of the past (1 John 1:9), and to encourage by his promises. But it is ours to show our heart loyalty to principles of righteousness and of his Word and character by putting away, to the extent of our ability, all filthiness of flesh and mind. (N-7-17-10)

By this process the results we may gain will be "Perfect Holiness" in the reverence of God. What a glorious consummation to be attained! Worth the struggle. Therefore let us allow the divine promises and prospects to work in our hearts to the cleansing of our minds and flesh from all filth—to the perfecting of our new natures in holiness (Heb. 12:14) in the reverence of the Lord. (Z. '07-137; R.3986)

OF THE FLESH — This is the closest and most persistent adversary of the New Creature—the flesh. This is the great fight. The longings of the depraved nature cry out against restraints and insist that he is taking an unreasonable course to follow Jesus and thus to go opposite to the course of the world and at the cost of crucifixion, the mortification of his own flesh and its natural preferences. (N-7-17-10) Our trial is not to see if we can do the impossible thing of living an absolutely perfect life in an imperfect body, but to see to what extent our mind, our will, fights a good fight against our natural weaknesses and frailties. Such God seeks and such he will reward in the First resurrection, by granting to the faithful perfect spirit bodies in full harmony with their pure heart and loyal intentions and purposes. We have enlisted under the Captain of our Salvation to fight the good fight against sin in its every form, within and without under his guidance and direction. Should these now, after enlisting, rest content, and do no fighting against sin either in their own mortal bodies or in their surroundings, it would be an indication that they had not the Spirit of Christ. Outward filthiness does indicate a filthy mind, because the mind controls and if it were purified the result would be a cleansing up of the outside. (Z. '07-136; R.3986) The outward life is largely an expression of the mind within.

AND SPIRIT — The cleansing of our minds is more important than the cleansing of our flesh because we might succeed measurably in cleansing the flesh while the mind might still be impure. Out of the mind proceed evil thoughts and these wrong conceptions have to do with all the filthiness of the flesh. It is mainly therefore to the mind that the Lord appeals through his Word during this Gospel age. He invites us first of all to set our hearts, wills right and then having done this to allow the new will to rule our minds, and thus the new will through the cleansed mind institutes a rule and order and purification of our flesh. Were we perfect there would be little difficulty in ruling our minds and bodies as soon as the will had been fixed for righteousness, but six thousand years of the fall from the image and likeness of God have wrought havoc in us all. (Rom. 7:18; Gal. 5:17; Matt. 26:41)

A part of this filthiness of mind is selfishness (frequently so mean as to be ashamed of itself and seek to hide under various pretexts of generosity, outward gifts, ostentation, etc.). Jealousy, covetousness, ambition, lasciviousness, sensuality (another form of self indulgence). The New Creature should despise all these conditions of the mind and fight against them. (Z. '07-135, 136; R.3986) @SECOND PAR = PERFECTING HOLINESS IN THE FEAR OF GOD —In this fight we have a two fold purpose (1) That we may gradually cleanse ourselves, gradually become more and more what the Lord would have us be and what we would like to be ourselves. (2) Additionally this fight against sin in the flesh will make us stronger and stronger as New Creatures in the spirit of our minds. It is this firmness, determination, positiveness of the New Creature against sin and for righteousness that God desires. Those who develop it are called overcomers and all of their experiences in these trials and battlings against the world, the flesh, and the adversary, are designed to make them “strong in the Lord and the power of his might.” Their experiences are so ordered and directed as to lead them to more and more of faith in God and obedience to him; they must reach the place where they love righteousness and hate iniquity. (N-7-17-10)

God expects of us a manifestation of energy in the vanquishing of the motions of sin in the flesh and perfecting of holiness in our lives. God has but one standard—perfection of holiness. (Matt. 5:48) Our Lord well knew we could not reach this standard in the present life, nevertheless it was proper to give us the perfect standard, so that we shall improve by attempts at copying, as the child with the copper plate engraving in the copy book. So the Lord wishes us to be continually attempting to copy his perfection and to recognize no inferior standard. Hence our text can mean no more than that we shall do our best to reach the standard, come as near to it as possible, a little nearer each day we live. This perfection of holiness is to be attained through the reverence of the Lord, through an appreciation of his greatness, his perfection. If deficient in veneration we shall have difficulty much, to perfect holiness, while great veneration will be a great help.

8: — The Bible is singularly free from monetary solicitations from first to last. The prophets were poor. The Savior himself had not where to lay his head, and his followers were noted as being “of the common people who heard him gladly,” and “chiefly the poor of this world.” And yet we know of no solicitations for money either for personal use or for building churches.

This Scripture may be said to be the only appeal for money recorded in the Bible, and it was for the poor at Jerusalem, sorely pressed by the famine in the time of the Emperor Claudius. (Acts 11:28) If the pages of the Bible abounded with accounts of our Lord’s and the Apostle’s begging and “sponging” their lives and their words would have been far less influential with us. The fact that their faith and their preaching did not bring them wealth, but cost them much in self-sacrifice, is a convincing proof to us of their sincerity, their honesty—that they believed what they proclaimed. Instead of profiting by the Gospel it was of divine providence that the acceptance of it cost them the loss of all things. What noble characters they were, in that they needed not to be bought with money, but gladly paid the price of the truth. They esteemed their earthly possessions and hopes as loss and dross, that they might share in the sufferings of Christ and thereby attain joint heirship with him in his Millennial Kingdom by the first resurrection. (Phil. 3:8; Rev. 20:4) (Z. '09-369; R.4530)

8:19 — CHOSEN — In Greek “voted” as in vs. 23. The word also may imply that the Apostle Paul was also thus chosen by the churches, not indeed to be an apostle, for that he was already by the Lord’s appointment (1 Tim. 2:7; Gal. 1:1), but to be a messenger, missionary, and doubtless at their expense. (See 2 Tim. 1:15) (F277)

11:2 — JEALOUS OVER YOU WITH GODLY JEALOUSY — Not a mean jealousy, but jealous for, in the interest of, the Corinthians; jealous for the things that are right and that they should be in accord with them—an earnest anxious solicitude and vigilant watchfulness, a godlike jealousy for the best interests of the Lord's precious truth. We should all feel this, in the church, if we see a departure from the simplicity and purity which is in Christ, we should do all in our power and reason to correct it. So if we see anything in any one member of the church likely to cast reflection upon the Lord's cause, we should feel it proper to put forth efforts to correct that one lest harm be done. This jealousy in the Lord's cause is different from a jealousy in our own interest. But let us scrutinize our words, deeds, thoughts, and while very zealous in the Lord's cause, let us be very sure that it is not in a private matter, and should consider whether or not we are busybodies; whether it be a proper thing for our elders to deal with, and whether or not it would be our duty to go to the elders. Let us be very careful our jealousy is for the Lord's cause and not the bitter kind of Cant. 8:6; that it is not a jealousy of another but for another, for his best interest and welfare. (Z. '11-93; R.4789) (See Ex. 20:4; Cant. 8:6)

11:5 — A WHIT BEHIND THE VERY CHIEFEST APOSTLES —All spirit begotten children of God, able to understand the deep things of the Bible are surely amazed at the logic, wisdom, and power of St. Paul's writings. We know of nothing in the world to compare with them. Doubtless the secret of his brilliancy lay in the fact that he gave himself up to God so fully, to do not his own will but the Father's will—that the Lord could use him as an apostle, a mouthpiece, as a servant, to a greater extent than he ever used any other man, perhaps. The most learned of the twelve, the one who took the place of Judas, had naturally the best opportunity for breadth of thought. Pushed to the front as the Lord's mouthpiece to the Gentiles St. Paul's mind grasped more quickly than did the minds of the other apostles, the things pertaining to the new dispensation, and he perceived that the Gentiles were to be fellow-heirs with the Jews in the Kingdom privileges. (Eph. 3:12; Col. 1:25-27) Naturally some thought the Apostle was going too far, and the argument was raised that he was not an Apostle, not one of the twelve. (Z. '16-248; R.5941)

11:6 — AMONG YOU IN ALL THINGS — This led him to tell in no uncertain terms that he had full proof of his Apostleship and he was not a whit behind the very chiefest of the Apostles in the understanding of the Divine program. (John 16:13; 2 Cor. 11:5; Gal. 2:2-10)

11:7 — THE GOSPEL OF GOD FREELY? — St. Paul had labored with the church at Corinth (Acts 18:1-11) and to have them fail to make proper progress in the Truth because they thought him an incompetent teacher seemed a pity. (Z. '16-248; R.5941)

11:10 — IN THE REGIONS OF ACHAIA — Paul did not approve of boasting yet for the sake of his hearers (vs. 12) he would inform them along certain lines. And how glad we are that the Holy Spirit so directed the Apostle, that we may know him better and may fully appreciate his loving loyalty to the King of Kings, and the fact that he was a chosen vessel of the Lord for the communication of the Truth even to the household of today! (Z. '16-248; R.5941)

11:28 — THE CARE OF ALL THE CHURCHES — See note 2 Cor. 12:7.

11:29 — AND I BURN NOT — The secret of the Apostle's endurance of so great privations is—The Lord's grace was sufficient. The Lord's power was made perfect in his weakness. And is this not the secret of every Christian life? Was it not even so of our Master? His reliance upon the Father and his looking for the light of His countenance were indeed the power of God working in him to will and to do the Father's good pleasure. And this power can operate in the weakest members of the body of Christ as well as the strongest. The Lord's grace is sufficient for all and for every time of need. (Z. '16-249; R.5942)

11:30 — WHICH CONCERN MINE INFIRMITIES — The Apostle did not boast about himself—about his talents, his oratory, about how the people were spellbound, about how many people recognized his ability. No, he would rather boast of the things which others would think to be for his shame. He would tell what God's providence had permitted him to suffer for the Truth's sake. To him these things were marks of Divine favor and love and bore witness that he was a lover of the Lord and his righteousness. This sets for us crisply a picture of a soldier of the cross. (Z. '16-249; R.5942)

12:1-5 — Paul was on the road to Damascus with authority from the chief priests to persecute the Christians, when he saw the Lord Jesus, as by one born before the due time (1 Cor. 15:8; B134), who spoke to him and called him to be an Apostle, and here he became blind because of the intense light. (Acts 9:3-9; 22:6-11, 14; 26:12-22) He was then led into Damascus (Acts 9:8; 22:11), where he remained blind for three days, and neither ate nor drank. (Acts 9:9) Here, in a vision he saw a man coming to restore his sight. (Acts 9:11) Ananias was directed by the Lord, in a vision to go to Paul and restore him his sight. This was done, as stated in Acts 9:10-18. Here also he was baptized and received the Holy Spirit. (Acts 9:17, 18; 22:13-16)

Then he immediately went into Arabia (Gal. 1:16, 17), where probably he received the visions and revelations mentioned here in 2 Cor. 12:1-5 and also in Eph. 3:3, 4; Gal. 1:12. He then returned to Damascus, where he stayed three years, teaching and preaching. (Gal. 1:17, 18; Acts 9:19-23) The Jews watched the gates day and night to kill him, but he was let down over the wall in a basket, by night. (Acts 9:23-25; 2 Cor. 11:32, 33) From there he went up to Jerusalem to see Peter, with whom he abode fifteen days. At this visit he saw none other of the Apostles save James. (Gal. 1:18, 19) While here in the temple praying, he was warned by the Lord to leave Jerusalem and go to the Gentiles (Acts 22:17, 18), and he went to Syria and Silicia. (Gal. 1:21)

Fourteen years after, he went up to Jerusalem by Revelation, taking with him Barnabas and Titus. (Gal. 2:1, 2) Here he first declared his Gospel to those who were of reputation, lest he should have run in vain. (Gal. 2:2) He was received somewhat warily, but Barnabas took Paul and presented him to the Apostles, explaining his conversion (Acts 9:26, 27) and James, Cephas and John extended the right hand of fellowship to him. (Gal. 2:9, 10) Here he abode for a time, teaching in the Synagogues, disputing against the Grecians until they went about to kill him, and then went to Caesarea and Tarsus. (Acts 9:28-39)

12:1 — I WILL COME TO VISIONS AND REVELATIONS OF THE LORD — See Gal. 1:12, 17; 2:2; Eph. 3:3. These were given to Paul not merely for his own benefit, but for the good of the entire church. (Col. 1:25; Eph. 3:2) Though some of these things were not lawful to be uttered, the illumination which they gave to the Apostle's mind has through his writings been reflected upon the Church from his day to now.

These were evidently granted to compensate for his lack of personal contact with the Master. It was because he had these visions and revelations that he was enabled to grasp the situation and to appreciate the New Dispensation and recognize the length, breadths, heights and depths of the divine character so clearly, and it was because he appreciated these things clearly himself that he was qualified to state them in his epistles and teachings in such a manner as to confer blessings upon the household of faith throughout the age. The church could better afford to lose the testimony of any or all the other apostles than to lose the testimony of this one. But we need and are glad to have them all, as well as the noble characters of the entire twelve.

12:2 — CAUGHT UP TO THE THIRD HEAVEN — The Millennial Kingdom of Christ, the third heavens and earth that shall not pass away. (2 Pet. 3; Isa. 65; Rev. 21)

12:3 — GOD KNOWETH — The whole matter was so real to him that he could not tell whether he was in the body and saw a vision, or whether he was transported to the actual conditions.

12:4 — HOW THAT HE WAS CAUGHT UP — This is the "Paradise of God." Peter calls this the new heavens and new earth. These do not refer to different planets, nor to heavens ranged one above another, as many have supposed, but to the third of three great periods of time, beginning with man's creation and extending into the illimitable future. The first of these periods, termed the first heavens and earth—the old order of things—passed away at the time of the deluge of Noah's day. The second period—"The heavens and earth which are now" the present order of things, are reserved of God to pass away with a great symbolic fire of trouble—revolution, etc.—which will utterly destroy the present spiritual powers and present social arrangements. The third period is to be a world without end, under divine administration. This will be the third heavens and the third earth, or new heavens and new earth which will differ from the present heavens and earth in that they will be righteous.

The new Heavens will consist of the new spiritual ruling powers of the future—Christ the Head and the Church the body. The present heavens consist of the nominal religious systems which, while claiming Christ as their head, yet bow in very large degree to Antichrist—"the god of this world"—the Prince of this world, who now worketh in the hearts of the children of disobedience and who is captivating and blinding the whole world, with the exception of those few whose eyes of understanding have been opened. (Eph. 2:2; 2 Cor. 4:4) (Z. '01-198; R.2832)

TO PARADISE — The renovated earth.

NOT LAWFUL FOR A MAN TO UTTER —Doubtless the plan and purpose of God, as now made manifest to us, largely through his writings, in the light of this harvest period, but not then meet in due season. (Z. '11-109; R.4797)

12:7 — THORN IN THE FLESH — See Acts 9:3-9; 22:6-13; 26:13-15; 23:1-5; Gal. 4:15; 2 Cor. 10:10; Gal. 4:13, 14. These show that the thorn in the flesh was his eyesight, which was always weak after he saw Christ, and this helped to keep him humble and made him remember that scene. (See Gal. 6:11 Roth.) The Lord recognized a personal danger to his beloved and faithful apostle—a danger of pride and self-exaltation, which if it should develop would soon unfit him for further service and rob him of his future reward. (Z. '94-391; R.1744)

THE MESSENGER OF SATAN TO BUFFET ME — It came not from the hand of the Lord, though by his permission, it was the messenger of Satan. Though it was very undesirable in the flesh yet it was a profit to him spiritually, for otherwise he might become too much exalted. Yes, praise the Lord! He chooses his own instruments and whets and grinds and polishes them for the most effectual service, and wields them with force and power in the service of his people; but in all the painful and laborious service he has special care also for the willing and faithful instrument. He will not suffer it to be tried beyond what it is able to endure, nor will he suffer it to be exalted without some counterbalancing thorn in the flesh to preserve its equilibrium. (Z. '94-391; R.1744)

LEST I SHOULD BE EXALTED ABOVE MEASURE —The Apostle had the care of all the Gentile ecclesias, and great were the responsibilities of his office. Though the position was a most laborious and trying one, requiring great fortitude, zeal, energy and self-denial to fill it; it was also one of great honor. And Paul appreciated the honor of such intimate fellowship of service with God. (Z. '94-391; R.1744)

12:8 — THAT IT MIGHT DEPART FROM ME — God would not give him the thing he asked for, but would give him what would be better for him as a New Creature. Probably, when the apostle learned that lesson he did not pray for such things again, but doubtless it was to our benefit that he did not find this out until he had prayed those three improper prayers. So we should say—Lord thou knowest what I have need of, give what is best. (Z. '15-40; R.5624)

12:9 — MADE PERFECT IN WEAKNESS — This is the condition of every truly submissive heart. Many of the Lord's people are tempest tossed and sorely tried in these days, and doubtless many have sought to have this or that trial removed; but the piercing thorn still remains for their discipline and perfecting. Let all such, like Paul, give heed to these words. What if other friends forsake thee and hosts of foes seek to overwhelm thee; if thou has my favor, my love, is not that sufficient? What though the flesh be weak, and the heart sometimes faint, my strength shall supply your lack; and while you walk in the way of my appointment your weaknesses shall only the more manifest the power of God working in and through you. (Z. '94-391; R.1744)

THAT THE POWER OF CHRIST MAY REST UPON ME — Having put forth all his own energies and faithfully used his own ability to its fullest extent as a wise steward, it was his joy to recognize the hand of the Lord working with him. (Heb. 2:4; Acts 19:11, 12; 1 Cor. 2:4) These demonstrations of divine power, added to Paul's faithful use of his natural abilities, were the Lord's endorsement of all he did, manifestations of the Divine approval, both to himself and to others, and so cause for great rejoicing. (Z. '94-391; R.1744)

12:10 — FOR WHEN I AM WEAK, THEN AM I STRONG — To rejoice in tribulation is not possible, except one is in fullest accord with God; to endure meekly and patiently a sore thorn in the flesh and even to glory in such personal infirmities. If the heart be influenced by pride and ambition, or any worldly craving, joy in tribulation is impossible. But if the old nature is kept under, and faith, hope, love and zeal are active and alive, we shall have the consciousness of divine favor and then we can rejoice in every experience. (Z. '94-391; R.1744)

12:12 — See Z. '09-348; R.4517.

12:16 — I CAUGHT YOU WITH GUILF — The apostle is here quoting his enemies.

GALATIANS

This Epistle shows how that many Christians, Gentiles by birth, had been misled into believing that whatever blessings they might enjoy through Christ and the original Covenant with Abraham (Rom. 4:16; Gal. 3:16), they must also become amendable to the Law Covenant. This letter is devoted almost exclusively to this subject and the Galatians were mostly not Hebrews. (Z. '09-339; R.4510) Also note 2 Cor. 12:1-5.

1:11 — BUT I CERTIFY YOU — The Apostle found it necessary to show that he had equal authority (2 Cor. 11:5) with the other Apostles as a teacher, that the Galatians might know that he was as well qualified as the others, and as fully authorized to instruct them respecting their obligations, that his Word was authoritative (vs. 16). (Z. '09-339; R.4510) that the Gentiles were not under the Law Covenant, but under the Grace Covenant, the Abrahamic Covenant.

1:15 — FROM MY MOTHER'S WOMB — The Apostle recognized that certain traits of character and disposition were his from the moment of his birth, which specially prepared for his later work as a minister of the Gospel. Probably prenatal influences, as in Moses case. But nothing here implies a divine interference with free moral agency. It was possible for Paul to refuse to preach the Gospel and even to have repudiated the Lord and become a castaway. (1 Cor. 9:27) And also for Moses to have repudiated his mission and chosen the pleasures of sin for a season. Had they done so, the divine plan would not have been interfered with, so diverse is the wisdom of God. Another could have been raised up to do the work. But, so complete, we may be sure, were God's arrangements in respect to Paul and Moses, that it was more natural for them to have taken the course they did take than to have taken the opposite one. (Z. '07-138; R.3987)

1:17 — TO THEM WHICH WERE APOSTLES BEFORE ME — Here Paul shows that he did not get his instruction or his knowledge of the Gospel from the Apostles at Jerusalem. (vs. 12)

2:3 — WAS COMPELLED TO BE CIRCUMCISED — Titus was a full blooded Greek, and as the Gentiles were not under the Law, to have yielded and let Titus be circumcised, would have been going back on the liberty of the Gospel (Gal. 5:1) which he had been preaching, and would have undone all his work in that direction, for his inconsistency would have been made known to all, and the Gentiles might have been brought into bondage to the Law through these false teachers. (But God would not allow his plans to fail). Paul here was fighting for principle, and was firm. (See F227)

2:4 — BRING US INTO BONDAGE — See comment on verse 3.

2:5 — NOT FOR AN HOUR — See note on verse 3.

THE TRUTH OF THE GOSPEL MIGHT CONTINUE WITH YOU — That you Gentiles might not lose the liberty which the Gospel has given you. (Gal. 5:1)

2:6 — IN CONFERENCE ADDED NOTHING TO ME — So far as Paul was concerned, he had under the Lord's providence been the instructor of the other Apostles instead they his instructor. (Z.'09-339; R.4510)

2:16 — FOR BY THE WORKS OF THE LAW SHALL NO FLESH BE JUSTIFIED — Nothing we can do can enable us to live perfectly, even if original sin were cancelled for us, hence it would be a still greater impossibility for us not only to live perfectly now but to accumulate a merit which would cancel for us our share in the original transgression. (Z.'07-135; R.3986)

3:1 — EYES — of understanding.

CRUCIFIED AMONG YOU? — His entire argument in this chapter is to show that the Law Covenant never was over or binding upon the Gentiles but only upon the Jews.

3:8 — IN THEE SHALL ALL NATIONS BE BLESSED — This was a covenant because it involved God and would involve others, besides Abraham, but it was unconditional. See other references to this covenant in Psa. 106:45; Ex. 2:24; Ex. 6:5; Psa. 136:21-24; Psa. 105:5-12; Luke 1:54, 55; Luke 1:67-75; Lev. 26:40-45; Ezek. 16:60; Rom. 4:13, 16, 18.

3:10 — LAW ARE UNDER THE CURSE — The Law instead of advantaging the Jews, condemned them, for they could not keep it. (James 2:10)

3:13 — REDEEMED — From Greek word meaning to publicly purchase and take possession of. (E430) (Gal. 4:4, 5)

CURSED IS EVERY ONE THAT HANGETH ON A TREE — The Jews had to be specially redeemed from the curse or death sentence of the Law by Jesus' death by Crucifixion. (Z.'09-339; R.4510) Here is a special work of Jesus on behalf of the Jews; they being under the death sentence of the Law, Christ's death on the tree was necessary for them because that was the special curse of the Law. Deut. 21:23. This hanging was not customary, and was evidently done after they were dead. (Josh. 8:29; 10:26, 27) (See Z.'05-141; R.3554)

3:14 — COME ON THE GENTILES — Throughout this chapter St. Paul contrasts the Law Covenant from which the Jews were desirous to get free, with the original Abrahamic Covenant which had only free children. (Gal. 4:25, 26) He shows that the Gentiles were received under this Abrahamic Covenant of grace, (favor), whose blessings are conferred on a basis of faith and not on a basis of works, as under the Law Covenant. (Z.'09-339; R.4510)

3:17 — COVENANT, THAT WAS CONFIRMED — “Previously ratified” (Strong's Lexicon)

THAT IT SHOULD MAKE THE PROMISE OF NONE EFFECT —Evidently Paul considered the Abrahamic Covenant well established. It must have been a thoroughly completed Covenant, firmly bound with the divine oath, else the statement that it could not be disannulled would be an untruth. (Z.'09-313; R.4496) All the weight of divine veracity binds it. But lest human weakness and unbelief should doubt the divine word, God condescended to make his promise a covenant in the most binding and authoritative manner conceivable. He bound it with an oath.

3:20 — BUT GOD IS ONE — That is: A mediator is not necessary to a covenant in which only one person is bound. In the case of the Abrahamic Covenant this is so. God is the one person bound by that Covenant; hence there is no need of a mediator for that Covenant to see to the faithful performance of the contract. However as there was no mediator to guarantee a contract or covenant on God's side, he gave to Abraham and to all who would be of his faith, the best possible guarantee that God did not make the covenant lightly, or triflingly, or thoughtlessly, for in addition to pledging his word, God gave his oath—that the Covenant was secure, sure, could not fail. (Z.'09-339; R.4510)

A Mediator is one who interposes between two persons at variance with a view to reconciling them. (See note 1 Tim. 2:5) (See also Z.'07-8; R.3915)

3:24 — WHEREFORE THE LAW — Law Covenant arrangement.

WAS OUR — The Jews.

SCHOOLMASTER — Or more properly translated (see Diag.) “a child-leader,” from a Greek word meaning “a child” and a Greek word meaning “a leader” which among the Greeks properly signified a servant whose business it was constantly to attend on his young master and watch over his behavior, and particularly to lead him to and from school and the place of exercise. These child leaders were usually slaves, imperious and severe. The law was thus a child leader to bring the Jews to Christ, the great schoolmaster. (Sermon Nov. 15, 1908 and Diag.)

TO BRING US UNTO CHRIST — It prepared a class to receive a second offer of life.

THAT WE MIGHT BE JUSTIFIED BY FAITH — By various disciplinary judgments and instructions and chastisements, he developed them so that at the time of the first advent they were doubtless the most Godly people in the world.

3:25 — ARE NO LONGER UNDER A SCHOOLMASTER — This was to show the Galatians (Gentiles) that so far from needing to get under the Law Covenant, they had no need of it whatever, and those who were under it needed to get out from under it (out of Moses into Christ), in order to be able by faith to accept Christ as their Redeemer and Justifier and by faith to consecrate their lives unto death, that they might be acceptable to God as members of the Body of Christ. (Z. '09-340; R.4510)

4:4 — MADE UNDER THE LAW — If Jesus had not been “born under the Law” his sacrifice would not have applied to the Jews, because God had previously separated the Jewish nation from other peoples by the Law Covenant which he had made with them. (Ex. 19:6; Lev. 20:24-26; Deut. 7:6; 4:7, 8, 32-38; 26:18, 19; 28:9,10; 10:15; 14:2; 1 Kings 8:53) That Jewish nation, under its Law Covenant, was on trial, and failed to keep that Law Covenant after accepting its provisions saying “All these things we will do.” (Ex. 24:7) Under their Law Covenant God offered them eternal life if they would keep his Law, but if they violated it the penalty would be eternal death (not second death). Thus they came a second time under the divine sentence. The first time with the rest of us under Adamic Condemnation, and the second time through failure to keep their Law. So “the Law which was ordained unto life they found to be unto death.” (Rom. 7:10) Hence it was necessary for Jesus to be born under the Law, to be a Jew, that he might redeem all the Jews from under that Law Covenant arrangement. (Z. '09-201; R.4426; Z. '09-339; R.4510)

4:7 — WHEREFORE THOU ARE NO MORE A SERVANT, BUT A SON
— God's method of dealing with the house of servants would very properly be different from his method of dealing with the house of Sons. (John 15:15) Commands are given to servants without explanation why. But to the True Christian the Heavenly Father makes known his plans and purposes (Psa. 25:9, 14) in order that his sons who have his Spirit may sympathetically enter into those plans, by obedience to the extent of sacrifice, not because of command, but of joy to do the Father's will. (Z. '14-56; R.5405)

4:9 — YE DESIRE AGAIN TO BE IN BONDAGE?— Having received the grand antitypes so rich and much more powerful and comprehensive, why should any go back to the weak types and shadows of the Law and be in bondage again? There was no Sabbath before the Jewish Law, except in the sense that Sabbath means rest and God rested on the seventh day. Enoch, Abraham, and others knew nothing of a Sabbath and they pleased God. For the House of Sons God has set a law which is much more comprehensive and means more than the Mosaic Law was previously understood to signify. (Z. '14-56; R.5405)

4:19 — MY LITTLE CHILDREN — The Apostle seems to be writing with tears in his pen.

I TRAVAIL IN BIRTH AGAIN UNTIL CHRIST BE FORMED IN YOU —Until the character or image be formed in you, quickened, reach the mark; the Apostle suffered in sympathy for them in their undeveloped, unsettled condition.

4:20 — AND TO CHANGE MY VOICE — to one of sternness.

4:21 — DO YE NOT HEAR THE LAW? — Do you not know that the Law itself testifies that the promised seed would not be in bondage to the Law but be free from it? Do you not realize the Law's impossible exactions, its bondage? (Z. '09-340; R.4511)

4:23 — WAS BORN AFTER THE FLESH — Without any necessity for divine intervention, it was altogether a matter of the flesh.

BUT HE OF THE FREEWOMAN WAS BY PROMISE — In this case it required God to work a miracle, because Sarah was past childbearing. —The fact that Sarah was Abraham's wife emphasizes the preciousness of that Covenant which God made. Just think of what it means for God to speak of that Covenant as his wife. (See Isa. 54:5 and note)

4:27 — THOU BARREN THAT BEAREST NOT — Although the Oath Bound Covenant was the real genuine first one, yet it was not time for it to go into operation at once. (Isa. 54:1; vs. 27) Sarah typified this Covenant (vss. 24, 26) which for more than two thousand years was barren, inoperative—did not bring forth the Spiritual seed of Abraham to bless all nations. Instead, the Law Covenant was added (Gal. 3:19) and developed during the Jewish age with the Jewish nation, as God's typical people, under the Law Covenant, with Moses as its Mediator. This covenant failed to bring forth any children, only servants, and with its failure it was set aside at Jesus' first advent, when our Lord proved by his obedience his right to be heir of the Abrahamic Covenant. (Z. '07-9; R.3915)

4:30 — HEIR WITH THE SON OF THE FREEWOMAN — As in the type, the Law Covenant was cast off because of the transgressions of its offspring. This casting off was a type of their double. Because of the rejection of Christ and persecution of the Church, they were deprived of almost every element of divine favor, and almost perished for lack of it. (See note on Gen. 21.)

4:31 — BUT OF THE FREE — See Acts 3:25, note. First Jesus and then the Church. It has taken all the Gospel age to select the Spiritual seed (house of sons) just as it required all the Jewish age to select the house of servants (Ishmael) born in bondage under the Law. They needed a Mediator, we needed none. (Z. '07-9; R.3915)

5:1 — LIBERTY — It may surprise many to see how much liberty the Lord has left to each member of the New Creation. But he is seeking willing sacrificers, willing worshippers, who are prompted by love for the Lord and for the principles of righteousness to lay down their lives for the brethren's sake. (Col. 1:24) So this is the best plan, the one which most surely tests the heart loyalty, most fully develops character, and proves the willingness of each to follow the Law of Love. Such a liberty is well adapted to the present work of the Church, but wholly insufficient to convert the world. (F196)

YOKE OF BONDAGE — See Acts 15:10, 11; Gal. 3:10-13, 23-26; 4:21-24; 2:16; 3:2-5; 1 Cor. 3:6-11; Rom. 10:3-5; 7:4-7; 3:21; 8:3, 4; Col. 2:14-17.

5:2 — CHRIST SHALL PROFIT YOU NOTHING — Paul here is not addressing Jews but Gentiles, whose only reason for desiring or even thinking of circumcision was that certain false teachers were confusing them (Gal. 3:1-3; 1:6-9) by telling them that they must keep the Law Covenant, as well as accept Christ—thus leading them to ignore the Grace (Abrahamic, Sarah) Covenant. The Apostle here shows that for them to be circumcised (for any such reason) would be a repudiation of the Grace Covenant, and hence a repudiation of the entire work of Christ. (See 1 Cor. 7:18; 19; Gal. 2:3-5; Acts 21:20-26) (F226, 227) Paul's steadfast resistance on this subject, when some who misconceived the matter sought to have Titus (a full blooded Greek) circumcised. (Gal. 2:3-5)

5:3 — WHOSOEVER OF YOU ARE — Every Jew. (Z. '09-340; R.4511)

5:4 — WHOSOEVER OF YOU ARE JUSTIFIED — Trusting that you are. (Z. '09-340; R.4511)

5:17 — SO THAT YE CANNOT DO THE THINGS THAT YE WOULD — Our earthen vessel is only reckoned dead, but is really very much alive and is our chief concern. We have only the one new will, and it is fully devoted to God by the terms of our consecration. The New Will cannot have its new body until it proves itself worthy of it, and then will gain it as a reward in the first resurrection. Now the conflict is on between the new will (which has no body of its own) and the old flesh (which has no will of its own kind). In order to conquer, the new will must struggle with the old flesh and keep it under-in subjection until at the end of our course it is literally dead. We cannot hope to conquer the world, devil, though resisting them, but we are encouraged to hope for victory over our flesh. (Z. '07-3, 4; R.3914)

Since the new mind, new will, has no way of expressing itself except through the mortal body, and since the latter is prone to sin through inherited weaknesses, the new mind has a difficult task to rise from the grovelling things of sin and sordidly selfish conditions surrounding everything now to the grand heights of perfect love and unselfishness, taught by the Lord's spirit by which we have been begotten! Because the tendency of the fallen flesh is always downward, the new creature is obliged to make heroic efforts to overcome the tendencies of the world and flesh in order that he may live in the world as not of the world but as a new creature.

5:19 — ARE MANIFEST — For Christians these gross evils have more refined forms:

ADULTERY — An adulterous desire in the heart, willingness or purpose of it even though the outward action is never performed. (Matt. 5:28)

5:20 — WITCHCRAFT — From a Greek word meaning medication, (i. e. by extension, magic); from a word meaning a druggist or poisoner, a magician. (From a word meaning a drug, i.e. a spell giving potion. Word (Gr.) used in Rev. 21:8; 22:15; 9:21; 18:23. In Acts 13:6, 8 and 8:11, 9, the word is different and means to practice magic, or a magician (an eastern or oriental scientist). Medicine was once closely connected with witchcraft and the black art.

5:21 — MURDERS — Hatred of a brother (Matt. 5:22 and note). The New Creature should thus be earnest and zealous in guarding the heart. It is covetous to be discontented with what we have and desirous of obtaining what others have. Every form of evil is, so far as we can discern, a form of selfishness and the spirit of selfish desires is evil. No evil thing we could think of in humanity is apart from selfishness, the desire to have something. These things, leading on to their culmination, would mean a desire to be a usurper of power, to grasp for things not our own (Satan's spirit) an improper lust for power or wealth. (Z. '10-393; R.4728)

The first place to begin the crusade is in our own flesh, minds, or dealings, fight a good fight in our own flesh, not in some one else's. We are to overcome these, not to let them conquer us. According to our zeal will we have the Lord's approval.

5:22 — LONGSUFFERING — Patience. We often see great patience exercised by merchants, clerks, merely for policy's sake lest a good customer become offended and trade lost, a dollar missed. But the Christian's patience is of an unselfish kind, a part of his disposition. In ratio as he has sympathy and love, he is disposed to wait, and assist with patience those who at first fail to come up to his ideals. He remembers his own trials and difficulties along this line, and his broad sympathetic love enables him to have much patience with those who have not yet seen and learned to overcome difficulties and hindrances.

GENTLENESS — This does not mean weakness or fear. It is a part of the Christian's character of love, not a mere polish, as in the world. It is because he thinks lovingly, considerately of others, that he is gentle toward all; seeking to walk with soft tread, that he may not disturb others; to touch not rudely but gently; to avoid giving pain to others; to speak not rudely nor harshly, but kindly and gently so as not to wound others.

5:22, 23 — Recipe for Fruit Preserving: Let the earthen vessel to be used first be thoroughly washed with the water of the word. (Eph. 5:26) Select the choicest fruit—Love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance. The vessel should be filled to the very top or the fruit will not keep. (Eph. 3:19) Enough of the water of Truth to cover; also add a quantity of the honey of the Lord's Word to sweeten. (Psa. 119:103) Then submerge the vessel in the water of life and let it boil over a slow fire of trial and affliction for a lifetime. (1 Peter 4:13) Then let it be sealed with the Holy Spirit (Eph. 4:30), which is the Power of God by which the First Fruits are kept. (1 Pet. 1:13) Let this inscription be placed upon the seal for identification—"The Lord knoweth them that are His, and let everyone that nameth the name of Christ depart from evil." (2 Tim 4:6; 2:19) When ready to serve the fruit should be poured out into the Golden vessels of the Divine Nature. (2 Tim 2:20; 2 Pet. 1:4)

5:23 — MEEKNESS — There is a difference between meekness and weakness, humble-minded, not boastful, not proud or haughty. (See notes on 1 Cor. 13:1-13)

6:1 — RESTORE SUCH AN ONE — This does not imply that we should not expostulate with such and endeavor to help him get rid of his infirmity. This we should do in the spirit of meekness and kindness, while we endure with gentleness the trial of our patience, not seeking to please ourselves, but rather to help the weaker brother or sister. For his good to edification (Rom. 15:1, 2), not by simply ignoring the fault as though we considered it all right, but while kindly urging him to strive against it, still humbly and patiently submitting ourselves to the discomfort it brings us. (Z. '11-58; R.4767) (See 1 Pet. 1:22)

Having a mutual care one for another a care which seeks to encourage and strengthen everything that is good and to discourage all that is unbecoming, and a love which throws its mantle over a deformity and endeavors to conceal a fault, rather than to expose the weaker brother to the reproach of others.

6:7 — GOD IS NOT MOCKED — There is danger of being deceived along these lines. The human heart is deceitful above all things, very crafty, and desperately wicked, and the New Mind needs to guard continually lest it fall into a trap of the old nature. Though others may be deceived God cannot be mocked by our outward service of him and his truth, while we inwardly live according to the flesh. In all the affairs of our lives we are either building up the old nature which we agreed should be destroyed, or faithfully seeing to it that the deeds of the flesh are mortified, killed, that we may prosper as New Creatures. (Z. '11-169; R.4829)

We sow to the flesh every time we allow the selfish, unjust, unrighteous desires of the flesh to have sway in our hearts and lives.

THAT SHALL HE ALSO REAP — Our minds are gardens in which we may plant thorns and thistles of sin, or merely moral and practical qualities corresponding to useful vegetables, or those seeds which produce the fragrant and beautiful flowers and fruits representing heavenly graces. Sometime the harvest will come. All our actions and thoughts have an effect on future character.

6:8 — SHALL OF THE FLESH REAP CORRUPTION — Gratifying the desires of the flesh, the cravings of our fallen nature. If yielded to these cravings grow stronger and stronger. It is a mistake to suppose that a reasonable gratification of the flesh is proper. Every gratification of the fallen flesh satiates only the animal propensities. Those who continue to yield to these cravings will finally reach corruption—second death. If we live after the flesh we shall die, as we have already sacrificed our human rights.

All men have a natural attraction toward earthly things, even though the earthly things are blemished and distasteful to those who have learned to love righteousness and hate iniquity, but there is still a strong attraction for the marred and blemished earthly things. Like weeds earthly affections and desires spring spontaneously from seeds which come we know not whence. The Christian therefore, who would keep his heart in the Love of God, must not only keep planting good seeds, keep setting his affection on heavenly things, but keep rooting out the weeds of earthly desire and attraction.

THAT SOWETH TO THE SPIRIT SHALL OF THE SPIRIT REAP LIFE — Whoever would seek the heavenly things, must plant, or set out in his mind those qualities and graces which the Lord marks out as essential to the development of characters meet for the “inheritance of the saints in light.” Set affections on things above, develop along spiritual lines, will progress to spiritual attainment, and in due time will reap a character likeness to the Lord, and become copies of God’s dear Son, sanctified more and more through the truth. If by earnest endeavours we seek to lay down our lives and develop the new life by mortifying the deeds of the flesh, putting it to death, striving to overcome the weaknesses inherited, we will shortly be rid of all the impediments and be clothed with the new body, and be like the Lord. Thus the Father throws upon all the called ones the responsibility of their success or failure. He tells them of their own natural weaknesses and imperfections and shows how he has provided a full offset or counterbalance for them in the merit of our Redeemer. He shows what are the fruits which we must possess in heart at least if we would be jointheirs with Christ, and shows us the pattern in Christ.

We might look merely at this great responsibility and be well overawed by it; but rather we should view it to consider what a blessed privilege has been granted us of being transformed by the renewing of our minds that we may come more and more to strive for the good and acceptable and perfect will of God. God has set before us the grandest reward imaginable for merely doing our duty and reasonable service, the doing of which would bring us the largest measure of joy, and peace, aside from a future reward.

6:17 — FOR I BEAR IN MY BODY THE MARKS OF THE LORD JESUS
— We are servants, slaves of Jehovah and of Christ his appointed King. Here is pictured the old time custom of branding slaves with some private distinguishing mark. In olden times if a man was doing important work and needed assistance he could impress any passing slave into his service until the need was over, that is for an hour or so. But one who bore Caesar’s seal could not so be stopped and pressed into temporary service and such would say “Don’t stop me, don’t you see I bear Caesar’s Mark?” So Jehovah has sent us on a mission and we are not to allow ourselves to be turned aside unto any other business, to allow our service to be used in other ways than he would please.

1 — Of this chapter, verse 1 and 2 are salutation. 3-14 God exalted over all and our rich blessings from Him by being in Christ; 3-6 God above all. What we have in the Beloved; 14-23 Inspired on behalf of the body.

1:1 — BY THE WILL OF GOD — See Gal. 1:1-2.

TO THE SAINTS — Not to the world, none of the New Testament Epistles are addressed to the world, only to the saints, holy ones. It takes some courage now to admit when asked to the point that we are saints. The world would sneer at us.

WHICH ARE AT EPHESUS — Ephesus the natural location.

AND TO THE FAITHFUL IN CHRIST JESUS — “In Christ” the spiritual location. These words “In Christ” are the key words of this epistle. They occur in various wordings about twenty times in this Epistle. See Gordon’s “In Christ.” It means membership in the anointed body or company with Jesus as the one and only head. We need to be humble to realize this favor, need to recognize the greatness of our God. So Paul exalts the Father. (vss. 3-14)

1:3 — SPIRITUAL BLESSINGS IN HEAVENLY PLACES — The Holy and later the Most Holy and the Most Holy even now by faith. Our eyes illuminated by light of candlestick; eating the Shew Bread; offering incense at the Golden Altar. The fellowship and service of God and the Body. These are hidden from the world; and to these belong all the blessings of the 91st Psa. (T80)

IN CHRIST — In the Anointed. It is only because we are in Him that we are thus blessed. It is only the “us” class that are this blessed.

1:4 — ACCORDING — Showing that these blessings and arrangements are all in perfect harmony with and just what the Lord had planned from the beginning.

BEFORE THE FOUNDATION OF THE WORLD — Not chosen us individually but as a class. God had determined that there should be such a class and that this class should be “in Christ,” members of his body (Psa. 139:14-16), and that all these things were determined before the world was founded. This shows the wonderful wisdom and love of God.

THAT WE SHOULD BE HOLY — He predetermined that we should conform to the image of his Son. Holy = whole, perfect, have all the graces of character developed as God has. (Matt. 5:48; Gal. 5:22, 23; Ex. 28:36; Lev. 10:3)

WITHOUT BLAME — Faultless in his presence, before the piercing eye of Divine purity, from whom nothing is hid. (Heb. 4:12, 13; Prov. 15:3) Having no imperfection to find fault with (Jude 24; Eph. 5:26, 27; Rev. 14:5; 2 Thes. 2:13-17) Think what wonderful height of character and nature to which we are called! May this thought energize our hearts.

BEFORE HIM IN LOVE — Love is the sum of all the graces (1 Cor. 13:2; 2 Pet. 1:5-7; Rom. 13:8-10; Col. 3:14; 1 Tim. 1:5) We cannot now be perfect in action but our intentions, our character, can and must be perfect. (2 Chron. 16:9) This is the Mark of Perfect Love. (1 John 4:16-18)

1:5 — HAVING PREDESTINATED — In his plan predetermined this class.

US UNTO THE ADOPTION OF CHILDREN — Adoption means that these were once not his children, but children of wrath. (Rom. 8:15; John 1:12, 13; 2 Cor. 6:18; Gal. 4:5; 1 John 3:1, 2) God had determined that he would thus stoop down to the lowly and meek and make out of these his glorious ones.

BY JESUS CHRIST — John 14:6; 6:45; 1 Cor. 8:6.

TO HIMSELF — James 1:18; Rev. 14:4; Jas. 1:7.

ACCORDING TO THE GOOD — It is God’s goodness (Rom. 2:4), and good for us.

PLEASURE — It is a pleasure to him to do this, he takes delight in thus stooping to poor sin sick humanity, broken and imperfect through the ravages of sin, passing by the angels who are perfect and never sinned, passing by the great and noble and rich, and come down to the poor and meek of earth (1 Cor. 1:26, 27; James 2:5) those which are not (1 Cor. 1:27-29, 31) that he might show forth his love and power (the power of his love) to thus lift from the mire of sin to the greatest heights of character.

OF HIS WILL — It is God's will that this should be so, not that we have merit to be worthy more than others. (vs. 11; Rom. 9:15-24)

1:6 — GLORY OF HIS GRACE — This favor of making us accepted in the beloved will show forth his glorious character more than would any other way, his humility to thus stoop, his love that transforms these, his wisdom to counsel and guide us and plan such an arrangement, and his power to help us overcome all our weakness and rise to such heights of character. It will bring his character more praise and honor. What a Father we have! (Rom. 11:33)

WHEREIN — In which grace.

ACCEPTED IN THE BELOVED — We are accepted only because we are in Christ, members of his body, of this predestinated class. Jesus and his body are the beloved, the David class. (Matt. 3:17; 17:5; John 3:35; 10:17)

1:7 — REDEMPTION — From the Greek word meaning deliverance from the divine curse and wrath at the beginning of our race, deliverance to the heights of glory and the divine nature.

THROUGH HIS BLOOD — Through his imputed merit, his life rights which he laid down and has now in reserve as our bank account, upon which we can draw in every time of need.

FORGIVENESS — A great favor. (See 1 John 1:9) As often as we ask earnestly.

RICHES OF HIS GRACE — (Prov. 10:22) Riches! What wealth he has in store and all things are ours and we are Christ's and Christ is God's. What a rich favor to lift us up when we stumble, to overlook our wayward course and help us again, but danger here. (Note 1 Cor. 10:6)

1:8 — WHEREIN — In this grace so rich, in this wealth of favor.

HE HATH ABOUNDED — Not stingy nor meted out as we deserved, but exceedingly abundantly more than we could ask or think.

IN ALL WISDOM — Knowing what to do and when, with out lack. (Jas. 1:5; Prov. 1:1-9; Col. 1:9; 2:3) All wisdom—it is there, all that we need to guide and instruct us. (Psa. 73:24), if we are only willing to be guided.

PRUDENCE — Carefulness and thoughtfulness. God deals prudently with us, not giving us too much lest we waste or misuse it, but gives us as we learn to use it wisely. All prudence. As we see his care we learn to be careful like Him and to love and learn his careful thoughtful ways and not waste but use as effectively as possible.

1:9 — KNOWN UNTO US — Being thus trusted and honored of God it would be a terrible thing to betray his confidence in us.

MYSTERY OF HIS WILL — His secret plans and purposes. A great favor not told to everybody, but our privilege.

PURPOSED IN HIMSELF — In Himself—all evolved from the great depths of the Father's own mind. The things in which he takes delight. The goodness in which he delights.

1:10 — DISPENSATION OF THE FULNESS OF TIMES — That wonderful world. The time when all God's promises will be fulfilled.

EVEN IN HIM — Not separate or scatter. But by the influence of his Holy Spirit will bring all into oneness of heart and mind and desire with Christ and under him as God's ruler or agent. Christ will thus have all power and control and rule in heaven and earth. And Christ after the thousand years will rule the Universe with Jehovah. How Jehovah delights to honor the Son. Why? Because the Son so greatly honored Him, so faithfully, and gave Him all the praise and glory. The Son points to the Father and says: "He did it all—it was his wisdom that guided me, his power sustained me, his love comforted and encouraged me and his justice was the basis of my faith—I am all His work." He deserves all the praise, is greater than all. And the Father heaps honor on the Son, and laughs with delight as he sees how well it sets on that devoted son. What a happy family!

1:11 — INHERITANCE — And that is not all. We have obtained an inheritance in Him, and as his bride and members will with him, at the top of that pyramid, share his glory and throne (Rev. 3:21; John 17:24) in all his joys and glories and honors. O what a wonderful inheritance! What a wonderful God we have! What a shameful thing it would be to throw this calling away! Don't we long for it? Will we not strain every nerve to attain that character and fellowship?

AFTER THE COUNSEL OF HIS OWN WILL — We are sure of our inheritance. Some might say it is too great, that we never could be worthy of it and we were presumptuous in hoping for it. But no, we have God's oath that it shall be. It is his will whom none can gainsay! (Isa. 14:27)

1:12 — FIRST TRUSTED IN CHRIST — The Bride class who first were willing to trust Christ, will be shining examples of what his love is able to do for those who trust Him. His wisdom guided, his Power upheld and so strengthened them to conquer self and sin, and his Love led, moved and blessed them; his Justice was their trust. Yea all the praise will be to him only.

1:13 — IN WHOM YE ALSO TRUSTED — You also the newer members, the Gentiles and all that come in one after another into Christ, after ye heard the good news that you also could have a share in these joys in this Great Salvation, believed it. In Christ also, after ye believed and consecrated, ye were sealed with that Holy Spirit of Promise (which was promised). Yes, you too now have this hope, this opportunity of becoming one in Christ and of joint heirship with him, and fellowship with God and Christ. Hold fast this hope lest it slip away from you! Your salvation, as well as the Jews.

YE WERE SEALED — (2 Cor. 1:22; Eph. 4:30) The picture is that of wax being stamped with a seal. The wax is first melted (our hearts humbled and made teachable through some severe trouble, fiery trial). Then the seal is impressed upon our hearts, the likeness of Christ, his mind (1 Cor. 2:16; Phil. 2:5), the spirit of perfect love which is the seal, the earnest of the spirit of sonship. The seal is held there till the wax cools into hardness, so as to retain the impression. The power (Hand) of God holds it there. The sealing is a gradual work. Seals in olden times were used—1) As a signet or signature, mark or attestation or acknowledgment. 2) To make secret, or render secure against intrusion. This is the first sense used here. The second is used in Matt. 27:66; Rev. 10:4; 20:3. This seal is in the heart (will) and hence no man knoweth it save he that receiveth it. (Rev. 2:17), except as others may see the fruits of it in our daily lives. He who has this seal is not he who merely seeks to do the will of the Father, but in doing it finds it not grievous, but delightful. This sealing (the first fruits of the spirit, the adoption spirit) is one of the most advanced witnesses of the spirit, the very cream of Christian experience, in the present life. It comes after our quickening through the spirit to the service of righteousness and is an evidence that we have passed the embryo condition to one in which God can consider us sons and seal us as such. All of us should seek to attain that position of fulness of harmony, with the Father which he can acknowledge and seal. And having attained this position, let us be careful not to mar or blur the seal—not to quench (1 Thes. 5:19) or extinguish this precious treasure not to turn this spirit of love and joy in the communion and fellowship of the Father and son and the saints (1 John 1:3), into a spirit of heaviness, darkness, grief. Not to spoil this seal, but to keep it ever fresh, bright, should be our constant effort. (E247, 248)

WITH THAT HOLY SPIRIT OF PROMISE — Not sealed by the Holy Spirit as by a person. The Holy Spirit is from the Father, he does the sealing through Christ (his arm, hand) with the holy Spirit, which itself is the seal. So the Father Sealed Jesus. (John 6:27) The spirit of the promise (Diag.) (Abrahamic Promise or Covenant, the spirit which will be in all the “seed”)—there is a connection between this sealing and the promise which God has given us.

1:14 — EARNEST — A security for, assurance of full inheritance by and by, if we keep this earnest and don't lose it. A small payment or marked piece, in the coin of Heaven. If we hold it fast it will be our passport, our identification as one of the Bride class. But if we lose it we will have no proof to identify us as the Bride class; in fact our loss or damage of it would prove of itself that we were not of the Bride class and hence could have none of the inheritance. What is the earnest? It is the impression of the character likeness of Jesus Christ. Until the Redemption, etc., until the time comes for the deliverance of the purchased possession, the earth and the race of man, which will likewise be to the praise of his glory yet further. At that time we will be the first to get our inheritance.

OF OUR INHERITANCE — It is the advanced evidence, attestation, of God's Covenant with the “sealed” one, that the “exceeding great and precious promises” which God hath in reservation for those who love him (supremely) are true, and will be his if he endures faithfully the tests of his love and devotion which God will apply. It is the hand payment as it were, binding the Covenant or contract between the Lord and us, assuring us that if we faint not we shall inherit the promise to the full. (E247) The Holy Spirit in us is the beginning of his image in us.

1:15 — WHEREFORE — Because there is open to you such a reward and appreciation of it would mean a likeness to God and Paul delighted to see God's image growing in them. He was getting more of God's viewpoint. So we should feel that unselfish longing for others to know God and be happy in Him. (See 2 Pet. 1:2) that they might reach the maximum of freedom and happiness.

FAITH AND LOVE — Two graces show our growth, and indicate our development in God's likeness. Not faith in one another but in our captain and head, faith in the efficiency of Jesus' accomplished work, and in God's power through him to lead us to victory over sin. Love toward the brethren measures our love toward God. (1 John 4:11-21)

1:16 — GIVE THANKS — To whom? The brethren? No, to God. See Phil. 1:4-7; Phil. 1:3, 4. Thank him for these appreciative hearts, for he it is that giveth to know and to learn. His love is drawing such. It is a manifestation of some of God's work and encourages us. The older are encouraged and comforted by the zeal and love of the younger.

THANKS FOR YOU — Paul glorified God by giving thanks for the character development he saw in the saints, because, as he points out, God did this work; and as he saw the love of the saints for one another he gave thanks for it, for a good work reflects good credit on the author. So let us thank our heavenly Father for what of his image we see in one another. This will cause us to pray for one another.

MAKING MENTION OF YOU IN MY PRAYERS — Paul prayed that we might have a three-fold development.

1:17 — SPIRIT OF WISDOM AND REVELATION — The mind of God who gave these prophecies and word. As our mind and disposition become more and more like his we can understand his plans better, our mental processes become more like his. He alone can give us this ability and we get it by living very close to him, learning at his feet. (1 Cor. 2:12) How give us this Spirit? By study of his word and through experience and trial. To the acknowledgement of Him—letting his spirit work in our minds and hearts and govern our lives. “In all thy ways acknowledge Him and He shall direct thy paths.” Remember at all times his presence and do nothing to hinder him or grieve his Spirit, put no hindrances in the way of its getting full control of us. Put our wills in harmony with his and see that at all times we recognize (and give heed to) righteousness. (Phil. 6)

1:18 — EYES . . . ENLIGHTENED — By his spirit begetting. The power given us to understand Spiritual things. (1 Cor. 2) Illustrated by the light of the golden candlestick as seen on rising on inside the first veil, as in Heb. 10:32.

KNOW — Not merely a head knowledge, but an experience of having this hope, a living force in our lives and thus realize its transforming power. (1 John 3:3) Thus we shall learn the real present riches of God’s favor and loving-kindness and find the promised riches becoming more clear and real to us. Our vision keener.

THE HOPE OF HIS CALLING — First, it is a great advantage to know what we are after, to know our hope and hence save much worry and useless labor, for we can work intelligently not as one beating the air; not many know the hope of the New Creation, the hope of the high calling. We are thus delivered from trying to convert the world now, and the disappointment. (Isa. 19)

HIS (GOD’S) INHERITANCE IN THE SAINTS — The possession of a collection of loving, devoted hearts, appreciative hearts. Glorious beauty beyond compare. How a Father delights to see a noble trait in his Son, when in the midst of temptation the Son has shown a noble spirit. The father clasps him in his arms and cries: “My Son, this day your father is proud of you.” This is not merely our inheritance, but His. Does God have any inheritance in the saints? What? The New Creation will be something he never had before. His children will show the results of his training, and as his work will bring Him glory. (Psa. 127:3-5) He will have new creatures after his own character, and of his own nature, showing to all the greatness of his wisdom, justice, love and power, and their wonderful extent and power. A rich inheritance that will bring him glory; notice how often in this chapter it uses “the praise of his glory.”

1:19 — EXCEEDING GREATNESS OF HIS POWER TO US-WARD —

There is a wonderful power at work in us. We are kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation. It is the power of the Holy Spirit, of the truth, of faith and obedience, of the influence of the truth in the lives of the obedient saints. This great power began to work in Christ at his baptism. It gave him insight into Satan’s motives, power to see the trial and to understand the Word and quote the right text to answer Satan, and so Satan had to leave. So likewise as we get this spirit, into our hearts, we become not ignorant of his devices, and can resist in God’s power, this resurrection power. It was this power that resurrected Jesus, that went down to the lowest depths (death) and raised that obedient servant to the highest honor and place. The Apostle prays that we may know, see, recognize this resurrection power working in us, now, raising us up. (Eph. 2:6) We must keep our minds raised up. This is our battle, to let this power in us win against the world, flesh, and devil, against their tendency to pull us down. Let us keep raised up, not murmur nor complain; for all of the powers of darkness will make us stop speaking for the truth. The class meetings are the power house for service before the world, for holding public meetings. Satan delights to have us hush. This resurrection power will quicken our mortal bodies. (Rom. 8:11)

1:20 — IN THE HEAVENLY PLACES — Divine power can reach no deeper than death. It can raise no higher than the divine nature; we will then experience the limits of divine power.

2:8 — IT IS THE GIFT OF GOD — See note on Gen. 22:16. Also see Z. ’10-318; R.4697.

2:9 — NOT OF WORKS — This does not contradict Phil. 2:12, 13. No scripture implies that we can be independent of our Lord in working out our own salvation. The perfect work of Christ is the basis of our own work; unless he had redeemed us we could have no hope of eternal life. Hence our attainment of the prize, based on certain conditions which we are striving to meet, is not dependent upon our own perfection or any thing that we could do. The basis of it is the knowledge of our own imperfection and of our acceptance by the Father through the merit of our Great Advocate imputed to us. (Z. ’11-108; R.4796) Our best efforts toward righteousness are acceptable to God only when presented through Christ. (Heb. 4:16; Eph. 2:8)

2:12 — COVENANTS OF PROMISE — Abrahamic and Law Covenants.

(Rom. 9:4) The Law Covenant gave the promise of life eternal for anyone who could and would keep it.

AND WITHOUT GOD IN THE WORLD — Why should the Lord favor one class more than another during this Gospel Age? The distinctions between the classes are the basis for the difference in divine dealings. The Church class are those hungering and thirsting after righteousness—desiring to know and to do the Lord's will, walking after the spirit of his Law to the best of their ability, not after the flesh. God is pleased to accept such and to make known to such the riches of his grace in Christ Jesus, and to adopt them into his family through Christ. As for the world they are aliens and foreigners, enemies through wicked works. They have not the spirit or the disposition to be sons. They have suffered so severely through the fall that they are quite alienated from God and considerably in sympathy with sin and injustice, so that they do not desire to walk after the spirit of God's law, but prefer to walk after the flesh. In spite of the sin, injustice, imperfection, hypocrisy and double dealings, etc., they love the world and the things of the world. They do not love righteousness and hate iniquity to such a degree as to realize that all unrighteousness is sin, and themselves full of blemishes.

2:21 — TEMPLE IN THE LORD — For this antitypical Temple see 1 Cor.

6:18, 17; 1 Pet. 2:15. In the literal temple, in the Most Holy was the mercy seat, upon which rested the shekinah glory (between the cherubim) representing the Divine Presence. The temple was the one place of all others in the world where the soul might feel it could draw specially near to God (So in the Temple condition the stones of the temple is the only condition on earth where we can draw nigh to God). This antitypical Temple may be viewed from four different standpoints. Here it is under construction. The living stones are being quarried out of the world, and being shaped and polished for places in the glorious temple of which Christ is the head. This temple will be spiritual, unseen of men, each member like to the glorified Jesus, far above angels.

In the Temple was the Most Holy in which was the Mercy Seat upon which rested the shekinah light. The nearer to that Most Holy, one was able to draw, the more he was understood to be in communion with God. Thus the Priests alone might enter the Holy and Most Holy. The others of the nation were not permitted to come nearer than the court. Of these courts there were three—first the one for the Jews, second the one for Jewish women; third an outer court where (Rev. 11:2) Gentiles might worship the true God, but separated by a “middle wall of partition.” (Eph. 2:14) These courts represented different degrees of approach to God's favor. In the antitype which is not yet complete, Christ and his church will be the Temple proper; and all mankind desiring to approach unto God will approach through the Christ, the temple of God. And the nearer they come the greater will be their blessing.

In that Temple God will dwell in fullest measure. Through it all mankind during the Millennium may draw near to God and to receive Divine favors and uplift out of sin and death up to the original image and likeness of God, lost in Eden. Then in the largest sense of the word it will be God's Holy Place. Nothing defiling shall be brought into it. All merchandising and money-sharking will be far from it. It will be the house of prayer, the channel of prayer, the way of approach of mankind to draw near to God for forgiveness of sins and for the receptions of all the blessings and mercies which God has provided in Christ for whosoever will.

It was because the Temple at Jerusalem was a type of that glorious temple that all business of every kind done in it was a profanation, was spoiling the beautiful perfections of the type, misrepresenting the future, the reality—God's intention in giving it. (Z. '14-220; R.5503)

3:10 — PRINCIPALITIES AND POWERS — These principalities and powers are the present heavens (Ecclesiastical), the ruling powers of the air, Satan and the fallen angels. The only means these have to learn the Lord's plan is through watching the Church, they learn from the church.

3:11 — WHICH HE PURPOSED IN — Diag.: "for." See Col. 1:12-18. God desired to confer upon his Son inherent life, the express image of his own person. The only way was to test his loyalty to the uttermost, unto death. So the Father made an arrangement to create the human race, permit them to disobey and evil to reign in them and they be in bondage to death; to make a plan for their redemption whereby his Son might die in their behalf. He could thus prove himself thoroughly loyal and worthy to receive immortality, and honor the Father; and too have a bride with him, at his side, from the same human race he died for.

3:15 — HEAVEN AND EARTH IS NAMED — Eventually all God's creatures on various planes of being shall be recognized as the one family of God. (Eph. 1:10; John 10:16) The two phases of the Kingdom are shown here—heaven and earth. (Z. '03-411; R.3268)

4:1 — PRISONER — Written from Rome where Paul was prisoner.

4:2 — FORBEARING — "Sustaining." (Diag.)

4:3 — IN THE BOND OF PEACE — Not by contention but by peaceful discussion, in love, speaking the truth in love. (vs. 15)

4:4 — HOPE OF YOUR CALLING — There is only one calling now. None are “called” to be of the Great Company class. They are those who fail to make their calling and election sure. (Z. '10-230; R.4647)

4:10 — FILL — Margin: fulfil.

4:11 — APOSTLES — Only twelve.

PROPHETS — A public speaker, orator. (Ex. 7:1) The Apostles were nearly all orators, but there were many others—Barnabas, Judas, Silas. (Acts 15:32)

EVANGELISTS — Whose qualifications and conditions permitted him to go about preaching the truth to beginners, finding those who have an ear to hear. (F245) It is through evangelistic efforts that the first contact is made with those who become consecrated members of the body of Christ, and for maintaining a healthy spiritual condition in the hearts of the consecrated. When we lose sight of evangelism we lose sight of the great unselfish purpose of God, and cease to grow into the image and likeness of love, and become self-centered.

PASTORS — Shepherd, because of special qualifications of a social kind, enabling him to look after the interests of the Lord's people personally, individually, visiting them at their houses, encouraging and strengthening them, holding together and defending them against “wolves in sheep's clothing.” (F246)

TEACHERS — All of these (except the last) words have the masculine article with them showing that all these were intended to be only males, and showing how particularly the Lord, through the Holy Spirit drew the line of sex. Teachers, being without the article, apparently stands for helpers as in 1 Cor. 12:28 where same Greek word is used and is translated helpers; or else a comprehensive term referring to them all as teachers. (F270)

4:12 — MINISTRY — Diag.: “for the complete qualification of the saints, for the work of service” (preparing them for the glorious ministry or service of the Millennial Age. (F239)

4:13 — UNITY — Unity is desirable, but not the kind of unity usually aimed at. Unity is to be along the lines of “the faith once delivered to the Saints,” in its purity and simplicity, and with full liberty to each member to take different views of minor points. Scriptural unity is on the foundation principles of the Gospel.

1) Our Redemption through the precious blood, and our justification by faith therein.

2) Our consecration, Sanctification, setting apart to the Lord, and the truth and their service, including the service of the brethren

3) Aside from these essentials, upon which unity must be demanded, upon every other point fullest liberty must be accorded, with however a desire to see and help others to see the divine plan in fullest detail, every feature.

Thus each member, maintaining his own personal liberty is so thoroughly devoted to the Lord (the head) and to all the members, that it will be his pleasure to lay down all, even life itself, on their behalf. The endeavor of each member at all times must be to do everything in his power for the upbuilding of the body, the strengthening of the members and for their perfection in the graces of the Spirit. (vs. 3) (F240)

OF THE FAITH — Diag.: “till we all attain to the unity of the faith.”

UNTO A PERFECT MAN — Not each one, but the whole New Creation, the Christ, is here represented as a man, Jesus the head and the Church his body. So—till the body is complete in the resurrection. This organization the Lord has maintained in the church down to the present, so the church has never lacked full organization. The Apostles are still with us by their writings. (F240, 216)

4:14 — WHEREBY THEY LIE IN WAIT TO DECEIVE — Of men who state their views very positively while generally they hold them very lightly, and very tentatively, and change them very frequently. (N-4-3-10)

4:16 — EVERY JOINT SUPPLIETH — The testimony meetings enable us to know each other. Peter, before his begetting of the Spirit did not have the power to put together Jesus’ character and to understand him, as when Peter rebuked our Lord for saying he (Jesus) was to be crucified. The testimony meetings are sources of this power; they help us to get an accurate knowledge of each other, and this will keep us from gossip and false reports and the lying impersonations of the fallen angels. Joints in natural body are the union of two or more members, hence in the Christ it refers to a meeting. In the joint the oil is abundantly provided by each member doing his part; so in the Church, in the meetings are the oil suppliers. Diag.: “fitly joined and united by means of every assisting joint, according to the proportionate energy of each single part, effects the growth of the body for the building up of itself in love.” (See F310)

EDIFYING OF ITSELF IN LOVE — A tree is thoroughly organized from tip to roots, yet the branches are not held on by patent fastenings or cords or screws or printed rules or laws. So with the body of Christ. If properly adjusted and harmonized and used on the lines which the Lord has laid down there will be no necessity for cords, splints or screws—no need for human creeds, laws, and spectacular means to hold them together, or bring them together. (F237) The one Spirit is the bond of union, and as long as the spirit of life remains, a unity, oneness of the body will remain also and it will be a strong or weak union according as the spirit of the Lord abounds. (F237)

4:32 — FORGIVING ONE ANOTHER — See notes on Luke 17:3, 4; Matt. 18:15-18, 35; Psa. 141. Our hearts should be so full of this disposition toward forgiveness that our faces would not have a hard look nor our words of reproof a bitter sting. Forgiveness in your hearts is the condition that should always obtain there. We should never harbor any other feelings than forgiveness and good will toward all, no matter how seriously they may have trespassed against us. If this be so with us we shall be longing and anxious to exercise the forgiveness outwardly and to express it toward the repentant ones. Hence we should not seek to compel the most elaborate statement from the repentant ones; but, like the Father of the Prodigal, to see the repentant one coming in an attitude of humility will touch our hearts and prompt us to go out part way to meet him, to forgive him, to greet him kindly and to put on him the robe of fullest fellowship and brotherhood. (Z.'12-67; R.4978)

5:14 — AWAKE — The Gospel message is specially to awaken to spiritual consciousness and activity and responsibility. Nevertheless only a few will now awaken. It is not for us to do evil that good may come, to awaken by false alarms (eternal torment theory, etc.) those who cannot be awakened by a truthful presentation of the divine character and plan and the duties and privileges of the Gospel.

It is for us to speak the message of God knowing that none will now receive it, but such as have the hearing ear of faith; that none will be able to see the beauties of the Gospel except those who have the eyes of faith.—Our awakening signifies our coming to a consciousness of the actualities of our condition as individuals and as a race.—We begin to look beyond the grave (the majority of those about us are practically unconscious as respects a future life) to realize that our creator has a great purpose in the creation of our race, and that the present life can be nothing more than a vestibule to the future possibility of life eternal. As our minds become awake to the realities of the situation from this standpoint we determine to follow the injunction of our text.

THAT SLEEPEST — See also 1 Thes. 5:7. The whole world, from God's standpoint is dead. (2 Cor. 5:14) And since death is a condition of unconsciousness, well illustrated by sleep, the Bible frequently refers to the world as being asleep. The world has awakened greatly in the last century, yet this awakening has affected chiefly what might be termed the middle brain. The lower organs of the mind have never been idle. The higher organs of the brain are still dormant with the majority. Indeed it would appear as though the activities of the middle brain and in the animal passions of the lower brain have rather detracted from the upper or higher qualities of mind. Hence to all appearances mankind are more stupidly asleep today in respect to spiritual things than ever in the past.

ARISE FROM THE DEAD — Those who are awakened should arise from the dead—separate themselves from the world, its aims, its objects, its methods, to follow no longer with those who live merely for the present life, and who ignore the future as not really believing in it. The awakened ones of the present time are expected to have new desires, distinctly separate and apart from those which control the world in general, and these must be so strong as to lead them to a changed course in life—to arise, to take a higher plane of thought and action than that of the world in general. Their desire to arise must be their own desire, prompted by the awakening which the Lord has granted them.

Whoever, being awakened, is content to abide in death, to have his fellowship with the dead world, to live on the plane of sin and death—such is not called of the Lord in the present time. Christ's call and his assisting grace are only for such as voluntarily seek to arise from the dead, to walk in the paths of righteousness.

This does not relate to an actual resurrection from the dead, from which we could have no power to raise ourselves (even Jesus could not raise himself). The power of that resurrection is in the hands of God and Christ; but rather used in a figurative sense of the phenomenal change which may come to those who now hear the Lord's voice and are awakened thereby. These may through the operation of their wills, undergo such a transformation as is well represented figuratively by "arise from the dead," "resurrection." (Col. 1:2; Rom. 8:11)

SHALL GIVE THEE LIGHT — To those awakened ones who seek to arise from the dead comes gradually the conviction that they have attempted the impossible. They find as the Apostle put it "To will is present with me, but how to perform that law of God perfectly I find not." They find they cannot do the things desired, because the reign of sin and death in their bodies, had perverted their powers and made it impossible for the higher organs of their nature to thoroughly dominate, subdue and control the lower organs.

St. Paul speaking of these representatively, cried out; "O wretched man that I am, who shall deliver me from this dead body." (Rom. 7:24) "I would like to arise from the dead," to live in newness of life, but I am bound down to the sinful condition by my physical frailties and there is no one can help me. Then he announces the message of the Gospel and points us to Christ as the one who gave him release and who is willing to give release to all of those who desire to come to the Father through him. (Matt. 11:28-30; and New Bible Helps)

“Christ shall be thy light.” But how shall we get this light? This assistance this deliverance from our old selves, from the reigning power of sin and death in our mortal bodies? There is but the one way. We are not only to believe that our Lord Jesus Christ is our Savior, our Redeemer, but that additionally we will need him as our guide and helper, we must enter his school and learn of him. This is entered only by the “strait and narrow gate.” “If any man will be my disciple (learn of me), let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me.” Any who decline these terms of full consecration unto Christ to do the Father’s will, are declining the only entrance conditions connected with the school of Christ. They decline to enter the list of those invited to be joint heirs with Christ in his kingdom—the very elect. (N-6-20-09)

5:19 — TO THE LORD — Selected and trained choirs can of course render better music than can the general average of Christians; the most that the majority of people can do is “make a joyful noise unto the Lord,” but two things should be remembered here:

(1) It is not the excellence of our music that will make it acceptable to the Lord, for we may well suppose that the harmonies of the Heavenly choirs quite outmeasure the best efforts of the earthly choirs, and hence we could not hope that the Lord will receive our songs of praise because of their intrinsic merit. Their acceptance at all will be because they are expressions of the heart sentiments of thankfulness and gratitude should be encouraged to “make a joyful noise to the Lord.

(2) Fleshly Israel was typical and their Priests and Levites typified the church; and their songs typified the songs and melodies of our hearts. So the singing of the Levites quite contradicted the common practice of hiring unbelievers to do Church singing. None can offer acceptable praise to God but those who are of the priestly tribe—the household of faith. (Psa. 50:23) (Z. '99-202; R.2511)

5:20 — IN THE NAME OF OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST — Thanksgiving tends to promote a sound mind, and a sound mind is necessarily a philosophical one. Murmurers and complainers are not philosophers, but the reverse. A sound mind tells us to take things as they are, and to make the best of them rather than to quarrel over them and find fault with divine providence, and make ourselves and everybody else miserable. Sound minds accept their portion of life’s joys and sorrows by faith, believing that their portion was measured to them by the Lord, and that full obedience with cheerfulness is their duty and privilege. (N-11-26-11)

5:23 — SAVIOUR — From a Greek word meaning preserver, as the husband for the wife.

5:29 — EVEN AS THE LORD THE CHURCH — See note on 1 Cor. 12:11.

6:6 — NOT WITH EYESERVICE — To be active only when the eyes of the foreman or master are upon you. To do things with the object of winning favor and not from delight in the work or in the principle that whatever is worth doing at all is worth doing well. Men pleasers for self advantage. Such are many foreman who crowd and oppress their men for the sake of a better showing before the superintendent.

THE WILL OF GOD — Reminding the Christian that he is not his own, that he exists for another, for his maker and redeemer, (2 Cor. 5:15); knowing that his own being will never work right, never fulfil its true Law, never rest, in any other condition than that of doing his perfect will. (Rom. 12:2) The will of God is the health key-note of the universe. (Matt. 11:28-30)

DOING — As against dreaming, a genuine obedience and not merely an approval, a recognition of what claims to be obeyed. Activity in service. (See vs. 7; Jas. 1:25)

FROM THE HEART — Such a doing as shall not be friction and fatigue but a matter of strong, warm interest and willingness, “not a sigh but a song.”

6:7 — GOOD WILL — There are many unpleasant things to do, yet if we see them to be God’s will for us, let us do them heartily. The slave often had to serve unreasonable masters and to do many menial things and sometimes unnecessary things. However as long as these do not conflict with God’s will, do them patiently with good grace. Hard? Yes, but it teaches us self-control and patience. God will not always keep us there, only for a time until we learn our lesson he puts us there because he loves us. What tenderness!

PHILIPPIANS

1:10 — TILL THE DAY OF CHRIST — Weymouth: “And it is my prayer that your love may be accompanied by clear knowledge and keen perception for testing things which differ so that you may be men of transparent character and may be blameless in preparation for the day of Christ, being filled with these fruits of righteousness which come through Jesus Christ, to the glory and praise of God.”

1:23 — DEPART — (To “analousai”), the loosing again, or the returning, being what Paul earnestly desired, could not be death as implied by the word “depart” used here, because it seemed a matter of indifference to him, which of the two, life or death, he should choose; but he longed for the returning (the analousai) which was a third thing, and very much to be preferred to either of the other two things alluded to. The word analousai occurs in Luke 12:36 and is there rendered return: “Be you like men waiting for their Master when he shall return.” Jesus taught his disciples that he would return, come again. (John 14:3, 18) Thus also the angels said to them at his ascension. (Acts 1:11) Paul believed this doctrine and taught it to others, and was looking for and waiting for the Saviour from Heaven (Phil. 3:20; 1 Thes. 1:10; 4:16, 17) when this mortal would put on immortality, and so he would ever be with the Lord. (Note, Diag.)

2:1 — IF — As if Paul would put them to the test as to whether any would deny that these graces appertain to all who have come into Christ, as new creatures.

IF ANY BOWELS AND MERCIES — Tender heartedness and compassion. (Weymouth)

2:2 — FULFIL YE MY JOY — As though they had assented to his proposition, conceding that there is comfort, etc. in Christ for one another. How grand an expression is this that his joy would be full in the knowledge not only of their professions of love for the Lord, but the knowledge that they loved, sympathized with and consoled one another in the proper fellowship of the body of Christ. This would fill up his cup of joy. So the same conditions today will be the most acceptable and pleasing to the Lord.

2:3 — LET EACH ESTEEM OTHER BETTER THAN THEMSELVES — To the end that such a spirit of perfect unity and fellowship might obtain among the believers at Philippi, St. Paul exhorts all to cultivate the grace of humility. That self-laudations and strivings for preeminence be thoroughly put away as the greatest enemies to the Spirit of the Lord and to the blessing of the Church. Rather, each should have that lowliness of mind which can see the good qualities of fellow members, and appreciate some of these qualities as at least superior to his own. Lowliness of mind doesn't signify ignorance of any talents or graces which we may possess, but as long as the church is in her present imperfect tabernacle condition, the perfection of all graces, talents or abilities need never be expected in any one person or in any one congregation. Hence each may, if lowly in mind, see in others certain good qualities or graces superior to his own, and each should delight to recognize these and esteem the possessor accordingly.

2:4 — BUT EVERY MAN ALSO ON THE THINGS OF OTHERS — For each one to look merely on his own things, interests, welfare or talents and to ignore these in others would be to manifest a spirit of selfishness and hence a dearth of the Spirit of Christ, which is the Spirit of Love and generosity. In proportion as we are more and more filled with the Spirit of Love we find ourselves interested in the welfare of others. This is the mind of Christ.

2:5 — LET THIS MIND BE IN YOU — True humility is that condition of mind or heart which causes one to have a proper appreciation of his own worth and that of others, and realize the value to himself of the robe of Christ's righteousness—that condition of mind which enables one always to keep the Lord in view and himself out of sight.

WHICH WAS ALSO IN CHRIST JESUS — This was the mind or disposition that was in Jesus.

2:6 — THE — Should be "a" form.

IT NOT ROBBERY TO BE EQUAL WITH GOD — When our Lord Jesus was a spirit being, before he stooped to take the human nature and bear the penalty for human sin, he was in a form of God, a high and glorious condition, but instead of being moved selfishly to grasp ambitiously for things higher than those which God had conferred upon him; instead of seeking to set up a rival empire, as did Satan (Isa. 14), our Lord "did not meditate a robbery of God to make himself God's equal" (thought not by robbery to be equal with God), as did Satan, but our Lord Jesus, "the beginning of the creation of God" (and hence higher than Satan) was willing to humble himself in harmony with God's plan, willing to take a lower nature, and do a work which would imply not only a great deal of humiliation, but also a great deal of pain and suffering.

2:7 — WAS MADE IN THE LIKENESS OF MEN — "Stripped himself of his glory." (Weymouth) "The Lord of all things made himself naked of glory, for his mortal change." (Tennyson, Holy Grail, p. 448)

2:8 — EVEN THE DEATH OF THE CROSS — After Jesus became a man he continued to be of the same humble spirit, willing to carry out the divine plan to the very letter, by dying as man's ransom price. And when it pleased the Father to require that the death should be a most humiliating one, beyond the requirements of the ransom merely, Jesus did not draw back but stooped even to the ignominious death of the cross. Here we have the most wonderful demonstration of humility, meekness and obedience ever manifested or that could be conceived. See notes on Jesus' character in the Appendix.

2:9 — WHEREFORE GOD ALSO HATH HIGHLY EXALTED HIM —

Our Lord's beautiful and perfect humility and obedience, not only demonstrated that he was absolutely loyal to the Heavenly Father, but it proved that the Father's spirit of Love dwelt richly in him for he shared the Father's love for the race he redeemed. For this he is found worthy to be the divine agent for blessing all the families of the earth, as promised in the Abrahamic Covenant. (Z. '97-295; R.2227)

2:12 — PRESENCE — Gr. parousia, presence.

WORK OUT — God does not purpose to take us to glory regardless. True these endeavours will not take us there, but we shall not get the glorious things unless we strive for them. "Work," "Labor," "Strive," for the prize. (Heb. 4:11; Luke 13:24) But whatever may be our endeavours to keep the divine Law, success is not brought about merely by our own aspirations and best endeavours, but that he who has called us has himself begun a good work in us which he is both able and willing to accomplish. We are not alone therefore in working out our salvation. (Z. '11-107; R.4796)

WITH FEAR — Our first thought of God is properly an apprehension of his greatness and our own insignificance, but as we come to know God's purposes and plan, this fear gives place to respect and love, because of his lovingkindness. This kind of fear (reverence, love) casts out dread. The fear of our texts seems to be a fear of not attaining the glorious promises, failing to become partakers of the divine nature. (Heb. 4:1)

AND TREMBLING — Whatever is of sufficient value for us to greatly desire is worthy of great care in respect to our attitude toward it. While the fear here may not indicate a literal trembling, yet it implies alarm lest we, having had the courage to start the race for the prize, should allow anything to impede our progress or possibly lead us to abandon the race. This course would effect our ruin. Recognizing the great prize, we should fear and tremble lest we let it slip from us and so lose it. With great carefulness. (Z. '11-108; R.4797) This like Jesus' fear. (Heb. 5:7) As he never feared the Father in the sense of dread or terror, so it should be with all those who love him.

2:13 — WORKETH — (Eph. 2:1) We cannot work out our own justification, but justified by his blood and called with the heavenly calling, we can make our calling and election sure. In so doing we shall not attain perfection of flesh, but merely perfection of will, intention, mind. Then if we keep the body under to the best of our ability, its weakness and imperfections will be reckoned as covered by the merit of our Holy One.

IN YOU — How? He strengthens our new minds, our consecrated wills, that the new will may hold its dominating influence over the fleshly mind and body (reckoned dead) in order to gain our ultimate victory, by revealing to us more and more clearly the significance of the exceeding great and precious promises of his word. (Z. '07-136, 137; R.3986) He works by means of the promises in his Word; by means of the varying experiences of life, its disciplines and humbling processes; and it is well that we take to each lesson as it comes to us, if we desire to have a character developed in the likeness of our Lord. (Z. '11-94; R.4790)

TO WILL — As when we made our consecration and our good intentions since.

AND TO DO OF HIS GOOD PLEASURE — It is not sufficient to have good intentions, but these must be practically put into our lives and must serve for development of character. Thus God works in us and we work out (into action, results) our Salvation, and we are colaborers with him. (Z. '11-107; R.4796)

2:14 — DO ALL THINGS WITHOUT MURMURINGS AND DISPUTINGS

— In following Jesus we are not to murmur by the way, finding fault with its difficulties and narrowness. Nor are we to dispute respecting it, nor to seek to have any other way than that which divine providence marks out for us, realizing that the Lord knows exactly what experiences are necessary to our development in the school of Christ. If obedience were possible while our mouths are filled with complaints and dissatisfaction with the Lord and the lot he had permitted, it would indicate that at least we are out of sympathy with the spirit of his arrangement. Surely such obedience, if it were possible, would not meet with divine approval nor gain us the prize.

2:15 — THAT YE MAY BE BLAMELESS — To be blameless is to be devoid of any dispositions to do evil, to be disposed to do all the good possible, not controlled by anger, malice, hatred, strife. This does not necessarily mean perfection. One might be blameless and yet imperfect on account of natural weakness. To be blameless in the sight of God is to so live that he may see our intentions always to be just, loving, kind. The World will speak evil of us, as of the Lord, and will hate us, as the darkness hateth the light. (Jas. 4:4) We cannot expect to please everybody. We are to be blameless in the sight of those of mankind who are recognized as having the best judgment among the people. Thus with Jesus. While the world blamed him, yet in their private councils they recognized that he was harmless. So said Pilate. (Matt. 27:24; Luke 23:32)

IN THE MIDST OF A CROOKED AND PERVERSE NATION — The Jewish nation at that time. The disciples were so to conduct themselves as to be a light to their fellowmen. Perverseness—unwillingness to be guided by the Lord (in the will); Crookedness—seems to apply to their actions, not always evil but doing both right and wrong. On the one hand an evil heart of unbelief and on the other, forms and ceremonies. Whatever charges are made against us, our conduct before the world must be such that only the perverse of mind will think wrong of us; that the better minds would think justly and note that the lives of the Lord's people are blameless and not blameworthy. (Z. '11-108; R.4796)

2:16 — WORD OF LIFE — Referring to the Table of Shewbread.

2:17 — AND SERVICE OF YOUR FAITH — Diag.—“If I be poured a libation on the sacrifice and public service of your faith.” Syr.: “If I should be made a libation upon the sacrifice and service of your faith?” See Rom. 15:16. Note in Diag.: “An allusion to the wine and oil poured on the meat-offerings. (Ex. 29:40, 41) to render them acceptable to God. Paul was most willing to pour out the costly libation of his own blood, on the offering of the faith of the Gentiles (Rom. 15:16) to render it more firm and hence more pleasing to the Deity.

3:7 — BUT WHAT THINGS WERE GAIN TO ME — By justification in the court.

3:8 — KNOWLEDGE OF CHRIST JESUS MY LORD — Those things which before he had counted as gain, as something to boast of, to glory in, he now counted, that the time and energy and attention put into these now would be really a loss, so much time and energy and attention lost which might have been and should be given to the Lord Jesus' service, and also he would need all this time, energy, and attention to develop himself for the prize, and if he used it on earthly things he would be throwing it away, losing it.

FOR WHOM I HAVE SUFFERED THE LOSS OF ALL THINGS — Probably means that he was disinherited by his Father because of his acceptance of Jesus as the Messiah. (Z. '02-76; R.2969)

AND DO COUNT THEM BUT DUNG — Those things which were once helpful to us, but now have served their purpose, and should be abandoned, as their retention would be retarding to our present state. Unworthy of notice when compared to what he now knew, the High Calling.

THAT I MAY WIN CHRIST — Win his approval, membership in the Body of Christ, as in the next verse.

3:9 — AND BE FOUND IN HIM — His Body member.

3:10 — AND THE POWER OF HIS RESURRECTION — In the Holy, our resurrection begins with our begetting, the “power of His Resurrection” is God's power working in us to regenerate us and perfect us spiritually in character. Sanctification, becoming acquainted in the largest possible degree in the flesh with the Love of God, experiencing its depths.

AND THE FELLOWSHIP OF HIS SUFFERINGS — Bearing his reproach, in the Holy.

BEING MADE CONFORMABLE UNTO HIS DEATH — The Altar and the second vail.

3:11 — UNTO THE RESURRECTION OF THE DEAD — Redemption, the Holy of Holies, the Power of God.

3:12 — NOT AS THOUGH I HAD ALREADY ATTAINED — Made my calling and election sure.

EITHER WERE ALREADY PERFECT — As a New Creature. (Heb. 2:10)

3:13 — HAVE APPREHENDED — Lay hold on, secure, grasp, tightly, firmly. Made my calling and election sure in toto.

FORGETTING THOSE THINGS WHICH ARE BEHIND — In the camp and court.

REACHING FORTH UNTO THOSE THINGS WHICH ARE BEFORE — In heart aspirations after the things in the Holy of Holies.

3:14 — I PRESS TOWARD THE MARK — “According to a mark”—the Golden Altar.

THE HIGH CALLING OF GOD IN CHRIST JESUS — See “Things Worth Striving For” in Appendix.

3:15 — AS MANY AS BE PERFECT — (In will, heart desires.) It is perfection this side the vail, though not perfection as a New Creature. It is the place where “having done all (we can do in our imperfect and unsuited bodies) we stand.” (Eph. 6:13) It is the place where we are sealed with the Spirit (see Eph. 1:13), the spirit or mind or disposition of God. Here we have the same heart tendency as God, we know and understand him. “It is the very cream of Christian experience.”

3:21 — WHO SHALL CHANGE OUR VILE BODY — “The body of our humiliation.” (Diag.) These fleshly, leaky vessels.

GLORIOUS BODY — The transformation of mind which we now experience through the begetting of the Spirit will in our resurrection result in a complete transformation, providing them with Spirit bodies.

(N-2-20-10)—Thus we shall be his glorious body or body of glory.
(Z. '10-136; R.4601)

4:5 — MODERATION — “Epieikes” = (from epi = upon + eiko = to be like, or eiko = to yield.) = your yieldingness or gentleness. In Luther’s German Bible it is rendered Lindigkeit—“giving way.” A.R.V.—“forbearance.” This does not mean a refusal of all extremes in opinion or practice, which is scarcely a virtue. But generous and liberal in our sentiments towards others. Not insisting on our rights or fancies or preferences, but on unimportant points letting others have their preferences, esteeming their happiness as valuable as our own.

THE LORD IS AT HAND — “The Lord is near.” Remember you are living as in the day, as in the presence of the Lord Jesus. A realization of the calm and presence and omniscience of God. The present order will live but a short time, we can be very willing to give way on unimportant matters, and not exact our rights.

4:6 — BE CAREFUL — Worried, anxious. We should realize that God is working all things together for our good and will overrule in all things, so after we have done all we can let us leave the rest to him in full confidence and peace and faith. Be not overcharged with the affairs of this life. It is right to be charged with them to the extent of diligence and the utilization of such diligence in the Lord’s service; but it is the overplus, the corroding care that interferes with our peace of mind and communion with God, that is to be avoided.

BUT IN EVERYTHING — This means that our Heavenly Father is deeply interested in everything that relates to us and ours. What thing is too small for his notice, who numbers the very hairs of our head.

BY PRAYER AND SUPPLICATION — Earnest pleading.

WITH THANKSGIVING — For blessings already received, for the privilege of communion with Him, for his interest in all our affairs, for all his endless goodness and patience and love.

4:7 — PEACE OF GOD — We are to fight a good (a conquering) fight with our own flesh. We are to put forth our best efforts against all the things that Satan would put into our minds and hearts and we are to get the better of these things. The Lord blesses his people with strength to surmount these difficulties. We are not to be at peace with the flesh but at war with it. We are resting in the Lord’s promises, in His strength and ability to make good his promises, for we know that he who has called us is able to fulfill all his good Word. This peace or rest is the special blessing of the Holy Spirit.

Only as we receive the Holy Spirit, the holy mind of God, the holy disposition, can we have this peace fulfilled in us. It is a matter of simple ratio. As we grow in grace, in the knowledge of the Lord, in the knowledge of the Truth, we shall have this to comfort and strengthen us and we thus shall have more of the peace of God every day and be able to abide in his Love. "This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith." This faith is built upon the testimony of God's Word—a sure foundation. It is only through strong and unwavering faith that the peace of God will abide with his children.

This peace of God is not dependent on the smile of fortune, nor upon physical health, nor a host of friends. But it is a peace which abides even when health fails, or poverty comes in or death steals from us the treasures of our hearts. It is a peace which none of the changes and vicissitudes of this life can take from us, and which enemies are powerless to touch. What gift so rich could our Father give to His children. How poor would be our inheritance today if we were without our anchorage in Christ! But with it we can endure all things which the Father's loving providence will permit. Then let us face the coming days with calmness and courage. He who was with His disciples on the stormy Sea of Galilee and whose words of power quelled the mighty storm and stilled the raging of the Sea has the same care over his disciples today. In order to enjoy this peace (perfect) we must have unswerving trust in our Father's love and abiding faithfulness.

As we look into the heavens we see a manifestation of God's mighty power and majesty but our hearts and minds would not be stayed and sustained by this, we might receive gifts from him but without knowledge of His abiding faithfulness we would not know whether these might be only traps for our injury from the Adversary. But if we have this proper foundation for faith, if we learn to know our Father through his word (the only way we can know Him), we come to have confidence in Him. If we trusted to our own reasoning we would be in a very unsatisfactory condition. All would be uncertain; we would have no sure basis for faith or assurance. But when we see the testimony of the Bible from Genesis to Revelation, reveals to us a God of Justice, Wisdom, Love and Power. Our minds and hearts have something reasonable and convincing to lay hold upon and we say—We can trust such a God, because he is trustworthy.

This conviction deepens in to joy as we step out upon His promises and prove them for ourselves, thus learning their reality and realizing their fulfilment. We rejoice that this loving God has called us to redemption through His Son, that he has offered us eternal life, and has called us even to a glorious joint-heirship with His Son. We rejoice to know of His wondrous provision for the world in the future. All these things form a basis firm for peace and joy and confidence in the Lord. But our peace is proportionate to our constancy, our staying powers, qualities. No one can retain this peace of God whose mind is not fixed “stayed” on God.

It is not a peace of recklessness or sloth, but a peace begotten of God Himself, through His promises which we have made our own. It is dependent also on full obedience to the Lord. It is the peace of Christ—“My Peace.” This peace and the faith which inspires it can look up through its tears with joyful expectancy for the glorious fruition of our hopes, which God has promised—of which our present peace and joy are but the foretaste. (Z.’14-103, 104; R.5432)

4:8 — WHATSOEVER THINGS ARE TRUE — See Prov. 4:23. Though the will is the controlling power of man, yet it is subject to be influenced. If the thoughts be impure, unjust, unholy, the power of the will becomes more and more impaired. Hence the wisdom of Paul’s advice as to what should be the character of our thoughts. In those striving to adorn themselves with the beauty of holiness, perfecting holiness in the reverence of God the thoughts must not be neglected and permitted to browse in every pasture, but must be disciplined to feed on pure and healthy food—Is this true? is the question to be asked. Love for the truth lies at the very foundation of a righteous life.

Whoever sympathizes with falsehood or exaggeration is more or less defiling himself. But who cleanses his thoughts is purifying his entire character. With our poor and imperfect brains there is great danger of being misled, and hence the Word of God exhorts us earnestly not to touch what we realize is untrue.

HONEST — But the truth of a thing is but one of the tests. Many things are true yet dishonorable, not worthy of our thoughts; those things about the weaknesses, follies of others. The dismissal of these thoughts as unworthy will leave us the opportunity and energy, if we will, to spend upon things that are honorable, as well as true, worthy of our attention as New Creatures.

JUST — Honorable. i.e. right. Justice and righteousness are synonymous. Very often that which is just is supposed to be the same as what is lovely, as the Golden Rule. But this is not the rule for love, but of simple justice. We have no right to do to others anything we would not have them do to us. The Golden Rule therefore is not the Law of love, but is a step in the right direction. No one should begin to think about love until he is just. Love would be something more than that which is right. Love is more than justice. We have no right to expect more than justice. What is more than justice is love, favor. Justice should be the rule of our lives. We should think first of all on our own course, critically consider whether we are always thinking on the just and right things. We should never be prejudiced in the matter. Not think on the injustices about us, muckraking; but the good things new and to come.

No one can cultivate justice until he knows what it is. This necessary knowledge may be obtained through the Scriptures. Some are born with a larger sense of justice than others, and some have almost no appreciation of right and wrong, but in either case the Bible is the standard. We are told we should do to others as we would they to us, forgive as we like to be forgiven. When we have considered well these first lessons, then we are ready to cultivate justice and put it in practice. This we do by asking of our words and acts—Did I tell the truth? Was it just to tell it? Was it in harmony with what I would wish others to tell about my affairs?

Who is in the school of Christ, is there to study and practice along the lines of justice and love. It is the work of a life time, improving from day to day. We should not wait for the Lord to chasten us, but should be so desirous of having the Lord's will done in us that we would scrutinize our thoughts. Walk circumspectly, think about what we are doing, about what we are thinking; not allow our thoughts to ramble; people who do so do not keep themselves under proper grip. The will dominates the life. First we should make a full surrender to the Lord by giving him the full control of our will, thoughts, words, actions. Those accepting the control of Christ are not at liberty to act as they will, but are to be controlled by his Word. We must not allow our minds to run along unjust lines. Apply this test of justice to every thought, word, deed, while viewing the conduct of others, so far as reason will permit, from the standpoint of mercy, pity, forgiveness, helpfulness. We cannot be too careful how we criticize every thought we entertain, every plan we mature, that the lines of justice shall in no way be infringed by us with our heart's approval.

PURE — We should first consider here the nature of our thoughts, in examining them from the viewpoint of purity; and second their influence upon others. Our thoughts should not only be true, honorable, just, right, but pure, and such as would not excite impurity in others. Remember that God knows our thoughts.

LOVELY — We should not allow our minds to dwell on things unlovely. When we are in employment we should give our attention to it. But when we are in the thinking business, we should not allow our minds to dwell on things injurious to the New Creature. Constant thought on businesses is not profitable to the New Creature. We must bring our thoughts into subjection and train them along lines that will transform us more and more into our Lord's glorious character likeness. Our thoughts must be beautiful, not merely on the beauties of nature, but chiefly on beauties of character—the fruits and graces of the Holy Spirit; with these things our minds can become filled and enamored.

If we neglect these things that are pure, good, lovely and true, we shall not grow in the fruits of the Spirit; but by thinking on these things and cultivating them in our hearts we shall become more and more Godlike. If we do not cultivate these good qualities, then envy, malice, strife, works of flesh and devil will develop. We can scarcely overestimate the power of the mind over the body. We are to love and cultivate that which is pure to such an extent that what is impure will be painful to us, distressing to us, and we desire to drop it from memory. This will be accomplished only by continually thinking upon the pure things and avoiding the giving thought to things impure. We are to recognize true loveliness and esteem it. When we would think on the purity of things we should lift our mental vision to discern the perfect loveliness of the character of our God and of our Lord Jesus and also the loveliness manifested in his people.

THINK ON THESE THINGS — Not think to praise ourselves, nor to strive to obtain praise, yet strive to be praiseworthy; but think about the things that would be to God's praise and glory, and to praise him. Things of any value, or virtue, things praiseworthy in any degree, the noble thoughts, deeds, sentiments of any one, especially of the brethren and sisters in Christ, we may safely meditate upon and as a consequence find ourselves growing towards those ideals which we as New Creatures feed upon. Thus we shall become more and more transformed by the renewing of our minds, and approach nearer to the glorious likeness of our Master. (Z. '11-165-167; R.4826-4828)

COLOSSIANS

- 1:24 — FILL UP THAT WHICH IS BEHIND OF THE AFFLICTIONS — Not afflictions left behind in the sense of the Redeemer's incompetency to make the full atonement for the sins of the whole world, but sins left behind in the sense that our Lord did not apply his own merit directly to the world of unbelievers. Their sins are left behind that the merit of Christ passing through the elect Church might benefit them just as much in the end, and additionally give the elect of this age the opportunity of suffering with their Lord and Head in order that in due time they might be glorified with him. (Z. '09-88; R.4352)
- 2:4 — BEGUILED YOU WITH ENTICING WORDS — This context seems to show that the apostle is contrasting with the Gospel hope the various hopes which might go to establish one some kind of faith, belief, course in life. (Z. '14-311; R.5557)
- 2:6 — YE HAVE RECEIVED CHRIST JESUS — He addresses those who have already accepted Jesus Christ as God's representative, believing that God sent his Son to be the Redeemer of Adam's race, and by and by to be the deliverer of mankind from the power of sin and death. All those who are in Christ Jesus have received him with this understanding. (Z.'14-311; R.5557)

SO WALK YE IN HIM — Paul urges these to continue in this faith and not try to combine earthly philosophy with this heavenly message. (vs. 8) They had received Christ as God's anointed and their sufficiency in all things (vss. 3, 9), as they recognized Jesus as the Heavenly Teacher they were to continue to make progress in the same direction—the path that leads to glory, honor and immortality. They were not to think for one moment that any human teaching could be mixed with the divine message; for any other doctrine would only serve to confuse the Heavenly message in the minds of the hearers.

2:7 — ROOTED AND BUILT UP IN HIM — As the roots of a tree push downward and imbibe the nutriment of the soil while at the same time the trunk and branches reach up into the atmosphere to obtain through the leaves the necessary elements of growth so the mentality of the Christian takes hold of the great and precious promises of God in the word, while he is at the same time building character through his heart appreciation of these promises in connection with the experiences of life. The roots of faith push down deep into the knowledge of the divine plan, while the tree of character grows higher and higher, developing and maturing the rich fruits of the Holy Spirit; for instruction is a form of construction.

As a tree does not breathe the same element at all times, and as it is not always flooded with sunshine but needs the rains and storms for its development—so the child of God needs various experiences and sometimes change of environment to best develop all the fruits of the Holy Spirit. The great husbandman knows just what experiences and surroundings each one of his "trees" (Isa. 61:3) needs—how much sunshine, or rain, cold or heat, and pruning. And he will supply just what is best adapted to each case. He knows just how to vary these environments, conditions, etc., without disturbing the process of rooting and upbuilding, but developing it. This we do not know how to accomplish but would bring on ourselves spiritual disaster. So we need to keep ourselves continually under the care of the spiritual husbandman, skillful, and earnestly cooperate with him that we may grow and become strong and immovable—firmly established.

The depth and spread of the roots of a tree, are shown by the vigor and fruitage of the tree. A tree that is not deeply and firmly grounded can neither bring forth rich fruit, luscious, nor furnish cool refreshing shade to man. Depth of root is absolutely essential. So the Christian's faith must be deeply grounded in Christ; and thus shall we also grow up into Him, learning more and more what is the divine will expressed in Him. The rooting process is unseen and can be judged only by the outward manifestations. When there is luxuriant foliage there is good rooting. But the growth must not stop there—fruit must be born. So the spiritual life of the child of God will manifest itself more and more in its likeness to Christ. To vary the figure the Christian will not only be a branch in the vine, but will bear rich clusters of fruit which should become more choice in quality and size year by year. (Z. '14-312; R.5558)

AND STABLISHED IN THE FAITH — While the Christian is thus growing up in Character likeness to our Redeemer and his roots of faith are reaching down into the deep things of God's word, he is becoming established, settled. A tree well rooted in the earth is hard to uproot, it had a wonderful strength, a wonderful hold upon the earth and requires years to die out. So with the Christian whose faith has been properly established in the promises of God's word, that no wind of doctrine could overturn the faith. Whoever is continually looking around for something now is thus proving the fact that he is not established in the Faith. Having once proved that the divine plan is the plan of God, we should not permit ourselves to be moved away from that position. (Gal. 5:6-9) On all Christians who are thus rooted and grounded in the Scriptures, the theories of our day—Evolution, Christian Science, New Thought, etc.—have no effect whatever. No Christian growth will be developed nor spiritual life retained unless the soul becomes fixed and settled in the Truth as it is in Christ Jesus. The general sentiment among the teachers of false doctrine and even among the world in general, who do not believe in the necessity or advisability of being established in faith, is that to be established is to be a bigot. Those who are so unfair in mind as to receive and tenaciously hold what they have never proven either by sound logic, or by the authority of the word of God, are rightly called bigots. But one who is simple, childlike in faith, accepts and firmly holds to what God has inspired, what he has caused to be written in his Word for our instruction is not a bigot, but a strong, established character, and will stand when all the structures built upon the numerous theories and imaginations of men shall have fallen. The great day is now upon us and is trying every man's character, of what sort it is, and but very few, even among professed Christians, will stand the test. The difference between a steadfast and strong Christian and a bigot is that one is established in truth and the other in error. (Z. '14-313; R.5558)

THE FAITH — This is the one faith once delivered to the saints—to be held at all costs. Satan will attempt to divert our minds into other channels, to draw our attention to some new thing. But the plan of God, the Truth of God as revealed in Jesus is but one. It is given us for our instruction in righteousness. (2 Tim. 3:16, 17) It is not the truth of Geometry or Geology or Astronomy that we are to be diligent to study and be grounded and built up in, but God's word. These other truths are all very well in their way. We shall have all eternity in which to learn all the wonders of Creation, but now we are to apply ourselves specially to the mastery of spiritual truths, the deep things of the mystery of God, revealed to his saints for specific purpose. (Z. '14-313; R.5558)

ABOUNDING THEREIN WITH THANKSGIVING — The truth embraces all the scriptural teachings relative to Christ and his work, to our relationship to him as members of his body and to the brethren as fellow members. We are to abide therein with thanksgiving. We should familiarize ourselves with the different features of this truth more and more. We should be clear in regard to what our Lord taught and why he taught it and should know how to connect the different parts of the truth into a harmonious whole. We are to be thoroughly furnished. We are heartily to appreciate the loving kindness of our God in revealing to us these glorious things, and to realize that we did not originate them ourselves nor was any man the originator of them, but the Lord himself. They are the gift of God to us, we are to be most thankful for this precious gift, and guard it jealously as a special priceless treasure, and to let our light shine to the glory of God's name. Delve into the promises more and more. As you do this the roots of faith will draw up nutriment and send it out into your life and you will grow just as a tree grows, because nourished, fed. Thus alone will you become established in the faith and not in your own imaginings or somebody else's. Our faith is to grow stronger day by day and more vigorous. It is not to be a faith in ourselves, or in anything apart from the Lord. Faith is what we started with in the beginning and we shall need it in every increasing measure as we go on in the upward way—faith in God and in His sure word. All that we know as children of the Lord has come to us through Jesus and the Apostles and Prophets, and we are to continue feeding at this same table with thanksgiving. We are not to feel a spirit of bondage and say to ourselves "I would like to ramble outside. I do not like to confine myself to what the Bible teaches, I would like more liberty." This disposition of a true son of God, such sentiments encouraged would lead to utter spiritual disaster. (Z. '14-313; R.5558) Such are not eating properly nor thinking, liberty is in the truth, all else brings bondage.

2:8 — BEWARE LEST ANY MAN SPOIL — When once we have seen the plan of God as revealed in Jesus and have given ourselves to God and the study of his word, the only way to retain our spiritual life is to continue in this doctrine, to root ourselves in this soil and remain there. We are not to seek other fields with the thought that we can find additional nourishment there and that an admixture of other elements with what we have would be advantageous. No theories will mix with the Lord's plan. It is complete, it needs no assistance from other systems of belief. Any attempt to incorporate with it theories and ideas of men will only destroy its value. We can never become rooted and built up in Christ by such a course; our spiritual decay and finally our spiritual death will be the result. No child of God can be carried about by every wind of doctrine, nor can he indulge in a morbid curiosity as to what this or that new theory may teach. To do so is very dangerous to the spirituality of a Christian. For one who has never known the truth there might be some reason for such a course, but for one who has proven what is the truth in Christ to go hunting around for new pastures in which to feed there is no excuse. Either he has never been established in Christ or else he has fallen into a spiritual decline. There is an exhaustless field for thought and mental and spiritual activity in the plan of God in all its varied features.

2:15 — TRIUMPHING OVER THEM IN IT — “And the hostile princes and rulers he shook off from himself, and boldly displayed them as his conquests, when by the cross he triumphed over them”—Weymouth. (Note) The paradox of the crucifixion is thus placed in the strongest light—triumph in helplessness and glory in shame.

2:16 — OF AN HOLYDAY — In harmony with his usual systematic forms of expression Paul first speaks of the yearly holy days, then the rest of the verse.

OF THE NEW MOON — The monthly festivals Paul mentions next.

OR OF THE SABBATH DAYS — Next Paul mentions the weekly rest days. The marvellous simplicity of the arrangement of the Lord for the Church, its organization, and the liberty accorded to each member of the body, has surprised many. Thinking (erroneously) that the church in the present time was called to convert the world, they saw how inadequate such an arrangement was for that work, so men have undertaken to elaborate the organization. So we see such powerful organizations as Papacy, Methodist-Episcopal. It is the thoroughness of the organization of these systems that has given them their great success. But they have not been able to convert the world, the inhabitants of the world have not fallen. (Isa. 26:18) Because, the work will be done not by might nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord. (Zech. 4:6) The Lord has permitted these trials to teach a needed lesson, about his ways. (F197)

Our Advent friends argue that the Sabbath here is not the weekly Sabbath, is some other holy day, that we are not to keep the atonement day, feast of unleavened bread, etc.; but that this Sabbath is the moral law of the whole decalogue. There are four proofs that Paul does mean the weekly Sabbath. 1) The Greek word (sabbatos) translated Sabbath is never used of any other day of week or of the year, in the New Testament. 2) When the day so referred to was also a yearly feast day, the fact is noted, as in John 19:31. When something more than a weekly Sabbath is meant it is stated that that Sabbath was a high day. See Diag. for John 19:31. 3) The distinction Paul makes here, between feast day (yearly) and new moon (monthly), and Sabbath (weekly). 4) For similar language see 2 Ch. 8:13. The Sabbath for us is that in Heb. 4:9—q.v. (Bro. Hollister), Similar language is also used in Neh. 10:33.

2:17 — THE BODY — Or substance, which cast the shadow. This substance was in God's mind way back in the beginning, and at the time of the making of the law of the Tabernacle, God caused it to cast the shadow.

2:18 — VAINLY PUFFED UP BY HIS FLESHLY MIND — Let no man beguile you from the prize by voluntarily (without reason) submitting to and reverencing as messengers (of truth those who thus far have given no evidence of teaching ability in that God never sent you any message through them). They are merely intruding into those things which they admit they have not seen. Their fleshly mind being vainly puffed up, they fail to hold the headship of the Lord and the membership of the Church as his body. They fail to recognize that "God hath set the members in the body of Christ as it hath pleased Him." Hence they fail to see that the body, having nourishment, eating of the living bread and drinking of the cup is knitted together and increaseth with the increase of God. (Z. '10-12; R.4547)

But Christians should realize that the world is watching them, and that their influence of good would be greatly interfered with by their violation of this civil law (the Sunday). Our advice to all true Spiritual Israelites, therefore is that they be as strict in their observance of Sunday as a Sabbath of rest than are their neighbors—that all works except those of necessity or mercy be avoided, that this precious day be considered a boon from the Lord, a great privilege and opportunity for growth in grace and knowledge and love. Let our homes be the most quiet of all in civilized lands on the appointed day of rest, let no sounds of labor or of worldly pleasure be heard in our homes but let our joys of hope, love and faith abound, and let our happy hearts manifest themselves in cheerful words and tones and looks, that thus our moderation as well as our joy in the Lord may be manifest to all with whom we have to do, that they may take knowledge of us that we have been with Jesus and learned of Him. (Z. '06-107; R.3753)

"Let no man defraud you of the prize, priding himself on his humility and on his worship of angels, and taking his stand on the visions he has seen, and idly puffed up with his unspiritual thoughts. Such an one does not keep his hold upon the Head, Christ, from whom the Body in all the parts nourished and strengthened, by its points of contact and its connections, grows with a divine growth."

(Weymouth) Note on Humility of above quote—Humility, when it becomes self-conscious, ceases to have any value.

(Lightfoot)—"The humility condemned is not Christian humility, but a false and perverted lowliness which deemed God was inaccessible that he could only be approached through the mediation of inferior beings." (Weymouth)

2:23 — Roth.—"The which things, indeed, though they have an appearance of wisdom, in self-devised religious observance and lowliness of mind, and ill treatment of body, are in no honorable way unto a satisfying of the flesh."

R.V.—"Which things have indeed a show of wisdom in will worship and humility and severity to the body, but are not of any value against the indulgence of the flesh."

Diag.—"Which ordinances having a wordy show of wisdom in self-devised worship and humility by a non-indulgence of the body, not in any honor, are only for a gratification of the flesh."

Weymouth—"If you have died with Christ and escaped from the world's rudimentary notions, why, as though your life still belonged to the world do you submit to such precepts as do not handle this—do not taste that—do not touch that other thing—referring to things which are all intended to be used up and perish—in obedience to mere human injunctions and teachings. These rules have indeed an appearance of wisdom where self-imposed worship exists, and an affectation of humility and an ascetic severity; but not one of them is of any value in combating the indulgences of our lower natures."

3:1 — WHICH ARE ABOVE — In the Holy as a means, and in the Most Holy as a culmination.

3:2 — SET YOUR AFFECTION ON THINGS ABOVE — The apostle is not addressing the world, however morally well disposed they may be. None has interest in the things above unless first of all he has heard of Jesus as the Redeemer, renounced sin, and fled to Jesus for refuge—justification. He must have gone even farther than this to have any interest in the things above; he must have consecrated his justified life, presenting it a living sacrifice to the Lord. (Rom. 12:1) and been accepted of the Lord and begotten of the Holy Spirit and thus have started his experience as a New Creature in Christ Jesus. (Z.'07-3; R.3913)

NOT ON THINGS ON THE EARTH — i.e. "Cease to concentrate your energies and your thoughts on mundane things." (Weymouth, note.) Neither in the camp or court.

3:3 — FOR YE ARE DEAD — As human beings.

3:4 — APPEAR WITH HIM IN GLORY — In the Most Holy, heaven itself.

3:5 — AND COVETOUSNESS, WHICH IS IDOLATRY — Those who, even with fixity of will as regards consecration, rule their mortal bodies slackly, too leniently, are in danger of failing to come off more than conquerors, failing to become members of the little flock. (Z.'07-5; R.3914)

3:8 — BLASPHEMY — Slander

FILTHY COMMUNICATION OUT OF YOUR MOUTH — But instead speaking things edifying to hearers ministering grace to them.

3:9 — LIE NOT ONE TO ANOTHER — Express the good intentions truthfully to each other, without deception or hypocrisy. But the heart must be very pure and very full of love if it would be very truthful, otherwise it would make trouble continually. If the unloving, unkind hearts, full of evil surmising and malice were to express frankly, it would add immensely to the trouble of the world. (Z.'11-169; R.4829)

YE HAVE PUT OFF THE OLD MAN WITH HIS DEEDS — Hence (from vs. 13) the apostle urges first the purifying of the heart and then candor. (Z.'11-169; R.4829)

3:10 — AND HAVE PUT ON THE NEW MAN — “Putting off” suggests the additional thought of “putting out from position of authority.” As in congress, when the party in power is “put out of power” we do not understand that they are put out of congress. So with us. When we took our stand on the Lord’s side and accepted him as our head, the old will was put out of control and the new will installed in power. Then we became New Creatures, but we were undeveloped in character, just as the new party in power cannot regulate things all at once anew, but by degrees affects the changes desired, so the new mind makes change after change, gaining more and more control and bringing the thoughts, words and deeds under the Lord’s direction.

WHICH IS RENEWED IN KNOWLEDGE — Renewed in knowledge. The wisdom which the old mind had was the wisdom of this world which is foolishness with God, but the New Creature is the mind of Christ in us, the wisdom from above. It is not merely knowing how many chapters there are in the Bible, or verses, or being able to quote them; but by the various providences of God to come to such a knowledge of God that it is sufficient to have His will made clear to us to insure our obedience. Our knowledge is increased in proportion as we give heed to the things which God hath spoken, in proportion as we set our affections on thing above, and not on things on the earth. (Z.'11-381; R.4894)

3:12 — BOWELS OF MERCIES — Mercy is the difference between love and justice. This is our lesson in addition and subtraction. A disposition of largeness and generosity of heart toward everybody and everything—toward the saints, neighbors, friends, relatives, enemies, brute creation. (Z. '11-168; R.4829)

3:13 — FORBEARING ONE ANOTHER — Bear with one another's peculiarities of temperament and disposition, freely forgiving if there be cause of offense, learning meanwhile to correct ourselves, as we see our own blemishes in others.

3:14 — WHICH IS THE BOND OF PERFECTNESS — The Lord's body is viewed arrayed in these qualities of heart, and love is the bond or "girdle," which holds in place the folds of the robe of Christ's righteousness with its various graces. These graces must not be merely matters of courtesy, or policy. However much they be partakers of these qualities in the beginning, the wearers will not be perfected in heart nor fit for the kingdom, until they have reached the place where these various graces of their wills are bound in them by cords of love, love for the Lord, for righteousness, for brethren, for the world sympathetically. Love is the Spirit of the Lord.

3:15 — AND LET THE PEACE OF GOD — This peace will rule (Phil. 4:7) in our hearts, it will not be merely transitory, not merely a guest, it will become the ruler of our hearts, it will be our normal condition to be in peace. If the peace has already come and is not yet ruling in our hearts, it is a matter for prayer and for faith that it may take its proper place, and be the guide and rule of all our thoughts in Christ Jesus.

4:5 — REDEEMING — "Echagopazo"—to publicly purchase and take possession of. (E340) Also Eph. 5:15; Gal. 4:5; 3:13.

4:3 — SANCTIFICATION — Sanctification is the truth acted upon, put into the affairs.

4:4 — SANCTIFICATION — See note verse 3.

4:16 — WITH — Greek eu = in or during. (B149 and Strong's Conc.)

SHOUT — (Keleusmate) = a shout of encouragement. (Strong's Conc.—kello = a cry of incitement, from keybuo (from a prim. kello = to urge on, "hail") = to incite by word, i.e. order.) a public message intended for the ears not of a few, but of a mixed multitude. It is generally designed either to alarm and terrify or to assist and encourage. Or it may have the one effect of one class and the reverse on another, according to circumstances and conditions. The present aspect of affairs in the world for the past years very strikingly corresponds with this symbol in the outbursts of world wide encouragement for all men to wake up to a sense of their rights and privileges as men, and to consider their mutual relationships the principles on which they are based and the ends they should accomplish. The entire civilized world has in the past few years been studying political economy, civil rights, and social liberties as never before in history, and men are encouraging one another and being encouraged to probe these subjects to the very foundation. The shout of encouragement started by the increase of knowledge among men has encircled the earth, and under its influence men are banding themselves together, encouraged and assisted by men of genius to contend and strive for real and fancied rights and liberties. And as their organizations increase and multiply the shout grows louder and louder and will by and by result as foretold in a great time of trouble and tumult of angry nations. (Isa. 13:4) (B146)

ARCHANGEL — Mal. 3:1; Jude 8; Dan. 12:1; 10:13, 21.

5:7 — SLEEP SLEEP — Asleep as respects their best qualities of mind and heart. In every case the higher organs of the brain exist, but with many the upper stories of the mind are comparatively unfurnished and unoccupied. The owner of the frame lives almost continually in the cellar. Why? Because the lower organs have to do with the necessities of everyday life. And the owner of the brain often finds it inconvenient to consult the higher elements of his mind, because these usually through conscience would be inclined to reprove his course in life. His justice would frequently forbid commercial transactions which his lower nature desires to put through. His benevolence, his spirituality, his veneration for God and his Word, if allowed to speak would thwart his selfish plans and resolutions. (N-5-2-09)

NIGHT — The reign of sin and death for 6,000 years.

DRUNKEN — With the wine of false doctrine, which numbs the better qualities of mind.

5:14 — UNRULY — Not comfort and encourage them in their wrong way. But in kindness, love, remind them that God is a God of order and that in proportion as we would grow in his likeness and favor we must observe rules of order, that nothing is further from the divine mind than anarchy. There must be no St. Vitus dance in the body, but submit ourselves one to another for the interests of the Lord's cause.

5:17 — PRAY WITHOUT CEASING — i.e. God's consecrated people should be continually in an attitude of prayer—"uttered or unexpressed."

The heart should train itself to be repeatedly, continually on the lookout for evidences of the Lord's guidance, and to give thanks in the heart, if not outwardly for each recognized mercy and guidance praying, singing and making melody in our hearts to the Lord. If any unexpected trial or testing should come, the heart in full fellowship with the Lord would be prompt to carry its troubles, its perplexities to the Lord. The faithful approach the throne of grace with courage, not only when they have trespasses to confess and apologies to make and forgiveness to ask, but also as they think of the trials, temptations and difficulties along the way and of the day. They learn to seek fortification against sin, against their own weaknesses and against the encroachments of the world, the flesh and the adversary. They obtain these blessings by their fellowship with the Lord. It lifts their hearts from the earthly things and the sinful things. It brings to them a fresh realization of the Father's love and care. It reminds them repeatedly of their call of the Lord to be his disciples and of the terms and conditions upon which they are accepted. It brings before them repeatedly the glorious standard above all standards—the divine. It reminds these of the Saviour's words: "Be ye like unto your Father which is in heaven, who is kind to the evil and the good and extends his mercies to the just and the unjust." It reminds them afresh that they should pray: "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us;" and thus it tends to make their hearts and minds more tender, more gentle, more forgiving toward all with whom they have to do. (N-6-27-09)

5:18 — IN EVERY THING GIVE THANKS — Thanks for life's blessings, for the things that are happifying, for the successes of life, for the opportunities of divine service that are pleasurable: Thanks also for the trials of life, its difficulties, its sorrows, its disappointments, because all these bring experiences which should be valuable to us, developing the fruits and graces of the Lord's Spirit, meekness, gentleness, patience, longsuffering, brotherly kindness, love. (N-6-27-09)

WILL OF GOD IN CHRIST JESUS CONCERNING YOU — Gratitude is the responsive chord to benevolence in every truly noble heart, and no harmony is sweeter or more inspiring to noble deeds and lofty purposes. Our Heavenly Father would have his children cultivate for their own sakes, as well as for others, all the graces of true nobility and moral excellence. To Him we are indebted for every good that we possess, and as his consecrated children we are also the special objects of his grace. To render our consecrated hearts and talents in glad and cheerful service is but a reasonable return for all his goodness. Let us therefore do it with energy and zeal. At best it will be only a small return; but the measure of love and zeal that accompanies it will indicate the measure of our gratitude. (Z. '94-218; R.1671)

5:19 — QUENCH NOT THE SPIRIT — See note Mark 1:26. God is all light (1 John 1:5); Saints are called the light of the world (Matt. 5:14); Ezekiel speaks of God's coming in power as fire enfolding itself (Ezek. 1:4); Jesus is called the Sun of Righteousness (Mal. 4:2); John the Baptist was called a burning and shining light. (John 5:35) The Spirit of God is one of enlightenment. (Eph. 1:13; Heb. 10:32) "Let not the light that is in thee become darkness." (Luke 11:35) Illustrated by the light of the candlestick, the Holy Spirit of God is a very precious thing; it is the Spirit of liberty and power and a sound mind. But it is not aggressive, will not intrude where it is not wanted nor invited, and must be cultivated to be retained. three ways that quench the Spirit:

- (1) Wilful opposition to God and his will.
- (2) Careless living, too much of world, flesh allowed to come into the heart; and light gets smoky because not trimmed.
- (3) Neglect to supply the oil, neglect fellowship, study, meetings. Neglect not this precious treasure which is our means of union with God.

5:21 — PROVE ALL THINGS — Paul did not mean to prove everything, breakfast foods, patent medicines, all philosophy; nor to prove everything in the Bible, for the Scriptures were not then canonized. The different books of the old Scriptures were not then equally acceptable to the Church. There is no better guide than the Bible, but here it seems the apostle meant—"Use your judgment, reason, in respect to everything." God's people should be reasonable, rational people, and use their very best judgment as to what they accept or reject. They should prove what they hear and use their best judgment as to what is supported by the Scriptures. The end in view is that they may hold fast all that stands the test of the divine word, and reject all else—Neither should we try to prove all rumors derogatory to another's character, but decline to hear unless presented in Scriptural ways. Waste no time on it, believe nothing derogatory until it is forced upon us. (Z. '11-28; R.4750)

5:22 — ABSTAIN FROM ALL APPEARANCE OF EVIL — Or "forms" (R. V.) Sometimes evil appears in a crude and repulsive form, or in attractive. We should also abstain, so far as possible, from doing things we know to be good, if our friends and neighbors might misunderstand and consider these things to be evil. In order that our influence of the truth may be greater, we should avoid all appearance of evil. (Z. '10-393; R.4728)

II THESSALONIANS

1:8 — THE GOSPEL OF OUR LORD — Here are mentioned two classes, upon which the Lord will take vengeance, retribution (Isa. 65:7) a) those who are not really acquainted with God, but who nevertheless fail to obey the light conscience which all to some extent possess and also on those who knowing God yet obey not the Gospel.

2:2 — AS THAT THE DAY OF CHRIST IS AT HAND — Proving that Paul did not expect it before his death but rather not till a long time after, time enough for the Roman power to fall, Papacy be exalted, and decline and be destroyed. (F226)

2:6 — AND NOW YE KNOW WHAT WITHHOLDETH — The man of Sin.

THAT HE MIGHT BE REVEALED IN HIS TIME — Christ revealed in his own due season.

2:7 — ONLY HE WHO NOW LETTETH — For similar use of “let” see Isa. 43:13; Rom. 1:13.

2:8 — AND THEN SHALL THAT WICKED — The “Mystery of Iniquity” the Papacy will be shown up in all its filth and sin. (Rev. 17:15-18)

BE REVEALED, WHOM THE LORD SHALL CONSUME — Destroy gradually during the time of the end.

WITH THE SPIRIT OF HIS MOUTH — The preaching of the Truth and the increase of knowledge will awaken men to the errors of Papacy, will withdraw their support from it and turn them upon it to destroy it.

BRIGHTNESS — “Ephiphania”—bright shining, shine forth, become visible -revealing to world.

COMING — “Parousia”—showing that the destruction will be accomplished gradually at first, at the beginning of the Harvest (“parousia”) and then suddenly culminate at its last years. (B359)

2:9 — EVEN HIM — Christ’s.

WHOSE COMING — Presence—“Parousia.”

2:10 — AND WITH ALL DECEIVABLENESS OF UNRIGHTEOUSNESS — (Diag.)—“The energy of the Adversary with all power and signs and wonders of falsehood, and with every deception of iniquity to those who are perishing because they received not the love of the truth.”

2:11 — AND FOR THIS CAUSE GOD SHALL SEND THEM STRONG DELUSION — Literally a frenzy, a delusion! What may we not expect in the way of hasty and irrational conduct inspired by these delusions. Whoever does not love righteousness, yea hate iniquity is surely in danger of being frenzied by delusions in this evil day. Surely Satan and the fallen angels under him are being granted extraordinary power (vs. 9) to tempt God’s people and later on the world, to let loose from all moderation in a frenzy of error on one subject or another with one person or another. Let us be forewarned and “watch and pray lest we enter into temptation.”
(Z. ’09-344; R.5414)

THAT THEY SHOULD BELIEVE A LIE — See Weymouth.

2:14 — WHEREUNTO — Unto Salvation.

TO THE OBTAINING OF THE GLORY OF OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST — This is as near something for nothing as one can care to have.

2:16 — AND HATH GIVEN US EVERLASTING CONSOLATION AND GOOD HOPE THROUGH GRACE — Comfort and hope are always closely associated. The hope for the world is a comfort to us, as well as in our own hope. (Rom. 5:2; 1 Pet. 1:3; Heb. 3:6) This Hope develops an intense longing for its realization.

2:17 — IN EVERY GOOD WORD AND WORK — The result of a proper use of this hope, a fixing of character for righteousness, crystallization of character.

I TIMOTHY

1:5 — NOW THE END — Purpose, object, ultimate design.

OF THE COMMANDMENT — “Paraggelias”—a message by a messenger from the presence of the King or ruler.

IS CHARITY — “Agape”—the highest form of love, unselfish, unfeigned. This in contrast with the aims in vs. 4. Perfect love is what our heavenly Father desires to see in us. All the commandments and exhortations of the Divine Word and all the other experiences and disciplines of life in the school of Christ are designed to bring us to this happy condition of perfect love.

OUT OF A PURE HEART — “Katharas” — clean, that is unselfish and unmixed with impure or wrong motives.

A GOOD CONSCIENCE — “Agathas suneidesis” — (complete perception or knowledge, co-perception, or moral consciousness) = one purged from guilt through faith in the blood of Christ, a rectified perception of things as they should be.

FAITH UNFEIGNED — True faith, not hypocritical or pretended for a purpose, but a real heart reliance based on clear knowledge.

2:2 — AND ALL THAT ARE IN AUTHORITY — Not for their conversion, but rather that their government might be so ordered as to insure to the blessing, the benefit of the Lord’s elect church. (N-6-67-09)

2:5 — MEDIATOR BETWEEN GOD AND MEN, THE MAN CHRIST JESUS — A mediator is one who interposes between two parties who are at variance, with a view to reconciling them. In this case the two parties are God and Adam and his race. Justice lay on God’s side, he had a charge of disobedience against mankind and he justly placed his ban upon Adam and his race—“Dying thou shalt die.” (Rom. 5:12; Psa. 49:7; Rom. 3:22, 23) Originally man had no antipathy to God, for we may be sure that Adam felt contrition, realized that his penalty was just and longed for restitution to divine favor. But as centuries rolled around, the fallen condition worked havoc in man and mentally and morally he got out of harmony with his Creator, became God’s enemy, and God gave them over to a reprobate mind, allowed them to take a wayward course of opposition to God and to righteousness and even to God. (Rom. 1); and the result was increasing degradation. Satan and the fallen angels have conspired for man’s undoing, blinding him to principles of right and wrong, putting darkness for light and vice versa, good for evil and evil for good. (2 Cor. 4:4-6) (Z. ’07-8; R.3915)

2:6 — RANSOM — “Antilutron” = a price to offset, to correspond (also Mark 10:45) (E428)

2:7 — ORDAINED — “Tithemi” = placed as in John 15:16 (q.v.)

2:12 — I SUFFER NOT A WOMAN TO TEACH . . . BUT TO BE IN SILENCE. — There is nothing in the Scriptures that militates against women. That the Lord chooses that the mouthpieces of the church be men is his own affair. No one would have a right to question the Lord’s will in this matter—whether the Lord would wish men of sixty or young men, or women of certain age or not at all. God may do what he will with his own.

But we do see a reason why he makes a choice. Woman is the figure of the church and man is figure of the head of the church. So we are told that woman should not a teacher in the church but man should be the teacher. Outside the scriptural question we see no way in which a woman's interests are endangered, because every woman is the sister or mother or daughter of a man, and hence the two sexes are so intimately related that it is unnecessary that the whole family be voting, all being represented by the man. If women would get the proper focus on this subject there would be an end to woman suffrage. They would feel they had a duty at home. If conditions were otherwise it would mean a very unsatisfactory condition indeed. It would imply that man had lost one of the very prerogatives which is an element of manhood. It would imply also a dereliction on woman's part. Paul reminds us of the woman's sphere. Any woman whose son does not respect her should keep very quiet. She has that child all the years of infancy and youth; and if in all those years she does not command respect from that child, she is to blame. (Z.'11-27; R.4749)

The distinction and discrimination between men and women in the church are along symbolic lines, typical, because the man symbolizes Christ Jesus the head of the church, while woman symbolizes the Church, the bride. The divine arrangement is the reverse of the method of the Great Adversary who though ready to use either sex as his tools, has always found woman his most efficient representatives. The Lord does not inform us if there be other reasons for sex distinctions, and our surmises may or may not be correct. In our opinion some of the qualities of heart and mind which combine in the noblest types of woman, render her unsuitable for public religious services. For instance woman by nature, fortunately endowed with a desire to please and win approval and praise. This quality is an inestimable blessing in the home, and she should never be denied the things which surely are her due and which her nature craves and which are absolutely essential to her health and progress. But if she is lifted out of her sphere, if she gets before the public as a lecturer, she gets into a position of great danger; because several of the peculiarities of her sex, which go to make her a true woman and attractive to true men will conspire under the unnatural conditions to spoil her womanhood—make her manish. Nature has set the metes and bounds of the sexes, not only in physical contour and hair—suite but equally in qualities of heart and head, adapted each to the other so thoroughly that any interference with, or disregard of her laws is sure to work injury in the end, however beneficial the changes may appear to be temporarily. The quality of approbateness so freely bestowed upon woman and which rightly exercised is so helpful to her, to her home and family, is sure to become a snare if exercised toward the public, in seeking approval of the church or world. The very womanliness of woman renders her peculiarly liable not only to stumble herself but to stumble others. Because such an one getting off the track would surely be supplied by the Adversary with spurious oil, a false light to lead others out of the way.

2:14 — THE WOMAN BEING DECEIVED WAS IN THE TRANSGRESSION — Did Adam sin against the Holy Spirit? (Z. '14-136; R.5452) See Gen. 3:6 note.

3:1 — BISHOP — Elder, As shown here an elder should have clearness in the truth, aptness for teaching it, blamelessness of life as respects moral character, and ability to preserve order without unnecessary friction, as might be exemplified in his family. (F275)

3:6 — HE FALL INTO THE CONDEMNATION OF THE DEVIL — In the type, in the qualifications for the priestly office age was a factor; but this with the antitypical priests would signify experience, character-development. (F243) So those who would serve as ministers of the truth in “word and doctrine” should not be novices, but members of the body, whose ripeness in character and knowledge and fruits of the Spirit would qualify them for such service. Such were to be recognized as elders, not necessarily in years, but ripe ones in respect to truth and fitness to counsel and admonish the brethren along the lines of the Lord’s word. (F243)

Every sheep should take special notice of the message and manner of every brother before they aid in putting him forward as our overseer, elder. They should first be convinced that he has the real qualifications of an elder (sound on the basic doctrines of Gospel—atonement, redemption through the precious blood of Jesus, full consecration to him, his message, brethren, service.) They would be doing violence to the divine arrangement to choose such for their elders as were weak morally, or mentally lame. (F247)

The ecclesia is far better off without any public servant than to have for a leader a golden-tongued goat who would surely not direct their hearts into the love of God but into wrong channels. (Acts 20:30; 2 Peter 2:2)

3:7 — MOREOVER HE MUST HAVE A GOOD REPORT OF THEM WHICH ARE WITHOUT — Not that the world will ever love or rightly appreciate the saints, but that at least the world should be unable to say anything derogatory to their character as respects honesty, uprightness, morality, truthfulness. (F249) If none possessing the qualifications of a public speaker are found (and the Lord should be trusted to raise up such servants as are necessary) or supplied by the Lord, the need may be doubted. (F250) Some of the most prosperous ecclesias are those in which there is no great talent for public teaching and in which consequently Bible studies are the rule rather than the exception. (F250)

3:16 — THE MYSTERY OF GODLINESS; GOD WAS — Syr.—“And truly great is this mystery of righteousness, which was revealed in the flesh.” Roth.—“And confessedly great is the sacred secret of godliness—who was manifest in the flesh.” R.V.—“He who . . .” Diag.—“Great is the secret of piety; He who, etc.” (note in Diag.: Alex. MSS.—it is doubtful whether this word was originally OS who, or THS God. This is according to Griesbach. Nearly all the ancient MSS, and all the versions have “He who” instead of “God” in this passage.) (2 Cor. 4:11) He may nevertheless refer to God. For Jesus was God manifest in the flesh. A fleshly image of Jehovah (John 14:9), Jesus was the best, the closest, the most positive representation of God that it was possible to give to mankind. (E77)

WAS MANIFEST IN THE FLESH, JUSTIFIED — Roth.: declared righteous in spirit, perhaps perfect in spirit as in Heb. 2:10.

IN THE SPIRIT, SEEN OF ANGELS — A spectacle unto angels and men.

4:2 — SPEAKING LIES IN HYPOCRISY — Many of these, Higher Critics, New Theologians, etc., still believe in Christ as a great teacher and a noble leader of men. But these fail to see that if, as they claim, Jesus posed as the Son of God and the Redeemer of men and was not such, instead of being a noble example, his life and teachings were most stupendous frauds and deceptions. (N-3-13-10)

4:12 — LET NO MAN DESPISE THY YOUTH — A message to all elders, that their deportment and ability to “rightly divide the word of truth” be such that none will have cause to slight the message they bring or think of them as immature and unfit to lead the flock.

BE THOU AN EXAMPLE OF THE BELIEVERS — Not to believers but of believers. This means that one should show forth not only to his fellow-workers in the Gospel but especially to the world what believers stand for, what they believe, what they teach, how they live. We should see to it that we are setting such an example.

IN WORD — Setting such an example in word, in the character of our language when declaring the message of truth. We are not to be merely smooth tongued and unctuous, we are not merely to use kind words, but the kindness and interest manifested should be genuine—from the heart. (Z. '14-200; R.5494)

IN CONVERSATION — Conversation has the old meaning Conduct (Diag.) manner of life (A.R.V. Our conduct relates to our manner, to the way we walk and act, not to our words alone. We are to be an example in gentleness of demeanor, not slam doors, nor be boisterous, nor uncouth, nor thoughtless of others. (Z. '14-200; R.5494) So act as to show others that it is blessing and profit, to be associated with the Lord. Let our light shine out through our words that is within. Those who are begotten of the Spirit should strive to be examples to everybody of what Christians ought to be. The kind of work we are engaged in should be honest. It may be secular work but it should be done as unto the Lord, carefully, faithfully, not merely as men pleasers, but in singleness of heart, servants of God, “for we serve the Lord Christ.” (Rom. 13:13; 1 John 2:6; 1 Thes. 4:12; 3 John 4; Eph. 4:18)

IN CHARITY — Love, in sympathy, benevolence, kindness of word and conduct. A generally sympathetic spirit should pervade his words, deeds and entire behavior. The Heavenly Father loved mankind; while they were yet sinners He so love the race that He gave the choicest treasure of his heart for man’s recovery. So any begotten of the Lord’s Spirit should have a transforming influence in His life—an influence that will manifest itself even to those who are out of the way, those not yet blessed with the light of God. (Z.’14-200; R.5494)

IN SPIRIT — The spirit that animates us at all times should be the Spirit and mind of the Lord. Kindness of Spirit, disposition. This word is not in the original text, and not in Diag. nor A.R.V., but the thought seems o.k.

IN FAITH — The Christian’s faith is manifest to others in his conduct, words, his course in life. If he is full of faith he will not be murmuring against the experiences of life as they come, against the providences of God. The Almighty has accepted us as his children; we should have continual and implicit confidence in Him and whoever has true faith has this confidence. If any of us lack faith in God we shall not manifest faith to others, nor inspire faith in them.

IN PURITY — There is a purity that goes with all that pertains to God and His Word, a loftiness of standard which is not to be found elsewhere. There are people in heathen lands who live more or less chaste lives, but there is nowhere so high a standard as in the Christian religion. Everything impure is contrary to God. Purity is one of the component elements of Christian character. We are to be “first pure, then peaceable,” gentle. (Z.’14-200; R.5494)

In all these ways God’s people should be living lessons, living epistles (2 Cor. 3:2, 3) wherever they go, examples to the world. Whether the world believe what we preach or not, we should manifest those qualities which they cannot but approve and respect. This example will bear fruitage in due time, if not now. Every elder like Timothy, should be specially careful of his conduct, his words, his example. (Z.’14-200; R.5494)

5:1 — REBUKE NOT AN ELDER — Paul does not here mean an elder of the congregation elected to serve as such, but a person older than one’s self. Do not rebuke a person older than yourself. Treat him as a father, etc. An elder in the church is not appointed to browbeat or trample down the liberties of others. (These directions were given by Paul to Timothy, an elder of Ephesus.) The spirit of kindness, gentleness, etc., is the Holy Spirit. If an elder rebukes in another spirit than this, he should remember that the person rebuked is not a child, and should not be reprimanded or denounced, or told “this is all wrong.” It would not be wise or kind for a younger person to lose patience with an older person, who, he feels, should know about a matter, and to say—“I will give you a lesson.” This kind of spirit has made difficulty in various places. It is evident from this Scripture that there was a family sympathy to olden times which we do not see today. Today it is the custom to be very polite toward strangers and very impolite toward those of one’s own family. If today you wish to find true, real, friends you do not often look for them in the same family. Surely in this our progress has not been evolutionary. (Z. ’12-67; R.4978)

5:17 — LET THE ELDERS — Honor should be given them in proportion as they manifest faithfulness to the responsibilities of the service they have accepted.

RULE WELL — “Proistemi” = stand before; hence—be over.

THEY WHO LABOUR IN THE WORD AND DOCTRINE — Bend down through hard labor in preaching and teaching. (F252)

5:19 — BUT BEFORE TWO OR THREE WITNESSES — An elder should have the same and every right and privilege granted to any of the brethren as in Matt. 18:15-18. Some might think that because an elder must be of a good report of them without and within, that he should be arraigned upon the slightest charges because of his influential position. The apostle here recognizes two principles:

- (1) that an elder has already been recognized by the ecclesia as possessing a good and noble character, as being specially earnest for the truth and for God, devoted to him.
- (2) That such persons by reason of their prominence in the church would be marked by the adversary as special objects of his attacks.

6:4 — DOTING — Margin: sick.

6:12 — FIGHT THE GOOD FIGHT OF FAITH — By fighting a good fight we are to prove to the Lord that we are doing the best we can. We are not merely to make a little effort but are to put forth all our strength, which will be supplemented by the grace of the Lord. If then, in spirit of our best efforts we come short, as we surely shall, then the blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth us from all sin. It is not a good plan to wait until evening to go to the Lord if we realize that we have displeased him. If we can go to our closet at once we should do so. If not, we might close our eyes for a moment and get into communication with our Father in Heaven through the merits of our Savior. Let us keep in constant touch with the Lord and tell him about all our affairs, our mistakes, our unwitting trespasses. There are probably many trespasses committed by us that we do not recognize. But daily application for the blood of cleansing will keep our garments clean and white. (Z. '16-212; R.5923)

Many of the Lord's people have a great deal of combativeness. This is necessary or we would never overcome. But we need to restrain ourselves that we do not fight the brethren, and we are not to enter into personal combat with the Devil. What the Lord has given us to do is to conquer ourselves and to control this body which is of the fallen race of Adam, to keep ourselves that the wicked one touch us not. (1 John 5:18) (Z. '16-212; R.5923)

II TIMOTHY

1:7 — SPIRIT OF FEAR — “Pneuma deilia” (always in a bad sense; (phobos) = used of either good or bad sense; midway. eulabeia = always used in good sense.) deiliao = be timid, fearful; deilos = timid, fearful, cowardice.

POWER — “Dunameos” = energy

LOVE — “Agape” = God-like love, for all, His spirit.

A SOUND MIND — “Sophronismou” = urging to sound mind, to moderation and self-control; sophronizo = make one of sound mind, control, discipline, admonish, exhort earnestly. sophronos = discretely, soberly, temperately. sophronosunm = sanity, soundness of mind, self-control, sobriety.

1:15 — BE TURNED AWAY FROM ME — Evidently some of the Apostle's later tours were without the vote or support of even the Antioch church. Primitive church regulations left all free to exercise their talents and stewardship according to their own consciences. The ecclesias could accept or decline the services of Apostles, even as their special representatives and the Apostles could accept or reject such engagements, each exercising his own liberty of conscience. (F277)

2:3 — HARDNESS — Did you ever feel depressed? Do you ever feel the hardness, the weariness of constant effort against imperfection and failure? Does the way sometimes seem long? At such a time have you ever felt your thoughts heavenward baffled; find you can't sail them high as you want to, as you need to? Do you ever find prayer nervous and unsatisfactory, unavailing because of your inability to stay by it; to concentrate your mind and quietly think? Do you ever find it hard to vividly realize all we are and hope in Christ? See Psa. 130:4.

2:4 — ENTANGLETH HIMSELF WITH THE AFFAIRS OF THIS LIFE — The Christian soldier must study to perform even the smallest duty in a manner creditable to his calling. He must not permit himself to become entangled with other things which do not relate to his duties as a soldier, and thus be side-tracked. He who turns aside to seek some personal temporal advantage to the detriment of his duties as a soldier is to that extent an unfaithful soldier and likely to be drawn out of the ranks entirely. (Z. '11-184; R.4839)

THAT HE MAY PLEASE HIM — Let us study to be diligent in every duty, performing it with a ready mind and with gladness and singleness and joy of heart. "Endure hardness." A soldier has many trivial duties to perform and he is as really doing his duty as a soldier when he is polishing his armour (brightening his knowledge of truth and by study and meetings with brethren), foraging, cooking his meals, getting food (spiritual and natural), cooking (testing and proving the doctrines, putting the truth together. See Hos. 7:6); cleaning camp, and building bridges, as when he is fighting the enemy. This is necessary work and part of his commission as a soldier. These duties cannot be disregarded or carelessly done without a measure of unfaithfulness. So with the Christian. The routine of life, everything incidental to a proper and honest provision of things needful, as well as for the prosecution of the Lord's work—all is a proper part of our engagement as soldiers of the Lord. Whatever is done for the glory and honor of our Lord, for the benefit of fellow-soldiers, or for our own preparation for this warfare, or in the discharge of obligations which our Lord has recognized and approved is proper work for us as soldiers and is not entanglement in the affairs of this life. (Z. '11-184; R.4839)

2:15 — STUDY — While it does not say—"Study the scriptures" yet it means first of all to study His Word to know what he would approve. Then, having come to some knowledge of the Scriptures, we must meditate upon them and consider how the word is applicable in all of life's affairs. Thus we would study the nature of all we come in contact with, as to whether it is good or evil. "Study" here, same as in "Study to be quiet." (Z. '11-183; R.4838)

TO SHEW THYSELF APPROVED UNTO GOD — It is proper enough to have the approval of all good men and women. But our study primarily should not be along this line, but to know what God would approve, and then meditate and work it out in our lives. Study the doctrine and endeavor to have our course of conduct harmonize with it. Study to perform faithfully the duties of a loyal soldier of the cross. (See 2 Tim. 2:4, 5) Study yourself that you may become acquainted with yourself—know your talents for service, in what direction they lie, and what are your weak points, and how to guard against them—know both our abilities and short-comings. Then study to avoid error and all foolish questions and profane and vain babblings. Study to make our imputed righteousness and actual thing to the extent of our ability. It is merely of divine grace that we are reckoned righteous before we are actually so. Study our hearts to see that we are striving daily to cast out all the old leaven of sin—to be sure that we are not content to allow it to remain in us. (See 1 Cor. 5:7) Study to make and have our lives an honor to the cause we have espoused; abstaining from even the appearance of evil, circumspect in all our conversation, conduct, watching our thoughts, lips, lives.

A WORKMAN — A laborer in the vineyard, a steward and servant of God; not an idler, loving ease; a character builder who will not be ashamed in the Day of Christ.

THAT NEEDETH NOT TO BE ASHAMED — Not ashamed of what he believes, able to give a reason for his hope, with meekness and fear; one who knows what he believes, and has no fear of an investigation of his doctrine.

RIGHTLY DIVIDING THE WORD OF TRUTH — Proper application of the word, the understanding of how, when, and where it should be applied; and what was the purpose and thought and plan of the divine mind in giving this word of truth. Taking cognizance of everything that seems to be of the Lord, and that throws any light upon the word. Bear in mind the inspiration of the Scriptures. (2 Pet. 1:21; 2 Tim. 3:16, 17; Matt. 18:18) One part of God's message applies to the past, one part applies only to the Jews, another to Christians in the present life, another to the future of church or world. (Z. '11-183, 184; R.4838, 4839)

3:1 — PERILOUS TIMES SHALL COME — And in order that we might recognize and beware of these false brethren, he very minutely describes them.

3:2 — FOR MEN — The men, a particular class, same as in Acts 20:29, etc., men of your own selves, whom you have hitherto regarded as members of the body of Christ. (Z. '91-113; R.1319) This description, as here translated, is incongruous for men of such villainous character could have no form of godliness. Such a fierce character and bold blasphemer could not possibly palm himself off as a child of God. The translators, not fully comprehending the Apostle's thought, have put the heaviest possible construction upon the Greek words, overdrawing the picture.

SHALL BE LOVERS OF THEIR OWN SELVES — Selfish, loving too keenly the old “ego,” not putting him in subjection, denying him.

COVETOUS — Money lovers, (“philarguroi”) covetous of honors, distinctions and praise of men—ambitious.

BOASTERS — As though the credit of the truth now due was in some way due to them, and as though they had a right therefore to alter and amend it at their pleasure. (Z. '91-113; R.1319)

PROUD — Proud of that knowledge which should be received with humility and thankfulness, and which can be retained only under these conditions.

BLASPHEMERS — “Blapta” = to injure; “phem” = rumor, saying one speaking injuriously, an evil speaker, rumor or tale bearer. Judging by the word regardless of the context we could not know if the evil speaking was carried to revilings or not, but as related to context, we must conclude (these having a form of godliness, but lacking its power) that the milder forms of evil-speaking are meant. (Z. '91-113; R.1319)

DISOBEDIENT — “A” = negative; “peitho” = convince; not persuaded.

TO PARENTS — Not of the same persuasion (mind) as were the parents. (devisers of new doctrines). Because of the newly unfolding truth dawning on their paths, these in common with the faithful saints are no longer of the same mind as were their parents; but the goodness of God thus manifested to them, instead of cultivating in them a spirit of thankfulness and co-operation, which is its design, seems to arouse a spirit of pride and ambition, which does not long hesitate to make merchandise of the truth for ambitious ends, however trivial and foolish these ends may be. By degrees they become evil speakers (against the doctrines of Christ and those who believe and teach them), unkind, unfriendly to the good (who hold fast the truth in righteousness) and false accusers (of such). As they proceed they seem to lose all former strength of Christian character. They become irreconcilable to the truth, so that neither scripture, nor reason, nor the example of the faithful, has power to restore them. Loving their own wills more than the will of God, they grow more and more proud and boastful of their attainments—high minded and heady.

UNHOLY — “An” = negative; “osios” = right (by intrinsic or divine character), not like the Lord, in view of the context would mean unkind, (not perfect in love).

3:3 — WITHOUT NATURAL AFFECTION — Not in Sinaitic manuscript.

TRUCEBREAKERS — Literally “aspondos” without libation (which usually accompanied a treaty) = truceless, irreconcilable, implacable, stubborn or constant in enmity.

INCONTINENT — “A” = negative; “kratos” = vigor, strength; without self-control, not intended so coarse as “incontinent.”

FIERCE — “An” = negative; “emeros” = tame, gentle; not mild. The fierce or savage idea is not compatible with any pretensions to Godliness.

DESPISERS OF THOSE THAT ARE GOOD — Not friendly to the good (“philagathos”)

3:5 — DENYING THE POWER THEREOF — Power = the power of the precious blood of Christ, which is the only power by means of which any of the fallen race can return to God. Power = the spirit of Christ, self-sacrificing, humble, etc. The precious blood of Christ cleanseth us from all sin, as long as we appreciate and accept it (1 John 1:7)

3:6 — OF THIS SORT — Their opposition is not in bold defiant terms, their policy is seductive, sly, crafty, under pretensions of godliness and love and zeal for the truth. Their policy will be similarly seductive, not that such teachers will be actually immoral. (Z. '91-113; R.1319)

3:7 — EVER LEARNING — They claim to be very earnest students of the Word of God and so they are, but they never come to a knowledge of the truth. They are after something new, some peculiar “find” in the mine of God, that will attract the wondering gaze of many curious disciples. But alas for their purposes! There are no such real curiosities in the Word of God, but the zeal of these ambitious ones is equal to the energy, and one after another the actual truths are beclouded, distorted and perverted to this ignoble end, and presented as new-found truths. And the unwary receive them as such, not recognizing at first that they are subversive of the entire system of divine truth. Thus their faith in the truths already learned is unwittingly undermined, they are caught in the snare of the enemy. Giving ear to these seductive influences, they become more and more entangled, until, having lost their anchorage, they find themselves adrift on a vast sea of unbelief, floating they know not whither. (Z. '91-113; R.1319)

AND NEVER ABLE TO COME TO THE KNOWLEDGE OF THE TRUTH — Some while devouring God's word, get from it merely relief from fears and a satisfaction of their curiosity. Curiosity is insatiable, and if they fail to get what God designed to give them through the truth (Sanctification) they will ere long be devouring one error after another to feed their curiosity and will delude themselves into thinking they are continually feeding on the truth, although they are well aware that each new thing devoured is soon abandoned as error, their curiosity continuing the devouring process. The proper course unites heart and head in the search for truth; the heart searches that it may know what is that good and acceptable will of God, that it may please and serve him. The head as the servant of the heart, searches to test or prove the truth, that the honest heart may not be deceived into believing and serving amiss. If the head undertakes to do all the searching and feeding, the real design of the truth (Sanctification) is not attained. The result is merely a reasoning about the truth, and not a practicing of it. It is not a heart hunger that is being fed, but a curiosity hunger. With the proper way each morsel of truth received is at once applied in the life, and the sanctifying process begins and progresses. To this true heart, to know the Lord's will is to at once strive to do what is seen, and not merely to see the duty or privilege.

3:8 — SO DO THESE ALSO RESIST THE TRUTH — They oppose Moses by doing something similar to what he did, thus confusing the people. God had given Moses power to do certain miracles to prove to Israel that Moses was the divinely empowered agent of God. And Satan forthwith empowered his agents to duplicate those miracles, which they did to some extent, not perfectly, thus trying to confuse the minds of the people, and to unsettle their confidence in Moses, and in his leading and teaching. (See notes Ex. 4:10-16)

3:9 — AS THEIRS ALSO WAS — They could not forever withstand the teachings of Moses, the servant of God.

3:10 — PATIENCE — The Apostle puts this quality of patient endurance in the place beyond love ("agape"). How can patience rank higher than love? Patient endurance does not come in merely at the close, but is a requisite all the way through the race course. We need this cheerful endurance of the earliest trials in the Christian way, and as we speed along in our race for the mark, the spirit of cheerful endurance should be growing stronger and stronger at every step of the journey. Some might be faithful for a few days or months or years and yet be unworthy at least of the great kingdom honors. (See Luke 8:11-15) (Z. '11-408; R.4910)

3:11 — OUT OF THEM ALL THE LORD DELIVERED ME — Such will be the marks of a true teacher. His doctrine will be that which the most thorough investigation of the Scriptures most clearly proves, and establishes beyond all peradventure (“if”). His manner of life will be consistent both with his faith and his consecration to the Lord. His purpose will be the building up of the church in the most holy faith. His faith will be positive and clear, not guesswork, but knowledge based on the sure word of God, with whom is no variableness nor shadow of turning. And his great love for the church will be manifest, as was Paul’s, Moses’, by long suffering, patience and meek endurance of persecution—both from an opposing world and from false brethren arising in the midst of God’s people. And in such persecutions no true teacher will be lacking. (vs. 12)

3:14 — KNOWING OF WHOM THOU HAST LEARNED THEM —

Whoever the human agent may be whom God used to bring you a knowledge of the truth, he was simply our index finger to help you trace it for yourself in the sacred page, and in humility and faithfulness he would make no greater claim than this. (Z.’91-113; R.1319) (John 6:45) “all taught of God.” To live Godly means not merely to abstain from vicious and overt sin, but to be a hero in the strife, a defender of the right and an opposer of the wrong, a servant of righteousness, a soldier of the cross. (Z.’11-236; R.4865)

4:2 — PREACH THE WORD — Paul, as a minister of the grace of God, shows that the declaration of the Gospel may include three features: 1) Reprove 2) Rebuke 3) Exhort. It is safe to caution all of the Lord’s people against too liberal use of the first two features. In order to reprove properly the heart should be very full of love and sympathy, else the reproofs and rebukes might be sharp and possibly do more harm than good. Even with the heart full of love, it requires a head that is exceedingly well balanced to be able to make use of the reproofs and rebukes to good advantage to those who really need them. We are to be wise as serpents and harmless as doves. “Evidently exhortation is the form of service which can best be used by the majority of the Lord’s people. And even this form, as well as the others should be characterized by patience, long-suffering, brotherly kindness. (Z.’12-67, 66; R.4977)

REPROVE, REBUKE — We should notice that this statement is not made to all of God’s people, but to Timothy, who was an elder. (See postscript to end of Epistle); and only those should be chosen elders who are men of moderation, men of development, who have learned to control their own lives and their own tongues, so that they would not crush, but that their rebuke should be helpful and intended to draw the person nearer the Lord, to encourage and help generally. (See Psa. 141:3) (Z.’12-66; R.4977)

4:8 — A CROWN OF RIGHTEOUSNESS — It is called a crown of righteousness because it is the reward that comes as the result of righteousness, of obedience to God and the principles of his government of faithfulness to our covenant. (Z.’14-214; R.5499)

POSTSCRIPT — The second epistle unto Timotheus, ordained the first bishop of the church of the Ephesians, was written from when Paul was brought before Nero the second time.

TITUS

1:5 — ORDAIN — This word “kathestemi” = to place down. (tithemi is used by our Lord in John 15:16 (q.v.). This might seem to imply (because “cheirotoneo” is not used) that Titus was empowered to appoint these elders regardless of the wishes of the ecclesias; and on this view rests the Episcopal theory of church order, Catholics, Episcopalians, Methodist-Episcopal all claim authority (apostolic) for their bishops to set, place, appoint elders for the congregations, without the vote of the church. This text is the bulwark of the idea. But until the context “As I gave thee charge” (orders—Diag.). The Apostle surely would not give Titus instructions to do differently from what he (the Apostle) did in this matter (see Acts 14:23). No doubt the advice of Titus, whom Paul had specially commended to the brethren as a faithful minister of the truth (2 Cor. 8:16-19, 22, 23), would not only be desired but sought after, and very generally followed. In any event the concurrence of the ecclesia would be necessary, whether expressed by vote or not. (See 1 Pet. 5:1, 2)

2:2 — IN PATIENCE — The apostle Paul here shows the importance of patient endurance (“upomone”), putting it even after love (“agape”). Though we have all the other qualities this final test of cheerful endurance must be passed before we can be accepted of the Lord as members of the very elect. See 2 Tim. 3:10; Jas. 1:4. (Z.’11-408; R.4910)

2:14 — REDEEM — “Lutro” = to loose by the payment of a price. (E432)
(See also Titus 2:14 and 1 Pet. 1:18, 19)

3:4 — TOWARD MAN APPEARED — In the Redemptive work.

3:5 — BUT ACCORDING TO HIS MERCY — By justification in the court.

AND RENEWING OF THE HOLY SPIRIT — In the Holy.

3:7 — THAT BEING JUSTIFIED BY HIS GRACE — In the court.

ACCORDING TO THE HOPE OF ETERNAL LIFE — Which hope we have and which sanctifies us.

HEBREWS

To appreciate the necessity for the book of Hebrews we must mentally take our stand back in Apostolic days and get our bearings as though we were living there under those conditions. Thinking of matters from this sympathetic standpoint the reason why the Apostle says so much about the New Covenant in Hebrews is made very plain. The early church for seven years after our Lord's baptism and for 3-1/2 years after the cross was composed exclusively of Jews. Not until the end of Israel's seventy weeks of favor special, could the Gospel message go outside of that nation at all. God had to specially prepare Peter to give the message to Cornelius, for such a remarkable change in the divine method of dealing. Years after this the question of receiving the Gentiles and eating with them, or in any sense of the word recognizing them as on an equality with the Jews was a cause of continual disturbance in the Church and among the most prominent of the Apostles. Years after Cornelius had received the Holy Spirit, teachers from Jerusalem went to "Antioch and found that there Gentiles were received on an equal footing with the Jews in the Church of Christ without in any sense of the word subscribing to Moses or the Law Covenant. They were shocked and expressed themselves in such a positive way that the Antioch church sent Paul and Barnabas with others to Jerusalem that a full conference on the question might be had. Guided of the Holy Spirit the Apostles reached right conclusions. Yet even Peter was so little in sympathy with these conclusions, that years after we find St. Paul reproving him for dissimulation and refusing to eat with the Gentiles brethren when Jewish brethren were in company through deference to the Law Covenant which somehow all Jews felt must be recognized and adhered to. St. Paul seems to have been one of the Apostles who early got the proper focus of the subject. This Judaizing teaching was in the ascendancy not only in Palestine, but its influence in considerable measure affected the Gentiles. (See not on Galatians; also note on Acts 21:22.) The Epistle to the Hebrews was written to prove that a totally new dispensation of Grace and not works had been ushered in through Jesus at Pentecost. (Rom. 10:4-13) (Z. '09-339; R. 4510) The question of the Law Covenant was a burning one in the early church, not only with the Hebrews but also with the Gentiles. Hebrews was written specially to Jews because of their tenacious adherence to the Law Covenant from which they seemed unable to free themselves.

The entire book occupies a very commanding position in the Bible. Some indeed have questioned its authorship, but to us there seems no room for doubt that it was written by St. Paul. It is marked throughout by his masterful logic, reverence and humility (personal). It gives insight into the divine plan of the ages, which fully comports with St. Paul's other epistles, and which far transcends in this respect all the other writings of the Bible. It has been noted by some that its style is more lofty than that of some other of St. Paul's Epistles, but this may be easily accounted for. Those other Epistles, though full of sound reasoning and logic, are written in a simple and fatherly style for the general reader. This one was written particularly for the benefit of the other eleven apostles and other learned Hebrews who were slow to discern the change of dispensation. Naturally therefore it was St. Paul's masterpiece, because upon it he evidently expended the greater labor—demonstrating the typical character of the Jewish Dispensation and indicating the antitypes of the Gospel Dispensation, as well as some reaching well into the Millennium. The references in Chapter 13 to Timothy and the statement "They of Italy salute you" imply that St. Paul wrote this epistle from Rome where he was in prison. (See note Acts 9:15) (Z. '09-133; R.4385)

- 1: — In this Epistle God is speaking to those who have become his people. Herein he gave insight into the hidden things, the deeper plans and purposes which he talks over with those who love to dwell in his presence. This is some of the latter rain; some of the table talks of Him who comes to sup with those who in the Laodicean period of the Church, have heard his knock, and opened the door. (Rev. 3:20) How gracious and loving is our Creator to have had these types enacted long ago, and then have raised up the Apostle Paul, and given him visions and revelations, by which he could write the epistle, to enable his people in the latter days to understand what the Lord is doing, and why and how!

This is the epistle of better things. Thirteen times in this epistle the Apostle uses the Greek word kreitton means better. It tells of a better spokesman than the angels (1:4); and of better things (12:24); better promises (8:6); better hopes (7:19); founded on a better testament (7:22); or covenant (8:6); having a better mediator (9:12-14); a better priesthood (7:23, 24); serving a better altar (13:10); in a better tabernacle (9:11); upon which are offered better sacrifices (9:23); it is a better ministry, leading to a better country (11:6). Even so, the fulfillment, the completed work is better than the blueprints.

- 1:1 — GOD, WHO AT SUNDRY TIMES — On various occasions, as the proper time came for the sending of the message.

IN DIVERS MANNERS — Or literally in many parts, as of portions or morsels given out.

SPOKEN IN THE PAST UNTO THE FATHERS BY THE PROPHETS

— These were scattered bits or pieces given in visions, types, prophecies, given to Moses, Samuel, David, to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, the progenitors of the Jewish people. God also spoke in various ways, such as visions or dreams, in pictures and types. In Hosea 12:10—"I have spoken by the prophets, I have multiplied visions and used similitudes (types) by the ministry of the prophets." In Amos 3:7—"Surely the Lord will do nothing, but he revealeth his secret by his servants, the prophets." In Job 33:14-17—"For God speaketh once, yea twice, yet man perceiveth it not. In a dream, in a vision of the night, when deep sleep falleth upon man, in slumbering upon the bed, then he openeth the ears of men, and sealeth their instruction, that he may withdraw man from his purpose, and hide pride from man."

1:2 — HATH IN THESE LATTER DAYS — The closing days of the Jewish age. Two ages are meeting here, one ending, the other beginning. The old methods were to be no longer used, and a new creation was to be begun. So all the messages and partial statements of the past are gathered into one now, even in Christ.

SPOKEN TO US — To the same Jewish people, to whom were given the Lord's promises, and the oracles of God (Rom. 2:3; 9:4, 5), to the Jew first, and also to the Gentile. (Rom. 2:6-10)

BY HIS SON — What a world of loving condescension is here shown! All of God's works speak volumes about him, but in His Son is the revelation of the brightness of his glory, the most complete revelation of himself in every manner. This wondrous Son was trained in the ways of the Father through all the ages, since the beginning of time, brought up under the Father's care and instruction. (Prov. 8:30) He was there when all the angels were created, even Lucifer, for the Son did the work of creation.

WHOM HE HATH APPOINTED — "Tithemi" = place, put, set; not the perfect tense but the aorist. The aorist expressed the simple occurrence of an act in past time, while the perfect expresses the completion and ending of an act in past time).

HEIR — "Kleronomon," from "kleros" = a die as used for casting in chances, and "nomos" = a parcelling out, as at Law; hence an heir of an inheritance by Law.

OF ALL THINGS — The whole universe and all the details in it. Jesus thus obtained by submission and obedience and patient waiting (like David waiting for the throne) the very things which Lucifer tried to grasp for himself, and so showed that he was not worthy of them.

ON ACCOUNT OF WHOM — Jesus.

HE — The Father.

CREATED THE AGES — Mistranslated worlds, the arrangement of periods of time, by and in which he would accomplish all his gracious purposes.

1:3 — WHO BEING THE BRIGHTNESS OF HIS GLORY — (Literally the Off-flash (“apaugasma” from “apaugalo” = emit brightness; from “auge” = brightness; “apo” = off from), as if in a burst of brilliance he had brought this glorious Son into being. Every glorious beauty of the Creator shines forth through this Son, each grace of character; humility, meekness, lovingkindness, patience, endurance, self denial—all those endearing qualities which draw us to him, and delight our hearts; as well as the greater, more noticeable qualities—justice, wisdom power. All the promises of God are in him, yea, and in him amen. (2 Cor. 1:20) In him and through him will be the completion and fulfilment of all the Father’s gracious promises and purposes.

AND THE EXPRESS IMAGE — (Character) — The impression as of a die, stamp or seal.

OF HIS PERSON — “Hupostaseos” nature or being, essence, essential being, literally—a setting under, something set under as a foundation, firmness, stability, substantial existence). This refers to his condition since his resurrection, when he was raised up to the divine nature, “For it pleased the Father that in him should all fullness dwell” (Col. 1:19); he is before all things by his being the first born of every creature (Col. 1:15); the beginning, the firstborn from the dead (at his resurrection), that in all things he might have the pre-eminence. In him dwelleth all the fulness of the divine nature bodily. (Col. 2:9) He is therefore the image of the invisible God. What strong expressions are these! And how complete! By these we know that the Father hath placed all things in the hands of his son, that all the Son’s acts, words, thoughts, are just like those of the Father. Like Pharaoh said to Joseph, “Only in the throne will I be greater than thou.”

How could two such beings exist separately, and yet be one in thought, plan, and will? We remember that through all the ages of the past our Lord Jesus was the agent of the Father, had watched him, studied his ways, and their results and found a supreme delight in their wonder, their wisdom and their beauty. As stated in Prov. 8:30, he was as one brought up before Jehovah, trained and educated in his presence. When Lucifer started to carry out his selfish ambitions, Jesus was there and saw the rebellion. When some of the angels fell and sinned, Jesus was there and watched it all. He noted that sticking close to the Father, obeying him and practising his ways brought happiness and security and long life. Therefore he loved righteousness.

UPHOLDING ALL THINGS BY THE WORD OF HIS POWER —

(Upholding means sustaining, from “phero”—bear or carry) as the provider of life and food and energy, distributing to each and all as needed. (Psa. 104:10-24) What a deep assurance that this great provider will also see to our needs! All things refers to the whole universe, and all the creatures in it.

BY THE WORD — Or express command (“Hremati,” not “logos”).

HIS — Jesus

POWER — Given him by the Father. Power = energy (“dunameos”), not merely authority, though he has both.

WHEN HE HAD BY HIMSELF MADE A PURIFICATION OF SINS

— How clearly this shows that it was himself that was offered to effect the purification. He gave himself, the beginning of the great work of eradicating sin out of the universe.

PURIFICATION — A washing off [“katharismos”], as of filth or dirt. This is a reference to the typical purification of sins by the offerings and washings of the Law arrangement, as fulfilled in the work of Christ; and this use of the adverb “when” (in the Greek the time is shown by the aorist middle participle being used, no separate word for when. Poiesamenos) shows that the purification must first be accomplished before the blessing could come, and how that offering for sin must be made before Jesus could be glorified.

SAT DOWN — [“Kathidzo”], took his place and position to carry out the application of his merit, and effect the salvation and deliverance of man.

ON THE RIGHT HAND — The promised exaltation as co-ruler with the Father in the throne—“Even as I also overcame, and am sat down with my Father in his throne.” (Rev. 3:21) “Sit down on my right hand until I make thine enemies thy footstool.” (Psa. 110:1) The place of supreme favor and authority with the Father.

THE MAJESTY ON HIGH — The peak, the highest point of honor and trust.

1:4 — BEING MADE — Through accomplishing the work thus done.

SO MUCH BETTER THAN (“Dreitton”) THE ANGELS — All other spirit beings, over whom Lucifer desired to have authority, and strove to grasp it. But the Son earns it by obedience and self-denial; and through this training realized how great are the responsibilities, and how much care and patience and love must be exercised in carrying out these great plans. The Son of God, before he came to earth was head over creation, but after his work of redemption he is become the head of creation.

AS HE HAS BY INHERITANCE — First he is the only begotten of God; and from Adam, as the Son of Man and by obedience to God, he won the earth and all of heaven by association and suffering.

MORE EXCELLENT — More distinguished, literally, something carried through, completed and finished, not merely started and then dropped as too difficult—“diphoroteros,” comparative of “diaphoros”—different, varying; from “diaphero”—carry through. His complete trust in the Father enables him to carry the work through to its successful accomplishment.

OBTAINED A MORE EXCELLENT NAME THAN THEY — By nature, by position, by attainment of every grace in its most complete fulness, by wisdom and knowledge. “By his knowledge shall my righteous servant justify many.” (Isa. 53:11)

BY INHERITANCE — (“Kekleronomeken”) — he has inherited, legally, justly) not by fraud nor grasping. Literally a name (“onoma”) beyond them.

1:5 — FOR UNTO WHICH OF THE ANGELS — Implying that this statement had been made to no other at any time. A sweeping statement, showing that while all the angels are sons of God, none have the honor of special creation, as had the Son. Paul here quoted Scripture to prove that these statements in the Psalms which were familiar to every Jew, could have reference only to one, and that one the real anointed of God. (Psa. 89:20-27) Then he gives a crowning proof of superiority in the prophecy.

WHEN AGAIN HE BRINGETH THE ONLY BEGOTTEN INTO THE HABITABLE — When the time comes for the Son to return to earth as its King at the Second Advent, the following proclamation is made.

LET ALL THE ANGELS OF GOD WORSHIP HIM — (Psa. 97:7) “He shall reign until all things are subdued unto him.” (1 Cor. 15:24-26)

THIS DAY HAVE I BEGOTTEN THEE, THOU ART MY SON — As this was spoken to a being already living, it does not refer to his first begetting but to his begotten to the divine nature at his baptism.

1:7 — If Jesus is thus so far superior to the angels, what is the glory of the angels, what positions do they hold? They have the great honor and privilege of being God’s special messengers and agents, as to Daniel, Moses and the prophets.

1:8 — BUT TO THE SON — (“Pros de,” concerning) — the supreme promise and statement:-

THY THRONE — The great reward of being God’s chosen and trusted agent to dispense the blessings and favors of God for his creatures. This is a great privilege, as it will earn their undying love, loyalty and gratitude. None are so fit and suitable and able as he, and none have so fairly earned it by self-abnegation, and loss of all things, but such perfect trust in the Father and love for him. (Rev. 5:9, 12, 13) @SECOND PAR = O GOD — O mighty one, for all power in heaven and earth are given unto him. Jesus.

IS FOR EVER AND EVER — Literally, into the ages of the ages; the first word “age” is singular, the second word “age” is plural. Christ’s reign will begin with the Millennial age, the best of all ages up to that time, but will lead up to the still greater ages to come. When all things are subdued unto the Son, and he hands the Kingdom over to the Father, and is himself subject to the Father, the Kingdom will have accomplished its work of restoration and deliverance. That age is called “The times of regeneration” (Matt. 19:28); “the dispensation of the fulness of times” (Eph. 1:10), the culmination of all the promises of God. In a larger sense the Kingdom of Christ will never end, because that which he establishes will never end, but will continue throughout eternity. All people will love and worship him. (Dan. 7:18; 2:44; Isa. 9:6, 7) When that work is done, there will be other work in other ages, in which Jesus will share the throne with the Father.

THE SCEPTER — The right or authority to rule (“hrabdos”)

OF RECTITUDE — (“Euthutetos,” nom. “euthutes”) — rectitude, uprightness; from “euthus” — straight, level

IS THE SCEPTER OF THY KINGDOM — Righteousness, truth and justice will be the basis of government.

1:9 — THOU DIDST LOVE RIGHTEOUSNESS — Not merely to practice it, but to love the right way, the true way to do a thing. He abominated a subterfuge. Just as a good workman enjoys doing a work the right way, first because that way brings the most beautiful results and with a satisfaction in the labor; and second, because to do a thing in the wrong way, willingly, begets in one an evil twisted tendency that leads to mischief and evil character, and finally results in inability to do the right way, a love of evil, and then death. Good workmen love to do anything the right way, and rejoice in it, and hate carelessness and slip-shoddy ways.

AND HATEST INIQUITY — “Emisesas anomian,” from “miseo”—to hate, detest; and “animia”—lawlessness. God’s ways are self-restraint, and self-control. Children of God delight in being governed by his laws, because in them they find the fullest enjoyment and expansion of all their faculties and powers. But in lawlessness is a final paralysis of all faculties and powers. Where God rules in the mind and heart there is liberty. That is what Jesus meant when he said—“Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free” (John 8:32); free from the twisting, morbid, paralyzing influence of disobedience, free unto the glorious expansion of every faculty and power of mind and body as Paul says—“The glorious liberty of the sons of God.” (Rom. 8:21)

THEREFORE — Because such an one can be trusted with anything at any time and in any place or situation.

GOD — Jesus.

THY GOD — Jehovah.

HATH ANOINTED THEE — Hath set thee apart and prepared thee in every particular, to do very great work that carries much responsibility, and you will have deep need of every quality he has trained thee to possess. This holy anointing oil, the Holy Spirit is pictured by the holy anointing oil of the Tabernacle and Temple, which was used to anoint the prophets, priests and kings. “The spirit of the Lord shall be upon him, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and might (of know-how and ability), the spirit of knowledge and of the reverence of the Lord, and shall make him of quick understanding (quick perception) in the reverence of the Lord. And he shall not judge after the sight of his eyes (by the outward appearance), neither reprove after the hearing of his ears (not decide from reports or circumstantial evidence), but with righteousness (accuracy) shall he judge the poor, and reprove with equity for (in the interest of) the meek of the earth. (Isa. 11:2, 3)

WITH THE OIL — “Elaion”—olive oil.

OF GLADNESS — “Agalliaseos” — exultation, extreme joy, all one’s nature can hold. from “agan” — much, and “Allomai” — to leap or jump; hence a rejoicing that will fill the whole being with delight.

ABOVE THY FELLOWS — The Church, literally above thine associates or sharers (“methochoi”). Many students believe this refers to the other angels, because the adjacent verses are contrasting Jesus with the angels. Truly he was given, by the anointing, a position and honor above all other spirit beings, except the Father. However, Jesus is the Head over the Church in all things. They are sharers with him in his sufferings and in his glory. They are his elect associates and sharers. (See F132) But the Church has not yet been brought into the picture or argument. The main discussion in the text seems to be to prove that Jesus is far above all other spirit beings. So there is quite an argument both ways. The word “sharers” would seem to favor the Church more.

1:10 — AND — Also, as a further proof of Jesus’ superiority.

THOU LORD — (Jesus as the agent of the Father.)

IN THE BEGINNING — (Of God’s dealings with man and his home.)

HAST LAID THE FOUNDATIONS OF THE EARTH, AND THE HEAVENS ARE THE WORKS OF THY HANDS — Evidently this passage refers not to the literal heavens and earth, but to the rules, regulations, and laws for human society, as given to Adam in Eden. The literal earth and heavens are to abide forever, according to Scripture, though they may undergo various physical changes. This arrangement between man and his Creator was one of perfection and peace, of sweet fellowship of thought and word and deed, through which doorways of ever deepening delights could open up, as Adam continued to obey and heed the instructions given him. The foundations of human society were there laid of family and fraternal relationships, on the basis of love and justice, on which the human race could have built a social structure as fine and sweet as that of heaven, in perfect joy and delight with each other in the unfolding wonders with which the Creator has filled the earth. But, as Solomon said—“This only have I found, that God hath made man upright, but they have sought out many inventions (innovations).” (Eccl. 7:29) Evil things, in robes of sorrow assailed the monarch’s high estate, selfishness and sin crept in, suggestions from the “father of lies,” “The Prince of darkness” twisted and distorted every one of these gracious arrangements, until all that is left is a pitiful mockery of what might have been.

1:11 — Of these originally glorious, but now sadly corrupted arrangements and relationships, the writer continues—

THEY SHALL PERISH — Because unfit for the glorious things of the future; full of unspeakable iniquity, they have no place among the pure and true things of the Kingdom. Paul describes the corruption of human society as the foundations of the earth in Rom. 1:21-32.

THEY SHALL WAX OLD AS DOTHS A GARMENT — Being worn out and useless; moral like physical decay, eventually brings its own destruction.

1:12 — AS A VESTURE SHALT THOU FOLD THEM UP AND THEY SHALL BE CHANGED — The arrangements, like a garment, were good when new, but as they have become unfit for further use, the new King will make all things new and clean and beautiful once more.

FOR THOU REMAINEST, THOU ART THE SAME — Thou art, as one day thou shalt declare thyself to be, the alpha and the omega, the first and the last. Literally—“Thou art he,” remaining the same through all the changes, Lord and Master in all times, ages and creations.

1:13 — Again the writer refers to the angels, those mysterious and wonderful beings, of a superior order to man, long known to the Hebrews as direct servants of God.

BUT TO WHICH OF THE ANGELS SAID HE IS AT ANY TIME, SIT THOU ON MY RIGHT HAND UNTIL I MAKE THINE ENEMIES THY FOOTSTOOL? — This extraordinary and astonishing statement had been addressed prophetically to the Son. (Psa. 110:1) Thus his superiority to all other servants of God is obvious, when we realize, as told in other Scriptures, that this making of his enemies his footstool or willing servants, will be by the use of God’s unlimited power, in a loving patient way, convincing these enemies slowly that God’s way is not only the best way, but the most beautiful and enjoyable and effective way, we are enabled to see somewhat of the indescribable grandeur of God’s purposes. Thus slowly and patiently will the new earth be developed up to perfection in thought, word, and deed, until God will really be all that is worth having in the life of every being.

1:14 — But meanwhile the angels have a high and honorable service to perform—

ARE THEY NOT ALL MINISTERING SPIRITS, SENT FORTH TO MINISTER FOR THEM WHO SHALL BE HEIRS OF SALVATION? — “Those being about to inherit salvation,” is the more correct rendering. Again we see here a reference to the “fellows” of verse 9, who are to share the inheritance and office of the Son, and who are so important in that plan that the holy angels are sent forth to minister, to serve them. They will always be ministering angels (the “diaknoi,” or persons in attendance, aid, service to the Almighty, from “diako”—to run on errands. Our word “deacon” comes from this word) but are now helping in the great present work of developing the Church. Glorious, wonderful, beautiful spirit beings, who during the Kingdom will again earn the loving attachment, respect and admiration of the earthly race of mankind. “Thus the Son of God is proved superior to the angels, who so far from being equal with him, worship him and serve his purposes.” (Dean Alford) Thus all God’s created beings will be knit together in mutual love and service.

2: — In this chapter the Apostle calls to our attention how surpassingly great is the offer of the salvation made to the Church: how careful we should be to listen very earnestly and hold fast the Truth, for our very life depends upon it. Then he shows how the Father’s purposes for the exaltation of his Son involved the redemption of our fallen race; that he should share their nature, their troubles, their sicknesses, and pay the death penalty in their stead, and in the course of these experiences be trained for the highest possible exaltation to the Father's right hand in the throne of the universe. He closes the chapter with such a revelation of sympathetic understanding by our Lord as lifts up our hearts in thanksgiving that we are accounted worthy to be associated with Him in His work now, and in the future.

2:1 — THEREFORE — because of the evidence presented in chapter one, that Christ is far above all angels and so speaks with the highest authority and the most complete experience—when He speaks it is not a light matter which we can afford to ignore or forget, but we should —

GIVE THE MORE EARNEST HEED — “Take fast hold of instruction; let her not go; keep her for she is thy life.” (Prov. 4:13) How our attention ought to be increased and intensified by our appreciation of the dignity of Christ, the speaker! The Greek word dei means ought or should, from the verb deo, to bind. As children of God it is binding on us to heed, we must. Greek word perissoteros translated “The more earnest” is the comparative of another word which itself means beyond superabundant, or excessive, and so literally means more superabundantly, to give close, undivided attention, with all our faculties. “Heed” means literally to hold the mind towards, or pay attention to the things heard LEST HAPLY — Without our notice, unknowingly—we should let them slip, literally flow by. Time and events are passing onward, we must live our lives in one direction or another; and we must give particular attention to the messages of our Lord, lest while our attention is on other things, these life-giving directions pass by and leave us without their helping and guiding influence, which at some time or other we will sorely need, despite the pulling of our natural inclinations and other influences, we must hold our minds with firmness and determination toward the word of God and its truth. How necessary it is then that we keep reading and studying the things which we know are the truth, and thus keep them fresh and straight in our minds, for we are leaky vessels. The whole thought of the verse is that our spiritual life depends on our heeding the Master's word, that we cannot afford to treat it lightly or ignore it. It is vital to our existence, we ignore it at our peril.

2:2 — FOR — Introducing an argument in behalf of the foregoing admonition —

IF THE WORD SPOKEN BY ANGELS — A reference to the Mosaic Law Covenant—“ordained by angels in the hand of a mediator.” (Gal. 3:19) The Law Covenant was introduced by the angels of God, and was enforced with strict precision. It was steadfast, literally became basic or binding.

EVERY TRANSGRESSION — (“Parabasis”) literally walking alongside of, and not in the path that is marked out, hence overstepping the ordinances, the outward act of withstanding the Law’s precepts.

DISOBEDIENCE — The Greek word parakoe, used but three times in the New Testament, means a mis-hearing, not listening to the teacher, a reluctance to hear or carelessness in hearing, so that the hearer does not get the message straight. The Diag. renders it “every deviation and imperfect hearing.” These —

RECEIVED A JUST RECOMPENCE OF REWARD — The last three words of this phrase are a translation of the Greek — misthapodosia: apo — off, didomi — give, misthos — wages or pay. For just, here, is endikon, right or just. Justice was the basis of the Law Covenant.

2:3 — SO GREAT SALVATION — Literally such as this, or so vast. This is the greatest offer ever made to any being, angel or man.

HOW CAN WE ESCAPE — Literally to flee out, as if from an impending disaster. How could we expect anything but disaster—

IF WE NEGLECT — The Greek word indicates a lack of interest or concern. What a world of woe is in that word “neglect!” What might have been had we only paid heed! Careless of such a jewel, or such priceless value, which cannot be replaced if once lost! He that prefers another thing surely is not worthy of “so great salvation.” How many are now drifting off to other pastures because they did not “Hold their minds” to various features of the Truth by going over them again and again as the years went by. There are so many ways in which we can refresh our minds about the different items of the Truth, by use of the Sunday School lessons, as they come up, reading what the Reprints have written on them, by attending the class studies of the truth, by meeting together for study, by rereading of the Studies and the Tabernacle Shadows and by reading the various journals which give forth the Truth and are faithful to it.

FIRST BEGAN TO BE SPOKEN OF BY THE LORD — This great salvation first began to be spoken of by the Lord. This passage is one of the proof-texts that the High Calling to the Heavenly glory is confined to the Gospel age, that it never was mentioned before, and when the door is closed it will never be offered again. (See Heb. 10:19, 20; John 3:13, 25-31; 2 Cor. 6:2; Matt. 11:11; Acts 2:29-36; John 14:2.) The whole Jewish age was to prepare the Jewish people for that Call, and when so few of them responded the Call went to the Gentiles, and ends with this Gospel age. This invitation was so important, as a special favor, that Jesus himself was selected to introduce it, as the Captain and Elder brother. Jesus announced it, and those who heard, the apostles and disciples, confirmed his words to us. These writers were eye-witnesses and hearers, and Jesus said—“I pray also for them who shall believe on me through their word.” Accordingly this same apostle afterward wrote—“The things which we have heard, which we have seen with our eyes, which we have looked upon, and our hands have handled of the Word of Life . . . declare we unto you.” And the Apostle Peter confirms this declaration, saying- “For we have not followed cunningly devised fables, but were eye-witnesses of his Majesty, and this voice we heard when we were with Him in the Holy Mount.” John 17:20; 1 John 1:1-3; 2 Pet. 1:16.

2:4 — GOD ALSO BEARING THEM WITNESS — Behind and supporting all these witnesses was the great Creator himself. So great and important was the work, that its announcement was accompanied by —

SIGNS AND WONDERS AND DIVERS GIFTS OF THE HOLY SPIRIT — Signs such as the stars in the east, and the song of the angels. Signs is a translation of the Greek word semeon, which means anything or everything whereby a person or saying is witnessed to be true—anything that proves. It has a more general, broader idea than the Greek teras, here translated “wonders,” which means something marvelous, extraordinary, in itself, something which by its very occurrence causes astonishment, and cannot be explained by the known laws of nature; whereby semeon may be something that in itself appears an ordinary event, but which gets its character from its associations, such as heavenly messengers. Various mighty works such as healing, causing the blind to see, the deaf to hear, and the lame to walk together with the gifts of the Holy Spirit further witnessed this announcement. This was a distribution, as parts from a whole, a progressive assembly of evidence, increasing in weight and importance. In fact, what a multitude of witnesses and proofs are given to the honest, inquiring mind-enough to announce and establish the fact beyond dispute! What a wonderful introduction to our high calling; what a vast assembly of divine agencies are used to bring our attention to this great opportunity!

2:5 — FOR UNTO THE ANGELS HATH HE NOT PUT IN SUBJECTION THE WORLD TO COME, WHEREOF WE SPEAK — On the surface it is a little difficult to see what relation this verse has to the adjacent text, and to the argument. But it is introduced by the word “For,” showing that there is a relationship as one of the causes for the truth of the things stated. Does it not give us greater assurance of the success of Christ’s Kingdom when we know that the Father has placed it under the direct control of His Son, rather than under any of the angels? Wise as they are, and beautiful beyond our understanding, they have twice failed in their efforts to deliver mankind from the grasp of sin and death; once in the time before the flood of Noah’s day, and again during the operation of the old Law Covenant; and even some of their own number fell, ensnared into disobedience. This verse has been used as an indirect proof that some world, such as that before the flood, was under the administrations of the angels. Other records show that the old world was governed thus after the expulsion of Adam from Eden. However the preposition “for” refers back to verse 2, where the Mosaic Law Covenant is mentioned. The Lord thus assures us that no such failure will accompany the New World, as befell the Old, but that it will be under the administration of Christ Himself, who never fails because He always does the will of the Father. Its success is guaranteed by the Almighty.

THE WORLD TO COME — Here again occurs that name for the earth, “oikoumene,” meaning “The habitable,” from “oikeo,” to occupy a house, to dwell. It refers to the earth in its restitution time, when it will no longer be a dying world, but a world again teeming with life and increasing in beauty and vitality.

2:6 — BUT ONE IN A CERTAIN PLACE TESTIFIED — The indefiniteness is designed, the very omission of the name so well known to all, fastens the attention upon it. David is thus brought in to add his testimony from the eighth Psalm. This testimony is concerning mankind and the great dominion that was lost.

WHAT IS MAN THAT THOU ART MINDFUL OF HIM? — Asks the Psalmist. This question is the inevitable result of thought upon the immensity of Creation, and in comparison, the puny efforts, the nothingness, of man. The vast forces and distances of the universe should humble us. How small a thing is needed to destroy human life! A few degrees extra of heat or cold, and we are destroyed; shut off the supply of oxygen and we die; or if we have too much oxygen it is equally fatal; so small a weight is needed to crush out our life! And yet the Creator, who made the vast system of worlds, provided this balance of forces that man may live and be happy, and provides them in immense detail, in abundance and in continuity. Surely our gratitude should lead us to supreme confidence and trust in such a Creator, and to consider it a great privilege to be counted worthy to serve Him.

WHAT IS THE SON OF MAN THAT THOU VISITEST HIM? — This means every son of Adam. The Greek word translated “visit” means to peer about, to inspect, to select, and by extension to go to see, to relieve. Man is God’s crowning achievement upon earth, and God visits him daily with many aids and directions. Why should so great a being be mindful of such a small creature as man? The Greek word is often used of a physician visiting the sick. So God visits the sick and fallen race of mankind ultimately to cure them of all ills and afflictions.

2:7, 8 — A LITTLE LOWER THAN THE ANGELS — More literally “a little less than”—is used in Greek [brachu ti par] just as much of space and quantity as of time, so there is no need that this passage be rendered—“A little while inferior to”—as some insist. God has made man in perfection just a grade or step lower than the angels. They are spirit beings, man is a material being. Nevertheless —

THOU CROWNEDST HIM WITH GLORY AND HONOR — This refers to Adam, the progenitor of the human race. The “glory and honor” rested upon him as a diadem, the glory of perfect manhood in the image of his Creator, the honor of rulership over the lower creatures whom he was to guide and manage in love and wisdom, so that the Earth would be a place of happiness and contentment. This was the “first dominion” referred to by the prophet Micah (4:8), and “the kingdom prepared from the foundation of the world,” referred to by our Lord in Matt. 25:34. What a wonderful and glorious dominion is the earth even now, filled with the riches of God, which man is just beginning to learn, and to get some intimation of the joys, beauties and delights yet in store for restored mankind! (Acts 3:19-24)

But alas, man lost his dominion and his glory and honor, and we behold him now in misery and distress as the result of his own wilfulness and stupidity. Despite his pride and boastful words, he is not able yet to take his dominion nor to rise out of his sickness and dying. (Psa. 49:7-10) But we do see a beginning of the carrying out of God’s plan for his restoration—we do see Jesus.

2:9 — WE SEE JESUS . . . MADE A LITTLE LOWER THAN THE ANGELS, CROWNED WITH GLORY AND HONOR — Note in this verse that the Apostle shows that Jesus became an exact counterpart of Adam in his glory and honor, using the same descriptive terms in reference to each, and then that Jesus yielded up his perfect manhood to redeem Adam and his race. When Jesus “was made a little lower than the angels” to become the “corresponding price” for father Adam, it was not an incarnation of the second person of the Trinity, or of the Logos, because he did not retain his “glory which he had with the Father before the world was,” but “divested himself” (John 17:5; Phil. 2:7 R.V.), and became a perfect human being “crowned with glory and honor” as Adam was. And for what purpose?

FOR THE SUFFERING OF DEATH — That he might go down into the grave and bear the curse of death pronounced upon Adam and his race. (Rom. 5:12, 18) “The Lord hath laid upon him the iniquity of us all. . . . He poured out his soul unto death.”-and thus he made atonement for the sins of the world. (Isa. 53:6, 12) What an exhibition of God’s wonderful graciousness and love, which in beauty bends to assist fallen and wounded man! When man was helpless and could not redeem himself, nor could any other saviour be found, God himself provided the Ransom. (Isa. 59:16) See the words of Abraham to Isaac in Gen. 22:8, and the joyful announcement in Job 33:24 “I have found a ransom.” Notice also that this ransom was for all mankind.

2:10 — FOR IT BECAME HIM — It was suitable, proper, just like Him—God the Father, in accomplishing his purpose of bringing not one, but many sons to glory. Starting with them as fallen children of Adam, He adopts them as His sons, because of their faith in Him, and brings them to the heights of the divine nature, from the depths of the valley to the mountain top. For all these sons he provides a pattern in their Captain. So he guides, first their Captain, and then each one of them, through a wondrous way of depths of sorrow and seasons of joy, experiences which teach them to know and trust and love their heavenly Father.

The writer expands the discussion to show the mystery of God, that following Jesus is a company of fellow travellers, under similar begetting, similar training, similar guidance. Jesus goes first, that he may help us along the way, shows us how to overcome the hard trials, the severe temptations, how to bear the loneliness, get the most out of our joys, and profit by all our experiences, even as the Father taught Him. He shows us that none of our experiences are needless, except as we by our blindness or slowness make our experiences harder or longer. He teaches us how the Father’s love and power operate to cure and deliver. (See also Z. ’11-58)

THE CAPTAIN OF THEIR SALVATION . . . PERFECT THROUGH SUFFERING —Captain is a translation of the Greek word archegos, chief leader, ruling leader, is a most suitable title of Jesus as the Head of the Church.

MADE PERFECT — The word implies a distant aim or result desired; a more or less long process or journey or experience to reach the final goal. This goal is to be attained only “Through suffering”—the disagreeable and painful experiences appointed by the Father “in bringing many sons to glory.” So of their princely leader it is written—“Thou tellest my wanderings, put thou my tears into thy bottle, are they not in thy book?” “The cup which my Father hath given me, shall I not drink it?” “Ye shall indeed drink of my cup and be baptized with the baptism I am baptized with.” (Psa. 56:8; John 18:11; Matt. 20:20-23)

How perfect was the trust of the Son in the Father! It was a privilege to follow where the Father led, no other course was thinkable, could not for a moment be considered! But what a strange perfection is this. For illustration, perfect piano playing is not reached in a short time, but only after days and weeks and months and years of continuing, unrelenting study and practice. How the fingers and hands sometimes ache! But by determination to endure the discomfort, and persistence to the end, the muscles and the eyes, the ears and the mind eventually become adept, accurate, powerful and quick, so that what the eyes read is instantly carried through the mind to the fingers and executed with accuracy, expression, and beauty, which fill the hearers with delight. For the average person the discomfort of long study and practice seems too great a cost, for they look at the present aches and pains, and fail to set their eyes on the goal—the trained eye and mind and hand which can bring forth the loveliest music. But if the whole soul is possessed of a deep love for music, and an ardent desire to attain it at any cost, then the aches and pains and the hardness of the way seem unworthy of consideration, because the mind's eye is looking ahead, steadfast to the end, the goal—the mastery of music.

So if we love our heavenly Father and our princely leader, Jesus, enough, and think of being with them in their home and nature, and of helping to bring others to the great joy and happiness of knowing and loving them, and enjoying this fellowship, then we count it a privilege to endure. “Blessed is the man that endureth temptation, for when he hath been approved he shall receive the crown of life which the Lord hath promised to them that love Him.” “Behold we count them happy which endure.” (James 1:12; 5:11) These sufferings teach us how terrible is the cost of disobedience, and by contrast how it darkens the mind and degrades man into a beast.

2:11 — FOR BOTH HE THAT SANCTIFIETH (JESUS) AND THEY WHO ARE SANCTIFIED ARE ALL OF ONE — The Father. “Sanctify” in the Greek is hagiazō, which means to set apart, and adopt into God's family and service. In this sanctification through our high calling, “washing of water by the word,” our offering in consecration and service in sacrifice, we become familiar with God's ways and become at one with Him in mind and heart. This body, including its Head, are “all of one,” because they are all called and begotten by the same Father, by the same Holy Spirit, in a similar way; all drink of the same cup and are baptized with the same baptism to the same nature and to a like glory. For this cause Jesus is not ashamed to call them brethren. But “whosoever shall be ashamed of me and my words in this adulterous and sinful generation, of him also shall the Son of Man be ashamed when he cometh in the glory of his Father with the holy angels.” (Mark 8:38; Rev. 3:3)

There are some of whom Jesus will be ashamed, but those mentioned in this verse of Hebrews and the overcomers who appreciate their privileges. Dean Alford has expressed this very beautifully: “Sanctification is glory working in embryo; glory is sanctification come to the birth and manifested.” (See also F230)

2:12,13 — No instance is here given where Jesus actually did call them brethren, but the writer gives far greater proof by citing prophecy—God's own statements:

I WILL DECLARE THY NAME UNTO MY BRETHREN IN THE MIDST OF THE CHURCH — (The congregation— “ekklesia”—called-out-ones.)

WILL I SING PRAISES UNTO THEE — Psa. 22:22.

AND AGAIN, BEHOLD I AND THE CHILDREN — (Of God, therefore my brethren)

WHOM GOD HATH GIVEN ME — As my associates. (John 17:6-24)
This last quotation is from Isa. 8:18. Here the prophet says these children were sign-children, part of a wonderful arrangement of God. The quotation:

I WILL PUT MY TRUST IN HIM — May be from several prophecies; some commentators take it as being from Isa. 8:17, the verse just before the preceding prophecy, in both Isaiah and Hebrews. (For this reason it seems quite likely that the second “and again” in verse 13 is a corruption of the original text and should be omitted). In John 17 Jesus acknowledges these children to have been given him by the Father—“Thine they were and thou gavest them me.” What a loving exchange between the Father and the Son, the Father’s loved ones entrusted to the care of the Son, a reward and rejoicing for both.

2:14 — FORASMUCH AS THE CHILDREN ARE PARTAKERS OF FLESH AND BLOOD, HE ALSO HIMSELF TOOK PART OF THE SAME; THAT THROUGH DEATH HE MIGHT DESTROY HIM THAT HATH THE POWER OF DEATH, THAT IS THE DEVIL —
These children were all originally Adam’s children, therefore to redeem them he had to become of their nature, the human nature, flesh and blood. The writer here brings in the philosophy of the Ransom; that Jesus had to become a human being, gladly and willingly fulfil the Law Covenant, and thus by obedience win its reward—the right to human life, with its inheritance of joy and blessing; then lay down that life at the bar of Justice, that through the help of the Father he might render powerless the slanderer, or accuser, the Devil (“diabolos”). This is one of the four names of Satan, which the Bible uses to show his characteristics: Satan, opposer or adversary, Dragon, devourer; Serpent, deceiver; “diabolos,” slanderer or false accuser. Jesus proved Satan’s slander of Job a lie. Satan said: “Doth Job serve God for naught?” Jesus showed that there are some who serve God because they love Him and delight to do His will, and do righteous things because they love them, and find in them beauty, and delight and happiness. Satan’s idea is that selfishness is the key-note of life; but Jesus proves that love is more beautiful, more successful, more effective, and leads to everlasting joys; whereas selfishness winds up with hopeless sorrow and vain regrets. “The harvest shall be a heap in the day of grief and desperate sorrow.” (Isa. 17:11)

How does Satan have the power of death? The Greek word rendered “power” has the thought of power or vigor from office, and is often translated “dominion” or “authority.” The dominion which Satan has seized and misused has become a dominion of death. As shown in Ezekiel, the being whom we now call Satan, was originally a cherub, one very near to the Most High, to whom the Father gave position and power as the “covering cherub” in the Garden of Eden, to protect Adam and his race, and guide them in the ways of righteousness and truth. But instead of being faithful to this trust, Satan’s vanity desired man to worship him instead of the Almighty; and through deceit he became the father of lies and the murderer of the human race. He seized authority in “the heavenlies,” and became the Prince or Ruler of this evil world. (Eph. 6:12; 2:2; John 14:30) So Jesus comes to bind the “strong man,” and take away his dominion and authority, and restore life with the kingdom and authority to mankind. “I am come,” said Jesus, “that they might have life, and have it more abundantly.” Thus Satan will be rendered powerless at the beginning of the Millennium, and be destroyed at its end. (See also Z. '02-261; Z. '96-152)

2:15 — AND DELIVER THEM WHO THROUGH FEAR OF DEATH WERE ALL THEIR LIFE TIME SUBJECT TO BONDAGE — The whole human race are subject to the bondage of death, but not all are held in bondage by “fear of death.” Many in the Church and outside of it have held not their lives dear unto them. Who are these who are afraid of death, and are held in bondage by fear of it? It has been suggested that this may refer to a class of consecrated ones who fear the suffering and sacrifices which they covenanted should be their portion, and who because of this fear are held back from their privileges and opportunities of suffering with Christ, until it is too late to become of the Bride Class. These later are delivered through great tribulation, when Babylon falls, and become servants of the Church; and this class is often referred to as the Great Company. There have been such all through the age. (R.4648, 5232) (See Also Z. '13-137; T-70, 72; Z. '10-230)

2:16 — FOR VERILY — Dean Alford points out that this word rendered “verily” is used only once in the New Testament, and not once in the Septuagint. It means that the statement made is a well-known, universally admitted truth. He renders it “For as we all know;” Moffatt translates it—“Of course.” Literally, “He did not take hold of angels, but he took hold of the seed of Abraham.” Some modern translators render this with the thought of taking hold to help or assist. The A.V. reads “Took not on him the nature of angels.” Some other translators understand the subject of the verb—“take hold”—to be not Jesus, but “the fear of death.” Death did not take hold of the angels, they were not condemned to death, but the children of Abraham were under that sentence. Either rendering would be allowable as far as grammar is concerned, but which is in harmony with the thought of the text? The Apostle is considering the fact that Jesus was made like unto his brethren, and so this statement should be like with that thought, namely that he did not become an angel, did not take the angelic nature, but did become one of the seed of Abraham, and took his nature.

2:17 — WHEREFORE IT BEHOVED HIM TO BE MADE LIKE UNTO HIS BRETHREN, THAT HE MIGHT BE A MERCIFUL AND FAITHFUL HIGH PRIEST — For this purpose he ought, it was morally necessary, that he be made like unto his brethren. How great and how deep is the justice of our Creator here exhibited—not too great a value demanded for Adam’s release, but a corresponding price, an “antilitron.” What confidence this begets in us toward our Creator! What depths of wisdom that Jesus should share the woes and difficulties which beset men, so that he might be a merciful High Priest. He is merciful because he realizes the difficulties, the weaknesses, the temptations, which beset his followers, and humanity in general. This is the first mention of Jesus’ office as a priest. He notes here one of the privileges of a true priest is to extend to the repentant one an assurance of forgiveness, and mercy, and sympathetic understanding, and patience in helping him to regain in his feet and standing before God. He is faithful to man because he loves the human race, and sees in it possibilities of a happy, restored race, in the image and likeness of their Creator, master once more of the earth and its teeming creatures, and stamped with the grandeur of victory and self-mastery, worthy to be entrusted with the care of God’s creatures of lower orders. And he is faithful to God, telling man the truth about God, and seeing that every feature of the Father’s plan is properly carried out.

TO MAKE RECONCILIATION FOR THE SINS OF THE PEOPLE — “To make reconciliation,” means to expiate or atone. The Greek word is hilaskomai, and refers to one who, paying the price, makes propitiation for the sinner, and brings him back into God’s favor.

2:18 — FOR IN THAT HE HIMSELF HATH SUFFERED, BEING TEMPTED, HE IS ABLE TO SUCCOR THEM THAT ARE TEMPTED — He suffered aches and pains and agony of mind and heart and body, rather than yield to evil. In those things that he suffered he was tried, and so knows how to bring to our aid the things which helped Him; to help us hold on and endure, even as he endured through the help of the Father. He suggests these helps to us, and shows us how to use them. He walked all that lonely way himself, and so knows by experience how hard it is, but also the things that will sustain us. When we come to him and to the Father in prayer he applies his bountiful merit to our shortcomings and corrects them, and renders our puny efforts acceptable to the Father. So let us go to him in our hour of need, and know that we will find in him an understanding, sympathetic helper. “Dunati boethesai” — He is able to render aid, by the power of sympathy and knowledge, and experience, fully equipped, fully trained.

3:— As we begin the study of the third chapter of Hebrews, it is as though we had entered a great cathedral, the doors have closed, the noise of the outer world has grown faint and died out, and around us is quietness and peace. Our minds become filled with the wonders and beauties of what we have seen and heard about the Lord, and a sense of greater wonders to come, of joys and delights of fellowship, of beauty and depth of thought and plan intrigue our faculties; our mental ears are awakened with interest and eagerness—for the light of the antitypical golden candlestick is illuminating our minds and the nourishment of the “bread of the presence” is quickening our perceptions and faculties. The Lord through the apostle has things to show to us and tell us that require preparation of heart and mind, and he is opening them up gradually to our vision. In chapter 5:11 Paul says—“Of whom we have many things to say which are hard to be uttered, seeing ye are dull of hearing.” But blessed are they who have become interested in the Lord and in his purposes, that have followed his drawing influence thus far. “The secret of the Lord is with them that fear him, and he will show them his covenant.” (Psa. 25:14)

3:1 — WHEREFORE — (“Hothēn”) because of the wonderful things Jesus has done for us, and his interest in us, as told in chapters 1 and 2.

HOLY BRETHREN — They are the Lord’s property, of their own free will consecrated to Him and are Jesus’ brethren. (Heb. 2:11)

PARTAKERS — (“Metochoi”)—sharers, by implication associates from “meta”—amid, or in the midst of, plus “echo”—to hold; similar to “koinonos”—a partner, from “hoinos”—common; sharers, associates, called as the apostle was, having like benefits and experiences, close brethren of the same family.

HEAVENLY CALLING — The Heavenly Father himself has invited us through His Son to come to Him and be His sons, and be trained for wonderful things both now and in the future. It is a call from heaven and leads into heaven.

CONSIDER — (“Katanoesate” from “kata”—down, plus “noieo”—to exercise the mind, to observe.) Let us look deeper into the glorious qualities of our wondrous Lord, minutely examine and study them, turn them over in our minds and look at them from every angle. If we have found joy and blessing of heart and mind thus far, the desire to go farther should be all consuming. Our guide beckons us onward, let us follow.

THE APOSTLE — Literally one set apart from others and sent on a special mission, an ambassador, a legate (“apostolos”). So Jesus, above all others is God’s special ambassador to his human creatures, the “Messenger of the Covenant.”

HIGH PRIEST — “Archierea” —literally ruling priest.

OF OUR PROFESSION — (“Homologias” —from “Homos” —the same, plus “Logias” —speech), of our common speech, or confession of belief, the chief and leading exponent of our belief.

JESUS — The title.

CHRIST — Is not used here in the original, but occurs first in verse 6. As his anointing was mentioned in chapter 1:9, perhaps the author wishes first to call our attention to the man Jesus as a human being, which was done in the second chapter.

3:2 — Paul calls our attention first to his faithfulness, that he was true to the trust placed in him. That is the first and most important requirement of an ambassador or herald or representative, that he can be entrusted by.

HIM WHO MADE HIM — “Poiesanti” = made, not appointed.

EVEN AS MOSES WAS — This statement shows that Moses was a likeness of Jesus in several ways. Let us note this similarity because the apostle expands it in the later discussions. This is a reference to God’s statement about Moses in Numbers 12:7. This was indeed high commendation, there could be no higher. (See also Z. 10-228; R.4646)

3:3 — MORE — The word for “more” is put first in the Greek sentence, to make it more emphatic.

HONOR — “Doxes” = outward glory. Worthy of more praise or recognition or outward honor. Even as the maker or builder has more intrinsic worth or value (Time = inward or intrinsic value) than the house itself. So Jesus, in his prehuman condition, is here stated to be the builder of the house of Moses, that is, the organization of the Jewish people and priesthood under and including Moses. The Scripture, Num. 12:7, says it was God’s house, and Jesus was the executor of the plan, arranged the Law Covenant with its laws and sacrifices, because the Father made all things through the Son. (John 1:3; Col. 1:16) Paul then clinches this thought in verse 4.

3:4 — FOR THE BUILDER OF ALL THINGS IS GOD — This clinches the thought in verse 3.

3:5 — In verse 5 the apostle mentions the things which he will discuss in more detail later on.

MOSES WAS A SERVANT — Not “doulos”—a slave, but “therapon”—one who is subservient to another whether by office or occasion. The high office filled by Moses demanded a better word. He could not be a son, for the Ransom had not been given in Moses’ day.

FAITHFUL FOR A TESTIMONY — The word for “for” in the Greek is eis, ordinarily meaning “into,” but its use here implies a purpose in the whole of that mentioned in the preceding clause, that Moses’ house was made not merely for itself but as something pointing to another house. The word for witness is “marturion,” a witness such as is brought up in court.

OF THE THINGS — “Things” (“ton”) “To be spoken after” (“lalethesomenon”) = the future perfect participle passive, meaning literally—the things which were to have been spoken (afterward). The future perfect participle requires that the thing spoken be referred to a time wholly subsequent to the ministry of Moses. Hence they refer to the Gospel, and the fulfilment of those types by Jesus and the Church. This tells us the arrangement under and with Moses were typical, exact counterparts of the work to be done by Jesus and his Church, all that Moses did and said referred to greater things, words and deeds. These are the Tabernacle types, of which the Book of Hebrews reveals the antitypes. “See thou make all things according to the pattern showed thee in the mount.” (Ex. 25:40) The family of the “house of servants” was a type of the family of the “house of sons.” (See B203-208; see also Z.’09-340; R.4510)

3:6 — BUT CHRIST AS A SON OVER HIS OWN HOUSE — (Oikos = a dwelling, and implies a family). This is a higher honor than even Moses had. The servant knoweth now what his lord doeth, but the sons are privileged to know and understand and be entrusted with parts of the work to be done. (John 15:15) God has placed His Son over this house as their leader. What a wonderful and great privilege to be of this class. Let us strive earnestly that we lose not this great prize. Many expositors do not see the main point here—that the House of Sons was the main thing in the mind of God, and he so arranged that the House of Moses, as servants, should picture and give testimony concerning the house of sons, that by means of that record the anointed ones might understand and with heartiness enter into the work and plans of the Father and Son.

WHOSE HOUSE ARE WE — Primarily Paul and his Hebrew readers, and later the whole Church. The apostle brings in the great mystery that the Church are sharers with Jesus not only in the anointing but in the work and service. What an inestimable privilege, to be co-workers with them, a fellowship of service, of life, and of training. As this fellowship continues in mind and heart, in life and service, there comes into the mind and life of each member of the Church a deep peace and joy that the world is utterly unable to understand. “My peace I give unto you.” “These things have I spoken unto you that my joy might remain in you and that your joy might be full.” (John 15:11)

But there are conditions to be met, and regulations to be fulfilled if we would become fixed and final members of this house. Not only must we have the anointing, but we must “hold fast.”

HOLD FAST — “Kataschomen”—from “kata”—down, plus “echo”—to hold, to hold down. The word implies a special effort must be made to keep it from either slipping away or being taken away from us. Satan tries to loosen our grasp by distracting our attention or by force or threats of dire terrors; but we should not listen to his enticements nor his threats. “My Father who gave them me is greater than all, and no man is able to pluck them out of my Father’s hand.” (John 10:29)

THE CONFIDENCE — “Parhresia”—from “pas”—all, plus “hreo”—to flow or to speak, as words flowing. Means the thorough conviction, and earnest confession, and whole hearted defense, all this is implied in this word.

AND THE EXULTATION OF THE HOPE — “Kauchema tes elpidos”—from “aucheo”—to boast, plus “euchomai”—to wish, hence a wish or belief that is so strong it makes us boast, or confidently confess our faith. “elipidos”—from “elpo” or “elpido”—to anticipate with pleasure. The thought is that this hope must be held so fervently, deeply and strongly that it influences our whole life and being. Let not this hope become dimmed by too much attention to other things, nor be neglected, for our life is a faith life. There can be no half-heartedness, nor may-be’s, nor I hope so’s, or we will fail to win our place in this exalted company.

3:7 — THEREFORE — Because of the opportunity of so great an honor and the danger of losing it, the need of holding fast our exultant confidence and hope. How shall we hold fast? By not merely not letting the mind question the ability or faithfulness or goodness of our heavenly Father, but by so filling the mind by prayer and study and thought and fellowship with God that there cannot be even the slightest suggestion of doubt, that to doubt would be stupid and blind indeed. Yet Satan has filled the outside world with clamorous, lying appearances and falsehoods that if we look or listen too much to the world’s influence, there will gradually develop a dullness of mind and lack of faith, leading finally to unbelief, which fails to note all the bountiful proofs of God’s faithfulness and love.

AS THE HOLY SPIRIT SAYS — That is the Father sending us this warning and admonition in the Psalms (105:7-11) God’s mind thus speaks to us, as a loving Father gives us help to guide and keep our feet in his paths.

TODAY — Now, during this Gospel age when the high calling is open, God's time clock gives sufficient time for all the called ones to make sure of their election, but no time to throw away. Sometime "today" will end, and many will say "the harvest is past and the summer is ended, and we are not saved." (Jer. 8:20)

IF YE WILL HEAR HIS VOICE — The A.R.V. reads "O, that ye might this day hearken to his voice!" God does not force any of us. It is up to us. Do we appreciate the high calling enough to hearken and obey? If we keep that exultant confidence and hope firmly to the end we will gladly hear and obey because we love Him and delight to walk in his ways.

3:8 — HARDEN NOT — "Me Sklerunate"—from "skeruno"—to endure or harden, from "skleros"—dry, that is hard or tough, from "skello"—to parch. How do we harden the mind? By resisting the good impulses or suggestions sent by the Holy Spirit from God. Every making of excuses or resistance renders the spiritual ear more dull, and the vision less clear, less responsive to the suggestions of the Holy Spirit till the point is reached where no impression is made, and the mind has become dry and hard through lack of the oil of the Holy Spirit. Then when some message comes upon which the very life depends it is not heard nor sensed, and the mind drifts into darkness. Even as the Jews, because of their continued neglect of God's repeated messages and warnings, could not recognize the voice of their long-looked for Messiah. They knew not the day of their visitation. The Master wept over them because he knew what they were losing, but they did not heed nor care. Now God would remind us of these lessons of the past.

IN THE BITTER PROVOCATION — "Parapikrosmo" from "papapikraino"—to embitter alongside, repeatedly, to exasperate; from "pikros"—sharp, pungent, acid, translated "bitter." By their repeated hardness of heart, no matter how many times he reproved them, or how much he had blessed them they embittered the Lord's feeling toward them by their disobedience and waywardness.

TEMPTATION — "Peirasmou"—testing, from "peiradzo"—to test; from "peira"—a test through, or thoroughly; from "pero"—to pierce. There were ten temptations (See Ex. 5:21; 14:11; 15:24; 16:2; 17:2, 3; 32:1; Num. 11:1, 4 (twice); 12:1; 14:2).

3:9 — WHERE YOUR FATHERS — "Where your Fathers tried" ("Epeirasan") "proved" ("Edokimasan"—from "dokimadzo"—to test; from "dokeo"—to think) "and saw" ("eidon"—to see). That is they tested by trial, came to conclusions by thinking, and saw the evidence—a complete chain that should have satisfied the people. There was no excuse for unbelief. Then why did they not believe? The next verse tells us why.

FORTY YEARS — A complete testing period.

3:10 — THEREFORE — Because the people would not believe, would not let the proofs God gave them sink into their minds, though it was indisputable evidence.

I WAS GRIEVED — “Provoked” more literally. (“Prosochthisa” — from “pros” — as, toward, plus “ochtheo”—to be vexed, hence to be indignant at something repeatedly irritating.

THEY DO ALWAYS ERR IN THEIR HEART — Literally they are wanderers in heart (“planontai”—from “planao”—to wander, roam, go astray (as though not guided by a will), from “plane”—a straying or wandering). Their heart affections were not fixed on God, were not placed in His hands by a full consecration to Him. Hence they were subject to outside influences, listened to other voices, and were misled into harmful practices and ways of thought and action. “Keep thou my wandering heart, and bid it cease to roam.”

THEY KNOW NOT MY WAYS — Are not familiar with my paths (“hodos”—a road). They were not sincere nor earnest and so did not set their hearts to learn and practice His will. Through lack of practice in God’s ways they did not know them, could not recognize them; they did not know the right way and so were like a ship at sea without compass.

3:11 — IN MY WRATH — “Orge”—violent passion, abhorrence.

I SWORE — “Homo,” or “homoo,” or “hommue”—to take oath.

REST — “Katapausin,” from “kata”—down, plus “pauo”—to settle or stop. After giving complete opportunity, and ten repeated chances all of which were thrown away, the Lord gave a final decision—not worthy. Out of 600,000 adult males only two were found worthy to enter the typical rest.

3:12 — BEWARE BRETHERN — “Beware” (“Blepete”—take heed, from “blepo”—to look carefully). “Brethren” (“adalphoi”) A term of loving interest. “Lest there should be in any one of you.” It is more than most people can do, to see their own defects, so we need divine help in our scrutiny. (Psa. 139:23, 24) “Search me O God and know my heart (make me to know it); try me and know my thoughts; and see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting.” So let each one examine himself with the Lord’s help.

AN EVIL HEART — (“Ponera kardia.”) There are several words for bad in the greek language—“kakos”—worthless, intrinsically bad; “poneros”—from “ponos”—pain, refers to the effect, literally causing pain or hurt or damage; “sapros”—bad, corrupt, from “sepo”—to putrefy, rot, hence something fallen from original good or purity. the word here is “poneros”—a condition causing an evil influence, hurtful, damaging, which proceeds from a heart of unbelief “apistias,” literally no faith, without faith; the genitive case here has the thought of possession, hence an evil heart belonging to or characteristic of unbelief. Unbelieving hearts not only rob themselves of joys they might have, but send out an evil, hurtful influence around them. Unbelievers ultimately lose all (Rev. 21:8), they cannot share life and its blessings with those who can see beyond their five senses.

3:13 — BUT LET US EXHORT — “Parakaleite”—strengthen together, comfort one another. This is the same word used of the Holy Spirit when it is called a Comforter. (John 15:26; 16:7) Let this spirit of hope and courage shine forth in our eyes and in our words to one another, and to ourselves.

EACH DAY — “Hekestēn”—while or so long as “Today is named,” that is during this period of the high calling, for soon the door will be shut, and the Gospel age ended.

THAT NO ONE OF YOU BE HARD — “Sklerunthē”—dried up, withered, hard.

BY THE DECEITFULNESS — “Apate,” from “apatao”—to cheat, delude.

OF SIN — “Tēs hamathias”—the sin. the one which specially attacks you at any time. Remember that all sin is a cheat, a delusion, a lie. It will finally bring the loss of everything.

3:14 — FOR — (“Gar”), a reason for watching. Note this condition attached before we can have complete victory. We are made “partakers of christ” (“metoxoi tou Christou”—sharers of the anointed, partakers with Jesus in all that he has). Note the genitive case here, not partakers with Christ, but of Christ.

IF WE HOLD FAST — “Bebaiān kataschomen”—hold down firmly, with determination and energy and watchfulness. @SECOND PAR = THE BEGINNING OF OUR CONFIDENCE — (“Tēs archēn tes upostaseos.”) The beginning, the fresh vitality, the eager interest, the all absorbing determination of our confidence, (literally our standing under), our conviction of its truth and importance that caused us to give our strength and influence in full measure.

FIRMLY — “Bebaiān”—firmly, sure, from “bebaio”—to establish; from “basis”—a pace, the foot.

TO THE END — “Mechri telous”—up to, as far as the end. Dean Alford points out that this end is not merely the end of each one’s life, but to the second coming of Christ, making it true of the church as a whole.

3:15 — With regard to this statement, or in respect of it—“today if ye will hear,” the apostle has something to tell us that is important for us to hear.
(Z. ’10-222; R.4645)

3:16 — FOR SOME — Who? (“tines”) This sentence is by more modern scholars treated as a question. “Who, when they had heard, provoked? Was it not all who came out of Egypt by Moses?” See Diag., Moffatt, A.R.V., Roth. (“tis, tines,” some, any, a certain; while “tis, tines,” who, what, which?). The ancients had no accent marks, so the word might have either the indefinite pronoun, which has the grave accent, or the interrogative pronoun, which has the acute accent. But the form of the sentence suggests a question.

Caleb and Joshua were the only exceptions.

3:17 — WITH WHOM WAS HE VEXED? — “Prosochthise” — indignant at something repeatedly irksome, irritating.

WHOSE CORPSES FELL — “Kola”—any member of the body, especially the legs, but also used for the arms or limbs, as though they became weary and worn and gave way. “epesen”—from “pipto”—to fall.

3:18 — He makes the question emphatic by repetition in another form, to make it sink in, because the point is very important.

3:19 — Paul calls our attention to the fact that unbelief makes us unable, takes away the ability to enter into the blessings and joys promised. This is the main point of this chapter, to point out that the unbeliever robs himself of all the blessings and joys promised. It is that the unbeliever himself is shutting the door in his own face. The Lord has many wonderful things to show us in the Book of Hebrews, but if we do not believe, we cannot go farther.

4:— Ezek. 20:12. “I gave my Sabbaths to be a sign.” See Col. 2:16, 17; 2 Chr. 8:13 and notes; Psa. 1:4; Isa. 58:42. (See also Z. ’09-340; R.4510)

4:1 — LET US THEREFORE — “Let us fear, therefore,” not be in terror, but as so many have failed to enter into His rest in the type, because of the blinding, paralyzing influence of unbelief, we should have a lively appreciation of the dangers involved in neglecting, or being too preoccupied, or in any other earthborn cause that would make our spiritual vision dim, or our interest relax, or would make doubts arise, and so the heavenly inheritance lose its vital reality.

But rather, this promise of an heavenly inheritance being left to us, it is up to us to prepare for it, to gather strength by feeding on the heavenly manna, drinking deeply of the water of truth from the smitten rock, and patiently waiting the Lord's due time. This promise is left for all the consecrated, but only those who like Caleb and Joshua preserve their confidence and fellowship and prayer, will finally be able to enter in.

Note the present tense of the verb—being left, not will be sometime, nor has been, but still is left to us, as something we can grasp with certainty and hold unto, a real living promise.

SHOULD APPEAR TO COME SHORT OF IT — Not here “come too late,” though that is the ordinary meaning of the verb “hustereo” (come late), but refers to the final passing of judgment at the end of our course. This implies that some will be found lacking, come short, through neglect.

4:2 — FOR UNTO US WAS THE GOSPEL — “For the Good News”—of the promised land of Canaan, a rest from journeying and waiting, their goal and inheritance. The apostle here points out that the message to them was a type of the message to us, of the great salvation and the heavenly Canaan. To them it meant a rest from the wilderness and the desert heat, from wandering and living in a tent to a land of beautiful hills and valleys, abundance of springs of living waters, cool and refreshing, the early and latter rain, rich fruits in abundance, and no fear of enemies. That was the highest rest these people could imagine. See Deut. 8:7-9; 11:10-12.

But the good news, “the word of hearing,” did not profit them (“Oopheleo”—to be useful, helpful, serviceable, beneficial. From “oophelia”—usefulness, benefit.) This message sent for the sole purpose of being heard and heeded, thereby becoming a guide to lead them to the full realization of all their hearts' longings.

Our Master said “he that hath an ear to hear, let him hear.” What is a hearing ear? A mind that is awake and eagerly listening for the Master's voice, the Father's message through our Master, and a heart that loves to do His will, to obey. Do you have a hearing ear? Do you study the harvest message sent by the Father through His Son—that wonderful reuniting of all the Word of God in the beauty and harmony of the Plan of the Ages—the most thrilling and rapturous melody that mortal ear ever heard? Or because the time seems long and the vision delayed, are you becoming weary, and neglecting the continued study of that same Harvest Message in its various features—type and shadow, chronology, Sabbath and Jubilee systems, prophecy and warnings, admonitions of heart messages of fellowship? Oh brethren, let us hold fast the things which we have received!

Why did the good news not profit them? not produce the intended increase in qualities of heart and mind that would fit them for the blessings promised? Because it was not mixed with faith in them that heard it. (“Sugkerannumi”—to combine, mingle, mix). It did not find a responding condition of heart and mind. It did not find a soil in which it could take root, but a stony condition of unbelief. But why did they not have faith? Because as stated in chapter 3, they had a wandering heart, a heart not fixed in full, sincere consecration to God; they had not kept their hearts affection on God, and hence were open to the influences of other voices, other messages which led them away from God. This is the fate of all who fail to keep their heart and mind fixed on Him, given wholly to Him. It is not sufficient that we once had consecrated, but we must continually keep that covenant, that we may receive His message and heed it.

4:3 — WE WHO BELIEVE DO ENTER — The believing must precede the rest of mind and heart. what is this rest? The apostle says it is the kind God has from the creative works finished at the foundation of the world. “And God looked upon all that he had made, and behold it was good.” We are not to suppose that God ceased from his managing and directing the rest of the universe. Rather, as the Bible account relates to this earth, we should understand that God had brought the earth and its creatures up to the point where they were ready for man’s habitation and man was created and placed upon it. Then a whole week of 7000 years was set apart for man’s training in order that he might be fit and able to be intrusted with the wonderful powers and joys which the great Creator had in store for him, and for a still more wonderful work—the training and development of the New Creation, the Church, both of which purposes necessitated the permission of evil. God turned his attention to work for man through Christ. This is one day in the Creator’s reckonings, and is set aside for this work. So in vs. 7 we are said to rest.

ENTER INTO REST — This shows how Christ magnified the Sabbath Law. The Jew gave one-tenth of all he had, as holy unto the Lord. But the Christian is advised to give all he has and is. (Luke 14:33, 26; Matt. 10:37, 38; 1 Cor. 6:19, 20; 10:31; 2 Cor. 5:15) Likewise the Jew gave one-seventh of his time, but we are to give seven-sevenths, all. In Lev. 19:30 and Deut. 12 the Jews had a special place as a sanctuary, but the Christian finds his sanctuary wherever he is. Every place is a holy place, and every day is a holy day, a Sabbath of rest to him. He has a better sanctuary to reverence and a better Sabbath to keep. As his Sabbath differs so does the nature of his rest differ; not merely rest from manual labor, but a rest from laboring for oneself in order to work and live for God. (2 Cor. 5:15)

4:4 — REST THE SEVENTH DAY FROM ALL HIS WORKS — How did God rest? He ceased working for himself in order to work for man through his Son. And how do we rest like him? By ceasing to work for self in order to work for Him through Christ. We must refrain from doing our own ways, from finding our own pleasures, from speaking our own words, and we must do that every day, therefore every day is a Sabbath for us. (Isa. 58:13) every day we are to “speak as the oracles of God.” (1 Pet. 4:11) Every day God is to “work in us to will and to do of His good pleasure” (Phil. 2:13); everyday the steps of a good man are ordered of the Lord. (Psa. 37:23) (P.P. Vol. 2:1)

4:7 — In verse 7 we are told that the time is limited, that a time will come when the door will be shut, and no more can enter these privileges. So let us work at our religion while it is called today. We are said to rest from laboring for our own plans and spend our time and energy in working for God through Christ.

4:8 — Notice that in verse 8 it is pointed out that the rest which God had in mind for those who love him, supremely, is far greater than the faithful Israelites gained in Canaan, far greater than we now have by faith—“there remaineth therefore a rest for the people of God.” Our Creator has greater things for his people than the mere satisfaction of their five senses and natural or animal desires. He has given man a mind in the image of his own mind, and when this is developed or transformed under God’s instructions, it enters into higher delights and joys than our senses can detect. It leads to spiritual communion with our Master, and with our Creator, thrilling the mind and heart more deeply than any of the natural things can.

4:9 — THERE REMAINETH A REST — (See also note vs. 8). This rest which the Church now enjoys in a measure by faith, is mentioned in Isa. 58:13, 14—(Leeser) “If thou turn away thy foot for the sake of the Sabbath, from doing my pleasure on my holy day, and call the Sabbath a delight, the holy of the Lord; and shalt honor Him, not doing thine own ways, nor finding thine own pleasures, nor speaking thine own words; then shalt thou delight thyself in the Lord (find the delights of the Lord), and I will cause thee to ride upon the high places of the earth (give thee the highest and best things the earth has to give, the highest things earthly beings can enjoy) and will feed thee with the heritage of Jacob thy father.” What was the heritage of Jacob? He left all his earthly things with Esau, but he gained God’s covenant and his promises (the realization of God’s promises for the “seed.” “For Jehovah hath spoken it.” Jacob went hungry to get that promise. But Esau had rather fill his belly than get the promises. Probably Esau never even thought of the promise. Do not we want the best things that can be obtained while here on earth? Then let us labor, work for it, that we may enter in.

4:10 — See also Z. '06-106; R.3753; F48. Also see notes on Gen. 1:2. See also Jer. 9:23, 24 for the things God delights in—righteousness, judgment and justice, mercy, truth. In Phil. 4:8 we are told to think on these things for they are the delights of the Lord, the things about which He thinks. The Church, in their minds and hearts, are now privileged to experience the foretaste of this perfect rest. They are learning not to let worry or care fret them, but to cast all their cares upon Him. They are making a habit of that perfect confidence that he doeth all things well. Thus the strain and burden is lifted from their minds, and they are free to think and to enjoy fellowship with our heavenly Father and our Lord Jesus, by faith to eat of the luscious fruits of the land of promise, to drink of the new wine of the Kingdom, and the sparkling living waters of the antitypical Canaan, and to begin to realize what is meant by perfect peace.

4:11 — LET US EARNESTLY ENDEAVOR — (“Spoudazoo”—use speed, make effort, be prompt and earnest; from “spoude”—speed; earnestness; from “speudoo”—to speed or urge on, from “pous”—foot) lest any one should fall after the same example of unbelief. Though the Lord is very patient with all his children, we have no time to waste nor energy to waste upon frivolities, or carelessness or neglect. We may think that we could never be an unbeliever, but let us remember that that condition does not come upon one suddenly, but insidiously, through forgetfulness or neglect persisted in, we wake up to find we have too little and are too late.

4:12 — FOR — we need to be urgent and earnest because we have to do with a most searching influence, a most penetrating searchlight.

THE WORD OF GOD — The word of God is a vital energetic force that cannot be avoided nor escaped. More effective than any literal sword (two-edged), even cutting through to a separation of soul (“psuches”) and breath (“pneumatosis”) and of the joints (“armoon”) and marrow (“mueloon”), and to judge the thoughts (“enthumeseoon”—the ponderings or thoughts from “en” and “thuoo,” literally an inward breathing) and intents (“ennoimoon”—from “en”—in, and “nous”—the mind, from the root of “ginooskoo”—to know, meaning something in the mind or intellect or understanding) of the heart. So this Word of God searches out even the motives behind the thoughts. Ah! that is getting at the base of things! No creature or thing can be hid from such a searching influence. In the presence of such a revealer of every defect, what chance would we have! Ah, but God in his great love has provided a High Priest who understands, who sympathizes in all our broken endeavors and failing efforts, because he has passed this way before us. With the help of His Father he endured the temptations, the testings, the hunger, the loneliness, the darkness and death, and he trod that way alone, only the Father was with him. So he was tested and tried in all points like as we new creatures are tested, and he conquered and came through it all without sin.

As our high priest he is the great burden bearer, upholding the two parts of the antitypical ephod, that garment in the Tabernacle pictures which represents the two covenants—the Abrahamic, with the Law Covenant added, and the New Covenant. Upon his shoulders rests the two onyx stones, which hold the two parts of the garment together, and on these stones are graven the names of the twelve tribes of Israel, six names on each stone. “And Aaron shall bear their names before the Lord, upon his two shoulders, for a memorial.” Keep them ever in remembrance before the Lord, continually. So he understands how great the struggles are, what an effort it sometimes takes to keep God’s will before our minds, knowing that we fail so often and lack so much. His merit is ready for our asking, to make up for all our defects, as long as the intent is to do His will. (See Exod. 28:12)

He acquaints the inquirer with the mercies provided for him, and the needed procedure to obtain those mercies. In Revelation 8:3, 4 he is pictured: “And another angel came and stood at the altar, having a golden censer; and there was given unto him much incense, that he should add it to the prayers of all the saints, upon the golden altar which is before the throne.” Herein is mentioned “much merit,” Jesus’ own personal merit, being added to the prayers of the saints, making their efforts acceptable as perfect through Him. Could we ask for more?

THOUGHTS AND INTENTS OF THE HEART — Which deceive so many into thinking a wrong course justifiable. The Christian who makes continual and good use of this sword will soon find that with its assistance he is able to analyze his own motives lying behind his words and his acts, the motive or intention lying hidden in their own minds, and will find himself sometimes secreting them and sometimes masquerading them as graces and otherwise. (N-11-7-09) (See Gen. 6:5 for another verse on heart motives.

4:16 — LET US COME BOLDLY — Confidently, not timidly as if we feared God might not keep his word, or our need be too great, but with full confidence, for in prophecy God has said “their righteousness is of Me, saith the Lord.” God wants us to come, that we may enter into the fullness of joy with him. So let us come often to the “throne of grace,” to obtain help in time of need.

THE THRONE OF GRACE — What a beautiful and wonderful title. Jesus’ merit has transformed plain justice, the foundation of God’s throne, into a source of help and encouragement, sympathy and comfort. No wonder the Holy Spirit is called “the strengthener together, the comforter.” Almighty love and power have gone forth, commissioned to give every assistance to the saints of God, even as later on they will go forth for the world of mankind. Oh, does not that name send a thrill of gladness and thankfulness through our being? Can we realize the heights and depths of our Father’s love to help us. So let us gain strength and character through practice and use of such advantages, while our Father, through His Son lovingly holds our hands and lifts us up, and shows us the right way. Yea, let us hold fast our confession of faith, our common belief, with a determined grip.

MERCY — The forgiveness, the cleansing, is freely given, promptly, but conditionally, it must be applied for. This is God's method of instructing us in the way of righteousness, and of assisting us to overcome the oppositions and temptations of the world and to become at heart overcomers. He knows our weaknesses better than we do, and he wishes us to learn of them, not with a view to discouraging us, but that we may fight a good fight against them, conquer them and in so doing develop the characteristics which he approves and has promised to reward with joint heirship with the Redeemer in his Kingdom. (N-11-7-09)

GRACE — Merit of Jesus, to cover sin.

TO HELP IN TIME OF NEED — We cannot come too often to the throne of heavenly grace, if we are of those who claim the abiding presence of the Father and the Son—if we are of those who kept his commandments and who recognize the Lord Jesus as the only way of access to the Father. (Z. '10-139; R.4386)

- 5: — The first part of this chapter brings to the fore the lesson of obedience, showing the necessity for it, its part in the training of the Son of the Most High, and that his brethren must pass through a like training in obedience. The great importance of obedience was stated in 1 Sam. 15:22. If our Heavenly Father cannot trust us to perform what is plainly told us can he trust us with anything?

In the first 6 verses the Aaronic priesthood is compared and likened to Jesus, as a type to its antitype. Let us carefully note the statements, for they are the Lord's statements to us through the Apostle.

5:1 — FOR — Linked with verse 15 of chapter 4.

TAKEN FROM AMONG MEN — As Aaron was, from among mankind, note here that these are the earthly priests.

IS ORDAINED — Or appointed over, "kathistatai," from "kata"—down, plus "histemi"—placed, put, set.

FOR MEN — On behalf of men, for their advantage and benefit, to serve their interests.

IN THE THINGS PERTAINING TO GOD — To act as an advocate in their relations to the Lord.

SO THAT — “Hina” —in order that-God has arranged a proper manner and order in which his creatures may approach him acceptably, and those who serve him in this manner must have a training to fit them for such service.

HE MAY OFFER — “Prosphere,” to bring forward or toward.

GIFTS — “Dora,” such as thank offerings, or peace offerings.

AND SACRIFICES — “Thusias,” from “thuo”—to sacrifice.

FOR SINS — “Huper hamartion,” on behalf of or as an atonement for sins.

5:2 — BEING ABLE — Having the ability through experience and training.

TO HAVE COMPASSION — “Metriopathein”—to suffer a measure. Not measure the sufferings which would be another word. Through understanding of fallen human nature, and knowing the difficulties in the case, can extend a measure of patient forbearing, not forever, but until some progress is made toward a better condition, as God did with the Jews in the wilderness where he submitted to be tried ten times by them in the wilderness temptation.

ON THE IGNORANT — The not-knowing ones.

AND THE ERRING — “Planomenois”—wandering ones.

FOR THAT HE HIMSELF IS COMPASSED BY INFIRMITIES — “Epei dai autos perikeitai astheneian”—literally “he himself also surrounds strengthlessness.” This is a Greek idiom, and would mean nothing literally translated, our expression is “he himself also is surrounded by strengthlessness.” Every power is more or less faulty or weak. Hence such an high priest can understand the feeling of others.

5:3 — BY REASON HEREOF — “Dia taute”—on account of this.

HE OUGHT — “Opheilei”—it is fitting or proper

TO OFFER FOR SINS — “Prosperein huper hamartion”—to bring an offering to atone for sins

AS FOR THE PEOPLE SO ALSO FOR HIMSELF — This was the actual condition of Aaron and his successors. For sins of the priests see Lev. 4:3-12.

5:4 — NO MAN TAKES — “Lambenei”—takes into ones hand, seizes

THIS HONOR — “Timen”—office, outward honor or dignity

BUT HE THAT IS CALLED OF GOD, AS WAS — “Kathosper”—just like

AARON — We remember the challenge of his special calling by Korah and others, and how God manifested his choice by making Aaron’s rod bud with almond buds, showing his selection. The root of the word for almond in Hebrew has the thought of selection, choosing. (Strong’s Conc.)

5:5 — This calling or appointment was by the same one who begat him in the beginning. Not the emphasis of the Greek word order “Son of me art thou.” We see here the humility of Jesus, as contrasted with the grasping ambition of Lucifer, who seized control of man’s mind and dominion for himself “I will sit on the sides of the North, I will be like the Most High.” (Isa. 14:13, 14) The special begetting here mentioned is undoubtedly the one at Jordan, when he was baptized and there begotten to the new nature. The word “to-day” would mean a special definite time. There also he became the Priest of the new order.

5:6 — THOU ART A PRIEST FOR THE AGE — “Eis ton aiona”—or the duration of the age. The priestly work of Christ will end with the end of the Millennium and so it is only for that age. It will not be needed beyond that time, though the office will be his forever.

AFTER THE ORDER OF — “Kata ten taxin”—implies that Jesus will be what Melchizedek was—a priest on his throne. In chapter 7:15 we have “Kata ten homoioteta”—according to the likeness of. So he was able by his office and by his training and experience, to offer to God these gifts and sacrifices brought by the people. And as a King he was able to bless.

5:7 — (See also Z. ’11-124; R.4804) But the training for this exalted position cost our Lord Jesus such suffering.

IN THE DAYS OF HIS FLESH — While he was a human being, after thirty years of age. The prayers and supplications and agony referred to occurred in Gethsemane. (Matt. 26:39-42)

OFFERED UP — “Prosenegkas”—brought forward as an offering, from “prosphero”—to bring towards.

PRAYERS — “Deeseis”—prayers, requests, from “deomai”—to request or pray, from “deo”—to bind.

SUPPLICATIONS — “Hiketerias”—entreaty, pleading

WITH STRONG CRYING — “Meta krauges hischuras”—with mighty cryings. “Krauges” is from “kraxo”—a primitive root meaning to croak, as a raven, or scream, to call aloud, shriek, exclaim, entreat. “hischuras” is from “his”—force, hence means mighty, powerful, strong. Our Lord Jesus made no noisy outcry on this occasion, else the disciples not far away would have been awakened, but they continued to sleep. He bore this intense suffering alone. (Psa. 22:1, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22.)

AND TEARS — “Kakruon”—tears.

TO HIM — The Father, the first life giver, the source and origin and fountain of all life and energy, the only one then having immortality. (1 Tim. 6:16)

WHO WAS ABLE — The Father only had this unlimited power.

TO SAVE HIM FROM — Literally out of DEATH — By a resurrection.

AND WAS HEARD — “Iesakoustheie”—literally was listened to. The prayer was answered by sending an angel to comfort him.

IN THAT HE FEARED — “Apo tes eulabelias”—in respect to the thing he was anxious about. The word “feared” is from “euiabes,” which is from “eu”—well, good, plus “lambano”—to lay hold on anything well, that is, carefully, so as not to break or injure it, and is used of a man proceeding cautiously in his design, so as to avoid injury to himself or to others, and sometimes approaches fear, but the fear of caution, not of terror in any case. Perfect love casteth out fear. Yet this agony was very intense, for Luke, the physician, caused him to sweat as it were great drops of blood. See the Bible comments on Luke 22:44.

What was our Lord asking his Father to avert if possible? His prayer was “remove this cup from me, or spare me this experience if possible. It was not the fear of death, for he had expected to die, and had often spoken of it. But the manner of death, the horror of crucifixion, was one of long drawn out torture, of thirst, of racking pains, of unbearable agony, of fever, which often lasted for several days before death brought release. And to suffer thus as a blasphemer of the God whom he loved above all, was a terrible ordeal. No wonder human flesh cringed from such an experience! Then add to this our Lord's knowledge that the sacrifice had to be perfect, that if he had come short of perfect obedience, or was faulty in any other way, unacceptable, it would mean the eternal loss of not only life but the precious fellowship of that beloved Father, who had all along been his main stay, and often his only comfort. Surely he craved some assurance that he was acceptable before entering the black darkness of death, and for strength to bear this awful experience.

But why did the Father withhold this assurance till Jesus had prayed in agony three times? Why was not the assurance given at once? As Jesus must pay it all, he must be tested to the utmost; would he give up because the answer was delayed? Would he believe his Father had really forsaken him? And what suffering must the Father's heart have endured, thus to lead his only and beloved Son, through such agony of mind and body, and to withhold the answer till the third pleading. Does it not shame us, who complain if our burdens are too heavy, or faint if the help is delayed too long!

5:8 — When the testing had accomplished the intended witness, the Father sent an angel to comfort and help him with the assurance that he was acceptable to the Great Judge of all, pleasing in all things. Thenceforward with what a supreme confidence he met all his persecutors, even as a triumphing Prince, who could not be defeated, no matter what the conditions, even to the last expiring breath on the cross. Yes, "though he was a Son," yet he learned and exhibited perfect obedience.

LEARNED — "Manthano" or "matheo"—to learn.

OBEDIENCE — "Hupikoe," from "hupokouo"—to learn attentively, literally to listen under, under authority as a pupil.

5:9 — AND HAVING BEEN PERFECTED — "Teleiotheis," from "teleioo"—to complete or consummate, bring to the desired end. So, having been brought by this course of instruction to perfection, that is at his resurrection.

HE BECAME TO ALL — "Egoneto pasin," all both Jews and Gentiles.

THE AUTHOR — "Aitos"—a causer or author, from "aiteo"—to ask (causative)

OF ETERNAL SALVATION — Literally age lasting deliverance, and other scriptures show us that this deliverance will last through all the ages to come, even as the days of Heaven upon the earth.

OBEYING HIM — This lesson of obedience must be learned by all his followers and companions, and through similar tests, though not so severe as his. Let us not forget this condition—to all those who learn to love obedience.

5:10 — CALLED — “Prosagopeuo”—not appointed nor inaugurated, but addresses as, names; from “pros”—toward, plus “ago”—to lead, direct, drive; plus “hpeo”—to flow; hence—direct the flow towards. The author refers back to Psa. 110:4. This call has a slight casual effect—in as much as he is named;

OF GOD — The highest authority.

ORDER OF MELCHISEDEK — This was a hidden order, unnoticed and completely forgotten by the Jews, even though plainly stated in the Psalms. Paul calls it to their attention. It was arranged beforehand by the Lord to be used long afterward. So God is always prepared, always ready for any emergency.

5:11 — The Apostle then tells them plainly that lack of faith on their part, or energy of consecration makes it hard to find words or illustrations which will make these deep truths sink in and be understood. It is like talking to a boy who is giving only half of his attention, not sufficiently interested. This is a good place to ask ourselves—how interested are we? Are we giving the Master our undivided attention, listening with all our mind and heart? Are our mental ears awakened, tuned to the directions of our Master? Like the Father did for Jesus (Isa. 50:4) he has opened our ears to hear (understand) as one that is learned. Leeser: “He wakeneth me morning by morning. He wakeneth my ear to listen, like those who are well taught;” Moffat: “Morning by morning he awakens me to learn my lesson, and never have I disobeyed or turned away.” So Jesus said to his disciples—“To you it is given to know the mysteries of the kingdom of God, but to them that are without it is not given,” and again “Blessed are your eyes for they see, and your ears for they hear, for I say unto you that many prophets and righteous men have desired to see the things that ye see and have not seen them, and to hear the things that ye hear and have not heard them.” (Matt. 13:17) How great a privilege this is!

HARD TO BE INTERPRETED — “Dusermeneutos”—hard to interpreted, or explained. Literally—“Concerning whom much to us the speech and hard to be interpreted to say,” or “concerning whom our message is both abundant in quantity and difficult to interpret to you.”

SEEING YOU ARE DULL OF HEARING — “Nothroi”—from “ne”—negative, plus “otheo”—to move. The Diag. renders this “sluggish ones.”

IN THE HEARING — “Akoais”—in the ears.

5:12 — FOR — Because, as a reason for their being dull of hearing. “Consider the time you have known the Lord and his truth, you ought to be able to teach others; yet because of neglected privileges, neglected opportunities for study and prayer and fellowship, you did not grow in the knowledge of the Lord and of his truth, and have even lost some of the clear vision which for a while you had gained, so you need to learn again the fundamentals of the oracles of God, and are become such as have need of milk.” How did they become so lacking in the knowledge of God? Through neglect. Our Lord warned us—“Take heed lest the deceitfulness of riches (not merely the possession of riches, but the pursuit of them as being more necessary than the Truth of the Lord. This love or desire for riches can be more devastating than the actual possession of them) and the cares of this life choke the Word and it becomes unfruitful.” (Matt. 13:22; Mark 4:19) “Take heed that no man take thy crown.” Think of Paul’s prayer for the Philippians (1:9), and for the Colossians (1:9)—“It is my prayer that your love be more and more accompanied by clear knowledge and keen perception, for the testing of things which differ, that ye may be men of transparent character in preparation for the day of Christ.” (Weymouth)

5:13 — FOR EVERY ONE THAT USETH MILK — “For everyone that useth milk (only) is unskillful” (not practiced or experienced, “apeidos”—from “peida”—trial, hence untried; contrasted to “empeidos”—experienced.

IN THE WORD — “In the (use of) the word of righteousness” (Oracles, divine utterances), first principles. (“Tou stoicheia tes arches”—the basal or fundamental, or foundation, or root truths of the beginning.) The word “stoicheia” has the thought of an orderly arrangement. The thought is implied that these fundamental truths have become out of proper order in their minds, twisted, and need to be rearranged and brought together properly.

OF RIGHTEOUSNESS — “Kikaisunes”—equity, right quality. Note the expression “of a word of righteousness” the doctrine of the righteousness which is of God, as contrasted with a righteousness of works. “Their righteousness is of Me saith the Lord.”

5:14 — STRONG MEAT — “Stereos”—from “histemi”—to stand—strong, solid, enabling one to stand; “trophes”—food, from “trephe”—to feed or nourish. The best rendering of vs. 14 in the Syriac, Peshito version, Murdock’s translation—“But strong food belongeth to the mature who, being investigators, have trained their faculties to discriminate good or evil.” The Diag. puts it “Having faculties habitually exercised,” not allowed to grow dormant from neglect.

6: — The chapter opens with a continuance of the thought of the closing verses of the fifth chapter. It encourages even those of us who are neglectful or forgetful, takes us by the hand and urges us on together. Let us go on with the apostle and see how the Lord opens up to us some of the wonders of His plan and ways. So we are to encourage the weak and the halting, we that are strong should bear the infirmities of the weak.

6:1 — THEREFORE — See you are in so low a condition of faith and belief

LET US — Let us leave the word of the beginning of Christ, let us progress or pass on to maturity (to the distant goal of perfection. “Not laying over again the foundation doctrines.” There are mentioned six fundamental doctrines, evidently considered fundamental in the early Church. Items of belief which extended in their influence over the whole Christian life, just as the shape of the foundation is the shape of the building. We should not remain in the foundation stage forever, necessary as it is.

POINT ONE — REPENTANCE — “Metanoias,” from “meta”—with, amid; and “noieo”—to exercise the mind, observe, study; hence a thinking differently or afterwards, a reconsidering, repenting.

FROM DEAD WORKS — Works or attempts to obey the Law Covenant, but which being imperfect and falling short, were works bringing the sentence of death. (See Rom. 7:9-11, 21-24) Those works by which they sought to set up a righteousness of their own, before they submitted themselves to God’s righteousness. The sinner is called first to repentance (Acts. 17:30), when that is sincere, then he is offered other privileges of progress.

POINT TWO — FAITH IN GOD — Full trust, rested on God, that he has fulfilled his promises in Christ to date, and will just as faithfully fulfil the ones yet future. Belief that he is able to do what he promises, that he will forgive your past sins and trespasses, and enable you to rise above them and attain the freedom and mastery of every faculty of mind and body, that perfect liberty of the sons of God, once again in his image and likeness and fit to be entrusted with the affairs of earth.

6:2 — POINT THREE — THE DOCTRINE OF BAPTISMS — Both words are genitive here, “of the doctrine of baptisms.” The word doctrine is in the singular number, and the word baptisms in the plural and is more properly rendered “ceremonial washings.” The word “baptismos” is used as here generally throughout the New Testament for ceremonial washings, and “baptisma” for baptism, both John’s and the Christian baptism. The Syriac translates this in the singular, “the doctrine of baptism.” Weymouth translates it “of teaching about ceremonial washings;” Moffat “with instructions about ablutions;” A.R.V. “of the teaching of baptisms (see note on washings”); Roth. “Of immersions in respect of teaching” (Note in so far as teaching is concerned). There is some difference of opinion among translators as to whether this passage refers to the ceremonial washings of the Law Covenant, which find their antitype and fulfillment in the “washing of water by the Word,” or to baptism, as covering the whole subject of baptism into Moses, of John’s baptism, and the Christian baptism as a symbol of our burial with Christ. We might do best to consider both.

POINT FOUR — OF LAYING ON OF HANDS — This practice was familiar to the Jew under the Law Covenant, the offerer laying his hands on the head of the animal brought for sacrifice to indicate that it represented him. Like for the ceremonial washings, this would mean that the import and reference of all these ceremonies found their continuance and completion and fulfillment in the truths of the Gospel. By the laying on of hands the sick were healed (Mark 16:18; Acts 9:12, 13, 17; 28:8; compare 2 Kings 5:11, and Matt. 9:18) officers and teachers of the church were appointed thus (Acts 6:6; 13:3; 1 Tim. 4:14, 22; Num. 8:10; 27:18, 23; Deut. 34:9); converts were fully admitted into Christian fellowship of the Church after baptism (Acts 8:17; 19:6; 2 Tim. 1:6) There can be little doubt that it is mainly to this last usage that the attention of the reader is here called, as the writer is speaking of the beginning of Christian teaching. In Paul’s caution to Timothy (1 Tim. 5:22), this same expression is used— “cheiras epititheis” “lay hands hastily on no one.” This practice had evidently much more usage in the early Church than now, chiefly because the apostles were there, to whom were given the powers of healing, etc., and of imparting the gifts of the Holy Spirit to others by the laying on of hands. (See 1 Tim. 4:14; 2 Tim. 1:6) After the apostles fell asleep, and those on whom they had laid their hands were also gone, these gifts passed away as no longer necessary. Now the ceremony is used to appoint servants of the ecclesia or messengers sent out by the ecclesia, or to receive newly consecrated brethren into Christian fellowship.

POINT FIVE — RESURRECTION OF THE DEAD — “Anastaseos nekron.” Notice that these were points of Jewish doctrine confirmed, fulfilled and brought into clearer light by the Gospel. This is one of the most hopeful of the doctrines of the Bible, and was given to Adam in the promise of a redeemer.

POINT SIX — AND OF ETERNAL JUDGMENT — “Krimatos aioniou,” age lasting judgment. The reference here seems to be to final judgement, based upon the behavior during the world’s judgment age, the Millennium, as well as the Church’s judgment at the end of this age. Some may ask why are there only six fundamental doctrines? Why not seven? The total seems to be ten. The apostle was evidently not giving a complete list, but mentioning those which at that time were most discussed among the Hebrew Christians.

6:3 — AND THIS WE WILL DO — “Poiesomen”—it is our purpose or plan to do.

IF — That is (“eanper”), the force of “per” in composition means thoroughly.)

IF GOD PERMIT — It is God who worketh in us to will and to do of his good pleasure. The apostle thus impresses upon our minds the solemnity and seriousness of our contract with God, our covenant with Him, that we must make progress, must go on. To go back would mean to destruction and lose everything. There are some things which God will not permit. There is a sin unto death, and it is no use even praying for such. (1 John 5:16) Of this class is the apostle speaking here.

PERMIT — “Epitrepe”—to turn over, to entrust, to allow. God will not entrust us with, or permit us to have further blessings, if we fail to use or misuse those we have.

6:4 — FOR IT IS IMPOSSIBLE — “Adunaton,” it cannot be done.

ONCE — “Apax” occurs eight times in Hebrews, oftener than in all the rest of the New Testament), once for all, for all people and for all time, no repetition is needed or provided for.

ENLIGHTENED — “Photisthentas,” aorist passive participle indicated priority to some present action. “Photizein” means to bring to light, or cast light upon. The Septuagint usage is to, instruct, to teach. Here is implied taught by the preaching of the Word of God. This is always the first step of anyone approaching God, an enlightening of the mind by the truth sent out in some form of preaching the Gospel.

AND HAVE TASTED OF THE HEAVENLY GIFT — “Geusamenous te,” coupled by “te” (and), personally and consciously partaken of. What is the heavenly gift? It is Jesus as our Redeemer. We have eaten his flesh and drunk of his blood, that is we have believed on him as our Redeemer and applied his merit to ourselves, consciously realizing a new standing, “vitalized justification.” From this step we cannot go back and return to the world, or to sin. Indeed, with our eyes on the Master we do not want to go back, that is farthest from our mind. The word for “heavenly” literally means above the sky. Those who have thus tasted find it is the sweetest and most nourishing morsel ever found. As stated in the Song of Solomon (2:3) “I sat down under his shadow with great delight and his fruit was sweet to my taste.”

AND HAVE BEEN MADE PARTAKERS OF THE HOLY SPIRIT — “Made,” in the Greek is gignomai—be begotten. “Partakers”

(“metochous”) means real sharers of, as members of a family, begotten of the Spirit, to a new life, as new beings.

6:5 — AND HAVE TASTED THE GOOD WORD OF GOD — “Tasted” (“geusamenous,” from “geuo,” to give a taste; the middle voice means to taste. This is the aorist middle participle.) “Word” (“rema,” from “hreo,” or “ereo,” to utter, an alternative for “epo,” a primitive root used only in a definite past tense.) The wholesome, nourishing and soul preserving utterance of God. This means that we have begun to understand the deeper things. Such are eating of the antitypical Shew Bread, the “loaves of the Presence,” the food of those who dwell by faith in the presence of God.

AND THE POWERS — (“Dunameis,” energies) of the World (literally age, “aionos”).

TO COME — (“Mellontos,” present participle of “mello,” to intend, to purpose, hence the planned age). These are the powers of regeneration, of the beginning of a new life, no longer under Adam as our father, but for the Christian under God as our Father. No longer under sentence of death, but under an opportunity and call to an endless life, or ever increasing horizons, ever expanding in breath and depth and height, in grandeur and majesty, in richness and beauty and delight. Oh what a call, what a prospect!

6:6 — IF THEY SHALL FALL AWAY — literally “and have fallen away.” “Parapesontas,” from “parapipto”—to fall aside.

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO RENEW THEM AGAIN — “Palin anakainizein,” from “ana”—up, and “Kainos”—new, fresh, hence to become new and fresh again.

UNTO REPENTANCE — They cannot start over again, Why? Literally, “They having crucified again for themselves the Son of God, and put him to an open shame.” That is, since they have once had their full portion in the work of the atonement, to renew them again would mean that Jesus would again have to be crucified and put to an open shame for their special benefit. The atonement cannot be repeated just because they have been careless and neglectful of their opportunities and privileges.

CRUCIFY AGAIN — “Anastau rountas,” from “ana”—in combination repetitive, and “stauroo”—to crucify, from “stauros”—a post or pole as an instrument of punishment, a cross.

THE SON OF GOD — The highest next to the Father; this impresses upon us the magnitude of the offence.

PUT TO AN OPEN SHAME — “Paradeigmatizontas”—to show or expose alongside, from “para”—alongside, and “deigmatizo”—make a show, from “daigma”—an example, a specimen; hence to expose publicly, to infamy. God has done the utmost that Love in harmony with Justice could do, when he gave his Son to be the redeemer of mankind. It cannot be repeated.

6:7 — Literally “for land, the drinking in, the oftcoming rain upon it.” The word “land” is indefinite, the kind of land is shown by the word “drinking in” (“piousa”—drinking in, from “pino,” or “pio,” or “poo”—to drink).

UPON IT — The word in the Greek is intensive “herself,” and the genitive case is used to indicate that the rain lies or abides over it, not running off, nor merely falling towards it, but covering it, ready to be absorbed. Hence this is an appropriate figure for men who have really taken unto themselves the Word of God, and experienced its power.

AND BRINGETH FORTH HERBS MEET FOR THEM BY WHOM IT IS DRESSED — “Bringeth Forth” (“tiktousa”—producing as from seed, bringing forth).

HERBS — “Botanen”—herbs, plants, generally used for grass or corn or any kind of green herb, from “bosko”—to pasture, to fodder.

MEET — “Eutreton,” from “eu”—well, and “tithemi”—to place, hence well placed or put, convenient.

FOR THEM — Literally “on whose account”

IT IS TILLED — “Georgeitai,” from “georgas”—a land worker, a farmer. We should understand God as the owner of the land which is tilled and the tillers are the teachers of the Gospel.

RECEIVES — Literally “partakers of” “metalambanei”—to take hold of amidst.

A BLESSING FROM THE GOD — That is, is fruitful and amounts to something, produces something that is a benefit to others.

6:8 — BUT IF IT BEAR — “Ekpherousa”—bear forth or bring forth

THORNS — “Akanthas,” from “ake”—a point, thorn

OR THISTLES — “Tribolous”—a three pronged, crowfoot, a thorny plant.

IT IS ACCOUNTED WORTHLESS — “Adokimos,” from “A”—negative, and “dokimazo”—try, test, prove; hence proven worthless

AND IS NIGH UNTO CURSING — “Eggus”—nigh, near; “Kataras,” from “Kata”—down, or intensive, and “Ara”—curse. That is a continuance is such procedure would finally end in the land being abandoned as worthless, not worthy of the labor to cultivate it, unresponsive, dead.

WHOSE END IS TO BE BURNED — “To telos eis” “Kausin”—the end for burning, from “kaio”—to set fire to or burn. As in Deut. 29:23 “And that the whole land thereof is brimstone, and salt, and burning, that it is not sown, nor beareth, nor any grass groweth thereon, like the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah, Admah and Zeboim, which the Lord overthrew in his anger, and in his wrath.” Showing that those who could go back after so much blessing are approaching destruction.

6:9 — BUT BELOVED — Note that even the wayward, and slow, are objects of God’s love and patience, as long as there is any response to his Holy Spirit. Paul here encourages his readers, by telling them he has been persuaded that the better things are operating in them.

THINGS THAT ACCOMPANY SALVATION — Literally, having salvations; that is, saving qualities.

THOUGH WE THUS SPEAK — A kindly warning of the dangers and pitfalls is a necessary thing.

6:10 — FOR GOD IS NOT UNJUST TO FORGET — God’s justice not only reproveth and punishes where necessary, but treasures up every good deed and rewards it suitably. Even a cup of cold water given to one of his little ones will certainly be rewarded. God not only rewards those who help him, but encourages in everyone every good trait, so that it may grow stronger and become strong enough some day so that the individual can take control of himself and cleanse out all the evil tendencies, and attain perfection. He has no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but rather that he should turn and live. (Ezek. 18:23, 33, 11)

FORGET — “Epilathesthai”—from “Epilanthanomai”—to be hid upon. The aorist, middle voice, gives the meaning that the whole forgetfulness would be one act of oblivion.

YOUR WORK AND LABOR OF LOVE — Literally “of the work of you and the love.”

WHICH YE HAVE SHOWED — Exhibited as a quality of character or heart.

TOWARD HIS NAME — These works of kindness were done under the influence of His Spirit, because of love for Him, and this love expressed itself in serving God's people, his consecrated ones, in various ways both in the past and continuing now.

SHOWED — “Eneideikasthe,” first aorist indicative middle of “Endeiknumi.”

6:11 — BUT — The reason Paul gives these warnings and is talking in this manner, the “de” carries a slight reproof, contrasting your need of exhortation to constancy, with your past and partially remaining practice. This is an explanation of the warning given in verse 7-9.

WE EARNESTLY DESIRE — “Epithumoumen”—we deeply long or yearn for, from “Epi”—upon, and “Thumos”—the heart, the heart is set on this.

THAT EVERY ONE OF YOU — “Hekastos,” in form a superlative, meaning each and every one. God wants not one to fail or fall short, he delights in every one enjoying to the utmost his powers and faculties in a right way, and this development toward perfection is necessary to attain that position.

DO SHOW — In all their Christian life, daily

THE SAME DILIGENCE — The same eagerness and haste, because they know the time is short, the same as will be required for success. The gravity and seriousness of the situation should make us eager and swift to obey.

TOWARD THE FULL ASSURANCE — “Plerophorian”—complete confidence, from “Plerophoreo”—to fully and completely convince. Having no doubts or uncertainties about the subject.

OF THE HOPE — The hope set before us, or inheriting the divine nature and sharing all things with our Lord Jesus as our head.

TO THE END — Till the completion of each one's individual course, and of the whole church—till the second coming of Christ.

6:12 — YE BE NOT SLOTHFUL — So that you may not become sluggish. This full assurance of the hope will prevent us from being sluggish (slow moving, the original energy having grown small or weak, through lack of renewing the supply).

BUT IMITATORS OF THOSE — “But imitators” (“mimetai”) “of those who through faith and patience” (“makrothumias”—long endurance, literally long strong breathing, as though strength of will was needed to overcome pain and discomfort, a constant and patient waiting.)

WHO ARE INHERITING — Or “Who are inheritors of the Promises.” Note the present tense, the promises become ours as they did Jacob’s or Abraham’s. These heroes of faith in the Jewish dispensation won the promises of God by their lives of faith. The things promised will be given in the resurrection morning, but the promises securing these things are won in the present life. Then the apostle gives some points on how Abraham inherited the promises, and how strong and secure those promises are, and how our faith in them will help us pull through all the difficulties of the way.

6:13 — FOR GOD, WHEN HE GAVE ABRAHAM THE PROMISE — Note here that the apostle brings in an actual instance of giving a promise. God gave Abraham this promise as a reward for his faithfulness.

SINCE HE COULD SWARE BY NO ONE GREATER — “Epi kat oudenos eiche meizonos homosai,” “since by no greater one had he to swear.” The classical construction of “omnumi” is with an accusative of the person sworn by, but “Kata” with a genitive is found when a thing is used as binding the oath, as is here the case. “Echein” with an infinitive has the sense of to have the power or means or opportunity.

HE SWORE BY HIMSELF — Thus God involved his own integrity, his own name and character and reputation in this promise. Surely this is the “oath bound covenant.”

6:14 — Only a portion of the promise is here quoted, mainly to show that the covenant centered in Abraham. This promise meant that Abraham would be the father of the faithful of both the natural and the spiritual seeds, he would be the heir of the world. (Rom. 4:13)

6:15 — AND SO WHEN HE HAD WAITED LONG — Long endured.

HE OBTAINED THE PROMISE — Obtained—“Epitucchano” is always used of getting actual possession. Abraham obtained, secured the promise, but will get the thing promised in the resurrection morning. A promise from God is as good as the actual possession, the time awaits the Kingdom, as was said to Daniel—“thou shalt stand in thy lot at the end of the days.” (Dan. 12:13)

6:16 — FOR MEN — Mankind in general.

VERILY SWEAR BY THE GREATER — One greater than themselves.

AND AN OATH IS AN END TO ALL GAINSAYING FOR CONFIRMATION — “Eis Bebaiosin” from “Babaioo”—to confirm, establish; from “Bebaios”—steadfast, sure; from “Basis”—pace, foot.

6:17 — (See also Z. '10-294; R.4682)

WHEREFORE — Literally in which (oath).

GOD, WISHING TO SHOW MORE ABUNDANTLY — Not merely sufficiently, but much more than enough, full measure pressed down and running over.

TO THE HEIRS OF THE PROMISE — (The Church with Jesus, the anointed company). Note here the humility and condescension of our Heavenly Father, he does more than he has to. Why should he take an oath at all? Is not his word sufficient? Ah, but this is putting his promise on display. (“Epideiknumi”—to show upon or forth, for your notice, to display), calling attention to it to strengthen your faith and assurance and hope, and make it a certainty. How this exhibits the Father’s deep love and care for his people!

THE IMMUTABILITY — Unchangeableness, dependability, reliability.

OF HIS COUNSEL — Or purpose.

INTERPOSED WITH AN OATH — It was by means of the oath that he makes an end of all gainsaying or questioning.

6:18 — BY TWO UNALTERABLE THINGS — The promise and the oath. “Pragma”—deed, thing, matter; from “pratto”—do, act, accomplish.

IN WHICH IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE FOR GOD EVER TO LIE — Ever is the force of the aorist infinitive.

WE MIGHT HAVE STRONG CONSOLATION — Consolation or comfort that has a power behind it, effectual, satisfying. Of Jesus it was said “for the joy that was set before him, he endured the cross.”

THOSE — Those (we) “having fled away” (as to an asylum to gain strength). We again that strength by laying hold of the hope.

THE HOPE SET BEFORE US — The hope is that we may realize the fulfillment of these promises in Christ and obtain the full reward and inheritance in the resurrection morning.

6:19 — WHICH (HOPE) WE HAVE AS AN ANCHOR OF THE SOUL —

How full of wonderful, comforting, and deep, abiding consolation that hope is! The apostle says “we have” that hope. Have we each individually laid firm hold on it? God our Heavenly Father, who begat us through his word of Truth, sent us that hope for our strengthening. Jesus had a hope set before him, provided by that same heavenly Father, and he laid firm hold on it, and it filled him with strong confidence. We also are encouraged to take firm hold on that hope of sharing the victory with him, the hope of triumph over self, over these numbing and paralyzing weaknesses, ever the seeming victory of evil daily in the affairs of men. If that hope is a vital reality, a living force in our daily lives, then it is like an anchor to a ship, an anchor to our soul (our whole being).

BOTH SURE — “Aspale”—unfailing, from A—negative, and “Sphallo”—to make fall or stumble (active voice), to fall or fail (passive voice).

AND STEADFAST — “Bebaian”—established, founded, secured thoroughly.

WHICH ENTERETH INTO THAT WITHIN THE VEIL — “For it reaches into the presence of God, the great Creator, beyond the second veil. “Katapetasmatos”—the name for the second veil in the tabernacle or temple. The regular classical form is “Parapetasma,” the other one being the Alexandrine form. The name of the first veil is “Kalumma”. So we have a signal line, a telephone line reaching into the very presence of the Father (“their angels do always behold the face of my Father which is in Heaven.”—(Matt. 18:10) The cable tied to the anchor is our faith, that lay strong hold. (“Kratesai”, from “Krateo”—to use strength to seize, lay hold on) on the anchor. The world is compared to a sea and the soul to a ship. We see not where the cable of the anchor runs, but know it is fastened within the veil, and if we hold firmly to the anchor, we shall not only ride out the storm, but be drawn in by the Deliverer to the peace and fullness of joy within the veil.

6:20 — WHERE JESUS THE FORERUNNER — Yes, Jesus, holding onto a like hope, at last entered into the fullness of his joy. He passed this same way, endured similar trials and temptations, in a like stormy world. He can show us the way.

HE HAS ENTERED ON OUR BEHALF — He is looking after our interests beyond the veil. As our intercessor he is applying his merit to our earnest efforts, and as the good shepherd is guiding us and leading us so that we too may make our calling and election sure and meet Him there and share His joys. What a glorious incentive and encouragement we have!

HAVING BECOME AN HIGH PRIEST FOR THE AGE — He is now our high priest during this period of the consecration of the antitypical priesthood, but his Melchizedek office is for the work of the next age, the Kingdom of God. This has been a very encouraging chapter. And so the apostle brings us back to the subject he was discussing at the end of the last chapter.

7: — This chapter is devoted to showing how much greater in every way is the Melchizedek Priesthood of Christ in glory than the Aaronic, or Levitical priesthood. He emphasizes twenty points, and each point is taken up in detail and discussed until the argument is unanswerable, that this antitypical glory, authority and splendor far exceed that of the Levitical priesthood, even though God himself did establish Aaron as the priest. Let us note attentively each point and see how it is elaborated:

7:1 — POINT ONE — First Melchizedek, when he comes upon the scene, is already the acknowledged priest of the most high God (the God, the most high). That gives him a position of authority and sacredness at the start.

POINT TWO — When he mentions the occasion where Melchizedek officiated. He met Abraham as Abraham was returning from the slaughter of the kings (slaughter is the correct word, though the Diaglott softens the expression by rendering it “smiting” in the word for word translation, and “defeat” in the arranged text, for the word means a cutting or slashing, “smote them hip and thigh”), wherein he delivered his nephew, Lot, from captivity.

7:2 — Abraham gave Melchizedek one-tenth of all the spoils.

POINT THREE — Next he dwells on the meaning of the name “Melchizedek” “king of righteousness” (“melek”—king, and “Zadok”—righteousness), a very significant title. @THIRD PAR = POINT FOUR — Melchizedek actually was at the time, King of Salem, and the meaning of Salem is “peace,” so he was King of Peace.

7:3 — (See Also Z. '07-70; R.3951)

POINT FIVE — Melchizedek did not inherit the priesthood from any ancestor nor pass it on to others, and so pictures a continuous priesthood, a direct benefit from God, made like the Son of God in these two points. Note the introduction of that name—“Son of God.” Not begotten by humanity, nor had Jesus any descendents, as he did not marry. The prophet declares “who shall declare his generation?” (Isa. 53:8)

POINT SIX — There is no record in the genealogy of any parents of Melchizedek, or of any descendents, thus pointing out an everliving priesthood. (“Agenealogetos”—without genealogy. This word does not occur elsewhere in Greek literature.) Note also the expression—“Abideth a priest continually” (“Dienikas,” from “dia”—through and “enegko”—to carry, hence to carry through or accomplish, continual as time carrying through.

7:4 — POINT SEVEN — But observe how great (of what personal dignity and excellence) this man was! To whom even Abraham (the illustrious patriarch, mentioned at the end of the sentence for emphasis) paid tithes of the best, (“Akrothinion,” from “Akpos”—pointed, highest, and “this”—a heap; hence literally “the top of the heap.”)

7:5 — POINT EIGHT — Syr. = “because they (the brethren) also are of the seed of Abraham.”

And they of the sons of Levi who receive (take, get) the priesthood (“hiereiteia”—the service of priests. This is the word used here. The other word “hierosune”—the office or power of the priesthood), “have commandment” (“entole,” from “en”—in, among, and “tello”—to take off for a goal; the combined verb “entellomai” means to enjoin or give command) “to tithe the people” (“dekatoos”—to tithe; the people—“ton laono,” “that is” (“toutestin”) “their brethren” (non Levites) “even though they come of Abraham.” The Levitical tithe right was all within the limits of one race, a privilege less to be wondered at, and involving less differences between man and man, than the tithe right of Melchizedek over Abraham, one of a different race, and indeed over all of his progeny with him. The clause “kaiper”—Abraham, is added to show the deep subjection of the ordinary descendant of Abraham to the Melchizedek priesthood, in that notwithstanding his privilege of descent, he was subjected to his priests, his brothers who in turn paid tithes in Abraham to Melchizedek.

7:6 — But he, whose descent no one would think of deducing, who is not accustomed to having his genealogy made out, whose pedigree is not reckoned from them (from Levi and Abraham), hath tithed Abraham (not took tithes, but hath taken tithes, the perfect indicative tense being more impressive).

7:7 — (See also Z. '09-340; R.4510)

POINT NINE — And blessed him who possesses the promises. This is an astounding fact, for Abraham was reckoned as one of the greatest if not the greatest hero of faith, and in Romans 4:13 is called the heir of the world. But Melchizedek was even greater, for without contradiction the less is blessed by the greater (the neuters of the adjectives here are used to generalize the statement). The blessing here is a solemn and official one, as of a father or a priest. In such cases the blesser stands in the place of God, and so is of superior dignity.

7:8 — POINT TEN — Another item of superiority is that the Melchizedek priesthood is an ever enduring one, while the Levitical was only till its antitype began. In Paul's time the Levitical priesthood was still in existence. And Here, now, with us, men ("anthropoi"—human beings) who die are made priests. Here are two points. The Levitical was a human priesthood, then also death terminated each individual, service while he was in office ("apo thnesko"—die upon, that is death comes upon them). But there ("ekei de") (in the case of Melchizedek) one (not a human) (the mysterious typical character of Melchizedek is evidently in the writer's mind) of whom it is testified ("martuoumai"—this passive sense in unknown in classic Greek). (The testimony is that of Scripture prophecy (Psa. 110:4) that he lives continually).

7:9 — Even Levi, who was the head of the tithing tribe (authorized to take tithes) paid them in Abraham. Christ did not pay tithes in Abraham, because he was never in the loins of an earthly father.

7:11 — POINT ELEVEN — If ("ei men") indeed, God had intended to bring perfection (the redemption and deliverance of mankind, bringing them back to a state of perfection—"teleiosis"—the highest development) through the Levitical priesthood, what need ("chreia," from "chpaomai"—to furnish the thing needed, to supply, employ) was there of another priesthood after the order of Melchizedek and not after the order of ("kata ten tachin") Aaron? For God himself had established the priesthood of Aaron, and with it ("eph aute"—with her, that is with the priesthood, "hierosunes") the people ("ton laon"—all Israel including the priesthood) had received the Law ("nenomothetetai"—had received the Law—perfect passive—the Diag. text has "nenomotheteto"). Very evidently there was need of something greater than the Law Covenant. This "another priesthood" was not merely another, but a different kind.

7:12 — (This verse is to answer the Jews' objections that Jesus could not be a priest for he was not of the tribe of Levi.) This change of the priesthood meant a change ("metathesis") of the Law and the Covenant, because —

7:13 — He (Jesus) of whom these prophecies were spoken was a partaker ("metescheken"—a sharer, the perfect tense implies the enduring of that relationship) of another tribe ("phules"—an offshoot, race or clan; from "phuo"—to germinate or grow), from which no one has attended ("proseskeke," from "prosecho"—to hold the mind towards, to give attention) to the altar ("thusiastria"—a place of sacrifice, an altar; from "thusia"—a sacrifice; from "thuo"—properly to rush, breath hard, blow smoke; that is to sacrifice; by extension to immolate, to slaughter; translated slay, kill).

7:14 — POINT TWELVE — For it is evident (“prodelon”—plain before all; from “delos”—clear; and “deloo”—to make clear) that our Lord has sprung from Judah (“anatetalken,” from “anatello”—to make arise) (See 1 Chron. 5:2; Gen. 49:10; Micah 5:2) Some have thought this word (translated “sprung”), which as an intransitive verb is generally used of the heavenly bodies, has reference to our Lord’s rising as the Sun of Righteousness. However it is used also of the rising of waters, and of plants sprouting. Luke 1:78 has combined the two ideas. See Num. 24:15-20. Moses spoke nothing in the Law concerning priesthood from the tribe of Judah.

7:15 — And it (the change of Law) is more abundantly (“perissoteron” see note, chapter 2:1) evident. Another priest (“hiereus,” see “hierea,” verse 11), arises (“anistatai”—stand up) according to the likeness (“kata ten homioteta”) of Melchizedek.

7:16 — Who has become (“gegonen”) not according to the Law (“kata nomon”) of a fleshly (“sarkiness”—that is, a human) commandment, that is not of human extraction, or of Levitical priesthood; but according to the power (“kata dunamin”—according to the force or energy) of an endless (“akatalutou”—imperishable, enduring) life (“dzoes”).

7:17 — (See also Z’09-340; R.4510)

For it is testified (“marturei,” in the Diag., is present indicative active. Dean Alford has “martureitai,” present indicative passive, literally he is borne witness of) “Thou art of priest for the age (“eis ton aiona”) according to the order of Melchizedek. (Psa. 110:4)

7:18, 19 — POINT THIRTEEN — These verses belong to the proof of verses 15-17, expanding the conclusion thus arrived, and expressing it more decidedly than before. For moreover (“men gar,” at the same time as by “gar” it carries on the reasoning, the ecliptic “men” suggests some succeeding position as introduced by a “de”) an abrogation (“athetesis,” though nowhere else found in all Greek literature this is a perfectly regular word from “atheteo”—to set aside; from “A”—negative, and “tithemi”; see in verse 12 “metathesis”) is made, it takes place, of the preceding commandment (“proagouses”—a before leading; from “pro”—before, and “ago”—lead). This commandment went before, not merely in time, but was an introduction to, and finally gave way before, the greater and final ordinance.

7:19 — POINT FOURTEEN — For the Law Covenant perfected nothing. Note what a complete and comprehensive statement this is, nothing was completely accomplished under the Law Covenant. How completely that sweeps away any hope in the Law Covenant. It was not intended to do anything more than show them their need of and introduce them to Christ. But is the introduction (“apeisagoge”—a bringing in beside) of a better hope. That is, a hope based on realities instead of shadows, based on an “antlutron”—an equivalent price, on the claims of Justice satisfied so that the culprit can go free, a living priesthood with everlasting life, a divine being to administer it, of the highest authority and wisdom and power. This cannot fail.

The reason the Law failed, as stated in Rom. 7, and in Gal. 3:21, was not that something was wrong with it, but the human beings with whom it had to deal, were weak and fallen, unable to live up to its perfection. If it were possible for a law given to bring any to perfection, than righteousness would have been by the Law. Jesus came as a perfect human being, and by rendering perfect obedience, proved his right to perfect human life and to rule the earth, and then sacrificed that perfect life to redeem the race of mankind. On account of weakness (“asthenes”—strengthlessness), and unprofitableness (“anopheles”—without heaping up or gain, or profit, useless).

By which hope we draw near to God. This note of personal access to God has been twice before struck (4:11; 6:19), and further on in the epistle is expanded into a whole stream of argument. It is that access which is only casually and symbolically opened to them by shedding of blood of sacrifices, but has been spiritually and actually open to us by shedding of Christ’s blood (as shown by the rending of the second vail in the Temple) once for all, so that we being justified by faith in the efficiency of that sacrifice, can approach the very throne of God. (The Greek word eggidzein is the technical term in the Septuagint for the drawing near of the priests in their sacrificial ministrations, and is from “eggidzo”—to make near, reflexively to approach; from “eggus”—near, and “agcho”—to squeeze or throttle).

POINT FIFTEEN — The oath bound priesthood of Melchizedek.

7:20 — Inasmuch as not without an oath (by so much as being oathless made it) (“kath hoson . . . kath tosouton;” see the other part of the balanced statement in verse 22).

7:21 — For the Levitical priesthood was made without an oath, but he (Christ) by the oath of the Highest. Jehovah swore (“homose,” aorist of “omnumi”) and will not repent (“metamelethesetai,” from “metamelomai”—to care afterwards, to regret, to repent; from “melo”—to be of interest to, to concern, to take care; also the strengthened form “mello”—to intend, to be about to). “Thou art a priest for the age.”

By so much (see verse 20) has Jesus (placed at the end of the sentence for emphasis) become (“gegonen”) surety (“egguos”—assurance, surety) of a better covenant (“diathekes” means, first an appointment without concurrence of a second person of somewhat concerning the second person, such as a last will or testament; second a mutual agreement in which all parties concerned consent, a covenant, which is the meaning here).

7:23 — POINT SIXTEEN — They were many priests because of death preventing (“koluesthai”—preventing or hindering; present indicative passive) their continuance (“paramenein”—to remain or stay, present infinitive active) (literally “on account of death to be prevented to continue.”)

7:24 — But he, because he continues in to the age (“eis ton aiona”), (continues, “to menein auton”—the himself to remain), has the unchangeable priesthood (priesthood—“hierosunen”—the office of priesthood; unchangeable—“aparabaton”—from A—negative, and “parabaino”—to go contrary to, to violate a command, to transgress; hence literally inviolable).

7:25 — POINT SEVENTEEN — Wherefore he is able (because he has both the power, and the time, as well as the wisdom) to save (“sodzein”) to the uttermost (“eis ton panteles”—to the all-distant; completeness not time is the idea) those drawing near (“proserchomenous”—coming near) to God through Him. Those who desire to return to God and to his fellowship and blessing, are helped and shown the way, and the manner, and assisted with needed robes and prayers. His merit is imputed to them as a covering or garment, covering their defects, and his intercession is able to make their earnest efforts successful. He ever liveth to make intercession for them (“entugganein”—to intercede with “huper” and genitive) or complain (with “kata” and accusative). Here it implies the whole intercessory and mediatorial work which the exalted Saviour performs for his own, with the Heavenly Father, by use of his imputed merit. (Rom. 8:26, 27; Rev. 8:3-5)

7:26 — POINT EIGHTEEN — For such (“toioutos”) an high priest (“archiereus”) was proper (“eprepen”—from “prepo”—to be fit, proper, suitable) for us; holy (“hosios”—pious toward God; in this sense often used with “kikaios”—just toward men), perfect in piety or reverent holiness toward his Heavenly Father, an inherent quality born of love, knowledge, and admiration); harmless (“akakos”—freedom from vice or evil suspicion, having no harmful effect on others), his every influence was beneficial and cleansing) undefiled (“amiantos,” from A negative, and “miaino”—to sully or taint; hence untainted, unstained) not only from legal but from moral pollution in thought or word or deed; and separated (“kechorismenos”—has been separated, from “choridzo”—to separate, from “chora”—country, with the thought of room, space, emptiness) from sinners (“harmartolon”), from the whole race and category of mankind, in that he did not derive his life from Adam, nor was tainted with human imperfections, typified by the Levitical priesthood being separated from every contact with the dead or with impurity. And made (advanced to be, “genomenos”) higher than the heavens (“hupselotheros ton uranon”), as stated in Eph. 1:20-21, exalted above all principalities and powers and every name that is named in heaven or earth.

7:27 — (See also Z. '10-10; Z. '09-340; R.4545; R.4510)

DAILY — Continually, as in daily sacrifice. (Dan. 11:3) As a matter of fact this was not done daily literally but merely on a certain day every year—“year by year continually” (Heb. 10:1, 3) on the Atonement Day.

POINT NINETEEN — One who has not (because of his perfection of nature, both human, and now divine) daily necessity (“kath hemeran anagken”—daily need, from “ana” up, or intensive; and “agkala”—an arm; from “agkos”—a bend) like the Levitical high priests, because of their human imperfections, first to offer sacrifices for their own sins, and then for the people. Notice that while Jesus fulfilled these sacrifices, their blood pointing to his own blood, yet the application of that merit was in two parts, first for the sins of his body and household (the Church and the Great Company), then for the people (the whole race of mankind). The way in which the Lord applies the merit, seems to be a stumbling block to many minds.

7:28 — POINT TWENTY — For the Law Covenant (“o nomos”) maketh (“kathistesin”—appointeth) men priests (“anthropous”—human beings, of the fallen human race), having weakness (“astheneian”—strengthlessness), under the sentence and influence of death, inheriting human frailties. But the word of the oath (“tes archomosias”—the swearing or oath taking), which was after the Law (later and hence superseding it), maketh or appointeth a son, the most complete and perfect relationship, not a servant, but having full family privileges. Note the contrast. Having been perfected (“teteleiomennon”—having been developed through a process culminating in complete perfection in every line) for the age, for the work to be carried on and completed in that age—the deliverance and perfection of the human race, bringing them back to full relationship as sons of God on the earthly plane.

8:1 — NOW OF THE THINGS — “But a head thing” (kephaiation—chief thing, principal matter, main point) among (epi—upon, literally, as though standing out prominently from among the others) “those things being spoken” (being discussed—legomenois—the present participle passive of lego—to speak or say) is that ‘we have such’ (toiouton) “an high priest” (archierea) (not only such as has been described in the foregoing chapters, but more particularly such as will be described in the succeeding verses. toiouton here refers rather to what follows than what has gone before. Translation “sum” or “sum total” all right here, where the sense of kaphalaion,” confined to verse 1, but verse 2 contains more particulars not mentioned before, which cannot be said to be the sum of anything previously said, and even then the verb legomenois” would be the past tense lechtenesin” or eiremenois,” and the participle would more probably be in the genitive.)

WHO IS SET — “Who sat down” (ekathisen—sat down, from kathistemi—to set down. The middle voice with the perfect tense, and the aorist active are used intransitively, to sit down, take ones place, be established, this here is the first aorist active) “at the right hand” (dexia—the right hand, the place of greatest favor and honor next to Jehovah) “of the majesty on high” (megalosunes—greatness), sharing the throne of the universe. The Jewish High Priest, when he entered the Most Holy, did not sit down in the throne there, but only bowed before it for a moment. So this High Priest is herein superior.

8:2 — A MINISTER OF THE SANCTUARY — “A minister” (leiturgos—a public servant, from laos—people, in general; as different from demos” which means the people as a social unit; and ergon—work, and ergidzomai—to toil, work) “of the holy places” (the Holy and the Most Holy of the Tabernacle picturing the conditions and work of this Gospel Age by Jesus for His Church, both on earth and in heaven) “and of the true tabernacle” (tes skekes tes alethines—the tabernacle the true one. The ordinary word for “true” is alethes.” The difference being the alethes” excludes the untrue and unreal, while alethines” excludes that which does not fulfil its idea. The measure of alethes” is reality, of alethines” of ideality; so the use of alethines” means the fulfilled Tabernacle, the really intended one, not the type.)

WHICH THE LORD — (Jehovah) “pitched and not man” (Mankind, humanity, not of human workmanship) (the word epexen” is the word usually used in the Septuagint for the setting up of the tabernacle, so is used here.)

8:3 — (See also Z. '09-341; R.4510)

FOR EVERY HIGH PRIEST — “For every high priest is appointed for the offering of both gifts and sacrifices” (to fulfill that need). These gifts were expressions of love and appreciation of God’s blessings, and the sacrifices were the acknowledgment of their sins and imperfections, the desire for forgiveness, and for reinstatement in God’s favor.

WHEREFORE — “Wherefore it is necessary” (“anagkaion”—necessary, from “ana”—up, and “agkos”—a bend; hence a bend up; then “anagke”—constraint, distress, need) “that this high priest have something which he may offer, also.”

8:4 — IF THEN — If then indeed he were on earth (that is a human being), “he would not even be a priest” (much less an high priest—for “hierous” is last word) “since there are already” (literally, there being already) “those offering gifts according to the Law:”

8:5 — WHO — “Those who serve” (“latreousin” occurs eight times in Luke, four times in St. Paul’s epistles, and six times in this epistle, which indirectly is another evidence that Paul wrote the book of Hebrews.) (It has more the general thought of serving either God, as almost always, or some special portion of divine service, or sacred things, as here and in chapter 13:10. “leiturgien” is the more proper word for priestly ministrations.)

UNTO — “Unto the sketch or delineation” (“hupodeigma”) “and shadow of heavenly things.”

AS MOSES — “Even (“kathos”) as Moses was admonished” (an excellent rendering of “chrematidzo.” This word is used in the later classics, but as early as Demosthenes for “to give a decisive answer.” Hence it came afterwards to be appropriated mainly to responses, warnings, commands given from the Deity. So it is used constantly in the Septuagint. The earlier classical verb is “chrao” of the deity giving the oracle, “chraomai” of the person consulting it. The perfect, not the aorist tense is used here. “kechrematistai” making a fine distinction that these figures of the heavenly things were still subsisting as ordained to Moses when the epistle was written.

WHEN — “When about to complete” (not as distinguished from “beginning” as if he were about to put the finishing stroke to the work, but involving the whole work—to take in hand and carry on to completion) “the tabernacle.”

FOR — For (“gar” justifies the above assertion by the following citation) see thou (“horao”—discern, take heed) that thou makest all things (the word “panta”—all things, is not found in the Septuagint or in the Hebrew text, but is used here—Dean Alford) according to the pattern, that one having been shown to thee in the Mount. What a marvelous provision by Jehovah to take such care for our clear understanding of the true tabernacle by giving Moses the visions and impressing them on his mind, and then urging him to carry out faithfully all these details! How can we be so careless or neglectful as to find but little interest in their study!

8:6 — BUT NOW — But now (“nuni de,” the “now” of logic, not of time) hath he obtained (“teteuche,” the Ionic pertaining to the people of the west coast of Asia Minor; perfect indicative of “tugchano”—hit, attain, obtain) a more excellent (“diaphoroteras”—more excellent or surpassing, from “diaphero”—to bear or carry through, to surpass) service (than the Levitical priests) even by so much as he is mediator (“mesites”—one who acts as a go-between, or reconciler) of a better covenant (“dithekes”—a covenant, from “diatithemai”—to put apart, or dispose, as those entering into a covenant)

WHICH — “Which has been established” (“nenomothetetai”—legally instituted) “upon better promises.” These better promises are the heavenly promises, and the New Covenant is based on these, because it is the working of these promises on the new creatures of the Christ, head and body, which furnished the blood of the Covenant, which enables them to sacrifice the human nature unto death, and thus obtain the life rights (which are Jesus’ only), by which the New Covenant is to restore mankind to perfection. Neither Moses nor the Priests of the Law Covenant had any real life rights to offer, for they were all under the death sentence.

8:7 — FOR IF THAT — For if that first (covenant) were faultless (“amenptos”—blameless, from A as a negative, and “memphomai”—to blame, find fault. This word is the opposite of “asthenes kai anopheles” of chapter 7:18) no place (“ouk topos”) would be sought (“edzeteito,” imperfect passive of “dzeteo”—to seek or ask for. The sense of “would” is provided by the particle “an”) “for a second.”

8:8 — (See also Z. '07-9; R.3916)

FOR FINDING FAULT — But (“gar” introduces the proof of the above assertion) finding fault (“memphomenos”) he says to them. Here the apostle quotes from Jeremiah 31:31-34 “this prophecy forms the third part of the third trilogy of the three great trilogies into which Jeremiah may be divided: chapters 21-25 the book against the shepherds of the people; 26-29 the book of Jeremiah’s conflict against the false prophets; 30-31 the book of the restoration. After the sack of Jerusalem, Jeremiah, with the other captives, was brought in chains to Rama, where Nebuchadnezzar had his headquarters. There took place at God’s special command, his prophecies of the restoration of Israel, of another David, or Rachel wailing over her children at Ramah, and their future return, of the New Covenant resting, of absolute and veritable forgiveness of sins, which Jehovah would make with his people.

BEHOLD THE DAYS COME — “Behold the days come” (as if the prophet was looking down into the future and saw a picture of the new covenant condition. What a lifting of heart and mind it must have given him, as he saw the ruins of his beloved country, and the destruction of the holy temple, and city that was called by Jehovah’s name, and the enemy in possession of all, and realized it was of God’s permission as a punishment upon his people, because they would not listen to the Creator’s loving counsel. His depth of woe is shown in the lamentations of Jeremiah) “when I will accomplish” (not merely make, the Greek word “sunteleso” has the thought of carrying on the work through various stages to a complete and perfect finish) “upon” (“epi” with accusative of motion, the Covenant being brought to them, or upon them) “the House of Israel and the House of Judah” (then separated and scattered, but all twelve tribes to be brought together and blessed) “a new covenant.”

MAKE A NEW COVENANT — Diag. = Complete a covenant. The people will not be in complete covenant relationship with the Father until the end of the Millennium, when Christ hands the kingdom over to Him. Make (“sunteleso”) The classic meaning of this word is suggestive. It meant contributions made by others to defray the expenses of a public enterprise. (Liddel and Scott) Any similar partnership in bearing public burdens. For instance at Athens this term was applied to a body of men who contributed jointly each year to equip a ship for the public service. So in relation to the new covenant. The main contributor was Jesus and while the church of herself has nothing to offer, the Father has graciously arranged that she may contribute also by bestowing upon her the merit of Jesus. She may contribute that which was reckoned to her by his merit (through faith). When all these contributions are in then this New Covenant will begin to operate in blessing Israel and all the world. (Bro. Barton)

8:9 — This new covenant is first specified negatively, showing what it is not like, and thereby proving the old covenant inferior.

NOT ACCORDING — “Not like the covenant which I made” (note the different word used from that in verse 8, as though he was thus calling our attention to the fact that the old covenant brought nothing to perfection. (“oieo,” here “epoiesas,” means to make or do) “to” (not with, for the dative is here used) “their fathers in the day of my taking hold of their hand” (literally—of the grasping upon of me of the hand of them)

TO LEAD THEM — “To lead them out of the land of Egypt, because themselves abode not in the covenant of me” (thus making “hoti” render a reason for the foregoing), “and I disregarded them” (“emelesa”) (the negative for both clauses is in the first one only). Some take from “hoti” onward as a new sentence, as in the Diag.)

“This is the covenant which . . . ”

8:10 — FOR — For (this is the covenant which because seems too strong a translation of “hoti”) “I will establish” (“diathesomai”—literally to put through) (this is the future middle of “diatithemi”—I will establish a covenant) “after those days” (“ekeinas”—those seems to point immediately to the time indicated by the aorist “emelesa,” and thus “meta tas hemeras ekeinas” will be after the end of their period of disfavor, when the days of disregard are over), “saith the Lord.”

I WILL PUT — “Giving my laws into their mind” (“dianoian”—their inward parts, their mental man, as distinguished from the mere sensorium, which receives impressions from without, from “dia”—through, and “nous”—the mind, or intellect) “and I will write them upon their hearts” (“epigrapho”—inscribe or engrave, the word “epi”—upon, appears both in the verb and separately as a preposition) (the use of the accusative here, instead of the genitive or dative indicates the act of transferring the inscription is in view rather than the fact of inscribing, so there is indicated here a continuous process of writing until the laws are deeply engraved upon the affections, until love of God’s laws and ways is natural and habitual) (the genitive singular and the accusative plural of “kardias” are the same form, and there is no article to show which is the intended case. However the word for mind is the accusative singular with “eis”). and I will be to them a God and they will be to me a people.

8:11 — AND THEY — And they will not have to teach every one his fellow citizen (“politēn”) and every man his brother (“adelphos”), saying know thou the Lord, for all shall know me (notice that the first word for know is “gnothi,” from “gignosko,” while the second is “eidesousi,” from “eido,” meaning primarily to see or perceive) from the small one even to the great one of them. (neither of these adjectives are in the superlative, though some translate them that way.)

8:12 — FOR I — Because I will be merciful (“hileos esomai,” always used of God only) to their iniquities, and of their sins will I make mention no more (“mimnesko”—remember, in middle and passive) make mention, remind oneself.

8:13 — IN THAT HE SAITH — In saying (the speaker is God) “new” (covenant) “he hath made old the first” (“pepalaioken,” from “palaioo”—make old; a word peculiar to Biblical usage and found in the New Testament in Luke and Hebrews. The Septuagint has it a few times, as in Lamentations 3;4. This is another evidence that Paul wrote the book of Hebrews.) “covenant” (the Mosaic Law Covenant). How keen and yet sensible is the reasoning of the apostle here, that the old covenant was made old simply by speaking of a new one, and when God speaks it has the form of a decree, establishing the fact, for all God’s sayings are realities. “to de palaioumenon”—the (covenant) “is being made old” (a transition from a particular to an axiomatic general truth). The state of (“alaiosis”—approaching old age—thereby induced continues as the perfect thence (“pepalaioken”) not aorist “epalaiose,” because the act was not a passive one, contemporaneous with the saying, hence the covenant “palaioutai” (is made to grow old) continuously. “And growing old,” getting into old age (“geraskon,” from “gerasko”—to grow old; See “geran”—old man; “graus”—old woman) “is nigh unto vanishing away” (“aphanismo,” genitive of “aphanismos”—disappearance, from “aphanidzo”—to render unapparent, to cause to vanish away; in the passive means to disappear, vanish away). The writer uses the expression to mean the whole time since the utterance of the prophecy. At that time the “palaiosis” began, by the mention of a new covenant and from that time the first covenant might be regarded as ever dwindling away, so to speak, and near its end, which God might bring about at any time.

So we approach in God’s plan the ending of one age, an age of type and shadow, to the beginning of the realities, the beginning of another age, the end of the Jewish age and the beginning of the Gospel age. In the next chapter begins the deep meat of the tabernacle types.

“The Law appears to be the mere ideal of a religious constitution, as it has never existed in fact. In practice the Jews were almost throughout Polytheists. The substance of their national feeling was formed by heathendom, the accidents only, by revelation. From the Queen of Heaven down to the abominations of the Phoenicians, and even to Cybele, the Jews passed through every grade of Paganism. In fact there is no period of the history of Israel before the captivity, in which more or less of idolatry was not united with the worship of Jehovah, except the time of David and the first years of Solomon, during which the influence of Samuel still continued to be felt. And when by the captivity idol worship was completely eradicated from the people, as far at least as that part of it which returned; it is well known that a hypocritical letter-worship got the mastery over them, which was morally very little worse.” (Delitzch)

- 9: — The apostle has been leading us up to the deep truths of this chapter and chapter 10, and now he points out the relation of type and antitype, of the picture and the reality. The visions and revelations which God gave to him through the Holy Spirit (see 2 Cor. 12:1-4) enabled him to record for our enlightenment the hidden things of God’s plan, that we of the latter days may understand our Heavenly Father’s purposes and arrangements.

9:1 — (See also Z. '09-341; R.4510)

THEN VERILY — “Now indeed accordingly” (there are several particles here, each of which has its purpose: “OUN” takes up the thought of chapter 8:5 where it relates how Moses was directed to be very careful that he build the tabernacle exactly after the likeness shown him in the mount; translated “now” or “then” or “accordingly;” and the word “men” throws the thought forward to verse 6, where the unfolding of the type really begins translated “now”)

THE FIRST — Covenant, not tabernacle, there is no discussion about a first and second tabernacle, but about a first and second covenant.

HAD — It was no longer alive in the writer’s time as a covenant, though its ordinances were still being outwardly observed.

ORDINANCES — “Kikaiomata”—just and legal arrangements, or arrangements to secure justice; from “dikaioma”—righteous judgments or ordinances.

OF DIVINE SERVICE — “Latreias”—ministrations for God, worship, divine service; from “latreuo”—serve in divine or religious things; from “latris”—a hired servant.

ALSO, AND A WORLDLY SANCTUARY — A worldly (earthly) sanctuary. It had not merely an earthly one but the only one recognized on earth.

9:2 — FOR THERE — “For the tabernacle was established” (“kataskeuasthe”—aorist passive of “katskeuadzo”—established or found a house, refers more to the founding of an actual house. The word is so used of a building, house, temple, ship, town, though in St. Paul’s writing it never is so used. In almost all these cases the verb may be taken to include not only the building, but also the fitting up, providing with proper furniture. It means more than “oikodomein oikon,” and includes the fitting up and providing with all perquisites; so that to this “kataskeue”—founding of the house, belong the male and female servants, “oiketai.” Moses was an individual “oiketes,” as in Heb. 3:3). (The word for internal equipment is “etoimadzo”—to prepare by internal fittings; from “etoimos”—fit, ready, adjusted.)

THE FIRST — “The first one” (not in time but in position) “in which were the candlestick” (“luchnia”—a lamp stand, from “luchnos”—a portable lamp; from “luke”—white). (This was a lamp stand with seven lamps and a base, all hammered out of one talent of pure gold, Exod. 25:31-40) “and a table” (“trapedza”—a four legged stand; from “tettapes”—four, and “pous”—foot), “and the shew bread (“e prothesis ton arton”—the setting forth or exhibition, of the loaves) “and the golden altar of incense” (“chrousoun thumiaterion”—golden incense altar, a neuter singular adjective. The Septuagint has usually called the altar of incense “to thusiasterion thumiamatos”—the place of sacrifice of the aroma, or incense, but later the phrase was combined into the more appropriate word “thumiaterion”—incense altar) (The reading of the Vatican MS. been adopted here as giving a solution of an acknowledged difficulty, and as perfectly harmonizing with the Mosaic account. Most manuscripts put the incense altar in the Most Holy, which may be a mistake in copying), “which” (section of the tabernacle) “was called Holy” (there is no word for place in the Greek text. Note also the absence of the article.)

9:3 — AND AFTER — “But after the second veil” (“katapetasma”—the name of the second veil, means something spread thoroughly, as completely hiding) “the tent” (or section) “called the Holy of Holies” (the superlative form in the Hebrew).

9:4 — GOLDEN CENSER — Vatican MS. omits “golden censer.”

AND THE ARK — Having the ark (or chest—“kiboton”) “of the Covenant, covered all over with gold” (“perikekalummenen”—from “perikalupto”—cover all around; and “pantothen”—on all sides; “chrusio”—with gold. In Exod. 25:11 the Septuagint uses “esothen kai exothen”—within and without) “in which was the golden pot” (“labe stammon chrousoun ena”—Exod. 16:32, “take a pot golden.” “stamnon”—was a jar or earthen pot usually, but this one was of gold) “of manna” (an omer, each man’s daily share, laid up for a memorial, which did not corrupt, or spoil).

AND AARON’S ROD THAT BUDDED — “Aaron’s rod that budded” (“blastasasa”—having budded; from “blastano”—to bud; from “blastos”—a sprout) “and the tables” (“plaxes”—tablets, of flat surfaces) “of the covenant.” (See Exod. 25:16; 31:18; Deut. 10:1-5; 1 Kings 8:9; 2 Chron. 5:16.) When the ark was brought into Solomon’s temple there was nothing in it but the tablets of the Covenant, the others had disappeared.)

9:5 — AND OVER — “And above it” (above the ark, or chest) “the Cherubim” (“cheroubin”—the neuter used when spoken of merely as figures, the masculine when used as agents. These with the mercy seat and the “doxa”—or glory, were the representations of God’s character. The “doxa” is the Shekina or bright cloud of glory, in which Jehovah appeared between the Cherubim, upon which especially the blood of the propitiatory sacrifice was sprinkled on the Day of Atonement, Lev. 16:15; and from this circumstance, the propitiation taking place upon it, came the name “hilasterion”—from “hileos”—cheerful, propitious; and “hilaskomai”—to conciliate, to atone; intransitive, to be propitious; hence “hilasterion”—place of atonement)

OF WHICH — “Of which it is not now to speak in particular” (“meros”—one by one, in detail; from an older, more primitive form of “meromo”—to get, as an allotment.) It was not the due time, which did not come till the end of the age, in the harvest time. God reveals only as needed.

9:6 — NOW WHEN THESE THINGS — “But” (or now) “these things being thus arranged, into the first tent” (or apartment), section) “indeed went” (“eisiosin”—went into; from “eiseimi”—go into) “the priests” (notice it does not say the high priest, see 1 Sam. 2:11, 18; 3:20, 21) “at all times” (“diapantes”—literally through all) “accomplishing” (“epitelountes”—literally, perfecting upon, bringing to completion upon)
 “the services.” The services mentioned are the morning and evening care of the lamps, the morning and evening offering of incense, and the weekly care of the shew-bread.

9:7 — Those of the Jews who are acquainted with the facts know the whole procedure (of the Day of Atonement as now observed) is a farce. In the confusion which God has permitted to come upon them, they have no priest, since their rejection of Christ all their priestly records are lost, so that no Jew in the world can make claim to the position of High Priest, or dare to perform the functions of High Priest in connection with the Day of Atonement sacrifices. They have no tabernacle or temple, nor dare they erect one; for if one were consecrated, no authorized priest would risk his life in attempting to pass through the second veil unto the Most Holy. It is a part of Divine providence that our Hebrew friends have no priest and that no sin-atonement sacrifice is possible. Now when the anniversary of the Day of Atonement comes, but they bemoan their sins and fast and pray. But they have no priest to kill the bullock of the sin-offering and take its blood into the Most Holy and sprinkle the same for the cleansing of the priestly tribe (Levi). They have no priest later on to come and take the goat of the sin offering, and do with it as he did with that of the bullock, taking its blood into the Most Holy and sprinkling the Mercy Seat for all the other eleven tribes of Israel. The Priest does not come out as of yore from the Holies to bless them and tell them that their sins are forgiven through the merit of the sacrificial blood. No! After waiting the entire day, and knowing that they have no priest, no advocate, no intercessor, no sin-bearer, at the close of their Atonement Day they endeavor to be cheerful and happy, and to suppose that their sins are forgiven, or rather they endeavor to forget all about the matter in worldliness. (N-9-26-09) (See also T91, 74-75)

BUT INTO THE SECOND — (The Holy of Holies) “once of the year” (“hapax tou eniautou”) “the High Priest, alone” (“monos”). This going alone was to call attention to the fact that Jesus was alone in his death, of the people there were none with him. He trod the winepress alone (Isa. 63:1-3; John 16:32), no arm to pity and no arm to save. (Psa. 69:20; 142:4) The High Priest never went in at any other time, except when the tabernacle was to be moved, Num. 4:5. Note Lev. 16:1-3.

NOT WITHOUT BLOOD — Indicating that none can approach the presence of God, except through the recognizing the blood or merit of Christ as their redeemer.

WHICH HE OFFERED FOR HIMSELF — (“Prospherei uper eautou”—offers on behalf of himself), “and for the sins of ignorance of the people.”

Note this word “sins of ignorance,” “agnoematon,” genitive plural of “agnoema”—a not knowing, or error through lack of knowledge, a short coming through ignorance; from “agnoeo”—not know, be ignorant of, by implication, ignore. This is properly rendered “sins of ignorance,” not wilful. These were the Adamic sins, expiated by the blood of Jesus. This confirms the thought suggested by Brother Russell that the blood of Jesus does not atone for wilful sins, but only for those dependent upon Adam’s disobedience, or for that portion of the sin. Much of our sins, even where we know better, is dependent upon weakness or inherited tendencies, and only the Lord can judge. The meaning of the Hebrew words in the Old Testament show the same thought. In Lev. 16:16, 21, 30, 34 the word for sin is “khattawth”—an offence, sometimes habitual, and its penalty, an offender, a sin offering; from “khawtaw”—to miss, hence to sin, come short, lack, expiate, repent, forfeit. Note in these there is the root meaning of missing the aim, come short, but no thought of wilfulness (“khattawth” is #2403 in Strong’s Conc.) The word for “iniquities is “awvone” (#5771 in Strong’s Conc.)—perversity, crookedness, hence waywardness; from “awvaw”—a primitive root meaning to crook, do wickedly, do wrong; hence refers to a habit or inbred tendency. This is the word used in Lev. 26:39, but in verse 16 the word for sins is “khattawth.” The times of the Gentiles were sent to correct this. (from a root meaning to stride, spread the legs, rush upon, go). The word for “transgression” is “pehshah” (#6588 in Strong’s Conc.)—revolt, rebellion, has the thought of breaking away from just authority. Note the item of wilfulness, decision to do wrong knowingly. This word is translated rebellion, transgression, sin, trespass. This word is also used in Isa. 53:8 “for the transgression of my people was he stricken. He was bruised for our iniquities (“awvone”), the Lord hath laid on him the iniquity (“awvone”) of us all.” In Lev. 6:6 the trespass (“awshawm”) offering is also called a sin offering (“khattawth”). “Awshawm” means a fault, also a sin offering; from “awsham”—to be guilty. Note in Lev. 16:16 the expression “their transgression (“pehshah”) in all their sins” (“khattawth”), that is the element of wilfulness in the sin. Most sins are mixed, partly wilful and partly weakness.

Hence from a study of both the Hebrew and the Greek the Lord's goat bore the sins of ignorance, and the Adamic element in all their sins, while the scapegoat bore the wilful sins and the crookedness of the children of Israel.

9:8 — THE HOLY SPIRIT SIGNIFYING THIS — “. . .signifying this, the way into the holies” (the way to heaven and to God's fellowship. The antitype is here referred to.) “not to have been yet manifested, while the first tabernacle has a standing.” This statement is in harmony that the opportunity to go to heaven with our Lord, the heavenly calling, was not opened up until Jesus' death on the cross. For other texts showing this see Heb. 2:3; 10:19, 20; John 3:13; John 3:25-31; 2 Cor. 6:2; Matt. 11:11; Acts 2:29, 34; John 14:2. How the Truth clears away all difficulties, and puts every part of the Divine plan in its proper place and setting! It is indeed a great privilege to have the mind enlightened, by the Spirit of God.

9:9 — WHICH WAS A — “The which is a parable,” or figure, or representation, “for the right or fitting time” (the period or season in the Divine plan, “the” (time) “having been present, according to which” (figure) “both gifts and sacrifices are offered” (the present tense means during the time of the parable or figure, when the Levitical sacrifices are offered), “having no power to perfect” (“teleosai”) “as to the conscience” (“suneidesin,” noun from “suneido”—see completely. The mental sense of God's approval or disapproval) “the one serving” (not the priests but the people, the offerer, the one bringing the sacrifice, the worshipper) (“latreuonta,” accusative singular present participle). The author here speaks from the standpoint of his readers, who yet joined in the temple worship, for whom the period of sacrifice was not yet passed away. The Israelite was assured, doing that which God's law required, his part as a member of the people of the Law in the promised salvation. He obtains also, if he does this with the right feeling and spirit, operations of Divine grace and blessings which he seeks in the way prescribed. But seeing that the Holy of Holies was in the way prescribed. But seeing that the Holy of Holies was not yet unveiled, the offerings cannot bring to perfection his conscience, cannot put his moral and religious inward feeling into a state of entire joyful realization of salvation, so that he would have an ever growing consciousness of perfect restoration, not only of cleaning but of renewed fellowship with his Creator. The material offerings are only pictures of the realities. These from their very nature could not effect the inward, but only the outward man.

9:10 — WHICH ONLY — (Which consisted) “only” (“monon”) “in food” (“bromasin”—meats, food, meal) “and drinks” (“poma”—drink) “and divers” (“diaphorais”—varying or surpassing; from “diaphero”—bear through, surpass, transport) “washings” (“baptismois”—washings, not baptisms, as we use the word), “ordinances” (“dikaioneta”—just arrangements or rules from “kikaioneta”—just arrangement) “of the flesh”

(“sarx”—the flesh, the body as opposed to the mind or spirit, human nature or human being). These ordinances were outward ceremonies, food offerings, drink offerings, various washings and cleansings, all merely typical of the real offerings of the inward man, renewals of consecration, inward cleansings and real justification.

IMPOSED ON THEM — “Imposed on them” (“epikeimai”—to rest upon, from “keimai”—lie outstretched) “until the time of reformation” (“diortaosis”—literally a straightening out, a rectification, especially the Messianic restoration, from “orthos”—right, as rising, erect, level or direct, figuratively honest). In this time of reformation, or restoration all things will be better arranged, the substance put where the shadow was before, the sufficient grace for the insufficient type.

9:11 — (See also Z. '09-341; R.4510)

BUT CHRIST — But Christ having become (“paragenomenos”—become near, approach, have arrived, by implication—to appear publicly), “or having appeared as an high priest of good things to come” (“mellonton”—intend or purpose, hence the things which God intends to give his people) “through the greater and more nearly perfected tabernacle not made with hands, that is not of human design or construction, not of this building” (“ktisis”—original formation, building, creation; from “ktidzo”—fabricate, manufacture, create; “ktisma”—created thing, creature; “ktistes”—Creator) not of the present order of things in any measure. These good things belong to the age of the future, not of this temporary, unsatisfactory, disappointing, incomplete things. See Acts 7:48; 17:24. What are these good things to come? Even the same as the old Law Covenant could not bring to pass, because of the imperfection of the mediator and the weakness of the people. The good things are the earthly blessings promised in the Law Covenant, which no one could obtain because no one could keep the Law. But the New Covenant, with its better mediator, and actual merit and power to cleanse and bring to perfection, will be able to deliver the things promised.

9:12 — NEITHER BY THE BLOOD — “Nor yet” (but not “oude,” the opposite of “kai”—also, as “oute” is of “kai” and) “through the blood (by means of the blood) of goats” (“tragon”—from “tragos” as a gnawer) “and of bullocks” (“moskos”), “nay rather through his own blood”) (Through that blood of his own) “he is entered once for all” (upon one occasion only) “into the Holies and obtained” (aorist middle participle of “eurisko”—get obtain, find) “age lasting deliverance, or redemption” (“lutrosis”—the form of the word is Alexandrine.) The middle voice has that force which is called dynamic. It means the full casting of oneself into the action. This gives an energy and full solemnity to the personal agency of our Redeemer in the work of our redemption, which “euron,” present participle active voice, could not give. So the use of the word “euramenos” carries the greater energy. “lutrosis”—deliverance or redemption is used elsewhere by St. Luke only: Acts 7:35; Luke 24:21; Paul uses it in Titus 2:14. Paul also uses “apolutrosis,” verse 15, and in chap. 11:35, also Luke 21:28. The idea of ransom is rather in the background here and deliverance is put forward, but in both the idea of a price paid for redemption and redemption by that price is kept prominent. (Matt. 20:28; 1 Tim. 2:6)

9:13 — FOR IF THE BLOOD — “For If” (as we know it does) “the blood” (“haima”) “of goats” (“tragon”) “and calves” (“tauron”) (the yearly offering on the Day of Atonement) “and ashes” (“spodos”—no article is used, because the ashes were to be laid up and a portion used as needed) “of an heifer” (“damaleos”—as a tame animal; from “damalis”—tame; which is from “damadzo”—to tame) “sprinkling” (“hrantidzousa”—besprinkling; from “hrantidzo,” from a primitive “hraino”—to sprinkle. “hrino” is the pure Greek, and occurs fourteen times in the Septuagint, “hrantidzo” only three times, “hrantidzo” is the Hellenistic form). (Num. 19)

THE UNCLEAN — “The unclean” (the legally declared or determined unclean—“keroinomenous,” from “koinoo”—declare unclean, and “nomos”—law) “sanctifieth” (“agiadzei”—make holy) “to the purifying” (“katharotata”—cleanness, purity, purification; from “katharidzo”—cleanse; “katharos”—clean, pure, clear) “of the flesh” (“sarkos”);

9:14 — HOW MUCH MORE — “How much more” (“poso”—dative of “posos”—how much, hence to or for how much; “mallon”—more comparative of “mala”—very; “mallista”—most) “shall the blood of the anointed one who through the age lasting” (“aionou”) “spirit offered himself” (emphatic) “without fault” (“amonon”—without fault; from “memphomai”—to blame, find fault) “to the God.” This spirit which enabled Jesus to offer himself is here pointed out to be the same holy mind or will of the Father.

PURGE YOUR — Cleanse (“katharizei,” future middle active) your conscience from dead works (“nekron ergon”) (cleanse you from a consciousness of works worthy of death, and replace it by a knowledge of forgiveness and cleansing into the service of the Living God, a God that is actual and a reality, the self-existent fountain of life; free your conscience from the terror of guilt, cleansed from alienation from Him, and of selfish regards and pretenses. The unclean mind or spirit cannot thus serve God.

9:15 — AND FOR THIS CAUSE — “Indeed on this account” (on account of the virtue of his blood, or on account of the great work which he has accomplished by his death, he is the mediator of a new covenant, in order that, a death being brought to pass, or has happened (“genomenou”), “for a propitiation of the sins upon the first covenant, those who have been called” (not the Church, but the Jewish nation) (these were called as stated in Ex. 19:4-6; Rom. 9:3-5, also the Church had no sins under the first covenant) “may inherit the age lasting inheritance” (“kleronomias”—an inheritance or possession; from “kleroo”—allot, assign, or obtain an inheritance; from “kleros”—a portion, literally a die, by extension a patrimony an inheritance; “kleronomos”—an inheritor or heir; “kleronomeo”—to be an heir, to inherit).

The object of the New Covenant is an eternal inheritance. Therefore the idea of an inheritance having come in, because of the aptitude of the situation “diatheke” acquires the meaning of a will, or legal document. Then going back from “kleronomian—apangellian labosin” (an expression used by Luke) is to be taken in the sense of receiving the fulfillment of a promise, not merely of having the promise granted. Then the transgressions under the first (the Mosaic Law Covenant) covenant were those of natural Israel, for the rest of mankind had no covenant, except that of Noah. As this is a real inheritance, and eternal, a real sacrifice, a corresponding price must be given.

9:16 — See also Z. '07-10; '09-246; R.3917; 4453

FOR WHERE A TESTAMENT — “For” (a reason for the expression “thanatou genomenou”—a death having then taken place) “where a testament” (“diatheke”) “is a death of the will maker is necessary to bring in” (as in a court procedure), “or prove” (“diathemenou”—will maker. It is important to notice the word is “diathemenou” not “diatithemenou.” In the meaning Jesus is the “diathemenou”—will maker, and this agrees with St. Luke’s manner of speaking in a key text to this. Luke 22:29. There the great “diathemenos” is the Father, but as regards the world of mankind the “diathemenos” is Jesus. (It is not easy to express the exact sense of “pherethai” here, the best rendering is “implied”).

9:17 — FOR A TESTAMENT — “For a testament is binding, or of force, in the case of the dead, since it not at all, or never, has strength while the will maker lives.”

9:18 — WHEREUPON NEITHER — “Wherefore neither the first (covenant) “a part from blood has been inaugurated” (“egkainidzo”—as Alexandrian verb used in the Septuagint for to recreate, or make new, also to put forth as new, to inaugurate.)

9:19 — By comparison with Num. 19, it may fairly be inferred, as our text assures us was the fact, that these instruments were the ordinary ones used in cleansing and sprinkling, even before the positive enactment as such by Law. The hyssop we find used to sprinkle the door posts with blood at the Passover. As to the manner of using, the stalk or bunch of hyssop was wrapped around with scarlet wool to make it absorb the blood, being tied with the same wool to a staff of cedar wood to keep it stiff. Hyssop is a plant growing on walls, with small lancet-formed wooly leaves about an inch long, with a knotty stalk a foot to one and half feet high, with blue, sometimes white flowers.

“For when every commandment had been spoken according to the Law, by Moses, to all the people, taking the blood of calves and goats with scarlet wool and hyssop, he sprinkled both the book and all the people, saying!”

9:20 — (See also Z. '02-220; R. 3046)

THIS IS THE BLOOD — “This is the blood of the covenant which God has commanded toward you” (or in regard to you) (“eneteilato”—enjoin or command, from “entellonai. entellesthai diatheke”—command or enjoin a covenant, is a common expression in the Septuagint).

9:21 — AND MOREOVER HE SPRINKLED — “And moreover he sprinkled in like manner” (“homois”) “the Tabernacle and all the vessels” (“skeue”) “of the ministry, or service.” (Exod. 40:9, 10) (“erantisen” aorist of “hrantidzo”—sprinkle; from a derivative of “hraino”—to sprinkle).

9:22 — AND ALMOST — “And according to the Law, almost” (“skedon”) (In the two places in St. Luke where “skedon” occurs (Acts 13:44; 19:26), it is closely joined with “pas”) “all things are purified in blood.” The same death which purifies us from guilt makes us partakers of the Kingdom Glory; the same blood which cleanses us from sin seals the testament of the inheritance. The fact that in almost all cases the Law purified in blood, provided for such exceptions as Exod. 19:10; Lev. 25:5; 16:26, 28; 22:6; Num. 31:22-24.

AND WITHOUT SHEDDING — “And” (“skedon” still rules the sentence) “apart from the shedding of blood” (“haimatekchusia” seems to be word coined by the writer to express his meaning, the shedding of blood. The shedding of blood is an expression of the Old Testament by no means confined to sacrificial rites, in which the catching of the blood by the priest is the first step. “ekcheein to haima” (“para or epi ten basin tou thusiasterion”) is the ordinary expression in the Septuagint for the usual pouring out of the blood in the sin offering; while for the sprinkling in expiatory or peace or whole burnt offerings we usually find “proscheein to haima” (“epi” or “pros to thusiasterion.” Once “pericheein” 2 Chron. 29:22; once at least “ekcheei”; 1 Kings 16:15; and once “pros ekcheein” Exod. 29:16. Since verse 13 “haima” and “thanatus” have been ideas most closely associated. Wherever there is “aphesis” there is “haimatekchusia.”)

9:23 — IT WAS THEREFORE NECESSARY — “It was necessary therefore indeed that the figures” (“hupodeigmata”—literally the showed upon things) “of the things in the heavens” (the heavenly actualities themselves) “should be purified with these.” That is, it was necessary that the types, or figures should be purified with the blood of animals, bullocks and goats. “But the heavenly things themselves” (The antitypes) must be purified with a corresponding price or value, “better things than these,” real values instead of pictured ones.

9:24 — FOR CHRIST IS NOT ENTERED — For not into the holies made with hands, figures of the true (“antitupos”—the previous shown figures of a reality, as the flood of Noah was of baptism, in this case copies from a reality. The ancients usually take “antitupos” here as “tupos”) “has the Anointed entered, but into the heaven itself, now to appear” (“emphanistrenai,” from “emphanidzo”—appear, signify, exhibit, or disclose, aorist passive infinitive. The word is found mostly in Luke and Acts where it is used principally in the sense of making manifest, giving information. In Matt. 27:53 it is used of the bodies of the holy ones appearing to many; and in John of Jesus manifesting himself to his people. But the key text is in Exod. 33:13. “Ophthenai,” not “emphanisthenai” is the word commonly used for the divine appearances, but Moses desired to advance beyond the “opsis” of God, and prayed “emphanison moi seauton”—“reveal thyself to me.” This open sight of God is that which takes place between the Father and the Son. In Rev. 22:4 the servant of God shall see “to prosopon autou”—his face.)

IN THE PRESENCE — “In the presence of God on our behalf.” This is the antitype of the sprinkling of the blood of the bullock on the Mercy Seat, for us his Church, his Body, the fullness of him. This took place when Jesus ascended up on high, just before Pentecost. This same merit, when the Church is completed and beyond the veil, be used for the world, at the second advent of our Lord, as stated in verse 28.

9:25 — Now he points out the sacrifice needs no repetition as did the sacrifices of the type. “Nor yet that he may of ten times offer himself, just as” “hosper, hos” strengthened by “per” implies a thorough similitude with the thing compared) “the high priest entered into the holy every year with (With—literally in—“en”—furnished with or clad with; we use it thus concerning several articles of personal wear, such as “clad in a cloak”), “the blood of others.” The Syriac renders “the blood of others” as “blood not his own.”

9:26 — FOR THEN MUST HE — “Since” (in that case) “it were necessary (“edei”) he should often times suffer since the foundation of the world” (“kosmos”). This shows the ridiculousness of the supposition that he should repeat the sacrifice. The repetition of the type merely showed that it was not really effective, but merely pictured one that was to be effective.

Foundation— “kataboles kosmou.”

BUT NOW — “But now once for all upon the end of the ages” (Notice that “end” is singular while “Ages” is plural) (When the whole period of “apo kataboles kosmou”—from a foundation of a world, or a laying down of a world, or order of things, is gathered up and brought to an end) “hath he been manifested’ (“perhanerotai”) “for the putting away of sin” (See chapter 7:18) (The making of an end of all other sin offerings, as stated in Dan. 9 “He shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease.”) by the sacrifice of himself (the word used here is not “heautou” the simple reflexive, but “hautou” the intensive, pointing out that in Him alone was all the merit necessary for the redemption of the world; he sacrificed not merely his will, nor his wealth, but himself, all that he had.)

9:27 — AND IN AS MUCH — “And in as much as” (“kai hoson not kathos,” bearing with it only a comparative) “It is appointed” (“apoketai”—laid upon, as a thing laid aside for future use, hence of those things arranged or laid up for us as our appointed lot by a higher power. From “apo” and “keimai”) “unto men” (that is unto men priests, the human priests about whom he has been talking) “and afterward the judgment” (as typed by the high priest passing under the second veil, the judgment being expressed as to whether he rose or died under the veil).

9:28 — (See also Z. '15-92; Z. '09-342; R.5655; 4450)

SO CHRIST WAS — “So also the anointed one, once having been offered” (“prosenechtheis,” passive voice, not having offered himself. Here it is not so much the agency as the destiny of Jesus. For as Abraham offered Isaac, so the Father offered His Son) “to bear the sins of many” (Literally for to the bearing sins of many (“anenegkein,” from “anphero”), a plain allusion to Isa. 53) “the second time” (The second advent) (“ek douterou”) “without sin” (that is without a sin offering. When he appears at the second advent on behalf of the world, the sin offering will be completed, he will not need to die the second time, but the merit of that one death or sacrifice will be available for the world, as it is now available for the Church—the words are “choris hamartias”), “shall he appear” (“aphthesetai,” from “ottomai,” the usual word for the appearance of Jesus after his resurrection) “to those who look for him” (Literally to those waiting for, expecting him, “apekdechomenois,” from “dechomai”—to receive, then “ekdechomai”—to receive from some one, and “apekdechomai”—to expect fully, to wait for) “unto salvation.” Who are they who look for him? Really all mankind who hope for a deliverer and better things. In the first world war it was announced that the Russians hoped for the appearance of their patron saint Michale. Ten ministers of the Church of England signed a public testimony that they looked for the appearance of Christ as a deliverer. So all mankind expect a great deliverer. So here, the ones to whom he will bring salvation are the world of mankind, deliverance from death and all evil. To be sure the Church also look for him at the second advent, and their deliverance takes place first. But as in verse 24 he appeared in the presence of God for us, so at the second advent the blood will be sprinkled the second time on the mercy seat, this time for the world. He will pour out his spirit upon all flesh.

10: — Chapter 10 continues the discussion of chapter 9, carrying the thought forward to show still more completely how the voluntary offering of Jesus' human life was the complete and full sacrifice, which not only atones for sin, but prepares the way for a full recovery. In verses 1-18 the leading thoughts of the whole argument are brought together in one grand finale, just as in the finale of a piece of music, all the hitherto scattered elements are united into an effective whole.

10:1 — (See also Z.'10-247; R.4655)

“Hitherto has been shown the impossibility of Christ's offering being repeated, as were those of the Law Covenant; now is to be shown its absolute perfection and effectiveness as compared with those of the Law Covenant.

FOR THE LAW — “For” (“gar”—for, connects with 9:24-28) “The Law” (Covenant) “Having a Shadow” (“skian”). Here again as in chapter 8:5 is brought out the thought of a shadow cast by a real substance, the sunlight is thought of as shining from the Kingdom backward into the dim and shadowy past. The sacrifices of the Law Covenant were a foreshadow of the reality.

OF GOOD THINGS TO COME — The same good things as referred to in chapter 9:11 of which Christ is the High Priest, and which belong to the better age of chapter 6:5, whose powers are working upon some at the present time or age; The promised or intended good things of the promised age, secured by the real sacrifice, of which the Law Covenant has pictures or shadows.

AND NOT THE VERY IMAGE OF THE THINGS — The things themselves. (“eikona”—image or likeness, from “eikadz”—liken, suppose, conjecture. The nominative is “eikoon.” The very substance of the things themselves. The full realization and revelation of the things thus designated will be “aute he eikoon toon pragmatoon.” The Law Covenant has no such “eikoon,” but merely a rough sketch, an outline) “by the same sacrifices which they offered year by year continually” (“tais autais thusiasi”—the same sacrifices. “kat eniauton” by year, every year. “has prosperousin”—which they offered. They—the priests. In this epistle “prosperein” is without exception used of the priests, see chapter 7:25; and “proserchomenoi”—the offerers, those who draw nigh to God by these offerings. “eis to keienikos”—continually, literally—into the carrying through.)

NEVER — “Never” (“oudepote”—not even at any time) “is able to perfect” (“teleosai”—bring to perfection or completion through a more or less long period of training) “the offerers” (“proserchomenous”—the ones who draw nigh to God by these offerings, those who bring the offerings). These typical sacrifices were not able because they were not a corresponding price. Notice that he does not say here that the Law Covenant by means of the offerings which were the same year by year never were able to perfect, etc., but he does say that the Law Covenant year by year, by the very repetition of the same sacrifices, testified its inability to make perfect; namely on the day of Atonement, on which the same expiatory offerings were always repeated, being necessary, notwithstanding the many offerings brought throughout the year; and after which the same round of offerings again began anew. The Greek very graphically sets forth this ever recurring cycle of the yearly sacrifices in the three fold expression—“kateniauton, tais autais thusiaisi, eis to dienekes”—year by year, the same offerings, continually.

10:2 — FOR THEN — “For then indeed would they not cease to be offered, on account of the worshippers” (“tous latreuon tas”—the servers, including both priests and people) “having no longer” (“ouk eti”) “any consciousness” (“suneidesin”) “of sin, if once for all” (“hapax”) “purified” (“kekatharismenous”—from “katharidzo”—to make clean, make pure). They would realize complete fellowship and communion with their Creator, without a barrier of sin.

10:3 — BUT IN — “But in them” (in the sacrifices) “is a reminder” (a recollection, a calling to mind) “of sins, year by year.” When sins are continually called to mind (Lev. 16:16) the conscience is not clear from them. This is proof that the sacrifices were not effectual, did not accomplish full, complete, cleansing; though they did give a measurable sense of peace, because all had been done which was then possible.

10:4 — (See also Z. '98-375; R.2409)

FOR IT IS — “For it is impossible that the blood of bullocks and goats should take away sin” (Take away—“aphairein”—not from “pheroo”—to carry; but from “apo” and “haireomai”—take for oneself, take possession of. Probably akin to “hairo”—to raise). These have no corresponding merit, they were not a just equivalent.

10:5 — (See also Z. '09-139; Z. '09-202; Z. '09-311; R.4390; R.4427; R.4495.)

WHEREFORE — (“Dio”—for “doa ho”) Seeing the animal sacrifices of the Old Covenant had no power to take away sin, and for that end a nobler sacrifice was needed—an effectual one

WHEN HE COMETH — “Coming into the world” (“kosmos”—this arrangement or order of things on the earth) “He saith sacrifice and offerings thou wouldst not” (“ethelesas”—didst not desire; from “A”—not, and “thelo”—to determine, choose, prefer, wish, delight in.)

BUT A BODY — “But a body hast thou” (Jehovah) “Prepared for me” (prepared—“katertisoo”—from “kata”—down, and “artidzoo”—from “artios,” a derivative of “hairoo”—to lift, through the idea of suspension, and means just now, this day; then “artios”—fresh, complete, perfect; hence complete thoroughly, prepare. The word has the thought of something fresh and new. The quotation is from Psa. 40:6. The Father prepared this body, by seeing that the mother chosen was clean and loyal of heart and mind, obedient and full of faith. Then the transfer of a vigorous, unimpaired, and untainted, spark of life from the heavenly realms to the earthly, resulted in the perfect human being.

10:6 — WHOLE BURNT OFFERINGS — From “holokautoomata”—from “holos”—whole, complete, and “kaioo”—to burn, set on fire, consume, kindle; a wholly consumed sacrifice

AND SACRIFICES FOR SIN — “And sacrifices for sin thou didst not approve” (“eudokesas”—did not think well of).

10:7 — THEN SAID I — “Then I said” (“eipon”—I said, future is “ero”) “in the volume of the book it is written of me” (volume—“kephalis”—is a roll or volume. It appears to have obtained this meaning from signifying the heads or knobs which terminated the cylinder on which the manuscript was rolled.

TO DO THY WILL — This phrase is very emphatic, the infinitive is used as a noun—the to do, the O God, the will of thee; showing that the coming was for the one purpose only, to do God’s will.

10:8 — The writer now proceeds to expound the prophecy, and in so doing cites it again in a freer form, and to show the propriety of his explanation.

ABOVE WHEN — “Above saying” (that is, the statement made in the prophecy just quoted) “that sacrifices and offerings and whole burnt offerings for sin thou didst not desire, neither hadst pleasure therein.” Notice that the distinct clauses of the previous citation are now combined for the sake of throwing into greater contrast the rejection of the Old Covenant sacrifices and the acceptable self sacrifice of the Son of God.

Note also how God arranged for the continual keeping in memory by the Jews their need of redemption and atonement, yet plainly telling the observant ones that these were not the real desires, not the real sacrifices; and how when the proper time came, the due time, these shadows were not put aside and the real sacrifice made, the corresponding price. “Of such sort as” (“haitines” does not, like the simple relative “hai,” merely identify, but classified the antecedent) “are” (habitually, continually) “offered according to the Law.”

10:9 — THEN SAID HE — “Then hath he said” (“eireken”) “behold” (“idou”) “I come” (“echoo”—present subjunctive of “hecho”—come, be come) “to do thy will” (again the emphatic form—the to do the will of thee).

HE TAKES AWAY — “He takes away” (“anairai”—from “anairoo”—take up, adopt, take away, abolish) “the first in order that” (“hina”) “He may set up or establish the second.” Note the reasoning of the author, and how he proves from the Scriptures that the Lord had planned to abolish the Law sacrifices when the true offering should arrive, and why.

10:10 — IN WHICH WILL — The will and purpose of God toward Christ; in the course of the carrying out, the accomplishment of that will.

WE HAVE BEEN SANCTIFIED — The word “agiadzoo” in both the old and new testaments signified the selecting out and adopting for God’s service, and everywhere where illusion is made to Christ’s work on His people, involves that transforming and consecrating and regenerating process of which his Spirit is the agent. Believers ordinarily are not called “hegiasmnoi” (perfect passive participle)—have been sanctified or set apart; but rather are called “hagiadzomenoi”—are being set apart—present participle passive. When their present state is spoken of the participle is the present. Where God’s purpose respecting them and Christ’s finished work—the perfect is used. Here the perfect participle is used (“hegiasmnoi”) as it is the finished work of Christ in its potentiality, not the process of it in us, which is spoken of.

BY THE OFFERING OF THE BODY OF JESUS CHRIST ONCE FOR ALL — “Hhephapax”—more emphatic than “hapax.” The body means the humanity, the human life rights of Jesus. “He became flesh.” It is not that we are sanctified once for all, but our sanctification is taking place by means of a final efficacious sacrifice, complete, full and sufficient, and therefore does not, as the old Covenant sacrifices did, need repeating. This human life, as shown in the book of Romans, chapter 5, is the complete and perfect counterpart of Adam and the race of mankind in him, and so is the full redemption price.

10:11 — AND EVERY PRIEST — “And” (“kai” introduces a new particular of contrast—“and besides”) “every high priest stood” (no priest or other person might sit in the inner court of the temple, but the king. There is perhaps more than a simple contrast in the use of “ekathisen” below)

DAILY MINISTERING — “Day by day ministering, and often offering the same sacrifices which” (“haitines”—of a sort which, such as) “never” (“oudepote”—not even at any time) “are able to take away sin” (“perielei”—literally strip off all around, so of a ring, or of clothes from the body. Such a word is peculiarly fitting to describe such a removal. The sacrifices might bring a partial sense of forgiveness, but they could never completely remove from the offerer the sense of sin—strip off and take away his guilt, and bring perfect peace.)

10:12 — BUT THIS MAN — “But He” (this one—“autos de mian”) “having offered one sacrifice for sins forever, sat down on the right hand of God.” The very highest honor, and proof of completeness and full satisfaction in the finished work. He sat down, unlike the former priests, and also he became a king. Thus he was exalted to the very highest possible place and honor, showing the Father’s approval and reward for the excellency of the service. On the right hand of the one and only Almighty.

10:13 — FROM HENCEFORTH EXPECTING — “Henceforth” (“to loipon”—the remaining, for the future, henceforth; from “leipo”—leave) “expecting” (“ekdechomenos”—receiving what is offered from the hands of the giver) “until” (“heoos”). Jesus was not only willing to wait, but delighted to have all the intervening things accomplished. He was not impatient—“his enemies be made his footstool.” (Footstool for him.)

10:14 — (See also Z. '09-342; R.4510)

FOR BY ONE OFFERING — “For by one offering” (dative of instrument) (“mia gar prosphera”) “he hath perfected” (brought to perfection by a more or less detailed training) “forever” (“eis to dienikes”) “them that are sanctified.” That is, he has established a guaranteed means and way for the complete perfecting of every member of his bride (“agiadzomenous”—made or declared holy). Sanctification is the imputed and implanted purification from sin, with the Holy Spirit working in us to cleanse every thought, word and deed, and develop and fix habits of righteousness and truth in each of us, till all is cleansed and pure.

10:15 — The prophetic word testifies the same, making absolute and final deliverance from sin and imperfection a characteristic of the New Covenant arrangements. The Holy Spirit is this Word testified to us. It is the spirit of prophecy. (Heb. 9:8; 1 Pet. 1:11)

FOR AFTER HAVING SAID — “Meta gar to proeirekenai”—literally—“after the to have said before.”

10:16 — THIS IS THE COVENANT — “This is the covenant which I will make” (“aute he diatheke hen diathesomai”) “with them after those days” (“ekeinos”—those days there) “saith the Lord. Giving my laws upon the hearts of them, and in the minds of them” (“epi toon dianoioon”) “will I write them.” This writing of God’s laws in the minds of the people, would mean that they appreciated the opportunity and learned these laws, and practiced them as best they could, in spite of occasional stumblings and wayward steps, until the Lord’s ways became their habits of thought and action, second nature to them.

10:17 — AND THEIR SINS — “And” (the Scripture adds) “their sins” (“hamartioon”—miss the mark and so not share in the prize offered. From “meros”—a division or share) “and iniquities” (“anomioon”—illegal doings, lawlessness, disobedience to law) “will I remember no more.” He will not any more call them to mind, because not only forgiven in Christ, but completely rooted out of their natures, and supplanted by righteous habits of thought and action.

10:18 — NOW WHERE REMISSION — “Now” (“de”) “where” (“hopou”) “there is remission” (“aphesis,” from “aphiemi”—to send forth, literally, from “apo” and “hiemi”—to send, an intensified form of “eimi”—to go. It means primarily freedom, pardon, and so deliverance, forgiveness, liberty, remission) “of these, there is no longer” (“ouketi”) “offering for sin,” because of the complete wiping out, not only from the records but from the very nature and mind and life of the individual, a complete restoration.

Here ends the finale of the great three part arrangement (Heb. 7:1-25; 7:26-9:12; 9:13-10:18) of the middle portion of the epistle. “Christ a high priest forever after the order of Melchisedek”—this was the great theme, now brought to a conclusion. That the priesthood is so high above the Levitical as God’s heaven is high above the earth. That Christ was his one own high priestly self-sacrifice, has accomplished that which the Levitical priesthood, with its oft repeated sacrifices was unable to accomplish; that henceforth both our present possession of salvation privileges, and our future completion of it, is as certain to us as He is with God; ruling as a priest and reigning as a king; once more to appear, no more as the bearer of our sins, but in glory as a Judge. These are the great fundamental thoughts now brought to their full development. What it is to be a high priest after the order of Melchisedek and not of Aaron is set forth in Chapter 7:1-25; that Christ moreover as high priest is the antitype of Aaron, ruling in the true holy place by virtue of his self-sacrifice here on earth, and the Mediator of a better covenant, whose essential character the old covenant only shadowed forth and typified, we learn in chapter 7:26-9:12. And the self-sacrifice of Christ, offered through the eternal spirit, is of everlasting as contrasted with the unavailing cycle of the Law offerings, is established in the third part chapter 9:13-10:18; the second half of the portion chapter 10:1-18 being devoted to a reiterated and conclusive treatment of the main points of the whole—the high priesthood of Christ, appointed by the Father and called by Him, his offering of himself, the kingly character of his priesthood, and its complete accomplishment of the intended purpose. (Psa. 40:90; Jer. 31)

10:19 — This is the third great division of the Epistle, beginning here through 13:25. And herein is exhortation to enter boldly into the Holy Place, vs. 19-22; to hold fast our profession vs. 23; to stir up one another vs. 24; in consideration of the fearful punishment of the loss of all which awaits the rejectors of Christ in this high calling, vs. 26-31; in remembrance of their previous sufferings when first converted, vs. 32-34; finally exhortation not to cast away their confidence, for the time until his coming is very short, and during this time faith is the life of the Christian. There has been no exhortation since chapter 7:1 during the great doctrinal argument of the epistle. Before that, argument and exhortation were rapidly alternated. But so exquisite is the skill of arrangement and development, that the very exhortation with which he closed the former portion of the epistle, where first he began to prepare the way for his great argument, is now resumed, deepened indeed and expanded by the intervening demonstration, but in spirit and substance the same.

HAVING THEREFORE — “Having” (“echontes” is first, as carrying the emphasis,—we do now have, we possess) “confidence” (“parrhesian”—all-out-spokenness, hence frank, open boldness) “therefore, brethren” (“oun”—therefore, collects the thought, and infers that it has been proved). He uses the word brethren, calling attention to the fact that we are bound together, as a company, by the bonds of love, all striving together for a similar goal, and all under one Master. This is not a right to enter in, but supreme confidence in the efficiency of the blood of Jesus. “Concerning the entrance” (our entrance, not Jesus’) “into the Holies.” Notice the word for entrance (“eisodon”—a road into). The way trodden by the Master, we follow in his steps. The next verse enters into a deeper discussion of it.

10:20 — BY A NEW AND — “Which” (entrance, or road into) “he first opened for us” (“enekainisen”—inaugurate, dedicate; from “en”—in, and “kainidzo,” from “kainos”—new). The thought of newness is here twice mentioned, first in this word “egkainisen,” and then in the word translated “new” (“prosphton,” from “pro”—before, and “spadzo”—or “sphatto”—slain, meaning recently slain or killed). This brings forward the fact that a death was endured to obtain this way for us, that it cost a great price, therefore we should appreciate it. According to usage this word means fresh, recent, in contrast to “palaios”—old or antiquated; and is used not only of recently slain meat, or a fresh corpse, but also of fish, blood;

“poma”—a beverage, “staphule”—cluster of grapes, and many other things. None before Jesus trod this way, no believer under the Old Covenant could or dared, though under a dispensation of preparatory grace, approach God so freely and openly, so fearlessly and joyously, so closely and intimately, as we now, who come to the Father by the blood of His Son.

A NEW WAY AND LIVING — “A new way and living” (“dzosan”—living, is usually interpreted as meaning producing or leading to life, as contrasted with the mere dead ceremony of entrance into the earthly holy place. This entrance is real, living, working way, and not a dead shadow. This life begins in us when we are spirit begotten, and grows in richness and vitality as we near its end.

THROUGH THE VAIL — (“Dia tou katapetasmetos”—the name of the second vail in the Temple or Tabernacle).

THAT IS TO SAY, HIS FLESH — This statement tells us plainly that the second vail represents the death of the fleshly human body, or flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of heaven. That death Jesus must pass through, before he could enter heaven itself for us. What a price was paid that we, and later the human race in general might return to God and everlasting life. How much of tragedy and victory is compressed into this one verse!

10:21 — AND HAVING — The second thing to encourage us, first was the confidence based on the work of Christ, and now we have living High Priest.

A GREAT PRIEST — The word for high priest “archiereus,” is not used here for the thought of the priesthood and its greatness, its exalted state, is emphasized.

OVER THE HOUSE OF GOD — (The preposition of motion “epi” is here used, instead of the preposition of rest “huper.”) How glad we should be as we think that our high priest, though he died to secure our deliverance, yet conquered death and is living forevermore.

10:22 — (See also Z. '14-89-90; R.5424)

LET US DRAW NEAR — “Proserchometha”—approach. This word is associated with worship, and the clauses which follow show the proper heart condition for the worshipper

WITH A TRUE — “Alethines”—the ideal. not merely true, but having the Spirit of the Lord filling it.

HEART IN FULL ASSURANCE — unwavering confidence in the promises of God, and the effectiveness of the sacrifice of Jesus, not merely that God is able to forgive, but is willing; and He is greater than our heart; his love is deeper than ours, and he longs for our development and perfection more even than we do. He will fill our arms with all the blessings which our faith will let us take. Notice how, in chapter 4:16 the Apostle urges us to come with confidence (“parrhesias”—all-outspokenness, literally uttering all) to the throne of grace. Now he uses a much stronger word “plerophoria”—full to overflowing from “pleres”—repleat or covered over; which comes from “pleo” or “pletho”—fill and “phoreo”—bear or wear, as constant clothing, or accompaniment; from “phoros”—a load, as something borne; a tax or toll or assessment. Hence filled with unwavering Faith). Remember our Master said: (Mark 11:24) All things whatever you pray for, believe that you receive them (not shall receive, but do now receive, that is they are now granted and will be ready for you when you need them) and you shall receive them. This statement means a certainty that our Father hears us and provides all things needful. Full to overflowing with faith and confidence in our Heavenly Father’s love and provision, is the right condition.

HAVING THE HEARTS SPRINKLED FROM AN EVIL CONSCIENCE — Or consciousness of evil.

AND THE BODY WASHED WITH PURE WATER — These both refer to the Levitical purification of the priests, which took place by means of blood and water. At their first dedication Aaron and his sons were sprinkled with blood, their bodies and garments. (Ex. 29:21; Lev. 8:30) As under priests we have been sprinkled with Jesus’ blood, not outwardly as with the ram of consecration, but inwardly by our belief and acceptance of the blood of the Lamb of God. The first could produce only a sprinkling of the body, but the second produces a thorough cleansing to pureness of heart and conscience in the sight of God. The washing with water—pure truth, not denominational traditions—also (Ex. 29:4) was to be part of the cleansing of Aaron and his sons; and as often as they entered the Holy or approached the Altar, they were to wash their hands and feet, and so the High Priest on the Day of Atonement. (Lev. 16:4) This is thought by many to refer to baptism, not as a mere external rite, but as a symbol of our consecration. “As underpriests we are sprinkled, as underpriests we are bathed” so that our hearts and minds are freed from an evil conscience, and as sons of God we have a standing in his sight of perfection in His Son Jesus.

10:23 — LET US HOLD FAST — Hold down, as if firmly, by putting our whole strength into it

THE PROFESSION — The open confession before others

OF OUR FAITH — “Of the hope”—the general hope of the church—that we shall be presented spotless in His presence as spirit beings with the divine nature, in our heavenly home

WITHOUT WAVERING — Without slant toward something else, hence without uncertainty or doubt.

FOR HE IS FAITHFUL THAT HAS PROMISED — The one that has promised will perform the thing promised.

10:24 — AND — Meanwhile.

LET US CONSIDER — Think down, or deeply, study—“katanoomen”—bear in mind, not just a passing thought

ONE ANOTHER TO PROVOKE UNTO LOVE AND GOOD WORKS — Let us think what we can do to encourage each other in the good way, and in this struggle, manifesting our own love and calling forth their love to do and act and speak the things that are good, helpful and encouraging. How beautifully does this chain of exhortations by our writer fall into accord with a triple division of the Christian life, according to St. Paul. (1 Cor. 13:13; 1 Thess. 1:3; 5:8; Col. 1:4) Next to an exhortation to approach God in full assurance of faith, follows one to hold fast the profession of our hope, and now comes one to emulate one another in love. (Delitzsch.)

10:25 — NOT FORSAKING THE — “Not deserting” (leaving down, deserting) “the assembling” (“episunagoge,” like its verb “episunagein” belongs to late Greek—lead together upon, that is, meeting together for a common purpose) “of themselves, as the manner of some is”—This wording plainly shows that not formal apostasies, but habits of neglect, are in the writer’s view. But these lead gradually to an open break, and the following warnings are given to keep us alert.

BUT EXHORTING — “Parakalountes”—call men together as if for a heart to heart talk, or friendly comfort

AND SO MUCH THE MORE — that is meeting together so much the more. The Greek is more intensified “tosouto mallon, hoso”—literally—by how much the more

AS BY SO MUCH (THE MORE) YE SEE THE DAY

APPROACHING — “Blepete”—ye see, means to look, turn the eyes, face, point, and is in the second person plural, present indicative active, and appeals at once to the watchfulness and discernment of Christians as regards the signs of the times). These Hebrews lived in the days very close to one of the great types or forecasts of the great time of trouble, the destruction of Jerusalem, the Holy City, and now the great Day approaches, the Day of days, the ending time of the present evil world, the day when the light of the moon shall be as the light of the sun, and the light of the sun as the light of seven days; when all the blind eyes shall be opened, and all the deaf ears unstopped. The day when the deaf shall hear the words of the book and the eyes of the blind shall see out of obscurity and out of darkness; when they that murmured shall learn doctrine, and they that erred in spirit shall come to understanding. When the Lord shall lead the blind by a way which they knew not and in paths that they have not known will he guide them, he will make the crooked places straight and the rough places plain, and not forsake them. That we may be found worthy to inherit that day, the following warning is given.

10:26 — FOR IF WE — “For it we sin wilfully” (that is, willingly, enjoying the sin) (Sin here is “hamartanonton” signifying to miss the mark, fall short). Neglect of assembling together, and loss of mutual exhortation and stimulus, would naturally result in slipping back into the former condition. “After receiving the knowledge” (“epignosin”) “of the truth.” It is usually said that “gnosis” is the weaker word, “epignosis” the stronger; the former the more general, the latter the more specific; the former the more quiescent the latter the more active; The truth in all this is that when “epignosis” is used there is the assumption of the actual direction of the mind or spirit to a definite object, and of a real grasping of the same, so that we may speak of a false “gnosis,” but not of a false “epignosis.” The writer, by the use of this word gives us to understand that he means not merely a historic notion about the Truth, but a living, believing knowledge of it, which has laid hold of a man and fused him into union with itself. (Delitzch)

THERE REMAINETH — “There is no longer left remaining a sacrifice for sins.” There is but one true sacrifice for sin. If a man, having availed himself of that one, then deliberately casts it behind him, there is no second sacrifice left for him. He has in fact shut the door of repentance behind him, by the very fact of his being in an abiding state of willing or wilful sin. The scene of action is transferred to the day of the Lord’s presence and he is found in that filthy state. “He that is filthy, let him be filthy still.” (Rev. 22:11)

10:27 — See also Z. '96-1`23; R.1985.

BUT A CERTAIN FEARFUL — “But” (there is left remaining) “a certain fearful” (awful, frightful) “expectation” (“ekdoke”—thinking out) “of judgment” (“kriseos”) “and of fervor of fire” (“puros dzelos”—of fire of ardor or zeal or indignation) “which shall” (“mellontos”—intending, determined) “devour” (“esthien,” from “esthio”—devour, destroy) “the enemies” (“hupenantious, hupo en anti”—ones opposite, or in front of, before or opposed to one, an adversary or enemy).

10:28 — HE THAT DESPISED — “Anyone” (“tis”) “having despised” (“athetasas,” from “atithemi”—set aside, put away, the verb is “atheteo”) “Moses’ Law died” (“apothneskei”—died off) “without” (“choris”) “mercy” (“oiktirmon,”] a plural Alexandrian word, and is generally in the plural in the New Testament) “upon two or three witnesses.”

10:29 — (See also Z. '09-218; R.4436)

OF HOW MUCH — “Of how much” (“poso”) “worse” (“keironos,” genitive of “cheiron”—worse the comparative of “karos”—bad) “punishment” (“timorias,” from “timoreo”—avenge or punish, and so establish the honor—“time”—of the righteous) “Think you” (“dokete,” forms an appeal to the judgment of the reader) “shall he be thought worthy” (“axioo”—think or judge fit or worthy) “who hath trampled under foot” (“katapatesas,” the word or noun does not occur elsewhere in the New Testament, though the verb does. It means to trample down, to reject disdainfully) “the son of God” (the higher title is used to emphasize the enormity of the crime) “and accounted” (“hegesamenos,” from “hegeomai”—think, believe, consider, or go before, lead, command, conduct, from “ago”) “common” (“koinon”) “the blood of the covenant” (the New Covenant. The writer is talking about or contrasting the Old law covenant with the new Law Covenant) “in which he was sanctified” (by being sprinkled by it, and thus made acceptable to God, justified and holy—“hegiasthen”) “a common thing” (accounted it as merely the blood of the common man, and so deserving to die as a blasphemer. We need not use the meaning “unclean” of “koinos,” as there is reason enough without it.) (This one advanced so far in the spiritual life that this blood had really been applied to his heart by faith and its hallowing and purifying influence visible in his daily life) “and has insulted” (“enubrisas,” from “enubridzo”—do despite unto, from “en” and “ubridzo”—abuse, exercise violence) “the spirit of grace” (despised the favor, and thus insulted the giver, the holy spirit of God. The comments in the Helps are very good at this point. Those so despising the grace of God would probably either deny the precious blood as here stated, or as stated in Hebrews 6, go back into gross immoralities, and are typified by any of the first born among the Jews on the night of the passover, who did not remain under the blood. The punishment referred to is second death, a death without a resurrection. This shows that universal salvation is contrary to the Scriptures. The atonement for Adam’s sin will not cover wilful sin against light and knowledge; there is a sin unto death, beyond the reach of prayer. (1 John 5:16) This dying without mercy was illustrated by the death of Nadab and Abihu. Such despise God by ignoring his only arrangement for atonement. See the statement of Peter in 2 Peter 2:10-22). His is strong as language can make it.

10:30 — FOR WE KNOW — “For we know him who said to me belongeth vengeance” (the quotation is from Deut. 32:35) “I will recompense, saith the Lord. And the Lord will judge his people.” No two things can be more opposite than “charis” and “hubris,” favor and scorning. St. Paul quotes the passage in Deuteronomy in Rom. 12:19, and quotes it in the same way.

10:31 — IT IS A FEARFUL THING TO FALL INTO THE HANDS OF THE LIVING GOD — Without the covering of the merit of Christ, for the Creator could demand nothing less than perfection, and none could produce that. (Fall into— “empesei,” from “empipto”—fall upon, occur to) Living (“dzon”) is a characteristic of the nature of God, and brings out vividly the zeal with which he will consume his enemies. For life will be taken away from all but those who learn to love righteousness.

10:32 — BUT CALL TO REMEMBRANCE — “Anamimneskesthe”—present imperative middle of “anamimnesko”—remember, remind oneself. Call over in your minds, one by one

THE FORMER DAYS — The days of your early consecration, and your zeal for Him then

IN WHICH, AFTER YE — “In which, after ye were enlightened” (by the Holy Spirit, “arise and Christ shall give thee light.” Here again is stated the illuminating influence of the Holy Spirit. When the Truth took hold of you and made a new man out of you.) “ye underwent” (“hupemeinate,” from “hupo” and “mano”—remain under, or endure) “much contest” (“athlesin,” nominative “athlesis”—a contest, from “athios,” “athleo”—struggle or contest) “of sufferings” (“pathematon”—may mean that your contest consisted of sufferings, or that it was waged with suffering as the foe contested. The nature of these sufferings is now specified.

10:33 — PARTLY BEING MADE — “Partly being made a spectacle” (“theatrid—zomenoi”—being made a public spectacle in the theater, the theater being the place where conspicuous punishments were inflicted on account of the multitudes there assembling. This word may be literally taken as the epistle was written from Rome after the persecutions by Nero).

BOTH BY REPROACHES AND — “Both in reproaches” (“oneidismois”—reproaches, from “oneididzo”—rail at, taunt, revile; from “oneidos”—disgrace; from “onoma”—a name) (Dative of manner) “and by tribulations” (“thlipsesin,” from “thlibo”—to crowd; which is from “tribo”—to rub. “thlipsis”—pressure affliction, persecution) “and partly by having become” (“genethentes,” this passive has the sense of something of purpose, having made yourselves, a fine record on Christian love and sympathy) “partakers” (“koinonoi”—sharers with) “with those who were thus overturned” (“anastrephomenon,” from “ana”—up, and “strepho”—turn or twist). It took a great deal of courage and faith to be associated with those under the ban of the Law, such as during the first World War. Thus the body of Christ was the more firmly knit together, by mutual help and comfort and love.

10:34 — FOR YOU BOTH — “For you both sympathized with” (“sunepathesate”—suffered with) “those in bonds” (“demiois,” substituted for “desmois mou,” and means captives, as bound prisoners, from “desmos”—a band, or bond, a shackle)

AND YE TOOK — “and ye took with joy” (“charas”) “the plunderings of your goods” (“prosedexasthe,” from “prosdexomai”—received.) Even took with expectation such plundering) “knowing that ye have for yourselves a better possession” (“huparxin,” a word used in Luke) “and enduring” (lasting, not temporary, as are all the possessions we now have).

10:35 — (See also Z.'14-376; R.5594)

CAST NOT AWAY — “Do not throw away therefore your confidence” (“parhresian”—all out-spokenness, from “pas”—all, and “ero,” “eipon”—say, speak) “the which” (“hetis,” relative pronoun, stronger than “he,” and could be rendered “being of such sort as) “hath” (note the present tense, the reward is future, but the certainty is present, even now), “great recompense of reward” (See chapter 2:12), great beyond anything we can imagine now.

10:36 — (See also Z.'11-409; R.4910)

FOR YE HAVE NEED OF — “For” (justification of the foregoing) “ye have need of patient endurance” (“hupomones”—remaining under, as of willingly continuing under very uncomfortable conditions, because of the great hope set before us) “that having done the will of God you may receive the Promise” (not the word of promise, but the things promised, itself) (receive—“komisesthe,” from “komidzo”—carry away, gather a reward as after a contest). Do not let go, or give up till the difficulty is overcome, and the reward secured. The prize is almost ours, let us endure, till we see our Lord face to face.

10:37 — FOR YET A LITTLE WHILE — “For yet a little while” (literally—for yet a little while, how little, how little!) “the coming one” (“erchomenos”) “will come” (“echei”) “and will not delay” (“chroniei,” from “chronidzo”—take time, delay). This is encouragement to the enduring ones. “He that shall endure unto the end shall be saved.”

10:38 — NOW THE JUST — “But my just one shall live by faith, and if he draw back” (“huposteiletai,” the middle or passive has usually the sense of the object of fear, but sometime it is absolute as here) “my soul” (God’s whole being) “does not delight in him.” God has no delight in those who cannot trust Him.

10:39 — BUT WE ARE NOT OF — “But we are not for shrinking back into destruction.” That is the result of losing faith in our Creator. Our God does not treat us as if we are going to fail, but with trust in us to succeed. He makes it personal, we, you and I, are going to carry this through to victory. Notice that the drawing back is not into eternal torment. “but men of faith unto, preservation of the soul, everlasting life.” (“peripoiesin psuches”—making complete the soul).

(See also Z. '10-244; R.4654)

How great a blessing has been the study of this chapter, thinking with God, our Father, about the good things of the present and the future. Surely it strengthens us to renew our determination to endure with him till our course is completed.

11: — (See also Z. '97-163; Z. '09-135; Z. '10-132, 141; R.2162; R.4386; R.4598; R.4601)

A deeper study of this chapter enables one to get a better appreciation of the horrible persecutions and tortures through which these heroes of faith passed, and to what terrible depths of degradation human minds and natures descend, below even that of the beasts, when through habitual wickedness they come under the influence of demons. Truly a glittering testimony of faithfulness has shown down through the ages, and what a ghastly exhibit selfishness and greed have made of themselves! Only by the permission of evil could such an everlasting record be made of the detestable nature of every other way than God's way, and of the utter ruin of every life that persists in disobedience. And by contrast the peace and blessing and eternal happiness, the glorious liberty of the Sons of God.

11:1 — Faith gives reality to things not yet seen, so that they are treated as though truly present.

NOW FAITH IS THE CONFIDENCE OF THINGS HOPED FOR —

In chap. 3:14 “hupostasis” clearly means confidence, so here. Thus only does this word answer to what we might expect by the use of “elpidzomenon” instead of some other word, like “anupostaton.”

THE EVIDENCE — “A demonstration” “elengchos”—conviction. “elengchein” means convict or convince when used of persons, prove or demonstrate when used of things). It is faith, an act of the mind, which is this demonstration. It is therefore necessarily subjective in its effect.

OF THINGS NOT SEEN — “Blepomenon”—the present passive participle of “blepo”—turn the eyes toward). Faith is not here stated as identical with hope, but faith is the conviction of things hoped for. Hope exists independently of faith, but derives its reality and is deepened into confidence by means of faith. One can have hope with very little faith, but faith gives a certainty to hope. This is the deepest definition of faith. Jesus said “When ye ask believe that ye do receive and ye shall have.” (Mark 11:24) Our knowledge of God creates in us a certainty which makes God’s promises as sure of realization as that the sun shall rise tomorrow. Why cannot we learn to trust God as much for the unseen things as for the material things?

11:2 — FOR BY IT — “For” (“gar” does not bring in any proof of the foregoing definition, but shows that faith is noble enough to be dignified with the offices just mentioned.) “in” (not by, merely but elemental—in the domain of, in the region or matter of, or condition of) “this” (not “aute”—it, but more graphic—in this it was, that) “the elders” (not merely those who lived before, but those ancients whom we dignify with the name of Elders) “were testified to,” that is testimony was given concerning them. It is of course implied that the testimony or report was a good one. Luke uses the word (“martureo”) in this sense in Acts 6:3; 10:22; 16:2; 22:12.

11:3 — THROUGH FAITH WE UNDERSTAND — “In faith” (“pistei”—instrumental dative, nearly “dia pisteos” as in verse 33) “we perceive” (“nooumen,” from “noieo”—to exercise the mind, comprehend, observe, heed. From “nous”—the intellect or mind; from the base of “gignosko”—know). In Romans 1:20 “ta aorata” (the unseen things) of God are “ta nooumena”—the perceived things. The world itself and the things therein are “kathoratai” (perceived) by us, that is are seen, or recognized by the senses, but the fact of its creation by God “noeitai” (are understood by the mind). “the ages” (“tous aionas”—the time periods, not “ta panta”—all things, the universe, but mainly the time periods) “to have been framed” (“kathertisthai”—perfect passive infinitive meaning to have been formed or furnished forth)

BY THE WORD OF GOD — “Hrema” differs from “logos” in that it is the spoken word, the command, as used in the Septuagint throughout Genesis 1; whereas “logos” may be the inward shaping of the thing willed, as well as its outward manifestation. “Hrema” must not be taken from the personal word, such as in chapter 1:1,2, where a different Greek word is used “laleo.” The command, “hrema,” may be issued through any agency.

SO THAT THINGS WHICH ARE SEEN — “So that” (“eis to,” as in Luke 5:17, with the infinitive of the verb “gegonenai”) “not out of things apparent” (“me phainomenon”) “has that which is seen” (“ta blepomena”—the seen things) “been made.” The “me phainomenon” can be understood (a) as things unseen in contrast to seen things; or (b) things non-existent; the first meaning that God created the world out of previously non-apparent chaos, the second referring to the creation out of the idea in the divine mind. In all recreation the seen is made out of the visible (“to blepomenon ek phainomenon”), the seed becomes the plant, the grub becomes the moth. But faith, which is above sight, reasons that this was not so in the first place—that the visible world was not made out of apparent material. So we can interpret “phainomena” with its natural meaning—things apparent.

11:4 — BY FAITH ABEL — “In faith Abel offered to God a more excellent” (acceptable) “sacrifice than Cain.” How “more acceptable”—“pleiona thusian.” The adjective must be taken of quality, not quantity. Both were of the fruit of the labor of each, the best they had. But God had some lessons of instruction to give both these lads, and said to Cain—“If thou doest well shalt thou not be acceptable.” God warned him to master the impulse of envy, and not let it develop into hate and murder. “Sin croacheth at the door, and thou shalt rule over him.” Not let the suggestions of Satan be received. But somehow, as Jude shows (vs. 11) and (1 John 3:12), there was something else than ignorance. Evidently Abel had a more thoughtful and finer character and perhaps remembered the animal slain to provide a covering and perhaps remembered the animal slain to provide a covering for Adam and Eve, and meditated upon it. Cain was the product of their first passion, and the subsequent sorrow may have birth-marked him. Abel was a product of later thought and moderation, and had a nobler and better character. Evidently all acceptable sacrifice must in some way point to the death of the redeemer as a redemption sacrifice. Cain could have found what would be acceptable, and have purchased it of Abel and made an acceptable sacrifice, as David did. (2 Sam. 24:24)

BY WHICH HE OBTAINED — “By means of which” (which faith, not sacrifice) “he was testified to be righteous, God bearing testimony upon his gift” (probably by the fire of the altar consuming the sacrifice) “and by means of it” (his faith) “He being dead” (“apothanon”) “yet speaketh” (by the record of his faith and his blood) (Heb. 12:24)

11:5 — (See also Z. 10-132; R.4598)

BY FAITH ENOCH — “In faith Enoch was translated” (“metatethe”—changed from one place or condition to another) “not to see death” (“tou me idein thrnaton”—of the not to see death, genitive with infinitive—that he should not see death. Does this mean not to experience death, or not to experience the pains incident to dying. The word translated would seem to indicate that he was changed from one condition to another, and leave room for the supposition that he did not die. Verse 13 does not prove that Enoch died for the statement is about Abraham and his kindred, as shown in verse 15. Enoch did not come out from any land to which he could have returned.)

AND WAS NOT FOUND — “And was not found”

(“eurisketo”—was not being found imperfect indicative passive of “eurisko”), “for” (because) “God translated Him. For before the translation he obtained testimony” (was testified to) “to have been pleasing to God.”

11:6 — BUT WITHOUT FAITH IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO PLEASE GOD —

Literally—impossible to have pleased at any time. The aorist with a negative in a sentence gives the exclusive thought of “at any time,” “at all.” This is a general statement.

FOR HE THAT COMETH — Approacheth to worship—“proserchomenon.”

TO GOD MUST — “To God must” (ought to, should, literally “he needs,” “dei”) “to believe that he exists, and gives rewards to those who seek him out” (“ekdzseteo”—means more than “dzeteo,” which means seek, ask for. The addition of the proposition “ek” means an energetic, determined search). The word for believe—“pisteusai”—is the aorist infinitive, not the present infinitive, not the state of mind in which he is when coming, but the state of mind which originated his coming, of which the coming is the fruit or result. Thus his faith is also to him “elpidzomenon upostasis”—a confidence of hopings. God’s existence is made real to him by it, and by it his future reward is assured.

11:7 — IN FAITH NOAH, HAVING BEEN WARNED —

“Chrematisthesis”—aorist passive participle of “chrematidzo”—utter an oracle, be admonished of God, divinely intimated

OF GOD OF THINGS — “Concerning the things not even yet seen”

(“medepo blepomenon”), “taking careful thought” (“eulabetheis”) “prepared an ark unto the salvation” (deliverance) “of his house.”

(“kibotos,” as a word had been appropriated for the Ark, and should be so translated here.)

BY THE WHICH — “By means of which” (“kiboton”) “by reason of which he condemned the world” (“kosmos”) (through his faith and action). “And became a legal heir to the righteousness which is by faith.” Noah is the first one in Scripture to be called righteous (“dikaios”).

11:8 — IN FAITH ABRAHAM — “In faith Abraham, being called, obeyed to go out” (the infinitive is used to show wherein he obeyed) “to a place”

(“topon”—place, region, country) “which he would afterwards”

(“emellen”—was about to) “receive as an inheritance, and he went out, not knowing whither” (“pou”) “he went” (“erchetai”—present indicative active of “erchomai”).

11:9 — IN FAITH HE — “In faith he sojourned” (“paroikeo, parokesen”—dwelleth in the neighborhood of) “in the land” (“gen”) “of the promise, as if an alien” (“allotrian”—a stranger as if it did not belong to him, but to another); “dwelling in tents with Isaac and Jacob, the heirs” (or inheritors) “with him of the same promise” (the Abrahamic Covenant) (Luke 2:8 is the only other place where this same wording occurs.)

11:10 — FOR HE WAITED FOR — The preposition is “ekdekomai,” as in “ekdzeteo,” verse 6, intensified the expectation—he confidently waited for

THE CITY, THE ONE HAVING FOUNDATIONS —
“Themelious”—something put down as a foundation.

WHOSE BUILDER — “Whose architect” (“technites”—master builder, or craftsman) from “techne”—trade, or craft; from “tithemi”—do, make, place, put) “and maker” (“demiourgos”—a worker for the people, a mechanic, a builder; from “demos”—people, and “ergon”—work) “is the God.”

11:11 — IN FAITH ALSO SARAH — “In faith also Sarah herself received power for the deposition of seed” (to fructify seed deposited) “and that contrary to the law of time” (beyond the time) (“kairon”—set or proper time) “of maturity” (“helikias”—from “helikos”—as big as, or how much, or how great; from “helix”—comrade, one of same age; hence “helikia”—age or stature) “since” (“epei”—seeing that) “she believed” (“hegesato”—aorist of “hegeomai”—go before; from “ago”—lead, conduct, command; hence think, believe, consider) “faithful the one having promised” (“epangeilomenon”—announce upon, promise; is the perfect middle participle of “epaggello”)

11:12 — THEREFORE SPRANG THERE — “Wherefore” (“dio kai”; infrequent in St. Luke and St. Paul, occurs again in chapter 13:12) “also from one there sprang” (were generate) “from one” (“aph henos, apo henos”), “and that deadened” (“nenekromenou”; perfect passive participle of “nekroo”—be dead) (past that vital power which nature requires)

SO MANY AS THE STARS — “So many as the stars of heaven for multitude” (this phrase is the subject of the verb “egenethesan”), “and as the sand” (“ammos”—sand; from “hama”—at same time, freely used as a preposition or adverb denoting close association; here, sand as heaped upon the beach) “which is by the shore” (“cheilos”—lip, as a pouring point, margin of water from the same root as “chasma”—chasm or vacance; from an obsolete primitive root “chao”—gape) “of the sea, the innumerable” (“anarithmetos”).

11:13 — Before the writer gives other examples of faith he looks back over the patriarchal age and gathers in one of the attributes of their faith.

THESE ALL DIED IN FAITH — The promises began with Abraham and the references in these verses are solely to the patriarchs as shown in the end of this verse and in verse 15. In faith would mean in the condition of faith, in the course of, or according to (“kata pistin”)

NOT HAVING RECEIVED THE PROMISES — The things promised. They had the word of promise, but not the fulfillment. The participial clause conditions and substantiates the “kata pistin”—“apethanon,” so “mea” is used and not “ou.”) Here the “epaggelia” (promises) include “to epaggelmenon,” the thing promised.

BUT HAVING SEEN THEM FROM AFAR — (“Porrothen”—from afar; from “porro”—afar, and an ending indicating the source; from afar off), “and embraced” (or saluted, or welcomed) (“aspasameno,” aorist middle participial nominative plural—enfold in the arms, salute, welcome. The verb “aspadzomai” is from “a,” as a particle of union, and a presumed form of “sparganow,” from “sparganon”—a strip, and so means to wrap with strips, as waddling cloth on an infant). From afar they saw the promises in the reality of their fulfillment, from afar they greeted them as a wanderer greets his longed for home, even when he only comes in sight of it from a distance, drawing to himself as it were magnetically, and embracing it with inward love that which is yet afar off. See Genesis 49:18 as an example.

AND CONFESSED — Or acknowledged—“homologesantes”—aorist participle, from “homos”—like, and “logo”—speak, hence speak alike, agree, confess, acknowledge.

THAT THEY WERE STRANGERS — “Parepidemos”—a stranger along side a resident foreigner (from “epidemoo”—make self at home)

AND SOJOURNERS UPON THE EARTH — So Abraham confessed before the children of Heth. (Gen. 23:4)

11:14 — FOR — Justification of the statement that it was in faith “kata pistin” that they ran and finished their course, by the inferences from their own confession.

THEY WHO SAY SUCH THINGS MAKE MANIFEST — Exhibit, disclose— “emphanidzousin”—make apparent to all, from the adjective “emphanes”—apparent to all.

THAT THEY SEEK AFTER — “Epidzetousi,” from “epi”—upon, and “dzeteo”—seek, ask for. The preposition “epi” implies the direction of the wish or yearning.

A COUNTRY — “A Fatherland” (a nation, town or city “patris,” or a home). So Abraham was longing for the Kingdom of God upon earth.

11:15 — AND IF INDEED THEY WERE MINDFUL — Were thinking of, remembering. “emnemoneuon,” from “mnemomeuo”—exercise the memory, recollect. “mneme”—remembrance, “mnema”—a memorial, that is a monument, burial place, grave, tomb; “mnemeion”—a remembrance, a cenotaph (place of interment), grave; “mneia”—a recollection, a recital, remembrance; “mnamai”—fix in the mind grasp mentally, recollect, bear in mind, the middle of the verb; “mnemosuon”—a reminder, a memorial.

OF THAT FROM WHICH THEY CAME OUT — “Exebasan,” aorist of “ekbaino,” walk or go out.

THEY WOULD CONTINUALLY BE HAVING OPPORTUNITY — “Kairon”—appropriate time.

TO RETURN — “Anakampsai,” from “anakampto”—turn back, from “ana”—up, and in composition back, again; with “kapmto”—bend the presence here of two imperfects “emnemoneun” and “eikon” indicates that they are not used so much in their temporal senses, as in the sense of habitual action which both members of the sentence are meant to convey “if they were through their lives mindful, they would have during their lives opportunity,” i.e. they would continually be having opportunity to return.

11:16 — BUT NOW THEY DESIRE — “Aregontai,” middle of an obsolete verb—to stretch oneself, reach out after, long for.

A BETTER COUNTRY (home), THAT IS AN HEAVENLY ONE, WHEREFORE GOD IS NOT ASHAMED OF THEM — “Epaischunetai”—feel shame; from “epi”—upon, and “aischunomai”—be ashamed, from “aischos”—disfigurement, disgrace

TO BE CALLED — “Epikaleisthai”—be called by a name, or title, from “epikaleo”

THEIR GOD, FOR HE HATH PREPARED — “Ettoimasen,” from “etiomadzo”—make ready, prepare; from “etoimos”—ready; from an old noun “eteos”—fitness; hence, adjusted or made ready

FOR THEM A CITY — Permanent and eternal in contrast to the tents in which they wandered. God is not ashamed of them, nor to be called their God; and we find proof of this, not only in his thus naming himself, but in his preparing for them a city, the home for which they had yearned. He did not deceive their hopes, but acted as their God by verifying their hopes. Thus does “etoimasen” keep its proper emphasis, and the aorist its proper time. They looked for a city and God refused not to be called their God for he prepared for them that city, verified their hopes. If we ask for the interpretation of “etoimasen” the answer is in the preparation of the way of Christ and the Church, to bring everlasting salvation by him, through his kingdom, of which salvation they were partakers by faith.

11:17 — IN FAITH ABRAHAM — “In faith Abraham hath offered” (not “was offering” as is commonly taken, nor “was in purpose to offer,” which would be the imperfect but the perfect tense “prosenenochen,” as if the work and its praise were yet enduring) “Isaac, when tested” (“peiradzomenos”—being tested, disciplined, scrutinized; from “peira”—a test; from “peiro”—pierce; from “paran”—through; “peras”—an extremity, end, outermost part;) “and” (brings to a climax) “was in the act of offering his only begotten, he who entertained the promises.” He had, as it were, with open arms accepted and taken to himself each and all of the promises, the possession of Canaan, the multiplication of his seed, the blessing of all nations. (“anadexamenos,” from “anadechomai”—entertain as a guest).

11:18 — HE TO WHOM IT WAS SAID — Not of whom, this refers not to Isaac, as many commentators, and our A. V. render it. This was spoken by God to Abraham, the immediate antecedent in the text, and the immediately resumed subject, after the relative clause.

THAT IN ISAAC SHALL THY SEED BE CALLED — (“Klethesetai”). Only Isaac’s descendents shall be known as Abraham’s seed. (The “hoti” is used as a recitative particle—that).

11:19 — (See also Z. ’07-10; R.3916)

ACCOUNTING — “Reckoning” “logisamenos”—thinking, believing

THAT GOD IS ABLE TO RAISE — “Egeirein,” present infinitive of “egeiro”—awaken, arouse; probably from “agora”—market place; from “ageiro”—gather, has the thought of gathering one’s faculties

EVEN FROM THE DEAD — “Ek nekron” —out from the dead. This means not merely God’s power to raise Isaac, but God’s power generally to raise from the dead. This which is so plain from the form of the sentence, is made plainer still by the use of the present infinitive “egeirein,” not the aorist “egeirai,” which would be probably used, if a single case had been in view.

WHENCE ALSO HE RECEIVED HIM BACK — “Ekomisato,” from “komidzo” —properly to provide, by implication to carry off, as if from harm, bring, generally obtain; from a primitive “komeo” —tend, take care of. Matthew commonly uses “egeirein apo ton nekron”; St. Luke, John and Paul “ek nekron.”

IN A FIGURE — “Parabole” —a similitude, fictitious narrative.

11:20 — IN FAITH ISAAC BLESSED (“eulogesen”) JACOB AND ESAU CONCERNING THINGS FUTURE — “Perimellonton” —the planned things. The “kai” belongs not to “pistei” but to “peri mellonton” —and that concerning future things.

11:21 — BY FAITH JACOB, WHEN — “In faith Jacob when dying” (“apothneskon”) “blessed each of the sons of Joseph, and he worshipped” (“prosekunesen,” aorist of “proskuneo” —bow down, worship, literally to kiss, as a dog kisses his master’s hand; from “kuon” —a dog)

UPON THE TOP — “Akron” —pointed, at the point, highest, top most; “to akron” —the height, summit; “ta akra” —the heights

OF HIS STAFF — (“Hrabdos” —stick, wand). This worshipping is not connected with the blessing, but was on another occasion when Jacob made Joseph swear that he would bury him with his fathers, and not in Egypt. (Gen. 47:31) Perhaps the writer reverses the order of the two to bring the two acts of blessing together, that of Isaac and that of Jacob. This act of worship was one of faith, in as much as it was connected with a command, the point of which was God’s promise respecting the land of Canaan. And the faith was shown by the turning of the aged and dying body in a position of thankful adoration. An incalculable amount of idolatrous nonsense has been written on these words by Roman Catholic writers trying to derive therefrom an argument for the worship of images. In the Hebrews the same word indicates a staff or a bed, according as it is pointed, and as there are no points in the ancient Hebrew text, it is an open question. The A.V. renders the passage “And Israel bowed himself upon the bed’s head.” Though some argue that eastern beds have no posts, but are just a mat, carpet or rug spread upon the ground. At least Jacob turned himself upon the bed so as to lay his face to the pillow. The Septuagint has taken the Hebrew to mean “staff.” (“hrabdos”)

11:22 — IN FAITH JOSEPH, WHEN DYING — “Teleuton,” from “teleutao”—come to the end, die.

MADE MENTION — “Emnemoneusen.” Everywhere else in the New Testament, this word, as in the classics, means “remember” and is found with a genitive or an accusative, but not with “peri,” as in Luke 17:32; Acts 20:35; Matt. 16:9; 1 Thess. 2:9

OF THE EXODUS OF THE SONS OF ISRAEL AND COMMANDED — “Enteilato,” aorist active indicative of “entellomai.”

CONCERNING HIS BONES — Even Joseph, who had attained such eminence and power in Egypt, did not account it his country, but in faith spoke of the promise of God as certain, and commanded the removal of his own remains when it should come to pass.

11:23 — Now the writer passes on to the Exodus, and to its chief example, Moses.

IN FAITH, MOSES, WHEN BORN — (“Gennetheis,” aorist passive participle) “was hidden” (“ekrube”) “three months” (“trimenon”) “by his parents” (“ton pateron”), “because they saw the child was comely” (“asteion”—handsome), “and they feared not the command” (“diatagma”—institute, prescribe, command, arrange thoroughly, from “diatasso”) “of the King.” Their faith was loving trust in God who had given them so fair a child, which led them to perform, as far as in them lay, the duties of parents to it, and not the cruel part which the tyrant commanded.

11:24 — BY FAITH MOSES — “By” (or in) “faith, Moses, when full grown” (literally—having become great, “megas genomenos”: perfect middle) (usage so settled the meaning, the phrase being used for full growth)

REFUSED TO BE CALLED A SON OF PHARAOH’S DAUGHTER — Refused—“ernesato,” aorist middle indicative, of “arneomai”—contradict, refuse, deny) (daughter—“thagater”)

11:25 — CHOOSING — “Elomenos”—present participle of “haireomai”—choose, prefer. Some forms are from a cognate “ellomai,” which is otherwise obsolete.

RATHER — “Mallon”—more, rather; comparative of “mala”—very, much, greatly, exceedingly; the superlative “MALLISTA”—most, especially

TO SUFFER AFFLICTION WITH — “Sunkakoucheisthai,” present infinitive passive of “sunkakoucheo”—being maltreated together

THE PEOPLE OF GOD THAN TEMPORARILY — “Proskairon”—for the occasion only, for a season; from “pros”—for; and “kairos”—proper or suitable time.

THAN TO ENJOY — “To have full enjoyment” (“apolausin”—from “apo,” and “lao”—enjoy; hence enjoy fully) “of sin” (“kakoukia”—affliction, on the one hand is opposed to “echein apolausin hamartias”—have enjoyment of sin, on the other the possession of affliction with God’s people, to the enjoyment of sin.

11:26 — (See also Z. ’01-359; R.2908)

ESTEEMING THE — “Esteeming” (“hegesamenos,” aorist middle participle of “hegeomai”—command, lead, figuratively deem or consider—esteeming as he did) “as greater wealth” (“plouton,” abundance, wealth; from base of “pletho”—or “pleo,” or the reduplicated form “pimplemi”—fill, imbue, influence, supply) “than the treasures” (“thesauron”—a deposit, wealth, treasure; from “tithemi”—place, put; “thesauridzo”—amass, reserve, lay up treasure; “of Egypt, the reproaches” (“suneidismos”—reproach, contumely; from “oneididzo”—defame, rail at, chide, taunt; from “oneidos”—notoriety, a taunt, disgrace) “of Christ” (the same reproaches which Jesus and the Church had to bear. All Israel’s reproaches as the people of God, were Christ’s sufferings, typical or of like kind) “for he looked” (“apeblepen”—looked upon, so to look at anything as to be determined or strengthened in a course of action, by waiting for it, or by the regard for it) “unto the recompense of the reward” (“misthapodosian”—wages earned, pay).

11:27 — IN FAITH HE FORSOOK — “Kataleipo” the verb-deserted; the form here is the aorist “katelipen.”

EGYPT, NOT FEARING THE WRATH — “Thumon”—rage, fiery indignation.

OF THE KING — The general impression is that he fled because he feared that wrath. He so left Egypt as intending to return, but avoided thrusting himself into danger at the moment. It may be that the truth is that though the fact of his flight was the effect of his fear, the same flight itself and reserving himself for further action showed that fear did not possess him. The singular number “katelipen” cannot well be referred to an event in Israel’s history, but must refer to the personal history of Moses. He realized, after killing the Egyptian, that the people of Israel were not yet ready and the time was importune, evidently Moses had made his decision before going out to see how his brethren fared.

FOR HE ENDURED — (“Ekarteresēn”—be string, steadfast, endure; from “kratos”—strength, force, might. The verb is “kartereo”) “as seeing” (“heron”) “the invisible” (“aoraton”). His knowledge of God made his faith a certainty, that God’s promises were certain of fulfillment, and he risked his life upon them.

11:28 — THROUGH FAITH — “In faith he observed” (or celebrated) “the passover” (“poiein to pascha” is ever used for simply “to keep the passover”) “and the sprinkling” (“proschusin,” from “pros”—before, and “cheo”—pour, hence a shedding or pouring of blood forth) “of blood” (“proscheein” is the word used in the Septuagint for sprinkling, and is used in those cases where the blood was sprinkled round the altar. (Lev. 1:5; 6:32) “So that he (the destroying angel) who destroyed the first borns” (“prototoka,” neuter of “prototokos”—first born; “prototokia”—primo-geniture, birth right; from “protos”—first, and “tikto”—bear, be born, a strengthened form of “teko,” which is used only in certain tenses) “should not touch them” (“thige”—from “thigano”—handle, touch; from obsolete “thigo”—to finger).

11:29 — BY FAITH THEY PASSED — “In faith they crossed” (the verb “diabaino” is used of crossing water, whether in boats or swimming, or wading or on a bridge) “the red sea as through dry” (“xeras”—dry, shrunken; from “xestes”—a vessel, pot, as if from “xeo”—to smooth, boil, or heat) “land, of which” (“hes”) “the Egyptians essaying to do” (literally attempting a trial—“peiran lambanein,” is in the active voice here “labontes,” but in verse 36 “peiran elabon” is in the passive sense. “hos xeran gen”—which dry land, might be expected here, but the unusual expression “dia xeras ges” is apparently borrowed from the narrative in Exodus. Of which refers to the Red Sea, not to the dry land) “Were swallowed up” (“katepothesan”, from “katapino”—to drink down, gulp)

11:30 — IN FAITH THE WALLS OF JERICHO FELL — The text in Dean Alford’s commentary uses the plural aorist “epesan,” while the Diaglott uses the singular “epese”; each and every defense fell altogether. This is an example of faith by Israel generally, who obeyed the commands of Joshua all his days, which to the unbeliever would seem irrational.

HAVING BEEN COMPASSED ABOUT DURING SEVEN DAYS — “Epi” of time with the accusative gives the whole duration. “kukloo”—to encircle, encompass.

11:31 — BY FAITH THE HARLOT RAHAB — “In faith Rahab” (in her confession, Joshua 2:9-11) “did not perish with” (“sunapoleto,” from “sunapollumi,” imperfect indicative passive, was not destroyed with) “them who were disobedient” (“apeithesasin”—disbelievers; from “apeitheo”—disbelieve). The inhabitants of Jericho were to the will of God, as manifested in the signs and wonders which he had wrought for Israel.

“Having received the spies” (“tous kataskopous”—those who inspect insidiously. She received them into her house “katelousan ekei.” Josh. 2:1)

WITH PEACE — “With peace” (“eirene,” from a verb “eipo”—to join, hence “met eirenes” —with peace). So they had nothing hostile to fear from her.

11:32 — Here the writer breaks off, feeling that such an illustration of faith by examples would be endless, and gathers up these many which remain into one.

AND WHAT SHALL I — “And what say I yet” (further) “for the time would fail me relating” (“diegoumenon”—relating fully; from “diegeomai”). The names form two groups, the judges and the prophets. “About Gideon, Barak, Samson also and Jephthah, David also and Samuel, and the prophets.”

11:33 — WHO THROUGH FAITH — Note the change here, from “pistei”—in faith, to “dia pisteos”—through faith

SUBDUED — “Katergonisanto”—from “kata” and “gonidzomai”—struggle against, overcome, subdue.

KINGDOMS — The acts referred to may be Gideon’s victory over the Midianites (Judges 7), Barak’s over the Canaanites (Judges 4), Samson’s over the Philistines (Judges 14), Jephthah’s over the Ammonites (Judges 9), David’s over the Philistines. (2 Sam. 5:17-25; 8:1; 21:15) over the Moabites, Syrians, Edomites (2 Sam. 8:2), Ammonites (2 Sam. 10; 12:26)

WROUGHT — (“Eirgasanto,” from “ergadzomai”—toil, be engaged in as a task—is aorist middle indicative) “righteousness, obtained” (or won) (“epituchon”—chance upon, attain, secure, from “epituchano”) “promises” (such as David’s sure mercies) “stopped” (“ephraxan,” from “phrasso”—block, fence, enclose, figuratively silence) “the mouths of lions” (as did Daniel).

11:34 — QUENCHED — (“Esbesan,” from “sbennumi”—quench, extinguish) “the power of Fire” (as did the three Hebrews, Dan. 3)

ESCAPED THE EDGE OF THE SWORD — (“Stomata”—mouth; of the sword—“machaires”), “were made strong” (“enedunamothesan,” from “endunamoo”—empower, enable) “from weakness” (“apo astheneias”) “became mighty ones in battle, put to flight the armies” (“edlinan,” from “klino”—slant or slope, incline or recline, bow down, were away, put to flight) (armies—“parambolas”—accusative plural of “parembole”—army, camp, castle battle array, encampment, barracks; literally—a throwing in beside— “para”—beside, and “en”—in, and “ballo”—throw) “of the aliens” (“alotrion”—others, strangers, foreigners)

11:35 — WOMEN RECEIVED THEIR DEAD — “Women received their dead out of a resurrection” (“ex anastaseos”) This does not refer to the receiving back to life the sons revived by Elijah and Elisha (1 Kings 17:17-23; 2 Kings 4:18-37), because of the use of the Greek word “anastasis” which means a full return to perfect life. The Apostle would have us know that the wives, mothers and daughters in Israel, whose faith in the Lord was such as led them to cooperate as well as sympathize with the men who engaged in these warfares and sacrifices, were participants with their husbands, sons and fathers in faith as well as in action, and by encouraging them to faithfulness became sharers with them in the sacrifices of faith, and by faith looked forward into the future, and realized the better resurrection that would ultimately come to the Lord’s faithful. They in faith received their dead raised to life again.

OTHERS WERE — “Others were broken on the wheel” (“etumpan-isthesan,” aorist from “tumpanidzo”—stretch on an instrument of torture like a drum, and beaten or scourged to death. The case specially referred to may be that of Eliazer and the seven brothers. (2 Macc. 6:8; 7)

NOT ACCEPTING THE DELIVERANCE —
“Prosdexamenoi”—admitting into fellowship, or hospitality, accepting; from “pros”—toward, and “dexomai”—receive, accept.
Deliverance—“apolutrosin”—ransom, deliverance, full freedom.

THAT THEY MIGHT OBTAIN A BETTER RESURRECTION —
Than the rest of the world will obtain—that of perfect human life immediately, and fellowship with God as at the beginning of creation, only more complete. (Obtain—“tuchosin”—hit, attain, obtain; from “tugchano”; intransitively—bring to pass, happen).

11:36 — AND OTHERS — “Others again” (“heteroi de”) “had trial” (received, experienced) “of cruel mockings” (“empaigmon,” the word means insult accompanied with cruelty) (Macc. 7) “and scourgings” (“mastigon”—whippings, literally the Roman flagellum for criminals) “Yea moreover” (“hoti de”) “bonds” (“desmon”—bonds, shackles, chains; from “deo”—bind)

AND IMPRISONMENT — “Phulakes”—from “phulasso”—watch, guard, preserve, obey; “phulakidzo”—imprison; “phulax”—keeper, guard, sentry; so suffered Johnathan (1 Macc. 13:12), Hanani (2 Chron. 16:10), Micaiah (1 Kings 22:26), Jeremiah. (Jer. 32:2, 3)

11:37 — THEY WERE STONED — “Elithasthesan,” from “LITHADZO”—to stone. So Zechariah. (2 Chron. 24:20) There was a tradition that Jeremiah was stoned at Daphne in Egypt, by the people.

THEY WERE SAWN ASUNDER — “Epristhesan,” from “pridzo”—saw in two. This was the traditional death of Isaiah.

THEY WERE TEMPTED — or tested. The use of this mild word in the midst of words of torture would imply some mutilation such as “eperothesan” or “eprothesan.”

WERE SLAIN — “Die in the murder of the sword, they wandered about.” “perielthon,” from “perierchomai”—come all around, stroll, vacillate, veer, wander about.

IN SHEEPSKINS — “Melotais,” dative plural of “melote. melon” was the name for small kine, whether sheep or goats, and “melote” skin of such animals with the hair on. the Septuagint uses the word from Elijah’s garment, and the reference may be to him.

AND GOATSKINS — “Aigeiois”—belonging to a goat; from “aix”—goat. The use of this word “melotais,” which means the same, has puzzled some, but probably intensified the expression. But more probably the writer uses “melote” for sheepskins, and “aigeios” for goatskins.

WERE DESTITUTE — “Husteroumenoi”—from “hustereo”—be later, be inferior, fall short, be destitute) “afflicted” (“ethliboumenoi,” from “thlibo”—to crowd, afflict, trouble) “in misery” (“kakouchomenoi,” from “kakoucheo”—maltreat, in the passive voice—be maltreated) here passive participle.

11:38 — OF WHOM THE WORLD WAS NOT WORTHY — (“Kosmos, axios”), “wandering” (“planomenoi,” from “planao”—to wander) “upon deserts” (“eremiais”—solitudes, deserts; from “eremia”—from “eromos”—lonesome, waste; “eromoo”—lay waste, make desolate; “eromosis”—despoliation) “and mountains” (“oresin” from “oros,” genitive “orous”), “in caves” (“spelaiouis,” nominative “spelaion,” from “speos”—a grotto, cave, den) “and holes” (“opais”—holes as if for light, caverns, by analysis—springs of water) “of the earth.” The Holy land was specially calculated, by its geologic formation and its wilderness, to afford shelter to persecuted persons. So it did to one hundred of the Lord’s prophets, whom Obadiah hid in a cave by fifties (1 Kings 18:4,13); to Elijah (1 Kings 19:9,13); to Matthias and his sons who fled to the mountains (1 Macc. 2:28); to Judas Macabaeus, who fled with others “eis ten eremon,” and there lived “en tois oresi” like the wild beasts. “tes ges” must not be taken from “the land,” it is land in general.

11:39 — AND THESE ALL — (These, every one of them; “autoi pantes”; all these would be “pantes autoi”) (all these named in the chapter) “having been testified to” (or witnessed to— “marture—thentes,” from “martureo”—be a witness) “by their faith, received not the promise” (the thing promised). Died like Abraham without receiving a foot of the land, which was promised to him, leaving the actual giving of it to the Lord, because his time and ways are best. Their faith was such that the promises were certainties.

11:40 — (See also Z. '09-364, 376, 381, 138; Z. '10-12, 54; R.4528; 4535; 4537; 4388; 4546; 4555)

GOD HAVING PROVIDED SOME BETTER THING FOR US — “Peri hemon”—concerning us.

THAT NOT WITHOUT US SHOULD THEY BE PERFECTED — The church is to receive the first resurrection, and that to the highest position, after which each of the holy ones, who have passed their trial, will come forth each in his proper place and time, as was promised to Daniel—“Thou shalt stand in thy lot at the end of the days.” (Dan. 12:13) Notice in verse 39, where the whole chapter is summed up, including Enoch, that it does not say these all died, but rather these all received a good report through faith, or concerning their faith. So the case of Enoch is still left open.

12: — This chapter may well be called the CORONATION CHAPTER, for in it the author brings us to the climax of the Christian’s hope. In the previous chapters the author has opened up the types and shadows, and shown by contrast the grandeur and majesty of our Saviour and Lord, Jesus Christ; he has shown us our calling to share his sufferings in the present time, that we may share his glories in the future; counselling us to be watchful and full of faith, lest we be ensnared by some of the pitfalls along the way; encouraging us by the account of the heroes of faith who trusted God in the past, and whom the Lord strengthened to gain their victory and a better resurrection. In this chapter he carries us onward in mental view beyond the end of this age to the resurrection morning, and tells us of the glories of the heavenly beings whom we shall meet beyond the veil. The Lord grants us this vision that we may fix our minds and wills unalterably to listen to the guiding voice from Heaven and follow it faithfully to the end; meet our Master in Glory.

12:1 — (See also Z. '09-343; R.4513)

WHEREFORE — The opening word is a threefold proposition “toigaroun. toi” calls our attention to the facts (so), “gar” (for) bases its arguments upon these facts and “oun” (consequently) calls attention to the consequences, so that the whole word amounts to an earnest “ergo.” The word is an earnest and solemn inference and is found only at the beginning of a sentence. We might give the sense of this one word thus—"Noting these aforementioned truths, and because they are truths, let us consider what they mean to us."

WE ALSO — Yes, we also are a class of faith people, like the heroes of faith mentioned in chapter 11. We have staked our existence upon the promises of God, our very lives depend upon His faithfulness, and we too can be living proofs that our God is a covenant-keeping God, and that He will never abandon those who put their trust in Him.

ARE COMPASSED — "Having surrounding us" ("perideimenon," from "peri"—around and "keimai"—to alie, hence lying around, or surrounding) "so great" ("tosouton"—so many, so much, so great) "a cloud" ("nephos") "of witnesses." Not on-lookers, beholders, watchers, but those who in the past have given evidence or proof that faith in God is worth while, that it pays to trust Him, and in such a life of faith there is great reward in both the present and future life. The idea that all the persons listed in chapter 11 are in heaven looking down upon us, and watching our behavior, has been behind this idea of on-lookers. But the Scriptures show definitely that none of these went to heaven, but are still in the death condition, and so verse 1 must mean a cloud of testimonies and proofs, that God is able to and does protect these who put their trust in Him, and that faith and obedience is the only logical and sensible attitude for the children of light.

LET US LAY ASIDE — "Laying aside all superfluous weight" ("ogkon"—a weight or burden—as bending or bulging the support or container; from "egko"; from which comes "enegkon"—any superfluous weight or burden.) It is used here with reference to athletes, who, before running, train themselves so as to get rid of all superfluous flesh. So in running the heavenly race we need to lay aside all earthly encumbrances. "Hearken, O daughter, and incline thine ear, forget also thine own people and thy father's house. So shall the King greatly desire thy beauty, for he is thy Lord, and worship thou Him." (Psa. 45:10, 11) The weight spoken of here is more of the person than on the person.

AND THE SIN — "And the sin which lies so easily about us." The writer is speaking of our race, and exhorting us to lay aside all superfluous weight of the body, as the athletes did, he passes on to the other hindrances, such as the clothing, and exhorts us to put off sin which surrounds us on every side. ("euperistaton"—the well—or cunningly-placed-about-us-sin). This may include our own inner propensities to sin, which cling so tenaciously to us. Some commentators, noting the use of the definite article with sin, feel that it means to each individual the sin which most easily stumbles him, and to be on special guard against it. But a good runner pays no attention to outside influences. As Paul put it "this one thing I do."

LET US RUN — “Let us run” (the subjunctive here could be just as well rendered we should run, but the exhortation, let us run, is more personal and encouraging).

WITH PATIENCE — “Through patience” (not merely with patience, but in the spirit of patience). The word for patience (“hupomones”) has the thought of willingly staying under anything difficult or disagreeable.

THE RACE — (“Agona”—contest, struggle, race) “set before us.” (“prokeimenon”—lying before us.) The lessons of patience and faith given us by these heroes of faith, should encourage us to continue unto the end.

12:2 — LOOKING UNTO JESUS — Not looking to see how the world regards us, nor even what the other children of the Lord are doing, nor upon our troubles, but unto Him as our Leader and Director and pattern.

THE AUTHOR — (“Archegon” a ruling leader, one going before) “and perfecter” (“teleiotes”—one who completes, or brings to the desired end, one who brings to perfection) “of the faith”—the faith in God’s promises given to the Church, such faith as is illustrated in chapter 11.

WHO FOR — (“Anti”—regarding, in the view of) “the joy” (“charas”—something precious, valuable) “set before him” (as something to be attained through his present experiences, something to be won.)

ENDURED — (Willingly stayed under the suffering, the pain, the difficulties) “crucifixion” (the experience rather than the thing on which he died, “stauron,” the word literally means a post, stake, pole, cross), “despising” (“kataphronesas” from “kata”—down, and “phroneo”—to exercise the mind, have an opinion; hence to think down or against, despise) “the shame” (“aischunes”—shame, disgrace; from “aischos”—disfigurement, disgrace) “and is sat down” (“kekathiken,” perfect tense. The perfect tense states it as it now endures, having happened, the aorist would express the simple fact that it happened. So the perfect tense, used here, is more vivid to the reader.)

ON THE RIGHT HAND OF THE THRONE OF GOD — This is the highest position which could be given; that is on the throne, and at the right hand of God, the position of chief honor.

12:3 — FOR CONSIDER HIM — (“Analogisasthe”—the imperative of “analogidzomai”—to think on by way of comparison, consider, study) (“ton”—the one who; “tolauten”—such). Christ is set before them, not merely as a character from the past, but as ever present. For he, like yourselves, had much continued conflict with sin and sinners in his day.

THAT ENDURED — “Who has endured such contradiction” (“antilogian”—speaking against) “of sinners” (“hupo ton hamartolon”—by the sinner) “against himself” (“eis heauton”), “that ye be not weary” (“kamete”—present subjunctive of “kamno”—to toil, tire, faint, sicken) “fainting” (“ekluomenoi”—loosing out, “going all to pieces,” from “ekluo”—faint, lose consciousness or control) “in your souls” (“psuchais”). Considering what He passed through, would strengthen us in our struggle.

12:4 — YE HAVE NOT YET — “Not yet have ye resisted” (“antikathestete”—from “antikathistemi”—set down against) “unto blood.” That is, until the resistance brought on persecution resulting in bloodshed, such as beatings, or stonings, or torture, or until death. “Fighting against sin.” We are to resist sin as disobedience and misuse of God’s blessings and privileges, in thought, word and deed. Resist its spirit of selfishness in our minds. The writer is pointing out that Jesus resisted until it cost him life itself, and that in the most terrible form, and they had not gone as far as that.

12:5 — AND YE HAVE — “And ye have completely forgotten” (“ekleleste”—perfect middle of “eklanthano”—forget completely, escape notice of completely, out of mind) “the exhortation” (“parakleseos”—genitive of “paraklesis”—exhortation, comfort, solace, imploration) “the which” (that kind of exhortation, of which the following is a specimen) “discourses with you” (“dialegetai”—opening a discourse with any one, such as a heart-to-heart talk). “as with sons” (that is, members of the family, in full sympathy with the will of the father)

MY SON — The closest relationship with the Father; as if he said “Oh, son of mine.”

DESPISE NOT — (“Oligoreo”—from “oligos”—little, few, and “ora”—care; hence to care little, have small regard for) “the chastening” (“paideia”—training or correction as of a child) “of the Lord, nor faint” (“ekluou”—lose out, relax, collapse, be discouraged) “under the admonishing of Him” (under his discipline, or rebuke, or correction) (“elegchomenos”—present passive participle of “elegcho”—admonish, confute, convict, convince). For as a father is developing your strength, your power and usefulness; making you fit to be entrusted with great powers, privileges, and works. (Psa. 22:10)

12:6 — FOR WHOM — “It is for chastisement ye are enduring” (The reason we have entered the Lord’s household is to be trained or developed as one of the heirs.) “as with sons God is dealing with you.” (“Prosphero”—to bring or carry towards, lead to, treat, deal with. The form here is “prospheretai”—present indicative middle).

12:7 — IF YE ENDURE — “For is there a son whom the father chasteneth not”
— In this verse there is some difference of opinion as to whether the first word is “eis” or “ei.” The best effect is had with “eis” and is used of purpose. (See Dean Alford)

12:8 — BUT IF YE BE WITHOUT CHASTISEMENT — (Separate from, not partakers in) “of which all” (all of God’s sons) “have been made partakers” (“metoxoi”—sharers)

THEN ARE YE — (“Ara”—the inferential particle in late and New Testament Greek, but is found at the beginning of a clause; but never in classical Greek) “bastards” (“nothoi”—spurious or illegitimate sons, born of whoredom or idolatry, and not of the will of God. It is opposed to “gnesioi”—legitimate sons) (See James 1:18) “and not sons.”

12:9 — FURTHERMORE — “Then again” (“eita”—brings in a fresh argument, furthermore, additionally) “we once had” (the imperfect tense, a state of former habit)

FATHERS OF OUR FLESH — “Fathers of our flesh, as chastisers” (earthly fathers, who disciplined, or trained us) “and we revered them” (“entrepomai”—middle or passive of “entrepo”—reverence, respect) “shall we not much more” (with greater reason)

BE IN SUBJECTION — (“Hupotagesometha”—future indicative passive of “hupostasso”—put in subjection, subdue, subordinate, reflexibly-obey; passive, as here, be in subjection) “to the Father of spirits” (the writer may have had in mind Num. 27:16 “The God of the spirits of all flesh”). How much more should we be subject to the Father of the New Creature, who has done so much for us and opened up such glories for us.

12:10 — FOR THEY — “For they indeed for a few days” (while we were under their control) “chastened us according to their own ideas” (opinions, standards, and too often their own caprice or temper)

BUT HE — “But he for that which is profitable” (“epi”—upon, the contemplated direction of the result. “sumpheron”—neuter present participle of “sumphero”—to bear together, be profitable for, be good for, to conduce). The argument is strengthened by bringing out the difference between the object and character of the two chastisements. “For a few days,” that is in our youth, while we are subject to their correction. This is contrasted with the Christian’s lifetime under the training of our Heavenly Father. Then their purpose and standards that we might become reliable men and women, and the far higher purpose of our Heavenly Father: “In order to our partaking of his holiness,” (“metalabein”—present infinitive of “matalambano”—to partake of together, or receive with, share). That the perfect holiness, which is his characteristic, might also become our habitual, natural procedure in thought, word, and deed; that we might become copies of the likeness of his Son, who is at one with the Father.

12:11 — NOW — “Now all chastisement” (“now” exactly expresses the force of “de”). (The writer resumes the general argument after the particular discussion) “for the present time” (again the verb “pareimi”—to be present, to be beside, whence the noun “parousia” is derived, here it is the neuter of the present participle “paron”—being present) “indeed” (“men”) “seems not to be a joy, but of grief, but afterwards it yields” (“apodidosi”—gives off from, yields) “the peaceable” (“eirenikon”—peaceable, from “eirene”—peace; from “eiro”—to join) “fruit” (“kardon”—fruit; as something plucked; from “harpadzo”—to seize or pluck) “of righteousness.” “The word (accomplishment) of righteousness shall be peace, and the effect of righteousness shall be quietness (rest) as assurance (confidence, security) forever.” (Isa. 32:17) This righteousness is the practical kind which springs from faith, not the imputed righteousness which comes by faith; in contrast to the “agon” by which it is won. As Tholuck expresses it—“the fruit of righteousness to be enjoyed in peace after the conflict.”

UNTO THEM — “To those who have been trained by it” (“gegumnasmenois”—perfect passive participle of “gumnadzo”—to exercise or train, as an athlete or gymnast). To these who have received their difficulties with patience, and treated them as arranged by a loving Father for their growth and perfecting in His likeness, to make them trusted dispensers of His blessings God grants even now a share in the beauties of holiness, and in the resurrection complete possession in fullness of perfection in holiness, the inheritance of the Saints in light.

12:12 — WHEREFORE — (“Dio”—connects with the reasoning and imagery of the foregoing verses) “put straight again” (anorthosate—make straight, or straighten up; aorist imperative active of “anorthoo”—from “ana”—up, and “orthos”—right, so put straight again into their proper places) “the relaxed” (“paraeimenas”—perfect middle participle of “pariemi”—let by, relax; the middle having the sense literally to send oneself aside, relax) (hence here—wearied or tired) “hands” (powers, abilities), “and the enfeebled” (“paralelumena”—perfect passive participle of “paraluo”—loosen beside, relax, the perfect passive participle is used for paralyzed or enfeebled) “knees” (activities, service). That is, encourage those who have become weary in well doing. (“paralelumenos” is a word confined to St. Luke’s gospel elsewhere in the New Testament. The Septuagint uses it generally of lameness).

12:13 — AND MAKE — “And make straight tracts” (“trochia”—is properly the mark or rut left by the “trochos,” indicating a tract or road) “for your feet” (the scholar, “carpzo,” seems first to have noticed that these words—“kai-humon,” constitute an hexameter line, and are quoted in substance from Prov. 4:26). The thought seems to be—“Let your walk (conduct) be so firm and consistently in the right direction that a plain tract and highway may thereby be established for those who accompany you or follow in your footsteps, to perceive and walk in them.

LEST THAT WHICH — “In order that the lame” (or crippled) “be not turned out of the way” (“ertrape”—the aorist passive of “ektrepo”—turned out or aside or away) “but rather be healed” (“lathe”—aorist passive of “iaomai”—to cure or heal). “to cholon”—the lame, refers to those in the Church who are wavering or unsteady due to weakness or newness in the Truth, answering to the “astheneis”—strengthless, in Romans. If the Saints by a united and consistent walk would tread a plain and beaten path these weaker ones would be able easily to keep it, and by keeping in the “trochia orthe” (straight path) would even acquire the habit of walking straight onward and so be healed; but if the tracts are errant and confused their erratic steps would deviate more and more, till at length they fell out of the way altogether. The making of a definite way for all is that they may not miss the way and lose the prize. Proper Christian for the weaker would indicate such a course.

12:14 — FOLLOW PEACE WITH ALL — (“Diokete,” imperative of “dioko”—to pursue or follow, from a primitive root “dio”—to flee). Not peace at any price, but be at peace if possible within obedience to the Lord and the Truth.

AND — “And the sanctification” (or holiness) “without which no one shall see the Lord.” “Agiasmos” is the purification to obtain “agiotēs”—holiness as a state or habit of life, and thereby becoming “agioi”—saints or holy ones. Only the pure shall see the Lord. Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God.

12:15 — LOOKING — “Looking well” (or carefully) (“episkopeo”—look diligently, with care, oversee, take the oversight of. “episkeptomai”—go to visit, inspect, select, relieve) “Lest any one” (“metis”) “falling back” (“usteron” = present part. “ustereo”—be later, be inferior, generally fall short, be deficient, suffer need, be in want, be worse, “usterema”—a deficit, poverty; “usteresis”—a falling short, penury, want. “usteron”—nut, of “usteros”—more lately, eventually, afterward, “usteros”—later—as behind.)

LEST ANY ROOT — (“Hridza”—root; “hridzo”—to take root) “of bitterness” (“pikra”—bitterness acridity, especially poison. Bitterness is the ingrained character and nature of the root, not its mere attribute; such as anger, malice, hatred, jealousy, envy. We should watch ourselves sharply, and root out anything of this nature before it quickens into life.)

SPRINGING UP — “Spring up” (phuo—originally to blow or puff, that is, swell up, but later used only in the implied sense of germinate or grow, produce.) “And trouble you” (enochle—trouble or vex, from en—in, and ochleo—crowd in, mob, annoy, vex). “and through it the many be defiled,” the whole ecclesia endangered. (mianthosin—sully, taint, contaminate, defile; aorist subjunctive of miantho). See Deut. 29:18; the same thought.

12:16 — LEST THERE BE ANY FORNICATOR — This is to be taken first literally. Connected with the sense of pornos is that of the punctuation, whether by a comma after it we sever it from connection with Esau or not. Most commentators join it with what follows, and explain the association partly by the gluttony of Esau, and partly because he had wedded strange women, and partly by the character of a fornicator given him later by Jewish tradition. The character of Esau, as well from Scripture as from tradition may well be designated by fornos (see Gen. 26:34, 35; 27:46; 28:3, 9; 24:3), and the balance of the sentence is better preserved by applying both to him.

OR PROFANE PERSON — (Bebelos, from belos—a threshold, accessible only by crossing, and basis—a foot). By Jewish standards a heathenish person, wicked, a profane person of low views, who has no appreciation of high or divine things.

LIKE ESAU — “Like Esau, who for one mean” (broseos, genitive of brosis—meat, food; from bibrosko—to eat; broma—meat, food, victuals; brosimos—eatable; anti—instead of, for; stresses the contrast between the things sold and what was received).

SOLD — Aorist of apodidomai—a verb in the middle voice; the active being apodidomai—give over, give up, yield; give back; the middle voice means sell, render.

HIS OWN BIRTHRIGHT — The rights of primogeniture, which would include the promise, and a double portion of the estate. The reflexive heautou—his own, serves to intensify the unworthiness of the act.

12:17 — (See also Z. '14-136; R.5452)

FOR — “For” (gar gives a reason for the caution in verse 15, from the terrible result in Esau’s case) “Ye know” (iste here is not imperative but indicative. It was a fact of which no Hebrew would be ignorant; from oida—know a perfect in form, with the sense of a present) “that afterward” (“metepeita”—a preposition of succession, from “meta”—with, amid, among; and “EPI”—on, upon; and “eita”—then, thereupon; total “thereafter”) “when he on his part” (“kai” after “oti” brings out this thought. He dishonored his inheritance, and was in his turn rejected from the blessing) “wished” (“thelon”—wishing; from “ethelo” or “etheleo”—to determine, prefer; wish, be willing, volunteer; delight in; in the future tense—to be about to) “to inherit” (“kleronomesai”—legally inherit, as the right of the firstborn; see chapter 4:1) “the blessing, he was rejected” (“apedokimasthe”—aorist passive of “apedokimadzo”—reject, now allow, disapprove)

FOR HE FOUND — “For he found no place for repentance”—He found no way to reverse what he had done. The sin had been committed. In his selfish desire for the earthly things, and forgetting the privileges from God, he had rejected the blessing, counting it of less worth than the pottage. He might later wake up and realize his loss (weeping and gnashing of teeth) but the penalty could not be taken off, the transaction was ended, and his birthright belonged to another (see the case of Reuben in 1 Chron. 5:1-3). Meanwhile the other person had been in training. We do not mean an opportunity to repent in one’s own bosom, to be sorry for what he had done, for this may happen to anyone, and probably did to Esau, but we mean a chance to repair. The blessing was given to another and could not be recalled. (See Gen. 27:33.)

THOUGH HE — “Although he earnestly sought it with tears” (“ekdzetasas”—aorist participle active of “ekdzeteo”—to seek out, search for, investigate, crave, demand. “auten”—it, refers back to “metanoias”—repentance, the great thing really sought.) What bitter tears! “He cried with a great and exceeding bitter cry.” (See Gen. 27:34; Isa. 17:11) “The harvest shall be an heap in the day of grief and desperate sorrow” (A.V.) or “The harvest shall be removed in the day of inheritance, and there shall be deadly sorrow.” (Margin)

12:18-29 — (See also Z. '00-297; Z. '09-13; R.2706; R.4310)

12:18 — FOR — “For” (“gar”—for; indicates a reason for the statement of verse 15 and its warning) “ye have not approached” (“proseleluthate”—to draw near, especially in service to God. Hence in your approach to God ye have not drawn near to) “that” (mountain) “which might be touched” (“pselaphomno”—to touch, to manipulate, to verify by contact; figuratively to search for as a blind man does; feel after, handle, touch; from “pseilaphao”—from “phallo”—to twitch, or twang, or play on a stringed instrument; from “phao”—to rub, or touch the surface) (“orei”—mountain is understood, and is expressed below with Zion; and hence comes in a gloss here.) Mount Sinai was a material mountain which would and could be touched by the people (interfered with, or the commands or arrangements changed by man)

AND BURNED — “And was burnt with fire” (“kekaumeno”—perfect passive participle of “kauo”—to burn. “puri”—fire, is used here, not as a dative but as an ablative) (so the mountain was lit up, but not consumed; consumed would have used “katakekaumeno”—burned down) “and to blackness” (“GNOPHO”—gloom, as of a storm) “and to darkness” (the Alex. MS. uses “skotos”—darkness, shade; from “skia”—shade.) (“dzopho”—gloom as of a dark cloud) “and to tempest” (“thuella”—storm).

12:19 — AND THE SOUND — “And to blast” (“echo”—loud from “salos”—a vibration, wave; “salpidzo”—to sound a trumpet).

AND THE VOICE — (“Phone”—a tone, and address, saying or speech, voice) “of words” (“hrematon”—genitive plural of “hrema”—an utterance, individual, collective or specific; from “hreo”—to flow).

WHICH — “Which they who heard” (“hes” refers to “phone”) “entreated” (“paraiteomai”—to beg off, decline, shun, avoid, entreat; here the form is “paratesanto,” aorist middle indicative of the verb) “that” (more) “speech be not added to them” (“prostithemi”—place alongside of, add to).

12:20 — (See also Z. '09-46, 27, 31; R.4330; 4318; 4321)

FOR THEY COULD NOT ENDURE — (“Epheron”—carry) “that which was commanded” (“diastellomenon,” present middle participle of “diastellomai”) “if even” (“kai an—k'an”) “a wild beast” (“therion”—a dangerous, or ferocious wild beast; from “ther”—a wild animal) (much more if a man should do so) “should touch” (“thiggano”—to touch, handle, manipulate, have to do with; from “thigo”—to finger; here the present subjunctive “thige”) “the mountain, it shall be stoned” (“lithobolethesetai,” future passive indicative of “lithoboleo”—to throw stones at.)

12:21 — AND — A comma. The style of this epistle is weighed and well balanced with constant care, so the clause “houtos . . . phantadzomenon” is a parenthesis.

SO TERRIBLE WAS THE SIGHT — “Phantadzomenon” thing being seen, that which was revealed, namely the vision of the glory and majesty of Jehovah. The present passive participle is here used as a noun.

MOSES SAID — “Moses said I am in great terror” (“ekphobos”) “and trembling” (“entromos”—a trembling within; from “tremo”—to tremble, shake, quake. This is a general statement of the whole scene; there is no such saying to be found on this occasion in the sacred narrative, but when Moses went up into the mountain after he had broken the tables. The children of Israel had just come from slavery in Egypt, and knew but little of the grandeur of their God; they were slaves, servants, and not very obedient, so God needed to impress them with due reverence and respect.

12:22 — BUT YE — As sons, members of the family, who have the spirit of their Father and can appreciate his purposes and enter into his plans with understanding and cooperation. Ye need not the fearful sights and sounds to make you respect the Father, for you already love Him; so to you is granted an entrance into a vision of the fulfillment of the pictures made back there, the realities, the complete joys.

ARE COME — “Have drawn near to Mount Zion.”—Zion in the Hebrew means bright, sunny, happy; and mountain signifies kingdom. So ye, the Church of this Gospel age, have drawn near and ever nearer to Mount Zion, not the darkness and thunder of Sinai nor the darkness which has been over all the nations, but to the sunny Kingdom, the bright and happy and joyous Kingdom, into the brightness of Jehovah’s presence; for the day is dawning, and the Day Star has arisen in our hearts. This will be the bright and sunny Kingdom, even for the world, for the Lord assures us that in this mountain he will destroy the veil of ignorance and superstition which Satan has drawn over the eyes of men. The light of that day shall be as the light of seven days, as with all the truth and knowledge of God revealed during the whole 6000 years, added to the light then to be revealed.

AND TO A CITY OF THE LIVING GOD — Yes, this will be the heavenly Jerusalem, the city of the great King, the government which God himself, the fountain of life, who has inherent life, has established. In this city God will give to mankind the principles of God’s eternal laws of righteousness and truth, and show men how to apply them and live them out in all the affairs of life, so that they too may attain eternal happiness and life, and be his people. In this city God will place his spirit, and will exhibit the things which he delights in, the joys of the Lord, that all might experience how much better, deeper and richer they are than all the poverty stricken, partial, disappointing joys of the present world; which are apples of Sodom, beautiful in appearance but filled with the dust and ashes of disappointed hopes, broken hearts, and deadened minds from sorrow. Men have longed for a kingdom which would bring them peace, rest and security for those who loved the right, but their hopes have repeatedly been shattered. This kingdom will be the desire of all nations.

TO THE HEAVENLY JERUSALEM — Jerusalem means founded in peace, or foundation of peace. Its foundation will not be a great army, nor a great navy, nor any human scheme of might or power, but this foundation will be the knowledge of God, and of his principles of righteousness and truth. It will be founded on the full satisfaction of the claims of Justice against our race, and its activities will be along the lines of love to God and to our fellow men. Its foundation is dependable, trustworthy, for it is on the same principles as God's own character. (See Isa. 32:17) (See also Z.'10-243; Z.'13-248; Z.'17-3; R.4653; 5294; 6025)

And who will meet on the approach to this glorious city?

AN INNUMERABLE — “To myriads of angels,” the whole heavenly host, among whom would be our guardian angel, who has been with us in all our journeys. What a joy it will be that his watchful labors have been rewarded with success. If from our youth upward we have loved these holy beings and wished that we could see them or hear them, how great a privilege to become personally acquainted with all of them. Each of these guardian angels has had the first call upon the attention of the Father. “Their angels do always behold the face of my Father in heaven.”

12:23, 24 — UNTO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY — “Panegurei”—from “pas”—all, and “agora”—market place, a general assembly.

AND CHURCH — “Ekklesia”—called-out ones.

OF THE FIRSTBORNS — “Prototochon”—from “protos”—first + “tekto” or “tikto”—produce, bear (as from seed).

WHICH ARE — “Having been enrolled in heavens” (“apographo,” here the perfect passive participle “apogeramenon”—having been recorded or enrolled). “Rejoice not that the spirits are made subject unto you, but rejoice that your names are written in Heaven.” (Luke 10:20) Yes, there we will meet all faithful heroes who have trodden this same lonely way of sorrow and pain that we have trodden. We will meet Paul who suffered so much and was such a grand character; and Peter, who stumbled so many times, like most of us, and yet who gained such a glorious victory over his weaknesses; and loving John, who seemed not to need many harsh experiences to develop him; and sympathetic Mary, who anointed our Lord for gratitude; and John Huss and Martin Luther and Brother William Miller, and Brother Barton and Brother Sampson, and Brother Russell, and all the faithful. If in the present time, when in meetings and conventions we meet each other with joy and love and appreciation, what will then be our joy when the end of the way is reached and we have our full victory! What a wonderful assembly! All will have fought many hard battles, and pulled through many long and weary struggles. What a wonderful appreciation and admiration of one another, all faithful to the core, tried and proven and everlastingly fixed in righteousness. We should now have this appreciation of one another, practice it and thus encourage one another.

These, whose names have been enrolled in heaven, have been as a class chosen in Him from the foundation of the world, and they will all have new names. They will have the name of the Father written in their foreheads, to show they are Jehovah's own, His likeness has been gradually stamped upon their minds so that every thought is in harmony with Him, the name of the New Jerusalem, and the name of the Bridegroom; and then there seems to be implied also a name characteristic of their place in the Body, and of their individual experiences. If we are faithful Jesus will confess us before his Father; but if unfaithful our names will be erased, and another will take our place and have the name which might have been ours.

These angels have been spectators of our course, sympathetic and eager. How they will welcome the visitors home with shouts of heavenly music! They have watched our struggles, sorrowed over our falls, and rejoiced over our victories. We can picture them now watching us. "See that brother over there? What a struggle he is having with that weakness! I wonder if he will win." We can imagine their joy if he wins, and how they would shield their faces if he fails. They see him fall down in the struggle; "but look, he is up again, and determined to fight the harder. Oh, I hope he will win." If there is joy in Heaven over one sinner that repenteth, surely they must with eagerness be watching our course, and when they see us as victors how they will welcome us! Will our struggles then seem to have been worth while? Ah, more than tongue can tell.

The order of meetings, as given in verses 23, 24 is evidently just a list and not intended by the author to be the actual order. For in 1 Thes. 4:16 we are told we will meet our Lord in the air before we are presented to the heavenly Father. It may be we will meet him before any other of the heavenly host, except perhaps as our guardian angel may lead us up to meet our Lord in the air. What a happy and glorious meeting that will be! Can we imagine the joy of seeing our beloved Head and Captain, the one through whom all our blessings have come and with whom of all others we have been most directly in contact, who has led us through all our trials, and has shown his sympathy with us in our sore battles, because he has trodden that way before us and all alone, and he knows its sorrows, its heart aches, its loneliness, its bitterness, its darkness and its death. With what joy and gladness we will meet him, to thank him for his love; and with that joy will he greet us who has bestowed upon us so much care, and now sees the fruit of it all. And as we see those qualities of meekness, gentleness, and love, justice, wisdom, power, and all the other graces shine out in his glorious features, our hearts will thrill with joy and satisfaction and peace, for we shall be like him seeing him face to face, and we will drink with him that new wine in the kingdom. Then we will fully realize that the:

BLOOD OF THIS MEDIATOR — “Blood of this mediator of the New Covenant indeed speaks far better things for us than did the blood of Abel.”—Abel’s blood cried out for vengeance and justice, but the blood of Jesus speaks of Justice satisfied, and of Love and Power working together to assist us back to the lost fellowship with our heavenly Father. Oh, what thankfulness will fill our hearts to overflowing as we look back over the way and realize that through its dangers, and terrors and loneliness our head has led us all the way to such a wonderful victory. The Love that will fill our being will never, never grow less, but rather increase as the ages roll.

AND TO GOD, THE JUDGE OF ALL — (The order and sense of the Greek words in the text indicates this is the right translation, not “to the Judge, the God of all). His decision of acceptance will be the act of the supreme Judge of the Universe, and will be final. He will search with his all seeing eyes, but these will stand before him, in his presence spotless, without blemish, transparent characters, images of his own Son. And the Judge of all will declare his acceptance by crowning these with the authority and rule of the Millennial Kingdom. This will be the greatest of all our receptions, the grandest experience that is beyond the reach of our imaginations. It is written “Thine eyes shall see the King in his beauty,” not merely with our understanding, as the rest of the world will see him, but in his own abode of heaven with all his glory about him. We have seen beautiful faces of men and women, which delighted us, eyes which expressed love and tender sympathy; we have seen self control and mastery expressed in some faces; in others deep thinking and inventive powers; and other qualities likewise. These have made the face beautiful and majestic. But when we shall see all these qualities in their highest perfection and glory, shining out with brightness in the face of our heavenly Father, beaming down upon us to welcome us, we shall see inexpressible beauty and majesty and tenderness that will send such a thrill of joy and admiration through our whole being as we have never before experienced. It will fill up our cup of joy complete. All the former troubles will pass out of mind. The Father, has through all the ages waited for this moment—“For the Lord hath chosen Zion (Jesus and the Church), he hath desired it for his habitation. This shall be my resting place forever, here will I dwell, for I have desired it.” He too will rejoice. Yes there will be such rejoicing as even heaven has never known.

AND TO THE SPIRITS OF JUST ONES MADE PERFECT — The spirits of just men, the Ancient Worthies, made perfect, who have suffered for the Lord and the truth in ages past. They will know we are there in the heavens, and there will be perfect communication between heaven and these princes. How we will rejoice as we see them get their reward. These will be majestic characters, and perhaps after the Millennium they may meet us in the heavenly phase of the Kingdom.

(See also Z. '09-343; 282; R.4513; 4476)

12:25 — SEE — Look carefully, take heed, beware (“blepete”—present imperative of “blepo”)

THAT YE REFUSE NOT — “That ye refuse not the speaker”—the one speaking. (refuse—“paraiteomai,” from “para”—around, near by, beside one; and “aiteo”—ask or beg; hence beg off, aside, refuse, entreat, see verse 19).

FOR IF THEY — “For if they did not escape” (“exphugo”—flee out or away from the punishment for not obeying) “refusing” (as they did) “the one speaking on earth” (on Mount Sinai) (speaking—“chrematidzonta”—present participle of “chrematidzo”—an admonishing or oracle from God) @SECOND PAR = MUCH MORE — “How much more we” (shall not escape) “who are turning away from him from (the) Heavens.” — Here we see type and antitype brought into juxtaposition or comparison; the sealing or inauguration of the New Covenant as fulfilling the type of the old. (Exod. 24) Let us be very careful that we give the utmost attention to the voice of the Creator and Father.

12:26 — WHOSE VOICE — (God’s voice in both cases) “then shook the earth; but now hath he promised” (“epeggeltai”—perfect middle indicative of “epangello”—to announce upon; middle voice—to promise)

SAYING — “Saying yet once more I will shake not the earth only but the heavens also.” Note how the writer calls attention to the fulfillment of the promise.

12:27 — AND THIS — “Now this yet one for all” (“hapax”) “signifies” (“deloi”—optative present of “deloo”—to show manifest, signify) “the removal” (“metathesis”—transference, transposition, disestablishment) “of the things being shaken, as of things that have been made, in order that the not shaken things may remain.” (“meine”—aorist subjunctive of “meino”—remain, stay). The Lord will make a clean sweeping out of every imperfect, selfish, disloyal thing, that nothing may interfere with the work of the new Kingdom.

12:28 — WHEREFORE — (“Dio”) “receiving a kingdom immovable” (which cannot be shaken, because built upon and made of righteous materials) “Let us have thankfulness” (“charin echein”—to feel grateful, have appreciation). “on account of which let us serve God well-pleasingly with reverent submission” (“eulabeias”) “and fear” (“deous”—meaning literally fear. This word occurs nowhere else in the New Testament. Some texts have “eulabeias kai aidous”—where the latter means shame or awe. The thought is that of a life and mind in complete harmony with God, submission and loyalty to him.)

12:29 — FOR MOREOVER OUR GOD IS A CONSUMING FIRE — (“Katana-kiskon”—from “kata”—down; and “analisko”—consume, destroy, use up; hence the meaning is utterly to destroy). God’s anger continues to burn now as then against those who resist his influences and directions, and in the background lie all those gracious dealings by which the fire of God’s presence and purity, while it consumes their vanity and sin, becomes to his people the fire of purity and light and love for their enduring citizenship in the Kingdom.

13: — This chapter closes the study known as the Book of Hebrews. The book is a message not understood by the early church, but much needed by the Church in the last days, as some of the very rich food, the strong meat, reserved for the Harvest Message. It helps to furnish a shield against the wild deceptive theories of the last days, mentioned in 1 Tim. 4:1-5; 2 Tim. 3; 2 Thes. 2:9-12.

The thirteenth chapter closes the book with admonitions to hold fast that which they have, and to continue in the faith and the course laid out for the Church by the Father.

13:1 — LET BROTHERLY LOVE CONTINUE — The word for brotherly love here is “philadelphia,” the word used in the classics for the love of brothers and sisters for one another, hence family love. In the New Testament it is the mutual love of the Christian brethren, the household of faith. In chapter 10:32-34 we see that the persons addressed have exercised this love in the past, and in chapter 6:10 that they continued to do so. So the writer urges that this love continue and increase. We may wonder why the writer used the word “philadelphia,” brotherly love, instead of the word “agape,” the highest type of love. This “agape” is the love spoken of in 1 Cor. 13 as worthy of our greatest effort to attain. Why then should a family love be urged here? A study of the context through verse 3 shows the reason. The heavenly Father is preparing a new creation, a divine family, and urges us to love each member of that family “with a deep, considerate, sympathetic, understanding love,” which sees the new creature striving for the perfection marked out for us, and is intensely interested in the success of the new creature. Meanwhile this brotherly love makes allowance for the failures of imperfect humanity and strives to encourage the brother or sister to rise above the failures, to make stepping stones instead of stumbling stones out of the difficulties of life. When one goes home, he does not expect scolding and blame, but sympathy and understanding. So we should exercise these toward every member of the Body of Christ, cover them with a mantle of sympathetic, understanding love.

13:2 — BE NOT FORGETFUL — “Forget not hospitality to strangers” (“philoxenias”—love the strangers) (forget—“epilanthanesthe”—forget upon; middle voice, present imperative; see “eklelesthe”—completely forget out of mind; in Chap. 12:5)

FOR THEREBY — (“Tautes”—on account of this) “some have unawares” (“elathon”—escape notice; same root verb as above but without any preposition, “lanthano”) “entertained” (“xenisantēs”—entertain, be host to; aorist participle of “xenidzo”)

ANGELS — The reference here is to Abraham and Lot. (Gen. 18, 19) So now the Lord’s messengers are his angels, and he that doeth for them because they are the Lord’s will have a commensurate reward. (Matt. 10:40-43) The spirit of sharing, with the thought of helping another out of difficulty or sorrow or blindness, is the spirit of the Father, and often brings surprising and unexpected blessings.

13:3 — REMEMBER — “Mimneskesthe”—present participle of “mimnesko”—remind, call to mind; middle voice—remember, keep in mind; passive voice-mentioned.

THEM THAT ARE IN BONDS — Literally the captives—“desmion.”

AS BOUND WITH THEM — (“Sundedemonoi”). If any member of the body suffers all the rest suffer with him, as does also the Head. (See Acts 9:4)

AND — (Remember) “those in distress” (“kakouchoumenon”—being ill treated) “as also yourselves being in the body,” that is, bound up with a body with the same capacity for suffering. (the word “body” has no article with it in the Greek.)

13:4 — MARRIAGE — “Let marriage” (“gamos” is used elsewhere in the New Testament in the sense of a wedding, but here has its ordinary Greek meaning) “be in honor” (held to be honorable) “in all” (in all cases or things, if meaning among all people it would have read “para pasin”)

AND THE MARRIAGE BED UNDEFILED — This statement carries an anticipation of condemnation if the bed be defiled, because God is the Judge. God himself had made this arrangement, and when observed in his spirit it is a holy and pure relationship. The test of obedience in Eden was for the very purpose of developing obedience and self-control along these very lines, and would have avoided the horrible consequences of the abuse of this privilege, as they are now manifested among mankind in the horrible diseases of insanity so prevalent.

13:5 — LET YOUR CONVERSATION — “Let your manner of life” (“otropos”—turn of mind, that is habit of thought and action, manner of conduct) “be void of avarice” (“aphilarguros”—not love of money; “a”—negative, “phillia”—love, affection, “arguros”—silver), “being contented” (“arkoumenoi,” present middle participle of “arkeo”—to ward off (properly); by implication to avail, be satisfactory, suffice). Paul usually couples this thought with filthy desire, filthy lucre, both of them incompatible with the kingdom of God. This is often hard to practice as we see other men obtaining desirable things in life; but the facts are plainer to us if we remember that we have now and in the future will possess forever the greatest riches and most wonderful and desirable privileges which earth contains, in the fellowship and companionship of our heavenly Father, and under His wise direction we are learning to be worthy of the use of the All Things which are ours, but which we are privileged to keep from grasping till our Heavenly Father in his wisdom gives them to us in the resurrection morning. “All things are yours and ye are Christ’s and Christ is God’s; whether Paul or Apollos or Cephas or the world or life or death or things present or things to come, all our yours.” (1 Cor. 3:21-23)

WITH SUCH THINGS — “With the present things” (Here again is the word “parousin,” here the present participle of “paremi,” of which we have the noun “parousia,” which by its very derivation means presence. See note in Roth. appendix).

FOR HE — “For himself hath said I would not leave thee, no no I would not forsake thee” (aorist subjunctive of both verbs, “anho” of “anhiemi”—let up, slacken, desist, desert, leave; and “egkatalipo” of “egkatalipo”—leave behind and in some place, desert, abandon.) (Deut. 31:6) This is a very emphatic assurance, and should leave no doubt in our minds.

13:6 — SO THAT — “So that being confident” (“tharrountas”—accusative plural of present participle active of “tharreo”—exercise courage, have confidence) “we say” (not can say or may say, both of which weaken the confidence expressed) “the Lord is to me a helper” (“boethos”—a one giving announcing help or aid, a rescuer; from “boe”—a cry or for announcing help or assistance, and “theo”—run; hence “boethos”—one who responds quickly to a cry for aid, a rescuer). “And I will not fear. What shall man do to me?” (not—I will not fear what man shall do unto me). He that is for us is more than all they that be against us. “He that toucheth you toucheth the apple of his eye.” (Zech. 2:8) God’s care over his Church is often mentioned in the Scriptures as indicating that she is of the utmost importance. In Isaiah 49:14-17 “Can a woman forget her suckling child that she should not have compassion on the son of her womb? Yea, they may forget, yet will I not forget thee. Behold I have graven thee on the palms of my hands (showing that he could do nothing without being reminded first of her interests), thy walls (provision for care and protection) are continually before me.”

13:7 — REMEMBER — “Mnemeuo”—to exercise the mind, differing from “mimnesco” which means to remind another; in the middle voice remind oneself, remember; and “mnaomai” means to recall to mind, or bear in mind through the idea of fixing in the mind. Here the verb is “mnemeuo,” and the form “mnemeuete,” present imperative.

THEM WHICH — “Your leaders” (elders in the faith) “who” (the kind which, “hotines”) “spoke” (“elalesan,” aorist indicative active of “laleo”) “to you the word of God” (the aorist indicates that the speaking was over, and numbers these leaders with those of chapter 2:3, who heard the Lord. The expression is the usual one with Luke.)

WHOSE FAITH — “Of whom surveying” (“anatheorountes” from “ana”—again (in compounds) and “theoreo”—examine, literally be a spectator of, discern; hence examine intently from one end to the other. Another word “theomai” means to look closely at.) “the termination” (or result. “Ekbasin”—literally the going out, or exit; usually meaning their death; but rendered by some “the result or outcome”) “of the conduct” (or behavior, “anastrophes” from “anastrepho”—overturn, or return; busy oneself; remain, live; hence here their life or conduct, conversation, behavior); “imitate” (“mimeomai” the verb, “mimeisthe,” present imperative, imitate, copy) “their faith.” — Note the stress upon their faith, their trust in God. the next verse sums up their faith, and expresses it in the form of a proverb or saying.

13:8 — JESUS CHRIST — “Jesus Christ, Yesterday” (“echthes”) “and today” (“semeron”) “the same and into the ages” (“eis tous aionas”). — It was Christ whom they preached, these “hegoumenoi” (leaders) and Christ who supported them unto the end, and with regard to you he remains still the same, be not then carried away by various strange doctrines, as mentioned in the next verse. Observe the name and title JESUS CHRIST, not common with our writer, used again in verse 21, where he wishes to give a solemn fullness to Jesus title. We sometimes fail, but He abideth faithful. Let us get this fact written into our very beings, into every thought, word and deed, into every impulse and motive, so that it is become second nature for us, our habitual feeling—that no matter what happens, Jesus and our Heavenly Father remain faithful, and will never fail us in our hour of need.

13:9 — (See also Z. '09-344; R.4514)

BE NOT CARRIED — “Be not carried away” (out of the right course, as in Eph. 4:14. Do not get too excited over some new idea presented to you, but meet it soberly and thoughtfully, and carefully; because your life depends upon keeping close to the Master, Jesus Christ) “by various” (“poikilais”—motley, varicolored, not pure white, clean and righteous, varying from the tone and temperament and coloring of the Truth. “My sheep know my voice.” Do we? Have we become so familiar with the Truth that we can easily detect the false? “If thou take forth the precious from the vile, then thou shalt be as my mouth” Jer. 15:19)

AND STRANGE — “Xenais”—not only unfamiliar but of a different brand and spirit from the Truth, foreign.

DOCTRINES — Or teachings, “didachais”—from “didascho”—teach, instruct. Such teachings have self, or ambition, or newness in the background, not the humble spirit of the Master. The danger is so great and the traps are so cleverly concealed, that we need to keep humble and very close to the Master, and wind the Truth about our minds and hearts and lives.

The reference, judging from what follows below, is to the Judaizing teachings of many, that all the regulations of the Law Covenant about meats and how and when and where they were to be eaten were binding on the Christian. In the early Church the warning of the apostles were often against the teachings of false brethren seeking to bring them back into bondage. Today all the wiles of Satan are still at work to draw our attention away from the Truth into other teachings. See Col. 2:18-23. We need the Helmet on, the knowledge of the Truth as well as the other parts of the armor. The Lord’s table is provided with abundance of Spiritual food, the full harvest message, and upon that as a foundation and basis, the Scriptures are opening more fully to our understanding. But whatever does not line up with the Harvest Message, turns out to be a snare and delusion.

FOR IT IS — “For it is good” (an excellent thing) “that the heart” (affections, the loves that we extend toward other persons or things) “be established by grace” (“bebaiousythai”—present passive infinitive of “bebaioo”—establish; from “bebaios”—firm, (through the idea of basality), solid, as a foundation). That is, the affections should be rooted and grounded in the Love of God, in the thing that God loves, so that not only is there perfect harmony with Him, but continual fellowship. “Because he hath SET his love upon me” (Psa. 91:14), “Set your affections on things above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God.” (Col. 3:1, 2) By means of this walking and living in the Spirit the affections become fixed in the ways of life and truth, crystalized in righteousness.

NOT WITH — “And not with meats” (“bromasin”—foods; especially the rules and regulations of the Jewish Law Covenant, concerning what might be eaten and where, Lev. 11, especially vss. 44, 45; Acts 15:29). The Christian life is more than meat, even as the care of the body is more than just the raiment. The affections, ideals, joys, and ambitions of life must not be set on these things “in which things” (“hois”) “they who walked” (“peripate—santes”—practiced the teachings, conformed their conduct with—literally to walk around, or at large) “were not benefitted” (or profited, “ophelethesan,” passive aorist of “opheileo”—be under obligation to, ought, should, must; from “ophelos”—profit, benefit, advantage). Because none could keep the Law perfectly no one could gain the desired end, perfect life, or the wiping out of sin, but were still left under bondage. The phrase “didas. . . kaisparapheresthe” must refer not merely to meats offered in sacrifice, but to doctrines in which there was perplexity, variations from the truth and its spirit, concerning clean and unclean foods. In the other passages where “bromata” occurs with this reference, it is used not merely in the concrete (definite, such as meats), but in the abstract or general (such as foods) in the whole department or subject of “bromata.” The argument seems to be that the Christian’s hope and life are not based on the regulations of the Law, but on the grace or favor of God, provided through the merit of our Redeemer’s sacrifice. But as we need to be careful with the natural foods so we need to be careful about the spiritual food for the new creature.

13:10 — WE HAVE AN ALTAR — Place of sacrifice related to Christ and his ransom sacrifice for all, the teachings of true Christianity are based on it. The Greek word for altar is “thusiasterion”—place of sacrifice by burning.

WHEREOF — “Of which to eat” “phagein,” infinitive of “phago” or “esthio”—to eat, used only in certain tenses, in the rest “edo” is used) “they have not privileges” (“exousian” has the thought of ability; from “exesti”—privilege, competency, mastery, delegated influence). They do not have the privilege because they have not complied with the conditions of consecration to the Lord through Christ.

WHICH — “Who serve the tabernacle,” that is the Jewish priests. They have not accepted Jesus as their Redeemer, and cannot partake. The antitype of the Brazen Altar. See Jesus’ words in John 6:47-58. This verse still is discussing the food proposition as in the previous verse.

13:11 — FOR THE BODIES — “For of those animals” (“dzoon”—live thing, animal, beast. The word is the neuter of a derivative of “dzao”—to live). “Of which the blood is brought into the (most) Holy by the high priest, of these the bodies are consumed by fire” (“katakaietai”—burned down, consumed) “outside” (“exo”) “the camp.” (“paremboles”—a throwing in beside, a camp, barracks, encampment). The camp refers to the wilderness encampment, later replaced by the walls of Jerusalem; so that “exo tes pules” below answers to it.

Those sacrifices of which the priests did eat are: (1) The sin offering of the rulers (male kid). sin-offering of the common people (female kid or lamb), (Lev. 4:22,23) (see chapter 6 about eating or not eating the sacrifice). (2) dove of the poor man. Lev. 5:9; (3) Trespass offering. Lev. 7:7; (4) The skin of the whole burnt offering, Lev. 7:8; (5) The wave breast and heave shoulder of the peace offering. Lev. 7:34; (6) Wave offering of the feast of weeks, entire. Lev. 2:12-16. Those of which they did not partake:- (1) Sin offering of the High Priest for himself, Lev. 4:5-7; (2) Sin offering for sins of ignorance of the whole congregation, Lev. 6:16-21; compare Num. 15:24, 2; (3) Sin offering of the High Priest and people on the Day of Atonement. Lev. 16:27; Lev. 6:30. The last reference is the one referred to here probably.

13:12 — WHEREFORE — (“Dio”) (as being the antitype of the sin offering (bullock) on the Day of Atonement) “Jesus also, that he might sanctify” (“agiase”—present subjunctive of “agaidzo”) “the people through his own blood suffered without” (outside) “the gate” (of Jerusalem).

13:13 — (See also Z. 10-150; R.4607)

SO NOW — “Toinun,” commonly second or last in Greek sentences but in later writers, as in the Septuagint, is put first. As the blood of the goat was treated just like that of the bullock in the type, so in the antitype the Church follows in the footsteps of the Master.

LET US — “Let us go forth to Him outside the Gate or Camp.” (as outcasts from the Jewish people.)

BEARING HIS REPROACH — “Oneidismon”—contumely, reproach, frown; from “oneididzo”—to defame, rail, chide, taunt). It was these two verses which threw the light on the Tabernacle types and enabled Brother Russell to write the Tabernacle Shadows. See reprints page 3824, second col. paragraphs 3,4. They made it clear that the bullock offered on the Day of Atonement for the sins of Aaron and his household, represented Jesus’ humanity; and the goat which was for the sins of the people represented the humanity of the Church, justified by the merit of Jesus, and filling up that which is behind of the afflictions of the Christ.

13:14 — FOR — (The reason why such going forth is necessary) “here we have not” (on earth) (“here”—“hode”—in this same spot, here hither; an adverb from “hode”—here) “an abiding city” (one we belong to, our home city or government), “but” (“alia”—differently, contrariwise) “we seek for”

(“epidzetoumen”) “that which is to come” (the coming, or intended, or expected one) (“mellousan”).

13:15 — BY HIM — “Through him” (placed first, as carrying the emphasis, not by means of the Jewish ritual observance) “therefore” (“oun,” this “oun” gathers its inference from the whole argument, verses 10-14) “let us offer up” (“anapheromen,” present subjunctive active of “anaphero”—to carry or bring up as an offering) “the sacrifice of praise” (“thusian ainoseos” is the term for a thank offering in the Law; Lev. 7:12 Septuagint) (“ainesis”—a thank offering, a praising).

CONTINUALLY — (“Dia pantos,” not merely at fixed days and season, as the Levitical sacrifices, but all through our lives). “To the God, that is” (“toutestin” contraction of “toutos esti,” that is) “the fruit” (“karfpon”—fruit, as plucked) “of lips” (“cheileon”—a lip, as a pouring place, a shore). In Hosea 14:3 we read “We will render the calves of our lips,” we will account our lips as calves for a sacrifice. The fruit of the lips is expressed in the next words to be a good confession to God.

GIVING THANKS — “Confessing to his name” (confessing—“homologounton”—to assent, covenant, acknowledge). Where the heart is full the lips must utter it and a heart full of appreciation and thanksgiving must express its praise to God.

13:16 — BUT — (The fruit of the lips is not the only sacrifice. God must be praised not only with the lips, but with the whole life) “of well doings” (“eupoias”) “and communications” (“koinonias”—sharing in common, distributing, fellowship) “be not forgetful” (“epilanthanesthe”—forget not upon, present imperative middle), “for with such sacrifices God is well pleased” (“euaresteitai,” present indicative passive of “euaresteo”—fully gratifies; from “euarestos”—fully agreeable). Practical Christianity is the proof of the sincerity of our professions. Works are necessary to prove our faith, also to gain wisdom and efficiency by practice.

13:17 — Concluding exhortations and notices.

OBEY THEM — “Be obedient” (“peithesthe”—obey, believe, trust, convince) “to your leaders, and be subject to them” (“hupeikete”—surrender, submit; from “huper”—beneath, under; and “peitko”—to yield, be weak). Obey in the regular course of your habits, guided by them, persuaded that their rule is right; submit where that rule interferes with your own will. “peithesthai” has more or free following, while “hupeiiko” of dutiful yielding.

FOR THEM — (On their part) “keep watch” (“agrupnousin,” present indicative active of “agrupneo,” from “a”—negative, and “hupnos”—sleep; perhaps from “huper”—under; hence to sleep not, keep awake, watch) “on behalf of” (“huper”—under) “your souls, as having to give account” (“apodosontes,” future participle of “apodimomi”—to give of, or away, or in return; “logon”—speech, report).

THAT THEY — “So that with joy” (“charas”) “they may do this” (“poiosin”—present subjunctive of “poieo”—to do, or make) “and not lamenting” (“stenadzontes,” present participle of “stenadzo”—make or be in straits, sigh, murmur, groan, pray audibly, (over your disobedience); “for this” (is) “unprofitable” (“alusiteles,” from “a” not, and “luo”—loose, or “luisis”—a loosening, and “teleo”—to end—hence does not answer the purpose, is not advantageous) “to you” (a similar expression is found in Luke 17:2). The exhortation is like Paul in its spirit, and like Luke in the expression. As the exhortations continue expressions like those of Luke and Paul mingle together. How sad such a grievous report would be—neglected opportunities, lack of appreciation of God’s loving patience and abundant provision, a blind clinging to illusive shadows. “Reprobate silver shall men call them, because the Lord hath rejected them.” (Jer. 6:30)

13:18 — PRAY FOR US — “Proseuchesthe”—wish well before (the throne of grace) for us, on our behalf. Present imperative, middle, of “proseuchomai”—to pray to God, supplicate. “euchomai” itself means to pray to God. The addition of “pros”—toward, for, in behalf of, would indicate a special supplication. The statement shows the humility of the writer, in realizing his need for the prayers of others of the Church at the Throne of Grace.

FOR WE — “For we are persuaded that we have a good conscience” (“suneidesin”—a seeing together, or mutual understanding, co-perception, moral conscience; noun formed from “suneido”—to understand or become aware of, see completely) (we are persuaded is “perpoithamen” (in Diag., but Dean Alford has “peithometha,” which is St. Luke’s way of speaking) see Acts 26:26 “peithomai.” St. Paul’s is “pepoitha” as in Gal. 5:10. “I have confidence,” optative; and Phil. 2:24 “pepoithos,” the older perfect passive; and Phil. 2:24 “pepoitha”) “wishing” (“thelontes”—wishing, an active determination; while “boulomai,” the middle voice of a primitive verb meaning “to will” is a passive acquiescence) “in all things to behave ourselves” (“anastrephesthai,” present middle infinitive of “anastrepho”—to overturn, or return, by implication to busy oneself, behave, conduct oneself) “with seemliness.” (“chalos”—well, properly). How carefully the saints of the Lord should walk, seeing we represent Him before the world, and before the Church.

13:19 — BUT I BESEECH — “But the more superabundantly” (“perissotheros”—see chapter 6:17) “I exhort” (“parakalo”—call near or close, as if for a confidential talk, entreat, exhort)

TO DO THIS — (“Poiesai”—aorist infinitive active of “poieo”—to do, or make) “in order that (“hina”) “the sooner” (“taxion”—neuter singular comparative of “taxus”—swift, ready, soon) “I may be restored to you” (“apokatastatho”—literally “put down again upon,” restore, replace, reconstitute; present subjunctive of “apokathistemi.” (See Philemon 22) The author or writer in prison longs to get back into the service again.

13:20 — (See also Z. '09-311; R.4494)

The solemn concluding prayer.

NOW THE GOD OF PEACE — “But the God of peace”—here the writer brings in the thought of peace as a parting wish and exhortation. (See John 14:27)

WHO BROUGHT UP FROM THE DEAD — Literally the one having brought up. This is the only place in the Epistle where the author mentions the resurrection. Everywhere else he lifts his eyes out of the depths of humiliation, passing over all that is intermediate to the highest point of His exaltation.

THAT GREAT SHEPHERD — “The shepherd, the great one, of the sheep”—“probaton”—literally which walks forward, a sheep. Jesus is called the Chief Shepherd in 1 Pet. 5:14. He became the Great or Chief Shepherd by giving his life for the sheep and thus proved his worthiness to be entrusted with their care. The sheep here are the Church as in John 10.

THROUGH THE BLOOD — “In the blood of the everlasting covenant”— This is the New Covenant, which will be sealed by His blood when it is applied for the world of mankind. It is everlasting in that its benefits will be eternal both of life and of blessing. (“en” has the thought of “in accordance with the covenant,” which involved the promise to raise him again from the dead.)

EVEN OUR LORD JESUS — This certifies and completes the whole sentence or statement as regards the covenant, the blood and Jesus.

13:21 — MAKE YOU PERFECT — “Katartidzo,” the form here is “katartisai,” the aorist optative, from “kata”—down, and “artios”—fresh, complete, finished, perfect; from “arti”—just now, through the idea of suspension, from “hairō”—to raise. The Diaglott translates this “knit you together,” for the word has in it the thought of joining together.

IN EVERY GOOD WORK — “In every good work, towards the doing of his will”—the doing of “poiesai,” aorist infinitive; the expression here is in the final sense, not to the habit of doing, though that is also an aim, but to the having done, that is the accomplishing, hence to the completion of His will concerning you.

WORKING IN YOU — “Accomplishing in you” (“poion,” present participle, doing) “that is well pleasing” (literally the well pleasing thing) “in his sight” (before the face of, “enopion,”) (in the Father’s sight) “through Jesus Christ.” This is very like Paul’s prayer in Phil. 1:9, 10; and Col. 1:9, 10. It is God that worketh in you, both to will and to do of his good pleasure. (Phil. 2:13)

TO WHOM — “To whom” (the Father) “be the Glory” (for all these wondrous favors) “into the ages of the ages. Amen.” What a complete and fully developed wish or prayer!

13:22 — AND I BESEECH — “But I beseech” (“parakalo”—call near, invite, invoke, implore) “you brethren, endure” (“anechesthe”—to hold up, bear, endure) “the word of the exhortation” (“para—kleseos”—comfort, cheer, strengthening beside. From what follows, this refers to the whole epistle. It is like Luke’s expression in Acts 13:15.

FOR — “For indeed also” (besides other reasons there is this one) “in a few words” (“dia bracheon”—through or by short) “I have written” (“episteila”—aorist indicative of “epistello,” used by writers. Paul frequently uses “egrapha.” Elsewhere in the New Testament “episteila” is peculiar to Luke, as in Acts 15:20; 21:25. It means to communicate by letter) “to you.”

13:23 — (See also Z. ’09-134; R.4386)

KNOW — (“Ginoskete”—imperative) “that our brother Timothy has been set at liberty” (“apolelumenon”—perfect middle participle of “apolue”—set free, liberated, dismissed. There is quite a disagreement among commentators as to whether this means from prison, or from some other hindrance. But the natural understanding would be from prison.) “with who if he come I will see you.”

13:24 — SALUTE — “Greet” (“aspadzomai,” the form here is the imperative “aspasastghe” to enfold in the arms, salute, welcome, receive to intimate relationship, from “a” and “spao”—to draw out.) “All the leading ones” (“hegoumenous,” present participle of “hegeomai”—lead, command) “and all the Holy ones. They of Italy salute you.” —Even as we now send the greetings of an ecclesia to another ecclesia.

13:25 — GRACE — “The grace” (God’s favor and loving care) “be with all of you” (“panton humon”—all of our individually; “humon panton” would be the expression meaning the whole church as a body.) “Amen.”

This is Paul's token in every Epistle he wrote, see 2 Thes. 3:17. And so is proof that Paul wrote the book of Hebrews. No epistle of other apostles so ends, except Revelation and it would be all right for John to use it after Paul was dead."

JAMES

1:1 — JAMES — See Acts 12:17.

1:2 — COUNT IT ALL JOY — Rejoice. Our joy is largely dependent on our study of the word and our knowledge of the precious promises contained therein for those who overcome. Temptations may overtake these followers of Christ into which they will fall as a snare. As for an army traps are set by the enemy so the great adversary sets traps and snares for us. He endeavours to misguide our minds and lead us away from proper conceptions of truth and righteousness. We should be very careful to avoid his snares. Yet in spite of diligence we may fall into a trap. Not that we are to rejoice when we fall into sin when tempted but we may rejoice if we find ourselves suddenly precipitated into temptation. Temptation is not sin. If we could but keep in mind that every temptation, every trial, every persecution in life permitted to come upon us who have made the covenant of sacrifice with our Lord, is intended to prove us, to test our love, to see whether or not our characters are fixed, rooted and grounded in righteousness and built up in love, it would put all these trials, difficulties and temptations in a new light before us and greatly assist us in fighting the good fight of faith and overcoming.

When we find ourselves suddenly in temptation, we should say: "If by these trials the Lord is proving my love and devotion to Him, then however trifling or important they may be, I will diligently use them as good opportunities to prove to my Lord the fullness of my love and devotion to him and his cause. I must fight a good fight against this thing." Thus viewed and met we can rejoice in every such experience, every trial will prove a blessing, for we shall first of all have an opportunity to show the Lord that we will endure, and not compromise his cause or our own position as his servants. We can rejoice also because we know that under such trials our characters will make advance toward crystalization, if we overcome. And the Lord will not let us fall into any temptation which he would not cause to work out for our blessing if we are wholly loyal. As some substances are short and brittle and some have fibre, strength and endurance. The Lord chooses for himself such characters as have the strong enduring qualities—fortitude, patience, long suffering. Some there are who walk close to the Lord, who will not be driven away from him by any of the arts or wiles of the Adversary. They are such as are at heart fully the Lord's, not their own, they follow wherever the Lord may lead because they have no will but the Lord's. These will follow the Lord in the narrow way of trial, discipline and testing during the present life and by and by they will walk with him in white. Let us rejoice if our trials have made us humbler, stronger in character and more humble and Christlike, more aware of our blemishes and imperfections, more watchful and earnest in our endeavors to correct them so far as possible.

Even the conflicts where we have had only partial victory may have resulted in blessings to us. Even in those experiences where we have suffered absolute failure, there may be, through the humiliation and pain of defeat, a strengthening of our character, a firm determination for greater watchfulness in that direction, and a more fervent prayer for the Lord's sustaining grace, the need of which has been more deeply impressed on our hearts. Thus even failures may become stepping stones by which we rise toward God and heaven. If therefore the Lord's people find themselves involved in temptations, instead of feeling downcast they are to rejoice and say, "These are evidences that the Lord is preparing me for a place in the Kingdom."

FALL — We are to count it all joy when we fall into temptations, not when we walk into them. We are not to seek temptations. In our own fallen condition and that of those around us, with the adversary alert to harm us, we know there will be plenty of temptations that come through negligence and are not to be disesteemed. Some of our greatest lessons in carefulness have resulted from the effect of our own carelessness. These trials are intended to develop in us patience, that this quality may be deeply ingrained. We are building character for all eternity and patience could not be thus developed and maintained except by repeated difficulties, tests—by our resolving again and again to be stronger and firmer in building the character likeness of our Heavenly Father and Jesus. (Z. '14-149-150; R.5459, 5460)

1:4 — PATIENCE — "Hupomone" = cheerful or patient endurance, constancy. There are two Greek words for patience, this one, the stronger and another—makrothumia = long animity, long-spiritedness. This latter corresponds to our common thought of patience, long-suffering. But the former has fuller and deeper meaning—the enduring of evil in a cheerful hopeful manner. It represents therefore an element of character and not merely a temporary restraint; a development of heart and character which shows itself in endurance of wrong or affliction with contentment, without rebellion of will, with full acquiescence in the Divine wisdom and love, which, while permitting evils, has promised to make them all work for our good, and overthrow them in due time. "Let patient endurance perfect her work," proving not only that you have the character, love, demanded in the race, but that you have love as an element of character, fixed, immovable, unchangeable. This grace smooths the way for every other Christian grace, because all must be acquired under the process of patient and continual self-discipline. Not a step of progress can be gained without this grace of patience, and not one of the graces more beautifully adorns the Christian character, or wins the approval of the world's conscience, or glorifies the God of all grace whose truth inspires it. It is enduring meekness, striving to stem the tide of human weakness, and endeavouring with painstaking care to attain to the divine likeness. It is slow to wrath and plenteous in mercy, quick to perceive the paths of righteousness and prompt to walk in them; mindful of its own imperfections and sympathetic with the imperfections and shortcomings of others. See also Titus 2:2; 2 Tim. 3:10; Matt. 13:21; Heb. 10:36; Luke 8:11-15; Luke 21:19; Heb. 12:1; Rev. 3:10. (Z. '11-408, 409; R.4910)

1:12 — BLESSED — The word blessed does not of course always suggest a happy condition as to the feelings of emotions but rather relates to the outcome. It is here used in connection with the results of trial to the Christian. The child of God who wins the crown of life will be very highly favored or blessed of God; then whatever conduces to this end is a very great blessing even though it cause much pain in the flesh. (Z. '14-214; R.5499)

THE MAN THAT ENDURETH — Evidently the thought is not the enduring of one temptation for one or many times. Even the world must endure trials. The reference is to retaining permanently the attitude of patient endurance and faithfulness when tempted, of remaining true to God under temptation and stress. Temptations come from a variety of sources. They may come from friends who may tempt us to live a life of more or less self indulgence, to relax in a measure our fidelity to God. The enticements of wealth or worldly society, a natural love of ease and disinclination of the flesh to endure hardness—any or all of these may prove strong—subtle temptations to the Christian.

If we love the Lord supremely, that love will become the chief impulse of our lives. Our one aim will be that we may glorify God in our minds and bodies which are His. We know that there are things which are displeasing to God, and if we love Him we will seek to keep His commandments. The child of God might fail once, or he might fail repeatedly along the same line, until in deep humiliation and anguish of soul because of his continued manifestation of the same weakness, he would be led to cry out with strong crying and tears to the Lord and his pain and distress of heart might so impress upon him his need of greater watchfulness along that line that he would become strengthened for further attacks of the same nature and thus be enabled to gain the victory over his besetment, his special weakness. (Z. '14-214; R.5499)

TEMPTATION — It is when these selfish desires, being unrepulsed, have gradually grown stronger and stronger that as here suggested they conceive and bring forth to fruition, where they actually have life. Then the course is longer or shorter, according to the individual and to circumstances, but the tendency of a desire that has conceived is to bring forth—to have the desire or ambition or envy reach a consummation and such is always sin. Such sin, continued in, unrepented of, cherished, would surely lead on to death, the second death. How important then it is that we keep a close watch upon the desires of our hearts, for out of the heart are the issues of life; the good sentiments conceiving and bringing forth good deeds and proper conduct, and also the bad desires, envyings and ambitions which lead us away from God. (Z. '07-27; R.3928)

FOR WHEN HE IS TRIED — While we never shall reach the point of perfection in the flesh, nevertheless this power to endure temptation should become more marked every day, as the New Creature remains loyal, still resisting and striving still harder to resist and be true to the Lord in thought, word and deed. Blessed is the man who shall endure—time after time, day after day—thus proving his faithfulness and obedience to God. For when that man is tried, when the trial time is over, when God has seen that he has fully demonstrated his loyalty, then when God's due time has come that tried and proven one shall receive the crown of life. (Z. '14-214; R.5499)

HE SHALL RECEIVE THE CROWN OF LIFE — This is another way of saying “the reward of life” and this life is on the highest plane. The Apostle speaks of this same crown as the “crown of Righteousness” (2 Tim. 4:8); “crown of glory.” (1 Pet. 5:4) The crown of life to be given to the more than conquerors is a very special kind of life—immortality, the very highest kind of life possible, the crown or pinnacle of all life.

There will be a crown of life in the next age also—perfect human life—as the result of obedience to the tests and trials of that time. These tests will differ in many respects from the trials and difficulties of the Church at the present time. They will be much less crucial; for then the temptations to sin from without will be removed, and bodily and mental uplifting and assistance granted, which will make their trial a more favorable one.

If these favored children of the Heavenly King could always keep in mind the fact that every trial and testing, every persecution and difficulty, permitted to come upon those who have made the Covenant of Sacrifice with the Lord is designed to develop them, to prove and test their love, to demonstrate whether or not their characters are fixed, rooted and grounded in righteousness, it would set all their painful experiences and temptations in a new light, and would be a great assistance to them in fighting the good fight of faith successfully. For if by these trials and tribulations the Lord is proving our love and devotion to Him, then whatever they may be, great or small, we should diligently use them as opportunities to demonstrate to our Lord the fullness by which we may rise day by day to greater heights of spiritual attainment, being changed into the likeness of our Master. (Jas. 1:2-4; 1 Pet. 1:6-8) (Z. '14-214; R.5499; see also Z. '15-150; R.5688)

1:15 — BRINGETH FORTH DEATH — Here we have a suggestion of the insidious character of sin. It does not stalk about openly in its horrible aspect, rather it starts in desire. It is prompted by selfishness of some kind, either in envy as in Cain's case, or in ambition as Satan's case. Small, refined, insidious are the beginnings of such desires with no suggestion whatever of disloyalty to God or murder to our fellows. (Z. '07-27; R.3928) See also note on "temptation" vs. 12.

1:18 — THE WORD OF TRUTH — The begetting power is the "word." Through this word God operates in us first of all, and if we respond to the drawing we shall be brought into relations with Christ through faith. Recognizing him as the great sin bearer, as the great Advocate who is willing to appropriate a share of his merit to us and thus to justify us from Adamic sin and fleshly weaknesses which we do not approve any longer. Convinced by the Word that all unrighteousness is sin and desiring to be in accord with God and righteousness, his Word tells us that all who wish to become fully his now and who would receive the invitation to become members of the Body of Christ, may "present their bodies . . ." When we do this, our Lord Jesus, as Advocate imputes his merit to us and we are accepted of the Father. This acceptance is indicated by the impartation of the Holy Spirit and we now are begotten. (Z. '10-165; R.4614)

2:5 — WHICH HE HATH PROMISED TO THEM THAT LOVE HIM? — The qualities of humility and submission to the divine will in fullest obedience are rare amongst men and different from the general idea. Hence many of the noble of this world are not acceptable among the Lord's elect, while many of the ignoble, yea some of the mean things of this world God does accept as his children and pupils in the school of Christ to be prepared for future glory, honor, and immortality.

3:1 — THE GREATER CONDEMNATION — Little men, like little ships with broad sails are in great danger of being capsized if too strong a wind of popularity blow upon them.

3:2 — IF ANY MAN OFFEND NOT IN WORD — We cannot estimate this. Whoever sees that anarchy is the most dreadful terror confronting a civilization must realize the wisdom of reasonable restraints upon his own tongue and upon the tongues of others. (N-4-10-10)

3:5 — AND BOASTETH GREAT THINGS — It may scatter kind words that will never die, but go on blessing the living and through them the yet unborn. Or “full of deadly poison” it may scatter poisonous seeds of thought to embitter the lives of some and blight and crush the lives of others. (F407)

3:14 — IN YOUR HEARTS — If we have these things in our hearts, let us not deceive ourselves, and claim that we have the Holy Spirit, when really we have the spirit of Satan. But get to work and cleanse ourselves.

AND LIE NOT AGAINST THE TRUTH — Either to himself or to others. Let him not thus put light for darkness and darkness for light. (F408)
The Spirit of Satan for the Spirit of the anointed.

3:15 — THIS WISDOM — The golden rule would surely settle this disposition to gossip about others and their affairs. What slanderer wishes to be slandered? What gossip wishes to have his matters, difficulties, weaknesses, discussed publicly or confidentially. The world has little else to talk about than gossip and scandal, but the New Creation should preferably be dumb until the love and plan of God have furnished them with the theme of which the angels sang. (F407)

For shame that the weaknesses and faults of brethren or others should be exposed before the world. For shame that pity and sympathy did not at once advance to speak a word in their defense, if too late to spread over their faults a mantle of love to hide them entirely. See John 8:7. Shame! that any of the Lord’s people should so overlook the Lord’s instruction—“speak evil of no man,” and that any but the merest babes and novices in the love of love should so misunderstand his message—that any without the most indubitable proofs at the mouth of two or three witnesses, and then reluctantly, should ever believe evil against a brother or sister or neighbor, much less to repeat it—to slander him on suspicion or hearsay. (F405, 407)

3:16 — FOR WHERE ENVYING AND STRIFE IS — An unclean, only partially sanctified condition of heart. If these weeds of the old nature are permitted to grow they will not only be noxious but will gradually crowd out and kill out all the beautiful flowers and graces of the Spirit. (F409)

4:4 — THEREFORE WILL BE A FRIEND OF THE WORLD IS THE ENEMY OF GOD —The love of the world mentioned here is the love of its fellowship, which implies the partaking of its spirit, its aims, ambitions, hopes and its methods of pursuing them. We are not to love the present order and arrangement, nor the things that are part and parcel of it, identified with it. Politics, for example, is so interlaced with evil things that it would be practically impossible for him to engage in it without compromising his relationship with God. In former times no one could associate very much with the world unless he were more or less in politics; therefore it would mean being in accord with sinful practices, directly or indirectly. A man in politics forgets his conscience. Recognize the things of the world in general as being in opposition to the things of God, and not sympathize with the chicanery and methods of Satan. (Z. '11-56; R.4765)

See 1 John 3:15; John 15:19)

4:5 — THE SPIRIT THAT DWELLETH IN US LUSTETH TO ENVY? —
Diag.: “Do you suppose that the Scripture speaks falsely? (when it warns us against the deceitfulness of the human heart, that our sin in our flesh will overthrow us if we do not fight it). Does the Spirit (God’s Holy Spirit) that dwelleth in us (the Church) strongly incline to envy? (Of course not—these are the works of the flesh and the devil, not of the Lord’s Spirit.)”

4:8 — YE DOUBLE MINDED — The battle for right, for truth will wax hotter and hotter. Those unwilling to trust the Lord and those who are self-confident might about as well surrender now as any other time. Be assured that only the faithful and the courageous overcomers will stand the testing of the evil day. But this will not discourage us if we will trust in the gracious promises of our Lord that greater is he that is for us than all they that be against us. (Z. '10-4; R.4540)

5:3 — HEAPED TREASURE TOGETHER — Referring to the present day and its wonderful heaping together of riches.

5:4 — LABOURERS — Farmers.

WHICH IS OF YOU KEPT BACK BY FRAUD — The fraud is the demonitization of silver, which compels the growers of wheat and cotton and rice, who must raise these products in competition with countries doing business on a silver basis, to sell their products at depreciated silver. Their land, implement, clothing, labor and interest on mortgages has to be paid for in enhanced gold. If they receive pay in silver and pay out the same sum in gold they lose just half when gold is double the value of silver.

HAVE REAPED AND ENTERED INTO THE EARS OF THE LORD
—The farmers’ cry that the reward of his toil is kept back by fraud. The Lord hears the prayer of the world collectively but not individually, for they are dead in his sight.

5:5 — AS IN A DAY OF SLAUGHTER — Two classes benefit by this fraud:
1) bankers, money lenders, mortgage owners. Because their gold money will buy twice as much cotton, wool, wheat, as before.

5:6 — YE . . . KILLED THE JUST — Christ.

AND HE DOTHT NOT RESIST YOU — “He resisted you not.” (Diag., Roth., Syr.) Can it be that the Lord wished us to notice that the Jewish bankers and financiers, more than others, are prominent in this fraud of keeping back the wages of the reapers? And is there special significance in the words—"You killed, you murdered the just one?"

5:7 — BE PATIENT THEREFORE — Not get up and raise a howl and try to overthrow the rich and dispossess them, as the socialists and anarchists are doing.

UNTO THE COMING OF THE LORD — Who will adjust matters rightly—lifting up the poor and him that hath no helper, and taking vengeance on all evil doers.

THE HUSBANDMAN — Jehovah. (John 15:1)

FRUIT OF THE EARTH — The church, the first fruits unto God and to the Lamb. (Rev. 7:4; Jas. 1:18) The Lord's jewels. (Mal. 3:17)

HATH LONG PATIENCE FOR IT — Waiting nearly 1900 years.

HE — Or "it."

THE EARLY AND LATTER RAIN — The early rain of truth, the Gospel through Jesus and the Apostles. This came moderately (Joel 2:23) or in beneficence. (Leeser) Then came a season of drouth (Amos 8:11, 12) during the reign of papacy. Now we are receiving the latter rain of truth. Israel's climate was so overruled as to typify the spiritual climate of the Gospel age. (Joel 2:24-27; Hos. 6:3; Zech. 10:1)

5:9 — GRUDGE NOT ONE AGAINST ANOTHER — "Add not to each other's sorrows brethren" (see margin) lest ye (also) be condemned (punished). (D411)

5:14 — IS ANY SICK AMONG YOU? — It is evident from vs. 16 that the sickness is recognized as being a chastisement for sins, not a slight sickness, but a serious one, making it worth while to call together the elders of the church. The thought seems to be that sin lay so close to the door that the sick sinner felt practically cut off from God, his fellowship. Under such circumstances we would expect that the sins would be confessed, and forgiveness prayed for, and so it reads. (F638) The Apostle here is discussing the case of one who has committed a sin that has alienated him from God, causing a cloud to come between them, a repetition of sins or something to that effect. He is spiritually sick whether physically sick or not. (It may be that he is physically ill as a punishment or chastisement for sin's partially wilful.)

ANOINTING HIM WITH OIL IN THE NAME OF THE LORD — The brother is not in a condition where he can advocate his own cause with the Lord, and the Lord therefore arranged it that we should feel a sympathy for our brother and go to his relief and make intercession for him. Not that our intercessions would of themselves avail. It must be the intercessions of our Advocate that would avail for the wrongs and imperfections before Justice, but our Advocate may at times thus withhold himself for the good of the erring one, and for the sake of drawing out the sympathy of the brethren who have knowledge of the case, that they may seek to assist, remembering themselves lest they also should fall from their own steadfastness, and that therefore the spirit of sympathy and mutual helpfulness may be encouraged in the Church. (Oil is a symbol of the Holy Spirit, and as the brother sick has thus lost much or most of the Spirit, this would help to bring the same to mind again and bring it back to the brother—and so help to reinstate him in fellowship with God again.—Bro. Rockwell) (This would include the use of proper medicine.)

5:15 — PRAYER OF FAITH SHALL SAVE THE SICK — To health, the restoration being a sign of the forgiveness of sins.

THEY SHALL BE FORGIVEN HIM — Shall bring him back into the proper condition of mind and heart to make him acceptable to the Lord.

5:16 — CONFESS YOUR FAULTS ONE TO ANOTHER — That is to those who we have wronged or hurt or injured. There might be times when the confession of a fault should be made publicly to the advantage of others and if we knew that it would we should not hesitate to tell of it in a proper way. But in general our thought is that we do well to hide our imperfections and that it should be our daily endeavor to put our faults away completely.

THAT IT MAY BE HEALED — Not merely should the elders pray for one whom they see going astray, but the Lord has put a special responsibility upon every member of the church, body, to look out for all other members to the extent of ability and opportunity. But there would not be the same degree of propriety to responsibility for a younger brother (younger in truth) to correct or rebuke or exhort an elder brother. He should feel a hesitancy about approaching the matter and feel also that he would be laboring under a disadvantage and would not be as likely to accomplish good results, as if he were one of more experience. Therefore it would be wise for him to pray for the person in secret for a while, rather than be too free about giving advice. But if he finally thought it necessary it would perhaps be wiser for him to speak to some of the elders of the church and ask them their opinion, or if they thought that it would be wise that the brother be spoken to by them. This of course is only where the one is possessed of some absolute knowledge about some wrong qualities or disposition, not merely imagined.

Usually Matt. 18:15. (Z.'10-131; '15-154; R.4598; 5690)

OF A RIGHTEOUS MAN — A justified and consecrated child of God.

5:19 — IF ANY OF YOU — Any of you brethren. This evidently refers to one begotten of the Holy Spirit, who has come into a very low condition of spirituality through more or less willing sin. He points out there is a possibility of recovery for such not through themselves, but through the ministry of faithful ones of the Royal Priesthood. (Z. '14-137; R.5452)

AND ONE — Another of the brethren who has not erred from the truth, but is faithful. One can not err from the truth unless they know the truth, and have been walking in it for some time.

5:20 — LET HIM — The one who does the converting.

SHALL SAVE A SOUL FROM DEATH — Apparently that soul is in death's throes; but he manifests a sufficiency of faith, and will call in some true brethren and humbly confess his sin and ask for prayers, he would be favorably considered by the Lord, who might give him a further opportunity and trial.

AND SHALL HIDE A MULTITUDE OF SINS — Hide the sins of the one whom he helped, not his own sins.

I PETER

1:2 — SPRINKLING OF THE BLOOD OF JESUS CHRIST — See note Ex. 24:6. The apostle is not speaking of how we have been chosen because of the sprinkling of Jesus' blood. But he may refer here to the sprinkling of the people in the Millennial age by the church. (Bro. Barton)

1:5 — KEPT — "Phrouroumenous" from "Phroureo" = protect by military guard to protect by guarding. Used only two other times in New Testament. (Gal. 3:23; 2 Cor. 11:32; also Phil. 4:7) (phrouros, contraction of prooros from proorao = foresee, see before) = guarded by God's power.

1:10 — PROPHESED OF THE GRACE . . . UNTO YOU — It was the constant effort of the Apostles to show that the Gospel which they proclaimed was the very same Gospel darkly expressed by the ancient prophets, the very same Gospel brought to light by the Lord himself, that its greater amplification and all the particular details discovered for the church by them under the leading and direction of the Holy Spirit were in fulfillment of the Lord's promise to the apostles. (F233)

1:14 — AS OBEDIENT CHILDREN — We have enlisted under the banner of Jesus to fight against sin and self and Satan. God purposes to prove how thoroughly in earnest we were when we espoused his cause. He wishes us to attain to that development of character which will fit us to be associates with Jesus in his great kingdom which is to bless the world. If we are obedient children everything will work well. We shall get the proper tests, the proper chiselings and polishing, everything that will make us meet for the inheritance of the saints in light. But if we do not prove obedient this will hinder us from ever getting into the elect company, though we may get a place in that company of children who have had to be chastised and finally brought to proper obedience. The Lord chastens every one whom he receiveth. (Heb. 12:6-11) The chastisements which came to our Lord Jesus were not deserved but were experiences by which he proved his thorough loyalty and worthiness of exaltation. So our chastisements are to fit us for future members of His Body. (Z.'14-184; R.5482) The chastisements are in the nature of punishments for sin should bring about a thoroughly loyal condition of heart in reasonable time or the one chastised will lose his place in the body. If he prove ultimately disobedient he will be counted unworthy of any of God's favors and will die the second death. The exhortation of our text is therefore to the highest attainment and to the utmost loyalty to the Father.

LUSTS — "Epithumia" = a longing (especially for what is forbidden) from "epithueo" = to set the heart upon, long for. When we become children of God we ask what is God's will in respect to what we shall eat or drink or wear, as to using tobacco, or the cut of our clothes. It is not for us now to decide whether we shall go to the theater or play cards or dance. These matters all should have been decided before we consecrated ourselves. Now in harmony with the covenant we have entered into with and through Christ we are to know strictly the Father's will. As we learn to see things from God's standpoint we change our ideas as to what we shall eat, drink, wear, do. And this change going on in our minds is the "fashioning." There is a fashioning of our minds in progress. It is not the fashioning of our will. The will is given up to begin with. But the will has to do with regulating the mind as well as the body—with the fashioning. We will that our minds shall be educated along the lines of obedience, that we may be properly exercised by all the trials which God has purposed for us. We as New Creatures should learn to think as God would have us think, to develop habits of thought which build up the New Creature. We should eat and drink according to his will, seek his guidance in all things because of the weakness of the flesh, the promptings of the adversary and our environment. The Lord has made provision and given definite instructions in the Scriptures by which we may regulate our lives in harmony with His word. We should seek more and more to know the will of God and to profit by his providences in our lives and to apply the knowledge gained so that whether we eat or drink or sleep or labor we shall do all to glory of God.

The knowledge of God's will is a matter of education. We come to see this and that to be right (as the world sets such a style for evening dress and another for morning dress). When we become Christians we have new standards and it takes some time to get everything adjusted, harmoniously therewith. In line with this is Rom. 12:2 "Be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind." Not by the renewing of the new will. We already possess the New Will. But we see that the body is regulated by the mind. Therefore the New Will says—"I must begin with the mind, I must get my mind to see things correctly, according to God's will. I will use the Bible and all the providential indications that will give me a knowledge of God's mind and I will begin to conform my mind thereto." Thus our minds become gradually fashioned—transformed into the mind of the Lord. As we come to see more and more of what is the will of God, our minds decide to do his will.

God wishes to appeal to our reason because we are thus better developed than in any other way. We are all in the school of Christ under the tutelage of our Lord—learning to do His will. Our education progress until at the end of this life those who have thoroughly learned the lessons of this school will be those who have been obedient children. These will have been transformed by the renewing of their minds and have proved what is that good and acceptable and perfect will of God. (Z.'14-184, 185; R.5482)

IN YOUR IGNORANCE — Our organism of flesh we receive by heredity. These bodies of ours have various weaknesses and inconsistencies—some in one direction some in another. But all are more or less perversions of the true ideals which God originally gave. Centuries of sin have left their mark upon us, on our minds and on our bodies, and this mark is seen in the theories which have come into our minds. These errors in the past had control of us. Before we saw the Lord's way we thought it was right to follow after earthly pleasures and pursuits and put self first. We saw that the prominent and great are following this course, seeking first the affairs of the present life—praise of men how finally they can be clothed and housed, how fine a carriage or automobile they can have. They seek, and to some extent secure the gratification of taste for earthly things, whether it be satisfaction of mind, as various kinds of literature or of body, as food, clothing, etc. (We were ignorant of anything better.) (Z.'14-185; R.5482)

1:15 — BE YE HOLY — Our will must be holy when we make our covenant with God, nothing less than a holy will is acceptable to Him. If we had an unholy will, not submissive to God we would not have been accepted. So if our will be holy we shall as far as we are able do His will. As he who has called us is Holy so we as far as our will is concerned will be holy, and we will so direct our mind so as to be holy in life so far as possible. We will apply the principles of God's holiness to all the affairs of life. We will observe the golden rule. Whoever neglects to apply these principles of holiness to his own life is not growing in the new life, not being transformed. We should seek to have our minds fully in accord with God's mind and also our conduct in accord as far as possible. If our mind is not running in the proper groove, we must see to it that we turn it into the proper groove. We want to render obedience to our highest conception of the Lord's will, as far as we are able. Our will will be determined by God as loyal in proportion as it has been on the alert to watch the mind and body, the tongue and everything pertaining to our conduct.

CONVERSATION — Our intercourse with others, all our conduct with respect to others, our manner of life. We are to be holy in everything that pertains to our lives, in our thoughts, words and deeds. This is a very high standard and no wonder that the Lord has set a high standard. It is for us to find out this standard, and help others know what it is. This is why we spend a few years this side of the veil after we have given our hearts to Jesus. We say that we have taken up our cross to follow Jesus and the Lord wishes to prove whether this be true. He is watching our course. (Z. '14-185; R.5482)

1:17 — YOUR SOJOURNING HERE IN FEAR — Not in levity or worldly frivolities, nor sensualities, nor in land and money grabbing, nor even carelessly or slothfully, but in earnest watchfulness of every word and act, to please the Lord and copy his character and thus make our calling and election sure to a place in his kingdom when it shall be established in power and great glory. (Z. '98-112; R.2289)

1:18 — REDEEMED — “Lutroo.”

1:22 — PURIFIED YOUR SOUL — This purifying refers to a thorough cleansing of the heart (mind, will, motives, actuating intentions), and the effect of such purification will be manifested in the outward life. (Z. '11-57; R.4766)

OBEYING THE TRUTH THROUGH THE SPIRIT — This would imply that it is necessary to know the truth, not all truth, but the Ransom, Justification, Consecration. This shows that the text is for the consecrated only, and this purifying comes through obedience of the spirit of the truth.

UNTO UNFEIGNED LOVE OF THE BRETHREN — Having had this glorious transformation of character through the knowledge of and obedience to the truth we have learned to love the brethren with “unfeigned love”—a love that is genuine, without pretence—not merely an outward profession, a smile on the face or to give a cordial grasp of the hand, but through this spirit we have recognized that all who trust in the precious blood, and are consecrated to Christ, our dear Redeemer, and are seeking to follow his leadings, are brethren, regardless of race or color, or education or poverty or homeliness. We have reached the point where our hearts are so full of the spirit of the master that we can truthfully say we love all the brethren, with a sincere, unfeigned love.

WITH A PURE HEART FERVENTLY — Having come thus far in the good way, the Apostle shows that there is yet an advanced step. We must not only regard them as brethren and give them unfeigned love, but recognize the principle underlying our relationship to the Lord, and theirs, we both are New Creatures in Christ, and this should give us sympathy and a desire to do everything we can to encourage and help them. This love is different from the other love-brotherly love. It is a disinterested love; so warm, so intense, that we should be willing to lay down our lives for the brethren. This love is the kind our heavenly Father has; while we were yet sinners he loved us, a love like Jesus, undertaking to do good for us for our own sakes, not from any hope of getting anything from us. We should not only have this love, but we should have it with fervency, warmth, ardor; not with a semi-indifference but with a real interest in each other's welfare. Our love should go out to these as we see any lack in them which we could supply—using always discretion, for love yearns to be wise; and to consider our motives while we try to do them good. As we think sympathetically along those lines, our sympathetic love will increase, and take heed to ourselves that this should be accomplished in our lives, in us; our own experience. Let us think of the fact that all are fallen, and degraded and thus need our sympathy. We must not neglect this growth in love. If we do we are not of the class the Father is choosing; these all must be copies of Christ, in unfeigned and fervent love. We properly esteem most highly those whose love for the Lord and for his truth are evidenced by their zeal in the study of his Word, and whose favor with God is manifested by his being guided more and more into the deep things of God. (Z. '11-57; R.4766)

2:9 — YE — The apostle here is speaking of all the consecrated and not specially differentiating between the Little Flock and the Great Company. For all are called only to be of the little flock. He refers to the ultimate aim of all, and the hope set before us all. (Z. '10-245; R.4655)

2:23 — HE WAS REVILED, REVILED NOT AGAIN — It is not for us to become bitter toward Satan or any of those who develop an ambitious and injurious spirit similar to his. In so doing we would be cultivating in ourselves that which would be injurious to us. On the contrary, all the opposition of Satan and those who have his characteristics should exercise upon us an opposite spirit. We should be ready to do them good while loathing their course. (Z. '09-299; R.4487) (Jude 9)

3:19 — PREACHED UNTO THE SPIRITS IN PRISON — This seems to imply that when the fallen spirits witnessed our Lord's death as the sin offering and his resurrection with divine power, they realized a love and power of God on behalf of humanity that they had not previously appreciated. And the thought of God's mercy to come in due time to men gave ground to some of them for hoping also that in due time the repentant ones of their number might receive a share of the divine mercy through Christ. This we know to be a part of the divine program. (1 Cor. 6:3)

In harmony with the text we may suppose that some of the fallen angels have since repented of their wrong course and it would be none too strong a way to state the matter that any such repentant ones would surely have terrible experiences as a result. To be obliged to be in close touch with and relationship with the more evil and malignant ones and to have knowledge of all their evil designs and efforts would be a terrible experience and besides this, we may be sure the rebellious ones would not hesitate to persecute the repentant ones in every conceivable way as they would be lawless, regardless of the divine will. The repentant ones would be obliged to restrain themselves and not render evil for evil, knowing this would be contrary to the divine will, They would have a kind of purgatorial experience and the thought calls for our sympathy. These would be influenced by the preaching of Jesus. (Z. '12-192; R.5043)

3:21 — THE LIKE FIGURE — What is the figure? The flood of water which submerged the world meant the death of the world, while Noah and his family though submerged by the same water, were hidden in the ark, and thus by the ark their lives were spared. Similarly we who are baptised into Christ, who become members of his body, enter the Ark of safety. Although we are baptised into his death according to the flesh, are raised and saved and on the other side the flood (the great calamity of death upon the world, destruction of it) in the New Earth which the Scriptures describe, we shall live and be the representatives of God in establishing the New Order of things. Thus Jesus is the Father or life-giver of the everlasting world (age) to all who will then attain life eternal. (Z. '07-40; R.3935; A318)

4:11 — WHICH GOD GIVETH — Any service that we do for Him, for the brethren, is not of our own ability, but of God-given ability, so that we do not deserve any of the glory, but it all belongs to God through Christ, so let us be humble.

4:17 — THAT OBEY NOT THE GOSPEL OF GOD? — The coming of a great earthly king to any city is the signal for a general cleaning, and so the message of the coming of the king of kings should influence all who have the hearing ear to prepare. If the inspection is so searching that it must begin with the house of God, God's saints what could we expect of it when it reaches those who are merely nominal Christians and then the world in general! (To each nation it means, Set your house in order, an inspection is at hand. See that your laws are just and equitable and justly administered.

The same message comes to each self governing city or lastly and most important of all, this message comes to each individual and especially to those who have named the name of Christ. (N-10-30-10) We may expect just what the Bible advises will come—a time of trouble. (Dan. 12:1) The message now is Zeph. 2:3; Psa. 2:10 (q.v.)

4:18 — AND IF THE RIGHTEOUS SCARCELY BE SAVED — Peter here speaks not of any class, but of the divine arrangement. “He that doeth these things shall live” and if not then be cursed. (Gal. 3:10) One could not be more than righteous, not have 101 points, and 99 points would make him a sinner. Hence the righteous can be no more than saved under divine law, it would require every effort to comply with the standard of right.

UNGODLY — “Aseboes” = a = negative, and a presumed deriv. of “oeboeai” = to adorn or revere.

SINNER — “Amartolos” = a sinner (from “amartano” = to miss the mark, [and so not share the prize,] to err, to sin.)

APPEAR — What show has the sinner? No show. Those not justified by faith in Christ according to God’s arrangement have no show at all now. They are unjustified, without hope now. (Eph. 2:3, 12)

5:3 — BEING ENSAMPLES TO THE FLOCK — No elder has any authority by self appointment. Indeed the disposition to ignore the church, the body of Christ, and to make himself and his judgment superior to the whole, is first class evidence that such a brother is not in the proper attitude to be recognized as an elder—humility and a recognition of the oneness of the ecclesia as the Lord’s body, being prime essentials for such a service. (F279) If such were dictatorial the example given would be that the flock should be dictatorial, self-seeking, ambitious. But if such should be meek, gentle, patient, loving, then the examples set would be of that good quality. (See 1 Tim 5:17, 18) (F252) The elder who would manifest jealousy of others and a desire to hinder them from ministering should be considered unworthy of a continuance. The church must vote as they believe the Head would have them vote. (F281) (See Acts 20:28)

5:4 — RECEIVE A CROWN OF GLORY — It is called the crown of glory because it is the reward that brings glory, honor, and immortality. (Z. ’14-214; R.5499)

5:5 — AND BE CLOTHED WITH HUMILITY — The livery of the King. “The mighty ones of earth invest their servants with such raiment as they choose; intended to indicate their respective stations, powers, and honors of the master. So Jehovah, the Almighty decreed the clothing of those who voluntarily serve him. (Titus 1:1; Phil. 1:1) That vesture is partly humility.

As the servants of an earthly master could not hope to serve acceptable without their robes of office, so the servant of the King of Kings cannot render acceptable service without the garments which his Lord has prescribed for him. Three uses of clothing—1) covering, 2) protection, 3) ornament. Attire which serves the first only, without the others is inadequate and crude; and if it serves the first two without the last, it is inappropriate to the finer structure of the human frame; those which cover and adorn but not protect, are not practical. So humility hides us from our selfish and animal selves. It protects us as New Creatures from many a brunt and hurt felt by the proud or oversensitive and it serves the whole being as adornment, enhancing every other Christians grace, the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit in the sight of God of great price. The humble will not be expected so much in the way of deference to his position or ability and so is not disappointed when he does not get it. If hurt he will think the affront not intended, as if it was the offender did not realize how much it hurt.

A thing broadens the sphere of usefulness and while it may hide the person it does not hide the personality. So humility works nothing but advantage in the Christian life. The best dressed man is he whose clothing so fitting to his general self that he does not remember so much what he wore, but his general personality. Humility can be no conscious grace. Humility lies at the very root of obedience. The haughty spirit of Satan now rules in the hearts of the children of disobedience. But the followers of the Lamb are meek and lowly of heart.

5:10 — STRENGTHEN, SETTLE YOU — The thought seems to be: after ye have suffered awhile (and thus been made perfect, reached the mark of perfect love) he will strengthen, stablish, settle you. (Z. '11-28; R.4750)

II PETER

1:1 — SERVANT — “Duokos” = slave. Peter was a servant. This was the Apostle who said “Though all shall be offended because of thee, yet will not I be offended” and who afterwards so bitterly failed. This was he who began to rebuke our Lord when Jesus foretold his death and suffering and whom the Lord rebuked. (Matt. 26:33; Mark 8:32) This was the one who tried to walk on the water but whose faith failed him. This was the one who said “God made choice amongst us that the Gentiles by my mouth should hear the word of the Gospel and believe.” (Matt. 14:28-30, 31; Acts 15:7) but who afterwards was so inconsistent that he would not eat with Gentiles when Jews were present and was rebuked by Paul. (Gal. 2:11-14) Had these failures discouraged Peter? O, No! He was not of the kind that is discouraged utterly. He had learned meekness and humility by them. So let us learn humility from our mistakes, let us not be discouraged by them, for they show us where we err in judgment, our many shortcomings and so keep us humble and content to be guided by Him. Peter had been with Jesus and learned of Him.

AND AN APOSTLE — While humble, Peter realized his privileges and ambassadorship, his choice by Jesus to be an Apostle (messenger, envoy, ambassador), and claimed his position. So let us while being humble realize the importance of dignity of our calling, and live in accordance therewith and be mindful of our privileges and opportunities.

TO THEM THAT HAVE OBTAINED — Through abandoning sin and seeking “His Face,” especially by consecration, by giving up all for it. Peter realized that but few would obtain that faith, that it was an inestimable favor, the pearl of great price and that those who had obtained it had great and wonderful privileges and opportunities to know the secrets of God, and he is exhorting them in this letter to hold it fast and progress daily in it. This letter is not addressed to the world, to sinners, for they have not the privilege of appreciating or understanding its content but it is addressed to the justified and consecrated, especially to those in the Holy.

LIKE — Like precious faith with us. The faith once delivered to the Saints. Not any faith which may be precious to someone. Many have a faith precious to them and are willing to die for it. But the only faith worth while is that given to the church through the apostles and in the Old Testament, in God’s word. A faith that is not popular. Not the faith preached by the Higher Critics. Their faith is far from precious. Their faith consists in believing in their own judgments as the criterion of truth or error, and in doubting the testimony of Moses and the Prophets, of the Lord and the Apostles. Such is not the faith here mentioned, and we should not expect of this class that either their grace or their peace will be multiplied. (Z. ’97-115; R.2137)

PRECIOUS — The true child of God prized the truth, the Gospel, the Divine plan, very highly. They value it so highly they give up all earthly rights for it, to realize its fulfillment (Psa. 119:72), willing to die for it, to contend earnestly for it. (Jude 3; Cant. 2:3) Cast not away your confidence which hath great recompense of reward! (Heb. 10:35) Willing to suffer reproach and shame for his name.

FAITH — Faith and trust are some of the most valuable things God is developing in us. Belief; the truth.

WITH US — A man might have the intention for days or months or years to purchase a piece of property which he knew was for sale, yet the intention did not purchase it, nor did it give him any right or interest in the property. But when the desire for the property reached the point where he went to the agent and signed a contract for the purchase and made a payment on account, then he had interest in the property. Similarly God has a wonderful proposition for us. We heard about it for years and more or less believed it, yet we had neither right nor interest in it until the time came when we accepted the Lord's favor and surrendered to him our wills.

(N-5-2-09)

THROUGH THE RIGHTEOUSNESS — Through faith in Jesus' imputed righteousness. His perfection and merit is the foundation (1 Cor. 3:11, 12) of all our hope and privileges and blessing and joy. Through him favor comes to all that are obedient. As we grow we appreciate more and more his beauty and how great was the cost of this favor and they prize it more and more. They see that "all the promises of God are in him, yea and in his amen." (2 Cor. 1:20) "To them which believe he is precious yea the chiefest among ten thousand, the one altogether lovely." (Cant. 5:10, 16)

OF GOD AND OUR SAVIOR JESUS CHRIST — Margin: "of our God and Savior." Our God, head, mighty one, master and our savior, redeemer, the beginner and finisher our salvation.

1:2 — GRACE — The Christian virtues and graces, favor before God, beauty of character.

AND PEACE — As our intimate knowledge of the divine plan and character increases, so must also our grace increase; for those who do not attempt to come into harmony step by step with that which they see of the divine character, will soon lose interest in such knowledge, while those who have the interest which leads to further and further study must of necessity be growing in grace continually. And as they grow in grace, so also will they grow in peace, for peace also is progressive. We had peace when first we found the Lord, and realized the forgiveness of our sins; but those who have made progress in the knowledge of the divine plan and character have found their peace to be an ever increasing one; and those who have advanced some distance in the good way can speak of it in the language of the Apostles and realize in it their hearts as being the "peace of God which passeth all understanding." (Phil. 4:7)

BE MULTIPLIED — There is here clearly suggested that to become believers in Christ even justified and consecrated is not enough. There is to be a progress in the life just begun to continue so long as we are in this Tabernacle, and if faithful be completed in the first resurrection. The thought is not year by year revivals, with year by year backslidings, but rather a progression in the new life. The prevalent idea among many who name the name of Christ might be termed, alternate subtractions and additions of grace and peace. They first get a blessing and then lose it, then find it again to lose it again, etc. The reason is that the majority of Christians lack a knowledge of those things necessary to preserve to them the grace and peace found through their primary faith in Christ, in Jesus as their Redeemer, and much more lack a sufficiency of knowledge to multiply these. The vast majority are in the condition of 1 Cor. 3:1; Heb. 5:12-14—after they become babes comparatively little is done to develop them in the knowledge of God, that they may grow up to the full stature of manhood in Christ. Being continually fed on milk and not used to strong meat they would be more likely to be choked by it than strengthened when they attempt to use it. (God will do the multiplying if we do the adding below). (Z.'97-114; R.2137) Peter longed to have them grow and develop, they were his joy, and his heart was full of love and care for them. So we should try to note growth in each other and encourage each other, and take delight in building each other up, overlooking and helping them to overcome the weaknesses of the flesh.

UNTO YOU THROUGH THE KNOWLEDGE — See note on John 17:3.

1:2, 3 — This thought is well illustrated by modern photography. In photography there is necessary first of all a sensitized plate, upon which the picture is to be reflected. Not any or every plate will serve such a purpose, but only one which has been specially prepared (preparation of our hearts through repentance and justifying faith toward God through Christ Jesus our Lord.) This first step is necessary before we can receive upon our hearts the impress of the divine character, its glory and virtue or strength. The second step is to bring the sensitized plate into good range with the features which are to be impictured upon it. This represents the proper attitude of heart—full consecration to the Lord, and a desire to have his will be our will and to have his character represented in our lives. Third step is the removal of the obscurity, all darkness, allowing the light to shine fully in upon the features to be copied. This finds its counterpart in the knowledge of God which as the light of truth scatters the darkness of error and sin and gives us clearer views of the divine character, and thus permits it to impress our prepared hearts and to stamp thereon his glorious character likeness. Fourth, the sensitized plate must then be subjected to acids to the clearer development of the likeness. This also finds its correspondence; for our hearts, after we have gotten a clear view of the Lord and been freely impressed with the glories of his character, require nevertheless the fiery trials of life, which like the acid only tend to develop the likeness more perfectly. Fifth, it is well known fact that although photographs may be taken without the use of the precious metals, gold and silver, yet only when these are used will the photograph retain its color without fading. Gold represents divine nature and silver represents truth. Only in proportion as the likeness of our Lord is fixed in our hearts upon the basis of the truth and the divine nature can a lasting likeness be hoped for. (Rom. 8:29)

Satan is particularly interested in hindering any from obtaining the light upon the Lord's character and plan necessary to impicture it upon their hearts. (2 Cor. 4:4) "The darkness hateth the light neither cometh to the light." But all who receive and rejoice in and obey the light are, "children of the light," and after the image of the Lord has been impressed upon their hearts, such become light bearers to others and so shine upon all with whom they come in contact, reflecting the light which is shining upon them from the divine source unseen and unappreciated by the world.

Only those following in the pathway which the Apostle marks out, only those who multiply their grace and peace through an ever increasing, intimate knowledge of God and Jesus,—those who are seeing more and more clearly the divine character and plan, and whose hearts are in a susceptible and impressionable attitude, and upon which is being fixed more and more distinctly the image of God's dear Son, who is the express image of the Father (Rom. 8:29)—before these, shining out as helps by the way, in letters of light, are the exceeding great and precious promises of God's word, which to other hearts are not illuminated, but dark and almost meaningless. (Z. '97-115, 116; R.2137)

1:3 — THROUGH THE KNOWLEDGE OF HIM — Through this knowledge of God, is imparted to us as by divine power "all things that pertain to life and Godliness." The influence of this knowledge and fellowship with God reacts upon our own hearts and has a cleansing and sanctifying effect. Thus the apostle prays for some that they might grow in knowledge so as to be able to comprehend with all saints what is the length and breadth, the height and depth of the love of Christ which passeth (human) understanding. (Eph. 3:14-19) Those beholding the divine character, even though but dimly, as through a glass, are thereby "changed from glory to glory as by the Spirit of the Lord." (2 Cor. 3:18) (Z. '97-115; R.2137) (John 17:3 and note)

THAT HATH CALLED US TO GLORY AND VIRTUE — Through this knowledge and the influence of these precious promises, it is God's will that we who by nature were children of wrath even as others, "might become partakers of the divine nature!" O! what a rich promise is here! How exceedingly great and precious. Who could have thought of such a thing? Our highest thought might have been perfection of human nature, the earthly image of God, or perhaps as some have sung we might want to be angels and with the angels stand. But in the riches of his grace God has far outdone the highest flight of human fancy and has promised that the overcoming church, the little flock, to whom it is his good pleasure to give the kingdom; the bride, the Lamb's wife, shall be exalted to share the divine glory and nature of her Lord, as well as to share his heavenly kingdom. Such knowledge is too wonderful for us. We cannot comprehend why our great creator should exalt to his own nature such poor helpless creatures of the dust as we by nature are. But this and all other gracious promises exhibit to us more and more the heights and depths, the lengths and breadths, of the love of our God which surpasses human knowledge. (Z. '97-117; R.2138)

TO GLORY — Glory of divine nature and work of Millennial Age and honor, and a glorious character.

VIRTUE — Firmness, strength of character. I once thought that we would finally not sin or disobey because there would be no more temptation to sin or anything to gain (seemingly) by disobedience, the devil and all evil being destroyed. But the Bible shows differently. God does not want characters that will not sin or disobey merely because there is no temptation to do so; but he wants characters that are so strong and so firmly and everlastingly established for righteousness that they would not sin or disobey no matter how great a temptation or inducement was offered, no matter if all the immediate advantage seemed to be on the side of disobedience, when surrounded by sin and evil on every hand; which would rather die than disobey, because they love God so much. If there should be left in the universe characters which would not sin merely because there was no temptation to sin, then if sin or pride should ever come into the universe again in anyway such would be liable to be led astray by the evil, and so evil might again reign in the universe somewhere. But when the characters are firmly and fixedly established forever for righteousness it will be an absolute impossibility for sin or evil ever again to gain an entrance into the universe.

1:8 — NEITHER BE BARREN NOR UNFRUITFUL — Will not permit you to be inactive or unfruitful. (Diag.)

1:10 — YE SHALL NEVER FALL — This call is evidently from the position to which we have been invited and to which invitation we respond. Faithful is he that hath called us. If there be a fall in our case it will be due to a failure to do our part. If we fail to cultivate character we shall fail to gain the kingdom. Among those who fall (Psa. 91:7) some will fall more seriously than others. Those who fail to go on will receive certain tests which will determine whether they will turn back to the world or continue in the narrow way. Some will fail in that they will not manifest sufficient zeal. These will come up through great tribulations (Great Company). Again from lack of zeal in the Lord's service or from cultivating a spirit of bitterness, one may deteriorate until he becomes an enemy of the Lord, loving sin rather than righteousness. Those who fall utterly can never be recovered. Such will lose everything. They sacrificed their human hopes before they could be accepted at first, therefore their falling away from this condition of a New Creature will be a hopeless fall. The fall of such will be far worse than the fall of Adam, whose fall resulted from having only limited knowledge and from lack of experience in the results of evil, for these have come to a clear knowledge of the truth and experienced a share in the redemption. (Z.'14-150; R.5459)

1:15 — THINGS ALWAYS IN REMEMBRANCE — This shows Peter did not expect the second Advent before his death. (F225) See 1 Cor. 7:29; 2 Thes. 2:2, 3.

1:16 — COMING — “Parousia”—presence, appearance.

OF OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST — The glory of Jesus in his kingdom.

BUT WERE EYEWITNESSES OF HIS MAJESTY — The transfiguration scene, proving that it was a vision of the kingdom.

1:19 — A MORE SURE — Even this vision, helpful as it was at the time, became secondary as he came to a better understanding of the prophecy which more particularly describes our Lord’s second coming and kingdom. (Z.'10-232; R.4649)

THE DAY STAR ARISE IN YOUR HEARTS — The sunburst of the new world will be preceded by the morning star, which will shine into the hearts of God’s faithful people in the early dawn to herald its approach. The sun of righteousness is not yet risen but many of God’s people are noting the clear light now shining upon the divine word, and are realizing that it comes from Him and that he is preparing them through a better understanding of the Bible to appreciate the glorious sunlight of divine mercy which will soon overspread the world and scatter the darkness of earth’s superstition, sin and death. (N-11-26-11)

1:21 — GOD SPAKE — the whole divine testimony must be in harmony, whether it be communicated by the Law, the prophets, the Lord or the apostles. Their entire harmony is the proof of their inspiration. (F233)

2:4 — SPARED NOT THE ANGELS THAT SINNED — See Gen. 6:1-4)

BUT CAST THEM DOWN TO HELL — “Tartaros” from verb tartarou from tartaros = the atmosphere of earth. Used only once in New Testament. Not the second death or a place of torture.

AND DELIVERED THEM INTO CHAINS OF DARKNESS — They have some liberties in this imprisoned condition, yet they are chained or restrained in one respect; they are not permitted to exercise their powers in the light, being under chains of darkness. Nor could they materialize.

TO BE RESERVED UNTO JUDGMENT — The future trial and testing and final decision of their case. (See Jude 6)

2:10 — BUT CHIEFLY THEM — These all at one time had places among the elect in the church. None of them are of the world which is not now under trial or judgment, but will be in the next age.

2:15 — WHICH HAVE FORSAKEN THE RIGHT WAY — Forsaken the narrow way of self-sacrifice, sabbath keeping. Forsake the footsteps of Jesus Christ, have not been submissive but rebellious, and take themselves out of the Lord's hands, not willing to endure the chastening, not keep under the "ego," not deny self. (Matt. 16:24)

BUT ARE GONE ASTRAY — Out of the Lord's way "every one to his own way," his heart desire.

THE WAGES OF UNRIGHTEOUSNESS — Preached for reward, see Jude 11.

2:20 — THE LATTER END IS WORSE WITH THEM THAN THE BEGINNING — The case of such is hopeless if the step was taken with full intention and deliberation, if the return to a murderous condition of heart be with full intention of heart, with its full consent. But up to a certain point, before they are thoroughly entangled, there is hope of recovery and hence he urges all of the faithful to assist these saying as in Jas. 5:20.
(N-12-5-09)

2:22 — TURNED TO HIS OWN VOMIT AGAIN — The same two classes are here mentioned as in Heb. 6 and Heb. 10. This dog returned to vomit (to things once rejected, thrown up) representing those who return to old doctrinal errors which they once rejected and ceased to believe. Heb. 6.

WASHED TO HER WALLOW IN THE MIRE — Those who after once being washed and cleansed in Jesus' blood, sin wilfully and turn again to wallow in the mire of immorality, sin.

3:4 — COMING — "Parousias" = presence.

3:5 — EARTH — "Ge" = land.

HEAVENS — "Ouranoi" = skies.

3:6 — WORLD — "Kosmos" = arrangement, ornamentation, note vs. 7.

3:7 — HEAVENS — "Ouranoi" = skies.

EARTH — “Ge” = land.

Four different Greek words have our translators rendered world — (1) ge = earth proper, the ground, this material orb which we inhabit. (2) kosmos = ornamentation, beauty, existing order of things, but not the substance of the earth as a terraqueous globe. (3) oikouene = the habitable, inhabited earth. (4) aion, = which is used more than 100 times in the New Testament but always with reference to time, duration, eras, dispensations—a stage or state marking any particular period, long or short, present, past or future—the course of things in any given instance, rather than the earth—on which it is realized. It may be earth or heaven, time or eternity—it is all the same as to the meaning of the word “aion,” which simply denoted the time measure and the characteristics of that particular period or state to which it is applied. This is the word used in all those passages which speak of the “end of the world.” It is not the end of the earth, but the end of a particular time, age, or order of things, with the underlying thought of other orders of things, and perpetual continuity in other ages. “aions.” end, times change—but there is no instance in all the word of God which assigns and absolute termination to the existence of the earth, as one of the planets, or any other of the great sisterhood of material orbs. It will not be another earth, but the same earth under other conditions. Rev. Jos. A. Seiss, D.D. (Z. '06-262; R.3840)

AND PERDITION OF UNGODLY MEN — See note Rev. 21:5.

3:9 — PERISH — Calvinists say that God was willing that 95% of men should perish, and hence contrary to God’s statement here.

3:10 — HEAVENS — “Ouranoi” = skies.

ELEMENTS — Labor, capitalistic, political, religious, social, shall melt with the fervency of the heat and passion and discord of that time.
(Z. '07-40; R.3935) “Stoicheion” = elements, rudiments.

EARTH — “Ge,” present social structure, financial, political, social.

3:12 — HEAVENS — “Ouranoi” = skies.

ELEMENTS — See note verse 10 on elements.

EARTH — “Ge” = present social structure, financial, political, social.

I JOHN

1:1 — THAT — These things—concerning the word of life.

WHICH WAS FROM THE BEGINNING — The beginning of the Gospel Age.

WHICH WE HAVE HEARD — The apostles all heard Jesus' voice actually, for they were to be witnesses. (Acts 22:14, 15; 1 Cor. 15:16)

SEEN — The Apostles were eyewitnesses of these things. (2 Peter 1:16; Luke 24:48; John 1:14; 14:9)

LOOKED UPON — Studied completely, examined.

OUR HANDS HAVE HANDLED — The closest personal contact.

OF THE WORD OF LIFE — Jesus, the Father's mouthpiece. (John 14:6; Isa. 9:6; Matt. 17:5) The personal contact with Jesus was a strong influence for the character building of the Apostles. At the Tabernacle the uplifting and blessing by contact with such a personality is great, it is a great privilege to be there. How much greater must have been the personal influence of Jesus! So deeply impressed upon John was the character of Christ, he who spake as never man spake, without sin, hated without a cause, his touch strengthened the character of the Apostles. (See tradition.) So the Holy Spirit given to us, his followers, opened the eyes and ears of our understanding, and Jesus' touch of love impresses his character upon us, so we reflect it.

1:2 — FOR THE LIFE — This verse is parenthetical. "In him was life, the light of men," Jesus was manifested as the way, the truth, and the life. His perfect life, was to be our ransom and through him we have life; was manifested before men. It was made manifest by his perfect obedience that he was to be the life (or only way to obtain life), the new life for the race. (1 John 5:11; Col. 3:4; John 11:25)

THAT ETERNAL LIFE — Show you how Jesus was of the Father unto us, and John was speaking from accurate knowledge, not from guesswork.

WHICH WAS WITH THE FATHER — With Him for a time alone, Jesus' pre-existence with the Father, and hence knew the Father as none others knew him.

AND WAS MANIFESTED UNTO US — During the 3-1/2 years of his ministry. Manifested by word, teaching and action, manifested in his perfect obedience unto death. Nothing is greater than life, it is the gift of God. Prisoners desire their liberty most of anything so we (the dead) hope for life in Jesus. That life enlightens man as to how he may obtain life. (John 4:9; 1:4)

1:3 — WHICH WE HAVE SEEN AND HEARD DECLARE WE UNTO YOU — Explain, preach, proclaim. There are various ways of proclaiming the truth: 1) Of vanity (Phil. 1:15-17; Mark 9:35) and envy and covetousness, because such want to be counted as very wise and great and as having five talents. Such pollute and defile the truth, for their hearts are unholy. We should think of ourselves least of all. If we take honor it will be to our own loss and the loss of others. The Gospel should be given meekly. 2) Of strife, for arguments sake. (Eph. 6:15; Isa. 52:7; 1 Peter 3:15; 2 Tim. 2:24-26; 1 Cor. 3:3, 4) This class use the Bible as a club, a sledge hammer, as a thing to contend over and combativeness is very highly developed in these. They sting their adversaries by blows. The Gospel should be preached of peace; we must have our feet shod with the preparation of the Gospel (good tidings) of peace. This strife class add to the offensiveness of the natural man their own offensiveness and invite persecution. We should speak as the messengers of the prince of peace, and in such as do so this strife class makes the heart ache. These messengers now are “the feet of him.” “Thy watchman shall sing together” (in harmony, and peace of spirit, in a meek, humble, quiet way). So we should preach. 3) Of vainglory. The idea meant in the Gospel is to show him forth, and the Bible gives us a mental picture of God so we may understand his attributes and plan. It is given to cause Him to be loved and admired and appreciated, and that is the effect from whatever standpoint of his plan we behold him. (Jer. 9:23, 24; 1 Cor. 1:29, 31; 2 Cor. 10:17, 18; Isa. 42:8) It is a horrible sin to say—Look at me; how brilliant I am and how well I explain! Such are hungry for compliments, they feed on them, and if these are restrained they go out of service. Don't praise God's messengers. Whoever takes the glory to themselves is simply putting themselves in front of God. It is idolatry of the worst order, and he who does it is the worst of sinners. Such will be scourged out of the truth by the Father. Let us examine our heart and root out this spirit. He is a little, impudent, impostor, who tries to throw his shadow over God.

THAT YE ALSO MAY HAVE FELLOWSHIP WITH US — Not for strife, envy or vainglory, but in order “that ye may have fellowship with us.” Not to outshine others, but to bless others; from a heart energized by love and growing stronger in it. We preach to uplift and bless others. Such hearts are constantly being ennobled and strengthened, and grow great, while the other class grows worse. We preach, declare these things, because we love others and want to help them. If love guide us we will use wisdom in our talk, avoid stumbling others. Such try to win the winable, and to present the Gospel so as to encounter the least resistance, lose sight of ourselves, develop tact. We will have to endure with the world for 1000 years and will need all the possible patience and gentleness and tact to lift up the race little by little. The word stirs up love. These earnest hearers are our brothers, to be future kings and priests unto God. This is our motive, our charge—that they might have fellowship, partnership with us. Not everybody wants everybody else in partnership. As a rule, the natural man hides the truth from others, but God's spirit wants all the partners possible. The natural man's tendency is shown in the finding of gold-mines—the finder keeps the secret to himself, tells very few or none, and is never seen going there, gets what he wants and goes away. The spiritual man rejoices to have as many partners as possible, as many as God has arranged for.

AND WITH HIS SON JESUS CHRIST — This is a business partnership; the firm "Jehovah and Son," and Jehovah offers his sons partnership with him in: 1) Spirit begettal, wisdom, knowledge, understanding, counsel and might. 2) In his thoughts. He wants his partners to have the same spirit as himself. The senior partner tells his plans to the junior; so God tells Jesus and through him tells us of his thoughts. He does not tell them to everyone, but he takes some aside. So God tells not everyone, but he takes some aside, only those in partnership with him; he does not trust everybody with his confidence. 3) In the work. To proclaim the coming kingdom, and the presence of the King. We are given opportunities in proportion to what we invest, to carry on the work. 4) Advice in time of need. His care, his watchfulness is over everything. Do things go wrong and our work seems a failure? Let us seek his counsel. (1 Pet. 5:7; Psa. 73:24; Jas. 1:5) There is more later on in this partnership:- a) Jehovah's nature, to share with Christ. b) In his home and c) in greater creative work. The firm is organized to develop the universe. U.S. Steel has boasted to develop the earth, but this the universe, and it will be successful. d) In Jesus throne and rule over the world. But there are certain conditions, only those who have certain qualities are favored:- an exceeding desire to know God's ways and plans, and are honest and appreciative. These are offered the partnership, but only as they invest all they have. Each partner has his all in this firm. If they hold back anything they cannot share anything; if they divert anything they are cut off from their portion. He deals with us as his wisdom directs. If we take back anything we violate the conditions of the partnership and are cut off. These are given great dividends even now and here, one hundred fold even one thousand percent and there is no waiting till the end of the year, we get it daily, constantly. Surely this is a rich profit, and there is no possibility of wreck. Our president too well understands all, and he controls the market and all goes into his coffers—We share with Christ in his thoughts, spirit works, suffering, nature, honor, office, triumph.

1:4 — THAT YOUR JOY MAY BE FULL — Our hearts long for the end of our testing. Now we are in toil, in the work of the partnership. It is not yet on a secure footing, not yet proved a success. Now there is sorrow, suffering, perplexity, self-denial. Sometimes we forget the blessings of our partnership, when we are sad and almost crushed. Let us at such times comfort one another, and think of our partnership, and declare these things to each other and receive a blessing. It will work our fill of joy now as much as we are capable of; later on fullness of joy in success and full realization of our hopes, with sorrows past. Tell them about the partnership if their feet lag and trip and they are sorrowful; tell it with gladness of heart, then their joy will be full. Let us tell it to our own hearts in our secret battles with the flesh, world, Satan; count over all our precious things.

1:5 — AND IN HIM IS NO DARKNESS AT ALL — God is perfect along every line. This passage is a Bible in itself, its unfolding is the unfolding of this statement. Perfect in his attributes. He has given us his revelation and if he were different his revelation would be different. He and his revelation are in perfect harmony. The Bible is the message of what God is; his picture, image, model is cast in his plan of salvation. We can test all doctrines by this text. If they blend God's attributes perfectly they are truth, if not they are untruth, error. The Bible contains a revelation in harmony with itself, and blends every passage. The doctrine of the ransom is the philosopher's stone, to show the truth or error of every doctrine. There are four axioms: 1) Plan in harmony with itself; 2) God's character harmonious; 3) Ransom; 4) Papacy. The last is a negative one, papacy is darkness; it contains a complete counterfeit of the truth. Papacy being the antichrist, its doctrines are counterfeit. But the true church ought to teach doctrines like it, as a true coin is like a counterfeit. None but the truth and papacy teach that the church has any part in the sin-offering, atonement. Therefore it must be true. God is no darkness at all, no imperfection, but the full blaze of clear light. His is a transparent character. (Phil. 1:9, 10)

1:8 — AND THE TRUTH IS NOT IN US — Applies to fleshly body.
(Z. '14-117; R.5439)

1:9 — AND TO CLEANSE US FROM ALL UNRIGHTEOUSNESS — We should not presume upon the mercy of God, by becoming measurably careless as to our words and thoughts and deeds. If the Lord sees any of this spirit he will not readily forgive us and restore us to favor. He will withhold the assurance of his forgiveness; and we may come to him again and again before we realize the sense of his forgiveness, and of his love and blessing. This will make us more careful not to be thus derelict another time.
(Z. '16-212; R.5923)

2:1 — THAT YE SIN NOT — The thoughts of the wonderful fellowship given in the previous chapter would lead all the true hearted away from sin and evil. "He that hath this hope in him purifieth himself even as he (Jehovah) is pure."

AND IF ANY MAN — Any man in the church.

SIN — Through weakness or force of habit.

WE HAVE AN ADVOCATE — As sinners we had no relationship to God. When we believed and turned from sin we had no relationship to God. When we believed and turned from sin we had a justification by faith tentatively imputed to us, permitting us to draw nigh to God and hear his message through Christ—speaking peace to us and informing us of the high calling and assuring us that now is the acceptable time, that during this Gospel age he is willing to accept us as living sacrifices through the merit of Jesus and to beget us of the holy spirit to the divine nature. The moment we accepted those terms our Redeemer became our advocate and immediately the entire contract was closed and we were begotten of the holy Spirit. We were no longer in the flesh, but in the Spirit. No longer in the Court but in the Holy. He is not the advocate of the old nature, for that is dead, but of the New Creature. But the New Creature cannot claim that the merit of Jesus has cancelled these imperfections of the flesh in advance (given us an indulgence). He can merely claim in the Apostles words "The forgiveness of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God." (Rom. 3:25) (See Heb. 4:16.) What then must he do with respect to these daily deflections—trespasses of omission or commission due to the imperfections of his flesh? "If any man sin—we have an advocate" with the Father—Jesus Christ the righteousness. So we should approach the throne of grace in full assurance of faith. If as new creatures our Lord and advocate sees that we are cultivating his spirit of mercy towards others, he will at once advocate our plea and secure for us divine cancellation of our sins, errors of our flesh to which we as new creatures were not a party and did not consent. (Z.'10-104, 105; R.4585) Jesus has appeared for us, not yet for the world. It would not have been proper to advocate the cause of aliens, strangers and foreigners. But he could and did appear for us who have fled away from sin, and desire full harmony with the Father and who delight to know and do his will. Through his sacrifice we who long for righteousness and delight to do his will are brought into accord with him. The Father's acceptance of the sacrifice was shown by the sending of the holy spirit at Pentecost. (Z.'07-11; R.3917)

The word makes a great distinction between the Church and the world. He is our Advocate now, and by and by he will be the world's mediator. (1 Tim. 2:5, 6)

2:15 — LOVE NOT THE WORLD — See note James 4:4. The proper love for the world, as the Father loves, is grand and ennobling love, which, without having the least fellowship with the impure, pities the fallen race and longs for the time when they may be received from their fallen condition.

(Z. '11-56; R.4766)

2:16 — AND THE PRIDE OF LIFE — These are the three channels of the church's temptation, as also of Jesus', and of Eve's. As now extant human taste along these lines is depraved and must not be yielded to, for it is of the world, the adversary. Man's right cravings can be satisfied along these lines only as shown in Psa. 19:10, 11. See Gen. 3:6; Matt. 4.

2:19 — THAT THEY WERE NOT ALL OF US — Former majority never were true Christians, or had ceased to be such.

2:20 — UNCTION — "Chrisma" = smearing, smoothness, oiliness, lubrication. From custom the word carried with it the thought of fragrance, perfume. This beautifully represents the effect of God's influence toward goodness, gentleness, patience, brotherly kindness—love! What a sweet, pure perfume does this anointing of the holy spirit of love bring with all who receive it. However ungainly or coarse or rude or ignorant the outer man, "the earthen vessel" how speedily it partakes of the sweetening and purifying influence of the treasure of the new heart—the new will within. (E282) An influence from God, an invisible power of God exercised through his precepts, his promises, or otherwise as may seem good to the Omnipotent one. (E282)

THE HOLY ONE — The Father, not the holy spirit.

AND YE KNOW ALL THINGS — Siniatic and Vat. (#1209) "Ye all know." Vat. omits "all things." (Tisch.) "Ye all know it." (Diag.) All the true children of God know very well the difference between the natural mind or heart or will, and the new mind, controlled by love and righteousness. This anointing was typified by the Holy Anointing oil poured on the High Priest. So whoever is of the Body of Christ, and wherever the spirit of the Lord is, it is unctuous, smooth, lubricative. Its tendency is to follow peace with all men, as far as fidelity to righteousness will permit. It is opposed to friction, anger, malice, hatred, strife. Those under its influence are glad to be taught of the Lord, and so far from quarrelling with his plan and revelation, they readily fall into harmony with them and have correspondingly the lubrications—the unction, smoothness, peace, joy, holiness of mind. (E261)

How we know our begetting?

(1) If we are justified and consecrated and suffering for His sake.

- (2) "He that is begotten of God sinneth not." We will not sin willingly, rather would we die than sin so.
- (3) Separation from the world and unto Him. The world hateth us.
- (4) We count it a privilege to testify for the Lord, a delight.
- (5) We are overcoming the world by faith.
- (6) We learn of things to come, we understand the mystery of the church and the presence of Christ.
- (7) Love for the brethren to the extent of laying down our lives for them.

ANOINTING AND BEGETTING — No one can be a member of the New Creation before being anointed of the Holy Spirit or begotten of the Holy Spirit. The purport of the Scriptures is that a double work is necessary, one applying to the New Creature and the other to the flesh. That which is sacrificed is not the New Creature, and that which is anointed is not the old creature. It is the New Creature that is anointed and the old creature that is sacrificed.

The anointing and begetting of the Holy Spirit are practically the same thing and quickly follow justification. It is as just men that we are baptized into death, and it is as members of the New Creation that we are constituted members of the ecclesia, the body of Christ. It is the Father's acceptance of us that is the basis of our begetting of the Holy Spirit, our anointing. While the two terms begetting and anointing are used to represent what is to us practically the same thing, they are two different figures. The begetting thought is one that pertains to the New Life (state of), the state of the new nature. The anointing thought pertains to the office. God is calling out a people to become joint heirs with Christ in the Kingdom. The anointing is the divine recognition of them as Kings and Priests. So far as we are concerned the matter is represented by both expressions. Our coming into the body is our coming under the anointing. One is a member of the anointed the instant he is begotten. In thinking of the begetting and the anointing we are merely viewing the matter from two different angles. We of today were not anointed, 1800 years ago although the anointing came then upon the church. The anointed office may be forfeited without the Spirit begotten life being forfeited, as in the case of the Great Company. But the instant we are individually inducted into that body, that instant we come under the anointing. "The anointing which you have received of Him abideth in you." Our share of it is just as much a personal matter as was the begetting. Let us repeat the statement, Our begetting is individual—our baptism or anointing is collective. But the one is as personal as the other. The anointing that came upon the church at Pentecost and that ran down upon all Jewish members subsequently, was the same anointing that Jesus received at Jordan, the same anointing that was later poured out upon the Gentiles (Cornelius and his friends). It is the same anointing that has come down to us throughout the age upon all the members of the body; all the one anointing. But while it is the same anointing or baptism, yet Cornelius had no share in the anointing or baptism at Pentecost, nor had the disciples any share in the anointing at Jordan, for it did not become a personal matter for any member until he was individually begotten, and thus inducted into the body. To our understanding the one thought appertains to both of these different features, as illustrating different parts of the process. The grand outcome, the fixity of the matter is in the future. All those who come to the Lord come through consecration and are for the time being counted in as members of the anointed class. And the anointing will abide with them as long as they continue in this condition of obedience.

The expression—begetting of the Spirit—then is used in the Scriptures to describe that personal experiences by which God accepts the individual as a new creature and starts the new nature. This new nature subsequently prospers, develops, and if faithful will be born of the Spirit. The terms begetting and birth are used to represent (symbolically) the beginning and the completion of the new creature.

The baptism or anointing of the Holy Spirit of course relates to the same Holy Spirit, and in some measure to the same experiences as the begetting, but from a different angle. The baptism of the Holy Spirit (or anointing) is not a thing that comes to us individually, but collectively. The baptism of the Holy Spirit came upon the church at Pentecost and was not repeated day by day, nor ever, except in the case of Cornelius, the first Gentile convert and his “kinsmen and near friends,” whom he had called together in his house to hear the words of the Apostle Peter. At that time a similar baptism to that at Pentecost was granted—“The Holy Spirit fell on all them which heard the word.” (Acts 10:24-44) indicating that the Gentiles also were to have an opportunity to become members of the Anointed one. (Z. '14-37,38; R.5393)

2:22 — THAT DENIETH THE FATHER AND THE SON — Though it might have been possible, before the Son was manifested, to believe on the Father, without believing on the Son, yet now—whosoever denies the Son denies the Father, and no one can confess the Son of God without at the same time confessing the Father and the Father’s plan, of which he is the center and executor. (F266) Whatever contradicts this spirit of love is an unholy Spirit, a false teaching.

2:23 — WHOSOEVER DENIETH THE SON — By declaring that the prophecies of a Messiah were figurative and never to be fulfilled through mankind. John declares this to be a complete denial of the Gospel statements that the Son of God became flesh, was anointed at his baptism by the holy spirit as Messiah and that he redeemed us.

2:26 — YOU CONCERNING THEM THAT SEDUCE YOU — Many things in Christianity commended it to the Greek philosophers of that time, who sought to combine with it and become Christian philosophers, or Philosophic Christians—still holding their philosophies, “falsely so called.” They were quite willing to acknowledge Jesus as a good man and a wise teacher, but not as the Son of God, who left the Spirit nature, “a form of God,” and became flesh, to thereby become man’s redeemer and the author of eternal life to all who obey him. They were however teaching a future life and were glad to find Christians teaching same; the difference being—the philosophy taught eternal life was not inherent in man, but a gift of God through Christ, intended only for those who accept him. (Rom. 2:7; 5:15, 21; 6:23; 1 Cor. 9:15) (E285) They practically said to the Christians—We are glad to meet so respectable and sensible and free a people. Your great teacher Jesus surely did make you free many of the customs and superstitions of the Jews accordingly, and we congratulate you accordingly. But you are still in a measure of bondage; when you have investigated our philosophies you will have still more liberty and will find that much you still hold in common with the Jews—their hopes of a Messianic kingdom, their peculiar ideas of one God, and your peculiar ideas that your teacher, Jesus, was his only son, etc.—these things you will soon outgrow, with the aid of our philosophy. (2 Pet. 2:19; Jude 6) (E285)

2:27 — YE NEED NOT THAT ANY MAN TEACH YOU — This text has brought discouragement to many humble souls by reason of their honesty of thought, and they would feel greatly cast down, did they not see that the very best of their acquaintance among the saints has needed teachers, because such realize their need of teaching and that they know very little which has not come directly or indirectly through human agents. But some of the less honest, less candid, less saintly, endeavor to deceive themselves and others by claiming that they have learned nothing of men, but have been taught all they know by direct inspiration of the holy spirit. They do not see that they are thus claiming infallibility for their thoughts and words in the most absolute sense. Also that their errors of thought, word and deed, claimed to be under full inspiration of the holy spirit, reflect against God’s holy Spirit, as the author of their errors and follies. (E283) Any who have become Christians at all, and understood the divine plan to any extent, must have before them first the fact that all were sinners, in need of a redeemer, and secondly the fact that Jesus, the Anointed One, had redeemed them by the sacrifice of his own life, and they have no need that any man teach them this basic truth. The opposers would not be Christians at all and yet be ignorant of this fundamental truth. (F260) Whoever has the anointing needs not that any man shall waste time in discussing further the fundamental question as to whether Jesus was or was not the Son of God, and our

Redeemer, and the anointed Messiah. The same anointing we have received, if it abides in us will assure us of all these things, their truth. (F261)

AND EVEN AS IT HATH TAUGHT YOU, YE SHALL — That ye must (abide in him) if we would attain our reward.

3:2 — IT DOTH NOT YET APPEAR WHAT WE SHALL BE — It is impossible to describe heaven and its charms and beauties. The Bible makes no attempt to describe heaven itself, nor its inhabitants, but merely tells us they are spiritual or uses symbols that we can understand like, Ezek. 1 and 10, John 3:8; Rev. 1. (Z. '10-281; R.4675)

3:6-9 — The New Will: The human mind with its various qualities is very much like a legislative body. The vote or decision of that body is its will. Once, when we knew no better the vote was for sin, but when light came in we voted out the mind of the flesh and voted in the mind of Christ and agreed with ourselves, individually that we would be New Creatures, dominated by the new mind. When we turn again to the “beggarly elements” of the world, the old will is being revived. What revives it? Minding the things of the flesh, we do this when we permit the fleshly desires which we have given up and gotten free from, to have again the controlling influence in our minds. When we mind the things of the flesh we are killing the new will and reviving the old will. Our new creature has now merely the fleshly body in which to exercise itself. This body is not at first fully under the control of the new will, it is the duty of the new will to rule the body and bring it completely into subjection, even unto death. After gaining this victory, the New Creature receives the new body God intended for it. By its opposition to sin the new creature demonstrated its loyalty to God, its harmony with righteousness. God judges the new creature, not according to the flesh but according to the will. If the flesh should gain the victory over the new will and there should be a fall, it would not mean that the new will had ceased, but that it had not been on the alert. (See Prov. 25:28)

Since the new mind, the new will, has its residence in the old body and since this body, the new creature's only instrument of operation has still its old tendencies toward sin, its weaknesses, its depravities, therefore there is a continual struggle between the new creature, and the old. It is a daily warfare and either the one or the other must perish. If the new creature be not on the alert, thoroughly active, thoroughly loyal to God, the weaknesses of the flesh will gradually assert themselves and the new creature be in danger of death. If the new creature remain loyal to God the old creature will perish. It is a fight to the finish. This conflict is a test of the new creature, not of the old. The new creature has been called to glory, honor, and immortality. In order to attain this state it must prove unquestionably its loyalty to God. In ratio as the new mind controls and we love right, and hate iniquity, in the same ratio shall we have strength in battling with the forces outside, present conditions, and the greater success in battling with our own flesh. In this warfare there may be sometimes more and sometimes less success. But not till the victory is won will the Lord grant the reward. (Z. '14-118; R.5440)

There may come a time when the new will temporarily becomes drowsy, dormant. This is a cause for serious concern, for then the new creature is in grave danger. There must be a determined will for God, a positive decision which will keenly regret any temporary deflection, otherwise there is no new creature. As the battling goes on between the new will and the old body, the new creature becomes stronger and stronger, if it is properly awake to the situation. Yet God may permit the flesh to have more and more severe temptations. He allows the world and the Adversary to bring pressure to bear upon the flesh so that he may test, prove, the loyalty of the new creature. It was because our Lord was found faithful unto death, even the death of the cross, that he was counted worthy of the divine nature. So it is to be with His footstep followers. The Father knows just how much we can stand and will never suffer us to be tempted beyond what we are able to bear, but with every temptation will provide a way of escape. (1 Cor. 10:13) (Z. '14-118; R.5440)

In the case of those not overcoming fully, they yield more or less to the besetments of the Adversary and strive to avoid being too peculiar, to avoid giving any offense to their friends; thus they become more or less overcharged with cares and the deceit of riches. (Z. '14-118; R.5440)

Who commits the sin unto death? That which is begotten of God. The new mind, the new will, and the person having that new will desiring to be in harmony with God, he cannot sin with willfulness and desire, cannot sin the sin unto death as long as he has the mind, the will of God. He cannot be in harmony with sin. The new mind cannot consent to sin. If there be a consent to sin it is an evidence that the old mind has taken control. The new creature came into control of our mortal bodies by a vote of the faculties of the mind. Then if the will should again change, and advocate as before, the things of the flesh, the New Creature is changed again into the old creature. It is not the new creature which is wallowing in sin, however. The will has committed the sin unto death. The new creature is dead. (Z. '14-136; R.5451)

We have reason to believe that on account of our inherited weaknesses and unholy environment, nearly all sins committed by God's people may be classed as mixed sins—only partly wilful. (Z. '15-153; R.5690)

3:6 — WHOSOEVER ABIDETH IN HIM SINNETH NOT — Does not practice sin, does not willingly sin.

WHOSOEVER SINNETH — Willingly, deliberately, with full consent of mind and will. If one begotten, a new creature sinned thus it would manifest a complete loss of the Spirit, and would be of the second death class. (Z. '10-165; R.4614)

NEITHER KNOWN HIM — If as new creatures we gave partial consent to the wrong course, we would be liable in that proportion to some kind of stripes or punishment. If any sin wilfully—heartily assented to sin knowingly, intentionally and without protest—it would prove that such a one was no longer a new creature, but twice dead, plucked up by the roots. (Jude 12) (Z. '10-105; R.4585)

3:8 — HE THAT COMMITTETH SIN — Practice sin. (Diag.)

3:9 — BORN — From “gennao” = “begotten” or “born,” which meaning to be used is indicated by the context. Here should be “begotten” because the new creature is at this time but an embryo; it has not a new body, it has merely a new mind, new will, new disposition, engendered by the spirit of the truth and accepted by the Father as a begetting to the spirit nature. Everything connected with this new will is sinless. It has none of the Adamic condemnation or imperfection and never had. It cannot agree to sin because it is out of harmony with sin.

The desire for sin might still lurk in the fallen flesh and would be called “the notions of sin in the flesh or struggles of the flesh.” (Rom. 7:5) The flesh is reckoned dead but is not actually so. This new creature is not the flesh, not the gray matter of the brain, it is the will which controls the brain and seeks to regulate the thoughts and intentions of the heart and so far as possible the actions of the daily life. The new will is the new creature in the most emphatic sense. If then the will has ceased to be in harmony with God, and should ever knowingly, intentionally approve of sin and connive at it, this would prove that the spirit of the Lord, the new mind, or will, is gone, the will has perished as a new will and is merely the old will revived. So the seed of truth, the seed of this power of God has died in the individual. Yet because the will is very particularly identified with the body, with the human brain, the new will might be entrapped, become thoughtless respecting its obligations and propriety of course in life and so be overtaken in a fault. (Z. '10-165; R.4615) Also see comments vss. 6-9.

OF GOD DOTH NOT COMMIT SIN — “Does not practice sin.” (Diag.)

BECAUSE HE IS BORN OF GOD — This passage applies to the New Creature itself; while 1 John 1:8-10 applies to the fleshly body. (Z. '14-117; R.5439) See note 1 John 2:1. See 1 John 1:8, 10; 5:18.

The New Creation being without sin needs no mediator to come between it and God. But it needs an advocate, even though it is in full relationship with the Father, and even though as a new creature it has no sin. (The sins cancelled at Calvary were those of the old creature only (Adamic sin). Why? Because he has the treasure of the new mind in an earthen vessel that is very imperfect through the fall. The sins of the mortal body were all cancelled through the imputation of the Advocate's merit (when he consecrated) and at that moment the old nature died and ceased its responsibility. "He that is dead hath ceased from sin." (Rom. 6:7; 1 Pet. 4:1) The new creature which at that moment was begotten and as the new mind or will took possession of the mortal body reckoned dead, is held responsible for its conduct in exactly the same manner as the owner of a dog is responsible for him. Whatever violence the dog may do, the owner is responsible, for he should have chained him up. So we as new creatures are responsible for our hands, feet, eyes, tongue, etc. in what they may do. If the tongue slander another through weakness, force of habit, etc., the New Creature is responsible and must give an account. If other wrong doings be committed there is a similar responsibility in every case.

4:1 — TRY THE SPIRIT, WHETHER THEY ARE OF GOD — Thus proving does not imply a lack of confidence in those recognized as divinely directed channels of the truth; but it does imply a faithfulness to the Lord and to the truth as superior to all human teachers and their utterances. It implies that they as true sheep are not listening for the voice of man, but for the voice of the chief shepherd—that they feast upon his words and love them. (Cant. 2:3) Such members of the body grow stronger and more rapidly in the Lord and in the power of his might than do others, because more attentive to the Lord's leading and instruction. (F274) (Heb. 5:14; Acts 17:11, 12)

4:18 — PERFECT IN LOVE — Fear here is not "reverence" but doubt, lack of faith and trust fear lest God should not keep his promise to protect and help us. (Also see appendix on Love)

4:20 — HOW CAN HE LOVE GOD WHOM HE HATH NOT SEEN — While we must hate all sin we cannot hate the sinner and yet have the love of God perfected in our hearts. We see that this means not only that we must not retaliate and revile our foes, but that we must not even wish to do so. The evil wish must be conquered and the selfish conditions which gave it birth must be utterly destroyed and replaced with love—the Spirit of Christ. (Z.'12-68; R.4978)

5:7, 8 — IN HEAVEN, THE FATHER, THE WORD . . . AND THERE ARE THREE THAT BEAR WITNESS IN EARTH — This spurious passage, first appeared in the third Edition of the Greek New Testament in 1522. The Greek New Testament was first printed in the "Complutensian

Polygott" (1514). In subsequent editions as great many changes were made, and in the third Edition this spurious interpolation appeared for the first time. (Encyc. Brit. Page 168, "Bible.") (See Diag. note)

5:16 — LIFE FOR THEM THAT SIN NOT UNTO DEATH — See notes James 5:19, 20. A brother who becomes sin sick to such an extent that he would not have access to the throne of grace himself. Because of careless of living, neglect of duties and privileges, disregard of their covenant obligations, a cloud between them and the Father comes thick and dark. They are unable to penetrate this cloud. Their prayers seem not to reach the Father. He is hiding His face from them. Theirs is an extreme case. (Z. '15-154; *R.*5692)

JUDE

3 — YE SHOULD EARNESTLY CONTEND — It is possible for one to be contentious in religious matter, and earnestly contend, and yet not be contending for the faith once delivered to the Saints. He might be contentious for some theory of his own, rather than for those principles of righteousness which the Bible inculcates. (Z. '12-215; *R.*5058)

FOR THE FAITH WHICH WAS ONCE DELIVERED UNTO THE SAINTS — Sometimes it might seem like contention for the faith, etc., for one person to argue with another on Scriptural subjects, and yet his real motive for doing so might be pride. Pride is a part of selfishness, and contending for ones own ideas one might be cultivating pride. The contention which God approves is that earnest desire to have whatever God's Word teaches. (Z. '12-215; *R.*5058)

6 — ANGELS — These fell, from being known as angels of light and Sons of God to be henceforth known as angels of darkness, demons, wicked Spirits. (*N.*5-22-10)

KEPT NOT THEIR FIRST ESTATE — The first estate or condition of all the angels was one of harmony with God as spirit beings.

BUT LEFT THEIR OWN HABITATION — Seeing sin working in humanity, they preferred sin and sensuality. Privileged to materialize and mingle with humans, they preferred that condition to the Angelic because they desired to revel in sensuality. They were seduced by sin.

HE HATH RESERVED IN EVERLASTING — Age lasting, until the end of this Gospel Age, the Judgment day.

CHAINS UNDER DARKNESS — Not permitted to operate in the light.

UNTO THE JUDGMENT OF THE GREAT DAY — The intimation would seem to be that then they would be permitted in some manner to free themselves from those chains and to come out more into the open, and to operate more in the light. (Sermon, 1-17-09)

11 — WAY OF CAIN — Thus is brought to our minds the fact that those who are of this class fail along any or some of three lines. 1) lust of the flesh. (Cain hated his brother.)

FOR REWARD — 2) Lust of the eye (desire for wealth and fine attire).

PERISHED IN THE GAINSAING OF CORE — 3) Pride of life (presumed to usurp Moses' place).

12 — CLOUDS THEY ARE WITHOUT WATER — Clouds are supposed to be all water. Hence a class who have an empty form of Godliness utterly without its power and spirit of love. May also refer to rain clouds, clouds that look as though they would give the blessing of rain and yet yield nothing, but disappointment.

14 — AND ENOCH ALSO, THE SEVENTH FROM ADAM — Possibly this may picture the restored human race as completed in the seventh 1000-year day from Adam.

PROPHESED — There exists a book of Enoch, which seems to be spurious for the reason that in Enoch's time books were not written, and further, were not needed, as men then lived 800 or 900 years and events were handed down by word of mouth. He may have been the builder of the great pyramid, Melchizedek.

18 — WHO SHOULD WALK AFTER THEIR OWN UNGODLY LUSTS
— It surely is a fact that those who once enjoyed the light of present truth and who have left it, seem thereafter more deficient of decency, reasonableness, honesty, manhood and womanhood than do worldly people, or those who have never seen the Truth. This shows that they have taken off the robe, for their sins no longer are covered, but are made plain and visible. One might know how to calculate on what the worldly foe might do or say or insinuate, for they all have limits beyond which they would not think of going, but as for these false brethren, there is no calculating what they may do or say. But let us not be disconcerted but "trust in the Lord and do good." (Z. '10-4; R.4540)

REVELATION

1:1 — THE REVELATION OF JESUS CHRIST — Note the simplicity of the introduction of this most wonderful book. The Apostle did not write the title as it appears here “Revelation of St. John the Divine.” He claims no credit for the revelation. He distinctly explains that it was not his but from the Lord Jesus and to him from God the Father. Nor was it to John in any special sense, but to God’s servants (vs. 1) sent through the servant John. This simplicity, common to all the Apostles marks them as being in the ministry not for gratification or vanity or earthly rewards of any kind, but simply as the servants of God who delighted to do His will and tell the good tidings, utterly ignoring themselves except in so far as mention of their affairs might be necessary. (Z. ’16-343; R.5991)

WHICH GOD GAVE UNTO HIM — Showing that Jehovah was the author of it all and also that Jesus had opened the book sealed with seven seals, or had obtained authority to open it. Jesus at this time evidently knew the time of his second advent. (See message to Laodicea.)

TO SHEW UNTO HIS SERVANTS — The little flock, the church; his true servants.

HE — Jesus.

SENT AND SIGNIFIED — Told it by signs and symbols.

BY HIS ANGEL — Messenger. C. T. Russell.

UNTO HIS SERVANT JOHN — The John class, the feet members of the body of Christ.

1:3 — BLESSED IS HE THAT READETH — Understandeth, studies, Bro. Russell and the members of the body of Christ.

WHICH ARE WRITTEN THEREIN — During the Christian age some of the saints sought to understand the church’s future by examining this symbolic book, and doubtless all who read and understood even a part of its teachings were blessed in Christ as promised (vs. 3). The book kept opening up to such, and in the days of the reformation was an important aid to Luther in deciding that the Papacy, of which he was a conscientious minister was indeed the Antichrist, mentioned by the Apostle and the history of which fills so large a part of that prophecy. (A28)

1:4 — GRACE BE UNTO YOU AND PEACE, FROM HIM — The Heavenly Father.

AND FROM THE SEVEN SPIRITS — The Holy Spirit of God in its complete phases.

1:5 — WHO IS THE FAITHFUL WITNESS — The one of all others who faithfully testified both by word and testimony of action about God's true character. (Rev. 3:14) The loyal ambassador who told the truth about the Father, and who would not misrepresent for any reward or gain, but would die for this truth about God, and whose actions truly showed forth the Spirit of God cast no reproach upon him. "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father."

AND THE FIRST BEGOTTEN OF THE DEAD — Firstborn. So A.R.V. and Diag., Gr. protokos. This teaching is contradictory to the creeds and teachings of Christendom. Jesus was the first to experience a resurrection in the full sense of the word—to perfection of nature. Although some before him were temporarily awakened they relapsed again into death, for they were only partial illustrations of resurrection—to assure men of the Divine Power to accomplish it fully in due time appointed of God. (Z.'16-343; R.5991)

1:7 — BEHOLD, HE COMETH WITH CLOUDS — At the time of the Lord's second advent the world will be far from converted to God. Christ comes before the conversion of the world and for the very purpose of converting the world, all mankind. (Z.'16-343; R.5992) Our Lord's presence will be manifested to the world by exhibitions of power and great glory. He will not be visible to the natural sight but to the eyes of understanding as these shall open to an appreciation of the great changes which earth's new Ruler shall effect. His presence and his righteous authority will be recognized in both the punishments and blessings which will flow to mankind from his reign. (Z.'16-343; R.5992) Some will discern the New Ruler sooner than others but ultimately "every eye shall see [Gr. hora, discern] him." While the clouds of trouble hang heavy and dark, when the mountains (kingdoms) are trembling and falling, when the earth (organized society) is being shaken and disintegrated, some will begin to realize that Jehovah's anointed is taking to himself his great power and is beginning his work of laying justice to the line and righteousness to the plummet, for he must reign till he hath put down all authority and laws on earth contrary to those controlling in Heaven. (Z.'16-344; R.5992)

1:9 — AND FOR THE TESTIMONY OF JESUS CHRIST — Representing the John class, exiled from the world and cast out for the word of God and the testimony of Jesus, for their faithfulness to it, in declaring it. It may also foreshadow for the John class a complete isolation and imprisonment—the cause for which John suffered was his faithfulness as the Lord's mouthpiece. At the time he was probably ninety years old, supposing that none of our Lord's disciples were younger than himself at the beginning of his ministry. (See note John 21:20-23)

1:10 — THE LORD'S DAY — Symbolizing here "the John class" in the Harvest, on the Millennial day. (Matt. 24:20)

AND HEARD BEHIND ME — Showing that the presence of Christ and the seventh trumpet will begin before (in time) "a short time back" of the moment when his presence will be made known to Bro. Russell and the John class.

LORD'S DAY — The Apostle may have had this vision on the first day of the week, now generally called Sunday. To Christians it is peculiarly the Lord's day—the day on which the Lord rose from the dead and on which all the promises of God's word received life and our hopes through Christ were quickened. We may see in the expression also to the Millennial age, called often the Day of the Lord. According to our understanding of chronology we are now living in the early dawn of this day of Christ, and it is here, properly enough that we begin to see the wonderful things of the divine character and plan. But to see and understand we must be "in the spirit." Only those who have become New Creatures in Christ can be expected to appreciate spiritual things; and this is the class the Apostle John represented. Is the seventh day ever called the Lord's day? (See marg. references.)
(Z. '05-168; R3568-9)

BEHIND ME — The fact that its location is mentioned implies that it has a symbolic meaning. It signified that the beginning of the message was not in John's day, but the things revealed were already commenced and already to some extent in the past. As some features of the Revelation show the voice from behind went back to the time of our Lord's earthly ministry.
(Z. '05-168; R.3569)

A GREAT VOICE, AS OF A TRUMPET — The seventh trumpet.
Trump of God.

1:11 — ASIA — Means muddy or boggy. Origin of word Asia is unknown. (Century Encl.) One doomed to a long journey though a wild bog, would, we think, have a fairly correct idea of the pathway of the church during the past 1800 years, especially if the greater part was travelled in comparative darkness. What with pit-falls and treacherous ground, will-o-the-whisps and fog, it would prove a hard journey. True the church has always had a pole-star by the mists of the Babylonian Mystery have almost hidden it.
(Z. '82-2; R.336)

EPHESUS — Covers the period during the lives of the Apostles.

SMYRNA — During the time of the Pagan persecutions, reaching about 325 A.D. when Constantine became sole emperor of Rome and declared in favor of Christianity.

PERGAMOS — The transition period when Papacy had its rise.

THYATIRA — The time during which the true Church was in the wilderness and the “Mother of Harlots” sat as a queen cohabiting with the kings of the earth.

SARDIS — Short period just before Reformation.

PHILADELPHIA — From Reformation to recent times. (Z. '82-2; R.336)

1:12 — I TURNED TO SEE THE VOICE THAT SPAKE WITH ME — Remember who it is that speaks.

1:13 — SEVEN GOLDEN CANDLESTICKS — In the Tabernacle and later in Solomon’s Temple the Golden Candlestick was placed by the Lord’s direction, not seven, but one with seven branches, representing the whole Church during the Gospel age. In the Revelation the same candlestick or lampstand is brought to our attention, but the parts are separated (Rev. 2:5), the union or relationship between them being supplied by our Lord Jesus, the antitypical High priest. The lampstand symbolized the Lord’s nominal people of this Gospel age, including the members of His mystical body. It holds forth the light of life, which shines in the darkness that men might see our good works and glorify our Father in Heaven. (Matt. 5:16) Alas, the Master found but a few good works (See Rev. 3:2 A.R.V.) found but little glorifying light shining out from his earthly representatives in many of the seven epochs of the history of the Church. This fact is shown by his chidings, encouragements, etc., given to each of these epoch churches, represented by the different lampstands or candlesticks. The candlestick or lampstand represents the nominal church of Christ; rather than the true Church, shown by the fact that in addressing each of these churches the Lord finds fault with the many and approves the few faithful, especially in the last, the Laodicean Church of our day. (Z. '05-169; R.3569)

ONE LIKE A SON OF MAN — Like a man, like a priest (as implied by the clothes described.) Walking (Rev. 2:1) caring for them, trimming the wicks, seeing to the supply of oil, etc. Thus our Lord Jesus, our glorified Master, though absent from us has protected the interests of his cause through the past 18 centuries and has directed respecting his people’s affairs, especially inspecting and caring for the Church as a light bearer, a candlestick. Alas how poor the wicks (our natural bodies) have sometimes been; How feeble the light that has sometimes shone out into the darkness of this world. How much trimming has been necessary and how much more may yet be required. (Z. '05-168; R.3569)

GIRT ABOUT THE PAPS — As were priests and kings, a symbol of power, strength, and free activity.

GOLDEN GIRDLE — Symbol of service on the divine plane.

1:14 — HEAD AND HAIR WHITE — Tells us of His wisdom, splendor and glory. (Z. '05-169; R.3569)

EYES LIKE A FLAME — All seeing, omniscient. He is not deceived by outward appearance, forms and ceremonies, but he can and does receive every thought and intent of the heart. (Psa. 139) The contemplations of his glance should of itself purge and purify our hearts to the extent of our ability to put far from us everything that would have his disapproval.

GARMENT REACHING TO FEET — This may possibly represent the fact that the glory of Christ was manifested in his own person, in his own ministry, and in that of his twelve Apostles, his representatives, St. Paul taking the place of Judas, and that with their deeds the body of Truth was almost veiled in the eighteen centuries intervening until now, in the end of the age the feet members of the Body of Christ will be illuminated by the truth and will shine forth, not like the head but as polished brass (copper).

1:15 — HIS FEET — When we think of the great advantage which we of the present day possess, we are inclined to say—What manner of persons ought to be in all holiness of living and God-likeness. We have shining upon us with almost burning brightness the focused rays of divine inspiration and revelation for 6000 years. How it should consume in us all the dross of selfishness! How it should purify us. How humble it should make us! Even in our flesh we should be polished, luminous, bright representatives of our glorious Head. (Z. '05-169; R.3569)

A FURNACE — Of trial and affliction.

VOICE OF MANY WATERS — Representing that the Lord would speak to his Church through the many languages of the various peoples, nations, and tongues whom he would use as his messengers. (Z. '01-188; R.2826)

1:16 — SEVEN STARS — The one whom we thus know as the instructor, caretaker of the candlesticks, we are also to recognize as having in right hand seven stars (in his favor as well as his power)—the angels, messengers of the seven churches. Apparently the stars represent special ministers or servants of the Church, special light bearers in the church in each of its seven stages (vs. 20). That they are in his right hand seems to teach us that these should be considered under the Master's guidance in some special sense, under his protection and care in the interests of the churches which they represented. The messages to the various churches are addressed to these stars or messengers, angels, as though our Lord would have us understand that the appropriate message, for each appropriate epoch in the Church's experiences would be sent by the Lord through a particular star or messenger, whom He would especially commission as His representative. Our Lord himself is represented by the great light of the sun, and his special messengers throughout the entire age are consistently represented as stars. The difference between the symbol of the star and the candlestick is manifest. The star's light is the heavenly light, the spiritual enlightenment or instruction. The lamp's light is the earthly light representing good works, obedience, etc. of those nominally constituting the Lord's Church in the world, and who are exhorted not to put their light under a bushel, but upon a candlestick and to let it so shine that it will glorify their Father in heaven.

TWO EDGED SWORD — Our Lord's words are not one-sided, not directed merely against sin in one class, but that His Word is sharp, cutting in every direction; the sin is reproved by him as much when found in his most earnest followers as when found elsewhere. It assures us that none need attempt to pluck out the mote from his brother's eye without first getting rid of the beam in his own eye. How heart-searching is God's Word when we understand it! Not merely a compendium of rules and regulations, but when we catch the spirit of it. (Z.'05-169; R.3570)

AS THE SUN SHINETH IN HIS STRENGTH — Some features of this description seem to fit peculiarly to each church, and is quoted in the message to it, as if to say—"Remember who it is that speaks." (Z.'82-2; R.336)

1:17 — FELL AS DEAD AT HIS FEET — So it is symbolically with the Christian when once he gets a glimpse of the glories of the divine character. When once we get a true view of him, as the great heart-searcher and caretaker of the church we fall before Him, humbled to the dust, realizing that we are imperfect, that we cannot stand before our Master, that we are unworthy of his favor and blessing. (Z.'01-188; R.2827)

LAI D HIS RIGHT HAND UPON ME — As our Lord touched St. John gently, raising him up, so He has spoken to us comfort, peace and love, assuring us that we have a high priest that can be touched with a feeling of our infirmities; one who is able to sympathize and mercifully to assist; one who has bought us with his own precious blood, who has accepted us and will number us as his body members as long as we abide in Him, seeking in our hearts to know and do His will.

FEAR NOT — This is one of the first lessons we must learn. We cannot come into close sympathy with our Lord and be taught of him about other features of his plan until we learn to fear not, learn to have confidence in him as the one “who loved us and bought us with his own precious blood, and whose purposes toward us continually are for our welfare, and if we submit ourselves to his guidance, will bring us off more than conquerors.

FIRST AND LAST — We must recognize that our Lord was the beginning of the creation of God, and the end of it, the one by whom are all things; who is next to the Father, his very representative in all things pertaining to the universe. (Col. 1:15; Rev. 3:14; John 1:1-3; 1 Cor. 8:6)

1:18 — WHO WAS DEAD — Who really died for our sins, but who was as really raised out of death by the Father.

AND AM ALIVE FOREVERMORE — Death has no more dominion over him (it once had). That the work is finished, that neither sacrifice of the mass nor death in any sense or form will evermore be needed. His work is perfected. As he cried—“It is finished.”

AND HAVE KEYS OF HELL AND DEATH — The authority, power over the tomb, to deliver from it all who are imprisoned therein; and power over death in order that those whom he liberated from the prison-house of death, like those who have not yet gone into the tomb but who are under the death sentence may all be ultimately delivered, set free from the dominion of sin and death, to the full liberty of the Sons of God. (Rom. 8:21)

1:20 — THE SEVEN CHURCHES — The Lord seems to have had a special servant in each stage of the church, through whom the message of the hour was given. These were strongly upheld by Jesus’ power. These arose in the ecclesiastical heavens, and brought a special testing light. Starlight is a heavenly light, a reflection from the sun.

2:1 — EPHESUS — First, or desirable.

HE THAT HOLDETH THE SEVEN STARS — In this period our Lord holdeth the seven stars, messengers of the churches, in his right hand. These messengers (Paul, Peter, John etc.) were so powerfully held and kept in the grasp (control, power) of Jesus, at that time, that we accept their teachings as we do His, believing that their words were really His. Those who were to be the messengers to the seven churches were so held in the grasp of the Lord that they could not deviate or waver. We accept another fact—that only the spirit of Him who has walked with his church all the way down can make clear the messages in His Word. Moreover we believe it is because he is personally again present in His church that such an abundance of light is now given—such as the church never had during his absence. (Z. '02-2; R.336; Z. '83-2; R.490)

WHO WALKETH IN THE MIDST OF THE SEVEN GOLDEN

CANDLESTICKS — Representative of the seven churches (complete number). Candlesticks represent givers forth of light, those who held forth the Word of God and let its light shine among the consecrated. Golden were messengers of divine truth.

2:2 — I KNOW THY WORKS — This church was commended because of its faithful, patient labor; and its discernment of truth and teachers (Acts 20:28; 1 Cor. 14:21) It was characteristic of this period that they forsook all and followed Him; they took joyfully the spoiling of their goods; they sold what they had and gave to those in want.

AND HAST FOUND THEM LIARS — To the first church and to her only was given the supernatural power of discerning spirits. The cases of Ananias and Sapphira and of Simon and of Elymas the sorcerers, reveal this power.

2:3 — AND HAST NOT FAINTED — Though often deprived of much of this life they note only had the living bread but the promise of the tree of life which is in the midst of the Paradise of God—immortality. All the trees of Eden were trees of life, but the one in the midst of the garden was then a forbidden tree, the disobedient eating of which brought death upon Adam and all his race. The tree in the midst of Paradise was called the “Tree of knowledge of good and evil.” And our Lord’s promise is that the overcomers of the Gospel age shall have full liberty to partake of that tree under most blessed and satisfactory conditions, when the knowledge will be of benefit to them and will not then bring a curse. (Z. '16-346; R.5992)

2:4 — THY FIRST LOVE — The church nominal had gotten lukewarm somewhat and lost some of the zeal and energy and love she had when the apostles were alive, the “great falling away” was beginning. (See Heb. 3:6, 14)

2:5 — AND DO THE FIRST WORKS — Return to her early zeal and spirit of sacrifice.

2:6 — NICOLAITANES — Those who desired to “lord it over God’s heritage.” (Nicholas means a lord.) God hates that spirit. It was the old contention as to who should be greatest in the Kingdom.

2:7 — HE THAT HATH AN EAR — See note on Matt. 11:15; Acts 2:39.

I GIVE TO EAT OF THE TREE OF LIFE — Immortality. Paradise of God represents the universe with the restored and perfected earth. The Church with Christ will be in the midst of this universe, as life givers and blessers, used by God as his dwelling. (Psa. 132:13, 14)

PARADISE OF GOD — Though often deprived of the bread of this life, they not only had the living bread, but the promise of the tree of life which is in the midst of the Paradise of God. These will have what Eve sought to get before the due time, and more. See also notes on verse 3.

2:8 — SMYRNA — Bitter herbs, myrrh.

WHICH WAS DEAD, AND IS ALIVE — This statement seems a comfort in itself to those suffering martyrs. It was as if he said: "Fear not, my faithful ones. I was before all these persecutors; I shall be when they are forgotten. I shall take care of you. I too was put to death by the same power. Fear not to follow in my steps. See, I have risen in glory, in power, in immortality, follow me. You too shall rise." (John 14:19)

2:10 — FEAR NONE — This was the period of the most severe persecution, A.D. 303-313. Some of the most sublime pictures of Christian endurance the world has ever seen were enacted during this period under the Roman Emperors from Nero to Diocletian.

DEVIL — Pagan Rome, his instrument.

TEN DAYS — The call was for faithfulness unto death.

BE THOU FAITHFUL UNTO DEATH, AND I WILL GIVE THEE A CROWN OF LIFE — The highest form of life, immortality. Not "Be thou faithful unto life, hang onto your life rights and enjoy them," but "Be thou faithful unto death."

2:11 — NOT BE HURT OF THE SECOND DEATH — He will have passed his testing and been proved faithful and will have immortality which is impossible to die.

2:12 — PERGAMOS — Earthly elevation. Pergamos was the name given to the citadel of Troy. The Pergamos of John's day was a celebrated city of the Roman province of Asia. Here parchment was first made or perfected. It had a library of 200,000 volumes, also a famous temple of Aesculapius, the mythological deity who presided over medicine. The Pergamos period dates from the time Constantine embraced Christianity, which being thus popularized became the nominal religion of the people. The church of the period was exceedingly exalted, but only from an earthly standpoint. Persecution having ceased, the policy of the emperor became the policy of both priest and people. Mosheim tells us that while the great zeal of many good men, the purity of their lives, the many translations and expositions of the Scriptures made at this time, and the intrinsic value and beauty of Christianity contrasted with Paganism must have had their influence, yet it is evident that the desire to please the great Emperor and his successors and to be on the popular side, were the chief reasons for the sudden and great increase of the nominal church. Many Pagan philosophers finding that it would be policy to join the ranks of the rising religion set about paving an easy way to it by trying to discover correspondencies between Christianity and Paganism, and so to blend the two together. They succeeded only too well. Many sought to form to themselves a middle kind of religion between the ancient theology and the new doctrine, and they persuaded themselves that the same truths which Christ taught had been for a long time concealed by the priests of the gods under the vail of ceremonies, fables, and allegories. (Mosheim)

As the old theology had a number of chief gods with many demi-gods of both sexes, these pogo-Christians (if we may coin a word) set themselves to reconstruct the list of the New Theology. At this time, therefore, the doctrine of the three gods was invented, also the goddess Mary. To make the list as respectable in numbers as the long list of the pagan deities, they canonized the dead Apostles and an unlimited number of martyrs, angels, etc., real and imaginary. Mosheim says of this period—the public processions and supplications by which the pagans endeavored to please their gods, were now adopted into the Christian worship and celebrated with great pomp and magnificence—the virtues which had formerly been ascribed to the heathen temples, to their lustrations (ceremonial washings), to the statues of their gods and heroes, were now attributed to Christian churches, to water consecrated by certain forms of prayer, and to the images of holy men.

The propensity of rude and uneducated converts from paganism to cling to the festal rights of their fathers proved to be invincible so that it seemed necessary to adapt old usages to the new worship rather than to abolish them altogether. (Enc. Brit.) We feel safe to say that all the vile doctrines which have saturated the Papal churches and which still permeates Protestantism, had at least their origin in this period. The philosophy of Plato was engrafted upon the Scriptural stock; this vile fungus, planted by Satan in Eden (Gen. 3:4, 5), watered by the Egyptians and brought to an increase by pseudo-Christianity has borne an abundant harvest of errors, and exalted an influence more deadly than the Upas tree.

THESE THINGS SAITH HE — The speaker is he who has the sharp two-edged (Greek means two-mouthed) sword, the Word of God. (Eph. 6) The speaker is Christ Jesus himself. It seems as if the little company of the faithful ones beset on every side by the enemy were earnestly looking for the leader amid all the noise and strife, when suddenly the great captain appears at their side and waving his hand on high shouts "Attention Company." The two edged sword is the Word of God. (Eph. 6:17; Heb. 4:12) This weapon is formed for both offensive and defensive warfare. It is sharp and while one edge is presented toward the enemy, there is another toward him who wields it. Christ has given it to the Church to be used in his service; woe to him who handles it unskillfully. Our Lord's words are a warning to those of that age who were exercising this spiritual weapon.

2:13 — I KNOW THY WORKS — During this period when the nominal church was growing popular, the true Christians were tested by the introduction and development of Pagan and Papal ideas. They were many. The faithful of this period were very zealous and hard workers against much opposition.

AND WHERE THOU DWELLEST, WHERE SATAN'S SEAT IS — "Where the throne of the Adversary is." (Diag.) The home and stronghold of Paganism, which in course of time and with a change of little else than name, was re-christened Papacy. "Thou holdest fast my name and hast not denied my faith." At this time there were many teachers and more controversy than ever before. Light was darkened by words and truth by sophistry, ANTIPAS — (Greek: anti meaning against, and Pater, contracted to pas meaning father); an antipapist, one who opposed, or protested against the pope or father, those who fought against and denounced the corruption creeping into the church.

2:14 — DOCTRINE OF BALAAM — The pagan priests were unwilling to lose their positions of honor, power and influence among the people, and sought to bend their theories to fit the new religion. While nominally professing Christianity, they brought many of their ideas with them, which were eventually ingrafted upon the stock,. Thus the church was led into error, evil practice and away from God. This is what is alluded to in the references to Balaam and Balac. Balak tempted Israel to sin and so brought about by strategy what he could not accomplish by his own power.

The blasphemous doctrine of eternal torture; the endless existence of sin and sinners; the fiction of the short line from the death bed to heaven, and kindred fancies have always been stumbling-blocks to the church. The homage given to pagan rites, ceremonies, festivals, etc., Christianized such as prayers for the dead, sacred places, days and persons, union with earthly powers and with those who do such things would in our opinion, be Balaam service. [Teaching error for profit.]

AND TO COMMIT FORNICATION — So the priests tempted the church to indulge in spiritual fornication and thus brought upon her the withering blight of God's wrath.

2:15 — DOCTRINE OF THE NICOLAITANES — The doctrine of the Nicolaitanes seems to be that of lordship and leadership in the church. (Nicholas means a lord.) The strife as to who should be greatest existed among many of the fathers of the churches in prominence. At their councils there was a bitter strife for supremacy; the tendency was toward an earthly head, and of course many wanted the honor. The patriarchs of Jerusalem, Antioch, Bysantium (afterwards Constantinople) and Rome were among the most prominent. The first two dropped out, but the strife between the last two continued for several centuries, and was settled only by a division of the church. The eastern, or Greek church acknowledged the patriarch of Bysantium as head of the church; the Western or Papal church acknowledged the bishop (pope, father) of Rome. Many of the true in the church denounced this attempt to disobey the direct commands of the Savior (Matt. 23:7) and of course received the persecution foretold. (2 Thes. 1:12), these are the "Antipas" class.

This noticed in the Ephesus message found its development in this period, and has been a burden to the church ever since. In the church of Rome the laity or people are much the subjects of the pope, both in spiritual and temporal things, as any of earth's conquerors ever dreamed of demanding, and this in the face of Christ's plain statement that there is but one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one master, one Father, and all ye are brethren.

2:16 — UNTO THEE QUICKLY AND RIGHT AGAINST THEM — Notice thee and them. Used as in 1 Thes. 5:1-4. The Lord speaks directly to his Church as thou and you, and of the world as they and them. He came to his own and in a sense delivered them out of Babylon, bearing them up on eagles wings (Rev. 12:14) and carrying them into the wilderness "into her place where she is nourished," from the face of the serpent, Satan. To them he came with the sword and cut them asunder.

2:17 — HIDDEN MANNA — It was a surprize in the face of desolation and death of a life hidden from the power of persecution, with Christ in God.

A WHITE STONE — This evidently refers to a signet or seal. To present anyone with a signet ring was to invest him with all the power of the owner of the ring. This, then, is one of the exceeding great and precious promises of joint-heirship with Christ Jesus given only to overcomers.

A NEW NAME WRITTEN, WHICH NO MAN KNOWETH SAVING HE THAT RECEIVETH IT — In ancient times the Greeks and Romans had a custom of noting a perpetuating friendship by means of a white stone.

This was divided into halves and each person wrote his name on the flat surface, after which the parts of the stone were exchanged. The production of either half was sufficient to insure friendly aid, even from the descendant of those who first divided the stone. A similar custom was sometimes observed by a King, giving one part to a special ambassador. That part could be sent to the king at any time and insure aid. Thus the divided stone became a mark of identification.

Rev. 2:17 seems to refer to this custom. The new name suggests the Bridegrooms' name. The statement indicates a special acquaintance with the Great King of Kings, secret between Himself and the individual. The overcomers as not to be recognized merely as a class, the Bride class, but each will have the personal favor of the King. Of this no one will know save the person himself and the King. There is an individual and personal relationship between the Lord and the overcomers who may be said to receive the mark of identification (white stone) now in this present life.

This mark is the sealing of the Holy Spirit by which the Lord identifies the overcomers. (Holy Spirit is white stone.) While this is said to be a part of the final reward, yet from the beginning of our experience we have this personal acquaintance with the Lord. The full seal will be given (for good) in the resurrection when we receive the new body. Then we shall have the complete knowledge of the name by which we shall be known to the Lord and He to us forever. (Z.'12-315; R.5113)

2:18 — UNTO THE ANGEL OF THE CHURCH IN THYATIRA — Sweet savor of labor, a perfume of sacrifice. This was the period of Papal persecution. The antichrist had seated himself in the temple of God, announcing himself through his minions as "Our Lord God the Pope." (2 Thes. 2:4) Ruling the nations and the church with a rod of iron, and dashing them in pieces as a potters vessel, those who would not acknowledge his authority. The virgin Church was enduring the hardships of the wilderness, while the harlot, revelling in her lewdness, sat on the throne of her royal paramour.

Thyatira would thus cover a period during which the true church purified by persecution, relieved of its ordinary load of dead-heads, and untrammelled by the class who always choose the popular side, was fully harnessed and faithfully laboring in the Lord's work.

THE SON OF GOD — This is a more emphatic declaration of who the speaker is than in any previous message. It was necessary. An usurper had arisen to speak as the mouthpiece of God. Our Lord here announces himself as speaking through his written word, His only authorized spokesman. See Gal. 1:9.

LIKE UNTO A FLAME OF FIRE — The message is sent by one who has [great wisdom (bright, glowing eyes) that can look beneath and discern the true heart condition and knows who are his saints] to watch over his faithful ones as they wander through the dark valley. (Psa. 34:6)

FEET ARE LIKE FINE BRASS — Copper. It would seem to say to them, “Fear not, in all your terrible journey of thirteen centuries, in the wilderness, lo I am with you, and we shall walk together and I will be your companion and guide.”

POLISHED COPPER — This metal was perhaps the most useful and enduring known to the ancient world. Test of hard brass to walk by their side as they scaled the rugged mountains, or wandered footsore and weary, seeking place to plant the seeds of truth. (Z'16-346; R.5992; Z.'82-1; R.388; Z.'83-3, 4; R.491)

2:19 — AND THY PATIENCE — Patient endurance. (Diag.)

THY WORKS; AND THE LAST TO BE MORE THAN THE FIRST — Last works. This shows the Lord's appreciation of the faithful labors of the true church. The language is quite like that used to the first church, with the apparent recognition that the works of Thyratira were even more abundant than those of Ephesus.

2:20 — JEZEBEL — Papacy, see Elijah, Ahab and Jezebel. Jezebel, the protector of the priests of Baal is the type of Papacy. The Bible is a wonderful book. We find in it a faithful record of human history, and many curious events, sometimes so strange as to be almost or quite disbelieved by the natural man. Various attempts have been to prove the Bible unhistorical, that while it taught spiritual truths, it was not intended to teach history, science, etc., and was in those directions unreliable. The light of modern research and criticism is fast scattering such infidelity, and proving daily the antiquity and reliability of the Book of books. Not only is it historic and scientific truthfulness shining out clearly, but there also appears a stranger, deeper view of truth which seals its supernatural origin in revealing the fact (astonishing) that the history was a living, speaking, prophetic pantomime, a prophecy acted out in type in living characters, even their faults and misdeeds faithfully noted (to the disgust of some over particular people) being apparently necessary to fill up the type. The history of Ahab and Jezebel is one of these prophetic pictures, seen not in a vision but in real characters.

WHICH CALLETH HERSELF A PROPHETESS — A teacher, a mouthpiece of the Lord, the claim of Papacy.

TO COMMIT FORNICATION — Ahab, Jezebel's husband, was king of Israel and represents the kings or kingdoms of Europe who committed spiritual fornication with the mother church. Elijah represents the true church, and we see thus the flight of the true church into the wilderness from the face of the false church, during 1260 days, while the harlot reigned as queen and lived deliciously with the kings of the earth, was clearly foretold in Elijah's flight from the face of Jezebel, and the 3-1/2 years was evidently a type of the time, times, and half or 1260 years of spiritual famine—not for bread or water but for the hearing of the word of the Lord. (1 Kings 17:5—9; 18:4, 40-46; 19:1-4; 21:5-10, 25; Rev. 12:6; Amos 8:11)

The union of the church with earthly rulers that one must join these daughters of Babylon. So successful have been these seductions that Protestants generally would rather associate with an immoral member of an orthodox church, or a member of the body of Antichrist, than with a consistent Christian who has thrown off the fetters of sectarianism.

AND TO EAT THINGS SACRIFICED UNTO IDOLS — Pagan ideas taught by Papacy and clung to by Protestants; immortality of all men, first taught by the most beastly of all idolators, the Egyptians; and most of all, God's character so degraded that no heathen doctrine ever invented by pagan priestcraft could compare with it—the hideous doctrine of eternal torture, instead of a loving Father, a vindictive giant. How better could this be described than as in this verse?

2:21 — SPACE — 1160 to 1520 A.D.

TO REPENT OF HER FORNICATION — She wills not to reform.

2:22 — THEIR DEEDS — Her deed. (Diag.)

2:23 — I WILL KILL HER CHILDREN WITH DEATH — Spiritual dying is what ails the churches of today. The physician has given them up, and spiritual gangrene (mortification of living flesh) is surely doing its work.

Rome in the days of Thyatira endeavored to kill Thyatira's children with death, literal, and the Lord cheers them with the assurance that the reverse will finally take place and while these who imbibed the persecuting spirit of Jezebel would be stricken with spiritual death (the antitype of the 450 priests of Baal whom Jezebel fed and whom Elijah destroyed, she [all having the spirit of Thyatira]) would receive the glorious reward according to her works. This changed condition of things will also reveal to all the churches who it is that is doing the sifting work, for all the churches shall know that I am he that searcheth the hearts.

2:24 — UNTO YOU I SAY — Although knowing that Antichrist has loaded our Father's name with infamy, they still persist in asserting that it is not our business to attempt to clear him; that He will do so on the day of judgment, when according to their theology it will be too late to do anyone any good. We who see the Plan of the Ages might be content to wait, but we have a right to expect that those who believe the world is now on probation should do all in their power to place God's character in a proper light before the world. We would be ashamed to treat an earthly friend so, how much more the friend above all others.

AS THEY SPEAK — (See A.R.V.) "To you I say, as they are wont to say." "I cast on you no other burden, etc."

I WILL PUT UPON YOU NONE OTHER BURDEN — To the true children it is a burden to hear our Father's character loaded with infamy, and when we attempt to clear him before those who profess to be God's people, we are at once told that we cannot fathom God's purposes and that our reasonings are mere speculations; the whole matter belonging to the deep things of God.

2:26, 27 — The characteristic of the Thyatira period was the reign of the false church, so the promise to the overcomers is particularly appropriate. Rome, the false church was at this time at the height of her glory, claiming to be the Kingdom of God and that she alone was infallible, and alone had the right to interpret the Scriptures; that Christ's reign had begun through his vicegerent, the Pope; and claiming of course the promises given to those who reign with Christ, she literally did rule the nations with a rod of iron, dashing in pieces whom she would. The iron rule and the great power of the Kingdom was thus signified (shown by signs) (Rev. 1:1) before their eyes so that even their terrible persecution was a reminder of the glory and power they were called upon to inherit.

2:28 — GIVE HIM THE MORNING STAR — Advance light. Those who would continue to walk in harmony with God's plan, which they could do only by walking in the light of the present truth, are promised not only increased light but advanced light.

3:1 — SARDIS — That which remains, as it were perhaps a remnant, almost dead, in which the life or virtue had nearly all gone. (Vs. 2)

SEVEN SPIRITS — God's complete Spirit, his character.

SEVEN STARS — See note on chapter 2:1.

A NAME THAT THOU LIVEST, AND ART DEAD — They had the appearance of being what they were not, having a form of godliness without the power. Persecution has always developed the life and vigor of the church. Ease brings the reverse.

3:1-6 — They had the appearance of being what they were not, having a form of godliness without the power. Hypocritical, perhaps without knowing it. A kind of Cornelian Sardian Stone is found near Sardis, from which it received its name. It is of a blood color sometimes covered with a thin layer of white. Thus it may look like purity but a closer examination will reveal the flesh color (deep red) below the surface; to outward appearance and by profession, spiritual; but in heart fleshly, carnal. Sardis was the remnant of the truth Church which had been driven into the wilderness, but when persecution began to abate, her zeal subsided. Thyatira was specially commended for her works; Sardis for the opposite.

3:2 — FOUND THY WORKS — Thyatira was specially commended for her works. Sardis reproved for the opposite—“I have found no work of thine fulfilled before my God. (R. V.) Their love and understanding of Scripture had evidently decreased. Strengthen what little life and truth remains.

3:3 — HOLD FAST, AND REPENT — They are warned here to repent. God’s Word is spiritual food. He who continually feasts upon it will grow vigorous, healthy, powerful. He who neglects to eat or fails to digest this living bread must be weak and sickly, remaining at best, only a spiritual dwarf, powerless to discern the signs of the times, ignorant of what the Lord is doing, or what his plans are.

IF THOU SHALT NOT WATCH — Seven times our Lord’s coming is described as thief-like, stealthy. Only to those watching is the approach of a thief known. Those who are asleep will be awakened only after he has taken full possession and after his work of destruction has progressed. Although they may then arouse themselves, it will be too late. They have been overtaken. Thus our Lord will be present, invisible and unknown except to the watchers, for some years after his arrival and his presence will be recognized by the sleepers only as the noise of spoiling the strong man’s house, gradually increases. Then slowly they will realize what it is and what the outcome will be. The reason why many professed Christians cannot recognize our Lord’s “parousia” (presence) is that they are looking for a fleshly Christ, visible to the fleshly and making an imposing demonstration which they cannot mistake. Failing to realize the fact that spiritual bodies cannot be seen by human eyes without a miracle, they cannot see how he can be present, while all things continue as they were since the beginning of creation. (2 Peter 3:3, 4) Thus they are unable to understand the signs of the times which reveal his presence. (Z. ’16-247; R.5993)

AND THOU SHALT NOT KNOW WHAT HOUR — Many today have the Sardis characteristics. To such there is a fatal warning in this declaration “I will have come as a thief and in no wise shalt thou get to know during what sort of hour I will have come upon thee.” (Roth.) They do not expect him to come as a thief (stealthily, quietly). To only those who are watching is the thief’s presence known, so it is with Christ’s presence.

3:4 — HAVE NOT DEFILED THEIR GARMENTS — Here are a Little Flock which are pure all the way through. These are entitled to wear a covering of spotless white, for they are what they appear to be.

3:5 — BE CLOTHED IN WHITE RAIMENT — After resurrection and glorification. It is the robe of his own righteousness then, perfect, spotless. Not as now the imputed robe of Christ’s righteousness.

NOT BLOT OUT HIS NAME — Lamb’s book, the Bride class. The recording has been going on throughout this present age. This means that those whose names are therein are not only members of the family of God, but also members of the bride class. In order to maintain this position they must be overcomers. In some scriptures it seems that the Great Company class are included; in other scriptures it is not so. In our text we may not be sure whether the Great Company is included or not. From one standpoint it looks as though they were; from another as though they may not be. We do well not to settle it too definitely in our minds, but wait to see what the Lord’s intention is. In another place the Lord says if we are ashamed of him he will be ashamed of us. This expression would rather imply that the Great Company would not be included in this book. (Z’.14-12; R.5380)

3:7 PHILADELPHIA — Brotherly love. This stage of the Church’s history began at the great reformation. We may understand the message better if we recall the condition of Rome when the reformation began.

WRITE — She claimed to be the Holy and True Church, to have the sure mercies of David, the throne of the kingdom of the Lord with power to bind or loose, to open and shut the gates of heaven, to be the city of God and the only one having the right to bear his name. But Jesus holds the keys, and he will unlock the gates of “hades” and of death, and free the long bound captives. (C14) He opened the door of the High Calling and it will be he who will close it. (Luke 13:25) When the Bride is made up the door will close.

3:8 — AN OPEN DOOR — Opportunity of entrance. A closed door represents termination of opportunity.

AND NO MAN CAN SHUT IT — There is considerable similarity between the work begun at Pentecost and the work of the Reformation. The Reformation was, in a sense, the beginning of a new era, a dawning of light. The separation of the true from the false. It was the beginning of a mighty movement. No doubt the power of Satan and his allies was exerted to close that door. He that is true had said, "which no man can shut." The little flock of Reformers had but a little strength when compared to the mighty host of their enemies. We do not understand that this symbolic period is restricted to those early days. That was the beginning. The conflict is not over. The proud and boastful churches of today are persecuting and would fain wipe out those still living of the Philadelphia band.

AND HAST NOT DENIED MY NAME — Luther's declaration at the Diet of Worms, as he stood before the Princes of Germany and the stern Emperor Chas. V., is worthy of Paul, and an illustration of the text. "Unless," he said, "I shall be convinced by the Scriptures (for I shall have no faith in popes and councils, as it is evident they have frequently erred, and even contradicted each other), unless my conscience shall be convinced by the word of God, I neither will nor can recant, since it is unworthy of and honest man to act contrary to his convictions. Here I stand; it is impossible for me to act otherwise, so help me God." We do not understand that this symbolic period was limited to those early days. That was the beginning, the conflict is not over. The proud and boastful churches of today are persecuting and would fain wipe out those of the Philadelphia band still living. The work is the Lord's and He will take care of it, and no man can hinder it.

3:9 — BEHOLD — Very plain language about the opposers of the truth who claim to be the church of God. They would say we were using dreadful hard language (names) if we were to use language half as expressive. When the hour of trial is over and has humbled their pride, they will learn who were the chosen and come and render obeisance at their feet.

3:10 — PATIENCE — Patience, or patient endurance is here mentioned as the Lord's word or teaching.

TO TRY THEM THAT DWELL UPON THE EARTH — The faithful ones will be kept from the hour of this great trial; and the reason is given—"Kept the word of him, and hast not denied my name." Those who have been disciples, wholly consecrated, in a crucified condition, when the trial comes will be far above its power.

3:12 — WILL I — For them to go out would mean the destruction of the house, for of it they will be members in particular.

MY NEW NAME — In the Philadelphia period, especially during the first and last phases of it, the faithful have been obliged either to come out of the nominal temple to find liberty, or were cast out for their straight testimony.

The reward is that they should not merely be an important piece, but a vital part, a pillar in the true and eternal temple, a part that cannot be taken away or cast out while the structure exists. During their trial their names were cast out as evil, they were branded as heretics, not recognized as children of God. All this is to be reversed. The Lord knoweth them that are his.

3:14-22 — From the peculiar use Jesus made of “Amen,” we should at once recognize the speaker, and perceive that he is about to send a message of more than ordinary solemnity and interest. If we understand Christ’s meaning here, this message is sent particularly to those who profess his name, but deny the truth He here presents. Let those who do so read with special care this message. “What think ye of Christ? Whose son is He?” (Matt. 23:2) This question has had many answers. More Bible and less hymn book theology would have made the subject clearer to all. The doctrine of the trinity is totally opposed to the Scriptures and has not a single reasonable text to support it, when the well-known interpolation of 1 John 5:7 is discarded and John 1:1 is understood. We suggest that anyone who does not see this clearly should read carefully and prayerfully John 17. Another class, Unitarians, etc., take away from the dignity and honor of our Lord, besides contradicting much Scripture by denying that he had an existence before his conception in Mary. We ask such to read: Matt. 22:45; John 1:14; 3:12; 8:58; 1 Cor. 8:9; Col. 1:15-17; Phil. 2:6-8.

God sheds increasing light to those who humbly and prayerfully search for the Truth, having but one aim—the glory of God; one desire—to do His will; one hope—to share His glory. That sickly hue that now appears is but the smoke illuminated from the piercing rays, from a hand which high on the wall is writing—“Mene, mene, tekel, upharsin.”

While it is still respectable to be a church member, the Little Flock of truth seekers are despised and rejected, covered with reproach because they still dare to point out the faults of a worldly church. They are looked down upon by her who sits as a proud queen, lifted up in order she may have the greater fall. (Z. '16-348; R.5993)

3:14 — LAODICEANS — A tried and judged people. This description shows that they were tried and found wanting.

THE BEGINNING OF THE CREATION OF GOD — The first of all God’s creation, before angels and all else, the first step of God’s plan, and through him all else was created.

3:15 — I WOULD THOU WERT COLD OR HOT — Here is a description of the nominal church of today, as Jesus sees her. In one sense they are not cold for some have a good deal of zeal, but it is not according to knowledge. There is much labor on the part of some. They have organized their armies, developed their machinery, and multiplied their stores, but yet the enemy does not fall before them.

3:16 — I WILL SPUE THEE OUT OF MY MOUTH — Neither hot nor cold they excite disgust, and are cast out as a hateful thing from being the mouthpiece of the Lord. To be a minister in the nominal church today one must bring with him a plentiful supply of that which Paul despised and left behind—human wisdom. (1 Cor. 1:17; 2:4) He hath raised up a new mouthpiece. (Isa. 28) He hath shed increasing light to a little flock now who are willing to receive it and spread it abroad without fear.

3:17 — BECAUSE THOU SAYEST — “I am rich and have all the spiritual light that exists in the world. I have gotten riches, have much goods laid up for many years. I have all that is worth having, need no more. I sit as a queen and am no widow, and shall not see mourning.” Of course she cannot recognize her own picture, she is blind and knows not that she is the wretched one. Just as the Jewish house fell because they knew not the time of their visitation. (Luke 19:44) The visitation or presence of Christ is the stone of stumbling and the rock of offence to both the houses of Israel. (Heb. 3:5, 6; Isa. 8:14)

3:18 — GOLD TRIED IN THE FIRE — Heavenly treasure, a character ready for the divine nature, bought at the cost of self-sacrifice, and developed through suffering.

AND WHITE RAIMENT — Robe of Christ’s righteousness.

ANOINT THINE EYES WITH EYESALVE — Complete consecration and submission to the divine will as expressed in the Scriptures.

3:19 — I REBUKE AND CHASTEN — The words for rebuke and chasten in the Greek are much more forcible than is here shown. The first means to reproach, disgrace, put to shame, dishonor. The second means to train or educate like a child or youth. What a call! No wonder that the proud and conceited teachers of the popular church cannot hear the call. No wonder some that have seen and heard refuse to follow the path their leader set. “As many as I love I disgrace and train.” (Hymn 322)

3:20 — BEHOLD, I STAND AT THE DOOR, AND KNOCK — Unknown to the Laodicean church, the Lord has returned. He stands at the door. He has not always been there as some think. Sardis—“I will come”; to Philadelphia—“I come quickly”; to Laodicea it is—“rap, rap, awake. Let me in.” Do they hear? It is only those faithful ones who hear. They are awake, the others are all asleep.

AND HE WITH ME — This is the reason that the Little Flock company have such a continual feast of the truth. It is because the Sun of Righteousness has arisen, and those on the housetops and those on the mountains are bathed in its glorious beams. It is because the Master has come and has girded himself, and made us to sit down and has himself served us. While the nominal church is still seemingly in power, while the old glory still hangs about her, it will not be long, for the decree has gone forth, the fall has begun.

3:21 — TO HIM THAT OVERCOMETH — That voice will be heard by the ears of the ears of the understanding, the hearing of faith. It is a knock that must be heard individually. Any man who hears the knock of prophecy and the voice may, if he wills, exercise faith and open the door of his understanding, and realize his Lord's second presence. (Some of the above copies from Bro. Graham's notes from Bro. T. Barker.)

4:2 — I WAS IN THE SPIRIT — A mental vision.

A THRONE — The Millennial kingdom of Christ, the throne of the Father. (Rev. 3:21)

IN HEAVEN — A throne was "set" (established by Jehovah—Isa. 9:7) as the religious ruling power, Ecclesiastical heavens.

4:3 — HE — Christ in Jehovah's name. (Micah 5:4)

RAINBOW — Wave lengths of light = micron = 1/1,000,000 meter; = 1/1,000 millimeter. Standard colors. Red = .644 micron; Orange = .614 micron; Yellow = .585 micron; Green = .521 micron; Blue = .452 micron. Rainbow symbolizes the peace of God, and its perfect harmony. Colors = character graces. See Breastplate stones.

4:4 — FOUR AND TWENTY ELDERS — The twenty-four prophecies of the Old Testament.

4:6 — BEFORE THE THRONE — Before the throne (Christ's Millennial Kingdom) is established on earth.

SEA OF GLASS — The "sea of glass mingled with fire" of Rev. 15:2, "the great time of trouble," burning and raging.

LIKE UNTO CRYSTAL — This is transparent, so that some on one side (the saints) could look through at the established throne and Him that sitteth upon it. So we now can by faith see through the time of trouble and behold the glories of the Millennial age, and the Christ ruling and blessing.

ROUND ABOUT THE THRONE — During and throughout the Millennial age, “in the midst and round about.”

AND BEHIND — The four attributes of Jehovah; justice, wisdom, love and power. Jesus is the express image of the Father’s person. These will be abroad, active in the earth, perceiving all things and judging the people with rewards and punishments. (Isa. 26:9) Wisdom to devise, justice to direct, love to prompt, and power to perform. Thirty times called living creatures

5:1 — RIGHT HAND — Jehovah’s hand (Acts 1:7) known only to himself until someone was found worthy to open it up, know it and become its executor as Jehovah’s honored agent.

OF HIM — Jehovah.

A BOOK — Or scroll, a forceful representation of the divine plan, originally existing only in the mind of God and which could not be made known to any man until someone was found worthy to open the seals and display it to view.

WRITTEN WITHIN — Within was God’s unrevealed plan.

ON THE BACKSIDE — Written on the back with the bare promise of redemption through the blood of Christ, the seed of the woman, the seed of Abraham. (Rom. 8:20-22)

SEVEN SEALS — Completely closed, impossible to be understood and revealed, until one was proved worthy.

5:2 — WHO IS WORTHY — We also are now being daily tested as to our worthiness to look upon this scroll. For Jesus was sent to preach good tidings, to the meek, to open the scroll to them who had ears to hear. So now through the Gospel age and especially now in the harvest we are being found worthy or unworthy to continue to look thereon. (See Heb. 6:4, 5)

5:3 — NEITHER TO LOOK THEREON — Up to the time Jesus suffered for us at Calvary, no one had ever been found worthy to take it up and even understand its contents.

5:5 — ONE OF THE ELDERS — Isaiah’s prophecy? Jacob’s. (Gen. 49)

THE LION — “The Strong One.”

THE ROOT — The source of life to David in the Millennial age, and to the world.

HATH PREVAILED — Hath proved himself worthy, by perfect obedience unto even the death of the cross. (Phil. 2:8, 9)

TO OPEN THE BOOK — Read and understand the plan of God. This Jesus did when He gave this Revelation (chap. 1:1) to John.

LOOSE THE SEVEN SEALS — To start unfolding its features.

5:6 — MIDST OF THE THRONE — Jehovah's throne. (vs. 1)

AND OF THE FOUR BEASTS — Four living creatures, the four attributes of God.

MIDST OF THE ELDERS — The twenty-four prophecies (testimonies) of the Old Testament.

AS IT HAD BEEN SLAIN — Even Christ could not know the particulars of the divine plan until he had demonstrated his faithfulness unto death.

SEVEN HORNS — Complete power, "all power is given unto me in heaven and in earth." (Matt. 28:18)

SEVEN EYES — Perfect Wisdom. (1 Cor. 1:24)

INTO ALL THE EARTH — God's holy Spirit in its complete phases. For eye of the Lord, see Rev. 1:4; 4:5; 3:2; Zech. 3:9; 4:10; 6:5; Ezek. 1:18; 10:12; 2 Chron. 16:9; Amos 9:8; Psa. 34:15; Deut. 11:12.

5:7 — SAT UPON THE THRONE — This Jesus could do when he ascended up on high and presented the merit of the ransom for the Church. And in the Apocalypse Jesus shows that he had opened the book, else the revelation of these features of the plan could not have been given.

5:8 — HARPS — The ten stringed harp of God. See Psa. 3:2; 92:3.

VIALS FULL OF ODOURS — Incense. (margin)

5:9 — REDEEMED — "Agoraso" meaning to purchase in the open market. From "agora"; the town square, the market place.

5:13 — FOR EVER AND EVER — God's character is so great, so grand, that if seen by man it would be revered. God's plan of salvation is so grandly beautiful that when rightly understood it proves more fascinating than any novel. (N-9-24-11) (Most of the above notes taken from Z.'06-39; Z.'02-331; Z.'16-252; Z.'83-9; R.3716; 3103; 5943; 530; and E36)

- 6:1 — COME AND SEE — Here are given the four cherubim or attributes of God. One of the four attributes of God speaks.
- 6:2 — A WHITE HORSE — Love, riding forth conquering and to conquer.
- 6:3 — SECOND BEAST — Another of God's attributes.
- 6:4 — HORSE THAT WAS RED — Wisdom.
- A GREAT SWORD — Sword of God.
- 6:5 — THIRD BEAST — Another of God's attributes.
- BLACK HORSE — Justice, as shown by the balances.
- 6:7 — FOURTH BEAST — Another of God's spiritual attributes.
- 6:8 — PALE HORSE — Power of God to turn man to destruction and then restore all back by a resurrection.
- 6:10 — THEM THAT DWELL ON THE EARTH? — This was the voice of justice, like as in Abel's case. Throughout this Gospel age the Lord has taken notice of the death of all his consecrated people. If anyone is guilty of the death of one of the Lord's saintly, consecrated ones, he brings himself under special obligation and responsibility. There seems to be a special charge of justice against whoever is culpable or responsible for the death or persecution of his saints. (Z.'10-235; R.4651)
- 7:1 — HOLDING THE FOUR WINDS — Financial, political (civil), social, and religious.
- OF THE EARTH — These four winds, let loose = start of anarchy, the time of trouble. These coming together would constitute a whirlwind. (Jer. 25:32) May also signify the letting loose of the fallen angels. If discontent, selfishness can sway mankind under present conditions, what may we expect when the powers of the air are allowed to gain temporary liberty for the sake of showing the evil tendencies of the unregenerate heart, that no liberty can bring true happiness, except that which is in harmony with God. (Z.11-157; R.4822)
- 7:2 — ASCENDING FROM THE EARTH — Not come down from heaven, but from the way of the Sun of Righteousness and ascends into prominence. (C. T. Russell ?)

HAVING THE SEAL OF THE LIVING GOD — The angel does not claim to be the manufacturer of this seal. The seal is the present Truth, it is not merely the book of Revelation.

7:3 — HURT NOT THE EARTH — Organized Society.

NEITHER THE SEA — Disorganized masses.

NOR THE TREES — Justified ones, household of faith.

TILL WE HAVE SEALED THE SERVANTS OF OUR GOD IN THEIR FOREHEADS — An intellectual understanding of God's plans. This is not given to satisfy curiosity but to develop character. See notes 2 Tim. 3:7.

7:4 — ALL THE TRIBES OF THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL — Since these tribes had different standings, as shown in the prophecies concerning them, so there is seemingly quite a possibility that there will be twelve different stations or ranks among the Saints. (Z. '10-244; R.4654)

God originally arranged for the full number of the elect to be taken from Natural Israel, as though He did not know that Natural Israel would reject the Lord and crucify Him. The plan was laid out on the Israelitish basis, even though God knew in advance that Israel would not obtain that which he sought for, but the Elect would obtain it. Thus Jesus referred to His work as being for the twelve tribes of Israel, and so did the Apostles. (Matt. 15:24; 10:5, 6; Jas. 1; Acts 26:7) Thus the sealing of the elect has been in progress for centuries. Altogether, gathered from Jews and Gentiles, there will be 144,000 Kings and Priests unto God, followers of the Lamb, joint-heirs in the Kingdom. The filling up of these assignments of 12,000 to each of the twelve tribes will be done in the same way British regiments of soldiers are recruited in India. The enlistments are made all over Great Britain; for the enlisted man, no matter from what city or county he be, is assigned to membership in whatever regiment is deficient in numbers. (Z. '13-136; R.5231)

7:5 — TWELVE THOUSAND — As our Lord was of the tribe of Judah there may be some special gradation (rank) suggested in this tribe, so this Royal priesthood may be divided into twelve classes. (Z. '10-244; R.4654)

7:9 — PALMS — Palms, symbol of victory, hence these are overcomers, but not willing ones, conquerors; but the Little Flock are more than conquerors. (Z. '10-243; R.4654)

IN THEIR HANDS — See Ex. 15:27. We are not to esteem the Great Company ignoble and traitorous toward the Lord and his cause, for none such will be acceptable for eternal life on any plane. They have the same love for truth and righteousness and for the brethren as the Little Flock, the Royal Priesthood have, but in less degree, they show less zeal. For fear of death they are all their lifetime subject to bondage. For fear of the cost they hold back their sacrifice until too late! Finally the test will come to determine whether or not they will repudiate the Lord, the truth, the brethren. Such as are unwilling to repudiate their earthly rights will be unworthy of further covenant sonship under any condition. But such as will when put to the test, prove loyal, will be counted as companions, servants of the Bride, and be her associates in the work of the kingdom. (Z'.10-230; R.4653)

7:14 — WASHED THEIR ROBES — The Little Flock are represented as keeping their garments unspotted from the world (Jas. 1:27) that they may be without spot or wrinkle in the presence of the King. (Eph. 5:27) (Z.'10-230; R.4653)

The Great Company must have the character, as well as the Little Flock, and as well as the restitution class at the end of the Millennium. No one will be in either the Little Flock or the Great Company except who are in loving loyalty to God, to the brethren, to the principles of righteousness. All others (of the spirit begotten now—of the world in the Millennium) will be condemned as unfit for life eternal upon any plane of being. (Z.'09-72; R.4345)

8:1 — SPACE OF HALF AN HOUR — A short period of religious quiet in the ecclesiastical heavens, just before the Reformation. (Psa. 141:2)

8:3 — ANOTHER ANGEL — Jesus.

CAME AND STOOD AT THE ALTAR — The golden incense altar = the attitude of Jesus as our Advocate. He assumed this attitude when He appeared in the presence of God for us and the Holy Spirit was sent at Pentecost.

HAVING A GOLDEN CENSER — The censers of the Tabernacle were copper. (Lev. 10:1; 16:12; Num. 16:6, 28, 29) This being golden (2 Chron. 4:22; 1 Kings 7:50) would seem to typify a work while Jesus is in Heaven, and acting as our Advocate.

MUCH INCENSE — His own personal merit and worthiness before God. This He adds to the prayers of the saints, imputes His merit to us, so that our prayers are acceptable before God. (John 14:13) "In my name" means through my merit, upon me as an altar, and under me as High priest.

OFFER IT WITH THE PRAYERS — Margin: "Add it to the prayers."

WHICH WAS BEFORE THE THRONE — Thus the prayers of the Saints ascend up before God and are acceptable. As in verse 4.

8:5 — IT WITH FIRE OF THE ALTAR — The testimony that because of Jesus' imputed merit (coals off brazen altar) we are acceptable unto God. The offering of incense at the Golden Altar thus testified (by the coals from the brazen altar) that the work there was on the basis of the work done at the brazen altar (the ransom sacrifice). Thus = justification by faith.

CAST IT INTO THE EARTH — Into society among religious people (not into the sea). This was fulfilled by the revelation to Luther of our justification by faith, and his preaching of it about 1517-1521.

AND AN EARTHQUAKE — The result of this was voices = testifying to our Faith Justification. Thunderings— religious controversies, one side for and the other side against the light. Lightnings = diffusions of knowledge among the people, they were waked up and began to be enlightened on many long forgotten points. Earthquake = People revolted, whole kingdoms, from under the rule of Papacy.

8:6 — SEVEN TRUMPETS PREPARED THEMSELVES TO SOUND — The first six of these trumpets are Satan's trumpets, counterfeits. Were proclamations of his making; because the last trumpet is called the "Trump of God." (2 Thes. 4:16; 1 Cor. 15:52) The six were Satan's error and counterfeit and the last was God's clear truth, the correct understanding given when the light due, in the harvest. These should be contrasted with the seven vials. (Rev. 16)

The events under the six trumpets refer to humanities doings. (B14)

8:7 — CAST UPON THE EARTH — Society.

AND ALL GREEN GRASS WAS BURNT UP — Third part means third part of the justified (green grass and trees) destroyed as such. The other two parts (Little Flock and Great Company) are unaffected. The first vial also affected the earth.

8:8 — CAST INTO THE SEA — The masses. The second vial was poured on the sea.

SEA BECAME BLOOD — Repulsive.

8:9 — AND HAD LIFE — Justified destroyed as such, lose faith.

8:10 — FOUNTAIN OF WATERS — The third vial was poured out on same.

8:12 — THIRD PART OF THE SUN — The fourth vial was poured on sun.

9:1 — FIFTH ANGEL SOUNDED — This is the first woe trumpet, for other two see vs. 12, 13 and Rev. 11:14, 15.

BOTTOMLESS PIT — The fifth vial was poured on the sea of the Beast.

9:2 — THERE AROSE A SMOKE — The “smoke of the Dark Ages,” doctrines of devils, beclouding and numbing the understanding and vision.

A GREAT FURNACE — Hell fire, torment, etc. doctrines.

SUN — Gospel light.

AND THE AIR — Spiritual power and perception in the Church.

SMOKE OF THE PIT — Clouded, all the doctrines of truth were blurred and hidden amongst error.

9:3 — LOCUSTS — False teachers and agents of Satan.

9:13 — HEARD A VOICE — The testimony that Jesus’ merit imputed to us, as our Advocate, makes us acceptable before God. Faith justification.

9:14 — HAD THE TRUMPET — The sixth trumpet began to sound at the Reformation, evidently, and continues, and overlapping the seventh, and then its work slaying the merely justified is completed.

IN THE GREAT RIVER EUPHRATES — The sixth vial was poured on the river Euphrates.

9:15 — FOUR ANGELS — Four angels may represent four sources of revenue, bound and serving Babylon, and supporting her. Gradually loosed.

AND HOUR, AND A DAY, AND A MONTH, AND A YEAR — One year = 360 years. One month = 30 years. One day = One year. One hour = 15 days. Total 391 years and 15 days. In the type the Euphrates flowed through Babylon and furnished the source of her wealth and trade, her wealth was brought in on its waters. It divided the city (Christendom) into two parts (Catholic and Protestant and their support comes from the people. Rev. 17:15) So mystic Babylon. This river is to be dried up (Rev. 16:12; Jer. 50:38) and the support of Babylon to be taken away. 391 years probably measured from same point as the time of Rev. 2:21, viz. the Reformation.

SLAY THE THIRD PART OF MEN — Those justified ones growing more or less rapidly toward consecration. This work would not be sudden but would be accomplished when the sixth trumpet ceased to sound.

9:16 — I HEARD THE NUMBER — 200,000,000.

9:17 — AND THE HEADS — The doctrinal teachers who invented the eternal torment theory as then set forth.

SMOKE AND BRIMSTONE — Eternal torment doctrines.

9:18 — ISSUED OF THEIR MOUTHS — The eternal torment theory would, as education and reason increased, drive people away from the Bible and hence hinder those justified ones and cause them to lose their faith and hence their justification. The agencies to accomplish this will be developed and all their effect will be together at the end.

9:20 — SHOULD NOT WORSHIP DEVILS — These were doctrines of devils.

NOR HEAR, NOR WALK — The sin reprov'd and punished by voice of sixth trumpet was idolatry, the natural consequences of it became visible, cause and effect. The punishment for it was its effect in the destruction of the justified.

9:21 — MURDERS — Brother-hatings.

SORCERIES — Twisting of truth to make demon-doctrines.

FORNICATION — Alliance with worldly powers and people. The reformers did this as before.

THEFTS — Robberies of God, from what is rightly his, viz. whole hearted service, devotion to truth and right—The justified go back into world condition of death in God's sight. 11:1 — A ROD — This rod is the Golden Rule. (Sermon, 12-6-08)

11:13 — SLAIN OF MEN SEVEN THOUSAND — As this is a type or parallel of the great time of trouble, the 7000 men (justified) may represent the Great Company.

11:15 — GREAT VOICES IN HEAVEN — The seventh vial was poured out upon the air.

11:19 — TEMPLE OF GOD WAS OPENED IN HEAVEN — At the sounding of the seventh trump, some specially clear and open views of God's glorious temple (the Church) would be granted.

ARK OF HIS TESTAMENT — Also clear views of the Covenants which came in 1909. This view would be clear only to the temple class (in his temple) the faithful consecrated ones, who stand the test.

LIGHTNINGS — Flashes of light (knowledge) on all subjects.

12:1 — THE MOON UNDER HER FEET — The moon (Jewish Law) threw a reflected light on the things she was to endure, revealing the sufferings of Christ beforehand.

AND UPON HER HEAD A CROWN OF TWELVE STARS — The number 12 is the church number, typically or really (12 stones in breastplate, 12 tribes of Israel, 12 Apostles, city 12 foundations, $144 = 12^2$.) The 12 stars (teachers) here represent 12 Apostles; Crown on head—these are here the divinely appointed guides to her understanding of the truth and of God's plan. (D544, 591) These are fixed stars.

12:14 — TO THE WOMAN — The true church.

EAGLE — Symbol of power of the air, of spiritual power. Sharp eyed means great wisdom.

TWO WINGS — Old and New Testaments.

13:11 — ANOTHER BEAST — Great Britain.

EARTH — Society, order loving people. England has had but few revolutions, her advance has been more by legislation as light increased.

TWO HORNS — Church of England and Ireland.

LIKE A LAMB — The Church of England makes the claim that the Church of Rome makes—that she is the true church, that all others are wrong, that she has the original apostolic succession, that no one is commissioned to preach unless he has had divine Apostolic hands laid on him. This has been the claim of the Church of England for centuries and is the main distinction between it and the other Protestant denominations. (D9)

AS A DRAGON — Through the civil power of Great Britain. The King of England is recognized as the head of the church.

13:14 — IMAGE OF THE BEAST — The Evangelical Alliance, though organized in 1846, has not been able to accomplish its purpose, because it did not know how to operate. The denominations in the Alliance were united only in name, and hence have worked against each other. Denominations outside the Alliance were declaring it to be unauthorized; and they in turn challenged the Evangelical Churches to show where they got authority to preach. As a result the image had no power to act, it was trodden down; and to get vitality it must have apostolic succession. (D9)

13:15 — LIFE UNTO THE IMAGE — Here the Scriptures intimate that the Church of England will become intimate with the Evangelical Alliance and will give it apostolic authority to preach. Because of this union they will be able to say—“We have apostolic authority to preach. Let no one speak unless he has our sanction.” (D18)

13:16 — MARK . . . IN THEIR FOREHEADS — The croaking of the frog spirits or doctrines will gather the kings and princes; financial, political, religious and industrial into one great army. The spirit of fear inspired by the croaking will scourge the passions of otherwise good and reasonable men to fury, desperation. In their blind following of these evil doctrines they will be ready to sacrifice life and everything on what they mistakenly suppose is the altar of justice and righteousness under a divine arrangement. Many noble people will assume an attitude quite contrary to their preference. For a time the wheels of liberty and progress will be turned backward (Isa. 59:13-16) and medieval restraints will be considered necessary for self preservation, for maintaining the present order and preventing the new order which God has decreed and the due time for which has come. For a brief time these combined forces of Armageddon will triumph. Free speech, free mails, and other liberties which have come to be the very breath of the masses in our day, will be ruthlessly shut off under the plea of necessity, the glory of God, the commands of the church. The safety valve will be sat upon, and thus will cease to annoy earth's kings with the sound of escaping steam, and all will seem to be serene until the great social explosion described in Rev. 16:18 as a great earthquake, a social revolution, will take place. At this juncture God will gather the marshalled hosts to Armageddon.

14:3 — REDEEMED — “Agorazo” means purchased in the market. The word occurs in the New Testament 31 times and is rendered 3 times by “redeemed,” 13 times “bought,” 15 times “buy.” (See also Gal. 3:13; 4:4, 5; Eph. 5:15, 16; Col. 4:45) (E430)

14:4 — REDEEMED — See note on verse 3.

14:14 — SHARP SICKLE — The presence of Christ and the beginning of the Harvest.

14:15 — ANOTHER ANGEL — The time prophecies of the Great Pyramid.

OUT OF THE TEMPLE — A messenger of the Church, the true Church.

CRYING WITH A LOUD VOICE — Far reaching and powerful, convincing the Sanctuary class.

THRUST IN THY SICKLE — The present truth.

REAP — The proclamation of the Time of the Harvest, and its work and the Presence of Christ as the Chief Reaper.

TIME IS COME — The fulfillment of the time prophecies, as to the Harvest.

14:16 — SICKLE — Truths of six Volumes, Sermons, Photo-drama and B.S.M. etc. To reap the saints.

14:18 — ALTAR — The brazen altar, the ransom sacrifice.

WHICH HAD POWER OVER FIRE — Power to save from destruction. Fire represents the great time of trouble to destroy present institutions. The Altar had power to protect from the demands of justice all who became identified with it. But when the elect are gathered the time comes to remove God's restraining hand, his vengeance will then fall upon all evil institutions.

14:20 — WINEPRESS WAS TRODDEN — Instrument for concentration of divine energy of God's wrath expressed in Ezekiel and Revelation. Trod by Saints (Isa. 63; Rev. 14:19) God is not in the earthquake or fire, that is man's work. God shows the Truth and lifts his restraining hand letting mankind destroy his own kind, the mobs work on the Kings and clergy the things which the latter have taught them. God's work is the winepress.

15:1 — ANOTHER SIGN — Symbol, picture.

IN HEAVEN — Ecclesiastical heavens, powers of spiritual control.

GREAT AND MARVELLOUS — One of the last great signs.

SEVEN ANGELS — Messengers.

SEVEN LAST PLAGUES — "Plege" means literally a stroke (of lightning here), strokes of truth. Thunder always follows and is the report of lightning and so the seven thunders are the effects or reports of these seven strokes of lightning.

WRATH — “Thumos” means passion, literally breathing hard and hence may really mean “word” or message of God.

OF GOD — The effects of the seven last plagues, the seven vials, will, when all are working together, sum up and complete the destruction of the present order of things and the humbling of human pride and ambition. This thought is typified by the fact that the tenth Egyptian plague was enough to accomplish God’s purposes, and subsequently the power of Pharaoh (Satan) was overthrown. So with the final result here. Satan’s power and kingdom will be overthrown. (Rev. 11:15)

15:2 — MINGLED WITH FIRE — Sea, represents discontented masses of men. Mingled with fire means trouble and consuming disaster. Sea of glass (“ualinos” means transparent as rain (from “ualos,” meaning and “uetos,” meaning rain). Some who stand above it (not engulfed in it) can see through and beyond it.

HARPS OF GOD — Harps represent the Bible. (Harp of ten strings.) Old and New Testament. The various testimonies of the Law and Prophets are the several chords of that harp, which when tuned by the holy spirit dwelling in our hearts, and swept by the fingers of his devoted servants and searchers after divine truths, yields the most enchanting strains that ever fell on mortal ears. Praise the Lord for the exquisite melody of the blessed song of “Moses and the Lamb” which we learn through the testimony of the holy Apostles and Prophets, of whom the Lord Jesus is chief! (F233)

15:3 — SONG OF MOSES — See Song of Dedication of Temple. (2 Chron. 7:3)

THOU KING OF SAINTS — This is the song which none but the overcomers can truly appreciate and sing at the present time, but by and by, when the glory of the Lord shall have filled the temple, the peoples, the multitudes, shall learn that songs and all peoples shall bow to the Lord to confess his goodness and love.

15:5 — TESTIMONY IN HEAVEN WAS OPENED — The nominal church.

15:6 — SEVEN ANGELS — The living saints in the harvest time.

CAME OUT OF THE TEMPLE — Withdrew from the nominal church.

HAVING SEVEN PLAGUES — Psa.149:7-9; Rev. 2:26, 27. (Z.’82-9-6; R.395)

15:8 — NO MAN — One of mature mind.

ENTER INTO THE TEMPLE — The nominal temple, because he could see nothing but error there. Typified in Solomon's temple. (1 Kings 8:10, 11)

16:1 — TEMPLE — Nominal church.

SEVEN ANGELS — The little flock, a complete number.

GO YOUR WAYS — Do what you can. The various truth people are pouring out these vials or golden bowls.

POUR OUT THE VIALS — The volumes. The picture here is of their effect on those who will not receive them. To those who do receive them they are blessings, but to all opposers they work the wrath of God.

UPON THE EARTH — Society.

GRIEVOUS SORE — Those who opposed these truths became more and more filled with the spirit of malice, hate, envy, strife, backbiting, spiritual sickness, soreness, irritability, etc. A malignant ulcer, running sore, drains the whole system. This evil heart condition increases and spreads in all their life and actions until spiritual gangrene sets in, sores of the mind.

WORSHIPPED HIS IMAGE — Those affiliated with papacy and the Protestant Federation. The opposers are of these classes.

16:3 — POURED OUT HIS VIAL — "The Time is at Hand" Jubilee. Increase of knowledge causes selfish men to seek more of rights.

UPON THE SEA — Restless masses of discontented men.

BLOOD OF A DEAD MAN — Clotted blood (no serum in it, no life in it). Serum class, the peace and law and order lovers, later become squelched and dried up. Then hooligans get to work. Result of attempt of masses to get liberty.

SOUL DIED IN THE SEA — All the justified. Law abiding citizens, the life of society. No voice then for law and order. No restraining influence among the masses.

16:4 — VIAL UPON THE RIVERS — Channels of truth, sects of Christendom.

FOUNDATIONS — The schools and founders of these channels.

WATERS — Truth. A certain amount of truth, more or less contaminated to be sure, flowed in these systems for a long time.

BECAME BLOOD — See Comments.

16:7 — OUT OF THE ALTAR SAY — The Great Pyramid, third volume. It corroborates the Plan and the judgment of nations.

16:8 — SUN — The light of the Gospel. @SECOND PAR = FIRE — By its due message of the time of trouble.

16:9 — NOT TO GIVE HIM GLORY — The rays of truth will scorch men, hurt them and cause religionists to blaspheme God.

16:10 — OUT HIS VIAL — The truth concerning the Atonement.

SEAT OF THE BEAST — Doctrine of the Mass.

KINGDOM WAS FULL OF DARKNESS — Ignorance.

TONGUES FOR PAIN — Will recant and draw back their words with much hurt to them. (Jer. 51:44)

16:12 — RIVER EUPHRATES — In the type Euphrates was the support and revenue source of Babylon. Both sides of City represents Protestant and Catholic. The channel will be dried up and a new one opened into which people will give their support. See Jer. 46.

16:13 — UNCLEAN SPIRITS LIKE FROGS — Bloated, swelled with pride, and self-confidence in their wisdom.

MOUTH OF THE DRAGON — Civil power under Satan's rule. Roman power, represented by the civil power in the world. (D)

MOUTH OF THE BEAST — Papacy. The Papal system, not the Pope, not Catholic Congregations, not to individual Catholics. But to the system as a whole which has existed for centuries. Papacy claims that Messiah's Kingdom was established in 799 A.D. and that it lasted 1000 years, just as the Bible declared Christ's Kingdom will last, that it expired in 1799 A.D. Also that since 1799 this Kingdom has been suffering violence and that the Devil has been loosed in fulfillment of Rev. 20:7. History records that the era closing with 1799, marked by Napoleon's Egyptian campaign sealed and defined the limit of papal dominion over the nations. Napoleon even took the Pope prisoner to France where he died. This humiliating experience Roman Catholics claim, marks the time of the loosing of Satan in fulfillment of Rev. 20:7, that very shortly the church will again get full power in the world and that as a result every one who does not obey will be destroyed.

(D)

FALSE PROPHET — Protestant Federation with Church of England as its head. The Evangelical Alliance, an organization of different Protestant denominations, was formed in 1846 for the very purpose of doing in their own way, the same things that Catholicism would do in its own way. Seeing the great power which Roman Catholics would exercise because of a united system, Protestants said, "We are divided. We have no power. We will organize." Then and there according to the Scriptures they made an image of the Beast. See Rev. 13:11-18 notes. The Scriptures clearly indicate that the Image of the Beast is to get so great power that it will do the same things that Papacy did in the past, and the two systems, Protestant and Catholic, will rule the civilized world with a high hand through the civil power, the Dragon. This result will be brought about by the utterances of the combined power of church and state. Unclean spirits like frogs. Spirit represents a doctrine, her an unclean, false doctrine. Each of these systems will utter the same or similar things, and these utterances will have the effect of gathering the kingdoms of earth together to the great Battle of Armageddon. The symbolism of Scripture, rightly understood is very forceful and there is always a close resemblance between the symbol itself and the things symbolized. While a frog is a small creature yet it puffs itself up till it almost bursts in the effort to be somebody. A frog has a very wise look even though it does not know very much. A frog croaks whenever it utters a sound. The three most prominent characteristics of a frog then are pomposity, an air of superior wisdom, and knowledge, and a continual croaking. So from the civil power, from the Papacy, from the Protestant Federation, will go forth the same teachings. The spirit of all will be boastful, an air of superior knowledge and wisdom will be assumed. All will foretell dire results to follow any failure to obey their counsels. However conflicting the creeds the differences will be ignored in the general proposition that nothing ancient must be disturbed or investigated, or repudiated. The divine authority of the church and the divine right of kings will not be allowed to conflict for both will be endorsed. Any person or teachings in conflict with these boastful unscriptural claims, will be branded as everything vile, at the mouths of the frogs croaking from pulpits and platforms and through the religious and secular press. The nobler sentiments of some will be strangled by the philosophy of the same evil spirit which spoke through Caiaphas the High priest about our Lord Jesus. As Caiaphas declared it expedient to commit a crime in violation of justice, both human and divine to be rid of Jesus and his teachings, so this frog-like spirit will approve of any and every violation of principle necessary to self protection.

Every true Christian is ashamed to look back upon the pages of history and see what terrible deeds were done in the name of Jesus, of God and justice. We are not to think for a moment that these frog spirits or doctrines are all bad, but rather that they are doctrines of bombast and pomposity, representing themselves to be wise and great and having the backing of centuries. Out of the mouth of the Dragon comes the doctrine of the divine right of kings—"Do not look back of the curtain of history to see where the kings got that right. Accept the doctrine; for if you do not, and if men look into the matter there will be a terrible revolution and everything will go down!"

The Beast and the False Prophet have similar croakings—"The Catholic church says—Do not look behind. Do not question anything about the church." Protestantism says also—"We are great: We are wise, we know a great deal. Keep quiet! No one will then know that you know nothing." All say (croaking) "We tell you that if you say anything against present arrangements, terrible things will come to pass!" Political parties are figuring in this. All declare—"If any change should come it will mean terrible disaster." Some have the backbone and some have the civil power behind them but unitedly they croak to the people that if any change is made it will mean ruin to the present order. In the language of our day—"Stand Pat"—is the order in church and state; but the people are being moved by fear. (D9-14)

16:16 — IN THE HEBREW TONGUE ARMAGEDDON — It is this croaking of the Beast, the Dragon, and the False Prophet that will arouse the Kings of the earth and gather them together to the Armageddon battle and destruction. The ecclesiastical kings and priests with their retinue of clergy and faithful adherents will be gathered in solid Phalanx—Protestant and Catholic. The political kings and princes, senators, and all in high places will be their henchmen and retainers, will follow in line on the same side. The financial kings and merchant princes, and all whom they can influence by the most gigantic power ever yet exercised in the world, will join the same side, according to this prophecy. They do not realize that they are coming to Armageddon, yet strange to say this is a part of their very cry. "Come together to Armageddon." God's side will be the people's side; and that very nondescript host, the people will be pitted at the beginning of the battle. Anarchists, Socialists, hot headed radicals of every school of reason and unreason, will be in the forefront of that battle. He who has any knowledge of armies knows that a great army is composed of all classes. The crisis will be reached when the hitherto upholders of the Law shall become violators of the Law, and resisters of the will of the majority as expressed by the ballot. Fear for the future will goad the well meaning masses to desperation, and anarchy will result where socialism fails. (D9-14)

ARMAGEDDON — "Megiddo" [from gadad (Heb.) = to crowd, also to gash (as by pressure into)] hence rendezvous, meeting place.
"Armageddon" [from Heb. har, short form of hara = to loom up, from an anc. root; hence a mountain] = mount of meeting, or secondary sense, mount of destruction. (Strong's Conc.)

16:19 — INTO THREE PARTS — Beast, Image of the Beast, and Dragon. Papacy, Protestant Federation, Civil Power.

17:1-6 — Contrast this, vss. 1-6 with Rev. 21; Rev. 12:13-17.

17:3 — INTO THE WILDERNESS — All who would get a true view of Babylon, must in spirit, take their position with the true saints, in the wilderness condition of separation from the world and its ideas (Psa. 55:6-8) and mere forms of godliness, in the condition of entire consecration and faithfulness and dependency upon God. (D27)

17:4 — STONES AND PEARLS — With earthly splendor only. Contrast with Rev. 19:8.

A GOLDEN CUP — Word of God. (Z. '83-4-7; R.473)

17:5 — THE GREAT — Since Papacy is not a single individual but a great religious system, we should expect to find other religious systems answering to the illustration of daughters of similar character—harlots, in the same sense—i.e. religious systems claiming to be the Bride of Christ or the espoused virgin, and yet courting the favor and receiving the support of the world at the price of disloyalty to Christ. To this description the various Protestant systems fully correspond. The daughter systems parted from the mother under travail and were born virgins. But they contained more than true reformers, many who still had the spirit of the mother and they inherited many of the false doctrines. Before long they fell into many of her bad practises and proved their character true to the prophetic stigma—Harlots. (D29-30)

ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH — Her unfaithfulness to the Lord, whose name she claims, and to her high privilege to be a virgin espoused to Christ, is the reason for the symbolic application—harlot, which her influence as a sacerdotal empire full in inconsistency and confusion is symbolically represented by the name—Babylon, which in its widest sense, as symbolized by the Babylonian Empire, we promptly recognize as Christendom; while in its more restricted sense, as symbolized by the ancient city—Babylon, we recognize to be the nominal Christian Church. (D56) See Jer. 51.

17:6 — ADMIRATION — Should be wonder.

17:14 — CALLED — From the justified state to the high calling. (Z. '07-315; R.4077)

CHOSEN — Accepted the call and been begotten of the Spirit.

FAITHFUL — Till death, made their calling and election sure.

17:18 — REIGNETH OVER THE KINGS OF THE EARTH — There was only one city in John's day which reigned over the Kings of the earth—Rome. Rome's common name with the classic writers of John's day is "the seven hilled city." Every Latin poet of note during a period of 500 years alludes to Rome's seven hills. The medals and coins of the day represent Rome as a woman sitting on seven hills. Her titles show with sufficient clearness how thoroughly she reigned. She was styled—"The Royal Rome," "The mistress of the world," "The Queen of Nations." Her sway was all but universal. (Z.'83-4-7; R.473)

18:4 — RECEIVE NOT OF HER PLAGUES — As a rule, only the warm and zealous ever get free from Babylon. The others coolly calculate and weigh matters so long that the spirit of the world, the flesh and the Devil put fresh binds on them, even after they have gotten in the light and see considerable. (Z.98-112; R.2289) Obey! See Marginal references.

18:21 — SHALL BE FOUND NO MORE AT ALL — The lifting of the stone signifies that Papacy is to regain some of her power before her fall, and Protestantism as part of the Babylonish system will also gain power for a short season. (Rev. 13:11-17) (D37)

18:24 — THAT WERE SLAIN UPON THE EARTH — This is the parallel to Matt. 23:35. If the light that has been given to the world has been received rightly it would have made Christendom ready by now to receive the King. But each generation had rejected the light until the present condition of selfishness, hatred and murderous spirit is reached as the result. The cup of iniquity is full nearly and retribution will be poured out on Christendom (Babylon) (vs. 6) This is the just and logical result of the harboring and nourishing of the spirit of murder which killed the Lord's saints. As in Rev. 6:9-11 the voice of justice cries. Apparently the Lord purposes that in the end of this age, he will do as he did in the end of the Jewish age, having a summing up, or accounting as it were and a satisfaction of justice as respects these special trespasses against the "Body of Christ, the Church." (Z.'10-235; R.4651) Jeremiah 51:49 indicates that this retribution is on account of the murder of God's people. These are the sins (wilful), which are atoned for by the Great Company (the scapegoat class). See notes on scapegoat for Leviticus.

19:6 — A GREAT MULTITUDE — These may be the Great Company. At the fall of Babylon they will be fully set free from the timidity which has restrained them and be glad to acclaim the Bride. Later they will hear an invitation to participate in the marriage supper of the Lamb. (Vs. 9)

(Z. '10-230; R.4649) Typified also by Rebecca's servants.

19:10 — SPIRIT OF PROPHECY — See 2 Pet. 1:21; 1 Pet. 1:11.

20:3 — A LITTLE SEASON — During the Millennial age the New Covenant at the hands of the Mediator will mean a blessing to all under the Mediator and shielded by him from the full requirements of divine justice and under this beneficial arrangement they will come up to the full perfection of their nature and in the end of the Millennium be fully able to meet all the divine requirements and no longer need a Mediator between them and the Father. And so, having put down all sin and disobedience, having destroyed death, having uplifted humanity from death except those who will go into second death, the Lord will deliver over the Kingdom to the Father not for its destruction but because it will at that time be fully able to enjoy direct all the blessings of Covenant relationship with God, which in an imperfect condition it could not be. Such will be the Covenant relationship in fullest sense at the close of the Millennium. Man will be back to the same place exactly as Adam was at the beginning, when created in the image and likeness of God, and was called a Son of God. As Adam was tried after he was a Son of God, so these will be tried. After the 1000 years Satan shall be loosed that he may test and attempt to deceive them. If after all their experience with sin they would have any lurking sympathy with it, the deception will be sure to discover this sympathy, thus determining their unfitness for eternal life. (Z. '10-124, 334; R.4695, 4704)

20:4 — REIGNED WITH CHRIST A THOUSAND YEARS — The ancient and popular doctrine of the Millennium was intimately connected with the second coming of Christ. As the works of creation had been finished in six days, their duration in their present state, according to a tradition which was attributed to the prophet Elijah, was fixed to 6000 years. By the same analogy it was inferred that this long period of labor and contention, which was not almost lapsed, would be succeeded by a joyful sabbath of 1000 years; and that Christ with the triumphant band of the saints and the elect who had escaped death or who had been miraculously revived would reign upon earth till the time appointed for the last and general resurrection. . . . The assurances of such a Millennium was carefully inculcated by a succession of fathers from Justin Martyr and Irenaeus who conversed with the immediate disciples of the Apostles down to Lactantius who was preceptor to the son of Constantine. Though it might not be universally received it appears to have been the reigning sentiment of the orthodox believers; and it seems so well adapted to the desires and apprehension of mankind that it must have contributed in a very considerable degree to the progress of the Christian faith. But when the edifice of the church was almost completed the temporary support was laid aside. The doctrine of Christ's reign upon earth was at first treated as a profound allegory, was considered by degrees as a doubtful and useless opinion, and was at length rejected as the absurd invention of heresy and fanaticism. A mysterious prophecy, which still forms a part of the Sacred Canon, but which was thought to favor the exploded sentiment, has very narrowly escaped the proscription of the Church. (Gibbon's Rome. Vol. 1, Chap. 15, p. 533-535)

20:5 — BUT THE REST . . . FINISHED — These words are not found in Sinaitic MS. but are nevertheless true when rightly understood that the world will not regain the fulness of life lost—perfect life—until the end of the Millennium. (A288; F721) Those in the Millennial age who come forth from the tomb will still be dead (2 Cor. 5:14; Eph. 5:14), in the sense that they will not have perfection of life, they will not be thoroughly awake intellectually. (N-6-20-09)

20:7 — SATAN SHALL BE LOOSED OUT OF HIS PRISON — The world will not be on trial for eternal life until the end of the Millennium. They will be given all Millennial age to subscribe to the New Covenant.

20:8 — SHALL GO OUT TO DECEIVE — Satan will have to deal with perfect men here, thoroughly experienced as to the comparative results of righteousness and of sin. The iron rule will be taken away, the restraint taken away from those who are evil-minded, and sin for a time go unpunished. If there is a single speck of sin in the heart it will then manifest itself, and when all the disloyal are manifest they will be destroyed as at the flood.

AS THE SAND OF THE SEA — The earthly seed of Abraham, the perfect race. (Z.'10-227; R.4646)

20:12 — BOOK OF LIFE — Not the Lamb's book of life, for that is open only during the Gospel age, and closed at its end; but a new book of those who are worthy of life in the Millennial age.

The Bible mentions two books of life—one belonging to the present time and the other to the Millennial age. The special book of life that is open at this present time is the one in which the names of all the overcomers of this Gospel age are written. When we take the step of consecration and are begotten to the Holy Spirit it is appropriate that we should be reckoned as belonging to the family of God. (Z.'14-11; R.5379) (F165)

21: — As the new heavens do not mean a new place for God's throne, so the new "earth" does not mean another planet. The new heavens are a new condition, the spiritual power and control of Christ and his glorified church; so the new earth means a new social order on this planet—the new heavens and earth constituting the world to come wherein dwelleth righteousness. (Z.'16-392; R.6024)

21:1 — NEW HEAVEN — New religious ruling powers. Christ and the church (and the Great Company as servants).

NEW EARTH — The new social order, society reorganized on the basis of love, with the Ancient Worthies as rulers on Earth.

FIRST HEAVEN — The present evil world with Satan and his angels as the spiritual power and man's social condition founded on selfishness.

PASSED AWAY — In the great time of trouble. (Mal. 4:1)

WAS NOT MORE SEA — Mankind will be lifted up out of the depths of sin and degradation and under the proper regulations of God's kingdom a general equality in the world, will be established. (Isa. 40:4) Such a sea class will not be necessary or possible, because the new order will contain all the benefits and blessings of the higher and wiser socialism, and mean the largest possible good and blessing to the world, without discrimination or distinction. (Except as to character.) (N-4-12-08)

SEA — Masses of the people in a restless and unstable, anarchistic condition. Just as the land represents the social order and mountains represent the kingdoms of the present time. As there is no reference to the physical heavens or physical earth being destroyed so there is no reference to the physical sea being obliterated. The reconstructed social order will be so satisfying, so complete, so thorough, that there will be no more sea class, no more dissatisfied masses, no more anarchists. Everything will be reduced to law and order and the new regime will secure justice.

21:3 — TABERNACLE OF GOD — The church, God's dwelling place will be with men to bless and uplift and restore them. (Psa. 132:13, 14)

21:5 — I WILL MAKE ALL THINGS NEW — The close of the year is like the close of the age. The sowing and reaping of the year with their associated hopes and fears and labors with sweat of face have been accomplished. The harvests have been gathered; and on well ordered farms the brush and brambles, thorns and thistles have been destroyed by "gehenna" fires. In general it is a time of preparation for a fresh start. In the business world it is a time for taking stock and for taking account of the profits and losses of the year. In other words it is a time of judgment, or decision. It is a time for dropping the unsatisfactory and for putting the business on a proper footing for the next year. It is a time for issuing dividends or rewards to those who have made wise investments. It is a time for the meeting of the directors and for electing the officers and servants for the new year. So at the close of this age its affairs are being wound up. The Lord is judging his people and is about to reward the faithful in glory, and the world's condition must be set in order for the new arrangement of things about to be inaugurated. (N-12-12-29)

22:1 — PURE — Representing the blessed influence that will proceed to humanity from the glorified Christ head and body, from the Kingdom of God's dear Son, Pure represents Truth unmixed with error, not muddy with human tradition.

PURE RIVER — Nowhere do the Scriptures speak of the river of life as existing now, during this Gospel age. There is none, nor can there be any until the Heavenly city descends from above, for the river must flow from the midst of it, from the throne. Now, the Lord speaks of his people as having a well of water in each one springing up into everlasting life. (John 4:14; 7:37-39)

CLEAR AS CRYSTAL — Sparkling with attractive, life giving qualities. Will make people desire to drink. (Isa. 25:9)

THRONE OF GOD — Jehovah is the source of all blessing. (See also Z.'00-215; R.2665)

22:2 — MIDST OF THE STREET — Literally "Broad place," plenty of room. (Isa. 33:21) Liberty from the bondage of sin and death and Satan.

TREE OF LIFE — Literally "grove" or "wood." One tree could hardly be in the middle of the street and on both sides of the river at the same time. Diag.: "Wood;" Roth.: note = "tree" in a generic term. Ezek. 47:7 "very many trees." These trees of life are the church, the planting of the Lord (Isa. 61:3) Each tree bearing 12 fruit and yielding their fruit every month = 144 fruit per year, and for 1000 years = 144,000 fruit on each of the 144,000 trees or 20,736,000 = the human race delivered in the Millennium (Bro. Sexton)

LEAVES — The testimony of the power of God's love to deliver from sin and death unto perfection of character and life as shown in the history of God's people. There will be saints gathered from all walks of life there and men will see the proof that God can lift from the lowest depths to perfection, and this will encourage men to try.

This river will be the pure message of the Lord, going forth from the Millennial Kingdom for the blessing, refreshment, rejuvenation and everlasting life of the whole world of mankind or as many as will accept the blessed provisions.

22:3 — THRONE OF GOD — The government which will then be established in the world will have as its center of authority the divine law and divine power—every feature of the government will be in accord with the divine will.

22:6 — SAID UNTO ME — Having pictured the work of restitution down to its consummation in the delivery of the kingdom of God, by delivering it over to those for whom the Father originally designed it, and who by that time will have been fully prepared to receive it. Then the address of the Revelation changes.

22:7 — THIS BOOK — The intimation seems to be that, the book being symbolical, none can understand it except as its seals are loosed, as its message opens before the Lord's people. And when its teachings come to be appreciated, it may be recognized by those who understand it as an evidence that the establishment of the kingdom is close at hand.

22:9 — SEE — This may mean that in the end of the Gospel age, as the whole Church, the John class, come to see the unfolding of the divine plan there might be a disposition among them to do too much honor to the one used of the Lord in sending the light now due. The angel set forth the proper thing—"Do not worship me, I am not the author of this plan. God alone should be worshipped. He is the author of this great plan, and he will be the finisher of it." This plan is brought to our attention now by the Father because now is the time due for His people to come to an appreciation of his purposes.

22:11 — LET HIM BE HOLY STILL — When the features of the symbolic revelation come to be understood, the Lord's people may know the time of completion is at hand. They are not to feel it necessary to hide the matter. Again, they must not expect that the telling of this message, explaining the divine plan will have the effect of converting the world. The message was not designed to do this and will not do it. "None of the wicked shall understand." So far as the revelation of the divine plan is concerned it is not designed to make the filthy righteous nor turn the righteous to sin. So far as the revelation is concerned the righteous may be righteous still and the filthy be filthy still. How true it is that the present truth has no effect on those that love sin. It appeals only to the righteously inclined. This does not mean it appeals only to saints. There are some who are not saints merely because they never fully grasped the conditions of the divine call, but who are nevertheless righteous persons who desire to live uprightly, honestly, who are sincere and truthful in heart and in dealing with others so far as knowledge permits. To these lovers of truth, as well as to the holy the revelation of the divine plan commends itself, and intensifies their love for righteousness and their appreciation of full consecration to the Lord. The unrighteous and filthy are not specially moved by this message. During the Millennial age, however, the vigorous processes of the Kingdom will correct many of these filthy and unrighteous persons, and ultimately may develop some of them into lovers of the light, the truth, and the way, bringing many into full fellowship with the Lord, and thus securing to them everlasting life.

22:17 — THE SPIRIT — Then the Spirit, the power (and love) of God will cooperate with the message then sent forth, and the result will be that all the world shall hear, and all who love righteousness and hate iniquity will return to life everlasting. It will require the entire Millennial age for the delivery of the message to every creature, and for mankind to avail themselves of the privilege then afforded to whosoever will.

AND THE BRIDE — There will be a bride then, there is no bride yet. The church is an espoused virgin but the marriage of the Lamb is still deferred. (2 Cor. 11:2) The last members of the church must complete their course, must pass their final examination and enter into glory with Him before the marriage can be consummated.

SAY COME — After the marriage of the Lamb there will be not only the Holy City, representing the church in her official state or governing capacity, but there will also be the blessed work of the church—the calling of the world's attention to the River of Life, to the leaves of healing, and the fruits of the Spirit.

APPENDIX

ANCIENT WORTHIES AND GREAT COMPANY

Were the Ancient Worthies on Trial?

No. They were never brought to a condition of intelligent opportunity for eternal life which would make them amendable to a sentence of death. Such a condition of knowledge and opportunity was not in the world until our Lord came. "Grace and truth came by Jesus Christ." "He brought life and immortality to light." Since human perfection will come only under the Millennial reign of Christ, the Ancient Worthies will not be introduced to the Father till the end of the Millennium. So they will not have life in this fullest sense until then. They will have perfection of human nature and all the blessings that God provides for mankind through the Mediator. But they will not come into actual and personal relationship to God, so as to be determined worthy of eternal life until the end of the Millennium, because that age is set apart for determining who of all mankind will or may have eternal life, aside from the Church and Great Company. At the end of the Millennium, when all men are in perfection of being, they shall be tried of the Father for their worthiness or unworthiness for life eternal, just as Adam while enjoying perfection, was tested as to whether or not he was worthy to have life made perpetual or eternal. Since the Ancient Worthies will be a part of the world under New Covenant arrangements it follows that they will not have this decision of the Divine Court, respecting their worthiness of eternal life until the end of the Millennium, until the end of that trial at the end of the age, which will bring to them as to all the faithful, the great reward of life eternal. (Z. '10-132; R.4598)

Ancient Worthies Or Great Company Resurrected First?

The Ancient Worthies cannot be resurrected until the blood is all back in the hands of Christ and is applied again for the world.

The Great Company entered into the arrangement not with confidence in their own ability to accomplish anything for themselves but because of the specific arrangement that the Redeemer would cover all their sins, at the time of their consecrations. "The sins that are past through the forbearance of God." The Lord Jesus offered to be their Advocate with the Father and to be with them an ever present help in time of trouble. He promised to be their Advocate in respect to all the trials and difficulties of life and in their battlings with the flesh, and in the occasional manifestations of the imperfections of the flesh, contrary to the will of the New Creature. Hence his interest in these will continue after the Little Flock class shall have been dealt with and passed beyond the veil.

Since the basis of his advocacy is the merit of his sacrifice, the maintaining of his standing as their Advocate would be to require that he should retain this purpose in the hands of the Father, the merit of his sacrifice and hence would not yet apply it for the sealing of the New Covenant for Israel and through Israel for the world. In the type, the sending away of the scapegoat into the wilderness toward the close of the day of Atonement and no account being given of its destruction might seem to imply that the Great Company and their experiences would not be taken into account at all beyond the time of the sending away of the goat. But the argument above would seem conclusively to prove that the merit of Christ must continue applicable until the last members of the Great Company class shall have suffered the complete destruction of the flesh which he failed to give up voluntarily. (Z. '10:141)

CHRIST

The Four Gospels Account of Jesus

To the true disciple the four Gospels are four views of the life of Jesus, placed on record under the guidance of the Holy Spirit and necessary to the follower of Jesus to enable him to walk the narrow way first opened up by our Lord. (Heb. 10:20)

Each account has its own particular phase of the truth revealed in Him. Matthew's record is of Jesus presented in relationship to the Kingdom of Heaven which God was to establish. Mark—a record of Jesus as a faithful servant. Luke tells of the human side of Jesus' ministry, and relates Jesus to humanity more directly than do others. It was left for John to present the message of the gospel of the Kingdom in telling how Jesus came as the messenger of God from heaven. Connects Jesus with the Father more directly than the other Evangelists.

Moses And Christ Compared

1. Moses renounced riches and power to suffer poverty with his people. So Jesus left his heavenly riches and glory and became poor, to suffer for his people. (2 Cor. 8:9; Matt. 8:20; Phil. 2:8-10)
2. Moses saved from death while yet a child. Jesus saved from Herod. (Matt. 2:16)
3. Moses was a fair and beautiful child. So Jesus perfect and increased in favor with God and man. (Luke 2:52)
4. Moses was preserved, kept in an ark of bulrushes. See Isa. 18. God's message later in vessels of paper.
5. Moses offered his services and was rejected, but returned and was accepted as the Deliverer after forty years. So Jesus was rejected because of the Jews' evil heart, and he will come again and be accepted and be a ruler.
6. Moses delivered Israel from Egypt; so Jesus will deliver the world from sin and Satan.
7. Moses was Mediator of Law Covenant. Jesus the Mediator of the New Covenant.
8. Moses built the typical Tabernacle, Jesus built the true Tabernacle (Heb. 8:2; 9:11) from God's directions.

9. Satan contended for the body of Moses. So he contends for the body of Christ. (Zech. 3) "The Lord rebuke thee."

10. Song of Moses—song of the Lamb.

11. Wife of Moses an Ethiopian. Jesus' bride mostly called from the Gentiles, and actually sinful.

12. Moses great, wise, just, merciful, powerful, patient, meek. So Christ is the greater prophet (Heb. 3:3), all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge hid in him (Col. 2:3), the just one (Jas. 5:6; 1 Pet. 3:18), a merciful high priest, perfect in love, all power is given unto him in heaven and earth; he was perfect in patience, and meek and lowly. (Matt. 11:29)

13. Moses cut off all willful opposers in death. So Christ will cut off all willful opposers in the second death.

14. Moses summoned to Mt. Pisgah, at 120 years of age, in full vigor of manhood, not impaired—to die, the land was not for him, so the Christ is given a beautiful vision of restitution, but the earthly inheritance is not for us, but for the world. We enter a larger service to lead men back to God.

15. Moses unselfish, rejoiced to lay down his life for the people, so the Christ rejoices to lay down their lives for the world. (Ex. 32:21, 32)

JESUS' CHARACTER

(Rev. John Fleetwood—"Life of Christ")

In the life of Jesus you see what can nowhere else be found—unlimited power without pride, unrivalled beauty without vanity, unbounded benevolence without ostentation, love without selfishness, fortitude without repining, purity without a stain, and a sun without a spot...We come now to view a picture of fallen greatness, not to view the trophies gained, or the desolations accomplished by the might of a human arm—but to admire intellect and power, wisdom and goodness combined in the productions of results the most happy and glorious, to admire simplicity in its grandeur, and grandeur in its simplicity, to cherish a taste for mental and moral beauty and a love for whatever things are lovely. . . . The life of Christ is the philosophy of true religion. It exhibits the principles of true Christianity in their life and vigor. It is perfect excellence personified in miniature—in miniature, that the little mind of man may grasp it and be changed from glory unto glory. It is unlike all others, so sublime as to excite the admiration of an angel's mind, and so simple as to be intelligible to the feeblest intellect. While it is a perfect example to be imitated by all it also affords to the sanctified scholar a lesson of untiring and unending interest. Does he admire magnanimity? Nowhere does he find such a specimen as in the forgiving spirit of Jesus. Does he admire sublimity of thought and grandeur of conception? He sees it in the description of Jesus coming to judgment—a God in glory and the world on fire! Is he touched and thrilled by the magic of eloquence? While he listens to Jesus he is compelled to acknowledge never man spake like this man! Is he enamored with the beauty of style? Where can he find a richer feast than in the clearness, unity, strength and harmony which characterize the sermon on the Mount. Has he an eye to relish the beauty of paintings? Jesus as a moral painter spreads before him the meadows of greenness and fields of lilies. Had he a taste for scenes of tenderness, for descriptions which touch the heart, and open the fountains of feeling? He has only to behold Jesus weeping over Jerusalem and listen to his lamentation! He has only to read the story of the Prodigal Son. If he admires courage let him go with Jesus among those who had converted the Temple into a den of thieves—fortitude? Let him follow the man of sorrows into the garden, or stand by him on the cross—Condescension? Let him dine with him at the table of the publican and witness his marked attention to little children—humility? Let him stand by and behold him wash his disciples feet.

CHRISTIAN LIFE

How to decide the Lord's Will

“I seek in the beginning to set my heart in such a state that it has no will of its own in regard to a given matter. Nine-tenths of the difficulties are overcome when our hearts are ready to do the Lord's will, whatever it may be. Having done this, I do not leave the result to feeling or simple impression. If I do so, I make myself liable to a great delusion. I seek the will or spirit of God through, or in connection with the Word of God. The Spirit and the Word must be combined. If I look to the Spirit alone, without the Word I lay myself open to great delusions also. If the Holy Spirit guides us at all he will do it according to the Scriptures, never contrary to them. Next I take into account providential circumstances. These often plainly indicate God's will, in connection with his Word and his Spirit. I ask God in prayer to reveal his will to me aright. Thus by the prayer to God, the study of the Word, and reflection, I come to deliberate judgment according to the best of my knowledge and opportunity, and if my mind is thus at peace, I proceed accordingly.” George Mueller (Z. '09-267; R.4468)

Zeal Without Knowledge

Many noble hearted Christians have gone as missionaries to the heathen wholly unprepared for what they met—intelligent reasoning, ability, etc. They found that the heathen were full of questions, logical questions too, which they as Christians had never thought of and which they were wholly unprepared to answer. Comparatively few of the missionaries are able to hold their own in argument with people of India, China and Japan. There is no danger of converting these people. There is more danger of their losing their own faith in the Bible, because of their misapprehension of some of its teachings—respecting the mission of the Church and the hope of the Church and of the world. Missionaries are thus handicapped. Full of commendable zeal they leave our shores to tell the heathen that their forefathers have gone to eternal torment, and that they will go there too, unless they accept Christ. It is a rude awakening to be asked where hell is, and why God should have condemned them and their forefathers to such a horrible eternity, and how could this be true and he be a God of love, pity, compassion? The heathen ask—Why the different denominations—different theories of the terms of Salvation—by water, by election, by free grace, by joining the church, etc. The missionary, wholly unable to answer the adult native, gathers children about him, starts a school and does all he is able, perhaps to justify his presence in a foreign land—helping the sick and doing many other acts of kindness which are very commendable, whether for a religious or humanitarian point of view. But let all Christians, missionaries, and others know assuredly that their labor is not in vain if they are seeking the Lord's Jewels to the best of their ability. (N-4-3-10)

Let Your Life Be A Bible

Have Christ for its Genesis

Have Consecration for its Exodus

Have Love for its Leviticus

Have Joy for its Psalms

Have in it the courage of a Daniel, the patience of a Job, the zeal of a Jeremiah, the Love of a John.

Have plenty of Jesus in it, and may its end be as much grandeur than its beginning as Revelation is grandeur than Genesis.

Love and Justice Contrasted

Justice is something represented by a pair of evenly balanced balances, and sometimes by a square and compass, both of which are fitting emblems of its character. Justice knows no compromise nor any deviation from its fixed rule of action. It is mathematically precise. It gives nothing over for good weight or good measure. There is no grace in it, no heart, no sympathy, no favor of any kind. It is a calculating, exact measure of truth and righteousness. When justice is done there are no thanks due to the one who metes it out. Such a one has merely done a duty, the neglect of which would have been culpable, and the doing of which merits no favor or praise. And yet firm and relentless as this principle is, it is declared to be the very foundation of God's throne. It is the principle which underlies all His dealings with His creatures. It is His unchangeable business principle; and how firmly He adheres to it is manifest to everyone who understands the plan of salvation, the basis of which is the satisfaction of justice against our race. Though the arrangement for the satisfaction of justice cost the life of His only begotten Son, so important was this principle of Divine Justice that God freely gave him up for us all. (Z.'16-115; R.5884)

LOVE overflows with tenderness and longs to bless. It is full of grace, and delights in bestowing favor. It is manifest, however that no action can be regarded as a favor or manifestation of that no action can be regarded as a favor or manifestation of Love, which has not underneath it the substantial foundation of Justice. Thus if one comes to you with a gift, and at the same time disregards a just debt to you the gift falls far short of appreciation of Love, and we say we should be just before we are generous. JUSTICE. In our own dealings we should strive always to render justice—in the payment of our honest debts to each other; in our judgment of one another (which must make due allowance for frailties, etc., because we recognize in ourselves some measure of similar imperfection) and justice in fair and friendly treatment of one another. We are to endeavor earnestly that all our actions, words and thoughts may be squared by the exact rule of Justice, before we offer one single act as an expression of love. We must recognize that not under any circumstances or conditions infract the rights, liberties or interests of others, that to do so would be wrong, sinful, contrary to justice, to the Divine will, and a serious hindrance to our growth in grace. We must learn to esteem love next to Justice in the divine code. By LOVE we mean not soft sentimentality, but that principle of kindness, sympathy, consideration and benevolence which we see manifested in our Heavenly Father, and in Jesus. JUSTICE tells us that we must cease to do evil.

Things Worth Striving For

1. The Patient Perseverance which defeat cannot discourage, nor discouragement defeat.
2. The Impartiality which delights as much in a grand work which another has done, as if you yourself had done it.
3. The Justice which had rather right a wrong than conceal your part in it.
4. The Charity which will always look for some good intention, even where a slight or injury was seemingly intended.
5. The Loyalty which even your failures and stumblings cannot dishearten.
6. The Lowliness which will sorrow when an enemy falls and rejoice when you are humbled.

7. The Earnestness which can never do enough, yet seeks no credit and encourages no compliments.
8. The Forgiveness which not only pardons in word, but proves its reality by never referring to the matter again.
9. The Humility which would choose the meaner part of a service to leave the nobler and more honorable part for another.
10. The Christianity which is as careful how we live in our own homes as how we act before the brethren.
11. The Wisdom which knows when to speak and when to keep silent. (Prov. 4:26; Eccl. 7:9; Prov. 14:17) (Bro. Barton)

Approach God's Word

To approach God's Word and have a right understanding of it implies:

1. A teachable heart.
2. A heart condition of faith in God as the Great Teacher who knows our limitations and who has promised to guide the willing and obedient into all truth as it becomes meat in due season.
3. They should expect divine guidance in respect to understanding the Scriptures even as God has promised it; and expecting it they should seek it.
4. While expecting, seeking, looking, in the direction of their expectations and leadings, they should exercise their reasoning faculties and thereby approve or disapprove what is presented to them.
5. They should beware how they neglect these favors of God; take heed to headiness and highmindedness, lest after having enjoyed the light and blessing, it should slip from them and leave them in outer darkness in which we see the whole world groping. (Z. '11-21; R.4744)

End of Papacy's Temporal Power

(Encycl. Britt. Vol. XIX p. 508, 9th Edit. 1885, Chas. Scribners Sons)

"Shortly after the peace of Tolentino (Feb. 1797) Pius VI was seized with an illness which seemed likely at his advanced time of life to prove fatal; and Napoleon, anticipating his death, gave instructions that a successor to his office should be elected and the Papal government be abolished. The sequel, however having disappointed these expectations, the French ambassador in Rome proceeded through his agents to ferment an insurrection—a design for which the demoralized conditions of the Capital afforded unusual facilities. The outbreak that ensued was immediately made the pretext for abolishing the existing rule, and in its place the Roman Republic was proclaimed (Feb. 15, 1798). Neither his estimable character nor his advanced years served to shield the dethroned Pontiff from wanton cruelty and indignities. He was treated as virtually a prisoner, his private property confiscated, and at last, after having been removed from one place of confinement to another, he expired at Valence, in Aug. 1799, at the age of 82.

“It was under the protection of a Schismatic power—that of the Emperor of Russia—that after a lapse of eight months Pius VII (1800-1823) was elected Pope at Venice.

“Pius VII, who as Cardinal Chiaramonte had at one time affected to approve of democratic principles, succeeded in gaining the good will of Bonaparte and his accession was shortly followed by the concordat of 1801. The first Counsel had already astonished the world by the startling change of opinion to which he gave expression in the Declaration of Milan, to the effect that ‘Society without religion is like a ship without a compass’; and having now resolved on the restoration of a Monarchical form of government he affected an apparent reconciliation with the Roman Pontiff in order to strengthen his own hands. Catholicism was reestablished as the state religion of France, but the confiscated property of the Church was not restored, while the pretended reintroduction of the Papal authority was deprived of all real validity by appending to the concordat certain ‘articles organiques’ which effectually debarred the Pontiff from the exercise of any real jurisdiction within the realm. Notwithstanding that he warmly resented the manner in which he had been duped, Pius was ultimately prevailed upon, by the consummate address of Talleyrand, to crown Napoleon as Emperor in Paris (1804). The immediate result of this imprudent act as regards the Popedom was the assertion of imperial rights in Rome itself on the part of the new Emperor, and a demand that the Pontiff should henceforth make common cause with him against the enemies of France. On his refusal Pius was made a prisoner, and the temporal Sovereignty of the Roman See declared to be at an end. At Fontaiubleau, in 1813, a new concordat was wrung from the infirm and aged Pontiff (whose position and treatment strongly recalled those of his predecessor), and he was compelled to surrender almost the last remnants of his authority in France, and to disown all claim to rank as a temporal ruler. Pius VII survived however, not only to witness the overthrow of his oppressor, but to regain with the restoration both his spiritual and temporal prerogatives. He regained his chair indeed, amid the best wishes of the Protestant powers. His policy however was thenceforth altogether reactionary. On the one hand he suppressed the circulation of the Scriptures in the vernacular; on the other by a bull of Aug. 7, 1814 he recalled the Jesuits, who since their dispersion in Latin Christendom had transferred the scene of their labors to Prussia and Russia.

“The states of the church were of course submerged for a time by the French Revolution, but they appeared again in 1814. In 1849 they received a constitution. On the formation of the Kingdom of Italy in 1860 they were reduced to the Courarca of Rome the Legation of Vellitri, and the three delegations of Viterbo, Civitia Vecchia, and Frasinone, and in 1870 they disappeared from the political map of Europe.” In 1827 area of Papa States = 16000.8 sq. mi. Population in 1853 = 3,124,758. (P. 480, Ency. Britt. Vol. 19)

The Behistun Inscription

(B.S.M. March 1961)

Going east from Bagdad (near ancient Babylon) into Persia, the traveller sees at one stage of his journey a stupendous precipice and rock, 4,000 ft. high, the blunt end of a range of hills. The Rock is called Behistun, a name in the native tongue meaning—"The Place of God," and from time immemorial it has been regarded holy. Babylonian, Persian, and Greek armies have passed and repassed that sheer cliff on their missions of conquest or retreat. Merchants have pitched their camps at its foot from the days when the earth was young.

About 500 B.C. the Persian King Darius (the one who gave permission for resuming the Temple building in the days of the return from Babylon (Ezra 5:1-17) caused a long inscription recounting his military victories to be chiselled upon the smooth face of the rock 100 ft. above the ground. He had the work done with great care, for he wanted his inscription to endure for many years. The rock was carefully smoothed and polished, the lines of writing and curving sculptures done by skilled craftsmen; then the finished work was painted over with a varnish so hard and enduring that it has protected the greater part of the inscription for over 2,000 years, unto this day.

In 1835 Henry Rawlinson, a political assistant to the Governor of Hermanshah, a Persian town not far from Behistun, set to work to copy the inscription. The young enthusiast became one of the world's greatest archaeologists in after days, but the service he rendered the world by this, his first great achievement is one of the most momentous in all the history of research in Eastern lands. Having climbed to the inscription, a feat of some difficulty, he found it was written in three languages, like the Rosetta stone, which had been discovered some forty years earlier, but whereas that stone had been written in Greek and Egyptian and became the means of unlocking the secrets of Egyptian hieroglyphics to the modern world, this Behistun inscription was written in Persian, Median and Babylonian. In 1835 only Persian was understood, and that very imperfectly. The Babylonian tablets and inscriptions which were being found in such profusion in all the lands of the East were yet completely unreadable. It was Rawlinson's work at that time which furnished the clues necessary for an understanding of the Babylonian cuneiform alphabet and symbols, and so made possible the reading of those tablets today.

In 1847 the decipherment was complete, and from then on the knowledge gained was applied to thousands of cuneiform tablets already existing in the world's museums and collections of scholars. Progress was slow. The correct translation of many signs and terms has been arrived at only in recent years. But for a full century now it has been possible to read of the lives and achievements of the fellow citizens of Shem, Abraham, Moses and Daniel, for Babylonian cuneiform was the written language of all Western Asia for a span of 3,000 years, and the histories of the times were written in those queer little wedge shaped characters. It is certain that much of the early part of the book of Genesis was thus written and when Abraham left Ur of the Chaldees he would surely have taken many such tablets with him.

Rawlinson had to copy the inscription by hand, for photography had not been invented in his day. In 1904 two twentieth century archaeologists, R. Campbell Thompson and L.W. King of the British Museum, climbed the rock and photographed the writing. They found remarkably few errors in Rawlinson's work of sixty years before. In 1946 an American Expedition visited the place but added no further information to that already known. The Behistun inscription had made it possible for men to ready the voluminous records of Assyria and Babylonia, which, recovered from the burning sands and ruined cities of Mesopotamia have done so much to make the Bible a living book to us.

Today we have the Babylonian stories of the Flood and of the Creation, the Assyrian record of the siege of Jerusalem by Sennacherib in the days of Hezekiah, the invasion of Canaan by Joshua and Israel; Nebuchadnezzar's building of great Babylon and many other indelibly impressed on unperishable clay tablets, safely reposing in the world's museums and colleges, giving their testimony to the truth of the Bible story. And the Bible accounts stand as purer, nobler and more exact and accurate by contrast. Our knowledge of Earth's history has been immeasurably extended until we now can trace the movements of Shem and Ham back to within a few centuries of the Flood. We can appreciate more vividly the atmosphere of the lives of Abraham, Daniel, Ezekiel, Ezra, Nehemiah, and Esther were spent. And this knowledge has come to us had its beginning a hundred years ago when young Rawlinson scaled the cliff out in Persia and copied the writing that had defied the wind and rain of twenty-four centuries.

Dr. Samuel Kiuns, wrote in 1891—"There cannot be the least doubt that Sir Henry Rawlinson was raised up by the Almighty to be the pioneer in this great and glorious work, and was specially endowed with courage and wisdom for the undertaking, combined as they were with a belief that the Bible is a revelation from God to man."

The Siloam Inscription

(B.S.M. July-Aug. 1961)

Deep down in the limestone strata that underlies Jerusalem an inexhaustible supply of fresh water forces its way through cracks and crevices, following the general slope of the rock layers toward the southeast, until at length it comes to the surface at what is now known as the Virgins' Fountain. From the dawn of history that water has flowed. It was the main source of supply for the Jebusite city of Salem ruled by Melchizedek, the priest-king of Abraham's day. It once served the Crusaders when Jerusalem was besieged by the Saracens. Today it waters the market gardens of Jerusalem, and it has made Biblical history.

The Virgin's Fountain lies half way up the rocky slope of Ophel, the southeast projection of the mountainous mass upon which Jerusalem is built and outside the ancient walls. In the old days before Abraham's time the industrious Jebusites had cut a tunnel into the mountain to conduct the waters to the foot of a vertical shaft which they had made leading up to the city on the heights above. They called it Gihon, and by it, in times of siege they could get water without going outside the walls. It was their eventual undoing, for when David beset the city Joab and his stalwarts made their way along the tunnel, climbed up the shaft and took the Jebusites by surprise, so capturing the city for David. (1 Chron. 11:6; 2 Sam. 5:8, "the gutter" is this shaft).

When Sennacherib of Assyria invaded Judah with his armies, in the days of Hezekiah, the first thing to do was to insure the water supply, as Jerusalem was threatened with siege. Lays the Chronicler (2 Chron. 32:2-4, 30, 31; 2 Kings 20:20). "Hezekiah stopped the upper water course of Gihon and brought it straight down (underground) to the west side of the city of David." In the Apocrypha, Eccles 48:17 informs us "Hezekiah fortified his city and brought in water to the midst thereof; he digged the hard rock with iron and made wells for waters." Dr. Thompson, the well known missionary and author of "The Land and the Book" says when describing his own investigations, "Hezekiah and his much people stopped them up so effectually that they could never be found again, even by the Jews themselves." So the story was relegated to the background by students for a long time. The critics dubbed it legend. But someone reading Isa. 8:6—"Forasmuch as this people refused the waters of Shiloh that go softly and rejoice in Rezin and Remaliah's son," realized here was a clue—"the waters of Shiloah that go softly."

The pool of Siloam (N. T. Greek for Shiloah) was well known and had been for generations. It was and is the most constant reservoir in the city. Artificially built, more like a tank than a natural pool, 50 ft. x 20 ft. deep, it has served generations of Jews and Arabs. It was common knowledge that the water reached the pool through the mouth of an arched orifice in the rock, but no Arab had dared to venture inside. So far as is known the first to make the attempt was Dr. Robinson, early in the 1800s. Stepping into the pool he waded into the archway and found himself in a narrow tunnel 2 ft. wide and 15 ft. high, the stream that supplied the pool flowing along the floor. He followed the winding course of the passage for about 1/3 mile, knowing from the direction he took that he was some 100 ft. or more beneath the streets of Jerusalem above. At length he splashed his way into daylight again and found himself at the Virgin's Fountain, outside the city and on the steep slope of the Valley of Jehoshaphat.

Later on it was learned that the first 100 ft. or so of the tunnel at the Virgin's Fountain end is in fact the ancient Jebusite aqueduct, and the vertical shaft leading up into the city was discovered and signs that the old tunnel had been blocked at that point to divert the waters to the pool of Siloam.

Then in 1880 some Arab schoolboys were playing around the pool and one of them fell into the water. Scrambling out he ventured, boy like, into the tunnel and clambering along its wall noticed what no one had noticed before, some rough Hebrew characters chiseled in the rock. He told his teacher, Dr. Schick, who investigated for himself. He found a complete inscription in Archaic Hebrew characters. The next year Dr. A.H. Sayce, the celebrated archaeologist visited the spot and copied the inscription. When examined it proved to be an account of the building of the tunnel written in Biblical Hebrew of the 8th to the 6th century B.C. Since Hezekiah's reign was written that period, there remained no reasonable doubt that the tunnel was in fact the one described in the O.T. as built by Hezekiah at the time of the Assyrian invasion.

Various translations differ in minor details. Here is a fair translation—"Behold the tunnel! Now this is the history of the tunnel. While the miners were still lifting up the pick, each toward his neighbor, and while there were yet 3 cubits to excavate, there was heard the voice of a man calling to his neighbor, for there was an excess in the rock on the right hand and on the left. And after that, on the day of excavation the miners had struck pick against pick, one against another, the waters flowed from the spring to the pool, a distance of 1200 cubits. And a 100 cubits was the height of the rock above the tunnel."

Those miners must have worked hard! Spurred on by the threat of the imminent invasion, they excavated and removed by hand over 2000 tons of rock to make that tunnel. Every bit of that material must have been passed in baskets along a line of men to the open air. When the work was done someone left this writing, chiselled in the everlasting rock to give its witness in due time to the accuracy of the Biblical story. (See also note John 5:2)

SEVENTH DAY - FIRST DAY.

Early in the Gospel Dispensation the followers of Jesus began to meet on the first day of the week. Apparently the custom had its start in the fact that Jesus rose from the dead on that day, and appeared several times on that day to his followers; and on the following first day of the week he appeared again. It became a custom among the disciples to have their fellowship that day, not that it was commanded of the Lord, but because of their desire to remember the Master and to fellowship with each other. Quite probably they kept the Sabbath day and the first day as well, for a time. They evidently had difficulty in realizing how completely they had passed from the domination of Moses and His Law to be under the leadership of Jesus and his guidance—the liberty wherewith Christ makes us free indeed.

Although Christians have now abandoned the observance of the seventh day in favor of the first day of the week, many erroneously think that God authorized the change. But not so—the Christian is not under the Law but under grace. It was from privilege that the early disciples met together on the first day and not by instruction of God. So it should be still and so it is yet with some true Christians. These cannot have too much opportunity for fellowship together for the study of the Heavenly Father's word, and for offering him the worship and homage of their hearts.

True Christians undoubtedly are glad that there is a special day of the week set apart in which they can particularly give themselves to prayer, worship, Bible study, praise and good works—even though the enforcement of such a Sunday be by human law and through a misconception. Glad would many of the Lord's people be if their earthly affairs were so arranged as to permit of two Sundays in each week, or more. But in order to enjoy Sunday properly, the Lord's consecrated people should be freed from the misconceptions which generally prevail. (Z. '14-56; R.5405)

WATCHES

After the exile the use of hours became common, and the day from sunrise to sunset was divided into twelve hours. (Matt. 20:1-12; John 11:9). The night was (at first) divided into three watches; sunset to midnight, midnight to cockcrowing, cockcrowing to sunrise. But in the Greek and Roman Perion there were four watches.

Old Testament:

Morning	till about 10 A.M.
Heat of the day	till about 2 P.M.
Cool of the day	till about 6 P.M.

1st Watch	till midnight
2nd Watch	till 3 A.M.
3rd Watch	till 6 A.M.

New Testament:

3rd hour of the day	6-9 A.M.
6th hour of the day	9-12 midnight.
9th hour of the day	12-3 P.M.
12th hour of the day	3-6 P.M.
1st Watch	Evening 6-9 P.M.
2nd Watch	Midnight 9-12 P.M.
3rd Watch	Cock-crow 12-3 P.M.
4th Watch	Morning 3-6 P.M.

Love and Justice

For these words see “Love and Justice Contrasted” under “Christian Life” in “Appendix”

Agape vs. Phileo

These are illusive words to translate into English, but may be approximated by our terms “love” and “friendship.” In languages other than our own the distinction between the love that craves and the love that goes out uncravingly is indicated in equivalents of Love and Friendship. Thus the Sanskrit (elder sister of our family of tongues) gives for Love -covetousness, greediness (lubh); and for Friendship (Pri) - unselfish love. The Greek has Philia for that love which goes out “lovingly” after its object—an inclination prompted by sense and emotion; while in the Septuagint and New Testament it has “Agape”— a love that turns to another in the spirit of agreement and longing; but as the equivalent of “Agape” it has “Diligo” for a “distinguishing love” without desire—a love that selects and rests on the selected one without asking any return.

Failing to preserve clearly the distinguishing between a love that instinctively grows out of a relationship, or based upon a natural desire for possession; and a voluntary and distinguishing love unselfishly and admiringly toward its object chosen; New Testament critics and commentators have usually been confused in their minds while seeking to account for the difference between the two words “Philio” and “Agape.”

It is admitted by practically all that Philio was a word in common use in New Testament times to express the love between parents and children, brothers and sisters, and also of craving love between the sexes. It is also admitted that “Agape” comes now into prominence in the New Testament use as applicable to man’s love to God, and to love that is otherwise pure peculiarly and sacred. But these two words seem at times to be employed interchangeably; and many an eminent scholar has confessed his inability to see the real difference between the words in their use, as accounting for the often indicated superiority of “Agape,” in spite of the greater warmth and intensity of “Philio.”

Cramer in his “Biblico-Theological Lexicon of New Testament Greek” covers the simple facts: “We find ‘Agape’ used to designate a love unknown to writers outside the New Testament—love in its fullest conceivable form, love as it is the distinguishing attribute in all humanity, but in its strictest sense, of divinity.” French says: “The first (Agape) expresses a more resting attachment, of choice and selection—diligere = deligere—from seeing in the object on which it is bestowed that which is worthy of regard; while the second, without being necessarily an unresting attachment does yet often give less account of itself to itself, is more instinctive, has more of the feelings, implies more passion.” Woolsey, after an exhaustive study of the histories of the two terms says of French’s definition—“We believe that this is a true statement of the difference between the two words and notions.” And all this confirms the claim made here that “Philio” = a love that grows out of a relationship or craving, while “Agape” = a love that goes out voluntarily without any intermingling of selfishness—the one being ordinary love, the other being the higher form of friendship love.

Men are said to love or crave (Philein) the chief place at feasts. (Matt. 23:6) and “Salutations in the market places” (Luke 20:46) and to have this self interested love for father or mother, son or daughter (Matt. 10:37). But the Roman Centurion is said by the Jews to have an unselfish, friendship love (Agape) for their nation. (Luke 7:5) God’s children are commanded to have friendship love (Agape) for their neighbors (Matt. 5:43; Gal. 5:14), and for their enemies (Matt. 5:44), because love does not go out instinctively in those directions, but must be given unselfishly, of deliberate choice.

The saints are enjoined to have a family love for their Lord (Philio) (1 Cor. 16:22); and for one another in the household of faith (Titus 3:15). The world is said to have a selfish, interested love (Philio) to its own, because of the mutual relationship (John 15:19). But Jesus is said to have a pure unselfish love, friendship love (Agape) for Mary and Martha and Lazarus in the home so dear to him at Bethany (John 11:5). God is said to be governed by unselfish friendship love toward the world in the gift of his Son. (John 3:16) But Jesus says the Father loves as with a feeling of family love those who have come into his inner circle of their love for his Son. (John 16:17). See John 21:15-19.

Spirit

Spirit in Old and New Testaments:

In Old Testament:-

1. Usually ruach (= wind, breath). an invisible power, force, influence, the spirit of life.
2. Neshamah (= puff of wind, angry or vital breath) (from Nasham = to blow) the breath of life. Translated “spirit” in Job 26:4; Prov. 20:27.
3. Also “owb” (= a mumble, i.e., a waterskin from its hollow sound, hence a necromancer, ventriloquist as from a jar). Translated familiar spirit in Lev. 20:6, 27; 28:8, 9; 1 Chron. 10:13; 2 Chron. 33:6; Isa. 29:4; etc.,

Translated “bottle” in Job 32:19 only.

The word always occurs in one of two senses 1) the spirit of life, the animating spark which God first enkindled in Adam and which thence descended (impaired) to all his posterity, 2) Spirit of the mind, the will, an invisible power which controls the Life. (E314)

In New Testament:-

1. Always Pneuma = wind, invisible power, force.
2. Two exceptions—Matt. 14:26; Mark 6:49. (Jesus on the water). where the Greek is Phangasma (= a mere show) which is used only these two times in N.T. [from phangazo = to make apparent or (pass) to appear.]

The word often is used to refer to (a) the will, especially to the new mind of the saints, begotten by the word and spirit of God. These are called to a change of nature from human to spiritual and if faithful will in the resurrection receive (b) spirit bodies, like unto Christ’s glorious resurrection body and like to the Heavenly Father’s. In view of this their future hope is called (c) spiritual and heavenly in contrast with the hopes for the world of mankind. Spirit is also used in referring to (d) angels, spirit beings—not flesh beings. The thought of invisibility always attaches to the word “spirit” or “spiritual” whenever or wherever used. (E312) Holy spirit or ghost = always zneuma. Ghost as related to “gave up the ghost” = ekeneo = blow out or = ekruxo = breathe out.

“To See”

“To See” in New Testament:

Heb. 11:5—eidw = to see, (by impl. and in the perf. only) = to know (perfect used as pres.)

Matt. 24:30 = optanomai or optonai = (a mid. prol. form of the prisa (mid) optauai = to gaze (i.e. with wide open eyes as at something remarkable): thus differing from blepo (to look at) which denotes simply voluntary observation; and from eigo which expressive merely mechanical passive or casual vision; while theaomai [and still more emphatically its intens okotheo to aim at, spy, i.e., (fig.) to regard) (from okopos from okbptomai = to peer about, perhaps akin to okapto (to dig) through the idea of concealment. Okopos = a watch (sentry or scout), and by impl. = a goal] signifies an earnest but more continued inspection. Okthpeo = a watch from a distance, used only in the pres. and imp., the other theses being supplied from okeptomai.

Hades

From “a” = not and ldein = to see; and literally means hidden, obscure, invisible. It is found 11 times in the New Testament. In the common version it is rendered “grave” in 1 Cor. 15:55, and in all other places “hell,” but the latter is now universally admitted to be an incorrect translation. (Diaglott, note Matt. 11:23 and appendix “hades”) — From eido = to see, + “a” = not, “ades” = the place (or state) of departed souls. (Strong’s Conc.)

Sheol = hades, or the world of the dead (as if a subterranean retreat). From shael = to inquire. (Strong’s Conc.)

Gehenna = (of Heb.) valley of (the son of) Hinnom. Ge-henna or Ge-Henna (or Ge-Hinnon) = a valley of Jerusalem, used fig. as a name for the place (or state) of everlasting punishment. (Strong’s Conc.)

Adam Clark on Matt. 1:24—In Jude 7 we are told that these persons are suffering the vengeance of eternal fire! The destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah happened A.M. 2107, 1897 years before the incarnation. What a terrible thought this is! More tolerable for certain sinners who have already been damned nearly 4000 years than for those who live and die infidels under the Gospel! There are various degrees of punishment in hell, answerable to various degrees of guilt, and the contempt manifested to and abuse made of preaching the Gospel will rank semi-infidel Christians in the highest list of transgressors and purchase them the hottest place in hell! Great God! Save the reader from this destruction!

They did not borrow this doctrine from the heathen, for no heathen people in the world have a doctrine so cruel, so fiendish and so unjust. Find it whoever can and show it up in all its blackness, that if possible it may be shown that the essence of barbarism, malice, hate, ungodliness has not been exclusively appropriated by those whom God has most highly favored with light from every quarter, and to whom he has committed the only oracle—His Word. O! the shame and confusion that will cover the faces of many, even good men, who verily thought they did God service while propagating this blasphemous doctrine, when they awake in the resurrection to learn of the Love and Justice of God and when they come to know that the Bible Does not teach this God-dishonoring, love-extinguishing, truthbeclouding, saint-hindering, sinner-hardening, “damnable heresy” of eternal torment. (2 Pet. 2:1) (C T. Russell)
